DR. AND MRS. MEREDITH TO DO MISSION WORK

Last Sunday morning at the Business Men's Bible class which meets at the Rialto Theatre, it was announced by Rev. Garner that Dr. Meredith was probably meeting with the class for the last time in as much as he had offered his services to the Foreign Mission Board to do medical mission work and had been accepted. Following this announcement Dr. Meredith made a brief address to the members of the class in which he expressed his high regard for the class, the nature of work it was doing, and assured everyone that the class had been very beneficial to him. He also had some things to say about medical missions and gave some of the reasons why he felt it his duty to go into the work. The class is loathe to give him up but glad that since he must leave us that he is going to a greater field of usefulness, that is, where he can make his life count for more in the Lord's service.

The T. E. L. class which is composed of young married women regrets likewise the going of Mrs. Meredith, who was a charter member of that class, and has done much to make it the great success that it is.

That more than the classes to which these good people belonged felt the loss to the Pecos Baptist church and the community at large was demonstrated when the word went out at the morning preaching hour that they were to leave on Tuesday. The suggestion was made by W. D. Cowan the senior deacon in the Baptist church that we the church should give them some kind of a farewell service and reception. This suggestion was heartily seconded by the entire church. On Monday night a meeting of an informal nature was called at the Baptist church in their honor. After about thirty minutes of exchanged greetings of the "at ease" type the house was called to order by Rev. Garner and after several songs were sung, one being a special by Mrs. J. C. Wilson and Miss Warren Collings the following informal program was rendered:

1. Remarks by the pastor as to the occasion for the meeting, the fitness of it, etc., as well as an expression to the effect that he hoped that many such meetings would be held in the future. Not because he wanted to see anyone else leave town, but because he wants to see the spirit continue to work in our midst and call people to special lines of service. Rev. Garner also paid a high tribute to the work of these two good people.

2. Mr. W. D. Cowan spoke the sentiments of his heart as he gave a brief history of the work of the Pecos church, related some of his own experiences, and paid a high tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Meredith, as he expressed the courage necessary to undertake the great task they had before them.

3. Mr. A. G. Taggart, president of the Business Men's Bible Class, said many kind things about the work of Dr. Meredith in his connection with the class.

4. Mrs. F. W. Johnson spoke a word on behalf of the W. M. U. and the T. E. L. classes to Mrs. Meredith. Her remarks were to the point and expressed the high regard the women as a whole have for this new missionary.

5. Dr. Meredith then spoke of the joy he had gotten out of residing in Pecos, especially the association he had had in his church relationship. He also had something to say about medical missions and assured us that he wanted to always be found worthy on the firing line. His remarks were very tender and appropriate, and stirred the hearts of those present.

6. The pastor then called attention to the fact that there was another member of this missionary party—baby Meredith,—and then with fitting words presented the trio with a handsome leather suitcase as a token of the friendship of the Pecos Baptist church.

The ladies of the church had not failed to make ample provision for the inner man, for after an informal reception all were served to a delicious salad course accompanied by cake and hot chocolate or coffee to suit the one being served. After suitable greetings the crowd dispersed. Dr. and Mrs. Meredith left Tuesday morning.

W. H. Day, interstate secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association for the state of Arizona, New Mexico and Western Texas, passed through our city Wednesday and stopped off long enough to make a very interesting and instructive talk to the school. He is a splendid gentleman and well qualified for the work in which he is engaged. While in Pecos he made the Enterprise a very pleasant visit.

RED BLUFF CORE DRILL TO START ABOUT MAY 24TH

The following letter regarding the proposed core drilling of the Red Bluff reservoir site has been received by the Chamber of Commerce:

Carlsbad, N. M.
May 4, 1922.
Mr. Walter N. Sutherland,
Secretary, Chamber of Commerce,
Pecos, Texas.

Dear Sir:—
In reply to your letter of May 3, 1922, will say drilling operations will begin at the Red Bluff dam site just as soon as one more hole can be bored at dam site No. 3, and the time it takes to move and set up the drilling equipment at Red Bluff.

The time required to bore the hole will depend on the underlying formations. From an examination of the ground where the hole is to be drilled and the progress so far made at No. 3 site, I believe twelve or thirteen days will be required to drill this hole. Allowing the contractors say seven days to move and set up equipment at Red Bluff places the beginning of operations at that point about May 24.

Should developments either advance or extend this date, I will advise you.

Yours very truly,
FRED BONSTEDT,
Engineer.

SHERIFF KISER CAPTURES STILL

John Schoolfield, an old T. & P. conductor who ran a train out of Toyah twenty-five years ago and who is well known by some of the old timers of Reeves county, was arrested by Sheriff Kiser this week and is now in jail at Pecos. He is charged with operating a 35 gallon still and manufacturing whiskey at the old Joe Preusser ranch about four miles south of Toyah. Sheriff Kiser says the still is complete in all details and the entire outfit is in his custody at the jail. A systematic search of the hotel at Toyah where Schoolfield stopped resulted in the seizure in his room of a five gallon jug which contained three quarts of hooch. Schoolfield is a prosperous looking old gentleman and would impress a stranger as being a successful banker or merchant rather than a law breaker. He has been a resident of old Mexico for the last twenty years and has been at Toyah about two months. He waived a preliminary trial before the U. S. court and is bound over in the sum of $750 to answer at the regular term which will convene on May 15th. It is expected bond will be made today for his appearance at that time. This is the second still outfit Sheriff Kiser has ferreted out recently and should convince would-be prohibition violators that this county has efficient county officers who will get them sooner or later.

THROUGH TRAINS NOW RUNNING OVER T. & P.

After a delay of more than a week through trains, both passenger and freight, began to make through trips from Fort Worth and the east Wednesday afternoon. They are all coming in from two to four hours late, but they are coming just the same. The Texas & Pacific forces are to be commended at that for their prompt and rapid work in putting the track, bridges and culverts in place again after the floods east and getting up the service.

30,000 POUNDS OF MAIL ARRIVES TUESDAY IN STEEL CAR

After a delay of more than a week in getting mail from the east on account of the washouts on the Texas & Pacific railway Pecos on Tuesday of this week had the largest amount of mail ever to reach this city at any one time in its history. This mail consisted of packages consigned to the Pacific coast country and to practically all the countries of the world going by ship from the Pacific coast. There were every sort of mail of the second, third and fourth class that is sent out that way, from eggs, etc., to packages which held the very limit eligible to the mails, and it all came to Pecos over the Santa Fe in a big steel car, packed to the very roof.

There were some thirty thousand pounds of this mail in the car and some of it was of necessity mashed and the labels gone from some of it. Some few packages were burst open and the contents scattered over the car—among this lot were fish hooks which were scattered all over the car.

This mail came in about 12:30 and had to be sorted for the mail trains each way since much of it had to be sent east because it could not be delivered from the other end of the line. The Pecos mail was sorted out and carried to the postoffice as fast as it could be unloaded and the east and west mail was piled high on the freight platform, in separate piles and later assorted a second time in order that it might be sent in the proper direction. All this work was handled methodically and in order by Postmaster McKellar and George Littlefield and his most efficient crew at the station and their great credit all this immense mail was ready for the trains as they arrived and sent on to their destination.

While some of this mail showed the "worse for wear" there was very little of it which showed any material damage, showing plainly that the postoffice forces are competent and handled the matter to the very best of advantage considering the large amount handled and the way it had to be handled at the time—hurriedly and all packed in a big steel car.

Contrary to the expectations of our people, the mail was not congested in the least at the local postoffice. Postmaster McKellar handled the situation most admirably and as fast as the big truck loads of mail were unloaded at the postoffice his entire force got busy and put it up in the boxes on double quick time and in a few hours the boxes were bulging with mail of every description, notwithstanding the fact that many of our business men went to the office to relieve their boxes often.

The Enterprise wishes here to commend Postmaster McKellar for his most efficient service in handling this mail at the postoffice, and is sure that the postmaster will also desire to give due credit to George Littlefield, station agent, for his efficient work and that of his force in handling that mail which was assorted at the station and never reached the Pecos postoffice. The entire job could not have been handled better or more efficiently.

District Judge Charles Gibbs spent a day or two after adjournment of court this week seeing the voters of Toyah and the Toyah Creek country and says he will get quite a few votes at each of these places. Judge Gibbs has made a fine record which has made him many friends over the district.

PRES. HARDING SPEAKS AGAINST RELIGIOUS BIGOTRY

President Warren G. Harding, speaking before the Vaughn Bible Class of the Calvary Baptist church, Washington, D. C., on March 24th, made the following striking allusions to the spirit of religious bigotry and disrespect for law that prevail in parts of America today:

"Religious liberty has its unalterable place, along with civil and human liberty, in the very foundation of the republic. Therein is shown the far-seeing vision of the immortal founders, and we are a better republic because there is that freedom.

"I fear it is sometimes forgotten. In the experiences of a year in the Presidency there has come to me no other unwelcome impression as the manifest religious intolerance which exists among many of our citizens. I hold it to be a menace to the very liberties we boast and cherish.

"I have believed that religious reverence has played a very influential and helpful part in the matchless American achievement, and I wish it ever to abide. If I were to utter a prayer for the republic tonight, it would be to reconsecrate us in religious devotion, and make us abidingly a God-fearing, God-loving people."

Respect For Law Needed.

"Whatever breeds disrespect for the law of the land, in any particular department of our community relations, is a force tending to the general breakdown of the social organization. If people who are known as leaders, as directing influences, as thoroughly respected and respectable members of society, shall in their respective communities become known for their defiance of some part of the code of law, then they need not be astonished if presently they find that their example is followed by others, with the result that presently the law in general comes to be looked upon as a set of irksome and unreasonable restraints upon the liberty of the individual.

"Every law involves more or less of this element of restraint. Nearly every individual will find some part of the code that to him seems an unreasonable inhibition upon his personal freedom of action." Our only safety will be in inculcating an attitude of respect for the law, as on the whole the best expression of that has been given to the social aspiration and moral purpose of the community. Unless we can accomplish this, in the domain of citizenship, and thereby sustain enforcement, we may well feel that the outlook is not encouraging for the achievement of those loftier spiritual purposes to which the church is devoted.

"Therefore, I can think of no higher service that the church, in a time like this, may render, than to put forth its utmost influence in behalf of frank and willing obedience to the law of the land. Therein I think will be found the largest contribution toward guaranty of the nation's safety, the most promising assurance of ultimate realization of the highest aspirations of the church in behalf of all humanity."

LIGHTNING STRIKES CHRISTIAN CHURCH

During the heavy rain storm Monday afternoon, lightning struck the Christian church, but fortunately did only minor damage to the building. The heating stove was wrecked and brick flue and electric lighting system badly damaged.—Fort Stockton Pioneer.

RIVER WELL STILL CENTER OF ATTRACTION IN PECOS OIL FIELD —OTHER OIL FIELD NEWS

RIVER WELL.
The River well has occupied the center of the stage in the Pecos territory this week, and late on Thursday was reported to be drilling in a very interesting grey and brown lime formation at slightly below 4200 feet.

Daily pilgrimages have been made to the well during the week by the many oil fans of Pecos despite the muddy river roads, and trading in leases has been somewhat stimulated as a result of the showings.

The formation appears to be the same dark grey lime carrying a small saturation of oil such as was had in the Toyah Bell for several hundred feet above the oil horizon, and as this lime has been penetrated a considerable distance, the general expectation is that the black lime and the Delaware sands will be picked up at any time.

Some difficulty has been had with the boilers at this well, and this has prevented faster time being made, although the well has made what is believed to be a record of hole made by consistent drilling in this field.

The geological location of the River well and the many points that figured in its location at this point by William R. Jewell and Edward R. Lovell, geologists, have been viewed by the visitors with much interest during the week.

THE BELL WELL.

Ira J. Bell and Major Earl Bell returned from Chicago this week after a trip to the eastern points in the interest of the Ira J. Bell & Co., and Mr. Bell is to be in Austin for a few days during the week-end, and then expects to return to Pecos in time for the completion of what he confidently believes will prove to be a fine producer at the Bell No. 1.

Although handicapped by the threatened fuel famine in the Pecos territory caused by the flood waters to the east, the Bell well has been reamed to practically 2500 feet, and but 200 feet remain to be cleared out before casing can be set and the big gas formation drilled into with what is expected to prove big results.

Crude oil from the Toyah Bell well has been used during the week for drilling purposes. This oil is of exceptionally high gravity, and its high gasoline content causes it to be burnt very rapidly, and it is with difficulty that a sufficient amount is kept at the well to keep the boilers going. A car of fuel oil for this well, as well as a car each for the Laura, the Pecos Angeles and several other operations is on the road, but the freight tie-up resulting from the floods has delayed this delivery indefinitely.

TOYAH BELL WELL.

When the string of five inch casing in the Toyah Bell well was straightened up in the hole early in the week strong flows of oil resulted, which at times flowed at periods of about one hour apart. This production was from three to five barrels per flow, and supplied a sufficient amount to keep the Bell and the Toyah Bell boilers going.

The casing was straightened by lowering a string of six inch casing and slipping it over the top of the five inch casing, and the result is another indication of what may be expected to happen when the proper action is taken to shut off the water, and put the hole in proper condition.

It is understood that the latest plan offered by those in charge of operations is to straighten out the top length of the five inch casing with a swedge, and then removing this top length, and break the string loose from the big swedge nipple on the bottom, pulling the casing and then fishing for the nipple left in the hole. This method was recommended by the former contractors on the well, and by many other experienced oil men.

The swedge nipple on the bottom swells from five and three sixteenths inches to six and five-eighths inches in the space of two feet, and many have believed that the difficulty in lifting the casing was caused by the friction caused by this enlarged joint at the bottom.

Those at the well announced that the flows averaged between fifty and seventy-five barrels daily.

WILLOUGHBY WELL.

The test of the water shut off at the Willoughby Petroleum Company's well in Western Reeves county showed that there was a small seep into the hole, and C. H. Willoughby, president of the company has directed that a quantity of gumbo mud be placed back of the casing in order that a complete shut-off be secured before drilling into the formation which gives a small amount of oil and gas at 550 feet.

This gumbo is being trucked from the Pecos-Angeles well, a distance of some forty-five miles. Mr. Willoughby with three trucks loaded with gumbo dirt passed through Pecos Thursday en-route to his well, where an effort will be made to make a complete shut-off of the water.

TATUM WELL.

It is understood that arrangements are rapidly being perfected whereby the Tatum well at the intersection of Culberson, Reeves and Jeff Davis counties may be started drilling in the near future. This well is down 700 feet.

HERSHENSON WELL.

Muddy roads delayed the delivery of supplies to the Hershenson well in southern Reeves county early in the week, but it is expected that this well will be operating late this week.

LOS PECOS WELL.

Arch Bell of the Los Pecos Syndicate, has been delayed by breaks in machinery of his rotary rig, but expects to be going by Saturday.

THE LAURA WELL.

After setting 1200 feet of six inch casing lack of fuel forced a shut down at the Laura well. The six inch casing is to be carried to 2400 feet to shut off a caving gypsum formation, after which it will be carried down to 2700 feet and set.

Considerable complaint has been made by oil operators as a result of the condition of the road leading to the Arno and Porterville area. No work has been done on this road for over a year, these men say, and they are very anxious that the road be dragged before it dries off thoroughly. A delegation of oil men are planning to meet the commissioners court at the meeting Monday to ask that some action be taken. The county road force has been at work on the Balmorhea road, and is to next work on the Toyah road, it is understood.

Pecos people will read the following article clipped from the El Paso Herald with interest since Bro. Cole was for several years a pastor of the Baptist church at this place and has a very warm place in the hearts of our people. His recent visit and illness here was noted in The Enterprise. The article follows:

The store will take the name of Cole's Cash Grocery.

TELL PEOPLE WHAT YOU HAVE, HOW GOOD IT IS, THEY WILL BUY

The El Paso Herald is just now offering some splendid argument for advertising wares in a systematic way and telling how it should be done to get results. The following article clipped from that splendid paper is well worth your time to read and digest:

Possibly it isn't altogether "the fault of the El Paso buying public that it doesn't buy home products as much as it ought. Local industries rightly claim they are entitled to El Paso support. If consumption here is large enough to take their whole output, they have a right to expect to place their entire production here.

But there is something to be said on the other side, too. People will buy what they want. They will want to buy what they have been taught to want. The desire must precede the purchase.

People must be "sold" on a commodity before they will want it enough to buy it. They must think it is so good that they prefer it above all competing commodities. Convince them that one brand of a food product is the best on the market, and they will want it. Let them know it costs no more than other brands, and they will buy it. Make them want it sufficiently for quality's sake, and they will pay more for it than for other brands.

Drive firmly into the public mind that this excellent product that sells at a fair price is an El Paso product, and they will have the added buying incentive of loyalty to a home industry.

But they must be convinced of quality first and price second, for people will buy where they get the most or the best for their money. Loyalty to local industry, keeping money at home, are only added selling points after interest has been aroused and desire created. The real competition must be on equality and price.

Some of El Paso's industries which are complaining of lack of local support are competing with outside products as to quality and price, giving the consumer as much or more—both quality and quantity—for his money than outside producers. But evidently the great majority of the buying public here does not know that. Therefore, when it goes right on buying the less desirable outside product, it is not getting the most for its money, and not keeping that money at home by strengthening a local industry which, in turn, sends its money into El Paso channels of trade.

El Paso dollars are being spent for outside goods in preference to El Paso products because buyers have been made to want those goods. What created that desire? Advertising. Constantly before their eyes has been kept the assertion that certain commodities, certain brand, excel all others. Attractive pictures heighten the mental impression. Everything is done that can be done to make that article stand out in the reader's mind as the very best of its kind, the most desirable, the one thing to order in preference to all others. Every reader knows this. He can think of a dozen examples. He knows the superiority of many a product has been pounded firmly into his mind by continual advertising, sincerely written; that the power of that advertising made a customer of him; that the real excellence of the product made him order, and that the satisfaction derived from it, coupled with uninterrupted advertising, held him as a customer.

The advertising must be convincing to land a customer. The goods must be as represented to satisfy him. The advertising must be continual to hold him firm in the conviction that this thing he likes quite well is really the very best he can buy. Otherwise his mind will be drawn to some other attractively advertised article, and he will decide to give it a trial. That may result in losing a customer.

Of the principle involved in the foregoing, The Herald had a very striking illustration a few days ago. It was a full page color advertisement of a nationally advertised, nationally used food product. The advertisement said an investigation had shown that this product led all other brands in volume of sales.

Whether or not this advertisement was given nationwide circulation is not known. Probably so, because of its character. A number of important western papers in addition to The Herald are known to have published it.

Here was an article which was already selling beyond all competition because of the public desire for it, yet the manufacturers buy whole pages of advertising throughout the country to make people keep on wanting it, and to make more people want it, and to let everybody know that millions are buying it and liking it. That's real advertising.

It is real advertising right here at home that El Paso's products need as much as anything else. A well organized, continually sustained campaign of publicity. It is the highest form of salesmanship.

If the people want it, they'll buy it.

The thing is, to make them want it.

And to keep them wanting it.

BABY GIRL FALLS FROM AUTO AND IS KILLED
Carol Martin, 4-year-old daughter of G. W. Martin, proprietor of the Alpine Mercantile Company, was almost instantly killed Monday afternoon when she fell from an automobile and the rear wheel passed over her head.

The little girl, in company with her older sister, was riding in a car driven by O. Seales, manager of the Alpine Candy Kitchen, and while playing with a pet dog in the rear of the car fell against the door. The door flew open and the little girl fell beneath the car. Her head was badly crushed.

YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN ARE IN DEMAND IN BUSINESS

A country-wide investigation of employment conditions to get information as to the type of help in greatest demand showed the following results: 1,338 of 2,445 advertisements for help specified a business training, and 524 of the remaining 1,107 advertisements were for position that office assistants grow into. No other profession can claim one-fifth as great a demand. In fact this proves that there is a greater demand for business training than for all other trades and professions; the average income of a lawyer is $1500, a doctor $1800, others in proportion, while the average income of a business man is $3000 a year. There can be no question but that the business world offers you the best opportunities.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

Prepared For The Enterprise By
The First National Bank in St. Louis.

Evidence of revival in the building industry has been multiplying during recent months as shown in the special survey of the situation just made through correspondents of Dun's Review in widely separated sections of the country. Practically without exception the reports are of a favorable tenor, and indicate that the future is regarded with optimism. Statistics of building permits issued in March disclose noteworthy increases, not only over the totals of a year ago, but also in comparison with the figures of recent preceding months.

With an aggregate of more than $218,600,000, the value of the permits issued last month at 102 cities in the United States is fully 80 per cent in excess of the total for the shorter month of February, and is much the largest amount reported in a long period. Comparison with the returns of a year ago, when the March permits involved an expenditure of about $103,800,000, reveals again of 110.6 per cent, and expansion is marked at a number of important centers. Thus, last month's permits at Chicago were approximately $12,000,000 larger than those of that month of 1921, while there was a gain of some $6,000,000 at Philadelphia, $2,800,000 at Boston, $2,000,000 at Pittsburgh, $1,700,000 at Baltimore, $1,600,000 at Portland, Oregon, $1,500,000 at Washington, D. C., and smaller increases at other points.

For the 101 centers outside of New York, which are included in the statement, the March total of $131,500,000 surpasses that of a year ago by 66.6 per cent, while the permits at New York valued at $87,200,000, show a gain of 250 per cent.

Uncle John's Poem

WHO WOULDN'T?

Come faithful Muse, and let me jingle—my soul would swell in lyric chat; with heavenly strains my lyre would tingle, if some kind friend would hold my hat. I'd grease my lute with country butter, and trim it's crown with country ham,—and Lordy, how I'd squawk and flutter, at biscuits smeared with country jam! I fain would chant of country sausage, and eke the juicy pie, washed down with sips of country cider, nor pass the country doughnut by. My country 'tis of thee superior,—each rural gem the ribbon takes; there is no nook in my interior, that welcomes punk machine-made cakes. Avaunt, avaunt, ye patent fodder, contrived by chemists in their lairs,—I hate the truck embalmed in solder, their antiseptic plums and pears. O, lead me to the country table, where germs and toxins are not known, and there; with Polly Ann and Mabel, we'll carve the jowl and chew the pone.

Punchettes

Rev. M. A. MATTHEWS
D. D., LL. D.

The country is not suffering from bad citizens. No country ever suffered from such. Our country is suffering from the bad citizenship of good citizens. Communities, states, and nations have no better government than the negligent citizen produces. The responsibility for bad government rests upon the negligent citizen, the absentee from the ballot box, and the man who is dodging his civic duty.

The business man and the banker use every possible means to escape jury duty. They are traitors to good government. You hear business and professional men say that they are not interested in politics; that they are not politicians. Then, they are undesirable citizens. They are responsible for all the errors in government and corruption in office. It is impossible for a taxpayer, a home owner, an honest man to stay out of politics. If he stays out of politics he is a traitor to government, an enemy to his home, and he is a burden to all the other taxpayers. Because of his neglect to perform his duty, he increases the taxes of all the people.

What is politics? It is the science of government. The science of good government. Then every man, woman, and child ought to be forced to study the science of government. And every man ought to be a practical, common, sense, persistent, courageous, everlasting politician. When men get so pious, so good, and so busy that they cannot afford to perform their plain political and civic duties they become a curse to society, a menace to government, a burden to the taxpayer, a blight on citizenship, and a stain on the nostrils of God.

The average business man is a consummate coward, and it is his infamous cowardice that has plunged this country into innumerable errors. Out of the cowardice of business men we have filled the legislatures and the Congress of the United States with spineless men; consequently, we legislate under the whip lash of a party master or we fail to legislate because of timidity and cowardice. The common public is unrepresented and suffers untold burdens because of the bad citizenship of good citizens.

SO FOLKS ARE KNOCKING HIM

It is out of line for The Enterprise to publish anonymous communications of any sort but here is one which is too good to be left out. It is a boost and so unlike the usual anonymous letters sent to newspapers for publication. In fact, it is the Enterprise sees it, is a deserved compliment to one who is putting his best efforts toward the development of the Pecos oil fields. The editor does not know who wrote it but whoever it was did a thing which was worth while and the Enterprise is glad to give it a place in its columns. The writer says he is a poor man "with not one dollar to invest in the oil fields that I think from the very bottom of my heart is to be found here some day, but I now have one dollar which I will give you to buy cigars, and I wish you would run this in appreciation of the good work our friend Charles Howard Willoughby is doing here." The communication follows:

"I know he must be doing well, I know he's getting on. His work has now begun to tell. His trouble days are gone. He now has passed those dreary day— Those lonesome ones and grim And he is doing real work now So folks are knocking him. He is winning new friends every day; His worth is seen at last. He has left the crowd that knew him When his skies were well o'ercast. So folks are knocking him— He's won the laurel for his brow By toil, pluck and vim, And he is doing real work now, So folks are knocking him. The knocker is a curious cuss— He never starts to whim nor fling His envious shafts at us until our work is fine. It's only those with skill to do Real work he tries to block, And so congratulations to the man the knocker knocks."

TRIBUTE PAID LOCAL GOOD ROAD BOOSTERS

At a meeting held in Dallas, April 10th, the Automobile Club of Texas was dissolved and the body re-organized into the Southwest Highways & Motor League, in order to extend its good roads work into New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

W. R. Scrimgeour of Brownwood was unanimously elected president; Dr. A. P. Buchanan, Mineola, first vice-president; John Boswell, Ham- view, second vice-president; Cass Neal, Cotulla, third vice-president; and M. J. Spinks, Dallas, treasurer. The board of directors elected at this time as follows: C. W. Wilson, Mineral Wells; Roy Miller, Corpus Christi; James H. Kerr, Alto; W. P. Denman, Belton; Ford Snook, Fort Worth; Donald Stewart, Las Vegas; N. M.; Hon. B. C. Richards, Waco; Judge E. B. Holman, Galveston; Fred Malley, Laredo; Judge J. F. Willis, Center; Sam R. Greer, Pittsburg; and W. H. Browning, Jr., Pecos.

The League also selected a board of counsellors, which is made up of some of the Southwest's most prominent talent, all friends of good road development. The personnel is as follows: Judge A. B. Watkins, Athens; J. E. Canfield, Floresville; J. D. Hamlin, Farwell; Chas. Stewart, Palestine, and Jesse Merrill, of Fort Davis. The executive committee is composed of Chas. B. Marsh, M. J. Spinks and Felix W. Smoots, all of Dallas.

Curtis Hancock, former chairman of the State Highway Commission, and chairman of the highway department of the old Automobile Club of Texas, has been appointed chairman of the League's Highway Department. Many present at the meeting highly praised the work of Judge Hancock and his fight for good roads, and promised him unstinted support in his new and enlarged undertaking.

H. B. Sammons, former business manager and publicity director of the club, was unanimously elected secretary and publicity director of the League, and given additional office and field help to carry on a bigger program.

The Southwest Highway & Motor League will have its general headquarters in the main lobby of the Oriental Hotel, at Dallas, (old location of the club) where a most efficient tourist bureau will be maintained, county by county, all over the five states and will wage an active good roads campaign. The work of logging, marking, mapping and advertising our principal highways for tourist travel will be continued on a larger scale.

The League will establish an auto anti-theft bureau for the protection of its members' cars. Fifty dollars reward is offered for the arrest and conviction of the thief in this respect. An automobile insurance department will also be maintained for its members use.

Through its advertising and publicity department, co-operation is extended civic and commercial organizations over the Southwest in the establishment of free tourist camp sites. The League will also issue weekly bulletins on road conditions for posting in principal hotels situated on prominent highways entering the Southwest, and throughout the five states.

HUMANIZING THE POSTAL SERVICE

"There is no unimportant person or part of our service. It is a total of human units and their co-operation is the key to its success. In its last analysis postal duties are accommodations performed for our neighbors and friends and should be regarded rather than as a hired service performed for an absentee employer." Postmaster General Hubert Work.

LIFT CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

Doesn't hurt! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freecorn costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses or "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freecorn removes corns from the feet or calluses from the bottom of feet the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

WRIGLEY'S

Juicy Fruit, Peppermint and Spearmint are certainly three delightful flavors to choose from.

And WRIGLEY'S P-K—the new sugar-coated peppermint gum, is also a great treat for your sweet tooth.

No Worms in a Healthy Child
All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 50c per bottle.

If it be playing politics to watch out for criminals and bring them before the bar of justice, then our sheriff, E. B. Kiser, may be classed as one of the best politicians in the country. He plays no favorites but goes after all law violators alike and when he gets after a criminal he knows no such word as fail to get him. He is really, as the Enterprise sees it, one of the very best sheriffs Reeves county has had in a long time and that is no disparagement to those who have held this office in the past, for there have been good and faithful men in that office in days past and gone. Kiser has created a fear in the heart of the bootlegger which is bearing fruit.

The recent rains have proven clearly the wisdom of the city fathers in having placed on the streets that fine coat of sand and gravel. It stood the wet admirably and never even got wet or in the least muddy. Never in the history of Pecos have the streets been so very good during and after such rains as we have just had. To all appearances there could be nothing better found anywhere than the sand and gravel used and since it is close into town there appears to be no good reason why all the streets cannot be treated in the same manner, except it be a matter of finances, and there will be few, if any, who will kick at the expense since they have actually viewed the streets and benefits derived from the said application. Here's three cheers for our city dads.

MILLIONS AND ADVERTISING

Extraordinary precautions are taken by the police to guard John D. Rockefeller, Jr., even when he starts out to attend his famous Bible class. Indeed every now and then the detectives are compelled to invade the church to protect the young man from possible violence. To thousands of persons the name Rockefeller is inflammatory. The constructive charities, the civic helpfulness of this family are lost to light in the greater vision of a money grabbing octopus that for years has been planted in the back of popular imagination. Truly the millions of the oil king have brought more terror than happiness, all of which condition is largely due to the exclusiveness with which the elder Rockefeller lived for years. To the public Rockefeller was not a personality. He was an institution. He forbade contact with his fellow beings. His photograph was never seen. He never spoke to the people or for the people through the only means of communication, the newspaper. He held aloof and became hated and despised. It was not until some thoughtful person impressed the old man with the value of advertising that the bars were let down and the people permitted to know something of the Rockefeller life and activities, and then some of the people began to understand. But even so the old man started too late ever to reap reward for whatever of constructive work he may have done. Indeed it is doubtful if his son will see the days of honor that to some extent at least may be his due. Truly the sins of the father are visited on the children even to the third and fourth generation. Never has there been a more striking lesson in advertising than the gradual change of the public mind toward the Rockefellers since they tore the mask of secrecy from their lives. The happiness, yes, even the life of the millionaire, today is dependent on the power of advertising.

GIVE THE MOTHERS A REST

The movement to give the mothers of the nation a rest of one day a week is properly gaining impetus, and the thought has taken root none too soon. If the money wasted in dues and assessments for the thousand and one societies and organizations that seem to attract the "jiner" could be applied even in part to giving the American mothers a tithe of recreation, untold good would come to the country. There are two thousand mothers of dependent fatherless children in the state of Illinois alone, mothers on the state charity roll, and goodness knows how many thousands in the other states. The pittance they receive spell nothing save life and slavery. The responsibility of these mothers prohibits work other than the care of these little ones, which is nerve racking, and under existing pressure all but intolerable. The children's mouths are ever open like the beaks of baby birds for nourishing food that must be prepared; Willie's stockings must be darned in time for school, Mary's apron is torn, and there is the washing, the ironing, the sweeping, the dishwashing and the rest of the daily routine with never a moment's rest. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals would prosecute the person who worked a horse as the American mother is worked. We find numbers of good folk who are ready to acknowledge this fact but few ready to take hold to practically correct it. The mothers of the nation should have at least one day's rest in seven. If our women's clubs wish to exercise a real function they will get behind this thought. Perhaps there is a chance for some practical work right in our own home town.

HOMELY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922

What a lot more happiness there'd be in the world if we didn't have any cash registers—that is if we didn't need any cash registers. Cash registers keep men honest but they don't make them honest. Every one of us seems to have a little kink of dishonesty somewhere and so we seem to need some kind of a checking machine. But it's awful silly! Since we've got to be honest why not realize the honesty that's forced on us has no power to bring us joy. We sort of bunk ourselves, don't we? If we got a real honesty like religion an' throw away the cash register then we have all sorts of fun an' just as much money—maybe more. Spurious honesty don't mean so much after all. It's got to be real to be worth while.

The Mexia Evening News very tersely using Bible quotations sums up the way to success in the following article: The Evening News does not believe the "Opportunity" is a something that comes only once to individuals or to cities. Its theory of life is that "as long as there is life, there is hope." True of men, it is also true of municipalities. Life's battles are filled with triumphs and defeats, or conquests and disappointments, or glory and of gloom. The way to success in this and in the next world for all mankind is pointed out in Holy Writ. "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall inherit the earth," is laid down as the rule by which the footsteps of men may be guided along the path of life and finally to the green pastures of transcending loveliness and abundance. "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God," is the other mandate coming like a warning to the unclean from the undefiled lips of an all-wise Creator. Where the way to triumph in this world and victory in eternity is so clearly outlined in these terse beatitudes, the matter of living in shorn of considerable of its fears and weak and unwise must be the man who wilfully heeds them not. —Mexia Evening News.

For the reason that everybody likes to use a new word, the title of flapper has been honored with probably more attention than is due. The popular presumption is that a flapper is a being of the female species whose only purpose in life is to attract attention by dressing in the very latest style—and then some. But all who are called flappers do not flap. That is, they do something besides walk down the streets with a vanity case open, reconstructing their toilets as they go. A knee-high skirt, bobbed hair with a permanent wave, lip-sticked lips, rouged cheek bones do not make a flapper, although they are an essential part of her make-up. Some girls indulge in this diversion in public and when at home they are real nice, sweet, attractive, home-loving girls. They even wash the dishes for mother. Some of these to whom the title of flapper is too quickly applied have made splendid housewives and mothers. The woman has become superior to her cosmetic environment. There have always been flappers in the world but they have not succeeded in doing anything more terrible than provoking a laugh and giving the paragon an opportunity for showing his sense of humor. Tomorrow it will be something else. What was that Shakespeare said about all the world being a stage?—Galveston Tribune.

SHORT MUMMY DISCOVERED IN AN OLD CAVE

News is sent out from Jerome, Arizona, which states that an unusual mummy, only 32 inches long and with only 20 teeth, with only a thumb and three fingers on each hand and four toes on the left foot (the right foot is missing) has been found by Jack Wilson and Mrs. D. Smith while investigating a cliff dwelling near Wilson's ranch, on the east side of the Verde. The shortage of teeth, fingers and toes appears to have been natural with the individual, though hardly a racial trait, for at least 100 mummies have been found in the cliff and cave dwellings along the Verde and on Beaver creek, and this is the first found not naturally constituted. The teeth and head are perfectly formed and undoubtedly belonged to an adult and not to a child.

There would appear to be little doubt that within the Verde valley, in prehistoric times, lived a race of dwarf Indians that disposed of their dead by wrapping the bodies in fibrous vegetable material and then placing them where dry air would desiccate. In one other cliff dwellings of the southwest have these same mummified remains been found, although in a number of places the rooms have such low ceilings there has been suggestion that probably other such undersized individuals constituted the builders and inhabitants.

In the Smithsonian institution are about 30 such diminutive mummies, with their wrappings of willow bark, raw cotton and a cotton cloth that generally was made by the valley or cliff dwelling peoples, who formerly lived in Arizona. Nearly 20 years ago, Jonny Love took into Flagstaff a large collection of pygmy mummies from the Verde.

Three Kinds of Mummies.

There are three distinct forms of ancient remains on the upper Verde. One is included in the remains of large agricultural communities that occupied the lower valleys and left the walls of large stone houses. The second were cliff dwellers who had homes around the mysterious Montezuma well and in other sections along the western and southern escarpments of the Mogollon plateau. A third were cave dwellers who, at points below Camp Verde, carved homes out of the soft limestone of the river bluffs, who appear to have been of somewhat ruder sort than the communal cliff dwellers and who probably were of a more ancient period.

It is believed that occupation of some of these hillside homes continued until not over a few hundred years ago, for the mummies are in rather good state of preservation and there have been found giant beans and other seeds that still had life and that reproduced when planted. There is speculation whether the last of the race of dwarfs might not have been eliminated by the incoming Apaches, though legends of the present day Indians concerning these older folk seem lacking. Evidences of the work of enemy peoples are found in the fact that almost every cliff dwelling shows the result of destruction by fire.

Miss Pauline F. M. Floyd, of Washington, D. C., the youngest lawyer ever admitted to the bar, now has the distinction of being the youngest lawyer to argue a case before the U. S. Supreme Court. Twenty-four years old, she has practiced law three years, being graduated before she was twenty-one. The young woman has never lost a case.

MRS. BALCOM IS DROWNED IN OAK LAWN LAKE

The following article appeared in the Dallas Journal of last Saturday and will be noted with much sorrow by the many friends of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Balcom were residents of this county for years and were identified with our best people, and Mr. Balcom with the most progressive of our citizenship:

Deputy Sheriffs Saturday morning found the body of Mrs. E. D. Balcom floating on the Oak Lawn lake and a boat was sent from the Sheriff's office to recover it.

Mrs. Balcom, who is the wife of E. D. Balcom, president of the Dallas Transfer Company, left her home, 3911 Cedar Springs avenue, Friday night, fully attired, but taking no belongings with her. Her destination was not made known to anyone at that time.

Saturday morning, when she had not returned, her husband reported the absence to the Sheriff's office.

Deputy Sheriffs Howell Hood and Allen Seale, investigating, found the body beneath a bridge near Hall street, floating over fifteen feet of water. A boat used to rescue flood victims was employed by the officers to obtain the body.

LIPPED FROM THE WHIRLWIND

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS MEET DEFEAT

With captain Murray pitching a brand of ball that could not be beaten the High School tasted defeat in the bitterest form. The reason was that it was at the hands of their old rivals the White Sox, with little Hicks on the mound. He hit several men owing to his bad control. The best that the school boys could do at the close of the seventh inning was take the short end of a 4-3 count.

The only reason for this defeat was that the school boys liked the needed amount of "push" when it was needed. The last three men that faced Hicks carved nine notches in the atmosphere. The feature of the game in the seventh inning, Bill Ross was perched on the second lap of the circuit; the mighty Pior tapped out a beautiful "Texas Ranger." Ross scored the winning run and after the mud had settled Pior resting on the key-stone station.

Hicks seems to know the "Indian Song" on some of the High School boys, as they were unable to touch for him a single. Ruhlén got a couple of balls bounced off of his carcass during this game, they were jammed full of smoke, too. This game was better from the standpoint of sportsmanship than they have been. May this good work continue to improve each game.

The High School boys are improving every game; George Ross, the big catch, played his usual snappy game.

Captain Murray had all kinds of "stuff" on the sphere, the city boys were unable to get but three safe catches. This boy is good, we will say.

Wheat had the initial cushion—covered it like a setting hen. This player is as good as a "silk shirt."

I guess Moran did alright at second, but his batting was not worth a "German Mark."

Was the hot corner covered? Well, of course Caroline was there, that's enough to take care of anything.

Weyer did his duty at short. This little lad looks as good as a new "Easter Bonnet."

Norman, the pedagogue, took every chance that came out in the middle garden. He had an off day with the bat, although he drew a pass when Hicks popped him with the ball.

A. Ross made several keen plays in the right field.

Ruhlén was on his toes until he had to retire because of the result of stopping a swift ball; Kesler did some good work when he took judge's post in the left patch.

If you're looking for action drop around the park about five o'clock each evening, and you will find lots of it too.

OUR REPRESENTATIVES ARE ON THEIR WAY TO AUSTIN

Spat! spat, may be heard each evening at the track, no it is not a sham battle, but coach Humphrey's squad getting ready for the big show at Austin on the first Friday and Saturday in May.

Captain Ross will be the "dasher," and this boy is fast as lightning, oh, maybe not that fast, but he has the speed.

Jonnie Wilson and W. D. Cowan are distant men. These artists have as much wind as a first class book-agent, and a stride that would be the envy of any runner. This duet should make a fine showing at the capital city.

William Kerr is the "hurdler" and the best on the team, you know that he was the only one, he shows great form in clearing the hurdles. We are expecting this lad to place in the meet.

This "bunch" left Tuesday for Austin, Naw, not North Austin where the asylum is located, but to the track meet,—you know.

Joe Burchard of Toyah will make the trip with the Pecos boys. He is a dash man with worlds of speed. Toyah will enter in class B; while Pecos is in class A.

Here is hoping that the "clothless" boys bring home the bacon.

"THREE GAMES WITH NORMAL"

Coach Norman has received a challenge from the Sul Ross Normal baseball team asking for a series of three games to be played here on the 5th and 6th of May. It has been reported that the Normal has a very fast team.

Coach Hopkinson of the Normal writes that they will arrive in Pecos Thursday night, and will remain over until Sunday morning. So it will be up to the High School to exhibit themselves as entertainers again.

This team is being brought here at a great expense, and those that come out will get their money's worth. So why shouldn't you come out and support your team?

The High squad will be minus Ross and Kerr, who alternates behind the bat. Ruhlén will fill their place, and Norman will be eligible to catch, as these games are not with High Schools. Captain Murray will be hitting on six as well as Caroline at the serving mound.

Wheat will cover the initial cushion, Moran will probably be found at the keystone bag, K. Camp will have the hot corner under his control, Weyer will take care of the territory between third and fourth.

The outer garden will be looked after by the worthy fielders such as, A. Ross, J. Camp, Kesler and Reynolds.

RACKETEERS BOARD TRAIN FOR AUSTIN

With a powder puff and their raquets, and of course a smile from ear to ear, Misses Josie Prewitt and Mary Ellen Coon climbed aboard the east bound train telling us that they will win, when they play tennis at the State Meet. May these young ladies not prove themselves to us as "prevaricators."

Our School As It Appears to Some, What is the Matter?

The school is what the students make it, and the public is looking for every fault that they can. Why let them find such faults? Pecos High School has been a success that is hard to duplicate in athletic activities; but the school is now suffering from many harsh criticisms in the educational department. Many parents state that they are sending their children to school for the purpose of educating them, well they are right; but you must have exercise. Neither of these can be slighted, and both can be carried out with out conflict of the other, of course do the right one at the proper time.

Take for an example a big, strong, fearless college student who is the hero of the "grid-iron," the flash of the basketball court, the star of the diamond, a demon on the cinder path, and a wizzard on the tennis court; who can't tell you the date of the discovery of America, is he a success? Now we have our little Perciful, with his turtle rimmed glasses, his hair parted equal on each side. This specimen of the human race has the fear of God in him pretending to the "pig skin," couldn't toss a basketball in the Lake Michigan, couldn't stop a bread wagon, has to beat time with a calendar on the track, isn't able to drop a tennis ball in an acre lot, but can work propositions in trigonometry as fast as the second flight, is he a failure?

The person that can do both is the "King Bee" of the school. The people of Pecos are making many remarks about the school, such as: "The students of Pecos High have more brawn than brains." Shall we let these remarks stand, or shall we show them what we are composed of.

The board has been very considerate in allowing us athletic directors, but if this does not do any good toward the educational standpoint of the school they will discontinue this act. Let's show them our records. Of course the students of the Pecos Hi have brains.

If a person has the "pep" and "snap" to take part in the athletic events of the school, isn't he able to make his work in school. Of course he is. It depends on what kind of "stuff" he has in him whether he will give the school all that he has in him.

Some call the student that gets his work the teacher's "pet," well if he gets his work and does not cause the teacher any trouble, don't you think he should get a little "petting"?

CAST OF SENIOR PLAY ENTERTAINED AT CAFE

Friday evening following the performance at the Rialto Theatre by the senior class, the entire cast was entertained at the Johnston cafe by a buffet luncheon given in their honor by Mr. Wasserman, manager of the Rialto Theatre.

After the luncheon had been enjoyed by all, a rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Wasserman for the delightful entertainment. Cheers were given to Mrs. Starley for the aid rendered in the chorus and to Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Campbell for work done with the play. The seniors cheered the juniors for the co-operation in the presentation of the play and were cheered in turn by the class of next year.

The crowd departed at eleven o'clock, very appreciative of the entertainment and luncheon offered them by Mr. Wasserman.

One of the greatest social functions that everyone is looking forward to is the wedding of Joseph Robert Humphries, and Miss "none of your business." This grand occasion will take place at the home of the bride. Mr. Humphries has already bought the ring, got it at the second-hand store, when they had a sale at this said store. He exhibits a thrifty trait. Oh, yes, I forgot to state the date of this crime. It will be on the first; the first chance of the groom. T. N. B. about him buying the ring for the lad does what many won't do, that is "practice what they preach." You know he is our economic teacher.

PAT MORAN AND JANE DEAN CHOSEN AS VILLAGE MODELS

Friday evening the society of Pecos blossomed out in full dress-suit to settle the long debated question of "Who's your Tailor?" for Pecos. The members of the "400" began to gather at the Legion hall at about nine o'clock in the hope that they might be chosen as "Pecos' most up-to-date dresser." "Trippers of the light fantastic," gave marvelous exhibitions of originality and skill in their interpretation of the modern dance which is so severely criticised by many "orators." Soon the judges took their post and it was announced that it would be necessary for all "would-be fashion plates" to pass before their critical eyes in order that they might ascertain which couple should bear the name of "Best Dressed." Miss Winnie Duncan attired in a light pink creation with hair done up "A La Biscuit" led the grand march followed in turn by Miss Genevieve Radcliff who was adorned in a bright red gown with "Holeproofs" to match. Miss Annie Lou Cole displayed rare taste in her unbecoming green dress while Eva Richburg who followed her showed her up to advantage with her beautiful wardrobe which represented her as, we suppose, "The Last Rose." The gentlemen of the contest were led by Willie Walter Ruhlén, who impersonated his short trousers, socks, did you get that, beautiful red tie and patent leather dancing pumps. W. D. Cowan was dressed in "Grandfather's pants" which were adorned with beautiful patches and flowers, Cliff Sims, he of the winsome smile, was garbed in his best with an addition of a rather extraordinary patch of brilliant hue which added to his aspect a massive appearance. Pat Moran with his partner Miss Mary Jane Dean were attired as becoming their positions. The young lady had on a dress which we understand had descended to her family after having passed through the hands of many wash women, generation to generation, and had finally been presented to her as a gift by her loyal servant. The gentleman, Pat is who I am talking about, dressed in imitation of a character dear to him, a professor, sideburns, frock-tailed coat, full peg trousers, hosiery with stripes which matched his "patches" in some places, and his shoes in others. After viewing the characters named above the judges withdrew and voted. After much consultation, Keith Camp appeared before the scene and announced that the grand prize was awarded to our esteemed candidate for editor, Pat Moran and his best lady friend, Miss Dean. This decision was very popular and brought down the house on us forcing us to retire to our respective homes for the night regretting very much our failure to win the honors of "Best Dressed."

ENDEAVORERS SPEND A DELIGHTFUL EVENING

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore always make the younger generation happy when they entertain. The home of this lovely couple was the center of much enjoyment on Friday the 28th. The joy-makers were the faithful workers of the Christian Endeavor, of the Presbyterian church, and several invited guests. This gay crowd indulged in many interesting games. There was never a moment of dullness—action all the time, that is the young American. After a couple of hours of this method of killing the would-be blues, a delightful course of refreshments were served.

After this the hardest part of the evening approached the merry band, no other than the time when you bid farewell to the host.

One good thing about the party was they did not have to scatter, when the "cruel curfew" tolled its hollow round over our city. I guess this is one way of getting around that law. Each one said that when he told the host and hostess that he had spent a most enjoyable evening that he did not exaggerate in the least, and maybe their over enjoyment prohibited the most from telling the full truth.

Those who were able to sing "Ain't We Had Fun," after this function were the following members of the younger social set of Pecos: Misses Lucile Prewitt, Jane Dean, Frankie Wilson, Genevieve Ratliff, Louise Starley, Margaret Howard, Annie Lou Cole, Kathryn Dean, Bessie Reynolds, Dorothy Sisk and Miss Nelson. Messrs. John Wilson, Thomas Lilley, Bill Dean, Joe Burchard, Gordon Stine, J. E. Couch, Joe Bob Humphreys, Charley Fitzgerald, Charles Weyer, Cliff and Harold Sims.

PICNICS, WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH US?

Spring is here and we have not had a picnic so far. What is the matter, are we too grouchy to get together and have a good time?

But, above all, don't forget your school work, as a wise man once said.

GATES TIRES

The Tire with the Wider and Thicker Tread

Government Tests Prove This—

Hitting a quarter inch depression in the road, when traveling 15 miles an hour, gives your tire a blow equal to four times the weight of your car.

The tread of your tire has to keep hundreds of four-ton blows away from the fabric, or the fabric goes to pieces.

Naturally, the wider and thicker tread of Gates Super-Tread Tires absorbs more of the Shock. That's why these tires are making unusual mileage records.

MARSHALL H. PIOR

COUNTRY NEWSPAPER BLOC PROPOSED

By JOHN H. PERRY
President of the American Press Association and the Publishers' Autocaster Service Co.

When will country America get its fair share of the wealth it produces?

There are more than sixty million people in the country as against less than fifty million in the cities and towns of more than ten thousand population.

All wealth is produced from the earth. Country America does the producing. Yet, it only gets a very small part of what it produces.

As an example, the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company last year made a net profit of sixteen million dollars ($16,000,000.00). They paid country America a few cents a pound to produce the tobacco, added a few cents per pound for labor, and sold back the product for several dollars a pound and reaped a harvest of sixteen million dollars net profit.

How many tobacco growers would you have to stand shoulder to shoulder whose combined net profit would equal sixteen million dollars? All the tobacco growers in America last year didn't make a profit of one-half of what the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company made.

Or, take the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. They took fifty-four million dollars ($54,000,000.00) net profit from the American public. How many billions of wealth would country America have to produce to make fifty-four million dollars net profit.

The same unfair and disproportionate distribution of profits is true as to the live stock growers when compared to the profits of the Packer's Trust. The wool growers get $1.96 out of the wool that goes to make the $40 suit. The same system of unequal profit is true as to the cotton growers of the South, the grain growers of the East and West—the producers of country America everywhere.

The United States has a total wealth of two hundred and fifty billions. Country America gets less than 25 per cent, when it should get more than 50 per cent of the wealth created annually.

A hullabaloo was made about placing one "dirt farmer" in the President's cabinet. Some big city papers raved at the idea of putting one farmer on the Federal Reserve Board. Country America should have not only one member in the cabinet, but not less than one-half of all the cabinet members. The country has six votes to the city's five. Yet, the country's voice has hardly been heard in Washington. It has never been heeded to any considerable extent. The Farm Bloc in Congress, with only a score of members, has been able to make both political parties sit up and take heed chiefly because of the sleeping power of country America.

If country America will awaken and demand her rights, irrespective of parties, it will obtain what justly belongs to it politically, industrially, economically, socially, and commercially.

If the country publishers of America will unify into a Newspaper Bloc, and demand what belongs to country America, no power on earth will stop them from getting it. This government, for the first time, has recognized the right of country America to combine to do co-operative marketing. This is only one step in the right direction.

Country America produces the wealth of America, yet, when it sells its product, it has no say about the price for which its product shall sell.

Mr. City Man fixes that price for you, Mr. Countryman!

When Mr. City Man sells his product to country America, country America has no say as to the price it shall pay for what it buys.

Mr. City Man also obligingly fixes that price for you.

Country America, through its publishers, can force the rights of the country producer to have something to say about the price for which he sells his product and the cost of the product he buys.

Trade Commission and the United States Senate investigators, which find divers and sundry trusts guilty of conspiracy. What happens to these findings? Nothing ever has happened—nothing ever will happen until country America arises from its sleep and demands from its representatives and its supposed servants in office in Washington that they will no longer accept promises for performance.

The large city dailies of America last year made an estimated profit of over one hundred million dollars. They did this because City America absorbs such a large share of wealth produced. Twelve thousand country publishers last year made far less than five million dollars—not $600 net profit per paper. Their net profits should have been between five and six thousand dollars a year each, or a total of fifty to sixty millions.

John H. Perry The Man Behind the Gun

Editor's Note:

John H. Perry, who insists that Country America never will get its fair share of the wealth it produces until it is represented through its publishers in the form of a country newspaper bloc, is President of The American Press Association and of The Publishers' Autocaster Service Company. Here is his record in brief:

Born in Kentucky; educated in law in University of Virginia.

As a State's Prosecutor won more than 90 per cent. of cases tried.

Tried more newspaper cases than any other lawyer in America. Won more than five million dollars in suits without losing a case.

Has owned or partly owned several large daily newspapers, the values of each of which increased from a very small amount to as high as three million dollars for one paper.

Made the greatest circulation record in America by increasing the Sunday circulation of one daily from 57,000 to 100,000 in nine months.

Is director and co-controlling owner of several strong, prosperous banks.

He was raised in the tobacco growing country and knows that industry thoroughly. Has never failed in any enterprise he has undertaken. Has made a fortune by his own efforts.

What's more, the city man can combine to fix the buying and selling prices in country America, and for many years have combined to do so, and nothing seriously has ever been done to stop it except some political wind-jamming. For instance, former Attorney-General Palmer's broadcasted statements of the guilt of the Packer's Trust, and his intention to send the higher-ups to the penitentiary. Such statements, having served their political purposes, the procedure was ended.

The same is true with the numerous indictments by the Federal

If country America gets its fair share of the wealth it produces, the country would share in a prosperity heretofore undreamed of.

We can get this if we will form a solid front and intelligently fight for it. It is up to us in the country publishing field to form a country newspaper bloc and to use this bloc to advocate the organization, the unification, industries of country America, so that the country can fix the price of its own products.

The country newspaper bloc could and should lead the fight.

WHY HOME TRADE FALLS OFF

It Always Slumps When Business Is Unbusinesslike

Most business men have this failing—they are swept off their feet when business booms.

We hit prosperity. Then starts the trouble. Everybody buys everything in sight and the merchants are caught in their own trap. They start advertising to beat the band. A riot of selling follows, the merchants OVER ADVERTISE and OVERSELL THE MARKET. Demand for goods keeps up and then comes the trip to the bank to borrow—for expansion. Then What? shortage and rising prices—a riot of buying before prices tilt to the top and a wild spree of advertising to keep the game going.

Suddenly there comes a halt. Buying slows up, and timid unbusinesslike merchants curtail advertising and the buying halt continues. Then advertising is stopped and business becomes stagnant.

When trade needs no stimulus the merchants buy space like drunken sailors, but when trade needs a strong push, they contract.

If business spent one-third the money in advertising when trade is booming and three times the money when trade is poor, business would find stability.

Now is the Time to Advertise Extensively

Don't throw chips on a blazing fire. The wood is needed when the fire is low. Advertising now means a real service to the buying public. The people want to know where and what they can buy economically.

Merchants Get Busy. Make Your Drive Now

THE SOAP-BOX SALESMAN
This hasn't anything derogatory to say about soap, boxes, or salesmanship. They're all good. We rather seek to engage in a minute observation of human nature in frayed trousers and worn-through hair-soles.

Way is it that when people are out of employment they love to congregate around a soap-box salesman and spend their last twenty-five cents for an article that was never intended for anything but to sell?

The man who answers that question correctly will make himself more famous than Einstein and more talked about than Edison.

"Gather up a little closer gentlemen," said the man on the soap box, and the crowd attempted to comply. "I'm going to show you something that Cleopatra would have pawned her false teeth to possess, had she had the opportunity, but alas! she lived two thousand years too soon! This is an age of wonders and the greatest wonder of all is this little instrument which I hold in my hand. Think of it! A can opener, razor sharpener, butcher knife whet, comb and brush and bunion remover, all in one piece. In all the rich and ancient lore of Grecian Mythology, or Tales of Arabian Nights, you'll never find anything to equal it. Now, kind friends, I'm not here to sell anything, but merely to advertise. I'm not going to beg; I'm not going to persuade; I wouldn't turn a hand-spring if I could. I'm going to pass a few of this twentieth century marvel out among you for your inspection. Look at it, feel of it, and if you don't think it's the best piece of steel you ever saw, the handiest combination set ever devised by the ingenuity of the world's master scientists, and the greatest invention since the flying shuttle, then I miss my guess. You know what is the other fellow's loss is your gain. Ten million of these marvelous instruments were made in France to sell at one dollar and fifty cents each. Due to unfavorable business conditions, after-war poverty, and an ever-fluctuating exchange, the manufacturers had to dispose of five million of them to an American exporting concern, at a price that caused our general manager to lose his mind. Being a conscientious business man he felt that he had swindled the Frenchmen out of their eyeteeth. But that is neither here nor there. They lost; you win.

"I'm not going to charge you a dollar and fifty cents; I'm not going to charge you a dollar. No! Nor half a dollar, nor thirty-five cents. In my excitement I'm liable to begin giving these things away, wrapped up in a one dollar bill! But I'll tell you what I am going to do. Listen! Call me foolish if you like. But the first ten men who walk up here and hand me twenty-five cents, two-bits, a quarter of a dollar, I'm going to give them one of these instruments that takes the place of a hired man, etc."

The salesman reaped a shower of quarters. He didn't hold the limit to ten. An hour or so later I saw him on another street, talking to another crowd, but demonstrating the same device and using the same spell, and no doubt with the same results.—W. D. Trotter in Southwestern Machinery.

K. K. K. MANDATE OF COURT DELAYED IN DELIVERY

Austin, Texas, May 1.—An investigation may be instituted by the postal authorities to ascertain the cause of the delay in transmission of the mandate in the Ku Klux Klan contempt cases of J. D. Copeland, police commissioner, and F. G. Reynolds, clerk of a local fraternal order here. The mandate was mailed by the clerk of the court of criminal appeals at 3 o'clock last Friday afternoon, addressed to the sheriff of Travis county and was delivered to the sheriff this morning at 9 o'clock, 36 hours after the Travis county grand jury had adjourned. Had not a certified copy of the mandate been obtained Saturday the grand jury would have passed into history before the original arrived.

Copeland and Reynolds appeared before the grand jury Saturday afternoon and answered the questions concerning their connection with the klan. The grand jury after severely censoring the method of the klan, failed to return any indictment against the slayers of Peeler Clayton, service car driver, who was killed on the night of December 15, in the rear of the klan hall.

Nothing in this ordinance shall be so construed as to punish any person for being upon the streets after nine-thirty o'clock p. m. while going to or returning from church, nor while going to or returning from any show, theatre or circus, party or any other place of innocent amusement provided that they go and come promptly and not loiter upon the way, either going or coming, and provided they do not yell, shriek or engage in loud, boisterous or vociferous language while going or coming, but shall go to such places and return therefrom in a quiet peaceable and orderly manner and without delay.

Passed by the City Council, April 11, 1922.

Approved, April 22, 1922.

BEN PALMER,

Mayor of the Town of Pecos City, Texas.

Attest: E. EASTERBROOK,

City Secretary of the Town of Pecos City, Texas.

NEXT DOSE CALOMEL MAY SALIVATE YOU

IT IS MERCURY, QUICKSILVER SHOCKS LIVER AND AT-TACKS YOUR BONES.

Calomel salivation is horrible. It swells the tongue, loosens the teeth and starts rheumatism. There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel. It is a pleasant vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Calomel is a dangerous drug, besides it may make you feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than treacherous calomel your money is waiting for you.

9 TEXANS BURNED TO DEATH IN FEBRUARY, SAYS REPORT

Austin, Texas, May 1.—Nine persons in Texas lost their lives as a result of fire during the month of February, while 21 were injured, some of them perhaps fatally, according to G. W. Tilley, state fire marshal.

"Quite a large percentage of these fires were caused by the use of kerosene or gasoline for starting fires and others were caused by allowing children to play around lighted gas stoves.

"In every case the loss of life and the suffering or injury could have been easily prevented by a little thoughtful precaution."

Mrs. Beulah Wilson left last week for an extended visit to friends at Dallas and Temple. She will also visit her sister in Louisiana before returning home.

Mrs. W. B. Lucas was over from Toyah last week with her little son for medical treatment. She was the guest of Mrs. W. H. Drummond while here.

L. Ligon, prominent farmer-ranchman, was in from his holdings southeast of town Thursday looking hale and hearty. The fine rains in his neighborhood will make things perk up a bit at an early date.

Mack Camp has just returned from a visit to relatives in Scurry county and says that they have had fine rains in that section and that the grass is looking green and fine all over that section.

District Attorney B. W. Baker has been spending a portion of the week since court adjourned in visiting the voters and laying his claims before them for election to this office at the July primaries.

Evy Boles was in from his ranch south of town Thursday and says he is now laying off that expensive cottonseed cake since the splendid rains which came just in time to save his herds and himself from taking the bankrupt act.

Capt. W. W. Dean, W. N. Sutherland and John Ross left yesterday afternoon for Balmorhea and the big lake beyond where they fished last night and are expected to bring home a good supply of fish when they return.

Ab Cooksey was in with his family from the ranch for a few days this week. The fine rains of a month ago and those of more recent date have made his grass good and that has made his cattle fat. Why shouldn't he smile?

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Hayes are the happy parents of a bouncing eleven pound boy, born to them Tuesday morning, May 1st. This is their first son and is a very welcome guest in their home. All are getting along nicely.

Judge Jas. E. Bowen, an old resident of Reeves county, but for some years past a resident of El Paso, was a business visitor in Pecos this week shaking hands with his numerous friends and looking as fine and healthy as ever.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Collings of Los Angeles, California, en route home from a meeting of the Shriners' conclave in New Orleans, stopped off between trains Wednesday for a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Collings.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Slack and little son, Marion, Jr., returned last week from Mesa, Arizona, where they have been for some time with him mother. Marion has partially regained his strength and is back in his shop now where he found an abundance of work awaiting him.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Parker have returned from a visit to relatives at Frost, Texas, and despite the wet weather, report a very pleasant trip. Mr. Parker, who is again at his post of duty in the First National Bank, says that they are both glad to get back to West Texas where the sun shines.

Eighteen ladies representing the various Presbyterian churches of the El Paso district passed through Pecos Wednesday en route to Balmorhea to attend the Presbyterian that convened in that fair city Thursday and Friday of this week. Mrs. George Coon went as a representative from the Pecos church to attend the meeting.

The visit of Ralph E. Landrum to our city the past few days has been one of pleasure to both himself and his many Pecos friends. His mission here was to look after the interest of disabled veterans in the late world war in securing for them relief and getting them into training schools. He found several worthy applicants while in this section.

Tom Garrard of Midland, candidate for the office of district judge, was looking after his political fences in this part of the district this week and made the Enterprise a very agreeable visit on Wednesday. Tom is a good fellow and one who makes friends wherever he goes. He says he is the swiftest man in the race and being ahead now does not intend to look back until the primary election is over and the contest decided.

Mrs. Lee Ligon is confined to her room from illness.

Mrs. S. T. Anthony is here from Gropland, Texas, on a visit to her son, H. F. Anthony.

Imo Mann arrived last week from Phoenix, Arizona, for a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mann.

The many friends of the Leeman family will regret to learn that Mrs. J. A. Leeman is seriously ill.

The little son (still-born) of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Eddins which came early Monday morning was laid to rest in Fairview cemetery that afternoon, services being conducted by Rev. J. S. Stockard of Marfa. The little fellow weighed seven pounds. The Enterprise extends deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Eddins in the loss of their precious little one.

Judge W. A. Hudson has for some time been shelling the forks of the creek seeing the boys and presenting his claims for the office of district judge. The Judge says he is meeting with the best of encouragement all over the district and firmly believes he will be in the second running to say the least—really if there be a second race. Judge Hudson should carry this and Waro county almost solidly and if he does then his election is almost assured.

Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Meredith left this week for the east. About the middle of May they will attend the general association of the Southern Baptist church which meets at Jacksonville, Florida, at which time they will be assigned work in the foreign fields. Dr. Meredith will go as a medical missionary and Mrs. Meredith to some special line of work for which she is best fitted. They have made many friends in Pecos during their short stay who will wish them well in whatever work they may be assigned.

Valentine Zuber and son, Otto, were trading in Pecos Tuesday. They brought in a lot of eggs which they marketed and instead of paying out cash they traded out their stuff for what they wanted. This is thrift and those who practice it will always have a little money in the bank and all they need for the family. These are the ones who never cry hard times. They were rejoicing over the fine rains which will not only make their crops better, but will make fine grass, fat cattle and an air of prosperity all along the line.

George Ross, William Kerr and John Wilson and Misses Mary Ellen Coon and Jesse Prewit, accompanied by Joe Bob Humphries and Mrs. Avant as chaperones, left for Austin Tuesday to attend the state inter-scholastic meet in session there this week. They were accompanied by Joe Burchard of Toyah. George Ross goes to participate in the hurdle contest, William Kerr in the 100 and 200 yards run, John Wilson in the mile race, while the two young ladies will participate in the tennis games—doubles. Joe Burchard will participate in the short run races.

A letter from Mrs. J. B. Sullivan Thursday is to the effect that the operation was performed upon her husband early in the week and that he is getting along as nicely as could be hoped for. He was on the operating table for more than two hours and came out wonderfully well, the operation being entirely satisfactory from every view point. The indications are that he will be able to return home at an early date and that when he entirely recovers from the effect of the operation he will be entirely relieved from his old trouble. This will be a bit of gratifying news to the many friends of this most estimable family.

Dr. Joseph R. Harker, president Illinois Woman's College of Jacksonville, with his wife were Pecos visitors Thursday and today. Dr. and Mrs. Harker have been out to Berkeley, California, to see their children who are in school there and returning home decided to stop off and see Pecos. Dr. Harker has some land near the Bell well which he values very highly and hopes some day to sell at a fancy price, and the chances look good that he will be richly rewarded now in a very short time. While in Pecos Dr. Harker visited the Enterprise and left two dollars for renewal of his subscription. He states that he is well pleased with the oil news and the manner of giving it in the Enterprise.

ONLY SPECIAL AND LIMITED TRAINS GET SINGING PORTER

It is not the intention of the Pullman Company, according to H. Tolson, local agent, to make every one of its porters an entertainer, as some persons have seemed to think from a recent news article to the effect that the company is employing vocal instructors for them. The singing and dancing porters will be placed on special trains, transcontinental limiteds and the like to while away the tedium of the journey, he said.

The instructor the company is furnishing, he declared, is in connection with the Pullman Porters' Protective Association of America, a lodge made up exclusively of Pullman porters, which the company has fostered with the idea of binding its men more closely together. All officers, both local and in the grand lodge at Chicago, are Pullman porters, even the financial secretary. The local body will hold memorial services here next month for porters who have passed out during the last lodge year.

The Pullman Company recognizes the ability of the negro as an entertainer, Tolson said, his vocal talent and his natural wit, and it is making an investment with a double purpose—unifying its force and providing useful outlet for the amusement capabilities of the porter. There is no idea of commercializing the porter's spare time, he said, and the company expects no pecuniary gain from the move other than that resulting from the improved morale.

The Pullman porter, Tolson declares, represents the best of his race. He must come highly recommended, in the first place, and his opportunities to learn from the better class of the traveling public are never neglected. Most porters are models of deportment and have other laudable traits, he said.

The old timers, who have been "portering" for many years, according to Tolson, are usually thrifty. Some of them own city property, others own farms and a large number will be found to own homes, he said. Younger porters, of course are not so prone to put their earnings to good uses as they will be when they have taken the knocks of the world for a while, he added.

The volumes of anecdotes told of Pullman porters, Tolson said, exemplify the wit, the aplomb and the diplomacy with which most of them are outfitted without which they would be ill prepared for the position they hold, that of the principal point of contact between the Pullman Company and the public.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

GENTRY BROS. CIRCUS IN PECOS MAY 11

Get out the old alibi about "taking in the children to see the circus" for it will come in handy on Thursday, May 11th, when Gentry Bros. Famous show and wild arena comes to Pecos. According to Claude F. James one of the advance men who is here, the management has built up an entirely new organization for this season, from the stakes in the ground to the flags on the big top. The interesting work of training young animals has been going on all winter and the animal actors of previous seasons have acquired considerable "advanced training."

James reports the street parade as a mile long affair, scheduled to appear on the downtown streets at noon, and acting as a sort of shop window for display of the show wares, besides giving joy to thousands of children from three years up. During the performance, nearly every variety of animal life between a trained gnat and the behemoth, so it is claimed, will be in evidence in the rings, the air and the arena with human and animal clowns in abundance. When asked regarding the big feature of the show, James waxed voluble with adjectives, but he plainly intimated that the elephant band, playing the La Belle Fatima Classic, with another herd of elephants doing the dance that made the Chicago Worlds' Fair famous, made quite an impression at the Shrine Circus at Dallas last week.

NEXT SUNDAY AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Are the days of miracles over? Were there ever any miracles? What is the christian religion if it is not a miracle? As social orders we have some lodges that are hard to beat; as intertainment the show house offers an appealing bill-board; the schools offer a fine educational curriculum; as superstitions we have Mahometanism, Brahmanism, Confucianism and the ordinary negro's rabbit foot.

Sunday morning I plan to preach on the "Marvels of Christian Life and Labor." If you have an interest in the subject, I should be glad to refer you to Hebrews, the eleventh chapter, and to have you come to the Methodist church next Sunday at eleven o'clock.

At night I am asking that we consider The Religious Doubts of Young People: "Is there a God?"

Less than a thousand years ago I was a boy with questionings which I feared were blasphemy, and which I dared not mention to a living being. Since then I've met a few young folks who under the influence of personal friendship have told their heart's misgivings. Come and let us talk about them. I believe I can say a few words that will help you.

And while I don't know much remedy for a skeptical setfast except plain confession and repentance, I know you are having a miserable time and would be glad if you would come and "listen in" at least. Jesus who saves is able to deliver "whosoever will."
