He notes there is a steady demand for leases west of the Pecos at this time due to the scarcity of blocks in the areas where fields exist.

The holdings of the Texas and Pacific Land Company cover 32 counties in West Texas and constitute the remnant of the once more than 7 million acres given to the Texas and Pacific Railway when it built from Fort Worth to El Paso. The State gave alternate sections to the T. and P. and to the counties for schools purposes. About 5 million acres have ben sold and the rest of the land not sold has ben under grass lease for years. Now comes the mineral leases and it appears that the returns from the last remnant of the lands may bring a greater revenue than that of the 5 land is probably one of the biggest

BERKLEY WEST TEXAS LAND BILL PASSES HOUSE

Austin, Texas., Oct. 5-The Berke ley senate bill providing for the validation of school lands in West Texas that were sold for non-payment of interest, was passed finally in the House Tuesday afternoon. The bill is the same as that of Representatives McGill and Pool of El Paso and Webb of Ector county.

This is the bill which gives a prior right to the owners of this land to repurchase it at a price to be fixed by the land commissioners and on request the commissioner shall revalue the land and shall be paid 1 cent an acre for such re-valuation. The bill now goes to the governor for approval. This bill isof vast importance to the farmers and land owners of West Texas.

Home Owner Leader in Community Life

How the ownership of a home has become the best way known to obtain a full enjoyment of the many comforts and conveniences offered by modern civilization, was discussed recently at a meeting of real estate men at Detroit. Among opinions expressed was the following:

"Both urban and suburban life offers finer attractions than in olden times. Cities are ceaselessly spreading out and absorbing adjacent districts, giving city life and city conveniences to ever-widening areas. The services and sanitary benefits modern communities provide to home owners are vastly more than in former periods. The many devices now incorporated in the construction of homes, such as heat and electric refrigeration, insure greater comforts.

"Yet, even long before the home was much more than a primitive shelter, land had acquired such a value as to bring about the long era of its control by the rich and noble. Long before America instituted its liberal methods of functioning, ownership of land gave the right to vote and was the sign of the freeman.

"Only the home-owner can today feel himself a true part of the progress of his locality because, in all forms of social advancement, community life always has been the leader."

House Not Real Home

Without Its Setting

Those who include a bit of the outdoors in their premises come closest to making their homes ideal. Too many builders ignore this feature of the home, erecting great, expensive houses on small lots which afford no possibility of proper treatment.

Every house should nave grounds surrounding it, and they should correspond in extent to the size of the of the house. Often a new house has a bare, forbidding appearance when the workmen left it complete and perfect in every detail, but a lawn and a few well-chosen and properly placed trees and shrubs change the entire effect and give the place an attractive and inviting aspect. The setting must be thought of constantly. It must be in mind when choosing the lot, planning the house and in deciding what part of the lot the house will be on. A fine old tree and wild bush are valuable assets. They should be preserved and they add beauty and comfort to the house.

Duties of Civic Bodies

Through our civic bodies and local governments we should assure protection for residential districts from wanton intrusion by means of sane, comprehensive city- planning and good zoning ordinances, playgrounds within easy walking distance of children in closely built districts, parks for breathing spaces, safety on the streets, and effective public health measures. Well-drawn and enforced housing laws requiring light, air, privacy, and sanitary facilities can do much to prevent the growth of High standards of business dealing among those who build and sell houses, and adequate, reasonable financing for home seekers, also help to advance home ownership. The services of public utilities may be extended over a great number of homes by sound policies worked out in friendly co-operation with local officials.-Herbert Hoover.

City and Town "Homes"

He who feels that nature has included him "in her program," must also feel that he is part-insignificant it may be-of the cosmic process. Stability and "rootedness" in a life clothe it with a dignity that it can hardly have without those qualities. The old Antaeus myth is everlastingly true. The dwellers in great cities seem for the most part to be content. and yet many of them must be conscious of missing something, though they may not know what it is, which is perhaps just as well. There are, of course, homes, and real ones, in the cities, even in the big ones. But conditions certainly are not favorable to their creation and maintenance.

Watch for Deterioration

The man who raises an awful "howl" if he thinks he is being "done" out of a little money, often does not realize that necessary repairs on his property may soon cause him really hig losses. There is only one way to eliminate these expensive repairs, and that is to keep your property protected through painting before repairs are necessary. Property should be regularly inspected. Paint should be applied to all places that appear worn and not delayed until the appearance of rust or decay when repairs become unavoidable.

Keep Up Property

Keep your property well painted and you will have mighty few repair bills. Paint is far cheaper than new wood or metal replacements. Watch the less obvious vulnerable points, such as roof, eaves and down spouts, porch columns, etc. The trim is usually the first to suffer.—Exchange.

Choose your new car from the General Motors Line

In the past twelve months the public has purchased 1,086,590 General Motors cars, an unprecedented record.

This great volume of business has made possible still further economies and these have been put into the quality of the 1927 series now on display by General Motors dealers.

The new General Motors line is first of all a quality line. It embodies every advantage of research. It has been proved at the General Motors Proving Ground. Every car is finished in Duco; the closed cars have Fisher Bodies.

It is a complete line. It includes 59 models of open and closed types, ranging in price-at-the-factory from $510 to $4,350. Within it you will find the car you want at the price you want to pay.

"-asks parley," came in broken phrases from O'Donnell. "-cannot understand-regrettable mistake-" "Der Spaniard wants quarter."

Indeed, those of the Santissima Trinidad's men who had been resisting us promptly flung down their arms, glad of the excuse to quit the fight; but the wolves of the James' crew were not schooled to show mercy, and they killed three poor fellows before Peter and I could knock up their cutlasses.

Murray's whistle blew a second time. There was a sudden hush, punctuated by the grinding of the two vessels, the thudding of unshod feet as more of the James' pirates dropped aboard the treasure ship, the gagging cries of the wounded, the nasal singsong of a priest pattering Latin prayers.

I seized the opportunity to look around. We were too close under the poop to see what went on beyond the rail directly overhead; but the maindeck, fore and aft, was a pitiful spectacle-cluttered with wreckage and dead men and bits of men and women wounded in every conceivable fashion, its yellow-sand carpet gemmed with carmine pools and rivu-

My great-uncle, as immaculate as when he had ascended the James' bulwarks, stood a little ahead of the mass of his followers, his serene face and rich clothing in startling contrast with their nakedness and frank brutality. A trickle of blood dripped from the point of his slender sword. His attitude was that of an honorable man who wishes to be reasonable in a difficult situation. "I believe I heard an appeal for quarter," he said quietly.

"Sir, you did," replied O'Donnell. "I have spoken for the gentleman beside me, Senor Don Ascanio de Hurtado y Custa, who is captain of this vessel."

"I am honored, sir." returned my great-uncle. "And yourself?"

O'Donnell did not altogether relish

"I am Colonel O'Donnell, an officer an opportunity to leap the narrowing in the service of his Most Catholic Majesty."

"Ah; and what can I do for you, gentlemen?" inquired my great-uncle. O'Donnell hesitated again and conferred with the Spanish officer. "Sir," he said then, "Don Ascanio

"'Tis an unpeasant plight, I know," he said. "Had Don Ascanio not discarded his sword I should have been delighted to yield him an opportunity for such satisfaction as one gentleman may give another.

"However-I must stipulate further. Colonel O'Donnell, that the crew of the Santissima Trinidad shall be placed in confinement for so long as suits my purpose. Any resistance must cause additional bloodshed, which, I am sure, you will agree is

He rattled off a sentence in Spanish, and there was an answering rattle of arms thrown on the deck. He spoke again, and the Santissima Trinidad's men all shifted to starboard and marched into the fo'csle, herded by a pristle of pirate cutlasses.

Murray walked aft to where Peter and I stood, uncertain what to do

"Have you seen her?" he asked. "I think she is in that group of oriests and nuns under the stern lanthorn," I said.

He compressed his lips, a habit he had whenever he must turn to some task he did not overly care for.

"'Tis a trick I shall find as distasteful as O'Donnell did our colloquy just now," he said shortly. "But we must be about it without delay. Our cannonade will have been heard ashore in Hispaniola with this wind. The Chinese day is divided into 12 | We must gather our loot and away." (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Haven't you ever noticed how you have to begin and hunt for them? The bigger things don't always join in the game. "You keep hunting for things and you have to keep hunting quite hard even though you know that the things must be on the bed.

They get in between the ridges and hide under folds in the spread, and they fall down into hollows which you make when you move around.

This was how it happened in the first place. There was a little girl named Clip-

Clip-Clip. At least that was the name everyone used when they spoke to her. Her friends would come to her house didn't see her around:

"Is Clip-Clip-Clip in?" "No." her mother would answer, "she

So they decided to use their wits and think of something to do when she was in bed that would amuse her and yet would not make her have to get up, and would not get her too tired. They began hiding themselves from her, hiding in the folds of the bedspread and in the hollows of the bed and at the edge of her pillows and all over the bed.

Clip-Clip-Clip kept looking for one thing and no sooner had she found it than she had to look for something

It made the day quite a lively oneplaying with her belongings, drawing pictures, scribbling, making up games and playing other games that had been made up by others.

That was the way the hide-andgo-seek game started when Clip-Clip-Clip spent that day in bed when she did not feel so very well before the picnic. Ever since then toys and belongings, games and pencils have all of gelatin with one-half cupful of cold water and let stand for a few minutes to hydrate, then add one-half cupful of boiling water. To one pint of orange juice add two cupfuls of sugar, mix until the sugar is dissolved. Beat the yolks of six eggs to a cream, then stir in the gelatin and sirup. Put into a basin and stand in ice, stirring carefully until it thickens, then add one quart of cream whipped, and freeze. The addition of the juice of two lemons adds flavor and bulk.

DELECTABLE DAINTIES

Date and Walnut Kisses .- To two stiffly beaten egg whites add one cupful of powdered sugar, one cupful of broken nut meats and one cupful of chopped dates. Mix lightly and drop from a teaspoon on a well-greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven until brown. This makes about two dozen cakes.

Raspberry Lacto.-Take one quart of buttermilk or sour milk, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of raspberry sirup, one egg, yolk and white beaten separately. Mix and freeze; when partly frozen add the juice of a lemon.

Sea Food Salad .- Open, drain and free from skin and bones a small can of salmon, a small can of tuna fish and a can of shrimps. Rub a salad bowl with a cut clove of garlic, add and would say to her mother, if they the fish and the juice of a grated onion, three tablespoonfuls of French dressing, a cupful of minced celery, a tablespoonful of capers, a minced gherkin, two hard-cooked eggs chopped and enough mayonnaise to bind all together. Banana, Date and Nut Salad .- Cut six balls from bananas for each serving, stuff dates with the trimmings, roll in chopped nuts and serve on lettuce with:

Maple Sirup Dressing .- Heat onefourth cupful of maple sirup to the boiling point, pour slowly onto three egg yolks, adding one-fourth teaspoonful of lemon juice, a few dashes of paprika and one-half cupful of cream added after the dressing is cool.

Value of Fruits. The healthfulness of fruit is so well known that while we may not support the claims of those who believe we should subsist on fruits and vegetables entirely, we are willing to credit them with great virtue. It is also interesting to know what is said about them.

Lemons and limes were found so necessary for the health of the sailors that as far back as 1863 England passed a law requiring all her ships to carry sufficient lime or lemon juice so that each member of the crew might receive a daily ration of one ounce, to prevent scurvy.

We turn to lemons and oranges in time of sickness, their acidity and refreshing qualities often being the one thing that a feverish patient

Lemon juice is used as a bleach to soften the skin and remove stains. Mixed with buttermilk it is said to dispel freckles.

Lemon juice applied to bites and stings of insects will relieve at once. As a mouth wash, lemon juice in a glass of water, dissolves tartar on the teeth and sweetens the breath.

When washing the hair a lemon rinse takes out the last remnant of soap and leaves the hair soft and lustrous. A glass of lemonade without sugar taken the first thing in the morning is a fine remedy for that tired feel-

Lemon juice and salt will remove rust stains if laid in the sun.

Grapefruit is said to contain a substance similar to quinine. This fruit has been recommended in case of grippe and flu, and is also good for that tired feeling. Those who know say that the proper way to prepare it for medicine is to grind it, pulp, seeds skin and all, cover with boiling water and let stand until the mixture gets cold. Strain and take in small doses three times a day. Those who like quinine will probably enjoy

CASSEROLE HELPS MAKING A DINNER

One of Most Satisfactory to Serve Guests.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) If you have not discovered the possibilities of a casserole for making a dinner both delicious and easy to prepare, now is a good time to try it. An earthenware or glass baking dish with a close-fitting cover, is desirable If you have one, especially if you intend to bring the casserole to the table. But if you wish to experiment first with this method of cooking and have no casserole, a heavy enamel or aluminum saucepan or even an iron pot with a tight cover can be used. In this case the contents of the pan used for baking will, of course, have to be dished on a platter, which makes an extra piece to be washed. The casserole is a dish saver.

A casserole dinner is one of the most satisfactory to serve to guests when one is both cook and hostess. It can be cooked in the morning, and reheated at dinner time for half an hour or so. In this way the housekeeper is free to finish the other details of her dinner, and is spared that flustered and tired feeling that results from having too many last-minute foods on the fire. The meat or poultry cooked in a casserole, well seasoned and accompanied by the right vegetables, will be unusually fine in flavor because of the long, slow, moist cooking in the covered dish. It is also Casserole of Chicken and Vegetables. usually ready to serve in pieces of convenient size without carving at the table, and this is sometimes a boon to the one who has to do the carving.

What goes into the casserole: Any combination of meats and vegetables the pickles in usual way. you think could be cooked well together by this method. The casserole enables you to have a "meal in one dish." It also offers an excellent way of using the less expensive cuts of beef, veal, lamb and pork. Fowls, oxtails, calf hearts and tongues, rabbits in season, and many small meats may be cooked to good advantage in a casserole. The preferred blend of flavors will govern the vegetables to go with these meats. As a rule, the meat should be cut in pieces of a suitable size for individual portions, seasoned and then seared and browned in fat. If the emery is not available. To Vegetables are also cut into pieces of convenient size. Moisture in the form of gravy or water is needed. If one plans a tomato gravy, for example, or is quite commonly carried out where has meat stock on hand, the gravy food is sold and served in quantities, may be made at the beginning of the emery wheels instead of emery paper cooking period. Otherwise the water | being used to smooth down the chipped juices drawn out of the meat and veg- and broken edges. In this case, too, etables may be thickened at the time of serving the dinner. A tight-fitting lid keeps the steam inside the casserole and prevents the meat from drying out.

Egg Yolk Is Invaluable in Diet of Young Child

Left-over egg yolks have many good uses. The egg yolk contains a larger percentage of iron than almost any other food. For this reason it is invaluable in the diet of children who get plenty of calcium from milk but are not likely to get enough iron. Egg yolks can be cooked hard without the addition of any fat, for they themselves contain a large amount of fat. This cooking can be satisfactorily done in a double boiler. Hard-cooked egg yolks mashed and seasoned make a very good filling for sandwiches. Egg yolks, raw or hard cooked, make good salad dressings. Chopped beef mixed with raw egg yolks contains a higher proportion of iron than almost any other meat dish. It can be broiled in cakes or baked in a roll. It has a very delicate flavor and is therefore recommended for the sick. Hollandaise sauce which consists chiefly of egg yolks and butter is good to serve with fish and is particularly appropriate for this purpose since most kinds of fish contain less iron than meat and far less fat. The proportions usually given for Hollandaise sauce are rather alarming for the economical housekeeper because of the large amount of butter called for. For every-day purposes a simpler sauce made out of yolks, 2 teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, 1/2 cupful of water, with salt and cayenne pepper to taste will do. The ingredients should be combined in the top of a double boiler and cooked with great care over hot water. It is necessary to beat the mixture even after it is taken from the hot water to prevent curdling.

Watermelon Pickles Are

Excellent for a Change As a change from other sweet pickles this year, try some made from watermelons, which promise to be abundant. Only the white portion of the rind is used. The red heart of the watermelon can be eaten as usual.

The following recipe has been tested by the United States Department of Agriculture: For each two pounds of watermelon rind allow 1/2 tablespoonful 3 cupfuls sugar

2 sticks cinnamon 1/2 tablespoonful

Trim off the red portion and outer rind of the watermelons, which are best used at the height of the season, and in ripe, fresh, condition. Cut the white part into pieces of sultable size and cook until tender, for about 15 minutes, in a part of water to which one teaspoonful of salt has been added, and drain well. Put into a sirup made of the vinegar, sugar and spices, and cook about fifty minutes, or until clear. If the vinegar is very acid it may be necessary to dilute it. Much of the success in all pickles lies in using a well-flavored vinegar. Bottle

Smooth Chipped Places on Edges of Glasses

Jelly glasses, drinking glasses, and fruit jars frequently become chipped. Not only are chipped edges unpleasant, but they also afford a lodging for micro-organisms and not infrequently for soap used in washing. The chipped places on the edges of tumblers and other glass articles can be made smooth by rubbing down with fine emery paper, or with fine sandpaper avoid breathing the glass dust, one should tie a dampened cloth over the nose and mouth. Such repair as this precautions should be taken to avoid breathing the glass dust.

PROPER HEIGHT FOR THE KITCHEN SINK

Women of Different Sizes Need Sinks of Varied Heights.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) The right height for the kitchen sink depends on the height, length of arm, and general build of the person who is to use it. Any homemaker can test this out easily for herself by placing the dishpan at various heights until she finds the most comfortable one. Most sinks are set too low. Thirty-six inches from the rim to the floor is often given as a good average height for the sink.

When the Panama Canal was opend in 1915, Suez was already transiting about 25,000,000 tons of freight annually. Almost nobody believed Panama could ever attract anything approaching such a volume. But during the war fear of German submarines in the Mediterannean caused many vessels to take the Panama route between the far east and European or American ports. This gave Panama its introduction and it has not only held but greatly increased its business since the war. In 1923 Panama transited 5037 vessels, against 4621 for Suez; Panama handled 25,160,000 cargo tons against 22,-770,000 for Sues. This was the first year of Panama's lead.

When Alexander the Great conquered Egypt the Canal was one of the oldest of engineering works.

Between 1904 and 1915 the present Panama Canal was constructed. It cost about $400,000,000, Suez about ene-fourth that sum.
