VILLA SORRY CAN'T PUNISH HUERTA FOR KILLING MADERO

Train Bearing Fallen Mexican Dictator and War Minister Blanquet Five Hours Overdue at Orizaba and No Word Received

CARBAJAL PROVISIONAL PRESIDENT

British and American Steamers Go to Puerto and Will Likely Take Huerta to Europe; No Bloodshed in Capital When Resignation is Known

BY UNITED PRESS

VERA CRUZ, MEXICO, July 16.—Train bearing Victoriano Huerta, until yesterday President of Mexico, and his War Minister, General Blanquet, is lost, so far as railway officials know. Five hours after the train was due at Orizaba it had not been heard from.

There is a remote possibility that the "special" has been attacked and captured.

The bloody reign of the Mexican usurper ended without anarchy and bloodshed. This had been expected in Mexico City. The whereabouts of the Dictator and General Blanquet is a mystery. They fled last night, and it is believed have gone to join their families, at Puerto.

Commissioners have gone to Colima to arrange peaceful entrance of the Constitutionists into Mexico City.

Bolton Ends in 3 Days' Orgy.

Huerta's dynasty ended in three days' orgy of heavy drinking. New provisional president, Francisco Carbajal, had expected Huerta to keep his promise and resign Monday. The dictator had been drinking, and resignation was far from his mind.

Carbajal asked Blanquet's aid. The War Minister told Huerta he must keep his promise. Blanquet threatened to resign and take the army with him, arresting Huerta, who was half drunk. Under this pressure Huerta signed his resignation.

It is now known that Wilson forced the dictator to step down. Huerta promised his envoys at Niagara that he would resign, and the United States signed a protocol to relinquish indemnity claims and forget the Tampico incident.

Troops Won't Leave Vera Cruz.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—Official word of Huerta's resignation came to-day from Funston. The general added that the British Cruiser Bristol and German Cruiser Dresden had gone to Puerto, Mexico. One of these will probably take Huerta to Europe.

No immediate withdrawal of troops from Vera Cruz is contemplated. Federal troops along the railroad near Vera Cruz are expected to disintegrate.

PUERTO, Mexico, July 16.—The families of Huerta and General Blanquet arrived here early to-day, guarded by 1,400 soldiers on two troop trains. No information has come regarding the whereabouts of Huerta and Blanquet.

Villa and General Bell Confer.

JUAREZ, Mexico, July 16.—Villa and General Bell, commander of American troops here, held a conference at midnight in the middle of the International Bridge. They refuse to discuss the matter, but it is believed the meeting was by order from Washington.

"I am sorry Huerta cannot be caught and punished for the murder of Madero and Suarez," the rebel warrior said when asked about Huerta's resignation.

Villa believes the fighting is over. Future developments will be taken care of through diplomacy, he says.

Carranza is expected in Mexico City within a fortnight.

W. F. McClure, editor of the Silverton Star, came in to-day. He and E. M. Ellerd attended the big celebration at Matador yesterday.

Miss Della Gouttsch went to Happy yesterday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gouttsch.

ATTICUS WEBB BELIEVES BALL WILL CARRY PLAINS

Anti-Saloon League Representative Talks to Voters in Hale, Floyd, and Randall Counties

Rev. Atticus Webb took up a number of "misrepresentations" (he characterized them) against Tom Ball in his speech in front of the First National Bank Building yesterday.

"Ferguson's forces accuse Ball of having been nominated by an ecclesiastical board. More than 4,000 men were present from all over Texas, and only about 2 per-cent of them were preachers," Brother Webb said. "A pretty fair-sized convention, wasn't it?"

Mr. Webb gave considerable attention to the fact that several years ago there were 125,000 Republican votes in Texas. "Two years ago there were only 25,000 Republican ballots. This hundred thousand Republicans is what elected Colquitt. He only received a majority of 41,000 over Ramsey. The Republicans really had no right to vote in a Democratic primary; so that in a fair election Colquitt would have been defeated."

"I will not discuss Mr. Ferguson, because I do not know anything about him. He says that his 'pocket book is his principle.' When Rev. R. P. Shuler reported Ferguson as saying, 'Let the boys go to hell; my pocket book is my religion,' Mr. Ferguson denied this, saying that if two of his fellow citizens (naming them) said this was true he would quit the race. These men insisted that he should not leave it to them, because, they said, 'we will have to say that you did say it.'"

"If we ever expect to get prohibition, we must elect a man who will stand for wiping out the saloon. The saloon costs us more than all other reforms asked for, and its elimination will help Texas more."

Brother Webb read a report from a minister which the Ferguson Club at Aquilla sent to Houston to look into the Ball Club. He was shown through the club and said that it is a delightful place. He says that it is much like a first-class hotel, only it is conducted better than most hotels.

"I shall go back and report that the people have been misled by misrepresentations about it," the minister said.

Brother Webb left at 3:30 o'clock for Floydada, and returned to-day. He left at noon for Abernathy, and will speak at Canyon to-morrow. Mr. Webb says he is gratified at the sentiment favoring Ball. He does not believe Ferguson will get nearly so large a vote in Northwest Texas as Colquitt got two years ago.

ST. MARK'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Bishop Temple will be in Plainview on Sunday next for Confirmation.

Rev. J. S. Wicks, Archdeacon of the Plains, will give Holy Communion at eleven, and candidates for Confirmation are expected to take their first communion at this morning service.

Confirmation will be held at the evening service, at which time the Bishop will give the sermon. All those who contemplate being confirmed should address the Lay Reader, W. H. Mason, for further information and particulars.

Misses Kinder, Keck and Ware In Charge of Local Tag Day

The Benevolent League has decided to hold a general tag day Saturday. It is hoped, in this way, to realize considerable for the use of persons in need.

The League is caring for Mrs. Beard at Guyton Sanitarium. The women are also working to "put up a room at the sanitarium, which Mrs. Guyton has turned over to them. Their work is being taken part in by every club in town and is for the benefit of all."

Misses May Kinder, Joe Keck and Allie Ware are in charge of tag day. Other young women will help them. These ladies expect to see that every man on the street is wearing a tag. That means he has contributed to charity for the Benevolent League.

Of course, they will pin a tag on you when you pay.

MISS BRASHEARS ENTERTAINS, HONORING HER BROTHER.

Misses Rowan and Ballard and Messrs. Reimer Ballard and Bonnie Wood, All of Waco, Guests.

In honor of her brother, Olin Brashears, who is at home for the summer, Miss Georgia Brashears entertained Tuesday night with music and games. The other guests of honor were Misses Rowan and Ballard and Messrs. Guy and Reimer Ballard and Bonnie Wood, all of Waco.

Ices and cake were served the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Davenport, Misses Pattie Dalton, Daisy and Marie Gidney, Flora Mae Scudder, Alene Hall, Dorothy Bolton, Ruth Harder and Reece Littleton, and Messrs. Morey McGlasson, Charlie Spencer, Cecil Warren, Jack Matthews, Horace Lindsay, Ural Armstrong, Casey Hughes and Wylie Brashears.

MISS EULA HOWELL ENTERTAINS.

Slumber Party Is Feature of Delightful Outing in Country.

Miss Eula Howell was hostess last night for a pleasant slumber party, which included the following young ladies: Misses Edna Lockhart, Patty Dalton, Margaret Gardner, Lena Williams, Eddy B. Lautherback and Lizzie and Ida Leach.

The guests arrived in time for a well-appointed supper and remained for a breakfast with menu including fruit and fried chicken, with all the necessary accessories.

CLARENDON VISITORS LIKE SHALLOW WATER.

T. L. Benedict and wife, of Clarendon, visited Plainview to-day and looked over our irrigation wells. "It is a fine country," Mr. Benedict said. "Your water is wonderful."

With Mr. Benedict was his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Benedict, of Fredericktown, Mo. They were driving an Overland.

Miss Eula Howell is attending the water carnival in Tulsa.

Masonic School Begins Instructing Delegates

The Masonic School of Instruction began its work yesterday. It is in session morning, afternoon and night. The average attendance is small, many from neighboring towns coming and going in autos.

At last night's meeting the members of the instructing committee filled the chairs usually occupied by the local officers, and one candidate, Ellis Carter, was initiated into the secrets of Masonry.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS HAS PICNIC AT GROVE.

The young ladies of Miss Hattie Workman's Sunday School class enjoyed a delightful outing at Pioneer Park Tuesday night. Each young lady invited her mother to go along. Mrs. S. A. Barnes, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Owens, Miss Lena Williams, O. D. Coan and the editor of the Herald were guests.

The young people drove to the grove in a big hay wagon. After the youngsters had romped over the prairie for an hour supper was announced. There were healthy appetites, as well as an abundant feast.

Such picnics are some of the things which help to make Sunday School work attractive.

MRS. RANDOLPH'S SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS IN PARTY.

Anyone passing down West Second Street last Tuesday afternoon saw a pretty group of children playing on the lawn of the Peyton Randolph home. They were Mr. Randolph's Sunday School class of the First Christian Church.

Light of foot and gay of dress, they looked like a flock of pretty summer butterflies as they ran here and there among the trees and flowers.

FISH IN LAKE PLAINVIEW.

Big Water Resort Near Depot May Be Sporting Haven for Fishermen.

If promises are realized, Lake Plainview may become a fisherman's haven. Sunday four or five schools of funny tads were sporting themselves on top of the water.

There was a school that appeared to be cat fish, perhaps 2 inches long. The "crowd" was about as large around as a tub and appeared to be made up of thousands of youngsters. Four other schools were playing on the water. These were as large as a library table and seemed to be made up of fish 3, 4 and 5 inches long.

A load of fish was hauled in last fall from Judge L. S. Kinder's ranch. It is hoped that before long fishing may be indulged in at small cost.

E. H. Bawden, of Wichita Falls, has moved to Plainview. He will do high-grade cement work.

TELEPHONE COMPANY SHOWS BIG NEW PLANT

Misses Deal and Pepper Serve, Henderson, B. J. Becker and E. L. Donald are Hosts

Upon going up the stairway at the Telephone Exchange Tuesday afternoon and night a casual observer would have thought it purely a social affair. The first thing that greeted the eye was a conventional punch table, lace covered, where Misses Jessie Deal and Emma Pepper served the cool and delightful beverage. Miss Deal is chief operator and Miss Pepper is collector.

Pretty souvenir pictures were given away by these young ladies. Pots of blooming flowers gave a still more homelike touch to the rooms.

But though the social element was introduced, the business predominated. It was business to the core. Through the courtesy of J. F. Henderson, Division Commercial Superintendent B. J. Becker and other officials connected with the Southwestern Telephone Company, the visitors were initiated into the mysteries of the wonderful device of the "voice from afar."

The company has its own generator. This and the power-board, the storage battery, the multiples, the answering jacks and the keyboard, where sit the patient and accommodating operators, were duly explained in such a way that even the dullest got an inkling of the wonderful invention which has been in use since 1876.

"This is just as modern and complete," said Mr. Henderson, "as it can be made. Everything in this office is up to the minute."

"On the 11th of June," Mr. Henderson went on to say, "I had been with the company thirty-one years. I have seen it grow from a small and insignificant beginning to one of the greatest of modern inventions."

The reception Tuesday night was not only a pleasant social feature, but it brought the officials, the employees and the patrons in closer touch and a more intimate knowledge of each other.

During the afternoon and evening hundreds availed themselves of the privilege of seeing the inner working of the big telephone exchange.

E. L. Donald, Manager at Plainview, is to be congratulated on the success of the occasion and the efficiency of his plant in our town.

MRS. GIDNEY ENTERTAINS.

Party Honoring Mrs. Charles B. Myers, of West Point.

Honoring Mrs. Charles B. Myers, of West Point, N. Y., who is spending the summer in Plainview, Mrs. C. C. Gidney entertained Tuesday afternoon with four tables of Five Hundred.

The hours were from five to seven. Angel's food cake and ices were served after the games.

DR. ANDREW D. WHITE

Dr. Andrew D. White, who was the chief American delegate to the first peace conference at The Hague, was the principal speaker at this year's Lake Mohonk conference on International Arbitration.

THIRTY LADIES TRY CAKE BAKING CONTEST

Warren and Scudder Have Crowded

House When Product of Plainview Housewives is Sampled

MESSES DYE, HORN, PALMER WIN

Mrs. Ruth Darsey of McGregor, Mrs. L. D. Rucker and E. B. Miller Sample Cake an Hour

In response to request from Warren & Scudder, more than thirty ladies made application for materials for the cake-baking contest which took place yesterday afternoon.

Promptly at three o'clock the cakes were brought in and taken in charge by Mesdames L. J. Warren and W. L. Scudder.

Some of the contestants did not, for various causes, bring in their cakes, but nineteen were on hand. And such cakes! Just the kind that Plainview housewives are noted for making! There were loaf cakes and layer cakes, white cakes and dark cakes; some named after the angels above and some after the demons below, but they were all good—everyone of them.

Herald Man Helps Judge. Mrs. Ruth Darsey, of McGregor; Mrs. L. D. Rucker and E. B. Miller were the judges. It was a dangerous and responsible position, but they acted the part nobly, the testing process lasting nearly an hour.

At last the decision was made. The first prize, one hundred pounds of Royal No. 10 flour, was won by Mrs. L. Lee Dye. The second prize, fifty pounds, was taken by Mrs. A. H. Horn. Mrs. E. B. Palmer won the third prize, twenty-five pounds of flour.

The other contestants were Mesdames George Lynn, C. F. Scott, W. H. Murphy, S. W. Meharg, L. A. Kerr, W. L. Farmer, Fred L. Brown, Frank Bone, W. E. Risser, Charles Clements, G. W. Hay, J. D. Hatcher and Jack Scott and Misses Florida Pullen, Lallie Duckwall and Mary Bain.

Everybody Eats Cake. After the momentous decision, the cakes were sliced and served with grape punch to the large crowd of men, women and children present.

The punch was served by Misses Flora Mae Scudder, Dorothy Bolton and Grace Murray from a table artistically covered with sweet peas. Miss Maldee Crager, who is assistant cashier for Warren & Scudder, assisted Mrs. Scudder in serving the cake.

Royal No. 10 flour is made by the Davis Milling Company, of St. Joseph, Mo. That it is excellent was demonstrated by the cakes yesterday afternoon.

As an advertisement, and also from the social side, the contest yesterday afternoon was a complete success.

The ladies who did not get the prizes need not feel as if they failed. They and their delicious cakes added much to the pleasure of the occasion.

MISS NELL ROUNTREE HOSTESS.

Oddity Club Will Meet With Miss Harp July 22.

Such an idyllic crowd of pretty girls met with Miss Nell Rountree yesterday afternoon! They were the members of the Oddity Club, supplemented by Miss Sue Doubleday.

They brought needlework and chatted and sewed until the serving of a two-course feast of salads and ices. The decorations were sweet peas.

Miss Margaret Harp will be hostess for the club Wednesday, the 22nd inst.

SUNDAY SCHOOL YOUNGSTERS WITH MRS. CARTER YESTERDAY.

Mrs. J. W. Carter and Miss Leona Carter entertained their Sunday School classes and a few additional boys and girls late Wednesday afternoon.

They were invited complimentary to Mr. Carter's niece, Julia Mae Carter, of Crosbyton, who is visiting in Plainview. The porch and lawn were filled to overflowing with happy little folks, who enjoyed games and later cakes and cream.

800 "THIRD LOCK"
NEARING COMPLETION.

By United Press.
SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., July 15.—With a length 350 feet greater than any other lock in the world, the new "third lock" at the Soo Canal is rapidly nearing completion, and engineers in charge of the work to-day predicted that within a month it will be open to navigation. The new lock has a length of 1,350 feet, a width of 80 feet, and a depth sufficient to permit boats of 24-foot draft to pass through it.

The completion of this new work will be epochal in the history of great-lake navigation. With the locks already in operation here, it will permit a gross tonnage to pass through from the waters of Lake Superior to the lower lakes that is ten times greater than the expected annual tonnage of the Panama Canal. Three locks are now in operation in the canal, two on the American side of the St. Mary's River and one on the Canadian side. Two additional locks are under construction on the American side, one, known as the "third lock," to be completed during the latter part of August.

During the eight months of the navigation season of 1913, approximately 50,000,000 tons of freight passed through the Soo locks. Since the start of the development of the iron mining industry of the Upper Michigan regions, more than 500,000,000 tons of iron ore have been shipped through the canal to Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana points. In addition, enormous shipments of copper ore, lumber and wheat have passed through the big locks, the wheat shipments alone now aggregating approximately 200,000,000 bushels annually.

History of the Soo locks extends back over a period of 117 years. In 1797 the Northwest Fur Company constructed here the first lock on the American continent, but in 1814 it was destroyed by United States troops as a war measure. No further attempt to make navigable the waters dividing Superior and the lower lakes was made until 1854, when the State of Michigan constructed two locks, each 350 feet in length, and of sufficient depth to permit vessels of 12-foot draft to pass through.

In 1870, the United States Government took over an interest in the canal, and eleven years later had completed the Weitel lock, which is still in operation for the use of small boats. In 1887, the Federal Government had assumed complete control of the canal. The Government then ordered the destruction of the old state locks and the erection of what is now known as the "Poe lock." This undertaking was completed in 1896. The Poe lock is 800 feet long, 100 feet wide and admits vessels drawing 18 feet of water.

KEENESE RIVALRY IN ELKS' DRILL.

By United Press.

DENVER, Colo., July 15.—Keen rivalry between the various Elks' lodges of the United States reached a climax to-day, when the annual competitive drills by teams from all sections of the country featured the third day of the Golden Jubilee Reunion of the order here. Several thousand dollars in prizes have been offered to the competitors. The Broadway baseball park, where the teams performed their evolutions, was the mecca of Elksdom during the morning.

The first parade of the Reunion was held this afternoon. This was the Industrial Parade, in which all lodges of the State, excepting Denver, competed for prizes. The object of the display was to depict the natural resources of the Centennial State. Scores of decorated floats portrayed the development of manufacturing, mining, agriculture and stock-raising. Electrically-decorated autos to-night will perform the second parade of the day. Several hundred machines will be in line, and the most brilliant pageant ever shown here is promised. Cash prizes have been offered. Meanwhile, the Grand Lodge was in session all day discussing matters of vital interest to the order.

OHIO COLLEGE GIRLS HOLD MANY RECORDS.

By United Press.

PAINESVILLE, Ohio, July 15.—If the mistaken impression prevails that the only real girl athletes in the United States are schooling at Vassar, Smith and Wellesley, it should be corrected, according to girls at Lake Erie College here. These girls hold seven world records and are striving for more. Vassar holds five world's records.

Architects are drawing plans for a huge gymnasium to replace the inadequate quarters in which the Lake Erie girls have been forced to train for their field events. The new building will cost nearly $100,000, equipped, and will furnish quarters for over 400 girls.

Miss Ruth E. Potwine, director of physical training, promises to turn out more stars in the world of feminine athletics than all the other colleges for women combined.

SELF-DENIAL DAY.

By United Press.

NEW YORK CITY, July 15.—Campaign funds for the suffrage fight in six campaign states are being collected to-day. The day is known as "self-denial day" among suffragists. For several weeks they have been pledged to deny themselves something and contribute the unspent money to the cause.

The suffragettes hope to collect $50,000. This sum will be distributed in North Dakota, South Dakota, Nevada, Nebraska, Montana and Missouri.

PLANT PEAS OR SOY BEANS ON STUBBLE LAND.

The following advice from Colonel Exall, relative to restoration of the lands upon which small grain crops have been grown through the use of soil-building legumes, was given to the press several years ago. It is especially timely just now, and the Congress urges the farmers and asks the farmers' friends to urge that this advice be followed wherever possible:

"The small grain crop of the State is now harvested. If the land is allowed to lie idle it will very soon be covered with weeds that will go to seed and greatly increase this nuisance next year. If it has no crop on it with roots to protect and hold the soil together, and the season is excessively wet, it will waste from washing, and thus lose a large amount of its soluble plant food. If the ground is dry and hard, the rain that should sink in would run off and leave the ground in bad condition for fall plowing.

"Practically all of these troubles can be avoided and the fertility of the land greatly increased by discing it thoroughly, if it is loose enough to prepare a good seed bed in this way, and if not, by plowing and harrowing it just as quickly as possible after the crop is removed, and drilling from a peck to a half bushel of peas or soy beans to the acre.

"The peas will grow if the soil is properly prepared, and make splendid pasture for cattle or hogs in the early fall, and hay if you care to cut it, and a very profitable crop to turn under as green manure to add to the humus as green manure to add to the humus, pliability and fertility of the soil.

"Peas and beans being leguminous plants, vegetable bacteria form their nodules, or tiny homes, upon the roots and increase and multiply, under favorable conditions, at a fabulous rate. It has been estimated that these valuable animals, as it were, double themselves every twenty minutes; that is, they mature in that time and separate into two individuals, each of which ripens, as it were, in the next twenty minutes and divides again into two, both going to housekeeping for themselves, and so on, in geometrical ratio; where there was one a week ago there are a billion now. If the soil is sweet, that is, does not lack lime, there seems to be hardly any end to the increasing powers of these little entities. Their special value is in the fact that they bring nitrogen from the air into the soil and rapidly transform it into nitrates suitable for plant food.

"It has been estimated that where conditions are favorable and the soil has been thoroughly inoculated with bacteria from growing peas, beans, alfalfa, or some other leguminous crop, that the nitrogen brought into the land annually from this source could not be purchased for less than $20 or $30 per acre. As nitrogen is absolutely essential to plant growth and is one of the most expensive of the mineral plant food, it should be clear to every one that it is infinitely more profitable to grow leguminous cover-crops than other crops of the same weight that return just as much humus to the soil but do not draw nitrogen from the atmosphere.

"Plant peas and beans on your stubble land, and plant them now."

SEATTLE CELEBRATES TILIKUM POTLATCH.

By United Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 15.—The city was crowded with visitors, the streets decorated with totem poles and gala colors, and the spirit of the Mardi Gras was evident everywhere to-day at the opening of the Tilikum Potlatch, held annually to commemorate the finding of gold in Alaska. Until Saturday night aviators will maneuver the air, yacht, motorboat and automobile races will be held and illuminated and day parades will traverse the streets.

Aviator Silar Christofferson is scheduled to leave San Francisco to-day in a cross-country flight of more than 900 miles in connection with the Potlatch. A long-distance speedboat race, with a number of entries, was also scheduled to end a cruise from Vancouver, B. C. to Seattle in the local harbor this afternoon.

NEW CHARTER FOR CINCINNATI.

By United Press.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 14.—This city to-day voted on a new charter, drafted under the constitutional amendment giving Ohio cities home rule.

The charter is progressive, but not radical. It provides for the Federal form of government, the election of a mayor and 15 councilmen-at-large. Under it the Mayor appoints all other officers except a director of finance, who is named by the Council. The term of office for all is fixed at four years, elective officers being subject to recall after one year in office. Initiative and referendum are also provided.

WILSON OR ANTI-WILSON CONTROL AT EL PASO?

By United Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 15.—A struggle on the part of the Wilson and anti-Wilson Democrats of Texas to control proxies to the El Paso convention on August 11 was forecasted by the report that former Senator J. W. Bailey was coming to his home State to vote in the July primaries and remain until after the convention. Bailey may lead a fight for the adoption of a resolution criticizing the National administration, it is reported.

Another significant trend in the gubernatorial campaign is said to be the lining up of "administration" influence for Col. Thomas H. Bail, prohibition candidate for the nomination for Governor. However, the political "dope" is somewhat mixed because Bailey, a bitter critic of Wilson, has come out for Bail. It is pointed out, on the other hand, that Bailey thus paid a personal debt to Bail, and is guilty of no inconsistency in also opposing Wilson.

MILLIONS IN SKUNKS—CAN YOU BEAT IT?

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—Just common skunks are worth $2,000,000 annually to trappers in the United States.

Their fur is regarded in Europe as equal to, and in some places better than, the Russian sable.

And still only thirteen states protect the animal by game laws.

These facts are emphasized by the United States Department of Agriculture, which has just issued a bulletin on the "Economic Value of North American Skunks." The states are: Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont and North Carolina.

In 1911, the Department declares, 2,000,000 skunk skins were sold, by American trappers in London. Many of these skins, the Department says, are dyed and shipped back to the United States and sold to American women as "black marten" or "Alaska Sable."

IT'S ALL BUNK, BUT—

By United Press.

July 15.—To-day is St. Swithin's Day. Nine hundred and forty-three years ago some one wrote the following verse about St. Swithin's Day: "St. Swithin's Day, if thou dost rain, For forty days it will remain; St. Swithin's Day, if thou be fair, For forty days 'twill rain nae mair." Washington weather sharps—the official Weather Bureau men—have demonstrated by statistics that this forty-day thing is all bunk. They can prove definitely that when St. Swithin's day "rained," as the poem has it, the next forty days scored heavily on the "fair" side—at least since the Weather Bureau was established. But the weather man is well-known for his inaccuracy, and to-day is St. Swithin's Day. Keep an eye on the weather.

GIRLHOOD.

From Collier's Weekly.
Psychologists have scrutinized it, philosophers have discoursed upon it, cynics have sneered at it, bigots have thundered against it, artists have painted it, poets have rhapsodized over it. Yet no one has ever completely caught it—this radiant girlhood. And naturally enough, for it is the most intangible and fleeting hour in all life.

It marks the passing forever of the days of dear mud pies and dolls. And a great poet has hinted that with the relinquishment of childhood come the shades of the prison house. But was he not wrong? Is not rather this young girlhood the span which seems to catch and mingle for one magic instant the unreasoning blitheness of childhood with the tenderness of maturity? And the vivid and vital young girl herself—what shall be said of her? Shall one emphasize the more external details—the lengthening of dress, and the looping up of hair, or the host of interchanged confidences with girl friends, or the comradeships with boys which now suddenly become tinged with all manner of moonshine and innocent coquetry, or the romantic dreams, or the first actual romance—in truth, a passing trifle, but filling the sky for a moment and never quite forgotten?

No one of these will make the picture. It needs a little of all. Neither poet nor pedant can analyze the fragrant charm of girlhood, and in that very fact lies the secret of its charm. Surely here is the quintessence of all living beauty, this golden instant when the dreams of youth come their nearest to fulfillment. By the mere sight of it the whole workaday world is enriched.

BALL OR FERGUSON FOR GOVERNOR.

I have read many slanderous reports against Colonel Ball. His friends say that he is as pure a man as lives, and it is evident he has superior ability if it is true that he has drawn a salary of $20,000 a year.

I wish that Colonel Ball had seen fit to withdraw from the Houston Club; however, I shall vote for him. He fought for prohibition in 1887—at a time when every United States Senator was against it, and every Congressman save C. A. Culberson and S. W. T. Lanham. He has fought for it ever since.

Colonel Ball is pledged to prohibition now. If the Legislature does not happen to be willing to "submit," Mr. Ball says he will use every means in his power to make it so warm for the saloon people that breweries will be crying out to let the people vote. With the "sealed package law" and other means at hand, this able lawyer could make it very warm for liquor interests.

Jim Ferguson cries out for "political peace." He is sworn to veto any saloon legislation. He overlooks the fact that Texas cannot have industrial peace when the cause which is responsible for a greater part of our court costs in prosecution of crime, the cost of insane asylums, jails and penitentiaries, as well as the cost of sickness and poverty, remain. The saloon causes that. We must get rid of the saloon, and then we must make a long fight to see that prohibition laws are enforced.

Again, we want to ask: Is it true

IT'S A GOOD LETTER AFTER ALL.

Someone has advanced the opinion that the letter "e" is the most unfortunate letter in the English alphabet, because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time. For some reason, he overlooked the fortunes of the letter, as we call his attention to the fact "e" is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect and without it there could be no editors, devils nor news.—Fourth Estate.

SENATOR H. B. TERRELL

OF WACO.

CANDIDATE FOR COMPTROLLER OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

Mr. Terrell is a native Texas, having been born on a farm near Alto, Cherokee County, in 1869. In 1890 he settled on a farm in McLennan County, where he was engaged in actual farm life until 1900, when he was elected to the 27th Legislature. He was returned to the 28th, 29th and 30th Legislatures. At the close of the 30th Legislature he was elected to the State Senate from the Eleventh District, composed of McLennan, Falls and Milam Counties, and re-elected to that office in 1912. At the close of his first term in the Senate he was elected President pro-tem of that body, the highest compliment that can be paid a member.

Senator Terrell has been one of the recognized leaders of the Senate for a number of years, having served the people of his district continuously for the past fourteen years. As a candidate for Comptroller of Public Accounts Mr. Terrell promises the people a business administration of the Comptroller's Department, for he declares in his announcement that "if honored by the Democracy of Texas at the coming election, I here and now pledge myself to use every means at my command and all the power with which the office is vested by the Legislature, in the strict enforcement of every law over which the Comptroller's Department has supervision to the end that the people and society are given that protection intended by the framers of the constitution and the law making bodies of the State."

FORD HELPS ELECTRIC LIGHT GENERATING CO.

DETROIT, Mich., July 15.—In the city of Detroit is a large and successful public utilities corporation which generates and sells electric current for light and power. It is said that electricity may be bought cheaper there than in any city of its size in the United States. This is a good thing for the city, as cheap power is a magnet of remarkable pull, which draws manufacturers, large and small, in droves. It is also good for the company, as its product finds a ready market.

The Edison Company is guided by an able and far-seeing management, who have placed it in a commanding position. As new apparatus has been added to meet the demands of a community of phenomenal growth, it has become the policy of the company to standardize its equipment.

Such a concern cannot afford to take chances on a long-continued shutdown of its machinery, and it is compelled to carry a number of spare parts to replace those that become broken or worn out. This stock of spare parts is reduced to a minimum, however, by the policy of standardizing the equipment, and the money saved in this way is one of the items which make it possible to sell current at a low rate.

When automobile equipment was installed, the management naturally selected the Ford as the standard for certain kinds of work. Out of 108 cars of all descriptions, including trucks, owned by the corporation, 43 are Fords, twelve of them purchased since the first of the year.

The already great number of small customers of the company is being daily increased by the efforts of a dozen solicitors traveling in Fords. The salesmen are assisted in their work by a corps of engineers, whose business it is to make tests and report to prospective customers the advantages of installing electric current for power. Here, again, the Fords come in, as the instruments carried by these men often weigh as much as the man himself. There are thousands of customers in various sections of the city and their electric apparatus requires the attention of a staff of "trouble men" hurrying about in Fords. Foremen of various departments are often called out on the job, and must get there quickly. Without the Ford, the company would be unable to keep pace with the growth of the city.

CUMMINS DOMINATES REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

By United Press.
DES MOINES, Iowa, July 15.—Paul E. Stillman, former speaker of the Iowa House and an editor, sounded the keynote at the Republican State Convention here to-day. United States Senator A. B. Cummins dominated the gathering, and the platform will be written by his friends. It will also endorse the administration of Governor George W. Clarke, candidate for re-election.

PERSONALITY AND POSITION.

Will a man leave a situation paying him $20,000 a year in order that he may accept one with an income of only $4,000 a year?

That is the salary Colonel Ball is credited with having received from the railroad companies. His enemies are making political capital out of it. The corporations have fathered Colonel Ball's reconsideration of his refusal to become candidate, his opponents say, and in his election they profess to see the hideous form of corporate greed.

In order to understand the motives impelling a man to give up $20,000 and accept one-fifth that amount, one must know the motives which influence conduct.

Is money the sole aim of man? Is position his goal? Will a man sell his honor for pelf?

That is what they are saying of Colonel Ball.

The records show numerous instances of men having made financial sacrifice in order to serve an ideal. An old professor of ours refused a position at $2,500 a year, continuing his work on a salary of $1,800 a year. Why? That man felt that DUTY called him to his post.

Self expression is the great impelling influence. Successful business men have found that clerks given a chance for "self expression" frequently turn down larger salaries to continue their present work. Men have always sacrificed large salaries or personal wealth to the call of their nation. After all, "helpfulness" is the biggest thing in life, and man recognizes that "He who would be greatest among you—let him be your servant."

A record of 25 years' efficient citizenship by Colonel Ball makes this claim ridiculous.

Texas needs for Governor the man whose record shows most faithful service and largest capability.

Political charlatans have played too large a part in the campaigns of both Ball and Ferguson.

GREAT IS TEXAS!

Imperial Texas boasts 267,000 square miles of land, a few rocks and considerable water. Her coast line is nearly a thousand miles long. Her climate is so diverse that our teachers used to tell us, "Build a wall around Texas, and we could all live in comfort!"

The small boy gasped when he was told that all the people in the continents and islands of the sea could be placed in Texas and each one have 4 square feet for elbow room.

Ask yourself the question—how many people could subsist comfortably upon the land which Texans permit to grow up in weeds? How many dollars might be harvested on the land we pretend to till if we applied simply good common sense and hard work to the crops we grow?

How great would Imperial Texas be if we were as thrifty as the German, as insistently busy as the Jap, as honestly fair with the soil as we want God and the elements to be with us?

You are tired hearing that Texas imports pork to the value of $24,000,000 a year. That isn't all. Texans buy $5,000,000 worth of dairy products—butter, cheese, condensed milk—from neighbors across the line. We buy that much hay, grain, poultry products from other states.

Japan supports 67,000,000 people on an area no larger than Texas. We may support five times as many people as now live in our State.

Texas is imperial in extent, in history, in noble men and women. Texans ought to be ashamed that it is necessary for us to import nearly $10 worth of pork, butter, eggs and vegetables for every man, woman and child in the State.

Imperial Texas challenges South Plains farmers to supply this $40,000,000 of hogs, butter, eggs and feed stuffs. Intelligent farming and incessant effort will enable us to do it.

SUDAN GRASS OFFERS GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR TEXAS FARMERS.

New Crop Introduced by Experiment Stations in Great Demand by Forage Growers.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, July 16.—Texas has gone wild over Sudan grass. From a total acreage of about 100 last year to more than 1,300 this year planted to this grass is the record made in one year by Sudan grass. Seed were placed on the market last winter and this past spring and sold readily for from $1.50 to $2.50 per pound.

Sudan grass was introduced into the United States in 1909 by the United States Department of Agriculture. A. B. Conner, now agronomist at the State Experiment Station at Agricultural and Mechanical College, at that time in charge of a forage crop testing station conducted co-operatively at Chillicothe by the United States Department and the State system of stations, brought some of the seed to Texas. The grass thrived. In the fall of 1912, however, the Texas experiment station system, under direction of B. Youngblood, obtained a quantity of Sudan grass seed and planted this grass at the stations located at Denton, Lubbock, Temple, Nacogdoches, Spur and College Station, giving a wide variety in soil type and in climatic conditions.

Is Valuable Crop.

The grass made wonderful records, both from the standpoint of hay and seed production, and in spite of drought proved a money-making crop. Mr. Youngblood at once saw that the grass was peculiarly adapted to Texas conditions, and urged that it be planted. Seed were scattered through the experiment associations, and farmers living near the various sub-stations were given pure bred seed and instructions as to how to plant and cultivate the grass. Last year wonderful records were made and an insistent demand was made for seed. Those farmers who had planted the seed given to them by the experiment station realized from $300 to $500 per acre off their seed, in addition to from three to five tons of good hay.

This year's acreage has passed the 1,300 mark, and already growers of the grass have contracted to sell thousands of pounds of their seed at $1 and $1.50 per pound. D. B. Crakson, of Robstown, put in 350 acres. Charles Felker, of Hockley, 100 acres, and there are other farmers who have planted a large number of acres to the grass.

Is Hardy Growth.

"Sudan grass goes a long ways toward solving the forage problems," said Mr. Youngblood in discussing the grass. "It has given exceptional yields of fine hay at all places where it has been tried, and the yield of seed has been good also. Drought seems to affect it but little, and there is no danger of it being drowned by too much rain. It is thought to be the wild, original form of cultivated sorghum. Under average conditions it reaches a height of five feet.

"The stems are small and somewhat more leafy than Johnson grass. It is readily cured into hay fully equal in feeding value to Johnson grass hay. It is very similar in appearance to Johnson grass, but is entirely distinct, being an annual and therefore dying out each year. It lacks the underground root stock that marks the Johnson grass, and so produces a greater top growth than Johnson grass. It may be cut one or more times a year for hay, depending on the rainfall. At the Chillicothe station, a semi-arid region, four cuttings were made in one season averaging a ton per cutting. After the first cutting about thirty days are necessary, under favorable conditions, for the second crop. The seed yield is about ten bushels per acre, the seed weighing about thirty-two pounds per bushel."

Must Guard Against Sorghum.

The grass crosses very readily with cultivated varieties of sorghum, and for that reason should not be planted close to that crop. Careful rouging of the field to make the seed pure bred is urged by Mr. Youngblood. This week Mr. Youngblood and Mr. Conner will visit a number of the Sudan grass farms and will give certificates to the pure breeds of the grass.

Mr. Youngblood predicts even a wider demand for the grass. It is the common-sense crop, he says, and the grass will be grown widely in Texas as well as in the entire Southwest.

"Of course we are proud of the grass and are partial to it because we brought it into Texas. But the most pleasing part of it all is that those who have tried it are clamoring for more seed and are putting in a larger acreage each year," is the enthusiastic statement of Mr. Youngblood.

A. & M. COLLEGE NOTES.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, July 15.—In reply to an inquiry concerning horses teeth. Prof. J. C. Burns, Professor of Animal Husbandry, A. & M. College of Texas, says: "It often happens that, even though horses are getting a sufficient quantity of the right kind of feed, they do not do well on account of bad teeth. The teeth should be examined at least twice a year. Any sharp projections on the grinders should be removed by the means of a rasp made for this purpose. Many horses suffer a great deal due to sharp projections on the teeth. The removal of the same by means of a file or rasp, is called "floating." Unless these rough projections are removed horses cannot masticate their food properly, and, therefore, often remain thin and fail to do well. I would suggest, therefore, that you examine your horses' teeth, and if they need "floating" it would be well to call in a veterinarian, if you haven't the means of doing it yourself.

"The proportion by weight of 4 parts of oats, 4 parts of corn and 1 1/2 parts of cotton seed meal, fed in connection with sorghum or prairie hay of good quality, affords an excellent ration for work horses. A horse doing from medium to hard work should receive from 1 to 1 1/4 pounds of the mixture of concentrates and about 1 to 1 1/2 pounds of prairie hay per 100 pounds of live weight per day. Thus a thousand-pound horse should receive from 10 to 12 1/2 pounds of the corn-oats-cotton seed meal mixture and from 10 to 12 1/2 pounds of hay per day when doing steady work."

BALD-HEADED FACTS FOR LONG-HAIRED PEOPLE.

A Red-Hot July Article in Which the Harpoon Readers Are Given Some True Inside History That Fully Explains Why the Political Bosses Put Up a Big Corporation Lawyer to Head the Pro Ticket.

From K. Lamity's Harpoon.

Before the next issue of the Harpoon goes to press, a new Governor of Texas will have been selected by the sovereign people of this great State. For over thirty years I have been an interested participant in every State election held in Texas, and, with one exception, I have never witnessed a gubernatorial contest so bitterly (and I might add, unscrupulously) waged against an aspirant for high office as is being perpetuated by the combined forces now opposed to James E. Ferguson. This one exception was when the "same old gang" formed a similar coalition—or conspiracy—to defeat the great champion of Texas Democracy—the immortal James Stephen Hogg. Jim Hogg thrashed them until they yelped like whipped curs, and Jim Ferguson is going to repeat the dose. Listen, and you'll hear 'em howl.

I have never been a politician, and never will be. I have never run for any office, although, as a young lawyer, I was elected attorney of a flourishing little city when I was 50 miles from that town on election day, and knew nothing of the outrage being perpetrated upon me until several days later. Of course, I refused to qualify, and the matter passed off without bloodshed after I had failed to find a single man who would dare to acknowledge that he had voted for me.

During the Hogg-Clark campaign, I was owner and editor of a paper that supported the people's friend, with all the vigor of which I was capable.

I received no fee, and wanted none, for I honestly believed I was working in the interest of the people of Texas.

I knew Jim Hogg was honest, sincere, and competent.

I knew that there was not enough red gold coined in the United States to ever swerve that great patriot one hair's breadth from what he conceived to be his duty to the people he loved so well.

I knew that no clique, clan, or combination of interests would ever succeed in exerting even a partial control of the Ship of State with that big, honest, stalwart pilot at the wheel.

And, bless the Lord, they never did. He lived and died an honest man.

And the same identical reasons which induced me to lend my feeble aid in the behalf of Jim Hogg's candidacy, prompts me to do all in my power to assist in the election of Jim Ferguson.

I have known Jim Ferguson from boyhood.

We grew up within a stone's throw of each other's homes.

I know him to be honest, sincere, patriotic and pre-eminently competent.

I was born poor—and still keep up the reputation of the family along that line.

Jim was also born poor, but, being far more industrious, and a prenominal business man, he has succeeded in earning and saving a moderate fortune.

Personally, I do not envy him the just reward of his many years of hard work and sensible economy—although the very fact that he has made a success by his own efforts seems to be a crime in the eyes of a lot of people who are viciously opposing him.

While the custom has been for gubernatorial candidates to have their expenses paid by the contributions of men with "dull axes," I really like the idea of a candidate for Governor paying his own bills—and occupying the Governor's chair without being plastered all over with "obligations" to a gang of interested individuals.

When a man pays his money to elect a Governor, said Governor is in honor bound to favor that man in every manner possible.

If he does not do so, he is an ingrate—if nothing worse.

But let me tell you—there are other reasons than those enumerated, which would cause me to endorse Jim Ferguson in his race for Governor—reasons so strong—so all-powerful—that I would feel I was recreant to the welfare of the State that gave me birth if I did not heed them.

It is a fact well known to every sane man in Texas, that for years the people—I mean the common, ordinary, laboring people—have been given anything but a fair, square deal. Of course, they have lived—and toiled—and managed to keep soul and body together—but the man who says they have had a reasonable reward for their labor is a liar or a fool—doubtless both.

The country has been prosperous—the crops fair—and as a consequence the men and women who have created all this wealth ought to be in comfortable circumstances.

But they are not. Let me tell you—if you don't already know.

Through manipulation, and legislation, it has been flowing in a steady and constantly-increasing stream into the steel-bound vaults of the trusts, corporations and combined interests. And, believe me, it will continue to flow until the great masses of the people—the men who have to earn their daily bread by hard work—rise up in their might and demand justice—and public officials who are not controlled body and soul by the trusts.

Where is the strength of the opposition to Ferguson?

What class of people are putting up the money, controlling the numerous, infamous and palpable lies against him?

From whence emanates the many silly and villainous slanders which you see printed each day—only to be proven lies before the sun sets?

It does not require the aid of a detective to locate their source. They originate from the headquarters of the same old gang of political bosses whose stock in trade is deception, and are paid for by the corporations that have robbed the masses since the Civil War.

These same lies and slanders, or similar ones, always pop up the very moment that a man like Jim Hogg or Jim Ferguson rise up in the ranks of the people and dare to oppose the political ambitions of one of these high-sealing Colonels.

In their egotism, they don't believe that the ordinary, common citizen really knows what he does want—and it makes them as hot as — when he dares to oppose them by voting for the man of his choice.

As usual, the very first thing these big political bosses do, is to try and deceive the people by presenting a sham issue—erecting a straw man, and trying to pitch the battle along any old line that will hide their real intentions.

In this instance it was prohibition.

They had worked this scheme from every angle before, and knew it was one question that would raise more smoke and feathers and enthusiastic excitement than any other proposition at hand.

Before going further, I desire to state that the little gang of political bosses who formed the conspiracy to nominate Tom Ball for Governor didn't give a corrugated whoop in hades for prohibition or anti-prohibition.

All they wanted on God's green earth was to raise some question that would excite the masses, get them to fighting, and land in the important offices men who would protect the "interests" at all hazards.

They do not doubt but what Tom Ball, if elected Governor, would see that the railways, the big lumber and other interests would be safe.

He "knows his master's voice"—and had known it for twenty years at $20,000 per.

Hadn't he defended them in every instance against the people?

Was it likely that he would fail to do the same thing if elected Governor?

Is it reasonable to suppose that the man who has been paid $20,000 per year for twenty years would voluntarily resign the position—accept another job at $4,000 per year—just in order to aid the poor, downtrodden laboring masses?

During all these years a continuous fight has been waged between the people and these same corporations.

All these years Tom Ball has faced hundreds of juries, looked them square in the eyes, and assured them his clients were right, and the people were wrong.

Why did he so suddenly hop off the palatial special palace car of the princely railway magnate—and jump head-first into the rough-jolting cheap wagon of the hickory-shirted farmer?

Had the corporations been only paying him $4,000 per year for twenty years, and the farmer was offering $20,000 per year—I could readily understand why he quit so suddenly and changed vehicles. Couldn't you?

Let me tell you, boys—there is something rotten up the creek. Honest—it's about the silliest, and most ridiculous proposition I have ever seen put up to the people of Texas. I wonder what that gang takes us for, anyway.

There is one reasonable solution of the proposition, and no other will apply. They are fools—or think the people are fools. Just wait until after the 25th of July, and see if they have guessed correctly.

When the political bosses succeeded in eliminating every real, genuine pro candidate, and nominated Tom Ball—the true and tried defender of the corporations—a lot of the old-time pros began to sit up and take notice. Somehow or other they could not understand the game, but they sawed wood and waited further developments.

There were among the ranks of the pros—outside of the avowed candidates—hundreds of true, honest, sincere and capable men—men absolutely free from all entangling alliances—and who, if nominated, would have put up a mighty hard fight.

Why were they cast aside—and the most prominent defender of corporate greed in Texas called from a $20,000-per-annum job to accept a $4,000 per year position?

The thing might be straight, but it looked crooked.

Developments came thick and fast. The gang rushed the nomination of Tom Ball without even asking him to commit himself to anything—except to say he believed in prohibition—even if he hadn't practiced it extensively!

Then came his famous Greenville speech.

It was a humdinger. I didn't know what the word humdinger meant until after I read Tom Ball's speech. It means the same thing as the words which the hand of Almighty God wrote in a blazing line across the plastered palace wall of the Babylonian King—"Mene, Mene, tekell Upharsin"—"Thou art weighed in the balance and found wanting."

I knew Tom Ball was beat for Governor just as soon as I read that Greenville speech, and his later utterances have added to that conviction.

Here was a man selected whose sole fitness to the nomination was the fact that he claimed to be a pro, and in his very first speech he absolutely disagreed with every vital claim the real pro had ever put forth.

Then I knew WHY HE WAS NOMINATED by the gang. It was because he could be relied upon—or at least they thought so.

Then as a finale—as a clincher to convince me that the men who engineered Tom Ball's nomination thought more of the welfare of the interests than they did of prohibition or anti-prohibition—it wasn't long until we find a lot of deserters leaving the anti side and diving head first into the Ball band wagon.

And who are they?

Practically every one of the most prominent deserters from the anti ranks are corporation attorneys, and politicians who have been maintaining questionable alliances with corporations for years. To my certain knowledge there are anti deserters in the Ball band wagon to-day who have been on the payroll of the corporations for years—while ostensibly they have been posing as the friend of the people—the laboring masses.

Some of them have been on the BREWERY PAYROLLS, but flopped to Ball at Joe Bailey's suggestion. Of course they deny it—but no one believes them—for that is the only logical conclusion unless they plead imbecility.

I had hoped that the Bailey proposition would be kept out of this fight, but it has been injected into it by the ex-Senator himself—so "On with the battle." The Democratic friends of Joe Bailey—both pro and anti—do not think it's any of his business to come into Texas and try to meddle in this fight, and they won't stand for it. No one objects or cares a blankety blank if he does control R. M. Johnston, Clarence Ousley and that clan of Bailey admirers. When Joe pulls the string, they always hop—and that's why they hopped into Ball's band wagon. Where one anti of that class hopped in, 50 pros hopped out—so let

WILSON GLAD BALL IS OUT FOR GOVERNOR.

HOUSTON, Texas, July 16.—Thomas H. Stone, Chairman of the South Texas Ball Campaign Committee, to-day gave out the following letter from President Wilson:

"WHITE HOUSE, Washington, July 16, 1914.

"My Dear Colonel Ball: "Some of your utterances in the present campaign in Texas have reached me, and I cannot let them go by without expressing to you my deep appreciation of the splendid and unequivocal way in which you are lending your support to the National administration. This is but a fresh evidence of what I have always deeply appreciated in your attitude toward me personally and towards my leadership of the party, but it gives me fresh pleasure and strengthens my feeling of gratitude and sincere friendship. The progressive forces of the country are at last gaining cohesion and irresistible force.

"Cordially and sincerely yours, "WOODROW WILSON." "Col. Thomas H. Ball, "Houston, Texas."

BONE SPLINTER LIFTED; MAN RECOVERS HONOR.

By United Press.

CANON CITY, Colo., July 11.—A splinter of bone, lifted from his brain, and Jeff Lee, prisoner in the State penitentiary here, has been transformed from a criminal maniac to an honest man. Still in his early twenties, the surgeon's knife has wrought a miracle that will send the young man into the world a free man in every sense of the world—free from the penalty of the law, and free, also, from the malign influence that made him a thief and all-around petty criminal.

A fall from a horse, when he was only fifteen, made of him a criminal, a vagrant and finally a maniac. The deft removal of the splinter of bone has relieved the pressure on the brain, that short-circuited the nerve currents and perverted the lad's impulses and acts.

Jeff Lee is the son of a wealthy Texas planter. He was a healthy, normal youth, with a good record in his studies, and with many friends. When he was fifteen, some of his boy friends dared him to ride an unruly horse. He accepted the challenge, and apparently conquered the beast after a sharp struggle. Then he invited one of his girl friends to accompany him for a ride. They rode off together, and, while they laughed and chatted, the horse, seeing an opportunity, suddenly reared and threw the youth. He was dashed violently to the ground, sustaining a fractured skull. He was taken home, and recovered, so far as his physical health was concerned.

He grew morose and sullen. Then he began seeking the company of the roughs of the neighborhood. Finally he was convicted on a charge of horse stealing. He was sent to the Texas penitentiary, and there he soon became versed in crime. When he was released from the Texas prison he came to Colorado, and soon became intimate with a criminal element. In a few months he was arrested on a charge of burglary. Lee was sentenced to from two to five years in the State prison. His second commitment seemed to prey on his mind. He showed signs of incipient insanity almost from the day of his entry, and within a few months was sent to the insane ward, having become apparently a total maniac, with spells of violence.

The surgeon of the penitentiary became interested in the case, and, believing that an operation would restore his reason and possibly eliminate his criminal tendencies, an effort was made to locate his relatives, so that their permission might be obtained. The prisoner, however, had concealed his true name, and for a time efforts were fruitless. Then one day a lucid interval came. Lee, recognizing his wretched plight, gave the names of his parents, and begged that the operation be performed. "I would rather die this minute than to go on living as a crook," he said. The parents gave their consent, and four months ago the operation was performed. When Lee recovered from the numbing effects of the anesthetic, he was sane. Daily he recovered strength and a clearer intellect. To-day he stands upright, with the straightforward gaze of the honest man. In a few months, when his minimum sentence expires, he will be released.

CONVICTS PARDONED.

Thirty convicts in the Texas State penitentiary have been told to "go their way and sin no more." These convicts, who were in advanced stages of tuberculosis, were pardoned by the Governor recently on condition that they be taken care of by their relatives.

How—the Rich Grow Richer

Don't Envy Them—Learn from Them

Did you think that rich men patronize a store because it carries expensive things, or through some foolish notion of "exclusiveness"? They don't--as a rule.

Rich men buy where they get the best values--not merely where they can spend the most money.

That's one of the reasons why they are rich--they know how and where to get their money's worth.

That's all there is to economy--getting full value, whatever you pay. A cut price does not make a bargain--an extra value does.

GOLDEN JUBILEE

FORMALLY OPENED.

By United Press.

DENVER, Colo., July 14.—With the formal opening of the fiftieth annual session of the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, the Golden Jubilee Reunion of that order is in full swing to-day. The last of the special trains from all sections of the country arrived during the night.

Late-slumbering members of the order were awakened at 9 o'clock this morning by the music of the Grand Lodge meeting. Many matters of vital interest to brother Elks of the country were taken up, but as the sessions are all secret nothing is known of what was done. On Thursday or Friday new Grand Lodge officers will be elected. It is almost certain that Raymond Benjamin, of Napa, California, will be elected Grand Exalted Ruler, as he has no serious opposition.

The afternoon was spent by the visitors in various forms of entertainment. The local Elks had provided plenty of dancing floors for the visiting brothers who delight in the tango, and all of these were crowded during the afternoon. Music has been provided for the dancers until midnight. To-night a large number of "stunts" have been provided, including the White-Yoakum 20-round fight.

LUBBOCK SUDAN GRASS ASSOCIATION FORMED.

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 13.—At a meeting of a large number of farmers Saturday, the Lubbock Sudan Grass Seed Association was formed. The purpose of this association is the marketing of Sudan seed, for which there is a great demand. In an immense territory Sudan grass is the only hay which will grow successfully. And the Lubbock growers plan to give the farmers of such sections a chance to get this seed at a fair price.

The following officers were chosen for the Association: President, L. O. Burford; Vice President, Dee Wheelock; Secretary, Geo. W. Briggs; Treasurer, J. E. Chase. Other members of the Executive Committee, E. J. Cowart and W. D. Crump.

LITTLE STORIES OF THE LONE STAR STATE.

By United Press.

Great was the fall of Santa Anna in those glorious days of the battle of San Jacinto, April, 1838, when Texas won her independence from Mexico. His fall was a lesson in overconfidence.

After the successes at San Patricio and the Sweetwater, the fall of the Alamo and the surrender of Fannin, Santa Anna was certain the war was over. He anticipated no trouble driving General Sam Houston out of Texas. But a month later Santa Anna was Houston's prisoner.

Texas probably never reached greater heights of patriotism than when Houston ordered the march against Santa Anna's picked force. It required a draft to find men to guard the sick who were left behind. Every man wished to go to meet the enemy, and hated to be left behind. The sick wept at being unable to fight.

Sam Houston made the most eloquent and soul-stirring speech of his life on the morning of April 19, when he paraded the troops and told them they were going to fight a well-equipped force of twice their number. "Remember Goliath! Remember the Alamo! Victory or Death! shall be our motto" Houston said. "There will be no retreat. There will be no defeat. Victory is as certain as God reigns. I feel the inspiration in every fiber of my being. Trust in the God of the just and fear not!"

Three days later Santa Anna was a prisoner. Texas was free.

LUBBOCK

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 11.—Editor Free Discussion Page: Jno. W. Baker is candidate for State Treasurer. Mr. Baker wants the office, and his friends want him to have it. But political ambitions do not entitle a man to office. The candidate ought to be worthy and well qualified. And when the people undertake to vote on a candidate they ought to be given as much information as possible concerning the life and character of the man, in order that they may vote intelligently as citizens. It is impossible to reach 700,000 voters in a personal way without great expense. Therefore, the people are dependent upon the public press to give them this information.

Jno. W. Baker is a clean, conscientious, Christian gentleman. A friend of his recently said of him: "Jno. W. Baker is one of the purest men I ever knew. Texas needs more men like him."

Mr. Baker was born and reared on a Texas farm; has been actively engaged in business for sixteen years, and has for several years been President of the First National Bank of Lubbock, although Mr. Baker is only a nominal stockholder. It was his character and not his money that placed him at the head of this institution.

Mr. Baker is a Prohibition candidate for State Treasurer. He makes no secret of his politics; he is not a fence rider. His position on every issue is open and positive. I feel like it is my duty to make these statements concerning my friend and neighbor, Mr. Baker, because I believe the people are entitled to know something about him.

Yours very truly,
ROSCOE WILSON.

FROM PRESIDENT OF SOUTHERN DRUG CO.

Thomas H. Stone, Chairman, South Texas Ball Campaign Committee, Houston, Texas.

HOUSTON, Texas, July 15.—Dear Sir: You have again called my attention to the fact that Governor Colquitt is not yet satisfied with my previous statement with respect to Colonel Ball's connection with the Southern Drug Company. You have submitted to me Governor Colquitt's open letter to you, wherein he makes certain statements with reference to the fact that the Southern Drug Company dispenses alcoholic liquors.

The original matter about which I wrote you was with respect to "Bavarian Malt Extract." I stated in that letter to you that we had never solicited for sale "Bavarian Malt Extract"; that we had never purchased a bottle of "Bavarian Malt Extract," and had never sold a bottle of the same, nor have we ever received directly or indirectly one cent from the sale of this extract from any other person.

It seems now that the controversy has shifted from "Bavarian Malt Extract" to the dispensation of alcoholic liquors.

The Southern Drug Company is a wholesale drug house. You know, and the Governor of Texas should know, that alcohol is the base of practically all pharmaceutical liquids. You know, and the Governor of Texas should know, that most retail druggists prepare many of their pharmaceutical liquids, and, in order to make these preparations, alcohol is indispensable. It would be as impossible to make spirits of camphor without alcohol as it would be to make it without camphor gum.

It may be of interest to the Governor, and perhaps to some of the voters of Texas, to know that, since the organization of the Southern Drug Company, in 1906, a careful auditing of our books shows that the Southern Drug Company has sold alcohol for medical purposes, hospital uses, etc., at a net loss to it. We have never derived one cent of net profit from the sale of alcohol, medicinal wines, cordials, brandies, etc., or any liquors of any character requiring a wholesale liquor license. In the sale of alcohol and alcoholic liquors we have only done that which a general wholesale druggist does— which is to supply to the retail customers such liquors for lawful uses.

This feature of our business—a burden financially and otherwise which we could not well escape—is not now and never has been, nor is it our purpose or desire that it shall ever be, a source of net profit to us.

It may be of interest to Governor Colquitt and to other interested voters in Texas to know that the capitalization of the Southern Drug Company is $150,000—par value of the shares $100. Mr. Ball owns 10 shares, in amount of $1,000, of stock in the Southern Drug Company. A hurried calculation will show that his interest in the Southern Drug Company is 1-150th, or two-thirds of one per cent.

If Governor Colquitt or any other man questions the accuracy of my statement herein made, I offer to him or them (if reputable citizens) the opportunity of auditing my books, in conjunction with myself, to the end that my integrity of purpose and statement may or may not be substantiated. Respectfully,
E. B. GILMER,
President Southern Drug Company.

LITTLEFIELD

Special to The Herald
LITTLEFIELD, Lamb County, Tex., July 15.—Another splendid irrigation well has just been brought in here, by T. P. Wright. It is located just across the railroad east from town, on a high point. The effort was made at this particular place to develop a well furnishing at least 500 gallons per minute out of the first water stratum, and it has proven successful. The well gives prospect of pumping 700 to 800 gallons per minute. The shallow depth, size pump used and consequent small engine required reduces the price of irrigation wells materially, and it is believed that this particular type of well will be very popular in future.

M. E. MISSIONARY NOTES.

The Ladies' Missionary Society met Monday, with the usual faithful officers in their places. A pleasing program was rendered.

The Press Reporter gave a few notes on China and our missionary, Miss Shelton. Brother Barnes gave an interesting talk, which was enjoyed by all.

The addresses by Mesdames Shropshire and Houston were appreciated. Several other ladies made animated and beneficial talks.

The beautiful song by Mrs. Pritchett was appreciated, and we hope that this will not be the last.

It was decided to have on Monday, July 20th, a "get-acquainted" meeting on the lawn on the east side of the church. All member and friends are invited.

Faithfully,
PRESS REPORTER.

TEXAS NEEDS MORE PIG PENS.

Special to The Herald
FORT WORTH, Texas, July 15.—Fifty carloads of hogs will be shipped into Texas every day for the next several months, according to a contract signed to-day between local packers and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Company. The hogs will be assembled in Omaha, Nebraska, and shipped to the Fort Worth market for slaughter. This arrangement was necessary in order to supply the Texas demand. It is claimed by local packers that while the supply of hog meat has materially increased during the past year, it has not kept pace with the rapidly increasing demand.

The annual pork production of Texas is valued at $22,512,000, while the yearly consumption is worth $46,500,000, leaving $24,000,000 worth of pork and products, which are shipped in from other states each year. Texas ranks seventh in the production of hogs, but is one of the leading pork-consuming states of the Union.

RELIGIOUS DEBATE

AT FLUVANNA.

Special to The Herald
FLUVANNA, Texas, July 15.—Great interest is being taken in the approaching debate between Elder C. R. Nichol, of the Church of Christ, and Rev. B. W. Dodson, of the Methodist Church. This discussion will last four days (July 21 to July 24), and will have two and maybe three sessions per day. "The Mode of Baptism" and "Infant Baptism" will be discussed on Thursday and Friday, July 23 and 24. Both men are strong debaters, and a great discussion is expected.
