WALLER TAILORING COMPANY HOST FOR MERCHANTS' ASS'N.

Interesting Speeches on Timely Subjects Make Second Get-Together Meet Good.

Tuesday evening, at their place of business, the Waller Tailoring Company entertained the members of the Retail Merchants' Association with an informal banquet.

E. B. Miller was toastmaster, and the following program proved interesting:

"Our Problems of Trade Extension"—Charles Reinken.

"Co-operation in Publicity"—H. S. Hilburn.

"Credit Demands on the New Merchant"—Paul Pierson.

"Entertaining the Stranger"—J. M. Oakes.

"Mail-Order Competition"—C. R. Houston.

Team From Yellow City Gets Two Runs in Tenth Inning, Defeating Locals.

The baseball game this afternoon between Seth Ward College and Amarillo Military Academy, at the Wayland College athletic field, was anybody's game until the close.

At the end of the tenth inning the score stood three to one in favor of the visiting team. This inning opened with the score tied.

Tilson, of Seth Ward, showed some rare ability. He seems to have a knack for getting into holes and pulling out. Yesterday's game was no exception. He seems absolutely indifferent until a pinch play comes, and then usually has luck in pulling through. By taking advantage of a pinch situation the Amarillo players won from him this afternoon.

Amarillo secured ten hits, made four errors and is credited with three runs. Seth Ward made four clean hits, as many errors as the visitors, and one run.

The lineup was:

Seth Ward.

Glenn, 2b; Whitworth, c; Earp, 3b; Randolph, ss; Kiker, rf; Perdue, 1b; Pritchett, lf; Tilson, p; Dunaway, if.

Amarillo Military Academy.

Potts, 3b; Hinds, 2b and 1b; Buckingham, p and 1b; Roark, ss; Brown, c; Charlton, rf; Largent, lf; Brahan, ss; Preasley, 1b and pitcher.

Wayland College and Amarillo Military Academy will play Saturday afternoon, at the Wayland field.

ABERNATHY LADY WINS PRIZE FOR BEST RECIPE.

Mrs. C. H. Bucks Will Receive Choice of Magazines for One Year.

The committee on awards gave the prize for the best recipe in Tuesday's Herald to Mrs. C. H. Bucks, of Abernathy. The recipe is for old-fashioned drop dumplings.

It follows:
Butter size of an egg.
3 dessert spoons flour.
1 scant teaspoon baking powder.
1 egg.
1 teaspoon of milk.

Sieve the baking powder and flour together; melt the butter in a sauce pan, stir the flour and baking powder in it, add the milk, and cook till smooth. Then beat the eggs, off of the fire.

This is fine on a stew or peas or kraut. When the stew is done and gravy thickened, drop the dumplings, on by teaspoonfuls, cover tight and let simmer for twenty or thirty minutes; then serve. This is also fine cooked in a casserole.

CITY COUNCIL ACCEPTS NEW AUTO FIRE PUMPER

Pays Eight Thousand Dollars; Two Thousand Cash, Balance in Paper at Six Per Cent.

At a called session of the City Council tonight the big American-LaFrance auto fire truck and pumper was accepted. Plainview pays eight thousand dollars for the truck, two thousand dollars cash and four notes for fifteen hundred dollars each due in one, two, three and four years and bearing interest at the rate of six per cent.

George Meads, a factory representative of the American-LaFrance Company, has been here since the first of the week, from Elmira, N. Y., demonstrating the new truck.

Yesterday afternoon tests were conducted. An alarm was sounded and a test given to see whether the horse-drawn truck now in use was quicker than the auto truck on short runs. The auto had sixty feet further to go and newly graded roads to traverse, but proved the quicker by several seconds. There can be no comparison on long runs.

The City Council watched the pumper work under various conditions. The following tests were recorded from official measurements:

With three lines the pumper delivered, at a pump pressure of 140 pounds, seven hundred twenty-five gallons of water per minute. With one seven-eighths-inch nozzle and one one-inch nozzle seven hundred gallons were delivered with a pump pressure of 120 pounds. From one two-inch nozzle, with forty pounds pressure on the mains and one hundred pounds pump pressure, the pumper delivered seven hundred sixty gallons per minute at a height equal to that at which the standpipe pressure will deliver water from a small nozzle. Delivering water from three lines into one nozzle the pumper threw water over the court house. The stream could be directed to almost any point of the roof at will.

Tests as to the pulling power of the truck through mud were made, and the adaptability of the machine to all kinds of street conditions was clearly demonstrated.

The new truck is a type 12 American-LaFrance, one of the best standard combination truck and pumper machines manufactured. The six-cylinder motor has a horsepower of 105. It is started by a Gray & Davis electric starter, and has an electric heater. The pumper is guaranteed to deliver seven hundred gallons of water per minute.

The car carries a forty-gallon chemical engine and two three-gallon hand extinguishers. The ladder equipment was designed especially for Plainview's requirements. It consists of one twenty-foot extension ladder, one twenty-four-foot extension ladder, one thirty-foot extension ladder and three sections, and one twelve-foot roof ladder.

The body has capacity for carrying twelve hundred fifty feet of two and one-half inch hose.

Many Texas towns of the small-city class and cities have installed these trucks. Amarillo has one, El Paso two, Dallas one, Fort Worth one, Waxahachie one, Corsicana one, Corpus Christi one, Houston one, Ennis one, and Albuquerque, N. M., two.

OBREGON NOW OCCUPIES A FORMER VILLA BASE.

Battle Between Opposing Mexican Armies Expected at Francisco, a Strong Position Held by Villa.

EL PASO, Texas, April 21.—An official report received today from General Obregon, by way of Vera Cruz, says his troops had occupied Irapuato, Villa's abandoned base, in the central Mexican campaign. It was doubted by observers here whether Obregon would move his entire force to Irapuato, which is said to be almost impossible to defend.

This fiercer doubtless caused Villa's retreat to Aguas Calientes. The next battle probably will occur at Francisco, a station between Aguas Calientes and Irapuato. This town, at present held by the Villa forces, lies in a nook of hills forming a strong natural fortification.

ROOSEVELT TAKES STAND IN BARNES LIBEL SUIT

Ex-President Tells What He Terms "Inside Story" of New York Machine Politics.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 21.—Theodore Roosevelt spent five hours on the witness stand in the Supreme Court here today in the telling of what he said he believed to be the inside story of machine politics and boss rule in New York State.

By so doing the former President hoped to convey to the jury which is trying the suit William Barnes brought against him for alleged libel, the impression that he was entirely justified in criticizing Mr. Barnes as he did.

He swore that he had been reliably informed that the "Murphy Democrats" and the "Barnes Republicans," the latter under the leadership of Mr. Barnes, united on more than one occasion to defeat the plans of independent men on both parties in the State Legislature.

And Mr. Barnes told William Loeb, Jr., the witness emphatically declared, that he had an ironclad agreement with Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall to allow the latter a free hand to select a United States Senator. Mr. Loeb was private secretary to Colonel Roosevelt when he was President, and later he was collector of the port of New York.

Dealings With Senator Platt.

The witness told in great detail of his dealings with the late Senator Platt, the man he had described as the "easy boss." Platt, the Colonel asserted, attempted to dictate the man he, as Governor of the State of New York, should appoint to be superintendent of public works.

But, said Colonel Roosevelt, with a considerable display of pride, when he told Mr. Barnes of the conversation he added that he didn't intend any man should say who he should appoint to office. Mr. Barnes, however, sided with Mr. Platt, saying that the leader of the organization should have complete control of it, the witness swore.

The Colonel gave what he represented to be the details of his conversation with, and what he had been informed were the actions of Mr. Barnes in regard to direct primaries legislation, race track legislation and opposition on the part of the Republican machine to Governor Hughes.

He related, too, the information former Governor Sulzer and his investigator, John A. Hennessy, gave him regarding alleged corruption in certain state departments. And, as a conclusion, he denied that he held any malice toward Mr. Barnes, and added that he considered he was championing the cause of good government against bi-partisan boss rule when he caused the publication of the offending statement.

TURKS LOSE 2500 MEN IN FIGHT WITH BRITISH

ENGLISH DRIVE MOHAMMEDANS TO HILLS IN HAFIZKOR, INFLECTING LOSSES.

LONDON, April 22.—The Indian office today reported that the British are fighting Moslem fanatics in Hafizkor and Turks in Sicao. The report says that complete British victories are resulting in both places.

Reply to Bernstorff.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—The United States Government replied today to the recent memorandum in which Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, declared that "if the American people desire to observe true neutrality, they will find means to stop the exclusive importation of arms to one side, or at least to use this export trade as a means to uphold the legitimate trade with Germany, especially the trade in foodstuffs."

The American note, which is signed by Secretary Bryan, was drafted at the State Department, but finally was penned by President Wilson himself. After pointing out that the language used by Count von Bernstorff "is susceptible of being construed as impugning the good faith of the United States in the performance of its duties as a neutral," the note "takes it for granted that no such implication was intended," and suggests that evidently the German Ambassador "is laboring under certain false impressions."

Not Subject for Discussion.

It is then declared that while the relations of the United States with any one of the belligerents "can not wisely be made a subject of discussion with a third government," such correspondence between the United States and the allies as has been published shows the "steadfast refusal" of the Government "to acknowledge the right of any belligerent to alter the accepted rules of war at sea, in so far as they affect the rights and interests of neutrals."

The attitude of the United States on the question of exportation of arms is restated—namely, that to place any embargo on arms during the progress of a war would be "a direct violation of the neutrality of the United States." The note refers to the spirit of friendship which the United States desires always to manifest toward Germany and its people, and concludes with the declaration that the neutrality of the United States "is founded upon the firm basis of conscience and good will."

"They Talk Yet About The Plainview Country"

PLAINVIEW SHOWS PRESS GREAT TIME.

By C. W. WARWICK, in Randall County News.

There is "Nothing Shallow but the Water" at Plainview. The hospitality is deep seated. The entertainment for the stranger is royal.

The Panhandle Press Association met in Plainview last Friday and Saturday, and the newspaper people enjoyed for two days the greatest hospitality and entertainment ever presented by any town in this or any other state. With the meeting of the train, Friday morning, until the visitors boarded the out-going train Sunday morning there was never a minute of the time when some Plainview business man wasn't right by your side asking if there wasn't something he could do to make your stay more pleasant. Plainview had made great preparation for the gathering, and the program was carried out to a nicety.

The program proper for the newspaper people was very helpful. There were nearly forty present, and the discussion of subjects was highly inspirational and beneficial. This program extended through Friday and Saturday mornings. At the business session Saturday morning, Amarillo was chosen for the next meeting place. Canyon was put in nomination, President Cousins extending the formal invitation. The sentiment was so strong for Amarillo, since it is the junction point on all railroads, that Canyon withdrew before the vote was taken, giving Amarillo the unanimous ballot of the convention.

J. M. Adams, of the Plainview News, is the new president; L. G. Waggoner, of the Miami Chief is the vice president, and Miss Ida M. Farrell, of the Glazier Review, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The entertainment of the visitors was remarkable and full of interest at all times. Friday afternoon there was a reception for the ladies at 3 o'clock, in the beautiful Elks' home. The badges of the visitors was a pass to the three excellent motion picture shows at the will of the wearers. From five to seven there was a general reception at the Elks' Hall for all of the visitors. Large numbers of town people joined in greeting the press gang.

Friday night the Plainview Choral Club repeated Von Flotow's opera, "Martha," for the benefit of the visitors. As a usual thing the town which is entertaining the press people take cognizance of the fact that they are interested in things of a material nature. Plainview not only displayed her wealth of materialistic wealth, but Friday night showed the visitors that her people were not too much wrapped up in making money as to forget the esthetical side of life and to develop that portion of man and his nature which long lives after the wealth that he may acquire in this world.

Plainview has a wonderful array of musical talent. For four hours the soloists and big chorus held the audience spellbound. Mrs. Ellen J. Lindsay headed the cast. Her wonderful soprano voice received great compliments. Miss Mabel Weyland was greatly applauded for her contralto solos and her excellent stage work. Albert Hinn sang the leading tenor with a clear, smooth voice. Ross Wingo was the leading baritone. The chorus work was fine. The production was a rare treat, and cost the Choral Club much time and money for its repetition, which was greatly appreciated by the visitors.

Saturday night there was a splendid banquet at the Ware Hotel, followed by an excellent toast program.

Saturday afternoon about twenty-five cars took the visitors on a fifty-mile trip through the irrigation district. The big Syndicate, which has become so famous in the Panhandle, has seventy wells in operation, and is still at work drilling more. The wells are put down about 250 feet, but the water stands so that the lift is always less than fifty feet. With the big engines and centrifugal pumps, water is thrown out resembling a good-sized river. The Syndicate has bought more than a million and a half dollars' worth of land, and is spending that much more in developing the same.

The plan of selling syndicate land is this: A farm consists of 160 acres, with a pretty house and home improvement, orchard, well and pumping outfit, with 20 acres planted in alfalfa. They are selling much land. Not only the Syndicate, but large numbers of other Plainview people have wells and pumping plants with large capacities and much land planted in alfalfa.

The News man revised his idea of irrigation very greatly after the Plainview visit. In some other districts we have visited irrigation is used principally for row crops and wheat irrigation. We do not believe this will pay, as the expenditure is too great, since these crops will make good yields most years in the Panhandle without irrigation, especially this being true of the row crops. Raising alfalfa on the high lands has been proved profitable by the aid of the irrigation plant. This combination has made the Plainview country famous. The Syndicate also urges all farmers to raise hogs, and are putting into practice their preachments with a large herd on each of the demonstration farms which are scattered over the county. On these farms are practical men to make practical demonstrations with various farm products. These demonstrations are proving greatly beneficial to the Hale County farmers. Great results have been obtained in the agricultural lines in Hale County.

Plainview is a pretty town with a growing population. The business district is growing. The town is kept good and clean.

The trip to Plainview will long be cherished in the memory of each visitor, and the kindest feeling held for each and every man and woman who did so much to make the visit pleasant and profitable.

PANHANDLE EDITORS ASSEMBLE IN PLAINVIEW.

F. R. JAMISON, in The Canadian Record.

If not the largest, one of the largest district press organizations in the entire state of Texas was convened in Plainview, the metropolis of the South Plains, last Friday morning at 10 a. m., and continued almost without a moment's intermission until the stroke upon Saturday night.

A reception, royal, was given the press members as they alighted upon the Santa Fe platform in that elegant town, the brass band being a feature that was highly appreciated.

Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock the craft attended one of the picture shows, the guests of the house, and at night "Martha" was rendered, complimentary to the press.

Saturday at noon the association adjourned, having chosen for its future president Jess Adams, of the Plainview News; vice president, L. G. Waggoner, of the Miami Chief; secretary-treasurer, Miss Ida Farrell, of the Glazier Review.

In the afternoon 26 automobiles carrying the members of the press and their admirers journeyed through the Shallow Water Belt, and many for the first time beheld water being thrown out of the ground at the rate of 3,000 gallons per minute and observed the countless acres of luxurious alfalfa and splendid wheat all over that country.

Saturday night the association was banqueted by the hospitable boosters of Plainview.

This meeting was a valuable occurrence to the newspaper people of this section of the state:

First, by a broader view and a better knowledge of the resources of the Panhandle country and a greater bond of friendly fellowship among the managers of the various papers encompassing the largest area covered by any district organization in the world.

Second, by a touch of the great personality of State Press, the Hon. Joe J. Taylor, who is known and loved in every corner of this great commonwealth, and by acquiring an acquaintanceship with Mr. Julian, who is manager of the Western Newspaper Union at Oklahoma City.

Third, in a commercial way, by the solution of many perplexing problems that continue to infest the print shop.

And, last, and very important it seems to us, the decision of this association to undertake to construct somewhere in the Panhandle a permanent abiding place, which in addition may become a memorial station for the entire Panhandle country. Many of the important matters in the development of the State of Texas have transpired upon the Plains which have been lost to posterity. A plan for procedure toward the perfection of this character of an institution will be proposed at the next annual session. We believe that within a short term of years, by means of this impulse, the Panhandle will have one of the most complete historical plants in the State of Texas.

PLAINVIEW, TEXAS—"NOTHING SHALLOW BUT THE WATER."

IDA M. FARRELL,
in The Glazier Review.

The first impression a stranger receives when alighting from the train at Plainview is that one is stepping into a city that does things. The concert band, which welcomed the members of the Panhandle Press Association as they alighted from the Santa Fe, at 9:33 last Friday morning, was pleasing and added vim to the occasion, but its presence was not necessary as an inspiration, for the water gushing forth from the Texas Land and Development Co.'s pumping plant adjacent to the station, and which fills an immense artificial lake, would cause any traveler who has summered or wintered on the "Lake Front" in Chicago to catch his breath and look for skyscrapers.

A light rain was falling, and a reception committee, headed by one of the tallest of men (who proved to be a retired banker, now raising alfalfa and hogs), bustled the visitors into waiting automobiles and directed our driver to the Ware Hotel. From that hour Plainview made us love her.

The spacious Elks' Hall, where the business sessions were held, is, with its modern appointments, indicative of the city. The three moving picture shows, where press visitors were admitted without fee, are modern buildings erected for the specific purpose of entertainment. The Floral Company and private gardens, which supplied the guests continually with carnations, jonquils and violets, were pleasing proof of taste, climate and soil.

The opera "Martha," put on by the Plainview Choral Club, complimentary to the visitors, was a musical treat which only a city possessing rare musical talent would dare attempt. Close to fifty people took part in the cast and chorus. Verily, Plainview must be a musical Mecca. It is true that the city is an intellectual center.

Eight literary clubs keep the ladies' thoughts active, and show a Federation membership of one hundred and seventy-five. Here are found "The Sorosis," "The Civic League," "Travel Study Club," "As You Like It Club," "Browning Club," "Central Mothers' Club," and "Lamar Mothers' Club." The Easterner may bring his Browning or his Shakespeare with him, and find fellowship.

The friendliness which the press found on every hand in Plainview may be suggested to the reader when it is stated that aside from banquet and opera hospitality was found in every quarter. For instance: A reception in Elks' Hall, with punch and cake served; a reception in the Plainview Creamery, where the visitors not only saw ice cream in the process of making, but ate it in various molds and flavors; a reception, with delicious punch served, at Layne & Bowler Co.'s offices.

The banquet Saturday night, in the Ware Hotel, where fifty-three plates were taken, was an occasion when both hostess and visitor were awake to the full enjoyment of the occasion; and yet it is safe to say that to the majority of the guests the one pleasure which looms above all others during the two days of the Association meetings was the fifty-mile auto trip, Saturday afternoon, through the irrigation district of the Plainview country.

Plainview is a city of 6,000 people. In the past few years it has grown from an arid Plains town to this modern, active city, with every convenience—material, social and intellectual. This marvellous change and growth is the result following the installation of the Morning

If the family do not all eat breakfast together, you can bake a few at a time. If you are having hot biscuits for supper, mix and cut out enough more for breakfast. They will be much nicer freshly baked than warmed over.

Of course you can't do this very successfully with sour milk and soda or with any of the old fashioned, single acting baking powders, but this convenient way of making hot biscuits and muffins for breakfast is entirely satisfactory if you use which is really a blend of two baking powders, one of which begins to give off leavening gas as soon as moisture is added. The other is inactive until heat is applied. The dough will remain in a partly leavened condition for hours and when put in the oven will come up just as light and fluffy as if freshly mixed.

Get a can of K C today and try this easy way of baking biscuits at once. You'll never go back to the old way. 61 the centrifugal pump designed for irrigation in shallow-water regions. It was discovered that the surface stratum of water in the Plains was succeeded by layers of water-bearing sand and gravel, and any number of irrigation wells have gone down in the Plainview country. The wells yield from 1,000 to 2,500 gallons per minute, each well being sufficient to irrigate from 100 to 400 acres, and these wells flow with undiminished supply.

The Texas Land and Development Company, backed by English capitalists, are sinking hundreds of these irrigation gushers. This company also equips 160-, 80- and 40-acre tracts of land with four- or five-room houses, with engine, pump, canals, land broken, alfalfa seeded, orchard set, and sell the tracts to settlers on payments. The management affirms that the sales department is continually ahead of the developing—this company cannot develop the farms fast enough to supply applicants.

Among the places visited by the press crowd were the Garwood Farm, Helen-Temple Farm, Graham Place, the Syndicate Demonstration Farm, the irrigated district at Aiken, Model Stock Farm, Pioneer Park, and Richmond Terrace. The first well visited after leaving Plainview was that of Dr. J. C. Anderson. While a gasoline engine is the usual power used, this plant is run by electricity, generated at the city electric plant, three miles distant. The well was pumping about two thousand gallons per minute. Crops raised on the irrigated land are abundant, and include wheat, oats, kaffir, milo maize, broom corn, sorghum, millet, watermelons, tomatoes, cantaloupes, beans, lettuce, radishes, celery, sweet potatoes—in fact, all vegetables. Just now it is the alfalfa which is most advanced, and it will be ready to cut in a few weeks. Five, and in some cases six, cuttings are obtained during the year. With the growing of feedstuffs goes the raising of stock, and the cattle, hogs, sheep and horses of this section are thoroughbred and unsurpassed, while poultry claims successful attention.

The Plainview country is smooth and level. A fertile loam, varying from chocolate color to black, covers the surface for a depth of from three to six feet. A clay stratum of a depth of 16 to 20 feet underlies the loam. There are no rocks or stones in the surface, and no roots, canyons or hills. The soil is well balanced and contains no alkali. It is the ideal country for the farmer, the truck gardener, and the stock raiser.

When the twenty-six autos returned to the city from the country drive, it is safe to say that ninety-nine per cent of the observers had a desire to own a farm—to watch the budding trees and scatter the seed on their own domain. They longed to see the ripening grain, and enjoy the product of the garden; to count the growing herds and scent the new-mown hay; to entertain the passing stranger or long-time friend, and say, "This is my home!"

Come to Plainview!

PLAINVIEW ENTERTAINS WEST TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION ROYALLY.

The delegates from all over the Plains country to the meeting of the Press Association held in Plainview April 9th and 10th, were charmed with the manner in which they were received by the Plainview citizens. This is the best piece of single advertising that Plainview has had for a long time. All the papers in the country are singing her praise, and that means something, because the newspapers are generally so taken up with their own towns that they are inclined to neglect the good qualities of their neighbors. Not that this is done intentionally. No. There is a spirit of good will among the towns of West Texas that cannot be put down, and not one of them, nor any of the papers, ever have anything but kind words to say of one another. But it takes a meeting like this one just held at Plainview to bring forth spontaneously what the news really think of one another. And when the people see the whole citizenship of a town come forth as one man to welcome a lot of newspaper men, as did the Plainview people, then you can put it in your little old briar pipe and smoke it that the people of that town are made of the right kind of stuff. Not that newspaper men do not require as much attention as anyone. Oh, my, no! Don't let that be thought for one single fraction of the tenth of a second.

The descendants of Ben Franklin were certainly royally entertained. It can well be said that the people of Plainview are the princes of entertainers and the entertainers of princes. (The latter, of course, being the newspaper men.) Everything that human mind could think of was done for the visitors. Home talent rendered in superb fashion the beautiful opera of "Martha" at which the news-getters had free seats. This was good. Motion picture shows helped beguile the idle hours. Flowers bloomed and blossomed everywhere.

A fifty-mile trip was made around the irrigated district in automobiles, and great wells were seen where streams of water were flowing at the rate of from 1,200 to 2,500 gallons per minute. This was a revelation to many of the visitors.

The banquet at the Ware Hotel was the closing feature, and it will never be forgotten by those present. What cheer! What joy! What good will! The speeches that were made! What good things were consumed!

The business meetings of the association were carried off successfully, and many interesting papers were read and addresses were made. Altogether, it was an affair long to be remembered and cherished in the hearts of the hard-working newspaper men of this district. It will go down in their memories like a bright spot on a gray and level plain. And, too, it will serve to increase the attendance at future meetings.

The next meeting will be held in Amarillo, the exact date to be fixed later on.—Crosbyton Review.

PLAINVIEW IS IDEAL HOSTESS.

MRS. A. G. RICHARDSON, in McLean News.

The annual meeting of the Panhandle Press Association was held at Plainview on Friday and Saturday of last week, and the attendance while not so large as had been hoped, was entirely representative, and a most pleasant and profitable session resulted. The progressive little city of Plainview, with its wide-awake and hospitable citizenship, was untiring in its efforts to make the visit of the Panhandle editors one long to be remembered. Committees of citizens in automobiles met the various trains and escorted the visitors to the Ware Hotel, where they were provided with every convenience and comfort during their stay.

At ten o'clock Friday morning the convention assembled at the Elk Club rooms, and, after listening to a hearty address of welcome from Hon. L. S. Kinder, the regular program was taken up.

After the close of the business session Friday afternoon the editors were entertained with picture shows and various amusements and the visiting ladies were tendered a reception at the Elk home.

Saturday morning the convention was called to order promptly at nine o'clock, for the completion of the program and the selecting of officers and the place of meeting next year. Officers were elected as follows: President, J. M. Adams, of Plainview; vice president, L. G. Waggoner, of Miami; secretary, Miss Ida M. Farrell, of Glazier. Amarillo was chosen as next place of meeting.

Saturday afternoon the visitors were again taken in charge by the local citizens, and given an automobile ride over the Plainview country, which included a visit to the various big irrigation plants in that section. These people have been doing some wonderful development work in the past two years, and hundreds of wells are lending their inexhaustible water supply to the increasing of crop production. The Texas Land and Development Co. has already spent half of a three-million-dollar fund in improving and irrigating their holdings, which they are selling to actual settlers on easy terms, and other firms and individuals are doing similar work on a smaller scale.

A splendid banquet at the Ware Hotel Saturday evening was the culminating feature of the two days' entertainment program, and every visitor to the South Plains city was made to feel that their sojourn had been both pleasant and profitable.

KANSAS CITY STOCK MARKET IN DETAIL.

Panhandle Baby Beef and Feeder Stuff Brings High Price in Week's Sales.

KANSAS CITY STOCK YARDS, April 19.—The cattle market closed last week 15 to 25 cents higher for the week on all kinds of cattle except heavy beef steers, and even that class sold 10 cents higher for the week. Stockers and feeders showed great activity, 15,000 head going to the country last week. Receipts today are 11,000, market strong to 10 cents higher, and active. No prime heavy steers were here today, but a good deal of beef was present, selling freely with big fills at $7.75 to $7.85 on the first round.

Baby beef from the Panhandle sold at $8.00, weighing 800 pounds, a drove of 11 cars of Panhandle feeders, 968 pounds average, brought $7.75, a nine-car drove of Oklahoma meal-fed steers brought $7.55, weighing 1,125 pounds, Colorado sugar-mill steers brought $7.70 to $7.95, twenty loads of North Texas silage- and cake-fed steers sold in the quarantine division at $6.85 to $7.50.

A number of sales of both stockers and feeders were made at $8.00. Butcher grades of cattle sold actively, and higher, cows up to $7.00. All around it was the most enthusiastic session the cattle market has seen since February. Veal calves were the only discordant note, selling lower, good deals at $7.50 to $8.00, too many dairy calves at Chicago being responsible for the weakness.

Hogs sold 5 cents higher today, following advances amounting to 35 to 50 cents last week, top $7.65, bulk $7.40 to $7.60, receipts 11,000. Order buyers have been setting a fast pace, and packers have kept well in line. The order buyers got one-fourth their receipts today, the smallest quota they

COMPARATIVE COST AND VALUE.

A reader of The Herald has suggested that the much used argument that a merchant should be supported by the people of the town because he is a citizen, does not appeal strongly to him. That man, incidentally, is a merchant whose methods and policies have made him a successful and valuable salesman. The only basis for claiming the patronage of any clientele, he believes, is value. He holds that the merchant with an established credit has the advantage of quantity purchases which the individual may never acquire. His aggregate business is profitable enough to the jobber and manufacturer to secure price concessions obtainable only on quantity sales.

Even on the smaller purchases, the merchant can buy as cheaply from manufacturers and jobbers as the individual can from the mail-order houses.

Value for value, the merchant has a distinct advantage, and value, he thinks, is the basic thing. Compare any article he has for a given price with the mail-order article, and the advantage will be with the home merchant nine times out of ten, and that tenth one will be a special price which the mail-order house makes for a leader or "bait."

The idea of value and price is what should govern buying, he believes, and on these he is willing to stake his claims for patronage.

When the people learn to compare our goods and our prices on same delivered to their buggies, wagons or autos, or by parcel post to their homes, they will find it to their advantage to trade at home and to "taboo" the mail-order business.

THE TRAGEDY OF INJUSTICE.

Leo M. Frank has just closed his last fight for life. Countless men and women believe him guiltless. To them there can be no greater tragedy than his death. No justice is seen in the mandates of society which sentence him to death. They do not question the validity and justice of the law and the retribution required by society for crime against it, but do question the guilt of Leo M. Frank. Many others, of course, believe him guilty.

Our system of justice hinges on trial by jury. Twelve of his peers have passed on the case. The imagination cannot conceive the intensity of the tragedy in the minds of those who believe in his innocence. But, his peers have passed and the higher authorities, delegated by his peers, have affirmed their decision, and Leo M. Frank is today a condemned man. Nothing but gubernatorial clemency can save him now. The acceptance of the decisions is an expression of faith in our court system and our democracy as the nearest approximate approach to justice. This I do not propose to discuss now.

Injustice is always tragic.

The tragedy of hanging an innocent man is no greater than that of inflicting harm of other nature on innocence.

The man in public life who suffers innocently from thrusts of political enemies, the man in private life whose reputation is tarnished and marred unjustly, are the recipients of injustice secondary only to taking his life or liberty of action. "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" are sacred rights on which our forebears founded our government, and the unjust violation of the one enacts a tragedy as truly as the other.

That old adage, "the golden rule," adopted as a living principle will eliminate tragic injustice, except through ignorance, from the shackles of which our race is steadily being freed.

The blessings of living in the wonderful South Plains country are impressed strongly these days of bright sunshine. The verdant earth reminds us that the best days of the year are upon us.

MARKET IN HANDS OF GROWERS.

(Dallas News.)

Middling cotton was quoted at 10 cents a pound in Galveston Saturday. At Dallas the price was 9.25c on the same day. This Dallas quotation marks easily an advance of $15 a bale within two months. While unquestionably only a small percentage of the crop is still in the hands of the growers, a very considerable percentage of it is still in the hands of Texans, so that this increase in the value of cotton redounds to the advantage of the State. Consumption of cotton by the mills has been increasing concurrently with the advance in prices and is, therefore, one of the causes of the advance. But consumption has not been increasing as rapidly as prices have advanced, so that one must conclude that the chief of the causes contributing to the advance is the growing belief that the supplies of cotton next season will be more than will be needed. The future course of the market must depend, therefore, largely on the continuance of this belief. If the spinners become convinced that, as they now suspect, the average is to be considerably reduced, we may expect not only a continued advance in the price for this year's crop, but a good opening price for next year's crop. The market is in the hands of the growers of cotton.

ORGANIZING RURAL WOMEN.

Mrs. Nat P. Jackson, Organizer of Rural Women for the Extension Service of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, is back at her desk again at College Station, Texas, and reports that over thirty clubs of rural women have been organized up to the present time. Mrs. Jackson has just finished an itinerary through Williamson and Victoria Counties, where, in co-operation with County Superintendents J. A. Hudson and I. E. Ratcliff, fourteen clubs of rural women, designated as Bands of Good Neighbors, were formally organized. This work is being pursued as a project under the Smith-Lever funds, and these clubs meet every two weeks to discuss local problems of an agricultural and domestic character, assisted by special programs and papers prepared by Mrs. Jackson.

DON'T HANDICAP THE CORN.

One of the three essential factors in the successful production of corn is frequent but shallow cultivation, after the crop is planted. "As a rule," says Agronomist J. O. Morgan of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, "the soils should not be disturbed deeper than 2 1/2 to 3 inches at the outside, when cultivating corn. Implements which will thoroughly pulverize the soil, without leaving it in ridges, should be used. Sweeps make very satisfactory implements if they are adjusted so as to allow the soil to fall over behind them, which will leave the seed bed in a loose condition. Cultivators with small shovels or teeth and weeders or sweep implements for the early cultivation are not

DEPARTMENTS
 NEWS AT PLAINVIEW.
 Faculty Member Tells of Visit in the Plainview Country.

Friday and Saturday was the annual meeting of the Panhandle Press Association, and the "pen-pushers" from all parts of the Panhandle and West Texas were present at Plainview, where two most profitable and pleasant days were spent.

The meeting was called to order at the Elks' Hall at 10 o'clock Friday forenoon, by President Homer Steen. The welcome address on behalf of the citizens was delivered by Judge L. S. Kinder, and responded to by J. L. Pope, in behalf of the members of the Press Association. Judge Kinder, in his address of welcome, paid the press of the Panhandle many compliments, and gave some very interesting history of early journalism of this section.

We will not endeavor to mention the many valuable papers read during the two days' session of the meeting. As is always the case with like gatherings, each individual member present was benefited in various ways, and received information that will prove a valuable asset to the newspaper field.

The entertainment furnished by the people of Plainview was elaborate, and every moment of the stay among these splendid people was one continuous round of pleasure. In the afternoon of the first day a motion picture program was rendered at The Olympic, and at night, at the opera house, "Martha" was rendered by the Plainview Choral Club. This opera is worthy of all that can be said in commendation, and was immensely enjoyed by the visitors.

The second day's entertainment consisted of a 60-mile auto trip over the famous irrigation district, in the afternoon. Many of the wells were in operation, and they were a revelation to many who were not acquainted with the possibilities of irrigation in the Shallow Water Belt of the South Plains. The route over the district was down as far as Aiken and three miles of Lockney. In the route selected, we wish to say right here that we do not think that Editors Adams and Miller treated the visitors quite fair. Like Moses of old, they were allowed to see the promised land from afar, but were not allowed to enter. At Meteor, six miles from Lockney, the excursion was halted and the visitors taken to a high tower (situated over a well) and there were permitted to gaze long and anxiously towards the "promised land," Lockney, but were not allowed to enter.

At night the annual banquet was held, at the Ware Hotel, where plates were set for more than 100 guests. Editor Adams, of The News, acted as toastmaster. After the repast, speech-making was indulged in, and was not concluded until a late hour.

Before the business session concluded, on Saturday afternoon, Editor Adams, of the Plainview News, was elected president of the Association; L. W. Waggoner, of the Miami Chief, vice president, and Miss Ida May Farrell, of the Glazier Review, secretary-treasurer.

The next place of meeting will be at Amarillo—Lockney Beacon.

Lines To Be Remembered

GLAD THINGS OF LIGHT.

Leave the shadows of Lonesome Town
 For the springtime sunlight streaming down
 Where hills and rills and valleys fair
 Are whispering glad things everywhere,
 And the breath of the blossoms makes sweet the air!
 Out of the shadows that lead to night,
 To dreams and gleams of the living light.

Leave the shadows of Shadowland;
 Stand where the Sons of the Morning stand!
 Life's for the heights where the stars shine clear—
 Not for the shadows lone and drear.
 In the wondrous joy and glory given
 Earth rolls close to the gates of heaven;
 The Future's promise is brave and bright
 With dreams and gleams of the living light.

ORIGIN OF "GERRYMANDER."

Gilbert Stuart Combined "Gerry" and "Salamander" in a Cartoon in 1811.

James Melvin Lee, in Cartoons Magazine.
 Gilbert Stuart, who is best remembered for his portrait of Washington, was also a cartoonist, and it was he who designed the famous Gerry-mander cartoon.

In 1811 the struggle between the Democrats and the Federalists for the control of Massachusetts was extremely bitter. The Democrats had elected Elbridge Gerry governor, and had carried both houses of the Legislature. To retain this supremacy, they remapped the senatorial districts, and divided the power of their political adversaries by paying no attention to county boundaries. In Essex County the relation of the district to the town was most absurd, and a map of the county thus laid out hung in the office of the Massachusetts Sentinel.

One day as Stuart gazed at the map, he remarked that the towns as they had been assembled looked like some monstrous animal. A few touches of his pencil added the wings and claws, and he christened the creature a salamander. At the suggestion of Editor Russell the name was changed to Gerry-mander. The cartoon thereafter frequently appeared in a "broadside," while the term became one of reproach to the Legislature that had distinguished itself by this act of political turpitude.

APPRECIATION

Most people know what this means, some do not. We are going to talk about the ones that know this time. The people in this country that came from the "black land belt" where cotton is the main crop appreciate living here and would appreciate it if more of their friends would come and enjoy the great climate in this country and make more money "stock farming" than any place in the world—broad assertion but it's so.

You cannot help but appreciate living where you can raise almost any vegetable that grows, the best chicken country there is, hogs that "top the market" every time its tried and as a cattle country recognized as the best.

Of course you appreciate living here; can't beat this country. We appreciate the trade of people who pay their accounts and will do everything in our power to please them with quality, service and price and hope they appreciate our efforts. When we sell a customer on credit we have confidence in him and he shows his appreciation by paying us and that is the only kind of credit customer there ought to be but unfortunately there is another kind, only a few however, called "Dead Beats" and next week we will tell you something about him and how the Retail Merchants Association gets the "dope" on him. ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright 1914 by Harold McGrath

THIRD EPISODE

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora is left an orphan at an early age. Her father is killed in a gold mine. Zudora and the fortune from the mine, which grows to be worth $50,000,000, are left in the guardianship of Frank Keene, Zudora's mother's brother. Zudora, giving promise of great beauty, reaches the age of eighteen. The uncle, who has set himself up as a Hindu mystic and is known as Hassam Ali, decides that Zudora must die before she can have a chance to come into possession of her money, so that it may be left to him, the next of kin. Hassam Ali sees an obstacle to his scheme in the person of John Storm, a young lawyer, for whom Zudora has taken a fancy, and he commands the girl to put the man out of her mind. Zudora insists that if she cannot marry Storm she will marry no one.

"Well, well," says Hassam Ali, "if you take such a stand I'll compromise. Solve my next twenty cases and you can marry him; fail in a single case and you must renounce him."

Zudora, using the knowledge gained from years of association with her uncle, unravels a baffling mystery and wins her first case—a case in which John Storm is saved from being convicted of a murder instigated by Hassam Ali himself.

Zudora and Hassam Ali visit Nabok Khan's house, where sleep overcomes every one whenever Nabok attempts to marry a princess. Storm, seeking Zudora, is made a prisoner. Zudora tells Nabok Khan, restores the princess to her original lover and saves Storm from death.

CHAPTER III.

The Mystery of the Chessmaker.

In a kind of cellar, under a window, a man sat, bent over a peculiarly constructed machine of small wheels that spun with lightning rapidity. Every now and then he paused and scrutinized the minute object he held in his fingers. At length he seemed satisfied, rose, stopped the machine and shuffled over to a cupboard. Then he sat down on a cot and began to figure in a small notebook. The result of his mathematics evidently pleased him.

In a corner behind curtains stood a furnace, a crucible, with powerful bellows and chimney. It looked adaptable to tremendous heat pressure. The machine previously referred to was an unfamiliar one to any but the eyes of those who have watched similar machines in Amsterdam and Rotterdam, in Holland. It was a diamond cutting and polishing machine. What the unusual crucible brought forth remained to be seen.

The diamond cutter rose again and once more approached the cupboard and gazed over his treasure, which consisted of half a dozen perfect gems perfectly cut and polished, but small.

"I shall be rich some day."

They came sudden transition from joy to gloom. He dared not go forth openly to sell these gems, for he feared that he would be looked upon as a thief. The fact that these diamonds were not registered would act against him. The best they would do would be to have him before the customs officials as a smuggler. And if he told the truth his wonderful discovery would become public property, and he would be ruined.

"I am unlucky," he groaned. "I see how it is. I must divide with some one in order to get anything. I will sound Hassam Ali."

He had disposed of several gems among pawnbrokers who were known not to ask questions, but in these transactions he had received but a fourth of what the gems were worth. These things contributed to his sudden rise and fall of spirits. He was also something of a madman.

Precisely he sniffed. There was a faint odor of curds in the air. Beyond the wall was a cheesemaker's shop, and there one could buy anything from a Camembert to what is known as a Dutch cheese. The diamond cutter discovered that he was hungry. So he left his den, bought some cheese and ate bread and returned, soon to begin his labors again. During certain intervals of silence he heard without apparent notice slight scratching sounds. The furnace began to glow, throwing weird lights upon his lined and ecstatic countenance.

When night came he went again to his treasure and gave a cry of anguish. A gem was gone! He searched thoroughly, but could not find it. It could not be possible that he had made a mistake in the original counting. He would go and have his friend Hassam Ali look into his crystal. There were wonderful revelations made there, and Hassam Ali reassured him that the gem would be found.

The next day, after Zudora had gone forth to meet her lover, Hassam Ali was assured—Hassam Ali retired to the mystic room. He was curious to see how long his sister's face would keep forming in the heart of the crystal. He was intensely superstitious, without realizing the fact. Yet again he saw the face, the same appeal in it. His heart swelled with fury and hate. He was beginning to hate his niece, for he invariably hate those who have wronged or intend to wrong. Whenever he saw her slender white throat a horrible, almost irresistible, desire laid hold of him to take that white throat within his fingers and crush the life out of it. At the same time he became vaguely alarmed lest at some time or other he should surrender to this mad desire. No, no!

He laughed and pressed her hand. He had been on the point of telling her his innermost suspicions. He saw now that she was going to have trouble enough without his adding to it. Brave little girl! Because she loved him she had assumed almost three times the tasks of Hercules. He became more and more determined to follow her and stand guard over her in every case she had—that is, if they left him alone. From the bottom of his soul he distrusted Keene, Hassam Ali, so called. It did not require an unusually sharp intuition to feel the sense of hatred directed against him whenever he came into the presence of the mystic. But he possessed no defined theory as to what had caused this activity of passion. It was born of no tender sentiment for the niece. Nor could it be due to the fact that he, Storm, looked with contempt upon Keene's work. He knew Keene to be absolutely indifferent to what the public thought of his affairs. In this Storm was compelled to admit of a secret admiration for the man. Think deeply and constantly as he might, however, he could not bring to the surface any legitimate cause for Keene's bitter antagonism.

Storm's mistake was that he did not reveal to Zudora what his real suspicions were—that it was Hassam Ali who wanted him out of the way. They both in that event would have escaped a good deal of trouble, being mutually prepared for it.

When they at last separated Storm went downtown, quite aware of the fact that he was being shadowed. But he did not recognize his shadower.

Storm usually worked late at night in his study, and he generally felt the need of a bite before turning in. This midnight lunch consisted of cheese and crackers and a pint of ale. He was seldom troubled with insomnia. Every other day he would drop into Altmann's cheese shop, chat awhile with the cheesemaker, his wife and daughter, and then leave with his regular purchase.

Now it happened that Hassam Ali's midnight appetite was similar to that of Storm's, except that Hassam Ali never touched alcoholic beverages of any sort. Moreover, he was friend to both cheesemaker and diamond cutter. There was more to the latter than most people suspected. When the mystic saw Storm enter the cheesemaker's his first inspiration was to learn what sort of cheese he generally purchased and eventually substitute a poisoned one. It was immaterial to him whether Altmann paid for the deed or not.

As Storm entered one door the diamond cutter came out of the other. Hassam Ali made a sign, which the latter answered. Together they re-entered the building. Hassam Ali had no desire to run into Storm.

"I did not recognize you, master," said the diamond cutter.

"And never recognize me unless you see me make the sign. Well, have you made up your mind?"

"I am going to trust you."

"Why not? I may be able to help you a great deal," said Hassam Ali, secretly pleased that he had won his point. "I am like a physician or a priest. Whatever you may tell me will be buried in my breast," his strong, magnetic eyes boring into the other's. The diamond cutter was always in such a mental state as to lend himself readily to hypnotism, and without being aware of it he fell under the spell immediately. Hassam Ali spoke to him.

"Lead on."

The diamond cutter led the way to his cell-like shop and threw back the curtains, revealing the furnace and crucible. Deftly he placed a piece of carbon in the receptacle and turned a switch. There came a scolding flash.

Zudora Met Storm in the Park.

for all that you so pretimes smile at his occupations."

"It is precisely because he plays at this mummery and is at the same time an extraordinary man that I ask you if you love him."

"Love is a strange thing," she replied evasively. She felt strangely stirred over the trend of conversation.

"You don't answer me directly," he was an attorney and had something of the bulldog's grip. There were many unhappy witnesses who would testify to that.

"Well, no; I can't say honestly that I love him," he said.

"Nor can you say honestly that he loves you. My dear girl, I might as well admit to you that some one is interested in putting me out of the way. I've been shot at in the dark on three different occasions. I have received anonymous letters purporting to come from some disgruntled politician. I think the best thing you can do is to marry me."

"Not until every letter of my agreement is complete."

"I suppose you've made up your mind?"

"Yes. Just as firmly as I have made up my mind that you're my man and that I wouldn't exchange you for the greatest kingdom on earth."

He laughed and pressed her hand. He had been on the point of telling her his innermost suspicions. He saw now that she was going to have trouble enough without his adding to it. Brave little girl! Because she loved him she had assumed almost three times the tasks of Hercules. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and so constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

No. 3 LITTLE TALKS BY THE DOCTOR
OSTEOPATHY
The little story we told last week of the "pretty brook being congested illustrates, as we said, the manner in which the blood and nerve energy may be congested in the human body.
A "cold" in the head, an attack of "La Grippe," a "spell" of fever always causes contraction of the muscles along the spine particularly at the neck or in the middle of the back. This rigid contraction of muscles interferes with normal circulation to the spine and spinal centers, which centers furnish vitality (nerve energy) to the vital organs, as the lungs, heart, stomach, liver and kidneys. The vital organs cannot possibly work normally when the spinal nerve centers are inefficient in their control of the supply of blood and nerve energy to these organs.
The Osteopathic physician gets immediately at the first cause of disease by relaxing the contracted condition of muscles along the spine and by correcting the bony lesions that may exist in the spinal vertebrae.
