SETH WARD IS LUCKY TO WIN FROM A. M. A.

VISITORS PLAY GOOD GAME AND HAVE LOTS OF FIGHTING SPIRIT.

ONE TOUCHDOWN DECIDES IT

Bishop and Pritchett Make Plays at Critical Times and Bring Locals Victory.

Seth Ward College won from Amarillo Military Academy Saturday afternoon, on the East Side grounds, by a score of 6 to 0.

The teams were evenly matched. On plays through the line Amarillo Military Academy seemed to have the advantage. The visitors followed the style of play of the Eastern teams, the runner carrying the ball wherever he saw the best opening, regardless of signals. On forward passes and the open plays Seth Ward excelled.

Good playing at critical times by Bishop and Pritchett, of Seth Ward, saved the day for the Methodists. With only eighteen inches to go, Amarillo Military Academy had the locals in sore straits, and Bishop's smashing play around end, when he tackled the runner for a loss, was all that saved a score which would have tied the game. Then, when Pritchett booted the ball fifty yards and, after Quinn's spectacular play in intercepting a forward pass, plunged through the line for the only touchdown, the game was practically assured for the local team.

The Game in Detail.

The first quarter is a draw between the two teams.

The second quarter opens with ball in Seth Ward's possession. Forward pass to Haynie is incomplete. Amarillo offside and is penalized 5 yards. Amarillo intercepts forward pass on their 15-yard line and punts. Ball in S. W.'s possession on 30-yard line. Whitworth receives forward pass. Ball goes over on down on 1-yard line. Amarillo punts 40 yards, and Bishop returns 20. Bishop gains 2 yards around end; Pritchett 2 yard through line, and is penalized 5 yards for crawling. Incomplete forward pass goes over goal line and ball is given to Amarillo on 20-yard line. (Touchback.)

The first down nets 4 yards, and on second down fullback punts. Seth Ward's ball on 55-yard line. Pritchett gains 5 yards around end. A series of line bucks follow, and half ends with ball in Seth Ward's possession on 46-yard line.

Second Half.

Rushing kicks off for Seth Ward. Amarillo returns to 50-yard line. Forward pass is incomplete. On second down Lowery carries ball through Seth Ward's line for 20 yards. On first down line buck makes no gain. Lowery through line on second down for 8 yards. Ten-yard gain completed on next down. First down, 10 to go. In two downs A. M. A. gains 1 yard and on third down makes incomplete forward pass. An attempted drop kick to goal flies wide. Seth Ward penalized 5 yards for being offside, which puts ball over for A. M. A. for first down. Seth Ward is again penalized for offside play. Through series of line bucks, A. M. A. is within 18 inches of the goal. Stokes Bishop tackles Lowery for loss. Amarillo is within striking distance of the goal and attempts a goal from placement. Ball flies wide. Ball goes to Seth Ward on 20-yard line. Pritchett gains 8 yards through the line. Line bucks fail. Guinn carries ball for necessary 2 yards. Failing to make gains on line bucks, forward pass is attempted, but is incomplete. On fourth down Pritchett punts to 38-yard line. Willbright, in two downs, makes 16 yards for Amarillo. On second down, falling to gain through line on first, Lowery makes incomplete forward pass. Tackle through tackle play fails to make gain. An attempt through line fails, and ball is punted 25 yards, hitting Pritchett. Anybody's ball, and Amarillo secures it. On the first down Lowery gains 12 yards. Three down net 5 yards. On fourth down dropkick at goal is intercepted by Bishop, who fumbles but recovers. Pritchett punts 70 yards. Amarillo returns ball only 3 yards. Forward pass incomplete. Guinn intercepts forward pass from Lowery and gains 40 yards. With ball only 12½ yards from the coveted goal,

WE'RE EASY.

Plainview Paid Beggar Ten Dollars Yesterday; the Town Has Been Full of Them.

Three beggars in one day is Plainview's record for the week.

Yesterday a young man, securing the sympathy of the people by his affliction of loss of power of speech and hearing, secured ten dollars in a short time. He was very much surprised this morning when brought before Mayor Dorsett and told that a license was necessary in order to beg in Plainview.

This particular youth is apparently able bodied. The State of Texas maintains a school wherein deaf and dumb boys and girls are trained. This youth stated in the instrument he showed that he wanted to go to school and needed funds. There's no better place for a boy in his condition than the State schools. It seems that we will never learn that this old plea of being "deaf and dumb" is often abused.

Ten dollars a day is good wages—far better than the average man in Plainview, who works, draws.

Only last week Mayor Dorsett reprimanded a man who was begging. Except for the loss of a leg he was sound. And there are people in Plainview as badly handicapped as he is who earn their living. When told that the city of Plainview licensed beggars, the man became enraged. "I don't give a ———! You can go to ———! I've got eighty dollars," he uttered, as he slammed the door and left.

Yes, we're easy.

Plainview is becoming a Mecca for beggars. They meet in the large towns and cities and talk over their "luck." And Plainview is becoming one of their favorite fields.

INDIANA MEN HAVE FOUND STOCK RAISING PROFITABLE.

Own Two Sections of Old "Red Barn" Ranch and Have Others Leased.

W. H. Young and Dan Young, of Attica, Indiana, came in from their Castro County ranch last Saturday to meet Dan C. Reed, who is on a visit with Messrs. Young at the "Red Barn" ranch.

Mr. Reed is president of the Citizens' Bank of Covington, Indiana, and is a nephew of W. H. Young. He says that Mr. Young has been bragging so about his Texas ranch that he has come down to "see."

W. H. Young and son bought two sections of the "Red Barn" ranch a few years ago and leased several others. They have made stock farming pay in this country, and now have about 800 head of cattle on the ranch. They are selling off the marketable cattle, including the 1915 calves, and will ship one or two cars to Indiana for finishing for the Chicago market.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER PEDDLING LAW LATER

PASSES ORDINANCE TO NEXT MEETING, FOLLOWING FIRST READING.

REQUIRE CONTRACTOR'S BOND

Three Property Owners Have Not Paid for the Walks City Had Constructed.

The ordinance against peddling within the fire limits of the City of Plainview and setting a license for peddlers in other parts of the town was read for the first time last night before the City Council and passed to the next meeting.

Dairies Are Sanitary.

City Health Officer E. F. McClendon reported one case of typhoid fever within the city limits and one death from diphtheria. He stated that he is unable to trace the source of the case of diphtheria. He further reported that the dairies and slaughter houses serving Plainview trade are in a sanitary condition.

The monthly reports of officers were heard and current bills allowed.

Contractors Must Make Bond.

An ordinance was passed requiring that contractors make bond in the sum of $1,000 to guarantee that concrete work hereafter constructed—sidewalks, street or alley crossings, curbing, etc.—shall withstand ordinary use and wear for a period of two years from the construction thereof.

This ordinance declares an emergency and is now effective.

Will Sue Property Owners.

The city recently let contracts for more than one thousand feet of sidewalk. Most of the property owners have agreed to pay for the walks put down adjoining their property. Three of the number, however, have taken no action. It is authoritatively stated that the city will assess the cost of sidewalks against the property of these owners and that notices will soon be sent out. Within ten days after notices have been sent suit will be filed.

Sixteen citizens, in addition to the first list, have been instructed to build walks. City Secretary B. L. Spencer is authority for the statement that of this number five have already built and the time limit has not yet passed.

RUNNINGWATER MAN TAKES OWN LIFE WITH PISTOL

Mental Derangement Generally Considered Cause of A. O. Elrod's Committing Suicide.

A. O. Elrod, a tenant on the Knight Ranch twenty-five miles from Plainview, is dead. This morning about eight o'clock he went to the barn on the farm and shot himself through the head with a small-calibre pistol. A hired man on the place heard the shot and hastened to the wounded man. It seems that for two or three days Mr. Elrod had been mentally deranged, and that he had told some of the men on the place that he was going to kill himself.

The bullet entered the top portion of his brain, going through his head. From the results of the wound, he died this afternoon about three o'clock, never having regained consciousness. A. A. Hatchell went out from Plainview to embalm the body.

Funeral services will be held at the Plainview Cemetery Thursday afternoon under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World of Runningwater, of which he was a member, and the Woodmen of the World of Plainview.

Mr. Elrod was about twenty-six years old. He had lived in the Plainview country for more than ten years. For four years he has been a tenant of L. A. Knight. He leaves a wife and two children.

VILLA WILL FIGHT U. S. IF NECESSARY, HE SAYS

IS BRINGING ARMY INTO POSITION FOR ATTACK ON AGUA PRIETA.

AMERICAN LINES INSPECTED

Situation Is Complex—Bitterness of Bondit Chief Toward United States Causes Watchfulness.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Oct. 31.—General Francisco Villa began moving his troops into position tonight for an attack on Agua Prieta, Sonora, opposite here, regardless, he personally declared, of any consequences or effects from the United States.

"If necessary, I will fight the United States Army assembled along the border," Villa asserted, after hearing this afternoon for the first time that the American Government had given permission for Carranza to transport troops from Eagle Pass, Texas, to reinforce the garrison at Agua Prieta.

Four of these troop trains arrived tonight, bringing the total fighting men of the garrison commanded by General P. Elias Calles to approximately 6,000 men.

Villa, according to reliable estimates, has 10,000 soldiers. He claims to have 18,000. The battle may begin at any moment. That it will be as quickly as possible is the general opinion here, based on the condition of his men, thousands of whom were thirsty tonight in positions miles from water and with scant supplies of food, according to Villa's own testimony and reports of three Mexican ranchers who arrived across the border tonight, stripped of everything they possessed.

"Agua Prieta Will Be Mine"—Villa. Villa himself was with his cavalry, forming a flank guard, which passed along the border today. It was during this march that he learned that Carranza reinforcements had been transported over American territory, and launched a verbal attack on the United States, which he declared would turn into a physical attack if necessary.

"Agua Prieta will be mine," he asserted, "Americans or no Americans." Villa was almost in sight of the Mexican town at the time. Pointing his finger toward it, he added:

"There is food and rest for our men. We may have to fight the whole American army if necessary, but no matter; it will be ours."

"When?" he was asked.

"I know," was the reply.

"Through With U. S."

Villa asked again if it were true that the United States Government had permitted General Carranza to transport reinforcements over American territory, then continuing, he said:

"This is the way the United States repays me for the treatment and protection I have given foreigners in Mexico—or in my territory."

"I am through with the United States. I can fight my battles. Let them fight theirs."

"I can whip Carranza and his entire army, but it is asking a great deal to whip the United States also, but I suppose I can do that, too."

Villa said his entire plan of campaign had been mapped out.

At that time the General was with a small bodyguard three miles east of Niggerhead, a black butte just below the border, and almost within range of the three-inch guns of the Agua Prieta garrison. Photographs were taken of some of his party, but Villa himself declined to pose.

"No More Pictures."

"No more of my pictures for the United States," he explained smilingly.

Part of the flank guard approached and asked about water. They were told that there was water at the Galardo ranch.

"Oh," replied a Mexican officer, "we have drunk all the water there."

This officer also said a detachment of 3,000 men, last seen deploying on the desert four miles east of Agua Prieta, was almost entirely without water.

The Agua Prieta garrison became active immediately after the first of the Villa advance guard was reported in sight. Bugles sounded and the men sent to the trenches and to the fort, which is located on the southeast salient of the defenses.

Alfalfa, Hogs and Hereford Cattle in Plainview Country

By E. F. CAUTHEEN, in Farm and Ranch

This farm is owned by Mr. E. Graham and located on what is known as the "Staked Plains" of Texas—two miles north of the little city of Plainview. Visitors are shown this farm as a model, and it is. The owner has a high conception of what a farm and country home should be, and has done his best to make them measure up to his lofty ideal.

and ranchmen of this great western country, did not desire the ownership of a large farm, but preferred a small, busy one—one that every acre gives a good account of itself. Five years ago he purchased 80 acres of prairie soil land, every foot of which was tillable. Three years later he added 80 acres more of the same kind.

To the casual observer, this farm looks level; however, it is not entirely so. It has a gradual slope sufficient to make it easily irrigated. To a uniform depth of two or three feet the farm is covered with a black, fertile loam that has just enough sand to make the plow shed the dirt and permit water to percolate through it freely. Underlying this surface is a clay subsoil of rotten limestone foundation. There are no surface rocks, roots, grubs or stumps in the surrounding country. The Graham farm is carved out of a vast treeless plain out of which many more like his may be carved.

Before forming the idea of living in the country and farming Mr. Graham lived in town and practiced the law. His office hours were long and trying; under the strain and confinement of this profession his health began to give way; hence he decided to make a change in his profession and manner of living.

In making the change from lawyer to farmer, the transition for Mr. Graham was easy. His academic education and the habit of study enabled him to grasp quickly the subject of agriculture. Any information on farming and the care of livestock was eagerly sought. To help him, he secured some of the best books and periodicals on agriculture, and from the State experiment stations and the United States Department of Agriculture he obtained bulletins and reports that gave valuable suggestions on farming.

Looking over the country to see what class of farmers seem to be making the greatest success and from what source this success came, he soon saw it was not the one-crop farmer, but rather the farmer that employed a combination of crops and livestock. It had been demonstrated that alfalfa grew well in this country, and, where alfalfa grew well, hogs thrived and made money for their owners. Ever since the ranchmen herded cattle on the Texas Plains, it was a well known fact that, when all other enterprises fail, cattle make money. Mr. Graham decided to combine alfalfa, hogs and cattle, which fit together like cogs in wheels and turn to profit.

This farm is located in the Shallow Water District of the Plains country, where scores of irrigating wells are in operation. To irrigate a 160-acre farm it is only necessary to install an 8- or 10-inch well and pump a few hundred feet deep, and abundant supply of water is obtained. On the highest point of this farm is an eight-inch well 112 feet deep to the first heavy water-bearing stratum of sand. It is bored 145 feet deep into what seems to be a great never-failing subterranean lake. In this well is an eight-inch case and pump. The pump is driven by a 40 horsepower, two-cylinder opposed engine, which drives out 1,400 gallons of cool, sparkling water a minute.

The farm is laid off with shallow ditches leading from the receiving weir at the well along the lines of greatest elevation to all the fields. From the main ditches, laterals at regular distances of 250 feet apart are cut across the fields, and in the banks of these laterals are made shallow depressions, to permit the water to flow over the crop until the space between each depression is flooded. When the space between any two laterals is flooded, the upper lateral is closed and the water is forced on to the next one and runs down it and over its low depressions into a new section of the crop. When row crops are irrigated the water is forced out of the ditches into the middle of the rows of the growing crops, down which it flows.

The importance of irrigation even on a stock farm is hard to overestimate; it insures good grass or hay or hoed crops against a failure. A farmer with his own irrigation plant is not dependent on the fickleness of the weather, but he can calculate with a reasonable degree of certainty the number of tons of hay or maize that he can grow and therefrom the number of hogs, horses or cattle that his farm can carry. Successful growing of large crops of alfalfa is dependent largely upon the amount of moisture as well as the chemical composition of the soil. With his irrigation plant, which cost about $3,200, to come to his relief in case of dry weather, Mr. Graham is able to carry a much larger number of hogs and cattle on a small farm without having to buy a pound of feed for them.

Preparation and Seeding of Alfalfa.

The common practice is to turn the virgin prairie sod about two inches deep and then to plant the land in row crops for one or two years, before seeding it to alfalfa. On about 40 acres Mr. Graham followed this method; on the other part he broke the sod land in the fall seven inches deep with a steam gang plow. After breaking it, a double disk harrow was run over the surface to pulverize it. The harrowing was repeated after each rain till time for seeding next spring.

Mr. Graham is a staunch advocate of thorough preparation of land for alfalfa. When the soil is thoroughly plowed and a good season secured the amount of seed per acre may be greatly reduced and still get a bountiful stand. The fine stand secured from the planting of 12 pounds of good seed per acre is proof of the wisdom of his argument for thorough preparation of the soil.

Here and there over the fields small patches of alfalfa grow faster and have a richer color. A close inspection of the soil in such patches shows that these rich-looking spots are on old prairie-dog mounds. The prairie-dogs and badgers have brought up marl, or calcareous earth, of which there is a layer about three feet below the surface, and mixed it with the soil—a kind of sub-soiling. From this observation, Mr. Graham concludes that very deep plowing is a beneficial preparation for successful alfalfa growing.

A very interesting fact in preparing to plant alfalfa in any of this Plainview country is that no artificial inoculation of the seed or land is needed. The land is naturally inoculated. This fact is of great value in any country where lands are being put in alfalfa for the first time. If the lands are not naturally inoculated they or the seed must be artificially inoculated before the plants will do well.

The land is usually seeded in the spring, as soon as the danger of freezing is over. There is often sufficient moisture from spring rains to put the soil in proper condition for seeding, and no irrigation is needed until the alfalfa plants get started to growing. When the alfalfa plant first comes up it is tender and is often damaged by the hard wind of this western country. Small clods of earth and any other small obstruction to the wind are aids in securing a good stand.

The importance of good seed is not easily overestimated. It usually pays to buy seed from reliable growers or dealers, though their price may be a third higher than ordinary commercial feedsmen. Mr. Graham secured his seed from a reliable grower of alfalfa. The first field was seeded at the rate of 16 pounds per acre with an ordinary grain drill. The stand is so thick that it looks as if every seed planted came up. The next field was planted at the rate of 12 pounds an acre, and has an excellent stand.

Harvesting Alfalfa.

The methods of harvesting employed on the Graham farm are grazing by hogs and the sowing of what the 300 to 500 head of hogs can not eat. Over 300 head of hogs are grazing at this writing on the 40-acre field, and are unable to eat down the alfalfa except on about 15 acres that is round the lots and sheds. By the time the hogs have grazed 200 to 300 yards from the entrance they have eaten to their satisfaction and return to the shade. The more distant parts of the field are rarely visited by them, though occasionally a full-grown porker may be seen working through the tall alfalfa, which nearly hides him from view. The ungrazed portion of the field was mowed early in June and yielded over a ton of hay to the acre. The other fields mowed about the same time turned 1 3/4 tons to an acre.

The number of cuttings a year depends upon the seasons. If water is applied frequently or if the rainfall is sufficient, four to six cuttings are made. Under favorable weather conditions it requires from 25 to 30 days for the alfalfa to make a new growth ready for a second cutting.

In the morning, after the dew dries off, the mower is started, and in the afternoon the morning cutting is raked into large windrows, where it is allowed to finish its curing. When it is cured in large windrows or cocks not much of the hay is exposed to the sunshine and bleached; it preserves its rich pea-green color and loses very few leaves. From the windrows or cocks the hay is moved with a push-rake to the press, where it is baled and then carted to a large barn for storage.

The annual yield of alfalfa hay on the Graham farm is from four to seven tons an acre. Its market price in Plainview averages close to $12 a ton. At this rate and price, an acre produces from $48 to $84 worth a year. Mr. Graham estimates his total expenses, cost of irrigation, harvesting, baling and interest on investment at $26 per acre for the year. This leaves a net profit of $22 to $58 per acre in case the hay is sold in the local market. Mr. Graham, however, does not sell his hay unless it brings more than $20 a ton. He uses it in a more profitable way in his plan of farm management.

Mr. Graham thinks it is a poor practice to sell good alfalfa hay at less than $20 a ton. He prefers to market it through stock and sell them as a finished product. So he has added to his farm a fine bunch of pure-blooded Hereford cattle and feeds them his hay. In this way the cattle furnish a market for a considerable part of the crop.

Good alfalfa hay is unsurpassed for young, growing cattle and cows with calves. It produces milk for the calf and furnishes material for muscle and bone, and under a good supply of hay the growth is rapid and economically made. The large size of the yearlings and their fat, round, sleek bodies are proofs of the feeding value of alfalfa hay; and as a result of its splendid feeding value and proper handling, this herd has doubled its value in about three years, which is sufficient evidence of good feeding.

He has observed that hogs grazed on alfalfa without any other feed do not produce as rapid growth and gain as when they receive some grain, as kaffir or milo maize, to supplement the alfalfa. When the hogs are being finished for market they are fed liberally with kaffir, milo maize and feterita, which give practically the same results in fattening and hardening as corn.

The need of grain and winter-grazing crops led Mr. Graham to buy a second 80-acre tract of land just east of his original farm, making a total of 160 acres in his farms. This annex was divided into three fields, all of which are easily accessible from his barn by lanes and gates.

At this writing one 20-acre field is planted in speltz for winter grazing. The speltz is knee high and furnishing excellent grazing, though a herd of 20 or more cattle have grazed it this winter. As soon as the grazing season of the speltz is over, this field is to be planted in sorghum for soiling and ensilage purposes. The speltz has proven very satisfactory as a winter-grazing crop.

On about 40 acres milo and kaffir are planted. Under irrigation it produces from 50 to 75 bushels of seed per acre. This field is to furnish most of the grain for the hogs. On another field he has Indian corn, which can be grown successfully in this semi-arid region with the aid of irrigation. It will thus be seen that this farm is well adapted to the crops grown and the livestock raised. Conditions that cause one crop to fail make the others.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

WHEREAS, it has pleased the Almighty to remove from our midst, by death, our esteemed sister, Mrs. Grace Fair (nee Spreules), wife of our dearly beloved brother, Geo. F. Fair, and who was born in the State of Missouri on November 2nd, 1847, and died at the home of Mrs. C. B. Kilgore, in Tatum, New Mexico, on October 22nd, 1915.

Her first marriage, in 1862, which union was blessed with five children, four girls and one boy, was to J. H. Youngblood, who lived only nine years. She was married again in the year 1874 to Harvey Youngblood, who died in 1891. On October 17th, 1893, she was married to the Rev. Geo. F. Fair, with whom she lived happily until her death.

In childhood Mrs. Fair professed faith in Christ and united with the Methodist Church, and from that time on was ever faithful in the discharge of every Christian duty. She reared five of her own children, thirteen step-children, four grandchildren and one nephew.

Sister Fair was a member of the Daughters of Rebekah.

RESOLVED, that in her death the Lodge has lost a useful member, whose fellowship was an honor and a pleasure to enjoy, and that we offer to the bereaved family and sorrowing friends, over whom grief has cast her shadow, our every sympathy, and pray that their burdened hearts may have speedy relief and comfort in the thoughts that Death is the Golden Key that opens the Palace of Eternity to the Christian.

RESOLVED that copies of these resolutions be furnished to the sorrowing family, the Lodge and the press.

TO AID RURAL TEACHERS OF SOUTH IN NATURE WORK.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 2.—To assist teachers in Southern rural schools in making their courses of study fit more closely with the farm and home interest of the children, the United States Department of Agriculture will shortly publish a professional paper, "Exercises With Plants and Animals for Southern Rural Schools." This bulletin, No. 395, is in no sense a textbook, but is designed merely to be a guide for the teacher. It provides work in studying and observing plants and animals for each of the first five grades. The subjects to be studied by the pupils under the direction of the teacher are arranged by months in such a way that the subject matter may be studied at the time of the year when it is most interesting to the children.

Some of the work suggested is to be done in the classroom, but much of it is arranged for field trips by the class. In formulating the exercises the author had in mind increasing the interest of the children in their regular lessons as well as in the activities in their homes, and training them in outdoor observation by having them study ordinary seeds, plants, insects and animals carefully under the teacher's guidance. In this way the children are led to discover for themselves much of interest and value in nature that escapes the casual observer.

AUTOMOBILES IN OUR EXPORT TRADE, FISCAL YEAR 1915.

American automobile manufacturers doubled their sales abroad last year, their exports of automobiles and parts thereof in the year ending June 30, 1915, having aggregated over $74,000,000, against $38,000,000 in 1914, $2,000,000 in 1914, and $1,000,000 in 1902, the first year of record. The gains were most pronounced in the second half of the fiscal year, and if the record made by July is maintained until the end of December, which seems probable from present indications, the total exports of automobiles in the calendar year 1915 will be well above $120,000,000.

All parts of the world are buying American motor trucks and passenger automobiles, about 80 different countries being represented in the year's sales. Our motor trucks are being sold most largely in England, France, and Russia. In Greece, Denmark, Sweden, and Serbia sales have also reached unparalleled proportions. Increased sales are likewise being made in many countries far removed from the war zone, including Canada, Cuba, Central America, Java, Australia, British South Africa, and in our own territories of Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Alaska.

The year's exports of passenger automobiles were slightly less than those of 1914. Large gains in exports to the United Kingdom, Asiatic Russia, Cuba, Central America, the British West Indies, British Guiana, Venezuela, and British East Africa were more than offset by numerous decreases occurring elsewhere, notably France, Germany, and various countries in Europe, South America, and Asia.

"FARMER JIM" AND THE UNIVERSITY.

If the attitude of the press of Texas as a whole is an index, the people of Texas are looking with disfavor on Governor Ferguson's assumed relation to the University of Texas, and especially with reference to the election of a new president for the school.

It will be remembered that in the early part of the present year it was generally rumored, and, in fact, the story was sent out by the leading press agencies, that Governor Ferguson was attempting to force the school of journalism of the University out of existence by causing a curtailment of appropriations for the department. Of course, the Governor had a perfect right to view the school of journalism as a success or as a failure; but he was, indeed, exceeding his rights when he sought to bring preponderance to bear upon the board of regents in apportioning the appropriation to the various departments of the school.

"Farmer Jim" has made a better governor in many respects than the majority of Texans expected him to be. But his attitude in bringing political chicanery in play in connection with the University of Texas is making him mighty unpopular with the people.

If there is any institution which ought to be above partisan politics and pork-barrel policy, it is the educational institutions.

"As will be noted in another column, the esteemed Denison Herald gives it as a deliberate opinion that 'Dr. Battle cannot hold out, for the machine is headed for him.'

"The esteemed Herald spoke just in time. The next day's papers carried the news informally that Dr. Battle had asked the board of regents not to consider his name.

"Mr. Ferguson is sweeping all before him. He is putting none but Ferguson men on guard. The board that in any way disputes his apparent claim that he is monarch of all he surveys soon finds itself with a different personnel. One by one the heads of the opposition are falling into the waste basket.

"The public doesn't seem to mind."—Waco Times-Herald.

Dr. Battle was magnanimous in withdrawing his name as a candidate for the presidency of the University. Having worked up from an instructorship in the University to within one step of being its head, naturally he was disappointed. It was a laudable ambition to be the head of the great educational institution. Although he has not expressed it himself, probably this has been the goal of his years of work. In this light, his withdrawal was patriotic.

The people of Texas, it has been stated repeatedly from many sources, have not taken the keen interest in their institutions of higher learning they ought to have, but the time will come in Texas when Texas University will be free from the thwarting influences of partisan politics.

IS THE WORLD MONEY MAD?

"That commercialism dominates the world today no man who runs or reads may deny. People talk money, preach money, write money and dream of money when they sleep. The demand of the human family for money is an atmosphere created by universal desire. The whole thing in a nutshell is that the world is money mad, and the foundations are tottering. What is to be the end of it all?"—Hamilton Record.

Maybe so; but we don't believe it. That the world is money mad and that our foundations are tottering appeals to us as the utterance of the calamity howler.

This is a commercial age; but that does not imply that we are centering our every activity on accumulating money. Then, too, the reason why we want to accumulate wealth affects our attitude.

There never was a time when the Nation as a whole spent more money for philanthropic purposes than now. Never before has so much wealth been invested in churches, schools and libraries. Immense sums are spent each year in combatting disease. We are a commercial nation, but we are putting our money to good uses, on the whole.

What elicited the magnificent gifts the United States sent to war-ridden Belgium? Those were gifts prompted by the heart.

Sidney Lanier's masterful arraignment of our commercial spirit, which created much comment, was the expression of one of the South's most soulful men. His pleadings for more heart and less head was his message to the Nation. And even the soulful Lanier would recognize the sympathetic characteristics of the American public, and could see progress.

We are not money mad! We are not wild over accumulation of wealth. Our institutions are more firmly founded than those of any other nation, despite the cries of the reformists. Never at any time have the American people expended their wealth more freely to improve civilization.

The world's better today than it was yesterday—we believe that. No, we're not money mad.

MARKETING THE SORGHUM GRAINS ON HOOF.

In the early years of grain-sorghum production the crop was wholly used on the farms where it was grown. As the merits of these crops became better known and the acreage increased, there has been a growing surplus to dispose of commercially. There has been some difficulty in marketing this surplus promptly at profitable prices. Practically every farmer on the Plains who has had milo maize and kaffir to sell can attest this fact.

The value of this grain for feeding in milk, beef, pork and egg production is not yet fully recognized. In some seasons it has been almost a drug on the market until the following spring, when a growing scarcity of other feedstuffs has increased the price. If, indeed, kaffir and maize is to be in any sense the money crops of the South Plains section, it must be readily convertible into cash. This means that the surplus must be able to move freely, at good prices, soon after being threshed. Herein lies the value of the work being done by the Texas Kaffir and Milo Maize Association.

Since the sorghum grains are feeding grains, it is reasonable to suppose that they can be fed as profitably where grown as elsewhere, other things being equal. The cost of hauling to the railroad in wagons is eliminated. The cost of transportation to feeding points is saved, also. Experience shows that the cheapest method of transporting any grain to the market is on hoof.

In reverting to feeding maize and kaffir at home, and in adopting the silo, the South Plains farmer is placing himself in a position to prosper as few in his class in other sections have opportunity of doing.

In feeding at home, instead of shipping to the Northern and Central States for feeding, lies the greatest opportunity for industrial expansion in the South Plains country.

A FRIEND TO MAN.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn,
In the place of their self-conceit;
There are souls, like stars, that live apart
In the fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their path—
Where highways never ran—
But let me live in the house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in the house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
The men who are good, and the men who are bad,
As bad and as good as I.
I would not sit in the scorners' seat,
Nor hurl the cynic's ban;
Let me live in the house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with strife,
But I turn not away from their smiles or their tears—
Both parts of an infinite plan;
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

Black and yellow were the chosen colors for the Hallowe'en dance given last night at the Elks' lodge rooms. The walls of the reception and ball rooms were covered with a mystical array of black cats, witches, owls and bats, while jack-o'-lanterns lighted the pretty scene with their glimmering rays.

Festoons of black crepe paper were arranged on the walls, and streamers of the same gruesome hue connected the chandeliers, which carried out the motif of black and yellow in lighting and decoration.

Local musicians furnished music for the sixteen regular dances and four extras which were scheduled on the programs.

During the intermission, refreshments were served to the forty-five couples who enjoyed the dance, which was the largest and best appointed of the autumn season.

"Made in America" Program. With the president, Miss Burr Goode, presiding, Miss Nannie Mae Dunaway gave the first number, a piano solo. Following was a quartette by Misses Wade and Buchheimer and Messrs. Todd and Smith.

A round-table discussion of "U. S. A. Products" proved very interesting, subjects being discussed as follows, in which the following ladies made short talks on the subjects assigned them: Mrs. Jo W. Wayland, "Baking Powder;" Mrs. B. H. Towery, "Sugar and Trunks;" Mrs. O. B. Jackson, "Canned Goods;" Mrs. Elmer Sanson, "Artificial Flowers;" Miss Pauline Milwee, "Soap;" Mrs. D. F. Sanson, "Salt."

Miss Susie Glenn, "Cotton and Woolen Goods;" Mrs. E. O. Nichols, "Corsets;" Mrs. H. C. McIntyre, "Dyes;" Mrs. J. Walter Day, "Pottery."

Miss Buchheimer's vocal solo, accompanied by Miss Dunaway on the piano and Miss Walters on the violin, was a pleasing feature of the afternoon.

The broad and fruitful subject of "King Cotton" was ably handled by Mrs. George Saigling.

A reading by Miss Duggan from O. Henry preceded a paper by Miss Mayhugh upon "American Women of Successful Careers."

The facts stated by Miss Mayhugh and the instances cited to show that women are running neck to neck with men in most of the professions was a revelation in regard to numbers of women so engaged and their standing in the professions.

CARE OF SMALL PIGS.*Attention to Details Necessary to Develop Large, Healthy Litter; Feeding Ration.

The sow, in order to produce a large, healthy litter, should be in the best possible breeding condition. After she has been bred, careful feeding and management are necessary to develop successfully the litter she is to produce. It is well to keep a record of the date on which the sow was bred, in order to know approximately when the youngsters are about to arrive. The gestation period of pigs is 112 to 115 days. It is good policy to be at hand in case the sow needs help, but she need not be helped if she is getting along well.

What to Do When the Pigs Arrive.

When the pigs are born during warm weather they are less liable to become chilled and will generally find their way to the teats unaided. In extremely cold weather the pigs will be in danger of being chilled unless the hog house is heated. To remedy this, place a few heated bricks in the bottom of a basket or small box, cover them with chaff or straw, and put a cloth over the top to keep in the heat; unless the sow objects too seriously, the pigs may be rubbed dry with a soft cloth and placed in the receptacle as fast as they arrive. If any of the little pigs appear to be lifeless when they are born, first see that all mucus is removed from the nose, then give the pig a few gentle slaps on the side with the hand. This will start the pig breathing if there is any life in the body. Give it a suck of the sow's milk and place it in the receptacle described. The pigs will not suffer if they do not suck for a few minutes after farrowing.

Cut Out the Black Teeth.

Before placing the pigs with the sow cut out the eight small, tusk-like teeth. There are four of these on each jaw in the rear of the mouth. These teeth are very sharp, and if left in the pig's mouth they will likely cause tearing of the sow's udder, and the little pigs cut one another's mouths while fighting for a teat. These teeth can be removed with bone forceps, wire nippers, or a knife. Never pull out the teeth. Always cut or break them off. After this operation place the pigs with the sow, care being taken that each one gets a teat.

When the afterbirth is passed it should be removed from the pen at once and buried or burned. There is good reason to believe that eating the afterbirth is often the beginning of the habit of eating pigs.

The Sow's Feed.

Great care must be taken to feed the sow properly. If she is not being properly fed the little pigs will show it. If the pigs follow the sow around very much and pull at her teats, it is a good sign that she is not giving enough milk, and more feed should be given to stimulate milk flow. When a sow is overfed, causing a heavy milk flow, scouring is generally produced in the pigs. If this happens, cut down the sow's feed immediately. Give the sow 15 to 20 grains of sulphate of iron (copperas) in her slop morning and evening, and if necessary increase the dose until results have been obtained.

Exercise is Essential.

It is very necessary that the little pigs have plenty of exercise and all the sunlight that can be given them. If they do not get exercise, they will get fat and lazy and the usual result is the "thumps." This is caused by the fat getting so thick around the heart and lungs that the pigs find it difficult to breathe. They will be noticed heaving at the flank and gasping for breath. The best way to prevent this is to avoid overfeeding and make the young pigs take plenty of exercise.

Weaning.

When the pigs are about five weeks old they will begin to taste some of their mother's feed. Do not be in a hurry to wean them. Eight weeks is young enough to wean them, if there is skim milk for them. Of course, the size and development has a great deal to do with their weaning age. If skim milk is not obtainable, it is better to let the pigs nurse the sow until ten weeks old.

The Weaning Ration.

Skim milk and corn, or skim milk and shorts, fed in the proportion of 3 to 1, make an excellent ration for weanlings. If skim milk is not available, a mixture of 5 parts corn meal, 4 parts middlings, and 1 part tanage, fed as a thin slop, is very good. Good, succulent pasture is always beneficial. It will aid wonderfully in putting growth on the young pigs, and the grain expense will be lessened. After a litter of pigs has been weaned and are eating well, the most difficult part of their care is over. The feeding and management from then on will depend much upon whether they are to be kept for breeding or fattened for the market.

SETH WARD NEWS.

The Seth Ward College colors have been changed from blue and brown to crimson and black. These being the typical pirate colors, the football team will henceforth be known as the "Pirates." The appellation is suggestive of daring deeds, and is strictly applicable to the Seth Ward team.

On last Friday afternoon Seth Ward and the High School girls played a game of basketball, on the college campus, and much spirit and enthusiasm were shown by both teams. The result of the game was a victory on the part of Seth Ward, the score being nine to thirteen.

The spectators did some splendid rooting and yelling for both sides, which may or may not have had their effect on the outcome of the game. At any rate, there was fine "pep" among the players, and some unusually good work was done, especially in view of the fact that so little time had been devoted to practice.

Seth Ward decided to boost the cause of Jones Brothers Saturday evening by going to see the sights at the big circus. Such eagerness and anticipation as were evinced by the participants in the fun would have been very flattering to a less renowned company than Jones Bros., and it is possible that even they would have felt slightly elated had they witnessed the departure of the noisy, chattering group of youngsters from the college gates.

A few ill-fated damsels, who for various and sundry reasons were prevented from joining the circus-bound procession, remained at home—supposedly to mope in disappointment, but in reality to pull off a rival circus in the dormitory parlor. An ample supply of powder and rouge and numerous queer costumes and make-ups were promptly gotten together, and a brief rehearsal followed.

The first scene was a grand ball in honor of the hostess' guests, Samuel G. Pickford and William R. Johnson, who were ably represented by Misses Francis Turner and Alma Kincaid. Several musical numbers followed, chief among which were a solo by Little Bo Peep and a duet by the Blonde and Brunette in Black. Fantastic dances, drills and marches played an important part in the evening's entertainment. The clowns were constantly on the alert for an opportunity to provoke a roar of laughter, and assisted materially in the comic numbers. The Serenade of the Goblins was the last of the fictitious program, after which a dainty luncheon was served to the entire company. The return of the circus party sent the gay troop of revelers scurrying up to their respective rooms to feign peaceful and innocent slumber.

The Seth Ward football team will go to Clarendon November 6th to play football. Although a feeling of courtesy prevented them from putting one over the Clarendon team when they were here as visitors, this time the conditions will be reversed, and Seth Ward expects to hang on with bulldog tenacity until at least one score is made.

A portion of the Seth Ward bunch will call at Mr. Cochrane's photographic studio next Monday to have photographs made for the Seth Ward Annual. It will be a momentous occasion, for it will very probably be the first time there was ever so very much beauty, intelligence and attractiveness crowded into his studio at one time.

Seth Ward and Wayland played a snappy basketball game on the Seth Ward campus Thursday afternoon. Our bonny captain and her team entered into the real spirit of the game, and played so heroically that even Wayland's strong team was forced to come from the field defeated by six points. REPORTER.

DEPOSITS OF IRON ORE IN TEXAS.

In response to many requests received by the United States Geological Survey during the last three or four years for data concerning the iron-ore deposits of Northeastern Texas, a geologic reconnaissance of the area by Ernest F. Burchard was authorized last year, and the results have just been published by the Survey as Bulletin 620-E. The examinations include the deposits in Cass, Marion, Morris, and Cherokee counties.

A copy of this report may be obtained free on application to the Director, U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

SAVE THE MANURE.

A little attention to saving the stable manure this winter will add many dollars to the value of the crop next season. It is just as wasteful to allow a dollar's worth of stable manure to leach away by exposure to rain as to throw a dollar away in any other manner. It is one of the most valuable products of the farm—save it.—Progressive Farmer.

This is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable.

Hogs are lower than a week ago, although showing strength on different days, including today. Order buyers have bought freely, and a big rise in provisions yesterday put packers in a better frame of mind, they coming out late yesterday and paying top price, and participating in the advance of 10 cents on hogs today.

JUST THE RIGHT PRESENT.

Don't take chances in the matter of Christmas presents. You don't want yours, like so many others, to be received with indifference or worse, and ten days after Christmas to be cast aside and forgotten.

You take no such chance in giving The Youth's Companion for a year.

Did you ever know of a home in which it came amiss, or of one in which it was not conspicuous on the library table or in some one's hands all through the year?

It is worth while to make a gift of that sort, and it is worth while to receive it, too, for The Companion illustrates the best traits in American life in its stories and sketches, upholds the best standards in its articles and other contributions, and combines the practical and informing with the entertaining and blood-stirring.

If you do not know The Companion as it is today, let us send you one or two current issues free, that you may thoroughly test the paper's quality. We will send also the Forecast for 1916.

Every news subscriber who sends $2.00 for the fifty-two weekly issues of 1916 will receive free all the issues for the rest of 1915 and The Companion Home Calendar for 1916.

which the Villa forces must advance to the attack.

General Calles sent to Douglas tonight nearly 2,000 head of horses, including those brought from Eagle Pass, thus revealing that he had no intention of going out to attack Villa, but would await an attack on the garrison.

American Lines Inspected.

Brigadier General Thomas F. Davis, in command of the United States troops entrenched just north of the Mexican line, made a careful inspection of his men and their positions. He also kept a close watch on the Mexican military movements through field glasses, which plainly brought out details of the rapidly advancing column.

Thousands of spectators witnessed during the afternoon the first shooting incident of the attack to occur near the border, when a horseman, believed to have been a Calles spy, suddenly broke away from the Villa column and raced for his life, amid a shower of bullets, for the beleaguered Mexican town.

Several of the Villa soldiers went in pursuit of the man, shooting rapidly as they urged their horses forward, but the supposed spy reached Agua Prieta, apparently uninjured.
