$4,750,000 TO BE SPENT THIS YEAR IN FARM DEMONSTRATION WORK.

The Smith-Lever agricultural extension act of May 8, 1914, provides for a permanent national system of agricultural extension work to be carried on with Federal and State funds through the State agricultural colleges in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture, by means of instruction and practical demonstrations in agriculture and home economics to persons not attending the colleges.

The Smith-Lever Act appropriates money as follows:

(1) $10,000 of Federal funds annually to each of the 48 States.

(2) In addition to the $480,000, the act appropriates for 1915-16 $600,000 of Federal Smith-Lever funds. This sum will be increased annually by $500,000 of Federal Smith-Lever funds until 1923, when the annual Government appropriation will be set at $4,580,000. The additional appropriation is divided among the States in the proportion that the rural population of each State bears to the total rural population of the States. Any State, however, to share in this extra Federal Smith-Lever fund must appropriate and spend extension work at least an equal amount of money from sources within the State. The money from the States will bring the joint demonstration fund to $1,680,000 in 1915-16.

In addition to the Smith-Lever funds, however, the Department of Agriculture during 1916 will expend from its own appropriations for farmer co-operative demonstration work and for other direct instruction in special subjects over $1,025,000. However, the States will raise from sources within the State and spend for demonstration work a total of $2,650,000. This will make a grand total of $4,750,000 to be spent in the fiscal year 1915-16. This bringing practical and helpful instruction to the farmer and his family in their own communities.

WILSON AND LANSING AWAIT MORE FACTS IN PERSIA CASE

SENATE COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN RELATIONS WILL DISCUSS TEUTONIC POWERS.

ANOTHER SHIP REACHES MALTA

Is Fifth Boat From Sunken Liner; Another Believed to Have Escaped.

LONDON, Jan. 6, 3:40 p. m.—A fifth boat from the steamer Persia has arrived at Malta, according to a dispatch from that place to the Daily Mail, received through its Milan correspondent. The survivors believed that a sixth boat succeeded in getting away.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Bonds of restraint against public discussion of international relations of the United States incident to the European war were broken in the Senate today, and for more than an hour the session was enlivened by debate over the Government's neutrality policy, exports of war munitions and travel by American citizens on belligerent-owned ships.

There was no division of the debaters along party lines. Senator Jones, of Washington, Republican, denounced as "unpatriotic" American citizens who imperil the Nation by taking passage on belligerent vessels. Senator Works, of California, Republican, asserted that the Government of the United States was "hypothetically" claiming to be neutral when it was in fact participating in the war through the sale of munitions.

"Grossly Unneutral Act."

Senator Lodge, ranking Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, declared that to place an embargo on arms now would be worth more to Germany than a million men, that it would be a "grossly unneutral act," and would in fact make the United States the ally of Germany. Senators O'Gorman, of New York, and Hitchcock, of Nebraska, both Democrats, urged the advisability of an embargo on munitions. Senator O'Gorman also informed the Senate that American Consul R. N. McNeely, who lost his life on the British liner Persia, had disregarded the advice of American Consul General Skinner, at London, that he make the journey to Aden on a Dutch vessel.

The discussion was precipitated when Senator Jones read a newspaper editorial urging American citizens to keep off belligerent ships and advising the President to proceed slowly in the present crisis, heeding the interest of 99,000,000 rather than that of "a thousand reckless, inconsiderate and unpatriotic citizens who insist on traveling on belligerent ships."

To Discuss Foreign Relations.

Consideration of the situation growing out of the sinking by belligerent submarines of merchant vessels with American citizens on board will begin Friday by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. Senator Stone, chairman of the committee, today issued the call for the meeting. Members of the committee generally agreed tonight that the whole subject of relations of the United States with the Teutonic powers would be discussed freely.

The majority of the committee is understood to look with favor upon the determination of the administration to proceed with the utmost caution.

Lansing Submits Data.

Late today Secretary Lansing sent to the committee an accumulation of information bearing upon the attitude of Great Britain toward neutral shippers, called for in a resolution by Senator Hoke Smith, and information regarding the negotiations with Germany over submarine warfare, requested in an amendment offered by Senator Lodge.

It was reported, also, that all the information regarding the sinking of the Persia thus far received had been communicated to the committee. Members, however, declined to divulge

SYNOPSIS.

Dudley Larnigan, district attorney, attacks the liquor and vice trusts. He is killed by an agent of a secret society, the committee of fifteen. His son, Bruce Larnigan, is elected district attorney and takes up the fight. Bruce is in love with Dorothy Maxwell, whose father is head of the insurance trust.

Bruce Larnigan is decoyed to an evil resort in an effort to frame him up. He has the police commissioner present. A fire starts in a tenement. Larnigan saves the children of Dow, one of the conspirators. This man agrees to expose the trust. He is murdered by the gang.

Stanford Stone, head of the graft syndicate, insists Larnigan must be killed. Gunmen are posted in the park to kill Larnigan in his automobile. Dorothy Maxwell, over the dictaphone, hears the plot. Two more conspirators are killed and Larnigan again escapes.

BRUCE LARNIGAN, despite his successes over the graft syndicate since his election as district attorney, began to feel, after his miraculous escape from the plot to kill him in an explosion in the subway, that his chances of success along the lines he had so far followed were almost hopeless.

Gradually, it seemed to him, tremendous forces were being arrayed against him. The whole power of the city administration was on the side of the enemy. The mayor, with all the departments he employed, showed open antagonism. The newspapers, with the single exception of the Independent, were either openly hostile or sneeringly indifferent. A great many people who, it seemed to him, should give him enthusiastic support were decidedly lukewarm in their attitude. To Dorothy Maxwell, his fiancée and practically the only person in whom he was now able to confide, since he did not want to worry his mother with the details of his troubles, he told of his growing feeling that he was on the wrong road.

"We thought it was a wonderful thing when I was elected district attorney, dear," he said to her. "But the office has tied my hands again and again. Things that I could do if I were a private citizen I am barred from even attempting. Just for one thing—this graft conspiracy, I am convinced, is country wide.

"It isn't confined to New York alone. But as district attorney I can't go outside the city. My jurisdiction stops there."

"But you can go outside to get evidence," she suggested.

"The minute I do that they'll accuse me of neglecting my duty to pursue a fantastic conspiracy that, they say, has no existence at all except in my own brain. The best thing they say about me is that I'm visionary—a lunatic! Most of them say, whether they actually believe it or not, that I'm a crook."

"It's an outrage!" said Dorothy, with flashing eyes.

"Well, what do you think? It seems to me that I ought to resign as district attorney at once. I've been talking to Bart Nash. He's the editor of the Independent, you know—the man who gave Jim Stevens a job when Jim was fired for helping me to get the goods on the traction grafters."

"What does he say?"

"He agrees with me—that I ought to resign. He has promised me the support of his paper if I undertake to carry on the fight by a direct appeal to the people. That's my chance as I see it—to get the people stirred up, so that they will really demand action. So far they don't believe in me. But I can make them do it, I'm sure."

"Then if he thinks that and you feel as you do, I think you ought to resign," said Dorothy. "It's you that have got to make the decision. Bruce, I'm with you whatever you do!"

"That settles it," said Bruce. "I thought you'd agree with me. I shall resign at once. And the first move in my new fight will be against the grain trust."

"I didn't know there was one."

"There is, and a particularly mean one! It's responsible for the rise in the price of bread. There's plenty of grain, but they're creating an artificial shortage to send up prices. There's no reason at all for the rise. It's the worst sort of crookedness. I shall go to Chicago at once. That's the place where I can get the evidence, though it's St. John Dodson, right here in New York, who is my final quarry."

"Mr. Dodson!" said Dorothy, deeply shocked. "Why, he's one of papa's best friends!"

"That's just the trouble," said Bruce grittingly. "It's because men who are universally supposed to be honorable and decent, and who occupy fine and high positions, are at the bottom of all the crookedness that it's so hard for me to reach them."

Stanford Stone, the secret head of the graft syndicate and Bruce's great enemy, was not deceived by Bruce's resignation of his office, which filled some of Stone's associates with delight.

"He hasn't given up," he said. "Don't be fooled for a minute by his resignation. That's just a blind. He's going to keep on fighting, and it's more important than ever to put him out of the way. I know, for instance, that he's going to Chicago tomorrow to try to get evidence against Dodson and his grain shortage. Black's gone, but I've got another man to follow him."

So it came about that there traveled with Bruce, following him as closely as his own shadow, a desperado known to the police of a score of cities as Red Mike. Mike meant to earn his money.

With Bruce gone, Stanford Stone left no move unmade in New York that might help to achieve his object. His first blow was struck at the Independent. A hint was enough. With one accord advertisers withdrew their support until the paper faced a staggering loss. And Stone went further. His agents approached stockholders, who, frightened by the loss of earnings, were glad to sell their holdings. So Stone came into control of a great block of Independent stock and was able to apply for a receivership and so force the suspension, for a time at least, of the paper's publication.

At his instance, too, suits were brought against Bruce for criminal libel and for heavy damages by the men he had accused in connection with the traction trust exposure. These were strike suits, which could not succeed when they were brought to trial, but it was not Stone's purpose to let them come to trial. They served as an excuse for attaching Bruce's bank account and his home, and this was done. Bruce's mother was terrified by threats of ejectment from her home, and Stone relied upon her pleadings to induce Bruce to abandon his fight, even if his well laid plans to put Bruce out of the way should not succeed.

Even so, however, Stone was not content. He felt that Bruce still possessed one thing that he coveted—the love of Dorothy Maxwell. The engagement of the two had not been announced, but it was a more or less open secret. And now Stone, relying upon his hold over Roger Maxwell, her father, ventured openly to go to Dorothy and ask her to marry him. He was promptly refused, but would not take his answer. He wanted reasons, and Dorothy reluctantly told him of the plot to kill Bruce—that she had overheard by means of the dictaphone in his office. To her amazement, Stone made no denial.

"Leave things to me. I'll get through somehow," said Tom.

"I am his enemy," he said coolly. "I admit it. What of it? Your own father is associated with me. Larnigan's success would mean even more to him than to me."

"I don't believe you!" cried Dorothy desperately.

But she did. It explained so much that had troubled and mystified her. And Roger Maxwell, when she begged him to deny what Stone had said, couldn't do it. Indeed, he let her see that he was, to some extent at least, in Stone's power. It was a dreadful dilemma that Dorothy faced, with Bruce a thousand miles away, engaged, as she knew, in a bitter and perilous struggle.

And, even so, she did not know how great were the perils that dogged Bruce's trail. Red Mike, like some skulking beast of prey, waited for his chance to strike. A dozen times he held his hand, inspired by the animal cunning that was his, waiting to make sure.

Meanwhile Bruce found plenty of evidence. He was disturbed by the news that came to him from Bart Nash and Jim Stevens, but decided that it was better for him to stick to his own part of the work instead of going back to help them. He felt that he was on the trail of real facts, which would prove terribly damaging to the enemy.

At last there came the chance he had waited. A man he had bribed told him of a plan to send a schooner out on Lake Michigan from Chicago heavily laden with grain.

"Go along," he told Bruce. "You'll see something worth while." And Bruce did. Concealed in a boat, he saw the crew, under orders from the captain, dumping the perfectly good grain into the lake. It was so that Dodson's men were creating the shortage he was using as his excuse for raising the price of bread to the poor! This Bruce knew would serve his cause; the facts would speak for themselves. And he had a small camera with him, with which he took photographs of the dumping.

"I've ordered the price back. For God's sake take them away," said Dodson.

It was that, however, which was his undoing. He had to expose himself as he took the pictures, and some keen eye among the men saw him. In a moment he was dragged from the boat.

"It's a spy!" cried some burly ruffian.

And a moment later Bruce was fighting for his life. He fought well, but the odds were too great. He was overpowered in no time and savagely beaten. But then the plotters made a fatal mistake. Left alone Bruce might soon have died. But they threw him overboard.

The cold water revived him to some extent, and he was able to cling to a floating spar that came providentially within his reach. And an hour later he was spied from the deck of a yacht and picked up. He was unconscious when he was dragged on board. When he came to an hour later a strange man bent over his cot.

"Are you Bruce Larnigan," he said hoarsely, "like the papers in your pocket say?"

"I am," said Bruce, astonished at the other's emotion.

"Bruce—I'm Tom—you're my brother!" said the stranger.

It was a wonderful tale they made of it, between them. Tom left home in a fit of boyish passion years before. He had disappeared, and the family had long since believed him dead.

"I didn't have the heart to go home a failure, Bruce," he confessed after he had heard Bruce's story. "But, by the Lord, I'll go home now and do the work you set out to do! You'll be in a hospital for a spell, old chap, and you're lucky at that. But leave things to me. I'll get through somehow."

So Tom went east in Bruce's place. He carried a letter to Dorothy Maxwell, and he carried also an absolute determination to defeat the graft syndicate and do Bruce's work until Bruce recovered.

But his arrival at home dismayed him. He learned of his mother's sufferings, and he learned, too, that Dorothy Maxwell, the girl Bruce loved and trusted, was engaged to Stanford Stone.

"I'll play a lone hand, then," he said defiantly to himself. "I'll not deliver Bruce's letter. But I'll get this man Dodson by myself."

Chance guided him to a meeting of the poor held in protest against the rise in the price of bread. Tom Larnigan seized his chance. In a moment he displaced the speaker.

"This is a time to act—not to talk!" he cried. "Follow me! I'll lead you to the man who raised the price of bread!"

With a roar like that of a pack of wolves the crowd followed him, growing greater at every block, until at last it stormed the doors of the great office building in which St. John Dodson had his office, surged up to his office, and beat down all guards and barriers until it was at his very door. Then Tom went in alone to find the great man cowering at his desk.

"Shall I let them in," he asked, "or will you yield, you cur?"

"I've ordered the price back to the old figures!" cried the frightened Dodson. "For God's sake take them away!"

Tom believed him. He told the crowd they had won their fight. And even as he spoke, a shot rang out. Dodson had killed himself.

At once Tom and his mother went to Chicago, to find Bruce somewhat improved. He smiled as he heard of Tom's first blow at the forces of graft.

AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.

New Orleans has a director of the bureau of educational research who distrusts himself as too much of a doctrinaire on the subject of education. That he may revise his opinions in the light of contemporary facts he has decided to go to school again. He has begun in the first grade in the elementary school, from which he will rise from division to division of the eight grades, and then report to the superintendent on what the schooling has meant to him, wherein he considers the instruction improvable and how the courses of study may be changed for the better. Of course he will still be subject to the criticism that, as an adult, he can not possibly get the child point of view, thus he "becomes" one of them again. But the experiment is interesting, nevertheless, and to some extent will reflect, in whatever concrete reforms flow from it, an interior rather than exterior verdict. Exchange.

KANSAS CITY STOCK

MARKET IN DETAIL

KANSAS CITY STOCK YARDS.
 Jan. 7.—There was some weakness in beef steers last Tuesday, but the net change for the week was not material. The close of the week found everything cleared up, and packing houses with bare supply pens, hence everybody was in a buying mood today, receipts 16,000 head. A large share of the receipts were stockers and feeders, and trade in these was active, at stronger prices. Killing cattle sold at steady prices. Nothing extra good in steers was here, top price $8.25, middle-class steers $7.00 to $8.00, plain warmed-up steers around $6.50.

Cows and bulls are selling at higher prices, choice heavy cows $6.50 to $7.00, choice heavy bulls up to $6.25, veal calves also higher, up to $9.50.

Stockers and feeders continue to move freely, country demand apparently insatiable. Outgo last week was twice as great as corresponding week a year ago, and the total shipments for the year 1915 was never before equalled, at 919,000 head. Iowa and Minnesota contributed about 150 car loads of cattle today, largely stockers, and some hogs and sheep were also included from Northern Iowa.

Nine loads of Panhandle yearlings, 600 pounds average, brought $8.00 today, but stock steers are selling mainly at $6.00 to $7.00, feeders largely at $6.25 to $7.00, some fleshy feeders taken recently in competition with packers up to $8.10. The cattle market today was encouraging, particularly with the rather liberal run.

Hogs arrived to the number of 17,000 head, including 5,000 head brought in by packers, most of them bought at Sioux City. Chicago had an enormous supply, and a break in prices, and sales here were largely 10 cents lower, top $6.72½, bulk of sales $6.40 to $6.70. Light hogs are selling relatively better than a week ago, up to $6.65 today. Total hogs packed since the season opened, November 1st, at Western points is 20 per cent greater than a year ago, in number of head, but weights average about 14 per cent lighter this year, hence the net gain is materially reduced. Sales of cut meats and product are 40 to 50 per cent heavier than a year ago, and lard sales show a big increase. Shortage of ocean vessels is restricting exports, else the increase would be greater. Apparently the hog market is on a firm basis, and able to take care of very heavy supplies.

Sheep and lambs made a sharp advance last week, and then suffered a relapse. Today the run is 10,000 head, and the market is 10 to 25 cents higher, almost up to last week's high level. Best lambs brought $9.25 to $9.35 today, yearlings $8.25, wethers $6.75, ewes $6.25. Dealers say Northern Colorado and Western Nebraska will run lambs fast now, till the market breaks, which would indicate no skyrocket prices during the next month.

ACCORDION POPULAR IN MADAGASCAR.

By Consul James G. Carter, Tamatave. The natives of Madagascar are great lovers of music, and, in addition to their own primitive instruments, the accordion is very popular. Within the last few years, the importation of these instruments has shown a steady increase, about 20,000 being imported annually, to the value of about 150,000 francs ($28,950). These goods have practically all been imported from Germany. In France it has not been possible to produce and place on the local market similar accordions in competition with the German article, which pays a duty of 1 franc ($0.193) per instrument.—Daily Commerce Reports.

The Classiest Car of Them All! The Product of Experience!

—and in making announcement of the arrival of the CHEVROLET we will deal only with facts and give real information which we believe will be of real value to our prospective buyers.

Glittering generalities do not produce efficiency in automobile construction. "No chain is stronger than its weakest link." No motor car is better than its motor.

The Chevrolet's cleanly lines mirror the industrial straightness of its builder, Mr. William Crapo Durant, organizer of the world's greatest and most successful automobile companies — at present head of the CHEVROLET MOTOR CO.

The staunchness of the Chevrolet is emblematic of Mr. Durant's determination to lead. Its materials reflect the fiber of his personality and the complete vehicle is an entire living personification of this modern miracle man.

The purchase of a Chevrolet leaves nothing to be regretted. You'll want it because of its stability—its luxurious comfort and you will take a personal pride in owning the Chevrolet.

Pay your poll tax!

Have you a friend in politics who is deserving and needs your help? Pay your poll tax!

Better secure that voting permit and do it now! It's the compelling evidence of citizenship.

Pay your poll tax and pay it early! You see this statement so often and in so many different places it becomes commonplace. The chances are you will be one of those persons who neglects payment, intending all the while to pay, until it is too late. Pay it today!

The larger part of your poll tax goes to the schools. They need the money. And you are no more of a citizen than a yellow-skinned Chinaman with a long queue if you don't pay your poll tax. Suffrage gives effective citizenship. Some people believe it is a patriotic duty, also, to pay this assessment. Every property owner must pay his poll tax at the same time he pays property tax. If that time is later than midnight, January 31, there's a ten per cent penalty added to both.

COUNTY AGENT AND ASSISTANT WORKING.

Is Tarrant to be the best-farmed county in Texas? We think so. Because of the large amount of work Demonstration Agent Eudaly has developed, an assistant agent is now assigned to Tarrant County for immediate duty. The development of Tarrant County farms and truck gardens, and new interest in dairying and hog raising, will figure largely in general home prosperity the current year. Tarrant County is out in front and proposes to stay there.—Star-Telegram.

GIVE THE TEXAS HEN A CHANCE.

The New York Commercial says that contracts for 2,000,000 pounds of dressed poultry have been placed in the hands of operators in that market for exportation to England. The exact ultimate destination is not stated.

This means that the supply of poultry in this country will be drawn upon. Exports of poultry, the trade journal states, are larger than have been known before.

There is always a good demand for poultry, and the Texas hen, if given a chance, will do her part toward filling it.

One man in Hale County has a few thoroughbred chickens. He counts them the best investment on his farm, and considers practically all the poultry and eggs sold a by-product. He houses them well, and gets eggs the year around.

The best tribute to the Texas hen is that she helps lift mortgages, and makes for better food for the farm table.

WILL WE EAT HORSE FLESH?

The New York Board of Health has authorized the sale of horse flesh in the markets of the city. However, the same requirements as to the health of the animal slaughtered as are made in the sale of beef, mutton and pork hold for horse flesh.

We are told that our Nation now has a population of more than 100,000,000. Actuaries tell us that by the end of the century we will have a population equal to that of Europe. In Europe horse flesh is sold. It is common in the markets of Germany, but is always branded "horse flesh."

That horse flesh is being used now in the largest city of the Nation, that it is an economical food, that we are constantly changing our ideals of living, that many of the European nations eat horse flesh, lead to the speculation that within a few generations we, too, may become eaters of horse flesh.

But as to the present generation, no—never!

THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AND THE FARMER.

During the year which closed June 30, 1915, the United States Department of Agriculture printed and distributed 36,000,000 copies of documents of all kinds pertaining to agriculture and stock raising. Every phase of the industries was touched upon. Some of the papers were lengthy and technical discussions, but many of them couched in plain, every-day terms so that the average man could understand. The Farmer's Bulletins are documents of the latter nature.

This series of bulletins continues to grow in favor. They are free for the asking.

Unlimited valuable information is available from the Department of Agriculture. A list of the publications of the department may be secured and from it whatever bulletins are desired may be ordered. The department has laid its plans so that every farmer who wishes information from it can secure it free, or at a nominal cost. A wider distribution of the bulletins is a thing much to be desired. The increasing demand for the bulletins is an encouraging sign of the tendency of the farmer of the day.

The coming progressive demands farmers are making and the putting into execution of scientific principles of farming, is not a wave of revolution; rather, it is the reaction of a revolution which has preceded.

A MAN WITH A VISION.

Years ago, we are told, 10,000 people stood in the snow on Madison Square, in the heart of New York City, and sang in the New Year under the leadership of Jacob Augustus Riis. This year and last year they sang in memory of him.

Jacob Riis saw a vision. It appeared to him while he was a reporter for the New York Sun. His work called him into the tenement districts of New York. He saw there squalor, filth, poverty and wretchedness. He saw unsanitary baking being done for the people of the tenements in basements, which were reeking in filth. He saw young children with pinched features and haggard faces. He saw filthy houses, unfit for dwelling. He saw police lodgings which were unfit.

Jacob Riis' vision was of sanitary tenements, supplies of wholesome food, small parks, which would serve as breathing places for the people. That vision brought him to the realization of his mission, and his life work was the accomplishment of the things which would approach the ideal of his vision as nearly as possible. He labored for years to have more school houses built, to abolish child labor, to secure a supply of wholesome water for the city.

The thousands who honor him each New Year, the "Jacob Riis' Boys" from the social settlement founded by him, attest the goodness of his life's work.

INVESTIGATING CRUDE-FIBRE CONTENT IN COTTONSEED MEAL.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Jan. 3.—Officials of the feed-control service, administered from the experiment station at the A. and M. College, and leading oil mill operators of Texas have been engaged in a friendly controversy over the relations governing the sale of cottonseed meal. Much cottonseed meal that has failed to meet the requirements of the feed-control service has been sold this year, and where violations have been discovered legal steps to prevent the sale of this feed have been taken by the feed-control officials. Millers contend that the standards for crude-fibre content are too low, and are asking that this ruling be changed. Crude fibre in cottonseed meal in excess of the standards of the feed-control service indicate adulteration by use of cotton seed hulls in the meal, says Director Youngblood. Inasmuch as the average of

Illustrious Americans

Among Americans are to be counted not only those of American birth, but those who have become citizens of the Nation by naturalization. One of this class is Jacob Augustus Riis, the American civic reformer and journalist, who died May 26, 1914.

He was born in Ribe, Denmark, in 1849, and was one of a family of fourteen children. In 1870, having worked as a newspaper writer and a carpenter's apprentice, he landed in New York City, and after several years' hardship in attempting to earn a living, he became a reporter for the New York Sun. His work had chiefly to do with the police headquarters and police courts, where the conditions which he saw in tenement houses led him to begin the fight to remedy these. His first efforts were directed to the abolition of police lodgings, which were in a deplorable condition, and with the support of Theodore Roosevelt, who at that time was police commissioner, this result was accomplished.

Mr. Riis then began his efforts to improve the tenement-house situation, and wrote a book which was widely read, entitled "How the Other Half Lives." In the period from 1877 to 1897 he worked unceasingly for the city's welfare. A history of this period is given in his book entitled "The Ten Years' War." He also was responsible for a number of small parks taking the place of some of the worst spots in the city. He labored for years to have more school houses built, and compelled indifferent city officials to concede to reforms which he suggested or approved. Among the important results accomplished through his efforts was the purchase of the Croton watershed as a supply for the city, after he exposed the contaminated state of the water which the city was previously using.

He brought about the destruction of rear tenements and enforced the obliteration of Mulberry Bend, the worst tenement block in the city, the space being turned into a park. He fought for and secured a truant school; drove bakeshops out of the tenement basements; worked for the abolition of child labor, and when a law was enacted, compelled its enforcement. Playgrounds for schools and the opening of school-rooms to boys' and girls' clubs were brought about largely through his efforts. President Roosevelt, with whom he was associated for years, said of him: "He is a man who acts squarely, works hard, wears no sour visage, and not only holds high ideals but fights for them; and he carries on no rose-water revolutions."

Mr. Riis declined many offers to hold public office. He wrote many articles for magazines on social and economic subjects, and was also a well known lecturer. Among his published writings are: "The Children of the Poor" (1892); "The Making of an American" (his autobiography, 1901); "The Battle With the Slum" (1902); "Children of the Tenements" (1902); "The Peril and the Preservation of the Home" (1903); "Theodore Roosevelt, Citizen" (1904); "The Old Town" (1909).

crude-fibre content has fallen below the maximum limits set by the service, Director Youngblood has not considered favorably the request of the mill operators.

Packing seldom-used silverware in dry flour will prevent it tarnishing.

CLAIMS KAISER HAS CANCER.

Report Is That He No Longer Can Speak and That Removal of Larynx Is Urgent.

That the German Emperor is suffering from cancer of the throat and is no longer able to speak is the report sent to the United States by the press agencies. Its source is The Martin, Paris, France.

"In February, 1911," according to the Martin, "the doctors were considering whether it was necessary to remove the entire larynx in order to stay the progress of the disease. They raised the question as to whether the Emperor would be able to speak if such an operation were performed. The leading specialists of every capital in Europe were consulted. It was learned that an eminent surgeon of Paris had, with an artificial larynx and a breathing tube opening into the trachea, restored the power of speech to cancerous patients who had undergone total ablation of the affected organs.

"This doctor, whose name the Martin withholds for reasons of professional etiquette, was asked to go to Berlin by the German Ambassador. He was offered 100,000 francs and all his expenses and was requested to bring with him a patient who had been fitted with the apparatus, so that the Emperor himself might see if he was able to speak.

"Meanwhile, as a result of a minor operation, the Emperor's condition improved, as is often the case in this disease, the progress of which is implacable but slow. It is another operation of this kind which as just been performed. But it is only palliative. The German Emperor must either make up his mind to complete removal of the larynx or be stifled.

"This explains why the Emperor went neither to Warsaw, nor Brussels."

IN HONOR OF WARD-BELMONT STUDENT, SOON TO LEAVE.

One of the most pleasant affairs of the week was the farewell party given Wednesday night by Mesdames James W. Grant and J. O. Wyckoff for Miss Jennie Humphreys, who leaves Saturday for Ward-Belmont.

In accordance with leap year, the sterner sex was excluded from the charmed circle. None but the fair were invited.

A visit to The Mae I was the first pleasure of the evening. Afterwards they returned to the home of Mrs. Grant, where the guests decided their destiny by playing Old Maid. Very carefully were the cards slipped from one fair hand to another, each eager to escape the dreaded fate. At last the card showing the much maligned lady fell to the lot of—it is hardly fair to tell!

After this strenuous mental exertion the guests were rewarded by Mesdames Grant and Wyckoff with a dainty and substantial salad course, beautifully served.

Those invited to enjoy this initial leap year affair were Misses Jennie Humphreys, Edna and Wilhelmina Harrington, May Kinder, Kathryn Powell, Vera Newton, Celestine Harp, Esther Lou Harp, Florence Keys, Nell Rountree, Ada Mae McKinney, Joe Keck, Mildred Buchheimer and Nell Sansom.

THE HIGHLAND CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. LLOYD MAYHUGH.

The first Highland Club meeting for the new year will long be remembered as one of the largest and gayest of the season. Mrs. Lloyd Mayhugh was hostess on this pleasant occasion, at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. L. Vaughn, 600 Restriction Street.

Eight tables were arranged for the members, the guest of honor, Mrs. R. L. Stringfellow, of Las Angeles, Calif., and the special guests invited by the hostess.

A beautifully appointed hot luncheon was served, followed by a plum pudding course.

Additional to the members and the honor guest were present Mesdames J. M. Adams, D. H. Sansom, H. W. Harrel, J. C. Anderson, Everett Dye, E. T. Coleman, R. A. Underwood, W. B. Price, A. B. Martin, B. F. Smith, Nell Dorsey, Joe Scott, Lee Stevens, L. G. Wilson, George Saigling, W. W. Underwood, Carl Donohoo, Elmer Sansom and W. E. Armstrong, and Misses Edna Mayhugh and Pauline Milwee.

FIVE HUNDRED CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. T. C. SHEPARD.

With Mrs. T. C. Shepard as hostess, the Five Hundred Club met in delightful session Tuesday afternoon.

At the close of the usual game, an elaborate turkey dinner was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Clint Shepard, to the members and Mesdames Scott Gale, Albert G. Hinm, E. H. Bawden, J. J. Lash, J. R. DeLay, J. W. Webb and Elmer Sansom.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. E. E. Roos, Tuesday, January 18th.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to the friends and neighbors who so kindly gave their time and sympathy during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father. We also wish to express our gratitude for the beautiful flowers sent for the funeral. MRS. B. T. ANSLEY, SR., AND CHILDREN.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Circle No. One of the Woman's Missionary Society held its last meeting with Mrs. L. H. Sloneker, on Adams Street.

A pleasant informal hour or more was spent by hostess and guests, including the serving of chocolate and cake.

Circle No. Three of the Woman's Missionary Society met Tuesday with Mrs. L. A. Jones, 210 Prairie Street.

The meeting was opened with reading of Scripture by Mrs. Jones, followed by a discussion of plans for the year's work in connection with the other circles.

An informal program was given, including music by little Miss Blanche Bone and readings by Mrs. W. A. Lassell and Mrs. O. B. Jackson.

A dainty salad course, with cake and coffee, was served.

MISS LUCILE WILKINSON ENTERS MOVIE CONTEST.

Miss Lucile Wilkinson, of Plainview, has entered the "Beauty and Brains" contest being conducted by the Photoplay Magazine in conjunction with the World Film Corporation.

The proposition is to send eleven young women to the studios at Fort Lee, New Jersey, across the river from New York City, where they will be given a thorough try-out as film actresses. All of their expenses will be paid on this trip, and if they show any talent they will be given contracts for a period of not less than one year at regular salaries paid to stars.

No effort will be spared to make film stars of these young women. Miss Lillian Russell and William A. Brady are among the judges of the contest. Their experience and reputation alone assures contestants of every possible consideration based solely upon ability.

"We Do As We Advertise"

BUSINESS IS GOOD, SAYS ABERNATHY CORRESPONDENT.

Rev. A. L. Moore Will Hold Quarterly Conference There on January 15 and 16.

ABERNATHY, TEXAS, Jan. 6.—Abernathy starts off nicely for the new year. Business was never so brisk, and farmers are busy moving and getting ready to put in their crops.

Rev. Bone, of Hale Center, was in Abernathy on business Monday.

Red Tudor left last week for Plains, where he was married Sunday. He and his bride returned this week to make Abernathy their home. Mr. Tudor has just finished a new bungalow, which they will occupy.

Rev. Q. Brown and son, of Kress, came down to their farm, south of here, this week and are getting ready for the new crop.

Mrs. A. E. Butterfield and children, of Plainview, visited relatives and friends near here last week.

I. C. Houston and family have moved to their farm in the Strip community.

Elbert Overton is erecting a modern residence—one of the best in this section—in Abernathy, and it will soon be ready for occupancy.

Rev. A. L. Moore will hold the Methodist Quarterly Conference at Abernathy January 15 and 16.

The la grippe is still at large among our folks, and pneumonia has developed in some cases, but has been given prompt medical attention and all are on the road to recovery.

Sam Merrill was in Plainview on business last Saturday.

LIBERTY SUNDAY SCHOOL ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1916.

LIBERTY, Texas, Jan. 5.—Liberty Sunday School was well attended Sunday afternoon. Start the new year by coming to Sunday School. We held our annual election of officers last Sunday. Officers for the coming year are: E. E. Freeman, superintendent; A. C. Perkins, assistant superintendent; Miss Alma Boston, secretary; J. C. Fuller, assistant secretary; Mrs. J. J. Groff, treasurer; Earl Raper, choir-ster; Messrs. R. E. Houston and J. C. Fuller, assistant choirsters; Miss Helen Groff, organist; Mrs. R. E. Houston, assistant organist. Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and family spent Sunday with W. F. Beard and family.

Earl Raper, Miss Nellie Williams, Grandma Parks and C. C. Alexander and family dined Sunday with J. J. Groff and family.

WAYLAND COLLEGE NOTES.

The school has had a good opening after the holidays. Most of the former students have returned, and quite a goodly number of new ones have entered. More are expected before the new spring term begins.

All the teachers are back in their places, except Professor Holcomb, who has resigned and returned to his former work. He was greatly respected among us, and we wish for him every good that can come.

Prof. T. L. Girault went over to Mississippi and married him a beautiful young wife. We congratulate him and welcome her to the college home.

One of our former graduates, Miss Prudence Bower, married, also, during Christmas. She married Gerold Craig, who will be kindly remembered by former students. They are to live in Ballinger, where Mr. Craig holds an important position in the city schools. It was a snowy night when they married, but the sun was shining next day, beautifully. We hope that means that the winter of their discontent has passed and that the sun of gladness may ever shine for them.

Prof. S. M. Wilson, who has had extended experience in High School work in Texas, has been elected to teach in the Intermediate Department, and he is winning good opinions already by his pleasant manners and successful class-room work. He brings two daughters with him as students.

J. R. Graves is chosen steward and general supervisor of buildings and grounds. He will help run the dining room and kitchen, where we find a new cook, Charlie Wingo. He has a wife, a beautiful young wife, and that may account in large part for the delightful dining-room service. The students express satisfaction with the delightful meals.

Since the President and his family have become a part of the college family, we are having most enjoyable times. After supper the whole student body, together with the teachers and their families, assemble over at the girls' dormitory and spend thirty minutes in social intercourse, in songs and other delightful things, and worship before going to the evening tasks.

Things are moving beautifully, and we look for many more to join us before the spring term begins. This promises to be one of our best years. CORRESPONDENT.

With unerring judgment of value—
With a rush that swallowed up a record production in jig time—

The public took more than 50,000 of the $750 Overlands in six months.

In six months we've absorbed all the overhead; absorbed all the development expense; realized on all the experimental cost that is usually spread over a year.

We covered our material requirements at before-the-war prices—saved three and a half million dollars on aluminum and another million on steel.

We have increased our production capacity of 300 cars a day last June to 1000 cars per day.

So again we have broken all records.

Again we have planned and bought material for a bigger production program.

Here is the value which has clearly dominated the automobile market for the last six months—now made even more clearly dominant.

Here is the car with a performance record never even approached by any car of its size ever built—fifty thousand in every day service.

And though the price is reduced the car is improved.

It has an up-to-the-minute power plant, en-bloc type, developing full thirty-five horsepower. It has abundant power and speed and an exceptionally quick get-away.

The value is pre-eminent—unapproached.
We guarantee the price for this model will never be lower.

But this price reduction is made in the face of a rising material market—we cannot guarantee that it will not be higher.

FLOYD COUNTY MAN IS LOUD IN PRAISE OF SOUTH PLAINS.

Writes Friends in Missouri of Many Advantages of the South-west.

J. E. Jackson, of near Lockney, has been on the South Plains only a short time. This year's crop is his first here. Mr. Jackson is an ardent booster for this section, as the following excerpt from a letter printed in the Higginsville (Mo.) Advance shows:

"I am exceedingly well pleased with my new home. Everything in all lines of business seem to be very promising here, on the Plains. The development of this country is wonderful. This climate being high and dry, neither too hot nor too cold, with as good, fertile land as can be found anywhere, producing bountiful crops every year, being to easy to cultivate; with everything in favor of the laboring man as well as the moneyed man, makes the future promising indeed. People are coming to this country from everywhere, and coming quite rapidly. I have met more people from Missouri since I came here than from any other state, and I have had the pleasure of meeting a good many acquaintances from in and around Higginsville this summer and fall. Among them I will mention Mr. and Mrs. Smyth, of Concordia; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schloemann, Dr. and Mr. Britt, and Mr. Gayle Gladish, Carter Sharp, Lump Keith, John Wittmar and J. F. Jackson, of Higginsville, and Mr. Perry, of near Lexington.

"Everyone seems to be delighted with the Plains country, and I cannot see why they should not. Everything is in our favor. It is a healthy place to live in. We have the finest water in the world, and our land is rich as cream. It is as beautiful as any park. We have no rocks, no gumbo, no hollows. We do not have to till our land to get the water out from under it. We do not have to ditch our land to drain the water off. We have no brush or stumps. Our roads are as smooth and almost as level as Main Street in Higginsville. We have no bridges to make. Our taxes are low. We have ample rainfall most of the season; when it fails to rain we pump the water up from below. I think I shall visit my old home some time this winter."

MAKING ELECTRIC RAIN.

A new scheme for artificially producing rain is to be tried out in Australia, where there are large sections of land that would be valuable for agricultural purposes if sufficient moisture could be insured, says the Scientific American. A captive balloon at a height of 6,000 to 7,000 feet and anchored in the path of prevailing winds will be used to discharge electricity into the atmosphere; and it is hoped thus to cause sufficient ionization to provide nuclei upon which the moisture of the clouds will condense. —Exchange.

WILSON AND LANSING AWAIT MORE FACTS IN PERSIA CASE.

the exact nature of the documents received from the State Department, or discuss their contents.

Official details upon which President Wilson and Secretary Lansing will decide the course of the United States in the Persia crisis were lacking tonight, and in the absence of specific information official Washington continued to view the admittedly grave situation with an open mind.

Wilson and Lansing Confer.

During a conference which lasted an hour today the President and Secretary of State carefully considered such information as had been received. While no announcement regarding the conference was made, it is known the President will adhere to his position of taking no action of any sort until the full facts are before him.

During the day the State Department sent additional instructions to its representatives abroad, urging haste in the gathering of information. Secretary Lansing made it clear that the department had received nothing which would tend to establish two most essential points, namely, whether a torpedo sank the Persia, and, if so, the nationality of the submarine which fired it.
