SENATE MAY ACCEPT TREATY WITHOUT FURTHER CHANGES

RESERVATIONS MAY BE AGREED TO AND TAKE FINAL VOTE TO RATIFY

Washington, Oct. 21.—The question of accepting the peace treaty reservations without further opposition was earnestly considered by democratic leaders today under the pressure of development pointing to an early showdown in the ratification fight.

The treaty opposition forces, announcing a complete agreement on a reservation program by the senate majority, brought the situation to an unexpected issue by serving notice that their proposal would go before the foreign relations committee tomorrow, when the administration leaders would be asked to go on record definitely accepting or rejecting it.

Described by the majority spokesman as in the nature of an ultimatum the announcement was followed by a conference on the administration side, which lasted all day but resulted in no final decision.

The reservation program as it is to be presented to the committee for approval, was not made public, but it was understood to embrace reservations, evolved from suggestions gathered from many sources.

The subjects said to be covered were the following:

The right of this country to judge whether its obligations had been fulfilled in case of withdrawal from the league of nations; the unimpaired power of congress to decide questions of peace or war under article ten; domestic decision of all domestic questions; preservation unaffected of the Monroe doctrine; refusal to be a party to the Shantung settlement; equalization of voting power in the league; limitation of such representatives and those on international commissions; and nullifying labor conference to challenge the eligibility of American representatives in international labor bodies.

Steel Strikers Continue to Lose

It is now generally conceded that the steel strike has been lost, as the mills are each day running more on their normal schedule, and workers are said to be rapidly going back to work.

There was some rioting by strikers at Braddock, Pa., last night, but was put down by police.

STRUVE

Oct. 20.—The farmers of this community are about through harvesting and wheat sowing is well under way. The alfalfa farmers are ready to cut their last crop of hay.

On Sunday afternoon, Oct. 19, at the home of the bride, was solemnized the marriage of Miss Lucy Henderson and Ernest Worrel in the presence of more than a hundred friends and relatives, Rev. Rhea of Runningwater, officiated. The bride is the pretty and popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Henderson. The groom only a few weeks since returned from overseas duties, having seen active service at the front. These young people will make their home on the Jim Phillips farm, and we wish for them much success in life.

Mr. and Mrs. George Galloway came over from Olton to stay over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Erb and to attend the wedding.

On Oct. 11 the ladies of this community gave a shower to Miss Lucy Henderson, the bride-to-be, at the home of Mrs. Ed Kiser. Many pretty and appropriate presents were received.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Meekma on last Monday, a girl.

The lakes in the Plainview country are now covered with wild ducks and some wild geese and cranes, and hunters are having some fine sport, though the game is very wild and hard to get within shooting distance.

WOULD RELIEVE SHORTAGE OF CARS

General Manager Parker of Santa Fe to Confer With Federal Authorities

Amarillo, Oct. 16.—R. J. Parker, general manager of the Santa Fe western lines, with headquarters in this city, has left for Chicago to confer with the federal manager of the Santa Fe lines, and the regional director of the central western region, in order to place before them the crying need of this section for adequate shipping equipment, especially for the wheat crop, a great per cent of which is at the present time lying on the ground exposed to the fall rains, awaiting shipment.

In view of the mammoth wheat crop expected throughout the southern district of the western lines of the Santa Fe system, that road obtained a special supply of more than 4,600 box cars, which were to be utilized in the shipment of the crop. Although this supply was considerably in excess of any that had hitherto been accumulated in anticipation of the wheat movement, it was soon proved inadequate by the enormous crop, a condition which is resulting in incalculable loss to this territory. With the assurance of both shipping and grain boards that every possible effort will be put forth to relieve the congestion at Galveston, and assure a free flow of grain to that port, together with Mr. Parker's efforts in securing for this region special consideration, it is believed that the present condition will soon be relieved.

Panhandle Short Line Officials

Messrs. J. H. Wambeam, M. M. Hollenbach and E. G. Cook, officials of the proposed Panhandle Short Cut railroad for which they have a charter from this state to build, connecting Dalhart with this city were visitors here the latter part of last week. Mr. Cook of Wichita Falls, is president of this company, and Mr. Hollenbach is also an official, of Wichita Falls. Mr. Wambeam, of Springfield, who was here with these men as chief engineer of the proposed road. These men were making the trip overland investigating thoroughly the route. We understand that they were highly pleased with the route between Dalhart and this city.

It is the intentions of this company we are informed, to construct the road from Dalhart via this city on to Austin. We are told that their biggest problem so far encountered by the company is their route out of this city toward their destination.

The officials are also working on getting out their prospectus, showing the kind of country, its products, development, etc. Pictures of these will be made and inserted in the booklet.—Lubbock Avalanche.

TIME CHANGES BACK AN HOUR SATURDAY NIGHT

Set Back Your Clocks, Go to Sleep and Wake Up on Old Time

Saturday night the nation will set its time pieces back an hour, and wake up Sunday morning on "old time."

The "daylight saving" law was enacted nineteen months ago as a war measure—providing that time should be advanced an hour on the last Sunday in March and put back to the old astronomical time the last Sunday in October. The law did not suit the farmers and but few other avocations, hence was recently repealed, though it had to be done over the veto of President Wilson. Hence, after Saturday night we will no longer be bothered with this "daylight saving" fad.

PLAINVIEW RABBITS WON TWO SILVER CUPS AT FAIR

Hatchell Gets First on Junior New Zealand Doe—Vanderpool on Flemish Giant Buck

Hale county rabbits won two silver trophy cups in the rabbit show at the Dallas fair, A. A. Hatchell winning first premium on junior New Zealand doe, 3 to 5 months old, and F. W. Vanderpool, first on Flemish Giant buck. E. E. Warren received second on New Zealand junior doe.

Mr. Hatchell says he is very much gratified, as there were twenty-five entries in the class with his rabbit, some from as far away as California. He says there is no section of the country where the climate and other environments are more conducive to successful rabbit growing than the Plains.

While in Dallas Mr. Hatchell also bought fine prize-winning rabbits and a number of prize-winning chickens—Buff Rocks, Buff Wyandottes and Buff Leghorns.

Got Big Bundle of Ribbons

Mr. and Mrs. George Saiging have returned from Dallas, where they were in charge of the Hale county exhibit at the Dallas fair. They report that Hale county won a large bundle of blue and red ribbons. Col. R. P. Smyth, who was also with the exhibit, will return tomorrow afternoon, with a list of the winnings, which we will publish Friday.

FIFTEEN-CENT ROAD TAX ELECTION TO BE CALLED

ENTIRE COUNTY TO VOTE ON TAX—TO BE PRORATED TO PRECINCTS

At the meeting of the commissioners' court last week it was agreed among the commissioners, so we are told, that a special election be called for Hale county to vote on a special road tax of 15c on the $100 property valuation, with the provision that each precinct is to get its full proportion of the taxes so derived, for use on its roads.

This tax money will be used for buying additional modern road-building machinery, and in doing work on the roads. It is thought by the commissioners that with such additional money the roads can soon be brought into first-class condition and then kept that way.

Petitions will be circulated calling for the election, and the election will probably be ordered at the November term of the court.

"Uncle Bud" Hamilton is rated as the chief weather prophet of the Plains, and has had this reputation for something like a hundred years or so. But he fell down last week. Thursday afternoon when the sun came out bright and warm, he declared to the editor of the News that "the cloudy, wet weather is over, and we will have clear weather for some time." Every morning since then there has been cloudy, damp and cool weather. If "Uncle Bud" makes many more busts like this he is going to lose his prestige as a prognosticator of weather.

BONDS ARE DEBTS

Texas' bonded indebtedness approximates $200,333,000, according to estimates of financial observers.

This is divided into state bonds, county bonds, city bonds, school bonds, road bonds. The interest on these bonds amounts possibly to $12,000,000 a year.

Bonds, even if issued by the state government, are debts, and must be paid back, and with interest. As the average bond runs from twenty to forty years at 6 per cent interest it means that it takes actually about three times the original amount of the bond to finally liquidate the debt. Hence, it will cost the people of Texas $225,000,000 to finally pay off the proposed $75,000,000 state road bonds to be voted on the first Tuesday in November.

As most of this proposed $75,000,000, if the people vote it, will be spent down in the state, the people of the Plains and Panhandle will have to pay millions in taxes with little return.

As possibly half or two-thirds of the money will be wasted, the whole state will suffer if the bonds are authorized. These bonds mean increased taxes. Taxes are already sky high.

The federal government now has outstanding nearly twenty billion dollars of indebtedness—approximately $1,000 for every family in the nation. Most every county, city and school district in Texas has a large bonded indebtedness. There must be a stop sounded somewhere.

By all means go to the polls the first Tuesday in November and vote against the proposed $75,000,000 state road bonds, and while you are making out your ticket, also vote against every other amendment that proposes bond issues or higher taxes.

One Factor in Making Better Crops

The necessity for better crops upon every cultivated acre was never greater than at present, says D. N. Barrow of the Texas Industrial Congress. The high prices of everything of the present day have even reached to the land and farm lands have more than double in value during the past few years. With the increase in value of farm lands the necessity of greater production increases unless the man who is cultivating them is willing to have his wages reduced. How to increase production in proportion to the increased value of his lands is a question that should concern every farmer. Of course fertility and better cultural methods are the final answer, but both of these take time and emphasize another fact—one that is so often overlooked, that the quality of the seed must also be improved. The grower of livestock recognizes that the foundation of any success is improved blood and yet it is not uncommon to find a man who will pay fancy prices for a well bred bull or boar, and who froths at the mouth at the bare mention of scrub stock, who complacently plants scrub seed. Improvement in any livestock is the result of years of careful selection and breeding and yet the plants upon which to feed that livestock can be improved both as to quality and as to yield with much less expense of money and of time. For permanent results in livestock both breeding and selection must go hand in hand while immediate and very marked results at improvement of quality and yield can be made by simply practicing selection for one year with plants. The time to select seed for next year's planting is right now when the crops are maturing. The selection should be made in the field before any of the crop is harvested. Do not select these seeds from individual plants that have had exceptional advantage in growth. But select as the mother plants of your next year's crop, the exceptionally good plants that have grown and produced under average conditions. After determining the best plants then select from these the ones that are producing the

PUSHING or RIDING

Which are You Doing?

A community is judged by the people within it. Every one who live in this community; makes a living off of or out of it; educates his children in it; and gets all he possibly can out of it, owes it a debt of loyalty and appreciation that can only be absorbed by returning something to it.

Our town depends upon its farmers; our farmers depend upon the town; for without the town, values of farm lands would slump tremendously. Only with co-operation from both the town and the farming community around it can we hope to progress and develop as we should.

Let's puh together; boost together; get together. Let people know that you are back of the community in which you live. Make your "pushing" felt. Don't be content to just "ride" on the momentum that others have given.

Don't wait to be approached on matters of community betterment. Start something yourself. There is plenty to be done right now. Be a leader and see how quickly your friends and neighbors will follow you.

Ever since the organization of this bank, its policy has been to boost for this town, its business enterprises, its farmers, itself. And in boosting the community we have boosted you and ourselves.

Our service has been developed to help everyone in this town and surrounding vicinity to bigger business and better business. How well we have succeeded is best shown by the success of those who deposit with us and of the bank itself. Read the statement enclosed. Note the growth we have made and remember that our growth is your growth for it reflects the success of the community as a whole.

So put your shoulder to the wheel. Push for our community. Be loyal to our home merchants and farmers, to our school and churches.

NEW FUR-TRIMMED SUITS

On the handsomest of fall suits fine furs appear in collars and trimmings. Even the plainest of coats becomes rich looking when embellished in this way, and some of the new models add silk embroidery to the luxury of fur.

The smart suit pictured contents itself with a shawl collar of fur and a novel trimming of narrow plaits and small lace interwoven in the fur. It has a silk vest with high collar, a belt made of two narrow bands of the fabric, fastened with a buckle and altogether is a fine example of the new styles.

AS WAR MEMENTO

Public Square of Arras Is to Be Preserved.

Just as War Left It, It Will Serve to Remind the World That Here the Marauding Huns Were Checked.

In the Little Place of Arras, where once stood the Hotel de Ville, with its belfry and its pent of bells, led by La Joyeuse, is today a notice board in English. It says that this place is to be preserved in its ruin as war has left it.

Other places will be rebuilt again, and will forget, but this Little Place will remain empty, and one day Arras will be more proud of that emptiness and of those few broken stones than are other towns of the most beautiful things that they possess.

For so Arras will remain always, as it is today one of the rocks visible on which the great waters of invasion broke and surged and broke again, but could flow no farther. There they were held. There in the center of Arras you come suddenly today on the dark line of their highest tide.

Elsewhere, across the open country, you come more gradually in the land of war, by roads where troops move, by fields where are lines and lines of brown and white trenches, ready but never used; by empty villages, with here and there a house broken; and so at last into the great No Man's land of France, uninhabited, uninhabitable, where armies fought and fought again, until all is destroyed and men live a gypsy life by the roadside. But in Arras you turn a corner of one of the little streets and it is as if a window had opened suddenly and you looked out on war.

For three years one could only enter Arras from the west, by the road from Doullens through the Amlens gate or by the road from St. Pol past Dead Man's corner, where nightly the reliefs, coming up, were shelled. Beside both these roads the trees stand, and the fields are tilled and there are woods across the hills. You enter Arras today through a country unchanged by war. The change is not yet.

It is a silent town. Its houses stand, though scarcely one is quite whole. Their shutters are closed, their broken faces boarded up. The town is like a man that sleeps after long suffering.

So you pass through cobbled streets, very gray, clean, silent streets, between those exhausted houses, going down the Rue St. Aubert and by the white hospital with its green vine leaves. Then you turn up other little streets, with their narrow sky above them and come, very suddenly, on an open lane with banks on either side, where nettles and coltsfoot and loosestrife grow. But this that looks like a country lane is cobbled, and its banks are heaps of brick.

It is as you enter this lane that you are conscious of something more unexpected and more awful than any ruined and broken things—of an enormous emptiness in the middle of that town of tall houses and narrow streets.

When the years have passed and all the country to the east of Arras has long been made whole; when the trees grow again beside the Cambrai and the Bapaume roads and there are cottages once more in Beaurains and Remy and Vis-en-Artois, there will still be that sudden emptiness beneath the sky among the narrow streets of Arras.

Standing there, men will remember that once one could come into Arras only from the west. They will think of it then as of one of those towns now far inland and surrounded by quick fields, which once were on the seashore. They will look at that gray ruin of the town hall as at the ruins of a great rock where once the storms beat.

It Still Held Good.

George Ade was talking about the high cost of living at Palm Beach. He said:

"While a Palm Beach barber was shaving me one day, I asked him if he knew the significance of the red and white striped pole outside his shop.

"I do, sir," the barber answered. "That pole dates from the days when barbers were also surgeons. It means that the barber bleeds his customers."

"So saying, the man handed me a check for 65 cents.

"Well, well!" said I. "Sixty-five cents for a shave, eh? Whatever you do, my friend, don't take down your pole."

Defining an Impression.

"So you're on the water wagon at last?"

"Nothing so limited," replied Uncle Bill Bottletop. "Water has become so predominant wherever I look that I feel more as if I were on a steamboat."

No End to That.

"I thought more than a year ago they agreed not to quarrel any more."

"So they did, but they've been wrangling about the peace terms ever since."

Some Gardener.

"Husband very fond of his garden?"

"Very. He's even hired a man to come once a week to keep it weeded."

MAY BE TRUTH IN LEGEND

Investigation of "Enchanted Table" in New Mexico Seems to Bear Out Story Long Believed.

An isolated butte rising out of a vast plain in the vast Southwest—a flat-topped hill 430 feet high and with sides so nearly vertical that for many centuries it was supposed to be hopelessly climb-proof, is one of the most interesting of the natural wonders of this part of the United States.

Many attempts to climb the "Enchanted Table" or "Mesa Encantada," as the first Spanish settlers called it, have been made, but Indian superstition has attributed their failure largely to a supernatural influence that balked the ascent. Hence the name "Enchanted."

According to the Indian legend, the mesa, which is three miles northeast of the well-known Acoma pueblo, in New Mexico, was very anciently the site of a prehistoric village. A frightful storm carried away part of the rock and with it the rocky staircase which offered the only path of access to the summit.

As a result, the people in the village were cut off from the plain below. They could not climb down; no help could reach them, and they starved to death. The only survivors were a few who by chance were absent from the mesa top at the time of the disaster. From them, it is explained, are sprung the present-day inhabitants of the pueblo of Acoma.

But science, while disposed to be incredulous of things unproved, is at the same time inclined to investigation. Hence an expedition which the government bureau of ethnology sent out to climb the Mesa Encantada. The party, after almost incredible efforts, arrived upon the top.

What they expected to find was nothing. But, to their surprise, they discovered, on the summit of the mesa, plain and unmistakable evidences of ancient occupancy, such as ruined walls, and what they saw there afforded a measurable confirmation of the Indian legend.

Tasks for Disabled Fighters.

An outline of the efforts of the bureau of employment of the Pennsylvania department of labor and industry to find suitable industrial tasks in Pennsylvania for disabled soldiers and sailors is given in a bulletin just issued by the department. This bulletin, which may be obtained upon application to the department of labor and industry, at Harrisburg, analyzes by task and locality, the 50,000 employment opportunities offered by 900 employers in 60 counties, number of plants, kinds of firms and numbers of openings in each class of employment. One series of tables shows at what tasks several hundreds of disabled men are now employed by the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company. Another chapter on "Placement of Disabled Soldiers and Sailors in Employment" gives a general review of the placement subject, outlining conditions that may be expected and methods to be employed in locating each disabled soldier and sailor at a specified task in Pennsylvania plants. —Scientific American.

Turned From Friend.

The revolving floor in one of the dancing cabarets mystified two young lieutenants just back from France and evidently strangers in New York. They were ushered to a table on the revolving floor. Shortly afterward one of the soldiers went to the telephone booth; emerging about ten minutes later, he looked around in dazed fashion, and made several starts for the spot where he had apparently left his companion, but couldn't seem to find him. "Say, there," he huskily remarked to the head waiter. "Lend me one of your boy scouts to help me find my chow table, will you?" "What's the trouble?" inquired the head waiter solicitously. "I left m' friend at a table over yonder by the post," answered the bewildered soldier, "and now he's disappeared." As there were a number of men in uniform present the head waiter suggested that the friend be paged. "That's the idea," eagerly responded the soldier. "His name's Kennedy." And in a short time the messmates were re-united. Then the existence of the revolving floor was briefly explained to them. —New York Sun.

Yep, It Takes Practice.

For the forty-fifth time in 12 months she stood at the bridal altar and repeated the solemn words that linked her soul forever with that of the handsome man by her side. As the minister held up his hand signaling for the slow traffic to come forward and kiss the bride, the handsome man leaned over to press the first kiss on her ruby rounded lips.

As he did so, his foot caught in her train and threw him off the track.

"Whattell, ya big boob," came an encouraging voice from a megaphone on the side lines as the purring of the camera ceased. "Now we'll have to make that again. You've spooled 500 feet of perfectly good film."

Individual Cups for Cows.

The Jersey herd of Ralph Ballou is now provided with individual drinking bowls. Each stall is connected with the water system and has an automatic bowl about ten inches in diameter and six inches deep. When the cow sticks her nose in the bowl to drink she turns the water on, and as the bowl fills she raises her head and cuts the water off. This method avoids having to fill the trough or breaking ices for the cows when it is cold. —Monroe County Appeal.

MR. PROGRESSIVE FARMER

April, 1883, I started Farm and Ranch. I believed then, although the number in Texas was not very numerous, that the progressive farmers and livestock breeders would patronize a read farm and livestock paper, serving faithfully their interests at all times. I was not disappointed in my conclusions.

Many who became subscribers with that first issue have continued to read Farm and Ranch without missing a number. I value very highly their continued loyalty and faith in Farm and Ranch, and leave it to them, and to the many who have since become patrons and friends, to say if I have kept faithfully my promise to make the paper a powerful, consistent supporter of the best interests of the people whose patronage I have asked for and received.

Farm and Ranch was, at first, published only once a month, later twice a month. Now it is a big illustrated weekly. It has been, at all times clean, interesting, instructive and reliable. In these I know I have not at any time failed.

Now, after thirty-seven years, always personally on the job, it is my ambition to have very man in Texas who has faith in farming in its different branches become a subscriber to Farm and Ranch.

Send me your subscription, and if, after reading Farm and Ranch each week for three full months you are not satisfied that you are getting even more than full value for the subscription price, write me and I will Ranch, I refer to your neighbor who is already a subscriber.

On my proposition—your money's worth or every cent of your money returned—I ask your subscription.

The subscription price of Farm and Ranch is two ($2) dollars for three years—156 copies. No subscription is taken for a less amount of time.

Please send your subscription direct to

Yours faithfully,

ARTHUR MIDDLETON

AMERICAN BASS BARITONE

PLAINVIEW,

Monday, November 10th

Middleton is one of the world's famous singers, and to be able to produce matchless tones ranging from low to high F. in bass baritone register is sufficient proof of an artist's ability. When to perfect technique or singing the charming personality of such a man as Mr. Middleton is added, an audience feels that perfection is realized.

To hear a great American sing American compositions gives pleasure to every loyal citizen of the land. The richness of the tone in requiem, the persuasive manner in the rendering of the Banjo Song, and the sympathetic air which Uncle Rome is sung shows that the range of Mr. Middleton's accomplishments can not be over estimated.

Mr. Middleton is brought to Plainview by a committee of public-spirited citizens, who guarantee the attraction. The people of the community are urged to lend their support by buying tickets. This will be the only high-class musical attraction on the Plains this season.

The Story of a Turret Captain

Promotion in the Navy comes quickly to those who qualify for higher ratings. In March 1899 A. P. Nilsson enlisted in the Navy as an Apprentice Seaman, 3rd class. In April 1907 he was rated Chief Turret Captain. His pay today is $165.76 per month.

A man's life — among men!

Reel them off—"Rio", Gibraltar, Ceylon, Yokohama—all the great ports of the world—are they only places on the map to you—or are they ports where you've gone sailing in from the high seas with every eye along the shore turned admiringly on your big ship—your ship! Every ocean has a United States ship sailing for some port worth seeing.

If you've any call in you for a full life—join, and color all your years ahead with memories of things worth seeing—with knowledge worth having—with an inexhaustible fund of sea tales and adventures picked up ashore and afloat that will make you a welcome man in any company.

Work?—sure, and a man's work it is, among men.

Play?—well, rather, with a bunch of men who know how to play. These comrades of yours carry in their ears the sounds of great world cities, of booming guns, of swashing seas—sounds you will share with them and that will never die away.

And when you come home, you'll face life ashore with level eyes—for Uncle Sam trains in self-reliance as well as self-respect. The Navy builds straight men—no mollycoddles.

Enlist for two years. Excellent opportunities for advancement. Four weeks holidays with pay each year. Shore leave to see inland sights at ports visited. Men always learning. Good food and first uniform outfit free. Pay begins the day you enlist. Get full information from your nearest recruiting station. WIFE ONCE BOUGHT Proceeding Many Centuries Ago Was Universal.

Present-Day "Marriage Portion" May Be Regarded as a Symbol of Old Custom—Some Curious Wedding Ceremonies.

Among far older civilizations than that of the Anglo-Saxon the system of wife-purchase had ceased before Britain was a real country. The Indian law-giver, Manu, strictly forbade it, and said: "A man who, through avarice, takes a gratuity, is a seller of his offspring." In the historical times of the Greeks they no longer bought wives. In Rome "coemptio" was only a symbol of the ancient custom. In the Jewish Talmud the purchase is also symbolic, as is frequently the Mohammedan "mahr." Withal, the bride price, "foster leas" and marriage gifts, when returned, were converted into dowry and became at first the bride's property. Thus marriage portions chiefly derived their origin from the habit of purchase, and dowry often became, as with the Hebrews, a religious duty. Not less than the tenth of the father's property was considered a just dowry. In Aristotle's time nearly two-fifths of all Sparta belonged from this cause to the women. Sir Henry Maine considers that the amazing thrift of the French is also owing to this custom, which probably descended to them from the marriage law of Augustus Caesar. It was only by an anachronism that Euripides' Medea is audent that women were obliged to purchase husbands at a great price. And it is often as true today as when the Latin poet sang:

When marriage ceremonies first did arise it was by degrees and in many ways, and customs such as capture when superseded became by symbolism a part of the succeeding legal form or contract. To eat maize pudding from the same plate or to eat in any way together is a widely distributed marriage ceremony. In Brazil a couple may be married by drinking brandy together; in Japan by so many cups of wine; in Russia and Scandinavia it used to be one cup for both. The joining of hands among Romans and Hindus is common in many parts of the world. In Scotland it is called "hand fasting," and couples live together after. To sit on one seat while receiving friends or to have the hands of each tied together with grass, or to smear with each other's blood, or for the woman to tie a cord of her own twisting around the naked waist of the man constitutes marriage in one place or another. In Australia a woman carries fire to her lover's hut and makes a fire for him. A Loango negress cooks two dishes for him in his own hut. In Croatia the bridegroom boxes the bride's ears, and in Russia the father formerly struck his daughter gently with a new whip—for the last time—and then gave the weapon to her husband.

Hat Decorations.

A very dignified matron, the wife of one of the city's clergymen, went into a downtown store the other day to take advantage of a sale. She bought the books for which she had come and started out of the store. But a counter piled high with men's hose attracted her to a crowd of more fastidious shoppers, most of whom were examining the varicolored silk stockings on the racks above the counter. The modest paragon woman almost blushed over their open interest.

Finally the socks were bought, several other counters visited, and then the minister's wife started to leave. At the door she met one of the parishioners. They exchanged greetings and then, with a "Please allow me," the parishioner reached up to the hat of the minister's wife and lifted from its wide brim a pair of gaudy rose silk stockings.

The racks above the bargain counter were, of course, the cause. "But no one knew it," mused the parson's wife. "Just think how many people saw me wearing those decorations, and actually I was embarrassed over the other women just looking at them. And I—well, I was wearing them very prominently."—Indianapolis News.

Hats Off.

One day I was watching a new company drill. The officer gave the command, "Cover off in the rear rank," meaning that every man in the rear rank had to stand directly back of the man in front of him. Instead the whole rear rank took off their hats.—Exchange.

Not Likely.

First Surgeon—Here's a chap just brought in for an operation on his head.

Second Ditto—Anything serious? First Surgeon—Serious? Should say not; he's one of these newspaper nut column artists.

Add Rigors of War.

Van Joans—I understand your daughter received military training. DeSmythe—Indeed, she did. There were two lieutenants, a captain, a sergeant and private calling on her pretty frequently.

Almost the Same.

"The baseball player you pointed out to me is an ugly mug." "He isn't a mug at all; he's a pitcher."

Man-Talk to Men

By J. R. HAMILTON

Former Advertising Manager of Wanamaker's, Philadelphia

Since the beginning of organized society everything without a name has ended with a question mark. The very reason why marriage itself has been able to maintain so much sentiment amongst civilized races is that it gave to our children a name.

There is no virtue in a name itself, except that it throws the light of investigation upon whatever the name stands for.

Now the object of this article is simply to get you to remember the names of the articles you buy or at least the names of the people you buy them from. Because that is the only way of increasing good business methods in this city.

In this last twenty years business men have discovered a new method of establishing a name.

Now again there is no special virtue in advertising except that it does two things. First, it sells goods cheaper, because it sells more of them. And, second, it shortens the time that it formerly took to establish a name. There are just as honest business men who do not advertise as there who do. That is not the point. The point is that they are not as good business men and that you do not have any way of telling whether they are honest or not.

Now there are a great many advertisers in this paper today and every day who have established for themselves, or for their products, a good name. There is a lifetime of hard, effort attached to the signature of many of these ads, so you cannot possibly do better than to read this advertising for whatever you wish to buy.

When a man or a product has an established name, you know where to go, if the quality does not live up to the guaranty.

So turn to the advertising in this paper today; read it, buy from it, and you will know that if at any time the thing you buy isn't right, the man with a name will make it right.

THE SUSPENDED SENTENCE

That the suspended sentence law is a complete and abject failure is the belief of Sheriff McFall, and it is likely that when the state sheriff's association meets next, Sheriff McFall will endeavor to induce the association to petition the legislature to repeal the law.

Within the week three men serving suspended sentences have been placed in the county jail on new charges growing out of the commission of new offenses.

"In my whole experience, I have seen four men come into court and ask their sentences be set aside," said the sheriff. "Just four men have appreciated the fact they got suspended sentences. Look at the hundreds whose sentences have been suspended. Scores of them commit new crimes and get into jail again.

"If the law is not repealed, it should at least be amended to apply to fewer crimes and so arranged that only deserving persons, persons whose crimes are minor and who really have repented—should benefit."—Wichita Times.

HEREFORD

Oct. 16.—With slim attendance the first two days, due to cold and cheerless weather, the sun suddenly came out in all his glory Saturday, a tremendous crowd attended that day and the Hereford Free Fair of 1919 wound up in a blaze of glory and enthusiasm.

W. E. Bennett, one of Randall county's big Hereford breeders has a fine lot of his registered stock at the Dallas fair this week.

There were 480 students enrolled at the Normal yesterday, which was a larger attendance than enrolled during last year. Word has been received from the other normal schools of Texas, which indicate that the West Texas State Normal College is the only normal in the state which
