PLAINVIEW WILL HAVE GIN FOR NEXT COTTON CROP

STOCK COMPANY FORMED TO INSTALL AND OPERATE GIN NEXT YEAR

The first meeting of the Plainview business men who are backing a cotton gin for Plainview, was held at the First National Bank Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. E. C. Lamb announced that the full amount required for building a gin had been subscribed, and the subscribers present then elected D. Hefflinger, chairman; Paul L. Barker, secretary, and H. W. Harrel, treasurer of the temporary organization to act until a company can be incorporated.

The men back of this project are all Plainview men, and their first concern is to get a first class gin in operation here in 1920, and they can now assure every farmer within hauling distance of Plainview, that they will either induce an outside gin company to put this mill up or that they will themselves build the plant. The committee appointed to arrange for the plant is, A. G. Cox, chairman, E. C. Lamb, C. A. Pierce.

First class planting seed is scarce this year and the chairman appointed the following committee to get the required amount arranged for, so that farmers who plant can know that the best quality of seed is at their disposal. The seed committee is made up of Solon Clements, chairman, G. D. Fallis and J. A. Testman.

With the gin provided and good planting seed assured, the acreage is all that is lacking to put Plainview on the map as a cotton town. The gin is being built on account of a genuine demand from the farmers who would plant cotton if they knew that the gin would be built. The committee on cotton acreage is W. Holbrook, chairman; Joe E. Kelleher and John P. Crawford.

Every farmer within hauling distance of Plainview is urged to decide now how many acres of cotton he can handle during the year 1920, and return the following coupon immediately to Acreage Committee, Plainview Cotton Gin, Box 698, Plainview, Texas.

Acreage Committee, Plainview Cotton Gin:

"I agree to plant and haul to the cotton gin to be built at Plainview, _____ acres of cotton. This will be grown on land I am farming located _____"

I do not request that you reserve seed for planting this acreage."

Wayland Heating Plant Finished

The heating plant at Wayland college was finished the fore part of the week, and is now in operation. The plant is of the Warren & Webb Vacuum Return system, and cost something more than $21,000. The plant heats both the main building and the girls' dormitory, the heat being carried to the latter building by a tunnel from the basement of the main building, where the plant is located. The plant will also be used to heat the new dormitory which is to be erected.

FOURTEENTH DECENNIAL CENSUS BEGINS JAN. 2nd.

Ninety Thousand Enumerators Will Take Census with Two to Four Weeks' Time

The fourteenth decennial census is to be taken during the month of January, 1920.

The first census of the United States was taken in 1790, during the administration of George Washington. It related solely to population.

The constitution of the United States requires that a census of the United States be taken every ten years. It is by this means that the apportionment of members of the House of Representatives is made as to states.

The bureau of the census is a part of the Department of Commerce. It was established as a permanent bureau in 1902. Prior to that time the census work was done by a temporary organization known as the census office.

A census of the country's manufacturers was made for the first time in 1890. Under the present law a manufacturers census is to be taken in connection with the fourteenth decennial census and every two years thereafter.

An enumeration of the mines and quarries of the United States was made for the first time in 1840.

The sixth decennial census, taken in 1840, was the first one to cover agricultural statistics, now one of the most important parts of the entire census.

The Department of Agriculture assisted the census bureau in preparing the list of questions to be asked of every farmer at the coming census.

United States marshals acted as enumerators at the first nine decennial censuses. Each marshal had as many assistants as were necessary to properly cover his allotted territory.

About 650 people were engaged in taking the first census of the United States. The 1920 census will require the services of 90,000.

The statistics of the first census of the United States were published in one small volume consisting of 56 pages. The statistics of the 1910 census required 12 volumes having an aggregate of more than 40,000 pages.

There were 6,361,502 farms reported at the last decennial census, valued at more than 40 billions of dollars. The 1920 census is expected to show more than 7,000,000 farms.

The census bureau prints a special supplement for each state in the Union containing all the census figures relating to the state in question.

Congress extended the scope of the approaching 1920 census by providing that a census of forestry and forest products should be taken. These subjects were never specifically covered by any past census act.

It required 18 months to complete the enumeration work for the first decennial census in 1790. In 1920 the census bureau plans to complete the enumeration work for the entire country in from two to four weeks and announce the population figures in less than three months from the date the enumeration work is completed.

A heavy concentration of ages ending in five and zero are always reported at a census. The census bureau has made many efforts to overcome this inaccurate tendency on the part of the people when stating ages.

Every census has disclosed the fact there are more men in the United States than women.

In 1914, the year the last manufacturers census was taken, there were 275,000 manufacturing establishments reported. The census bureau expects about 300,000 establishments to be listed in 1920.

The statistics gathered by the census bureau in regard to farms are used quite extensively by the Department of Agriculture in its work of aiding farmers.

The ingenious machines used by the census bureau to count, sort and tabulate the information gathered by the census enumerators are the product of the bureau's own laboratory. The sorting machine can do 500 cards a minute and the tabulating machine is capable of handling 400 cards each minute.

PLAINVIEW EXPERIENCES REAL WHITE THANKSGIVING DAY

Snow, Sleet, with Thermometer Down To Ten Degrees Above Zero Yesterday

Plainview and the Plains country experienced a white Thanksgiving. Tuesday the drizzling weather continued until late in the night, when the cold weather caused snow and sleet, with the thermometer standing at ten degrees above zero Thursday morning. All day yesterday there was a fine snow. Last night there was snow, and this morning the weather observer said a total of two inches had fallen. The thermometer was at 11 above this morning.

Snow and sleet fell at intervals during the day, and just after noon there was a heavy fall of snow for a while—after which the sun came out clear an dwarf for an hour or more, when the weather again became cloudy and cooler.

Plainview Defeats Abilene

In a fast and snappy game played in the snow on the Lamar grounds this afternoon, Plainview high school defeated Abilene high by a score of 7 to 3. This is the first time this season the Abilene team has been defeated. The Plainview team has not been defeated, this being the first game in which the opponent has scored.

Wayland-Canyon Game Cancelled

On account of the cold and snowy weather the game of football to have been played between Wayland college and Canyon Normal teams at that place yesterday, was cancelled.

WANT PLAINS-PANHANDLE PUT BACK IN CENTRAL TIME

Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce Petitions Interstate Commerce Commission for Hearing

There is quite a movement, especially in the North Panhandle, in opposition to this section being continued in the Mountain Time zone, and it is urged that the line be again put westward and thus return us to Central Time, as was the case until last January.

The Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce has petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission to reopen the case, and hold a hearing on the matter.

As the News sees it, the matter of time is immaterial, for in Plainview the people begin work under Mountain Time one hour earlier than under Central Time, and quit an hour earlier in the afternoon. There must be twenty-four time zones in belting the world, and we had just as well be in Mountain Time as the people of Texas, as the line will hardly be moved any further west than that if the line is placed back where it was.

We were opposed to changing the time back and forward under the "daylight saving" law.

Amarillo Gasser 50,000,000 Feet

Amarillo, Nov. 26.—Estimates of the production of the Amarillo Oil Company's Masterson No. 4, which struck a strong gas flow Sunday at about 1,700 feet, place the production at between 50,000,000 and 100,000,000 cubic feet a day. The well is considered the best in this district.

CARTER HOUSTON'S Goods That Speak for Themselves

RAILROADS WILL RELIEVE ANY COAL DISTRESS

Will Send Coal to Towns to Prevent Distress from Blizzard or Zero Weather

We have a letter from Frank R. Jamison of Amarillo, secretary of the Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce, as follows:

"The shortage of coal over the Panhandle is a matter of the strictest concern. On last Saturday morning a meeting was held in this office with Mr. R. E. Johns, agent for the Santa Fe, Mr. J. W. Farley, agent for the C. R. I. & P. and J. B. Gibbon, for the F. W. & D., who defined specifically the plans which the railroads had instituted for the purpose of preventing distress in case of blizzard or zero weather. Coal which has been taken over by the various railroads has been so taken for the purpose of sending it out where it might be needed to establish comfort.

"You are, therefore, notified in case of emergencies to apply to your local agent with assurance that relief will be obtained."

COAL STRIKERS REFUSE TO RETURN TO WORK

Government's Plan of 14 Per Cent Increase in Wages Insultingly Refused

The coal strike is still on so far as results are concerned, as the few of the union miners have gone back to work, though here and there the mines are being operated by other men. In Kansas the governor will put forces of men, thousands having volunteered, to work in the mines to relieve the distress of the people.

The government fuel administration, through Dr. Gatfield, has announced that the miners will be allowed an increase of 14 per cent in wages, and no increase will be allowed the owners in the price of coal. Lewis, head of the strikers, insultingly refused the increase and denounced the government for not allowing more.

Let's Raise Long Staple

Down near Slaton a farmer has just marketed a lot of long staple cotton which he raised near the town, says the Slatonite, at 62 1-2c a pound and that he raised about as much per acre as of the short staple variety.

Several years ago some long staple cotton was grown as a test on the Anderson farm just west of Plainview, and it did well. It seems that long staple can be grown here about as successfully as the short. Then, why not get seed and try out the growing of long staple, for the price is much higher?

Mexico Refuses American Demand

A note has been received in Washington from the Mexican government refusing the demand of the United States that Consular Agent Jenkins, who was arrested at Puebla, be released. Jenkins was arrested on a charge of conniving with the bandits when he was recently taken and held for $150,000 ransom.

Four Oil Trucks Pass Through

One day last week four large auto trucks belonging to the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. passed through Plainview en route to the Amarillo oil fields from Eastland county, and had as loads parts of storage tanks, drilling material and pipe, to be used in the oil drilling near Amarillo.

Mail Handlers on Strike

Plainview has not been getting mails from the east with much regularity, on account of the handlers of mails at the T. & P. Station in Fort Worth striking for higher wages. Thousands of sacks of mail are said to be piled on the depot platform there.

Building Fine Farm Home

O. C. Cotton from Eastland county, who recently bought the C. B. Reaves farm near Whitfield, northeast of Plainview, has let the contract for a residence with modern conveniences on that place, and will occupy same with his family.

City Charter Case Submitted

The case involving the validity of the new city charter of Plainview was argued before the court of civil appeals in Amarillo Wednesday. An opinion may be handed down within the next week or two.

PLAINVIEW CELEBRATES NATION'S THANKSGIVING DAY

DR. LANG DELIVERS ABLE SERMON—COLLECTION TAKEN FOR POOR OF TOWN

Plainview people spent a very Thanksgiving. The business houses were all closed, and as the snow and cold weather prevailed very few people were on the streets. There were many dinner parties throughout the town. Many men went hunting as the lakes on the Plains are covered with ducks.

At 10 o'clock a union Thanksgiving service was held at the Baptist church, but the congregation was not large on account of the weather.

A. C. Hatchell lead the choir service, with Mrs. E. R. Williams accompanist, and some very beautiful songs and anthems were sung. Will Stockton and Mrs. S. W. Smith sang a duet, and Mrs. Smith sang a solo, as Mrs. E. L. Doland is sick and could not fill her place on the program.

Rev. Gordon Lang read a scriptural lesson, and also lead in prayer. He delivered an able sermon, his subject being "A Nation Thanking God." The sermon is printed elsewhere in the News.

Following the sermon, a collection was taken for the poor, which will be turned over to the United Charities.

"A NATION THANKING GOD"

"There are many people who persistently regard Thanksgiving as just another opportunity to get something more out of life for themselves, to frolic, to go hunting, to be free to enjoy a feast of extra-ordinary indulgence; by some it is even seized upon as an opportunity for indulgence to a harmful degree. This is far from the real spirit of the day and always in all the history of the time when America, both the United States and Canada, have been observing this day there has been a deep spirit of the realization that whatever we have received of the good of life has come from God. And this day is set apart as an acknowledgement of that bounty and our dependence. The day came directly from inspiration received from the Jewish and the Christian Bibles. And its predecessors were the thank offerings of ancient Israel. Israel made her service of thanksgiving in a social feast, a joyous, happy time. And so it is very natural for us whose heritage of religious life has come through this channel to observe our formal thanksgiving with such feasting. But there is another element that has come down to us through this same source and is likewise a spirit of our Thanksgiving day and that is the offering. It is a spontaneous opening of our hands and heart to the unfortunate in the spirit of loving care God manifested toward us in saving us from a like fate. I trust that the people of Plainview will gloriously demonstrate their relationship to such an infinite Father by more generously providing for the suffering than they have even done before.

"Let us note the form that the Israelitish feast took. They offered thanks for the prosperity and protection given to the nation. At this celebration which our lesson recounts they were for the first time successfully throwing off the yoke of foreign oppression and the poverty that resulted therefrom. They could now enjoy the fruits of the land yielded to their labor. God had given them prosperity and protection and because they recognized these as from the hand of God they were formally expressing the acknowledgement and returning Thanks. The form this acknowledgement took was gifts to further the religious teachings of their God which was the thread of life that was to bind this nation to-

Snyder Recently Visited Jerusalem

B. P. Snyder received a letter from his son, Paul Snyder, who is with the American Red Cross forces in Armenia, distributing the relief supplies to those people. Paul tells of a trip to Jerusalem where he spent his vacation of thirty days. He says it was indeed a very interesting trip. He is located at Aleppo, Turkey, and says the Red Cross is pushing the work of distributing supplies to the interior, as the winter is approaching. The supplies are carried to these towns in American auto trucks.

PARTIAL TO LAMB

Armenians Make Meat Staple Article of Diet.

Methods of Preparing It Seem Strange to Those Accustomed to Western Cooking—Eggplant a Favorite Vegetable.

Lamb appears to be the basic item of the Armenian diet if one is to judge by the number of Armenian dishes in which it plays a part. No less than 23 ways of preparing this meat are given in a list of typical Armenian dishes prepared by an expert.

Roast lamb with matzoon sauce and lamb broiled whole are substantial features of Armenian banquets. Then there is boiled lamb, lamb roasted in paper, lamb roasted with tomato, whole spring lamb roasted, lamb stuffed with rice, steamed lamb, lamb broiled, hunter style; lamb grilled on skewers, braised lamb with wine sauce, braised lamb with currie, braised lamb with tomato sauce, braised lamb with onions and braised lamb in paper dishes seasoned with peas.

Kouzou kapama is an elaborate lamb dish in which the meat is steamed with scallion and lettuce; konzou guvey is lamb roasted in an earthen pot with rice and tomatoes.

Eggplant is a favorite Armenian vegetable which is often used with the lamb to make a delicious dish. Hun-kair beyendi is mashed eggplant and potted lamb; patjan cheop kebab is fried lamb and eggplant grilled on skewers; eggplant stewed in lamb broth and braised lamb and eggplant are other savory dishes.

All sorts of vegetables and even fruits are stewed in lamb broth to give them that richness which is a feature of the national taste in cooking. Fresh peas, artichokes, string beans, celery, leeks, spinach and quinces are mentioned in Armenian culinary lore as being the better for simmering slowly for some time in the lamb broth. A variation dish is nobud yahl, Turkish peas stewed with onions in lamb broth.

Ouscourri dolma is an elaborate Armenian dish, composed of mackerel stuffed with onions, pine nuts and currants, fried in olive oil and served cold. Eggplant stuffed with rice and onions and cooked in olive oil is also served cold. Fassouli pulaki is beans stewed with vegetables and olive oil and served cold.

Pine nuts and currants are favorite ingredients of stuffing, appearing not only in the stuffed mackerel but also with rice as a stuffing for turkey in a dish called Hindi dolma. Harpoot keofteh are delicious boiled meat balls prepared with cracked wheat and stuffed with meat, pine nuts and currants. Stuffed vine leaves, yalanji dolman and yaprak sarma are other favorite dishes. The leaves of the grapevine are used for the outer wrappings of these viands. In the yalanji dolman rice and onions already cooked through are wrapped in the vine leaves and the whole again subjected to a slow simmering process in olive oil. In the yaprak sarma the rice and meat are cooked together or, rather, the rice is cooked in a rich stock and then wrapped in the vine leaves and simmered in oil.

The names of these Armenian dishes cannot be translated according to their sound, for hashlama is not an effort to orientalize the well-known boarding house viand of lamb hash, but plain boiled lamb, and shish lebab instead of being a Turkish form of TNT, is a mild and savory dish of lamb grilled on skewers.

Making Thrift Compulsory.

In the police courts of New York state it is getting to be a common practice to sentence minor offenders to a term of saving, and in Syracuse last year $5,000 was invested in this way in War Savings stamps, all later returned to the men or used to help their families. At Niagara Falls, when David Broderick was placed on probation six months ago and ordered to give the probation officer $12 a week for War Savings stamps, he complained bitterly. At the end of six months he received $230.50 worth of stamps, and he voluntarily placed himself on indefinite probation, promising to bring $10 a week to continue his savings investment.

Outguessed Him.

Pauline Lord went to call on William Harris, Jr., an agent an engagement just before he set sail for Europe. "What's your salary?" demanded Harris, after the other details had been discussed. Miss Lord told him. "Ouch!" decried the manager, wine-fog at the sum. "Why, don't you think I'm worth it?" Miss Lord asked. "Yes," admitted Harris, "but I didn't think you did."

Some Kicks.

"And you say the mule kicked you, Sam?" "Deed he did, boss." "How far did he kick you?" "Wather mean, boss?" "How far were you from him after he kicked you?" "Does you mean how fur was I from him after he kicked me de first or de las' time, boss?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Land for National Forests.

To date the national forest reservation commission has approved for purchase 1,751,115 acres for national forest purposes in the mountain areas of the eastern national forests.

VERMIN OLD FEST OF ARMIES

Reference to Them Found in Writings of the Romans, and in English Literature.

The newspapers have had much to say about the "delousing" of the returning troops. Philip Hale writes in the Boston Herald. The word is not a pretty one and it is not to be found in the dictionaries, but the war has brought with it many new words, some of which will disappear, some of which will soon be regarded as orthodox and of good and regular standing.

No soldier need be ashamed of necessary submission to the process. It may console him to recall the case of Thomas Otway, an Oxford man, the author of "Venice Preserved" and "The Orphan." As a cornet in a regiment of horse, he joined in 1678 the army under Monmouth in Flanders. It was reported that he came back from Flanders "mangy and covered with vermin." Rochester taunted him with this in his "Session of the Poets." It should also be remembered that when the troops were disbanded and recalled, the money voted by the commons for their payment was misappropriated. The soldiers were paid only by debentures, and the credit of these was so low that they were hardly salable.

It was observed in the sixteenth century that "lice cometh also of that cloth that is trained in the wool with the fat or grease of a horse or of a swine, and therefore the northern cloths worn of a sweating body do breed lice in 12 hours." The "humor" of an individual had much to do with the character of the pest. Lice generated of sanguine humor were red and great; of phlegmatic, white; of choleric, yellow, long, swift and sharp; of melancholic, ashen colored, lean and slow in moving. Anyone of these pests "creepeth more in the skin with the feet and with creeping, than he doth with biting. . . . And the leaner that a louse is, the sharper she bitech and grieveth." There were many approved remedies even in the elder Pliny's time, thus: "The old skin or slough that snakes do cast off in the spring, whosoever drinketh in his ordinary drink, it will kill all the vermin of the body within three days."

Story of a Dog.

"Marathon races in the woods will never become universal for the reason that speed and stamina like that of Buell Crannell's dog are not universal in the four-footed hunters," says Warwick S. Carpenter, secretary of the conservation commission. "Mr. Crannell lives at West Glens Falls, and while hunting near there recently his dog picked up a fox track. The dog was picked up next day near Cranberry lake, more than seventy miles away.

"Accounts do not state whether the dog was still going strong or whether he might have taken the fox back to Mr. Crannell, but simply that identification of the dog was made by the conservation commission license tag and that Mr. Crannell went after the dog.

"The moral of all this is that if one owns a dog good enough to run a fox through two counties she should surely be protected by an identification disk."—New York Times.

Salutes.

Some clever Englishman, commenting on French politeness, once remarked that when a Frenchman bows, two-thirds of the bow is to himself. That may be true, and we have to admit that even the other third is quite a fraction more than most Anglo-Saxons offer.

Saluting is the same proposition. A snappy salute pulled by a buck to the most second of second lieutenants draws heavy interest; and the colonel who jerks his hand a few centimeters from his still affixed cigar is only insulting himself and the army.

If some privates were a little more polite to themselves, the saluting trap never would be sprung and the joke would all be on the other side of the military fence.—Stars and Stripes.

Something Worth While.

Rankin—I never was so disappointed in my life!

Phyle—What's the trouble? "In the city the other day I saw an aquatic exhibition advertised—"

"Yes—"

"And I immediately bought tickets."

"You were disappointed?"

"Yes, all I saw was a lot of men in diving suits."

"But what did you expect in an aquatic exhibition?"

"Girls in bathing suits, at least."—Youngstown Telegram.

Saved Venus de Milo From Kuns.

M. Heron de Villefosse, the eminent French archeologist, whose death has just taken place, was for many years head of the Greek and Roman sculpture department of the Louvre. Twice in his career he had to superintend the removal of that priceless art treasure the Venus of Milo to a place of safety—in 1870, and again in 1914. In each case the same enemy was concerned. Heron de Villefosse was seventy-four years old.

Going to Look Him Up.

"That fellow Glipping called me 'Old Silenus,'" remarked Mr. Jagshy. "He seemed to think it a great joke." "What are you going to do about it?"

"I haven't decided yet. I have forgotten about all I ever knew about Silenus, but I have an idea that he was neither a pillar in the church nor an ornament to society."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Best Remedy For Unrest

Strikes and riots and revolutions are not as bad in themselves as are the conditions of which they are the symptoms.

What the world needs above everything else today is the saving gospel of Jesus Christ applied in the lives of individuals and nations.

Such an application will insure an adequate wage for labor, a square deal for capital and a spirit of true brotherhood among all men everywhere. The is the plan of the Southern Baptists to apply this remedy more intensively at home and throughout the world.

One of the greatest sports in the world is picking flaws in other people.

Less than three weeks until Christmas. Better get busy on your holiday shopping.

Talk about the fowl that laid the golden eggs, at present prices for eggs it don't take a hen long to lay enough eggs to bring a $5 gold piece.

Remember, ladies, you must pay poll tax (or get an exemption if you are under or over age) in order to vote in next year's primaries. Every woman should vote.

Four years of the war between the states killed 205,000 soldiers. Four years of tuberculosis kills over 600,000 men, women and children of the United States. There were 4,651 deaths in Texas from tuberculosis reported last year.

Whenever a newspaper man gets a circular letter which starts off by telling how important is the press and its influence, he should at once chuck it into the waste basket, for it is a plea for a lot of free space. The majority of a newspaper's letters these days are for free publicity. Paper is entirely too expensive to be used to promote and keep alive publicity bureaus.

The allies find that they are unable to pay the interest on the almost ten billion dollars they owe the United States for money loaned them during the war, and an agreement is being entered into to defer the payment of the interest for three years. At 5 per cent the interest amounts to a half-billion dollars a year. Until the people settle down to work Uncle Sam cannot expect any payments to be made.

It is said that Jess Adams and a few of his Central Plains pals are laying in a good supply of Alfalfa Tea for the storm disturbance of December 17th. We would rather you would hurry up Uncle Sam and send us down a supply of coal.—Canadian Record.

It is well to be prepared for all emergencies. We know of no better way of meeting any calamity that may happen than being filled full of Alf-alf-a tea—for it makes you love everybody. If what some weather prophets say may happen really happens, what the thunder will the editor of the Record need with a supply of coal where he is going?

SHUT 'EM ALL OUT

Congress is worrying over additional legislation to keep alien anarchists from coming into this country.

That's easy. Why not pass a law forbidding all foreigners from coming here for the next five years?

That would give us time to again settle down to normal conditions, without being worried with a bunch of imported foreign isms.

What right has a foreigner to come here and tell us how to run our government?

What right has any foreigner to come here while he is needed in his native country to reconstruct his own nation and pay his part of the war taxes and burdens?

The News is strong on America for Americans.

Every foreigner who comes into America breaks down our true Americanism to that extent; lowers our western vitality; tinctures our individualism, and saps the freedom and fundamental virtues upon which our republic was founded.

Keep all foreigners out, for a few years at least.

The East, Central and South Texas people spent a good deal of time last year knocking West Texas on account of the drouth. This year the tables are turned. The excessive wet weather in those sections has rotted the cotton and the seed in the boll, and East, Central and South Texas buyers are now in West and North Texas buying cottonseed and shipping it to their sections. It is said that few counties down in the state will raise enough good cottonseed for planting next year, and will have to depend on West Texas for seed.

We were asked the other day if we believed any of the members of the bunch on the corner will ever get to heaven. Positively, No! Every authority says heaven is high above the earth. Even if the members of the bunch were converted into winged angels they are too lazy to fly upward. Likely they would simply open their wings and float downward to the other place.

Verily, it takes all sorts of people to make up the world. Two women in Fort Worth Tuesday applied to the county clerk for a license so they could marry each other. Their request was refused. Recently a very prominent politician in New York died, and it was found "he" was a woman. "He" had been married twice, and for many years to each "wife." Also a well-known and wealthy ranchman of Montana was discovered upon "his" death to have been a woman. "He," too, had a wife for many years.

Tests Made of Sugar Beets

Colo. R. P. Smyth has a letter from Fred L. Crawford, formerly of Plainview, who is now auditor for the Northern Sugar Corporation and the Minnesota Sugar Co., of Detroit, Mich., which have a number of sugar refineries in the north. The letter is relative to the test of some sugar beets which Mr. Crawford secured while here several weeks ago. The test was made at the Mason City, Iowa, refinery, and showed that while the germination test of the seeds shows very high the sugar content and purity of the beets is not high. This, so Col. Smyth says, is undoubtedly caused by the excessive rains which fell here during the growing season, as in tests of beets grown here in former years showed high per centage of sugar and purity.

Weak Links in a Strong Chain

That's just what imitation parts are when they become a part of your Ford car. They look strong enough, but the metal isn't there—the strong, durable Vanadium steel that goes into the Ford chassis and every Ford part. Ford parts are specially cast and heat-treated, each according to its use. Some require a hard, flint-like wearing surface, others need resiliency, and some need just "toughness."

Ford metallurgists have been studying these problems for sixteen years and know just how each unit should be made to endure a maximum of wear and tear. They know that best results can be obtained only by the special formulas for different parts, and that honest Ford parts wear from thirty-five to one hundred per cent longer than counterfeits.

We carry complete assortments of genuine Ford parts for both passenger cars and trucks. And our garage is equipped to give careful, prompt Ford service—from minor adjustments to complete overhauls. Drive in, it's better to be safe than sorry. Come to the Authorized Ford dealers for service.

MEN FROM OIL FIELDS BUYING FARMS IN HALE COUNTY

Conditions in Hale county are splendid, it is reported by Dr. C. C. Gidney of Plainview, who has been here attending the medical clinic. Dr. Gidney was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Marie, who visited friends on McKinney avenue.

"We had good rains in the Plainview country during the fall," Dr. Gidney said yesterday. "A large acreage was sown to wheat. The fair weather of the last few weeks has enabled farmers to save their crops, and never at this season of the year have farmers felt more sanguine over the outlook for wheat."

"The recent bank statements of the three Plainview banks showed healthy deposits. The First National showed right at $2,000,000 deposits. Thousands of dollars' worth of row crops are yet to be threshed and sold. Dozens of people are coming in from the oil fields and investing in Hale county farms. It has been estimated that between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 worth of city and farm property in our county has been secured by people from the oil fields within the last few months."—Dallas News Nov. 27.

COULD HARDLY STAND ALONE

Terrible Suffering From Headache, Sideache, Backache, and Weakness, Relieved by Cardui, Says This Texas Lady.

Gonzales, Tex.—Mrs. Minnie Phillips, of this place, writes: "Five years ago I was taken with a pain in my left side. It was right under my left rib. It would commence with an aching and extend up into my left shoulder and on down into my back. By that time the pain would be so severe I would have to take to bed, and suffered usually about three days. I suffered this way for three years, and got to be a mere skeleton and was so weak I could hardly stand alone. Was not able to go anywhere and had to let my house work go. I suffered with a pain in my back and had the headache all the time. I was unable to do a thing. My life was a misery, my stomach got in an awful condition, caused from taking so much medicine. I suffered so much pain. I had just about given up all hopes of our getting anything to help me.

One day a Birthday Almanac was thrown in my yard. After reading its testimonials I decided to try Cardui, and am so thankful that I did, for I began to improve when on the second bottle. I am now a well woman and feeling fine and the cure has been permanent for it has been two years since my awful bad health. I will always praise and recommend Cardui." Try Cardui today. E 78

OLD BELIEF CALLED SILLY

Idea, Long Held, That Pearls Decay if Not Worn is Ridiculed by Expert.

Pearls abound in romance, and romance abounds in fiction. This fact was strikingly brought to light by a full page advertisement of Hurcomb's, a London auctioneer who does a large business among the British nobility, published recently in the London Times. Hurcomb chats familiarly with his prospective customers about fact and fiction in the business of buying and selling jewels and plate. This paragraph he quotes from a weekly paper which "has the largest circulation of any religious newspaper in the world."

"Some family heirlooms of great historic value had to be inspected. A visit was paid by the solicitors to a bank, where various tin boxes were deposited in a strong room. One of these tin boxes contained a lovely pearl necklace. On being opened, however, it was found that after many years the pearls were discolored, and in some cases had crumbled to dust. A specialist said if they had been occasionally brought to the light and had been worn, they would have been in as good a condition as when they were deposited in the strong room of the bank. What a lesson it conveys of the folly and error of hoarding our possessions! God wants us not to bury our talents any more than our treasures. They will sink into atrophy by non-use."

Hurcomb comments that "the editors should have exercised more care than to insert such utter rubbish."

"Being a specialist," he says, "I repeat that the statement is all rubbish, every bit of it, although I agree with the application."

FATEFUL DAY IN HISTORY

Events of the Day Connected With the First of July.

In American history the first day of July is to be particularly remembered by the battle of Gettysburg, the advance of the scouting forces of the Union and Confederate armies coming together in the forenoon of July 1, 1863. The fight continued for three days. The second day was the bloodiest of the Civil war and 33,000 men fell, killed or wounded. One year previous to the battle of Gettysburg, the battle of Malvern Hill was fought, and it was then that General McClellan's action of retreating in the morning, instead of following up his advantage, evoked a storm of criticism which eventually destroyed his reputation as a capable commander of large armies in war. In later years, the battles of the Union and of the Confederacy were fought on July 1, 1898, during the Spanish-American war. Both ended with American victory. Among the regiments that charged up the side of Kettle hill in the attack on San Juan was the one commanded by Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who afterward, in writing the history of the regiment, said that for one reason or another the public christened it the "Rough Riders." At first he and his men fought against the use of the term, but to no purpose, and when generals of division and brigade commanders began to write it so in formal communications, the regiment adopted the name also.

Early Glass Factories.

Little is known of the early history of the glass industry in this country, and still less of the products of the early factories, but a glass house was in operation in Philadelphia in 1682. One Joshua Tittery, from Newcastle-on-Tyne, came over to Pennsylvania in June of that year as a glass maker in the employ of the Society of Traders. Caspar Wistar, it is believed, constructed the first glass factory in New Jersey near Allowaystown, in 1739, and the first industrial enterprise established in the United States was a glass bottle factory which was erected in about the year 1801 at Jamestown, Va.

Indians Fond of Corn.

The early Indians grew flint corn for hominy and flour corn for bread and soups. They invented "succotash" composed of maize and beans, with butter and salt added. We owe to them all of our best recipes for the preparation of corn, not excepting "hockeak" and cornbreads.

Corn remains today what it was before Columbus landed, the great American food crop. One year's crop of maize, loaded on wagons in single file and allowing 20 feet to each wagon, would make a line long enough to encircle the globe nine and a half times.

Ventriloquists.

Ventriloquism is the art of producing tones and sounds without any motion of the lips, so that the hearer often refers the sound to some other place. The ventriloquist uses no instrument, nor does the art depend upon any peculiar structure of the organs of the voice, but upon dexterity. The name is founded upon the mistaken supposition that the voice proceeds from the stomach. The art of the ventriloquist consists mainly in taking deep inhalations of breath, and then allowing it to escape slowly, the sounds of the voice being modified by the muscles of the throat and palate. Ventriloquism is a very old art and was known to the ancient Greeks as well as to the Romans. The Greeks ascribed it to the operations of demons, and called the ventriloquists "Enchanted." The Romans called them "Sylphes."

MAY BE TRUTH IN LEGEND

Investigation of "Enchanted Table" in New Mexico Seems to Bear Out Story Long Believed.

An isolated butte rising out of a vast plain in the vast Southwest—a flat-topped hill 430 feet high and with sides so nearly vertical that for many centuries it was supposed to be hopelessly climb-proof, is one of the most interesting of the natural wonders of this part of the United States.

Many attempts to climb the "Enchanted Table" or "Mesa Encantada," as the first Spanish settlers called it, have been made, but Indian superstition has attributed their failure largely to a supernatural influence that balked the ascent. Hence the name "Enchanted."

According to the Indian legend, the mesa, which is three miles northeast of the well-known Acoma pueblo, in New Mexico, was very anciently the site of a prehistoric village. A frightful storm carried away part of the rock and with it the rocky staircase which offered the only path of access to the summit.

As a result, the people in the village were cut off from the plain below. They could not climb down; no help could reach them, and they starved to death. The only survivors were a few who by chance were absent from the mesa top at the time of the disaster. From them, it is explained, are sprung the present-day inhabitants of the pueblo of Acoma.

But science, while disposed to be incredulous of things unproved, is at the same time inclined to investigation. Hence an expedition which the government bureau of ethnology sent out to climb the Mesa Encantada. The party, after almost incredible efforts, arrived upon the top.

What they expected to find was nothing. But, to their surprise, they discovered, on the summit of the mesa, plain and unmistakable evidences of ancient occupancy, such as ruined walls, and what they saw there afforded a measurable confirmation of the Indian legend.

Tasks for Disabled Fighters.

An outline of the efforts of the bureau of employment of the Pennsylvania department of labor and industry to find suitable industrial tasks in Pennsylvania for disabled soldiers and sailors is given in a bulletin just issued by the department. This bulletin, which may be obtained upon application to the department of labor and industry, at Harrisburg, analyzes by task and locality, the 50,000 employment opportunities offered by 900 employers in 60 counties, number of plants, kinds of firms and numbers of openings in each class of employment. One series of tables shows at what tasks several hundreds of disabled men are now employed by the Philadelphia and Reading railway company. Another chapter on "Placement of Disabled Soldiers and Sailors in Employment" gives a general review of the placement subject, outlining conditions that may be expected and methods to be employed in locating each disabled soldier and sailor at a specified task in Pennsylvania plants. —Scientific American.

Turned From Friend.

The revolving floor in one of the dancing cabarets mystified two young lieutenants just back from France and evidently strangers in New York. They were ushered to a table on the revolving floor. Shortly afterward one of the soldiers went to the telephone booth; emerging about ten minutes later, he looked around in dazed fashion and made several starts for the spot where he had apparently left his companion, but couldn't seem to find him. "Say, there," he hastily remarked to the head waiter. "Lend me one of your boy scouts to help me find my chow table, will you?" "What's the trouble, will you?" inquired the headwaiter solicitously. "I left my friend at a table over yonder by the post," answered the bewildered soldier, "and now he's disappeared." As there were a number of men in uniform present the head waiter suggested that the friend be paged. "That's the idea," eagerly responded the soldier. "His name's Kennedy." And in a short time the messmates were reunited. Then the existence of the revolving floor was briefly explained to them. —New York Sun.

Yep, It Takes Practice.

For the forty-fifth time in 12 months she stood at the bridal altar and repeated the solemn words that linked her soul forever with that of the handsome man by her side. As the minister held up his hand signaling for the slow traffic to come forward and kiss the bride, the handsome man leaned over to press the first kiss on her ruby rouged lips.

As he did so, his foot caught in her train and threw him off the track.

"Whattell, ya big boob," came an encouraging voice from a megaphone on the side lines as the purring of the camera ceased. "Now we'll have to make that again. You've spoiled 500 feet of perfectly good film."

Individual Cups for Cows.

The Jersey herd of Ralph Ballou is now provided with individual drinking bowls. Each stall is connected with the water system and has an automatic bowl about ten inches in diameter and six inches deep. When the cow sticks her nose in the bowl to drink she turns the water on, and as the bowl fills she raises her head and cuts the water off. This method avoids having to fill the trough or breaking tea for the cows when it is cold. —Mourne County Appeal.

MR. DODSON WARNS USERS OF CALOMEL

Says Drug Acts Like Dynamite on Liver and You Lose a Day's Work

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.

How Catarrh is Contracted

Mothers are sometimes so thoughtless as to neglect the colds which their children contract. The inflammation of the mucus membrane, at first acute, becomes chronic and the child has chronic catarrh, a disease that is seldom cured and that may prove a life's burden. Many persons who have this loathsome disease will remember having had frequent colds at a time it was contracted. A little forethought, a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judiciously used and all this trouble might have been avoided. Obtainable everywhere.

Despondency

When you feel discouraged and despondent do not give up but take a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets and you are almost certain to feel all right within a day or two. Despondency is very often due to indigestion and biliousness, for which these tablets are especially valuable. Obtainable everywhere.

THE HALLMARK JEWELER

 gether for all time. In their teaching is to be a strength to us we must follow them in this. But the key note of the religion God has used to inspire America is love for our brother and to the caring for his needs and giving the most lowly, the most oppressed, the most weakened by disease and hardships their opportunity to live. This religion is the thread that will hold this nation together and seeding the most effective if not the only one. Regardless of our creed, our bond of union is a religious one. Israel then proceeded with her service by ascribing praise to their God for all they had received at his hands, and for the excellence of the protection He had given and of the bounty He had bestowed. They then closed with the feast and the rejoicing. If we are true to our Thanksgiving Day, and I believe those gathered here are of that mind, we will fulfill every part of this spirit, as much in the final offering for the needy of this city as in the service of praise in which we are now engaged and the rejoicing in our feasts of celebration.

Some of Our National Blessings
 Let us proceed to enumerate and think upon some of our National blessings. The great world war is over, in fact, if not by formal declaration, and our men, those who have not paid the supreme price of liberty and right, have returned from overseas, and with their comrades in America have been sent to their homes, or in case of the wounded to institutions of rehabilitation where a grateful people will do all that is humanly possible to repay the debt we owe for their sacrifice. We have enjoyed a year in which to look backward, forward and inward, and thus get a quiet vision of things before us and to grasp the problems of our own life and future. This has meant more real advancement than we can realize, while already we are vigorously struggling with our tasks.

We are still at peace with Mexico, still striving to preserve a brotherly attitude toward this pestiferous neighbor. Many clouds of an economic and social nature have risen with livid flashes and muttering thunders that have seemed to promise destructive storms, but in every case they have passed away or give promise of dissolving in the sunshine of God given prosperity and brotherly understanding. The principle of democratic give and take compromise for the good of all is again triumphant and more firmly established in the hearts of the people than ever before. The action of our demobilized army men both singly and collectively has demonstrated that dread war so far from beastlizing the fighters, as some have feared it would, has actually steadied them, with a dominant vision of right and Americanism that they have become a civic balance wheel for the nation, alike vigorously hunting down the red eyed destroyers and their prostrate enemies against the angry passion of the mob of home citizens that these enemies might have the right of orderly processes of law. The law and the government to them is the living Goddess of Liberty. They are going to insist that she be honored.

This is but another indication of many that point the promise of social stability which should renew our faith in the midst of all perils.
 As a gift to our nation God has bestowed plenty upon us during the past year. Unheard of bountiful crops are reported from every quarter. And we are receiving extravagant returns for the fruits of the soil and the returns of our labor. To so great an extent is this son that our greatest danger today and for the immediate future is too much. God protect us from the mad extravagance and sin that too often follows too much and too easily acquired wealth. Let us think up here of the story of the first Thanksgiving day on American soil. The people had suffered from famine and privation and diseases. They had succeeded in a strange and inhospitable climate in growing a little grain, we would call it mere handfuls today. And game was plentiful if they worked hard to get it. It was for that little agricultural return with the beasts and birds of the forest to provide through the coming winter against actual starvation that they were so thankful as to establish this day. They celebrated without knowing it the dawning of a new nation. The spirit of that Thanksgiving has been the spirit of our strength. We cannot afford to in the least forget it or to depart from it. Then God has given to our nation a higher esteem for life and for citizenship. In this connection it is delightful to remind ourselves that we have been equipped and permitted to do, through some of our people a wonderful work in preserving life.

God has brought us through the suffering of a great plague many times more terrible than the war to us in its devastating power and chilling breath of death. He comforted us when sick and bereaved. He gave us hope to live again and face a dreaded return bravely. Let us thank Him today that he has mercifully withheld that return almost absolutely. While the promise of vigor and health for the nation is still bright with a faith which has caused us to attack vigorously disease enemies of long standing. God still holds open before the people of this nation the door of wonderful opportunity of service to the world. The achievements of American men and women of the past year in humanitarian services can only be matched by fulfilling the responsibilities that lie out before us. His trust thus demonstrated in us is one of the wonderful things for which we should return thanks today. In the vision and power, to achieve, we should not forget the wonderful way He has led the National Protestant denominations to catch the vision of great responsibilities and move far along the road to achievement. We thank God today that He has awakened His church today to a broader, more effective service both at home and abroad.

Some Local Blessings

Among our local blessings, peculiar to Plainview and this South Plains country, is prosperity as compared with former years. The people of this country have endured their hardships but there has been abundant crops and this year, with the good prices we are receiving, it means unusual prosperity. We can comprehend this blessing the better when we realize there are other sections of our land not so fully blessed. Our people are enjoying a general good health. Christianity has progressed in our midst. The united spirit of service in our churches has produced gratifying results even if we are not satisfied with present attainments of righteousness.

Peculiar Individual Blessings

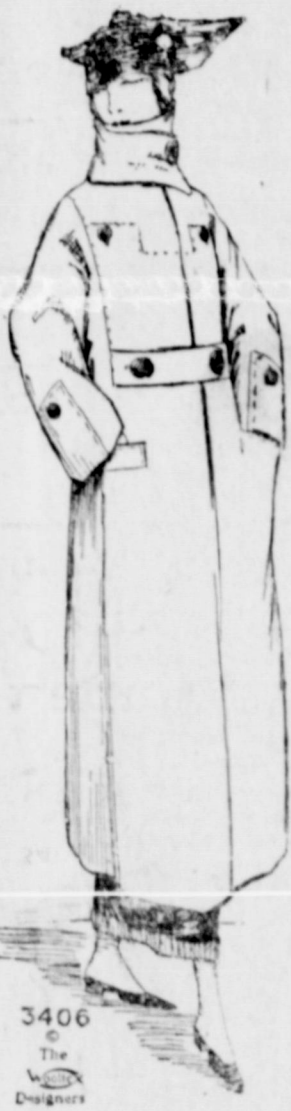

Each soul must count his own individual blessings and in humble gratitude to God acknowledge what He has done for us. For health I thank Thee, God, Thou hast given me strength of body to labor when the going was hard. Thou hast given me courage and strength of mind to rise above all troubles and to labor steadfastly. For the joy of that labor I am humbly grateful. Thou hast given food and raiment for every need and much for luxurious enjoyment. I thank Thee. For the strength to bear burdens, my own and others, I thank Thee, for comforts in bereavement and loss, O God, Thy gentle ministry is beyond comparison, without it I would have fainted beneath the load. For each day's supply of grace to enable me to live my life as Thy child, I thank Thee in humble realization of my dependence in eternal things. For guidance, for hope, for health, for love of friend and family, I thank Thee, O, my Father.

So do we enumerate the multitude of our blessings until in humble acknowledgment of God's good Fatherhood we raise our songs of praise. Our hands and our pockets are opened with a great longing to take from other lives the pain God has spared us from enduring in our own. So shall this Thursday, with its feasts and pleasure, be made a real Thanksgiving."
