Writer Criticizes Modern Teaching of History.

Important Happenings Recorded Without the Events Leading Up to Them Being Set Forth-Makes Heads Spin.

Take English history as it is taught in an English school. We begin with Celtic Britain. Enter Caesar and a Roman host. From where? We never learn, H. G. Wells writes in the Saturday Evening Post. Who is this Caesar and why did he come? Why did he go? Why did the Romans not come again for the better part of a century? Evidently someting much more important was going on elsewhere.

A little way on in the story certain Angles, Jutes and Saxons rush in-as inexplicably. Whence? Why? Later come the Danes. The history of England has the effect of something going on upon a doormat in a passage outside a room full of events, with several other doors. The door opens, the Norman kings rush out of the room, conquer the country hastily, say something about some novelty of which we have learned nothing hitherto, the Crusades, and exit to room again. From which presently King Richard returns dejected. He has been fighting the Saracens. Who are the Saracens? We never learn. What becomes of them? We are never told. So it goes on. The broad back of history is turned to England throughout. Its face and hands are flidden, and we its heels.

The American story is still more incomprehensible. An innocent continent is suddenly inc. Somisa Poi tuguese, French, Dutch and British, who proceed at once to pick up the elsewhere. Someone called the pope is seen to be dividing the new continent among the European powers. Colonies are formed. What are colonies? These colonies, in what is apparently a strenuous attempt to simplify history, break off from their unknown countries of origin. A stream of immigration begins from west and east. The American mind establishes a sort of infellectual Monroe doctrine and declares that America has no past, only a future. From which sublime dream it is presently roused to find something of unknown origin called European imperialism wrecking the world. What is this imperialism? How did it begin? The teaching of history in most other countries is after the same fashion. Everywhere the teachers present more or less similar histories of passage and doormats. Great events-the Crusades, the Reformation, the industrial brutal degenerate of all human revolution-come in with a bang and history. A religion of lust, re-enforced go out with a slam, leaving no clew, by the bloody scimiter, the Turk cut leaving our poor heads spinning. With the Downfall of the Turk and the Hun Santa Sophia Will Be Restored as a Christian Temple.

Among the happy rejoicings of these victory days we are inexpress ibly glad that the war did not end until the unspeakable Turk was well started down the toboggan of defeat toward the bottomless pit, writes Dr. Charles Edward Locke. It is a mighty triumph for democracy. With Jerusalem and Damascus in the hands of the Christians, and with Constantinople no longer desecrated as the capital of a filthy Mohammedanism, the foul Turk is now getting his long-delayed deserts. Constantinople was named for a zealous Christian prince. It was made the imposing headquarters of the Greek church, and a beautiful temple was built in the year 537 by Justinian which is so stately and gorgeous that this proud builder on the dedication day exclaimed : "O Solomon, I have surpassed thee !"

But in 1453 the city was captured by the sacrilegeous and infidel Saracen, and for 465 years it has been the center of Moslem worship and propaganda. It is beautifully situated on the western slopes of the Bosporous, and looks out upon the picturesque Marmora, Justinian's m nister grand was transformed lato a Moslem mosque. All the altars and crosses and frescoes and insig da of make what we can of the wriggling of Christianity were ruthlessly , moved. and for nearly five centurie, instead of the worship of the most high God rescurding beneath a wonde ful don't which Michael Angelo said .....s like a part of the heavens brought down to earth, if has been the scene of Mothread of various conflicts-initiated hammedan nummeries and semi-pagan idolatry.

> With the victories of this war, no doubt magnificent Santa Sophia will he restored, and once again the praises of Christ will resound through sanctuary and cloister; and the marvelous fresco of Jesus and his disclples in the bligh dome, which for centuries has been concealed behind the incrustations of a detestable Moslemism, will once again utter its inspiring and artistic messages to reverent Christian worshipers. The overthrow of the Turk is not only a triumph of democracy, but it is likewise a mighty victory for the truth and justice which are interpreted to the world by the gospel of the Son of God and the Son of Man, Jesus Christ of Nazareth.

Until the savage Prussian Hun appeared the Turk had conferred upon him the ignominy of being the most his way through human bodies to an especially, upon the innocent Arme-of Many Others.

"I never would have thought it," said Mr. Goslington, "but I've had to get a bigger safe-deposit box.

"Before the great war I had a modest check account, and a little fund stowed away in a savings bank for emergencies, but no safe-deposit box, large or small. I had no use for one, I had no stocks or bonds to keep in one; but when the war came and we all began buying Liberty bonds it was different. I didn't want to keep even the little bonds that represented my initial investment lying around in a bureau drawer or stored away in a trunk, so I rented a safe-deposit box. I had often read the advertisements of the safe-deposit companies telling of how little you could get a box for, and from that on up, pleasant reading always, suggestive of wealth and coupon cutting, and that sort of thing, and now the time had come when I needed a box myself; and it was a very pleasant reflection. 1 guess you know the size box I took. "Still, I thought that box would be plenty big enough for me. I hadn't many bonds to put in, you understand; but, do you know, as soon as 1 got the box I found that I had some other things that really belonged in it; insurance policies and some other papers and documents that were of value to me for financial or other reasons: and so while the bonds didn't begin to ta' La my little box was packed found so that I had to crowd the cover down to get it to close.

"And I will admit that the safedeposit experience was a lot of fun to me. It was a real pleasure to me to have my box politely hauled out for me from its deep pigeon hole in the safe-deposit vault; and it was a pleasure to be shown to a cubby hole with a door that I could close, and where I found a desk and pens and ink and paper and shears and coupon envelopes and so on; it was a pleasure to be a safe-deposit customer, and I certainly did smile when I used those shears for the first time, cutting off coupons.

"Then the time came when, as I bought more bonds, and what with the other stuff in it, the box was so full that they had hard work to crowd it into its pigeon hole and hard work to pull it out, and then I simply had to buy a bigger box, and that was fun. too.

"Of course, you know I did not now buy a large safe, or a room with shelves around to store my bouds on; nor did I have to hire a scissors sharp ener to keep my coupon shears sharp so that my clerks would not be de layed in cutting the coupons. I

Eye Drill for Flyers.

The royal air force of England has instituted an eye drill that has made many splendid pilots out of men who would otherwise have been useless. It was discovered that a large permutage of men only use one eye at a title, and in the early days pilots were not tested for eye balance. Many men were then passed into the air service who could never land correctly. When these deficiencies were discovered a school was formed and under an eye special-1st twice a day airmen undergoing the cure were paraded for eye drill and taught how to use both their eyes at the same time. The result was that 95 per cent of the men who would have been bad pilots became good ones in a little while.

Tribute to the Lilac.

The lilac has no place in mortuary annals of man. It is not a flower for the graveyard. It is a flower for the freshening of thought, the lightening of life and the creation of the ideals of living. It is the flower of all others that belongs to the home and to the heart and to the years that are gone and the years that are to be. Happy the wall where the lilac blooms! Happy the window through which is wafted the lilacs' fragrance! Brief the period of the flowering of this bloom of all others in the liking of all who love that which is old-fashmore American Aerial Motorcycle.

A machine which may be used as a motorcycle on the road, or as an airplane in the air is the invention of a Swiss engineer. Fitted with a 20 horsepower engine, a flying speed of 56 miles per hour is attained, while immediately the machine touches the ground an automatic arrangement stops the propeller, enabling the machine to run as a motorcycle at a speed of 40 miles an hour. The outstretched wings collapse when not in use in the air, so that the machine may be used upon an ordinary road.

HOLT CATERPILLAR TRACTORS HAVE ARRIVED-SEE THEM

The Government Used Holt Caterpillars to Haul Big Guns in France

Two of the well known Holt "Caterpillar" Tractors have arrived in Plainview, and will be demonstrated to the farmers of the Plains country. Mr. F. G. Hinckley, agent for the Holt company, is here to have charge of the demonstration, and to sell the Holt tractors.

The Holt Caterpillar is a powerful tractor, and it was these machines that the government used to haul its big guns and other heavy supplies on the battle front in France.

The Holt will handle from eight to twelve mold board plows on the average ground, and plow sixty acres of land in a day, which is indeed a wonderful record, and should appeal to the wheat farmer who desires to put in a large acreage in the least possible time.

It is possible to plow from one to two weeks earlier with a "caterpillar" because it does not pack the ground having but 5 1-2 lbs to the square inch on the surface of the ground. The average pressure of a man's heel on the surface of the ground is from 35 to 40 lbs. to the square inch. Mr. Hinckley, who is stopping at the Wayland Hotel, is the representative for this territory and expects o sell a number of the tractors. His neadquarters will be at the Knight garage, whese tse tractors can be

We shall miss her presence and cheerful smile but her influence lives on, and we can but wish that her prayers which so often ascended a throne of grace for others may be answered in their lives. The entire community enters into sympathy with the bereaved and sorrowing husband and family and may it be that the God of the sorrowing shall part the dark clouds and reveal the hope of a reunion in the land of a cloudless day.
