HEAVY RAINS LAST NIGHT COVERED ENTIRE PLAINS

INSURES BUMPER ROW AND HAY CROPS AND FALL AND WINTER PASTURES

Heavy rains covered the entire Plains last night, the official register in Plainview showing 1.73 inches. The rain fell almost all night, and every part of the Plains reporting from 1.50 to 2 inches of rain. Floydada and Lockney report heavy rains, so does Petersburg, Hale Center, Abernathy, Runningwater sections of Hale county. Railroad men say heavy rains fell all the way from Amarillo to beyond Abernathy. The rains insure abundant row and hay crops and winter ranges. The ground is put in fine shape for plowing for wheat planting. In fact, crop conditions just now could not well be improved on.

Heavy rains fell Sunday afternoon between Hale Center and Abernathy, and in the Runningwater and Olton communities.

Everet Woolverton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Woolverton, was seriously burned while working with a large tractor at a thresher eight miles northeast of Plainview Friday.

He was priming the engine with gasoline, and it back-fired on him, setting the gasoline afire. His right arm and hand from the elbow down was burned to a crisp, his right leg was seriously burned and also his face some.

Reports say that he is now recovering, though it will take some time for the burns to completely heal.

Robert B. Hulen, well known citizen of the town, was run over by a truck of one of the oil companies yesterday, and very seriously injured. There are cuts and bruises all over his body from his feet to his head, so a physician informs us. The serious is a deep cut on his left leg above the ankle, which required several stitches. His right left, left arm, back, face and nose are badly bruised.

The accident occurred near the lamp post on the northeast corner of the square, and we are informed that as he was crossing the street he was struck from behind by the truck which was going aroun. the post.

He is at home, and if no complications set up will recover soon from his wounds.

WHEAT TOOK A GREAT TUMBLE LAST WEEK

PRICE DROPPED 65c BUSHEL TO $1.90 ON LOCAL MARKET—EMBARGO ON

The price of wheat took a bad slump last week, the net loss being 55c a bushel, from $2.45 to $1.90 on the local market. Yesterday and today $2 is being paid.

The drop in price is a serious loss to the wheat growers of the Plainview country, and will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars. Grain men do not think the price will go up much; as there is a large surplus crop this year.

The car situation has greatly improved and as many cars are needed here, considering the embargo put on yesterday to the Galveston port, are now being received, so the local railroad agent informs us.

New Elevator Begins Operation Handling Wheat

The new 220,000-bushel concrete elevator of the Harvest Queen Mills began operations yesterday.

The machinery for the full equipment of the eight bins has been received and will be installed as soon as the work can be done.

The Hale county democratic convention was held at the court house Saturday afternoon, with county chairman, W. W. Kirk, presiding. Guy Scott of Hale Center was elected secretary of the convention.

The Neff, Thomason and Looney forces dominated the convention, and so far as we know there was not a Bailey adherent present as a delegate. T. J. Tilson, J. H. Haltom and W. J. Lloyd were appointed as a committee on credentials, and they soon made their report, which was adopted.

Judge H. C. Randolph introduced resolution No. 1, G. R. Scott resolution No. 2, and Capt. T. J. Tilson, No. 3, as printed below, and after short discussions by the authors and others each resolution was unanimously adopted.

A resolution was also adopted by the convention to instruct the presiding officers at each voting box in the August 28th primary to satisfy themselves as the persons offering to vote and refuse to permit anyone who is not a democrat to vote. The law gives election judges this power.

RAILROADS ALLOWED GREAT INCREASE IN RATES

INCREASES RECENTLY ASKED GRANTED BY INTERSTATE COMMISSION

Washington, July 31.—Authority for the railroads of the country to increase their revenues by approximately $1,500,000,000 was granted today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Freight rates will be advanced about one-third, passenger fares one-fifth and Pullman charges one-half.

Coastwise and inland steamship lines and electric railway companies were granted permission to increase their freight rates in proportion to the increases granted railroads serving the same territory. No estimate of the aggregate amount resulting from these advances has been made. New rates which are to continue until March 1, 1922, will become effective upon five days' notice by the carriers to the commission and the public and they must be in operation before January 1. Since the Government guarantee expires September 1, the carriers are expected to bend every effort to put the advance into effect.

Increases granted are designed to offset the $600,000,000 wage advance awarded by the Railroad Labor Board and to provide the 6 per cent net income on the aggregate values of the railroad properties as permitted under the Transportation Act. The aggregate value of all the railroads was estimated by the commission at $18,900,000,000, as against a book value of $20,040,000,000 given by the carriers.

The 20 per cent increase in passenger fares, excess baggage charges and milk transportation rates and the 50 per cent surcharge on Pullman (Continued on Last Page)

WILL BE DEFEATED

Practically every indication points to the defeat of Mr. Bailey in the August 28th primary.

In the precinct conventions of July 24th the supporters of Messrs. Neff, Thomason and Looney very cordially joined forces and dominated, and in the county conventions of last Saturday they repeated their action in practically every county in the state, thus giving the anti-Bailey forces a larger per centage of the votes in the coming state convention than in the state convention in May, which was an overwhelming victory for the anti-Bailey forces.

Press dispatches indicate that comparatively few of the followers of Thomason and Looney will vote for Bailey in the run-off primary, but on the other hand that thousands of them are giving earnest support to Mr. Neff. A few men here and there of course will vote for Mr. Bailey, but in most cases these men were Bailey's friends in times past. Take the case of Mr. Murrell of Gainsville, who spoke here Saturday for Mr. Bailey. He is a friend and neighbor of many years of Mr. Bailey's and would doubtless have supported Bailey in the July primary except that he last year pledged himself to his other friend, Mr. Thomason, not thinking that Bailey would be in the race.

It is quite evident to us that Mr. Bailey cast his full strength in the July primary, which was about one-third of the total vote polled. Latest returns indicate that Mr. Neff will tie or possibly lead him in votes. Hence, it is not reasonable to expect that Bailey can count on securing anywhere near as many votes from the Thomason and Looney camps as does Mr. Neff.

In the July primary not very many women voted, but the indications are that a full vote of women will be cast in the run-off primary, and everybody knows that Mr. Bailey will get very few female votes, as he opposes woman's suffrage, and stands for those things which womankind does not endorse.

We do not see how any Bailey supporter can figure it out that Bailey has any chance of winning.

Mother love is a vase of rare and beautiful flowers that sits on a veranda where all the world goes by.

One reason why there is a shortage of labor the civilized world over is that eleven million men were killed in the war and ten million more were maimed and incapacitated.

R. E. Thomason has telegraphed from El Paso that "I am unqualifiedly for Neff." This should be an example that all the supporters of Mr. Thomason should follow.

Southern California has a delightful climate. It is also having an earthquake every few days. Come to the Plainview country, where the climate is fine and there are no earthquakes.

The local coal yards are now able to make delivery of coal, and it behooves everybody to lay in a sufficient supply for the winter. Coal will likely be very scarce when the coldest part of winter comes. It is better to borrow money and lay in a full supply of coal than to risk not being able to get it next winter.

FACTS, FUN AND FOOLISHNESS

(By Austin Callan)

Man:

Man is the queerest of all the animals. He is born barefooted and dies bareheaded. The more you know about him the less you understand why the Creator did not make the horse first and then quit.

An average he thing will shave a note or clip a coupon, but insist on having a barber to grow his whiskers and crop in his locks.

Man is of many ways and full of prunes, when he can't find any moonshine liquor. It takes him a year or so to learn how to talk, but he never learns when to talk. He will lie all night and dream; he will lie all day and scheme. He is a complex assembly of egotism, stomach and stubbornness, believing that a dog which belongs to him is better than a dude that belongs to his neighbor.

Man is an unfinished piece of common furniture. He spends all his spare change trying to keep his teeth and all that he can borrow getting rid of his appendix. He imagines himself the king of beasts and yet it takes him longer to learn how to walk than a jungle monkey and longer to grow whiskers than a Mexican Billy goat.

Uncle Hiram says that he has never been able to read a chicken's mind, but that he reckons the reason a rooster crows at night is because the hens cackle all day.

A man running for office always believes that the people are calling him. But on election day he finds out that central gave him the wrong number.

Van Martin Seriously Hurt

Van Martin of Motley county, but formerly an old J. A. hand and well known to many here, was seriously if not fatally injured a few days ago in an altercation with one of his sons according to information received here. According to the report he was brutally whipping or beating one of his children and one of his elder boys secured a club and beat his father over the head with it, fracturing his skull, and at last account he was not expected to recover.—Silverton Star.

OLD GOTHIC BARN

Great Structures in England Similar to Village Churches.

Unapproachable in Dignity; Beautiful as Cathedrals; No Ostentation of the Builder's Art.

The great old stone barns of England, dating, many of them, from the fourteenth century, are, comparatively speaking, little known to the general public, says the Christian Science Monitor. The beautiful architecture to be found in the English village churches has received its full meed of appreciation, and so, though possibly in a slightly less degree, have the fine old manor houses which dot the countryside and provide a most interesting study in the local variations which occur in the generally prevailing style at any given period. The barns, however, have been rather neglected, and literature on the subject is practically nonexistent.

Yet the barn is intimately bound up with the history of the neighborhood in which it stands, and where, for possibly nearly 500 years, it has been fulfilling practically the same eminently important functions, with little change, for the benefit of the folk in its neighborhood. The methods of the farmer may vary, but the general routine of the countryside goes on, much the same, century after century, and the great barns still stand ready to house the people's food as they have done, summer and winter, for so many hundred years.

These old Gothic barns are very dignified and very beautiful buildings, comparable in some ways to the village churches whose contemporaries they are, and if they are less ornate, they are, in their simplicity, hardly less imposing. Indeed, some people would give the balance in favor of the barns in this matter.

It is by no means always an easy matter to tell the precise date of these barns at first sight, but sometimes there is a little carving, a bit of tracery or a finial which will supply the clue, or possibly again, the form of a buttress may afford an indication; but fortunately there are generally local records to which access may be had containing details of the origin and foundation of the barns.

Among the famous fourteenth century barns of England are those at Glastonbury, Wells and Pilton in Somersetshire, Great Coxwell in Berkshire and Abbotsbury in Dorsetshire. These are all what may be described as barns of the first magnitude; great cruciform buildings which may well vie in size and dignity with many churches.

Of the barn at Great Coxwell, William Morris said that it was "unapproachable in its dignity, as beautiful as a cathedral, yet with no ostentation of the builder's art," and he always declared that it was one of the finest buildings in England or anywhere else.

Two Senators for Each State.

Congress consists of two senators from each state, the smallest state as well as the largest, and a number of representatives, according to population. The basis of representation, or number of inhabitants for a representative, is fixed by congress under each returning census so as to secure adequate representation for every state without making the house too large and unwieldy. The Constitution of the United States, adopted in 1789, said the number of representatives should not exceed one for every 30,000 of population, and as no census had yet been taken, 30,000 was adopted as the ratio of representation and the population of the different states was estimated. By this process the first house of representatives consisted of 65 members. Since then congress has passed 13 apportionment acts, under 13 different censuses, changing the basis of representation every time except once.

In 1800 and in 1810 the ratio was fixed at one representative for 33,000 population. In 1820 the ratio was increased to 35,000, and it has been increased every tenth year since till it is now 211,877, while the membership of the house has increased from 65 to 435.

Why Jews Don't Beg

From Beecher's Sermons—

One of the proverbs of the old Jews was, "Whoever brings up a child without a trade brings him up to steal."

However high a family was in social position, it was the habit of the Jews to teach every boy to know a trade, as he might see the day when it would be necessary for him to labor with his hands. It was sought to give every man the capacity to take care of himself, so that there should be no poor people in the land.

So successfully was this policy carried out that it has been said that the word beggar does not exist in the Hebrew tongue. Hear that, Ireland! Hear that, Italy!

And all this sprang, not from climate or condition, but from application of the Mosaic economy to the educating of the people.

Farmer Gets Verdict on Wheat

In the case in the District Court this week where a number of farmers of this county sued for damage incurred from planting a certain wheat, the wheat supposed to have been spring wheat, a verdict was returned by the jury in favor of the farmers. Our information is that the seed concern selling the wheat was asked to pay

Sixteen Years' Experience

For Sixteen years a corps of metallurgists have been studying and constantly perfecting the steel that goes into every part of the Ford car and the Ford One Ton Truck. Each separate part has been studied to learn the type of steel best fitted for it. Parts receiving constant surface wear are made of hard flint like metal; parts subjected to great vibration or resilience are made of softer, springy steel. Every part is made according to its use—that is, every genuine Ford part is.

But there are also counterfeit "Ford" parts. These imitations are made by concerns in no way connected with the Ford Motor Company and retailed as side lines by mail order houses, down-town stores and many garages. The unsuspecting customer accepts them because they are called "Ford" parts. To make sure of getting genuine Ford-made parts, buy them only from Authorized Ford Dealers. Likewise bring or take your Ford car to our garage for repairs, replacements and general "tuning up."

We are Authorized Ford Dealers. We can supply you with all Ford parts for either passenger car or truck. And our shop is equipped to give real Ford service in all repair work.

Advertised His Love

Publicity as a promoter of courtship and marriage has just had a successful tryout in Franklyn, Ore., and it makes a crazier story than anything you ever saw in the movies. Several months ago Harold Wimps, a San Francisco advertising man, went to Franklyn for his health. There he saw pretty Alice Moyer, a stenographer, going up the street on her way home. It was a case of love at first sight—for Wimps. He proposed to her on the spot. She called the police and had him arrested and fined for disturbing the peace. Wimps brooded over the incident. Then the town awoke one morning to find the bill boards and countryside flaming with posters which read: "I love and worship you, Alice Moyer. Will you marry me? Your own, Harold L. Wimps." Next day hand bills were scattered about the streets with a much more tender proposal of marriage signed by Wimps. Every day the postman left enough letters written on pink paper at the Moyer home to almost cover the center table. All were from Wimps and all contained about the same message. "I will die for you, will you marry me." Then one evening, before Miss Moyer could have Wimps adjudged a lunatic, Wimps hired the town band, and attired in his evening clothes marched in front of it to the Moyer home to the music of the wedding march. After making a speech in the front yard, he rang the bell and was admitted to the house. What took place therein hasn't been made public, but the happy couple were married a few days ago and the news reports say Wimps intends to start a business in Franklyn.

BODY OF SOLDIER ARRIVES AT LUBBOCK FROM FRANCE

Lubbock, July 30.—The body of Edmond Brown, an overseas soldier, was received in Lubbock Sunday and was given a military funeral by the Allen Brothers Post of the American Legion. Edmond Brown was one of the first American soldiers overseas and was killed in the early part of 1918.

Labor conditions have gradually been improving according to reports received.

The slackening in construction work and other industrial activities has had a tendency to stimulate competition for employment, resulting in greater efficiency as well as supply of labor.

Upon motion of Judge Randolph, W. W. Kirk, who has been county chairman for the past four months, and J. M. Adams, who has served as county secretary for the past two years, were thanked for the work they have done.

After speeches by T. J. Allen of Petersburg, W. A. Nash and Mr. Kirk, relative to defeating Bailey, the convention adjourned.

Resolution No. 1

Whereas, Pat M. Neff and Jo. Bailey are candidates before the second primary of the Democratic party in Texas, to be held, on the 28th day of August, next, and whereas, as Jo. Bailey is opposed to prohibition, has always fought woman's suffrage and has made a bitter fight against the present Democratic administration of Woodrow Wilson, we the democratic county convention of Hale County, Texas, hereby calls on democrats to support Neff. Men and women democrats, if you love your homes, if you love your country, we ask that you give Pat M. Neff your loyal support, that you work for his election until the 28th day of August and that on that day you go to the polls and vote for him.

Resolution No. 2

Be it resolved, by the Hale County Democratic convention, that we heartily condemn the candidacy for governor of a former citizen, Joseph Weldon Bailey, of Washington, D. C. We do this because we know that he has repudiated the Democratic party, he said in his speech at Wichita Falls, Texas. "Taking the whole thing from top to bottom and back again, there is not one thing which the Democratic administration has done that meets with MY approval."

We do this, because he did not make one speech during the entire war for the sale of Liberty Bonds.

We do this, because he made no effort to support the American Red Cross or the Salvation Army work.

We do this, because he did nothing whatever to put over the War Savings Stamps drives.

We do this, because boastful of his powers as an orator, he did not lift his voice in behalf of the Nation or of its harrassed and burdened President, Woodrow Wilson.

We do this, because there are some now asking us to elect as governor of the great state of Texas, a man who, in this hour of need, though given every opportunity and urged upon every hand, failed and refused to lift a finger to save the honor of the Nation, or bind up the wounds of its bleeding boys.

We condemn him to our fellow Texas Democrats without mental reservation and pledge ourselves to do every honorable thing we can to the end that he be overwhelmingly defeated.

Resolution No. 3

Whereas, our state and Nation are passing through one of the most important and critical crises in many years, and whereas the integrity of the great Democratic party is being violently and viciously assailed by men within, as well as by men and parties without, and whereas it is important and necessary that the integrity and the principles of the party be upheld and vindicated. Therefore

Resolved: That we thoroughly and heartily endorse the actions and platform of the last State and National Conventions, and pledge ourselves to defend the same.

Resolved No. 2: That we invite all patriotic and liberty-loving men and women who love our State and Nation, and who endorse the principles and platforms thus promulgated to join us in defense of these principles to the end that a great and signal victory may be achieved in November.

WESTERN ROADS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR SHORTAGE

Story Declares Eastern Roads Have Cars and Should Return Them to West

"The Santa Fe and other western roads are not responsible for the car shortage," said W. S. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway, when in Topeka recently. "The Santa Fe," said Mr. Storey, "like all other roads, has its troubles these days, but our trouble is chiefly with the grain car shortage. The Santa Fe and other western roads are not responsible for it. It grew out of the mixup during the federal administration when our cars were taken away and scattered all over the eastern country. The eastern roads have our box cars and the western roads did have a large number of their coal cars."

"In June the western roads sidetracked all loaded cars and ran trains of empty coal cars east. They delivered over 40,000 coal cars to the eastern roads. Now if the eastern roads would reciprocate by sending our empty box cars home it would help wonderfully in taking care of the conditions in the harvest belt. "A falling wheat market," continued Mr. Storey, "will bring a great amount of criticism from the farmers because they will want cars to get their wheat to market at once. But if wheat should go up there will not be much anxiety on the part of the wheat farmer to get their wheat to market."

"The Santa Fe," added Mr. Storey, "is moving an enormous lot of grain now. But there is such a tremendous crop that the movement does not seem to make much impression. We hope to get our cars back and get the peak load of the wheat harvest off the farmer's hands within the next sixty days. If we can do that we can handle the rest of the crop and other traffic satisfactorily in the future."

A. M. HOVE.

Excess Profits 20 Billions

Profiteering has cost every family of five in the United States a total of $1,500 in the last 4 years. These figures are based on the profits of corporations and are exclusive of their royalties, rents, excessive salaries, stock-dividends and so on. The financial manuals of Poor and Moody as well as the statements of the corporations themselves, their income tax returns, were used by W. J. Lauck, government economist. The figures show the combined corporations of the country took in net profits of 4,800 million more dollars each year during the 3 war years than they did in the 3 previous years. The coal, iron and steel industries alone cleaned up 2 billion dollars clear profit in excess of their before-the-war profits averages. Not much wonder prices are high.—Capper's Weekly.

Bledsoe Will Support Neff

Senator W. H. Bledsoe of Lubbock, ardent supporter of Robert Ewing Thomason for governor and referred to by Thomason as his "right hand man," will not support Joseph Weldon Bailey, according to a statement made last week. He said:

"I cannot give my support to Mr. Bailey. I do not agree with him on the issues involved in the campaign. I cannot endorse his fight on the National administration and shall therefore give my support to Mr. Neff in the coming primary and am confident that he will receive a large majority of the votes cast. I shall urge my friends to give their support and shall render him every assistance that I can in his race."

Beggars and Others Galore

On account of the prosperity of the Plainview country and so much money in circulation incident to the marketing of the wheat crop, many beggars and persons soliciting charity and religious donations are flocking this way. Nearly every day beggars are seen on the street and religious workers are making this town very often.

"Business is business," you know.

FOUND NEW LAND OF GOLD

New York Mining Man Reports Rich Discoveries Made in the Mines of Colombia.

A new gold region has been discovered in Colombia, according to J. V. Priest, a mining man, who arrived at New York from Santa Marta, Colombia.
Mr. Priest said that some time ago he was told by a Frenchman, who said he was a government employee, of fabulous wealth that lay hidden in the mines of Colombia. Mr. Priest, accompanied by his wife and C. L. Logue, a mining engineer, visited Colombia recently and spent his time in visiting various sections.
After landing at Cartagena, Mr. Priest said, he and his companions went up the Magdalena river 250 miles and disembarked, going overland through a mountainous country for 65 miles.
At the end of the journey, Mr. Priest said, they found vast gold fields which had never been actively developed because of the absence of the proper machinery. He said this is accounted for by the lack of transit facilities, it being a most difficult matter to ship material of any kind to this point.

Squirrels and Their Nests.

The gray squirrel makes a nest of leaves. He is more or less busily engaged in leaf construction during the entire year, writes Dr. Edward F. Bigelow in Boys' Life. Even in the summer he cuts off the green leaves and skillfully packs them among the branches or in the fork of a tree, so that they shed the rain and roof a cavity big enough to shelter two or three squirrels. Until within a few years I supposed that these leafy homes were for rearing the young only, but in a small grove near my own home I find a number of leaf nests occupied by the squirrels at various times. I recall vividly the bending down of a white birch tree that contained a leaf nest, and having four young gray squirrels drop out of it as the nest fell to pieces. I still feel a keen regret for having destroyed a squirrel home, but I am glad to add that when I placed the young in the nest, reconstructed on the ground to the best of my ability, the mother squirrel came and carried them to a hollow tree, as a cat will carry a kitten, or a mouse will carry the young, though by a somewhat different method.

AMARILLO ELKS BLOW UP IN SEVENTH AND LOSE

Plainview Wins Loosely Played Game By 10 to 8 Score—Large Crowd Present

Blowing up in the seventh inning, Amarillo Elks lost to Plainview Elks by a score of 10 to 8 Sunday afternoon at the new amusement park. Neither team played fast ball. Amarillo had the game easily won by a score of 7 to 2 in the seventh inning, when six hits, a walk and two errors netted the visitors eight runs. Ferguson, pitching for the locals, was taken out after three hits off him had brought in two scores in the seventh inning. Mitchell was put in his place, but could not hold the Plainview batters. He retired the visitors in the eighth and ninth innings, however, by the strike-out route.

A large crowd witnessed the game. There was no admission charge because of the previous Sunday's game being called as a result of a squabble between the two teams over umpires. Hamrick was the umpire behind the bat and Jones the field umpire. Woodward was acting captain for the local team.

The line-up: Plainview—Hale, ss; Clary, 3b; Carson, cf; McDaniel, 1b; Wise, c; Tucker, cf; Carry, 2b; Johnson, lf; Ward, p. Amarillo—Cornie, 3b; Woodward, rf; Klopner, cf; Parker, ss; Gober, cf; Pierre, 2b; Kent, c; Adams, 1b; Ferguson and Mitchell, p.—Amarillo News.

LINGERED TOO LONG

Great Men Who Outlived Their Hours of Fame.

Henry Watterson Tells of Statesmen, Nationally Famous, Who Became Pitiable Spectacles Amid Scenes They Once Adorned.

Between the idiot and the man of sense, the lunatic and the man of genius, there are degrees—streaks of idleness and lunacy. How many expectant politicians elected to congress have entered Washington all hope, eager to dare and do, and have come away broken in health, fame and fortune, happy to get back home—sometimes unable to get away, to linger on in obscurity and poverty to a squalid and wretched old age.

I have lived long enough to have known many such: Senators who have filled the galleries when they rose to speak; house heroes living while they could on borrowed money, then hanging about the hotels begging for money to buy a drink.

There was a famous statesman and orator who came to this at last, of whom the typical and characteristic story was told that the holder of a claim against the government, who dared not approach so great a man with so much as the intimation of a bribe, undertook by argument to interest him in the merit of the case.

The great man listened and replied: "I have noticed you scattering your means around here pretty freely, but you haven't said 'turkey' to me."

Surprised, but glad and unabashed, the claimant said, "I was coming to that," produced a thousand-dollar bill and entered into an understanding what was to be done next day, when the bill was due on the calendar.

The great man took the money, repaired to a gambling house, had an extraordinary run of luck, won heavily, and playing all night, forgetting about his engagement, went to bed at daylight, not appearing in the house at all. The bill was called, and there being nobody to represent it, under the rule it went over and to the bottom of the calendar, killing it for that session of course.

The day after the claimant met his recalcitrant attorney on the avenue and face and took him to task for his delinquency.

"Ah, yes," said the great man, "you are the little rascal who tried to bribe me the other day. Here is your dirty money. Take it and be off with you. I was just seeing how far you would go."

The comment made by those who best knew the great man was that if instead of winning in the gambling house he had lost he would have been up betimes at his place in the house and doing his utmost to pass the claimant's bill and get another fee.—Henry Watterson in Saturday Evening Post.

Watterson's Early Recollection.

I was fond of going up to the capitol and of playing amateur page in the house, of which my father had been a member and where he had many friends, though I was never officially a page, writes Henry Watterson in the Saturday Evening Post.

There was a particular little old bald-headed gentleman who was good to me and would put his arm about me and stroll with me across the rotunda to the library of congress and get me books to read. I was not so young as not to know that he was an ex-president of the United States, and to realize the meaning of it. He had been the oldest member of the house when my father was the youngest. He was John Quincy Adams.

By chance I was on the floor of the house when he fell in his place, and followed the excited and tearful throng when they bore him into the speaker's room, kneeling by the side of the sofa with an improvised fan and crying as if my heart would break.

Gum Chewing Popular in Far East.

One can escape chewing gum by departing this life, but he cannot do so by merely taking leave of America. It has become virtually universal, due to the universality of mortal waywardness because of the energy and ingenuity of American advertisers. England resisted perpetual motion of the jaws for a long time, then fell; parts of Europe still hold out bravely, but it is in the eastern hemisphere that chewing gum's greatest and most surprising ravages are to be found. The Chinese rickshaw coolie now has his gum; the Japanese geisha chews in rhythm with her dancing feet; and there are similar manifestations of the growing popularity of gum in Burma, Siam, India, the Dutch East Indies, the Philippines and Australia. Happily this token of civilization is not worse, but infinitely better, than the Orient's unwholesome betel nut, which it is to some degree supplanting.—Bellman.

Clever Hubby.

"The man who can meet emergencies, who can rise to the occasion, is the man who will succeed," declares Charles M. Schwab, "like the chap who was one evening suddenly confronted by a discontented wife. She said: 'Before we were married you used to bring me flowers every day, but now you never think of getting me even a bunch of violets.'"

"But, my dear," he protested, without a second's hesitation, "the pretty flower girls don't attract me now as much as they used to."

"And of course," she told him that on a second thought she really didn't care for flowers."

MEXICAN IDEA OF CREATION

Maya-Quiche Scripture Resembles in Marked Degree That Handed Down by Other Peoples.

The true indigenous civilization of Mexico—the Maya-Quiche, so named from its foremost peoples, still numerous and robust—has its authentic scripture in the Quiche tongue, the Popol Vuh, unearthed by Padre Ximenez about 1675, and printed in full, with an interleaved French translation by the Abbe Basseurde Bourbourg in 1885, according to an article by Charles Johnston, in the Atlantic monthly.

The scripture's cosmogony begins with universal night—what the Sanskrit scriptures call the night of Brahma—when darkness was upon the waters. Then follows the development of worlds, first formed like thin cloud-wreaths in the abyss, and gradually hardening into hills and plains, under the formative will of "the Creator, the Moulder, Heart of the Heavens, Heart of the Earth." Then beasts and birds are formed. But, although they have voices, they have no articulate speech; they can not invoke their Creator, or call upon the Heart of Heavens in prayer.

Therefore the Divine Powers set themselves to make man, who can pray and praise the Creator, so the Divine Powers may receive adoration from their handiwork. Two races are made only to fail; men formed of wet clay, who melt and dissolve, and the manikins, whose hearts are hard and who can not worship. At last a race, intelligent, reverent, full of a penetrating wisdom that sees all things in the heavens as well as on earth, is brought into being. This perfect race renders praise and glory to the Creator.

SPEED OF EPIDEMIC VARIES

Diseases Travel According to the Modes of Transportation in the Regions Afflicted.

The speed at which an epidemic—whether it be of influenza or any other infectious disease—spreads depends upon the rapidity of the usual means of transportation. In his presidential address at the congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, Dr. Simon Flexner said:

"In eastern Russia and Turkestan influenza spreads with the pace of a caravan, in Europe and America with the speed of an express train, and in the world at large with the rapidity of an ocean liner; and if one project forward the outcome of the means of intercommunication of the near future we may predict that the next pandemic, should one arise, will extend with the swiftness of the airship. Moreover, not only is this rate of spread determined by the nature of the transportation facilities of the region or the era, but towns and villages, mainland and island, are invaded early or late or preserved entirely from attack according as they lie within or without the avenues of approach or are protected by inaccessibility, as in instances of remote mountain settlements and of islands distant from the ocean lanes or frozen in during winter periods."

Tin.

Tin is a mineral the same as iron and lead. It is not made in the sense that brass is made of other metals. The principal countries that supply tin are the East Indies, the islands of Banca, Billiton and Sumatra, the Malay peninsula, Australia, Bolivia and Cornwall, England. Most of the ore from the East Indies and the Malay peninsula is obtained by washing alluvial gravels. There are also mines in Saxony, Bohemia, Russia, Spain, Portugal and Japan, but the total output of these countries is insignificant. The presence of tin deposits in California, Texas, South Dakota, and North Carolina has been known for a long time, but up to this time there has been no mining on a commercial scale.

Islanders Pay No Taxes.

Those who have read "Westward Ho!" remember Lundy Island, which lies in the English channel. It is one of the best known of the many island "monarchies" that surround Great Britain. It is a delightful little jewel that was once the haunt of pirates and smugglers. It was once captured by French pirates, and later fell into the hands of Turkish privateers. While the island may not be the real paradise of man, it is actually owned by the Heaven family. A clergyman by that name rules over a kingdom of 1,200 acres and fewer than 500 souls. No one can dwell on this island without the consent of the owner. It is declared, in the deed from the British crown, to be forever free from taxation.

Ostend Manifesto.

On the eighteenth of October in 1854, the Ostend manifesto was drawn up. The slavery leaders in the United States were in favor of annexing the Island of Cuba. In President Polk's administration $100,000,000 was offered Spain as a purchase price, but refused. President Pierce sent Buchanan, United States minister at London, to Ostend to confer on the question with Mason, minister to Paris and Soule, minister at Madrid. The manifesto of Ostend was the result. This extraordinary document declared that the Union could not be secure unless Cuba was annexed, and that Cuba, if not annexed, would become Africanized and "endanger" the United States. The advent of the Civil war ended the controversy.

THEIR GLORY GONE

Heligoland to Join Louisbourg as a Memory.

Famous French Fortress in Canada Has Long Been Demolished and Soon the German Stronghold Is to Be Razed.

Announcement that the German forts on the island of Heligoland are to be demolished recalls the similar fate of a glorious landmark on Canadian soil. This is Louisbourg, Nova Scotia, once the pride of New France, and now a pile of ruins, with but a faint echo of its original splendor.

Louisbourg was the remnant of French power on the Atlantic coast when the treaty of Utrecht was signed in 1713, reducing the fortunes of Louis XIV to a low ebb. From 1720 to 1760 it led a precarious but spectacular existence, its magnificence as a defense guaranteed by the expenditure of millions of dollars by the French government, though millions were stolen and wasted by dishonest officials and unhappy officers, whose only ambition was to get rich and go home.

The fortress was imposing, despite the thievery and mismanagement, and it required a seven weeks' siege by Colonel Pepperell and his New Englanders in 1745 to take it from the French.

By one of those diplomatic incidents too plentiful in the history of the new world, Louisbourg was handed back to France in 1748 by the treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle. The New Englanders were furious, but ten years later the British army and navy, with such rising strategists as Amherst and Wolfe taking part, again laid siege by land and sea, and in another campaign of seven weeks recaptured the stronghold.

The days of the great fortress were now numbered. The home of discontent, the abode of smugglers, the den of thieving officialdom received its death warrant in 1760 at the hand of George II and Pitt in London. So well was the warrant executed that for months sailors, sappers and miners worked until they laid Louisbourg level with the dust.

And there it remains. Memorials recording its history raise their modest heads above the chaos of stones and mortar. The site on a point three miles from the railway and the town of the same name is remote and forbidding. Should the visitor follow the shore road by the lonely Atlantic to summer he will hear tinkling sheep bells from the pasture where once stood the French town, now completely obliterated. The great area of the ruins of the fort gives some hint of the vain preparation to hold a last grip against the advancing British and Colonials.

What will be the thoughts of the tourist as he drops by airplane on Heligoland a century hence, witnesses its ruined forts, and contemplates the futile ambitions of a race that drew the sword and fought a losing battle for world domination?

Married by Order.

A document suggesting that the holders of certain lands in Scotland are bound under heavy monetary penalties to marry at the royal pleasure has been brought to light through a Scottish appeal case in the house of lords. The document is said to have been prepared by the king and queen of Scotland in 1559, and it refers to a tenure known as a "ward." The heir or possessors of land held in this manner cannot obtain possession until they are twenty-one years of age if males and fourteen years of age if females. If such heirs on taking possession are not married they are bound to marry at the pleasure and will of the king with persons of good reputation and similar rank. The penalty payable to the king for refusing such a proposed marriage is double the pecuniary benefit of the marriage. "Which marriage," adds the order, "is esteemed much too dear in this country and almost at the value of the lands."

Historic Tree Now Only a Memory.

The "tree in the road" a mile and a half west of Hartford, Mich., has been cut down to clear the way for a new concrete road. This maple tree, supposed to be more than a hundred years old, was the most famous and most cherished landmark of the region. Standing in the middle of the road on the crest of a hill, it had from the time of the oldest inhabitant been used as a point from which all distances were measured.

In giving directions a place was always said to be a certain distance "this side of the tree in the road" or a certain distance "beyond the tree in the road." With the advance of civilization, however, the natives have reluctantly concluded that the tree can be dispensed with, since the only distance people ask about now is the distance between gasoline tanks.—Exchange.

Education in China.

China is still in the transition period in education. The modern school has not entirely replaced the ancient methods, with large emphasis on the classics, verbal memorizing and the writing of the essay. The conception of the need of practical education is on the increase. The minister of agriculture in Peking said when calling men for the forestry division, "I want men who can grow trees, not essays."

HONOR OLD FRIEND

Black Hills Pioneers Name High Peak for Roosevelt.

At Its Summit a Cairn Fifty Feet High, Constructed of Boulders of Native Granite, Has Been Erected.

On July 4 the Black hills pioneers honored the memory of the late Colonel Roosevelt by naming for him the highest peak in the Black hills. Timed to take place during Home-coming week for Deadwood and other Black hills communities, this ceremony was a manifestation of the affection which all the residents of that section of the country felt for Colonel Roosevelt.

The peak which will henceforth be known as Mount Theodore Roosevelt was called Sheep mountain or Round Top. It is a detached eminence with an elevation of 6,000 feet, three miles from Deadwood, 15 miles from Wyoming and 35 miles from the Montana state line. It is on the Black Hills forest reserve, and will be the center of a bird and game refuge also dedicated to the memory of the ex-president.

All that section of the country has been intimately associated with various periods in the life of Colonel Roosevelt. The peak which now bears his name overlooks the foothills and valleys of the northern Black hills where the colonel hunted buffalo. In sight from the summit are his cattle range and his trail to Deadwood, as well as sections of Wyoming and Montana where he trailed cattle in his cowboy days. Glimpses of the Belle Fourche, the Reewater and other streams flowing down the valleys attract the spectator. The peak and the territory around it are now embraced in the Belle Fourche irrigation project which Colonel Roosevelt advocated when president. This is making an arid prairie over into fertile farming country.

The people of Deadwood built at the summit of the mountain a cairn 50 feet high of boulders of native granite. T. A. Brown of Spearfish, one of the colonel's associates of years ago, obtained the permission of the local committee to place in this monument a stone with the cattle brands of his old friend chiseled thereon. The dedication of this monument took place on Independence day, when a tablet inscribed "In Memory of Theodore Roosevelt, the American," was fastened to one of the boulders.

Some Logic in His Protest.

A good story was published in Le Figaro in connection with the news that a monument is being erected at Tarascon in memory of Alphonse Daudet, the French novelist who has immortalized that quaint town by his "Tartarin." It seems that the town still numbers among its inhabitants persons almost, if not quite as eccentric as the renowned Tartarin. The story is that a Tarasconais recently arrived at the local railway station with a mule, and after purchasing a couple of tickets, gravely led the animal up the forty steps by which the platform is reached. On attempting to enter a first-class compartment he found his passage barred. He waved his two tickets into the face of the guard and tried to force his way in but the official proved inexorable. Exclaiming indignantly: "So many asses travel first class that I fail to see why a mule should not," the muleteer stalked away from the train.—"Flammarion," in Indianapolis Star.

He Knew About It.

The other evening while doing home work the small son of a minister was arguing and trying to convince himself that "congregate" and "colleer" meant the same thing, for that was what his teacher had told him.

Into the argument, which the minister father could not help but overhear, the said father broke:

"What's that you are saying? That congregate and collect are the same word?"

"That's what teacher said."

"Quite wrong," replied the father. "You tell the teacher she is quite wrong. There is all the difference in the world between a 'congregation' and a 'collection.'"—Columbus Dispatch.

What He Wanted.

He had a hard day and was grouchy. Besides, through a long and varied life he had come in contact with so much loquacity on the part of barbers that he was always on the defensive when in a barber's chair. Thus it was that on this particular morning as he entered the shop for a shave and settled himself down he remarked in an irritable tone of voice: "I don't want a haircut, a shampoo, a massage, a hair tonic, a hair singe or a manure. Now can you guess what I want?"

"Yes," replied the barber, softly, "manners."

Great Hawaiian Honored.

Hawaii, a few days ago, paid tribute to the memory of Kamehameha the Great, founder of the Kamehameha dynasty, who, in a series of wars, brought all the islands of Hawaii under his rule more than 100 years ago. Kamehameha's burial place is unknown, the few aged Hawaiians who held the secret having died. A great street parade was a feature of the centennial in Honolulu, with floats illustrating historic events in the life of the "Napoleon of the Pacific." There were ceremonies in front of the statue of Kamehameha which faces the capitol.

GREAT EVENT FOR MOSLEMS

Gala Day When the "Procession of the Holy Carpet" Leaves Cairo for City of Mecca.

Always picturesque, Cairo is never more fascinating than during the "Procession of the Holy Carpet." In the bazaars we watch the barefooted workmen embroidering, holding the cloth in their toes, which appear to be prehensile, or watch them go to the nearest mosque to bathe five times a day. As many times a day also from the minarets of mosques the muezzins are reminding the natives of the approaching festival, and that "God is great, there is no God but God, and Mohammed is his prophet. Come to Prayer."

Howling dervishes are dancing in the mosque near the Square of Suten Hasan, while devout Moslems are engaged in eventide prayer on their housetops. Water carriers are on the way to the yellow Nile for water, or are bearing wine in their goatskins the same as in Biblical times, while aged men in the mosques are appareled exactly as in Abraham's day.

The streets are filled with soldiers, while thousands of civilians attend the ceremonial held in the sacred prophetic enclosure in the great square near the citadel. The enclosure is a pyramidal wooden structure covered with embroidered stuffs emblazoned with gold embroidery and quotations from the Koran. Here the people receive the blessings of the prophet, together with special dispensations and sacred talismans.

All present to formally start the caravan and its military escort toward Mecca, in far-off Arabia. The people press forward to touch the sacred inclosure, kissing it with fervor. Women sit on the windows, and look out from the windows, as the procession at last starts. Following it are the pilgrims who will accompany the carpet to the sanctuary in the mosque at Mecca, and who will return later with the same caravan to Cairo, bearing the carpet of the previous year.

Marriage in Bulgaria.

Since Bulgaria's unconditional surrender to the allies the men of her armies have been straggling homeward and many weddings are being celebrated in consequence.

Bulgarian methods of entertaining before the wedding do not differ materially from those of other nations except that the bride instead of having her trousseau carefully put away in the "hope chest," from which she only takes it for the privileged few, hangs it up on cords which are stretched across the main room of the house. Here it is viewed on the Friday before the wedding by all the matrons of the town, while the bride and the matrons dance before the door and remain there until the matrons have given their full criticism of each garment, and if they disapprove of them the girls must help the bride make them over until "suitable."

Instead of rice, corn as an emblem of plenty, is showered over the bride and groom, who are escorted to their home with many ceremonies and they are virtually imprisoned within its doors.

New Uses of Raw Products.

The Weltmarkt directs attention to new uses of some raw products. In Holland a useful gum or paste is being made from garlic. The bulbs are pressed and the juice or fluid matter so obtained is thickened by inspersion. A good substitute for cork is obtained from certain fungi, which are dried and ground, mixed with cement and consolidated by pressure. In Norway a process has been patented to enable carbide to be used for driving motors. In Denmark a company has been floated to make briquettes from heather. These have a higher heat value than peat. Experiments are being made to use chalk marl, especially that which comes from the Limburg mines, as a manure.

Typoon Hurt Coconut Trees.

The Christmas typhoon which swept over the southern Philippine islands did considerable damage to the coconut plantations. Trees, especially those along the seashore and places most open to the wind, were either blown down or weakened to such a degree that unless the affected groves are cleaned up and taken care of, the trees still standing are doomed, but for another reason, says the bureau of agriculture. The fallen trunks will become breeding places of all manner of beetles, borers and other coconut destroying pests and diseases. The weakened trees, unable to fight these odds, will sooner or later succumb and thus the farmers will suffer more losses.

Got Him at Last.

He was a large, dapple-gray, sensible-looking horse. It was his task to pull a baker's wagon from house to house in a district on the North side, as the driver dodged in and out of the houses with his basket of bread and cakes.

"Fritz," called out the driver as he ran down the porch steps, intending that as a notice to his faithful friend to move on down the street. The horse did not move.

"Charlie," spoke up the driver again, and the old dapple-gray stepped off promptly.—Indianapolis News.

Uncle Eben.

"Owin' to de way smarter men dan I is has got mixed up in arguments," said Uncle Eben, "whenever anybody 'splains de league o' nations to me, I jes' says 'yessir' an' goes on 'bout my business."

PLANTED BY BIRDS

Simple Reason for Uncommon Position of Trees.

Tall Palmyra Palm Growing on Top of Bengal Fig Presents Curious Appearance—Naturalists Explain Apparent Phenomenon.

Every one has heard of small trees getting sown on larger ones, and appearing like little babies on the branches of their hosts. But in India it is, in some parts, fairly common to see the tall Palmyra palm growing as if from the top of the tree called Bengal fig. The appearance this presents is most curious and it has engaged the attention of nearly all travelers in the Thana district of Bombay, where the palm is especially abundant.

If one fancies how incongruous a very tall telegraph pole fixed into the middle of an oak tree and surmounted by a small crown of fan-shaped leaves would look, it can be realized how astonishing the first encounter with the Palmyra palm must be, when similarly united with a fig tree. An explanation, of course, had to be found, and the first casual observers might be divided into those that thought it a case of a hybrid, and the remainder who considered it a graft. But botanists know that no hybrid or graft has ever been produced between two species that are so distantly related as those in question. As a matter of fact, the introduction of these two friends to each other is made by some of the pretty little birds that abound in the region, including a few of the humming birds. Their principal food, George Michael Ryan tells us, consists of the minute fruits of the wild fig trees.

After collecting a few of these, they usually fly off to the top of a tall palm to enjoy them in peace. Some of the seeds fall and become lodged in the joints where the leaves spring from the stem. Here, in process of time, they germinate, throwing out roots below and branches and leaves above. But the roots of these fig trees are not content to draw their moisture and food from the little pocket of sand and dust into which they happen to fall. They soon multiply and spread far beyond their original home, into a thick network that covers and envelops the whole of the lower part of the Palmyra stem. Branches at the same time multiply above, forming a large bush, which, with the roots, monopolizes the situation and makes the palm look like a mere adjunct. But the palm does not mind. All the air it wants is for the leaves above.

The encircling sheath of fig roots, moreover, cause it no inconvenience, because it would not, in any case, increase in girth after it had once risen from the ground. It is, in fact, a case of symbiosis or mutual accommodation between the two species. The palm gives the necessary assistance to the baby fig, and afterward support to its maturing branches, while the foliage which these bear provides welcome shade to the roots of its patron.—Journal of Natural History Society of Bombay.

Film Stars Musn't Osculate.

The police of Japan do not like to see kissing in public and therefore film stars are not permitted to osculate on the screen. In six months up to March 1 the police censors removed 2,250 kisses from films. Only one kiss was allowed to remain. It was a kiss granted to Columbus by Queen Isabella and was shown in Tokyo only, as the censors deleted it before permitting the photoplay "Columbus," to discover the provinces.

Three hundred and fifty-three embraces were omitted from films, states the Far East. The titles of 2,144 photoplays were altered by the censors and 127 murder scenes were killed. Reels entirely prohibited numbered 57. Most films shown in Japan are from America and a large proportion of them originally contain a little kiss or so, showing the difference in standards between east and west.

Trying to Kid Him.

Down at Kelly field an instructor left on a furlough and his cadets were assigned to other "flights" for their flying practice. By mistake one was attached to a "circus" squad.

When his turn came he climbed into the rear pit and the instructor took him up to 6,000 feet, swung the machine into a spiral nose dive, and waved his arms above his head to indicate that the cadet should right the machine.

When the machine had dropped to 2,500 feet, gaining momentum rapidly, the instructor became alarmed and looked back at the cadet, who waved his arms above his head and grinned. The pilot grabbed the controls and made a safe landing.

The cadet explained that this was his first flight, and he thought the instructor was trying to kid him when he waved, so he pretended he wasn't scared.

Mexico to Restore Ruin.

The palace of Cortez, in the suburbs of Coyocacan, is to be reconstructed by the government and used as a museum for relics of the Spanish conquest. The structure, 400 years old, has been allowed to fall into ruins. In the courtyard are ancient trees, under which Hernan Cortez and his familiars were wont to rest. These are hundreds of years older than the ancient building itself. The chapel attached to the palace is still in good condition.

CITY HAS VARIED HISTORY

Trau, Situated on Small Island in the Adriatic Sea, is Place of Unusual Interest.

Trau is a little city, on a little island, in the Adriatic sea. Trau is the Greek name for watermelon, which is the shape of the island, but the people claim that the name is a derivation of Traghion, whence the Greeks came to Trau in 380 B. C. Many fascinating fictions are fixed beliefs in the minds of the natives of the island. They believe a cypress bush was miraculously planted to shelter a statue of the city's patron saint, Giovanni Orsini, and that the same saint's spirit nourishes it. They also believe that the book which the Lion of St. Mark holds was snatched shut when Venice relinquished the island, rather than that the statue was carved that way. The town has less than 20,000 population and fairly breathes a medieval spirit. The houses are built so close together that vehicle traffic is almost impossible, and the streets are so crooked that pedestrians find difficulty getting around. This was because of military necessity at the time the artistic little city was created.

The father of the Dalmatian history, Giovanni Lucio, was born there. King Bela IV fled there after the Tartars overrun his country, but continued to Kraglievac when the entrenched city was besieged, although it did not fall. Byzantines, Huns, Franks, Genoese and Venetians fought for Trau, the Saracens looted it, Napoleon took it in 1806, and the Austrians gained it seven years later.

MEXICAN OPALS IN DEMAND

Even With Primitive Methods, Our Southern Neighbors Dig Beautiful Stones From Their Mines.

The Queretaro district is the chief source of supply of Mexican opals. All the mines are owned by Mexicans. No foreign capital is invested. Old-fashioned methods of mining are employed and activity is desultory. If prices are good, work becomes feverish. If prices drop off, few opals are mined.

Most of the best quality stones go to Mexico City. Dealers there market them in other countries. The poorer grades are sold in little shops throughout Mexico or are peddled to tourists at railway stations. Thousands of these cheap opals are sold in towns along the border in the United States. They can be bought for from 30 cents up.

It is this cheap grade of stones that has given Mexican opals a poor reputation among jewelry buyers. The fact is, a fine Mexican opal is a beautiful gem. It differs from Australian opals in that the latter are usually opaque to transmit light, whereas Mexican opals are usually clear. To bring out the soft play of colors in a Mexican stone, artificial backs are often used in setting the gems. Many are backed with their own genuine matrix. The better class of Mexican opals is not so expensive as the Australian or those imported from the famous mines of Australia, but they are far from cheap.

Superstitious Londoners.

In London there is said to be a deep-seated belief among East end girls in the efficacy of dragon's-blood as a love-philtre. Touching on the same subject, a Whitechapel herbalist relates how a girl, after buying some tormentil root of his, volunteered the information that, having been jilted by her young man, she consulted a "wise woman," who told her to get a bunch of tormentil and burn it at midnight on a Friday. The faithless one would then revert to his allegiance. On three successive Saturdays she returned for fresh supplies of the root, when either the charm worked or she grew tired of it, as she ceased her purchases. Mandrake, too, is largely purchased by superstitious cockneys. Every Sunday at a pitch by Petticoat lane a hawkler does a profitable trade in slices of mandrake, which, he assures his audience, will cure everything. On his barrow are a few roots carefully selected for their resemblance to the human form. "Gathered at midnight," he shouts, "and they screamed terrible when pulled out of the ground."

Apes Have Poor Sight.

"Apes are frequently short-sighted and require spectacles as much as human beings do." This is a statement of Prof. Behr, of Kiel. The professor placed 25 monkeys in a darkened room and after a careful eye inspection found that 18 of the animals suffered from myopia (short sight) in a high degree. The behavior of these monkeys was entirely similar to that of shortsighted human beings in a similar environment. They approached objects lying on the ground with bowed head and bent back and finally they grasped the articles in their paws and held them close to the eyes to obtain a better view. A microscopic examination of the eye pupils disclosed that among the monkeys the myopic condition was inherited.

A Slight Jar.

"The professor seems a trifle cast down."
"Just a little flabbergasted," uses very correct English."
"And a slangy salesgirl had to call a floorwalker to interpret for her. Thought the professor was some kind of a foreigner."—Kansas City Journal.

And the legislature shall be authorized to pass laws for the assessment and collection of taxes in all said districts and for the management and control of the public school or schools of such districts, whether such districts are composed of territory wholly within a county or in parts of two or more counties. And the legislature may authorize an additional ad valorem tax to be levied and collected within all school districts heretofore formed or hereafter formed, for the further maintenance of public free schools, and the erection and equipment of school buildings therein; provided that a majority of the qualified property tax-paying voters of fares will be general the country over. The freight rate increases will vary according to territory, with 40 per cent in the East, 25 per cent in the South, 35 per cent in the West—that is from the Mississippi river to the Rock Mountains—and 25 per cent in Mountain-Pacific territory—from east of the Rockies to the Pacific Coast, not including Alaska.

Section 1. That Section 4, Article XI of the Constitution be so amended as hereafter to read as follows:

The commission, in its thirty-six page decision, made no attempt to compute the amount of increased revenues the carriers would receive from the rate advances. It did say that the increases were justified in view of the rapidly changing conditions as to prices and the necessity for providing adequate transportation facilities during and after the period of readjustment.

From figures submitted by the carriers when their application for the increases were made, it was unofficially estimated that the apportionment of the advances would work out about $1,285,300,000 on freight, $233,800,000 on passengers, $43,600,000 on Pullmans, $4,500,000 on milk and $1,300,000 excess baggage charges.

On the same calculations, the Eastern roads would get the greater part of the total increase, receiving approximately $873,930,000, as compared with $559,438,000 for the Western lines and $135,298,000 for the Southern carriers.

The increases in passenger, Pullman and excess baggage rates were exactly those asked by the roads. Freight increases requested were 39.75 per cent for the Eastern roads, the total estimated to yield $1,356,000,000. The Eastern roads were granted 25 of 1 per cent more than they sought, the western roads approximately what they sought, but the Southern roads received approximately 14 per cent less than they had requested.

The commission said that the financial condition of the Southern carriers was more favorable than that of lines in other groups. Therefore, the commission held that they were better able to meet the demands upon them than some other companies and did not require as large an increase.

Washington, August 2.—The new passenger fares will probably become effective August 20 and the advanced freight rates August 25, according to a program outlined tonight by Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the Association of Railroad Executives.

Simultaneously, with the effectiveness of passenger fares, the increases in the charges for Pullman travel and the new rates on excess baggage and milk also will be put in force.

Negro Mobbed at Center
Center, Texas, Aug. 2.—A mob of more than a thousand today stormed the county jail at 3 o'clock, battered down the steel doors, wrecked the steel cell and took out Lige Daniels, a negro, charged with murder, and hanged him to a limb of a convenient oak tree in the court house yard.

The lynching followed a full confession made to the grand jury now in session and also to the district attorney, J. P. Anderson.

The wife of a well known farmer living near Center was brutally attacked and later found unconscious at a lonely point near her home last Thursday night. Her skull was crushed and her body bruised and lacerated.

She was brought to local sanitarium, where she died Friday.
