Hold on to your liberty bond. It will be at par when it matures, just as the government guaranteed it would be.

All the fools are not dead. At Bar Harbor, Mich., Tuesday the gate receipts at the Dempsey-Hiske boxing contest was $150,000.

City Marshall Chas. Wilson says the joyriders are once again getting too fast, and that a bunch of them will be pinched. Better slow down.

When the 1920 flock of wealthy retired wheat farmers all move to Plainview, the old town members of the bunch on the corner will be sadly in the minority.

Down in the state the newspapers continue to carry oil stock advertisements, which proves that the oil promoters cling to the view that a new crop of suckers are born every week.

Pat Neff did not insist upon building the Democratic state platform, he bowed to the will of the delegates to the state convention. That was proper. Let the people rule.

The Texas quota of the Democratic national campaign fund is $20,000. That is only 2 1/2c for each of the million democrats in the state. J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls has been appointed to raise the amount.

Those people are urging the British government to release Mac Swiney before he starves himself to death, would do better to urge Mac to call off his huger strike. Americans have no business urging either side.

The democratic state convention in Fort Worth this week was held in the First Baptist church auditorium. There was an absence of smoking and chewing tobacco. "The old party ain't what it used to be."

Farmers down in the state are agreeing among themselves to hold their cottonseed for $50 a ton. In comparison with the high prices of things farmers have to buy $50 for cottonseed is not too high.

Before its adoption the constitution of the United States was more bitterly fought than the league of nations. Now, it is looked upon as the greatest set of political principles ever written by the hand of man.

Those Italian radicals who have captured and now hold many of the factories in Italy have no raw material to operate on, so what good is holding an idle factory? So, labor isn't the whole thing, as some Bolsheviks contend.

The price of print paper continues to climb, and each week sees the suspension of many country newspapers. Why should any subscriber delay prompt payment of his subscription, when the cost of the blank paper amounts to the price of the yearly subscription?

It is stated that as the sale of ouija boards increases the number of patients in the asylums grows. It is astonishing that people are so full of superstition and are so silly as to believe in these contraptions. But, some people cannot be happy, unless they are crazy.

The national campaign has got to the stage where the leaders on each side is calling the leaders on the other side all sorts of liars. It is really disgusting to the average citizen. Why can't political campaigns be conducted on a high plane? Why not discuss real issues instead of throw mud?

Herbert C. Hoover predicts the ratification of the treaty and that America will become a member of the league of nations. He says that the experiment in a broad sense is favored by the American people. Some thirty-five nations, the governments of nearly 75 per cent of the entire population of the world, have joined the league.

The free space grafters are sure hard to choke off. The News positively refuses to print anything sent out by a "press bureau," no matter how good it may be, and usually when such stuff is received writes to the bureau asking that our address be taken from the mailing list—yet the matter keeps coming on, to fill up our waste basket. She men in charge of these publicity bureaus want to keep their jobs. The newspapers who publish any of their matter, are doing the newspaper business a great injury by printing free plate and other publicity matter. Some of the Plains newspapers print practically everything and every piece of plate that is sent out, thus keeping alive the bureaus. Boys, let's cut it all out. Then, we will get money for running such mat-

Lotta people are coming to the Northwest Texas Fair. You'd better come, too.

EAST TEXAS IS SPITEFUL

The Democratic State Convention in Fort Worth this week voted down a resolution favoring the establishment of an agricultural and mechanical college in West Texas.

The delegates from the western part of the state made a heroic fight, but the delegates from East and North and Central Texas were in the majority, and voted down the proposition, 522 to 378.

West and Northwest Texas are political orphans in Texas. The East and Central parts of the state stand ready to vote down any proposition that means the building up of West Texas and the Plains. For twenty-years they have refused to permit a new senatorial redistricting of the state, permitting the district in which Plainview is situated to have four to five times as many people as the district in which Texarkana is located. Thus, we people of the Plains have only one-fourth the representation in the senate that the same number in the Texarkana and other East Texas districts have.

East, Central and North Texas are jealous of the rapid growth Northwest Texas is making, for it is taking their very best citizenship. This jealousy is shown in a spiteful way in blocking the redistricting of the state, in blocking the proposed West Texas A. & M. college, and many other ways.

All the people of East, Central and North Texas want is for the people of West Texas to pay the bulk of taxes to educate the children in East, Central and North Texas, while many counties draw out of the state educational fund each year much larger sums of money for their school than they pay all told into the state treasury in taxes.

Those sections give West and Northwest Texas the smutty end of the stick every time they can do so.

Can you blame West Texans for wanting to divide Texas into two or three states? If Texas was divided we would have better laws, lower taxation, and there would be greater development. The editor of the News is a native Texan, but he has long favored a division of the state into two to four states, and as the days pass he becomes more convinced that such a division should be made.

THIS IS UNIONISM

A strike of railroad men is on in Chicago. Railroad property is being destroyed by the thousands of dollars worth by the strikers. They steal locomotives and turn them loose to wildly run through the yards, without caring whether they collide with passenger trains and possibly kill many innocent people. Strike-breakers are being assaulted and one has been killed. People who board or sell to strike-breakers have had warnings that their property will be burned or dynamited.

In New York City a street car strike is in progress. The strikers are destroying cars and other property of the company, and assaulting the workmen who have taken their places. Many heinous crimes are being committed by the idle union men.

This is modern unionism. Last winter a high union official during the coal miners' strike, speaking of the misery brought to the public by the strike said, "Damn 'em; let 'em freeze." During the Longshoremen's strike in New York several weeks ago when the food supply of the people was greatly curtailed the head of the strikers declared "Let 'em starve. They maybe they will see that our demands are granted."

Organized labor has become a great menace in America, especially to the common people. Organized labor is autocratic, dictatorial, cares little for the rights of others, and is fast becoming bolshevik and anarchists.

Its program is to kill and destroy. It proved a traitor when America was in the death-grapple with Germany.

There are many thousands of good patriotic citizens who belong to organized labor, but they are afraid of the radical element, and are driven by the leaders as slaves, never daring to raise a protest.

Organized labor is striving to dominate the country. Many of the Bolshevik element boldly teach that "the proletariat" should control everything; hold all public offices, make and administer all laws—that the farmers and the people who own property should have no voice in the affairs of the government. Russia is the perfect government—so these radical union laborites urge.

This country and this government has seemingly done everything it can reasonably do to get along with organized labor. During the war it submitted to the unpatriotic demands instead of lining the leaders up and shooting them as traitors. Since the war it has been more generous than it should, in increased wages. But, like the pet tiger that has once tasted blood, it demands the very life-blood of the people, and feels that they have no rights it should respect.

But, organized labor is very much in the minority, and public opinion is rapidly turning against it. Labor is fast riding toward the precipice. The public is long-suffering, but when once aroused it soon rights things, and woe be to those upon whom its mailed fist falls.

Labor has the right to strike, but it does not have the right to say nobody shall take the job it quits; neither has it the right to assault or kill the person who takes the job, or to destroy the property of its former employers. The entire armed forces of the country should be, as Gov. Hobby is doing in Galveston, put behind the man who wishes to work. Law and order should be rigidly enforced during strikes, as well as at all other times.

No set of men can become greater than or dominate the great American people. Organized labor is soon to be made aware of this—and the sooner the better.

WATSON COMES BACK

The press dispatches indicate that Tom Watson was nominated for U. S. senator by the democrats in Georgia Wednesday, by a majority of nearly two to one over his opponents, one of whom was Hoke Smith, who was a candidate for re-election.

Watson is the stormy petrel of Georgia politics. He is one of the plainest men in America—thoroughly honest, a fighter for the rights of the people, fearless as a crusader.

The editor of the News is overjoyed at his victory, for we consider Watson is one of the half-dozen or less really great men of this country.

Back in 1892 Watson was elected to Congress by the democrats of a Georgia district, being the farmers' candidate. He made himself felt in congress. He introduced the first bill providing for a rural mail delivery system. He attacked the money power that dominated the country at that time. He demanded that the saloons in the basement of the capitol be abolished. He refused to be dominated by the bosses back in his district, and they with the help of outside interests set about to defeat him for re-election. While the farmers stuck to him, and he was elected, he was counted out. He contested the election but the cards were stacked against him.

He went home, where he wrote books that are masterpieces of history and fiction; he edited newspapers and magazines, and was offered a fabulous salary to become chief editorial editor for the Hearst newspapers; he practiced law and became wealthy.

In 1896 he was nominated by the populists for vice-president on the fusion ticket with Bryan, and had Bryan and the democratic party accepted him instead of Sewall it is safe to say that Bryan and Watson instead of McKinley and Hobart would have been elected. Twice since then Watson was the populist presidential nominee. He ran for governor of Georgia once or twice and was defeated.

Watson is a little red-headed fellow and member of the Baptist church, a Southerner from his hair to his toes, a friend of the people, opposed to socialism with all his might, at war with corruption in politics, a really true democrat in everything that the word implies.

When the war was approaching he refused to bow down and worship President Wilson or the interests that were promoting sentiment looking to America engaging in the war. He believed that the best way was unconstituted and attacked it in the courts, just as any citizen has the right to attack any law. Postmaster General Burleson refused to permit news papers containing his writings to pass through the mails. Of course, like all other men who disagreed with the administration in Washington, Watson was crucified politically.

But, the people of Georgia know and love Watson. In the presidential delegates primaries last spring Watson and his associates won, but the convention at San Francisco being dominated by the administration forces refused to seat the Watson delegates. Watson then announced for the senate, and after a bitter campaign has won out.

When he gets to the senate he will make the senators wake up and take notice. He will fight for progressive but not socialistic legislation, for he hates socialism worse than the devil does holy water. He stands for all the moral yaws. He knows how to fight, for he like Bryan takes the people into his confidence, hence is strong with the people.

Tom Watson has come back.
Now, that the state election is over, we wonder what those who stand on the northwest corner of the square and idle away the golden hours betwixt sun and sun will discuss.
Gov. Cox favors a 'sales tax' instead of excess profits tax. He would add sale tax on every dollars' worth of goods a wholesaler or retailer sold. This would do away with the complicated tax system now being used, and would tend to keep profiteers from adding 10c to the price for every cent they pay in taxes. The war tax laws need devising. Mr. Wilson urged the republican congress to revise them at once in December 1918, but the republican congress has not done so.

In the meantime, do not make any engagements but out for Sept. 27 to Oct. 1 inclusive. That's with the Northwest Texas Fair in Plainview.
Texas produced $2,500,000,000 worth of new wealth in 1919, or $2,500 worth for every family of five.

The first meeting of the Home Economics club for the new club year will be held with Mrs. R. A. Underwood Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The price of low-grade cotton is very cheap, in fact there is practically no market for it. This means great loss to the Southern cotton growers. The republican senate is to a great extent responsible for the low price. Germany is the chief market of the world for low-grade cotton, and would be buying this low-grade cotton from the United States but for one reason, and that reason is the senate refused to ratify the peace treaty, and this country is still in a state of war with Germany, the trade barriers erected by this country against Germany during the war still be in force and ef-

OLD BLACK JOE

Gone are the days when my heart was young and gay,

Gone are my friends from the cotton field away;
Gone from the earth to a better land, I know---
I hear their gentle voices calling Old Black Joe.

Chorus.

I'm coming, I'm coming, for my head is bending low;
I hear those gentle voices calling Old Black Joe.

Why do I weep when my heart should feel no pain?
Why do I sigh that my friends come sit again?
Grieving for forms now departed long ago?
I hear their gentle voices calling Old Black Joe.

Where are the hearts once so happy and so free?
And the children so dear that I held upon my knee
Down to the shore where my soul has longed to go.
I hear their gentle voices calling Old Black Joe.

HOW MUCH LIQUOR IS THE COUNTRY DRINKING

There are only three sources of liquor supply in the United States at the present time—(1) liquor manufactured prior to prohibition, held in bond and which can issue from bond under provisions of the prohibition law, chiefly by the efforts of persons holding permits for the handling of alcohol for non-beverage purposes; (2) illicit distillation of liquor; (3) illicit manufacture of beer and wine.

Federal Prohibition Commissioner Kramer has recently announced that there has been moved from bond 19,000,000 gallons since January 16th, at which time the Constitutional amendment went into effect. If this entire quantity of liquor had been consumed in the meanwhile it would have meant almost an infinitesimal per capita consumption compared with pre-prohibition days. A great deal of this however, has been legitimately used and a great deal of it is still held unconsumed.

The confusion attending the organization of prohibition enforcement accounts for the securing of "permits" by persons who are not entitled to them. These permits are being recalled rapidly and the new policy of the Commissioner's office will, undoubtedly, check upon the consumption of alcoholic beverages.

The manufacture and drinking of Moonshine is almost a negligible factor. "Moonshine" liquor is so raw and strong as to be almost non-palatable. Drinking it is almost like drinking ammonia, and it takes a practiced hand to down it. Also, the efforts of a few to manufacture beer have proven far from successful. The product is unpalatable in the extreme, not to say loathsome.

The approximate land area of Texas is 167,934,720 acres and at the rate Texas is securing farmers it will take nearly 400 years to thoroughly develop the resources of the state, some one has estimated. Texas has room for 4,000,000 more farmers, this statistician claims.

BAILEY WAS DEFEATED BY 79,373 VOTES

German Counties In Southwest Texas Overwhelmingly for Him —Carried 46 Counties

Dallas, Sept. 7.—A final majority of 79,373 votes for Neff over Bailey in the democratic run-off primary Aug. 28 is indicated by a combination of official returns received by the State Democratic Executive committee on 173 counties and the unofficial returns received by the Texas Election Bureau on all but four of the remaining seventy-two counties. Four counties held no elections, and neither the State committee nor the Bureau has heard from four counties, Crockett, Jeff Davis, McMullen and Starr. These probably held no elections.

Totals of the state committee, compiled by A. S. Moody of Houston, its secretary, show the following results in the three State races:

Governor—Neff, 202,696; Bailey, 142,377.

Lieutenant Governor—Davidson, 170,727; Johnson, 147,880.

Supreme Court—Pierson, 179,882; Hawkins, 132,561.

Neff's majority on the official returns so far is 60,319 votes. Adding in the Texas Election Bureau figures on the Governor's race from sixty-eight of the seventy-two counties lacking in Mr. Moody's reports, totals for Governor are: Neff, 204,075; Bailey, 184,702. Total vote accounted for, 448,777.

Bailey carried only forty-six counties, most of them in South and West Texas. The German counties of South Texas, including Comal, went for him by large majorities.

Dependable, Economical Performance

In power farming you want dependability. There is the element of time in farming that makes the tractor peculiarly suitable to the Plains country. If, at the time your crop is ready to harvest, or at the time you are ready to plow and conditions are right for you to do your seed bed preparation, you are laid up for repairs, the damage done extends over the whole year's operation.

Our Fordson tractor service and large stock of parts assures one hundred and fifty farmers in Hale, Lamb and Bailey counties, who have purchased Fordson tractors of the nearest possible approach to three-hundred-sixty-five-days-in-the-year operation.

Our Mr. W. H. Gassaway is at the disposal of every Fordson operator who has trouble and the service is furnished right in the field. WE COME TO YOU WHEN YOU NEED US.

Our stock of parts is complete. In addition to the small parts which are subject to the greatest wear, we have the large, heavy parts. You don't have to wait for repairs in case of accident or worn parts. We have more than enough parts to erect five complete Fordsons.

Our whole business organization is only one of the units making up the Ford selling and service organization. If you buy a Fordson for use in Hale county and move with it to Portland, Oregon, you will find the same dependable service. It is a product of universal use.

THE "FORDSON" TRACTOR is the result of extensive trials and experiments conducted by Mr. Henry Ford, covering a period of many years. Before placing the tractor on the market, every detail has been thoroughly tried out under actual farming conditions in various parts of this country and abroad.

Experience has pointed to the small, light tractor as being the one machine which will fill all varying conditions satisfactorily.

In developing the "FORDSON" Tractor, the aim has been to produce a small tractor which will be low in first cost, reliable, and above all—efficient.

Being small, light and economical, the "FORDSON" Tractor is adapted for use on small farms, as well as on the largest. It will pull all farm implements and do the work generally done by horses on the farm. In addition, by its belt pulley the tractor will drive farm machinery such as a threshing machine, ensilage cutter, sawmill, etc., making the "FORDSON" a truly universal tractor.

In design and construction the "FORDSON" takes a long step in approaching the ideal tractor. The simplicity of its operation and construction will at once appeal to the farmer.

Special devices were perfected to keep out the dust and dirt. All moving parts are enclosed and thoroughly lubricated. The number of lubricating points requiring attention are very few and easily gotten at.

A Motor Gas from Straw

Washington—A gas which is obtained by the destructive distillation of wheat, oats and rye straw is now being produced upon a small scale at the experimental farm of the United States department of agriculture at Arlington, Va. Although a motor car has been operated with the new combustible, and it has been used for illuminating purposes as well as for cooking, the possibilities of straw gas, David J. Price, engineer in charge of the new office of development work a subdivision of the bureau of chemistry, has placed H. E. Boethe, Jr., in charge of a series of production tests with the experimental apparatus at Arlington.

Several valuable by-products are obtained in the manufacture of the gas.

SAVE YOURSELF

There are several things to be considered that really determine the number and kind of motions necessary in housework. Poor tools are a handicap to both carpenter and housekeeper. The dull knife the egg-beater that is too small for large quantities, or the one with a wheel that "sticks," all mean tiring motions. The wooden spoon for beating makes that motion much easier on the palm of the hand than the metal spoon, owing to the smooth round handle. All that needless and tiresome wiping of dishes is dispensed with if a well partitioned wire dish-drainer is used, and a tray, hand or wheeled, brings the dry dishes quickly back to their shelves. The drainer should, if possible, stand on the drainboard to the left of the sink, as the motions are simpler and easier if the soiled dishes stand to the right and travel from right to left during the washing process.

We open and shut drawers and cupboards door quite needlessly many times. Do you not, again and again, in standing at your worktable, open the table drawer, hunt among a medley of knives, forks and spoons for the one you need, find it at last, and shut the drawer? A good carpenter has his tools so arranged at his bench that each one is readily accessible, and always in the same place when not in use, so that his hand travels directly to the tool he needs. Why not have fastened to the right end of your worktable a varnished wooden stand consisting of two upright bars with two horizontal bars placed between them? These horizontal bars are really strong strips of wood far enough apart to hold the kitchen cutlery, but near enough to keep any pieces from dropping through, and high enough from the table to keep the longest piece of cutlery at least three inches above it. With this device the hand will go straight to the piece of cutlery needed without hesitation. This is what we mean by well directed motions. If we could only have pictured for us the path which our hands travel in doing the simplest household task we would have many a laugh over the queer twists and curves made in the course of work.

To Vote On Amendments

Three constitutional amendments are to be voted on by Texas citizens on November 2 and the addition of the women voters ought to be of material advantage to proponents of all three of these very good amendments, at least one of them, which is in regard to better schools being of particular concern to the women voters. The three amendments proposed are, as stated by the Dallas Journal:

1. The amendment to remove the limit upon local school taxation in the rural districts. The present limit on such tax is 50c on the $100. There is no limit on the school taxes in cities. If this amendment shall be adopted the people in the country will be upon the same plane as those in the cities. They may, by a vote, determine what school rate they shall pay. The ballot will incorrectly describe this amendment as a proposal to limit the school district tax to $1 on the $100 of valuation, whereas, in fact, the amendment will remove the limit.

2. The amendment which declares that all state, district, county and precinct officers in the state shall be paid salaries, such salaries to be fixed by the legislature. This is a proposal to abolish the "fee system."

3. The amendment to increase the limit in taxation in cities and towns having a population of less than 3,000. Such limit is now one-fourth of 1c (25c on the $100). This amendment would fix the limit at 1 1/2 per cent ($1.50 on the $100).

Two of the amendments really only give local option to voters to increase their own taxes to amount commensurate with the needs, of which the people paying the taxes are the best informed. The other would do away with the iniquitous fee system, which among criminal court officers has put a premium upon enforcing misdemeanor laws and a penalty upon enforcing the laws against crimes of greater degree.

Labor and Business

During the past two months there has been a general increase in employment. The department of labor in Washington reports that in about 700 factories which employed 658,000 workers in June, there was a decrease of 40,000 in July. The payroll, amounting to $31,350,000 in June, fell off $2,750,000 in July. The decrease in workmen was 6 per cent in payroll 8.7 per cent. The greatest decrease, 55 per cent, was in the woolen industry, where the number of workmen in 49 plants declined from 12,500 to 19,000. In 114 iron and steel mills the number dropped from 192,000 to 189,000. There was a slight increase in the motor factories. The figures for August will not be published until the latter part of September. Three reasons have been advanced for the falling off in employment, namely curtailment of operations owing to tardy transportation of materials, cancellation of orders and a decrease in construction work owing to inability to obtain capital. During the balance of the year the shortage of capital continue to curtail new construction but the large crops forestall any prod undertone in mercantile lines.

LITTLE SPENT IMPROVING FEED

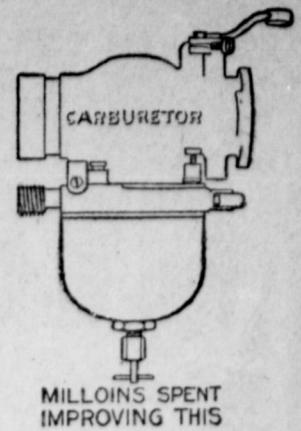

Are your horse hauling costs too high?
Are the motor truck people gaining ground?

If so, will you be honest with yourself while you answer this question:— "Have I ever spent the remotest part of the money or brains in improving my feeding methods, that are spent every year on carburetors and transmissions?"

Purina O-Molene is 20th century brains applied to horse feeding. We positively assure you 1/2 less of it may be used than of oats or corn.

It is now an accepted certainty that the actual farm population of the country will be less than that of ten years ago, but the city increases make it probable that the total population, when finally determined, will be 105 million.

It is understood forthcoming reports will show decreases, both in farm population and the number of farms under cultivation.
