The great trouble is a man never really has good sense until he is too old to take advantage.

The Oklahoma couple who were married in bathing suits in a pool, have nothing on the well-known first couple, Adam and Eve.

A New York man shot himself because of taxes. Probably he thought it only a matter of time until he would be taxed to death anyway.

Don't forget the election to be held Sept. 15 to vote on the bond issue for the municipal auditorium. Plainview needs and must have this enterprise.

A Missouri woman has offered to sell her husband for $5,000. She should be arrested for attempted profiteering, for no husband is worth one-tenth that amount.

The republic of Mexico should not recognize the United States until she has the assurance that the war between the union miners and the mine owners in West Virginia is over.

Well, Plainview won't be bothered with the bunch on the corner so very long, unless it is recruited from time to time, for scientists have discovered that loafers as a rule die young.

The impression is constantly growing that there is only one way to secure permanent peace and that is to quit preparing for war. Universal disarmament is the only solution of this problem.

When you meet a stranger and he goes to calling you brother, it's a pretty good idea to keep your hand on your pocket book, unless you have recommendations in your possession from some one that you know is o. k.

Edison tells an interviewer that "prohibition is the greatest thing in America." Roger Babson calculates that it saves the country 3 billions a year. Anything as valuable as that ought to be enforced with the full power of the government.

Patterning after Plainview, which has for a number of years pulled off annual trade excursions, Quanah, Memphis and several other Northwest Texas towns have the past several weeks done so. Plainview sets the pace, others follow.

A Dallas man shot and killed his wife Sunday. They had been separated for some time, and he went to her home and shot her five times. The dispatches say "his friends declared they will get an attorney to defend him." The mystery to us is, how can a man so sorry and cowardly as to cold-bloodedly shoot his wife down can have any friends.

The Texas legislature adopts a lot of fool laws, but not all of them. The law-making body of a northern state has gotten up a set of rules governing railroads, that pertaining to railroad crossings being as follows, "Both trains shall come to a full stop and neither shall start up until the other has gone." About twenty-five years ago a new court house was to be erected at Waxahachie and the commissioners' court passed three orders. The first was that a new court house should be built, the second was that the material in the old court house should be used in the erection of the new one, and the third was that the old court house should be used by the county officers until the new one was completed. The building was erected but hardly according to the three orders.

Six million persons are out of employment in the United States at the present time, so authorities declare. This means that fully that many dependents—wives, children, mothers and other relatives—must suffer because the bread-winners is out of work. It is very pathetic for a person who wants to work, and needs work in order to live, to be unable to find employment. Some means or system should be arranged that would insure employment for every person who wants to work. Of course, during the boom times a large per cent of those who work for wages or salaries got very lazy, chesty and arrogant and instead of working hard and saving as they should choose rather to work as little as possible and spend what they received, but most of that bunch is now out of employment and reaping the fall of their triflingness and shortsightedness, and the plodder who stuck to his job, tried to earn his money, and saved as he went along, is still on the job, for his employer is clinging to him because he can depend on him.

An Omaha man and his wife this week entered suit against Rockefeller, all the big meat packing companies, several national banks and other big financiers for $120,000,000 damages, alleging that during the Spanish-American war in 1898 they conspired against the plaintiffs and refused to let them use their laboratories for the manufacture of a pork and bean biscuit that would have been edible and nourishing to the soldiers. We are not personally acquainted with plaintiffs, but will bet a dime to a doughnut that they are nutty and should be put in an asylum. The court should not permit such suits. In Texas there is no way to keep a person from suing another, no matter what it is about or how groundless the charges are, and causing the defendant much time, money and harassment.

THE HOME-OWNING HABIT
 Recent census returns show that six million families in this country own their own homes. Possibly the number has been increased of late by high rents. Many who would not have thought it possible to own their homes, have been induced to undertake it by uncertain tenure and mounting rents.

Uncertainty of residence and lack of funds to buy or build, make it necessary for some to rent. But this is less frequently the case than is generally imagined.

For there is joy and pride in home possession that money cannot buy, no can these values be written down on paper. With a stake in the premises, a new interest develops and lawn and house and the very trees take on a fuller and richer meaning.

To be planted firmly in a community makes for better citizenship. It is giving a hostage to pedmanence. Civic improvement is thus translated into personal terms. Every gain made by the community becomes an addition to the home life.

Moreover, there comes to the children of a home-owner a heritage of memory and association not vouchsafed to those brought up in tenement or apartment. Children may be unconscious of this at the time, but in later years they will look back to the permanent roof-tree with gratitude and praise. Its memory will be to them like a light upon a hill.

Renting is largely a habit and so is home owning, but their social import is widely different. The renting habit tends toward nomadism, impermanence, and indifferent, care-free citizenship. The home-owning habit tends to social stability, pride of residence, neighborliness and domesticity. Upon these values in the long run rests the welfare of the nation.

Every time we become optimistic and believe the world is getting better and the millennium is near at hand, we remember there are several million sinful republicans who are yet to be converted.

It is reported that 2,500,000 Russians face starvation. You can bet on it, though, that Lenin and Trotsky get three square meals a day.

A member of the bunch on the corner declares that he is very fond of work—so long as somebody else does it.

The American Bar Association, in session at Cincinnati, adopted a stinging resolution condemnatory of United States Judge K. M. Landis for the position and drawing a large salary as generalissimo of the National Base Ball Clubs of the country. It must be admitted, that the two positions are rather paradoxical, and add nothing to the position and dignity of an incumbent of a high and exalted judicial position.

Always support home enterprises when it is possible to do so. The home enterprises should also remember to be reasonable in their dealings with the people.

14,000 Do as Much as 24,000
 A story circulating among the motor car fraternity gives some astonishing efficiency statistics in regard to the Detroit plants of Dodge Brothers and Henry Ford. At the Dodge plant, it is said, 14,000 men now doing as much work as 24,000 men did a year ago, while in the Ford factory 24,000 men are achieving results as great as those achieved by a force of 40,000 men in 1920. In the Dodge plant a year ago there were 40 mechanics. Now there is one inspector for each 40 mechanics. The surplus of idle men, and fear of losing their jobs has increased the efficiency of those who have held on to their jobs, according to the "dope."

The man who trusts in God, who loves his neighbors, who looks forward with a hopeful eye, who keeps his digestive organs in working order, who plans and advises is the man who will improve his financial estate and his hope of Heaven before January First, 1922.—Clarendon News.

It is more than probable that if all the interests appealing to congress for relief were to go to work, the conditions complained of would soon disappear. There is entirely too much leaning on the government for the good of the country.—Denison Herald.

Way It Works
 If gold were discovered in every ditch and Pearlys were as common as peas some men would be poor and some would be rich. Some would be toiling and some would have ease, For it's having the things that are hardest to claim, Whether marbles or leather or land, That lifts us to fortune or swings us to fame. And gives us the right to command.—Chicago Herald-Tribune.

150,000 Heads to Come Off
 It is no secret in Washington that 150,000 government employees there and throughout the country are soon to lose their jobs. The first step in retrenchment with regard to discharge of clerks came on July 1, but on August 1, when 4,000 more employees were dropped, it appeared that the process was far too slow. In consequence, a policy was adopted to get back to the pre-war level by December 1, if possible. Whether it actually will be possible to get back to pre-war level officials are unable to say at this time, but that is the goal for the present. According to the best figures available at the Civil Service Commission, there are a little less than 80,000 clerks in Washington alone, which is about as many as there were at the beginning of the war. This, on the other hand, is a reduction of almost 40,000 from the time of the armistice.

Lost in Cuba
 For three years or more the navy has been short a battalion of marines. 6 officers and 274 men, the "Lost Battalion" it has come to be called. Recently in the little town of Camaguay, Cuba, there were some kind of a row and an American marine officer was attacked. This was reported in the newspapers. "What are the marines doing in Camaguay?" Assistant Secretary Roosevelt asked himself after looking at the map of Cuba. Nobody seemed to know. After much searching of records and inquiry among marine officers it was discovered that back in 1917, shortly after Cuba entered the big war following the U. S. the Cuban government had requested the State Department to permit the stationing of American marines at this Cuban town to guard sugar properties there against pro-German plots. And the marines have been there ever since.

To Be Coldest Winter
 The predictions of the weather prophet of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company are not scoffed at in his own country. He says the coldest weather in the last 25 years is approaching and warns his brother railroad men there will be many blizzards and it will be difficult to keep traffic open. This man is said to have failed only once in forecasting weather conditions. We believe every weather prophet should be given a chance. Paste this prediction up where you can see it next winter. Then render your own verdict.

During the last year, so the annual report of the American Federation of Labor shows, the membership in organized labor decreased 172,212.

Had the Right Hunch
 A certain washing machine manufacturer in Iowa whose machine is advertised all over the United States found his business had gone dead so suddenly that it seemed the people had stopped buying washing machines almost over night. Being able to take a hint he cut the price of his best machine from $120 to $77.50. The first day the price drop was advertised one of his Iowa agents in a small town sold six machines that morning. Similar reports have been coming from other parts of the country and the president of the company now knows he had the right hunch.

Wild Ducks Are Numerous
 The wild ducks are coming out in great flocks and covering the lakes. As all the lakes are full of water it is likely many will stay here the entire fall and winter and hunting will be good. Some of the farmers claim the ducks are eating the grain.

A team of Japanese tennis players have arrived in this country to play for the world's champion trophy.

Play Good for Grown-Ups
 George F. Baker, multimillionaire head of the First National Bank, of New York, never smoked a cigar or played golf until his 70th birthday. "Now he is regarded a nut on both." The big leaders on Wall Street all have hobbies—something at which they can play like boys. S. R. Guggenheim's hobby is hunting. He always shows up in Scotland during the grouse season. J. P. Morgan, goes in for yachting. A. C. Bedford of Standard Oil, gets his play in horseback riding. Harry Sinclair and J. S. Cosden, two other big oil men, have a string of race horses. Harry Davison, of the Morgan bank, is another horseman. A. B. Hepburn of the Chase National Bank, gets his play in fishing and running a farm. Samuel Untermyer raises prize chrysanthemums, and his fancy dogs at his million-dollar home rival, in numbers, any small small-town flock of mongrels you ever saw. But the millionaire doesn't get any more fun out of his yacht than you can get out of a rowboat. It doesn't matter what you play with. Play the thing that counts. It relaxes you, freshens you, makes you fit and eager for another tussle with work. Besides, if you don't find time to play, you're missing most of the real joy of life.

More Than Million Single
 More than 1,600,000 men and women, more than 45 years old are eking out a miserable existence in single blessedness, the Census reports. More than 100,000 men about 76 years old are listed as bachelors and nearly an equal number of women, 64 years old or more, also are unmarried, besides a still larger number of men and women 50 years old who are without mates as a result of divorce or death. The average man now marries at 30 and the average woman at 25. Wouldn't a school tax on bachelors be about right? While 93 per cent of the revenues of the national government are spent on war, a majority of the funds raised by city, state and county levies is expended on schools. By all means let's have a school tax on bachelors.

Met Girls In the Clouds
 Two New Haven young men who had just returned from an airplane tour of Europe, while flying in the sky above Connecticut the other day encountered two girls flying high in the clouds. "We flew close to them and waved handkerchiefs," reported one of the youths, "and they returned the salutation. We smiled and they smiled. We started after them, but their plane was speedier than ours and disappeared behind a cloud bank." So ended the first airplane flirtation, the beginning of who knows how many joy-riding stunts in the sky with the same broken-neck or broken-hearted companions which now attend the motor-car form of the sport.

On What We Throw Away
 On what wasteful Americans throw away 50,000 junk collectors last year salvaged nearly 2 billion dollars worth of material, says the Waste Trade Journal published in New York. They reclaimed 1 1/2 million tons of waste paper, 1-2 million tons of old cotton and woolen rags to be made into shoddy all-woolen clothing, 130,000 tons of old copper, 259,000 tons of old brass, 124,000 tons of lead, 50,000 tons of zinc, 23,000 tons of tin, 15,000 tons of aluminum, 200,000 tons of rubber of which 75 per cent were used tires and inner tubes, and 6 million tons of scrap iron and steel. But as this waste keeps 50,000 people busy, perhaps it isn't waste, after all.

Drilling Outfit Moved
 Bill Einemann, Mac Beach, L. Carter, Albert Zinser and Albert Schuette, members of the crew of the D. L. McDonald irrigation drilling outfit, were in town this week. The crew is moving to Roaring Springs, Dickens county, on the Matador Ranch, where drilling operations will begin in about two weeks.—Hereford Brand.

While the representative of other companies are kicking about hard times, and not being able to write business, ours are producing a big volume of it each month. Our August production in Texas was more than a million dollars of new business. This is due to the fact that the friendly, co-operative feeling that exists between the Home office officials and the field force, keeps them happy and enthusiastic, and business is always good with them.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED

We have an opening for a high class representative for Plainview and vicinity. Our company is not a "Wild-cat" company when it comes to giving a commission contract, however, to the right man we will give a liberal contract with renewals, and with the service and co-operation we will give him, together with our high class line of policies the contract will be a valuable one. The contract will be made with the company direct, as we have no middle-man of any nature that makes a profit on the business written by our representatives.

When we make a contract with a representative he gets something more than a supply kit and a "Good luck to you." He gets the most sympathetic, friendliest, closest co-operation that it is possible for human beings to give.

This is an unusual opportunity for a man that has a vision and wants to make some real money. If interested write me, giving your age, past business experience and the names of two references in your first letter.

Mrs. Kerschner and child have come from Roswell, N. M., to join her husband and make Plainview their home.

James Ferguson, who is connected with the head offices of a large sugar company in Minneapolis, Minn., arrived yesterday morning to spend a vacation with his father.

P. Flamm will leave Thursday for Blessing, on the gulf coast, to spend the fall and winter with a sister. Her husband is sick, and he is going there sooner than usual.

Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Anderson and daughters, Miss Hazle and Mrs. Carl Felnagle, returned Thursday from a trip in their car to the Yellowstone Park and the Pacific coast states.

Rev. J. W. Hunt, president of the Methodist college now being built at Abilene, was here Saturday. He is holding a revival in Lockney, which is very successful, and came over to spend the day.

Miss Mozelle Treadaway of Brownfield spent the weekend here visiting the T. R. Butler family but left this morning for Estancia, N. M., where she will teach in the public school the coming year. Several years ago Miss Treadaway was a teacher for several terms in Plainview public schools.

Prof. and Mrs. A. G. Harrison and child returned last week from Columbia, Mo., where they have been attending the summer school at the State University. They will teach in the Abernathy school again this year. Prof. Harrison came back by way of Austin, and saw the big Ku Klux parade on the streets there one night last week.

It is stated that the auto tourists of the central part of the country have distributed four million dollars in the western states this year. Comparatively few auto tourists go east, for the scenery of the West is more attractive.

Soldiers Remains Coming
The remains of Sgt. Clell Cochell, who was killed in France in 1918, will arrive in Plainview Thursday morning, and the funeral will take place Friday or Saturday, under the direction of the Blakemore Post of American Legion. The deceased was a brother of Mrs. Marvin Garner, and the son of Mrs. Theo Cochell of this city.

The body arrived in New York last week, and was taken to Little Rock, Ark., from which city it will be shipped this afternoon.

Cotton prices are beginning to climb. Trade buying has increased in volume recently, both futures and spot being in good demand. It is being induced, probably, because of the outlook for the smallest cotton crop this year that has been produced in more than a score of years.

IMPORTANT AFFAIRS OF THE PAST WEEK

Probably the most interesting of the week's developments in international affairs was a decision by the Supreme Court of Mexico declaring void the retroactive feature of Art. 27 of the Constitution, which had been interpreted in some quarters as authorizing the government to dispossess oil companies of rights previously acquired from private owners of land. The article vests the ownership of subsurface minerals in the government. The decision of the court, in effect, is that rights acquired prior to the adoption of this section in 1917 are not affected by it. Recognition of the Obregon government has been held up by the United States on account of Art. 27. A proposal was made by Obregon by the Washington government for the signing of a treaty in effect providing that retroactive feature of Art. 27 would not be applied to American citizens owning lands or leases in Mexico, where these lands and leases had been acquired prior to the passage of this article. President Obregon, in an address to the Mexican congress after the Supreme Court decision, announced that he would not sign this treaty. Obregon's position has always been that this article was not retroactive and consequently there was no occasion for Mexico to be called upon to sign an agreement like that proposed. Art. 27 is out of the way, but whether recognition will be granted on the strength of this decision is not apparent from Washington dispatches.

Big Job for Armament Parley

Other items of international political interest during this week were: Developments in preparations for the armament parley at Washington indicated that armament would not be the only problem put up to the conference, but along with it about all the international disputes carried to the Council of Versailles, excluding the matter of peace between Germany and the allies. The assassination of Matthias Erzberger-Friday of last week was taken as an indication of a plot on behalf of the monarchists to restore the Hohenzollerns. The Moplah tribesmen, about 1,000,000 strong, of the Malabar district of India, announced their independence of Great Britain and hoisted a green flag. Hungarian resisted with arms the effort of Austria to take possession of a small strip of West Hungary awarded to Austria by the peace conference. There were street riots between the Catholics and Protestants in Belfast, in which thirteen persons were killed. The republicans began preparations to carry the election for United States Senator in New Mexico recognizing in the outcome the approval of condemnation of the Harding administration.

Riots in West Virginia—the economic world the most important development was the mine riot in West Virginia, although dispatches leave the reader very much in doubt as to what it is all about. Federal troops have been sent to the scene but martial law has not been declared. Spokesmen for the miners have said that all the miners wanted martial law, which would relieve the mine company's guards of authority. Various estimates of the casualties have been made, running up to 200, but so far names of the killed and wounded are missing and the number killed, if any, is unknown.

Other items of economic interest: A joint committee of the house and senate has decided to recommend enactment of a credit system for farmers, modeled after the farm loan act, with the exception that instead of lending on land alone it will make loans on land and collateral other than land for the purpose of carrying on the farming business, probably with the system furnishing the capital and regular banks making the loans. The four railroad brotherhoods mailed out strike ballots, the point at issue being whether to accept or reject the $400,000,000 wage reduction made by the Labor Board, effective July 1. B. M. Jewell, head of the railroad shop crafts, announced that the shopmen never would agree to do Sunday work at the same rate of pay as for week-day work. The railway telegraphers began taking a vote on whether they would affiliate with the four brotherhoods. President Harding announced that a conference to determine the cause of unemployment would be called in October. Creditors of the New York Subway system applied for a receiver. The condition of cotton was officially reported to be 49.3, the lowest condition of a growing cotton crop ever reported.

Situation in Germany

The murder of Matthias Erzberger has started a whirlwind of discord in Germany, and out of it has already grown a thinly disguised movement for the secession of Bavaria from the rest of Germany with a royal government headed by Crown Prince Rupprecht of the House of Wittelsbach. The Hohenzollern crowd is taking advantage of the situation to spread royalist propaganda in Prussia. The propertied classes are agitating to get rid of the Socialist government of Berlin, whether it results in a monarchy or another kind of government. The Berlin government is taking actions against all hostile elements and apparently has the sup-

The Power in Music released at last

Mr. Edison's greatest ambition has been to see every home make use of the power of music.

This demanded, first, a phonograph of complete realism, no-less. At a cost of three million dollars, he put his new invention to the famous comparison-test, which no mere talking machine has ever sustained. This drawing (from a photograph) shows one of these tests. The singer is Muzio, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company. The listener is Bamboschek, principal conductor at the Metropolitan. Bamboschek said, "The quality of Miss Muzio's voice and the quality of its RE-CREATION by the New Edison are identical."

This marvelous invention has, at last, released the power in music.

now comes MOOD MUSIC

"Mood Music" is a 32 page book,—the newest and greatest step forward in Mr. Edison's plan for music in the home. "Mood Music" shows what music will do for you,—now that the phonograph of complete realism is a fact. It tells which selections will refresh you when you're tired, which will cheer you when you're depressed, which will calm you when you're nervous.

Bring or send the coupon—and get your copy of "Mood Music". It's free.

This wonderful development in music has grown out of a two years research into the effects of music. This research was under the direction of Dr. W. V. Bingham, Director of the Department of Applied Psychology, Carnegie Institute of Technology. Dr. Bingham was assisted by other noted psychologists, and thousands of music lovers who filled out Mood Change Charts.

These psychologists found that certain Edison RE-CREATIONS had remarkable power to banish fatigue, nervousness and the blues. They arranged these selections under the headings such as "To Make You Joyous", "To Bring You Peace of Mind", etc.—and called this kind of music Mood Music.

India and Ireland

The revolt of the Moplah tribesmen in the Malabar region of India seems to be connected with the Irish question. Irish agitators connected with the British army in India or formerly connected with it are suspected of stirring up the Moplahs. As to the importance of the Moplah uprising, it is worthy of note that they amount to only about 1,000,000 against a population of perhaps several hundred millions in India. The Irish question proper continues unsettled.

Discontent in Railway World

Four hundred and nine thousand members of the four railway brotherhoods are now voting on whether they will accept the reduced pay fixed by the Railway Labor Board, effective since July 1. The reduction is estimated, will cost the men $400,000,000 annually. The shopmen who were recently deprived of overtime pay for Sunday work, after enjoying it for twenty years, show no disposition to accept and their leader, B. M. Jewell, says they will not accept it. The railway telegraphers are voting on a proposal to affiliate with the four brotherhoods. It is probable that they will vote affirmatively. Apparently all classes of railway labor are lining up to fight wage reductions. Connected somewhat with the labor end of the railway situation is an effort on the part of manufacturers of the east and other interests in the West to have the rate increase of 35 per cent of last year set aside. The increase in rates, among other reasons was granted to enable the roads to meet increased labor costs. Representatives of the carriers testified before the Interstate Commerce Commission Monday that they did not think it would be possible to reduce rates, even if wage reductions already made were accepted, "although they might have to." The conference on unemployment is to take up the question of whether industry is not being hampered by high freight rates. There are now 5,000,000 idle workmen in the country.

Cotton Condition

The condition of the cotton crop was placed at 49.3 per cent of normal by the United States Bureau of Agriculture, the lowest condition report ever issued. On the strength of this cotton rose to around 18c for middling. With poor condition and decreased acreage, the present crop is expected to be the smallest in around fifty years. Only the impoverished condition of Europe, which prevents the purchase of the normal amount of cotton to supply proper clothing, keeps the price up to where it is. The condition of Europe makes cotton more highly speculative than usual, as far as forecasting prices is concerned. An oddity of the situation is that in days prior to the world war when cotton was bringing around 10c per pound, whereas now pickers are paid at from 50c to 75c in the greater portion of the cotton region with cotton selling at from 12c to 18c. In parts of West Texas however, reports show pickers are paid from $1 to $1.50.

Couldn't Stand Grandeur

When an American captain of industry gets rich sometimes he finds the wife who made it is too old-fashioned to shine in the social circles to which his money carries him, and gets another and younger woman who can go the gait. Not so with Milwaukee's wealthy retired grocer. His wife and children bought him a fine house, so fine he didn't know how to live in it. So he went to live in a little room by himself and his wife is suing for a divorce. Why is it always so difficult to bring up father the way he had ought to go?

Farmer's Tide Turning

What should happen is better prices for farm products and lower prices for manufactured goods, until a fair and reasonable parity is reached. It begins to look as if this process were at last under way. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the index number of farm products advanced 2 per cent in July. A reason for expecting better prices for farm products is the rule that the commodities whose prices were first to fall are the first to recover.

Akers, farmer, Plainview, says: "Some years ago my back was all out of whack and caused me a lot of trouble. My back was weak, sore and lame and ached most all the time. When I stooped over, sharp pains would catch me in the small of my back so I could hardly straighten up. In fact, my back bothered me all the time and mornings when I got up it was so sore and lame, I could hardly get around. My kidneys were weak and irregular in action and bothered me a great deal. A neighbor advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I used one box of this medicine and they relieved the pain in my back and fixed my kidneys up in good shape. I use Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally to keep my kidneys in good condition."

POETS MAY REVISE OPINION

What Will They Say in Future Days of the Music That is Popular Today?

"Poets say that the music of a man's youth always holds the best place in his heart," said a North side woman. "I believe it. The other night we went to call on an old couple and they gave us a Victrola concert. The records played were 'Darling Nelly Gray,' 'Silver Threads Among the Gold,' etc. We remembered that these tunes were popular when our host and hostess were young and agreed with the poet.

"A few nights later we visited a couple, both in the thirties. Their list of records included 'Sweet Marie,' 'On the Banks of the Wabash,' etc. Again we agreed that the poet knew what he meant when he made that assertion.

"But what we want to know now is this: When our youngsters of today are old and gray, will they sit hand in hand and doze while the Victrolas grind out 'The Vamp' and 'That Monday Morning Rag?' And if they do, what sort of opinion will the young then have of golden and beautiful and dignified old age? And what—oh, what will the poets say of it then?"—Indianapolis News.

ELECTRICITY IN WIRE FENCE

Cause of Corrosion Complained Of, According to Experts Who Have Made Examination.

Some time ago the department of agriculture was led by complaints from farmers to investigate the cause of the corrosion of wire fences. Experts concluded that the cause of the trouble was a metallurgical problem. The older iron wire is said to be more durable than the steel wire later introduced. The results of the tests made seem to indicate that manganese in the wire may have something to do with the corrosion. Manganese dissolved in iron up to a certain amount increases the electrical resistance, but if the manganese is not uniformly distributed electric currents may be generated in the wire when wet with rain, leading to corrosion by electrolysis. The deep pitting observed in corroded wire is said to be characteristic of electrolytic action.

CREDIT GOOD ANGELS.

Many of our burdens are borne by good angels. You may not be able to hear the flappings of their wings, but you will be able to appreciate their ways. They come in times of need and get under the loads that seem too heavy for us to carry. And many times we see fellows glorying in their achievements that have been made possible only by the fact that at the right moment they had a lift from a good angel. It isn't fair. To be sure they have a hand in putting things through but that does not give them a right to all the credit. The good angel that carried most of the load and often did it in spite of your testiness has a right to some share of the glory. If you want to be honest you must be fair and give credit where it belongs.

REASONABLE SUSPICIONS.

"Your new hired man is a queer looking feller," commented Farmer Hawhee.

"And he's every bit as queer as he looks," replied Farmer Dunk. "He's been here nearly three weeks now, and he ain't said a word yet about wanting more money, or that he's just as good as anybody else and no darn man can run anything edge-ways over him. My opinion is that he's some sort of a fugitive from justice and is obliged to keep quiet."—Country Gentleman.

ENOUGH IS PLENTY.

"Very few girls of my sort would be willing to marry a common sailor," sniffed the snobbish young woman.

"Very few girls of your sort would be plenty sufficient for me," retorted the common sailor. "Very few indeed."—American Legion Weekly.

BEWILDERING TITLES.

"Soda water can be depended on not to become an enemy to steal away men's brains."

"I suppose so," answered Uacis Bill Bottletop; "though I can't help havin' my doubts when I look up and read the names of some of the latest fancy drinks."

SPANISH GREW LITTLE SUGAR

During Their Occupation of Porto Rico They Gave Most of Their Attention to Coffee.

Sugar was shipped from Porto Rico as early as 1533, but the Spaniards gave it less attention than they did coffee. Their methods were antiquated. Two upright wooden rollers under a thatched roof, turned by a yoke or two of oxen, was the customary cane-crusher. These cane-crushers may be seen here and there yet today, and the big open iron kettles in which they boiled sirup are still strewn around the long coast, some of them occupied in the plebian task of catching rain water from hotel roofs, many more rusting away like abandoned artillery of a bygone age.

Under Spanish rule scarcely enough fruit was grown to supply the local demand. Americans, struck with the excellency of wild fruits, developed the almost unknown industry. Among the pathetic sights of the island is acre after acre of grape fruit, unsurpassed in size and quality, rotting on the trees or on the ground beneath them. While Americans are paying fabulous prices for them at home the natives are paid to haul them away and bury them. Lack of transportation is blamed.

SIGNIFICANCE OF TITLE

"The fact that a man is called 'colonel' is no sign he is a fighter."

"No," replied the Kentuckian.

"It's no longer even a sign that he is in politics."

NO, INDEEDI!

An Indianapolis stenographer had just returned from a siege at a hospital. One of her admirers who happened to meet her began an apologetic conversation. "I wanted to come to see you," he began, "but when I called up the hospital they told me that the doctor had put a ban on your having any visitors."

The man is very stingy and the stenographer had long been wanting to "bawl him out." "Yes," she admitted, "they wouldn't let me have callers but they didn't put any ban on flowers."

The young man was silent.

TYING IN "BIG MUDDY."

The expensive impertinence of the Missouri river, whose uncertain currents often swallow up a farm or destroy half the lots in "high class business sections," may at last be checked by means of a recent development in river-bank protection. In addition to the dikes, revetments and willow fences heretofore employed, flexible rafts have been anchored along the most threatened banks in position to rise and fall, with a special view to reinforcing the guard provided by the willow fences.

These rafts are anchored in groups of nine and four sections, respectively, each section forming a raft 50 by 27 feet in area, composed of 8 by 10 pine ties.

JAPANESE STEELPLATE PLANT.

A new steelplate plant, considered the largest in the far East and one of the six largest in the world, has just been completed at Yawata, Kyushu, Japan, at a cost of 4,000,000 yen, announces the Japan Advertiser. This plant, which has a production capacity of 100,000 tons of steelplate per month, has facilities to manufacture plates sixty feet long and eleven feet wide, the largest ever manufactured in Japan.

The News carries the largest volume of Want Ads of any paper in this section. There is a reason for this, for if satisfactory results were not obtained people would not continue to spend their money for Want Ads in this paper.

A Want Adv. in the News costs only 15c for fifteen words and 1c for each additional word, but it is read by possibly six to eight thousand people. Isn't that very heap publicity? Can you beat it?
