OATH OF OFFICE PRESIDENT HARDING DIES SUDDEN-LY; WILL BE BURIED IN OHIO

Nation Mourns Loss of Chief Executive, Who Died in San Francisco of Apoplexy-Train Leaves Tonight for Washington City.

Presidential Headquarters, Francisco, August 2.-Warren G Harding, president of the United States, died instantly and without warning tonight at 7:30 o'clock (9:30 o'clock Central Time) a victim of a stroke of apoplexy, which struck him down in his weakened condition after an illness of exactly a week. Death came to the chief executive while he was conversing with members of his family and according to an official statement issued by physicians, was apparently due to some brain trouble, probably apoplexy.

The end came so suddenly that the members of the official party could not be called.

It came after a day which has been described by Brigadier General Sawyer, the president's personal physician, as the most satisfactory day the president had since his illness began. The physicians in their formal announcement of the end, said that "during the day he had been free from discomfort and there was every justification for anticipating a prompt recovery."

The first indication that a change had occurred in the condition of Mr. Harding came shortly after seven o'clock when Mrs. Harding personally opened the door of the sick room and called to those in the corridors to "find Dr. Boone and the others quick." At that time Mrs. Harding was understood to have been reading to the president, sitting at his bedside with during the day.

A NATION'S SORROW

The news of the sudden death of the nation's beloved president came as a great shock to the people everywhere, and today they are sad in contemplation of their bereavement.

President Harding was a good man, a Christian gentleman, a conscienious public servant, and one whose heart was with his people and throbbed for their best interest. He was honorable, honest, clean, lovable.

While we of the South differed with him in politics, yet we esteemed him and had confidence in his patriotism and his statesmanship, for we knew that he would do nothing that he did not consider for the weal of the great people over which he was president.

His ending is sad, and was doubtless brought about by the esteem of the people of the sections he visited on his trip through the continent and to Alaska. Everywhere he went there was a continuous ovation, with numerous entertainments, and not being a robust man he could not stand up under the strain. It takes an iron constitution to do so. Being a friendly and democraict man, he tried to show his love for his people on this trip, and it undermined his health and made him a prey to disease.

Peace be to the ashes of Warren G. Harding.

While there is now and then a crop failure, when did you ever hear of the weed crop not being a bumper?

PROHIBITION JOKES

The last time I was in Tulsa I asked a fellow for a drink. After walking me around for half an hour, he stopped in front of a Methodist church and said: "You can't get a drink in there but you can get any. where else at any time."

The above was published last week in the Canadian Record in a column edited by John Dinty Moore. It is an old gag, for we have seen it in print off and on for the past many years. It is peculiar, that in each case the writer says "I was in" ----, always mentioning a different place. Of course, it likely never happened even one time. It is said the liquor interests are spending much money sending out jokes against or reflecting on the enforcement of the prohibition law, hoping to bring the law into disrepute. Many are foolish or unpatriotic enough to give further circulation to these liquor "jokes". not knowing or caring that to bring any law into disrepute weakens the enforcement of all laws.

PLAINVIEW'S AUDITORIUM

Time was when Texans who wanted to hear grand opera had to come to Fort Worth to hear it. Now, if they wish to attend such events in comfort and with assurance that they will see and hear everything, they will have to go to Amarillo, or possibly Plainview.

Neither Fort Worth nor Dallas has an auditorium fitted to care for the really great events that attract large audiences. The Fort Coliseum and the Dallas Fair Park Coliseum are twin horrors as opera houses, no matter what their merit for expositions, rodeos and pageants.

It is time that these great cities stopped aimless talk about auditorms and built them. If not our boasted culture is likely to find permanent and exclusive lodgement in some of the small but progressive cities of the state.—Editorial in the Fort Worth Record.

Sometimes we become discouraged because we hear so few favorable comments; let us be thankful we do not hear all that are unfavorable.

Forty-five people were killed in auto accidents throughout the United States Sunday. Most of them hap-pened at railroad crossings. A campaign is urged to require railroads to build viaducts or tunnels at each crossing. A better way would be to pay the railroads a thousand dollars for every person killed at a crossing and thus kill off as many fools as possible. There is practically no excuse for an accident at a railroad crossing-it is sheer carelessnes of the auto driver, for everybody knows that trains pass along on railroad tracks and are liable to do so at any time. Any driver who attempts to pass over a railroad crossing without first having satisfied himself of no ayproaching train is criminally care-

New York bankers are to make a proposition to Gov. Neff, to buy $5,-000,000 worth of Texas state warrants, so as to maintain the state treasury's balance. We are opposed to the state issuing warrants and paying taxes on them to New York bankers or any other large financial interest. The state should not have a deficiency in its treasury. The legislature had no business appropriating money until means had already been made to supply it through taxation. Gov. UNCLE SAM SHOULDN'T ENTER WORLD COURT

SENATOR RETURNS FROM EU-ROPE MORE OPPOSED TO IT THAN EVER

The fight on the world court was revived and given fresh impetus by the return of Senator Hiram Johnson of California from his European trip last week. Senator Johnson spoke in New York and declared that the intervention of the United States thru the medium of the world court would not only be futile but also that it merely is a step toward entrance into the League of Nations. The world court, Senator Johnson says, has jurisdiction over nothing execpt such things as the nations desire to submit to it. "It is a dreadful thing," he said, "to tell our people that the international court will prevent war."

Senator Johnson's return and his quickness to take up the fight against the court was heralded by some of his friends, who gave a dinner fo rhim in New York, the occasion of his speech on the court, as the first step toward launching a boom for Johnson as a candidate for president in 1924. Senator Johnson denied that there was any political significance in his stand upon the court. He declared that he spoke "without political hostility to any man.'

Senator Johnson, however, took one 'crack" at President Harding in his speech when he declared that the people of the United States should settle for all time the question of intervention in European affairs at the next election. But he insisted upon having the issue presented clearly. The country thought the question was settled in 1920, he declared, "but the old question recurs." "In the next fight," he said, "let's have no pretense. Let's make the issue so plain that even some of our most distinguished statemen cannot dodge it."

Senator Johnson's vigorous speech against the court and his announced intention of carrying on a militant campaign against it appears to spoil any hope of the G. O. P. for the harmonious settlement of the question. It is accepted as a certain indication that the party will be split wide open on the court issue, even taking President Harding's limitations of the grounds upon which the United States shall enter the court as a basis for negotiations. In his St. Louis speech on the court, President Harding expressed his plans for the court in such a liberal way as to win some of the irreconcilables, particularly Senator Borah of Idaho. But Senator Johnson seems to have kicked over the bucket and spilled the beans so far as harmony is concerned.

Washington newspaper correspondents express the opinion that the chances of a third party movement with Henry Ford as the candidate for president in 1924 are not so bright as they were immediately following the recent Minnesota election. The movement must depend for support upon the attitude of labor, no less than the attitude of the farmers. The railroad men of the country constitute a large proportion of the labor vote and it is said that the railroad men will not join a third party movement if Mc-Adoo is the democratic nominee. The railroad men are for McAdoo because of his liberal treatment of that class of labor in the Wilson administration. As secretary of the treasury Mr. Mc-Adoo administered the railroads in the first part of the government operathe best gins in this sestion of the tion. He gave the employees bigger country by the time the crop is ready salaries than they ever had dreamed to gin this fall, according to B. What do you know about motor oils?

There's a lot of truck owners who would be kinder to their machines if they knew exactly the kind of lubricating food to feed the bearings and cylinders.

To aid motorists in being dead sure of correct lubrication, the Sunoco Lubrication Chart was prepared by engineers.

Every make of automobile, tractor or truck has prescribed for it the exact type of Sunoco Motor Oil or Sunoco Grease for summer or winter use.

You will have good motor insurance with covering each bearing and cylinder wall.

The cost of real 100% lubricants is so small as to seem ridiculous when you consider the engine troubles Sunoco lubricants prevent.

PLANT TREE IN RIGHT PLACE

Much of Natural Beauty May Be Lock If Proper Spot Has Not Been Selected.

It is a beautiful thing to plant tree, but it is doubly beautiful to plant the right tree in the right place.

The deed loses half of its beauty when a tree is placed where it does not belong, and where it will be impossible for it to add to the joy and comfort of those who may be near it in future years. A tree placed in a location where it will be in the way, and where it cannot develop in accordance with its natural tendencies, is doomed to be a failure. The same is likely to be true of the tree that is planted without thought as to the variety that is best suited to the situation. It is the tree planting that involves thought and judgment that is the real blessian to humanity.

The beautiful thing in the planting of the tree is the attitude of mind of the one who does it. Those who are to receive the benefits from the act appear long after the work is done; those who do the work are seldom directly rewarded for the labor. When a person plants a tree, he is contributing to the pleasure of generations to come, and if he plants the right tree in the right place he bestows a bless. ing upon others in the most unselfish manner. If, on the other hand, the wrong tree is planted, the future generations cannot reap the full beneat of the work done years before by the well-meaning but uninformed tree planter, and the deed as measured by results becomes less beautiful,-Illinois Arbor Day Bulletin.

Molten Lava Welds Volcanoes. George Gillman read a paper before the Geographical society descriptive of an ascent a year ago of Kilimanjaro, which he alluded to as Africa's highest mountain. The party which he ed were the first to ascend after the mountain had become British territory. From wherever across the surrounding steppes one approached the isolated mountain mass two outstanding features impressed themselves at once-the tremendous size, coupled with great height, and the almost incredible contrast between the tropical half desert below and the alpine desert above. Structurally, Kilimanjaraconsisted of three single strato-volcanoes, each of which had had its own origin and history. Through mutual interbedding of the laval flows, how-

Be Master of Your Job

No job is so difficult and none so disheartening as that of avoiding work. The idler is the man above all others to be pitied. He who avoids work never lives, for he never comes to know the joy of doing, the contentment that comes from creating, nor the glory of serving. Without work there is no rest.

Every man wants to think that he is worth something. No man can know what he is worth without work. Work is the test. Man's record in this world is the record of his work, not of recreation.

Work is man's noblest expression. All men wish to be noble. All men wish to leave a record. Therefore even they who are idle feign work; they wish, at least, to appear as workers.

Genius is sometimes looked upon as a God-given means of making a record without work. However God-given genius may be, it never accomplishes anything without work. The men of greatest genius have always been amongst the most plodding, hard working and intenttheir chiefest genius being their genius for work. It is men of their kind who know that no true work is menial. They who look upon their work as menial are they who fail to invest in that work the patience, persistence, and power which lifts them above it. Man was not made for work; work was made for man. The man is lost who is servant to his work. The strong man is always master Work is an educator, and he who would be educated always seeks work which is above him, to which he must grow rather than work beneath him to which he must descend. Real rest comes through change of work. We have work to do to gain our bread. We have other work to do for our delight. Both must be done heartily, strenuously, and with a will—else we fail.

Old Dobbin stood on a grassy knollin the shade of a friendly oak; with a look of disdain at the dusty lane, he sniffed at the gas and smoke-and, I couldn't swear that he shed a tear-but these are the words he spoke:

INTEREST GETS ADDED IMPETUS

Added impetus has been given the Amarillo Tri-State Exposition, ac cording to reports reaching John B. Gilvin, secretary-manager. During the past few weeks has has visited a number of Panhandle cities and many promises of exhibits have been received by him. O. V. Vernon, secre. tary of the Amarillo Board of City Development, has accompanied him on a number of the trips.

Reservations were made a few days ago by the implement and machinery dealers. The way these few booths were taken indicates the widespread interest by machinery concerns.

The county booths are expected to show the wonderful Panhandle crops. Agricultural exhibits will feature, as usual, in the county exhibits and already there is keen rivalry in the Panhandle among counties which declare that they will take the blue rib-

HARVESTER COMPANY'S ATTITUDE OF PETITION

The Harvester Company's attitude in regard to the petition just filed against it by the government in the United States district court at St. Paul, Minn., is set forth in a statement by Alexander Legge, president of the company, which has been received by Mr. W. A. Fisk, Branch Manager of the International Harvester Company of America in Amarillo, Texas. Mr. Legge's statement

"This petition is a continuation of the suit brought against us eleven years ago. Upon the hearing of that case, held more than nine years ago, the Harvester Company was acquitted, both by the findings of the court and by the attorney general's admission, of any wrongful dealings or unfair practices toward customers or competitors, but, to insure the fullest competition, a decree was entered in 1918 requiring the company to seil to competitors certain complete lines of harvesting machinery, and to limit is sales representation to a single dealer in any one town.

"That decree further provided that at the end of a test period which has now expired the government might ask the court to determine whether or not the free competition contemplated by the Sherman law exists in the farm implement industry. This step the government has now taken.

"As we understand it, the sole issue raised by the present petition relates to competitive conditions with respect to harvesting machines only. It does not charge the company with unduly raising the price of harvesting machinery to the grave injury of the American farmer, as was charged in ompany has been unduly depressing the price of harvesting machinery, particularly since 1920, to the injury of its competitors.

"Without attempting to argue our ease at this time, it sems fair to say that the unfortunate condition is which manufacurers of harvesting machines, and in fact of all other farm implements, find themselves, is due to the serious business depression that affected the entire country beginning in the fall of 1920.

"During the last few years the whole farm implement industry has been in an abnormal and distressing situation which directly reflects the situation of the farmer. High costs of labor, material and transportation have burdened it with high manufacturing costs, while on the other hand low prices for agricultural projucts have left the farmer unable to buy his normal and needed requirements of farming machinery.

"We are confident that the hearing on the present petition will clearly show that the Harvester Co. is rot in any way responsible for these conditions in the farm implement industry. Prices of harvesting machinery are the result of vigorous competition, ex actly the kind of competition which the Sherman law was enacted to preserve, and are fairly comparable with the prices of other implements which the government concedes were fixed by normal competition."

The Unit Rule

By Daniel F. Cohalan, Supreme Court Justice, State of New York. Attention has been called to the two-thirds rule by which a

Citrus Advertising a Success

The Florida Citrus Exchange is making an appeal to the growers of grape fruit to co-operate instead of compete in the marketing of their product, and states that the keynote of its success up to date has been found in newspaper advertising. Ten years ago, the exchange says, it started to educate the American housewives to the food and health values of grape fruit. Today, as a result of newspaper advertising, one-fourth of the American people eat grape fruit. There remain, however, three-fourths of the people yet to be reached.

The potential market for the canned grape fruit alone is staggering to contemplate. The canning of grape fruit now has been perfected.

All that remains is to have the people told about it. The citrus exchange is to be complimented on its vision in seeing that only newspaper advertising can accomplish such mutually beneficial education. The housewives of every small town in the country will learn through advertising in their local newspapers all about grape fruit. Then everybody will profit,

THE PILOT WHO COMMANDS THE SEA,

Sometimes 'mid scenes of deepest gloom, Sometimes where Eden's bowers bloom: By waters calm, or troubled sea, Still 'tis God's hand that leadeth me."

-Joseph H. Gilmore.

Unlike the hopelessness which attends shipwreck upon the material sea of water, there can be no diaster upon the sea of life from which Oranipotence can not save, no depths from which He can not deliver, no darkness in which the light of His love does not shine.

Also unlike the material sea of water, the sea of life is charted. All the rocks and whirlpools, all the shallows and sandbars, are pointed out to the mariner, while the beacon light of God's infinite love shines constantly upon his course.

It so shines whether or not on land or sea, for "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." He who assumes to heed not this warning light against th ecertain destruction of those who willfully turn aside into courses where millions who have gone before have met their doom has only himself to blame for his fate.

Mind is the power which moves the rudder of reason and sets the sails of thought which take the human ship into the harbor of safety, or dashes it to pieces upon the rocks of sin and error.

As soon as one begins the voyage from the land of youth across the sea of lige to the port where old age finds him, he should make full decision that he will not drift with the current, nor ignore the well marked course of those who have preceded him. Such a one is sure to reach the haven of safety, and upon arriving on the other side shall find his Pilot who has, unseen, been guiding his frail craft all the way.

He has this assurance, during the entire journey, "Fear not, for I am with thee;" and he knows that unless he is earnestly trying to set his sails in the right direction, trying to follow in the course of "the Old Ship of Zion," his Pilot, who stands ready

FORTS WORTH PURCHASING

Uncle Sam Has Them for Sale and Their Acquisition Might Be Well Worth While.

Scores of old forts in the United States are for sale. We don't need forts any more, except around the edges of the country and can spare a good many of those.

Antiquated forts are to go at auction and other means of sale, and there is a chance to secure some oldfashioned masterpleces and military antiques.

The real future value of these forts lies chiefly in their display to tourists. Tourists are presently going to be one of the best money-making propositions in the United States.

As few suspected the millions of dollars that lay in the movies, so the value of tourists is not yet appreciated as it will be when they begin to come every summer in armies, moving eastward and westward.

Every tourist will have from $300 to $500 to spend, and the town with the most "sights" and enjoyments is going to get the most greenbacks. Maine's $45,000,000 a year from tourists will be but a small portion of the money circulated.

Every town near an old fort should get it in this bargain sale; and should acquire everything else that will constitute a "show." Perhaps some city will mother an annual world's fair. It might pay .- St. Louis Globe-Demo-

POINTER RETRIEVED THE HAT

Seemingly a Case Where Dog, in Classic Phrase, "Seen His Duty and Done It."

A good-looking pointer dog was trotting timidly along Ohio street in front of the Federal building. He plainly was uneasy and was making his way in a sort of bewilderment through the crowd near Pennsylvania street.

A woman's black sailor hat came rolling along in the high wind. It careened among scurrying feet, but none stopped it. Thirty yards or more behind in laughing chase was a young colored woman.

The dog saw the hat and although not near it ran in chase. He galloped along beside it, striking at it occasionally as if trying to let it know it should stop. He seemed not to wish to touch it for fear of doing it damage. Finally he became exasperated and caught it in his mouth. Holding one foot on it he looked around to see what should be done.

The colored girl got her hat all right, the pointer yielding it with a proud strut. He got a pat on the head and a kind word that made him jump for joy. The colored woman went on her way, and the dog half-wistfully began his search for a way out of the crowd. -Indianapolis News.

MARRIAGE EASY IN RUSSIA

And It Is Said Divorce Is Even Quicker of Attainment Than Is Wedlock.

The separation of church and state in Russia has exercised a strong influence on marriage, as well as on its corollary, divorce. It has been pointed out that marriage by the church bas no legal value. To be married and divorced in a half hour is an actual legal possibility in soviet Russia, unless, of course, the queues in front of the respective registrar's tables happen to be too long. Or, if the couple are of a sentimental turn of mind. they may revert to wedlock in the specified time, if the officials are not too busy.

Ease of marriage and even greater ease of divorce is one of the Communist government's answers to three of the world's greatest social problemsmatrimony, morality and illegitimate children.

The simple act of both persons appearing before a magistrate and signing a marriage contract constitutes the only marriage ceremony recognized by present law in Russia. There is not even the formality of the spoken vows. Both applicants, however, must present themselves.

Divorce is still easier, in that the desire of only one of the two parties affected is sufficient. Either husband or wife may obtain abrogation of their marriage by appearing at the registrar's office and indicating that continuance of conjugal relations is no longer craved. There is no trial, no appeal. The dissatisfied husband simply signs a paper and walks out a free man. If there are children, however, he does not escape responsibility for support. This latter point, as well as several other correlated legal phases of the divorce question, are still a bit vague, owing to the fact that Russia has no written code of statutes. The only law that exists consists of a few decrees promulgated by the Kremlin and the common sense and conscience of the official. Stripping it of all the sentiment and religious background surrounding marriage in the legal system of the West, the Communist approaches the institution of wedlock as a purely civil procedure, just like any other contract between two persons. The church ceremony has no legal value in Russia, although most people still go through the gesture, as in France, where a similar situation prevails.-Edwin W. Hullinger in Current History.

Sneeze First.

Gen. Amos Fries, chief of the chemical warfare service of our army, suggests the introduction of a small quantity of a new "sneeze gas" into illuminating gas, with a view to preventing suicides. Assuredly the man contemplating self-destruction will find it extremely disconcerting to have to pause in the midst of the solemn process for so ridiculous a gesture as that of sternutation. Empedocles of Etna, or Sophocles with his draught of hemor Cleopatra with her asp could not have departed this life with dignity in the middle of a sneeze. If one stops long enough for that, there is a chance of a sober second thought. About one suicide in seven in this country is with gas. The fact shows the importance of even so slight an obstacle of a sneeze. A fraction of a second may be enough to upset a foolish determination. If he who hesttates is lost, he also may be saved when the pause means an instantaneous review of the causes leading up to the precipitate deed. It does not take long in such instances to decide that

French Wheat Production. From an investigation made by the French minister of agriculture it is estimated that the wheat production in France in 1922 was over 6,600,000 metric tons.
