

Tanker explodes; 49 feared dead

BANTRY, Ireland (AP) — The French tanker Betelgeuse exploded "like a giant bomb" while unloading oil at a storage terminal in scenic Bantry Bay early today and 49 persons were feared dead.

The charred bodies of three crewmen and seven workers at the terminal on Whiddy Island were recovered. Police said all of the 42 crewmen aboard the tanker apparently were killed.

"If you could see the blaze, you'd know there was no chance at all for anyone on board," said one firefighter. The ship sank in 130 feet of water, leaving only its stern visible.

The police at first reported 40 crew members aboard the ship but later increased the number.

First reports said the Betelgeuse was in the supertanker class. But its 121,430-ton deadweight capacity puts it well below the 200,000-ton size of the oil-carrying giants.

Firefighting tugs battled the flaming oil that spewed from the ship, and they prevented the fire from spreading to 18 storage tanks holding 250 million gallons of crude oil. They reported the flames under control six hours after the first explosion.

The ship was unloading at a Gulf Oil facility when a series of giant blasts split it in two, pouring blazing oil into the sea and rocking the area for 20 miles around.

"It was like a giant bomb. The whole ground shook from the explosion, and flames seemed to be everywhere," said an officer at the Bantry police headquarters.

Fire teams and rescue squads were rushed to the area from all over Ireland. All doctors and nurses within 100 miles were alerted. Britain's Royal Air Force sent helicopters from Wales to help with the search for the missing.

Whiddy Island is a supertanker terminal at which the huge ships that are too big to enter West European harbors unload oil from the Middle East. More than 250 million gallons of crude oil are stored there, waiting for reshipment to Britain and the Continent, but the firefighters kept the flames from reaching the storage tanks.

However, a dozen families were evacuated from the island.

"All we know is there was an explosion on board the ship followed by a flash fire on the water, presumably from oil that came from the hold in the explosion," said Donald Ash, the general manager of the Gulf terminal. Ash said the Betelgeuse had pumped out some 21 million gallons of oil, or about two-thirds of its cargo, and was taking on sea water as ballast before discharging the rest when the explosion occurred.

Ash said it was too soon to determine the extent of oil leakage into the bay.

Bus crashes

ARTESIA, N.M. (AP) — Eight Houston residents were hospitalized here Monday after their weekend ski charter bus skidded out of control on an icy highway and landed on its side Sunday night.

State police said there were 24 passengers on the Luxury Coach Charters bus from Houston. Three passengers were not hurt in the crash, and 13 others were treated and released early today, police said.

Police said the group, traveling on an open charter, was returning to Houston after a weekend ski outing at the Sierra Blanca ski area near Ruidoso.

Carter guideline focus of dispute

Strike threat 'very real'

DENVER (AP) — The nation's oil workers were told to report to work today, but the threat of a nationwide walkout by the 60,000 refinery workers remained "very real," the union president said.

A.F. Grosipron, president of the Denver-based Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, delayed calling a strike to give further study to a proposal from Amoco, a company trademark of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana).

Grosipron said he and the union's 12-member bargaining policy committee would resume discussion of the Amoco offer today.

If accepted, the Amoco proposal — which reportedly calls for an hourly increase of 73 cents — would represent a wage increase of 8.3 percent.

The increase, if accepted, would violate President Carter's 7 percent wage-fringe benefit guideline. The guideline has been the focus of the contract dispute, with the negotiations marking the first major showdown over it.

Traditionally, an agreement with a major oil company is used as a pattern for settling with the rest of the industry. Some 411 contracts were being negotiated locally with 100 companies, and the national union has final approval over those offers.

Despite the order to return to work, picket lines went up after midnight at a Gulf Oil Corp. refinery in Port Arthur, Texas, and others were anticipated.

Most earlier offers to the OCAW called for a 7 percent wage increase in the first year of the new contract, and 6 percent the second year.

Those proposals were rejected, but Grosipron said the union found Amoco's offer "more attractive than the others."

In addition to the hourly increase of 73 cents in the first year, the Amoco offer reportedly includes a clause that would reopen wage discussions in the second year. Oil workers currently average $8.82 an hour.

Grosipron said the union received about 10 revised offers just hours before the expiration of the existing contract at midnight Sunday. He and the committee then held a two-hour, closed-door session, emerging to announce the decision to give the Amoco offer more study.

There was no comment from the oil companies on the possibility of a strike. But at large refinery plants in Houston, at least three companies — Shell, Amoco and Phillips — had supervisory personnel ready to take over shifts in the event of a strike.

The industry is highly automated, and a short strike was not expected to have a significant impact on oil production and supplies. A long strike, however, could cause problems.

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said Sunday in Washington that if a strike occurred and is honored by transportation unions, "then we could be in serious trouble in the near term, and the consequences would be shortages and the need to take actions to constrain demand."

Rebels claim complete control of Cambodia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnam's Cambodian rebel proteges claim complete control of Cambodia after reportedly capturing the capital of Phnom Penh and driving Premier Pol Pot's government into the countryside, but analysts here said today the government was trying to organize a force to fight the insurgents.

The analysts said the Cambodian leaders were trying to set up a line of resistance near Siem Reap in northwestern Cambodia. The rebels claimed they were in control of the area, about 320 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

The rebels, led by Heng Samrin, a defector from the Pol Pot government, claimed the local population aided their offensive, but most analysts say Vietnamese troops did most if not all of the fighting.

A communique broadcast by the month-old rebel movement, the United Front for National Salvation, said the "revolutionary armed forces" by noon Sunday "completely liberated" Phnom Penh, and "the dictatorial and militarist regime of the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary clique has completely collapsed."

A Chinese government official in Peking said the fall of Phnom Penh had been anticipated by China, the Cambodian government's chief ally, but "Cambodia is fighting on."

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the former Cambodian chief of state who fled from Phnom Penh to Peking Saturday, told a news conference in the Chinese capital that Pol Pot and his government were alive and fighting somewhere in Cambodia. He said the Chinese are in radio contact with them.

President Carter, on the Caribbean island of Guadeloupe after a four-power Western summit, said he had heard Phnom Penh had fallen, but refused to discuss the situation. White House aides said privately that the invasion supported predictions by national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski that the Soviet Union and China would fight a "proxy war" using the armies of their Vietnamese and Cambodian allies.

The reported fall of Cambodia would end one of the most radical social experiments this century.

Carter to ask Congress for $1 billion missile plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter reportedly will ask Congress later this month for nearly $1 billion to push development of a new long-range mobile missile system designed to be safe from a surprise Soviet attack.

Administration sources said the budget requests will be made in anticipation of probable decisions by April on moving into full-scale development of such a missile and on methods of basing it. Some defense officials appear to favor an air-launched concept.

Although final U.S.-Soviet agreement has not been reached on limiting strategic nuclear weapons in the future, defense officials say they are confident they can proceed with development and testing of an advanced mobile missile regardless of the SALT negotiations outcome.

There is general agreement in the Pentagon that some kind of elusive new mobile missile system, either land- or air-launched, will be essential by the mid-1980s. That is when the present force of 1,000 Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles, stationed in fixed underground bases, are expected to become vulnerable to possible destruction if Russia should launch a surprise attack with its increasingly accurate missiles.

Uncertainties and disputes over how to base the new missile have twice caused the administration to delay advancing the project into full-scale development.

The effect of this has been to delay the earliest deployment date until about 1986. Defense specialists argue the United States can not afford further delay.

Salvation Army post opens doors to stranded group

The local Salvation Army post played Good Samaritan to 17 stranded tourists over the weekend.

About midnight Saturday, the manager of one of the local bus companies called and asked if the Salvation Army could help alleviate a problem, which had developed when a bus schedule to Dallas had to be cancelled due to the condition of the roads.

The 17 bus passengers faced the bleak prospect of having to set up all night in the bus station until the Salvation Army opened its doors to them.

Brigadier Robert Ball and his co-workers not only gave the passengers lodging for the night but fed them breakfast the following morning. In addition, they were provided a warm room in which to relax until 11:30 a.m. Sunday, when the bus company picked them up and returned them to the bus station for a resumption of the journeys eastward.

Brigadier Ball said this had been one of the most rewarding Christmas seasons he has experienced in over 40 years, for a number of reasons.

Ball recently received two letters, one of which enclosed a check, from people who had been served by the local post during the year.

Both writers expressed their appreciation from the services rendered by the local staff.

One mentioned that Ball offered to house and board him for a week while he was in Big Spring last summer. He only stayed on night, however. He mentioned the $26.30 check he was enclosing was a "token of my appreciation."

A woman who has stopped at the Salvation Army for shelter and had worked here for a time forwarded a Christmas card to one of the staff members and mentioned that the hospitality she experienced here helped change her life style. She is now a security guard in another Texas city.

Labor talks begin anew

The threatened strike by the 60,000 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union will not effect employees of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company.

Coincidentally, however, officials of Local 826 International Union of Operating Engineers will sit down with Cosden representatives at 1 p.m., Tuesday to discuss proposed adjustments in pay scales and benefits.

Heading the team representing Cosden will be Hood Barnwell, Director of Industrial Relations for Cosden.

Local 826's contract with Cosden does not expire until April 1. The contract under which the union now operates was negotiated in 1977.

Business manager for the IUOE is Kenneth Howell.

Tops on TV: Tanya Tucker

If you like a grown-up Tanya Tucker and her style of singing, tune in on "Monday Night at the Movies: Amateur Night at the Dixie Bar and Grill," at 8 p.m., on NBC. Appropriately enough, Tanya plays a singer. There's a little something called "A Small Town in Texas" scheduled to start at 8 o'clock on ABC. It's all about an ex-convict (Timothy Bottoms), who returns home to resume an affair with an old girl friend (Susan George) and incurs the wrath of an evil-hearted sheriff (Bo Hopkins). Lots of automobile chases in this one. Oh yes, a Charley Brown cartoon appears on CBS at 7 p.m., this one a repeat called "Your First Kiss, Charley Brown."

Garcia sent to hospital Demonstrators mourned Sporadic rioting

Saldivar Garcia, charged in the beating death of Vidal Garza, 76, this morning was declared incompetent to stand trial.

A jury in 118th District Court deliberated only minutes before deciding that Garcia was neither capable of standing trial, nor was he likely to regain competency to stand trial in the foreseeable future. The jury also instructed that Garcia needed hospitalization.

Garcia is presently being transported to Rusk State Hospital, where he will be held in a maximum security area of the hospital until psychiatrists there determine that he is capable to stand trial. Should he ever regain competency, Garcia will be returned to Howard County to stand trial.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Sporadic rioting broke out in Tehran today as Iran observed a second day of mourning for the hundreds killed in the past year of demonstrations against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Four persons were reported killed Sunday, the first day of the two-day mourning period, in riots in Tehran and six other cities. One man was reported wounded by police gunfire in Tehran today.

Hundreds of demonstrators roamed through downtown Tehran in small groups, shouting "Down with the shah!" Mobile troops with riot gear moved quickly to disperse the groups as soon as they formed.

Thousands of mourners gathered at Tehran's main cemetery, and the military kept out of sight there. In the holy city of Qom, 98 miles south of the capital, 100,000 persons marched through the streets, but no violence was reported.

Commerce, disrupted by strikes and a nationwide fuel shortage, was at a standstill for the second straight day. Hundreds of protesters demanding the shah's abdication set fires and smashed windows Sunday in Tehran. Military police scattered the mobs with tear gas and gunfire, and one person was killed. The capital had enjoyed comparative calm for the previous four days while Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar's new government was installed. Youths in Tehran shouted a new slogan today, "Bakhtiar strike," apparently a call for a strike to protest the new prime minister's three-day-old government. The mourning period was called to commemorate the estimated 1,500 persons who have died in the past year of violent opposition to the shah's authoritarian rule and his Westernization program which religious leaders charge undermines the country's traditions.

Deaths

S.H. Forester

Spencer H. Forester, 63, died at 3 p.m., Friday in a local hospital following an illness of four years.

Services are pending with a Memphis, Tennessee, Funeral Home. Local arrangements were handled by Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mr. Forester was born Aug. 18, 1915, in Union City, Tenn. He was a resident of Midland, Tex. He had worked for the Carrier Air Conditioning Company before taking ill.

He was a veteran of WW II and a Baptist.

Survivors include his wife, Onevia, Midland; a son, Mark Forester, Arlington; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Louise Dubois, Midland; two grandchildren; a sister and two brothers.

W.A. Steagald

W.A. Steagald Sr., 83, died at 9:27 a.m., today in a local hospital.

Services are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Survivors include his son, W.A. Steagald Jr., Big Spring.

Larry Barnett, major league ump, to speak

American League umpire Larry Barnett will speak to patients at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Big Spring at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday.

Barnett will show the action-packed film, "World Series of '77," featuring the excitement of the 1977 World Series that the New York Yankees took from the Los Angeles Dodgers to become World Champions. And Barnett, who became the youngest major league umpire in baseball history when he signed on with the American League in 1968, will discuss his experiences in baseball from his own unique perspective — behind the umpire's mask. His stories sparkle with wit and humor.

The program is sponsored by the National Headquarters of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) as a service to hospitalized veterans. It is made possible under the VA Voluntary Services (VAVS) program. The DAV's local VAVS Representative is James Morrow.

A native of Prospect, Ohio, Barnett entered an umpire school in Florida after graduation from high school in 1963. Following five years of officiating in the minor leagues, he became baseball's youngest major league umpire when the American League bought his contract in 1968.

Today he is a seasoned professional who has been praised by many of the old pros, though he admits that some have had other comments too. Barnett delights in exploding the myth that umpires are stodgy old men with weak eyes and slow wits.

The hard work, sweat and jeers that make up America's number one sport have their humorous side. And that's where Barnett gets the material for his unique presentation on what baseball is really like behind the scenes.

Record spending looms

Comment from capital

AUSTIN — Legislators are flowing into Austin on a wave of public sentiment for tax relief but will spend more than ever before.

Even if they fully implement the tax-relief amendment approved by voters two months ago, legislators still will spend $1.8 billion more than they did in 1977.

Much of the additional money will be used to meet inflation. But the evil inflation that requires the extra spending also is the reason that legislators can both reduce taxes and spend more.

The state's income is based largely on taxes levied on selling prices. As prices go up, so do tax collections.

The tax relief amendment laid out for legislators a framework for relief. But they will have to decide how much of it to implement.

Old folks certainly want as much tax relief as the legislature will grant them. But some fiscally conservative legislators say that these tax exemptions should be delayed until the impact of the entire tax relief package can be seen more clearly.

The same uncertainties face corporations that own farm, ranch and timber land.

Under the amendment the legislature must allow individual farmers and ranchers to base ad valorem taxes on productivity rather than selling price. The legislature may extend the same relief to corporations with rural land. A large number of legislators would rather wait on giving that relief to corporate farms, ranches and timber lands.

While special interests fight to get the full relief possible under the amendment, state agencies are battling for a bigger share of the available state dollars. Legislators will have to choose between the demands of the two.

Some spending demands will come from school teachers who want salaries raised to the national teaching salary average and from state employees who want raises so their salaries will keep pace with inflation.

But spending of state dollars isn't the only issues facing legislators.

Two years ago, the legislature worked out a compromise between doctors and trial lawyers on limits in suits for medical malpractice. The doctors will try this year for modifications to put stricter limits on their liability, saying this would hold down medical malpractice insurance rates.

A big fight is expected over attempts to change Texas law governing products liability. The law controls suits alleging that faulty design of a product caused an injury.

Legislators will decide whether Texas should have a presidential primary for the 1980 elections, whether primary election day should be moved closer to the November general election and whether Texans should register as members of a political party before voting in the primary.

Savings and loans want the interest rate limit for home loans increased from 10 to 12 per cent. They argue the 10 per cent limit will result in little or no home loan money being available in Texas.

Banks again will try to be able to install electronic fund transfer systems.

Those systems link stores with banks by computer and allow immediate transfer of money from a customer's checking account to the store's checking account. Voters rejected the proposal a year ago.

Halfway House in red, Commissioners are told

Howard County Commissioners learned that Half Way House is operating at a deficit in their first Commissioners Court meeting of 1979. They met at 9:30 a.m. in the Commissioners Courtroom.

John Bennet, board of directors chairman, asked the county to provide funds for two patients at the house at $750 a month. Half Way House cares for state hospital patients who are readjusting to society.

Community Development Head Bill Hall was present to discuss with the Commissioners a weatherization program for Big Spring residents who qualified. The federally funded project is granted $1,200 dollars per home by the Department of Energy to be used to buy materials for insulation and weatherization.

Hall said that the Manpower program in Midland could provide the workers for the project but that he couldn't sign the application for the workers himself because he needed county sponsorship.

County Commissioners moved to approve the application. Hall said that Manpower has already indicated that they can provide the workers when the application is complete. David Davis has recently taken over the weatherization program for West Texas Opportunities.

Commissioners were slated to discuss appointment of the County Historical Commission, approve bonds for elected officials and set terms of court. The insurance on the property at the old Howard County was reviewed this morning.

This afternoon there was a discussion slated with Bill Mims, county engineer, concerning the new warehouse for storing equipment and employment of a mechanic helper.

Two new commissioners were present, Paul Allen from precinct 2 and David Barr from precinct 4.

Police beat Tenants take property

Edward Jones lost more than tenants when his rental property was vacated Friday.

Jones reported to Big Spring Police on Saturday that when his tenants moved out, they took with them a color television, linens and a clothes hamper with a total value of $580. In addition, $195 damage was done to the interior of his property around Nov. 21 or 22.

Bill Henkel, manager of Jo Boy's, advised police at 5:30 p.m. Saturday that he was the victim of a turnabout when someone placed a portable television set and a toaster oven of unknown value in the rear of his pickup, parked behind Jo

Boys.

The Seven-Eleven Store at West Hwy 90 and Willa lost $9 worth of gas Sunday when a woman drove off without paying for it at 7:15 p.m.

Icy driving conditions continued to contribute to a large number of minor accidents, including several hit and run incidents, over the weekend.

William Sheen, 801 Marcy, knocked down a city sign when he lost control of his vehicle at the 1600 block of FM 700 Saturday, 3:20 p.m.

Robert Aleman of Odessa slid into the rear of a vehicle driven by Kenny Williams, 407 Lancaster, when Williams stopped to make a turn at the 2000 block of Gregg at 7:20 p.m.

A vehicle owned by Aluah Minnick was hit while parked in front of his residence at 1107 Mulberry. The driver of the second vehicle left the scene of the accident which occurred at 11:15 p.m.

Another hit and run incident at 11:30 p.m. left Albert Smith with a damaged vehicle when his automobile, parked in front of his residence at 803 Pine was hit.

A line pole belonging to Texas Electric Company, valued at $900, was completely broken when Michael Pruitt, 1500 Stadium, lost control of his vehicle while attempting to turn off Birdwell onto E. 5th St. at 2:38 a.m. Sunday.

A passenger, Susan Bos, in a vehicle driven by Betty Johnson of Srington, Okla., was treated for bruises and minor abrasions and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital following a two-car accident on I-20, 9:30 a.m.

The accident occurred when Michael Neal of Raleigh, S.C. lost control of his vehicle and slid off onto the shoulder of the freeway. Ms. Johnson braked to avoid hitting Neal and slid into the median.

W.R. Loper, 2912 Cherokee, was the victim of a hit and run incident at 8:10 p.m. when his car was hit while parked in front of his residence by an unknown person who fled the scene.

UTPB students to register

Registration for spring semester classes from the University of Texas at the Permian Basin to be held on the campus of Howard College, will be Tuesday from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the reference library of the Horace Garrett Building.

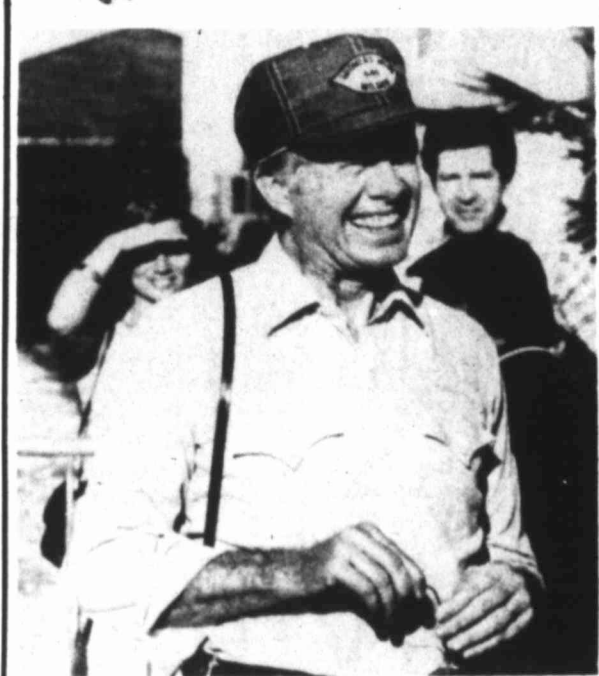

Registration will continue Thursday and Friday during the hours of registration for regular Howard College classes.

Graduate and undergraduate classes will be offered. For further information, or particular class offerings, call 267-8360.

ADMITTED TO SCHOOL — Deryl Ray Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wright Jr., 617 Ridgelea Drive, Big Spring, has been admitted to the Southwestern State University School of Pharmacy in Weatherford, Okla. He completed two years of pre-professional college studies before being accepted for the school's three-year professional program, which leads to a bachelor of science in pharmacy degree.

Libya 'maligned' by media

ATLANTA (AP) — Two members of an unofficial Libyan "good will mission" in the United States say their country has been maligned by the U.S. news media.

Gibril Shallouf, secretary general of the Islamic-Christian Dialogue Committee, and Abdul Latif Kikhis, vice president of an Italian-Arab commercial group, were invited to Atlanta by President Carter's brother, Billy. Shallouf said Sunday that Libya's insistence on "self determination for the Palestinian people" has been misrepresented by "the American news media." Billy Carter, who visited Libya last year, added that the North African nation had been the victim of "newspaper propaganda."

Restaurant for non-smokers

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — A restaurant manager, deciding it was too difficult to divide smoking from non-smoking sections in a Logan restaurant, declared the entire restaurant offbounds to smokers.

R.E. Shaffer, district manager of Sambo's Restaurants, said he banned smoking last month to avoid legal conflicts about who can smoke where and whether adequate ventilation and no-smoking signs are maintained. Utah's Clean Air Act mandates no-smoking areas in public places. Since Shaffer took the action, two persons have been arrested for refusing to extinguish their cigarettes in the presence of a police officer.

Flight records attempted

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An Edwardsville, Ill., man says he plans to try to establish distance and duration records in a transcontinental hot-air balloon flight in February.

Balloonist Robert Esch, 30, says that if a 20-hour test flight to Ohio on Jan. 19 is successful, he will begin a transcontinental flight with his 100-foot-high craft in late February from Portland, Ore. The hot-air balloon, described as the largest ever constructed, is scheduled to terminate its southeasterly journey near the East Coast within 100 miles of the Atlantic Ocean. The existing distance and duration records for hot-air balloons are 350.75 miles and 18 hours and 56 minutes, respectively. The Double Eagle II, which crossed the Atlantic Ocean last summer, was filled with helium.

Jupiter pictures sent

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Voyager 1 has begun transmitting pictures of Jupiter that a spokesman says makes the huge planet look "like a big Easter egg."

The craft's cameras clicked on Saturday, 37 million miles from the Jovian surface, said Frank Bristow of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, where the pictures are being received. He said "the pictures are just fantastic. Jupiter is a beautiful planet." The craft is scheduled to zoom within 174,000 miles of the surface on March 5. A twin craft — Voyager 2 — will rendezvous with Jupiter sometime in July and conduct similar tests.

Three potential areas of concern

Protect investments

By The Associated Press
Drip, drip, drip.
Lots of things can go wrong with a house and a leaky faucet is only one of the problems you'll probably face sooner or later.
High costs make it more important than ever for homeowners to protect their investments. "Maintenance chores worry or bewilder most new home purchasers," reports the Department of Housing and Urban Development. "Yet systematic attention to the condition of your property and early correction of defects saves both time and money in the long run."

A HUD guide, "Protecting Your Housing Investment," says there are three potential areas of concern: the central utility systems of plumbing, heating, electricity and gas; the structure of the building including the roof, floors, windows and doors; and special problems of pest control, moisture, shrinkage or expansion.

Major structural improvements or repairs in the electrical and plumbing system generally call for the services of an expert. Never try this kind of job unless you are skilled, HUD warns.

There are some things you can do yourself, however. That leaky faucet, for example, may be caused by dirt particles under the valve seat or an improperly sealed valve washer. Either problem is easily corrected. The 32-page HUD guide provides some basic advice for homeowners on maintenance. It is available, at no charge, from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 616G, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.
One way to get protection for your home is with a warranty.

The National Association of Home Builders sponsors one of the most widespread warranty efforts through its HOW program.

The HOW program basically is designed for new homes. A HOW warranty lasts for 10 years; if the house is sold during that period, the warranty goes with it. The builder bears the cost — $2 per $1,000 of the selling price of the house.
During the first year of the warranty, the builder guarantees the house against defects in workmanship, materials and structure.

The guarantee against structural defects continues during the second year. The builder also warrants that the plumbing, heating, cooling and electrical systems will perform according to approved standards.

For the remaining eight years, the owner is insured by HOW's insurance carrier against major structural defects.

Appetite for fossil fuels could change world climate

HOUSTON (AP) — Our voracious appetite for fossil fuels could change the world's climate so drastically an overgrown ocean might one day send waves crashing against the steps of the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C., scientists suggest.
And while some climate researchers described man-made impacts that could raise temperatures, melt polar icecaps and inundate coastal cities, others warned that nature itself is pushing the world slowly but inexorably toward a new ice age.

course of events we would probably sink gradually into the next ice age.
"But," he said, "the advent of man and his proclivity for fossil fuels may alter the picture somewhat."
He said man may force the climate artificially into the other extreme.
The threat is called the "greenhouse effect," a subject of growing debate over the past two decades. Some scientists warn that the atmosphere is being dangerously overloaded with carbon dioxide, an inevitable byproduct of burning oil, coal and natural gas.
Carbon dioxide acts a bit like the glass walls of a greenhouse — it allows sun's heat to reach the earth, then keeps much of it from being reflected back into space.

said that could raise global temperatures an average of more than five degrees (Fahrenheit).
Mercer said that's enough extra heat to melt perhaps 10 percent of the gigantic ice sheets of Antarctica and add incredible amounts of water to the oceans. The last time the ice melted, about 125,000 years ago, sea levels rose at least 12 to 20 feet, he said.
Mercer said that might take a century or more or it might occur catastrophically in a few decades or even years. Revelle said the warming could continue for 1,000 years.

Steven Schneider of the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder, Colo., said studies of the possible consequences of melting icecaps indicate as much as $250 billion worth of property could be lost to the ocean in the United States alone.
He said rising seas might cover one third of Florida and bury large portions of the Texas coast and the southern Atlantic seaboard under water. Up to 15 million people might lose their homes.

The panel outlined some possible weather problems in the world's future at a news conference Sunday during the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.
"We've had 10,000 or 11,000 years of warmth, and judging from the geologic record, we've just about had our ration," said John Mercer of Ohio State University. "In the natural

Arkansas man charged in attempted hijacking

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — William Bruce Johnson, 29, of St. Paul, Ark., was ordered to appear before a federal magistrate today to face charges of attempted air piracy.

Wayne Curto, Continental's operations manager in El Paso said Flight 68 continued east after Johnson was removed.
"He handed a note to one of the attendants saying he wanted to go to Washington to see the president," Curto said. "The pilot turned (the plane) around, went back to the gate, turned the guy over to security personnel and that's all there was to it."

Authorities accused Johnson, unarmed at the time, of trying to hijack a Continental Airlines Boeing 727 Saturday night as it was about to take off for Austin and Houston. The flight had originated in Los Angeles.

An airline official said Johnson boarded the flight in El Paso and was removed after he demanded to be flown to Washington to see President Carter.

The defendant was ordered to stand before U.S. Magistrate Harry Lee Hudspeth for arraignment.
"No weapon was utilized and no weapon was found on Johnson," said FBI Special Agent O. Leon Dobbs.

Bad weather brings out nobility in man

Even under ordinary circumstances, the weather makes for conversation among us mortals. In the recent frigid blast aimed at us by Jack Frost, who can be a very effective field general on occasions, went all out to really give us something about which to talk.

We complain about the treacherous elements. We pray for better weather and we get 'cabin fever' from confinement in one place too long.

IF ICE STORMS like the one we experienced create inconvenience for us, they also serve to bring out the nobility of man.

In such times, a person becomes a little more civil to his neighbor. People who found themselves stranded on the roadways find that other people usually are quick to offer assistance.

Under such circumstances, you are prone to see a good side to people that is otherwise shielded from you. There is no doubt that people like to help other people.

In older times, people used to develop closer bonds of friendship because they were seeking a united front against a common enemy — whether it was the frontier savage or the muscle developed behind the tax assessors of a foreign country.

TODAY, THOSE kinds of threats have diminished if indeed they haven't disappeared altogether and mankind, facing no real threat, gradually drifts apart. If he develops friendship with anyone, it is invariably with someone who lives across town or across the state — someone he doesn't see very often.

There is nothing that would strengthen his ties with his neighbor like a common threat. Havoc developed by a hostile power would do it. Severe weather serves such a purpose if only occasionally.

Nothing would serve to unite all of mankind, no matter how much difference there is in their color or their religion, like an invasion by beings of an alien planet.

We probably need a siege of bad weather occasionally to show us how dependent we are upon our neighbor. It is certainly reassuring to know he's there when we really need him.

Thanks to all

Around the rim

Carla Walker

Friendliness and helpfulness must be an inherent quality among most of the folks around the Big Spring area. Because the newspaper "must be printed anyway," the Herald staff had to brave the icy roads last week to get to work and get to and from our daily beats. I think almost all of us got help at one time or another from somebody.

AS MY RADIALS skated their way to the courthouse early in the week, I was forced to stop for a traffic light at fourth and Scurry, and upon trying to start again, found myself sliding off the more traveled portion of the road.

Since Scurry is a street with many slopes, and both sides of the street slope downward to the outside, I was unable to get any traction to get started back in the right direction. Some guys stopped to push me out and got me partially onto the street. I thanked them, and asked what I owed them, but they just waved and went on. We all thought I was out.

I wasn't. Because I had to yield to traffic, I lost what momentum I had and couldn't get going again. I slid back to near the original spot.

Just as I decided it was hopeless, a young couple stopped, and pushed me to where I could get traction. I asked them what I owed them, and the man said "Nothing, we just paid our debt for when we have to get pushed out."

I did pretty good until the next morning, when I hit a deep rut on the slicked-over ice strip that was once a paved country road leading from my home to Big Spring. I ended up looking enviously at that ice strip from the iced-over bar ditch.

Again, I tried rocking the car to get traction and got out. No luck.

I began looking the bar ditch for a board or rocks — anything to put in front of the tires to get a little traction.

Just as I was about to give up, a lady that I didn't know came out of a house — luckily less than a quarter-mile from the site of my misfortune.

"Don't go anywhere, Carla! They're coming to help you," the lady yelled.

Not knowing who "they" was, I still liked the familiar sound of help on the way. I did wonder who they were and how the lady knew my name. In all the mess, I never found out.

Two men, about the right age to be father and son, came walking down to my poor helpless car and pushed it out. Again, they wouldn't take anything but a thank you.

At lunch that day I found it impossible to get out of my parking space with only the power provided by my motor, futility turning what were once good radial tires on the slick surface.

There were four of us who had gone to eat together, but Marie Homeyer, Theronne Baker and Kay Bradford couldn't push the car out of the spot. Two guys — one on the street and one from the restaurant — came and gave us the additional push needed to get the car back on the traveled thoroughfare.

That time, I guess my manners lapsed. I had grown so accustomed to the folks like the others that all I offered to the ones who helped us was a wave and a sincere thanks. They didn't seem to want more.

It was a few minutes later that I realized that I had taken for granted the help of those guys who were offered with no expectation of payment of any sort. And, although I perhaps should have offered more, I feel pretty confident that, like the majority of the area residents, would have refused payment.

To those who helped me, or those who helped another Herald staffer or any of the rest of the ditch finders, to the police officers, and Texas Department of Public Safety officers who went out of their way to help, on and off duty shifts:

Thanks.

Civil defense snafu

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The anger of White House aides on reading a frontpage story in the Dec. 28 New York Times that President Carter had flipped on civil defense stemmed from a conviction that the president is losing the bureaucratic and propaganda war within his own administration.

The Times story clearly came from within the administration and reflects sentiment in the State Department, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) and even the Pentagon. It reported "growing skepticism" within the administration over the efficacy of civil defense. What made it seem preposterous was Carter's personal approval last October of Presidential Directive 41, asserting for the first time that civil defense must be counted as a factor in the U.S.-Soviet strategic balance.

This new doctrine set off alarm bells in the arms control community, where civil defense is condemned as provocative — an acknowledgement that nuclear war is thinkable. Adherents of the anti-civil defense philosophy set about reversing the presidential decision.

One result was the Dec. 28 account aimed at forcing the president's hand. Getting shot down by propaganda fire from their own bureaucrats is nothing new for presidents, but Jimmy Carter had made an art of being victimized.

FRONT-PAGE STORIES in influential newspapers have undercut Carter and his national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, over U.S. policy toward the shah of Iran — asserting, for example, that the U.S. really opposes the shah. These reports, far from being manufactured, precisely represent important opinions within the high-level bureaucracy — but not the president's.

The reports that Carter has suddenly done an about-face on civil defense (despite last year's exhaustive National Security Council study pointing to a vastly increased program) infuriated not only NSC aides but also White House political operatives. To the former, the leaks were a gambit to win in Carter's bordering on "disinformation"; to the latter, they made Carter look like the shifting tides — in one day, out the next.

Carter himself, moreover, has played into the hands of critics of civil defense by his won public ambivalence. Many newspaper editorials attacked him last fall for approving PD 41 and its prospective seven-year costs of almost $2 billion. Instead of meeting his critics head-on, he flinched, telling his Nov. 30 press conference that "reports about a $2 billion civil defense program have been completely erroneous."

Yet, only two weeks earlier, White House press secretary Jody Powell outlined to newsmen how civil defense spending, now $96.5 million a year, could just about double "over five years." The proposed spending implicit in PD 41 would reach an annual $385 million after five years — an accumulated $2 billion over seven years.

The "$2 billion civil defense program" discussed in the press, followed by editorial attacks on Carter's new doctrine making civil defense part of the strategic balance, frightened the president. Internal opponents, at ACDA and at State, quickly moved in to ridicule the whole idea of civil defense. Shunted aside was the Central Intelligence Agency's estimate that Moscow spends nearly $2 billion every year on plans to evacuate population and other life-saving measures in case of nuclear war.

The new budget, all but ready for wrapping, falls far short of the $140 million civil defense spending originally expected to be approved by Carter. Instead, it is around $110 million — only marginally higher than today's spending rate when inflation is factored in.

Are we becoming the 'bloated' generation?

By Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can you tell me anything about "bloat"? I am 5-foot-4 and weigh 120 pounds. But after I eat my stomach bloating makes me look and feel about 160. I have a lot of gas with it. — S.M.

The key phrase in your letter is "after eat." I'm sure you've heard of air swallowing. You can always look to that first as a cause of bloating. When you eat fast you can take in a great amount of air. It just doesn't disappear but remains in the stomach much like an inflated balloon. Bloating after a meal usually means this.

But if bloating persists for very long, say throughout the day, it means increased gas in the lower digestive tract. Most of the stomach gas is lost through belching. The gas lower down is a result of normal digestion of food, and the quantity and composition of the gas varies with the kinds of food. Distress from fatty food is associated with gall bladder disease in some. But perhaps the biggest offender is carbohydrate food. In some, there may be an enzyme deficiency, for example, those that act on carbohydrates or milk sugar.

But I suspect that if you pay more attention to how you eat you will see some improvement. You can often see a trim young person arise from a hastily devoured meal looking swollen about the upper abdomen. The fast-food emporiums, so popular with young people today, are convenient, but don't lend themselves to leisurely dining. The gulping of high carbohydrate meals in an excitable environment may be causing much bloating in young people. If we don't watch out, we may become the "bloated generation."

Dear Dr. Ruble: What about diet in rheumatoid arthritis? Seems to me my mother was always taking large doses of cod liver oil for hers. It didn't seem to help much. Is this still recommended? — Mrs. T.O.

Some thought at one time that the vitamin D in cod liver oil might be helpful. But it isn't unless a person has a lack of it. Too much might cause calcium deposits in the body because vitamin D has to do with how that mineral is utilized.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I had an eye examination recently and now wear corrective glasses. My eye doctor told me that glasses are merely a tool and are worn for convenience and comfort. He said they allow one to see as clearly as possible, but they do not strengthen your eyes in any way, and that wearing them will not exercise your eyes. I thought that they would exercise your eyes so that possibly in later life you would not need them. What do you say? — G.H.

I agree with your doctor and think he put things well. The lenses are tools of a sort. They allow the light waves from objects to focus properly through your natural lenses and onto the retina. That improves your vision. The shape of your eyeballs before were such that the natural lens could not do that unaided.

The glasses do not strengthen eye muscles, for example. In rare cases, the eyeball shape may change with age and someone who once needed spectacles may not need them or require correction.

Dear Dr. Ruble: How does someone get a hole in the eardrum? Just wondering. — C.P.

I can think of three ways. The commonest is from an infection of the middle ear, which lies just within the drum. With infection, fluid may accumulate and cause rupture of the drum from within. Drainage would result. Poking around in the ear canal to remove wax or relieve an itch is probably the second most common cause of perforation. It is also conceivable that a sharp blow on the head might cause it.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I took birth control pills for five years and stopped a few months ago. I haven't had a period since then. I am 40 years old. Can a woman like me become pregnant without menstruation? — C.R.

Pregnancy can occur in such a situation, so you need some birth control protection if you want to avoid pregnancy. Meanwhile, your period would return after ovulation. It is not unusual for the ovaries to remain suppressed in women like yourself. Menstruation would be a sure sign the ovaries have resumed activity.

Do you often have a "stomach ache"? If so, your stomach may not be the real trouble spot. The booklet, "Stomach and Other Abdominal Pains: A Checklist," tells you why. For a copy, write to Dr. Ruble in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have heard it said that when we die we all become angels in heaven? Is that correct? — J.W.

DEAR J.W.: No, it is not. There will be some similarities, and that is why the Bible says those who go to heaven "are like the angels" (Luke 20:36). One similarity, for example, is that we will not be subject to death when we get to heaven, but will instead live forever, just as the angels do.

It is, of course, hard for us to picture exactly what heaven will be like. Heaven, the Bible tells us, is far greater than we could ever imagine. "No eye has seen, no ear has heard, no mind has conceived what God has prepared for those who love Him" (1 Corinthians 2:9, New International Version).

Heaven will be glorious for several reasons. For one thing, all of the problems and difficulties we face in this life are a result of sin in our world. But in heaven all sin will be banished, and all those problems will be gone forever. Some of the most comforting words in all the Bible are found in Revelation 21:34, (NIV): "And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, 'Now the dwelling of God is with men, and He will live with them. They will be His people, and God Himself will be with them and be their God. He will wipe every tear from their eyes. There will be no more death or mourning or crying or pain, for the old order of things has passed away.'"

It will also be glorious because — as those verses also suggest — we will be with God. Some day we will have complete, unbroken fellowship with Christ. What a wonderful hope!

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

As the initial news source for the follow-up article on the Vernon Dowdy family of Ohio, whose motor home exploded and burned here Monday, I feel a responsibility to clarify a few perhaps minor details. The information was for the most part correct, but incomplete. And unfortunately, it left the impression that the family was destitute, and those who responded to their situation something more than they would like to appear.

It would have made a great Christmas story. There were no Tiny Tims or Mr. Cratchitt. And there certainly was no Scrooge. No tinsel or Christmas lights. But there was a meeting of minds and spirit that could happen, and does happen, at other times of the year, but which is especially heartwarming at Christmas time.

The Dowdy's are typical of many who end up hospitalized far from home, with no place for their family to stay, and no way of transportation. They are people of great dignity who are used to paying their way and taking care of their own. But there comes a time for each of them, and sometimes for us, when they find themselves unable to do for themselves.

It was difficult for these people to accept help from us. When the call from Jerome Gerretzen came to my office expressing concern for the Ohioans, the children were playing back in the emergency waiting room, practicing surgery on one of our Volunteers. Their parents were both being treated for burns on their hands and feet, and Dr. Moore was planning to admit the father to room 415, a large room which would allow the entire family to stay together until something could be worked out in the way of accommodations.

Mr. Gerretzen's concern was prompted mainly because the explosion had happened near the Fiber Glass plant, where he works, and he knew that it was a miracle that any of the family survived. He realized, too, that they would need clothes and they had no way of transportation. The family would need a place to stay, and might need someone to stay with the children if both parents were admitted. He simply asked if it would be alright if he came to see the family.

I have not yet met the man Gerretzen. He came quietly to the hospital, I learned later, on his lunch hour. About an hour after his brief visit with the Dowdys, his wife arrived with her own toddler to deliver some clothes for the still pajama-clad girls. She did not go to the room, but left the clothes with another Volunteer who had since come on shift. She left word that she would call later to see if the clothes fit, and make any exchanges needed.

In the meantime, the first Volunteer who had spent most of the morning with the children in the emergency waiting room, had made arrangements with a local kindergarten to take care of the children for the afternoon. Jack and Jill offered their services free. The children were excited, and clamored for Frances to take them there, but as it turned out, they never made it because the doctor decided that it would be just as well for the family to fly home, if only it could be arranged.

With only three hours to spare, the family wired Akron for the money for air fare and to repay their new friends for the clothing they would need. They themselves made reservations for the 11:45 flight out of Midland. Mr. Dowdy, absolutely "zapped" at the friendliness and genuineness of these people, was very concerned that he not take advantage of them. He considered a charter flight to the Midland airport, as well as the possibility of a car rental, all of which he was prepared to pay for. He insisted on paying for everything, saying that he appreciated so much that these people were making themselves available to do the legwork for them.

He did let "Jerry" take him and the family to the airport, I heard later. When Western Union called me at home at 6:30 p.m. to tell me that the money had finally come in, I called the hospital to ask the supervisor to take the wife down there with some sort of identification so that they could release the money. When I called back a little later, nurses told me that the entire family was on its way to Western Union, but that hospital staff had not been needed after all. The Dowdys had been dismissed, and some local man had picked them up to take them downtown to get the money. He planned to take them to his home to visit until the time arrived to start to the airport.

I heard later that the Dowdys went on the California to spend the holidays with his family, and planned to buy a car there and drive home to Ohio. And I also heard that it was the Gerretzens who picked them up that night.

My concern in setting all this down is toward those here in town who acted with a great deal of thought, yet expected nothing in return. They did their good deeds in an unobtrusive, unsolicitous way that left the Dowdys' dignity completely intact, yet warmed their hearts, too.

My concern goes too, to the Dowdy's who made some good friends here and hope to return some day. I believe they would want to be remembered as people who were down, but not out, thanks to some very thoughtful Big Springers.

Carter, Meany drifting apart

Judging by some of the remarks which have been made for public consumption, it would appear the estrangement between President Jimmy Carter and George Meany of the AFL-CIO is all but complete.

Meany says, in effect, he is dissatisfied with the administration's failure to deliver the goods for labor's cause. He's become increasingly vitriolic in his tirades in recent months.

The crusty old labor leader wants it known he will have nothing to do with Carter's program of voluntary restraints on wages and prices, arguing that it amounts to less than a fair shake for the worker.

The public doesn't seem to get impassioned by either side. In short, most everyone has something else about which to worry.

Shopping with us has always paid off in savings...now it could pay off for you in big cash prizes!

Play Winners' Jackpot Bingo™ and see if you'll be one of the lucky shoppers who'll win one of the Jackpot prizes!

It's the newest, most exciting Bingo game anywhere! And it's easy to play, and easy to qualify for the big Drawing.

Here's all you do...

Just match the number on your Bingo marker to the number on your die-cut card and slip it into the correct position. And when you fill an entire row horizontally, vertically, or diagonally, you win! Get your free Bingo ticket at the check-out lane or service booth each time you come into the store. Each ticket contains 4 markers.

THOUSANDS OF INSTANT $1 WINNERS

WINNERS' JACKPOT BINGO is available only at Safeway Stores, except Wichita Falls, in North Central and North Eastern Texas, Shreveport and Bossier City, La. No purchase required. Participants must be 18 years or older.

The promotion begins on January 4, 1979, and is scheduled to end April 4, 1979. However, it will officially end upon distribution of all game tickets, at which time the promotion termination will be announced. All prizes not claimed within 7 days of this announcement will be forfeited.

ODDS CHART

Odds stated are good for thirty days after promotion begins. Odds will be revised weekly thereafter to indicate prizes still available and will be posted in participating stores. Odds effective January 4, 1979.

Dear Abby

A Misconceived Conception

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have tried for six years to have a child. We've seen many fertility experts, and my husband's urologist now recommends artificial insemination.

We intend to go through with it and have decided to tell absolutely no one, with one exception—my husband's brother, Gene, who was told for a very special reason.

Instead of using sperm obtained at the regular sperm bank, we came up with the idea of using sperm donated by Gene. That way our child will inherit the physical features of my husband's family.

Gene has agreed to cooperate only if his wife approves. Abby, we don't want Gene to tell his wife because we're afraid if she knows that her husband is the biological father of my child it might cause problems later on.

We say it's Gene's sperm and he can do anything he wants with it.

Are we wrong? Or is Gene?

ALL IN THE FAMILY

DEAR ALL: It may be Gene's sperm, but if he wants his wife to know what he's doing with it, it's his right. And unless Gene's wife gives her unconditional approval I advise you to use an unknown donor.

DEAR ABBY: Does a friend have the right to ask for a ride home just when you are getting warmed up at a party? They ask you to drive them to the party and then they spool it for you by cutting it short.

What do you say when you're having a good time and you'd like to stay a little longer?

FLAMENCO

DEAR FLAMENCO: You say, "I'd like to stay a little longer." (P.S. And the next time a friend begs a ride to a party tell that friend to be prepared to stay until you're ready to leave.)

DEAR ABBY: What advice have you for a 23-year-old girl who, everybody says, is pretty and smart, but who lives in a small town with snobbish people who won't let her forget that she lives on the wrong side of the tracks?

ME IN IOWA

DEAR ME: The next time the train comes through—get on it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PART GERMAN SHEPHERD — This beautiful, almost white, part German Shepherd pup was found by the Big Spring Animal Shelter, 911 E. 2nd. He is around 2 years old and if not picked up by Wednesday, he will be destroyed. Don't miss out on the chance to have this sure-to-be fine watch dog and friendly companion.

Procrastination is sign of distress

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Not only is procrastination the thief of time, it's a common symptom among people who find it difficult to cope with anything frustrating or distressing. If you find yourself putting things off continually, January's Seventeen Magazine offers a few ways to overcome this problem:

Analyze your interests honestly. Sometimes procrastination can be rooted in perfectionism over trivial matters. Eliminate the unnecessary jobs — like rewriting your slightly messy French notes — or unrewarding ones — like corresponding with former classmates you'll probably never see again.

Divide tasks into their components. When you find yourself overwhelmed by the size of a job ahead of you — a closet to be cleaned, for instance — break it down to "lower left shelf," "upper right shelf," etc. Then, schedule 30 minutes or an hour a day, a few days a week, to the clean-up. Once you begin working, you'll see you get a lot done in a short period of time.

Work on tasks for five minutes only. Tell yourself you will devote no more than five minutes to a project you've been putting off. Then you either can go on to something else or continue working on that activity. You'll discover that beginning an otherwise intimidating task makes it seem far more manageable.

Reward yourself. Following an unpleasant chore immediately with an activity you enjoy will make that chore seem more tolerable.

Delegate tasks. If you have great resistance to a job, whenever possible, have someone else do it. Pay a friend to walk your dog, for instance, or swap jobs in order to get ones each of you prefers.

Kae Wise chosen Artist of Month

Mrs. Warren (Kae) Wise has recently been named Artist of the Month. She became interested in painting in 1971 while working at Cosden with other women interested in painting. Together, they formed an art class teaching crafts and art techniques. They met several times a month.

Mrs. Wise took art lessons for several years from Myrtle Lee and Virginia Whitten. She has also attended several workshops in this area.

At one time she taught an arts and crafts class at a local school which included a special summer session in the same field.

An athletic scholarship from Arah Phillips at Howard College brought Mrs. Wise to Big Spring from Phillips, Tex. Here she met her husband, a Big Spring native. He is co-owner of Broughton Truck and Implement and has interests in several farms in Howard County.

Other activities occupying Mrs. Wise's time include the Child Study Club and the 1975 Hyperion Club. She is also a volunteer for the Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Singing is another talent of this artist and she is a member of the choir at First Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Wise, who have recently moved to a new home which they had designed and built at 603 Scott, have two daughters, Kristi Kae, a sixth grader at Goliad, and Kappi Leigh, 3. Both girls enjoy painting and coloring and are encouraged by their parents.

Tween 12 and 20 — Tune in parents to radio problem

By Robert Wallace Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 12 and my problem is my 14-year-old sister. We share a room, and when I try to go to bed at night all I hear is her radio which is turned on full blast!

How can I ever get any sleep? What can I do? — Terri, Van Buren, Ark.

Terri: Where are your parents? Next time you are blasted out of your room, bring one of your parents to your room. If this doesn't work (I'm sure it will) maybe the radio can suffer from a mysterious disappearance!

Dr. Wallace: I am 13 and want to be friends with a 19-year-old neighbor boy who is bi-sexual and smokes pot.

My mother thinks this boy is too old to be my friend and that my friends should be my age. I like this boy and want to keep his friendship.

My mother said if you think he should be my friend, she will allow it. — Roberta, Norwalk, Ohio

Roberta: I see nothing wrong with being a friend to a 19-year-old boy but that does not mean spending a great deal of time with him and it does not mean dating him, and it does not mean being around him when he smokes pot, and it does not mean getting into discussions regarding sex, with him!

Dr. Wallace: I'm 5-foot-4

Swimsuits require gentle handling

DALLAS — Minutes of care after each wearing can prolong the just-home-from-the-store shape and color of swimwear, according to an article in Fashion Showcase, a national newspaper for women's apparel buyers.

Swimwear manufacturers, who say chlorine from treated pools fades the color, recommend suits be gently washed by hand in cold water with mild soap, then rinsed accordingly after each wearing in order to prolong the garment's life.

They suggest squeezing, rather than wringing, excess water from the suit. Wringing shortens the fabric's life. The suit should then be placed away from the sun to dry.

Many swimsuits today are made of nylon and spandex — two man-made fibers having specific properties that make them ideal for swimwear, the article says.

Lycra is DuPont's trademark for the elastic textile fiber, spandex, which stretches and snaps back into shape. Although Lycra appears to be a single continuous thread, it really is a bundle of many threads, which are practically invisible.

This form of the fiber also is used in other garments.

Lycra spandex reportedly can replace elastic components of garments, but should be knit or woven with nylon, polyester, acrylic or some other rigid fiber to provide a complete balance of properties in a garment. Swimsuits with Lycra spandex offer figure control without uncomfortable bulk and retain their shape when wet, Du Pont reports.

Cowboys, Steelers set for Super Bowl rematch

Rams shut out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Breunig, the 225-pound middle linebacker for the Dallas Cowboys, readily admits his defensive cohorts played great against the Los Angeles Rams, but he says they'll have to be better in the Super Bowl.

The defending National Football League champions qualified for Super Bowl XIII on Sunday by whipping the Rams 28-0 with four touchdowns in the second half, the first two coming after interceptions by safety Charlie Waters.

The Cowboys will face American Football Conference champion Pittsburgh, a 23-5 winner over Houston Sunday, at Miami on Jan. 21.

"The defense did it," said quarterback Roger Staubach, who threw two touchdown passes. "Their defense did an excellent job and so did ours."

"It was a good, alert, tough and aggressive game by our defense," said Breunig, an All-America from Arizona State. "I think it was our best defensive effort of the season."

"They didn't do anything we hadn't expected. Los Angeles has been that way. Pittsburgh is kind of that way and Pittsburgh is awesome. We'll have to put up at least the same defense performance and more to play with the Steelers."

Dallas put a tremendous pass rush on Rams' quarterback Pat Haden, who left the game late in the third quarter with a broken right thumb.

He was hurt when hit by defensive tackle Randy White, who had put fullback John Cappelletti out of the game in the first quarter with a shoulder injury.

"Our pass rush was just individual effort by our defensive line," Breunig said. "It was timing. We did gamble some with safety blitzes and sometimes they worked and sometimes they didn't."

The halftime score was 0-0, a tribute to the defenses.

Then, early in the third period, Charlie Waters picked off a Haden pass at the Rams' 30 and returned to the 9. Aided by a penalty, the Cowboys scored in five plays, Tony Dorsett circling right end from four yards out for the score.

Later in the period, on the play in which Haden was injured, Waters intercepted at the Los Angeles 49 and returned 29 yards to the 20. A Staubach-to-Preston Pearson pass gained 17 and the touchdown came on a 4-yard pass from Staubach to fullback Scott Laidlaw.

Then the Rams seemed to come alive with a 65-yard pass play from Vince Ferragamo to Willie Miller carrying to the Dallas 10. On the next play, however, Cullen Bryant fumbled and Harvey Martin recovered for the Cowboys.

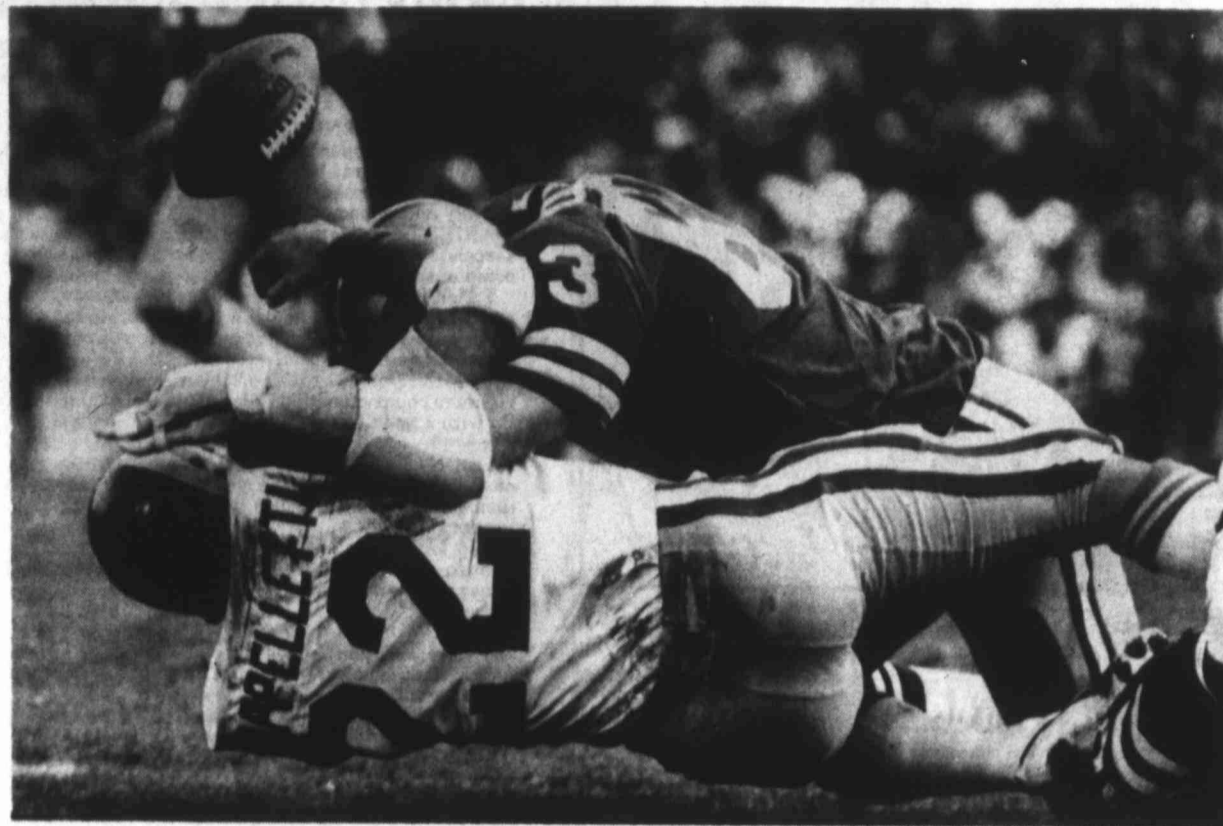

Dorsett promptly broke loose for 53 yards and six plays later Staubach found Billy Joe DuPree with an 11-yard touchdown pass.

The Cowboys' final touchdown came on a 68-yard return of an intercepted pass by Thomas Henderson.

All told, the Rams had seven turnovers, five on pass interceptions and two on fumbles and the Cowboys scored following four of them.

Coach Tom Landry, aiming for a second straight Super Bowl title, commented, "I was a little anxious after the first half. I thought turnovers would make the difference and that someone would take charge in the third quarter. It was a great defensive battle."

"Defense sparked the game. Charlie Waters reflected our defense. He was that good. We had the good rush and intensity. I thought the receivers were open on each play."

FUMBLE BY CAPPALLETTI — John Cappelletti of the Los Angeles Rams loses the ball as he is brought down by Larry Cole of the Dallas Cowboys in the first quarter of Sunday's NFC championship game in Los Angeles. The Cowboys recovered the fumble.

Barber calls Wagner 'cheap shot'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — He later got tight-lipped, but Houston Oilers tight end Mike Wagner made some angry threats after being cut down by a knee injury in a playoff loss to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The target of the threats, made on the field and in the locker room, was the man who hit him, Steelers safety

Mike Wagner. "I'm gonna get him ... He won't play in the Super Bowl," Barber yelled as he limped into the Oilers' locker room.

"What's he gonna do, wait for me in the driveway?" Wagner calmly responded later after saying the hit was done only in self-protection and purely part of the game.

The threat wasn't made personally to Wagner. Barber shouted it to Steeler captain Joe Greene, who was outside the Oilers' locker room offering handshakes after Houston's 34-5 loss here Sunday in the American Football Conference title game.

Barber was so angry he mistakenly referred to Wagner as "Webster."

"You tell that Webster that he's a cheap shot ...," said Barber, continuing the sentence with a string of unprintables.

"I'm gonna get him," he told Greene.

Barber was hurt on the first play of the second quarter on a long, incomplete pass over the middle. He and Wagner both raced for the ball. It sailed over Barber's head, then Wagner lowered his shoulder and chopped Barber down at the knee.

Barber did not return to the game.

"I'll get him back," Barber repeated inside the Oilers' locker room. "And when I do, he won't play a game again."

About a half hour later, Barber was approached again by other reporters.

"I don't want to say anything," he said. "I'm so filled with anger right now that anything I say wouldn't be the real me. I just don't want to say anything."

After he was helped off the field, Barber pointed a finger at Wagner and yelled at him. He also yelled at him several times during the game.

Cougars sick of miracles

By The Associated Press

The Houston Cougars have seen just about all the miracles they can stand.

A week ago in the Cotton Bowl Notre Dame stormed from behind 34-12 to nip the Cougar football team 35-34 in the Cotton Bowl.

And Saturday night, trailing 21 points in the first half, Arkansas rallied for an incredible 62-61 victory over Houston in a Southwest Conference basketball opener for both teams.

Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton said "I don't believe I've had such a great thrill. I've coached a long time and don't believe I ever had a team give 49 points in the first half before. And I told them about it at halftime."

"In the last half, I don't believe I ever had a team perform better. This is how championships are won. We told the kids to be patient and to play hard. They did that and came back."

But it wasn't a "kid" who led Arkansas back. It was salty senior Sidney Moncrief who scored 25 points, including 11 straight free throws, and pulled down 13 rebounds. He scored five points in the last 41 seconds.

Arkansas scored 19 straight second half points. And center Steve Shall hit eight of nine shots from the field and scored 14 of his 16 points in the second half.

Austin is giant-killer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teenager Tracy Austin doesn't look like a giant killer on the tennis court — she just plays like one.

The 16-year-old Austin, who turned pro only last October, easily outplayed top-seeded Martina Navratilova 6-3, 6-2 Sunday to win the $125,000 Washington tournament, first of 11 on the women's indoor tennis circuit.

"Tracy kind of hits the ball the same," said Navratilova, winner of the tournaments here in 1975, 1977 and 1978.

"She doesn't change the pace too much. Once in a while, she may hit a slow standings.

The Texas Aggies get into the fray tonight by hosting Baylor while Texas is at Houston and SMU is at Rice.

Texas Tech ripped Texas 92-74 Saturday while Baylor downed Rice 64-52. The TCU-SMU game was postponed.

Paced by three recruits of Coach Gerald Myers, the Red Raiders crushed Texas.

one. But she puts top spin on everything. And generally she keeps the ball in play."

Austin, who earned $24,000 for winning, controlled the match completely, breaking once in the first set and once in the second. Hitting primarily to Navratilova's backhand, she never permitted Navratilova to get into the match.

Austin, the No. 2 seed, said merely, "I just played my game."

"She's like Chris," Navratilova said, comparing Austin to star Chris Evert. "She's not going to have a bad day. She's consistent."

The Red Raiders shot a sizzling 62 per cent for the game to scorch the Longhorns.

Myers said "I think we played the best 40 minutes that we've played this season. We've had a bunch of great halves, but today's game was the best we've played in both halves of any game."

Texas Coach Abe Lemons concurred, saying "they have the best young talent I've seen ... they are hungry, good players ... the best group of players I've seen together in a long time. They did a great recruiting job."

HOUSTON (AP) — More than 40,000 cheering fans greeted the Houston Oilers football team Sunday night, despite the fact the Oilers had just returned from a one-sided loss to the Pittsburgh Steelers in the American Football Conference championship game.

"I really can't believe it," said tackle Greg Sampson as he entered the Astrodome where the crowd had gathered, responding to a local radio station's call for a pep rally for the Oilers when they return whether they win or not.

Actually the crowd had been waiting for two and a half hours in the domed stadium, because the Oilers' flight back to Texas was delayed.

"Looking at this crowd I feel like we just won the Super Bowl," said quarterback Dan Pastorini.

Coach Bum Phillips had tears in his eyes.

Tight end Mike Barber, who suffered a knee injury in the game in Pittsburgh, addressed the crowd on crutches and promised to return to the playoffs next year. "We're going to win this for all you good people out there," he said.

Oilers drowned

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The field got wet, and it got wetter. The ball got slick, and it got slicker.

"We got behind — and we got behind," Coach Bum Phillips said Sunday after his Houston Oilers lost 34-5 to the Pittsburgh Steelers in an American Football Conference title game marked by continuous, cold rain and torrential turnovers.

There were 12 fumbles, six by each side. That's more than any two teams have ever had in an AFC or an NFC championship game, before or after the merger.

Yet the Steelers are bound for a Jan. 21 Super Bowl rematch with the Dallas Cowboys because the water, the Oilers and an intestinal virus failed to stop Terry Bradshaw, who fittingly spent the days before the game on a liquid diet.

Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini, who again wore a flak jacket to protect his cracked ribs, might have worn a life jacket. He threw five interceptions and was sacked four times.

"Pittsburgh beat us, not the weather," Pastorini said.

Houston, a wild-card playoff entry after finishing runnerup to Pittsburgh in the AFC Central, ran rookie sledgehammer Earl Campbell off the right side to open the game.

Linebacker Jack Ham slammed Campbell for a 3-yard loss, and right tight end Joe Greene smiled inside.

"That's been a big play for Houston all season. When Jack stopped it like that, I thought, 'Well, this is the way the game is gonna be,'" said Greene.

"Once I went out to warm up I got so pumped up you never would have known I was sick," said Bradshaw, who fired two touchdown passes in a 17-point outburst in the last 52 seconds of the first half that gave the Steelers a 31-3 intermission lead.

"The field was a mess, and the ball was totally saturated. I guess I just got real lucky," said Bradshaw, who hit 11 of 19 passes for 200 yards to raise his career postseason passing total to 2,432 yards, an NFL record. The old mark of 2,398 was held by Ken Stabler of Oakland.

Campbell later lost a fumble that set up a 15-yard touchdown run by Rocky Bleier that put Pittsburgh on top 14-0 with 1:09 left in the first quarter.

"All my life I've tried to be a champion, but today it wasn't to be," said Campbell, who recovered two more of his own fumbles while netting 62 yards on 22 rushes.

BRIEFCAST FOR TUESDAY, JAN. 9, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your reasoning processes are an opportunity now for much logical and helpful standpoints by which you can add to your present success and extend your influence into more worldly and public channels.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Have little talks with associates and improve mutual business dealings. Give compliments where deserved and gain goodwill.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put new ideas to work and you can soon command a far greater abundance. Some property matter that is puzzling to you should be discussed with an expert.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get your personal living more compact and don't leave loose ends dangling. Be with a good friend during spare time and feel happier.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study your most important goals and know how to better achieve them. Have conversations with partners for best results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Cultivate good friends you want to see a good deal of in the future. Accept invitations that are worthwhile and pleasurable. Be careful in motion.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try to please higher-ups more and you gain a good deal now. Get your career working more efficiently during the day and have credit matters in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have a new interest now that could work very much to your benefit. Planning that trip for the near future is wise now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan how to handle responsibilities in the future more speedily and profitably. Don't become so busy that you neglect loved ones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Contact associates early with whom you have had a difference of opinion and come to a better understanding. Do outside work that improves your image.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find a more up-to-date system by which to handle your obligations more successfully. Get duties better organized with those of co-workers, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have good creative ideas and should do something about them. Much progress can be made today. Evening is fine for entertainment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you plan them early, you can make the conditions at home much better. Study a new interest and gather all the information you can about it.

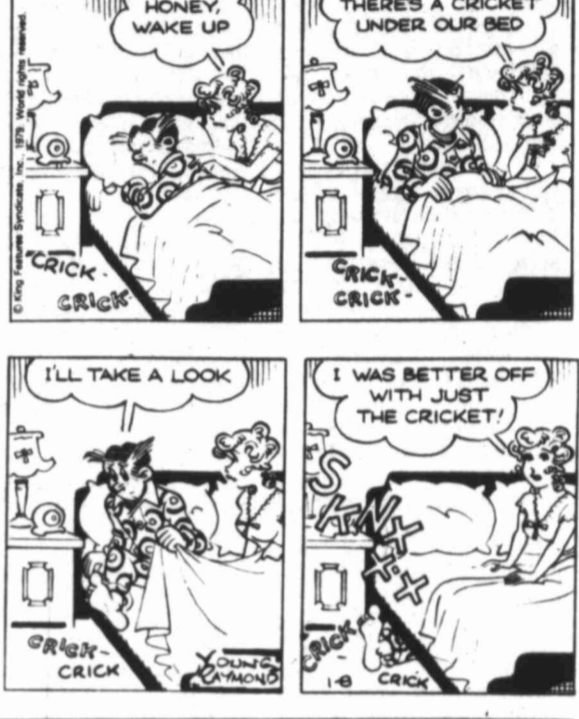

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be able to study conditions and projects and know how to improve them considerably. Provide as fine an education as you can, since the inventiveness here is remarkable and much success is possible during the lifetime.

Long Beach State feuded twice

By The Associated Press
 Tex Winter had a bad weekend in Raleigh, N.C. First he was upset. Then he was embarrassed.

The coach of the 15th-ranked Long Beach State basketball team was simmering Friday night after an offensive foul called against his team in the closing seconds resulted in a 79-78 loss to No. 5 Duke.

Then Saturday night, he was just plain humble after a 100-73 pasting by No. 8 North Carolina State.

"North Carolina State is the best basketball team we've played to date," Winter said. "They are especially tough on their home court. They do so many things well. They're maybe not as physical as Duke, but they're quicker."

The 49ers won nine straight games before losing their first two of the season in Raleigh.

Duke won the other half of Saturday night's doubleheader at the Wolfpack's arena, beating Tulane 74-64.

Three Top Twenty teams were upset in weekend action — No. 13 Michigan losing to Iowa 85-79; No. 18 Mississippi State suffering a 69-67 defeat at the hands of Georgia, and No. 20 Maryland dropping a 66-60 decision to Wake Forest.

Elsewhere, top-ranked Michigan State defeated Minnesota 69-62; No. 2 Notre Dame stopped Villanova 75-64; No. 3 North Carolina tripped Virginia 86-74 in two overtimes; No. 4 Illinois swept past Northwestern 74-56; No. 6 UCLA whipped Rutgers 78-57; No. 7 Louisiana State trimmed No. 9 Kentucky 93-89; No. 11 Indiana State beat West Texas State 98-77; No. 12 Georgetown hammered Samford 73-50; No. 14 Arkansas nipped Houston 62-61, and No. 16 Louisville turned back Southwestern Louisiana 73-60.

Kendal Pinder and Clyde Austin combined for 38 points to lead North Carolina State's attack against Long Beach State. The Wolfpack held a 54-39 halftime lead.

Mike Gminski and Gene Banks each scored 22 points to lead Duke past Tulane.

Ronnie Lester scored 29 points, including six straight free throws in the final 90 seconds, to lead Iowa's upset of Michigan. Mark Stonaker's controversial tip-in at the last second led Georgia over Mississippi State. Mississippi State claimed the shot came after time ran out.

Frank Johnson and Mark Dale combined for 41 points to help Wake Forest upset

Maryland, ending an eight-game win streak for the Terps.

Ron Charles scored 19 points to lead Michigan State over Minnesota. The Spartans came back from a 13-point deficit behind their leading man, outscoring the Gophers 27-8 at one stretch in the second half.

Kelly Tripucka scored 26 points to lead Notre Dame past Villanova. Mike O'Koren's 22 points helped North Carolina beat Virginia. The regulation game was tied at 62-62 and the first overtime at 69-69 before the Tar Heels outscored their Atlantic Coast Conference colleagues 11-1 over the final 2:11 to record their 10th victory in 11 games.

BASKET COLLISION — University of Arkansas' Keith Peterson (42) and University of Houston's Marshall Sauls (50) tumble to the floor Saturday night at Houston. Peterson on a fast break drive went up for the layup and was met under the basket by Sauls trying to break up the basket during the first period of the Southwest Conference game.

Horner may be Brave

ATLANTA (AP) — Bucky Woy, the agent for Bob Horner in his negotiations with the Atlanta Braves, told the Atlanta Journal-Constitution Sunday that the National League club has moved closer to signing the 1978 Rookie of the Year.

Woy met with Braves' General Manager Bill Lucas in Dallas last Friday, and said afterwards, "I'm really pleased. Maybe we're not too far from signing."

The newspaper said both Woy and Lucas indicated a contract could be signed this week.

"The meeting was a good one," said Lucas. "We made a lot of progress. I expect we'll be able to get something signed soon."

Last November, Woy asked for a three-year, $1 million contract for his client, who went straight from the Arizona State campus into major league baseball to hit 23 home runs for the Braves in 89 games last summer.

At that time, the Braves were offering a one-year contract for $100,000, including incentive bonuses.

ETS has shot at title

By The Associated Press
 East Texas State coach Jim Gudger has his Lions well trained for a shot at their third straight Lone Star Conference championship.

The Lions have won eight consecutive games, the latest a 74-63 conquest of Southwestern University, and own a 9-2 record with conference play beginning this week for all eight clubs.

Jeff Granger, the Lions' brilliant shooter with 64 per cent field goal accuracy, pitched in 18 points and transfer guard Tim Goski added 15 points in the win over Southwestern University.

While Howard Payne (8-3), Texas A&I (5-2) and Southwestern Texas State (5-4) were resting, Angelo State lost a pair in the Ed Adams Classic at Houston, but rebounded Saturday to whip Eastern New Mexico, 66-56.

Sam Houston State snapped a nine-game losing streak by nipping Texas Lutheran, 71-70, on Donnie Haywood's drive with 0:04 remaining. The Bearkats then lost again to St. Mary's University, 83-71.

Stephen F. Austin State lost twice in the Southern Arkansas Classic, first to Ouachita Baptist, 75-64, and then to Southern Arkansas, 83-55.

END OF THE GAME FOR HADEN — Quarterback Pat Haden looked like this as he lay on the field after injuring his thumb in the NFC championship game Sunday in Los Angeles. It was the end of the game for Haden, who suffered a compound fracture. The Cowboys won, 28-0.

Season off and running

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The 1979 indoor track and field season and the long countdown to the 1980 Olympic Games began with a pair of world indoor records. There probably will be many more in the next 18 months.

John Walker of New Zealand came back successfully from nearly a year's absence from track to set a new standard in the 1,500 meters with a clocking of 3 minutes, 37.4 seconds at the second Muhammad Ali Invitational Meet Saturday night.

Walker, who has had two leg operations, broke the record of 3:37.8 set by Harald Norpoth of West Germany in 1971.

Herman Frazier of the Philadelphia Pioneer Club set a world record for the second straight year in the 500 meters at the Ali meet. His time of 1:01.2 was a 10th of a second better than his effort last year.

There's a good possibility that neither mark will be accepted as official world records because the eight-lap track used at the Long Beach Arena has no curb. But that didn't dim Walker's feelings.

"I couldn't be more pleased at coming here and not only winning but going home with a world record," said Walker, who had not raced since last February. "I knew I was in good shape, but you never know until you get in a race what you can do."

Loughery returns, behaves himself

By The Associated Press
 Technically speaking, the "new" Kevin Loughery is doing fine.

Loughery, the 38-year-old coach of the New Jersey Nets, was on his best behavior Sunday night when he returned from a three-game suspension and guided the Nets, behind 41 points by Bernard King, to a 117-112 National Basketball Association victory over the Phoenix Suns.

Loughery never came close to adding to his league-leading total of 26 technical fouls as he kept his comments to the officials to a minimum. The normally demonstrative coach had been suspended three games and fined $1,000 for bumping referees Don Murphy and Mike Mathis on Dec. 29.

In other NBA games, the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Golden State Warriors 112-100 and the Indiana Pacers defeated the Atlanta Hawks 112-97.

The Suns led 61-49 at halftime but New Jersey moved ahead with a 38-point third period. The game was tight until King got six points as the Nets outscored Phoenix 15-6 late in the fourth quarter to open a 110-102 lead.

John Williamson added 29 points for New Jersey while Alvan Adams had 32 and Walter Davis 30 for Phoenix.

Loughery confirmed reports that he had offered to resign during his suspension because he felt he was hurting the team. Principal owner Joseph Taub met with Loughery and gave him a full vote of confidence.

Cavaliers 112, Warriors 108

Cleveland took a 95-74 lead over Golden State into the final period, then saw the Warriors surge to within three points behind rookies Wayne Cooper and Ray Townsend before sealing its third straight victory and 10th in the last 14 games.

Campy Russell scored 23 points and Austin Carr added 21 for Cleveland, while rookie Purvis Short had 20 for the Warriors, who saw a four-game winning streak come to an end.

"If we'd have played 48 minutes the way we played the first 36, we'd have beaten anybody in the world," said Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch.

Pacers 112, Hawks 97

Guard Johnny Davis scored 25 points as Indiana breezed to its third victory in the last four games, moving out to a 56-39 halftime lead and then coasting home.

Bodies of suicide victims remain in airplane hangar

DOVER, Del. (AP) — The bodies of 631 persons who died in the Peoples Temple mass murder-suicide are stacked in government-purchased coffins in an aging, freezing airplane hangar, their final resting places uncertain.

The federal government apparently has no plans to move from Dover Air Force Base the victims of the Nov. 18 incident at the jungle colony in Jonestown, Guyana.

"It looks like no one wants to do anything," said Charles Wyman, a State Department attorney assigned here. "I was told in no uncertain terms that the government has neither the authority nor the funds to release the bodies."

Wyman said many relatives have told the State Department they cannot afford to transport and bury or cremate the bodies. Many apparently are waiting for the government or some charitable group to pay the costs, he said.

Next of kin have been notified of the deaths of 635 positively identified victims, but 353 of those bodies remained unclaimed Sunday night. There also were 278 unidentified bodies.

Wyman said Air Force

UNCERTAIN FUTURE FOR JONESTOWN DEAD — The bodies of Jonestown, Guyana, victims, including that of the Rev. Jim Jones, left, are stacked for loading aboard U.S. aircraft last November in Georgetown, Guyana, awaiting shipment back to the United States. More than six weeks after the Peoples Temple death ritual, more than 600 bodies remain stacked in a Dover, Del., air force base hangar awaiting plans for their fate.

pathologists in Washington are still trying to name the unidentified corpses, but the pace has slowed considerably. Only two have been identified since Dec. 19.

All 913 of the bodies were fingerprinted before being placed in sealed coffins, but Wyman said the Air Force has had trouble locating fingerprint records for many victims, particularly children.

The U.S. military flew the bodies here from Jonestown, to pacify local officials in Guyana, Wyman said.

But bringing the bodies here upset some Delaware officials.

Gov. Pierre S. du Pont IV asked President Carter last month to have the military fly the bodies to San Francisco, where the Rev. Jim Jones' cult began and where many of the relatives live. Carter has not responded, said du Pont news secretary Frederick Stern.

Both du Pont and Dover Mayor Charles A. Legates Jr. have insisted no mass burial be made near Dover, fearing the site would become a cult shrine.

Delaware has allowed local morticians to transport the bodies out of state but has prevented local burial or cremation by requiring death certificates, which had to be issued in Guyana.

Wyman said the first 599 death certificates arrived in Washington Thursday, but Battle R. Robinson, assistant counsel to du Pont, said other Delaware laws could prohibit a mass cremation here.

Mrs. Robinson said Delaware requires a cremation certificate signed by a physician or coroner stating there is no reason not to destroy a particular body.

and she said the Jonestown bodies may be needed because of lingering questions about the cause of death.

Jones' body was cremated in New Jersey last month to avoid Delaware's legal problems, but Thomas Cannon of the New Jersey attorney general's office said it apparently was illegal because Delaware morticians cannot work in New Jersey.

Cannon said no other cremations of Jonestown bodies will be allowed in New Jersey until the state Board of Mortuary Science meets Tuesday in Newark to discuss the situation.

Their power is growing

The dissident teamsters

DETROIT (AP) — At a Teamsters union banquet, a man walks up to attorney Ann Curry Thompson, douses her with motor oil, hits her on the head with an empty bottle and strolls away. Her clients include a group of insurgents called Teamsters for a Democratic Union.

When Jean Clark runs for union office in Detroit, the incumbent asks her to pull out. She refuses. The next day, her employer tells her there is no more overtime for her. Then, a Teamster business agent tells her she must resign as union steward. Again she refuses.

She is running on the TDU slate.

Teamster officials deny the union had anything to do with those incidents, but TDU organizer Ken Paff claims they reflect the growing concern of entrenched Teamster officials about his small group, which is pledged to turn the hierarchy out.

"Our job is to get the silent majority," says Paff. "We want to give the union back to the members."

The dissidents say their power is growing. They claim only 3,500 active members among the more than 2 million Teamsters.

But last year, dissidents in Flint, Mich., including several TDU candidates, swept incumbents out of office at 4,000-member Local 332 in all of Michigan, where there are 100,000 Teamsters.

Last year, in Oklahoma

City, four of seven TDU candidates won; and in Vancouver, British Columbia, three of five insurgents won and then promptly joined the TDU.

Hustle 3

One basic reason

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President,
Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce
Industrial Growth and Development

What Does The Chamber Do? If I had a dollar for everytime I've been asked that question these past few years, I could probably keep up with inflation.

In spite of all the good coverage our local news media gives to Chamber activities, there are too many people (including some of our own members) who have no more idea of the complexities of a Chamber of Commerce than they have about how one would fly to the moon. Many old popular misconceptions still prevail; for example:

There are those who believe the Chamber merely gathers statistics about the community and prints attractive brochures bragging about what a great place our Big Spring Area really is. Well, we do this and we do it with pride and skill . . . as a matter of fact, we answer literally thousands of inquiries each year about Big Spring and Howard County. But, this is such a routine part of our daily operation, we sometimes forget its value.

Then there are those who believe the Chamber is a group of business people trying to wield power and prestige for their own "selfish gain." Such might have been the case in some limited degree in the past, but essentially it's really an impractical conclusion. And the reason is that the interests of different businesses vary considerably. What might be desirable for a doctor may be contrary to what a retailer or a manufacturer might believe to be in their best interest. The proverbial "butcher, baker and candlestick maker" are often at odds with one another. If you doubt that, just take a look at some of the proposed legislation that our senators and representatives introduce each year.

But, there is a common ground that enables the Chamber to bring everyone together for the express purpose of improving our quality of life and enhancing our economic base. Your Chamber is the catalyst that works for the good of the entire community — even for the good of our detractors and, unfortunately, we have too many of those.

Actually, there is only ONE BASIC REASON for the Chamber to exist. And that is to insure that our community continues in a quality growth that enables it "to be a better place to live and earn a living". In this endeavor, we are striving to do whatever is necessary to keep the economic conditions in our area such that people will be willing to risk their time, talent and "tender" in the hope of making a profit here.

In this task, we are competing with not just the other cities in our West Texas Area, but in fact, the entire country. So often people forget that it's from the profitable operation of business, industry and commerce that all other benefits are derived. Only if we are successful in these endeavors can we provide jobs and earn the money to finance the governmental, cultural and charitable needs of our community, state and nation.

One of our main objectives is to retain the employment opportunities we now have. It's not as glamorous as getting new industries, but it pays even better community dividends in the long run.

The efforts of our many committees are not to glorify the chairman and Chamber members who work to accomplish the tasks and goals of the Program of Action. Their efforts are directed solely at community improvement and enhancement of the quality of life of all our citizens.

In the final analysis, business decisions are made on pretty much the same basis as personal decisions. If you are entering the job market, you'll normally take the job which provides the best working conditions, the best financial security, and where you think you and your family will be happiest.

So too, will business and industry locate in a community that offers the best opportunity for making a profit and where their employees can best enjoy the "good life". The Chamber of Commerce tries to make the Big Spring Area just that kind of a community.

Conversely . . . if you reach a point where you simply can't make ends meet or where working conditions become intolerable, you'll usually try to find another job where you can make more money and your efforts are more fully appreciated and your personal goals more attainable. If business or industry reaches the point where it can not make a profit or where labor difficulties are magnified or the attitude of state and local government is punitive, it too will search for and find a new location.

We are trying to prevent this from happening.

The voluntary support of some businesses, professional people, industrial firms and individual citizens who understand the magnitude of our task, the wide variety of our problems and the far reaching consequences of our efforts, make our continuing program possible. There are several hundred others who could lend their shoulder to our "community wheel". Right now — they're getting a free ride.

Next time some one asks you "What do they do at the Chamber?" Tell 'em, will you?

And perhaps we can get everyone to HUSTLE!!!! HUSTLE!!!! HUSTLE!!!!
