COMMUTER'S DILEMMA — Hundreds of Chicago commuters line up to board surface buses of the Chicago Transit Authority Wednesday afternoon. A derailment of a subway train forced downtown homeward bound passengers to seek the surface transportation.

Iranian government seeks peace with worst 'enemy'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The new Iranian government sent an envoy today to seek peace with Ayatollah Khomeini, its most dangerous enemy, but aides to the Moslem holy man said he would not negotiate with the emissary and he rejects President Carter's call to give the new government a chance.

Clashes between demonstrators and soldiers loyal to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi continued for a second day today, and six to 20 persons were reportedly killed. Workers and farmers reportedly were trying to seize property of the royal family in the provinces.

Sources here said Jalal Tehrani, head of the Regency Council standing in for the shah during his forced vacation abroad, was dispatched to meet on Friday in Paris with Khomeini. The 78-year-old Shiite patriarch lives in exile outside Paris and heads the opposition to the shah and the government he left behind him.

In France the ayatollah's top aide, Ibrahim Yazdi, said Khomeini would not receive Tehrani "unless he has some other thing on his mind" than a discussion of a reconciliation with the new government of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar. Yazdi said such talks were "out of the question."

Military sources said troops opened fire on anti-shah demonstrators in Dezfoul, 60 miles north of the oil city of Ahwaz. They reported six persons killed and more than a dozen wounded, but other sources reported 20 killed.

Thirty persons were reported killed Wednesday in Ahwaz when loyalist troops fired on tens of thousands of demonstrators jubilant over the shah's departure from Iran Tuesday. More violence was feared Friday, when the religious leader heading the opposition to the shah, Ayatollah Khomeini, has called for peaceful demonstrations in honor of the 7th century founder of the Shiite Moslem sect.

Army sources also reported that Kurdish tribesmen attacked an army post at Gourish, on the Iraqi border, killed two of the post's five soldiers and wounded two, then surrounded the post. The shah supported the Kurds in their rebellion against the government of Iraq until 1974, when he and the radical Iraqis patched up their differences.

No easing of Iran's political and economic crisis appeared in sight despite an appeal from President Carter to Khomeini to give Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar's government a chance.

Carter, speaking at a news conference in Washington Wednesday, said he hoped the religious leader would "permit the government that has now been established by the legal authorities in Iran and under the constitution to have a chance to succeed."

There was no immediate response from the 78-year-old Shiite patriarch at his home-in-exile outside Paris. But there was no expectation in Tehran that he would retreat from his announced goals of an Islamic republic in Iran with a government controlled by him.

Khomeini, who has repeatedly called Bakhtiar's government illegal because it was named by the shah and confirmed by the shah's Parliament, said Wednesday he was continuing to put together a provisional government and it would begin work soon on a new republican constitution for Iran.

Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, one of Khomeini's chief aides, said he hoped the government lineup could be announced by Friday. Meanwhile, Khomeini called on the Iranian people to continue the strikes and street demonstrations that forced the shah to leave the country. Power station workers blacked out Tehran for five hours.

Thirty local policemen shun proposed overtime compromise

More than 30 Big Spring Police men disregarded a proposed compromise in their impending suit against the city, and signed contracts with Austin attorney Dewey Hicks, Wednesday night.

In a memo to all officers dated Wednesday, Chief Stanley Bogard proposed that "everyone that has comp time on the books since January 1, 1977, and if the Council goes on my recommendation, I will be able to make a settlement with you starting about 10 a.m., Thursday."

Bogard did make that suggestion in a closed session between city officials, city council members, local attorney John Burgess and City Attorney Elliot Mitchell, at 9 a.m. today.

"The suggestion was made, and discussed. But we are under the instructions of our lawyers not to comment," said City Manager Harry Nagel.

Actions taken by the city may have been anticlimactic anyway. According to Joe Gilbreath, Austin attorney representing the International Brotherhood of Police Officers, "the chief's statement was discussed, but it was not considered as an alternative. No one was interested in pursuing it."

Consequently, Wednesday night, over 30 officers signed contracts with Austin attorney Dewey Hicks to represent them in a suit against the city which may be filed next week, according to Gilbreath.

"We met and tried to decide what to do anticipating the closed meeting this morning. The men decided to live up to their obligation to the lawyer (Hicks) who came down last week," said Bilbreath.

He added that he had 30 contracts between police and Hicks in his possession, and that he believed several others had been signed by officers "in the field."

Bogard, meanwhile, has put restrictions on the overtime procedures in the department. No overtime is to be worked, or comp time given without his approval, he said.

Worker receives fractured pelvis in fall from beam

Barry Dykrsta, 23, construction worker from Levelland, fell approximately 30 feet from a beam at the site of the new hangar at the Big Spring Industrial Park.

Dykrsta, an employee of PreFab Construction, of Levelland which is building the hangar, is listed in good condition at Malone-Hogan hospital today with a fractured pelvis.

The accident occurred shortly after noon when the wind blew a beam on which Dykrsta was reportedly standing. It was first thought he might have other fractured bones and a head injury, but the one fracture and bruises are the only injuries sustained by Dykrsta, who was knocked unconscious by the fall.

Carter outlines budget

CETA program to be cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's proposed "austere" budget for 1980 would eliminate 158,000 public jobs and cut the government's giant CETA employment and training program by $700 million.

The budget also would eliminate 250,000 federally subsidized summer jobs for underprivileged young people, The Associated Press has learned.

However, administration sources said proposed cuts in the federal jobs program would be offset by a new tax credit designed to encourage private business to hire poor, young and chronically unemployed adults.

The AP obtained details of the budget Wednesday as Carter declared that he has "more than met" his goal of holding the 1980 budget deficit below $30 billion, while still increasing spending for defense and providing an additional $4.5 billion for the poor.

It was learned that the budget Carter will send Congress Monday for the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1 will total $532 billion with a deficit of $29 billion.

Spending in the 1979 budget year is estimated at $493 billion, with a projected deficit of $40 billion.

"The budget commitment will be to control inflation," Carter said Wednesday at a news conference. "It will be very austere, stringent, tough fiscal policy, but fair to the American people and oriented to help those who are most disadvantaged to have a better quality of life.

"We have not neglected the needs of disadvantaged Americans, poor Americans or those who are unemployed," said Carter. To prove his point, he said total allocation of funds for the poor will be increased by $4.5 billion, but he did not say how the money would be spent or whether the increase is sufficient to offset inflation.

On other subjects at his news conference, Carter:

—Said he is confident the people of Iran can restore stability to their nation and he supports the new administration of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar. Carter said he does not know how long the Shah of Iran would be away from the country, and warned that an extended interruption in Iranian oil production "would create increasingly scarce supplies on the world market."

—Defended his firing of former Rep. Bella Abzug as co-leader of his women's advisory committee, saying he acted because the panel was poorly run, not because of the committee's criticism of his policies.

—Said the Chinese government refused to pledge publicly to resolve its differences peacefully with Taiwan, but the Chinese stated they "expect" a resolution can be reached without violence.

—Defended as "a fair and proper thing" his inviting former President Richard M. Nixon to the White House Jan. 29 for a state dinner in honor of Teng Hsiao-ping, deputy vice premier of China.

—Denied that the strategic arms limitation treaty now under negotiation between the United States and the Soviet Union will give the Russians a military advantage.

—Said the government has warned the Soviet Union and Vietnam against letting the conflict in Cambodia spill over into neighboring Thailand.

—Criticized a proposal backed by California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. for a constitutional amendment to require a balanced federal budget.

Carter's 1980 budget would increase outlays for welfare and income security programs — including Social Security and unemployment compensation — by $20 billion to $179 billion, and increase spending for defense by $10 billion to $122.8 billion.

After discounting for inflation, the defense outlays represent a net increase of 3 percent over 1979 spending.

Four more suspects arrested in Federal Income Tax caper

Four more suspects have been arrested in connection with the Federal Income Tax scheme that resulted in the arrest of 11 Big Springers Wednesday.

With the arrest of the four, two from Abilene, two from Wichita Falls, the total rose to 15. Eight suspects, all ex-Big Springers, are still at large with federal warrants for their arrest.

Two Abilene residents, Kenneth D. Kuykendall, 29, and Howard M. McCormick, 25, both previous Big Spring residents, were arrested by two Internal Revenue Service Agents, 1:20 p.m. Wednesday. The same two agents arrested Calvin L. Camp, 57, and Robert E. Sims, 43, both of Wichita Falls, and both former Big Springers, 8:15 a.m. today.

Bonds for the 15 suspects range from $1,000 to $50,000, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger McRoberts in Lubbock. Only one suspect, James W. Brown, 1301 Lindberg, had his bond set at $50,000.

"The majority received a $1,000 bond, some got a $10,000 bond, and some were released on personal recognizance," said McRoberts.

Formal arraignment for the suspects will be held 1:30 p.m. Wednesday before U.S. District Judge Halbert Woodward in Lubbock.

Final bid for Navy program entered Wednesday, Choate says

WASHINGTON — Mayor Wade Choate, who is in Washington this week, said the best and final bid for the Navy F-4 remodification program was turned in late Wednesday afternoon. Lockheed Aircraft Service, which would expand their operations to Big Spring should they receive the government contract, said they feel the low bidder will be announced in a few days.

Shortly following the announcement, the Navy will send a pre-bid inspection team to visit the low bidder site, where the contract will be preformed prior to the awarding of the government contract.

Congressman Charles Stenholm, who represents Big Spring in Washington, advises, by the Congressional Liaison for the Navy, that the bid will be awarded sometime between Jan. 26 and Feb. 1.

Mayor Choate said "I have an appointment with the Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Navy to discuss the effects this program would have on the city of Big Spring should Lockheed Aircraft Service be awarded the contract. During the meeting, we will discuss the effects the Lockheed contract would have on housing and employment in Big Spring and Howard county."

Mayor Choate went on to say that Sens. Bentsen and Tower, as well as Congressman Stenholm, have been working with the local group in trying to secure the contract for Lockheed and Big Spring.

Light rain dots Big Spring

Light rain started in the Big Spring area before daylight today and continued well into the morning.

The fog at daybreak was as thick as Big Spring has experienced in many years, creating driving problems for those who had to get to work early.

Although the rain measurement was light, probably less than .2 of an inch, it saturated the ground, coming as it did so soon after the recent ice storm and subsequent snows.

Fortunately for motorists, the temperatures remained well above freezing. Prospects are for colder weather over the weekend, however.

Hunnicut, Howard County GOP chairman, files for city post

Sam Hunnicutt, a pipeliner manager for Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, has announced that he is a candidate for Place Four on the Big Spring City Council.

The position is presently held by Ralph Brooks, owner of Brooks' Jewelers.

Hunnicut, 51, 610 Highland, has also served for the past year as County Chairman of the Howard County Republican Party. In a press release today, however, he announced that he would resign the post because he did not want "to get party politics involved in the city council race."

He is a member of the American Petroleum Institute. He served as chairman of the Lone Star Council of the Boy Scouts of America in 1975, and was elected president of the Big Spring Country Club in 1976.

Hunnicut is a native of Fluvanna, a small community near Snyder. He attended Texas Tech University, and worked for the McWorley Corporation in Abilene before moving to Big Spring in 1970.

He and his wife Eleanor have three sons: Jimmy, 25, is an attorney with the Exxon Corporation in Midland; Sammy, 21, and Tim, 18, are students at Howard College.

In a statement this morning, Hunnicutt stated, "I love Big Spring and one of my fondest desires is to see it grow and prosper. We have some wonderful men and women who have worked long and hard to help build this city and we must continue good city government. We must have efficient city government, fair pay for all city employees, and a favorable economic climate. When elected, I will serve all the citizens of the city to the best of my ability."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Speed kills

Q. Are there statistics to show how much more dangerous it is to have a wreck while traveling at a great rate of speed?

A. The probability of a fatality in a crash roughly doubles as traveling speeds increase from 45 to 60 miles an hour and doubles again as the speed increases to 70 MPH. When drivers were in a mood to observe the 55 MPH speed limit (that was in 1974, the first year it went into effect), national highway deaths dropped by 9,393.

Chicago commuter service has been hampered by snow

CHICAGO (AP) — Transit workers used snow shovels to free the city's snow-bound commuter system as Midwest industry struggled to resume production — sometimes with limited success.

The toll of weather-related deaths rose to 72.

Meanwhile, the National Weather Service said a storm brewing in the Southwest threatened winter-weary Midwest states. A winter storm watch was issued for parts of Nebraska today.

A 92-year-old woman wearing only a housecoat was found frozen to death on a pile of snow in Riley, Kan., after authorities used a tracking dog and a helicopter to locate her.

A teen-age Chicago girl apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning when she tried to start the family car, and there were more reports of fatal heart attacks among middle-aged men who shoveled snow.

There have been 24 reported deaths in Illinois, 19 in Wisconsin, 10 in Kansas, seven in Missouri, five in Iowa, three in Michigan, two in Oklahoma and one each in Ohio and Nebraska.

The Chicago Transit Authority bought 2,100 snow shovels and 600 ice scrapers to clear commuter tracks covered by more than 20 inches of snow. Trains were crowded and ran late because more than half of the system's rail cars were not available.

"We went around the city and bought whatever stores had on hand," said a CTA spokesman. "The only way to clear many sections of the 36 miles of track ... is by hand."

Buffalo, N.Y., sent the city 30 pieces of snow removal equipment and manpower to run them. Additional equipment arrived from New York and Massachusetts. A Quebec firm offered its equipment free.

A fourth runway was opened at O'Hare International Airport, closed briefly by blowing snow, and then reopened. "I think we're finally starting to get ahead of it here," said a Federal Aviation Administration official.

Among the arrivals at the world's busiest airport was Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson, who cut short a family vacation in Florida. He left for West Palm Beach on Monday after asking President Carter to provide disaster relief for 22 counties.

The Chicago post office, largest in the nation under one roof, was closed for a third day due to problems at O'Hare. The post office normally handles 8 million pieces of mail daily.

Steel mills in Gary, Ind., reported crews were back to normal. U.S. Steel said 60 percent of its employees missed work Monday, and the cold and snow had halted steel and material shipments.

Inland Steel said more than 1,000 employees were using a company shuttle bus to get to work, and reported coke and iron ore production was being restored after dropping nearly 25 percent.

However, the Miller Brewing Co. announced plans to layoff 180 of its 3,400 workers in Milwaukee as a result of disrupted rail and truck shipments through Chicago, the nation's second-largest city.

Freezing rain and snow caused at least 40 roofs to collapse in Michigan.

About 7,500 roads remained closed in Iowa. Don Hinman, director of the state disaster office, estimated snow removal costs will reach $7 million, making this the most expensive storm in the state's history.

National Guard helicopters airlifted about 75,000 pounds of hay to cattle stranded in eastern Iowa, he said. Troops reported spotting five dead animals.

Temperatures warmed. It reached 33 degrees in Chicago — the first time it has been above freezing in the city this year.

In Kansas, Okla., weather in the 40s melted ice that has kept public school students at home since Dec. 20. Classes were to resume today.

People in the news

SUPER FUSS — Lillian Carter and her son Jimmy Carter have taken their positions on the Super Bowl. She's betting on Pittsburgh and President Carter on Dallas.

Carter bets on Cowboys

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lillian Carter and son Jimmy are keeping Sunday's Super Bowl game all in the family.

Although President Carter isn't talking, Lillian let it slip — he's betting on the Dallas Cowboys. She's got the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Carter was asked after his nationally broadcast news conference Wednesday which team he favored. He would only say that he had a bet with his mother, who was there for the news conference.

As Miss Lillian walked back to the White House from the Executive Office Building, a reporter called out, "I'll give you Pittsburgh and six points."

She replied, "I'm already betting on Pittsburgh."

Pause that refreshes

BOSTON (AP) — Seiji Ozawa and the Boston Symphony will visit China if the orchestra can come up with $750,000 to pay for the eight-day trip.

The Chinese have invited the symphony and its principal conductor to play concerts in Peking and Shanghai in March and help train Chinese musicians in playing Western music, a symphony spokesman said.

"There's a possibility the Coca Cola company will underwrite the trip," spokesman Peter Gelb said Wednesday. "Nothing is definite. It is one of the companies we're talking to, and they have expressed interest."

Rockefeller defends sales

NEW YORK (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller says selling quality reproductions of works from his private art collection can be compared with buying recordings of a Beethoven symphony.

The former vice president and New York governor dismissed criticism that some art works were not meant to be copied by saying critics were reading intent into the artist's mind.

The Nelson Rockefeller Collection Inc. offers pieces ranging in price from $65 for a copy of a Chinese Export tea stand to $7,500 for a copy of a Rodin sculpture.

The collection also offers Cibachrome reproductions — a process which is said to give the truest color and least fading — of some of Rockefeller's paintings, including Picasso's "Girl with Mandolin" priced at $850.

Judge Garza asked to apply

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — U.S. District Judge Reynaldo Garza of Brownsville has confirmed that he has been asked to apply for a position on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The longtime South Texas judge said a presidential commission named to solicit applicants for federal judiciary posts contacted him concerning one of the new positions on the circuit court.

The 5th Circuit Court, headquartered in New Orleans, will add 11 judges under the expansion.

"I have told them that I'm not seeking an appointment to the court of appeals, but if I am nominated and confirmed by the Senate, I would be glad to serve. Since I am not seeking it, I will not be disappointed if I do not get it," Garza said.

The local judge is the chief federal district judge for South Texas.

Garza, 60, was appointed to the bench by President John F. Kennedy in 1961.

Young labeled 'minister'

ATLANTA (AP) — Jean Young says her husband, U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, "is basically a minister" who has chosen an international congregation.

And, she considers herself basically a teacher who is concerned with children everywhere.

When the offer came to chair the national commission of the United Nation's 1979 Year of the Child, Mrs. Young said she "almost jumped at it."

"Only 70 percent of children have been immunized in this country," she said. "Ten million children have not received any medical care and half of the children under age 12 have never seen a dentist. And there are the runaways, vulnerable to prostitution and crime."

BIG CONGREGATION — Jean Young, wife of U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young says her husband "is basically a minister" who has chosen an international congregation and she is basically a teacher concerned with children everywhere.

Political hornets nest

'Unpardonable' shame lingers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Lamar Alexander is Tennessee's governor today — taking over in an unprecedented and abruptly arranged ceremony aimed at blocking the release of more convicts.

Ousted three days early was Ray Blanton, the 48-year-old Democrat who stepped into a political hornets nest when he granted clemency to 24 convicted murderers and 28 other convicts this week.

The surprise swearing-in Wednesday came amid reports that a grand jury would investigate pardons and commutations granted by Blanton.

Blanton's action Monday came a month after the arrest of two of his aides and a state trooper on federal charges of selling pardons and paroles. A federal grand jury is investigating the alleged scheme.

Blanton, who was not told of the oath-taking ceremony in advance, said he was "saddened and hurt for the state of Tennessee that this clandestine action has taken place... There is such a thing as courtesy. I thought they would have the courtesy to tell me."

He said he had been told he had been barred from his Capitol office for security reasons.

Shortly before taking the oath of office from Chief Justice Joe Henry of the state Supreme Court, Alexander said, "I have been authorized by the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the House to make this statement:

"The U.S. attorney today advised each of us that he has substantial reason to believe that the governor of Tennessee was planning to release one or more persons from prison who are targets of an investigation of payoffs for release from prison."

A federal prosecutor, who asked not to be identified, said the federal grand jury may investigate the 49 commutations and three pardons granted by Blanton this week.

Alexander ordered that no more prisoners are to be released "without a properly executed document with my signature."

Texas drug stores to be probed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sharp-penciled accountants soon will be nosing around 500 Texas drug stores to learn if taxpayers are paying too much or too little for welfare prescriptions.

The Texas Department of Human Resources published an invitation this week for consultants to bid on performing a survey of pharmacy costs.

"They will look at salaries, rent, and things of that type, as well as the cost of added services such as free delivery, 24-hour service and maintaining patient profiles," said Roy Wiese Jr., the department's program manager for pharmacy services.

Wiese said the study also would seek to determine the best way to determine pharmacists' drug purchase costs — wholesale or direct from manufacturers.

Pharmacists are reimbursed the full cost of drugs used in welfare prescriptions, plus a fee for service.

Some 625,000 Texas welfare recipients are enrolled in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children AFDC or federal Supplemental Security Income SSI — get help buying their medicine from the $3 million-a-year program.

Revocations faced by four probationers

Four Howard County probationers face possible revocations. Ronald McClain, San Angelo; Releigh Spain, Odessa; Clarence Sanders, 1304 Kendall and Lewis Sprague, Snyder, are in custody.

McClain is being held by San Angelo authorities. He was serving a ten year probation sentence for theft in excess of $200 that began March 23, 1977. He was arrested Wednesday for failure to report to his probation officer.

Spain is being held in the Ector County jail in Midland. He was serving a ten year probation sentence that started May 11, 1976 for burglary. He was arrested Jan. 10 for failure to report to his probation officer.

Sanders is in custody in Howard County jail. He was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and traffic violation. He also failed to report to his probation officer. He was serving a ten year probation sentence that started July 11, 1972 for burglary.

Sprague is being held by Snyder authorities. He was serving a five year sentence that began Oct. 1, 1978 for theft. He was arrested Friday for failure to report to his probation officer.

Stenholm gets nod for farm committee post

Rep. Charles W. Stenholm (D-Texas) was today assigned to the House Agriculture Committee, his first choice for committee assignment. While campaigning for congress Stenholm frequently mentioned his background in agriculture and the importance of such an assignment would have for the 17th District of Texas.

The congressman intends to be active in the legislative process and will use his new post to work toward meaningful legislation to insure a "good return on investment for agriculture and an adequate supply for our consumers." Stenholm said he would like to express his appreciation to the people of the 17th District who have helped make his appointment possible.

The newly-elected Congressman expressed gratitude that his request to the leadership in the House was received favorably.

For the record

In a letter to the editor in Sundays "Mailbag," one paragraph was jumbled. In the letter, written by Frances and L.B. Thomas to thank friends who helped them during a recent family illness, the paragraph should have read:

"Then there was Shirley Walker, who prepared for the auction of L.B.'s shop equipment on Sept. 29th. I didn't have the slightest idea how much hard work is involved in preparing for and holding an auction sale, but there were hours and hours of back-breaking work in sorting and stacking all the equipment for the sale..."

The Herald regrets any inconvenience caused by the error.

Danley in jail

Roger Lando Danley, Fort Worth, is in custody today for suspicion of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He was transferred Tuesday to the Howard County jail from the county jail in Ector County. He was rearrested when the bondsman went off the bond. He is now being held in lieu of a $3,000 indictment bond.

Police beat Hungry burglars strike

Hungry burglars were active again Wednesday and early this morning.

Burglars also broke out a west window in the Feed Lot Barbecue, 802 W. 3rd, early this morning. Once inside, they ripped off four cases of soft drinks and 15 bags of potato chips. Loss was estimated at $38.75.

Police nabbed four male juveniles who had attempted to burglarize the rectory of St. Thomas Catholic Church. Officer Pat Dunham arrested one of the boys inside the rectory, while Officer Richard Doane collared another who was waiting just outside.

Doane and Sgt. Jimmy Hensley picked up the two other young suspects four blocks from the rectory.

Five out-of-staters were picked up at the Rip Griffin Truck Stop, a suspicious persons ordinance, and police found that two may have been AWOL from the Marines, one has been using someone else's credit card illegally, and one is a female juvenile on the run from her home.

The number of working oil rigs in the state continued to drop slightly this week.

As of Monday, a total of 790 rigs were making hole in Texas, compared to 805 for the week before. This shows a decline from a total a month earlier of 862, and last year at this time of 831.

The nation's total also dropped this week from 2,242 to 2,192. The number of working rigs in the nation as of Dec. 18 was 2,295, while the total a year ago was 2,121.

Uranium spills over

WOODSON TERRACE, Mo. (AP) — A dozen barrels carrying radioactive uranium rolled onto Interstate 70 when the floor of the truck carrying them collapsed, authorities said.

Only minute amounts leaked onto the pavement after the Wednesday accident, a Missouri Highway Patrol spokesman said, but some lanes were closed for about 30 minutes. Authorities said there was little danger to persons in the area. The accident occurred near Lambert International Airport in the northwest part of St. Louis County.

High attend ance predicted

NEW YORK (AP) — The official U.S. travel service for the 1980 Olympics in Moscow estimates about 20,000 Americans will attend the games.

E. Wallace Lawrence, president of the Russian Travel Bureau of New York, an American concern, said Wednesday that the visitors would stay in first-rate Soviet hotels. The cost will be $1,550 for 15-day tours that include two other Russian cities, or $1,850 for 22-day trips plus three or more Soviet towns.

Skyjacking unsolved

KELSO, Wash. (AP) — The 1971 D.B. Cooper skyjacking remains unsolved, but authorities have announced the recovery of what might be a link in the case.

A Boeing 727 emergency exit placard found in a wooded area near here very likely came from the hijacked Northwest Airlines jet from which Cooper parachuted with $200,000 in ransom money, authorities said Wednesday. Cooper has never been seen and none of the ransom money has surfaced in circulation. Authorities said the placard could not have come off a plane without the rear door having been opened.

Three delays granted

EXETER, N.H. (AP) — Three Seabrook nuclear power plant demonstrators have been granted delays in their appeal trials until February to give them time to prepare their defenses.

Judge Wayne Mullaney of the Rockingham County Superior Court granted the postponements Wednesday, but refused to drop charges against a fourth demonstrator. The demonstrators were convicted on trespassing charges after an August 1976, protest at the site of New Hampshire's first nuclear power plant.

Premature babies tested

BALTIMORE (AP) — Some 400 premature babies will be tested at University Hospital to determine whether medication or surgery is the best treatment for a heart defect in newborns, hospital officials said.

The defect, patent ductus arteriosus, is an opening between two blood vessels coming from the heart. It affects about 1,000 Maryland babies each year.

Carter loans did not have enough backing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's peanut warehouse did not always have enough peanuts in its bins to back up $5.8 million in loans obtained during 1975 and 1976 from a bank headed by Bert Lance, according to a report prepared for federal officials.

However, the two bank directors authorized by the Securities and Exchange Commission to compile the report said they found no evidence any of the money was diverted to Carter's presidential campaign.

Weather Rain in forecast for most of Texas

Rain is forecast for most of Texas today after Texans fought another battle with dense fog as they drove to work today. The fog burned off during the morning, but forecasters said occasional rain was expected in the northern half of the state and thundershowers were forecast for the southern half.

Table with columns: FORECASTS, TEMPERATURES, WEST TEXAS, and EAST TEXAS. Includes weather symbols and temperature ranges for various cities.

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is expected in the forecast period, Thursday until Friday morning, from the central and eastern Gulf into the lower Midwest where it will change to snow reaching South Dakota and Minnesota. Sunny skies are forecast for the West. Most of the country will continue cold.

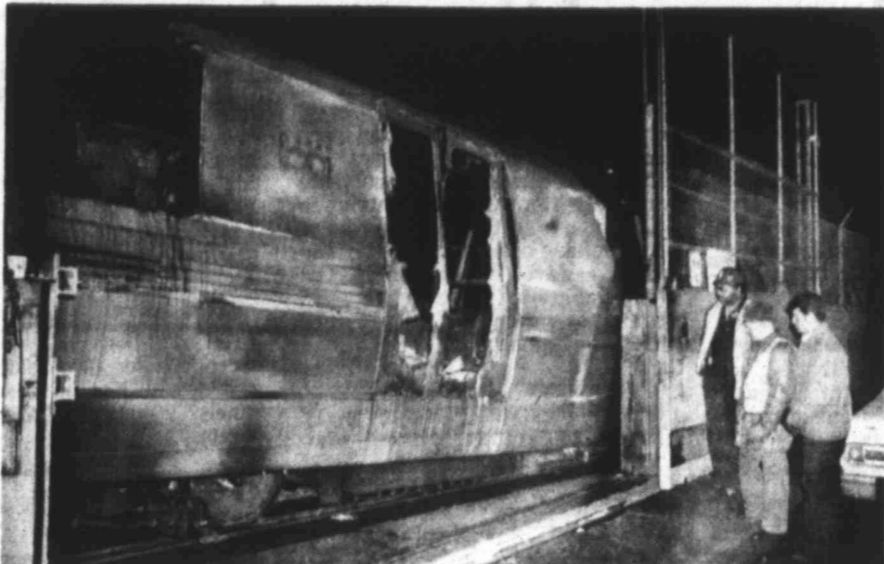

The report was ordered by the SEC in connection with its allegations last April that Lance and the National Bank of George engaged in securities fraud and unsafe banking practices in its lending procedures.

Lance, a close friend of Carter, was forced to resign in November 1977 as U.S. budget director because of questions about his activities as a banker before he took office.

The SEC told the Atlanta bank Lance once headed to appoint two directors not associated with bank officers to report on bank activities.

After certifying the two chosen as being impartial, the SEC asked them informally to determine whether any of the loan money went to Carter's 1976 presidential campaign.

"We have seen no evidence that the proceeds of these loans were, at least to the knowledge of anyone at NBG, used outside the Carter peanut business," the directors reported. The two

Clayton trying for fourth term as Speaker of House

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Bill Clayton, just starting an unprecedented third consecutive term as House speaker, says he's running for a fourth term and claims it's already in the bag.

Representatives, meanwhile, will learn today where they fit in the House scheme of things when Clayton announces their committee assignments.

Clayton said he was pushed into the early announcement by Rep. John Wilson, D-La Grange, who told reporters Wednesday he was running for speaker of the 1981 House.

"He certainly forced us to make some decisions. We will be seeking a fourth term. We already have 90 signed pledge cards and expect by the next day or so we will have over 100," Clayton said.

The speaker is elected by the House, and it takes a majority — 76 votes if all members are present — to win.

Wilson said nobody should serve more than two terms, and Clayton started his third one Jan. 9.

The speaker said he sent his supporters out collecting pledges after learning Monday of Wilson's plans. Wilson said he gave Clayton advance notice.

"I think it's over. That's why we went to work when we heard about it — to get it (the 1981 speaker's race) out of the way," Clayton said.

Clayton said he was truly puzzled by Wilson's timing, which enabled the speaker to collect pledges at his moment of greatest leverage, the appointing of committees.

Wilson, a moderate, has served six years in the House.

Natural gas rate in Texas increases at greater rate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Mack Wallace of the Texas Railroad Commission acknowledged today that the price paid for natural gas in the state market has increased at a greater rate than the price in the national market but Texas has drilled more wells and produced greater supplies of oil.

Wallace described Texas "as the fuel tank for the nation" and said the federal government should "model its production after Texas."

Wallace addressed the statewide oil allowable hearing after the commission had routinely set the allowable for February at 100 percent.

As usual, the large East Texas Field was restricted to 86 percent production to avoid possible waste.

Wallace said he wanted to "set the record straight" on recent remarks by Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger. Wallace said, in effect, that Schlesinger has described the Texas intrastate market as "highly injurious, destructive and deadly."

"The secretary is wrong, and the numbers bear me out," said Wallace.

He said from 1972 to 1977 the price paid for natural gas in the Texas market increased by 5.6 times, and the price paid for natural gas in the national market increased by 3.5 times.

Since 1972, however, "the number of operating rigs, total number of wells, total number of exploration wells, and total number of new field wildcat wells drilled increased in numbers greater in the Texas market than in the national market," Wallace said.

As a result, supplies from new field discoveries and added reserves from 1972 to 1977 increased in Texas in numbers greater than the national market.

Nominations for Texas crude for February total 2,825,861 barrels daily a decrease of 25,394 barrels daily from January nominations. The figures are lower for February because "additional demand" estimates received from some purchasers were dropped from the monthly calculations.

Here are the nominations by major purchasers of Texas crude oil for February, in barrels per day compared with the previous month:

Grand jury indicts Snyder truck driver

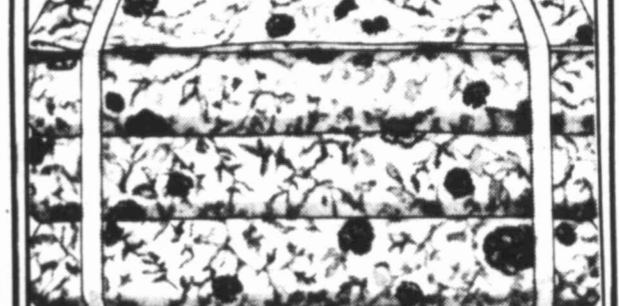

SWEETWATER, Texas (AP) — The driver of a truck that collided with a school bus in West Texas last Dec. 8, killing five and injuring 20, has been indicted on three counts of involuntary manslaughter.

Assistant District Attorney Russell Carroll of Sweetwater said William Clarence Dixon, 21, of Snyder, was released after posting $7,500 bond in Ector County.

Dixon was the driver of a truck operated by the Odessa-based Cardinal Survey Co. It collided with a bus carrying members of the McCaulley High School boys' and girls' basketball teams on U.S. 180 near Roby.

Dixon himself was seriously injured, and recently was released from an Abilene hospital.

A grand jury named Dixon in sealed indictments Wednesday. They were released Thursday.

Ezzell has confidence in Clements

State Rep. Mike Ezzell, himself a Democrat, says he has great confidence in the ability of Bill Clements, the Republican governor-elect, to get along with the heavily Democratic State Legislature.

"I think he is going to be a man who believes very strongly in the things he wants, but who is willing to listen. He has already gone on record for favoring good communication and cooperation," Ezzell, who represents Howard and five other West Texas counties in Austin, said recently.

Apparently, there will be no vendetta between the administrative and the legislative branches in Texas. In shifting their support to Clements in the last election, the electorate was, in effect, giving the legislature a mandate. They're tired of listening to liberal claims that more and reckless spending will cure the ills of the state. They indicated they believed Clements when he said the state could reduce its tax load considerably without working a hardship on the agencies commissioned to get the job done.

Ezzell doesn't think tax savings amounting to $1 billion annually, as suggested by Clements in his campaign rhetoric, is a realistic figure at which to shoot. He does, however, think cuts can be made here and there which would placate the citizenry.

Clements served the Republican administration long enough in Washington to realize that, in order to get something done one has to try and not make waves in other areas. The Republican administration in Washington, after all, had to work with a Democratically-controlled Congress.

"OTHER MEMBERS of my party may feel differently," Ezzell said,

"but the message I got from the voters came through loud and clear. Five of the six counties I represent opted for Clements over Hill. I certainly plan to try and work with the man."

Ezzell, incidentally, is preparing a bill which would offer permanent relief from jury duties for persons 65 years of age and older.

His bill, however, would provide exceptions for those elderly citizens who would like to serve on jury panels, if invited. Many do, apparently.

'Stroke of genius'

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s call for a balanced federal budget has evoked a wave of euphoria at the White House — one that could turn to remorse within the next year.

The euphoria stems from a conclusion that Jerry Brown has blundered in moving rightward for a possible challenge against President Carter, whose basic weakness within the Democratic party Cartermen perceive to be from the left. With that single stroke, Brown is seen as unwittingly moving Carter to the midpoint of the party, while immolating himself.

For this to be valid, however, Carter operatives must be correct in thinking that Brown's support for a U.S. constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget is perceived by Democratic primary voters as "conservative" — even "right-wing" or "extremist." That view, in turn, is based on the dubious notion that public sentiment for spending cuts and tax cuts is superficial.

THERE IS A dissenting opinion — clearly a minority opinion among practicing Democratic politicians — that may well be dominant among Democratic primary voters: a balanced budget has overriding popular appeal which cuts across party lines and ideological considerations. If so, Brown is preempting the high ground.

Such thinking is not limited to Brown's entourage. Rep. James Jones of Oklahoma, an influential moderate Democrat, is no great admirer of Brown and certainly not a supporter. Nevertheless, he calls Brown's move "a stroke of political genius."

Carter's political high command could not disagree more. Even before Brown's balanced budget speech, the president's men were contemptuous of any challenge from the governor. In private, they belittle Brown's political appeal — curious when it is remembered that Carter finished behind Brown in seven out of seven 1976 primaries. One senior Carter aide delights in telling a scatological joke with Brown as the butt.

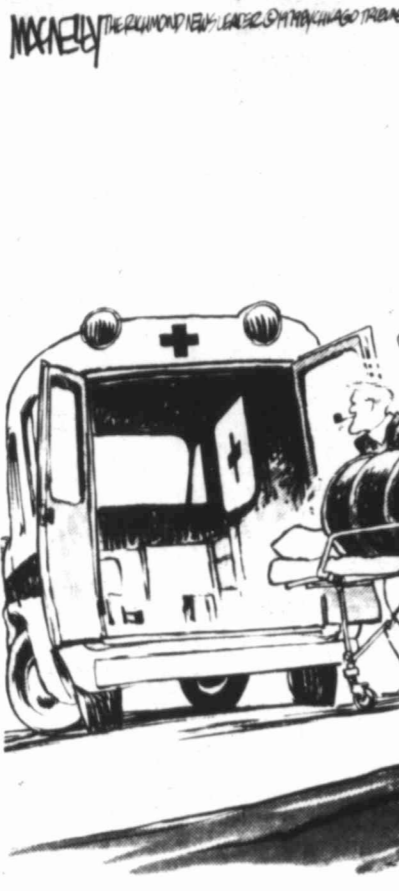

The overriding concern at the White House has not been Brown but pungent criticism of the president's restrictive budget policies from liberal-labor activists. It has been reasoned by Carter advisers that such opposition might be a minority within the general electorate but could defeat Carter in a Democratic primary if coalesced by the appropriate opponent.

Consequently, there was unrestricted joy among the president's men when Brown eliminated himself as the liberal-labor candidate. One usually astute Carter aide compared Brown's support of the balanced budget amendment to George McGovern's proposed $1,000-for-everybody federal handout as an incurable self-inflicted wound.

At the White House, it was correctly predicted that liberal newspapers would eviscerate Brown. One Democratic operative with no love for Carter who has looked upon Brown as an alternative mourned that "he's running in the wrong election" — in the general instead of the primary — and, therefore, was finished.

BROWN HAS indeed sliced off his own left wing. John Henning, head of the California AFL-CIO and a long-time Brown booster, was unpleasantly surprised as an invited inaugural guest; he promptly called Brown's speech "warned-over Herbert Hoover." William Winnipsinger, the anti-Karter leader of the machinists union who is an avowed socialist, will find it uncomfortable to keep up his presidential support for Brown.

Nevertheless, Brown may enjoy a net gain — in Maryland, for example, where he routed Carter in the 1976 primary.

Good liver news for alcoholics

By Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Please comment concerning alcoholism. Presumably some damage has been done to my liver, right? But I've never heard whether or not the liver can repair itself after one quits drinking. Will my liver just not get any worse, but remain in the condition it was at the time of quitting? How can you tell? What tests, etc? — J.D.

Good news for alcoholics. The liver has a tremendous capacity to return to near normal with proper care. One of the hallmarks of alcoholism-related liver trouble is a fatty liver. Fat accumulates there, but it completely disappears once one quits. That might be evident even within a few weeks of quitting. About 75 percent of people with fatty livers are alcoholics. The other 25 percent comes from malnutrition, diabetes, Cushing's disease (a pituitary gland disorder) or use of certain drugs.

If you have other liver damage (cirrhosis), scarring may remain, but even so conditions will improve with abstinence. (Only about 8 percent of chronic drinkers progress to the point of cirrhosis.)

Various liver function and blood tests will tell the present state of your liver. Future ones will give the good news you can expect after you quit drinking. All things considered, getting out of an alcoholic bind will be rewarding physically and otherwise.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am 64, a woman. I have no circulation problems that I know of, and my doctor tells me I am in an A-1 shape for my age. I complain to him about the terrible cramping I get in my legs about a half hour after I lie down at night. I never have leg trouble during the daytime, so I find it difficult to understand why it should happen when I'm relaxed at night in bed. Can you enlighten me? — O.Y.D.

For all that we hear of high blood pressure with age, some older folks actually may find a lowering of pressure, and it may be a factor in many of the nighttime leg cramps so many readers write about.

Besides this normal lowering there may be a further dip at night when bodily activity declines. This all means that the total circulation to the leg muscles (especially such muscles) may fall below basic needs. The muscles are getting less circulation, less nutrition, and less oxygen, all carried by the blood.

A number of drugs can be prescribed. Often, a simple aspirin or two at bedtime might help. For other possibilities see the booklet, "Leg Cramps and Foot Pain." Send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My mother is 55. She's been going to a doctor for years to donate blood. After this she claims she feels much better physically. We have heard that wealthy people go to doctors in Europe to have their blood cleaned. Just what results are they getting? Is this the same as what my mother has been doing? — Mrs. R.B.

Your mother wouldn't be going to a doctor to donate blood. For that, she would be going to a blood bank — a worthy activity. I might add, in certain disorders such as iron overload, blood must be drawn periodically to reduce circulating iron. This may be what you are referring to.

I have heard of some strange therapies from abroad, so I suspect you might find places where they would "clean" your blood. The only method I know of is dialysis in which machines act as filters. The chief medical use of dialysis is for those who have lost both kidneys or whose present kidneys have ceased functioning properly. In that case, the blood does, indeed, need "cleaning." The machines can do that efficiently and indefinitely until a suitable donor is found to provide a substitute kidney to do the job.

Otherwise, blood does not need "cleaning." Normal kidneys do that remarkably well.

To learn of the many factors involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia (which concerns the esophagus), write to Dr. Ruble, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of the booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

In reference to the Harlem Globetrotters appearing here Wednesday night: Why is it that when any clean family entertainment is provided it always lands on a Wednesday or a Sunday? Dedicated Christians are unable to attend.

It seems that the proceeds would be considerably higher if everyone had the opportunity to attend.

Most movies here, I might add, are not fit for adults, let alone the thousands of kids who are being subjected to this sort of trash. For that reason, entertainment is limited.

One local store was seen to be selling little witch dolls for "good luck" in their gift department recently.

Makes one wonder if they are unaware that witches are not found only in fairy tales or the Dark Ages any more but thousands of people in this nation and others are actively practicing witchcraft.

I'd like to suggest that customers should think twice about what type of object is bought for "good luck."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know that the Bible teaches that we are saved by faith in Jesus Christ alone. But what does the book of James mean when it says that "faith without works is dead"? — B.P.

DEAR B.P.: I believe if you look carefully at what James is saying you will see that his statement agrees fully with those parts of the Bible that stress faith alone.

You must understand that there are actually two kinds of faith or belief mentioned in the Bible. One is the kind of belief that is an intellectual acknowledgment that something is true. This is the kind of faith many people had who followed Jesus in the early days of His ministry. After Jesus' first miracle in Cana, for instance, we read that "his disciples put their faith in him." And yet a few chapters later we find that after Jesus spoke about the meaning of true faith and discipleship, "many of his disciples turned back and no longer followed him" (John 6:66, New International Version). These people believed in one sense, but their faith was not deep and living. It was not a true faith.

The other kind of faith about which the Bible speaks is true faith — the faith that saves. It not only involves intellectual agreement, but it involves commitment as well. It involves trust. It means I place my whole life — both now and eternally — in the hands of Jesus Christ. This kind of faith will make a difference in the way we live. In James 2:14-26, James says that true faith in Christ will always show itself in our actions. If our lives have not been affected in some measure, then our faith is not real. James uses the human body in an analogy: If there is no evidence of life, the body is dead. Similarly, if there is no evidence of our faith, then our faith is dead and unreal.

This passage is a challenge to everyone who claims to be a Christian to examine himself and ask if he really has placed his life in Christ's hands in trust and faith. God wants us to yield ourselves to Him without reserve so He can begin to work through us and change our lives.

Grisly behavior

Around the rim

Eileen McGuire

It seems that I have once again fallen into my old bad habit of watching too much television. But at least now, after tiring of what I call "trash t.v.," I have begun being more selective about my viewing. And, occasionally, the programs do spark some rim thoughts just when I thought I had nothing left to say...

Some of you may be getting tired of reading about it, but I don't think too much can ever be said about child abuse.

THE GRISLY KIND of parental behavior like the incident in the Sunday paper where a mother, in an effort to "discipline" her children, ended up permanently mutilating them with screwdrivers is obviously child abuse. That kind of stuff accounts for what I hear are a million cases of child abuse in the United States each year.

And those are just the cases where a child is threatened or harmed with a gun, knife or screwdriver. That doesn't include beatings, suffocations or isolations.

In the program I watched over the weekend (and again Tuesday night because it was so impressive), one hospital revealed that of all the babies under 13 months of age that were brought in as accident cases — broken bones, lacerations, etc. — 25 per cent were discovered to be abuse cases.

Actually, those one million and 25 per cent figures aren't accurate because the trend is an extremely rapid increase in the number of cases of physical and sadistic violence inflicted on children by parents every year. By the time you read this, the number of known child abuse cases will have already risen dramatically.

One million cases! That's a lot of pain. But there's another kind of abuse, often undetectable until the child becomes a maladjusted adult, that accounts for who knows how many times the number of cases where a child is harmed with tangible weapons. That's emotional abuse — repeatedly telling a child that he's dumb or a brat or just looking at him a certain way enough times to leave him with a permanent feeling of rejection and unworth.

The fact that mothers and fathers can actually inflict physical pain on their own offspring horrifies me; but the second kind of abuse, an abuse that stems from normal feelings that all parents have, scares me because what I've seen on the screen looks like an easy pattern of behavior to fall into.

The program I watched on PBS carried the distinct message that no matter how "good" of a person you are, if you're a parent, you're a potential abuser. And child abuse is often an unconscious crime — many parents abuse their kids without ever realizing it.

THERE'S ONLY one difference between a constructive parent and a destructive parent and that's control. The difference between a normal feeling of anger at what your child has or has not done and venting that anger in a destructive manner is all dependent on the parent's ability to control not his feelings, but his actions. Constructive parents find ways to control their anger while abusive parents don't.

Chaos reaped

WASHINGTON — For three decades, Iran has been overrun with U.S. observers. The Central Intelligence Agency, which saved the shah's throne in 1953, had access to the palace. A case officer was actually assigned to the shah, who thereby became a confidential CIA informant. The White House was in close, constant contact with the shah. U.S. Cabinet officers, generals and diplomats had cozy relationships with their counterparts in Iran.

Yet in Washington, apparently no one in high places detected that something was rotten in Iran; no one foresaw the uprising against the shah; no one anticipated his downfall. Only two months before his collapse, President Carter's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, telephoned assurances to the shah that the United States backed him 100 percent.

THIS IS ALL the more baffling since we knew — and frequently reported in this space — that the shah was a dangerous megalomaniac who had oppressed and alienated his people, as well as an undependable ally who was likely to pursue his own aims in disregard of U.S. interests.

The president has complained petulantly that he had no warning of the turmoil in Iran. Yet we knew that Iran was ripe for revolt. Apparently all those CIA agents, diplomatic analysts and military brass, with their sophisticated techniques, were wearing blinders.

The mystery remains why the Washington wise men coddled the shah and condoned his oppression. We have it from CIA sources that the agency not only knew the shah was torturing his political opponents but actually gave instruction in torture techniques to his dreaded secret police.

Now Humpty Dumpty has had a

Ed Asner, who narrated "Raised in Anger", came up with an oversimplified, but good definition for child abuse. He said that child abuse "is physical and emotional damage done to a child by parents who lose control."

I have often wished that all prospective parents could, before they actually become parents, get a clear picture of what it is they are getting themselves into. Next to automobiles, children are the biggest source of frustration that I know of.

Unlike automobiles, the positive feelings from being a parent are much more intense and permanent. But before you can really enjoy being a parent, you have to dump the notion of being a perfect parent of a perfect child because that kind of expectation only increases the amount of frustration that is already present in raising children.

When a baby is expected, the parents look into the future and see a cooing, cuddly bit of humanity that is going to give them love and happiness. What they don't see is that the child isn't the one who is going to be doing the giving; they are.

Until that child is 18 years old, they're going to be giving 24-hour unconditional love, time, money, worry and a whole lot of other things that they may not always feel like giving. Some of it will be returned by the child, but any happiness that a child brings into the life of the parent is going to come from the parent's feelings toward the child, not the child's toward the parent.

Babies don't bring love; they don't know how to love. What they do bring is a whole lot of responsibility and pressure. Any happiness comes from the parent loving the child, not the other way around.

If those expectant parents looked down the road a little bit further, they'd also see a two-year-old who vents his creativity by painting the outside of a white house with some green paint that someone thought he'd never get the lid off of, a three-year-old who decides that the grocery store on a crowded Saturday afternoon is the best time to show his mother how loud and how long he can scream, and a four-year-old who thinks the front yard is the best place to sunbathe — nude.

They'd also see that for most of their child-rearing years, they can forget about any spur of the moment desires to do anything that doesn't include the child. Before running off to see a movie or to go bowling, there'll be a long list of advance preparations, like finding a sitter, packing a diaper bag, or getting the kids fed, bathed and ready for bed before the sitter arrives.

By the time they're ready to go, they may no longer feel like doing anything but collapsing in a quiet corner.

If all of us who ever became parents had had a chance to try the role for a good while before we actually became parents, I wonder how many of us would have backed out?

Fortunately for the perpetuation of the human race, we didn't. Unfortunately for the kids who have taken the brunt of the frustration and confusion that all parents feel and many can't cope with, theirs didn't either.

great fall, and all our horses and men aren't going to put him back together again. The United States, thanks to the close association with the shah, is left with few friends in Iran.

While our slavish support of the shah was not generally known to the American public, it was no secret to the Iranian people. Their bitterness was expressed when mobs trampled the American flag in the dust of Tehran during the recent demonstrations against the shah.

THE CONSEQUENCES OF our close ties with the tyrannical shah, and our resulting unpopularity with virtually everyone else in Iran, may well be disastrous. The United States relies on the shah to protect the Persian Gulf, whose oil fields pump the industrial life blood into the arteries of the West. Now these vital oil fields are vulnerable.

From presidents on down, U.S. officials have pampered the shah outrageously. Former President Richard Nixon wrote obsequious letters to the shah and catered to his slightest whims. President Carter has usually reserved for the Almighty. This incredible coddling has gone beyond logical reason.

Secret State Department files reveal, for example, that Saudi Arabia repeatedly urged the United States to bring pressure on Iran to hold down oil prices in the early 1970s. Washington had the clout to shut up the shah, who joined the clamor for higher oil prices. His demands were among the most extreme.

Yet the powers in Washington made no attempt to bring the shah into line. This convinced the Saudis, according to State Department documents, that the United States was secretly conspiring with the shah to keep oil prices

Doctors debating surgery

Wayne has more cancer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wayne's latest film role was that of an Old West gunfighter dying of cancer. In real life, he's "licked the big C" before, and now he's battling it again.

lymph nodes near Wayne's cancerous stomach, which was removed by surgeons last week, and doctors said Wednesday there is a "probability that it will spread."

The Oscar-winning actor has been undergoing unspecified treatment since Friday. A spokesman for UCLA Medical Center refused to elaborate on Wayne's prospects for recovery.

before," he said. "We're hopeful."

The actor, who became Hollywood's biggest star through two-fisted roles in westerns and war movies, lost part of his lung to cancer in 1964. Later, doctors told him he had "licked the big C." Ten months ago, he underwent open heart surgery for a faulty valve.

Wayne's latest film was "The Shootist" in 1976. Since then, he has made a number of television appearances.

The latest cancer showed up in tests that were run after a routine gall bladder operation turned into a marathon surgery lasting 9½ hours.

The lymphatic system, which collects and filters the fluid that carries nutrients from the blood to cells in most of the body, also produces many of the white blood cells, which combat infection.

Economy rolling at healthy rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The economy continues to roll right along at a healthy rate," government economist William Cox said after new reports of strong economic activity in the closing months of 1978.

In fact, Cox said the government might have to take new measures to "rein it in a little" if it doesn't slow down soon.

Just how fast the economy was rolling was to be documented later today in a Commerce Department report on the gross national product for the final quarter of last year.

The GNP, which measures the total output of goods and services by American workers and industry, was expected to show the economy grew at a rate of 5 percent in the October-December period.

A 5 percent growth rate is enough to further reduce unemployment if it is sustained for long. The economy grew at only a 2.7 percent annual rate in the third quarter.

The government had these bullish reports on the economy Wednesday:

—Construction of houses and apartment units last year totaled 2.02 million units, up from 1.99 million a year earlier. And in December, they actually sped to an annual rate of 2.12 million, despite extraordinarily high interest rates.

—Personal income of Americans increased 1.1 percent in December, the third consecutive strong monthly gain. For the year, personal income was up 11.7 percent, exceeding the rate of inflation, which was about 9 percent.

—Output of the nation's industry increased by a steady 0.6 percent in December and was up 7.7 percent for the year, compared with an increase of 5 percent in all of 1977.

'Red Baron'

nets girl $1,900

The grand champion steer in the Abilene Regional Livestock Show, exhibited by Marjori Maddox of Colorado City, sold for $1,900 at the show auction Tuesday.

Miss Maddox is a member of the Mitchell County FFA Club. She named her prize animal 'Red Baron.'

The steer weighed out at 1,160 pounds, which means it sold for almost $2 a pound. Abilene Clearinghouse purchased the animal.

Released on bond

Charles Edward Shankosky, Tucson, Ariz., and Bruno Thomas Cruz, Columbia, Ga., were released on $2,000 person recognisance bond Monday. They have been charged with theft by exercising control of a van on Jan. 4. They were arrested in Louisiana on Jan. 5.

The original bond was set by Judge John Coffee at $7,500 a piece.

Jones released

Terry Dean Jones, 706 Goliad, and Mark Quinton Johnson, 706½ Goliad, were released on bond Monday. Bond was set at $10,000 each by a justice of the peace in Brownfield.

They were arrested in Brownfield on Jan. 11 on suspicion of forgery. They have been charged with forging six checks totaling around $2,000.

Baker charged

Nathan Henry Baker, 1108 5th St., was charged Tuesday with assault on a police officer. He was released Saturday on $5,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

On the light side

Nice gesture

ROLLA, Mo. (AP) — Robert Prigge has been given credit for clearing 150 miles of road — and a few driveways — during the recent snow storm in Missouri.

It would have been a nice gesture, state authorities said, if it hadn't been illegal.

Prigge, 25, of Vich, Mo., was charged Wednesday with felony theft. Phelps County Prosecutor Ron White said he's accused of stealing a state highway truck to plow the snow in nearby Maries County.

"It's kind of nice," said White. "But we needed the truck down here."

A cold snore

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — While the neighbors were struggling to dig out from the blizzard, Jeff Rodino was digging into the snow — in true Eskimo fashion. His wife, Kathie, thought he was crazy.

The 26-year-old Rodino built an igloo for his daughter Jodie, 9, and son Tony, 4, to play in during the day. Then, he suggested he and his son spend the night in it. No way, said Kathie.

So out he went about 11 p.m., alone, carrying a down sleeping-bag and wearing blue jeans, a sweatshirt and some heavy socks. The temperature that Monday dipped to 20 below.

"It was pretty warm in there," he said. "The snow acts as an insulator. When I was in my sleeping bag, I felt like I was under an electric blanket."

But there was one problem. When Rodino awoke he was a little wet — the snow under his sleeping bag had melted.

A taxing effort

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Local eighth-graders don't think the Internal Revenue Service has made filing income taxes a simple proposition.

The Charlotte Observer asked an eight-grade advanced math class and a regular math class of seventh- and eighth-graders at Quail Hollow Junior High to fill out the 1040A filing form recently.

Only two students in the advanced class, which is studying algebra, and none in the regular class were able to complete the short form during a 45-minute class period.

Working with nothing but the form and instructions the IRS provides all taxpayers, only Helen Parker and Karen Devore, both 13, completed correct returns.

"If I do 'em wrong now, wonder what I'll do when I have to do 'em for sure?" pondered Leif Wells, 13, a member of the 27-student advanced group.

He answered his own question: "They'll audit my tax."

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas

Join with your Safeway Store in the FIGHT AGAINST INFLATION... President Carter has asked his Cabinet officers to take aggressive action to slow the rise in consumer prices. They were asked for specific suggestions on what consumers themselves can do to cope with the problem of inflation.

The U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs has issued guidelines to help consumers minimize the impact of inflation on their daily lives.

Safeway pledges full cooperation with the U.S. Government in battling this number one domestic problem. As tangible evidence of that support, Safeway will publish weekly inflation-fighting ideas, suggesting ways in which you and your family can shop better for less money.

Some of the subjects to be covered are: Saving on "private labels" such as Safeway Brands. Making Unit Pricing work for you. Cooking from "scratch." Seasonal produce bargains. Best use of your freezer. Advertised and unadvertised specials. Planning family meals, and many others.

Next week, #1 in this on-going series "NO FRILLS — LOWER BILLS" together, we can be INFLATION FIGHTERS!

Mohawk Indians collecting tolls

CORNWALL, Ont. (AP) — Mohawk Indians are collecting tolls periodically on an international highway across their lands to make up for cuts in government health funds. For the third time this month the Gegis tribe set up a tollgate Wednesday on the highway between Cornwall and Massena, N.Y. The tribe's chief, Lawrence Francis, has been charged with obstructing traffic on Jan. 7, when the first barrier was set up. Since the cuts in government health funds last fall, the Indians have had to pay for glasses, drugs, transportation to get treatment, dental care and other services not covered by government health insurance. Such services had been free to them.

Ceremonies for remodeled pediatric unit scheduled

LUBBOCK — Opening ceremonies for the completely remodeled pediatric unit at Methodist Hospital will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday. A brief program will dedicate the unit to the memory of Dr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Overton. Dr. and Mrs. Overton were pioneer settlers of West Texas. Dr. Overton began practice in Lubbock in 1901 and was one of the founders of Methodist Hospital, established as Lubbock Sanitarium in 1918. He was a general practitioner before devoting the last 30 years of his practice to pediatrics. He delivered more than 3,000 babies, and with associates treated more than 50,000 children. Principal contributors to the new facility are Mr. and Mrs. Watson Carlock. Mrs. Carlock is a daughter of the Overtons. Portraits of the longtime physician and Mrs. Overton are in the entrance. A bronze plaque commemorates the occasion. A display case contains memorabilia from Dr. Overton's 54 years of practice. Owen Hamilton, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees, will preside during opening ceremonies. George M. Brewer, hospital president, will introduce guests, including relatives of Dr. Overton and other pioneer physicians. William H. Gordon, M.D., honorary member of the hospital's Medical Staff, will give dedicatory remarks. Rev. Tom Daugherty, chaplain, will give the invocation. The Overton pediatric unit is located in the east and north wings of the fifth floor in the west building. It accommodates 36 patients ranging in age from a few days to 14 years. The adacent west wing has been renovated and decorated for older patients. A circus theme and colorful walls give the unit a bright decor for the children to enjoy. Large, colorful vinyl figures of circus performers and animals are featured in each room and in the hallways. Plastic banners in vivid colors hang from hallway ceilings. A nursery in the unit is equipped for children who are very sick, but do not need care in an intensive care unit. The east wing is for nonsurgical patients and for those requiring medical isolation. Patients who have surgery will be hospitalized in the north wing. A treatment room is equipped for diagnostic and therapeutic care of patients by physicians and nurses. A conference room provides space for doctors to consult with parents and for staff development programs. The playroom will be managed and staffed by members of the hospital auxiliary. The station for nurses is located between the two wings.

Old Girls Can Play A Role in the Hay

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you printed a letter from a man who undertook to explain why older men prefer younger wives:

"When buying a car," he said, "who would opt for an old, used model when he could get a new, unused model for the same price? In an old model, the bumper sags, the frame is crooked, the paint job is poor and the pickup is gone. And if it's 60 years old, it usually comes with a crank."

I decided not to let that one pass without rebuttal, especially when my wife came to me with your column in hand and fire in eye.

"Something must be said for us old, used models!" she declared. I, of course, agreed.

For the record, my wife is nowhere near 60. In fact, there was a time when she could not conceive of the possibility that she might reach 60; now she is beginning to realize this is a possibility.

Abby, I have had new models (speaking of cars) which, despite expensive attention, stubbornly refused to go places I wanted to go and their finish faded prematurely when exposed to the sun.

There is much to be said for an agreeable, long-time association with an older model. You know its capabilities, its weaknesses, its eccentricities. You know how it will respond in a variety of circumstances. You know it will get you there. There are few surprises, and that's a comfort.

But enough of cars. Even if my wife were not the desirable creature she is, and even if she were not looking over my shoulder at this moment, I don't think I could stand playing the dating game again.

Those awkward preliminaries. Those pretenses. Those doubts. That loneliness when doubts prove well-founded. Those failures. That forced enthusiasm. Those silly conversations: "Oh! You're a Pisces, and you jog! Isn't that exciting!" Pardon me while I throw up. I guess maybe I've been away too long.

ROBERT McMORRIS: OMAHA, NEB.

DEAR ROBERT: Thanks for a delightful letter, which I lifted (with permission) out of your column in the Omaha World-Herald.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (25 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Imitation is sincerest flattery

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I have a so-called "friend" who is slowly driving me insane. She thinks that we are the best of friends so she copies everything I do such as my hairstyle, clothes, musical instrument and on and on. It's ridiculous.

The last time I told her to stay away she cried and I feel like a heel. What can I do? — Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Calif.

Barbara: You must not allow this girl to make your life miserable. Even though she will again cry when you kindly tell her you do not want her to be a close friend, you should tell her.

Remember though, imitation is a subtle form of flattery.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 17 and a hard working guy who works 12 to 16 hours a day. My girlfriend is 22, has a child (not mine) and another one on the way (mine). My problem is that even though we love each other, her mother won't let her see me.

You see she lives at home with her mom and she listens to what her mother says. I haven't seen my girl for a while and I'm going crazy. Can you help me? — William, Alliance, Ohio

William: Your situation is most unusual and I don't think I can really help as long as your girlfriend lives with her mother.

If you both love each other, why don't you plan to get married.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 17 and the boyfriend I love moved to Florida. He says he loves me but I know he will be living in the city where his "ex" girlfriend lives.

At most, we would only see each other only once every couple of months.

Do you think our long-distance romance can last?

Candy: Sure it can last, but why sit home and wait. At 17 you should be dating a handsome and lucky boy in Huntsville.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Former Tyler deputy sheriff to undergo psychiatric tests

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A former deputy sheriff, accused of abducting and beating a man in Tyler last week, has been ordered to undergo psychiatric testing for up to three months in a federal hospital at Springfield, Mo.

Former Cherokee County deputy Thomas H. Glass, 31, is in Smith County Jail on bonds totaling $200,000 — $50,000 each state charges of kidnapping and assault with a deadly weapon and $100,000 on a federal civil rights charge.

U.S. District Judge William Steger approved a motion Wednesday by Glass' lawyer that the ex-officer be given the psychiatric examinations. Glass scheduled arraignment for Wednesday morning was postponed.

Glass was arrested Monday in the Cherokee County courthouse at Rusk, about 40 miles south of Tyler, after federal warrants were carried out on Glass, a Cherokee County patrol car and an apartment in south Tyler.

Undisclosed papers were filed Wednesday in the federal courthouse that were believed connected to statements by both state and federal officers that more arrests and charges are expected by the end of the week.

A Tyler radio station and a Tyler television station reported Wednesday that Glass's boss, Sheriff Danny Stallings, would turn in his badge today as part of an agreement that would prevent state charges from being filed against him.

Stallings was named Tuesday as a "co-conspirator" in the federal civil rights charge filed against Glass, and the stations said federal prosecutors had asked Stallings to resign and face federal civil rights charges. State charges would not be pressed if he resigned, the stations said they learned.

Stallings told Radio Station KEBE of Tyler Wednesday the rumors were just that — rumors.

Stallings was said to be the driver of the car Glass was in on Jan. 9 when Robert J. Antonacci Jr. was allegedly beaten in front of a plumbing establishment in Tyler and taken against his will to an apartment.

Witnesses said a man with a gun fired a pistol into the air several times while another man was rolling on the ground and that two other men watched from a car. One witness said when he asked the man with the gun what he was doing, the man showed him a badge and identified himself as a Cherokee County sheriff's deputy.

The man with the gun then yelled for his companions to help him, and one of them got out and began hitting the man on the ground, the witness told Tyler police. The two then forced the man into the car and drove away, police were told, with the driver never getting out.

Two empty .45-caliber cartridges were found at the scene.

Former mistress testifies

Marvin shows no emotion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Lee Marvin showed no emotion when his former lover, Michelle Triola Marvin, wept bitterly on the witness stand as she recalled her pregnancies by Marvin and the abortions she said left her unable to bear children.

At one point Wednesday, as Miss Marvin spoke barely above a whisper, the actor's voice boomed across the courtroom: "I can't hear a thing." Miss Marvin was told to speak louder.

Her cross-examination by Marvin's lawyers was scheduled to begin today.

The 46-year-old Miss Marvin, testifying in the landmark property settlement trial, detailed the disintegration of her six-year love affair with Marvin — a relationship she says entitles her to $1 million plus a share of his assets.

She became pregnant three times, she said — once she miscarried and twice she had abortions at Marvin's urging.

"He didn't want more children," she said. He had four by a former marriage.

Her attorney asked if Miss Marvin suffered any ill effects from the abortions.

She took a deep breath and said almost inaudibly: "I have scars and I can't bear children." Then she burst into tears.

Marvin's attorney, A. David Kagon, told Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall: "It's our contention a good part of this testimony is fictitious."

The importance of the abortion testimony in the non-jury trial was uncertain. Miss Marvin has the legal burden to prove that she and Marvin, 54, had an "implied contract" to share their efforts and property.

Lawyers in the case say such a contract may be implied from the conduct of the parties during their relationship. Thus, almost all conduct is relevant.

The case, the first to interpret a 1976 California Supreme Court decision, is expected to set a precedent for alimony without marriage in cases of cohabitating single couples.

In the final hours of her direct testimony, Miss Marvin said her romance with the actor was destroyed by his drinking problem.

Once, she said, she found him drunk, dangling a young woman by one leg out the window of a high-rise Las Vegas hotel. "I nearly fainted," she said.

She testified that she joined a self-help group for families of alcoholics, but Marvin resented her efforts.

Jay Naman re-elected to presidency of TFU

LUBBOCK — By a large voting majority, Jay Naman, a cattle raiser, and farmer from Waco has been re-elected as president of the Texas Farmers Union during its annual state convention.

In a race for the post between Naman and long-time member David Samuelson of Coupland, farmers involved in the American Agriculture Movement attempted unsuccessfully to unseat Naman who has held the position since 1961. Samuelson has been an activist in the farm protest movement.

Texas has, in a singular and dedicated effort, held the organization together in that area of the state.

Also elected during the state convention to attend the National Farmers Union convention in Kansas City the first week in March were Charlotte Garner of Seminole (Gaines Co.), Cathy Harmon of happy (Swisher), Joe Rankin of Ralls (Crosby) and Virgil Blakney of Turkey (Hall). Rankin, current Vice President who ran unopposed, was also re-elected.

The members of WCG (Women of the Church of God) are women with whom you may come in contact each day.

President Virginia Chappell may teach your first grade child, for she has taught in the public school system 18 years; Vice President Debrah Underwood is a computer operator for Cosden; Secretary Janet Rodges is a laboratory technician at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital and Clinic; Treasurer Nell McDonald is a saleswoman at Carter's Furniture Store; Spiritual Life Director Gwen Tinnerstet, the minister's wife, works as a nurse's aide at Big Spring State Hospital; Parliamentarian Maggie Cross is a household executive; Stewardship Chairwoman Lucy Holley is a household executive; Membership Chairwoman Georgia Cauble is a salesperson at Mary Jo's Dress Shop; Publications Chairwoman Carol Harrington, the assistant minister's wife, assists her husband, Charles, in the ownership and operation of Trans Texas Coaches, a bus company; Mission Education Director Nelda Reagan is a household executive and Finance Chairwoman Charlene Woodbridge is a household executive.

This local chapter of the WCG was organized in December, and held their January meeting, a study on China, at the church, 2009 Main.

The National Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Church of God was organized in Anderson, Ind. June 19, 1932, as a result of a vision by Mrs. Nora Hunter, a pioneer minister of the Church of God. In June of 1929 she had witnessed the desperate needs of missionaries and national workers and the people they served in Egypt and the Near East.

Several slogans were widely used during the first few years: God's question to Moses, "What is in thy hand?"; the Psalmist's words, "The Lord gave the word; the company of women that published the tidings are a great host" (Ps. 68:11 ASV). Mrs. Hunter urged, "Make no little plans; they have no magic to stir men's blood." She constantly reminded the women of Jesus' words, "Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost."

Two hundred women comprised the Woman's Society in 1932. Many thousands of women comprise 54 state societies which actively support the purposes for which the organization was born.

The name of the organization was changed in 1975 to the present name, WOMEN OF THE CHURCH OF GOD, with the accompanying phrase, "United in Mission, Service, Friendship and Personal Growth."

The task of the WCG is to support all phases of outreach of the church and to cooperate with the World Service agencies of the Church of God in helping them to promote the missionary aspects of their work.

Locally, WCG is part of the total program of the church, as are the youth organization, MEN of the Church of God, and the church school. The WCG is represented on the church council so that its activities are coordinated with the general program of the church.

The pastor is an advisory member of the WCG and of its nominating committee.

An elected director heads each of the four departments of work. Each director has a committee to assist her. Following is a brief summary of the work of each department.

The Spiritual Life Department provides inspiration and help for spiritual growth and the development of Christian graces, attitudes and motives. Its emphasis are Bible Study and Prayer Guidance. Women are encouraged to select a missionary and his family as prayer partners and to pray daily for them. Each year spiritual birthdays are celebrated in a special program. Each woman recalls her experience of salvation and her journey of faith. Gratitude is expressed through an offering, given so that others may be led to new birth in Christ.

acquaints women with needs and concerns which are current across the world and with the church's missionary enterprise. The missionary education director coordinates the year's programs. She turns over to the appropriate director or officer those programs which fall in her area of work, giving assistance if needed.

The stewardship department is responsible to motivate, prepare and engage women in a ministry of outreach and service in five areas: The local church, the community, home missions, overseas missions and world relief.

The Penny-a-Day project, one of two national projects, consists of giving a penny each day for the missionary cause along with prayer for missions concerns. It's a reminder that small efforts can grow into large endeavors as many people work together, plan together and give together. Its monetary results — over $5,000 raised each year, speaks eloquently of the significance of the mite as it is turned into "might for God and the cause of missions."

The finance department plans and promotes the budget of the WCG. It informs members how WCG funds are used, how the organization relates to national World Service agencies, and how the budget helps to meet the agencies' budget needs. It plans and carries out special fund-raising projects. It educates in the stewardship of possessions, and promotes two national fund-raising projects: Gifts in Memoriam and Memorial Tributes in honor of departed servants of God, and Honorary Gifts to honor living persons whose dedicated service deserves such recognition.

Membership in WCG is open to any woman who has an interest in the missionary enterprise of the church and in the development of stewardship of her own mental, spiritual, and creative capabilities for the service of Christ.

The month of April is designated as enlistment month. The membership drive may be climaxed with a brief commitment service in which the members signify their active interest in the work of God by repeating the pledge:

God being my helper, I promise
To give my will, my mind, my heart, my time, and my money in Christian service to God and others;

To do my best to maintain the spirit of prayer and devotion in my daily life;

To read and study God's Word;

To keep myself informed about peoples of the world and their needs;

To hold to the unchanging hand of God and to the needs of my coworkers in carrying out the Great Commission to win disciples.

The WCG ladies wish to share some of their favorite recipes with Herald readers. Caring for their families is a pleasurable part of their total stewardship.

Mrs. Paul (Virginia) Chappell's PEPPER STEAK

Cover strips of sirloin tip or round steak with paprika on both sides. Allow meat to stand while cutting up the following vegetables in different shapes:

green pepper
green onions, including tips
fresh tomatoes
garlic

How to avoid beans' scenes

Remember the lines your parents tried to feed you with your food? "Eat your vegetables, or you won't get dessert!" "Finish everything on your plate, or you can't leave the table!" "Drink your milk, or you won't grow up tall and strong!"

Now the tables have turned. You've grown up, not necessarily tall and strong, but enough to have kids of your own. Like your parents, you find yourself all too frequently fed up with your children's eating habits. They nibble only a little. Or munch too much. Or seem to swallow only sweets and snacks.

What to do? "Forget the threats," says Lea Bramnick, a Philadelphia author, educator and president of The Lobster Factory, Inc.,

Fry steak in butter and garlic until brown. Add green pepper and onions, simmer and steam. Add tomatoes and cook a few minutes (don't overcook). Add 1 can of beef broth, cover and simmer for 15 minutes. Thicken with 1/4 cup water and 1 tablespoon soy sauce. Serve over rice.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT CAKE

1 box white cake mix
1 small box strawberry Jello
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup cooking oil
4 whole eggs

1 small box frozen strawberries
Mix first four ingredients. Add one egg at a time, mixing as indicated in the directions on cake mix box. Add strawberries, mix well, but do not overmix. Bake in a 13 inch x 9 inch pan in 350 degree oven for 35 to 45 minutes.

Debrah Underwood's GERMAN CHOCOLATE POUND CAKE

2 cups sugar
1 cup shortening
4 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 teaspoons Adams imitation butter flavoring
1 cup buttermilk
3 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
Partly melt chocolate over hot water. Remove and stir rapidly until all melted (cool). Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs, flavorings and buttermilk. Sift together flour, soda and salt three times. Add to shortening mixture and mix well. Stir in chocolate until blended. Pour batter into 9 inch greased and floured tube pan. Bake in slow oven, 300 degrees, about 1 1/2 hours. Remove from pan while still hot. Place under a tightly fitting cover.

Mrs. Ronnie (Nell) McDonald's PEAR CAKE

1 1/2 cups Wesson salad oil
2 cups sugar
3 eggs
3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups or 1 29-ounce can pears chopped or mashed
1 cup chopped pecans
Combine first three ingredients and beat well. Sift dry ingredients together and add to creamed mixture. Add vanilla. Fold in pears and pecans, grease and flour a 10-inch tube or bundt pan. Spread batter in and bake 1 hour and twenty minutes at 325 degrees, or until done. Let cool in pan 20 minutes.

GLAZE
Mix together:
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 cups powdered sugar
2 to 5 tablespoons syrup from pears
Beat until smooth. Drizzle over cake. The butter may be omitted in the glaze.

Mrs. A. L. (Lucy) Holley's GERMAN BISCUITS

1 package dry yeast
2 cups buttermilk
1/2 cup shortening
3 tablespoons sugar
2 cups flour
1/4 cup warm water
1 teaspoon soda
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
Sprinkle yeast on water and set aside. Measure other ingredients together in mixing bowl, add yeast and beat well. Add flour and knead into a dough ball. Flour a container with cover and put dough in and seal. Place in refrigerator until ready to use. A small amount can be used at a time. Make into buns and let rise 30 minutes before baking. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until brown.

PEANUT BRITTLE
2 cups sugar
1 cup white Karo
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup peanuts
2 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 teaspoons soda

1/2 teaspoon salt
Combine sugar, Karo and water and let cook until it spins a thread. Add peanuts and cook until a light golden brown. Remove from fire, add butter, soda and salt. Pour on greased platter or cookie sheet.

HONEY CANDY ROLL
1 cup dry milk powder
1 cup plain or chunky peanut butter
1 cup honey
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Mix all ingredients. Shape in bite size rolls. If desired, roll in powdered sugar, roll in wax paper and chill before cutting.

Mrs. Marvin B. (Charlene) Woodbridge CHILI CON QUESO
2 pounds velveeta cheese
8 ounce package longhorn cheese
3 cans cream of chicken soup
1 8-ounce jar Picante sauce
Melt cheese in saucepan over low heat. Add chicken soup and Picante sauce. Simmer over low heat 30 minutes. If too thick, add 1/2 cup water. Serve with chips.

Mrs. Darrel (Nelda) Reagan's TACOS
2 pounds ground beef
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 can Campbell's chili soup
1 can Campbell's tomato soup
1 tablespoon chopped cherry peppers
24 taco shells
Shredded cheddar cheese
lettuce
chopped onion
diced tomatoes
Brown ground beef with green peppers until done.

Separate meat. Add soups and cherry peppers. Cook five minutes. Fill tacos and spread with lettuce, cheese and onion mixture.

Mrs. Darrel (Nelda) Reagan's POLISH POTATOES
4 potatoes, peeled and diced
1 onion chopped
4 pieces Reynolds Wrap
Put potatoes and onion in a square of aluminum foil with 1 tablespoon butter, salt and pepper. Cook in oven 350 degrees for one hour.

Mrs. Alan (Gwen) Tinnerstet's NEVER FAIL PIE CRUST
5 cups flour
2 cups Crisco plus 3 tablespoons Crisco
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
Beat one egg and add enough water to make 1 cup. Add 1 tablespoon vinegar. Makes 5 pie crusts. Refrigerate until ready to bake.

SWEET AND SOUR SAUCE
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup pineapple juice
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 teaspoons vinegar (optional)

Thicken with cornstarch if desired. Thickening is helpful for ham because of the excess juice. Either chunk, tidbits or 1/2 slices of pineapple.

To make it "Hawaiian" you may add green pepper (diced or sliced) and sweet red pepper, soy sauce and salt (omit mustard).

If you cook this while away from home, use a low heat (300 degrees) and cook covered perhaps 2 hours. It helps to baste tips or ham while cooking to prevent dryness and burning.

Sweet and sour sauce is good over pork chops or steak, small pieces of beef, meat balls or turkey.

TASTING TEA — Officers of WCG 1979-80 include Mrs. Alan Tinnerstet, Mrs. Ronnie McDonald, Mrs. Paul Chappell, Debrah Underwood, Mrs. Darrel Reagan, Maggie Cross and Joann Dickson who are tasting tea from a Chinese teapot symbolizing their present study of China.

NBA Roundup

By The Associated Press

Indiana Pacers Coach Bobby Leonard is crying foul play.

"The officials just killed us," Leonard said Wednesday night after the Pacers lost 112-102 to the Seattle SuperSonics, who were whistled for only 19 fouls in the game, compared to 28 for Indiana.

Kings 120, Celtics 99
Scott Wedman scored 32 points, 14 of them in the fourth period, to guide Kansas City to their seventh victory in eight games.

Boston, which has lost seven of its past eight games, trailed by five, 84-79, going into the final quarter as Cedric Maxwell scored 20 of his 35 points in the third period.

But Wedman and Bill Robinson, who had 17 points, led the Kings on a 14-4 burst and Kansas City pulled away for an easy victory.

Hawks 111, Blazers 110
Center Wayne Rollins scored on a layup with seven seconds left in the game to extend Atlanta's longest winning streak of the season to five games.

Ron Brewer hit two free throws with 10 seconds left to give Portland a 110-109 lead. But Atlanta called a timeout and then got the ball to the 7-foot-1 Rollins for the winning basket. John Drew led all scorers with 36 points for Atlanta.

Portland now has lost five in a row.

John Williamson scored 28 points and Bernard King had 25 for New Jersey, and the two keyed an 11-2 spurt midway in the fourth quarter that gave the Nets a 94-87 lead after trailing 85-83. King had seven points in that stretch and Williamson four.

King also hit four crucial foul shots that gave New Jersey a 103-93 lead with two minutes to play.

76ers 107, Cavs 94
Bobby Jones' fast-break basket with 6:38 left in the first period snapped an 8-8 tie and Philadelphia cruised to an easy victory over Cleveland. Reserve guard Ralph Simpson — playing for Doug Collins, who was in Benton, Ill., for his father's funeral — scored 20 points to pace the 76ers.

Bullets 112, Jazz 102
Elvin Hayes and Kevin Grevey led a second-half romp and gave Washington its fifth victory in six games while New Orleans lost its 19th in 23.

Hayes (33 points) and Grevey (22) combined for 35 points in the second half and led a rally that brought the Bullets from a 55-49 deficit to an 81-77 lead after three quarters.

Spurs 119, Nuggets 101
The Spurs got 30 points from George Gervin and 29 from Larry Kenon to rout Denver before a record home crowd of 15,219 and end the Nuggets' winning streak at six.

Denver jumped to a 15-12 lead, but the Spurs scored 11 straight points — six by Kenon and five by Gervin — to take the lead for good.

Bucks 123, Suns 118
John Gianelli sank an eight-foot hook shot with 30 seconds left for the go-ahead basket, 119-118, and Kent Benson recorded assists on Milwaukee's last three baskets as the Bucks edged Phoenix.

After Gianelli's shot, Benson then assisted on buckets by Quim Buckner and Marques Johnson, who wound up with 22 points for the Bucks.

Clippers 119, Lakes 117
Kermit Washington's tip-in as time ran out gave San Diego its first victory in four games and snapped a four-game Los Angeles winning streak.

Lloyd Free led all scorers with 31 points, 11 in the fourth quarter to help fuel San Diego's comeback.

Rockets 104, Warriors 103
Moses Malone hit two free throws with 15 seconds left to give Houston a 104-99 lead, and the Rockets held on to hand Golden State its fourth straight victory.

Malone, a 6-foot-10 center, scored 30 points and grabbed 21 rebounds.

BRADSHAW HAS ARRIVED — Terry Bradshaw, quarterback for the Pittsburgh Steelers, relaxes on a sign after arriving at his motel in Miami as Super Bowl week begins. The Steelers face the Dallas Cowboys for the Super Bowl XIII Jan. 21st in Miami's Orange Bowl.

Bradshaw credits faith

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The man expected to lead the Pittsburgh Steelers to an unprecedented third Super Bowl victory Sunday is a big, blond bear with a marshall heart.

"I am basically shy," said quarterback Terry Bradshaw as he nervously fidgeted in the spotlight that goes with being the Most Valuable Player of the National Football League.

"I am not used to this kind of attention. I would be a lot happier sitting out there at poolside by myself spitting tobacco."

The road to the top in his profession hasn't been easy for the 6-foot-3, 215-pound veteran, who has suffered

Preston wonders: 'Do the Cowboys care?'

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — It seems Preston Pearson always has something to prove.

He has been traded away from two National Football League teams — Baltimore and Pittsburgh — and now he is wondering if the defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys really care about him.

"I'm 34 years old and I can do anything any 21 year old on this team can do," said Pearson, who is used as a receiver on third down passing situations.

"I told Coach (Tom) Landry that this was the last team I will play with. I'm not interested in other teams," said Pearson. "But now I just might think about it after Sunday's Super Bowl. You've got to think about yourself in this business."

Pearson was set free by Pittsburgh three years ago and Dallas was the first team to call.

"I appreciated that," said Pearson. "I sure didn't appreciate (Pittsburgh Coach) Chuck Noll. I was done wrong. He put me on waivers to make a place for a rookie (Mike Collier) who is no longer in the league. His reasons were not justified."

"He said I was slow... that I was old. Here I was just 30 and he had me going downhill."

Pearson became a sensation with the Cowboys, particularly on third down when Roger Staubach was passing out of the Shotgun formation. He ran well before Tony Dorsett beat him out for the tailback slot at midseason of last year.

"I appreciated that," said Pearson. "I sure didn't appreciate (Pittsburgh Coach) Chuck Noll. I was done wrong. He put me on waivers to make a place for a rookie (Mike Collier) who is no longer in the league. His reasons were not justified."

"I appreciated that," said Pearson. "I sure didn't appreciate (Pittsburgh Coach) Chuck Noll. I was done wrong. He put me on waivers to make a place for a rookie (Mike Collier) who is no longer in the league. His reasons were not justified."

"He said I was slow... that I was old. Here I was just 30 and he had me going downhill."

Pearson became a sensation with the Cowboys, particularly on third down when Roger Staubach was passing out of the Shotgun formation. He ran well before Tony Dorsett beat him out for the tailback slot at midseason of last year.

"I appreciated that," said Pearson. "I sure didn't appreciate (Pittsburgh Coach) Chuck Noll. I was done wrong. He put me on waivers to make a place for a rookie (Mike Collier) who is no longer in the league. His reasons were not justified."

"He said I was slow... that I was old. Here I was just 30 and he had me going downhill."

Landry, Noll appreciate championship defense

MIAMI (AP) — Boring? The Super Bowl? Not a chance, say Chuck Noll of the Pittsburgh Steelers and Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys.

They're two coaches who appreciate the finer points of the game of pro football, namely the art of keeping points off the scoreboard rather than piling them on.

That's why they're here and 26 other National Football League coaches aren't.

To some, many of the past National Football League title games have been called, for lack of a better word, boring. Noll and Landry, both defensive assistant coaches before ascending to their present posts, shrug aside such suggestions.

"I saw the past couple of Super Bowls that we weren't in, then I read accounts of the game afterward and there was a difference between the game I read about and the game I saw," Noll said Wednesday.

"I guess I have an appreciation of defense and one of the things you're going to find in championship games are pretty good defenses because you don't get here unless you have a good people who really appreciate and understand the game — and by that I mean all facets of it, not just points and bombs — appreciate how exciting Super Bowls really are."

Landry, too, seemed almost to recoil at the thought that Super Bowls are boring. "How can you say that? The Super Bowl is almost like constant sudden death. You can make mistakes during the season, lose games, then make up for it the next week."

A&M shoots Hogs in overtime

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — The 15th ranked Texas Aggies, who died by the free throw last week in Dallas, survived by the free throw last night en route to a 74-69 overtime victory over 11th ranked Arkansas.

"I'm going to shoot 100 free throws in practice tomorrow," said Aggie guard Tyrone Ladson, who sank two pressure free throws with 59 seconds left in the overtime to secure the victory for the Aggies.

"And I'm going to count them," laughed Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf.

Ladson, who missed four free throws in the final minute last Saturday in A&M's 78-76 loss to Southern Methodist, almost was the goat again when he missed a free throw with seven seconds left in regulation play that would have given A&M a three-point lead.

Instead, the Hogs whipped the ball down court to Tony Brown, who popped in a 25-foot jump shot at the final buzzer to tie the score at 62-62 and force the overtime period.

But after the Aggies edged to a 68-66 lead in the overtime, Ladson went to the line again and calmly pumped in two free throws that proved to be the winning margin and Rynn Wright's tip in with 21 seconds to play and completed the hard fought comeback.

The victory upped the Aggies' SWC record to 3-1 and dropped the Razorbacks to a 2-2 mark. Arkansas is 10-3 for the season and the Aggies are 14-3.

The loss marked an unhappy milestone for Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. It was the first time in Sutton's five years at Arkansas he had lost three games in a row.

The Aggies held a sub-par Sidney Moncrief to 10 points in his lowest output of the season and used an effective zone defense to keep all Razorbacks blocked from the inside with the exception of freshman Scott Hastings, who scored all 20 of his points in the second half.

"People are gonna zone us all year because we're not a good shooting team and that's a way to neutralize Moncrief," Sutton said. "There was something wrong with Sidney Moncrief tonight. I've never seen him play like that. He lost the ball a couple times and missed some easy shots."

Steer netters smash Ector

The Big Spring Steer tennis team opened the 1979 season by sweeping their matches from Odessa Ector. Both the boys and the girls scored 9-0 wins in totally dominating their opponents.

The first District 5-AAAA match of the year, scheduled against Midland here last Saturday, was postponed due to bad weather. It has been rescheduled for January 25.

It was the first match of the new year for the Steers. As the score indicates, the team had no problem in defeating Ector. Last Saturday's District match with Midland was postponed due to the weather. It has been rescheduled for Jan. 25 in Big Spring.

This weekend, the Steer netters travel to Odessa High for district action. Odessa lost its first district match with Cooper 14-4.

The Bronchos show strength in the girls singles. The Big Spring netters plan to counter with the experience of four senior girls.

Joni Cline has yet to lose a match this season and appears ready for this Saturday. Her personal record is 7-0. Cline leads all Steer performers.

Big Spring now has a season record of 7-1, with a good chance to improve on it at Odessa.

Hangin' out

by Nathan Poss

Peter Aschkenasy, a wealthy restaurant owner in New York City, recently opened his second eating house in Manhattan on 33rd Street, only a walking minute from the new Madison Square Garden. Aschkenasy calls the place Charley O's. He already owns another restaurant by the same name at Radio City.

Aschkenasy opened up Charley O's because of complaints that there were no longer any more sports hangouts in the Big Apple like Toots Shor's old place. The walls are dotted with many hilarious quotes from the sporting world that belong in the pub rather than on the field.

There are quotes from Bob Lemon to Raquel Welch to Tom Landry to Tug McGraw. Here are some of the more notable excerpts. On a picture of a mustard jar, pro pitcher Darold Knowles' famous line: "There isn't enough mustard in the world to cover Reggie Jackson."

Rod Gilbert, asked if hockey fights are faked: "If they were faked, you would see me in more of them."

"Tom Landry is such a perfectionist, if he was married to Raquel Welch, he'd expect her to cook."

The Tug McGraw quote is: "I met my wife in an East Side bar. We had a lot in common. We were both from California, and we were both drunk."

"I had my bad days on the field, but I didn't take them home with me. I left them in a bar along the way." — Bob Lemon

On a large menu to order food is the infamous line of Illie Nastase: "I didn't report the loss of my American Express Card because whoever stole it is spending less than my wife."

Aschkenasy's favorite shows a Dallas Cowboy being carried off the field on a stretcher, with the words of Pete Gent spoken to a Cowboy rookie: "Don't bother reading Landry's playbook, kid. Everybody gets killed in the end."

I read a lighthearted but true quote in a national magazine recently that I'm sure will someday make the walls of Charley O's. It was the present coach of the New York Jets Walt Michaels, speaking on the value of statistics: "Statistics are like loose women. Once you get them, they let you do what you want with them."

Woody Hayes is catching deserved abuse from all kinds of people lately. Sportswriters, television and radio announcers, and even Johnny Carson. Carson, on his monologue, said: "The shah hired a bodyguard today. Woody Hayes." Another was: "Hi, I'm Woody Hayes for Master Charge. I am accepted everywhere because I have clout."

But comments from sportswriters and Carson should be expected. One thing that's not expected, however, are comments from his wife in a newspaper and — or magazine. In early December, before most recent Woody Hayes incident, a Detroit newspaperman printed an article about some questions asked Ann Hayes, Woody's wife, at a recent banquet in which she filled in for her more controversial half.

When asked about public reaction to Woody, Queen Anne of Hayes, the former First Lady of Columbus, replied: "A lot of people say you either love my husband or you hate his guts. That's not true. I love him and I also hate his guts."

She later told of a discussion that she had had with Hayes about his public image created by the media. "They had this kid from the Ohio State paper call me on the phone one night and ask if Woody was interested in Ed Weaver's job as athletic director. I said to him, 'Listen, sonny, we never get into those things. Either we're talking about love, or making love.' I'm saying this when you should walk into the house but the man himself. He looks at me in horror. He says, 'What if he prints that?' I look at him and say, 'If you're lucky, you'll come out like a sex maniac. It'll help your image.'"

Lombardi Award tonight

HOUSTON (AP) — UCLA linebacker Jerry Robinson still has his front teeth but hopes he might have all the other qualities of Pittsburgh's Jack Lambert and make it as a small linebacker in the National Football League. "They say linebackers are supposed to weigh 235 and I don't think he (Lambert) is more than 218," Robinson said. "He's got his front teeth out and he's just like a wild man out there. I like to see him because he's an underdog actually, because of his size."

Robinson's size, currently 212, was good enough to make him a starter three straight years at UCLA, earn All-America honors and become one of four finalists for the Lombardi Award, symbolic of the nation's outstanding lineman.

The award will be presented tonight by Texas Gov. Bill Clements at a $100 per plate dinner with proceeds from the crowd of 1,100 going to the American Cancer Society for research.

Other finalists for the ninth annual award are Outland Trophy winner Greg Roberts of Oklahoma, and Penn State defensive tackles Bruce Clark and Matt Millen.

Robinson admits there is concern among pro scouts about his ability to play inside linebacker.

"Ninety per cent of them talk about moving me outside and the rest don't say anything," Robinson said.

NCAA committee makes rule change

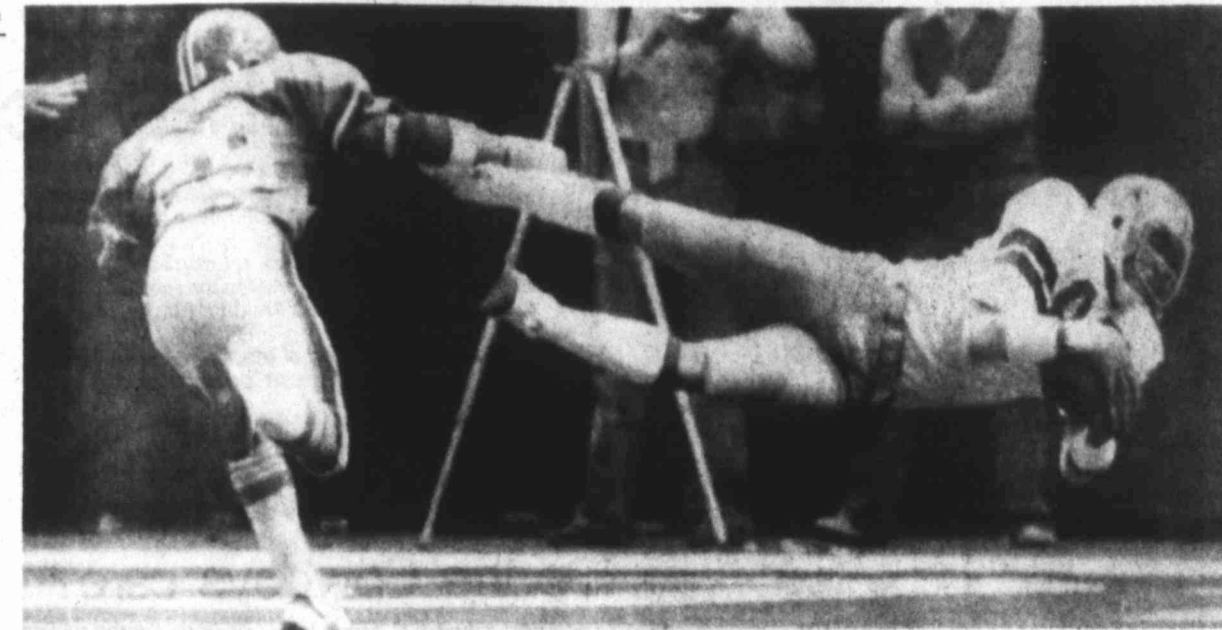

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — A set of new rules announced by the National Collegiate Athletic Association Rules Committee won't change the game of college football much, but should make the game safer for players, a committee spokesman said.

The 14-member NCAA Rules Committee, who met this week in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, issued no major rule changes Wednesday but toughened penalties for unnecessary roughness and dead ball fouls.

The committee also extended rules governing blocking below the waist to backs coming out of the backfield and to fouls committed by the receiving team on a punt or field goal.

The new blocking ruling outlawed blocking below the waist more than three yards downfield by backs coming out of the backfield. Present rules cover linemen but not backs in that area.

The committee also ruled that fouls committed by the receiving team after a punt or field goal has crossed the line of scrimmage does not result in the kicking team receiving another down.

SPECTACULAR CATCH — Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Butch Johnson is shown making TD grab in last year's Super Bowl. This year Johnson feels that the Cowboys have overlooked his talents without reason.

Globetrotters excite local crowd

By CARLA WALKER

"First, we have to show the crowd that we know how to play basketball, then when they respect us as players, they can laugh with us as comedians," said Marques Haynes of the Harlem Globetrotters. "If we couldn't play ball people would say we were just a bunch of clowns."

But, during the first quarter of their Big Spring game, the Harlem Globetrotters showed themselves to be good basketball players before getting down to the serious business of making people laugh. Haynes displayed his dribbling talents in the third quarter, a ball handling exhibition that amazed the crowd.

"The Globetrotters have so much to offer to a player. I've been in over 90 countries, played with a lot of great players and have been able to keep a sense of humor through it all," said Haynes.

"We don't have to play with a 'winning at all costs' attitude. We are doing what we love — playing and making people laugh. We've had players that could have gone to the pros and made more money, but money isn't everything," said Haynes. "You've never heard of a Globetrotter walking out on the team over a contract dispute."

"(The Globetrotters) have scouts that go to the colleges. I was lucky enough to get picked and went to the training camp," said Haynes.

"We keep enough veterans on the squad from year to year that we have some continuity," Haynes said.

"There is a lot of time spent away from our families," said Haynes. "It takes a lot of understanding on their part, and I guess we are all lucky enough to have families that do understand."

"The team is sort of a big family. Sometimes we get lonely away from families, but we all work together, play together and help each other out. We're a team in every sense of the word," Haynes noted.

Haynes didn't mention his own uncanny dribbling skills, but did admit to helping Jimmy Blacklock, one of the younger players who did some fancy dribbling in the fourth quarter of the Big Spring game.

"He's coming along real well," said Haynes. "Mostly, he just watches and practices. That is what it takes on most of our drills and things, and these guys certainly don't mind the practice — I guess we all love the game, away from the audience as well as in front of it."

"And, if we didn't love what we do, we couldn't fool people," said Haynes. "The crowds can sense insincerity, and if we weren't laughing at ourselves and enjoying it, they'd know and we'd be out the door in a hurry."

"All the joking around and the jabber is natural," Haynes said. "It goes on during the neighborhood games and every 'play for fun' game when a bunch of players of any age or skill get together. That's what makes the game work for us and for the enjoyment of the crowd."

MARQUES HAYNES IS AGING but he still displayed some of his famed dribbling skills last night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Miller can't explain prolonged slump

PHOENIX (AP) — The mystery of Johnny Miller continues. "People keep coming up to me and asking what happened," Miller said. "If I knew, I'd be the first person in the world to tell them."

The game — the rifle accuracy with the irons, the almost casually deadly putting — that dominated golf a few short years ago, has deteriorated. He's reaching the stage of life when most players are at their peak.

He's never played worse. In the three years starting in 1974, Miller won 14 tour titles. In the last three years he's won none at all.

In 1974 he won $353,021. Last year he won $17,440. "A few years ago," he said while waiting for the rain clouds to disappear over the weather-troubled Phoenix Open, "almost every time I got in position to win, I won."

"Now I can't even get close. I'm trying to work my way up, improve my game so people aren't surprised when I finish as high as 25th."

"I think I'm trying too hard, swinging too hard. I was always tinkering with my swing."

In other first round matches, Kate Latham defeated Britain's Sue Barker 6-4, 6-4 and Rosemary Casals defeated Francoise Durr of France 6-4, 6-4.

Proell shatters record

MEIRINGEN, Switzerland — Anne-Marie Moser-Proell shattered a course record and won her fourth consecutive downhill race, posting an easy victory over West Germany's Irene Epple.

Moser-Proell was clocked in 1 minute, 36.14 seconds, beating the track record by more than a second. It was her 55th World Cup triumph, including 33 in the downhill event.

Epple was clocked in 1:37.44 while Bernadette Zubriggen was third with a time of 1:37.66.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGNER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JAN. 19, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: One of your best days in a long while to coordinate your efforts with persons so that you can reach an accord that can be satisfactory for some time to come. Impress others with your abilities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Combine your efforts with those of associates and get excellent results today. Avoid one who is troublesome. Be happy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put your surroundings in apple pie order and use that artistic flair you have so it looks more charming. Take it easy tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) After your work is done, visit with congenials and go to places of amusement. Much affection for your mate is important now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do whatever will make conditions at home more favorable and add to harmony. Think along optimistic lines.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show more consideration of the ideas of friends and get along better with them. Attending a group affair in the evening is fine.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make changes that will increase the value of your property. Budget your assets well and know exactly where you stand financially.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) State your personal aims to others and gain their assistance so you can easily attain them. Take advantage of a new opportunity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Investigate whatever is puzzling you and come with the right answers. Have more rapport with mate and be happier.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good day for being with as many good friends as you can after your work is done. Strive for increased happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take time to engage in important civic matters early in the day. You can expand now where career matters are concerned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Many new interests and projects come to your attention today, so be sure to study all you can about them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Put your hunches to work which will assist you in gaining greater progress in the future. Avoid one who is belligerent.

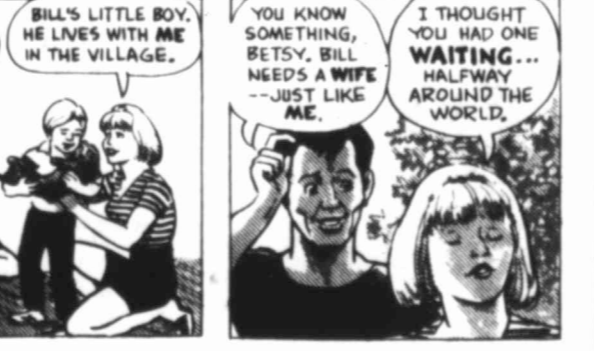

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will automatically understand the motives and ideas of others, so be sure to direct the education along the lines of psychology for best results. A precisionist is in this chart. Don't neglect ethical studies early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

No verdict yet in Davis trial

HOUSTON (AP) — Jurors sent out questions and requests but no verdict, leaving the fate of millionaire murder solicitation defendant Cullen Davis still in the balance as deliberations resumed today.

The panel on six occasions sent messages to District Judge Wallace "Pete" Moore Wednesday, prompting a flurry of activity among lawyers and reporters expecting a possible verdict.

The jurors asked to hear all of the tapes of telephone calls and personal meetings between Davis and FBI informant David McCrory — a request the prosecution viewed with satisfaction.

"I don't think it can hurt us for them to keep hearing the tapes," prosecutor Jack Strickland said. He predicted after the jury made that request that a guilty verdict was imminent.

"Today?" he was asked.

"Yeah," he answered.

But no verdict came, and defense hopes began to lift.

"If they listened to the tapes and didn't come back soon with a guilty verdict, then that is a big plus for the defense," a veteran Houston defense lawyer said.

The jury had three choices — convicting Davis of solicitation of murder, convicting him of conspiracy to commit murder, or acquitting him. Conviction carried a sentence of up to

British truckers cause concern for government

LONDON (AP) — The Labor government is considering declaring a state of emergency in the hope that the threat of army intervention will end the truckers' strike strangling British industry and threatening a nationwide food shortage.

With some 500,000 workers laid off by companies starved for raw materials or glutted with output they cannot ship out, government and business leaders warned of disastrous effects on the economy if the two-week-old disruption continues.

Railway service also was halted by the second 24-hour engineers' strike in three days.

Prime Minister James Callaghan summoned his Cabinet today to discuss invoking the Emergency Powers Act. This would enable the government to requisition trucks and order troops to move essential goods.

The act was last invoked for four months in 1973-74 during a coal miners' strike.

It was under consideration because union leaders were unable to get the strikers to comply with a pledge by the leaders to free shipments of livestock fodder and other key supplies.

A food shortage, though not apparent yet on market shelves, was described as inevitable as production slumped to 10 per cent of normal. Some hoarding by shoppers was reported.

National newspapers, thinned by paper scarcity for a week, reported only about three to four days' supplies available.

At the Southampton docks, $34 million worth of goods were stranded in a jam that will take weeks to clear. Shippers said they were losing $4 million a day.

"In the last two weeks we've lost a lot of our export credibility," said a spokesman for the Confederation of British Industry.

The strike began by a wildcat action Jan. 5 and became official a week ago. The truckers demand a 22 percent pay raise to $130 a week.

Although only 58,000 of some 400,000 truckers are striking, the effect has been magnified by secondary picketing of supermarkets, manufacturers and other firms served by the trucking companies.

Other labor disputes also were plaguing Britain.

WRECKAGE AFTERMATH — A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter collided with a private helicopter Wednesday killing five people at the Opa-Locka (Fla.) airport. The remains of the coast guard helicopter is shown as workmen shift through the burned wreckage.

Ape-like creature said to be 'oldest ancestor'

CLEVELAND (AP) — An ape-like creature that strode the savannahs of Africa 4 million years ago has been identified as the oldest known direct ancestor of man, anthropologists said today.

The creature, dubbed the Afar ape man, walked upright with a human-like body but had the face and brain of an ape.

The discovery shows that humans and apes may be more closely related than was previously imagined, said Drs. Donald C. Johanson of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History and T.D. White of the University of California at Berkeley.

Afar ape man also proves that human ancestors were walking on two feet millions of years before they made stone tools, he said.

Some anthropologists thought it was the evolutionary pressure to free their hands for the use of tools that pushed men up from the stooped ape posture.

Robert Radcliffe of the National Geographic Society, which cosponsored the research, said Johanson's conclusions were important because they suggest that man did not develop in a straight line from the primates as anthropologists thought until recently.

The findings are expected to cause considerable controversy in the scientific community, Radcliffe said Wednesday.

He said that noted paleo-anthropologist Mary Leakey already has disputed Johanson's contention that the Afar ape man's bones are from a truly new species, arguing that they are from early direct ancestors of modern man.

Casing established at Howard prospect

Casing has been set at a Howard County prospect and a confirmer was finald in Martin County.

North American Royalties, Inc., Midland, was moving off rotary after setting 7-inch casing at 10,668 feet on total depth of 10,868 feet at its No. 1 T.W. Williams Estate, in 11-34-2n-T&P.

Howard County unidentified prospect, 17 1/2 miles north-northwest of the depleted Knott (Pennsylvanian and Spraberry) field, 2 1/2 miles west and slightly north of the re-opener and lone producer in the Knott, Southwest (Pennsylvanian reef) field and two miles north of Knott.

It indicated production with the recovery of 515 feet of gas and 90 feet of gas-cut drilling fluid, with a slight trace of oil, on a drillstem test in an unidentified zone at 7,469-590 feet.

The Knott field produced from the Pennsylvanian at 9,106 feet and from the Spraberry at 7,707 feet.

Martin Confirmer The Lacaft multipay field gained its fourth Wolfcamp producer and a 3/4-mile southwest extension to that pay with completion of Mitchell Energy Corp., Houston, No. 1-13 University, Martin County project, 29 miles north of Midland, for 133.5 barrels of 36.5 gravity oil, plus a trace of water, with gas-oil ratio of 395-1.

Production was through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations at 9,770-852 feet, which had been fractured with 50,000 gallons and 49,500 pounds of sand.

Scheduled as a wildcat and as a Devonian and Fusselman test in the Block 7 field, it was drilled to 13,015 feet, with 4 1/2-inch casing set at 9,984 feet and plugged back to 9,920 feet.

Location is 990 feet from the north and 1,980 feet from the west lines of 13-7-RK Petroleum Lands.

Midland, completed as a 3 1/2-mile southeast and 2 1/2-mile northwest extension to the Martin County portion of the Spraberry Trend Area, separated from the latter by a 12,142-foot failure, its No. 1 Anchor, scheduled wildcat, eight miles north of Tarzan, for 55 barrels of oil, plus eight barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 800-1.

Production was through a 12-64-inch choke and perforations at 9,230-358 feet, previously identified as Dean.

Drilled to 10,915 feet, 4 1/2-inch casing was set at 9,520 feet.

Location is 5,076 feet from the south and 1,980 feet from the west lines of 252-Ward CSL.

Brownwood will not extend contract of superintendent

BROWNWOOD — The Brownwood board of school trustees have voted not to extend Supt. Howard Murchison's contract beyond the remaining two years. The decision was reached on a 4-3 vote.

A motion made at the Monday meeting of the board suggested a one-year extension of the pact. Board President Grady Chastain cast the tie-breaking vote. Murchison has been at odds with several of the board members during recent months, especially in area of policy.

One of the major bones of contention, it was revealed, was the extension of football coach Gordon Wood's contract beyond the 65-year mandatory retirement age. At that time, Murchison indicated he did not approve of the proposed action.

On Jan. 8, Murchison notified the board he was releasing them from an annual review of his contract. However, the trustees decision on the review anyway.

More AAM supporters en route

Tractors cumbersome

WASHINGTON (AP) — Slowmoving tractors may hinder the already encumbered wheels of Congress if American Agriculture Movement demands are ignored.

Angry farmers planning to sow the seeds of their discontent in the nation's capital are herding their rigs toward Washington.

Approximately 700 tractors are already en route, and Gerald McCathern, a Hereford, Texas, farmer and AAM leader, said hundreds more will join the caravans before they reach Washington.

McCathern warned members of the Texas congressional delegation Wednesday that if the demands for 90 percent of parity are not met, then congressmen can prepare to drive to work behind a slow-moving tractor.

"We don't want them to come but they are going to come if we don't get what we need to stay in business," said McCathern. "We don't intend for this to be a threat. It's a plea... we don't intend to pillage, loot and burn. We're just exercising our constitutional rights. We're coming to peacefully demonstrate."

"If you have traffic tied up here for a few weeks, you might win," said Hance, a freshman whose West Texas district is strongly agriculture-oriented. "But you're playing with dynamite, you might win, but on the other hand, you might make many people so mad that you'll never win."

The farmers presented several lists of statistics giving credence to their claims that America's farmers are being priced out of business.

"Anytime you have a large diverse group, you have some arguments that are very good and some that don't make sense," said freshman Rep. Phil Gramm, a former Texas A&M economics professor. "I would support a resolution calling for renegotiation of our trade agreements with Japan and Europe demanding a lowering of tariffs and quotas against U.S. agriculture products... our primary thrust has got to be to open up expanded markets to increase demand."

Washington streets, Congress must pass a resolution calling for full implementation of the current farm bill. Specifically, parity levels must be raised to the bill's maximum—90 percent.

Reps. Ray Roberts, Abraham "Chick" Kazen and Kent Hance urged the farmers to take a "positive, gentlemanly approach" to their lobbying.

"If you have traffic tied up here for a few weeks, you might win," said Hance, a freshman whose West Texas district is strongly
