Seven persons still missing

Apartment fire kills 14

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP) — A fire of suspicious origin at a five-story apartment building in Hoboken's waterfront district Saturday killed at least 14 persons and injured 19 others in a firestorm of collapsing brick and timber, authorities said.

Rescue workers used a crane to search for seven persons still missing more than 12 hours later in the rubble caused by the collapse of the roof and two top stories.

"There's no reason to believe the missing are not dead," said Joseph Lecocq, executive director of the Hudson County Red Cross.

"It was an inferno. It was the worst fire for fatalities I've seen in my 30 years on the force," said Deputy Fire Chief Francis Hunsinger.

"The bodies were pretty well mangled because of the roof collapse. Many of the extremities were burned off. It was a real mess," Hunsinger said.

At least five children were among those killed, authorities said.

Administrator Sally Suarez of St. Mary's Hospital said 14 persons, including two police officers and one firefighter, were treated and released and five others were admitted.

Police Chief George Crimmins said "it was pretty well confirmed that it was arson." He said an unspecified accelerant, a substance used to fuel fire, was found in a first-floor hallway, where the fire was believed to have started.

"We are suspecting arson because of the location of the start of the fire ... and the rapidity with which the fire spread," said city Fire Marshal Ray Falco.

Detective Vincent Lombardi said when he arrived on the scene "flames were shooting out the upper windows and the building was fully involved."

Authorities said 48 persons in eight families lived in the 75-year-old apartment building, in a mixed residential and industrial section near the Hudson River piers across from Manhattan. Most of the residents of the building are of Hispanic origin.

Manual Roldan said his family was awakened by the smell of smoke. He said he led an elderly woman and his niece to safety, and his brother-in-law tried to help others from the building.

"Finally, he couldn't take it anymore, he had to leave," said Roldan, speaking through an interpreter. "I don't know what we'll do now, but we all got out safe," he said.

Human skeleton found on ranch

A human skeleton was found Friday afternoon on the property of Woody Robinson southeast of town. It was lying in a pasture on the ranch located near Midway Road. Sheriff Deputy Bill Whitton said they have no clue into the identity of the skeleton.

The skeleton was found about two miles from the ranchhouse. The skull was under some trees and the bones had been scattered downhill away from it as far as 200 feet. All the bones were lying on top of the ground.

Some scraps of clothing were with the bones but Whitton said too much of the cloth had disintegrated to tell if the clothing was men's or women's. It is also impossible to identify what article of clothing the scraps had been.

Lyn Carpenter came upon the skeleton while he and his father, Curtis Carpenter, were searching for a bobcat they had knocked down while hunting the night before.

Robinson, rancher, carpenter, and head of the local carpenter's union, said he had "no idea at all" about the identity of the remains and added, "Me and the boys had been all over that pasture hunting deer" and hadn't seen the remains.

An ambulance was called to pick up the bones and take them to Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

The Department of Public Safety Crime Lab in Austin will probably try to identify the remains from the teeth and dental records of missing persons. Whitton said he didn't know at this time if other tests would be run.

He also said that some teeth were still connected to the jaws of the skull and that he had picked up some that had been scattered on the ground.

Massey, law enforcement pro, enters city council contest

John C. Massey, director of law enforcement technology at Howard College, has thrown his hat into the ring in the Big Spring City Council race.

Massey, 1502 Nolan, will vie for Place Three, the post presently occupied by council member Polly Mays.

"This is really my first campaign for public office. I am really interested in the city, and have worked with many of its citizens, and I would like to be more a part of it," said Massey.

The candidate served as an officer with the Lubbock Police Department for nine years. He received a Bachelor of Science degree from Wayland Baptist College in Plainview in 1974, and has additional graduate credits in law enforcement administration from Sam Houston University in Huntsville.

He has resided in Big Spring since the summer of 1975 when he moved here to join the staff of Howard College.

His wife Donna is employed in the accounting department of the Big Spring State Hospital. They have two sons, David, 13, a Goliad Junior High School student, and John Jr., 15, a Big Spring High School student.

"One of my major concerns is

better cohesiveness in the community. I would like to work together with the citizens to fulfill the goals of the city," said Massey, "I think there is some disparity in areas of the community, and with my background of dealing with all segments of the community, I think I would be good at bringing these groups together," he concluded.

To challenge government

Moslem religious leader vows to return to Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Khomeini told the Iranian people Saturday he will end his 14-year exile "in a matter of days" and return to Iran to build an Islamic republic and directly challenge the government installed by the shah.

Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar "has only the military now, and that's not 100 percent," said a Bakhtiar associate.

Tehran Radio reported new political violence Saturday in the southwest oil center of Ahwaz, where 30 died or were injured last week. In the capital, more than 1,000 persons shouting "Hail to Khomeini!" peacefully marched near Tehran University, one day after Khomeini supporters marched by millions throughout the nation.

There were new signs of a split in the military between pro-and anti-shah factions, and of growing divisions in the ranks of the political and religious opposition to the "vacationing" shah.

The 78-year-old Khomeini issued a statement from his suburban Paris headquarters-in-exile, saying, "I will join you very soon. With God's help, I will be in your service in a matter of days."

Ibrahim Yazdi, an aide to the Moslem religious leader, said preparations were being made for Khomeini to return some time next week, but he would not be more specific. Khomeini was forced into exile by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in 1964, and last year he rejected the shah's offer to return.

Yazdi said Khomeini may soon announce a five-man Revolutionary Council for the transition to an Islamic republic. Yazdi said he foresaw participation of members of the National Front, the political opposition to the shah, in a future government.

The Tehran newspaper Kayhan quoted a "reliable source" as saying Karim Sanjaby agreed to step down temporarily as chief of the Front so he can join the Revolutionary Council. The report said Khomeini insisted members of the Council belong to no political organization.

But a National Front spokesman said he had "no information at all on this report" and said he thought it was not true.

It was unclear what response Iran's 430,000-man armed forces would have to Khomeini's homecoming. Gen. Abbas Gharabaghi, chief of the joint staff, said last week military leaders could prevent a coup only if Khomeini acted within the framework of the constitution — which provides for a constitutional monarchy.

Recent freeze further reduces citrus crops

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A recent hard freeze killed 40 percent of Texas' citrus crop and 75 percent of its lettuce and cabbage crop, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said Saturday.

"Coupled with the freeze in California and short crops in Florida, this means higher prices in the food store," Brown said.

Limb damage to crops was so severe that only a half-crop is likely for Texas citrus growers next year, Brown added.

Rio Grande Valley citrus growers shipped 17 million 40-pound cartons last year; the outlook for this season is 10 million cartons.

The harvest season usually extends into May, but the agriculture commissioner said this year's harvest probably will be all wrapped up by the end of February because of the freeze. Texas inspectors handled 4 million cartons of lettuce and cabbage last year. Only 900,000 cartons have been inspected this year, with the harvest virtually complete.

Brown halted all shipments of oranges and grapefruit from Texas' Rio Grande Valley for 12 days, from Jan. 7 through Jan. 18, so any freeze damage would be evident to Texas inspectors.

"Our inspectors are working around the clock helping them move it out. We have 35 inspectors, and they have turned very little of the citrus crop down," Brown said.

"Right now, the quality is very good and consumers can buy it with absolute confidence."

He credited a training program involving growers and processors.

Thursday night, after the embargo was lifted, 33,000 40-pound cartons of grapefruit and oranges were shipped out.

Four injured in accident

Four people appeared to be seriously injured in a major accident around 9:15 p.m. Saturday in the 1000 block of W. 3rd.

Tracee Ridgeway Grantham, 18, 704 E. 3rd, was the driver of a vehicle which went out of control, striking a utility pole and a fence.

Passengers Jeff Moorhead, Sheila Kinman and Russel Sharpnack were also injured. All were transferred to Malone-Hogan emergency room, but additional information including the extent of the injuries, was unavailable at presstime.

Officer Troy Hogue of the Big Spring Police Department investigated the accident.

'WHO ELSE COULD THEY PICK?' — That seems to be the reaction of Maticore Honeybear, a Pekinese belonging to Annette Borders of Abilene. The Pekinese looks sure he'll win top honors at the Big Spring Kennel Club All Breed Dog Show and Obedience Show in the Dora Roberts Fairbarn Saturday. Typical of his breed, Honeybear's expression appears either conceited or sad, according to the mood of the observer.

Weather

Cold front moves quickly over state

A fast-moving cold front zipped through Texas Saturday, dumping rain and ending a string of fairly balmy days.

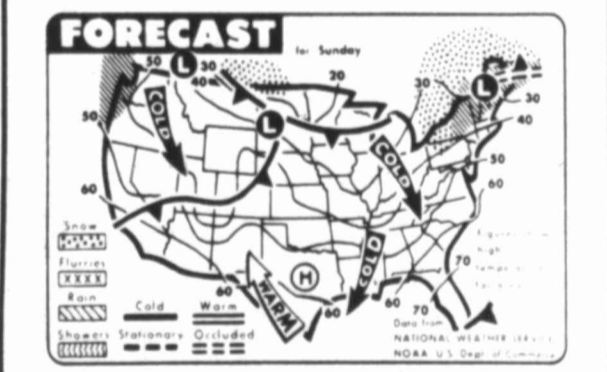

Rain mixed with some snow and sleet fell from Gainesville to Abilene and fog darkened much of North Texas before sunrise broke through in the early afternoon.

Most of the state was under cloudy to partly cloudy skies.

Rainfalls were generally light, but one station in Northeast Texas reported more than two inches.

Temperatures dropped behind the front, with extremes ranging from 32 at Amarillo to 68 at Brownsville.

Forecasts called for scattered snow and sleet in North Texas, with cold overnight temperatures. Somewhat milder readings were expected Sunday across the state.

WEATHER FORECAST — Precipitation is forecast for New England, western and central Canada and the Pacific Northwest for today, according to the National Weather Service.

Stacy dam testimony

Oil boom to last 50 years in West Texas

Resurgence of the oil industry has set in motion growth trends which will last the next 50 years in West Texas, Dr. Howard W. Grubb, director of the planning division of the Texas Department of Water Resources, said in Austin Wednesday.

the energy industry decline, other industrialization in West Texas will more than take up slack in providing additional jobs. The importation of Alaskan oil from the West Coast will have a further stabilizing effect, he said.

Dr. Grubb was defending his section's population projections on which engineers have based the Colorado River Municipal Water District's application for a 554,000-acre-foot lake at Stacy, 25 miles southeast of Balingier.

When attorneys for the opposing Lower Colorado River Authority complained that the population projections were too liberal, Dr. Grubb said "I'm the one who argued for lower estimates," which he regarded as quite conservative.

After nearly 50 days of testimony, the Texas Water Commission is pushing to close hearings on the application, and this may be accomplished Tuesday in Austin. Written briefs then will be due by Feb. 9, and at 9 a.m. Feb. 16 the Texas Water Commissioners will ask attorneys about points in the briefs. O.H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD, hopes a decision will be made soon afterwards.

LCRA expert witnesses, including Dr. James Vinson, Austin economist, had used 1976 population figures which are from 20 to 70 per cent lower than ones for September 1978 and which CRMWD used to support its demand estimates.

Dr. Grubb explained that the 1976 low projections came before "the phenomenal activity" brought on by the oil industry resurgence could be reflected in population formulae. Smaller counties, like Howard, are especially sensitive to change, and for this reason Howard's remarkable recovery after closing of Webb AFB caused its projections to be revised sharply upward.

Fred Werkenthin, LCRA attorney, argued that the estimates changed too rapidly and were capricious. He found fault with Dr. Grubb's prediction that Austin peak around the end of the century, then decline somewhat.

Robert S. Gooch, CRMWD hydrologist, told the commission that LCRA's estimates of impact of the proposed Stacy reservoir on the Highland Lakes of the LCRA were distorted because they imputed all effect on Lake Buchanan, the uppermost lake.

Where LCRA had shown various Colorado watershed dams since 1937 had reduced the Buchanan drainage area to 5,421 square miles, Gooch said a more realistic figure was that the Highland lakes had 11,838 square miles drainage due to tributaries below Buchanan. Moreover, the drainage area cut off by upper dams was much less productive in runoff than that in the lower portion above Lake Buchanan, he added.

He rejected the predictions contained in graphs and texts which Charles Herring, LCRA general manager, had circulated around Austin on the eve of the hearings to show that in drought period Stacy would "dry up" Highland lakes. Even when Stacy is built, LCRA will have 263,000 acre feet of water surplus to its 2030 needs, Gooch declared.

His figures showed that in only two years since 1942 would Stacy have reduced Highland lakes to 600,000 acre feet reserve and in only five years to the 1,000,000 acre foot level.

Garden City show starts

The 22nd annual Glasscock County Junior Livestock Show will be at Garden City today and Monday. Judging will be inside the heated Glasscock County Independent School District bus barn.

Preston Farris, Martin County Extension agent from Stanton will judge the steers and lambs, with Joe Behrands, swine producer from Voca judging swine.

The swine judging will begin at 1 p.m., with the lamb judging beginning at 7 a.m. Monday. Steer judging will follow the lambs, and all will be completed by noon, when the barbecue begins.

Immediately after the meal, which is served in the school cafeteria and is free to the buyers, the premium livestock auction will begin.

Martin County CC banquet to be this Monday night

STANTON — Ronnie Christian takes office as the new president of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce here Monday night, when the annual membership banquet will be held. The program gets under way at 7 p.m. in the Community Center.

Christian is assistant manager of Cap Rock Electric Cooperative. The new first vice-president of the body is Mrs. Latrell Welch while Mrs. Susan Hall will serve as the second vice-president.

Mrs. Welch owns a dress shop here while Mrs. Hall is a florist.

New Chamber directors will also be sworn in. The new board will be made up of Christian, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Welch, Jess Miles, Paul Crosthwaite, Robert Jeffcoat, George Harrill, Raymond Walton and Donnie Hall.

This year's banquet was moved from the Cap Rock Coop building to the Community Center because a remodeling project has not been completed at Cap Rock.

The Roy Koonce family will provide musical entertainment during the program, with comedy relief. There will be no guest speaker.

Price of tickets was lowered this year from $7.50 to $5, something very rare in these inflationary times.

Christian succeeds Terry Neill, Stanton newspaper publisher, as the chief officer in the chamber. The Outstanding Woman and the Agri-Person awards will also be presented. A special public service award will also be handed out during the program. Master of ceremonies at the banquet will be Jimmy Mathis.

Outstanding seniors honored

The Morning Optimist Club honored a senior girl and boy from each of the area high schools as part of their youth appreciation ceremonies at their regular breakfast meeting Wednesday.

Receiving the honors were William Gresset and Carie Poynor of Forsan High School; Tracy Frazier and Debbie Reid, Coahoma High School; and Brenda Bell and Michael Don Evans, Big Spring High School.

Gresset, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Gresset, is in the top 15 percent of his senior FHS class. He has participated in the football program four years making all-district during his junior year. He is a three-year and track programs during high school. He also attended the Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar in 1978.

Since the age of four or five years, Gresset has been helping his father with ranching chores. During the last year, he has been managing the 10-section ranch on his own since his father took another job and turned the ranch work entirely over to the high school senior. Gresset has been accepted into the Texas Christian University Ranch Management Program for this fall.

Miss Poynor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Poynor. She has served on the student council of FHS as a representative and as vice president. During her sophomore year, she became a member of the National Honor Society and served as vice president of the organization during her senior year. She was chosen member of Star Club and has participated in basketball by Texas Electric Service Company to represent her high school at the Nuclear Science Symposium on the campus of the University of Texas in Austin.

A cheerleader for two years, Miss Poynor was also a four-year band member and was honored as the outstanding concert performer, secretary of the band council, outstanding marcher, honor band member and drum major.

She was a member of the debate team for three years, earning a first place in district, second in regional, and second state debate competition. WE ARE CONCERNED WITH YOUR HEALTH

The dispensing of a prescription medicine is much more than an ordinary transaction. A doctor has determined that a specific drug will help a person with an illness and he has given careful instructions as to the name and strength of the drug, the amount to be taken, and for how long it should be used.

As your pharmacist, we have translated these instructions and from them prepared your medicine. Often, we must give you additional information as to storing the prescription, possible side effects, possible reactions with other products and other cautions.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Political system hampers reform

By SCOTT CARPENTER and JIM DAVIS
AUSTIN—The overriding goal of the 1979 Legislature should be to give Texas their money's worth in state government.
 It's an impossible goal. Any large and complex organization is going to have some waste and inefficiency. But improvements can be made if the desire and will are there.

The political system hampers reform by giving disproportionate clout to small, powerful special interest groups which see the public good in terms of their own needs.
 These groups range from professions represented by high-paid lobbyists to state administrators protecting and expanding their own bureaucratic fiefdoms.

They know how to get their messages to legislators: friendship, social contacts, gifts, free meals and drinks, political contributions.
 Messages from the general public come over more circuitous routes: opinion polls, letters to editors, street-corner grouching, votes on tax-relief and bond propositions.

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF EDUCATIONAL FUNDS

ELIGIBILITY—Those eligible to apply are descendants and spouses of persons who were employed for a minimum of one year by either the late Mr. Sid W. Richardson or by an organization in which he had a substantial business interest during his lifetime, or who subsequent to his death have been employed for a minimum of one year in a business enterprise which is a continuation of a business in which he had a substantial interest.

Limited funds are available to assist in defraying cost of college education and of vocational training. These scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis according to academic achievement and financial need. Eligible persons applying for aid for the academic year beginning in the summer of 1979 must file application forms prior to March 31, 1979.

Direct inquiries to Sid Richardson Memorial Fund, 2103 Fort Worth National Bank Building, Fort Worth, Texas 76102 and include information establishing basis for eligibility.

Legislators should be hearing a clear message from the public these days—that taxes are too high and governmental services too inefficient. And they would like to reply with lower taxes and improved services.

But every proposal to cut waste or tighten bureaucratic belts is going to affect some special interest group and bring howls of protest.

Legislators this year will have two principal weapons in attacking the fat in state government: appropriations and the sunset process.
 Speaker Billy Clayton says the legislature will be especially tough this year in doling out money. But even with the tax-relief amendment approved by voters last November, legislators will have a surplus to spend and can avoid hard decisions on budget cuts.

making a hard decision, do so.
 The sunset process puts the question of efficient government into sharper focus. Sunset is designed to ferret out waste and duplication, and to some extent it has been successful so far.

The eight-member Sunset Advisory Commission the past year pointed out duplication of service and conflict of interest in several agencies. The publicity alone brought improvements.
 Despite special interest pressure, the commission recommended abolishing, merging or modifying 24 of the 26 agencies reviewed. But the commission can only recommend, and special interests have been busy making points with various legislators through personal contacts and political contributions.

How legislators handle the sunset process this year should show how serious they are about cutting costs and eliminating waste in state government.
 At the very least, the process will force legislators to make the hard decisions

Bandsmen booked for two contests on all instruments, color guards and rifle drills. This is the fourth year for the contest but the first year that other schools have been allowed to enter. Schools from Klondike, San Angelo, Forsan, Coahoma, Stanton, and Borden County will participate.

UIL stopped letting seventh and eighth graders participate in their solo and ensemble contest so area band directors asked Waggoner to allow area schools to participate in the Big Spring contest. Six judges will be deciding the results.

The UIL contest will include just high school students from the region. Participating Big Spring instrumentalists will include woodwinds, brass and percussion. The contest will be held at Midland College in Midland. The band members will take buses to the contest.

Pendulum clocks popular

YORKTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — There is no time like the old time, Oliver Wendell Holmes said, a long time ago, and Sy Wittner is here to tell you he was right, especially if the time is kept on an old-time clock.

What is clear, if that isn't, is that Americans by the droves are plainly anxious to have for themselves one of those old pendulum clocks that once hung in schoolhouses and post offices across the land, telling the hours of a non-digital day.

"We never dreamed they would have this appeal," Sy Wittner said. "It's all we can do to keep up with the demand."

Sy, and his wife, Shirley, operate what is itself a rarity, a mail-order antiques business. They call it, appropriately, Pony Express System, and those old clocks are their main stock in trade.

They hang in close-order ranks and files from every available wall of the Wittner plant, ticking and tocking and chiming and wagging their pendulums, an army of restless crickets.

Downstairs, the odor is of turpentine and varnish, the scene busy. Crews fueled by modern rock music work day and night restoring the clocks, packing them, sending them on their way.

For Sy and Shirley Wittner, time wasn't always, er, money.

A few years ago they ran a small-scale antiques business, a literal mom-and-pop operation, which itself had grown from "Shirley's Swap Shop," a sideline by which mom had earned pin money while pop earned a salary in an advertising agency.

Then, like an unbelieving prospector stumbling upon the mother lode, Sy one day discovered a huge cache of the old clocks.

"I will not reveal the supplier," he said, "but I am able to certify the authenticity of every one of the clocks. They were made in New England, most of them in Connecticut, generally between 1890 and 1910. Hundreds of thousands were produced at that time."

The clocks are basically alike, varying mainly in decorative detail and the type of wood used for the cabinet.

Most have an octagonal frame around the face, others a round frame. The pendulum swings in a narrower frame below. The whole clock measures about 22 inches long and 15 inches wide.

Before restoration they look a perfect mess, the sort of unfixable rubbish anyone would toss out of an attic without a second thought.

Because of his great supply, however (he says he had access to more than 100,000 at the beginning), Wittner has been able to salvage parts from identical clocks that were truly beyond repair.

In the restoration process, Wittner removes the clock's machinery, etches it with a code number, numbers the cabinet, then reunites the two after they have been refurbished separately.

"It took a while to develop the system because I could find no precedent for doing restorations on this large a scale, about 100 clocks a day. The system seems to function, though."

Valentine ads on sale

By LORRAINE LANGFORD
 Signs of Valentine's are appearing all around the campus of Big Spring High. Valentine ads for the special Valentine's issue of the Corral will go on sale next week. Students from the Journalism Department will have a table just outside the cafeteria. If you have any questions, see Ms. Strong, Corral Adviser, in the Journalism room. All messages will be published in the February 14 issue. It will cost 10 cents a copy, but everyone wants to see what message that special person sent to them.
 There are all kinds of ways to show your sweetheart how much you care. In fact, the French club's annual love bud sale starts February 1. They will cost 1.25 each. Telegrams both singing and sealed, will also be on sale. Love buds and telegrams will be delivered on February 14. Elaine Brown is in charge of love bud sales. The French Club plans to use the money to go to a state French contest.
 There will be a brief Ksy Club meeting next Tuesday at 6:00 p.m. After the meeting, they will assist the March of Dimes in the Mother's March against birth defects. The march will cover the Western Hills addition. Don Sawyer is the chairman of the project.

 All students interested in Medical Explorers are urged to come to the meeting Feb. 21, at 7:00 p.m., in room 219, at the V.A. Hospital.

will be presented some time in February. The title of the melodrama is "The Lamp Went Out", the setting is the 1920's complete with a barbershop quartet. The villain will be played by Ron Clanton and the heroine will be Teresa Alexander.
 Despite some grumblings, Runnels' six week tests were being given last week, and report cards will be distributed Wednesday, January 24. Many students found it difficult to get back in the groove after the lengthened holiday period.
 Recently Runnels started a contest for best behavior at lunch break and at special assemblies. Competition is keen as the contest continues to gain momentum. The end of the contest will be celebrated with a sock hop.
 The second and third period clothing classes, taught by Mrs. Betty Conley, held a patchwork pillow contest. Winners in second period were: first-Susie Parra; second-Sylvia Cisneros; and third-Karen Rogers; Third period class winners were: first, Susie Covington, second, Sandy Martinez; and third, Sandy Ledesma.
 Volleyball intramurals were started this week and there was excitement for everyone. Coach Robbin Wall was referee for the games. The first lunch period winners for this week were: Alred Kittens, Zellars Cowboys, McCamant Steers, Hull Bulldogs. The second lunch period winners were: Miranda Raiders, Talmadge Celtics, Bonner Broncos, Shall Warriors, Bradley Wolves.
 Shades of Scotland Yard. Runnels has entered the world of detectives. A new game was started last week called Calendar Clue. Calendar Clue is a detective type game played on a weekly basis during which players receives daily clues to help them determine a person, place or thing.

History classes are making hand bills

By MELINDA CORWIN and BRONWYN ALLEN
 Every student received a free ticket to the Howard County basketball games held Monday night in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.
 Mrs. Schwarzenbach's seventh grade history classes have been studying Stephen F. Austin. The students are making signs called hand bills; these signs resemble the hand bills Stephen F. Austin used to advertise land for sale in Texas. These hand bills can be created from paper sacks, or they may be burned into wood.
 The woodworking classes, under the instruction of Mr. Laird, have been making many different things. Some of the projects are towel racks, book racks, night stands, shelves, planters, and benches. Foremen for these classes include: shop foremen Randy Herrera, Kevin McMahon, Tom Arista, and David McIntire; lumber foremen Deric Logback, Willis Gillette, Joe Flores, and Don Rossander; clean-up foremen John Childrew, Charles Morse, John Hartgelt, and Arthur Islas; finish room foremen Augustine Fiero, Charles Hudson, Tommy Gartman, and Micheal Newell.
 Mrs. Tanner's seventh grade history classes are working on a notebook about the Texas Legislature and the governor. Students are collecting clippings from the newspaper and gathering information about the inauguration of the governor.
 The library has added four new aids. They are Kristi Wise, Beverly Broadus, Kristi Foster, and Tris Clemons. Fifth period library aids, Rosie Yanez and Dawn De Los Santos designed the scene on the hall bulletin board to encourage students to check out the new books in the library.
 Advanced girls' choir section leaders include: first soprano, Hilda Hernandez; second soprano, Michelle Bowers; and alto, Dawn Ditto. The section leaders for the advanced boys choir are: baritone, Jody Martinez; second tenor, Terry Bordske; and first tenor, John DeLeon.

Beta club attends convention

By NIKKI TIDWELL
 Fourteen members of the Beta Club spent the weekend in San Antonio, attending the National Beta Club Convention. They left early Friday morning to attend various meetings and also to elect the state officers.
 All of the basketball teams had a busy week. The Junior High girls and boys were defeated by Forsan Monday. The high school teams played Grady. The girls won by a score of 37-27. Trudy Hoelscher was high scorer with 10 points and Fran Halfmann led the team in rebounds. The boys played an exciting double overtime game but were defeated by 2 points. Jorge Patino scored 16 points and he also led the team in rebounds. Next Monday 22 the seventh grade boys and the eighth grade boys and girls will play Greenwood there at 4:30. Tuesday the high school varsity teams and the junior varsity girls will play Sterling City there at 5:00. Friday 26 they will play Robert Lee here at 5:00. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday the eighth grade boys and girls will attend the Sterling City Tournament. Good Luck!
 Because of the snow and ice in the beginning of January causing school to be dismissed, two days will have to be made up. These are January 29 which is the day of the stock show and March 2 which was a teacher's work day.
 The Glasscock County Stock Show will be held January 28 and 29. The Senior Class is sponsoring a chicken supper, Sunday 28. They will start serving at 5:00 p.m. in the cafeteria. Adult plates will be $3.00 and children 12 and under will be $2.50.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, JANUARY 21, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime has no very good aspects in effect until evening and it is necessary to live the Golden Rule and refrain from making vital decisions for best results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Making radical changes in your life style is not wise at this time. Make sure your surroundings are in good condition.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Be certain to carry through with promises made and not try to get out of them. Follow your hunches which are accurate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Showing appreciation to those who have been loyal to you in the past is wise now and right. Try to be more cheerful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Plan to have a great evening with your finest talents. Your mate may be irritable during daytime but by evening will be cheerful.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Use tact at home and maintain harmony and then the evening becomes a happy one. Make sure your activities are well organized.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): Think along lines of the highest precepts through which to regulate your life in the future. Try to please your mate more.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21): Be careful not to get into any money troubles with others today. Take no risks with your reputation. Be logical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21): Well until evening to get after a particular aim and get excellent results. Take time to make plans for the days ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): It is in your best interest to handle a family situation in the evening when the planets are favorable. Be ready for the new week.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Avoid certain friends who are very determined to get what they want at your expense. Take no risks with your reputation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Make sure you do nothing that could make you a long time friend or you could seriously regret it later. Strive for happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You will get into trouble if you fail to keep a promise today. Get together with your family members and make plans for the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: He or she will be one of the most interesting young persons who will be very good at planning a course of activity and carrying through with it to a successful conclusion, provided your progeny is not too demanding with others.

The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to you!

HOWARD COUNTY LIBRARY

The design of a new home is of paramount importance to a family. It is often difficult to know what you want until you have lived with it. The best way to assure your satisfaction is to consider as many floor plans and decors as possible before deciding.

The Howard County Library attempts to make a wide range of ideas available to patrons. Some books are of the home decorating and do-it-yourself variety, while others are home building plans and contracting concepts.

A series of books called Home Planners, from Designs for Convenient Living, presents over a thousand floor plans, from under 500 sq. ft. to over 3500 sq. ft. The individual titles include: "One Story Designs" (under 2000 sq. ft.), "One Story Designs" (over 2000 sq. ft.), "1½ and Two Story Designs," "Multi-Level Designs," and "Vacation Homes."

Two other books of house plans are "Book of Successful House Plans," by Structure Publishing Company, and "House Plans: Outstanding Designs," from the Farnsworth Design Library. These include designs for apartment and duplex buildings as well as one family homes.

Each of the above listed books offers a source of complete blueprints at nominal costs.

Do-it-yourselfers will be gratified to find such items as "Carpentry in Residential Construction," by Stanley Badzinski, Jr. and "How to build a Vacation or Retirement Home," by Donald R. Brann.

For those interested in the new wave of solar energy design, the "Build-it Book of Solar Heating Projects," by William Foster and "Solar Dwelling Design Concepts," by AIA Research Corporation, may be of particular interest.

Individuals who are not so certain their manual dexterity may prefer such titles as "How to Subcontract Your House: Building-Remodeling," by Lewis Blustin.

If your plans are not so extensive, some books on interior decorating and remodeling are also available.

NASHVILLE GOES HOLLYWOOD — Singer Jim Stafford stars in the movie "The Disc Jockey," one of several recent movies filmed in Nashville. Local officials say Nashville is a potential movie-making center.

Nashville goes Hollywood

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Nashville has gone Hollywood. Scripts and sets may someday rival guitars and country music as Nashville trademarks.

This country music capital of the world is brightening up the silver screen by turning out an average of one motion picture a year. And more are planned for 1979, including the movie based on Loretta Lynn's autobiography, "Coal Miner's Daughter."

Eleven motion pictures or made-for-TV movies have been filmed in the Nashville area since 1971. The best known, of course, was Robert Altman's acclaimed "Nashville," in 1974.

Others were "Nashville Coyote," a Disney movie, in 1971; "W.W. and the Dixie Dancekings" starring Burt Reynolds, in 1974;

"Framed" starring Joe Don Baker, in 1974; "All the Kind Strangers," a television movie in 1974; "Riding the Rails" starring Johnny Cash, a television movie in 1975; "J.D. and the Salt Flat Kid," starring Jesse Turner, in 1976; "Nashville Girl" in 1976; "Wilma" starring Cicely Tyson, a television movie in 1977; "Murder in Music City," a television movie in 1978, starring Sonny Bono, and "The Disc Jockey" starring Jim Stafford, in 1978.

"Coal Miner's Daughter" will star Sissy Spacek as Miss Lynn. Additionally, three others may be shot here this year, including "A Place to Come To," starring Robert Redford, "The Sisters," about a black family that moves from the North to the South, and "Money Ball," about a plot to steal money at a shopping mall.

Also on the horizon, Dolly Parton has signed a three-movie package with 20th Century-Fox, although there's been no confirmation that the movies will be filmed here.

"The movies are coming here for a lot of reasons," said Mike DuBois, who has been active in working with movie companies in his job with the Tennessee Economic Development Department. "Mostly it's the country music background here. But they've also found it easier to work with the locals (unions) here than the West Coast unions.

"Also, it's a matter of basic cooperation here. They know how easy it is to get crews in and out of here on time."

Patsy Bruce, a songwriter who's been heavily involved in casting local talent, said Nashville has potential as a film center.

"We have a wealth of talent here," she said. "A talent director came here recently and was astounded at the talent here."

Feature fiddler to be guest clinician at music workshop

LEVELLAND — Tiny Moore, once the featured fiddler with Bob Wills and the Texas Playboys, will be guest clinician for a country-bluegrass music workshop sponsored by South Plains College.

The two-day workshop is scheduled Feb. 23-24 and will be climaxed with Moore's featured performance at SPC's monthly country-bluegrass jamboree Saturday night, Feb. 24.

The fiddle and mandolin from a western swing and jazz viewpoint, jazz theory, improvisation, working in bands and ensembles, and arranging for fiddle and mandolin will be topics Moore will cover. The announcement came from John Hartin, director of SPC's country-bluegrass music program, one of the few in the world offering a college degree in the subject.

Workshop time is 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4 p.m. both days in SPC's country-bluegrass band hall.

Cost is $40, and the workshop is open to anyone interested.

Moore, who now operates a fiddle and mandolin manufacturing business in Sacramento, Calif., toured with Wills during his heyday in the mid-1940's and Wills' successor in country music Merle Haggard. Moore was known for his inventive mandolin solos. He doubled on the fiddle.

The band moved its base of operations to Sacramento in the late 1940's, and Moore decided to remain there when Bob Wills and the Texas Playboys took to the road again. Wills named Moore as manager of the Wills Point Ballroom, center of operations.

When television brought an end to the ballroom phenomena, Moore decided to go into the electronic media. His first television show was short-lived, but a local children's show he starred in as Ranger Roy lasted six years until a labor dispute in 1960.

Moore then began teaching music and opened his own music store, still in operation today.

Then began the second phase of his remarkable career. Merle Haggard requested him to do an album in tribute to Bob Wills, "The Best Damn Fiddle Player," and Moore later joined Haggard's band full-time for shows at Lake Tahoe, Reno and around the country.

Lemmon's son stars in comedy

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The new NBC comedy "Brothers and Sisters" is your basic dumb college fraternity show, saved by a refreshing young cast that wades through the naughtiness with innocence intact.

It's not really clear whether the new series is a hip "Dobie Gillis" or a throwback to comedies of the 1930s. It was, for sure, inspired by the hit movie "Animal House," as were CBS' "Coed Fever" and ABC's "Rat Frat."

"Brothers and Sisters" premieres Sunday, after the Super Bowl, then moves to a regular Friday night spot later in the week.

It stars Chris Lemmon as Checko, Jon Cutler as Zipper, Randy Brooks as Ron, Larry Anderson as Harlan, and Amy Johnson as Marilyn.

The jokes are right out of a fraternity skit night. When a girl tells Checko after a date, "It was nothing," he replies, "I know it was nothing, but you'll get better with practice."

In the premiere show, Zipper, the series' answer to Blutto of "Animal House," bets his tuition with Pi Nu president Harlan that he can get a girl into his room by midnight. Ron says, "Tell her you're a virgin and you have a month to live."

Zipper asks, "What am I dying of?" Ron says, "Stupidity."

Does he win the bet? Are you kidding? The girl, incidentally, is played by Mary Crosby, daughter of the late Bing Crosby.

Indeed, Chris Lemmon is the son of two-time Oscar winner Jack Lemmon.

"I studied acting with David Alexander, who was my father's teacher," says Lemmon, who had to drop out of class when he landed the role.

"Dad's given me pointers off and on. We're very close. He cares about his art, and we communicate so well there's no way he didn't pass things on to me."

Lemmon, 24, does seem very much like a young version of his father, who did two situation comedies with Chris' mother, Cynthia Stone, in the infant days of television. His parents are divorced.

SHOOTING SITE — This was the scene outside the two-story Victorian apartment building near San Francisco's Golden Gate Park on Friday night where at least four persons were shot, one of them fatally, in what began as a dispute over a parking spot. Officers said the gunman was holed up in the upstairs apartment. The police, bottom, entered the building through the open windows in the first floor apartment in their attempts to capture the sniper.

Wyeth painting found

BOSTON (AP) — A $50,000 painting by Andrew Wyeth was recovered less than three hours after it was reported stolen from a private club near the Massachusetts statehouse, police say. Officers said the painting, reported missing from the Union Club on Park Street Friday night, was found later in an apartment on Myrtle Street in the Beacon Hill section. They would not say how they found out where the painting was.

Orchestra tries for record

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The Springfield Symphony Orchestra hopes to make the Guinness Book of World Records on Sunday night by preparing the world's largest get-well card for Boston Pops conductor Arthur Fiedler. The 84-year-old maestro — who is recovering from minor brain surgery — had been scheduled as guest conductor for the performance at the Springfield Civic Center. Each member of the audience will be asked to sign a get-well message that will be weighed on stage and sent to Fiedler in Boston on Monday.

FRASER, Colo. (AP) — The 500 residents of this frigid mountain community hope to put their town back on the map — the weather map — if the National Weather Service reopens its Fraser cold-weather checkpoint. Not much else happens here, but temperatures often drop as low as 40 degrees below zero and that sometimes drew national attention before the weather bureau closed the station in 1975. Now, a meteorologist at Colorado State University says the station may be reopened.

Repairman is charged

PARADISE Valley, Ariz. (AP) — Police said Saturday they have charged an appliance repairman in the shooting death of the wife of Keith Jenkins, the corporate attorney for the Phoenix-based Greyhound Corporation. The body of Betty Jenkins was found Monday night on the kitchen floor of the couple's home in this Phoenix suburb and police discovered $28,000 worth of jewelry missing. Acting Police Chief Don Nyström said Anthony James Pierce, 30, an employee of the ACC Co. in Mesa, had been in the home several days earlier to work on a washing machine.

Police beat Three houses looted

Burglars were active Friday, as three residences were reported burglarized. Ronald Terry Winn, 1310 Virginia, reported that over $180 in items were stolen from his residence between 8 p.m. Friday and 8:45 a.m. Saturday. Among the stolen items were an AM-FM radio-eight track stereo unit, a CB radio and a stereo equalizer. The dash and interior of the vehicle were damaged also. Several guns and over $100 in change was taken from the residence of Danny Morales, 2504 W. 16th, sometime after 1:45 p.m. Friday. The total value of two rifles, a shotgun, a revolver and the change was approximately $1,295. Haynie, Garden City Rt., and Ralph D. Baker, 301 Willard, collided at 7:20 p.m. on US-87 just south of FM 700.

Man jailed after chase

Ricky Murphy, Knott Route Box 16, has been arrested on suspicion of attempting to elude Howard County Sheriff's deputies Robert Puente and Anthony Rios in a high speed chase Thursday around 8 p.m. The 18-year-old white male allegedly raced away from the deputies when they approached his car, almost striking them. The two deputies chased a brown Ford at speeds exceeding 75 mph. The suspect turned north on SH 87 off of Leatherwood Road. He then turned off his lights and turned on to a dirt road that led the chase behind a fiberglass plant. He lost control of the vehicle and collided with some trees. The man resisted arrest and deputies reportedly had to force him from the car. Murphy is being held in county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

WHIPKEY GIFT — Heritage Museum curator Gerri Atwell and a past president of the museum, Jerry Worthy, admire art willed to the repository by the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Whipkey. Mrs. Whipkey, who died recently, had maintained a deep interest in the museum and its mission.

Mrs. Whipkey bequeaths paintings to museum

When Ruby S. Whipkey died recently, she left more than her contributions to the community through activities as a memorial. She also bequeathed a priceless piece of pottery and three valuable paintings from her estate and that of her late husband, Robert W. Whipkey. These were willed to the Heritage Museum and are now on display there. Mrs. Whipkey had maintained a deep interest in the museum and its mission. The pottery is an extremely rare piece by the famous Maria Montanez, the Tewa Indian from San Ildefonso Pueblo, N. M., described by one of her biographers, Susan Peterson, as "one of the great figures in the pottery world of this century. She became a legend in her lifetime." The work, "Rain Cloud," is a simple black-on-black foot bowl, one of two commissioned in 1932, and decorated by her painter-potter husband, Julian. His design of a raincloud, terraces, and rain-far off was conceived to bring rain to all people and is executed in a technique discovered in 1919 by Julian. Two of the paintings are by the late Porfirio Salinas, now recognized to have been one of the most accomplished Texas landscape artists, particularly of scenes with a hill country setting. J. Frank Dobie accounted him as not only an excellent but an "honest artist," for if Salinas saw a tree leaning, or caught it when leaves were shedding or putting one, that is how he painted it. Largely self-taught, Salinas did get the advice and help of a couple of San Antonio artists, and his work was good enough during the Depression to put a few dollars on the Salinas table when his father couldn't find work. Dewey C. Bradford, who became his good friend and agent, described how he was struck by the first painting he bought from Salinas for only $6 (Salinas mistook the surprised look on Bradford's face when he quoted the painting for only $12, so he cut the price). Before Salinas died early in 1973, his paintings were commanding well into four figures. Salinas is best remembered for his landscapes, skies, his cactus, yucca, etc., but for relaxation he painted the swirling motion of Spanish dancers and bullfights. One of the two paintings the Whipkeys bequeathed to the community is a large canvas of an oak, with typical Texas landscape and summer sky. The other is of changing autumn colors beside a brook. The third picture, a striking study of hills by Paul Grimm, rounds out the gifts of Mrs. Whipkey in her will. Maria Montanez early was recognized as a gifted potter of her people, and when archeologists found fragments of black pots they asked her recreate the original shes of ancient black pots. After extensive experimentation, she developed this black-on-black skill in 1918. In 1932, Rod Merritt, a boyhood friend of R. W. Whipkey in Colorado City, was at the Inter-tribal Indian Ceremonial in Gallup, N.M. and was impressed deeply by an example of Maria's work. He commissioned her to do two food bowls of somewhat similar design, and one of them he and Mrs. Merritt gave to Mr. and Mrs. Whipkey as a wedding present in 1933. It bears the signature "Marie," with her Sky Spirit symbol which makes it unmistakably genuine and priceless, according to M. M. Grammer, Albuquerque, N.M. Indian art expert and appraiser. No wonder, for in her time, Maria was honored by the American Institute of Architects, New Mexico Indian Artists, University of Colorado, Chicago Century of Process, Ford Motor Company, Golden Gate Exposition and many others for her flowing beauty in pottery.

District 5-AAAA

Midland High clinched the first half District 5-AAAA championship with a 56-26 win over Midland Lee before 4,000 people in the Chaparral Center on the campus of Howard College.

Lee came out and attempted to stall, but Midland took the lead and as revenge ran the stall themselves. By the end of the third stanza, Midland led by a weird score of 34-8.

Walter Bryson led all scorers in the game by scoring 18 points for Midland. Roy Lee Jefferson scored 12 and Charles and Herbert Johnson chipped in with 10 each for the Bulldogs. Ernest Merritt was high point man for Lee with 10.

Midland ended up 7-0 in the first half action, while Lee was 3-4.

The Odessa Permian Panthers took a 38-47 decision over Odessa Friday night.

The win gave Permian a district record of 4-3, while OHS slipped to 0-7. The game was played at the Permian fieldhouse.

Brad Kerley and Duane Adams scored 12 and 10 points, respectively, to lead Mojo. Danny Wright was the high point man in the game with 22 for OHS, while Alfred Rodriguez added 12.

Abilene Cooper escaped with a narrow 53-51 win over crosstown rival Abilene High in an exciting game played at Taylor County Coliseum Friday night.

Kyle Stuard's layup with 16 seconds provided the winning margin for Cooper. Stuard scored 19 points to lead Cooper, with David Williams adding 13 and Terry Orr 12. Abilene's Derrick Caballero ped his team with 14 points.

The win gave Cooper a first half record of 6-1, while Abilene fell to 4-3.

A&M, Texas leading SWC

Aggies rally over Tech

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Rudy Woods, who sank the go-ahead basket with 11:20 left in the game, scored 21 points to lead his 15th-ranked Texas A&M to a 68-63 Southwest Conference basketball win over Texas Tech Saturday night.

Tech took a 35-30 lead into the locker room at halftime. The Red Raiders used up much of the clock looking for their open men, and compiled a blistering 70 percent first half shooting percentage. Texas A&M had trailed Tech most of the game when Woods scored the layup that gave the Aggies the lead for good, 48-47.

David Britton, who scored 12 points, and Rynn Wright with 16 paced the Aggies during the crucial final period. Tech almost stole the lead back with 5:22 remaining in the game when A&M was ahead by three. A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf received a bench technical and Tech's Kent Williams connected on the two resulting free throws, cutting the margin to one. Tech then had three opportunities to go ahead, but the A&M defense held strong.

The win gives Texas A&M a 4-1 record in SWC play and sets up a game against Texas Monday night to determine the conference leadership. Tech fell to 3-3 in the league.

Cougars bomb past Rice Owls

HOUSTON (AP) — Victor Ewing and Ken Williams combined for 53 points Saturday night as the Houston Cougars bombed the Rice Owls 101-75 in Southwest Conference basketball action.

The win lifted the Cougars to 10-8 for the year and 2-5 in the conference. Rice dropped to 5-11 on the season and 2-4 in league play.

Ewing had an incredible first half, shooting 10 for 10 on his way to a game high of 28 points. Williams added 25 points and George Walker dropped in 21, 17 of those from the free-throw line.

Elbert Darden, the high-point man for Rice, had 17 points, but was unable to help the Owls who dropped their 15th straight game.

CONCENTRATES, TIED FOR LEAD — 1976 U.S. Open winner Jerry Pate, of Pensacola, Fla., glares at his drive on the 13th tee as he tied for the lead with a five-under-par 66 in the first round of the rain-delayed Phoenix Open Saturday at the Phoenix Country Club. Pate tied with at least two other players; Lon Hinkle of Carrollton, Texas, and Jim Colbert of Wesley Chapel, Fla. Golfers will play a shortened 3-round, 54-hole tournament.

Texas bombs USC

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas shut off Southern California's inside shooters and Tyrone Branan and Jim Krivacs fired in 47 points — mostly from long range — as Texas won an 87-68 inter-sectional basketball victory Saturday.

The nationally televised triumph for Texas, defending champions of the National Invitation Tournament, was the 22nd at its new basketball arena without a loss.

In defeating Southern California, Texas also avenged one of its five losses last year.

The Texas state defense held Southern California scoring star Cliff Robinson, a 6-foot-9 sophomore, to 13 points.

Branan, only 6-7 and once considered too slow to play major college basketball, poured in 25 points and was selected the game's outstanding player. Krivacs pitched in 22 points. Both players had been averaging about 18 points a game.

HOW THEY COMPARE — Chart shows statistics comparison of the defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys and the Pittsburgh Steelers. Teams will meet in Super Bowl XIII at the Orange Bowl in Miami Jan. 21.

Bobcats rally by Steers, 59-58

The San Angelo Bobcats took advantage of an errant last second shot and numerous missed free throws in the final minutes to rally and take an exciting 59-58 victory over the Big Spring Steers in Steer Gym Friday night.

Big Spring had led for most of the game, but the Bobcats relied on a pressing defense and muscle on the boards to overtake the Steers.

Big Spring, led by the play of seniors Wilbert Grant and Mark Poss, raced to a 16-8 lead at the end of the first quarter. The lead could have easily been more, but the Steers could not capitalize on numerous scoring opportunities created by their outstanding defensive hustle.

San Angelo cut the lead in the second quarter, but the Steers still had a 31-26 lead and control of the ball with 1:30 remaining in the half. Big Spring went to the delay game, but it backfired, as bad passes twice were intercepted by the Bobcats and converted into three points to narrow the lead to 31-29 at the halftime.

Big Spring came out and scored the first ten points of the second half and led 41-29

San Angelo, behind the shooting of Rene DeLeon and Greg Evans rallied to 46-42 at the end of the third stanza. Wilbert Grant was on the bench at this time with four fouls, and his absence hurt.

Big Spring's Poss, who scored more than half of the Steers points with 30-point effort, made a twisting shot from a midair with 4:27 remaining on a three point play to increase the Bovine lead to 54-47.

Grant fouled out shortly afterward, and the Bobcats took advantage to score eight straight points and take a one-point lead with less than two minutes left.

Poss then gave the Steers a 56-55 lead with a one-handed sky toss, but San Angelo quickly scored to again take the lead.

Steer forward Robert Lera then made two free throws to give the Steers a 58-57 lead with 1:10 remaining.

Moments later, San Angelo's Mark Ryan missed a tying free throw, but the Bobcats pushed their way to the eventual win when an unidentified Bobcat finally tipped in a field goal in a very physical battle under the basket.

Big Spring would have two chances to win the game. With 25 seconds remaining, Poss missed a tying free throw, with a San Angelo's is Greg Evans being fouled by Big Spring's James Magers on the rebound.

San Angelo's Evans missed the free throw, with Big Spring taking the rebound. Following a missed Steer shot, Poss and San Angelo's Bill Sullivan tied on the fight for the ball. Big Spring then received the ball out of bounds due to a violation on the jump ball by San Angelo.

The Steers then quickly got the ball to Poss, but he was heavily surrounded by a horde of Bobcats. Poss passed to Mike Evans, whose shot from just outside the free throw line hit the rim and bounced off as time expired.

Big Spring finished the first half of District 5-AAAA action with a 2-5 record, as did San Angelo.

Poss' 30 points led all scorers in the contest. Grant chipped in with 12 points, 10 of which were in the first half. DeLeon and Greg Evans led the Bobcats with 18 and 14 points, respectively.

Super Bowl tourists spending $100 a day

MIAMI (AP) — This sub-tropical tourist capital, teeming with the normal mid-winter crush, reeled Saturday under the impact of Super Bowl XIII.

Hotels were booked to overflowing. People queued up for hours awaiting tables at popular restaurants. It was wall-to-wall humanity at the bars and private clubs.

The Office of Tourism estimated that 60,000 out-of-town visitors had poured in by air, sea, train and private conveyance for Sunday's National Football League championship game between the Dallas Cowboys and Pittsburgh Steelers.

The football revelers figure to pump an extra $69 million into the city's economy over the week-end.

"The Super Bowl guest spends about $100 a day compared with the average tourist," a spokesman for the tourist office said.

Steeler fans poured in from subfreezing Pittsburgh, wearing arctic apparel which was quickly exchanged for attire more suitable to 70-degree-plus temperatures. Many Dallas supporters showed up in wide-brimmed sombreros and highheeled boots.

Almost all of them were wearing team colors, waving banners and blowing horns.

United Airlines said it had booked 8,000 seats from Pittsburgh to Miami for the weekend. Art Rooney, colorful owner of the Steelers, chartered a DC-8 for $50,000 to transport family and friends to the scene.

"We will have the whole Texas Air Force in by Sunday," said an airport spokesman, referring to the mass of private planes expected from the Lone Star State.

Leading hotels were completely booked. The Omni, where Commissioner Pete Rozelle and other NFL personnel blocked out 350 rooms, said there had been no boost in rates. In fact, $100-a-day rooms were going for $74 under package deals. A check of other hotels indicated no tendency toward "gouging."

The press corps was the largest in the game's history, put at more than 2,000. Most of the members were quartered at the NFL press headquarters on Miami Beach.

While private parties, celebrity tennis and golf tournaments and a variety of other events marked the pregame festivities, the highlight was Rozelle's traditional Friday night "bash," a festival of food, drink, dancing and song with a Caribbean theme. The NFL commandeered half the Miami Airport for the occasion, entertained 3,000 guests at a cost of $100,000.

Rozelle said the NFL spent $1 million for the week's entertainment and promotion.

JUST A LITTLE HYPNOTISM — Defensive tackle Joe Greene of the Pittsburgh Steelers spreads his hands as if he is gesturing hypnotically during a press conference in Miami Monday. The Steelers will face the defending champions, the Dallas Cowboys, in Sunday's Super Bowl XIII.

Except for today Dorsett still a Pittsburg fan

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Tony Dorsett, who once made a plea to the Pittsburgh Steelers to draft him, says he would be pulling for the Steelers in Super Bowl XIII — if they weren't playing the Dallas Cowboys.

At an awards banquet at the University of Pittsburgh after he had won the Heisman Trophy, Dorsett said "I've enjoyed playing high school football in this area and I've enjoyed college football, please don't let me go."

However, the Steelers couldn't draft Dorsett in 1977 because Dallas made a deal with Seattle for the No. 1 pick, taking Dorsett, who has had back-to-back 1,000-yard seasons.

"I have no regrets about being with Dallas," Dorsett told a swarm of writers. "But I'm still a Steeler fan."

Dorsett figures he will be the No. 1 target Sunday as the Steelers try to muffle the Cowboy running game early.

"I've been a marked man since I put on my uniform at Dallas. I've been through it all," said Dorsett. "Pittsburgh tries to intimidate you. The Steelers play the game the way it should be played."

"But I know I will get in my licks. I can't be intimidated. With my style of running, it's hard for a tackler to get a direct hit."

Dorsett said he hoped there would be no "cheap shots in the game. I hope it's a clean game, but you never know what's in a guy's mind."

It's been a tough year for Dorsett, although he gained 1,300 yards. He missed practice in mid-season and was benched and has fought nagging injuries — one caused by a late hit out-of-bounds in the New Orleans game.

"The more of a reputation you get the more people want to get a piece of you," said Dorsett.

He said a big turnaround in the year for him was after he had been reinstated to the first string and got hit late near the Dallas bench by Saint cornerback Clarence Chapman.

"My teammates really came to my aid and I appreciated that," said Dorsett. "I had been getting some bad press and I was wondering how the guys (teammates) were accepting me. It showed the guys respected me."

Dorsett, although he received two anonymous death threats by telephone through the Cowboy office, said it didn't bother his performances.

DORSETT A STEELER FAN — Tony Dorsett, Dallas running back, claims he's still a Pittsburgh Steeler fan. However, TD has no regrets about playing for Dallas and will do all he can today to beat Pittsburgh.

Super Bowl tight ends present different styles

OFF AND RUNNING — Veteran Dallas Cowboys tight end Billy Joe DuPree was out and running after catching pass in recent game. DuPree will be on hand again Sunday when the Cowboys meet the Pittsburgh Steelers in Super Bowl XIII at the Orange Bowl in Miami. Both the National Football Conference champion Cowboys and the American Football Conference champion Steelers have won two Super Bowl championships.

GROSS-MAN — Pittsburgh tight end Randy Grossman could have a bad taste in his mouth from some Florida fruit but he doesn't. He was just making a face at a photographer who was bugging him for a picture. The Steelers meet the Dallas Cowboys in the Super Bowl today.

Coahoma sweeps by C-City

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs swept two games from arch rival Colorado City in District 6-AA basketball games Friday night.

Angela Dykes scored 31 points to lead the Bulldog girls to an overpowering 76-41 win. Coahoma jumped out to a 26-10 lead at the end of the first quarter and were never threatened after. Griffin chipped in with 13 for Coahoma, with Hodnett and Woolburton adding 10 each. Marcum was the high point girl for Colorado City with 10 points.

Coahoma is now 4-1 in district, while Colorado City dropped to 0-5.

In the boys game, Coahoma rallied in the fourth quarter to take a 65-59 win. Colorado City led 49-48 entering the fourth stanza, but the Bulldogs outscored their opponents 17-10 in the final eight minutes to take the win.

Corbin led the Bulldog scoring charge with 23 points, while Myer's 14 points and 12 points each from Devers and Ritchey accounted for nearly all of the Coahoma scoring. Proctor of Colorado City was high point man in the contest with 24 points.

The win allowed Coahoma to tie Colorado City in the District 6-AA standing, each now having a record of 5-2.

The talk is over Cowboys meet Steelers today

MIAMI (AP) — After a million bucks in promotion and a million words of newsprint, after the incisive and banal questions, after the braggadocio and silent smiles, after pressure-point workouts and bar-hopping nights, it all comes down to one thing Sunday:

Who can play better football?

The Pittsburgh Steelers and Dallas Cowboys will each be vying to become the first threetime winner of the Super Bowl, an event that transcends mere football. It is a happening, New Year's Eve in Times Square, a presidential election, the end of a war and the biggest, if not the oldest, established permanent floating crap game and wet bar in the world.

Millions of dollars will change hands Sunday night and thereafter, when the final score of this National Football League championship game is measured against the "spread," that critical number on which the world's chancetakers build their dreams of wealth — or at least of getting even. The number rose from three to four during the week, Pittsburgh being the favorite.

It is the first rematch in Super Bowl history, the Steelers having defeated the Cowboys 21-17 three years ago at this same site. On that day, Robert Shaw raced frantically through the Orange Bowl while the Goodyear Blimp loomed menacingly over the stadium.

It was all part of the filming of Black Sunday, a motion picture depicting a terrorist raid on the Super Bowl. Robert Shaw is gone now — but the blimp remains, a fixture on the American sports scene. It will once again float majestically around the more than 79,000 fans in the stadium, a crowd that will push Super Bowl attendance over the million mark.

And the movie will be on television Sunday night, only a few hours after the game's final gun. Miami has an anti-terrorist strike force deployed to try and prevent those with guns of their own from getting strange ideas and allowing reality and fantasy to dissolve into tragedy.

The kickoff is supposed to be at 4:15 p.m. EST. It will probably be closer to 4:30. And by that time, more than two hours of Sunday's television time (not to mention the week-long buildup and a couple of Saturday night extravaganzas) will have dulled the senses of the 100 million people tuned in to watch 90 men play a 60-minute game for a winning share of $18,000 apiece — plus other playoff prize money, a gaudy ring and the glory that comes only to champions.

The players, for the most part, let their performances speak for them.

The quarterbacks are Roger Staubach of Dallas and Terry Bradshaw of Pittsburgh, the best passers in the league in 1978, having thrown 53 touchdown passes between them. The biggest difference between them is that Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys sends all of Staubach's plays to the huddle via messenger while Chuck Noll, the Steelers' coach, lets Bradshaw call the shots.

The primary runners are Franco Harris of Pittsburgh and Tony Dorsett of Dallas. Harris is a pile-driver, able to run over or bounce off tacklers, and one of the most sure-handed ball-carriers. Dorsett is a speed merchant with a knack for getting to the outside and, kicking into overdrive — but with a habit of fumbling.

RIDING ON STEELERS — Debbie Priatko of North Huntingdon, Pa., relaxes in the Florida sunshine by the family's decorated motor home in a Miami parking lot Friday afternoon. Debbie, 18, and her entire family drove down to pull for the Pittsburgh Steelers in today's Super Bowl.

Steeler quotes on the game

MIAMI (AP) — When all was said and done, here are some things the Pittsburgh Steelers said before Super Bowl XIII:

"Pittsburgh is brick and cobblestone. Dallas is neon," defensive tackle Joe Greene said of civic differences between the two teams.

"He might get the butt whipping he's asking for," defensive end Dwight "Mad Dog" White said of Thomas Henderson.

"When I put on my wig, I feel young," quarterback Terry Bradshaw said of his hairpiece.

"Empty barrels make the most noise," Coach Chuck Noll said of Hollywood

Henderson.

"Computerized football is not my kind of football. Quite possibly, playing in the old days was more fun," middle linebacker Jack Lambert said of Dallas' intricate Flex Defense.

"Maybe he's right. We'll see," fullback Franco Harris said of Hollywood Thomas Henderson.

"There's usually more shade," 6-foot-2 offensive tackle Jon Kolb said of playing opposite 6-foot-5 Harvey Martin of the Cowboys.

"He can say what he wants," linebacker Jack Ham said of Hollywood Tom Henderson.

"In Pittsburgh, we live tough, work tough. Dallas is flashy, modern," defensive end Dwight White said of civic differences between the two teams.

"Tom who?" Lambert asked.

"We like to hit people. If they call that intimidation, so be it," rookie cornerback Ron Johnson said of the Steelers' defensive style.

"I wish I had the courage to talk like that," Greene said of Henderson.

And what does Hollywood Tom Henderson have to say? "I put a lot of pressure on myself," he said, "to see if I can play up to my mouth."

THE TROPHY — This is the National Football League trophy, renamed the Vince Lombardi trophy in 1970, which will go to the winner of Super Bowl XIII.

football coach. Woody Hayes, a legend fired after his 28th season as coach at Ohio State University, was speaking for the first time publicly since his infamous Gator Bowl punching incident.

Almost 1,200 had jammed into a downtown hotel's ballroom. The national media were there — from New York, Washington, Chicago, Detroit, Cincinnati, all of the national radio and television networks.

Cameras whirred Friday as Hayes strode to the podium to launch 35 minutes of off-the-cuff remarks, apologizing to his staff and the Columbus media for breaking his post-Gator Bowl silence with an Atlanta writer.

At first, Hayes was not going to back down for hitting Clemson noseguard Charlie Bauman at the Gator Bowl — a temper tantrum that cost Hayes his job.

"The incident down in Jacksonville was a matter of an instant," recalled Hayes. "It was my attitude not to apologize and I don't apologize for anything."

Hayes did apologize to his staff, saying, "I feel very, very sorry for it for the wonderful people it has affected — my coaches, five of whom are without jobs through no problems of their own."

And later, Hayes said, "When I made up my mind to apologize, it was through the offices of men like Arch Griffin and Daryl Sanders (former players of his). There have been a steady stream of my former players in the last weeks (to his house)."

Hayes, a loyalist all of his stormy life, refuses to criticize the university for his swift dismissal. His firing by Hugh Hindman, Ohio State's athletic director, came just hours after the Gator Bowl.

His voice quivered with emotion when he again asked: "My attitude toward the university? I gave the university about everything I've had. I'm only bitter about losing that game we should have won. I'll never take it out on this university. It means too much to me."

Hayes raised his voice to its famous level only once, urging the media to support Earle Bruce, the Buckeyes' new coach.

"This organization needs all the help it can get," Hayes told the newsmen. "Now I tell you not to take pot shots. Later you will. But get on the bandwagon now."

Olympic gold overshadows pro career for fems

NEW YORK (AP) — When Carol Blazejowski and Ann Meyers see gold, it isn't stacked up on a promoter's desk to entice them into the professional Women's Basketball League. It's round, shaped like a medal, with ribbons attached, and it's dangling from their necks.

"The epitome of women's basketball now is the Olympics," says Blazejowski, rtd the best player of her sex in the United States. "My career is pointed at the 1980 Games in Moscow. Until I pass that plateau, I am making no other plans."

"An Olympic gold medal is everyone's dream," adds Meyers, captain and star of UCLA's collegiate women's champions and member of the U.S. squad that finished second to the towering Russians in 1976 in Montreal. "Presently, I have no interest in a pro career."

The two young ladies met in New York over the weekend to help promote a 16-team women's intercollegiate basketball tournament, starting Feb. 4 under the sponsorship of a New York banking firm.

Given impetus by Title IX, the Congressional act mandating equal facilities for women in college athletic programs, women's basketball is gaining interest throughout the country, with particular emphasis in California, Texas, the Carolinas and Virginia. An eight-team professional circuit is struggling to make a go of it now.

"There was a game between New York and Chicago at Iona College the other day that drew only 600 people," said Meyers. "That is dreadful."

"Pro women's basketball still is in a state of evolution," added Blazejowski. "It is going through a very important testing period. Right now, there aren't enough quality players to make it a profitable enterprise."

Both Blazejowski, known as "Blaze," and Meyers have been tempted with pro offers but no lure has been large enough to deter them from their Olympic rendezvous in 1980.

"The pros are not paying much — around $3,000 a year at the most," said Blaze. "After the Olympics, opportunities for good contracts should be better."

Blazejowski is a strapping but not an oversized woman, 5-foot-10 and 150 pounds, out of Montclair (N.J.) State College. She has exceptional movement and a deadly shooting eye, scoring more than 3,000 points in her career and once racking up 52 points at Madison Square Garden — a record for men and women, pro and college.

Meyers is a slim 5-9 and 135 pounds, naturally athletic and from a sports-oriented family. Her brother Dave, now on the injured list, plays with the NBA Milwaukee Bucks.

"You don't need skyscrapers in women's basketball," Blaze contended. "Don't compare us to the men. They are taller and stronger."

Twins, Angels can't agree on trade

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins and California Angels haven't been able to agree on a deal that would send Rod Carew to the West Coast, so lurking in the background, ready to offer big bucks and big-name players, are the New York Yankees.

"I'll tell you, this is all getting pretty confusing," said Minnesota owner Calvin Griffith by phone from Orlando, Fla., where he is trying not only to trade the 33-year old first baseman but make preparations for the Twins' training camp.

HC to host Stanton ISD

Howard College will honor Stanton Public Schools Monday night, January 22 in the coliseum with ceremonies between the Hawk Queens' vs San Angelo State and the Hawk's vs New Mexico Junior College games.

Students and employees from the Stanton ISD will be the guests of Howard College. Special complimentary tickets were printed and distributed to Stanton Superintendent, Russell McMeans, and it is hoped that a large contingent will take advantage of their opportunity to be honored.

Introductions of administrators, student government officers, cheerleaders and other student leaders will be made during brief ceremonies between the two games. The

The Twins thought they had a deal made with San Francisco in December, but even a $3.5 million contract couldn't lure Carew, who has veto rights on all trades, to play for the Giants.

Then this week Carew came to terms with California on a five-year, $4 million pact, but Griffith termed Angels trade offers unreasonable and said he'd like to hear what the Yankees have to say.

New York is reportedly offering the Twins first baseman Chris Chambliss, outfielder Juan Beniquez, infielder Brian Doyle and a pitcher.

Rick Robey has something to prove.
The 6-foot-10 All-American from Kentucky was a big disappointment in the first half of his rookie pro season, even though he was handed a starting forward job by the Indiana Pacers. This week, Coach Bobby Leonard finally ran out of patience and traded Robey to Boston for ex-Pacer Billy Knight, saying Robey would never be more than an average player in the National Basketball Association.

Maybe Leonard spoke too soon. Robey scored 18 points, including the game-winning basket, and grabbed 13 rebounds Friday night, leading the Boston Celtics to a 103-102 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

"It's a great feeling, just like back in Kentucky," Robey said, referring to last year's NCAA championship team. "It was just what I envisioned when I found out I was coming here."

Kings 115, Spurs 113
Darnell Hillman hit two free throws in the final 40 seconds as Kansas City won a battle of division leaders to extend its winning streak to five games, longest of the season.

Rockets 122, Lakers 121, OT
Rudy Tomjanovich hit a 25-foot jump shot with four seconds remaining in overtime to give Houston its victory over Los Angeles.

Bullets 113, Bulls 102
Chicago erased a 15-point halftime deficit to move in front 83-82 with 9:31 to play, but Washington regained control for good on Mitch Kupchak's basket that made it 88-87 and drew away at the finish.

Jazz 107, Blazers 101
Pete Maravich scored 33 points and Rick Kelley grabbed 17 rebounds as New Orleans dealt Portland its sixth straight loss.

Nuggets 101, Pacers 98
Denver clinched its victory over Indiana with six free throws in the final 30 seconds, four of them by reserve guard Robert Smith.

Knicks 105, Cavaliers 101
Bob McAdoo scored 16 of his 20 points in the second half to lead a balanced New York attack and also grabbed a season-high 18 rebounds.

Mother's march this week

Birth defect prevention MOD goal

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

Over a quarter-million infants are estimated to be born every year with congenital birth defects. Many die within the first year.

Beginning tomorrow, the local chapter of the March of Dimes will launch its mother's march campaign against birth defects. Volunteers of the Jan. 22-27 drive will perform an all-out effort to obtain $6,000 for children with birth defects and research to prevent birth defects.

Those in charge include Mrs. Louise Nuckolls, Mrs. Jett Moore, and Barry Stephens.

The National Foundation of the March of Dimes, based on available data, estimates that defects affect at least 4 million people battling diabetes; 580,000 who live with partial or complete blindness; 350,000 with heart or circulatory defects; 300,000 born with congenital hearing impairment; 170,000 suffering from severe speech impediment and millions more with defects affecting the nervous, digestive, endocrine, urinary and other body systems.

The straight fact is, one out of every 12 infants born within a year's time in the United States alone is born with birth defects. Every two minutes a child is born with physical or mental damage.

Obviously this is a fear that dwells in the minds of every mother-to-be. "Will my baby have birth defects?"

That possibility steadily increases. Statistics obtained by the National Foundation of the March of Dimes claim that the American infant death rate is higher than that of 15 other countries.

Pregnancy outcome is strongly influenced by a variety of social, cultural and demographic risk factors. Included in these are income, education, and accessibility of health services.

There are four main factors known to cause birth defects. Among these are abnormal genes, abnormal chromosomes, environmental insults and combination of environment and heredity.

Genes are the physical units of heredity and scientists believe that most persons carry some genes that have become abnormal because of mutation in long-past generations. Mutation is a permanent change in a gene's molecular structure. Possible links affecting growth include natural or man-made radiation, chemicals and drugs, and failure of cells' internal machinery to repair a damaged gene or duplicate a normal one during cell division.

Each cell's 46 paired chromosomes contain thousands of genes. The lack of excess of even a small piece of one chromosome can cause an abnormal chromosome. Down syndrome is the most common chromosomal defect.

By alternating normal growth and development, the environment has impact on the growth of a fetus. The first six weeks is the most crucial period for the embryo when basic body parts are forming. However, later interferences can also affect

CHRISTMAS PRESENT — Guadalupe Christina Lopez was born Christmas Day one year ago to Mr. and Mrs. Felipe Lopez. She was born with cystic fibrosis. Without the help of the March of Dimes and other organizations, it

body growth, organ function, mental development, or a combination of these. Smoking, drinking, other drugs, poor diet and certain infections can lessen a child's chances for healthy survival. Pollutants and radiation can also be damaging to the fetus.

Malformations of the skull, brain, vertebrae and spinal cord, which are among the most common severe birth defects in the United States, tend to recur in some families. Their frequency also varies with a puzzling array of environmental conditions such as geography and socio-economic status. This suggests multifactorial effects or interactions of yet unknown genetic and environmental factors reveals research done by the National Foundation of the March of Dimes.

According to a booklet put out by the March of Dimes, "Facts: 1979," some seven per cent (230,000 annually) of American newborns weigh 5½ pounds or less. Babies born within these boundaries generally have severe problems with breathing, heart action and control of temperature and blood sugar. This is the result of true prematurity or impaired fetal growth.

Although reasons for prematurity are not always known, the most common causes include early rupture of the mother's membranes, multiple pregnancies (twins, triplets), bleeding problems during pregnancy and maternal infections.

Accompanied by emotional and behavioral problems, there is also the possibility that the premature child will develop learning disabilities. Structural defects occur in about 6 per cent of babies weighing more than 5½ pounds, 9 per cent of those between 4 pounds 7 ounces and 5 pounds and 8 ounces; and in more than 30 per cent of those weighing 4 pounds 6 ounces or less.

Although only a few birth defects can be completely corrected, many can be treated to slow up, stop, or partly reverse harmful effects.

Types of treatment available are corrective surgery, chemical regulation, prostheses, transplants and rehabilitative training.

Corrective surgery can be done in the event of structural defects such as cleft lip and palate, club foot, heart malformations and bowel obstructions.

Chemical regulation by drugs, hormones, vitamins and dietary supplementation or restriction include insulin for diabetes, phosphate and vitamin D metabolites for an inherited form of rickets, and protein substitute for PKU.

Hearing aids, mechanical hands, and shunts for hydrocephalus are the types of prostheses used in treating defects. Rehabilitative training can help compensate for some mental, physical, and sensory handicaps acquired.

Among the most current reports available by the March of Dimes are based upon 1975. That year, 523,000 children under the age of 21, in medically indigent families, were treated throughout the United States under the federally funded State Crippled Children's Service program. Birth defects, the most common of all disorders reported, accounted for nearly 30 per cent of all treated conditions.

According to "Facts: 1979," the March of Dimes estimates that treatment of these birth defects cost taxpayers more than $161 million that year.

Supported research over the years by the March of Dimes has led to vastly improved methods of treating and controlling the effects of congenital damage. Progress like this is allowing people handicapped at birth to participate as fully as possible in the everyday routine of living that most of us share, and to contribute their skills toward a better society.

A broad range of studies into congenital defects by the National Foundation of the March of Dimes includes Basic Research, Clinical Research, Basil O'Connor Starter Research grant, Summer Science Research grants, and special grants initiated by the Foundation for problems requiring immediate attention.

Since 1938, $167,865,000 in March of Dimes funds have been invested in research. This is enabling the foundation to work toward their long-range goal of preventing birth defects before they happen.

A major part of the March of Dimes Foundation is its volunteers. They share equally with health and science professionals the outlook for a healthy birth for all. Willingly, volunteers take on heavy responsibilities in their communities, and at state and national levels, pressing for critically needed improvements in maternal and child care. Big Spring has such an organization.

Mrs. Jett Moore, this year's mother's march chairman for this area stressed that many more volunteers were needed.

"We would like to get enough volunteers," stated Mrs. Moore, "so that one volunteer wouldn't have to cover any more than three blocks. So far, we're far from reaching that goal."

Area chairpersons from the Big Spring march and surrounding areas are Rochelle Fair and Laura Berry, Douglas Addition and Coronado Hills; Rickey Gutierrez and Rickey Nunez, portion of northside; Barbara Justiss, Coahoma; Brenda Hyatt, Edward Heights; Stan Feaster, portion of westside; Evie Bankhead, Washington Place and Moss area; Jett Moore, northwest area and Highland South; Cindy Knight, Lavoy Moore and Student Council, Kentwood; Selena Jones, Scott Campbell, Key Club, Western Hills Addition; Kip Bradley, central area; and Dana Hodnett, Vincent area.

In an effort to urge Big Spring mothers to join with the Caprock Chapter of the March of Dimes in the mother's march against birth defects, Mrs. Moore concluded by asking mothers to take a look at their healthy children and then think about those less fortunate.

Guadalupe Christina Lopez was born Christmas Day, 1977. She was born with cystic fibrosis, a disease affecting the endocrine, mucous and sweat glands.

"She was six months old before we ever found out what was wrong with Lupe," remembers Mrs. Felipe Lopez 604 Lancaster. "We knew she wasn't gaining any weight, but the doctors were having trouble finding out what was wrong."

Eventually, Guadalupe was diagnosed as having cystic fibrosis.

"At first," recalls Mrs. Lopez, "the doctors thought she had asthma because I had it when I was a baby."

The family had to make several trips to specialists in Houston, and now must make a trip once a month to a doctor in Lubbock. This is where the Big Spring chapter of the March of Dimes came in.

"On one occasion, the March of Dimes paid for the complete trip to Lubbock, including the gasoline for the car there and back," said Mrs. Lopez.

"It's extremely expensive, and without the help of the March of Dimes and other organizations such as these, it would be impossible for us to give Lupe the treatment she needs," explains Mrs. Lopez. "March of Dimes does a good job."

CHILDREN HELPING CHILDREN — The National Foundation of the March of Dimes' primary purpose is to stop birth defects before they happen. This week will launch the Caprock Chapter's Mother's March, headed by Mrs. Jett Moore. Pictured here is Teddy Molina, 8, contributing some of his money to help other children less fortunate than he.

FOOTBALL ANYONE? — Although Guadalupe Lopez was born with cystic fibrosis, she is able to lead a normal life thanks to the March of Dimes Foundation and other organizations helping children born with birth defects. Here, Alejandra Lopez, Lupe's sister, spends some time playing with Lupe.

Parents' home is scene of wedding ceremony

The wedding vows of Linda Jean Bassham and David Craig Rhoton were solemnized Saturday evening in the home of the groom's parents. The Rev. Guy White, pastor of East Fourth Baptist Church, performed the 6 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.M. Bassham, Coahoma. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. David Rhoton, Sterling City, Mo.

The couple stood before an altar featuring a Unity Candle atop a brass stand. Enhancing a marble column was an arrangement of white gladiolus, carnations, mums and baby's breath. The winding staircase was adorned with garland of boxwood and accentuated with votive candles embellished with baby's breath.

Performing the wedding selections for the couple were Donna Dukes, guitarist and vocalist; and Mrs. Jerry Oliphant, pianist.

The bride chose to wear a gown of polyester, designed with an open sculptured neckline. The Queen Anne collar was trimmed in Venice lace. Fashioning the gown was an empire waistline embellished with Venice lace. The long trumpet sleeves were adorned with lace appliques and lace edging on the cuffs. Extending from a Watteau back, the full chapel-length train was also edged in lace.

A cascade bouquet of red and white silk roses decorated with baby's breath and forget-me-nots was carried by the bride. The bouquet was styled with satin streamers.

Linda Conard served the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Donna Dukes and Leann Williams, nieces of the bride, Odessa, and Rhonda Rhoton, sister of the groom. They were attired in full-length wine red dresses of Qiana. Winter white lace accented the rounded necklines. A long-stemmed red rose was carried by each attendant.

Serving the groom as best man was Raymond Sewell, Snyder. Groomsman were Kevin Rhoton, brother of the groom, Marvin Casey, Midland, and Richard Bumgarner, Calvin Cordes served as usher.

Train bearers for the bride were Carrie Lynn Jay, Houston, cousin of the groom; and Carey Elisa Christie, Tyler, niece of the bride. They wore dresses similar to the bridesmaids. A reception followed the ceremony in the home of the groom's parents. The bride's table was covered with a cutwork lace cloth over a red polyester underlay. A floral arrangement draped from a Spanish chandelier to the punch service enhanced the scherubs, and bells above a red flowing fountain. Heart-shaped cakes topped with miniature fountains filled with tiny red flowers surrounded the cake. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

The groom's table was covered with an off-white cutwork cloth underlaid with a red polyester cloth, accented with a black fringed linen drape. A gold candlelabrum with red candles served as centerpiece. The off-white scalloped cake was topped with red and black oriental poppies entwined through two large gold wedding rings. Guests were served from a 14 karat gold coffee service. Gold appointments were used.

Included in the house party were Tammy Tonn, Candi Spencer, Debbie Fitts, Diedra Fuller and Sandy Sewell.

Deserted Preacher Feels Preyed Upon

DEAR ABBY: I am an ordained minister in the Presbyterian Church. I have tried in all good faith to fulfill my duties as a husband and father (we have two young children), but my efforts have been rejected by my wife. She left me for another man. Soon after, she decided she wanted our house and children (but not me), so she petitioned the court and was awarded temporary custody of the children plus possession of our home. This meant that I, who had cared for the children after she deserted us, had to pack up and leave.

Abby, this automatic favoritism the courts have toward mothers is unjust. My wife has shown herself to be unfaithful and unfit to raise the children. Yet I am the one who is being punished.

I want my house and children back. What should I do? (P.S. Yes, I have a good lawyer.)

BACHELOR FATHER

DEAR FATHER: You say you have a good lawyer. Good. You need one. Take his advice. Be patient. The wheels of justice sometimes grind slowly. Practice what you preach: "The Lord never gives us a heavier load than we can carry."

DEAR ABBY: In response to the dieter who finds it tough to turn down dessert-pushing hostesses, may I offer the following solution: When the insistent hostess brings on the dessert, simply say, "Sorry, I'm allergic to it." Then add, "It makes me break out in fat!"

WEIGHT WATCHER

DEAR WATCHER: Thanks for a timely reminder to take off those extra five pounds we put on over the holidays. I've already done it, which entitles me to the "no-belly prize."

DEAR ABBY: I borrowed $200 from a friend 14 years ago. Nothing was said about interest at the time.

I am able to pay the money back now. My friend says I owe her interest because if I had borrowed from the bank I would have had to pay interest. But, Abby, it wasn't a bank I borrowed that money from, it was from my friend.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Since no mention was made about the interest when you borrowed the money, pay her $200 and call it square. (P.S. I should think your friend would be glad to see any money at all after 14 years.)

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is making plans for her wedding. Her mother and I were divorced, and we have both married again.

My daughter phoned to tell me that her brother is going to give her away in marriage. Abby, I thought it was traditional for the bride's father to give her away. I told my daughter that if I could not give her away I would not attend the wedding. Was I right or wrong?

S.C. IN ALA.

DEAR S.C.: I think you were wrong. If you receive an invitation, go.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (20 cents) envelope to Abby, 122 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Savings account requires high interest rate

COLLEGE STATION — In choosing a savings account, obtaining the maximum legal rate of interest affects the "where" and "how" of setting one up, says Mrs. Linda McCormack, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

For the most profitable program, set up a savings account based on these major factors, the specialist suggests.

1. Stated rate of interest — look for institutions paying the highest rates.

2. Formulas for computing interest — there are over 50 bookkeeping methods used to compute interest on savings accounts. "Day-of-deposit" to day-of-withdrawal" is the most advantageous method to the depositor.

Marsha Eugena Dyer and H.T. Gleason Jr. exchanged wedding vows Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, Ackerly.

The Rev. Jim Mosley, pastor, performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with a brass sunburst holding white tapers behind a communion table enhanced with a bouquet of burgundy carnations and off-white pompon mums. Two nine-branch brass candelabras flanked each side of the sunburst adorned with burgundy and off-white pompon mums. A Unity candle stood in front on the right holding a memory candle and a wedding invitation. Burgundy satin, lace and greenery with gypsophila marked the pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.E. Dyer Jr., Ackerly, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gleason, Abilene and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson, Ovalo.

Wedding music was performed by Jerry Hall at the organ. Mrs. Bill Hambrick served as pianist. Mrs. Eugene Williams, Crane, cousin of the bride, and Buddy Dyer, brother of the bride, were vocalists for the ceremony.

The bride chose to wear a Queen Fit, old-fashioned gown of ivory organza over peau. The princess-style dress featured a bertha collar and round yoke of Brussels lace and enhanced with Venice lace and crystalline pleating the hem. Long Bishop sleeves fashioned the dress with lace and pleating flowing to the hands. Wide Brussels lace adorned the skirt and swept into a chapel-length train. Appliques and seed pearls embellished the dress and she wore a blue-heart-shaped pin that her grandmother Dyer wore 74 years ago in her wedding.

The chapel-length veil of imported illusion flowed from a lace-covered Camelot headpiece with a second fingertip-length layer over the chapel-length veil edged with Venice lace and enhanced with lace appliques.

A wedding band that had belonged to the bride's great-grandmother was something old; something new was a watch given to the bride as a gift from the groom; something borrowed was a linen and lace handkerchief belonging to her Grandmother Alexander. Something blue was a garter made by Mrs. Charisa Webb and the bride wore a six-pence in her shoe brought home by her father from World War II.

She carried an elegant cascading bouquet of silk burgundy camellias and cream-colored roses. Also adorning the bouquet were sweetheart rosebuds, Lily of the Valley and English ivy. Streamers of lace in matching cream enhanced the bouquet atop a white Mother of Pearl Bible from the Holy Lands. The Bible was a gift from the bride's aunt, Mrs. Bob Skidmore, Hobbs, N.M. Cindy Tomlinson, Van Horn, accompanied the bride as maid of honor. She was attired in a long burgundy round neckline and lace shawl collar. Accordion pleats fell from an empire waist and she carried a long stem ivory-colored silk camelia and bud enhanced with greenery. Satin burgundy and ivory lace streamers fell from the arrangement. She also wore a hair piece of matching flowers.

Steve Fryar, Big Spring, served the groom as best man. Robert Gleason, Ovalo and Terry Gleason, Abilene, brothers of the groom; Danny Williams, Crane, cousin to the bride; and Steve Bodine, Ackerly, served as ushers.

D'Nae Brown, Ackerly, and Shelly Williams, Hobbs, N.M., both cousins of the bride, served as flower girls for the ceremony. They wore long ivory knit dresses styled with round necklines, puff sleeves and empire waists. They carried ivory baskets with burgundy and ivory ribbons. Burgundy wristlets and hairpieces enhanced their attire.

Zackary Gleason, Abilene, nephew of the groom, served as ring bearer. He carried a white satin pillow made by the bride.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. H.T. Gleason Jr. were honored at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church. Mrs. Terry Brown served as pianist during the reception.

The bride's table was covered with a white sheer cloth over burgundy. The three-tiered, petal-shaped cake was topped with a pair of doves underneath a garland of flowers and wedding bells. The cake rested upon a four-arm support on which were four heart-shaped cakes decorated with roses and doves. The groom's table was covered with a burgundy-checked, floor-length cloth. Coffee, cheeseballs, crackers, and sausage swirls were served from the table.

Serving the couple during the reception were Mrs. Keith Nichols, Knott; Mrs. Chick Haigood, Portales, N.M.; Melinda Bearden, Ackerly, cousin of the bride; Tertia McVay, Bryan; Jennifer Burnam, Marble Falls and Judy Peirce, Pampa.

MRS. H.T. GLEASON JR.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Sands High School and a 1976 graduate of Howard College. She graduated from Tarleton State University with a BS in elementary education in December.

The groom is a 1973 graduate of Jim Ned High School in Tuscola. In 1977 he graduated from Tarleton State University with a BS in agri-business. He is presently employed with Hy-Pro Feeds in Abilene.

Patient of high cholesterol level needs motivation

A candidate for open heart surgery is likely to do anything his doctor tells him to. But the patient who has an elevated cholesterol level, which has no symptoms, often continues to keep on eating his steak and eggs, unless he is highly motivated to follow a low cholesterol diet, according to a California specialist on the subject.

High cholesterol known medically as hyperlipidemia or hypercholesterolemia is one of three major risk factors for heart disease. He has found that it is necessary to spend a great deal of time with patients who need to follow a low cholesterol diet and are reluctant to do so. A cholesterol reading of 250 mg or over is too high, according to the physician, and the goal for these patients should be 200 mg or less, the lower, the better," says Dr. Weiner.

Plans were made to assist with District Six "Home Extension Demonstration Day" in Winwood Mall, Odessa on April 28 by the Elbow Home Demonstration Club when they met Thursday.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Jack McKinnon with nine present. She presented a devotional with a poem by Edgar A. Guest. It was decided that the club would provide cookies for the Big Spring State Hospital at a date to be announced later.

Mrs. L.Z. Rhodes was elected nominee to council for the district meeting in Andrews. Next meeting will be Feb. 1 in the home of Mrs. Ross Hill. Mrs. Rhodes will present a program on "Satisfying Homemaking."

Wintering in Hawaii

The home of Dottie Duncan was the site of the Green Thumb Garden Club meeting Jan. 16. Ann Turner, Dixie Hogan and Winifred Piner served as co-hostesses. There were 18 members present.

The minutes were read and approved. It was voted to wait until spring to see about planting the trees purchased by the club.

Presenting the program was Danna Moore. She spoke on "Wintering in Hawaii" and showed slides to the members. The meeting was adjourned following the presentation.

Educational seminar scheduled

The Big Spring Desk & Derrick Club held its January meeting on Jan. 15 in the Club Room of Herman's Restaurant. There were 12 members present at the luncheon meeting.

Vi Ballou, president, presided. The minutes were read by Sharon Donaghe covering the December meeting.

Sue Warren and Grace Kinney presented suggestions for programs for the ensuing year, naming six areas considered basic to program planning directed to better understanding of the petroleum industry by non-technical persons. The areas are geology, land exploration, drilling, production and transportation.

Programs from these areas are presented at Desk and Derrick meetings throughout North America, including special seminars in each of the eight regions. Programs, however, are not limited to these six basic areas, but included among other categories are refining and marketing, legal — public relations, offshore — overseas, energy gap, governmental — legislative, socio-economic and environmental.

The Big Spring Desk and Derrick Club is included in Region Five with Arizona and New Mexico and other clubs in the western portion of Texas. An educational seminar for this region is scheduled for April 20-22 in Roswell, N.M. Such a seminar will be held for each of the other regions.

In addition, 80 percent of all programs for the year must meet the educational requirements of the Association of Desk and Derrick Clubs. The purpose of this program emphasis is to "promote among women employed in the petroleum and allied industries a clearer understanding of the industry and thereby increase their interest and enlarge their scope of service."

Sue Warren, vice president and program chairman, announced that the program for February would be on the subject "Picture of the International Oil Supply." The speaker will be Axel de Broqueville of American Petrofin S.A. of Brussels.

Dottie Bassett won the door prize. The president's committees were announced. The next meeting will be Feb. 19 with the time and place to be selected.

Mrs. Harry Williamson was co-hostesses for the meeting. The 22 members present were served coffee and cake while Mrs. Harold Talbot gave a talk on her 32-day trip in May down the east coast of South America to Tahiti, and back up the west coast of South America across to Easter Island. She came back through Galapagos Island. Her story concluded the fact that she was "a woman of courage."

She told of the extreme heat and cold, over-crowded buses, but in spite of the hardships, she recalled the inspiring scenery and the remarkable works in stone and precious metals left by ancient peoples.

Mrs. Talbot concluded by stating "If you travel off the beaten path, you must be prepared. More often than not, things do not come off at the expected hour."

During the business session, the club noted to sponsor two memberships to the YWCA.

Mrs. Wasson, Mrs. Charles Thompkins and Mrs. Ray Lamb were selected to serve as nominating committee for next year's officers.

Keep synthetics white

By JANET ROGERS
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Keep white synthetics white through proper laundry procedures. Some causes of yellowing, dinginess and greying are chlorine retention, soil build-up, improper sorting, inadequate detergent amount, iron content in water, or silt, sand or clay deposits in water.

Normal aging of fibers also causes yellowing, but this process cannot be prevented.

To retain whiteness, use proper bleach for fabric with each wash. Use chlorine bleach on many synthetics, such as polyester, acrylics and most nylons.

Do not use chlorine bleach on garments containing spandex, acetate, triacetate, wool or silk. To check if fabrics, such as nylons, are chlorine bleach safe, test fabric on an inconspicuous place with a dot of bleach solution — one tablespoon bleach to one-fourth cup water.

If the spot turns yellow, do not use.

To prevent fading of other colors on whites, wash only whites and very light colors together.

Once colors are absorbed, whiteness is hard, if not impossible, to regain.

Proper detergent amount for water hardness, load amount, and degree of soil will prevent fabric discoloration.

Launder white garments frequently before soil sets in fabric using as warm a water temperature as possible for the fabric.

To remove greying, yellowing and dinginess caused by too little detergent and soil build-up, soak clothes overnight in the warmest water appropriate for the fabric with four times the normal amount of detergent, plus one cup of non-precipitating water conditioner.

After draining this water from clothes, launder on regular cycle with no detergent and one cup water conditioner.

Rinse until all detergent is removed. To remove discoloration caused by hard water, wash clothes in as hot a water temperature possible for the fabric with one cup of non-precipitating water conditioner and no detergent.

Repeat procedure until no suds appear.

If iron, salt, sand or clay in the water caused yellowing, have water supply coming into the house checked.

To prevent future yellowing, install a water filter and use a water conditioner in wash cycle. To remove discoloration, launder in bleach appropriate for the fabric.

If iron stain remains, use a chemical rust remover if safe for fabric and carefully follow directions for use.

Color is it for 1979

Nice girls and women didn't. Actresses and women of doubtful reputation did.

Until the second decade of the 20th century, the average woman didn't wear any makeup, says Dordie Lamphier, director of new products for Merle Norman Cosmetics.

"She might have pinched her cheeks before leaving the house to give herself a bit of color, but that was the extent of what was considered respectable," says Ms. Lamphier.

"Fifty years have passed since proper ladies first started putting a smudge of color on cheeks and lips. This year women will be far more daring.

"In 1979 color is in the news — lots of hot, flashy colors such as chrome yellow, magenta, fire-engine red — and all may be combined in one outfit! Makeup, too, has become brighter and more intense with eye, cheek and lip colors making bold, dramatic statements. A pinch on the cheeks just won't do in 1979."

No wild and crazy romance for them

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D. Copley News Service

Dr. Wallace: I recently came across an article which was printed in a local newspaper several months ago. The article was entitled "Steady Dating Now Can Mean Restlessness Later" and was written by Paul A. Hawk, Ph.D.

begin dating other people. He says this will help them learn about the other sex, and it would allow them to meet "other interesting people who could teach them a great deal about life."

Dr. Hawk says that youth is the time to have our wild and crazy romances.

Well, I'm 16 and I've been going steady for the past three months. What my boyfriend and I have is not a "wild and crazy" romance. We care for each other very much. We enjoy being with each other, and we are constantly discussing our problems and feelings with each other.

I think we have a very open and beautiful relationship, and I can't see myself calling it quits after a year and dating someone else.

What are your feelings about this? Do you think people who marry their childhood sweethearts really find their lives unfulfilling and unsatisfying when they reach their 40s and 50s? Don't you think a young boy and girl can have a "meaningful relationship," even though it may seem like absolutely nothing to someone else? — Tom, Rock Island, Ill.

Toni: You have thrown several thought-provoking questions and I'll give you my personal thoughts.

Naturally there are exceptions but I think teens should have the experience of dating several types before going steady. But let's face it. If you find Mr. or Ms. wonderful why look further.

I feel childhood sweethearts who marry generally have very happy marriages. Love deepens with time.

Yes, meaningful relationships can be developed by teens. And when they are, it really doesn't make much difference what anyone says or thinks.

Your letter is sincere and shows that the writer is mature and bright.
