Leaders move past Soviet Union woes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Vice Premier Teng Hsiang-ping, putting aside the vexing problem of dealing with the Soviet Union, are shifting their attention to strengthening Sino-American bonds.

The two leaders, meeting in the White House today for the third time in two days, were taking up ways to build U.S.-China trade and expand cultural and scientific exchanges, the White House announced.

Teng later faced a series of meetings on Capitol Hill and questions about China's policy toward Taiwan. The administration hoped his responses would help blunt the criticism it has drawn over the decision to normalize relations with Peking.

Details of Monday's talks at the White House were sparse.

It was clear, however, that the Soviet Union was discussed. And sources indicated the administration was relieved the emphasis of the talks was shifting to bilateral matters.

Teng said he and Carter reached "an understanding" about Soviet matters at a morning meeting, but did not say whether Carter agreed with his headline views.

The first fruit of the talks was an exchange of invitations. Carter was invited to Peking and Chinese Premier Hua Kuofeng was invited to Washington. Both accepted, although no dates were set.

On the other hand, the two sides decided not to issue a joint communique, or statement of shared views, after Teng leaves Washington Thursday for Atlanta, Houston and Seattle.

The differences between Teng and Carter over policy toward the Soviets were only thinly veiled in their public statements Monday, as Carter welcomed Teng with an honor guard, a state dinner and an entertainment gala at the Kennedy Center.

In his toast at the state dinner, Teng said, "We view our bilateral relations in the context of the overall international situation."

And he reminded Carter that the United States and China had only recently pledged themselves to fight against any effort to establish "hegemony" in Asia. "Hegemony" is the word the Chinese use to describe Soviet aspirations.

Teng's views were not at all veiled in an interview he gave to Time magazine and published Monday.

He called the Soviet Union "the true hotbed of war." In a broad reference to Europe, Japan, China and the United States, he said, "If we really want to curb the polar bear, the only realistic thing for us is to unite."

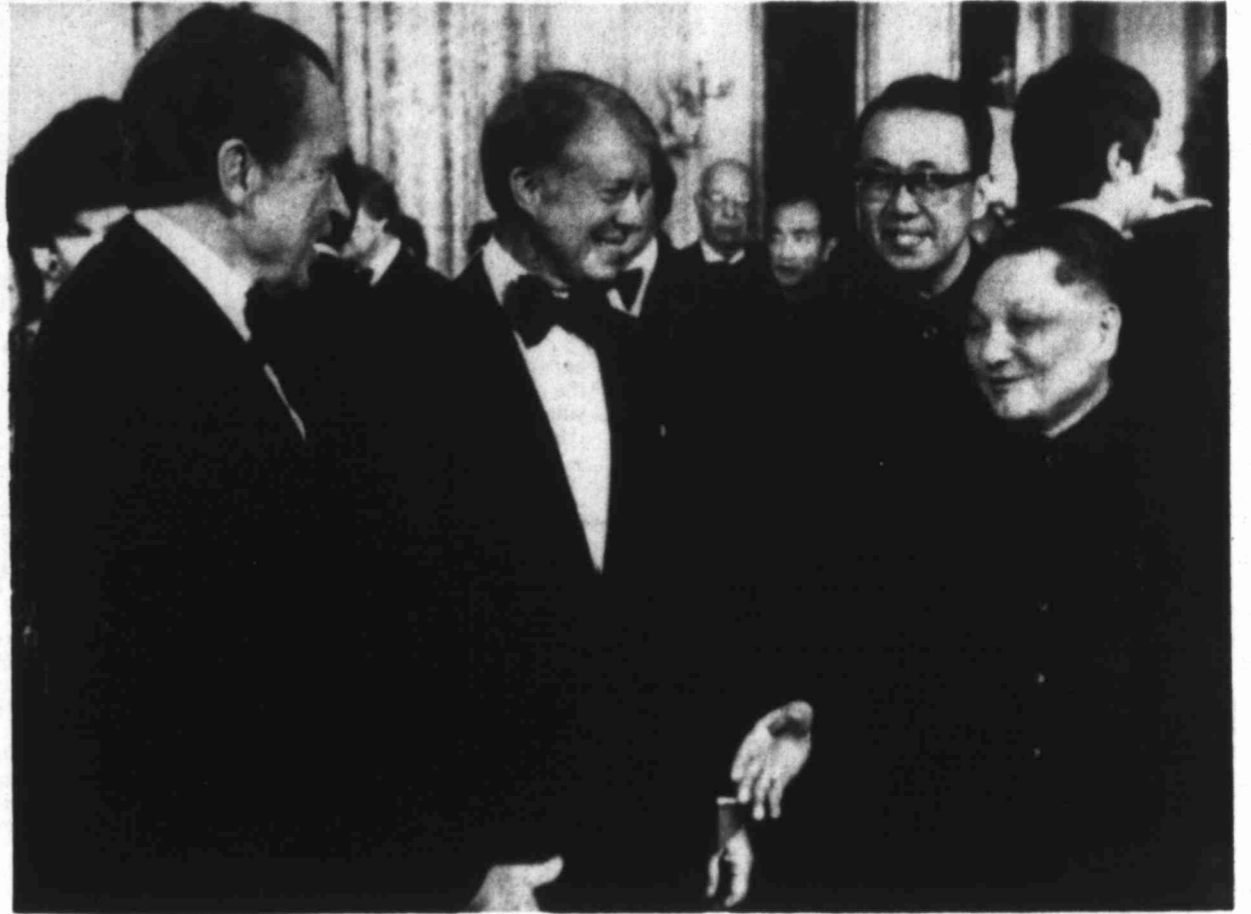

The American sources, who asked not to be identified, said Teng was not proposing any formal alliance in his private conversations with Carter. And they made no secret of the fact they would have preferred him to tone down his anti-Soviet rhetoric.

The officials favor focusing the talks on other issues. "We've had one day of talks. I wouldn't say there's anything we ought to pick out and comment on," Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said Monday night.

Carter, in his toast to Teng, indicated the administration is sticking to its policy of evenhandedness in dealing with Moscow and Peking.

He did not use the word "hegemony." Instead, his speech focused on the American "long-term commitment to a world of diverse and independent nations," the administration's description of its policy.

The history of enmity and mistrust between the two nations is hundreds of years old.

Two Lubbock women charged in local shoplifting spree

Two suspects were arrested Monday in connection with a local shoplifting spree, involving merchandise valued at $4,666.50. The operation was halted Thursday morning.

Arrested on two counts of felony theft each were Elvia Lovato, 18, and Sanjuanita Garza Gonzales, 24, both of Lubbock.

According to Detective Claude Morris, the two were brought into the Big Spring Police Department by the owner of the automobile used in the thefts. Morris said that the man appears to have not been involved in the shoplifting himself, but his wife is suspected. She has not been detained.

Ms. Lovato and Mrs. Gonzales are in the city jail in lieu of $5,000 bond each.

Stores known to have been hit by the pair include Thorton's, Grigsby's Rag Doll, The Tom Boy, Swartz Ladies Wear, K-mart, Foodway plus Kid Shops in both Big Spring and Lamesa.

In an unrelated incident, Big Spring police arrested four other persons suspected of shoplifting Monday.

The suspects were allegedly observed shoplifting at Gibson's and detained by the manager until the police arrived.

Arrested and charged with theft of over $200 were Pauline Tucker Denton, 41, Sterling City Route; Debbie Pauline Bohannon, 17, 306 W. 6th; Theresa Jean Franklin, 19, 1407 1/2 Scurry and a juvenile.

Found in their possession were a large amount of stolen goods from Gibson's and small amounts from K-mart and Anthony's. The merchandise is valued at $250.

Girl chases blues by killing two

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Brenda Spencer bragged to high school classmates last week that she was going to "do something big to get on TV."

Today, the 16-year-old is in police custody, held in a 15-minute burst of gunfire that left two persons dead and nine others, including eight children, wounded.

Police said Miss Spencer aimed a semi-automatic .22-caliber rifle she got for Christmas at the Cleveland Elementary School Monday morning, firing 30 rounds of ammunition.

School principal Burton Wragg, 53, was fatally wounded while trying to aid the injured children and custodian Michael Suchar, 56, died attempting to pull Wragg to safety.

Among the wounded was policeman Robert Robb, 28, shot through the neck. He was listed in stable condition.

Three of the children were released after being treated for minor wounds.

Authorities said the children still hospitalized included: Monica Selvig, 9, and Christy Buell, 9, in critical condition; Mary Clark, 8, serious condition; Cam Miller, 9, in fair condition, and Craig Verner, 8, good condition.

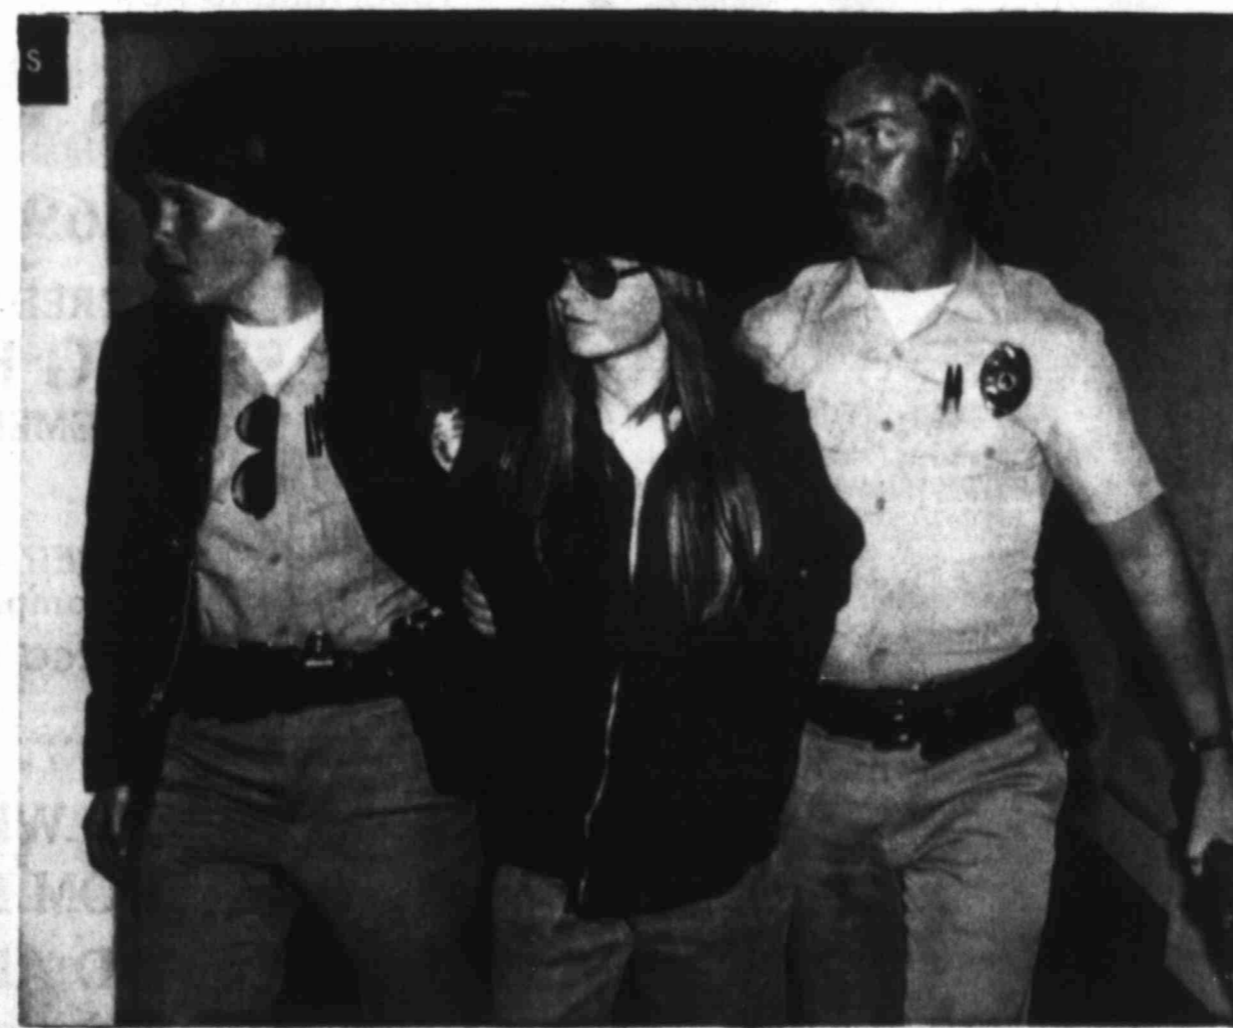

After firing the 30 rounds, police said the high school junior barricaded herself inside the family home across from the school for almost seven hours, warning police she was going to "come out shooting."

As members of the SWAT (Special Weapons and Tactics) force waited out the tense vigil, the girl finally agreed to surrender after hanging up her telephone on negotiators several times.

Earlier, she told the San Diego Tribune in a telephone conversation: "I don't like Mondays. This livens up the day." She added, "I have to go now. I shot a pig (policeman), I think, and I want to shoot more."

Wearing a black Navy watch cap, brown corduroy pants and a blue sweatshirt, the freckle-faced, red-haired girl was whisked to police headquarters for questioning after she surrendered.

She was being held at the San Diego City jail. Police said no charges have been filed in connection with the shootings.

SWAT Officer Mike Hendrikson said negotiators were told by family members that Miss Spencer "fantasized in the past about being a sniper."

"She knew a lot about our operation from watching 'SWAT' on TV," said Hendrikson, who helped pin the girl to the ground after she dropped her weapons on a driveway.

High school friends described the bespectacled Miss Spencer as an honor student, "really quiet...and unhappy that her mother wasn't around."

Miss Spencer lived with her father, Wally D. Spencer, and was an avid hunter, her classmates said. They described her a shy tomboy who had few friends.

The girl had attended the elementary school, and was involved in a window breaking incident there a

Mrs. Lee cites AG's opinion

Health care crisis in Texas?

By MICKIE DICKSON

A crisis exists in health care for Texans due a Dec. 19 opinion by the State Attorney General's office, according to Mrs. Lettie Lee RN, Big Spring, director of the Associate Degree Nursing Program at Howard College.

The opinion (No. H-1295) held that registered nurses cannot give medication to a patient except on orders from a physician who actually prescribes for that individual, according to Mrs. Lee.

Nurses have been operating under an antiquated nursing practice act written in 1907. The statute also says that a nurse cannot diagnose or prescribe therapeutic measures.

Because of high case loads of physicians, the "standing order" or "protocol" practice is almost universal, particularly in Texas. "Standing orders" are sometimes blanket orders by a doctor to give certain patients specific medications, like a sleeping pill to one's patients in a hospital.

"It is common practice in some clinics, hospitals and medical offices for nurses to administer drugs for certain illnesses to patients not actually examined by a physician," according to Deanna Sebestyen of Dallas, president of Texas Nurses

Association. Venereal disease clinics, public health departments, family planning clinics, T B clinics, and school nurses are prime examples of places where several thousand people receive treatment without being examined by a physician. Registered nurses often are allowed to treat some of these patients under guidelines set by the one doctor over the particular health care unit.

It has not been clearly defined whether "standing orders" were legal, but both physicians and nurses have been working under the assumption that they were within the law.

Action/reaction: Coliseum chains

Q. Why were there chains and padlocks on all exits but one on the coliseum Wednesday night at the Globetrotters game? Does the fire marshal know about this and wouldn't it be dangerous in case of a fire?

A. Coliseum Director Carl McMillen said, "There was at least one outside door open on every corner of the coliseum hallway in addition to all front doors on Kentucky Way and two double doors on the south side entrance. A few doors were left chained to prohibit unlawful entry but in every case there was an open door near by with 'exit' clearly marked. The coliseum has been checked by the city fire marshal. He was also present for the Harlem Globetrotters."

Body of missing woman found

BONHAM, Texas (AP) — Fannin County sheriff's officers early today found the body of a missing woman after a man in Colorado told FBI agents where to search.

Deputy Buddy Burgess found Juanita Walls about two miles south of the Telephone community near Farm Market Road 2029.

Mrs. Wells was last seen Thursday when she left work. Known for her promptness, she was reported missing Friday when she failed to report to her job at a Bonham abstract company.

Pueblo, Colo., authorities took into custody James Harold Lorange, 22, after the car he was driving was found to belong to Mrs. Walls, said Fanning County Chief Deputy Frank Conner.

Conner said the car broke down about 50 miles outside Pueblo and had to be towed Monday.

Lorange checked into a motel and borrowed money for a bus ticket to Amarillo, Conner said. Authorities intercepted him at the bus station

Monday night and was questioned by FBI agent.

Mrs. Wells' body was found about 2:30 a.m. today.

After Mrs. Wells was reported missing Friday, a relative checking her home found lights on, an electric blanket still on and the telephone cord cut. Muddy tracks were found in the house, and the door had been pried open.

Sheriff Sam Patton got help from the FBI, Texas Rangers and volunteers to search the area.

Several weapons missing from the house have not been located, Conner said.

Lorange missed a court appearance Friday. He is named in five indictments — two for theft, two for burglary and one for escaping the Bonham County Jail.

Mrs. Wells, a widow, had served on the grand jury in 1978 but Conner said he sees no connection between that and her death.

GRAND CHAMPION BARROW ...exhibited by Kevin Hirt

Glasscock 4-Hers split awards

Top honors of the Glasscock County Junior Livestock Show were split between five 4-Hers Sunday and Monday in the Glasscock County Independent School District bus barn in Garden City, where the show was held.

Kevin Hirt was the exhibitor of the grand champion barrow of the show, a 221-pound lightweight Chester White.

In the steers, Mark Halfmann exhibited the grand champion, a 1,240-pound heavyweight Crossbred steer.

The show has no grand champion lamb designation, but has a champion of each breed instead. Champion Finewood has a heavyweight lamb weighing 120 pounds, exhibited by Staci Wilkerson, as Susan Pate showed both the champion Mediumwool, a heavyweight 142-pound lamb, and the champion Crossbred a mediumweight 115-pound lamb.

The showmanship awards went to Susan Pate in the lambs and Larry Halfmann in the steer show. The barrow showmanship has three places, rather than a single award. Mark Halfmann received the top award, a trophy, while Mary Kaye Halfmann and Larry Halfmann took second and third, respectively, earning ribbons.

The reserve grand champion barrow was a mediumweight Duroc exhibited by Larry Lopez, who also exhibited the reserve grand champion steer of the show, a heavyweight British steer that was the champion of its breed as well.

In the lamb show, reserve champion Finewood was a lightweight finewood shown by Danetta Schafer, while the reserve champion Mediumwool was shown by Susan Pate. In the Crossbred class, Debbie Bednar exhibited the reserve champion.

There were other contests at the livestock show, including a tobacco spitting and cowchip throwing contest. Winners of those contests were Larry Halfmann, with an 18-foot, 9-inch entry in the first contest, and Kevin Hirt for his accuracy in the cowchip throwing contest.

In the premium sale, average price for the lambs was $206.05; for the barrows, $209.54; and $310 for the steers. Top buyer was M. F. Machen of Midland, who purchased 12 lambs for a total of $2,730.

Weather Most of precipitation moves out of state

Brisk northerly winds moved cold air into the Texas Panhandle and South Plains early today, but the National Weather Service said most of the precipitation, frozen or otherwise, had moved out of the state.

Some light snow fell during the night along the Red River in extreme North Texas and some light drizzle fell in South Central Texas.

Forecasts called for mostly cloudy skies over the eastern half of the state and for mostly clear skies, brisk winds and cold temperatures over the western half of the state.

Travelers advisories were in effect today for the Panhandle and extreme North Texas because of icy streets and highways. Some fog hampered traffic in South Central Texas.

Airline good at pulling rug away

The New Mexico cities of Hobbs, Carlsbad and Clovis are finding out what Big Spring civic leaders discovered a long time ago: That it is not always easy dealing with an airlines that aspires to compete with the giants in the industry.

Texas International Airlines (whose planes used to touch down here) is being accused of treating the New Mexico communities shabbily by abandoning air service to the three cities. Texas International, whose policies have been questioned before, is charged with ending the service without giving advanced notice.

IN CLOVIS CASE, passengers were reportedly left stranded. It was as if such a decision had been made on the spur of the moment to defy U.S.

Sen. Pete Domenici, who had strongly protested Texas International's decision to pull out of the area.

Adding insult to injury, the airline discontinued its service to Carlsbad and Clovis during the holiday season, a period when the greatest number of people are trying to get from here to there and often must meet the most exacting of travel schedules because of the abbreviated holiday season.

When Texas International decided to pull out of Big Spring a few years ago, TIL officials promoted the idea they would not make up their minds until after a public hearing on the matter. The meeting took place in the Howard County courthouse but subsequent developments proved that the die had already been cast, that it was a case of enraged local friends of aviation getting a lot off their chests without anyone really listening.

In pulling out of Hobbs, Carlsbad and Clovis, Texas International defied the Civil Aeronautics Board after agreeing to continue service to the three cities until Feb. 1, or until such time as a substitute air service could be secured. So much for the CAB and the power it is supposed to use.

Domenici claims Texas International displayed corporate irresponsibility and insensitivity. There's no doubt but that the actions of the airlines left a bad taste in most everyone's mouth, just as it did here a few years ago when it began to deliberately manipulate its service to 'prove' that the operation was unprofitable.

IT WASN'T SO VERY many years ago that Texas International was a struggling airline and looking for friends. Its officials were begging communities to help them improve air service through orientation programs. It was never about playing politics when it had to.

Once the airlines began to benefit from lush government subsidies, its attitude changed. Officials began to eye bigger markets and lust for some of the money to be made there.

Sen. Domenici wants the CAB to withdraw Texas International's charter. There's no chance of that happening. The CAB may go so far as to scold the airlines but that will be the extent of it.

We have words of compassion for the three New Mexico communities: Welcome to the lodge. Let's all compare bruises.

Glad it's over

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

It was fun while it lasted but I'm glad it's over.

I'm referring to the long-awaited or dreaded, whatever the case may be, close of the professional football season that came with the end of the Super Bowl game last Sunday.

I enjoy football. I like to watch it and I like to play it (When I was a junior in high school I played powder puff football. I was a guard on offense and an end on defense.)

MY FEELINGS ABOUT football are a bit paradoxical because I'm glad when the season arrives and just as glad when the season ends. I can only take so much of a good thing. Then it gets to be tiring and a bit monotonous to know that every Sunday afternoon will be spent in front of the boob-tube rooting for the loser (I tend to side with the underdog when I don't have a favorite team). It must be that stations that do not carry football games don't bother to schedule any show that is worth watching because they know that a good show would be wasted. So, to avoid boredom, I watched football.

And, when I did want to watch a game that the Dallas Cowboys or the Houston Oilers were playing I would usually sleep through the majority of it. It seems that I have this habit of taking a nap on Sunday afternoons. (It started when I was in high school and that was the only time I had time to catch up on all the sleep I had missed on weekend nights.) No matter how hard I tried not to fall asleep during the games, I always did. I would be "reprimanded" by the more devoted fans and even, in a joking way, be called "un-American" for not watching the entire game.

And, speaking of devoted fans, it never ceases to amaze me at how seriously some people take the game of football. It, more than any other sport, causes people anxiety and puts more people into nervous states. How can anybody get all worked up about a simple contest between athletes to the point that their blood pressure rises. They can't think straight or sit still due to the nervous energy that they have built up. I could understand it if maybe they had bet their life fortunes on it, but not just because of their favorite team that's playing.

THE FATHER OF my roommate at college was a person such as that. Every time the Aggies would play at Kyle Field he would be at our apartment at 9 a.m. sharp, no matter if the game started at 4 p.m. And, he had to drive all the way from Houston to be there at that time (which for me, after Midnight Yell Practice, was very early). He would not sit down for more than two minutes at a time. He was always pacing. And, he would leave for the game two hours before it started. His poor wife had to tag along and be bored for that whole day. I still don't see how she put up with it all.

And there are those who act like you've been a traitor to the United States when you predict that the Cowboys won't win their game. I like the Cowboys but I prefer the Houston Oilers to the Cowboys. Maybe it's because they are "closer to home" than the Cowboys. I was rooting harder for the Oilers to win than I was for the Cowboys.

Sorry if that offends some of you readers out there, but I still am as patriotic as I ever was.

Gas to Russia

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — President Carter may have blown an opportunity to tap Mexico's fabulous new oil fields for the petroleum that the United States will need in the 1980s. This would reduce U.S. dependence on the vulnerable, faraway oil wells of the Middle East.

The Mexicans were willing to boost their oil exports to the United States up to 4 million barrels a day by 1985. But they also need a market for the natural gas that will be unleashed with the oil. The wells in southeast Mexico, for example, are 36 percent natural gas, 64 percent oil.

Mexican officials reached an agreement with a U.S. consortium to pipe 2 billion cubic feet of surplus Mexican gas across the border daily in the near future. Otherwise, most of the gas will have to be burned off.

BUT ENERGY SECRETARY James Schlesinger squelched the deal because the Mexican gas is more expensive than Canadian natural gas. The difference would be a small price to pay, however, to assure the United States a secure future source of oil.

The deal would also improve living standards in Mexico, where 50 percent of the working people are either unemployed or underemployed. This has sent them surging across the U.S. border by the millions in search of a better life. It might be cheaper for the United States in the long run to help them find a better life in their own country.

President Carter appears to be oblivious to the affront he has caused by rejecting the natural gas deal. He will fly to Mexico on Feb. 14 for a state visit with President Lopez Portillo. From all available signs, Carter expects to turn on his famous smile and charm an agreement out of the Mexican leader for future oil.

But Carter may have to offer something more substantial than Southern molasses. Portillo recently confided to friends how he intends to handle Carter. The Mexican president recalled the story of Jose the house painter. Jose stood on a ladder painting the ceiling when a friend called to him. "Hang on to your paint brush, Jose," admonished the friend. Jose asked why. "Because," said the friend, "I am going to take away the ladder."

PORTILLO PROMISED quietly that he intends to pull Carter's ladder out from under him. The Mexican leader said he had already made a secret deal with the Soviets to ship $1 billion worth of oil to Cuba over the years. This will save the Soviets the cost of transporting it all the way from Russia.

Portillo complained that Carter had given Mexico a low priority until the new oil fields were discovered. Now the Central Intelligence Agency, he said, is busily assessing the oil find. "I know the CIA man Carter has in my office," boasted Portillo, smiling. "The reason I don't shoot him is that he is useful."

'POOR' INSURANCE: Every week for the past 29 years, insurance agents from five different companies have gathered at the doorstep of a 79-year-old Tennessee woman we'll call Mrs. Smith to collect premiums on 30 life insurance policies.

The total face value of the insurance policies Mrs. Smith has taken out over the years on herself and members of her family — including a 5-year-old granddaughter — is only $13,000. Yet the total amount of premiums she pays is staggering by her standards: $98.85 a month, more than half her $177 monthly income.

Mrs. Smith has paid out more than $8,000 in premiums so far. At her current rate she will have paid more in premiums by 1983 than the total face value of her policies. But if she were to cash in the policies before the insured dies, she would find that the accumulated cash value of the 30 policies is only $1,200.

Message to GOP

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — When the AFL-CIO's top brass hosted a fund-raising dinner last Thursday for a non-liberal member of the Senate Republican leadership, it was giving notice to the political world: any Republican who backs us on the things we really care about will get our help, no matter how conservative he may be otherwise.

The $500-a-plate dinner was held for Sen. Robert Packwood of Oregon Jan. 25 at the Washington home of AFL-CIO staffer Victor Kamber. The dinner chairman was Robert Georgine, head of the building trades unions. Sharing top billing at the dinner with Packwood was Lane Kirkland, AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer and possible successor to George Meany as president.

FAR FROM ASSOCIATING with such labor notables in the past, middle-roader Packwood never before has enjoyed AFL-CIO endorsement. Newly elected chairman of the Senate Republican conference, Packwood does not have the kind of record that ordinarily wins labor backing. His record on issues selected by the AFL-CIO is only 48 percent favorable.

But Packwood sides with labor on what it cares most about. He backed both the labor law revision and the bill to legalize common situs picketing — two measures topped in the last Congress thanks to massive Republican opposition. Kirkland, a close friend of Packwood, is telling Republicans, in effect, that they need not back every liberal social welfare measure to get labor's blessing.

That philosophy is rejected by the United Auto Workers and other more liberal unions who demand broad liberal voting records on all issues, not just narrow union questions. It is also unconvincing to some AFL-CIO operatives who want to support Portland's liberal Democratic Mayor Neil Goldschmidt against Packwood's third-term bid next year. Nevertheless, the Republican is likely to get the AFL-CIO endorsement.

A footnote: Packwood may need all the labor help he gets. The "right to life" lobby has targeted him for defeat because of his pro-abortion stance. Thus, the Oregon race will measure the relative political clout of big labor and the anti-abortionists.

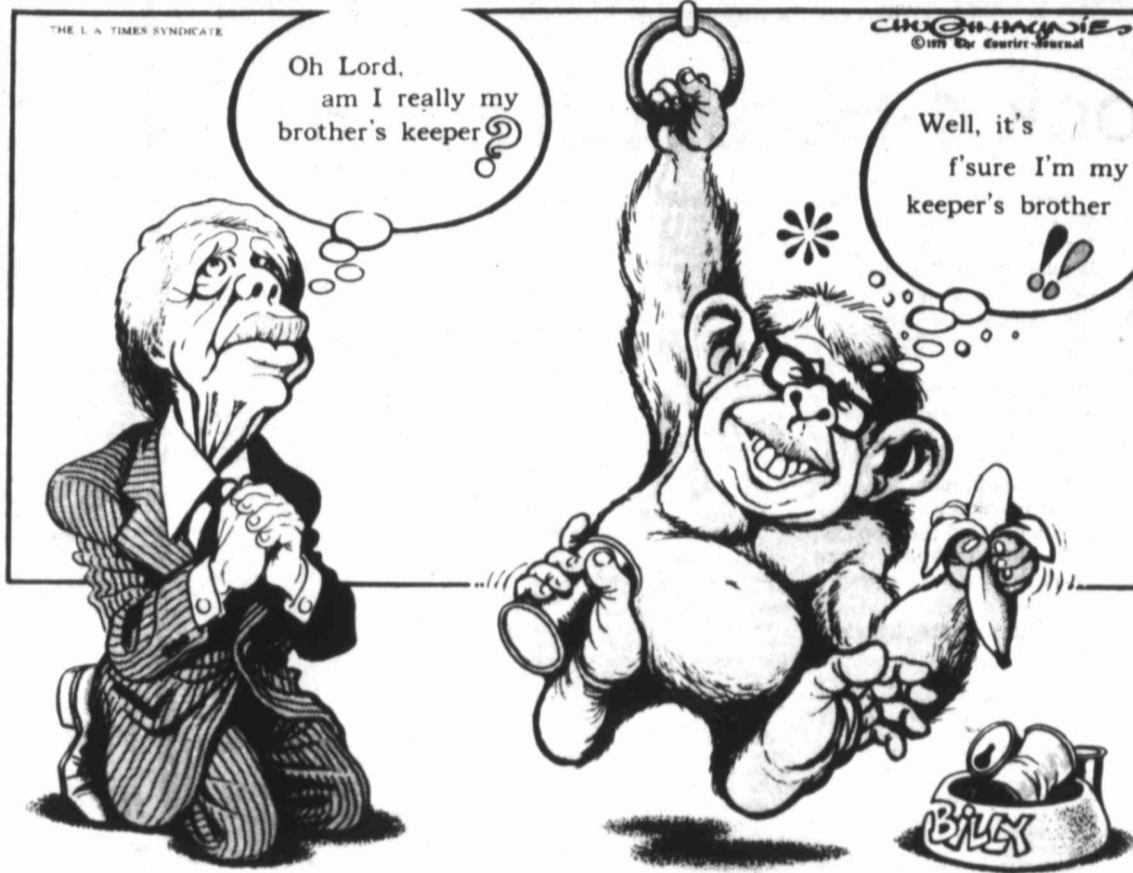

REAGAN: STAYING IN L.A. Ronald Reagan, front-running Republican presidential prospect for 1980, has decided to keep his campaign as far as possible from the Washington establishment by making Los Angeles his campaign headquarters.

Reagan's surprising intention to avoid the capital is a tribute of sorts to Jimmy Carter's anti-Washington campaign for the Democratic nomination in 1976, whose headquarters was kept in Atlanta.

But Los Angeles entails more problems than Atlanta. The three-hour time change between West and East coasts means significant political news made on the West Coast in the evening often never gets published in the East's big morning newspapers and is stale for later editions.

Nevertheless, Reagan believes there is a net gain from running for president as an outsider. His theory: voters are even more disillusioned with Washington politics and politicians today than they were four years ago.

LABOR LOSS The succession of big labor's defeats in the last Congress continued in the new one when the House Democratic caucus spurned the wishes of union lobbyists and elected conservative Rep. James Jones of Oklahoma to the House Budget Committee.

Blood thinners may cause bruising

By Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I do need a medical explanation of skin bleeding. My mother has had trouble for years with varicose veins and had some embolism formation. She was put on a blood thinner. Two weeks ago she noticed large, odd-shaped blue spots on her trunk. Could this be what you called "purpura"? She also has puffiness of her ankles. — Mrs. A.T.

The drug used is a brand of warfarin, an anticoagulant (blood thinner, if you will). The blue spots are purpura (PER-poo-rah) and are not uncommon. The medicine can cause it. This doesn't actually mean a whole lot because the blood vessels of the skin are quite fragile anyway. Some people bruise easily when on blood thinners, even if their blood is normal to begin with.

Blood thinners are part of the treatment for blood clot in the vein (thrombophlebitis), especially if an embolism — a traveling clot — develops. The anticoagulant won't diminish the clot but it will prevent its enlargement. I don't mean that your mother can ignore the bruising. A person on such medicine should have tests to measure blood-clotting time. It helps the doctor regulate the dosage. A more important problem with the thinner is bleeding in the urine, which would appear as a pinkish hue. There can also be intestinal bleeding, which would cause reddish or very dark stool. Sometimes if blood is too thin, vitamin K may be needed.

Your mother's puffy ankles sounds like edema (fluid accumulation), a part of the picture with sluggish vein circulation. All these signs are important to report when being treated for a circulation problem. If she is a regular aspirin user, this should be reported. These and other arthritis control drugs can add to an existing thin blood problem, especially while taking stronger anticoagulants like warfarin.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been having a lot of pain in my back. I had an X-ray and my doctor said I have a spur on my spine. He says it isn't very big and if I lost weight it should help a lot. Can you tell me anything about this?

What could have caused it? What is the best treatment? I can't find the word "spur" in my medical book. — Mrs. N.C.

A spur is a growth of bone that projects out from the surface. Spurs on the spine may be part of the picture with osteoarthritis, the kind sometimes called "degenerative" arthritis to distinguish it from rheumatoid. It's not clear why they form, but an injury may cause it as well as the bone problem. Many people walk around with spurs and have no problems. Perhaps your doctor has already passed on the best advice. Lose weight and take better care of your back. You may find a reference in your book under "deposits." The subject is discussed in greater length for the layman in the booklet, "How to Control Arthritis." You can get a copy of it by sending the 50 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What is the difference, please, between a radical mastectomy and a modified radical mastectomy? — P.A.D.

In radical mastectomy the entire breast, the muscles, and the lymph glands under the arm (axillary area) are removed. In a modified radical mastectomy the breast and lymph glands are removed. In simple mastectomy breast tissue only is taken out.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been an avid reader of the column since the late Dr. Thosteson began writing it. Glad it's being continued. I would appreciate a comment on my eye situation.

A year ago I had my eyes checked for glasses and was told I had cataracts forming. A doctor told me I may never need surgery. My eyes were watering so I returned to him for treatment. He told me then that that I not only had cataracts, but glaucoma as well. There was no mention of that a year ago. Now he says surgery has to be done. Can one have both of these problems? I'm troubled by this new diagnosis. — E.W.

Cataracts, which as you know is a clouding of the eyes' lenses, often precedes glaucoma, which is a build-up of fluid pressure within the eyeball. With cataracts the lens may enlarge and contribute to the pressure problem. Other factors as faulty eye drainage canals may be at fault. Eyedrops used to control glaucoma and cataracts can create visual problems. The presence of glaucoma is a reason to remove the cataracts if they are contributing.

Dear Dr. Ruble: If a person is alone and choking on food, what can he do? — R.B.F.

The Heimlich procedure can be done on oneself. Clasp hands firmly and place them, thumbs inward, against the abdomen below the ribs. Thrust inward firmly. If the food particle is in the air passages it may become dislodged.

Unless properly treated, both glaucoma and cataracts can lead to blindness. If you are affected with either of these ailments, or know someone who is, write to Dr. Ruble, in care of this newspaper, for the booklet, "Cataracts and Glaucoma." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am 16 and I find myself doing all sorts of things just because I want to be accepted by others. On the outside I act like everything is OK, but on the inside I am really lonely and empty. How can I conquer this? — R.W.H.

DEAR R. W. H.: I think you have put your finger on a very important problem. We often do things, not because we really want to (at least at first), but because we are hoping others will accept us and like us if we do them. The problem is that this kind of thing — in addition to making us do things that are wrong in God's eyes — never really brings us happiness and peace inside.

This is why the Bible warns us repeatedly about being influenced by others in a bad way. For example, the book of Proverbs says, "Enter not into the path of the wicked, and go not in the way of evil men. Avoid it, pass not by it, turn from it, and pass away" (Proverbs 4:14-15).

The answer to your problem is to turn your life over to Jesus Christ. When you give your life to Christ by an act of simple repentance and faith in Him, you enter into a very real personal relationship with God. You also will begin to find other young people who belong to Christ, and you will find they can become a new circle of friends who will be far deeper and wonderful than those you are trying to find now. Don't get into a pattern of living which you will only regret later in life. In Jesus Christ you can know peace with God, peace with others, and peace within yourself.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

The Evans and Novak article entitled "The Encryption" Gamble propounds a principle on verification of arms control agreements that is both so naive and dangerous to our national security that the record must be corrected.

The authors argue that Soviet missile design information must not be kept secret from the U.S. either by encrypting telemetry from missile test firings or by other means even when the information has no bearing on the verification of the provisions of an Agreement.

An Article of the SALT I Agreements, and presumably SALT II as well, states "Each Party undertakes not to use deliberate concealment measures which impede verification by national technical means of compliance with the provisions of the Treaty (emphasis added). It naturally does not prohibit concealment of other national security information that is not a part of any Agreement.

Thus both countries are allowed to keep secret technical information on weapon systems and characteristics not covered by the Agreement. The U.S., for example, would quite rightly wish to conceal from the U.S.S.R.

information on the design of the nuclear warhead in a missile; this would be allowed by the Treaty provisions. The principle proposed by Evans and Novak that even such information, which has no bearing on verification, cannot be concealed is not only absurd but would also be a disaster to our national security were it to be equally applied to the U.S. with its more advanced technology.

Former Secretary of Defense Laird and Evans and Novak were in error when they accused the Russians of cheating on SALT I because they had encrypted data on the firing of the SS-20 missile. There are no provisions in the SALT I Agreement, which relate to medium range missiles or for that matter to the characteristics of their SS-18 ICBM. However, the latter would be pertinent to the SALT II Agreements, and Secretary of State Vance is to be commended, not castigated, if he did get specific Soviet concurrence to the principle that encryption of telemetry would be barred for data bearing on the verification of provisions of the Agreements. Contrary to Evans and Novak, the U.S. would be able to know if such data was being encrypted.

A LUCKY ONE — Jamie, 2½, is one of the lucky ones at St. Margaret's Home and Hospital for Babies in Albany, Jamie, who has undergone surgery to correct a heart problem and a club foot, suffers from Mongolism. But Jamie will soon be leaving St. Margaret's, one of only two nursing homes for babies in New York State. Jamie, being checked here by nursing director Diane Haines, will be going to a foster home. Many of the other babies in the "58-crib" facility will soon be dead.

A bright, airy place for dying babies

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — St. Margaret's Home and Hospital for Babies is a bright, airy place. But most of its patients will never go home, never go to school, never play ball.

More than half of the infants who arrive at St. Margaret's, one of only a few such nursing homes in the United States, are terminally ill. Most live less than a month.

"Most of our discharges last year were because of death," said Diane Haines, director of nursing.

"About two-thirds of the babies have severe birth defects and genetic-related disorders," explained administrator Clinton Lewis.

"Most of the others are here because of accidents, either at birth or when they are young."

Some children are hydrocephalic, their heads swollen into grotesque shapes. Despite the deformities, there is always affection. The babies need it. The staff provides it.

"There always seems to be someone who takes to a particular child," Lewis said. "It doesn't matter what the child looks like; there always seems to be somebody with a special feeling."

The staff of 65 is aided by 30 students from the training school for child care technicians that St. Margaret's runs, and at times all the workers feel the emotional drain of their work.

"We had one child here for more than three years," Lewis said. "The parents never came. But when the child died the father came and spent all day here. He was very upset."

"I remember him saying, 'We didn't come to visit, but she was with us every day.' I can't say they weren't involved."

The administrator said officials of the Episcopal Church-related facility want to convert a room into a chapel or a meditation area.

"Not just for the parents, but also for the staff," he said.

The 58-crib facility began as a founding home in 1883 and has cared for children ever since. Its present facility was built in 1973. The annual budget is about $800,000.

"More and more of our cases are terminally ill babies," said Lewis. "The average length of stay has fallen to less than a month."

Lewis said there are two principal reasons why there are more terminally ill babies: infants who previously would have died very quickly survive medical crises longer today due to improved hospital care, and doctors are prolonging lives with extraordinary measures because they fear malpractice suits.

Another reason that they are brought to St. Margaret's is that hospitals, geared to making people well, are expensive. Care at St. Margaret's costs $45 a day — and it's geared to the dying baby's needs.

"We make the babies as comfortable as possible and sustain them nutritionally, but we will not intervene to prevent death when it's inevitable. At least, that's the policy," said Mrs. Haines.

"But when you are on duty and a baby has stopped breathing, what do you do?" she said. "Sometimes you have to intervene. I would never reprimand a nurse for doing that. They won't be working here forever and they have to live with their consciences the rest of their lives."

A Rash Statement

DEAR ABBY: My 6-year-old daughter received a doll for Christmas that is designed to develop diaper rash! The doll comes with a little kit of pills which, when mixed with water and fed to the doll, cause the doll to break out with diaper rash. There is another solution to feed the doll that will "cure" the rash.

Never have I seen anything so ridiculous in all my life. I think this doll should get the Christmas toy booby prize of the year, don't you?

PASCO, WASH.

DEAR PASCO: Well, let's just say the diaper rash doll is somewhere near the bottom.

DEAR ABBY: Count me as another wife who undresses in the closet, but not because I'm hung up about nudity or sex. Far from it. I am very uninhibited when the lights are out.

My husband drools over women with great figures. My figure used to be beautiful, but after four children, too much eating, and not enough exercise, I sag in some places and have bulges and rolls of fat in others. In other words, I'm ashamed of the way I look unclothed.

I also feel guilty because I'm just too lazy to do something about the shape I've let myself get into.

My husband doesn't notice the shape I'm in when I'm horizontal, but he would notice it if he were to see me standing up, undressing.

So I undress in the dark to spare his feelings as well as my own.

SPEAKING FOR MANY

Eastern Star Poppy seed has supper is an herb

Order of the Eastern Star, Laura B. Hart Chapter No. 1019, met Jan. 25 with Carol Huff, worthy matron, presiding.

A salad supper was given honoring Deputy Grand Matron Katie Floyd, District 2, Section 8, Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of the Eastern Star. She was presented with a white organza rose corsage by Paul Sweatt, worthy patron. A program was presented by the officers, wishing her happiness for the New Year.

A poem was read by each officer and a small red basket with a money gift was placed on a miniature white tree, decorated with red bows and red birds. The tables were decorated with snowmen centerpieces with red birds and candles on white lace. Program and table decorations were by Mrs. Ruth Sweatt.

Other distinguished guests were, Chapter Caring Committee Margaret Crum, Midland 253, Midland; and special guests for the year, Julianne and John Conley O'Neal, Odessa 447.

All officers and members furnished food. Following the meeting, a reception was held. Serving at the salad supper and the reception were Alma Pye, Gladys Fiveash, Clara Smelser, Food chairman was Mrs. Fiveash and co-chairman Evie Eastham. Pro-tems were Candy Daniel, Mary Hughes, Martine McDonald, Mrs. Fiveash, and Mrs. Smelser.

Greeters were Lavera Ann Mitchell, Dick Mitchell, Slim Fiveash, Elmo Martin, Dee Martin, and Perry Daniel. The registration committee included Connie Felts and Velma Griese.

Newlyweds home furnishing plan uses new and old ideas

COLLEGE STATION — A newlyweds home-furnishing plan should have ample "room" for each partner's ideas and for new and old pieces of furniture, advises a housing and home furnishings specialist.

When couples focus on comfort, convenience, attractive decorating and wise spending, their home-furnishing plans are the most effective, says Mrs. Sue Young with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Their plan should include two parts — ways to use furniture they already own and ideas for acquiring new pieces — so all furnishings will serve the couple to best advantage for the money spent, she adds.

In deciding how to use existing furniture, remember that the careful use of color is the most economical decorating tool. Quality older pieces of furniture of "hand-me-downs" will merit the time and effort it takes to refinish them. A coat or two of paint will make other older pieces usable quickly and easily.

In planning for new pieces of furniture, remember each one should have enough personality and style to help accomplish the desired look, and each should blend with pieces already in the home. In deciding on new furniture,

Teens like idea of woman president

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

A female president? A resounding yes said the 3,220 teens who responded to the question, "Would you vote for a woman running for the office of President?"

Of all the teen polls presented in this column this question had the greatest percentage of positive answers.

Of the 3,220 teens who responded, 2,996 (93 percent) said they would vote for a woman running for president while 224 (7 percent) couldn't buy that concept.

Female teens (2,210 responded) voiced an overwhelming high (94) percentage of yes for their sex.

The boys (1,010) weren't far behind (91 percent) with their favorable endorsement for a woman president.

Let's hear what particular teens had to say on the subject:

From Jay Triplett, 13, Klamath Falls, Ore.: Yes. Look at all the men now in Congress. Look at all of our problems.

From Nadine Theys, 17, Attala, Ala.: No, I honestly don't think a woman could handle the pressure.

From Traci Noll, 14, Alliance, Ohio: I would vote for any candidate according to the issues.

From Vicky Vance, 13, Indio, Calif.: God didn't say the office of president is for men only.

From Deanna Curtis, 16, Washington, Iowa: In 1980 I'll cast my first vote. Regardless of gender, I'll vote for the better "man."

From Randy Johnson, 18, Rock Island, Ill.: Yes, but only if she was qualified, sensible, had sound economic policy, was informed on issues and showed leadership.

From Cathy Poque, 15, Everett, Wash.: Yes! We need a change. Male presidents are beginning to bore me. There has been too many of them!

From Brenda Napps, 16, McAllen, Texas: No — It's not a woman's place to be president.

From Brian White, 17, Livermore, Calif.: I'd like my wife to be president. Then I'd be first — man.

From Pam Tompkins, 16, Russellville, Ala.: No. I think a male has more control over his feelings and emotions.

I thought you would enjoy Tonya Olsen's (Colorado Springs) response. "Women manage the home, the family and hold down a full-time job. If she can do all this, why can't she manage the country?"

I am awarding a TwEEN 12 and 20 T-shirt to Nick Pappas, 16, of Anaheim Calif. who said it best: "Those women who have been in public politics, have performed in a dedicated, professional manner. I believe that our country will be honored in having a woman serve as president before 2000."

RICHARD ROGERS
LIV ULLMANN

Veterans jittery at first

NEW YORK (AP) — It's Liv Ullmann's first Broadway musical and Richard Rodgers' 40th, but both the star and composer of "Mama" said they were jittery on the first day of rehearsals for the $1.2 million song-and-dance version of "I Remember Mama."

"I'm enormously nervous," Miss Ullmann said Monday. "But it's a good kind of nervousness. It's like opening day at school."

"Well, naturally I'm nervous. But then, you always are with every show," said the 76-year-old Rodgers, composer of such Broadway hits as "Oklahoma" and "South Pacific."

Miss Ullmann, 39, said she had been studying with a vocal coach but indicated she won't try to emphasize vocal technique. "I'll try to act it out," she said.

"Mama" is due to open at the Broadway Theater on May 3 after a Philadelphia tryout.

TENNESSEE WILLIAMS

BETTY FRIEDAN

Williams, friend mugged

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Tennessee Williams says he and a friend were mugged by a group of young toughs who said they recognized the Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright.

Williams, author of "A Streetcar Named Desire" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," said he and author Dotson Rader were attacked as they walked down a street late Sunday. Williams said they were accosted by four or five men in their late teens or early 20s.

He told police one of the youths told him, "I know who you are."

Williams said he replied, "What of it. I'm not afraid. I'm not in the habit of retreat."

The 67-year-old Williams was shoved to the ground, while Rader was punched in the jaw. Neither was injured. The youths then fled.

Williams was here for the opening of a series of plays by the Tennessee Williams Repertory Company, a group formed to honor the part-time Key West resident.

Putdowns have a motive

NEW YORK (AP) — Feminist Betty Friedan says women who put down men do it for reasons of "insecurity and self-contempt."

"I'm suspicious of women who put down men with slogans like 'a woman needs a man like a fish needs a bicycle,'" Miss Friedan said in an interview published in the February issue of Family Circle magazine.

"I've noticed that they were really nothing unless they could attract the right successful men, I think they may hate men and feel the need to put them down with such foolish slogans because of their excessive dependence on them."

She added "a woman satisfied with most aspects of her life doesn't usually turn her back on men. Most women need long-term commitment, someone to take care of and to be taken care of by, to share life with."

Pope John Paul II praises lower class

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II told 250,000 impoverished peasants in southern Mexico that the Roman Catholic Church defends the right to private property, but it is not opposed to expropriation "if it is done in the proper manner."

Scolding "powerful classes who sometimes tend unproductive lands that hide the bread that so many families lack," the pope on Monday told an emotional throng of Indians at a village in mountainous Oaxaca state.

"It is not just, it is not human, it is not Christian that certain situations that are clearly unjust should continue. There must be action soon and profound...urgent reforms."

"The measures to be taken should be adequate. The church defends the legitimate right to private property, but it teaches with no less clarity that hovering over private property is a social mortgage; God-given wealth must serve the general good, and if the common good demands it, there can be no fear of expropriation if it is done in the proper manner."

The Indians, who traveled as much as 24 hours from as far away as Guatemala to see the first pope to visit Mexico, cheered and applauded repeatedly as the brief speech was translated into the Zapotec dialect. The pope spoke in Spanish.

"Thank you, peasants, for your valuable contribution to social welfare," he said. "Humanity owes you a great deal. You can feel proud of your contribution to the common good."

Carter frees Patricia Hearst

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst will be free for her wedding, blessed by a presidential decree cutting short her 7-year prison term. "I haven't made any plans right now. It came as such a surprise that it will take some time to adjust to it," the elated newspaper heiress said Monday after President Carter commuted her bank robbery conviction. She is scheduled to leave the Federal Correctional Institution at Pleasanton on Thursday, four days before the fifth anniversary of her kidnapping by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Among those expected to accompany Miss Hearst when she is released is her fiancé, Bernard Shaw, 30, a San Francisco police officer who once was her bodyguard.

The couple had planned a Valentine's Day wedding, but Shaw said Monday they were postponing the wedding until they could be married in a church.

The Rev. Ted Dumke, who led the campaign for her clemency, said Monday the couple were now considering marrying on St. Patrick's Day.

Meanwhile, prison officials said Miss Hearst was transferred Monday to an isolated room, away from the 300 other women at the prison.

Duty officer Darell Hainline said she was moved "to be on the safe side," because of threats against her by other prisoners.

In granting the commutation, Carter agreed with a Justice Department recommendation that she has "been punished substantially," as a kidnap victim and during 22 months in prison. It said she needed no more rehabilitation nor punishment.

"She will be a law-abiding citizen," the department predicted.

"I'm really grateful that he was so courageous," Miss Hearst said of Carter's decision. "It would have been so simple for him to just leave everything the way it was ... I thought I'd be spending another Feb. 4 in prison."

Miss Hearst, who will turn

25 in three weeks, said she was "grateful for all the support from so many people I'll never know and never meet," referring to the dozens of politicians, movie stars and newspaper editorial writers who called for her early release.

The commutation does not absolve her from guilt for participating with three SLA members in the April 15, 1974, armed robbery of a San Francisco bank. It simply cuts short her sentence, although she would have been eligible for parole in July.

Miss Hearst and her captors, William and Emily Harris, eluded authorities for more than 19 months before they were arrested on Sept. 18, 1975 in San Francisco.

She said at her bank robbery trial she was forced by threats of death to join the SLA and participate in the robbery.

KHOMAINI IN PARIS — A young Iranian woman presents her 7-month old girl Ykta to the Ayatollah Khomeini to get his blessing as he crosses the street after his daily prayer in suburban Neauphle-le-Chateau. Though martial law authorities announced that Iran's airports would reopen Tuesday, Air France has refused to fly Khomeini back to his country until it receives official confirmation that the Airports have reopened.

Woman killed when car flips near Colorado City

COLORADO CITY — Michelle Renee Burton Lewis, 23, Oceanside, Calif., was killed Monday in a one-car accident on a bridge northwest of here.

Highway patrolman Frank Constable investigated the accident. Ms. Lewis died shortly after reaching Root Memorial Hospital.

The body is being sent to Koons Funeral Home in Goodland, Kan., where arrangements for services will be completed.

Ms. Lewis was born Aug. 14, 1955, in Denver, Colo. Survivors include her parents, Clayton Burton, Erie, Kan., and Myrna K. Burton, Colby, Kan.

The mishap occurred at 8:34 a.m., and Ms. Lewis died about an hour later. Her 1979 Honda skidded on an icy bridge on IS 20 over the Colorado River. The small car overturned twice, throwing Ms. Lewis, the lone occupant, from the vehicle.

Digest

Restraining order lifted

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A restraining order against picketing by striking teachers was dissolved when school officials said they would prefer public talks rather than court action to end the walkout.

Circuit Court Judge Ivan Lee Holt Jr. also dismissed a school board suit seeking a temporary injunction against the strike, which began Jan. 16. School Superintendent Robert E. Wentz said the school board wants teachers back at work, "not bogged down in court." Teachers have been without a contract since September. Union president Evelyn Battle said the teachers remain willing to talk, but said Monday's court action probably would not induce teachers to return to work.

Judge makes no decision

BOSTON (AP) — State Appeals Court Judge Alan Hale made no immediate decision on a request by an attorney for the parents of 3-year-old leukemia victim Chad Green for a stay of a lower court order.

But Hale said Monday Plymouth Superior Court had "good reasons" for ordering the child's parents to stop giving him Laetrile and vitamin treatments. The Greens fled Massachusetts last week with Chad and went to a Laetrile clinic in Tijuana, Mexico, rather than obey the lower court. The state contends Chad was being poisoned by excess doses of Laetrile and vitamins. The Greens say they have a right to choose Chad's treatment.

Cigarette smoking banned

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Secretary of State Rodney Quinn says he will ban cigarette smoking by people waiting in line to renew a drivers' license or automobile registration.

Quinn said he will formally announce the new policy Friday, while testifying on behalf of an anti-smoking bill. The legislation, which faces an uncertain future in the Legislature, would ban smoking at "all public proceedings," including legislative hearings, city council meetings and other government sessions. Quinn's motor vehicle office ban would not require legislative approval.

Hijacker being confined

NEW YORK (AP) — Irene McKinney, 49, charged with commandeering a jumbo jet en route to New York from Los Angeles, is being held in solitary confinement in lieu of $100,000 bail, officials say.

She was arraigned Monday by U.S. Magistrate John Caden in Brooklyn. Officials said she would be placed in "minute" segregative quarters because they believed her to be unstable. Mrs. McKinney did not enter a plea to charges that she piloted the United Air Lines 747 as it flew over Prescott, Ariz., Saturday night with 131 persons aboard. Police say they overcame Mrs. McKinney after the plane landed in New York. There were no injuries in the hijacking.

Evacuation of U.S. employees ordered

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The U.S. Embassy today ordered the evacuation from Iran of all dependents of U.S. government employees and again urged all non-essential American citizens to get out of the country following attacks on three Americans.

The order came as supporters of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini took to the streets as the exiled Shiite Moslem opposition leader continued delaying his return.

This is the first time the U.S. government has actually ordered anyone out of Iran. Previous announcements have encouraged people without important business to leave.

There are fewer than 10,000 Americans left in Iran, down from a peak of 45,000 when the unrest here started a year ago.

The order was issued after a shooting attack on an U.S. Air Force major Sunday night in Tehran and the beating of U.S. Consul David C. McGaffey and an American employee of Bell Helicopter International in the central Iranian city of Isfahan on Monday afternoon.

U.S. Consulate sources in Isfahan said the trouble there began about 4 p.m. Monday with an altercation between the Bell Helicopter employee and an Iranian taxi driver near the city's Khoroush Hotel. The sources said a shot was fired during the dispute and the taxi driver had been hospitalized with a facial wound. Details on the attack on McGaffey were not immediately available.

Iran's airports were supposed to be open today, but only one commercial plane was reported to have landed, troops turned outgoing passengers away, and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini continued to delay his return from exile.

Mobs of Khomeini's supporters hit the streets of Tehran again, attacking a police officer, setting fire to a brewery and clashing with security forces at least twice. Peaceful demonstrations were reported in the towns of Sanjan and Rezaieh.

Military authorities announced that the airports would reopen today after being closed for six days to delay Khomeini's return. Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar told reporters Monday the Tehran airport would be open in a few hours.

Hopeful travelers hurried to the airport this morning, but troops and police turned them away. Japan Air Lines said it landed a chartered DC-8 to evacuate Japanese petrochemical workers, but other foreign airlines said they had no official word that they could resume flights in and out of the country.

Red cross moves to basement Surveying space crunch in county courthouse

By DON WOODS The site of the Red Cross Office has been moved back into the basement of the courthouse after being moved to a temporary city facility Jan. 11. Chapter Manager Nat Roll said he moved back into the courthouse because "the sheriff told me he'd share his office with me."

According to the minutes of the Nov. 27 meeting of the Howard County Commissioners Court, County Tax Appraiser Earl Dean was to gain office space by moving into the offices of the County Surveyor Bill Crim and the Red Cross. The Red Cross office site would be moved to the office used by Dean and Crim would move into the space used by Dean's assistant. Somehow, though, the move never took place.

Crim said "I haven't been told officially to move out."

Health care crisis in Texas indicated

A task force, which included Mary Butler, RN, a member of the Big Spring State Hospital medical staff; and Mrs. Lee, came to the decision recently that the situation is at an impasse.

Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Lee are both members of the Texas Joint Practices Commission.

The Texas Nurses' Association met in Austin and came up with these guidelines for nurses of the state under which to operate until April 5. They recommended that registered nurses immediately take action to protect themselves and the consumer by:

—Asking their employers to get legal interpretations of the attorney general's opinion.

—Obtaining written instructions on all acts delegated by a physician.

—Asking employers or physicians to sign a statement acknowledging that the nurse is functioning under standing orders.

—Continuing to serve the health care needs of their patients while a solution is defined through governmental and legal processes.

The Texas Nurses Association state convention is April 5 at which time they will look at the situation and make recommendations based on their legal counsel as to what nurses can and cannot legally do. This will give legislators opportunity to review the situation and mandate some statutory relief for health care delivery.

He said he attended a meeting at the commissioners request. "I was asked for my opinion," he said. "I told them I didn't choose to move."

Crim said he had to have a vault in his office and that there wasn't one in the office they were discussing.

Commissioner Bill Crocker said County Judge Bill Tune was responsible for executing the motion to move the county surveyor into other offices but that "the judge neglected to do it."

"We'd requested that the judge go ahead and execute the motion," said Crocker.

Tune, however, said that the commissioners should have been responsible for informing Crim of their decision.

Howard County is required by Section 44, Article XVI of the state constitution to provide office space for the county surveyor within the county lines. They are not required to necessarily provide the office space in the courthouse. The county is not required to provide space for the Red Cross office.

A FUNNY THING HAPPENED — Derek Horton in the role of Hysterium, left, and Farley Hayworth as Lycus are two of the Big Spring High School Meistersingers who'll present the musical comedy "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" Friday and Saturday nights.

Meistersingers prepare comedy

Christmas vacation was followed up with some hard work and a lot of laughs by Big Spring High School's Meistersingers who've been putting together a musical comedy for the community's entertainment.

"A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" will be presented to the public Friday and Saturday 8 p.m., at the high school auditorium. Tickets, available from the choral department or any choral member, are $3 and $5. They will also be available at the door.

Meistersinger Derek Horton said that the two-act musical centers around three houses in ancient Rome.

"It's a comical farce of Roman life and philosophies," he said. The 50 talented students who make up the singing group are directed by Jack Bowers, head of the choral department.

For a night of comedy, be in the audience and discover for yourself what really did happen on the way to the forum.

NFC wins Pro Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It wasn't exactly son of Super Bowl XIII that brought the National Football League's longest season ever to a merciful end. Maybe a great, great grandchild would be more appropriate.

And although some rabid fans might disagree, many of the players seemed happy to call it a year.

"I'm feeling great...this capped off a very nice week with a lot of nice guys," said Minnesota's Ahmad Rashad after helping the National Conference to a 13-7 victory over the American Conference in the annual Pro Bowl extravaganza at the Coliseum Monday night.

"One of the highlights of my career was just being here.

The most valuable player award was just gravy."

Rashad caught five passes for 89 yards and was one of at least a handful of players who were MVP possibilities in the nationally televised game played before 38,333 fans. More than a third of those who purchased tickets — 13,310 — either stayed home or went elsewhere.

It was a requirement of Los Angeles Rams' season ticketholders to purchase a ticket to the Pro Bowl.

The NFL kicked off its 1978 exhibition season last July 29. Following were four preseason games, 16 regular-season games, three weeks of playoffs and the Super Bowl.

The victory was the fourth for the NFC in the past five years and the fifth in nine games overall since the all-star contest changed formats to pit the two conferences against each other.

There were only 20 points — on three touchdowns and two extra points — scored in a game where the teams combined for 616 yards in total offense. It was a far cry from the Pittsburgh Steelers' wild 35-31 triumph over the Dallas Cowboys in the Super Bowl eight days earlier.

"This was not the Super Bowl, it doesn't ease that loss, but it's nice to win an all-star game," said running back Tony Dorsett, who has helped the Cowboys to two Super Bowl berths in as many NFL seasons. "It's been a long year, but a good year. I've enjoyed it."

"But I can't wait to catch that big bird in the morning and fly the friendly skies back to Dallas," added Dorsett, who gained 27 yards on seven carries Monday night.

Roger Staubach, a teammate of Dorsett's, rifled a 19-yard touchdown pass to yet another Cowboy, wide receiver Tony Hill, with 3:43 remaining in the third quarter to give the NFC its victory.

RASHAD IS PRO BOWL MVP — Wide receiver Ahmad Rashad (29) of the Minnesota Vikings hauls in a Roger Staubach pass for the National Conference, on his way to being named Most Valuable Player in Monday's Pro Bowl at the Coliseum in Los Angeles. Tackling him is Louis Wright of the American Conference Broncos. The NFC defeated the AFC 13-7.

FPC rallies past Hawks

The Frank Phillips Prairie Dogs broke open a tie game with ten minutes to go behind the shooting of Paul Sandifer to score a 64-51 victory over the Howard College Hawks in a WJCAAC game played Monday night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The Hawks had held a slight lead for most of the contest before the Frank Phillips explosion destroyed any hopes of a Howard College victory.

Howard College opened up in its fashion as of late, a slow down, patient offense, and jumped out to a 13-9 lead with eight minutes gone in the contest. The Hawks then went into a four corner offense and increased their lead to 22-13 with seven minutes remaining in the first half.

But the Frank Phillips crew went on the first of two deadly spurts in the game, scoring nine unanswered points to tie the game at 22 with four minutes left in the half.

Howard College, behind the shooting of Robby Randolph, then outscored their opponents until halftime to take a 30-24 lead.

Frank Phillips rallied to tie the game at 38 with 11:30 remaining to play. The score saw-sawed back and forth for the next three minutes before FPC scored 10 straight points to take 54-44 lead with six minutes remaining.

Howard College was then forced to play more aggressive than they would have liked. They cut the lead to 58-51 with 1:50 remaining, but Frank Phillips, behind the shooting of Sandifer and the rebounding of James Jones, scored the final six points for the 64-51 victory margin.

Sandifer led the Frank Phillips crew with 20 points, while Randolph scored 21 to take high point honors for the game.

Hangin' Out

by Nathan Poss

The NCAA, in honor of its prestigious national basketball tournament, recently announced a new publication entitled 'The Classic'. It is a fascinating championship by championship account of the college tournament throughout the years.

The book is filled with pictures, game reports and many interesting coaches comments and stories. One particular story was told by former University of San Francisco coach Phil Woolpert, when the Dons met Oregon State in the West regional of the 1955 championship. Bill Russell was matched against the country's tallest player, 7'3" Swede Halbrook, on Oregon State's home court in Corvallis.

Woolpert: "Upon our arrival in Corvallis, a newspaperman asked if he might pose Russell next to Halbrook. He wanted to use it as a publicity shot. We agreed, and as soon as we finished our workout, they brought in Halbrook dressed in civvies. They gave Halbrook the basketball and asked him to stand next to a wall and have the ball in his right arm, extended as high as he could. Then they asked Russell to reach as high on Halbrook's arm as he could. Bill ambled over, and, of course, he was 6-9. Bill uncorked his left arm and it went up, and up, and up, and he ended up by cupping his fingers on top of the basketball. Needless to say, that picture never was shown in any of the Corvallis newspapers. And as our players later said, 'We had beaten Oregon State right there.'"

Any successful athlete will tell you that one of the basic ingredients in becoming accomplished in your particular sport is belief in one's abilities. It's interesting, however, to watch and see which stars toot their own horn and which don't.

Willie Mays, recently enshrined in baseball's Hall of Fame, made the statement on the day of his induction that he thought he was the finest player he ever saw. I won't disagree. Willie was always my favorite hero as a young child.

In the week following the induction, Willie was also honored by Boston baseball writers for his meritorious service to the game. He told the gathering that he still did have a conscience and that the statement he had made wasn't like him.

"That's not like me," he told the writers, "but I was giving my honest opinion. It doesn't sound too good though."

Mays, when asked who he thought was the second-best player was, said: "I'd have to say Roberto Clemente. He could do anything with the bat and in the field. And then there's Cesar Cedeño. I don't know why he hasn't put it all together. He can do it all."

Don't let anyone tell you that playing on a winning team doesn't help a person become honored more easily.

It happens every year. This year's example is Odessa Permian junior defensive back Ricky Reynolds. Reynolds was named second team on the All-State squads announced earlier in the month, but was only listed honorable mention on the District 5-AAA elite team. No doubt the state playoffs helped Reynolds gain state wide attention.

His teammate, junior defensive safety Kelly Howard, must not have played as productively as Reynolds in the playoffs. Howard was named on the District 5-AAAA first team as a defensive back, but was overlooked on the All-State squads.

Although it is a much more spacious and pretty arena, the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum is apparently not working to the advantage of the Howard College Hawks the way the old Poverty Pavilion did.

I'm not blaming the Hawks below average record on the arena in which they are playing, but it doesn't have the old vibrations that could be felt at Poverty Pavilion.

I asked New Mexico Junior College basketball coach Ron Black on the difference between playing in Poverty and Garrett. Black replied: "Howard College used to be the hardest place to play in the conference. You'd come into that old gym and it would be like you were a 10 or 15 point underdog. But this new place kind of neutralizes everything."

Longhorns roll on in SWC

By GARY GARRISON
Associated Press Writer

It was the same song, another verse as the Texas Longhorns rolled to an easy 79-53 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Houston Monday night.

It was the same because Texas coach Abe Lemons criticized the officiating and chided sports writers, telling them people would say Houston had a "bad game."

In other SWC action, Texas Tech romped to a 91-71 victory over Texas Christian, Texas A&M beat Baylor, 71-58, and Southern Methodist, whipped Rice, 80-67.

Ron Baxter had 23 points for the Longhorns and Jim Krivacs added 22 as the Longhorns jumpstart to a 39-28 halftime margin.

Krivacs became Texas' all-time leading career scorer early in the game when he tossed in a jump shot to pass Raymond Downs, who had 1,513 points.

Six Red Raiders finished in double figures. Freshman David Little had 14 to lead the Raiders. Jim Hund had 17 points for TCU.

Jethro Pugh retires

By DENNE FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — When Jethro Pugh was tabbed out of tiny Elizabeth City State University by the Dallas Cowboys in the 11th round of the 1965 draft, it gave Dallas writers and fans a new joke.

"What is a Jethro Pugh?" they asked.

The 6-6, 255-pound defensive tackle ended his career Monday, his name a household word among Cowboy fans.

The lone survivor of the old Dallas Doomsday Defense, Pugh called it quits after 14 seasons, seven operations and more playoff appearances (23) than any other player in National Football League history.

"I like to think I've had a good, clean, honest career, but now it's time to do something else. I simply feel I've reached a point where I should discontinue football and pursue another career," Pugh said.

Pugh said he has no definite plans now, but is looking at several business opportunities. He said he plans to make Dallas his permanent home.

Pugh, 34, never made a Pro Bowl or All Pro in his 14 years with the Cowboys, yet was one of the primary reasons they made it to five Super Bowls.

Plagued by knee problems through the second half of the 1978 season, he missed Super Bowl XIII because of injuries.

Pugh said the grind of training camp and daily practice became a tedious routine and that he gave serious consideration during last summer's training camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., to retirement.

It was Pugh whom Green Bay's Jerry Kramer blocked in the infamous 1967 "Ice Bowl" NFL title game, setting up a quarterback sneak by Bart Starr for the winning touchdown with seconds to play.

Pugh said the memory of that game, played in temperatures of minus 13, still bothers him.

Steers host Permian tonight

The Big Spring Steers basketball team will be seeking revenge tonight when they play host to the tough Odessa Permian Panthers in Steer Gym at 8:00.

Big Spring lost a tough 63-59 decision to Mojo earlier in the year on the Panther home floor, and Tommy Collins roundballers would like nothing more than to reverse the outcome this time.

The Steers will be searching for their first district win in the second half after suffering two losses to perennial powerhouses Abilene and Midland.

A sophomore game is slated for 4:00 and the JV affair is scheduled for a 6:15 tipoff.

Hawk Queens humiliate Dolls

The Howard College Hawks had no trouble in outclassing the Frank Phillips Prairie Dolls by a score of 91-43 in a Western Junior College Athletic Conference game played Monday evening in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The Hawk Queens of Coach Don Stevens used a balanced attack that made the game into a laughter from the beginning. Much of this was due to the rebounding of Shawn Smith and Cathey Meyer and the shooting of JoAnn LeFridge.

The Queens led at half by a 39-19 margin.

The game slowed down considerably early in the second half, with neither team being able to do much offensively. The Queens then used their inside play and numerous Frank Phillips fouls to explode in the last ten minutes in an effort to bust the scoreboard.

LeFridge led all scorers in the contest with 15 points, followed by Smith with 13, Robbie Freeman with 12 and Jayne Jones with 10.

Although the game was never in doubt, Coach Don Stevens felt it was a very beneficial to his squad, especially Smith and Meyer. "Shawn Smith and Cathey Meyer were much improved over the past games with their rebounding and scoring. I'm hoping this will be a confidence builder for the team and help us shake

Sherman minister probed

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — An investigation into the ministry of a United Pentecostal minister in Sherman will continue through the week, the state director of the denomination says.

The Rev. E. L. Holley of Lufkin, Texas, who oversees the operations of the state's United Pentecostal churches, went to Sherman last Friday after receiving a formal complaint, signed by two other preachers.

The complaint criticized the Rev. Charles E. Glass, 46, of Sherman's First United Pentecostal Church for "conduct unbecoming a minister."

Holley said he will give Glass a chance to answer allegations that he and his wife have put exaggerated emphasis on demons and evil spirits.

He said he talked over the weekend in Sherman to between 20 and 25 persons, all of whom expressed dismay and disgust over the activities of Glass and his wife, Mary Jo.

The charges could lead to Glass' ministerial credentials being lifted.

More than 150 persons have left the church in the past four years.

Glass' critics, many of them former members who still have relatives in the congregation, say the minister and his wife have steered the Sherman church into a fanaticism that has torn families apart, driven some families out of town and veered into emotional terrorism and physical harassment.

Sherman Police Chief Johnny Burleson said "about four" complaints of harassment were filed in 1977 by former members against present church members. Lately, the activity has resumed, he said.

The allegations against Glass — carried in Sunday's Dallas Times Herald, whose reporters interviewed church members — were:

—that those who leave the church are denounced from the pulpit and later intimidated with obscene telephone calls, large numbers of cars circling their houses, and other harassment.

—that the purported sexual behavior of members and former members is a frequent topic of discussion during meetings.

—that affections have been alienated among once close-knit families because of the church. Parents have been estranged from their children, and some who have left the church have never seen their grandchildren who are members of the church.

Glass calls the accusations "bald-faced lies. Hate and love are but a hair apart. If what they are saying is true, they ought to hang me at sun-up. But if God be for us, who can prevail against us?"

He characterized the dispute as a small church spat involving ill will among members of four families in Sherman.

—that there is a fascination at the church with demons and evil spirits, an interest that extends far beyond even extreme Pentecostal practice.

Judicial complaint

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — The state Commission on Judicial Conduct is seeking the permanent removal of 78th District Judge Stanley Kirk of Wichita Falls.

The commission, in a formal complaint filed Friday with the Texas Supreme Court, accused Kirk of falsifying court records and asked for his immediate suspension without pay.

No hearing was set by the Supreme Court to hear the complaint.

Kirk, who was served a copy of the complaint by Texas Rangers, would not comment. He is currently presiding over the capital murder trial of John William McCrory.

Maurice Pipkin of Austin, executive director of the Commission of Judicial Conduct, said the state constitution prohibited him from releasing any information about the commission's case against the judge.

Center benefits from pen sale

A battalion of children, ranging in ages 8 to 14, will be selling writing pens the next few days, trying to raise money for the North Side Community Center.

Packages of the pens will sell for $1 each. Proceeds will go toward payment of utilities for the center.

In all, about 25 children will be offering their sales pitch to the public.

On the light side

Vote for blank

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — "None Of The Above" ought to be last choice on the South Dakota ballot in 1980, a state senator says.

Sen. Don Frankenfeld, R-Rapid City, says people should be able to vote for a blank space if they don't like any of the candidates.

"Voters often feel they are given a choice between Tweedledum and Tweedledee," Frankenfeld said.

He has introduced a bill requiring the number of votes for "none of the above" to be tallied and published with the official election results.

"In fact, the winner of a race may find out he might be only slightly less distasteful than his opponent," Frankenfeld said.

He couldn't get any other lawmakers to put their names on the bill. "I think they're afraid it might cause them some embarrassment," he said.

Population explosion

FAIRFIELD, Ohio (AP) — When Glenn Jones arrived home from the hospital where his wife had given birth to twins, he found the family dog Tippy licking eight new puppies.

Surveying the household that grew tenfold last week, the Fisher Body plant worker said, "I'm glad I don't have a cat."
