WISH FULFILLED — David Riojas, 9 years old, introduces himself to one of his basketball idols, Geese Ausbie of the Harlem Globetrotters in San Antonio, Texas.

Boy won't lose sight; has his wish fulfilled

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A 9-year-old boy, selected to serve as a ballboy Saturday for the Harlem Globetrotters after it was reported he was going blind, is probably "not doomed to blindness," his doctor said. David Riojas suffers from uveitis, which his family and friends feared would cost him his sight. But his doctor said the disorder is not as serious as some thought and "there are many things that could be done" to keep the boy from going blind. The boy's best friend, William Linthicum Jr., also 9, wrote a heart-rending letter to the San Antonio News last week asking that David be the ballboy for the Globetrotters for their two Saturday appearances here. "The boys on the other teams make fun of him a lot and sometimes he cries. He loves basketball. Please let him be a ballboy for the Globetrotters because he may never see them again," William scrawled in pencil on notepaper. David's mother, Grace Riojas, had said she understood her child eventually would go blind from the disease, which causes inflammation of the iris. She said she was told Thursday that doctors couldn't operate on David's cataract-stricken left eye because of the disease. "I keep telling myself he will get better, but he doesn't. It's horrifying to think that someday my son will not see," she said Friday. "She was mistaken," one of David's doctors, who asked not to be identified, said Saturday. "This is not a disease where someone is doomed to blindness by any means. There are many things that could be done to maintain vision. There are many new surgical procedures. "It's not the hopeless situation she has painted it to be," he added. David plays basketball twice a week for a YMCA team. His mother says he is one of the team's better players, despite not being able to see from his left eye. He says he wants to be a pro player and idolizes the Globetrotters, the world-famous barnstorming team. "I guess I know that one day I will go completely blind. It scares me," the News quoted David as saying Thursday after he was told the cataract couldn't immediately be removed from his left eye. The doctor said there is only a slight chance that someone affected by uveitis would go completely blind. The disease, he added, is puzzling and can recur at any time. David has had surgery on his right eye to clear vision blurred by effects of the disease and the medication. The doctor said that operation was paid for by the State Commission for the Blind. The doctor said David's vision is "normal" in that eye and indicated the cataracts could eventually be removed from his left eye.

New religious Grand Sheik vows

'Fight it out with communism'

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The new Grand Sheik of Al Azhar, head of Islam's most influential seat of religious learning, says he will "fight it out with communism," support advancement of women, and back efforts to achieve peace with Israel. "Islam and communism are irreconcilable," said Sheik Mohammed Abdel Rahman Bissar in an interview. "The difference between the two is like between light and darkness, snow and fire." He also expressed "boundless support" for Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's drive for peace with Israel, asserting the Jews are "brothers to Moslems in humanity." Moslem-Jewish coexistence, he said, is "not only a must but a blessing as well ... The Jews of Israel are holders of a holy book, the Old Testament. And we respect their religion and honor their prophets. But peace with Israel must be based on sincere action to eliminate the tragic injustice that befell the Palestinian people." The interview was held a few days after Bissar's appointment last Monday to the highest religious job in the Islamic world.

Bissar's appointment was made on the strength of Sadat's presidential decree approved by the Islamic Research Academy, whose 50 members are drawn from Egypt and 20 other Islamic countries. The sheik has strong influence among the world's 600 million Moslems, but does not have a political base like that of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who intends to set up an Islamic republic in Iran. He said he is laying the groundwork in Egypt for enforcing Sharia, or the law of Islam's holy book, the Koran. The bearded, 69-year-old sheik also warned against "this communist menace besetting Iran" and argued that, under Sharia, home-grown Moslem communists are classified as apostates. "Any Moslem in Egypt, Iran, or elsewhere in the Islamic world who professes adherence to the atheist communist ideology is essentially a murtadd (renegade)," he said. "And, under Sharia, a murtadd is given three days to repent or, if he persists, be executed." Egypt's 360-member parliament has been debating methods of enforcing Sharia and seems to still have a long way to go. But the grand sheik expressed hopes that Islamic laws will be observed in Iran as "the safety valve against straying into the pitfalls of communism." As head of the 10-century-old Al Azhar Mosque and its affiliated university, the grand sheik is the leading Islamic authority empowered to re-interpret the Koran. He also heads the Islamic Research Academy and can issue fatwas, or religious rulings, on matters ranging from rituals to birth control, marriage and divorce. But unlike the pope, who can issue edicts that apply to all Roman Catholics, Bissar's authority is weakened because he is appointed by a temporal head of state. His fatwas, while binding on the Sunni Moslems of Egypt, can be challenged by Moslem leaders elsewhere, such as Khomeini in Iran, who belongs to the Shiite branch of Islam. But Bissar described Khomeini as a "brother-in-Islam." "I will arrange a program whereby Islamic unity can gradually be attained and Islamic orthodoxy be correctly spread throughout the world," he said. "This, Allah willing, will make us immune against the emerging wave of atheism, permissiveness and degeneration." Bissar defended Moslem women who take office jobs and "participate in building the new, modern society of Islam everywhere." "Women are the prime makers of society, they build the nation, and we hold them in the highest esteem," he said. "But we must protect them against disgrace and deviation." Bissar, who has one doctorate from Al Azhar and another from Edinburgh University, is fluent in English, French and his native Arabic. He spent four years in the United States as director of the Islamic Center in Washington. "I assimilated Western cultures adequately," he said. "But I believe that Islam is deeper, more realistic and practicable." He said he wants to "eradicate social ills" by enforcing the harsh penalties of Sharia — including cutting off the hands of convicted thieves, stoning married adulterers to death, and whipping drunks. But these punishments, he said, can only be meted out when social and economic injustices are eliminated.

Khomeini vows holy war against Bakhtiar's regime

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini vowed Saturday to wage holy war against the shah-appointed government of Shahpour Bakhtiar unless it resigns. But the military sent him a clear signal it will oppose any attempt to seize power by unconstitutional means. Despite the hard-line demands of the 78-year-old Moslem religious leader, informed Iranian sources said the two sides are talking behind the scenes seeking compromise. Khomeini, who orchestrated from exile the struggle that drove Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi from the country, wants to abolish the monarchy and wants Bakhtiar out as prime minister so he can appoint his own provisional government to establish an Islamic republic. Speaking at a news conference, Khomeini said he would establish the government "very soon." Bakhtiar declined all comment on Khomeini's statements. But a Bakhtiar spokesman underlined that

Khomeini threatened to order his followers to take up arms against the government only if a "suitable solution is not found." Diplomatic sources said they believed the next three days will be crucial in determining the attitude of the armed forces and whether Iran will move toward a bloody confrontation. The military has the key to power, and most or all of its top commanders are believed loyal to the shah and Bakhtiar. The sentiments of the rank-and-file soldiers are less certain. The sources, who asked not to be named, said the armed forces "must be hoping for a compromise" to maintain unity within their fragile ranks. Informed Iranian sources said senior military commanders met with a representative of Khomeini Friday night to express "appreciation" that he had not acted drastically to take over the country. This was a clear warning to Khomeini and his followers that the military is serious in its commitment to the constitutional system, which provides for a shah. The stern-faced Khomeini, wearing his now-familiar black robes and rumpled turban, said at his news conference: "We will try to solve the problem through non-violent means. But if the illegal government of Bakhtiar with the support of America and Britain continues to defy the will of the people and brings forces from Israel, then we will take other means to bring it down." His warning about the use of force came in response to a question about whether he would declare a "jihad" — a "holy war" — to bring about an Islamic republic. In Moslem tradition, a holy war is fought against non-Moslem or foreign enemies. Khomeini's references to the Americans, British and Israelis may have been included to help justify his threat. He said of the army, "If they come into the arms of the people we will embrace them." Contacts with the armed forces will continue, he said. The military maintained the low profile it has kept since the triumphant return of Khomeini Thursday from 14 years' exile abroad. The only violence reported Saturday was in the Persian Gulf town of Bandar Abbas where soldiers attacked and demolished an Islamic cooperative store. Khomeini, speaking at a modernistic concrete-and-wood schoolhouse near his Tehran headquarters, said members of a revolutionary council had been picked and a provisional government would be appointed soon. The job of the provisional government, he said, will be to prepare a referendum to ratify a constitution for an Islamic republic. The constitution, he said, already has been drafted. Previously, Khomeini spoke of a constituent assembly to draft the constitution but this step has apparently been dropped, a move Western diplomatic sources here interpreted as "a step toward Islamic dictatorship."

Throughout his second full day back in Iran Khomeini greeted thousands of Iranians who streamed through the courtyard of the schoolhouse.

At Community Center

Meals for elderly planned

Beginning Wednesday, meals for persons in three counties — Howard, Borden and Glasscock — will be offered from noon to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday in the Dora Roberts Community Center. The only requirement for the meals is that the persons be 60 years of age or older, and there is no charge for the meal. "Contributions would be appreciated," added Nutrition for the Elderly program director Carolyn Ford. "We received a grant from the Governor's Commission on Aging, but may need more to keep the program operating. We are allocated — at least now — to feed up to 140 persons a day." Reservations should be made by contacting Noma Davis, the administrative assistant for the program, at 267-1696. "Also, if someone has no other transportation, we will arrange to get them to the meal, and they can call the same number for making transportation arrangements," said Ford. Site manager for the program is Francys Kissinger. "This program is not for one certain group or income bracket," stressed Ford. "It is for everyone 60 and over and is designed to provide, not only nutrition, but companionship, activities, somewhere to go and something to do. "The building will be open from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. daily, not just during the meal hour," said Ford. "I'm sure there will be cards, dominoes and other activities going on as soon as people discover that we are there." The program director said that the program, a five-county effort in which the Lamesa branch is already operational, was instigated, to a large degree by the Howard County Council on Aging. "We have the Dawson County branch already operating at the County Senior Citizens Center, and will begin work on a branch in Stanton to serve Martin County as soon as the Big Spring program is able to stand. "Actually, the Howard County program will serve Borden and Glasscock County, unless we can find a facility and a method of actually providing the meals that will be economically feasible," Ford explained. "The whole program is directed toward congregating meals. There will be opportunities for people to enjoy companionship over a good, hot meal," she concluded.

Birmingham firm wins Navy aircraft modification pact

The Department of Defense announced in Washington at 4 p.m. Friday that the Naval aircraft modification contract sought by several companies, including Lockheed Aircraft Service Co., of Ontario, Calif., had been awarded to Hays International of Birmingham, Ala. Had Lockheed won the lucrative, multi-year contract, it would have set up operations in the Big Spring Industrial Park. Despite the news, work will continue on the giant hangar in the industrial park. Community officials are confident they will be able to lure a major industry here once the facility is completed. News of the awarding of the contract did not catch local officials by surprise. They had prepared some time ago for a visit of local facilities by a Naval inspection team that never came about. Such a tour would have been mandatory before Big Spring could have been confirmed as a site for the aircraft modification project. Department of Defense officials notified Cong. Charles Stenholm of the site decision and Stenholm's office, in turn, telephoned The Herald.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Job discrimination?

A. Why isn't the federal prison system accepting job applications from people over age 35? I and several of my friends have applied for various positions and we've each received notification that if we're over age 35, we need not apply. I already have 16 years of civil service employment behind me and was told the same thing. Isn't this discriminatory? A. According to Harry Spannaus, manager of Industrial Park, under federal law, the Federal Bureau of Prisons is the only federal agency that can place an age limit on employment. The mandatory retirement age for federal prison employees is 55. In order to qualify for the system's 20-year retirement program, a person would have to be no older than 35 when employment was begun. Despite the fact that you already have 16 years of civil service employment behind you, there may be other reasons why you did not meet the rigid employment qualifications placed on employees of federal prisons. You might find the answer to your particular case by calling C. L. Benson, Regional Director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, in Dallas, (214) 749-1112.

Bill introduced to up state aid to schools

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Education Committee said Saturday he has introduced a school finance bill that would increase state aid to local school districts by $850 million over the next two years.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, said the bill (S.B. 350) would supplement the local property tax reductions provided by the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment, but also would stress financial equality among school districts.

It would make a Foundation School Program 80 percent state-funded, compared with about 70 percent now.

Mauzy said his bill would provide additional state aid to enable districts to increase their spending by 25 percent over the Foundation program.

"This aid is designed to give 90 percent of the school children in Texas an educational opportunity currently available only to those in the wealthier districts," Mauzy said.

Other newly introduced Senate bills include legislation that would: —enable judges to drop traffic charges, other than reckless or drunken driving, if the defendants complete safe-driving courses.

—allow prosecution of child abuse cases that do not involve "serious bodily injury." Sen. Gene Jones, D-Houston, said prosecutors have complained they were unable to obtain convictions in cases where children were burned with cigarettes because this was not "a serious bodily injury."

Rep. Lance Lator, D-Houston, introduced a resolution asking the President and secretary of state to urge the Federal Republic of Germany to abolish or extend its statute of limitations for prosecuting Nazi war criminals.

Lator's resolution, HCR 39, said the statute expires Dec. 31, 1979.

"If this statute of limitations does expire, thousands of Nazi war criminals who were actively involved in the calculated and brutal mass murder of millions of innocent victims will be rewarded by having evaded justice," the resolution says.

The Crows are members of the Berea Baptist Church. In 1976, Robbi taught a Sunday School class of exceptional children.

Chinese vice premier ends visit to Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — Like a businessman on a shopping trip, Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping ended his Texas visit on Saturday with a tour of the Hughes Tool Co., which makes the kind of sophisticated equipment his country needs to develop its oil reserves.

Teng took off for Seattle, the last stop on his U.S. trip, Saturday afternoon. Before leaving, the vice premier told a group of editors and publishers that he expects China's oil exports to increase steadily, although he said he could not predict how much the country could produce.

He also said that although the Chinese did not fully support all the policies of the Pol Pot regime, China would support Cambodia against what he called massive Vietnamese aggression.

Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua said, meanwhile, that the "Gang of Four" is alive, well and living in Peking "under certain restrictions." He said the group was "not in prison," but did not give further details during his brief conversation with reporters.

The four, led by Chairman Mao Tse-tung's widow, Chiang Ching, were arrested in 1977 as a group of pragmatists led by Teng seized power. The group has been vilified by Chinese propaganda and blamed for all of the excesses of the last years under Mao.

But there has been no official word from the Chinese government about their whereabouts. Huang's statement was the first indication from a high Chinese official of what has happened to them.

Teng and his party arrived in Houston on Friday after visits to Washington and Atlanta. He spent much of the day sightseeing, piloting a space shuttle simulator and visiting a rodeo where he was presented with a prize bull.

In a breakfast meeting with editors of southwestern newspapers, Teng said China was doing its best to help the remnants of the Pol Pot regime in Cambodia to resist Vietnamese invaders.

The vice premier said China had not agreed fully with all of the policies of the regime. But he said the Cambodians deserve help in maintaining their independence and he said China — which reportedly is massing troops along its borders with Vietnam and is sending arms and supplies to Cambodia — would do its best to provide aid.

Although Teng's breakfast meeting was open to the press, direct quotations were prohibited.

About 100 pro-Taiwanese marched peacefully across the street during the breakfast. They carried signs reading: "Honor Our Treaty," "Support Free China" and "Impeach Carter."

Concise 'extra' told the story

'Extras' are rarely published by newspapers in this electronic age.

Television and radio are vehicles well suited for the delivery of fast-breaking news. Newspapers have not only survived but prospered because they deliver the imperishable printed word, enabling the reader to confirm what he or she thinks they might have seen or heard.

Newspapers, too, continue to play a vital role in today's complex society because they serve to interpret for the reader stories whose significance he might not always immediately grasp.

Half a century ago, newspaper 'extras' used to be assembled from time to time by publishing firms on such developments as the declaration of war, the assassination of celebrated figures or natural disasters that devastated communities.

When editors deemed that stories were worthy of "extra" treatment, they ordinarily remade only the front page of their most recent publication, then sent the paper boys into the streets to sell their products. Extras were rarely if ever delivered to regular subscribers.

The Herald, then a weekly publication, saw fit Sept. 22, 1917, to print what must have been one of the world's smallest extras.

It was labeled simply "Herald Extra" and was printed on a sheet of paper about six by eight inches in size.

Crude oil production is down during 1978

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday said the value of crude oil produced in Texas increased last year to an average of $8.93 per barrel, a 7.2 per cent increase over the previous year.

Bullock said a study of oil production, prices and tax revenue was featured in the January issue of "Fiscal Notes", a monthly financial report published by the Comptroller's Office.

The Comptroller reported that production of crude oil during fiscal 1978 totaled 1,059.8 million barrels, compared to 1,112.2 million barrels in 1977.

This represents a decline of 4.7 per cent, the largest decrease in the last five years.

An examination of quarterly price increases show that the price per barrel for crude oil jumped from $3.48 during the second quarter of fiscal 1973 to $6.77 for the same period of the following year.

Average Texas crude oil prices per barrel have steadily increased over the past five years to the current record levels.

Even though production of crude oil in Texas is on the decline, oil production tax revenues are expected to grow at a slightly faster rate during the next three fiscal years.

Based on the Comptroller's December 1978 revenue estimate, receipts from oil production taxes will increase by 3.7, 4.0 and 3.1 per cent respectively during fiscal years 1979, 1980 and 1981.

Caucuses cut power

By SCOTT CARPENTER & JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The growing trend for Texas House members to join caucuses could cut into the power now jealously held by the speaker and his team.

Such a decentralization of power occurred in the U.S. Congress, where the caucus fad is older and more developed.

Caucuses form around common interests or backgrounds. Blacks, Mexican-Americans and urban legislators are among those banding together in Texas.

The reason for the trend is simple: a legislator finds all the clout on the other side when he or she deals one-on-one with the speaker or a speaker-appointed committee chairman.

Members gain strength by joining together. Worries about centralized power in the Texas House led to formation of the Sam Houston Caucus in 1978. That group's common interest was a desire to change the House rules and ensure each member an equal chance to pass legislation.

Speaker Billy Clayton never has liked caucuses. He fought the proposed rules changes herd on, and by winning virtually destroyed the Sam Houston Caucus.

In 1976, Clayton tried to destroy the House Study Group, a loose coalition of legislators who hire a staff to analyze bills.

He failed but got the Study

Group to agree not to take sides on legislation.

The newest organization is the Urban Caucus, a broadly based group of legislators representing medium-sized or large cities.

That would include a majority of the House membership if the caucus attracts all its potential members.

The caucus is forming around issue lines. Since the House power structure is rurally dominated, the Urban Caucus' continued growth could mean new alliances.

And new alliances could well chip away at the power of the speaker and his team.

The Texas Good Neighbor Commission got two boosts last week in its fight for survival under sunset review.

The first was Speaker Clayton's announcement in support of the agency.

The second came when Rep. Arnold Gonzales arranged to be on the House subcommittee reviewing the agency.

The Corpus Christi Democrat is among Mexican-Americans who strongly support the commission, which promotes inter-American goodwill. His appointment means Mexican-Americans hold two of the three seats on the reviewing subcommittee — Rep. Melchor Chavez is chairman.

The Good Neighbor Commission will die unless the legislature votes to continue it.

Teen-ager sentenced to 48 years

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Robert Earl May Jr. pleaded guilty to armed robbery and was sentenced to 48 years in jail — with no chance of parole. If he behaves, he can be free at age 46, authorities say. He's now 14.

Prison officials, who were besieged with angry calls Friday after a television station reported the boy's imprisonment, said the sentence was unusual for such a young offender.

"We don't get many 14-year-olds at the penitentiary," said Tom Gregory, spokesman for the state Department of Corrections. He told callers: "Our hands are tied. We just do what the court tells us."

May, who is 4-foot-7 and weighs 75 pounds, has been assigned to the prison hospital to isolate him from older inmates, he said. May was imprisoned on Monday.

The State Penitentiary at Parchman is Mississippi's main prison. May and three others — ages 17, 18 and 24 — were sent there after they pleaded guilty to armed robbery charges.

"He wasn't just whisked into the court one day and then railroaded off to Parchman," said District Attorney Jack Kitchens. "We're talking about a serious crime."

Circuit Judge Joe N. Piggott, who sentenced the boy — reportedly without a pre-sentence evaluation — was not available for comment.

ANITA BRYANT PAUL SIMON

Bryant recuperating

MIAMI (AP) — Anita Bryant is recuperating from "minor corrective surgery" around her eyes but, "it wasn't a facelift," says her husband, Robert Green.
Miss Bryant, a singer and evangelist who drew national attention with her fight against homosexual rights, was operated on Wednesday and released Thursday, Green said.
He refused to give any other details about the surgery, which was performed at Miami Heart Institute.

Simon settles with CBS

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS Records may be feeling groovy, despite singer-composer Paul Simon's departure to do his rhyming with Warner Bros.
An attorney for CBS, Richard Kuh, said Simon agreed Friday to pay $1.5 million in an out-of-court settlement to get out of his contract.
Simon recorded three albums for CBS: "Live Rhythmic," "Greatest Hits, Etc." and "Still Crazy After All These Years."
Simon, whose hits with partner Art Garfunkel include "Bridge Over Troubled Water," "Feeling Groovy," and "Homeward Bound," had sued CBS, contending the company planned to reject the fourth and final album required by his contract to keep him from joining the rival recording company.

Rosalyn makes debut

WASHINGTON (AP) — First lady Rosalynn Carter is about to make her debut as a Capitol Hill speaker.
Mrs. Carter's office announced Friday that she will appear Wednesday before the Senate subcommittee on mental health to discuss the report of the President's Commission on Mental Health, of which she was honorary chairwoman.
The administration later will submit "comprehensive" mental health legislation, along with a special presidential message to Congress.
Mrs. Carter will be the first wife of an incumbent president to testify before a congressional panel since the 1940s, when Eleanor Roosevelt went to the Capitol.

'Punk rock' star dies

NEW YORK (AP) — For most of his 21 years, he was John Simon Ritchie, a meek, razor-thin youth who was often beaten by gangs in his London neighborhood.
But when he died of a heroin overdose, he was Sid Vicious, a punk rock musician accused of knifing his girlfriend to death.
And the bizarre music that had brought him brief fortune and infamy also was dying.
The nude body of the spikehaired rock star, who liked to hurl insults and vomit at his audiences, was found Friday with a needle nearby and too much heroin in his veins.
It was the denouement of a drama that began just over a year ago when Johnny Rotten, the lead singer for the Sex Pistols, announced that he was quitting punk rock's most infamous group.
Vicious, played bass guitar for the Sex Pistols, which along with other "punk rock" groups had become the talk of England with such songs as "I'm a Lazy Sod" and "I'm Pretty Vacant."
The Sex Pistols fans wore torn clothing, pushed safety pins through their cheeks, and colored their hair purple or orange.

When the Sex Pistols finally reached the United States their tour was a flop and Rotten announced that the group was through.
Vicious collapsed on the plane the next day at Kennedy International Airport, the victim of booze and pills.
Vicious was accompanied by his girlfriend, American Nancy Spungen. Friends said both of them were hooked on heroin or methedone, an artificial heroin substitute.
The two moved into a room in Manhattan's Chelsea Hotel where they lived quietly until last Oct. 12, when Vicious called the emergency 911 number and told the operator, "Someone is hurt."

Police found the body of Miss Spungen, unclad except for black undergarments, under the bathroom sink. She had been stabbed.
Vicious was charged with second-degree murder, though he disavowed any memory of what had happened that night.
Freed on $50,000 bail, Vicious jabbed his arms and wrists with a broken lightbulb in an unsuccessful attempt at suicide on Oct. 23. He was treated for superficial cuts and was placed in the psychiatric ward of Bellevue Hospital for several weeks.
Vicious went back to jail for the last time after he was arrested on a charge of striking Todd Smith — brother of rock singer Patti Smith — at a nightclub with a beer mug.

His bail revoked, Vicious went back to jail.
Vicious was released on $50,000 bail again on Thursday.
That night, he attended a party at a Greenwich Village apartment in celebration of his release. He drank beer throughout the evening, but then he injected himself with heroin, police said.
The next day, Vicious' mother, Anne Beverly, attempted to rouse her son to check in with police, a requirement of his bail.
He had been dead for some time; his current girlfriend was asleep at his side.

AAM leaders continue plans for 'tractor-led attack' Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Agriculture Movement leaders continued mapping out final battle plans Sunday in war-like preparation for Monday's tractor-led attack on Capitol Hill.
While District of Columbia police urged commuters to leave for work earlier than usual on Monday, the farmers feasted on barbecue and blue grass music in Warrenton, Va., Saturday night and scheduled a church service in the Department of Commerce auditorium Sunday morning.

More than 1,000 slow-moving tractors escorted by an equal number of support vehicles will begin creeping toward Washington early Monday morning, driven by farmers angered over Carter Administration policies.
The White House, Department of Agriculture and the Capitol are the three rendezvous points of the tractorcades.
"You've got to have patience like you've never had before," Hereford farmer Gerald McCathern told an AAM gathering Friday night. "People are going to be getting in your way...sometimes Monday morning you're going to get locked down in the dangdest traffic jam you've ever seen and you may be there for three days."
While farmers weren't saying they would walk off and leave their tractors to block traffic, they hinted that some of the tractors wouldn't be driven out of Washington.
"When you get a lot of excited people together, you never know what's going to happen," said Marvin Meek, a Plainview farmer who, along with his wife and four-month-old daughter, traveled more than 1,800 miles in a tractorcade from Abilene.

Thief turns himself in HOUSTON (AP) — Detective R.A. Rekieta said the burden of the man's first-time robbery was just too great for his conscience.

Kurt David Zimmerman, 21, an unemployed plumber, was charged with aggravated robbery.

Houston area highway patrolmen miss checks

HOUSTON (AP) — Some highway patrolmen in the Houston area are searching for their paychecks.
January paychecks for about 75 patrolmen and other employees at a regional office of the Texas Department of Public Safety are missing.
Patrolmen and other employees at five other Houston area DPS offices received their checks on schedule.
Maj. William J. McLean, regional commander, said the checks were mailed Tuesday from Austin but have not arrived. Searches at the downtown post office and a substation produced no checks.
McLean said the Austin accounting office will issue replacements if the checks

Capitol Police prepare for farmers on streets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials are telling Capitol Police to expect 12-hour shifts next week and commuters are being urged to leave for work early Monday in case farmers follow through with their threat to clog city streets with more than 2,000 farm vehicles.
Hundreds of tractors and other vehicles were already crowded into campsites on the outskirts of the nation's capital today with still more moving toward the city.
Gerald McCathern of Hereford, Texas, national wagonmaster of the "tractorcade" sponsored by the American Agriculture Movement, said Friday the farmers would keep coming into the city every day until "we get some assurances that something will be done to solve our problems."
Protest leaders say they expect more than 1,000 slow-moving tractors and an equal number of other vehicles to move toward Washington Monday morning.
A year ago, thousands of American Agriculture supporters, out of 2.3 million farm families, lobbied and demonstrated here for four months.
The group says it wants the Carter administration to raise crop support prices to their legal limits, a 50 percent jump in some cases. But Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says he will not, citing a 25 percent rise in farm prices during the past year.

Net farm income rose 40 percent and total farm equity rose 11 percent, Bergland has said.

Immigration procedure is ended

LONDON (AP) — Britain has ended virginity tests for Indian, Pakistani and Bangladeshi women after lawmakers blasted the restrictive immigration procedure conducted by male doctors as "degrading," "monstrous" and "dreadful."

Immigration officials said the tests were performed on the Victorian notion that brides-to-be qualified as immigrants only if they were virgins. The tests were conducted under a law that allows entry to anyone engaged to marry someone in Britain.

Britain imposed strict quotas to curb immigration from its three former colonies in the face of clashes between Britons and immigrants. The government claims some would-be immigrants have used phony betrothal schemes to get around the quotas.

Home Secretary Merlyn Rees canceled the tests Friday, one day after a British newspaper disclosed that male doctors at London's Heathrow Airport were performing them.

The Guardian newspaper's report of the testing drew a formal protest from the Indian Embassy as well as protests from British lawmakers.

The newspaper reported the case of a 35-year-old Hindu schoolteacher from New Delhi who underwent such a test when she arrived at Heathrow last month to join her fiance here. She reportedly submitted to the test because she feared being sent back to India.

The paper quoted her as saying she was told to take off her clothes and a male doctor performed the examination. Her requests for a female doctor and a dressing gown to cover herself were both refused, the paper said.

A Home Office spokesman said the woman was cleared for entry into Britain. But the newspaper quoted her Indian fiance as saying the examination jeopardized their marriage plans because the woman now wanted to return to India. The Guardian said he was a London businessman who has lived in Britain for 18 years.

The woman was quoted as saying, "I have been feeling very bad mentally ever since (the examination). I was very embarrassed and upset."

The Home Office spokesman said virginity tests had been conducted "on rare occasions for several years," but he would not say whether any would-be immigrants had been rejected because of test results.

Between 1967 and 1976, the latest period for which official statistics are available, 2.1 million immigrants were admitted to Britain and 2.6 million people left the country.

VISTA: People helping people

DALLAS (AP) — When poverty fighter Joe Bernal looks out his 25th-floor downtown office window, he sees construction workers busily tearing down old buildings and erecting new ones in one of the most affluent of the "Sunbelt's" urban centers.

But the sights and sounds of prosperity below do not deter Bernal from his appointed task.

"Dallas may be one of the richest cities in terms of per capita earnings in the state, but you have pockets of poverty here just like anywhere else," said Bernal, 53, a former state senator from San Antonio, himself the product of a poverty neighborhood.

Bernal heads a five-state region of VISTA, the federal agency that pays volunteer workers $260 a month to venture into ghettos and slums where they try to organize residents to work together to improve their living standard.

Typical problems include poor drainage, garbage piling up in vacant lots where it attracts rodents, and abandoned houses that give shelter to drug dealers and prostitutes.

"We don't dig ditches, clean up garbage or tear down houses ourselves," said volunteer worker Kevin Wetter, 23, of Pittsburgh, Pa. "Our job is to work with people and organize them so they can solve the problem themselves."

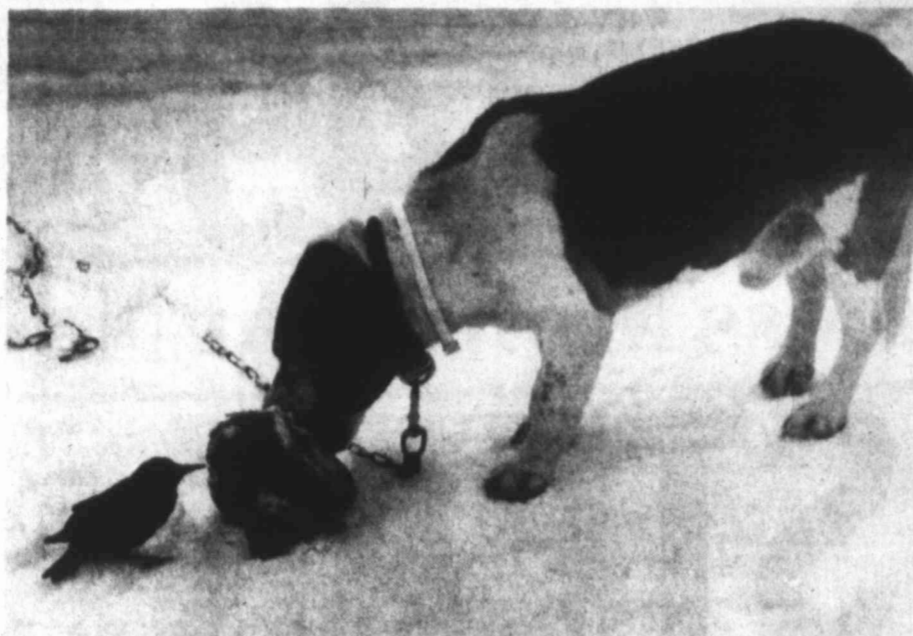

Wetter, a slightly built white man assigned to an all-black poor neighborhood in South Dallas, says his first task is to make a door-to-door survey and try to figure out what is bothering people. He hopes they don't say it is him.

"Response is usually very positive," said Wetter. "It works even better if I can talk one of the residents into making my rounds with me. Then we have a meeting."

Neighbors meet neighbors at Wetter's meetings. Problems are discussed.

"People find out they do have a voice in their community," said Wetter. He said at a recent meeting, participants pinpointed eight abandoned houses and initiated action to have the city bulldoze them.

Bernal said VISTA workers don't enter neighborhoods unless they are invited by the residents themselves or their elected representative. And he said despite the boom-town atmosphere in the Sunbelt, he gets plenty of invitations.

Late May, early June Canterbury opening looms

The 120-unit Canterbury Retirement Center, located at 17th and Lancaster Streets, will probably be opened here either in late May or early June.

Contractors lost a few days to bad weather during January but have made steady progress on the center since work began last year.

Recently named executive director of the retirement home is Galen Bradford, a native of Brazos, Palo Pinto County, Texas.

Canterbury is being built by St. Mary's Episcopal Retirement Homes Inc., a non-profit corporation sponsored by the Church of St. Mary The Virgin (Episcopal) of Big Spring.

It is not a nursing home, because no medical facilities are available, but rather a retirement complex for persons 62 years of age and older and for the handicapped.

The building is an L shaped structure, with one wing six stories high and the other five stories.

The first floor of the six-story wing will house the central kitchen, main dining room, recreation area, maintenance room, laundry, lobby and front entrance.

The first floor of the other wing will contain 11 apartments.

Four of these will be efficiency apartments, the other seven one-bedroom apartments. The four efficiency apartments and two of the one-bedroom apartments are prepared for people in wheel chairs. These tenants must be prepared to care for their personal needs unassisted.

The first floor also houses the resident manager's apartment, office space, post office, receptionist's office and the two elevators. (Each tenant will have his or her own post office box.)

Each of the other floors consists of 24 apartments — 16 one-bedroom apartments, seven efficiency apartments and one two-bedroom apartment.

The six-floor wing paralleling Lancaster Street has 12 apartments — three efficiency apartments and nine one-bedroom apartments. All apartments are served by two elevators and interior stairs.

All apartments in the complex will have central heating and air conditioning, controlled by a thermostat in each flat, and complete kitchens. Each equipment will be carpeted.

Bradford is a retired Air Force major. His military career took him to many places, including Germany and the Far East.

After leaving the armed forces, Bradford enrolled in the Southwestern Baptist Seminary in 1960. Two years later, he was employed as a missionary associate for the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board. He served two years as a dormitory supervisor and business manager for the Japanese Baptist Mission in Japan.

Later, he was on the staff of the San Marcos Baptist Academy as commandant of the Middle School ROTC program. In June 1972 he went to Malawi in East Africa as treasurer and business manager for the Baptist Mission. He resigned for reasons of health in September 1977 and returned to San Antonio, where his infirmities disappeared.

From January through November of last year, he served as weekend manager of the Air Force Village Foundation, a retirement complex for Air Force officers in San Antonio.

Representative competes hard for spot and wins

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Four months after his heart attack, Rep. Bob Davis competed hard for the high pressure chairmanship of the House Ways and Means Committee and won it.

Davis, R-Irving, feels the pressure acutely this week as the committee opens hearings on implementing tax reductions promised by the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment.

As chairman, he will try to balance the urban interests he represents and the rural interests defended by Clayton.

City dwellers want their "intangibles" — stocks, bonds and bank accounts — exempt from taxation, and rural legislators have introduced bills giving agricultural land a generous tax break.

Davis makes no secret that he asked Speaker Bill Clayton for the chairmanship again and again.

"I talked to Clayton nearly every day after we got down here," says Davis, 37.

Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, a rural representative like Clayton and sponsor of the Tax Relief Amendment, also wanted the chairmanship badly.

Davis said friends in the insurance lobby urged him to take a third term as chairman of the House Insurance Committee if he didn't get the ways and means appointment.

"I said no, that if I couldn't be the ways and means chairman, I would like to help the governor (with legislation) or be free to run and sting like I did in 1973," Davis said.

"Running and stinging" — keeping House opponents off-balance with surprise attacks and devastating amendments in floor debates — has been Davis' style since 1973, when he arrived as a freshman legislator.

Davis is a slightly overweight redhead, whose usually laidback manner conceals an intense dislike for being on the losing side.

"I don't play bridge any more. I am too competitive to play socially," he admits.

He regards himself as virtually a full-time legislator, and says, "It's no secret I enjoy what I am doing." He also complains of the lack of time for reflection.

"I like to think. This pace down here isn't geared to that," Davis said in an interview.

Davis, father of five sons, had been water skiing with his family at Grapevine Lake on Labor Day when chest pains struck. He was rushed to a hospital, where doctors diagnosed an occlusion in the coronary artery.

He spent about 10 days in the hospital, and before election day was out campaigning again, this time at a pace prescribed by his doctors. He stopped smoking, but aides say he started again about two weeks after reporting to Austin for the legislative session.

Davis' committee will deal with easily understood questions such as whether to provide two cars per family from property taxes.

"I imagine we'll probably do it," Davis says. But his biggest problems are complex ones.

What happens, for instance, if intangibles are left in the formula for deciding state aid to school districts? Or, what is the fairest way to tax agricultural land on its productivity instead of its value on the real estate market?

It is generally assumed that intangibles will be dropped from the school aid formula, but only if rural legislators get a generous deal on taxing farm and ranch land.

Most bills base productivity values on the five-year potential cash return per acre from a crop, divided by a capitalization rate. The most widely used capitalization rate is tied to interest rates on farm loans made by the Houston Federal Land Bank.

The higher the capitalization rate, the lower the taxable value of a farm or ranch would be, and Davis says he favors a point or two above the land bank's rate. That would be 10-12 percent.

In judge's ruling

Electric firms favored

Electric companies in Texas cannot, and should not, be forced to interconnect with utilities in other states, Federal District Judge Robert W. Porter of Dallas has ruled.

To force such interconnection would decrease reliability of electric service to Texas customers, the judge said in his opinion.

The ruling was made in a lawsuit filed by Central Power & Light and West Texas Utilities against Texas Electric Service Company and Houston Lighting & Power. The lawsuit challenged TESCO's and HL&P's right to refuse to interconnect with utilities that are interconnected across state lines.

CP&L and WTU are subsidiaries of Central and South West Corp., a holding company for utilities in several states. They also are part of the Texas Interconnected Systems, a group of utilities interconnected within Texas.

The lawsuit dates from May 4, 1976, when WTU began transmitting TIS power into Oklahoma. Within a few hours, TESCO and HL&P each disconnected from all systems connected to WTU. WTU and CP&L contended that the refusal of TESCO and HL&P to remain connected was in violation of federal anti-trust and restraint of trade laws.

In his ruling, Judge Porter called WTU's "midnight wiring" of its system to Oklahoma a "secret and clandestine maneuver."

He said TESCO and HL&P are not violating anti-trust or restraint of trade laws by restricting their service to Texas.

The companies, he said, "have a right to restrict their operations to the state of Texas where they reasonably and in good faith believe that such operation is in the best interests of...their customers."

The judge found that "it would not be in the public interest to force the defendants to interconnect in interstate commerce." He said such forced interconnection would not improve the reliability of any electric utility and, in fact, would reduce that reliability.

Texas Electric Vice President Dale Scarth said "it was reassuring to receive the court's approval of our efforts over the last 40 years to maintain an intrastate system."

Texas Electric has chosen to operate entirely within the state because we believe an intrastate system best serves our customers with more reliable and cheaper electricity," he said.

Judge Porter made his ruling this week after a seven-week trial that began early in October. The trial involved more than 3,500 pages of testimony and 1,000 exhibits.

Central & South West also is contesting the right of TESCO, HL&P and other Texas utilities to maintain intrastate service before several state and federal regulatory commissions.

The marked improvement in fourth-quarter earnings reflected a strengthening of prices and demand of fuel products and of petrochemicals and improved refinery operations. Profits from production reached new levels due to higher rates of production of both oil and gas and to higher prices. In addition, the company realized a substantial tax benefit from taxable losses of affiliated companies.

Congressman tried for bribery

Park potential witness

MONROE, La. (AP) — Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park, who has testified he gave Otto Passman $237,000, will be brought here as a potential witness in the former congressman's bribery trial, a government spokesman says.

Park will be returned to this country in mid-February under terms of the agreement which brought him to Washington last fall, Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel said Friday in Washington.

Under that agreement, the United States dropped 36 charges against Park and granted him immunity from prosecution in return for his testimony in U.S. courts against persons he was accused of bribing or conspiring with.

The House Ethics Committee wanted him back so it could conduct an investigation into allegations that he gave hundreds of thousands of dollars to congressmen to influence congressional decisions on aid to Korea.

Passman is scheduled to go on trial March 5 in Monroe on charges he got $213,000 — including $98,000 in bribes — from Park to clear the way for sales to Korea of U.S.-grown Food for Peace rice.

During the House Ethics committee investigation, Park acknowledged he had given a total of at least $750,000 to a long list of congressmen, including Passman.

At the time, Passman was an influential figure in Congress on U.S. aid to foreign countries. Park said he had given him at least $237,000 in an attempt to regain his old standing as Seoul's exclusive rice buyer.

He denied — for the 1,001st time, he said — that he was acting as an agent of the Korean government when he gave away large sums of money.

Last March, Passman said he "never received a dime" from Park.

Passman is also charged with failing to report $143,000 of money received as bribes in his income taxes.

Park's name appeared on a list of potential prosecution witnesses which was filed in federal court in Shreveport, La., this week.

Other witnesses included Gov. Edwin Edwards and Rep. John Breaux, D-La.

On Thursday, the Justice Department filed a list of 682 exhibits which it said could be used as evidence in the trial.

The list, filed in federal court in Shreveport under a court order aimed at getting an early indication on issues to be covered in the trial, mostly involved letters, telegrams, bank statements, photographs and other personal records of Passman and Park.

Included were Passman's papers from the archives at Northeast Louisiana University. Also included were bank records, such as checks, bank statements, loans, and deposit slips, and campaign records from 1972-75.

Photos include Passman with Gov. Edwin Edwards and Korean Ambassador Dong Jo Kim; Passman with former President Gerald Ford; Passman with former President Richard M. Nixon and photos taken during Passman's 1972 trip to Korea showing Passman and Park.

Also listed are Federal Election Commission papers; Park's personal records, such as diaries, records and checks, and records of the U.S. Agriculture Department's Food For Peace program.

Laws that Congress did not pass significant

By CHARLES W. STENHOLM, M.C.
17th District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D. C. — I come to Washington with feelings of optimism and appreciation — appreciation for the people who sent me here and optimism for the people whom I will work with in the 96th Congress. I am happy to be a part of the younger and increasingly more conservative leadership of this Country.

This leadership has been elected by constituencies that are frustrated by inflation, excessive regulation, and high taxes. The People of this land desire stability and a chance to live more productive and satisfying lives. Too often this has proven an illusion. Discontent has been so widespread that many writers have called this the era of the "Tax Revolt."

The 95th Congress reacted to their cries — although with some reluctance. An airline deregulation bill was passed that sunset a whole government agency and will do much to increase competition and decrease air fares. Congress also passed a budget that had a deficit $20 billion lower than the Administration had predicted.

Certainly these pieces of legislation are important in analyzing the direction of Congress, but more significant is what the 95th Congress did not pass; regulatory nightmares such as hospital cost containment, the Consumer Protection Agency, the Labor Reform Act, and Cargo Preference never received final approval. Several fiscally extravagant measures such as counter-cyclical funds, welfare reform, and national health insurance also did not pass.

Our job will be to continue this trend. Government regulation can be averted by sunseting such agencies as OSHA, the Consumer Products Safety Commission, and the Department of Energy; together with limiting the authority of the IRS, EPA, and FTC, among others, to interfere uneconomically in people's lives and businesses. Federal spending can, and must, be reduced in many places.

ADOLPH SWARTZ

Williams also revealed that Jerry Foresyth, associated with the firm since Sept. 1, had been named an assistant vice-president of Big Spring Savings.

Foresyth, who resigned as assistant city manager of the City of Big Spring to join Big Spring Savings, is a native of Big Spring and is very active in civic endeavors.

On the light side

He forgot the soft drink

BRAINERD, Minn. (AP) — The young man who robbed Hardee's restaurant here must have been hungry.

He waited until his order of six large hamburgers and six large orders of french fries was delivered Thursday night before he told the cashier it was a holdup.

The man escaped with $29.88 — and the food.

Return to sender

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — When 8-year-old Melissa Morgan of Houston sent two helium-filled balloons aloft, she enclosed instructions that got right to the point.

"If you find this, send this note back," she wrote before launching the balloons Jan. 25 as part of a project at Houston's Lamkin Elementary School. Somebody did find it — the U.S. Air Force.

Capt. Roland Raab of the Eastern Test Range here said the balloons apparently made a speedy trip and were discovered at Cape Canaveral one day later.

On Friday, Raab, following orders, mailed Melissa's note back.

Gutless groundhog

CHICAGO (AP) — Chipper is getting a reputation as a gutless groundhog. For the second straight year, the Brookfield Zoo resident refused to come out of his burrow on Groundhog Day.

Zoo attendants called 3-year-old Chipper by name Friday and offered his favorite cake, made of oatmeal, honey, carrots and apples, said Joyce Gardella, the zoo's public relations director.

"He was in deep hibernation and slept through the whole thing," she said.

There were no complaints about Chipper's slumber, however, because the sun came out about the time he was being called and he probably would have seen his shadow. That would have meant, the legend goes, six more weeks of winter for Chicago, which has been declared a disaster area because of last month's near-record snowfall.

Patty Hearst despairs no more

Kidnapping anniversary

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It was five years ago today that Patricia Campbell Hearst, screaming and half-naked, began an odyssey of terror and mystery that baffled the nation.

Perhaps for the first time, the anniversary of her kidnapping is not a day of despair for Patty Hearst.

Three days after her early release from prison, she is off alone somewhere in California with her fiancé, Bernard Shaw, and her dog, planning a big wedding and looking to the future.

It is a storybook ending to a tale of fear, violence and what she later would call the "disquieting vulnerability of the human mind."

The tale began Feb. 4, 1974, when she was dragged from her Berkeley apartment by members of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army.

Before President Carter commuted Miss Hearst's seven-year bank robbery sentence last week, a wide majority of Americans polled felt the frail, auburn-haired newspaper heiress had suffered enough and should be let out of prison.

Carter's decision to cut short her term, after she had spent 23 months behind bars, drew few complaints, except from her fellow inmates who said that "justice is only in the pockets of the rich."

Miss Hearst strolled out of the prison Thursday morning, carrying a flowered blanket she had crocheted inside and wearing a gold diamond ring on her left hand, the same hand that two years ago she pounded in frustration against her prison cell wall until the knuckles were scraped and red.

It was an amazing transformation from "Tania," — the name she called herself on vitriolic taped recordings sent to her parents after she decided to "stay and fight" with the SLA.

Now, almost 25, she is engaged to marry a slightly paunchy police officer and ready to start training dogs and counseling rape victims.

More than Patty Hearst has changed since Feb. 4, 1974, however.

—Miss Hearst's parents, San Francisco Examiner president Randolph Hearst and his wife, Catherine, are legally separated now after 40 years of marriage. Friends say they were forced apart by the trauma of their daughter's odyssey from obscure college coed to kidnap victim to bank robber to fugitive to federal prisoner.

—The SLA is dead, most of its members killed and the remaining four imprisoned, including William and Emily Harris, who pleaded guilty to kidnapping Miss Hearst. Even William Harris said he was glad to see her get out of prison early.

Leaders of the campaign for clemency have pointed repeatedly to the mass murder-suicide of more than 900 Peoples Temple cultists in the jungles of Guyana last fall.

Then they asked, "If those (people) could be persuaded to take their own lives and those of their children, could not Patty Hearst have been brainwashed to call her parents pigs, sling a carbine over her shoulder and rob a bank?"

It is a question that may forever be a mystery.

CHIPPING FOR THE FLAG—Lon Hinkle chips from edge of 14th green of the Cypress Point course to within two feet of the hole to make his par Saturday. Hinkle, leading the Bing Crosby Pro-Am by two strokes after two rounds, continues to lead during Saturday's third round at Pebble Beach, Calif.

And golf is his game Hinkle's the name

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Lon Hinkle, playing in quiet solitude at Cypress Point while the show-business celebrities cavorted at Pebble Beach, cut out a 3-under-par 69 and took a whopping 5-stroke lead Saturday in the $300,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

"I guess he's got it," said Mark Hayes, whose 6-under-par 66 — the best round of the tournament — lifted him into second place going into Sunday's final round.

"If we have good weather tomorrow, he's got it. He'll hang on. With five shots and good weather, you should win every time."

The hard-hitting Hinkle, who scored his first tour triumph and collected more than $138,000 last year, compiled a 207 total, nine under par for one round on each of three Monterey Peninsula courses: Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill.

The field of 168 pros was cut to the low 60 for the final round at Pebble Beach. Hale Irwin, playing with a damaged wrist, failed to make it. It was the first time he'd missed the cut in 87 tournaments, going back to the 1975 Tucson Open.

Hayes, who had a strong finish in the Bob Hope Classic, compiled his 6-under-par effort at Pebble Beach, where the gallery congregated and the national television cameras focused on the celebrity amateurs and their antics.

Hayes, however, played the back nine first and thus missed most of the congestion. He had a 54-hole total of 212, four under par.

The group at 214 included Brad Bryant, Curtis Strange and Grier Jones. Jones shot a 69 at Cypress Point. Strange had 74 at tough Spyglass and Bryant shot 73 at Pebble Beach.

Silverdome classic due to lure 30,000 today

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — They'll be clear up to the edge of the air-inflated roof Sunday at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Binoculars are essential at that altitude — and perhaps a handkerchief for possible nosebleed.

A record crowd of 30,000 is expected to assemble under the dome for the National Basketball Association's 29th annual All-Star game, and they'll have a hometown hero after all, thanks to league Commissioner Larry O'Brien.

With Philadelphia forward Doug Collins sidelined by a foot injury, O'Brien on Friday named Detroit center Bob Lanier to the East squad.

The absence of any Pistons in balloting by fans for the starting five and voting by NBA coaches for reserves threatened to make it three years in a row the All-Star host city wasn't represented in the game.

Milwaukee was snubbed two years ago, and Atlanta last season.

Lanier's appearance should help Houston's Moses Malone, who before Friday was the East's only center against Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Los Angeles and Chicago's Artis Gilmore of the West.

Lanier won't be the only local hero. Pontiac's own Campy Russell of the University of Michigan and the Cleveland Cavaliers is a reserve for the East team of Washington Coach Dick Motta.

Also on the East team are starters Rudy Tomjanovich of Houston and George Gervin of San Antonio.

Tomjanovich was a star at Hamtramck High School and the University of Michigan, while Gervin was a prep star at Detroit King and college standout at Eastern Michigan.

"It's the showcase of the stars," Gervin said. "Anybody can ignite it. I'm not coming in to steal the show. I'm just coming to be one of the stars."

Tomjanovich said he's had better seasons and wasn't chosen.

"This year I thought I had no chance," he said.

Russell said: "It probably won't hit me until the day of the game as to what it all means."

The crowd will be some 12,000 more than the previous high for an NBA All-Star Game, a turnout of 18,422 which watched the 1968 game in New York's Madison Square Garden.

A Detroit brewery bought a block of 4,000 tickets Wednesday, making the game a virtual sellout and prompting the local TV blackout to be lifted.

Other East starters are Julius "Dr. J." Erving of Philadelphia and Pete Maravich of New Orleans.

The West team, coached by Seattle's Lenny Wilkens, will counter with Abdul-Jabbar, David Thompson and George McGinnis of Denver, Marques Johnson of Milwaukee and Paul Westphal of Phoenix.

Motta and Wilkens were selected because their teams had the best conference records two weeks before the game.

The East won last year 133-125 and leads the series 18-10.

A&M rips Houston, 66-58

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Vernon Smith poured in 24 points as 16th-ranked Texas A&M defeated the Houston Cougars 66-58 in Southwest Conference basketball action Saturday afternoon.

With the victory, Texas A&M, 20-4 for the season and 9-2 in conference play, became the first major college team to win 20 games this season and kept at least a share of the SWC lead with Texas.

Beside Smith, A&M's Rudy Woods, Rynn Wright, and Tyrone Ladson all scored in double figures. The Cougars' also had four players in double figures, led by George Walker's 16 points.

Houston, now 3-8 in the SWC and 11-12 overall, jumped out to an early 12-4 lead and controlled the game throughout most of the first half.

A&M seemed to be in trouble when Woods, a 6-11 freshman sensation, committed his third personal foul at 5:27 remaining in the first half. Ken Ciolli's subsequent free throw gave the Cougars a 27-22 lead.

But the Aggies rallied to outscore the Cougars 15-4 in the remaining minutes to take a 37-31 halftime lead.

The Aggies maintained their fever pitch in the opening moments of the second half to take a 49-35 lead.

The Cougars closed the lead to five points several times but inconsistent shooting kept them from overtaking the Aggies.

With 4:37 remaining, the Aggies, leading 64-58, went into a four-corner stall and wasted two minutes of the clock before Vernon Smith was charged with a player control foul.

The ensuing Cougar shot fell short and the Aggies, behind the dribbling performance of David Britton, stalled while the clock ticked down to 41 seconds left.

Houston again could not hit and Ladson's two free throws for A&M ended the contest.

"We put a lot back in on rebounds," said Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf. "That was probably the difference. I thought our delay game was real good."

Metcalf was also pleased his squad passed the 20-game winning plateau. "We are proud of it, but when we go to Fayetteville and Lubbock for the next two games we're not going to crow about it."

"We played about as well as we can play," lamented Houston Coach Guy Lewis. "A&M has a heck of a team. They've got size, speed, strength...they have it all."

"It looks like a real battle between Texas and Texas A&M for first," said Lewis of the conference race. "I would have to pick Texas."

Dallas has potential NBA may add 2 teams

DETROIT (AP) — The National Basketball Association's Board of Governors voted Saturday to begin considering applications for expansion franchises, hoping to add two teams to the league by the 1980-81 season.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien listed seven cities "that according to population and other criteria, appear to have the greatest potential for successful operation in the NBA: Cincinnati, Dallas, Miami, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Toronto."

O'Brien said formal applications already have been received from a group in Minneapolis-St. Paul, headed by George and Gordon Gunn, owners of the National Hockey League's Minnesota North Stars, and a Dallas group headed by Donald Carter.

He emphasized, however, the fact that these groups already had filed applications did not give them an advantage, and also said the seven-city list was not exclusive. "Applications will obviously be considered from any area where there is interest in obtaining an NBA club," O'Brien said.

O'Brien said franchise prices had not been determined and he set no deadline for applications. "The only limitations are that we will add no more than two teams, and that we will do it no later than 1980-81. This is in keeping with the steady growth of our league."

If two teams are added, it would be the first expansion of the NBA since four teams were added from the old American Basketball Association in 1976. It would bring the number of teams in the league to 24.

Of the seven cities named by O'Brien, all but Cincinnati and Toronto had ABA franchises at some time of the league's nine-year existence, franchises that did not survive the demise of that league. "But that to me is not significant," said O'Brien. "We're looking ahead, not backward."

The Board of Governors — meeting in conjunction with Sunday's NBA All-Star Game at Pontiac, Mich. — also voted to go to an unbalanced schedule next season.

This move, spearheaded by the Boston and New York franchises, passed by a 20-2 vote. It is an effort to restore natural rivalries and thus boost attendance.

Each team will play the other teams in its conference six times, and teams in the opposite conference twice. Currently, the league uses a schedule in which each team plays four games against 19 other teams and three games against the two others, without regard to division or conference.

California Angels acquire Rod Carew

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Minnesota Twins' first baseman Rod Carew, who said last week he "couldn't be bought" by the New York Yankees, was traded to the California Angels Saturday for four players and cash.

Carew, 33 and a seven-time winner of the American League batting title, had agreed to terms with the Angels last month on a reported $4 million contract, but Twins' owner Calvin Griffith balked at California's first offer.

Saturday, however, Griffith settled for essentially the same players the Angels offered previously. Minnesota obtained outfielder Ken Landreaux, pitchers Paul Hartzell and Brad Havens and third baseman-catcher Dave Engle, plus an undetermined amount of cash.

Griffith earlier told the Angels that any trade would have to include third baseman Carney Lansford, who led all rookies last year with a .294 batting average.

But California refused to part with Lansford and Griffith agreed to the deal with the Angels, knowing that Carew would become a free agent after the 1979 season and could leave the Twins without compensation involved.

Carew's attitude toward going to the Yankees spurred the trade.

Thursday he told The Associated Press that he resented being "pushed around" and said: "I am offended when I read all this stuff about the rich New York Yankees and what 'George wants, George gets.' 'I want everybody to know I can't be bought.'"

This, apparently, was enough for Yankee owner George Steinbrenner, who earlier in the day issued a lengthy statement saying his team would have no further negotiations concerning Carew.

Griffith earlier told the Angels that any trade would have to include third baseman Carney Lansford, who led all rookies last year with a .294 batting average.

But California refused to part with Lansford and Griffith agreed to the deal with the Angels, knowing that Carew would become a free agent after the 1979 season and could leave the Twins without compensation involved.

Devils ramble by Terrapins

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Jim Spanarkel scored 27 points and Mike Gminski added 22 to lead third-ranked Duke to an 87-78 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over 17th-ranked Maryland Saturday in a regionally televised game.

Duke led by as many as 19 points early in the second half, but consistent play from the Terps and a cold streak by Duke reduced the margin to six points, 78-72, on an Albert King basket with 3:11 to play.

But Spanarkel took a pass underneath from Bob Bender and pushed the Blue Devils back up to an eight-point lead, 80-72, with 1:52 remaining and Duke was never threatened after that.

De Vincenzo set for golf shrine

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Argentine golfer Robert de Vincenzo, who has won more than 240 tournaments and 29 national championships, will be inducted into the PGA Hall of Fame on Sunday.

Despite his great number of victories around the world, the colorful de Vincenzo is probably best known for losing the 1968 Masters Tournament — by signing a score card which showed one stroke higher than he actually shot.

Miners lose to Lobos

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — New Mexico's Larry Belin pumped in 22 points and Russell Saunders cashed in on four straight free throws in the final half minute Saturday afternoon to pace the Lobos to a 64-59 Western Athletic Conference basketball victory over Texas-El Paso.

Belin, a 6-foot-8 center, pumped in 16 of his game-high 22 points in the first half to stake the Lobos to an early lead they never lost.

But Texas-El Paso's Miners kept battling back and had pulled to within three points at 60-57 with 1:42 to play in the regionally televised clash.

Saunders, however, then iced the victory for the Wolfpack by hitting both ends of two successive one-and-one situations in the final 27 seconds.

The Lobos took the lead at 10-8 early in the contest on a slam dunk by Phil Abney, which accounted for the only points of the day by New Mexico's leading scorer.

Lee explodes in 4th

By NATHAN POSS
MIDLAND — The Midland Lee Rebels exploded in the fourth quarter here Friday night, outscoring the Big Spring Steers on the way to a 78-51 victory in a District 5-AAAA game.

Lee jumped out to a 31-19 lead at the end of the first half at a time Big Spring was plagued by a very poor shooting performance.

Big Spring, behind the play of Mark Poss' eight points and the play of James Cooper and Ysa Rubio, rallied to cut the lead to 48-41 at the end of the third period.

The Steers seemed to have the momentum entering the fourth quarter, but Rebel forward Ken Van Hoozer connected on a three-point play and Lee was never challenged again.

Carner, Bradley reach finals in match play

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — JoAnne Carner and Pat Bradley posted impressive victories Saturday to move into the final of the $100,000 Triple Crown match play golf tournament at Mission Hills Country Club.

Carner, dead on the greens with an old putter she dug out of the trunk of her car, downed Sylvia Bertolaccini 5-and-4 in their semifinal match.

Bertolaccini had been the surprise of the tournament, opening with a victory over Nancy Lopez, then defeating Amy Alcott before she ran into defending champion Carner.

Ed Sutton to offer apology

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Arkansas basketball Coach Eddie Sutton says he'll write a formal apology to Texas guard John Moore "for any embarrassment I might have caused him" by remarks during Thursday night's game.

But Sutton denies he bumped or shoved the Texas player during a confrontation moments after the halftime buzzer.

Sutton's remarks to the 6-foot-3 Moore infuriated Texas Coach Abe Lemons, who grabbed Sutton's coat lapels before bystanders and security guards quickly separated the two coaches.

Moore, a senior from Altoona, Pa., tried to draw a charging foul by stepping in front of an Arkansas player with two seconds left in the half. No foul was called and the buzzer sounded, but Sutton confronted Moore as both teams headed for the dressing room.

Girl compels respect

BELLEUE, Wash. (AP) — Bellevue High School's best-known wrestler is in a fighting mood because grapplers from other schools won't go to the mat with her.

Sophomore Rhonda Bingham is undefeated in three trips to the mat because her male opponents forfeited rather than face her in what they acknowledge is a ticklish situation.

"I like to wrestle. I have a right to wrestle," says the 5-foot-2 Bingham, who enters in the 115-pound weight class.

The latest forfeiture was by sophomore Lynn Martin of Interlake High School, who was so uncomfortable at the prospect of grappling with a girl that he bowed out Thursday night.

"I asked Martin if he was willing to wrestle with her and he told me he would be willing to wrestle if the team needed him but he really didn't want to," said Coach Thurmond Lander. "I decided I couldn't put him under that kind of pressure."

When Bingham made her solo trip to the mat to have the official raise her arm in victory, the Interlake team applauded her and fans cheered.

District 5-AAAA Midland batters Bobcats, 86-46

SAN ANGELO — Midland High steam-rolled the San Angelo Bobcats, 86-46, here Friday night to register its 13th straight basketball victory.

Herbert Johnson, 6-8 center, scored 20 points while his 6-4 brother, Charles, tossed in 19.

In District 5-AAAA play, the Bulldogs are 11-0. Four of those have come in second half competition.

Ritger is champion

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Hall of Famer Dick Ritger, who averaged 227 and recorded 29 strikes in four games, swept to his 20th tour victory Saturday in the $100,000 Professional Bowlers Association tournament here.

Ritger, 40, of River Falls, Wis., edged Neil Burton of St. Louis 211-202 to claim the $15,000 first prize money.

Ritger, who owns the fourth highest victory total in the 20-year history of the PBA, began the day seeded fourth among the five finalists.

He opened with a 217-207 triumph over Dave Beckman of Mercer Island, Wash., and then took the measure of Henry Gonzalez of Colorado Springs, Colo., 235-209 in the day's second contest.

Next he faced Mark Roth, the North Arlington, N.J., roller whose eight P A titles and $134,000 in winnings set pro bowling marks in 1978.

Roth, who shot seven strikes, finished first with a 237 effort, then sat by helplessly as Ritger finished with strikes on his final six tosses for a 248 tally.

In the title game Ritger grabbed a quick 16-pin lead when he struck and spared while Burton, trying for his first tour crown, spared and split.

Ritger increased his margin to 26 sticks by mid-game, but Burton narrowed the deficit to three pins by the seventh frame when a three-bagger by Burton followed an open frame by his more seasoned foe.

Burton finished first with his 202 count. But Ritger, who was working on a double, ended with a strike to boost his score to a winning 211.

Burton earned $8,000 for his biggest prize ever, while Roth pocketed $6,000. Gonzalez took away $5,000 for his fourth place finish and Beckman won $4,000 for fifth place.

He was shouting and I was shouting, and people started pushing and shoving," he said. "The next thing you know, it looks like a riot when it's really just two people standing there."

But Sutton insisted, "There was no physical contact between" himself and the Texas player.

Moore, kept away from reporters after the game, has not commented.

Lemons said his face-off with Sutton almost got out of hand.

"He was shouting and I was shouting, and people started pushing and shoving," he said. "The next thing you know, it looks like a riot when it's really just two people standing there."

Detroit stuns Georgetown

DETROIT (AP) — Guards Wilbert McCormick and Terry Dueroed teamed for 42 points Saturday as unranked Detroit stunned No. 9 Georgetown 91-71 in non-conference college basketball.

McCormick scored 22 points, including 12 free throws, and Dueroed hit 20 as Detroit improved its record to 16-4.

Georgetown also has a 16-4 mark.

The Titans raced to an early 10-2 lead. The Hoyas never were closer than five points throughout the game. At halftime, Detroit led 36-28.

John Duren, a senior guard, led the losers with 20 points.

YOUNG IDEAS

By DICK YOUNG

"I might have been a Brooklyn Dodger," said Willie Mays, "but they scout turned in a bad report on me." I guess the 23 Schmoes who didn't vote for Willie won't feel so bad now. Imagine how that Dodger scout must have felt as he watched Willie Mays make it with the Giants and go on, year after year, beating the brains out of the Dodgers and everyone else.

As I remember it, the man who nixed Willie Mays was Wilf Matthews, Branch Rickey's trusted scout, and the reason he turned thumbs down was "can't hit a curve ball." The Giants scout who urged the signing of Willie Mays, Frank Forbes was to say later: "Shoo, he was 15 years old. Who can hit a curve ball at 15?"

These were the stories that we kicked around at the Americana Hotel the other day, after Willie Mays had done his thing before the cameras and the notetakers. We sat there, in the suite the Baseball Writers of N.Y. use in preparation for their annual dinner-show (Feb. 4 Sunday $35 a day) and we told stories.

That is the fascination of baseball, telling stories. When people ask me which sport do you enjoy covering the most the answer is baseball, and the reason is "telling stories."

SPECIAL GAME WAS SET UP

Willie recalled that he trained with the Giants' farm club, Minneapolis, in the Spring of '51. The Giants' manager, a guy named Leo Durocher, wanted to take a look at this kid phenom the front office was raving about. So, a special game was set up in Lakeland for 9 a.m.

"Leo had seen me play before," said Willie, "but he wanted another look. It was explained to me later that they were looking for somebody to take Bobby Thomson's place in center field.

"My manager had me playing in left field that morning, and I ran into the wall. Leo yelled, get him out of there: move him over to center. He didn't want me to get hurt."

There is a perennial tug-of-war in baseball between the manager of a club and the front office. The front office worries that a young prospect can be destroyed or rushed to the bigs prematurely. The manager is impatient to draw talent from the farm, and is egotistical enough to believe he can help the kid, not harm him.

In late May the Giants of 1951 needed help. Willie Mays was batting .477 down on the farm. That's not a typo, not this time. He was batting .477. On May 25, Willie Mays joined the Giants in Philadelphia. He promptly went 14-for-0, showing that fairytale can be sad at times.

"I started crying in the clubhouse," Willie Mays, 47, remembers of Willie Mays, just turned 20. "I was very discouraged. Freddie Fitzsimmons went to Leo and said, hey, you better go talk to your boy."

Freddie Fitz the old knucker was one of Leo's coaches. "Leo didn't say much that day, but the few words meant more to me than anything anybody ever said," states Mays. "I never forgot them Leo said: "Look kid, so long as I'm manager here, you will be my center fielder. Day in and day out. Don't you worry about hitting or anything."

That night, swinging against Warren Spahn of the Braves, Willie Mays his first big league homer onto the roof of the Polo Grounds. He then went another 12-for-0, but it wasn't like the first collar, he says. He was relaxed now. Leo's reassuring few words had done it. Mentally, he was established. No obstruction remained between him and Cooperstown.

The Mays legend is made of stories, some absolutely true, some embellished, some fictional.

TRUE: He was facing Clyde King for the first time. Clyde King, now Yankee pitching coach, and one day to be May's manager in San Francisco, was a cutie pitcher with the Dodgers in those days. Baseball had no quick-pitch rule. If a pitcher could sneak one past before the batter was set, more power to him.

King quick-pitched for a called strike. Mays looked toward Durocher in the third base coaching box and squeaked. "Mr. Leo. I ain't ready." As he did, Clyde King fired again, called strike two.

Durocher called time-out and explained things to Mays. "Now you get back in the box and you tell the umpire when you're ready." Willie nodded, dug in his spikes, turned to the umpire and said, okay, I'm ready. By the time he turned his head toward the pitcher, the ball was past him for strike three. "You had to see that to really appreciate it," says Willie.

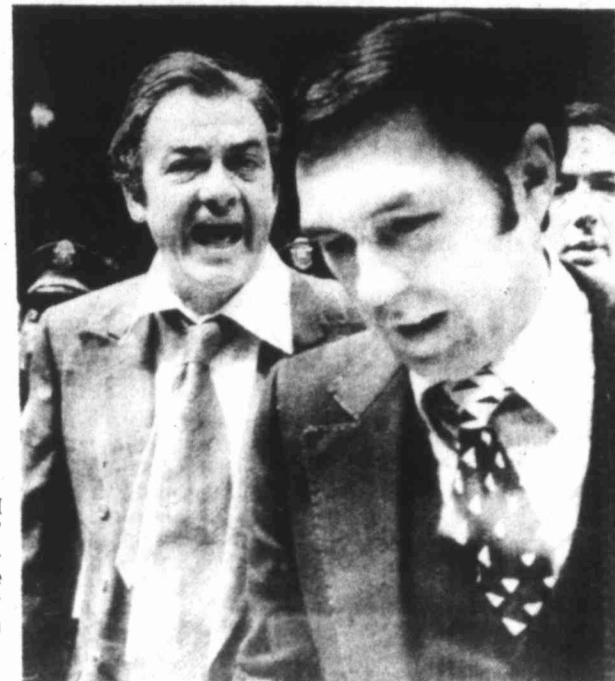

FALSE: Preacher Roe fired a knockdown pitch at rookie Willie Mays. As Willie was picking himself out of the dirt, the Dodger catcher Roy Campanella, said: "That's nothing, son. Don Newcombe is pitching tomorrow, and he don't like young niggers."

NO RACIAL CONFLICT ON CLUB

"I think Campy made up that story for his speaking engagements," says Willie, grinning. "It never happened. What Campy did do, though, was toss dirt on my shoes to distract me."

To this day, Willie Mays marvels that he had no racial conflict. "Monte and I still had to stay at other hotels in those days. But I remember how all the guys on the club made me feel welcome, and we had a lot of southerners — Stanky, Dark, Davey Williams, Dusty Rhodes. The only bad things I heard were from the stands."

Butkus, Mix feel sacrifice paid off

By JOHN NADEL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ron Mix has no trouble remembering the many hours of "hard work and boring preparation" during an 11-year National Football League career. But now, he believes he has received the ultimate reward.

"All that running, lifting weights, it was very, very boring," said Mix, who spent most of his career with the San Diego Chargers. "It was an awful lot of hard work. This really makes it all worth it."

Mix is one of the four most recent ex-NFL greats to be voted into the Pro Football

Hall of Fame by the 29-member board of selectors, raising to 102 the number so honored.

"I'm extremely thrilled to be selected," said Mix, who became only the second former American Football League performer to be honored. "It was such a shock when I found out.

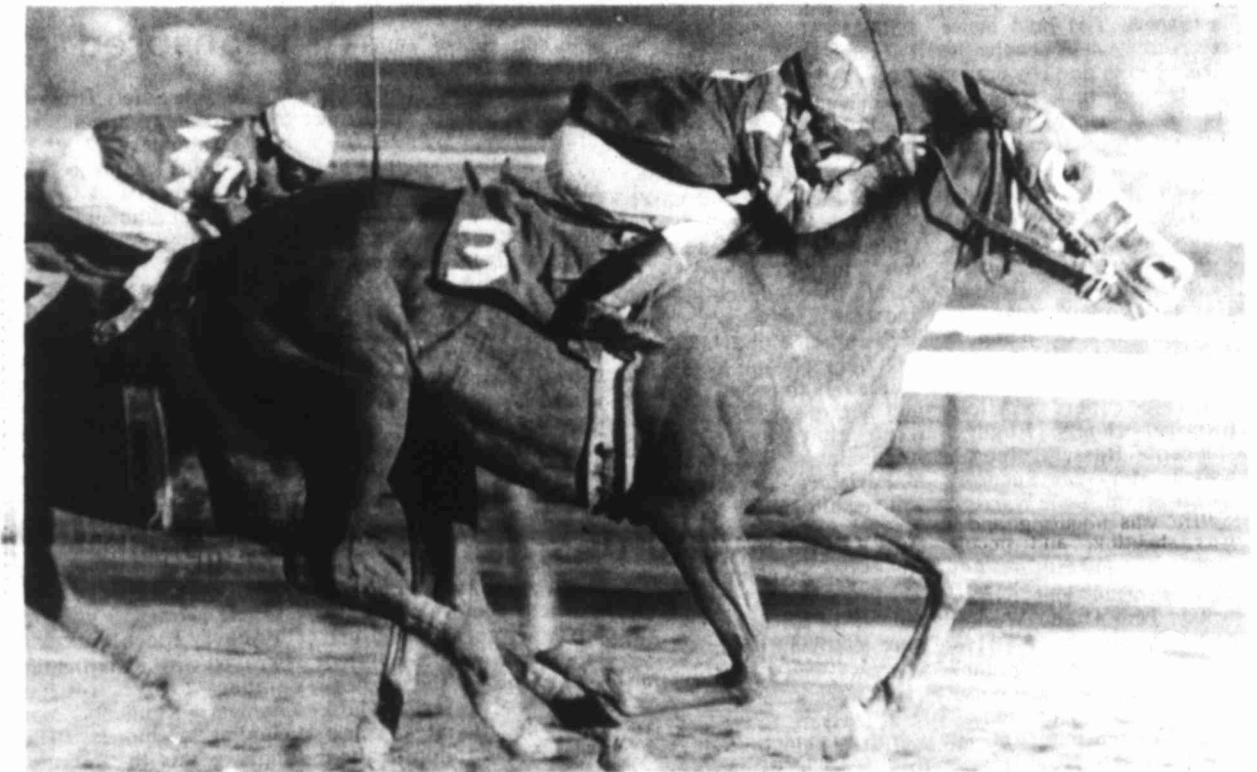

"It's particularly thrilling in that Lance Alworth, my teammate for so many years, was the first AFL player inducted," said Mix. "And now, I'm the second."

Results of the 1979 Hall of Fame selections were announced Monday. Joining Mix at formal enshrinement ceremonies in Canton, Ohio next July 28 will be Johnny Unitas, Dick Butkus and Yale Lary. All but Unitas appeared at a news conference Monday.

Mix began his career with the Los Angeles Chargers in 1960. The franchise moved to San Diego the next year and Mix played there through 1969. He finished up with the Oakland Raiders in 1971.

Unitas stayed around, as he put it, long enough to complete 2,830 career passes for 40,239 yards during an 18-year career. He threw 290 touchdown passes, including at least one in a record 47 straight games.

Guidry sets rules for commercial use

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — "One of the easiest aspects of marketing Ron Guidry is that Ron Guidry doesn't want to be marketed," says John Schneider, agent and longtime friend of the ace New York Yankee pitcher.

Guidry has turned down several lucrative offers in the last six months, the Lafayette, La., attorney says, including between $150,000 and $200,000 last month alone.

Guidry and Schneider discussed "Marketing and Legal Aspects of Professional Athletics" at Louisiana State University this week.

"Really, Ronnie is more satisfied with my performance if I don't bring back too many deals," Schneider said. "He likes his privacy. He once told me some words I'd like engraved on a plaque: 'All the money in the world isn't worth it if Bonnie and I aren't home to spend it.'"

The 5-foot-11 left-handed By Young Award winner and Associated Press male athlete of the year has two simple guidelines when considering commercial ventures.

"Rule one is that he has to be a user of the product, and secondly, an exorbitant amount of money can't be made by others off of his name," Schneider said.

Library receives bookcase

Members of the Friends of the Howard County Library met recently for the installation of a new bookcase which was specially commissioned of local artist, Bill Brooks. The "Old Gold" bookcase is in the traditional Continental style, made of solid red oak wood, with Old English walnut stain and hand-rubbed oil finish. The purpose of the new bookcase is to draw attention to new copies or reprint editions of exceptional books which were published at least five years ago. The Friends hope to add to the homelike atmosphere of the library, and they expressed their appreciation to Mr. Brooks for his excellent work.

Included among the "gold" which is being displayed on the unique bookcase are novels, mysteries, science fiction, biography, and other literature which has truly stood the test of time. The material ranges from a new translation of Homer's "Odyssey" to a more recent collection of ground-breaking science fiction stories written in the 1940's.

The reader may wish to see why Wilkie Collins was such a popular author in Victorian England with thrillers such as "The Hound of the Baskervilles." The macabre tales of Edgar Allan Poe at his tortured best offered in a new, illustrated edition.

One of Lloyd Douglas' acknowledged masterpieces, "The Magnificent Obsession," follows the career of a young brain-specialist and his secret formula for success. Even those who may have read the book long ago, "Rebecca" continues to offer a story of great romance and mystery, first appearing in 1938 and being one of Daphne du Maurier's finest.

Joseph Andrews wrote the extremely bawdy and popular "History of Tom Jones," and a no less delightful account of the adventures of a virtuous youth in his novel of 1742, "Joseph Andrews." Similar in style but with a Persian setting of the nineteenth century, "Adventures of Hajji Baba of Ispahan" makes a rogue's romp across the present-day country of Iran as the main character moves from one escapade into another. The author, James Morier, served as head of the English embassy at Teheran for several years, which helps account for the great accuracy in his descriptions of the social customs and everyday life at that time.

Many of the works which are assigned reading in the colleges of today were met with fear and rejection when they originally appeared. For a fascinating overview of the history of book censorship around the world, browse through Anne Haight's "Banned Books: 387 B.C. to 1978 A.D."

Artifacts on display

LUBBOCK — A rich collection of Indian artifacts, handcrafts and 80 paintings and drawings, many of them done by American Indians or by the nation's leading western artists, go on display Sunday (Feb. 4) at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

The Western Art Exhibit comes from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hogan of Ardmore, Okla. It is sponsored by the West Texas Museum Association which will be the host for an exhibit opening reception from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Sunday. There is no charge.

In addition to exquisite examples of Indian beading, the art exhibit includes a sculpture and drawing by Charles M. Russell, pencil sketches by Will James, paintings by E. Irving Cuse and Nicholas Fechin, and more than 65 works by Indian artists.

The Indian paintings are marked by clarity, brilliant color and variety. The artists represent a wide range of western tribes. Many of them are representative of Indian ritual, Ernie Lewis's "Apache Crown Dancers," Fred Beaver's "Green Corn Ceremony," or Ed Joshua Jr.'s "Seminole Burial."

Other art work includes baskets, pottery and the artifacts themselves. Among the artifacts is an Apache woman's dress, a northern Ute beaded doll cradle, a blue and pink porcupine quill roach, and a horned ermine button bonnet headdress.

Major tribes represented include Apache, Hopi, Crow, Cheyenne, Sioux, Blackfoot, Navajo, Zuni.

Most colorful among the artifacts is the beaded work, a Cheyenne beaded dance kilt, a Sioux pipe bag, Washua beaded basket, a Shaman's beaded bandolier and beaded breast plate. One ancient metal beaded necklace has on it an Andrew Jackson treaty medal.

Unusual items include a bone hide scraper, a Blackfoot medicine bundle and a southern Cheyenne medicine rattle, a Suoux Ghost Dance wand, an Ogala Sioux skull cracker, several tomahawks and a Mud Kachina hide painting.

The exhibit will remain on display through Feb. 25. The Museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Dale Boven joins tennis team

MIDLAND — Dale Boven, a top-ranked tennis player from Holland, Michigan, has joined the Midland College men's tennis team.

Coach Brian Gilley announced that Boven, a member of the Pan-American University team during the fall semester, had transferred to Midland College in January.

During his high school career he attained ranking in the top ten for players 16 and under, won the regional doubles championship twice, and advanced to the state high school semi-finals in doubles competition.

"Dale is a strong player who should be an asset to the team, providing extra depth to the squad this spring and next year," Gilley said.

And Boven really is strong physically. He was first in Michigan in his weight class in wrestling and ranked second nationally in the sport.

New degree program instituted

Midland College has announced the beginning of a new degree program. Just instituted this year, the new degree is Associate in General Studies for persons who have completed 60 hours of credit courses at Midland College from the general curriculum of the college.

In the past Midland College has offered Associate of Arts, Associate of Science, and Associate of Applied Science degrees.

The new degree offering allows students without a declared major, or those acquiring 60 hours in anticipation of transfer to a baccalaureate program at a four-year or upper level college or university.

Members of the Midland College Curriculum Committee, chaired by Dr. Robert Hollmann made the studies and recommendation regarding the new degree offering.

"This Associate in General Studies degree also may be obtained by persons who are not currently enrolled, but who have completed 60 hours of credit course studies at Midland College in the past," pointed out Dr. Don Hunt, vice president for academic affairs.

"A number of persons have taken a great many courses at Midland College and have earned 60 credit hours without obtaining a degree, simply because they had varied interests and took courses which might not have been included in other degree plans," Dr. Hunt noted. "Others earned 60 hours and transferred to another college or university to complete work on a bachelor's program, but did not have the required hours for a degree from Midland College."

Persons currently enrolled, or previously enrolled, who feel they are qualified or will be qualified by the end of the current spring semester should apply at the Registrar's Office in the Administration Building to file an intent to graduate. They then can be included in the May 12 graduation program to receive the Associate of General Studies degree.

NBC has newest railroad series

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The last time television had a series about a train it was called "The Iron Horse." Puffing billows of black smoke, the old steam locomotive of the Buffalo Pass, Scalplock and Defiance Rail Road chugged across the screens in 1966.

The newest railroad series, on NBC, is called "Supertrain," and the train not only is from a different era but looks like it comes from a different world. Somebody ought to tell Amtrak about this.

"Supertrain" is a super-sleek, super-fast, atomic-powered, double-decked streamliner with all the accouterments — swimming pool, gym, disco, and medical center — of a luxury hotel.

NBC, in its publicity, refers to the train as the "star" of this anthology series featuring different guest stars each week. Grumbles executive producer Dan Curtis, "Put the train out with no scripts and no actors and see how long it lasts. The train is terrific, but it's only the ambience."

"Supertrain" premieres Wednesday with a two-hour movie, then returns the following Wednesday to begin its weekly run as a one-hour series. The pilot movie was still being edited and was not available for preview.

"They asked me to do a series about a big train with all kinds of fancy things," Curtis says. "It was to be a combination of suspense, mystery and comedy. That was it."

Curtis, who heads his own production company, said he sees it as a "middle ground between 'Silver Streak' and Alfred Hitchcock. Not as whacky as 'Silver Streak.'"

In all, Curtis estimates more than $9 million was sunk into the sets, miniatures and early shows. He says by comparison ABC's "Battlestar Galactica" is "Mickey Mouse."

Curtis readily concedes that "Supertrain" is pure escapism. "I don't care what it is, as long as it's good," he said. "But you can't just label something escapism or comedy and it's automatically good. It's hard to do, and it can turn out bad. If you ask me what I like when it's done well, it's irreverence with a twinkle in the eye."

"Supertrain" is an anthology series, with one story running the length of the show for the guest stars, and a subplot involving the regular cast.

"MUSIC MAN" OPENS — Jim Sainers will star as Professor Hill and Paula Cahoon will play the role of Marion, the Librarian in "Music Man" now playing at the Midland Community Theatre.

'Music Man' opens at Theatre Midland

"The Music Man" is coming to town — to the Theatre Midland stage February 1 — 24, with its famous "Seventy-Six Trombones" number and its ranking as one of the best-loved of all American musical comedies.

"The Music Man," one of the most popular shows in American stage history, ran for three years and four months on Broadway in the late 1950's making it one of the longest running musicals of all time.

Jim Sainers will be playing the glib-tongued "Prof. Harold Hill," the lovable rogue who makes it his business to dazzle small-town people into letting him form a boys' band, and then make-off with the money they give him for instruments, uniforms and instruction books.

The musical's plot tells how this plan mis-fires in River City, Iowa, because Hill falls in love with a stand-offish librarian and can't bring himself to leave. Paula Cahoon (Marion) will have the role of Marian, the Librarian.

The box office at Theatre Midland is now open.

CB interference FCC making inquiries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is asking owners of television sets and other equipment that pick up citizens band radio and other unwanted signals what it should do about such interference.

"Over the last three years, the (Federal Communications Commission) has received an average of 80,000 complaints a year from people who have experienced RF (Radio Frequency) interference," the FCC says.

The complaints often involve "snow" on TV screens or "hums" and outside voices over sound systems. While much of the interference comes from CB radios, it can be caused by other equipment such as amateur (ham), land-mobile and broadcast transmitters and other electrical devices.

The FCC says interference is reported not only by TV viewers, but by owners of AM-FM radios, tape recorders, electric organs, telephones, stereo systems, video games and other home electronic entertainment equipment.

Bluegrass music takes back seat to country

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Bluegrass music is becoming a forgotten stepchild on country music radio stations across the country.

Even though thousands attend bluegrass festivals and most major cities have at least one bluegrass nightclub, radio stations generally are boycotting bluegrass music.

The stations say there simply isn't enough demand for the music.

For instance, Nashville, "Music City USA," has four bluegrass clubs but little if any bluegrass music and radio.

Bill Monroe, who created bluegrass music 40 years ago, says he's puzzled and disappointed that his unique art form isn't getting more exposure.

"It's a shame," he says. "If you played in Nashville or anywhere, you would get people who wanted gospel, bluegrass and country music. I guess they (radio stations) just look out for money. It's not treating the fans right."

One reason there's not more bluegrass on radio is that only two well-known bluegrass musicians, Monroe and Earl Scruggs, are recording on major labels.

But Bill Ivey, executive director of the Country Music Foundation, says the amount of bluegrass records appears to be increasing because there are growing numbers of regionally known bluegrass musicians recording for small record companies.

"Bluegrass just doesn't get into the pipeline of promotion to the stations," he says.

Bill Denny, president of the National Association of Recording Arts and Sciences, says the situation boils down to a problem of radio station format.

China talks cheer woman

By EILEEN McGUIRE
President Carter's mid-December announcement that relations between the U.S. and China would be normalized was greeted with excitement by at least one Big Spring resident. For Sue Lee, the opening of the door to China means a possible reconciliation with a sister and brother she hasn't seen or heard from in 32 years.

Both Mrs. Lee and her husband, Dr. Byung H. Lee, an internist at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, were born in Korea and raised and educated in China.

The couple escaped to Korea in the midst of the Chinese civil war in 1946 with their two children, a newborn infant and a three-year-old. One year later, Communists had gained control of their former home, severing all communication between Mrs. Lee and the family she'd left behind.

Before the takeover, Mrs. Lee said she'd received one letter from her 10-year-old sister Quang Qua and 8-year-old brother Quang Wei, who'd been left in the care of their stepmother in Nanking. She never heard from them again.

The Lee came to the U.S. with their four children 13 years ago, settling in St. Joseph, Mich., where Dr. Lee began a medical practice. In late 1974, they became residents of Big Spring.

"I am very excited about the new open door policy of China," Mrs. Lee stated. "But I'm also confused. I don't know where to start looking for my sister and brother."

"A friend of ours recently went to China. We asked him to advertise for my sister and brother while he was there but it was no use. We've tried every way we can think of to find them, but all of our attempts have failed."

Mrs. Lee said she now watches news broadcasts eagerly searching for names of news correspondents who might be able to help her in her search.

"I want especially to find my brother," she said. "The China that I knew was very family-oriented. Chinese families particularly value the sons because carrying on the family name is important."

Though she'd never consider leaving the United States to live in China again, Mrs. Lee says she would like to go back for a visit if her family can be located. She expressed apprehension about what she might find there.

"I'm sure that the modern China is very different from the China I left."

Before Communism the lifestyle in China was a big family system. The Communist ways of putting the small children in day care centers and everyone else to work doesn't fit with the traditional ways of Chinese people.

"I imagine it's all very different now from what I remember. The young generation has been raised on entirely different philosophies than mine was. My generation valued freedom and family unity and stressed respect for the elders."

"I have always believed that because of the clash between Chinese and Communist ways, that Communism in China would not last forever."

Though all attempts to locate the missing Quang Qua and Quang Wei have thus far been in vain, Mrs. Lee retains her 32-year hope that someday she will be united with them again, if only for a visit.

"I felt so helpless when the Communists shut the door between us. I was very anxious for my sister and brother. I don't know how, but I'm going to try to find them."

"They're both grown up now—probably married and raising families. I hope to see them again."

MANY THINGS WERE CONFIDENTIAL
Grace Kinney will miss job

Memories linger for Grace Kinney

Grace Kinney elected to take early retirement and will leave Cosden, where she has worked for the past 24 years, on Feb. 28.

Mrs. Kinney is presently a secretary to Norwood Cheers, assistant general council and patent council in the legal department.

"I have worked in three different departments—lease, pipeline and legal," said Mrs. Kinney, "and I've enjoyed them all and had fine people to work for and with in each department."

"I enjoy what I am doing now—mostly secretarial work and patents. Cosden patents processes and petrochemicals we make here, and much of it must be confidential until the patent is issued," said Mrs. Kinney. "I am going to miss parts of my job terribly, but I'll be visiting and traveling. I plan to fill the time and enjoy retirement at least as much as I've enjoyed working," she stated.

Mrs. Kinney has two children, John Edward Kinney, an attorney in Woodville, and Mrs. Mary K. Sweeten, nutritionist on the staff of Texas A&M University in College Station, and five grandchildren.

"With an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. job daily, I just haven't been able to spend as much time as I'd like doing other things I enjoy," said Mrs. Kinney, who plans to keep living in Big Spring.

"I'm sure those grandchildren will see a lot more of me," Mrs. Kinney said. "I think they'll like it, and I know I will."

His wife, Janet, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Murphy of 11711 McLain, Houston.

Here are steps to take if water pipes burst

When a building's heat is turned off in below-freezing weather, water pipes may burst if preventive steps aren't taken. There are steps the home owner and businessman can take to minimize damage, according to the Texas Insurance Information Center.

All water lines should be drained. First turn off the water at the point it enters the building. Then turn on the water at the lowest point, probably the laundry sink in homes with basements.

Turning on another faucet elsewhere in the building will allow air pressure into the system and help it to drain more thoroughly.

Remember to flush or drain other water-containing vessels such as furnace boilers, water heaters and toilets. At the time the heat is turned on again, these vessels should be filled to normal capacity.

Persons who feel incapable of draining their water systems on their own are urged to call a plumber.

Let us spray life into dorm, young artist says

It isn't unusual for dormitory residents to "paint" the walls; but, the way ALC Rick Schrecengost of Big Spring does it, it is not only unusual but attractive as well.

Airman Schrecengost, a crew chief for the 64th Flying Training Wing Organizational Maintenance Squadron at Reese AFB, Lubbock, has just finished his fifth painting in the OMS dormitory. The 22-year-old artist used an air brush to bring life to the dormitory walls with scenes of F-4 phantoms, World War II dog fights, T-38s and crew chiefs and even a YF-16.

A commercial artist in Big Spring before entering the Air Force, the airman has been using the intricate form of spray for several years.

The flightline worker says he plans to return to commercial work after he leaves the service. "I want to get into more illustration," says the son of retired Air Force TSgt. Ralph Schrecengost.

It took Airman Schrecengost between 30 and 40 hours to complete the five paintings. He plans to do at least two more murals after he returns to duty following an extensive temporary duty assignment to Ellsworth AFB, S.D.

RICK SCHRECEGOST POLISHES HIS SKILLS

Degree goes to Pollard

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — M-Sgt. Ben Pollard Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Pollard of 424 St. Rose St., Baton Rouge, La., has been awarded an associate in applied science degree by the Community College of the Air Force for studies completed in work center management.

The world-wide college, headquartered at Lackland AFB, Tex., awards associate degrees to enlisted personnel for programs combining technical education received in the Air Force with general education provided by civilian institutions.

Sergeant Pollard serves as a personnel superintendent with the Aerospace Defense Command Reserve Affairs Branch in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The sergeant is a 1958 graduate of McKinley Senior High School and attended Southern University at Baton Rouge, the University of Alaska, Pikes Peak Community College in Colorado Springs, the University of Southern Colorado and Regis College's extension in Colorado Springs. His wife, Shirley, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Warren of 904 N.W. Second St., Big Spring.

CLEVELAND GOSSETT JR.

Librarian is promoted

FORT MONROE, Va. — Cleveland Gossett Jr., whose parents live at 1105 N.W. Eighth St., Big Spring, recently was promoted to Army staff sergeant while serving as a librarian with the U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command at Fort Monroe, Va.

Gossett has also been re-enlisted in the Army.

The sergeant entered the Army in September 1969.

He attended Howard County College, Big Spring. His wife, Vernie, is with him at Fort Monroe.

Training completed

Navy Airman Michael L. Apperson, son of Billie Apperson of Route 1, and whose wife, Tonia, is the daughter of Sally Camp of 605 Chestnut, all of Colorado City, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

A 1976 graduate of Colorado High School, he joined the Navy in October 1978.

New 'Texas' captain to keep ties with Lone Star State

NORFOLK, Va. — Navy Captain Ron Owens became the new commanding officer of the nuclear-powered guided missile cruiser USS Texas Jan. 27. He is pleased about being the commanding officer of the Texas and he hopes to maintain the strong ties the state has established with the Norfolk, Va.-based ship.

"I think the relationship is very good for the ship," he remarked. "I think it affects the crew's morale in a very positive way and I intend to continue that. It's unusual for the people of a state to have the kind of feelings I think Texans have about the ship. I think it's really super."

In the change of command ceremony, Capt. Owens became the Texas' second commanding officer. The ship's first skipper, Capt. Peter B. Fiedler, will become head of the fleet modernization program in the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations in the Pentagon. Traditions of that ceremony extend back to the days of sail when the first Texas, a war sloop commissioned by the Republic of Texas in 1840, was sailing the waters of the Gulf.

The Texas of today, the fifth ship to bear the name, depends on more sophisticated means than cannon and sail. She is a 585-foot, 11,000-ton missile carrying modern machine. The namesake ship of the Long Star State has the ability to cruise in excess of 30 knots powered by a nuclear reactor that needs refueling once every ten years.

LOOK ALIVE — Capt. Ron Owens (left), prospective commanding officer of the guided missile cruiser USS Texas, tries the "captain's chair" on the bridge of the Norfolk, Va., homeported nuclear-powered ship as electrical officer, Lieutenant (junior grade) Larry Weckbaugh, looks on. Owens assumed command of the Texas on Jan. 27.

"I think I'm well qualified and well trained to assume command of this ship," Capt. Owens remarked. "From what I've seen, it's a fine ship."

Owens, 44, who wears the Bronze Star among his ribbons for actions in the waters of the Tonkin Gulf off the coast of Vietnam, lives in nearby Hampton, Va., with his wife, Barbara, and their three daughters, Nancy, 16, Paula, 14, and Pamela, 11.

The 1958 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., brings more than 20 years of experience as a naval officer to the Texas. The former commanding officer of the frigate USS Hepburn described the qualities he feels are necessary for command of a Navy ship.

But while the ship is in its homeport of Norfolk, Owens says he'd very much like to have Texans come aboard to visit.

Lopez wins promotion

Marine Private First Class Jesse R. Lopez, nephew of Joaquin and Dell Rodriguez Jr. of 1302 N. 10th St., Lamesa, has been promoted to his present rank while serving at Marine Barracks, Naval Weapons Station, Yorktown, Va.

A 1978 graduate of Lamesa High School, he joined the Marine Corps in February 1978.

Participates in 'Midlink'

ZWEIBRUCKEN, Germany — S-Sgt. Jimmy D. Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hardy of 3009 Denison Ave., Snyder, Tex., recently participated in a Central Treaty Organization (CENTO) maritime exercise dubbed "Midlink."

Sgt. Hardy is an electronic warfare systems technician at Zweibrucken AB, Germany, with the 26th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, a unit of the U.S. Air Forces in Europe.

According to CENTO officials, the exercise was designed to test the organization's maritime defense position, including air operations.

The sergeant, a 1958 graduate of Snyder Senior High School, received an A.A. degree in 1959 from Fort Worth (Tex.) Drafting College. He has also studied at Arlington (Tex.) State University.

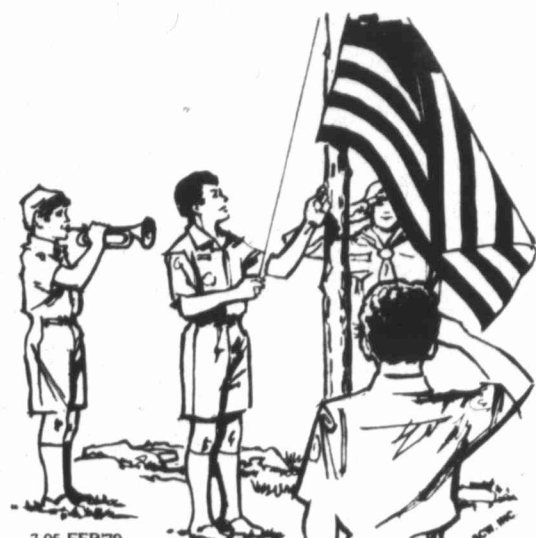

Two-Station test finished

FORT KNOX, Ky. — Pvt. Raymond W. Dillard, whose wife, Roxanne, lives at Lamesa Villa, Lamesa, Texas, recently completed Phase I of the Two-Station Test at Fort Knox, Ky.

The test is being conducted to see if basic entry training can be effectively reduced from 16 weeks to 12 weeks and still be administered at two stations. The second phase is held at Fort Benning, Ga.

Dillard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dillard Jr., live at Lamesa Villa.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You may be tempted to make a commitment to others today which would be most unwise. Your time is best spent studying ethical, philosophical and spiritual thought.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): You want to increase your present abundance, but this is not the day to take definite steps, but time for studying and making plans.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Show your devotion to friends by helping them with their affairs. Your intuition is accurate at this time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): A good day for meditation and to put aside worldly matters for the time being. Take time for the social later.

SCORPIO CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Take time to study your true desires and plan just how to attain them. Show others that you have the will to succeed.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Be sure to study a community affair well before you attempt to handle it. Know your true status in life and take steps to improve it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Take time to study a new project before making plans to put it in operation. Make it your business to find out who and what you are.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Don't try to renege on some promise you made or you could find yourself in a mess of trouble. Avoid one who has an eye on you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): A situation arises today that requires you to change your attitude, and it is to your best interest that you do. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): You are now able to return a favor which another has done for you in the past. Express happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Study new interests that could give you added abundance in the days ahead. Show continued devotion to your mate.

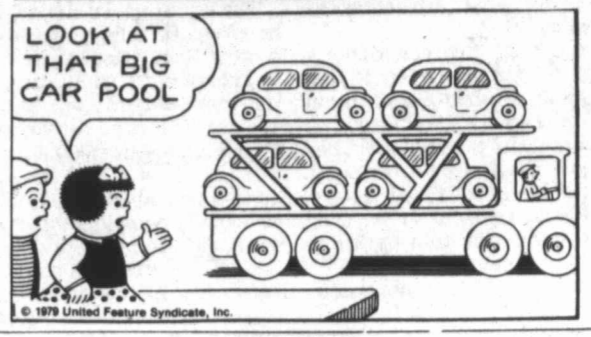

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Don't upset anyone at home, especially in the afternoon since others are in a touchy mood. Make plans for the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A time to relax and enjoy yourself and remove any tensions you may have. Make plans to improve your career in some way.

YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: he or she will be one who can handle financial problems well, so be sure to give a fine education as you can. Stress logic and economy. Be sure not to neglect spiritual training, but don't force sports on your progeny.

The stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to you!

'Every child a wanted child'

Planned Parenthood clinic opens

By ROBBICROW
Family News Editor

'Every child a wanted child' is the motto of an agency which saw its first patient in May, 1974 at an office in the Permian Building.

Following a little over four years of service to Big Spring and surrounding communities, Planned Parenthood will hold its grand opening Tuesday at its new center at 709 Johnson. The ribbon cutting ceremony will be at 9 a.m. and the public is invited to attend the reception from 4-6 p.m.

Planned Parenthood, a non-profit organization headquartered in New York City, operates 12 clinics in the Permian Basin affiliate where a registered nurse practitioner is utilized in each clinic. Martha Ellingwood, Odessa, serves as the Permian Basin Planned Parenthood

RN. Each RN is further trained in family planning.

Sue Drake, clinic administrator for the Permian Basin Planned Parenthood, heads the local staff which includes: Eva Dominguez, receptionist; Eloise Jackson, counselor; and Donna Kothmann, record clerk-outreach administrator. Ms. Drake is also education information assistant for the Permian Basin.

Big Spring board of directors include Ms. Mary Dudley, Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, Ms. Shirley Shroyer and Nabar Martinez.

Planned Parenthood was primarily set up as a family planning organization. However, the organization reaches out into many different aspects other than just family planning.

According to Ms. Drake, services performed by Planned Parenthood include venereal disease screening, urinalysis, blood pressure and weight check, and thorough examinations for clients receiving contraceptives. Clients, before being prescribed a form of birth control, receive a pap smear and breast examination. Ms. Drake also stressed that each woman is taught the proper technique for examining her own breast which Ms. Drake explained as being extremely important.

Clients receiving birth control pills or an I.U.D. (intrauterine device) return every three months for follow-up blood pressure and weight checks. No form of birth control is dispensed without a thorough examination.

In addition to the medical services provided, Planned Parenthood also offers a variety of counseling services to anyone in need of them.

They counsel married couples, single and divorced persons, old and young persons, adolescents, anyone who comes to them with any type of problem concerning their sexuality, problem pregnancies, etc. Their 24-hour telephone number is 915-332-8258.

In discussing goals Planned Parenthood hopes to satisfy, Ms. Drake explained good information and community education concerning human sexuality, marriage in the family, and parenthood, was their main long-range goal. Schools are supplied with literature concerning these topics.

Planned Parenthood also operates a speakers bureau consisting of trained personnel who speak on topics at various workshops for organizations.

Workshops that have been set up by Planned Parenthood include one in the Home and Family Living class at Big Spring High School; a summer CETA youth workshop; and general community education workshops.

Acting as a referral service, Planned Parenthood has good rapport with the Big Spring State Hospital, the Department of Human Resources, and referrals for sterilization and pregnancy terminations. It was stressed, however, that sterilization and pregnancy terminations were referred only after indepth counseling. Planned Parenthood neither pays for nor performs pregnancy terminations.

Various information centers are set up by Planned Parenthood. These include one at Howard College in the Student Union Building as well as in Midland College and in Odessa College.

Along with teachers, speakers and workshop leaders, Planned Parenthood furnishes films, brochures and visual aids. Ms. Drake said all films were available for use by the public at anytime in the new Planned Parenthood location.

"People may call Planned Parenthood at 3-8351 and explain what type or topic of film they would like to see, and we will arrange to have it here," explained Ms. Drake.

Planned Parenthood is the largest cancer screening agency in the United States. In 1977 they helped Big Springers help themselves through 900 cancer tests, 500 pregnancy tests, 700 venereal disease screenings, and the dispensing of 850 contraceptives. Ms. Drake estimates the local Planned Parenthood center carried a patient load of over 1,400 in the past year. Patients average two visits per year.

"We do have someone on our staff who speaks Spanish in case the need for interpretation arises," explained the clinic administrator. "Due to the larger size of our new facility, we encourage clients to bring someone along, a mother, sister, or friend, for support."

Future activities to be sponsored by Planned Parenthood include a Film Festival and Teenage Day. The Film Festival will feature several series related to specific areas of family planning. Teenage Day will be devoted to information education for teenagers.

Anyone coming to Planned Parenthood should be assured it will be in the strictest confidentiality. Ms. Drake stressed. Teenagers should feel free to come in for counseling. No parents will be called. Planned Parenthood is allowed to operate without parental consent.

Almost 85 percent of the women who come to Planned Parenthood receive

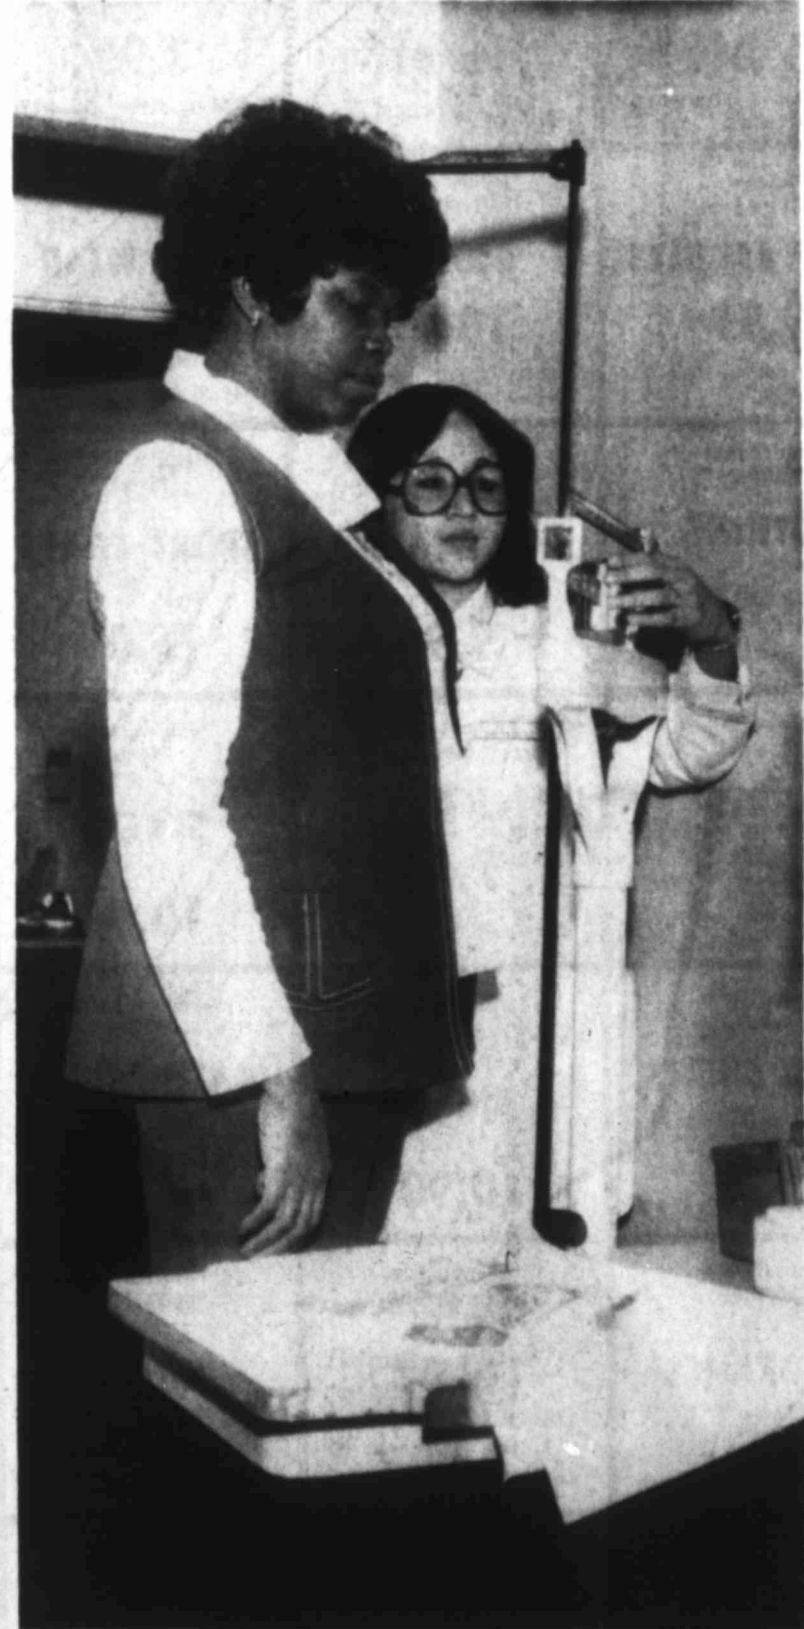

BLOOD PRESSURE CHECK — One of the main procedures taken on clients coming to Planned Parenthood is a thorough checkup and examination. Those who are prescribed birth control pills or I.U.D.s come back every three months for follow-up blood pressure and weight checks. Here, Donna Kothmann checks the blood pressure of a Planned Parenthood client.

FAMILY PLANNING EDUCATION IMPORTANT — Planned Parenthood has been around the Big Spring community for about four years, but not until recently did it have a facility complete with an adequate classroom. Pictured here is Sue Drake, clinic administrator, conducting a lecture on family planning in the new facility at 709 Johnson.

KEEPING CLOSE TABS — Planned Parenthood keeps close tabs on their clients. They conduct pregnancy tests, venereal disease screenings, pap smears as well as the usual weight and blood pressure checks. Counseling is another special aspect of the agency. Here, Eva Dominguez conducts a routine weight check.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD GRAND OPENING — The staff of the Permian Basin Planned Parenthood Center is extremely proud of their new facility located at 709 Johnson. They will be on hand at the grand opening Tuesday with ribbon cutting ceremony to be held at 9 a.m. and a reception from 4-6 p.m. Pictured here, left to right are Sue Drake, clinic administrator; Eva Dominguez (kneeling) receptionist; Donna Kothmann, record clerk-outreach administrator; and Eloise Jackson, counselor.

This Janet is not that Janet

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I read your column the other day and you had a letter from a Janet who was 16 and who had a 26-year-old lover named Kenneth.

with a guy in his late 20s named Kenneth. It so happens that I'm now married and my husband thinks I'm the Janet who wrote that letter. He is very jealous, so please tell him

I'm not that Janet. — Janet, Pottstown, Pa. Janet's Husband: Your Janet is not that Janet.

Dr. Wallace: Our English teacher has asked me to write to you to see if you can help our senior English class. Mrs. K. remembers reading somewhere where people can call long distance to a grammar hot-line and receive the correct way to say it grammatically.

Can you please find out the number and place? Our entire class thanks you. — Emily, Pueblo, Colo.

Emily: After about 30 phone calls and six hours of work — I found it so now make sure your use it, and I ain't kidding. Oh, I'm sorry, I mean, I'm not kidding.

Dial (501) 569-3162. That's the grammar hot-line number which is in operation at the University of Arkansas. Members of the college's English faculty are on call weekdays from 9 a.m. until noon (CST).

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped large self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace in care of this newspaper.

Fryar went to work for Texas Electric Service Company March 27, 1956 as a lineman. He transferred to the Big Spring Switchery station as a system operator about 14 months ago. Barbara Monroe Fryar was born in Waco, Oct. 30, 1936. She moved to Big Spring in 1947 with her family and attended school. She is employed as a nurse at Malone-Hogan Clinic.

The Fryars are members of the 14th and Main Street Church of Christ.

Venison smoking technique

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Venison sausage may be made from a variety of recipes using a variety of seasonings. Try different recipes until you find the one you and your family like, or get deer sausage from a processing plant and prepare and taste it.

If they make a variety of flavors you may be able to select one from their processes that you will like.

Remember — not all sausage is the same. However, here are some recipes you may want to try.

FRESH BREAKFAST SAUSAGE

25 pounds lean deer meat
25 pounds very fresh regular Pork trimmings, (50 percent lean, 50 percent fat)

1 pound salt
1 1/2 to 2 ounces ground sage
1 1/2 to 2 ounces black pepper
1/2 ounce red pepper (if desired)
5 ounces sugar (For Small Quantities)
2 pounds wild game meat
2 pounds regular pork trimmings
2 teaspoons salt
4 teaspoons ground sage
2 teaspoons ground black pepper
1/4-1/2 teaspoon red pepper (if desired)
1 teaspoon sugar

Thoroughly mix trimmings and grind through a plate with 1/2-inch holes. Spread coarsely ground meat on table top, sprinkle seasoning on top and thoroughly mix.

Regrind through a plate with 1/8-inch holes. If a 1/2-inch plate is not available, sprinkle seasoning on top of trimmings, thoroughly mix and grind once through a plate with 1/8-inch holes.

If sausage is to be stuffed, do this immediately for best results. Stuff into natural hog casings, plastic bags or muslin bags (any cloth bag made from strong cloth that has been washed several times can be used). Natural hog casings can be obtained from meat markets, local meat processing plants or stores. Soak them in warm, salty water for about 1 hour or until they are pliable.

If bulk sausage is to be served soon after making, 3/4 cup of water may be added to about 4 pounds of sausage.

Knead with hands until sausage becomes sticky. Pack tightly in small molds, pans or cans and chill overnight before slicing.

CURED AND SMOKED SAUSAGE

COUNTRY STYLE

37 1/2 pounds of deer
12 1/2 pounds of very fresh pork

1 pound salt
1 ounce saltpeter (potassium nitrate — obtainable at drug store)
2 ounces black pepper
1/2 ounce ground cloves (or 1/2 ounce ground nutmeg (if desired))
1/4 ounce garlic powder (if desired)

Prepare and grind meat and seasoning as for fresh sausage. Stuff into natural hog casings or muslin casing.

Hang or place on racks to cure and dry for 24 to 48 hours at a temperature of 38 degrees F to 40 degrees F.

The recipe used for fresh breakfast sausage can be used to make cured and smoked sausage.

SMOKING — Smoke the sausage 1 to 2 hours or until light brown color is obtained.

SMOKING SAUSAGE

There are many ways to smoke meat. One way of smoking is to build a small fire out of hardwood (pecan, hickory or oak) at one end of a backyard, closed typed cooker. Burn it until live coals are obtained; then put a few hardwood chips on the coals.

Place the sausage or cured meat cuts on the rack on the opposite end from the coals. Use enough water on the chips so that they do not blaze. Smoke the sausage with the cooker closed. Keep the temperature of the cooker between 130 degrees F. and 150 Degrees F.

Smokehouses can be made from any closed device such as old refrigerators, oil

Dear Abby

His Kids Block Her Bridal Path

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old divorcee and, if I say so myself, I am attractive and desirable. I recently met a gentleman, also divorced and equally attractive and desirable. He is 60. Sam has two married children living in another state.

He gave me a big rush and I know he wants to marry me, but he says he cannot formally propose marriage until after his children meet me and agree that we are right for each other.

Abby, I have grown children, too, but the man I marry doesn't have to pass my children's inspection. Naturally, I would hope that my children liked the man, but if they didn't, it wouldn't matter to me.

This business of having to get approval from Sam's children irritates me. In fact, it turns me off. Do you think it means anything?

LIL IN BROOKLYN

DEAR LIL: YES. It means that, after Sam's children, you come first.

DEAR READERS: There are thousands of people in hospitals, institutions and homes because the transplant organs they need are not available. These include kidneys, corneas, heart, pituitary glands and other organs and tissues that must be removed from accident victims quickly before oxygen starvation renders them useless.

What most people do not know is that most states now use the driver's license to identify organ donors. Under the Anatomical Gift Act, people who are killed in traffic accidents may avoid dying in vain.

The organ-donor sticker form (or decal) authorizes doctors to remove needed organs immediately after the victim's death, and to use those organs in transplant operations.

Readers may acquire the details of organ-donation laws by writing to the motor vehicle departments of their own states. They may write also to the National Kidney Foundation, 116 East 27th St., New York, N.Y. 10016.

"Gift of Life" laws are relatively new. Their application through the driver's license is increasing in all states. The universal adoption of the Anatomical Gift Act (with its strict safeguards to verify that the donor is in fact dead before organs may be removed) would offer new hope to the country's afflicted.

I have personally willed all my usable organs, and feel that nothing I could leave after my death will be of greater value.

LOVE,
ABBY

Family honors Carr on recent birthday

B.F. Carr, 2700 West Hwy. 80, celebrated his 90th birthday Jan. 30. He was honored at a dinner Jan. 28 in the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Louise and Harold Frei, 2605 Cactus Drive.

B. F. CARR

Carr worked as a cowboy and farmer in the Vincent-Klondike area and then served in the United States Army from 1918-1919 in World War I. On Dec. 23, 1919, he married Lillie Creighton in the home of her father, W.R. Creighton, West Hwy. 80. He moved to Big Spring in 1927.

Formerly operating a Humble gas station on West 3rd, he delivered oil and gas to oil fields with his own trucks of the T&P Trucking Co. From 1943 to 1946, Carr worked for the T&P Coal and Oil Co., and operated a grocery store with two of his sons from 1948 to 1953. The store was located at the present location of Hughes Trading Post. He worked for Parkway Food, East 3rd, from 1953 until his retirement in 1962.

Building a warehouse in 1956, Carr did independent construction work. The building is currently leased by A-1 Furniture and Swap Shop.

Those attending the celebration were Harold Frei, 58 and his granddaughter, Rhonda Carr Harding, 20. Vincent, who were also celebrating their birthdays. Others present were Carr's three sons, Dalton, Bryan and Jackie, their wives; four grandchildren, one step grandchild; and one niece, Helen Carr Newman, Lamesa.

Women hear program on crime prevention

Sergeant G. E. (Ed) Kissinger of crime prevention and safety education with the Big Spring Police Department met with the Elbow Home Demonstration Club Thursday in the home of Mrs. Ross Hill.

Sergeant Kissinger spoke on community crime prevention, stating crime is increasing and is no longer confined to the larger cities. "We all foot the bill when there is a burglary," he stated.

He revealed that enforcement officers' salaries, jail and penitentiary costs all come out of the taxpayers' pockets. Often criminals are paroled and 60 per cent return to crime.

"Crime prevention can begin with you and your neighbors," stressed Sergeant Kissinger. People should begin the Citizens Neighborhood Watch Program and Identification Operation program.

For information concerning such programs, contact the Crime Prevention Representative of the local law enforcement agency.

Defensive tactics for women were discussed and a film was viewed concerning self-defense measures. It is important, Sergeant Kissinger said, to learn the simple methods of self protection that do not require much training or strength. These include hiding, running, screaming, biting, striking and scratching.

When driving, lock car doors and never pick up a hitchhiker. At home, lock the doors and use a peep hole. Always leave a light on. All homes should be installed with good locks that are utilized.

The next meeting of the club will be Feb. 15 with the place and program to be announced later.
