Hospital reports at least 64 dead, 325 wounded

'Civil war' breaks out in Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Mutinous pro-Khomeini air force cadets backed by armed civilians battled the shah's elite Imperial Guard on Saturday in a virtual civil war that engulfed much of eastern Tehran. Hospitals reported at least 64 dead and 325 wounded.

Dozens of U.S. military advisers had to be airlifted out of a Tehran air base that was the center of the clashes.

The fighting, the bloodiest here in five months, exploded any notions of unity among Iran's armed forces in the face of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's bid to oust the shah-appointed government.

Among the dead was an American correspondent, Joe Alex Morris, 51, of the Los Angeles Times. Morris, a veteran foreign correspondent, was shot in the heart as he and three other American reporters watched the fighting from an apartment window.

The Imperial Guard threw tanks, heavy machine guns and helicopter gunships into the battle. Hospitals were in chaos, the floors of some emergency rooms awash with blood. Pro-Khomeini civilians with automatic rifles threw up sandbag barricades in the streets as relays of ambulances carted off the dead and wounded.

Tehran's military governor, Lt. Gen. Mehdi Rahimi, decreed a 4:30 p.m.-until-noon curfew Saturday, but JOE ALEX MORRIS JR.

Times reporter killed

Moslem leader Khomeini urged his followers to ignore it. Heavy firing continued as darkness fell, and flaming barricades were reported throughout the city. But by 8:30 p.m. most of the disorders appeared to have died down.

Khomeini, who seeks to establish an Islamic republic replacing the monarchy and the Bakhtiari government, threatened an all-out "jihad," a holy war, if the government continued its "atrocities."

But Rahimi said his officers "have been ordered to crush the aggressive saboteurs in any form and any means."

Bakhtiari said in a speech to the Senate, "I would like to warn and inform the public for the last time that any aggression henceforth will be repulsed most severely."

Most of Saturday's fighting swirled around the Doshan Tappeh air base in southeastern Tehran, where the Imperial Guard attacked rioting cadets Friday night. Cadets claimed the guard provoked the riot by trying to suppress their exuberance during a television special on Khomeini.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said Iranian helicopters safely evacuated the 50 to 75 American military advisers who were at the base when the trouble started.

The spokesman said about 250 more Americans left Iran Saturday on military flights, and that those remaining were urged by the embassy to stay in their homes. There are fewer than 5,000 Americans still in the country, compared with 50,000 a year ago.

Saturday's battles near the air base were the first in Iran in which both sides were heavily armed. Rioters wielded automatic rifles seized from military arsenals. Others carried sticks, lengths of pipe, pistols and hunting knives.

THE WAITING GAME — One man wearing a uniform and other people in civilian clothes man a post on a street in South Tehran Saturday, armed with weapons and metlev cocktails. They said they were waiting for army units to enter their road-blocked area.

10 percent interest lid causing credit crunch

Texas usury law curbing home construction

By EILEEN McGUIRE

Would-be homeowners will have a tough time financing their dream homes unless the Texas Legislature acts promptly to resolve a crisis now faced by lending institutions.

The problem is a usury law in Texas that limits the amount of interest that lending institutions may charge on home mortgage loans to 10 percent. The law is designed to protect the homeowner from unreasonable interest rates, but now that law may prevent Texans from having access to mortgage loans at all.

This is because, while the usury law has curbed the amount of interest charged by lenders on home mortgage loans, the amounts of interest that the lenders pay on their supplies of funds have been increasing.

According to a management summary compiled by Touche Ross & Company for the Texas Savings and Loan League (TSL), lenders are already paying close to and sometimes in excess of 10 percent interest on funds used to make home mortgage loans. The imposed 10 percent ceiling on interest in Texas makes it unprofitable, and soon perhaps impossible, for lending institutions in this state to make the loans.

The effect that this situation, if unresolved, will have on Texas will be a sudden reversal in the strong economy that the state, the second fastest growing in the nation in terms of population, now enjoys. This year will see the beginning of a rapid decline in the real estate industry which is a major contributor to the prosperity of Texas.

The report states that in 1975, the real estate industry in Texas contributed $9.8 billion to the Gross National Product and generated employment for 300,000 Texans. That $9.8 billion figure will decline by $2.5 to $5 billion if the Texas Legislature does not raise the ceiling on home mortgage interest, states the report.

Without home mortgage loans, home construction in Texas will be drastically reduced by $300 to $600 million. Direct employment in the real estate industry will be reduced by 75,000 to 150,000 jobs. All other industries in any way related to the real estate industry, from lumber yards to carpenters, will also be affected.

The choice that Texans face, says TSL, is either paying a higher interest rate on home mortgage loans or forfeiting the home mortgage loan as a means of purchasing a home. And the problems are not exclusively those of prospective homeowners. Individuals who already own homes face a risk of not being able to sell their homes for the equity they've already invested in them.

Over 50 percent of home loans in Texas and nationwide are made by savings and loans corporations. In Texas, these corporations, represented by TSL, are lobbying in Austin to raise the 10 percent ceiling. But according to Charles Beil, president of Big Spring's First Federal Savings, the lobbying is being done to benefit others.

"It's the Savings and Loan League that's lobbying for a revision of the usury law, but it's not the savings and loans that are going to be hurt if the law isn't changed."

The savings and loans can always put their investments into other states that don't have the 10 percent ceiling.

It's the homebuyers, Realtors, builders and everyone connected with the real estate industry who are going to be hurt. Without loans, there'll be no construction and no jobs. And the state's economy, which is second only to California in terms of prosperity, will decline.

Ray Don Williams, president of Big Spring Savings and Loan, said that savings and loans will have no other choice but to invest outside of Texas if the usury law makes it impractical to invest in real estate within the state.

"We don't want to go outside of the community or the state. Our primary goal is to serve local needs, but if there is no relief from the high interest rates we have to pay for our funds, we'll have no choice but to invest outside of Texas."

Both Williams and Beil voiced opinions that the usury law should either be raised to the 12 percent that lobbyists are requesting or that it be abolished altogether.

Many states have no usury law, Beil pointed out. In Texas, it originated during the reconstruction era following the Civil War. Its purpose was to protect individuals from unscrupulous carpet baggers. Beil and Williams share a belief, along with many economists, that the law is now obsolete.

"The usury law probably served its purpose at one time, but its no longer necessary," Beil said. "Our constitution writers believed that lenders had to be controlled, but its really competition that controls interest rates. Supply and demand for money, not an outdated law, should set the limit on interest rates."

Funds with which savings and loans corporations make home mortgage loans come from several sources. Savings deposited by individuals in passbook accounts make up only a small percentage of the available funds.

The bulk of mortgage funds are derived from Money Market Certificates, described by Williams as a short-term six-month certificates. Individuals who want a large return on their money find the certificates, which have only been around since last summer, a good investment. Allowing the savings and loans to use its invested money to reinvest in real estate—principally homes—results in a high interest return on its dollars.

The interest paid by savings and loans on the money certificates fluctuates according to supply and demand, Beil explained. Currently, the interest yield is close to and sometimes in excess of 10 percent, resulting in a very small profit, if any, to the lender of 10 percent interest home mortgage loans.

Investing in home mortgages in states with a more reasonable or no usury law can yield an 11.5 percent to 12 percent interest rate to Texas savings and loans corporations.

Another source for home mortgage loans, on which the interest rate is also determined by the money market, is borrowing from the Federal Home Loan System. It is also currently charging 10 percent and higher for funds.

A third source of funds, passbook savings accounts, involves every man, woman and child who has such an account in the real estate business, Beil said.

"One of our functions is to take relatively small deposits and combine them to make a large home mortgage loan so every depositor is essentially a real estate lender. They deserve a higher return on their money."

"Consumers will oppose this legislation to increase the ceiling on interest rates on home loans, but as lenders, they should be demanding it. In this case, the consumer is both a borrower and a lender."

Beil said that Big Spring is so far escaping the credit crunch that may result in Texas, but there is no guarantee for how long.

"Big Spring is fortunate. We do have the funds available for mortgage money at the present, but the current situation is not a temporary problem. It's a reoccurring problem and could effect us at any time. Right now, in mid-February, mortgage money is available in Big Spring."

The current problem, Beil said, the same problem that lenders faced during the 1974-75 credit crunch. Every time interest rates are inflated, the usury law in Texas becomes an obstacle in dealing with the situation. When the crunch is over, interest rates on mortgage funds will decline and the usury law will again be forgotten for another few years. But the problem, Beil said, will continue to persist.

The high interest rates lenders are paying currently are a result of President Carter increasing interest rates nationally to discourage borrowing and thereby cut back on inflation. Critics rightly say that it will just make borrowing more expensive, but according to Beil, the measure is periodically necessary.

Because of the 1929 Depression, he said, the government now takes action to insure that it doesn't happen again. The Legislature is held responsible for keeping the Federal Reserve System in balance by controlling the money supply.

"In an effort to control inflation, restraints in the form of high interest rates are placed on borrowing periodically. And every time it happens, there's a clash with the Texas usury law."

"Other states have recognized this and have either changed their laws to

Coahoma band 'stars' to shine at Fun Breakfast early Tuesday

The Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast, sponsored this time by Cosden Oil & Chemical Co., will get under way at 6:29 a.m., Tuesday in the cafeteria of Howard College.

Everyone who attends has a chance to win cash prizes of $25 and $50, to be paid off in silver dollars. Door prizes to be given include:

A golf travel bag, compliments of Cleveland Athletics; potted plant, compliments of Rita's Flowers; Valentine candy, compliments of Wright's Prescription Center; and a God's Eye wall hanging, compliments of V.A. Volunteer Service. Chamber members only will be eligible for a cash award of $200.

However, one must be present to win.

The program planned will be lively as well as entertaining. Wake up music will be provided by Coahoma band students, directed by Pam Hansen. Piano music will feature Julie Shirey. Seasoned emcee, Jim Baum and Pete Jones will keep the fun and games moving on schedule.

Those planning to attend should call the Chamber office for reservations before noon Monday. The number is 263-7641. Hot coffee and good food will be plentiful.

The theme will be "Serving Luv All Over the Big Spring Area." Everyone attending should bring a friend.

Action/reaction: Why a trip?

Q. Lynn Hise and school board trustees went to Austin for the Griffin hearing. Why are they going to Austin at Taxpayer's expense if there are going to be no oral arguments?

A. Hise's answer was, "An item concerning the Big Spring Independent School District was on the State Board of Educator's agenda. The interest of our school district deemed it appropriate to have representation at the meeting."

Tops on TV: Tough choice

It's going to be a very tough choice for tube viewers tonight. It may even lead to divorce in many cases. Competing on the small screen tonight are that old (Civil) war horse, "Gone With The Wind," and the only film since "It Happened One Night" to win five Oscars, "One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest." The mammoth, three-hour "GWTW" begins at 6 p.m. on CBS. "Cuckoo's Nest" airs at 7 p.m. on NBC.

Calendar: Ladies Night

SUNDAY
The public is invited to attend an evening reminiscent of the turn-of-the-century era at the First Baptist Church, 6 p.m. The event includes entertainment, a picnic and "Best Dressed" awards for turn-of-the-century attire. Dressing up is optional.

The Community Theater will meet at the Howard College Auditorium at 7 p.m. All persons interested are urged to attend.

SUNDAY
Miniature Art Show open to the public at Citizen's Federal Credit Union, 701 East FM 700.

MONDAY
Evening Lions Club meets at Country Kitchen, Ladies Night, 7 p.m.
Miniature Art Show open to the public at Citizen's Federal Credit Union, 710 East FM 700.
The Coahoma Band Boosters will meet 30 minutes later than usual, at 8 p.m. in the Coahoma Band Hall.

Love sewed up What rhymes with Valentine?

EDITOR'S NOTE — Valentine's Day inspires tender thoughts, but not always of a lofty bent. Here's one message from wife to husband that's a good deal more down to earth than most.

By JO HARING
For The Associated Press

To My Valentine:

Sir: Roses may be red and violets may be blue, but this Valentine is done in eyeliner brown because the kids made off with all the pencils, the only functioning ballpoint pen went through the laundry and the dog ate all the crayons.

I had in mind to run out and buy you a silly, extravagant Valentine present, but I've mislaid the card keys.

Besides, the only cash in the house is locked up tight in a fail-safe piggy bank, under layers of dirty clothes in No. 1 son's closet.

Then I felt inspired, my love, to write you a romantic verse in celebration of all these Valentine Days together, all trimmed in hearts and flowers and lacy doo-dads.

But the only decorative items I could lay my hands on were the collection of tab tops in No. 2 son's room and an assortment of toothpaste caps in the bathroom medicine cabinet.

I might have gone ahead with the verse, but I couldn't figure out a rhyme for Valentine, breadwinner, dead battery, or Super Bowl. And I think somebody took my rhyming dictionary off to school to use as a prop for a play.

If I weren't all out of cake mix, I'd bake you a cake. I mean I would if No. 3 boy had not used our heart-shaped pan to house the turtle he won at the fair last week.

Anyway, there's no red food coloring for the icing because No. 1 boy used it all up to decorate the title page of his social studies report.

Anyway, my love, I did want you to know that I was thinking of you this Valentine's Day and to assure you that my feelings for you are deeper now than ever before, even though I long ago discovered that your feet of clay come equipped with sharp toenails that rip through the toes of socks and thin sheets.

And I felt like I should figure out some way to show my love.

So this is to inform you that in commemoration of this day of love I have done the following in your honor:

- I replaced the buttons on two shirts.
- I mended your tennis shorts.
- I cleaned out your sock drawer.
- And I fixed the pockets in three pairs of trousers.
- What more can I do
- To show my love for you.

Cave owners $150,000 suit hits stage meeting Midland, policeman

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — Some 44 members of the National Cave Association gathered here recently.

There are some 200 show caves in the country providing their owners with poor to rich incomes.

The association was formed 13 years ago when cave owners began to realize that as their numbers increased, visitors to caves were taking on a different attitude.

"They no longer think in terms of fantasy and Donald Duck," says Steve Fairchild, who owns two caves in California. "They want to know everything about them, how they were formed and what's going on."

The civil suit was filed by Luann Bearden, mother of the youth. Mrs. Bearden claims Garner was at the wheel of a city-owned vehicle that struck and fatally injured her son, Mrs. Bearden is seeking $150,000.

A police department investigation of the incident

MIDLAND—The City of Midland and policeman Terry Garner have been named defendants in a suit which alleges negligence in the June 28, 1978 death of Joe Bearden, 18.

Investigators said that Bearden was lying in a road almost totally obscured by dust when Garner drove onto the scene while answering a call. The incident occurred at night.

Mrs. Bearden is being represented by an Odessa attorney, Tom Snead. The victim's father, Midland attorney Bobby Bearden, is not a party to the suit.

Rebel hunts pot in school

DALLAS (AP) — Rebel, a Labrador puppy who has had six months of intensive training on how to sniff out marijuana, has been walking down school hallways here lately.

His services have been used by the Dallas Independent School District and other area school districts — at $50 to $100 per school visit — in an attempt to discover marijuana on campus and to discourage youngsters from bringing something extra in their lunch bags.

Ever since a group of parents suggested to the school board that Dallas experiment with the pot-sniffing dog, school district officials said, they have approached the entire matter with extreme caution.

"We've been through the lockers. We don't go into the cars," said Bob Bourdene.

Federal Judge Wood, four others named in $20 million suit

ODESSA — Byron F. Patterson, Odessa, has filed a $20 million suit in federal court here against Federal Judge John H. Wood Jr., and four others, alleging that the U.S. government is conspiring to convict him on income tax evasion and of being a 'tax protester.'

Patterson was indicted Dec. 15 on three counts of tax evasions. The plaintiff is also alleging that Judge Wood signed an order prohibiting Mrs. Rita Duke from assisting him "in any way, manner or form" as counsel. Other defendants in the suit, as named in the petition, are Carroll Roy Thompson, Odessa, vice president of NDT Systems Inc., Odessa; Lester J. Clampett, Midland, comptroller for OIME Inc.; Edward D. Wentzchek, Lubbock, special agent for the Internal Revenue Service; and Logan Stroud, Tulsa, Okla., Parker Drilling Co., Tulsa.

Patterson is to go on trial here Monday on two counts of failure to supply tax information via IRS Form 1040 for 1975 and 1976 and on one count of filing false information on Form W-4E for tax years 1975 and 1976.

DISAPPEARING—Blowing snow nearly buries a car in Oklahoma City on Thursday. Winds gusting to 55 mph caused what the National Weather Service termed "ground blizzard conditions" as it blew fallen snow in blinding clouds. Hundreds of motorists were stranded and the National Guard and police helicopters were called out to rescue some.

Stacy dam testimony flowing to decision

The long and bitterly contested hearing on the application of the Colorado River Municipal Water District to impound a 554,000-acre-foot lake on the Colorado River near Stacy, 26 miles southeast of Ballinger, moved Friday within one step of a final decision by the Texas Water Commission.

Briefs were filed Friday evening by the CRMWD attorneys and those representing the Lower Colorado River Authority, the chief opponent of the proposed permit. Next Friday, Chairman Felix McDonald and Commissioners Joe R. Carroll and Dorsey B. Hardeman may ask questions and hear short arguments.

O.H. Ivie, general manager for the CRMWD, remained optimistic that there will be an early and favorable decision on the permit application.

"Despite a prolonged and tedious hearing which covered more than 50 days, I am convinced that our attorneys and engineers demonstrated clearly that there is and will be a need for more water to sustain the upper Colorado Basin and the Permian Basin in the not too-distant future, and that the Stacy project will meet that need for the next 50 years.

"I think we have shown that the lower Colorado Basin has more than enough water resources of its own to meet its projected needs for the next half century, especially if the LCRA operates henceforth as it says it will — no releases for hydroelectric power generation unless to meet downstream rights. This could have a stabilizing effect on Highland Lake levels and benefit people around them."

Ivie said he is confident testimony has shown that the Stacy reservoir is the last hope of a major surface water supply for the 17-county area served now or to be served by the CRMWD in the future.

"We are nearing the limits of our permitted quantities of water now, and by 1990 the situation could be uncomfortably close without the prospect of the new Stacy supply," he said.

'Happy face' inspection

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A "happy face" which becomes distorted when wet has been unveiled here as part of an effort to help prevent costly water-stain damage on aluminum-coil shipments.

Part of a new labeling and packaging program, the "happy face" is a moisture-alert label that detects potential moisture problems.

"The left eye of the face is printed with a special ink which becomes distorted or irregular or runs when we," explained J.E. Ward, sales and product manager for Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. "It signals the need for inspection."

'The Texas money maze' biggest game in Austin

By SCOTT CARPENTER and JIM DAVIS
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — We're designing a new game called "The Texas Money Maze: Preparing the State Budget."

That may sound dull, but wait until you read the directions before rejecting it as this year's Christmas present.

As part of the fun, players assume roles as state officials and react predictably to situations determined by the cards dealt to them.

Roles are distributed by a throwing of dice. That's necessary because everyone wants to be governor — which, of course, is the real objective of the game.

The governor is handicapped early in the play by being able to move only sideways on the game board. But he gets to use psychological warfare by shouting "Tax cut!" during each move. This is of questionable effectiveness, but it's lots of fun.

Early in the game, the governor pulls from his sleeve a card marked "Governor's Budget" and throws it on the game board.

The other players ignore it. Two other characters are the lieutenant governor and speaker. They control the early play by running the Legislative Budget Board, which proposes the first budget. They also pull various strings throughout the game.

The lieutenant governor looks wisely sad and shakes his head slowly every time the governor shouts "Tax cut!"

The speaker occasionally moves over to pat the governor on the back. He looks interested but uncertain when the governor shouts "Tax cut!"

In the second phase of the game, the lieutenant governor and speaker don't make any direct moves on the game board.

The lieutenant governor holds a string attached to the Senate Finance Committee chairman. The speaker does the same to the House Appropriations Committee chairman. They use the strings to control play.

As in chess, the chairman pawns plod forward one space at a time — to take the heat for the real powers and to be sacrificed if anything goes wrong with the game plan.

Each chairman pawn and his committee sub-pawns produce another budget proposal.

Then the audience is divided into two camps. Men wearing three-piece suits and smoking pipes become senators. Men in double-knits who bum cigarettes automatically become House members, as do most men and minority players.

The game gets exciting as each House member tries to get some play money for a pet project. Senate members look on with disdain, having worked out all their deals in committee.

Each group produces a budget proposal that smells like pork and is shaped like a barrel. Each group holds its collective nose when judging the other's proposal.

That puts the whole mess into another phase where the group leaders gather some pawns around them and reach a compromise plan after much huffing and puffing.

Suddenly, the governor player comes back into the game, carrying a large pencil. All players watch him and hold their breaths to see what he will do.

He can smile and sign his name — perhaps after trimming some fat off the pork — or he can frown and stamp "veto" on the whole barrel.

If he smiles, everyone cheers and goes out for a beer. If he frowns, everyone moans and starts the game over.

And by this time, even ardent fans of this play-money game may find the whole process tedious. Maybe we should redesign the game.

A torch to the future

Theme for Black History Week

"History — A Torch To The Future" is the theme for Black History Week, a time set aside by the Federal government to honor members of the Black race. Garland E. Evers, director of the Big Spring VA Medical Center, said Feb. 11-17 has been designated Black History Week.

A special service in the Medical Center Chapel will begin the week's activities. Speaker will be Robert Lewis Palmore, minister of the NW Third Street Church of Christ in Big Spring. Palmore, who holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Ministry and Evangelism, is presently working toward a Masters Degree in Bible Studies. He is originally from Richland, Ga., and before moving to Big Spring, was Youth Director for the North 10th and Treadway Church of Christ in Abilene.

Music at today's service will be provided by the Spiritual Echoes, a gospel singing group. Members are Charles Green, Debra Green, Jeannie Clark, Hebrew and Vivian Jones, Ulis and Frances Johnson, Robert and Charlett Palmore, Elmira Foreman, Jesse Myles, U.C. and Jewel Mathew, Wanda Winters, Cynthia Moore, Vickie Johnson and Bertha Jolley.

During Black History Week at the Medical Center, there will be special lobby displays featuring African artifacts, Black music, and information on Black history. Special poster displays will spotlight Black employees, and informational film strips will be shown throughout the week for patients, employees and guests.

An employees' salad luncheon will be held on Thursday and the keynote speaker will be Mrs. Essie L. Person. Mrs. Person is state president of the Texas Association of Women's and Girls Clubs, Incorporated. She will speak on the week's theme, "History — A Torch To The Future."

Coordinators for Black History Week at the VA Medical Center are Ms. Linda Chamberlin and Ms. Sandra Sawyer.

Busy schedule ahead for Scouts, leaders

Scout members and leaders have a busy schedule ahead for activities and training.

Details were outlined at the Lone Star district committee meeting Thursday evening at the First Presbyterian Church. At the meeting, Chairman Bob Hurt announced that Bill Little will be representing the district and council in taking this special training are invited to come also. Reservations may be made through Loren Lewis (7-5426).

Scouter training will be Feb. 24 at the Scout Center in Midland from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., and for Scoutmasters at the same place. District officers will have their sessions the same day at Midland's Memorial Christian Church. The outdoor session for Scouters will be March 3-4 at Florey Park in Andrews. After the Feb. 24 meetings, the Scout Center will be dedicated formally at 5 p.m. Eagle Scouts of 1978 will be recognized in a banquet Feb. 23 at Midland.

Tickets for the Scout Exposition (April 21) will be distributed at the March 1 Scouter masters Rounable. As usual, prizes will go to the top selling units and boys. The exposition will be in Highland Mall as in the past, said Clem Jones, chairman.

Cubs will have their district championships in the Pinewood Derby at the First Methodist Church April 7. A Fun-O-Ree campout will be held March 17 at the Scout grounds in Silver Heels addition, and Cubs and Dads, along with Scouts will be invited. Any boy interested in becoming a scout or Cub is invited to come and bring his Dad.

Statistic about which Texas doesn't brag

An estimated 283,000 children aged 14 and under face a bleak prospect in Texas during 1979. The Criminal Justice Center of Sam Houston State University in Huntsville says that many are likely to be the victims of child abuse during the year.

Numbers numb, there's no doubt about that, but the statistics are shocking. A total of 1,339 Texans participated in the study, which was designed to measure the extent of child abuse and neglect in the state, as well as what the people of Texas would like to see done about the problem of child abuse and neglect.

A TOTAL OF 14.3 per cent of the respondents reported they were abused or neglected as children. Also, 8.5 per cent said their children had been abused or neglected and 16.7 per cent reported abuse or neglect of neighbors' children.

Regarding the reported cases of child abuse, it was found that 67 per cent had experienced emotional abuse, 54 per cent physical abuse, 37 per cent sexual abuse and 26 per cent had experienced neglect.

Moreover, 96 per cent of the physical abuse cases and 93 per cent of the sexual abuse cases were accompanied by some kind of emotional abuse.

Of the respondents who reported they had been abused as children, 57 per cent reported physical abuse, 54 per cent sexual abuse, 67 per cent emotional abuse and 26 per cent neglect. Many of the respondents reported three or more types of abuse occurred. However, only one-fourth reported the abuse to anyone. The primary reasons for not reporting were fear of retribution, not knowing who to report to or a belief that other children were treated the same way.

Of the respondents who reported their own child had been abused, only one-fifth indicated that alcohol was even a factor in their actions.

THE FINDINGS also revealed that less than a half of the abuse or neglect cases involving the children of close friends or neighbors were reported. (People just don't want to get involved).

In many such cases, the people who knew about such incidents said they did not know how to enter complaints. Others said they believed others would control the situation. A fear of reprisals and lawsuits was also voiced.

How should such cases be handled? Many think the criminal justice division should move in. Others reason abusing parents should accept counseling from qualified individuals. Still others are of the opinion the problem could be handled by a minister.

Regardless of who the respondents felt should be responsible for the abusing adult, the study did reveal a strong concern that not enough is being done with this type person.

Shovel it!

Around the rim

Cities in North Texas and "Little Dixie" in Oklahoma are having severe problems with snow removal. One official in Durant, Okla., asked, "Where do you put it?" Shovel it!

Weathermen say the reason they don't always get the forecast right is because the weather is impulsive.

Does that mean we need forecasters who aren't so calculating?

A MOTORIST in Chicago went to a lot of trouble to shovel out a parking area in front of his house and then found another car in it. He smashed out the car windows with his snow shovel.

Any red-blooded American would have done the same.

It's too bad we can't send some of our ice and snow to Chiquita. She no doubt is tired of bananas and could use a little chilly.

Why do we always write something down.

Why not up? Come to think of it, there are writings but to write up, first you must write down.

Jimmy Carter and Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao Ping had a long conversation and Teng made one thing clear.

He didn't come over here for peanuts.

Teng made a good impression on Congress but there were a few diehards who weren't tickled pink.

A lot of senators weren't invited to the state dinner for Teng which irritated them since President Carter keeps asking them to pass the SALT.

THE REASON OUR government arranged a visit by Teng to the Boeing plant in Seattle is because China has ordered a couple of the huge planes.

And we wanted him to see for himself that they weren't made in Taiwan.

I'd feel a lot more comfortable about Teng's visit if he hadn't brought with him another prime minister whose name is "Fang."

On another front (or is it back to back), Khomeini's triumphal return to Iran was in the nature of a message to the Shah:

Blocking Washington

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — You probably saw it on television, if you weren't there in person — hundreds of farmers and their tractors clogging the highways, blocking thousands of people trying to get into Washington. There was no problem identifying the farmers, but who were those people in the automobiles? Was it important for them to get to work? Would the country be better off if they never made it to their offices? You be the judge.

Hertford Meeghan was the fellow in the blue Cadillac creeping along behind the big Deere reaper on Route 395. Hertford was a lawyer with Fish, Bass, Pike and Herring. He had a 9 o'clock appointment with Rutherford Club, president of United Express, who was planning to take over Merriweather Communications, which would make United the largest conglomerate south of the Missouri River. The Justice Department was against the merger so Hertford had been hired by Club to make Justice change its mind.

IN PANIC, HERTFORD yelled at the farmer on the Deere tractor that it was a matter of life and death that he get to his office. But all the reaper driver cared about was how much he would get for a bushel of wheat. Because of the farmer's selfishness, Meeghan's firm lost a $100,000 legal fee and Club went back to his 78-story office building in Chicago, a broken and bitter man.

Remember the white 1973 Ford stuck behind the big yellow bulldozer on the 14th Street bridge? The man inside the Ford was Willy Dobkin, who was on his way to the Department of Energy to finish up a report on the cause of backfires in exhaust pipes of motorcycles. Zenker, his boss, was waiting for the report which he planned to initial and send on to Malestrom, who had ordered the data to supplement a memo he was sending to Fitzgray, apropos of a conversation the two had had in the department's cafeteria a month ago.

Fitzgray, who was Malestrom's superior, had said, "I wonder what makes motorcycles backfire?" "Funny you should mention it," Malestrom said. "That's exactly what my people have been working on. I'll get the data to you by Feb. 5."

So now it was D-Day and while Dobkin perished behind the bulldozer on the 14th Street bridge, Zenker was taking a tongue-lashing from Malestrom, who was expecting a call from Fitzgray at any moment. Dobkin thought to himself, "The trouble with farmers is they don't give a damn about the government. All they ever think about is making a profit on buttermilk."

I'M SURE MOST of you who were watching David Brinkley the other night wondered about the man who was fuming in his 1978 Volvo at the farmer blocking him on Pennsylvania Avenue and 19th Street. The man was Dilworth Coldstream, the syndicated columnist and pundit, whose immortal words are read by millions of newspaper subscribers. Dilworth had just finished breakfast with one of his contacts at the Pentagon, who had leaked secret information that the Soviets were working on a new weapon. Instead of using a large cement site to launch a missile, they were developing a missile which would launch hundreds of tons of wet cement. Because Dilworth was stuck in traffic, he missed his deadline, and since the column did not appear until Friday, it was too late for Congress to vote an additional billion dollars for an anti-cement warfare program.

Kidneys can be high blood pressure culprit

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can you explain for me how the kidneys can cause high blood pressure? My doctor suspects this problem with me and wants to run tests. What does one's "renin level" refer to? — N.B.

The kidneys can be at fault in high blood pressure. Kidneys produce a substance called "renin," which is one of several hormones that "tell" the nervous system how to control things like blood vessel tone and heart rate. Blood vessel tone is an important factor in high blood pressure.

The kidneys normally produce just the correct amount of renin, but a kidney disease may result in overproduction. If high blood pressure results it is called "renal hypertension."

Very complex chemical tests can tell which of the two kidneys is diseased by the amount of renin leaving the kidneys' veins. Or the doctor may find the renin production normal. Some persons with high blood pressure have normal renin production. In other cases such factors as salt and potassium levels can affect renin. Certain drugs can, too. In fact, renin test readings may vary depending on whether a person is standing or lying down. So it is a most difficult substance to measure.

But if your kidneys are causing high blood pressure by making too much renin, stronger than normal medicine will be needed and you will require close supervision.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Would you please tell me if digitalis is a diuretic? — M.L.

That's not what it is used for, but it can be a diuretic in a roundabout way.

The drug's purpose is to increase the force of the heart's pumping action. When this happens there is an increased blood flow throughout the body. Since blood not only nourishes but clears the system of undesired substances, there can thus be increased urination and general clearing of any congestion present.

A true diuretic works differently. It increases the amount of urine produced by the kidneys. Diuretics, in fact, are frequently used along with digitalis.

Dear Dr. Ruble: About how much salt should a person get in a day? — B.L.D.

Considerably less than he's probably getting — if he is a typical American. About three grams a day is recommended for the average adult to stay healthy, a bit more if he is engaged in vigorous work or exercise. Three grams is about a half a teaspoon. An average hotdog might contain half that amount, so you see how easy it is to overdo on salt.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I care for my 90-year-old mother at home. The only real problem is that she refuses to let me shampoo her hair and is most adamant about it. I hate to see her scalp dirty. I can brush it, but I am worried about what will happen if she continues to prevent us from washing it. Any suggestions? — J.D.

There are powder shampoos you can use that she might accept. You apply it before brushing. They won't accomplish the same thing as regular shampoos but they do remove oils and perspiration and leave the hair clean.

Dear Dr. Ruble: In a recent column dealing with epilepsy the statement was made that: "It is not a sign of mental illness and no longer need be relegated to the closet." Perhaps you may feel I am nit-picking, but I feel you implied that mental illness SHOULD be relegated to a closet. This slight implication by a widely-read physician only adds to the dread of mental illness by the general public. Thanks for writing such a helpful daily dose of advice. — W.J.D.

It was an unfortunate choice of words. Your point is well-made.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am on a sugar-free diet. Does this mean I can eat all of the dietetic food I want, or are there precautions with that, too? — D.M.

You can eat the dietetic food, but you can't eat it to your heart's content. It has to be accounted for, as with the diabetic on a strict dietary program. Sugar, in the real sense, doesn't come from the sugar bowl alone. It is present in some form in all foods (protein, carbohydrates, fats). Foods marked "dietetic" have no sugar added. They may be artificially sweetened. But peaches, for example, while they may not be packed in syrup, do contain natural sugar which has to be taken into account.

If you are a diabetic you need some precise recommendations about diet. You seem a bit confused about it all.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Ruble, in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

World we live in is topsy-turvy

An article appealing in a farm publication suggests steak is replacing hamburgers as a part of the American diet because of the ballooning costs of utility beef carcasses.

Such meat, it seems, has been selling for ten cents more a pound than Choice beef.

It's another indication that nothing makes sense anymore. Time was when the chief lure about buying pork was that it was cheaper than beef. Nowadays, the hog is the animal that is jumping over the moon.

WHY SUCH ACTIVITY should be punished by summary execution, the Romero administration did not say. The priest, Father Octavio Ortiz Luna, and the other victims had not been armed; nor had they offered any resistance to the security police.

In fact, according to several sources, no illegal activity of any kind was going on in the retreat center. A youth seminar was being conducted as part of the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity declared by the Catholic Church hierarchy.

An eyewitness gave this account to our reporter Bob Sherman: "While I was still asleep, uniformed members of the security forces violently entered the retreat center firing their weapons. Behind them came a large olive green military vehicle, a small tank and an army jeep, which were parked in the center of the conference grounds."

The eyewitness, a co-director of the seminar, found Father Ortiz Luna's body "lying in a pool of blood, with blood still flowing from his head." The co-director denied that any conspiracy against the state had ever been held at the center. "nor has there ever been any doctrine taught that is contrary to public order."

Ortiz Luna was the fourth priest to be killed in the two years since the right-wing regime of President Romero came to power. An unreleased report by the human rights commission of the Organization of American States concludes that the Romero government has been systematically persecuting the church.

CONFRONTATIONS BETWEEN clergy and state are not uncommon in Latin American dictatorships. Often, however, it is only the poorer priests

Church persecution

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Before dawn on Jan. 20, in a suburb of San Salvador, uniformed agents of El Salvador's dictator Carlos Humberto Romero burst into a Roman Catholic retreat center and sprayed the area with machine-gun fire.

Four young people and a 31-year-old priest were killed; more than 30 others, many in their teens, were arrested, interrogated and charged with "subversive acts" against the Romero regime. The government claimed that the Catholic center was being used for peasant organizing activities which had been declared illegal.

Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero (no relation to the dictator) is considered the champion of human rights for the 5 million — mostly Catholic — population of the country. The Sunday after Ortiz Luna's murder, the archbishop suspended all masses in the country and delivered a homily castigating the Romero regime. His overflow congregation numbered 10,000, and millions more heard his denunciation on the radio.

Archbishop Romero has gone even further than attacking the administration on human rights. He has called for redistribution of the land, nearly 60 percent of which is now owned by less than 2 per cent of the population.

Obviously considering the archbishop a threat, the government has sought to undermine his influence by linking him to left-wing revolutionary groups.

Archbishop Romero's supporters in this country and in Britain have nominated him for the Nobel Peace Prize. Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., himself a Catholic priest, is circulating a letter among his congressional colleagues urging support for the Nobel nomination. The aluminum industry over the government's jurisdiction in the case. If the might force the Romero regime to at least soften its repressive measures.

HOT LINES: If your home was built between 1965 and 72, it may have electric wiring that government experts consider a serious fire hazard.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission has evidence that aluminum wiring, when attached to switches or outlets intended only for copper wiring, can eventually "creep" its way loose and cause sparking and fire. The peculiar expansion-contraction quality of aluminum wiring that causes this creeping was known to be a potential danger as long ago as 1952. Yet it wasn't until 1971 that the aluminum industry issued special precautionary instructions.

New prexy of UT is 'nobody's man'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Peter T. Flawn, new president of the University of Texas at Austin, is "nobody's man" and knows all the ins and outs of the complex UT system, according to acquaintances.

Some call him "low-key," "cool" and even "not colorful," but all agree he is academically and administratively prepared for the mammoth job of governing the 40,000-student university.

At UT-Austin he has taught, headed the Bureau of Economic Geology for 10 years and served as vice president for academic affairs and then executive vice president.

"He was nobody's man, at a time when a whole lot of top level administrators knew where their bread was buttered and acted accordingly," said a UT student leader.

One of his former lieutenants said Flawn, despite his science background, is "a strong promoter of the humanities. He's very strong in defense of liberal arts, of general educational requirements."

Another said he believes in involving faculty in academic decisions as much as possible — "but in advisory capacity. He retains the decision for himself."

In 1973 Flawn was named president of UT-San Antonio, which was beginning its operations as a state university. He set about working with the community and other higher education institutions. His empathy with the Mexican culture went a long way with Mexican-American leaders.

He gets high praise for "fantastic efficiency," a reputation helped by a photographic memory and a willingness to put in long hours, said one who worked with him in San Antonio. Flawn left San Antonio last January to return to Austin and resume research and teaching. He was named acting director of the UT Marine Science Institute at Port Aransas and acting chairman of the department of marine studies at UT-Austin.

Friends say that years of working on geologic and mining projects in West Texas and Mexico has instilled in him a love for the outdoors — for camping, fishing and hunting. He speaks Spanish fluently.

WTCC to host Congressmen on March 5

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce will host its 13th annual Washington Reception and Dinner honoring the Texas Congressional Delegation Monday, March 5, in the nation's capitol, according to Joe A. Kloesel of Midland, Chairman of the WTCC's National Affairs Committee.

WTCC President W. G. Marquardt of Fort Worth reports that the initial response from the Texas Congressional Delegation has been great, with a majority of the elected officials planning to be in attendance.

Activities will begin with a Legislative Briefing Breakfast on issues of current interest to West Texas featuring representation from Sen. John Tower and Con. Jim Wright's offices, as well as The White House. Following the breakfast, WTCC members and their guests will have the remainder of the day to visit on Capitol Hill with their congressmen and senators.

The dinner program will feature the traditional informal format which will include plenty of West Texas hospitality. In addition, selected West Texas products will be presented the honored guests.

Mrs. Ada Reid on 'go' at 86

Mrs. Ada Reid of Southern Illinois is the house guest of Mrs. Hazel Lamar and Mr. and Mrs. H.M. Underwood.

Mrs. Reid is the mother of Mrs. Underwood. Mrs. Reid gave up housekeeping in 1977 and is now residing with her other daughters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Joe (Louise) Fugate of Kalamazoo, Mich., and with Mrs. Bryan (Gaynelle) Hill of Chicago, Ill.

Ada, as she prefers to be called, is beginning to feel that she is a jinx wherever she goes, as evidenced by the weather of the past two winters. She spent the winter of 1977-78 in Kalamazoo and a record for snowfall and the longest time the snow remained on the ground were set.

This winter, 1978-79, while living in Chicago, the same records were set for that city.

Ada says she now feels that the jinx has been broken because the day that she was due to arrive at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport snow had fallen most of the day. By the time her plane landed, however, the snow first turned to rain and then the clouds cleared, enabling the pilot to land without incident.

Mrs. Reid is 86 years of age and her only hobby, she says, is 'go.'

Shootout survivor back in court

HOUSTON (AP)—Ignacio Cuevas, the lone convict survivor of the 1974 Texas prison escape shootout that left four persons dead, goes back into a state district courtroom in Houston Monday to be tried for the second time on charges of murdering a hostage.
 Judge Miron A. Love will preside as he did in the spring months of 1975 when a jury convicted Cuevas and sentenced him to death.
 Defense attorney Will Gray once again will represent Cuevas, who was on death row for almost four years.
 The chief prosecutor in that first trial—District Attorney Jerry Sandal—will be missing.
 Since that time, the area served by Sandal has been divided with Walker County having its own district attorney.

Judge Love had considered permitting the trial to be televised. But, he said Friday that televising the proceedings would violate the code of judicial conduct. The judge said he was disappointed that he could not televise the trial because "I am personally in favor of unencumbered First Amendment rights."
 Both the prosecution and the defense approved Love's preliminary plans to allow the trial to be televised. Love predicted it would take perhaps five weeks to select a jury. Graham said he expected the job to take three to four weeks.

 On July 24, 1974, Cuevas joined Fred Carrasco and Rudolph Dominques in the seizure of the top floor of the educational building of the Walls, a state prison unit near downtown Huntsville. They attempted to escape Aug. 3 using the hostages and the moveable shield.

 Gunfire erupted when guards and Texas Rangers sought to block the fleeing convicts.
 Carrasco and Dominques died.
 Mrs. Standley and another hostage, Mrs. Elizabeth Beseda, died.
 The jury in the first trial, nine men, three women, all Anglo, deliberated three hours before returning the guilty verdict.

 Then they argued for 20 hours over a three day period before setting the sentence as death.
 Cuevas, then 43 and the illiterate son of a Mexican peasant, was serving time for a murder in Pecos, Texas, when the escape was attempted.

 —Discussion of a county ambulance contract.
 —A discussion with N.L. Roll.
 —Appointment of members to volunteer fire stations.
 —The 1:30 p.m. opening of bids for gasoline, diesel and oil for the coming year.
 —A conference with County Engineer Bill Mims in regard to a right-of-way easement on Jeffrey Road.

Hustle rustlers

LONDON (AP) — Many English farmers lost animals in 1978, and the farming industry is taking action to curb rustling.
 Rewards as high as $20,000 are being offered for information leading to the conviction of rustlers.
 Figures compiled by the National Farmers' Union show losses last year amounted to several hundred thousand dollars.

Skullduggery, cheating

Nepotism exemption nipped by lawmakers

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Suspicious members of the House Public Education Committee successfully sidetracked Tuesday an East Texas legislator's attempt to allow school boards to hire relatives of school employees.
 Their doubts led the committee to send the bill to a subcommittee from which it may never emerge.
 One committee member said he feared the measure would weaken state nepotism laws which prohibit public officials from putting their family members on public payrolls.
 The bill's author, Rep. Bill Hollowell, denied his proposal was meant to do anything but expand the potential number of employees for school districts in lightly populated rural areas.
 Currently, the Texas Education Code prohibits school districts from hiring close relatives of school district employees.
 Hollowell maintained the law imposes a hardship on rural districts, some of which have teachers driving school buses because of the lack of available workers.
 "In some of these smaller districts," the Democrat from Grand Saline said, "You eliminate relatives and you're talking about half the work force."
 A better approach he suggested, is to allow school boards to pass resolutions exempting persons from nepotism restrictions when the board determines they are needed to fill jobs which have no other qualified applicants.
 Permanent teaching positions would not be open to relatives of school district employees under the Hollowell bill but openings for teachers' aides and school administrators would.
 Hollowell said his intent was primarily to benefit rural school districts. But because of possible "constitutional conflicts," he said the bill would be applicable statewide.
 The bill's potential effects worried two urban committee members, both of whom said the legislation might do more harm than good in their districts.
 Rep. Paul Elizondo, a former teacher in San Antonio, said the bill could keep school boards constantly in court fighting lawsuits over hiring practices.
 "I realize that (the nepotism prohibition) may represent a problem," Elizondo said, "but maybe that problem was designed to be there."
 Rep. Bill Blanton, R-Carrollton, said he, too, worried about the bill's legal implications. "It seems to me we're attacking the spirit of the nepotism law," he said.
 Hollowell argued the bill contained adequate safeguards against abuse. Requiring school boards to pass exempting resolutions, he said, "would prevent skullduggery and cheating."
 But committee members were not convinced. On Blanton's motion, they sent the bill to subcommittee for further study. There was no requirement, however, that it be reported out.
 Hollowell reacted angrily to the committee's action, stomping from the hearing room without conveying the normal polite farewell used between legislators.

Disorderly dreamer, workaholic

Einstein resented authority

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven years after Albert Einstein dropped out of school he was at work on his theories of relativity. Little more than a decade after a teacher told him he would never amount to anything, he started the world. Here, on the centennial of his birth, is a reflection on the man, the irony in his life, and his extraordinary vision.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

He looked at his teachers resentfully as sergeants and lieutenants. True, he was brilliant. But he could not bend to the discipline of the lecture room and leaned on a close friend for class notes.

Years later he compared himself with that dutiful friend.

"He was the irreproachable student, I myself disorderly and a dreamer. He on good terms with the teachers and understanding everything, I a pariah, discontented and little loved. . . Then the end of our studies — I was suddenly abandoned by everyone, standing at a loss on the threshold of life."

It hardly sounds like the man who would open the eyes of the world to a new notion of space and time, to the idea that energy and mass cannot be created or destroyed, but only transmuted from one form to another. Nor does it sound like the man whose thoughts would reach deep into the subatomic world and the universe at the same time.

This is the 100th anniversary of Albert Einstein's birth. More than 50 celebrations are planned from Ulm, Germany, his birthplace and where he was once exoriated, to India, from New York to Switzerland. He died at 76 and was cremated.

Einstein resented authority. He reached beyond the conclusions of others to the experimental work that led to those conclusions. Then he leaped far a head to new theory. His genius may have been as simple as rejecting past prejudice. Or it may have been as complicated as seeing beyond common reality to abstractions hardly anyone else could see.

Einstein's school record reflected his attitude toward the pedants who did the teaching. One teacher told the 15-year-old Einstein, "Your very presence spoils the respect of the class for me." He preserved that respect by dropping out.

He applied — without a high school diploma — to the Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich, Switzerland, and failed the entrance examination. But he acknowledged there was a price to be paid for pursuing his curiosity in physics and mathematics, and enrolled in a high school to catch up. At length he graduated from high school and the Federal Institute.

After a few odd jobs, he became an examiner of applications in the Swiss patent office in Bern. It was not exactly what he wanted, but it provided him with a lot of free time to examine his ideas about wave theories, light and the relationship of energy to mass.

He would later remember the patent office as "that secular cloister where I hatched my most beautiful ideas."

Those beautiful ideas did not find instant acceptance when published in 1905. As late as 1916, he wrote a colleague:

"Although for the moment the theory has many opponents the following fact consoles me: the general thinking capacity of its supporters entirely eclipses that of its opponents."

In a letter to a student, he wrote, "There is a very peculiar thing about scientific effort: Often it is merely a matter of seeing where it is not necessary to waste time and effort. On the other hand one must not go after goals which are easy to reach. One must try to get an instinct for what is still attainable by the utmost effort."

The celebrity that followed his pronouncements of special and general relativity and his famous E Equals MC Squared, even his 1921 Nobel prize, were burdens to Einstein.

He also wrote, "The only way to escape the personal corruption of praise is to go on working. One is tempted to stop and listen to it. The only thing is to turn away and go on working. Work. There is nothing else."

The emergencies of the special relativity theory in 1905 and of general relativity theory in 1916 were revolutionary. But physicists today point out that special relativity rescued classical physics by making it consistent with the known properties of light.

In his book, "Physics For Poets," Professor Robert March wrote: "Though Einstein's genius was quickly recognized and rewarded, relativity took a long time to gain truly general acceptance. This was particularly true in English-speaking nations, which have had a pragmatic style in physics that sometimes leads to a distrust of theoretical physics in general."

In general relativity, Einstein sought to analyze light as seen by moving and accelerating observers. He also sought to bring gravitation into play.

"The end result," wrote March, "was a complete reformulation of mechanics in which the concept of force, for all intents and purposes, disappears altogether. Instead, the action of fields is to destroy the very fabric of space itself, until a straight line is no longer the shortest path between two points."

For all of his reticence, Einstein spoke up on social and political issues of his times. With the rise of the Nazi party, he defended other academics in German courts. In 1933, with Hitler in power, Einstein fled Germany.

In the United States, he lent his prestige and his signature to a letter to President Franklin D. Roosevelt urging a program to develop an atomic bomb before the Germans could.

Yet his last public act before his death was to join with Bertrand Russell and others in an effort to ban nuclear weapons.

His religion was the mystery of the unknown. One can almost sense him rummaging through the pockets of his baggy sweater or through his desk drawer, searching for answers. He wrote: "I cannot conceive of a God who rewards and punishes his creatures, or has a will of the kind that we experience in ourselves."

"I am satisfied with the mystery of the eternity of life and with the awareness and a glimpse of the marvelous structure of the existing world, together with the devoted striving to comprehend a portion, be it ever so tiny, of the Reason that manifests itself in nature."

Tax return due soon for farmers

March 1 is the deadline for some farmers to file their 1978 federal income tax return and pay any tax due, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Persons who earned at least two-thirds of their 1978 gross income from farming and did not file a declaration of estimated federal individual income tax by January 15, 1979, or pay any amount of estimated tax by this date, must file their return and pay all tax due by March 1, 1979, to avoid a penalty.

IRS Publication 225, "Farmer's Tax Guide," and 505, "Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax," provide additional information and are available free from local IRS offices.

Utility savings misconception

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a misconception to think that utilities automatically give a customer the most preferential rate available, according to a utility-rate consulting firm.

The selection of rates is the customer's responsibility, says the National Utility Service.

Another common misconception, it says, is that state public service commissions establish utility rates and compel companies to see that each customer gets the lowest rate.

Scouts, Cubs can turn new members into cash for units

Scouts and Cubs can turn new members into dollars for their units during February.

Every Cub pack or Scout troop is urged to take part in the enlistment effort, said Bob Hurt, district chairman. Details can be had from Loren Lewis, Roundtable chairman, by calling 7-5426.

The Troop bringing in the most boys (provided the gain is 10 or more) will receive $75 in camping equipment for the unit. The Pack bringing in the most members (10 or more) will receive $50 in Cub training and program literature. The individual high recruiter for Scouts and Cubs (regardless if the unit meets the minimum for the big prize) will receive $12.50 each.

Installing Gas air conditioning now is a squirrely idea . . .

One you'll be nuts about this summer!

Some things are better planned ahead — ask any squirrel. Like gathering nuts. Or, getting your home ready in winter for summer's swelter. Install Gas air conditioning now, and you'll beat the rush that always comes with the first hot, dusty day. Then, while everybody else is all steamed up, waiting for overworked installers, you'll be cool, calm and collected . . . enjoying the comfort of efficient Gas air conditioning and the security of its full ten-year, no-sweat warranty.

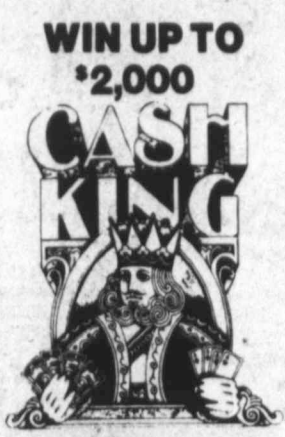

Gas air conditioning lasts and lasts with no loss of cooling capacity. That's because it's built with fewer moving parts and no compressor to break down or wear out. Heat from the steady blue flame circulates a refrigerant through the system to cool the air. It's this simple principle that gives Gas air conditioning its long life and easy maintenance.

Take a tip from the smart little squirrel. Plan ahead. Install Gas air conditioning this winter. You'll be nuts about it this summer.

Problem gets worse as time goes by

Review of Japanese trade 'deals' asked

By LLOYD BENTSEN
Member, U.S. Senate

More than a million Japanese-made automobiles and trucks are sold in the United States each year, yet Japan imports fewer than 50,000 vehicles from all countries.

In 1976 over 5 million color television sets were sold in Japan, but only 452 of these were imported.

Several Japanese JV manufacturers take advantage of cheap labor on Taiwan. Matsushita, Hitachi, Sanyo, Sharp and other companies have plants in Taiwan. They sell the TV sets made there throughout the world, but not in Japan.

Examination of just a few of Japan's trade policies explains why they export far more of their goods to other countries than they import from those countries.

In 1977 our trade deficit with Japan was about $8 billion. We sought and received assurances that they would act to correct the imbalance in 1978.

So, in 1978 our deficit with Japan rose by about 50 percent from the previous year, to $12 billion. The Japanese know that they have a trade problem with us, and they keep giving us assurances. But the problem only gets worse.

The Japanese concessions we've seen to date, in areas such as citrus and beef, are welcome. But they don't go nearly far enough. Confronted with a $12 billion trade deficit last year, we are offered a $250 million concession in beef and citrus by 1983.

When considering this "concession" we should remember that until very recently the Japanese limited their beef imports to the equivalent of one thin hamburger patty per person per year. Beef in Japan today sells for more than $20 a pound. It is small wonder they can afford to be generous.

We should understand that gaining access to the Japanese market is only half the problem. The Japanese buy our wheat through a government agency which then markets it for twice the price they paid, effectively discouraging consumption.

Fruit imported from the U.S. is controlled by a cartel that makes vast profits by marketing it up and selling it at several times cost.

The list goes on and on.

Last month I asked the General Accounting Office to conduct a thorough review of Japanese trade practices.

I want to know once and for all why American products — automobiles, TVs, fruit, wheat, whatever — get marked up in Japan to the point where they become uncompetitive. Under international pressure, the Japanese have been reducing their visible tariff barriers to trade, but then they just fall back to their next line of defense to stymie imports.

I have asked the GAO to complete this study by June so that I can begin hearings in the Joint Economic Committee shortly thereafter on Japanese trade practices.

If we confirm the evidence that Japan is discriminating against our exports or subsidizing its products abroad, the Japanese will either eliminate such discrimination or we will establish our own barriers to Japanese exports in the form of a surcharge or quotas.

Our friends — in Japan and other countries — should know that, if push comes to shove, the United States of America can survive a new era of protectionism better than most.

There is nothing we import from Japan that is vital to our national security or economic well-being. There is little we import from Japan that we can't produce in this country.

And if you are blind?

Driver's license not just for driving car

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — "May I see your driver's license?"

Chances are you've been asked that question many times. And chances are that usually it wasn't by a policeman but a store clerk.

The driver's license has become such a universal identification card that since last July Tennessee has been issuing similar cards for identification purposes to blind persons and others who cannot drive.

Jim Henderson, public relations director for the Department of Public Safety, said 424 of the $2 ID licenses had been issued so far.

Henderson said a study was under way on whether to add a photograph to licenses to further assist identification. Many states already require photos on licenses.

"It can be done," he said in a recent telephone interview. "If it is done it will have to be paid for by somebody."

He pointed out that the camerawork, processing and affixing the photos would probably require additional personnel.

The result would be to make the present driver's license more expensive. Tennessee's charge of $6 for a four-year license is one of the lowest in the nation, Henderson said.

"It's really not our business to provide identification as such," Henderson said. "Our business is to insure safety on the highways."

Nonetheless, a driver's license is almost as essential for check-cashing or buying as it is for driving.

Frank King, manager of the J.C. Penney store in Chattanooga's suburban Eastgate Shopping Center, said his store, as most large retail outlets, required both a driver's license and a credit card as identification for check-cashing, unless the person has a Penney's charge account.

Why the driver's license as opposed to some other identification?

"Most people travel by automobile, and it is against the law to drive without a driver's license... and in suburban shopping centers they have to arrive by automobile. Most people guard their driver's licenses jealously. It's about as good identification as you can get," he explained.

Some stores are even more demanding. One Chattanooga store photographs check cashers and another requires a thumb print.

Robert Turner, customer-service manager to Loveman's Department Store, said that without a driver's license or voter registration card and a credit card, a customer would have to know somebody in the store before he could buy with a personal check.

Many store clerks and bank tellers are inflexible on the license requirement.

One person who had been living abroad recently returned to Tennessee, where he had a bank account but not a driver's license. At his bank, when asked to produce identification, he handed over his passport.

"I'm sorry, sir, but this won't do," the teller said after looking it over. "I'll still need to see your driver's license."

Petroleum Museum Hall of Fame Dinner to honor five electees

U.S. Sen. Harrison H. Schmitt of New Mexico will be the principal speaker at the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum's 1979 Hall of Fame Dinner next Thursday at the Hilton Inn ballroom in Midland, at 7:30 p.m.

Schmitt, a Republican, was elected to the Senate in 1976 following 10 years with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration both as an astronaut and in administrative positions. He was the lunar module pilot on the Apollo 17 mission and landed on the moon in 1972.

He holds, in addition to other degrees, a doctorate in geology from Harvard University. His committee memberships in the U.S. Senate include Commerce; Science and Transportation; Banking; and Housing and Urban Affairs. He is vice-chairman of the Senate's Ethics Committee.

The invitation to speak at the museum dinner was extended through Congressman Harold Runnels of Hobbs, N.M., who has known of the museum since its earliest days.

Sen. Schmitt is expected to deal in his address with U.S. energy policy.

Known more familiarly as Jack Schmitt, he has visited Midland on other occasions, but this will be his first major appearance.

The Hall of Fame Dinner will honor five new electees, all deceased: J. Russell Lloyd of Midland, geologist; Ernest W. Marland, Ponca City, Okla., founder of Marland Oil Company; Arch and Charles Rowan, Fort Worth, founders of Rowan Enterprises; and William G. Skelly, Tula, whose Skelly Oil Company is now a part of Getty Oil.

Members of the Lloyd, Rowan and Skelly families are expected to attend, and Ms. E.W. Marland may be able to come, museum sources said.

Members of the museum are being given first opportunity to buy tickets, but tickets will be sold to the general public through the museum office at $11 each. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Energy Howard producer gauged

Florida Gas Exploration Co., Midland, No. 1-32 Stella Petty, in 32-33-1s-T&P, 3/4 mile south of the Moore field and four miles southwest of Big Spring, swabbed five barrels of oil, along with 37 barrels of water, in 6 1/2 hours from the Strawn.

Recovery was through perforations at 9,336-70 feet. Operator acidized with 500 gallons and was preparing to resume tests.

Earlier it tested through Fusselman perforations at 10,036-44 feet, making three barrels of oil and water in 14 hours; and through perforations at 10,079-89 feet, no gauges.

Zinke & Philpy, Inc., Midland, No. 1 Homan, one mile north of the same distance south-southwest and 1 1/4 miles northeast of production in the Moore (San Andres) field of Howard County, but separated by depleted producers, five miles west-southwest of Big Spring, was finaled to pump 48 barrels of 31 gravity oil, plus 12 barrels of water.

Production was through perforations 3,102-130 feet, which had been acidized with 6,000 gallons and fractured with 9,000 gallons and 12,000 pounds.

Location is 1,980 feet from the north and 1,000 feet from the west lines of 7-33-1s-T&P.

Joy Petroleum Corp., Midland, will drill the No. 1 Books as 2 1/2-mile northeast outpost to the Spraberry reopener of the Garden City, West multiphase field of Glasscock County, two miles south of Garden City.

$100,000 mistake triggers 17,000 mile 'run for money

EDITOR'S NOTE — For a while there, Charlie Walsh wasn't broke, in debt, retreating deeper into his shell. For a while there, he was touring the country in style. The good times are over, but he says they improved his life.

By MARK CRANE
Associated Press Writer
JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — After 55 years of being a "straight arrow," Charlie Walsh says he just didn't know how to be crooked. But when an unusual temptation beckoned, he yielded.

Walsh was down on his luck on Jan. 5, 1978. No family. No job. Few friends. More debt than he could handle. "Everything was going down the tubes for me."

He was a bachelor who had never earned more than $200 a week, and he owed $5,000 in back taxes on his house.

How bad was it? He had smoked cigarettes for 35 years, but quit cold turkey. "I was down to my last $12. It was either food or cigarettes."

But all that changed when a Commercial Trust Co. computer deposited $100,000 in his meager savings.

"I knew it was the bank's money, but you can't help but start to daydream," he says. "I was out of work for a couple of years, so I figured, 'What the hell. I'll take a chance.' What did I have to lose?"

So Walsh withdrew his $101,081.13 balance, bought a new car and took off. "I had a helluva ball," he says.

Walsh says he left New Jersey after he saw a newspaper article about the bank's mistake. He took a leisurely drive across the country, enjoying "the whole tourist bit."

"I wanted the money to last. I didn't want to blow the whole wad. I ate out in fancy restaurants a few times. But I still had many meals at McDonald's," he says. "You don't change your ways and become a playboy overnight."

He stopped in Las Vegas, where he cashed several dozen traveler's checks for $250 each. But he didn't do much gambling.

"I'm no fool. I didn't want to risk going to jail for one wild weekend," he says. "I put seven nickels into a slot machine and won $7, but I got bored with pulling that stupid handle."

Walsh wanted to settle in the Pacific Northwest, open a small hobby shop and have security for the rest of his life. But his luck ran out.

He was caught in Portland, Ore., on June 23, when police with "a new-fangled computer system" ran a spot check on the license plates of his car and learned he was a fugitive.

When he was arrested by the FBI, agents seized a satchel containing $74,000 in cash and two bank checks totaling $14,000. Walsh admits he went through $12,000 in 5 1/2 months.

Walsh now faces grand larceny charges and the bank is suing him for restitution. He's now on welfare, lives at the YMCA and is awaiting trial. But his "run for the money," he says, changed his life for the better.

"This whole thing brought me out of my shell. I was always pretty much of a loner. Now people on the street slap me on the back and say hello. And I'm friendlier."

Surgery eliminates need for teen to wear helmet

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — For the first time in more than 10 years, 14-year-old Katrina Ooms is able to go outdoors without a helmet, thanks to special surgery that "built" a forehead to protect her brain.

"It feels great," says the ninth-grader from Bethesda, Md. "There are the little things I've never been able to do before — like wear hats and earrings. I got two wool hats for Christmas. And I'm looking forward to going horseback riding."

Late last year Katrina underwent surgery in Tampa to reconstruct a portion of her skull that had been shattered by an auto accident at age 3. The accident left only skin to protect a section of brain.

Her forehead was slightly concave and soft like a baby's. Any puncture or bad fall could easily have caused brain damage, says her mother, Theodora. So Katrina had to wear football-style headgear for protection.

"I guess I got used to the helmets. I always wore them. But they were hot, especially in summer," Katrina said in a telephone interview from her Maryland home.

The operation was performed just after Thanksgiving. Katrina was able to return to Maryland in time to celebrate Christmas at home.

The Ooms' physician in New York had known of a new surgical technique being performed by two Tampa doctors and had referred the family to them.

"The field is a completely new frontier in reconstructive plastic surgery," says Dr. Mutaz Habal, who performed the surgery with Dr. Jack Maniscalco.

"We used the latest in space-age technology and polymer biochemistry. We made a template in the shape of her forehead and placed it right under the skin," Habal explained.

"Then we coated it with a paste that we grind in a special way from her own bones. This paste will revascularize, become diffused with tiny blood vessels from the surrounding tissue, and she will grow her own skull bone there," he said.

The plastic mesh template, which serves as a kind of tray in which the bone can form and grow, is attached to the existing bones of the skull or face with tiny screws that won't react with fluids in the central nervous system.

The bone transplanted to the template came from Katrina's ribs and hip. Katrina has a slight limp, but Habal said the "borrowed" bone will grow back completely in a year or two.

Torture widespread

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration reported Saturday an "increasing awareness" of human rights around the world in 1978, but torture and suppression of dissent remain widespread.

The assessment was made in the State Department's annual report on human rights in the 115 countries which receive U.S. aid or buy U.S. weapons. The report is required by Congress each year.

The picture of human rights painted by the report is incomplete because it does not cover some of the countries most often accused of human rights violations, including the Soviet Union, China, South Africa, Rhodesia, Argentina, Chile, and Uruguay. Those countries receive no American arms or aid.

In Egypt, it found that "bribery is a fact of life," and that the press is "under government influence."

Church inquiry shapes

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — United Pentecostal Church state officials will open a formal hearing March 6 on allegations filed against an embattled Sherman pastor by two other ministers.

Colleagues and church members have contended the Rev. Charles E. Glass has engaged in conduct unbecoming a minister.

Glass has declined to comment on the allegations.

'Double nickel' favored

By the Associated Press

While more than a dozen states are discussing abolishing the 55 mph speed limit, a new Associated Press-NBC News poll shows that a majority of Americans want to keep the "double nickel."

It's been five years since they first posted those 55 mph speed limit signs — the "double nickel" in CB slang — and anyone who drives farther than the county line knows they don't slow down a lot of folks.

So perhaps Capt. Mike Feldenhause of the Washington state police put it best: "In the biggest survey of all, out on the highway, people don't support it with their right foot."

'Blondie' edges 'Snuffy Smith'

'Dennis' tops with readers

If there was ever any doubt about the most popular comic strip in The Herald, a recent poll of readers eliminated the suspense.

More than 150 readers, who obviously read the comic sections regularly, took part in the poll. Readers either mailed in their ballots or brought them by the newspaper.

Quite obviously, a lot of households in the Big Spring area identify with Hank Ketchum's "Dennis The Menace." Of those who participated in the poll, 90 per cent said they followed the antics of Dennis on a daily basis and another four per cent revealed they scanned the strip sometimes. Only six per cent insisted they never bothered with the impish Dennis.

Exactly the same pattern showed up among readers of Sunday comics — 90 per cent also seek out Dennis on the Sabbath. Four per cent give it an occasional once over while six per cent manage to ignore it all the time.

"Blondie" edged out "Snuffy Smith" for the No. Two spot in the poll while "Beetle Bailey" and "Peanuts" tied for fourth in the balloting among readers on a daily basis.

"Blondie" rallied 85 per cent of the readers on a daily basis and that level of interest is also manifested in the Sunday panel. Another 11 per cent occasionally look in on Blondie's daily problems while only four per cent insist they "pay it no mind." Identical reading patterns hold true for the Sunday panel.

"Snuffy Smith" finished only one percentage point behind "Blondie" among daily readers but was nosed out by followers of "Peanuts" in the comic section Sunday.

New VAMC Volunteer Services Chief

Rouleau loves music, people

By CARLA WALKER
The new Volunteer Services Chief at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Medical Center has interest in just about every sport, art and recreational activity, and he plans to put those interests to work for the patients at the VAMC.

Joseph E. Rouleau, a native of Woonsocket, R.I., has taken over the Voluntary Services position, as well as that of public relations officer. The job was recently vacated after the resignation of Dene Sheppard.

"If we were going to lose someone of Dene's caliber," said VAMC director Garland Evers, "we could ill-afford to replace her with someone who didn't have the capability for innovative leadership shown by Rouleau in his association with the VA."

Rouleau transferred from the VAMC in Allen Park, Mich., the same hospital from which Evers recently came to Big Spring.

"I knew of his work at Allen Park, as the Chief of recreation and an intern in the Voluntary Service office there, and I felt that his qualifications and his attitude would give him a headstart as he took over the excellent program which was developed by Dene," said Evers.

Rouleau's home was in Providence, R.I., and he attended schools on the East Coast including Mt. St. Charles Academy, Assumption College, Hill College and University of Rhode Island where he studied Business Administration, Management, Accounting, psychology, philosophy, history, electronics, languages and music.

He has studied music since the age of six, and his studies included percussion instruments, orchestra-band conducting, music composition and theory. He spent three summers at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., studying advanced conducting techniques. He has conducted many bands, community choirs and orchestras, youth chorales, and taught music. He was a military Band Master for eight years in the U.S. Army and traveled extensively throughout the country on concert tour.

"My family is French, very strong in the Arts," said Rouleau. "It was almost a prerequisite for the children to perform, be involved actively in some form of the arts. An aunt of mine was a violinist in the Rhode Island Philharmonic in the 1940s, and also performed for three years with the Houston Symphony.

"I have two sisters, one is a singer who has, on several occasions, performed with Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra, and the other was a concert pianist, although she has since gone into hospital work because of the travel involved in the concert tours," said Rouleau.

"I see, when I look at the rear area of the VAMC here, the perfect arena for outdoor summer concerts for the patients," said Rouleau. "I mean all kinds of music, performed right here."

"In the community, I see the potential to get Big Spring included in the tour

Rouleau began the novel a year ago, and hopes to have it ready for publication by 1980.

Sports which Rouleau enjoys participating in include ice skating, hockey, baseball, skiing, electronics and outdoor activities such as camping.

He says that coming to Big Spring wasn't a letdown in any way, in spite of the fact that hockey and skating are two activities he won't be able to pursue here.

"I just love the people," said Rouleau. "While I was in the Army, I think I became a converted Texan. I spent four years at Mineral Wells, and I always said if I ever had the chance to come back, I'd grab it."

"The people are so friendly and nice everywhere — at stores, restaurants, on the streets and anywhere I look," said Rouleau. "I think I've always been a small town boy at heart, but it just took me a few years to find where my heart was."

Rouleau has had 15 years with the Veterans Administration and a total of 25 years of Federal service. He began work immediately on the activities he has planned for the Big Spring VAMC.

"Besides the music, I'd like to do several things," said Rouleau. "I would like to increase the number of volunteers, and I would like to begin a medical incentive program with students from the high school and college doing everything from lab work to administrative and medical work in a credit program at the VAMC."

"I believe that any time we can interest students in the medical profession — both administrative work and studies of medicine — we are investing in the future," said Rouleau.

"Personally, I think the VAMC has offered me a great opportunity, and I'd like to see that others know the opportunity is there. The VA has been one of the finest experiences of my working career."

"Where else," asked Rouleau, "could I have the opportunity to use my talents in music and recreation to the extent that I can with the VA? Personally, I cannot see myself doing anything else."

Police Beat — Strangers rob man

Gil Mireles, 1107 W. 7th, was beaten and robbed by a pair of mysterious strangers, 11:55 p.m. Friday.

According to reports, Mireles had pulled up to a stop sign in his car on the 300 block of West Second when he was bumped from behind by another car. When he got out to survey the damage, the two occupants of the other car jumped him, and stole a .38 caliber pistol, a watch and $10 in cash from the inside of his car.

A 1972 Pontiac spent a rough few hours away from its owner, Saturday.

The Pontiac four-door owned by Laquita Watson, 1406 E. 15th, was stolen from the front yard of her residence around 12:20 a.m. Saturday. The keys had reportedly been left inside the car.

Then at 2:46 a.m. Saturday, police responded to a hit-and-run accident on the 1100 block of N. Alyford. The car that struck another driven by Linda Sue Hernandez, 906 N. Goliad, sped from the scene, but not before Ms. Hernandez had taken down its license plate number. It was the same as that of the Watson auto.

Finally, officers found the stolen car, 11:36 a.m., abandoned at the intersection of N.E. Eighth and Goliad.

Neighbors alerted police that there was a burglary in progress at the home of Ina Stocks, 509 Galveston, early Saturday. Officers Joe Diliberto, Raymond Hall and Bill Price and Detective David Spilman rushed to the scene where they arrested two male juveniles huddled in the bathroom of the home.

Burglars broke into the home of Joe Torres Sr., 825 W. 8th, around 10 p.m. Thursday. After breaking in through a kitchen window, the intruders made off with several antique coins, of which the value has not been estimated.

be more compatible with the times or have done away with them completely without any adverse effects. There are something like 16 to 18 states left with an unrealistic usury law of 10 percent or under.

Williams expressed concern for Big Spring's current progress if the state legislature, in session since Jan. 17, does not pass the bill to raise the interest ceiling to 12 percent.

Even though the ceiling won't curtail industrial construction directly since the Texas usury law imposes a ceiling of 18 percent interest on loans to corporations, industrial growth in Big Spring is still at stake, said Williams.

"Big Spring is growing. And it will continue to grow as new industries come in. But the industries aren't going to come in if there are no homes for their employees."

"The entire community and any business that is in any way related to construction needs to know that higher interest rates are necessary. We don't want to invest out of state — we want to invest in Big Spring but we could go to Colorado or another state and buy loans at 12.5 percent or 13 percent interest."

Williams said that Big Spring Savings and Loan, though still able to make home mortgage loans at the current time, is already having to be more selective than usual about who the loans are made to.

He voiced a hope that homeowners, prospective homeowners, and all individuals involved in construction and real estate will contact their representatives and demand support of the bill that is set for a state Senate committee hearing Monday in Austin.

"There's nothing that Congress or anyone else can do," he said. "It's up to Texas."

Deaths —

Alice Wise

Alice Marie Wise, 49, died Wednesday following a one-month illness. Services are pending with the Larry D. Sheppard Funeral Home.

Burial will be in the Fort Bliss National Cemetery in El Paso.

The deceased was born Alice Marie Frederickson, March 6, 1929. She married John Marion Wise, Nov. 19, 1947 in Osceola, Ark. He preceded her in death, Jan. 14, 1979.

Survivors include a son, Karl A. Wise of Big Spring.

Fire pacts

on agenda

LAMESA — Dawson County Commissioners face a rather short agenda when they convene in regular session here at 10 a.m., Monday.

The commission will select a county depository for 1979-80, approve reports from the treasurer and auditors of the South Plains Health Unit and Senior Citizens, consider the payment of the county judge's and commissioners' dues for 1979, study the renewal of fire and ambulance contracts with the City of Odonnell for 1979 and consider the appointment of a Child Welfare Board.

Tech upsets A & M

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Kent Williams sank four crucial free throws in the final 22 seconds Saturday night, leading Texas Tech to a 67-63 upset over 11th-ranked Texas A&M in a Southwest conference basketball game.

Texas Tech led throughout the game, but had to fight off two furious rallies by the Aggies, who narrowed the margin to one point twice before Williams' heroics at the free throw line sealed the win for Tech. Williams also led the winners in scoring with 18 points.

It was the fifth straight win for Texas Tech, which pulled into a tie with the Aggies for third place, each with 9-4 SWC records.

Tech held a 35-23 lead at the half and shot with 51 percent accuracy from the field, compared to only 38 percent for Texas A&M.

Spartans dump Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Earvin "Magic" Johnson's 26 points and deft passing triggered 10th-ranked Michigan State to a 73-57 victory over No. 13 Ohio State Saturday night and dropped the Buckeyes into a three-way tie for the Big Ten Conference basketball lead.

The Spartans, the defending league champions, moved to within one game of leading Ohio State, Purdue and Iowa with their fifth straight triumph. The Spartans are 8-4 and 16-5 overall.

Pitt upsets Duke

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Sam Clancy took advantage of a poorly thrown pass with less than 20 seconds remaining and scored on a dunk shot with only two seconds to go Saturday night to lead unranked Pittsburgh to a 71-69 upset victory over No. 3 Duke.

Clancy, who scored 23 points, pulled down 11 rebounds and made nine of 10 charity shots and was the pivot of the game for Pittsburgh.

A 25-foot desperation jump shot by Duke's Mike Gminski at the buzzer missed.

Soviet rally nips NHL Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Vladimir Golikov swatted in a rebound at 1:31 of the third period Saturday, capping a comeback and giving the Soviet National team a 5-4 triumph over the National Hockey League All-Stars in the second game of the Challenge Cup series.

The NHL Stars had scored on four of their first seven shots against goalie Vladislav Tretiak, taking a 4-2 lead when Montreal defenseman Larry Robinson potted a five-foot backhand at 5:06 of the second period.

Steers hold back Cooper

The Big Spring Steers combined a patient, well-balanced attack with some timely free throw shooting to take a 53-50 victory over the Abilene Cooper Cougars in a District 5-AAAA game played Saturday night in Steer Gym.

The game was a battle between two teams noted for their slow, patient attacks. Big Spring committed 22 fouls and Cooper 21, but the Steers connected on 17 of 24 free throws to Cooper's horrid 14 of 32 performance from the line.

The game was very slow in the first quarter, as both teams seemed somewhat sluggish from losses suffered on Friday night. Cooper led 12-10 after the first eight minutes.

Cooper's lead was basically due to two technicals on Big Spring Coach Tommy Collins early in the quarter after he had loudly disagreed with an official's call.

5-AAAA Roundup

Midland High won the District 5-AAAA championship Friday night by taking an easy 62-35 triumph over the Abilene Cooper Cougars before 2200 people in the Chaparral Center on the campus of Midland College.

Four players scored in double figures for the Bulldogs. They were led by Herbert and Charles Johnson's 12 points. Walter Bryson and Milton Sanders added 11 each.

Midland has now won 15 games in a row and is 13-0 in district action. Midland will play Wichita Falls in a big district tie and date yet to be determined.

Abilene High erupted in the second quarter behind the shooting of Reggie Thomas to take a 58-49 victory over Midland Lee.

Thomas scored 19 points in the contest for the Abilene team that shot 64 percent from the field. Ernest Merritt of Lee led all scorers in the game with 20 points.

Abilene is now 3-3 in the second half, while Lee drops to 2-4.

The San Angelo Bobcats won their second straight two-point decision on the road in as many nights as they nipped Odessa Permian by a 67-65 margin.

Bobcat forward Kenneth Sullivan sank two free throws in the final seconds to secure the win.

Darrell Pearson led the Bobcat scorers with 20 points, while Chuck Smith added 14. Permian's Brad Kerley led all scorers with 22 points.

San Angelo, now 4-2 in second half play, held a 49-44 lead entering the final stanza.

Baylor nudges SMU

DALLAS (AP) — Senior guard Vinnie Johnson swished a 15-foot baseline jumper with four seconds to play Saturday night to hand the Baylor Bears a 74-73 Southwest Cball victory over Southern Methodist.

Johnson, who scored 17 of his game-high 25 points in the second half, made the clutch shot after Baylor ran 36 seconds off the clock following a basket by SMU's Richard Harris with 40 seconds to play that put SMU ahead 73-72.

After Johnson connected, SMU guard Billy Allen tried a 40-footer that hit the back of the bucket and bounced away at the final buzzer of the seesaw battle.

Baylor upped its SWC record 7-5 while SMU dropped to 4-8.

UH edges Rice

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Greg Smith sank a pair of free throws with three seconds remaining Saturday night to end Rice's final comeback attempt and lead the Cougars to a 75-72 Southwest Conference basketball victory.

The victory gave Houston a 4-9 SWC record and kept them in contention for a home court advantage in the first round of the conference tournament. Rice dropped to a 3-10 league record.

After a closely fought first half, the favored Cougars sprinted to a 62-53 lead with eight minutes to play in the game. But the Owls kept coming back.

The second half shooting of freshmen Brian Burns and Bobby Tudor pulled Rice back into the game in the final two minutes.

Big Spring, behind the scoring of Mark Poss and James Magers, took a lead in the second quarter that they would never relinquish. Poss' short jumper with three seconds remaining gave the Steers a 25-23 lead.

The Steers patiently increased their lead in the third stanza. Poss continued to create problems to the Cooper defense despite heavy attention, and Magers and Ysa Rubio connected on two long range jumpers each to help spread the Cougar defense.

Big Spring increased its lead to 48-42 with 2:55 remaining in the game when Cooper Coach Marc Case was charged with a technical. It proved to be costly, as Robert Lara connected on both charity shots and the Steers received possession of the ball.

Cooper didn't die, however, reeling off six straight points to narrow the lead to 50-48 with two minutes left.

Cooper had a chance to tie the score, but the Steers stole the ball and Poss was fouled on the ensuing fast break. Poss converted the first shot, then Big Spring's James Cooper snatched the rebound of the night and was quickly fouled with 1:20 remaining.

Cooper connected on both of the pressure packed free throws to give the locals a five point lead that was simply too much to overcome.

Poss led all scorers in the contest with 23 points, while Magers added 10 and Lara eight. Lara was deadly at the charity stripe, canning eight of nine.

Cooper's Mike Anderson kept the Cougars in the game with 15 points, all of them on long range set shots. Muscular Terry Orr added nine.

Seagraves edges Forsan

FORSAN — Seagraves handed the Forsan boys their first defeat in second half competition here Friday night, winning by a score of 55-50.

The Buffs went cold in the third period, scoring only two points.

The Forsan boys are now 5-1 in second half competition and 18-9 overall. Seagraves, 6-0 in the last half, can win it all by turning back Ropes Tuesday night.

The same evening, Bob Evans' Buffaloes will be entertaining Whiteface.

The Forsan girls won, 53-45, over Seagraves. Teresa Middleton scored 19 for the visitors while Valerie Stevens counted 12, Jaylene Saunders 11, Monica Dyess ten and Julie Poyner ten for the home team.

In second half play, Forsan is 4-2 while the loss was the first for Seagraves in six starts.

Half time score — Seagraves 27, Forsan 26.

Sands JHS girls capture district

SANDS — The Sands Junior High girl's basketball team won the district championship with a 28-24 victory over Klondike Thursday afternoon.

Sands finished district action with a record of 6-0, and a season mark of 14-1. Klondike finished at 5-1 and 13-2.

The Sands girls were led in scoring by Lisa Fryar, with 10 points. Laurie Mosley, Darla Smith and Melinda Bearden each added six points. Cynthia Cave led Klondike with nine.

Klondike won the boys game by a score of 51-44. Mike Todd of Klondike led all scorers in the contest with 19 points, with Greg Brokowski adding 14. For Sands, Ronnie Long had 12 and Russ Shortes 10.

Runnels loses twice

The Runnels Junior High girls' basketball teams closed out their initial season last night, dropping two decisions to Andrews.

The Runnels B team lost 40-10 to Andrews. Stephanie Farmer led the Yearlings with four points. She was followed in the scoring by Marilyn Spencer with three, Janet Fleckenstein with two and Robin Vronaugh with one. Coach Nancy Reynolds praised the play of Tracy Claxton and Diane Lewis. The B team finished with an 0-6 record.

The Andrews A team decided the Runnels A team by a score of 31-23. Sylvia Randle led the Runnels charge with 10 points, followed by Rhondi Rutledge with five, Tammy Martin with four, Sherene Newsome with three and Amy Ragan with one. Others drawing mention were Stacy Boff, Leslie Overman, Susan Smith and Michell Curry. The A team finished with a record of 2-6.

Monahans sweeps BSBS swimmers

Fort Stockton swept both ends of the swimming meet with Big Spring in high school competition held at the local YMCA Friday afternoon.

Monahans outpointed Big Spring in the boys competition by 42-38. In the girls meet, Monahans swept the Steer girls by 65-17.

In the boys competition, Big Spring won both relay races and three individual races. Monahans captured six first places and no relay races.

Morgan Wise won two races and Kirk Nelson one for BSBS. Wise won with a time of 55.5 in the 100-freestyle and a time of 1:01 in the 100 backstroke. Nelson won the 100-breaststroke with a time of 1:11.9.

Other Big Spring boys placing included Chuck Williams and Todd Lloyd in the 220-freestyle, Bill and Sky Hart in the 200 individual medley, Bill Davey in the 50-freestyle, Doug Horton and Sky Hart in the 100-fly, Wendell Bassett in the 100-freestyle, Williams and Lloyd in the 500-freestyle, Mike Willoughby in the 100 backstroke, and Horton in the 100-breaststroke.

Monahans completely dominated the female competition, capturing every first place in both individual action and the relay races.

Big Spring girls earning points included Anne Barno in the 200-freestyle, Carrie Little in the 200 individual medley, Paula Willason in the 50-freestyle, Marie Bonewitz in the 100 fly, Cathy Miller in the 100 fly, Cathy Miller in the 500-freestyle, Cathy Miller in the 100-backstroke and Little in the 100-breaststroke.

Wright leads Odessa to OT win over Steers

Odessa's Danny Wright scored six points in overtime, four of which were set up by his own steals of errant Big Spring passes, to lead OHS to a pulsating 58-56 victory over the hard luck Big Spring Steers in the District 5-AAAA game played in Steer Gym Friday night.

Wright's overtime heroics overshadowed a fantastic fourth quarter rally that saw the host Steers come from a 14-point deficit to tie the game on a Wilbert Grant prayer at the buzzer.

The first quarter was a see-saw affair, with the Bronchos taking a 14-12 lead at the end on a 20-foot shot by Wright at the buzzer.

Big Spring suffered from a very poor shooting performance in the second period, but Odessa couldn't do much better. Wright's deadly shooting, capped by his long range field goal at the halftime buzzer, gave the visitors a 25-20 lead at the half.

The rest of the OHS team came to life in the third stanza, connecting on 70 percent of their shots in this stanza to take a seemingly comfortable 43-29 lead at the end of the period.

Big Spring played with renewed intensity in the fourth quarter, with Wilbert Grant and Ysa Rubio leading a Steer charge that gradually chipped away at the Broncho lead.

But the versatile Wright continued to dribble away valuable time and OHS led 48-38 with 2:30 remaining.

Big Spring, behind the tenacious defensive play of James Magers, Mark Poss, Robert Lara, Rubio and Grant, put on a dazzling rally in the next two minutes to tie the score on an Ysa Rubio shot with 35 seconds remaining.

Odessa then played for the last shot, with the fiery Wright connecting on a 15-foot jumper with five seconds remaining.

Big Spring called timeout to prepare strategy. The Steers then quickly passed the ball down the court, with Grant hitting a tying 25-foot jumper from the baseline at the buzzer with an Odessa Broncho draped over him.

Both teams exchanged baskets in overtime to tie the score at 52. Big Spring's Ysa Rubio then gave the Steers a 54-52 lead when he stole the ball from Wright and successfully made a driving layup.

But disaster then struck for Big Spring in the form of the Danny Wright. After OHS had tied the score at 54, he twice stole the ball to give the Bronchos a 58-56 lead.

Odessa's Steve Shannon had a chance to ice the game for the Bronchos with seven seconds remaining on a free throw, but he missed, giving the Steers one final chance.

Big Spring brought the ball quickly down the floor, with Ysa Rubio's shot from the top of the circle bouncing off the rim and into the hands of an OHS player as the game ended.

Wright, who led all scorers in the game with 32 points, was the only OHS player in double figures. Grant led Big Spring with 16 and Poss added 14.

Coahoma ends season by whipping Winters

WINTERS — The Coahoma Bulldogs erupted in the second quarter to take a 21-point lead at intermission on their way to an 85-49 win over the Winters Blizzards in the final District 6-AA game of the year for both schools.

The win increased Coahoma's record in the second half to 6-1, leaving them one game behind district champion Ballinger.

Mike Meyer added 20 and 16, respectively, for the winners.

Coahoma also won the girl's game by a score of 55-

44. The Bulldog females jumped out to a 17-8 lead in the first quarter and never trailed in the contest.

Borg slams Vilas

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Bjorn Borg, playing his typical patient game, scored his typical victory over Guillermo Vilas 6-3, 6-3 Saturday in the $300,000 Grand Slam of Tennis Tournament.

The victory moved Borg into the finals for the third straight year against Jimmy Connors, who defeated John McEnroe in straight sets on Friday. Borg has beaten Connors in the finals the last two years.

Borg extended his winning streak over Vilas to eight matches dating to 1975. Borg has won the last five in straight sets.

The match was played as usual when the two meet. They exchanged long rallies that usually ended with Vilas returning one of Borg's accurate ground strokes either too long or into the net.

"When I play Vilas, we always have matches like this. It's very normal for us to have long rallies from the baseline," Borg said.

Vilas said, "We both play the same kind of game. He's just a little faster than I am."

"I need a better second serve against him. I need a better approach," Vilas said. "I usually hit harder, but today I just tried to hit the ball back into the court," Borg said.

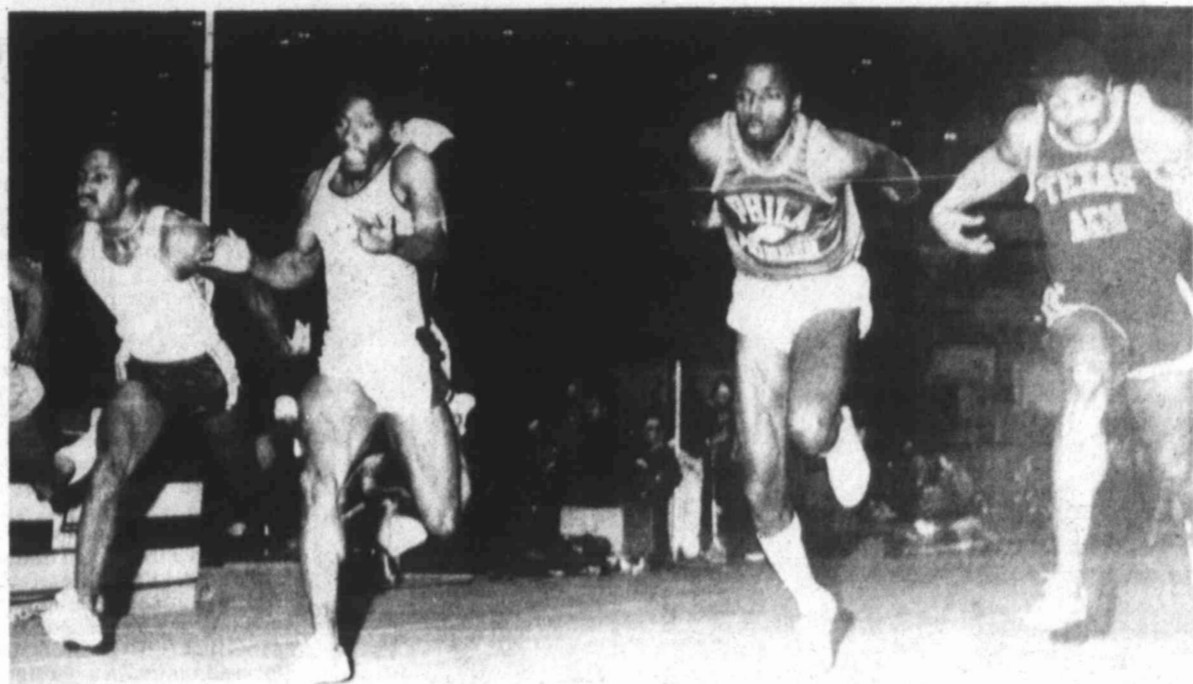

Borg, who trails his career series with Connors 10-6, said he expected to have to play differently Sunday.

"Connors is more aggressive. He takes more chances. I look forward to playing Jimmy," Borg said.

At stake in Sunday's match will be a $150,000 first prize.

Borg scored five service breaks to two for Vilas. The Swede fell behind 3-2 in the first set, but tied it with a service break, didn't allow a point in opening a 4-3 lead and yielded only one point in breaking Vilas' serve again.

Vilas ended a long rally with a backhand return into the net to give Borg the set.

Yankees opening camp early

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, aiming for a third World Series title, will get a jump on the rest of major league baseball Monday when they open spring training with a select group of invitees.

The Yankees will hold their first formal workout at their Fort Lauderdale, Fla., camp for catchers and pitchers on Feb. 19 with the remainder of the squad working out for the first time on Feb. 26.

Three other teams — all in the American League — also will have early workouts.

The Texas Rangers will have a special group reporting to their Pompano Beach, Fla., camp on Feb. 16. Approximately 20 Kansas City Royals hopefuls report to Fort Myers, Fla., on Feb. 18 and the Chicago White Sox will have an advance squad in uniform in Sarasota, Fla., on Feb. 21.

There are no new training sites this year but two Arizona-based clubs — the Oakland A's and the Chicago Cubs — have traded training sites. The Cubs move to Mesa and the A's to Scottsdale.

The Cubs will be the first team training in the Southwest to open camp. They have a workout for catchers and pitchers Feb. 21. The Milwaukee Brewers have invited 10 players to a camp at Sun City, Ariz., with the first workout on Feb. 22.

The National League champion Los Angeles

Dodgers, in their familiar home base of Vero Beach, Fla., will have their full squad reporting on Feb. 23 and working out the next day. The Dodgers traditionally have early sessions in Dodger Stadium prior to the trip east.

Philadelphia, defending the National League Eastern Division crown and ready to show off Pete Rose for the first time, will open camp in Clearwater, Fla., on Feb. 27 for the full squad.

By March 1, all 26 major league teams will be in action, although the full Texas and Milwaukee squads are not due to work out until the next day. All workouts prior to March 1 are by invitation with no player required to report before that date.

The Yankees also will open exhibition play, traveling to Grambling, La., to face Grambling College on March 7. The same day will find the Seattle Mariners meeting a visiting Japanese team, the Yakult Swallows, in Tempe, Ariz., and the San Diego Padres will face California at the Angels' Holtville, Calif., training camp.

The Angels, who move to Palm Springs on March 8, are the only team training in California.

The regular 1979 season opens April 4 with games in Cincinnati and Seattle.

BSHS golfers place 15th

SAN ANTONIO — The Big Spring boys golf team emerged in 15th place out of 46 teams in the San Antonio Boys Invitational Tournament held Thursday and Friday.

The tourney was held at Riverside Golf Course on Thursday and at Brackenridge on Friday.

Seguin won the championship with a today-way team total of 631. District 5 AAAA members Midland

Lee and San Angelo finished third and fourth, respectively.

The Big Spring boys return to action this Thursday at San Marcos, while the Big Spring girls travel to San Antonio for a two-day tournament.

Wyoming granny is snowshoe champ

By WILL GRIMSLEY
 AP Special Correspondent

"Come on, Gram-maw — go get 'em."
 "Stick in there, Granny, you'll make it."

With these words of encouragement ringing in her ears, Rose Mary Gabriel, the racing grandma, sashes along on her snowshoes mile after mile — seemingly indefatigable, one of the most remarkable women of our times.

Rose Mary is 46, wife of a masonry firm superintendent now headquartered in Gillette, Wyo. She has nine children and eight grandchildren. She also has mention in the Guinness Book of Records as 1977 women's winner of the 83-mile Yukon Jack World Snowshoe Championship.

She won the event in record time a year after she had donned her first pair of snowshoes. Now she is preparing to try to regain her title — a la Muhammad Ali — that she lost after a nasty spill on the final day of the 1978 race.

The world championship, a mixed test for both men and women, is scheduled over the frozen terrain of northwestern Wisconsin Feb. 23-25.

Mrs. Gabriel, a small, wiry woman 5 feet, 2 inches tall and only 140 pounds, was in New York this week doing some advance promotion for what could be one of the least recognized sports in the entire universe.

Mrs. Gabriel, who practiced on the banks of Lake Erie, entered the 1977 race and surprisingly won the women's title over a field that included scores of younger and seemingly sturdier competitors.

She raced 38 miles the first day, 21 the second and 24 the third, clocking 25 hours and 19 minutes.

"You move at a pace of about 3 1/2 miles an hour," she explained. "It's a rigorous grind starting at daybreak and ending after dark. There are a lot of dropouts after the first day."

The snowshoeing grandma trains year-round.

"I rise every morning at 7, cook breakfast for my husband and the kids and then I snowshoe to the recreation center where I swim and do some exercises before rushing off to work," she said. "I work a full day in a store that sells fireplaces and stoves. I come home about six, prepare supper and then I go out and do about six miles."

The phenomenal grandma walks barefoot to toughen her feet and packs three-pound weights on her ankles to strengthen her leg muscles. She disdains tobacco and strong drink, spurns breads and sweets, subsists on soups, salads and meats.

She plays in a women's basketball league, is a 12-handicapper in golf, is active in both tennis and softball. She is not, however, a living monument to women's lib.

"I believe a woman has a responsibility at home," she says. "But she also should work. It's a training ground for competition in the business world. I don't think women should be pushed around."

RACING GRANDMA—Rose Mary Gabriel, 46-year-old mother of nine, and grandmother of eight, adjust bindings of her snowshoes recently. The wife of a Gillette, Wyoming, masonry firm superintendent, Mrs. Gabriel is mentioned in the Guinness Book of Records as the 1977 women's winner of the 83-mile Yukon Jack World Snowshoe Championship. She won that title just a year after she donned her first pair of snow shoes.

Coghlan smokes indoor mile

NEW YORK (AP) — Ireland's Eamonn Coghlan was thinking about the 1976 Olympic Games while making himself an early favorite in the 1980 Games.

Coghlan won the Millrose Games' Wanmaker Mile Saturday in 3 minutes, 55 seconds, the second-fastest indoor mile in history — just off the world mark of 3:54.9 set by Dick Buerkle last year.

"I was elated when I saw 3:54.8 on the scoreboard," Coghlan said of the unofficial time. "When I heard the (official) time, I was disappointed — more disappointed, I think, than finishing fourth in the Olympic Games" in Montreal in 1976.

Coghlan bested one of the top fields assembled for the prestigious event as he posted his 21st victory in his last 22 major indoor meets and his eighth triumph in a row.

Illegal poachers nabbed

AUSTIN — Poachers sometimes will go to great lengths to shoot a deer illegally and escape detection. But as three poachers in Edwards County discovered recently, game wardens also will go to great lengths to catch them.

At 10:30 one evening in late December, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Warden Roger Long of Rocksprings saw a shot fired from a van into a pasture alongside Highway 674. The van left the scene, and Long searched the area where the shot was fired, discovering a six-point buck.

Long then parked his car a short distance away and started a seven-hour vigil. Just before daylight, the van returned and a man carrying a briefcase jumped out and headed for the deer.

Shortly afterward, the van came back and picked up the man, and Long stopped the vehicle. They still had not picked up the deer carcass, but the briefcase containing a knife, gloves and coveralls added extra evidence to an already clear-cut case.

Long recovered the field-dressed buck and the trio paid a total of $619.50 in fines and costs for their night's efforts.

Long said most road hunters just shoot a deer and throw the carcass in their vehicle rather than engaging in so much furtive clothes-changing and other maneuvers to avoid detection. But that, Long figures, just made the arrest that much more satisfying.

11-year old boy catches 69-pound catfish

AUSTIN — One of the more remarkable catches in recent years has been certified by the State Fish Records Committee of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Eleven-year-old Darlan Ray Storm Jr. of Caldwell managed to land a 69-pound blue catfish below Lake Somerville Dam last May. That the youngster was able to handle a fish approximately his own size is notable enough, but the lad was able to do it with a six-pound-test line.

It took about 45 minutes for young Storm to land the fish, which bested the old rod and reel record for the species by three pounds.

The catfish was 49½ inches long and 30½ inches in girth.

The blue catfish state record in the "unrestricted" category is only one pound heavier, and that fish was caught on a trotline in 1965 near Port Arthur.

Prairie dogs thriving

AUSTIN — The prairie dog, one of Texas' most engaging creatures, appears to be holding its own nowadays thanks to a more benevolent attitude by landowners and others interested in the rodents' welfare.

Once viewed as a pest and a threat to profitable agriculture land use, the prairie dog was unmercifully poisoned by the millions throughout most of its prairie-land range in the Western United States.

But in Texas it appears that at least in the Panhandle-South Plains region and some outlying areas, fairly stable "towns" of prairie dogs still exist.

Bill Brownlee, non-game wildlife program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said there is no way accurately to estimate the total Texas population of prairie dogs, but there are enough active towns to indicate the species is doing well.

"Almost all the prairie dog towns in Texas are on private land," Brownlee said, "and in most cases the land owners attempt to control their numbers but not exterminate them."

There are towns in city parks or other areas owned by governmental agencies. Some of these are MacKenzie Park in Lubbock, Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge, the National Grasslands area in Dallam County, and the department's Matador Wildlife Management Area near Paducah and the Gene Howe Wildlife Management Area near Canadian.

Bobcat pelts deadline set

AUSTIN — Feb. 20 is the final day for tagging bobcat pelts for sale in Texas, instead of the Feb. 21 date previously reported, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

However, department officials also point out that Feb. 15 is the last day for taking bobcats for the purpose of sale of their pelts.

The new tagging system allows Texas hunters and trappers to sell bobcat pelts on the international market.

HC to host Borden County Monday

Howard College will honor Borden County Public Schools Monday night, February 12 in the coliseum with ceremonies during half-time of the Hawk vs. Midland College game.

Students and employees from the Borden County ISD will be the guests of Howard College. Special complimentary tickets were printed and distributed to Borden County Superintendent James McLeroy, and it is hoped that a large contingent will take advantage of their opportunity to be honored.

The introductions of administrators, student government officers and cheerleaders will be made during brief half-time

MARAVICH IN MOTION — Pete Maravich of the New Orleans Jazz is an expressive man in motion as he goes up for a shot over the New York Knicks in the Superdome in New Orleans Wednesday night. The Jazz guard put in 20 points as his team beat the Knicks in overtime 125-123.

Mosley to stay at A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M quarterback Mark Mosley, frustrated by a disappointing 8-4 season and the loss of head coach Emory Bellard, says he did at one time consider transferring to another school — but no more.

"I was depressed for a long time following the football season and I did consider at one time transferring somewhere else," Mosley said. "But there were 27 other guys (returning players) who felt the same way when we had that coaching change."

Bellard shocked the Aggie team when he suddenly resigned at mid-season and assistant Tom Wilson took over as head coach.

Mosley grew up directing the wishbone offense, first at Humble High School where he played for his father, and then under Bellard at A&M.

But most of the A&M wishbone offense left with Bellard as Wilson, an I-formation quarterback in the mid-60s at Texas Tech, installed the I as the Aggies' primary attack.

"It affected everybody," Mosley said of Bellard's

Stevenson steals the show

By ED SCHUYLER JR. AP Sports Writer
HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — "Regardless who represents the United States, attention will be focused on the Cuban heavyweight from Las Tunas," says Gramma, a weekly review printed here in English, Spanish and French.

The U.S. boxing team Sunday will be a combination of youth and experience, the hope being to gain important international exposure for several fighters.

But, as Gramma pointed out, even if the United States sent its best amateur fighters for Sunday's meeting against Cuba, the attention still would be focused on the heavyweight from Las Tunas — Teofilo Stevenson.

Stevenson has dominated amateur boxing since winning his first of two Olympic gold medals in 1972 and is truly a charismatic sports figure. His opponent Sunday on the 12-bout card, to be televised live in the United States by ABC (3:15-4:45 p.m. EST,) will be Phil Brown of New Orleans, who has been fighting only a little more than two years.

"These duels are exciting boxing fans more and more," said Gramma. One of the boxing fans expected to be lured to the Sports Palace is Cuban President Fidel Castro. The 10,000-seat arena is expected to be filled.

Leading the U.S. team in a bid for its first victory over Cuba in four dual meets are 119-pound Jackie Beard of Jackson, Tenn., 132-pound Johnny Burnham of Nashville, Tenn., and 156-pounder Jeff Stoudemire of Cleveland.

Beard is the 1978 Golden Gloves champion and recently scored a victory over a Russian opponent in Las Vegas when the United States posted its first dual meet triumph over the Soviet Union.

State ranks best black bass lakes

AUSTIN — The state's best all-around black bass lake in 1978 was Lake Calaveras near San Antonio, based on bass club tournament statistics analyzed by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

For the first time, the department used a computerized point system to interpret statistics sent in by bass club officials during the year.

All the lakes with five or more tournaments were rated from one to 15 in five major categories: percent fishing success, average weight, bass per hour, pounds per hour and hours per bass over six pounds. The study combined the results of 717 tournaments and a total catch of 34,849 bass.

These five lists then were combined and rated to get an overall "top 31" listing of lakes.

The lists contained some surprises, points out computer specialist Phil Durocher, as some popular lakes finished low on the scale while some relatively obscure lakes ranked high.

"For instance, Lake Palestine ranked only 18th in the overall ratings," Durocher said, "but 22 percent of all bass reported over six pounds came from the East Texas reservoir."

Not surprisingly, three of the top five lakes on the list are in East Texas, and they are clustered within a few miles of Mount Pleasant — Lakes Cypress Springs, Monticello and Welch. The ever-popular Toledo Bend rounded out the top five.

Here is the list of the top 31 lakes:

1. Calaveras, 2. Cypress Springs, 3. (tie) Monticello, Toledo Bend and Welch, 4. Corpus Christi, 5. McQueeney, 6. Murruel, 7. (tie) Casa Blanca, Falcon, 8. L.J., 9. Cedar Creek, 10. Buchanan, 11. Livingston, 12. (tie) Amistad, Houston Co., 13. (tie) Lake O' the Pines, Palestine, 14. (tie) Conroe, Oak Creek, 15. (tie) Arrowhead, Tawakoni, 16. Twin Buttes, 17. (tie) Possum Kingdom, Proctor, 18. (tie) Granbury, Hubbard Creek, 19. (tie) Caddo, Martin, Pat Mayse, Sam Rayburn.

Natural bird attractors are good real estate investment

AUSTIN — Providing natural bird attractors for your property is a good investment in several ways, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Such man-made items as birdhouses, feeders and baths are fine, but the addition of a variety of plantings of the right trees, shrubs and flowers not only attract wildlife but enhances the beauty of the property and can protect privacy and screen unpleasant views and noise.

For bird lovers the biggest asset in attracting birds is enjoyment of their beauty and antics. There's also a considerable bonus in control of insects that attack plants and people.

A yard may be full of trees and shrubs, however, that do not yield much food for birds and it's a good idea to take inventory. Regional needs will differ and advice can be obtained from local Audubon clubs, county agent or P&WD biologist, and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

Some examples of preferred plantings would include: dogwood, used by some 47 varieties of birds; firethorn (pyracantha), by at least 17 species; sunflower, by more than 52 species; and sumac, used by 36 bird species.

Autumn olive honey-suckle, cherry, crabapple and fruit-bearing shrubs are good food and habitat sources; junipers, cedars and other evergreens can provide winter shelter.

Texas WBA Championship set for March 30 in Austin

The largest and richest Texas Women's Bowling Association Championship Tournament in history is slated to open in Austin on March 30 with 2,558 five-woman teams. The tournament will also feature a record prize fund of $138,934.25.

According to tournament director Miss Lil Poole, Haest, the 42nd staging of the Championships will surpass the records set last year by the Dallas Women's Bowling Association by 146 teams and $7,860 in prize money. Miss Poole added that 6,412 doubles have been received, 12,824, singles and 12,247 optional all events. Brunswick Capitol lanes will host the team event and Highland Lanes in Austin will be the site of singles and doubles events.

As in previous years the opening squad on March 30 at 7 p.m. was reserved for Senior League teams (members must be 55 years old or more). Tournament competition begins Saturday morning at 10 a.m. (singles and doubles) and continues each weekend until Sunday July 1, with the exception of the weekend of April 21 and 22 when state and local officials attend the Women's International Bowling Congress convention and tournament at Tucson, Arizona.

The Houston WBA entered the most teams outside the host city again this year, with 274 teams. San Antonio WBA entered 175 and Dallas, 134 teams.

Miss Poole expressed pleasure at the Austin team entry of 302 — the largest from the 106 local associations sending competitors.

The Championships are divided into seven classes — Open, Class A, B, C, D, E, and Novice according to the woman's average.

Garden City High

Track practice starts Monday

By NIKKI TIDWELL. Valentine's Day is Wednesday and during activity period the high school will be treated to cake and punch by the FHA. The FHA is also having a chance for a $12.00 box of candy Chances cost 25 cents. You may contact any member for a chance. The drawing will be Wednesday during the party. The Elementary School will have its party Wednesday from 3:00 to 4:00. The last basketball games were all played this week. All of our teams and coaches did a fine job. Mr. Paul Banks coached the girl's junior high and high school teams. Starters for the high school were Trudy Hoelscher, Tina Bednar, Emma Lou Halfmann, Nancy Batla, and Fran Halfmann. The junior high starters were Stacy Wilkerson, Coleen Covert, Nadine Sparks, Marianne Hoelscher, and Darla Plagens. Mr. Tim Taylor coached the boys. Starters for the high school were Wes Overton, Brad Calverley, Kevin Hirt, Jorge Patino, and Robbie Patino. The Jr. High starters were Bryan Stringer, Billy Kelso, Jimmy Lee, Erby Lopez, and Jose Lopez. Practice for track and tennis will start Monday. Track coaches will be Mr. Paul Banks and Mr. Jesse Smelley. Mrs. Hazel Stringer will coach tennis. There will be a play-off game Monday in the gym between the Greenwood and Forsan junior high girls and the Stanton and Forsan boys. It will start at 6:00. Tryouts for parts in the one-act play were held Thursday.

There will be a Beta Club meeting Monday during activity period. Tuesday the photographer will be here to take sports packets and kindergarten pictures. Preschoolers may have pictures taken at 9:30 if they wish. Friday the seniors may order their caps and gowns. The down payment will be $8.75.

This quarter will end on February 27. Exams will be held Monday and Tuesday 26 and 27.

The elementary has a new teacher. Mrs. Glenda Cummings took the place of Mrs. Bickie Roberts as third grade teacher.

Brownie Troop No. 170 will have an investiture Tuesday at 4 p.m. to welcome Estella Nunez as a new member. The members would like to thank the residents of Garden City for making the cookie sale a success. Each of the eight members will receive a cookie patch for selling four cases each.

Whitley qualifies for state

Kerry Whitley qualified for TFA State and Humorous Interpretation at the Amarillo Tascosa Speech Tournament.

Big Spring competed against thirty eight schools, entering fourteen students in various events. Five of the fourteen students made the semi-finals.

The debate teams of Elaine Brown and Natalie Blackshear were beaten by Midland Lee in the quarter finals. They had a 5-3 record.

In Humorous Interpretation, Kerry Whitley placed fourth and qualified to compete in the State TFA Tournament in March. Also competing in Humorous Interpretation were Marion Hallicker, Chris Smith, and Robin von Rosenberg.

Competing in Dramatic Interpretation were Jan Whittington, Marion Hallicker, and Chris Smith. Hallicker placed second and also qualified for state.

In Poetry, all three entries of Norma Caballers, Robin von Rosenberg and Kathy Birdwell made semi-finals. Robin placed fourth in finals.

In Prose, Jan Whittington placed second, Sandy Kuykendall made semi-finals and Elise Wheat also competed in Prose.

Members also competed in Oratory, Girls Extemporaneous Speaking, and Duet Acting.

The Speech Team competes this weekend at Texas Tech in Lubbock. Their coach is Janice Cook.

Forsan

Students qualify for state

By LUCY THIXTON. Solo-Ensemble contest was held at Monahan's last Saturday. Band students from all over the area participated. Anyone who played a Class 1 Selection and received a 1 rating is now eligible for state competition in June.

Forsan students who qualified for state competition in solo division are: Dayton Robertson, Michael Anderson, Brad Robertson, Stella Holguin, and Jay Barron. Those who qualified in the trio division are: Stella Holguin, Melissa Frank, and Rhonda Shoultz. Others who participated but did not qualify for state competition are: Ladene Hartin, Randall McDonald, Kelli Kendrick, Jimmy Shoultz, Kem Hooper, Alan Martin, Lana Grantham, Kim Kendrick, and Lorri Bristow.

The high school basketball season closes Tuesday at home against Whiteface with the first game starting at 4:30 p.m. The junior high teams will have a play-off game Monday at Garden City. The boys game will begin at 6:00 p.m. and the girls' game at 7:30 p.m.

February 8, the Key Club met to elect officers. The 1979-1980 officers are President: Brent Pearce, Secretary: Matt Taylor, First Vice President: Nick Brown; Second Vice President: David Phillips; Treasurer: Russell Stukel and Assistant Secretary, Mike Stevens. These new officers, the other members, and Calendar Girls will attend the Division 22 Spring Rally, February 11, at 3 p.m. in the High School Cafeteria. The purpose of this Rally is

Coahoma

Students attend stock show

By JOURNALISM CLASS. Thursday, February 8, at 9:30 an assembly was held in the auditorium for all students at Coahoma. Two young men, Tom and Ricky entertained the students with their talents: playing the banjo, guitar, spoons, singing and tap dancing in their act called "Ragtime Review."

Eight of the FFA boys traveled to San Antonio to exhibit their lambs in the San Antonio Livestock Show. They are: Ron Belew, Mike Hodnett, Dwain Yarbar, David Witt, Douglass Fortenberry and Rendall Rainey.

The senior class met February 7, during activity period to make plans for the CHS contest which will be held March 10. Each year the senior class sponsors the CHS contest as their major money-making project. So far, this year's committees have already been formed. High school students wishing to sign up to be a contestant must do so by February 14. You can sign up by contacting Miss Woods or Mrs. Easterling.

Grady

FFA's will meet Monday

By JOANNA GRAHAM. The FFA meets in the ag. room at 7:30 Monday night for their monthly meeting. The Student Council meets in room 12 on Monday during activity period. The members are meeting to discuss the upcoming talent show.

February 11-18 is FHA week. Monday is Red and White day. Tuesday the girls will show their appreciation to teachers by presenting them with an apple. Wednesday the FHA invites the Junior High and High School students to a Valentine party during the noon hour. The theme for Thursday is "UP AND AWAY WITH FHA." The elementary is invited to watch members send off balloons. Since this week also includes Valentine's Day every one drew for Heart Sisters. All during the week participants leave gifts in their sister locker. On Friday the FHA will meet to reveal heart sisters and to review the week.

Runnels Jr. High

Valentines sales start February 12

By SEAN GRAVES. The Valentine Committee of the Student Council is making valentines to sell February 12-14. There are several different ones to choose from and each will have a Valentine pencil in it. The valentines may be purchased for 25 cents during advisory or before school. A mail box will be set up on the second floor for students to put their valentines in for delivery on Wednesday during advisory. Three jackets with the Runnels insignia on the front are still for sale. These jackets were ordered and not claimed when they came in. There are two flannel lined jackets that are $16.00 each and one pile lined jacket for $26.50. For a good buy see Mrs. Bynum in the school office.

The advisory volleyball games are continuing and some winning teams have developed. There are only two undefeated teams left, they are the Bradley Wolves and the Talmadge Celtics.

The melodrama entitled "The Lamp Went Out", is still being rehearsed during advisory. The characters include Teresa Alexander as Evelyn Devere, the heroine; Robin Snodgrass, as Evelyn's mother; Ron Clanton, the villain; Scott Underwood, the hero; and Wednesday, February 7, the kindergarten through twelfth grades were entertained with an hour's performance of Rag Time by Rick and Tom from International Lectures.

OEA members prepare for OEA week

The Office Education Association of Howard College will join OEA members from throughout the nation in activities to make the community aware of the importance of vocational student organizations during OEA Week, February 11-17, 1979. OEA Week is being observed concurrently with Vocational Education Week. The purpose for this celebration is to inform the public of the meaning and objectives of OEA. By doing this, the community will be aware of the important part that OEA plays in the college and community. Many of the activities planned by the Howard College OEA Chapter revolve around this year's national theme, "OEA To Serve You and the Nation."

The girls P.E. classes have been learning to play dominos and ping-pong during class. A domino tournament was held for the last two weeks and the winners were: first place-Tina Pitts and Debbie Husted, second place was Julie Dudley and Amy Burleson. Students have also been playing doubles ping-pong since Monday.

The Calendar Clue game continues. Students coming up with the correct solution for this weeks puzzle were: David Lee and Scott Mott.

Through its professional, financial, civic, service, and social activities and projects, OEA is developing leaders of tomorrow, today.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

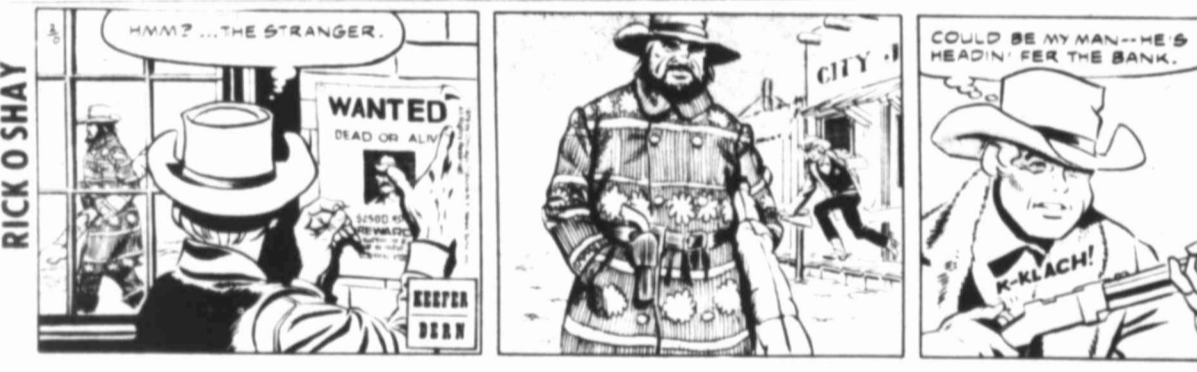

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1979
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Daytime is fine for using good judgment and energies in constructive and worthwhile directions. You can get into considerable difficulties if you make any dramatic changes or upset plans with others.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): A good time to come to better terms with those who are most important in your life. Activity during the day should be balanced with rest and relaxation in the evening.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Anything you want to do at home needs a new approach during day and you get good results. A new interest you have should be studied also.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Get busy at regular chores and get everything in fine order. Listen to suggestions of good friends and follow them. Take no risks where money or driving is concerned.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Get into the good graces of those who are experts where finances are concerned. Then use this knowledge to better your own station in life.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Go after personal aims in a more positive way and gain them easily. Get together with persons you are fond of. Think how to make the future brighter, more interesting.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Make plans confidently that concern the one you love most, and increase happiness. Don't tangle any important details now.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): A generous pal will cooperate with you on an important plan if you contact early. Attending a social gathering could be profitable for you. Drive carefully.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): Study into your most fundamental aims and know how best to gain them. Later be social and have fun. Avoid arguments or confrontations of any kind.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Get out and see those who can best aid you in your finest aims. Gain the favor of those upon whom you have come to depend.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Seek out the company of clever persons and learn much from them. Make as many new and worthwhile contacts as you can.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Listen to the aims of partners and detail them as much as you can and they will do likewise with you. A good day for reconciling with those who have differences of opinion.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Tap your subconscious for answers to puzzles and get good results. Show more devotion for loved ones and increase mutual happiness.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have much imagination. A very interesting personality here that others will seek out and be fond of. There could be fame in this chart, provided right principles are taught early. The Stars impel they do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1979
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today brings a temptation to change conditions that have not completely served their purpose, to make a point to think over what you can do to be more effective in the future.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Your mate and your friends have differing views today, so keep silent for best results. Handle business matters wisely.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Be sure to handle any civic duties wisely and well today and gain the respect of others. Don't jeopardize your good name in any way.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You have good ideas and novel methods for handling routines now, so don't fail to use them. Your intuition is accurate now.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You could lose your temper with one whose views are different from yours, but listen and come to a fine meeting of the minds.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Don't try to run away from a moral obligation that should not be avoided. Steer clear of unwanted temptations.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Permit an associate to state own views if you want to gain this person's favor. Take no chances with your reputation at this time.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): Study conditions in business so you will know what course of action to take. Act in a positive, but not hastily manner.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Show others that you are more concerned with the ethical side of life than the practical. Sidestep an opponent.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): It is important to build a greater financial reserve before going ahead with a new project. Show others you are a thinker.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Make sure you don't renege on any agreements you have made. Avoid one who is suspicious of you without due cause.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't today... he or she will have the ability to write down a difficult problem to a practical level. There is a fine balance of mind and physical activity in this chart. Teach to be objective and stress humanitarianism for best results. The Stars impel, they do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Beta Sigma Phi has sweethearts

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

"Will you be my Valentine?"
Such is the question asked around this time every year. Valentine's Day, the perfect time to tell that certain someone just how you really feel, makes its appearance every Feb. 14.
Hopefully, everyone will be honored in some way by that special someone, but not everyone gets the chance to become a Valentine Sweetheart.
At their annual Valentine Dance, Beta Sigma Phi did honor those especially chosen for this title. Sorority chapters of Xi Pi Epsilon, Alpha Beta Omicron, Mu Zeta, Alpha Kappa Omicron and the Beta Sigma Phi City Council, crowned and presented their sweethearts Saturday night.
The honorees, chosen only on the basis of beauty, include Lou La Rochelle, Paula Gilmore, Susan Joslin, and Donna McIntosh.
Mike Faulkner, former disc jockey, conducted a full night from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., of disco, country-western and various other types of music. Tickets to the event were available to the public at $6 per couple.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of these five sweethearts chosen by their sorority sisters.
Sweetheart Lou La Rochelle, is representing the Beta Sigma Phi City Council as its sweetheart. Mrs. La Rochelle has served as a member of Beta Sigma Phi for 11 years and she currently is a member of Xi Phi Epsilon.
Serving as president of the city council for two years and serving as city council treasurer, Mrs. La Rochelle has held other offices such as chapter president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Various committees have also had the attention of this devoted member.
She has been named Girl of the Year three times as well as receiving other coveted titles as Beta Sigma Phi of the year and Howard County Woman of the Year in addition to being named sweetheart.
Members of the St. Paul Lutheran

Church, she and her children, Karri, 8, and Kyle, 5, enjoy sewing, reading and outdoor activities.
Mrs. La Rochelle is presently employed as a secretary-bookkeeper at Graumanns, Inc.
Alpha Beta Omicron chose Susan Joslin as their Valentine Sweetheart this year.
Mrs. Joslin, wife of John Joslin, has resided in Big Spring a little over a year. She was reared in San Angelo as the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.V. Barber. She attended Central High School and was honored as a finalist in the Miss Teenage San Angelo Pageant. She also attended Angelo State University.
She and her husband, who is employed with National Supply, have two children, John Mark, 4; and Becca, 3. Mrs. Joslin has the full-time job of being a housewife and mother.
This talented lady is an accomplished pianist, having accompanied such notables as Ethel Waters, Richard and Bo Baker, Criswell Crusades and the Continental Singers. She presently serves as pianist for the College Baptist Church.
Devolving some of her time to worthy causes, this Valentine Sweetheart has done volunteer work for both Malone-Hogan and the Veterans Administration Medical Center.
Having been a member of Beta Sigma Phi for one year, she has held the office of treasurer and is presently chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. She is also a city council representative.
She enjoys such hobbies as tennis, aerobic dancing, needlepoint and contract bridge.
Donna Elaine Carey was born the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hale Jr. Originally from Big Spring, she attended Big Spring public schools and graduated from Big Spring High School. This Mu Zeta Sweetheart also attended Howard County Junior College.

After working for Gamco, Mrs. Carey graduated from American Airlines Stewardess College in Dallas where she was stationed until she married her husband, Gary Don Carey in 1969. He, originally from Denver City, Tex., is presently owner of La Contesa Beauty Salon. They have two children, Bill, 5, and Kendra, 2. Mrs. Carey has a full-time occupation as housewife and mother.
The Careys are members of the First Methodist Church and enjoy many hobbies and activities such as water and snow skiing, bowling, horseback riding, dancing, tennis and decorating their home. Mrs. Carey is an amateur artist and enjoys painting in her spare time. She and her husband are both members of PTA and the Wednesday Night Dance Club. They participate in many community projects and fundraising drives.
A member of Beta Sigma Phi for 2½ years, she has acted as program chairman and participated on the Ways and Means Committee, publicity, and social committees. Presently she serves on the Ways and Means Committee, Social and Contact Committee and serves her chapter as its vice president.
Representing Alpha Kappa Omicron as their sweetheart is Paula Gilmore, wife of Ron Gilmore. He is an architect and graduate of Texas Tech University. They have two children, Brent, 3½, and Kellie, 2.

Mrs. Gilmore graduated from Tascosa High School in Amarillo. She has a Bachelor of Science degree in home economics and is certified in special education and elementary education. She is presently a home economics teacher at Forsan High School.
The Gilmores are active members of the First Baptist Church. She is also treasurer of her sorority chapter, and a member of the Texas Association of Texas Educators.
Mrs. Gilmore has been a member of Beta Sigma Phi for one-and-a-half years. Committees served on by this sweetheart include the Scrapbook Committee in which she was chairman; the Social and New Members Committee; and the Ways and Means Committee.
Mrs. Donna McIntosh reigns as the Xi Pi Epsilon Valentine Sweetheart.

She has served as a member in Beta Sigma Phi for 12 years.
Her family consists of husband Bill and their four children, Susan Reagan, Wesley McIntosh, Betty Barnett, and Pam Harden. The McIntosh's are members of First Baptist Church. She enjoys cooking, and canning, as well as gardening.
Offices held by this Xi Pi Epsilon sweetheart include chapter president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, and city council president.
Having been a Valentine Sweetheart before, Mrs. McIntosh has also been Girl of the Year twice and serves as chairman for numerous committees.
These five outstanding women who reign as this year's Beta Sigma Phi Valentine Sweethearts should have a most memorable Valentine's Day 1979.

Schools begin computer program

Blue Max, XLR8 invade Runnels, Goliad

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

In the ever changing world around us, there never ceases to be new inventions, new medical discoveries and new industries making life just a little more safe, convenient, and meaningful.
As of December, 1978 the educationally deprived students in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades from Goliad and Runnels began a program entitled Computer-Assisted Instruction (CAI). This program is just one more advancement in the world today and one of the largest in the nation. Programs are developed at Stanford University in Stanford, Calif.

A program from the Computer Curriculum Corporation, CAI is a new technique enabling teachers to provide individualized instruction for each student.
Sixty-eight terminals were installed (40 at Goliad and 28 at Runnels) allowing 488 students to study from the computer every day.
Mrs. Harold (Jean) Wilder, Title I Supervisor, grades K-8, is in charge of the relatively new addition to the school system, which is funded through Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA).

The act, passed in 1965, provides special assistance to schools through funds to public education agencies with high concentrations of low-income children in an effort to meet the needs of educationally disadvantaged pupils. Title I is the major component of ESEA.
"Since the CAI program is funded by the state and federal government through Title I, it is important that parents understand that funds must be properly spent, allowing children who need help the most, receive it. Federal and state laws must be followed in distributing and using the funds," revealed Mrs. Wilder.

Therefore, only children with learning disabilities are allowed to participate in the CAI program.
This amazing system assists the students with math, reading and language courses geared to each student's individual ability. Each child is on a terminal for 10 minutes per day.
The first 100 minutes, students are evaluated by the computer and placed in certain levels. As the student progresses, the computer presents further advanced material according to the student's accomplishments.
Students are evaluated according to grades and months. If a child's level is 3.5, he is classified at third grade and five months level.
"Through use of the program," Mrs. Wilder said, "students should progress one month per one month of use."
Courses are divided into strands (content areas).
"The computer breaks levels up into fractions. Therefore, if a student is poor in subtraction but good in addition, the computer meets these needs," explained Tom Henry, principal at Runnels. Harland Huibregtse, Goliad principal, oversees Goliad's program.
The computer is able to determine the level of understanding displayed by the student's answers to exercises given by the computer to the pupils. If a student's understanding increases, the computer increases the difficulty of the items presented. If the student needs remedial assistance, the computer lowers the level of difficulty.
Another unique feature of CAI is instantaneous feedback. All answers are instantly checked by the computer. In some cases students are provided with hints and error messages enabling them to obtain the correct answer. Following the lessons, students are able to see how many questions they attempted and how many they answered correctly.
Each class is furnished with an aide, or proctor. Alice Munoz serves as Goliad's proctor and Shirley McNallen is the proctor at Runnels. Their jobs consist of supervising terminals, distributing printed reports to teachers, assisting pupils with problems related to use of terminals, keeping records of students' activities and progress, assisting in setting up the laboratory for class use, cataloging, organizing, filing and issuing materials, preparing instructional bulletin boards and performing other duties assigned by the teachers in the implementation of the program.

CAI is a great asset to students who utilize it. It helps low-achieving students overcome the frustration of repeated failure. Basically it improves their attitude and self confidence. CAI is a private interaction between the student and the terminal. Terminals greet each student by their first name and tell them goodbye when they leave. This enables students to perform without peer pressure.
Students obviously respond enthusiastically to this form of teaching. It presents a game-like atmosphere. In short, the students are literally fascinated. Both schools have names for their computers. Goliad calls theirs the Blue Max. Runnels' is XLR8.
Although students receive the greatest benefit from the CAI program, teachers are benefitted in many ways also.
Other than assisting teachers in understanding each student's learning abilities, the program provides drill and practice extremely important in learning skills.
The teacher receives printed reports from the computer on each child's progress. Reports can be obtained at any time. These reports reveal areas students have difficulty in and show where a student lacks comprehension of a concept. Reports are complete with each student's name, the number of sessions at the terminal, the time spent on the course, the student's average grade level and the student's grade equivalent in each concept area. Students with physical and mental handicaps benefit in addition to those with learning disabilities.

It's practically impossible to express the importance and invaluable services provided students with learning disabilities through the CAI program.
Mrs. Wilder summed it all up by saying "The new computer-assisted technique, and the students' enthusiasm for using it, combine to help students increase their learning speed and achievement."
Although it is too soon to estimate progress, schools across the nation have reported dramatic gains in math, reading and language arts from the use of this program. It should prove to be just as beneficial in the Big Spring school system.

AN OIL WELL THAT REALLY WORKS — Students of Mrs. Selma Hicks' combination third and fourth grade class at Marcy Elementary participated in their own classroom science fair Wednesday and Thursday. Projects included electrical, magnetic and many other types of work. Pictured here looking over a few of the projects include Carey Fraser, Mary Ellen Kent, Jennifer Cowling, Joanna Hamilton and Kathryn Dawes.

Science projects at Marcy ready students for regional competition

By ROBBICROW
Family News Editor

The result of many months of work came to a climax Wednesday and Thursday when Mrs. Selma Hicks' combination third and fourth grade class at Marcy Elementary School room 118, held their own classroom science fair.

"The purpose of this miniature science fair was to motivate students to participate in the Permian Basin Regional Science Fair," explained Mrs. Hicks. The Permian Basin Regional Science Fair will be held March 23-24 in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The students of Mrs. Hicks' class have been working on their science projects ever since the beginning of the school year. Projects are related to the sciences studies the students have accomplished, or original ideas composed by the child.

Entries at the classroom fair included many collections such as rocks, shells, leaves and fossils. "A special requirement for the collections," stated Mrs. Hicks, "was that each must contain at least 10 items."

Other entries included projects of magnetism, electricity, planets, telegraphs as well as water wheels. Each student put forth a tremendous effort toward the completion of their projects Mrs. Hicks concluded.

Entry ribbons were made for the students who entered the fair by Chaplain Clayton Hicks of the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Winners of this competition are not the only ones encouraged to enter the upcoming Permian Basin Regional Fair, however.

All students, grades 1-12 are urged to participate. This is the first year that the fair will be held in Big Spring, enabling more Big Spring students to enter.

Joe Reed, a biology teacher at Big Spring High School, will serve as this year's fair director. He has held a series of meetings with parents and their children explaining the proper procedures and requirements for the fair.

Each contestant must submit an entry blank and a $3 entry fee to Joe Reed no later than Feb. 15. These can be mailed to Joe Reed, Director, Permian Basin Regional Science Fair, Big Spring High School, 708 11th Place, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Reed is putting great emphasis on the size of the project. Width (side to side) must be 122 centimeters or 4 feet maximum. Depth (front to back) must be 76 centimeters or 30 inches maximum. Height (floor to top) must be 366 centimeters or 12 feet maximum. Any project exceeding these dimensions will be disqualified from the PBRSF.

It was expressed that parents will be responsible for their child's transportation to and from the coliseum and for their lunch. Parents must pick up their child promptly at the close of the science fair.

Out-of-town judges have been chosen for the fair who have a background in elementary science. They will be judging the creative ability (30 points); scientific thought-engineering goals (30 points); thoroughness (15 points); skill (15 points); clarity (10 points).

Students may enter as individuals or teams. Work should be done as a home project, not in school. Parents should supply the encouragement, the student should supply the actual work.

The Permian Basin Regional Science Fair includes a 21-county region. This year's sponsors include the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Howard College and the Big Spring school system.

Congratulations to the winners of the Marcy Elementary Science Fair, and good luck to all those participating in the upcoming PBRSF.

STUDENTS WORK HARD — Mrs. Selma Hicks' class at Marcy has been working since the beginning of the school to complete projects in time for the classroom fair. The purpose was to encourage pupils to enter the Permian Basin Regional Fair which will be held in Big Spring this year for the first time. Wedding unites couple Saturday

The wedding vows of Karen Lee Earls and Kenneth Leon Bearden were solemnized Saturday afternoon in the Berea Baptist Church at 4 p.m.

The Rev. D. R. Philley performed the ceremony before an altar enhanced by an archway entwined with greenery and topped with wedding bells. A spiral seven-branch candelabrum flanked either side of the archway. Schefflera plants and a unity candle completed the altar scene. Pews were marked by peach bows adorned with greenery.

Performing the wedding music for the ceremony was Mrs. J.E. Settles, organist and Terry Kelley, Cleburn, vocalist.

The bride was presented down the aisle attired in a formal gown of silk chiffon featuring an Elizabethan neckline and empire bodice embellished with Venice lace. The full Bishop sleeves were caught at the wrist forming a double ruffle. Fashioned with a bouffant skirt, the gown fell into a chapel-length train. A cathedral-length veil of English silk illusion, encircled with lace, fell from her headpiece accentuated with lace and bridal seed pearls. She carried a handkerchief belonging to her great-grandmother.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white camellias and silk peach roses enhanced by a fresh orchid corsage. Bridal lace and white and peach streamers completed the bouquet arranged atop a Bible carried by the bride's mother in her wedding.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Leigh Reynolds. Suzanne Johnson, Mrs. Eddie Earls, sister-in-law of the bride, Molly Balios, and Mrs. Gary Scott were bridesmaids for the ceremony. They wore gowns of peach color, featuring gathered caps, Victorian collars and empire waists.

Each carried a long-stemmed peach rose adorned with satin streamers.

Randy Popejoy, uncle of the groom, Hart, served as best man. Groomsmen were Mike Collier, Ozona; Eddie Earls, brother of the bride; Ricky Logston and Rocky New. Ushers included Gary Scott, and Roy Ritchey.

Tasha Rock served as flower girl and Cody Myrick performed the services of ring bearer, carrying a white heart-shaped pillow topped with wedding rings. Tonya Rock was candlelighter.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bearden were feted with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church. Ann Clark served at the register.

The bride's table was laid with white over white floor-length lace. Her bouquet enhanced the table as centerpiece. The cake was three-tier and flanked by four heart-shaped cakes. A flowing fountain was featured, enhancing the center. Silver and crystal appointments were used. Sherri Kelley and Mrs. David Pool served at the bride's table.

Covering the groom's table was a cloth of beige over peach. Shawn Stevens and Alana Morris served chocolate cake and coffee using gold appointments.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Earls, 4016 Parkway and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Olin Bearden, Coahoma.

Presently employed by Strippling-Mancill Insurance Agency, the bride graduated from Big Spring High School in 1978. The groom attended Coahoma High School, graduating in 1976 and is employed as foreman at Bill Rite Pallet Company.

After a wedding trip to San Angelo, the couple will make their home at 1508 Kentucky Way.

Focus on family living

Arranging furniture

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

The final appearance, convenience and comfort of any room depends largely upon the furniture arrangement. This is a matter of properly coordinating furnishings with family activities and the floor space you have for each room.

In today's homes, most rooms are used for a combination of activities. This means special thought must be given to the choice and arrangement of furniture so each activity can be carried out with equal convenience. Each room should be planned as a unit.

Rarely is a piece of furniture used by itself. Instead, it is arranged in relation to other pieces in the room to achieve comfort and convenience and in relation to the space and architectural features of the room to achieve good design.

Furniture groupings play a major role in a room's capacity to adapt to different situations. Much of today's furniture is designed to be versatile — it can be shifted about, looks well from all sides and may play several roles.

Patterns of living vary so there are no hard-and-fast rules that apply to all families. However there are some basic guidelines that will help you in furniture placement.

Place major conversational groups so that they are not disturbed by traffic. Place large pieces close to and parallel to the wall. Each room should have a center of interest focal point. Group together the pieces of furniture that are used together.

Arrangement can often determine the function of a piece of furniture. For example a buffet may also serve as a room divider. Create a spacious look. Harmony of scale, line and color contributes more to unity than choice of specific furniture styles. Arrangement of furniture helps to carry out the general feeling or character you wish to achieve.

Couple married in Fort Worth

Tommie R. Sanders and Danny P. Chaney were united in a double ring ceremony Dec. 19 at the Faith Temple in Fort Worth. The Rev. J.E. Thompson performed the 8 p.m. wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Simmons, Snyder. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H.A. Sperry, Crowley.

Joyce Sperry, Crowley, attended the bride as maid of honor. Best man was Wesley Sperry, Fort Worth.

Following the rite, the couple were honored with a reception in the home of the groom's parents. The wedding cake was white and topped with silver wedding rings. Crystal appointments were used.

Mrs. Sperry is presently an RN at the Veterans Administration Medical Center. Her husband serves in the air force where he is stationed in Fulda Germany, Seventh Weather Station.

They plan a delayed wedding trip to Colorado in August.

Garden club hears report on council

The Planters Garden Club met Feb. 7 at 3:30 p.m. in the home of the president, Mrs. Paul Guy, 1305 Tucson.

Mrs. Guy presided over the meeting and roll call was answered with a favorite fertilizer. Mrs. Cass Hill gave the council report and revealed that the council had elected new officers for the coming year. Five golden awards were presented at the council meeting. Johnny Johansen presented a program on pruning and care of trees. Mrs. Hill also stated that Mrs. Paul Guy and Mrs. Hill helped decorate for the Chamber of Commerce Banquet. Each member was encouraged to attend the Regional and State Meeting in Odessa April 1-6.

Mrs. Hill, nominating chairman presented a slate of new officers. These include Mrs. Guy, president; Mrs. B.M. Keese, vice president; Mrs. Luke Fortenberry, secretary; Mrs. Hill, treasurer; and Mrs. Fannie Kent, council delegate.

Mrs. Guy requested a report from each committee chairman. Mrs. Hill presented the program concerning trees. She described landscaping as the creation of an environment that is pleasing, personal and functional. "Trees are the foundation of any landscape," she concluded.

Following the program the meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be March 7 at 3:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. C.Y. Clinkscales, 705 W. 18th.

MRS. ABEL ABUNDEZ

Paredez, Abundez vows solemnized

The Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Big Spring, was the scene of the Jan. 13 ceremony uniting Maria Rosario Paredez and Abel Abundez.

The Rev. J.P. Delaney officiated at the 10 a.m. service. The couple stood before a brass archway with greenery, roses, pink and dust pink carnations.

Mary Paredez, aunt of the bride and Margie Rodriguez provided the vocal music.

The bride's father presented her in marriage.

The bride was formally gowned in a traditional silk sheer enhanced with hand clipped chantilly lace. The fitted empire bodice featured a sheer lace yoke, edged in crystal pleating, sprinkled with iridescents and bridal pearls, a ring neckline bordered with pearls and edged in crystal pleating. The sheer bishop sleeves were trimmed with lace and pearls and the thin lace cuffs were edged in crystal pleating. The A-line skirt was edged in wide crystal pleating which swooped up into a double drape on the back of the chapel-length train. A row of tiny covered buttons closed the back. A ribbon marked the waistline and formed a double bow with long streamers. The soft embroidered veil of silk illusion was scalloped and gathered to a lace and pearl camelot.

The bride carried a bouquet of "Liza" fresh white roses, baby breath and greenery.

The matron of honor was Belen Paredez, Pecos, cousin of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. C. Duron, Ft. Worth; Mrs. G. Fierro, Lupita Molinar, Gloria Conteras and Mrs. B. Porras of Odessa; Kathy Patton, Mrs. A. Alvarez, Michelle Jones, Janie Rodriguez, Linda Rangel, Diana Guevara, Teri Ochotorena, Belinda Claveran, Kathy Arroyo, Teresa Barraza, Elva Garcia, Viana Franco, Bonnie Espinoza, Cynthia Guilar, sister of the groom; Nellie Robles, sister of the groom; Melinda Casills, Sonia Reyna, Elizabeth Escanuelas, Lydia Martinez, Beatrice Correa and Cathy Chavez of Big Spring and Debra Lara of Odessa.

Junior bridesmaids were Minni Lara and Norma Lara, Pecos; Tiffany Donaghe, Forsan and Priscilla Porras, Odessa.

Paul Paredez, cousin of the bride served as best man.

Groomsmen were Chris Duron, Fort Worth, George Fierro, Bert Porras, Tito Canteras and Benito Porras of Odessa; Ismael Lujan, Lubbock; Albert Alvarez, Nick Reyna, Sammy Reya, Bob, Larry and Jimmy Paredez, brothers of the bride; Fred Paredez and Joe Correa, cousins of the bride; Pete Amaro, Paul Abundez, brother of the groom; Frosty Aguilar, Jimmy Robles, Arthur Hernandez, John DeLeon, Arthur Palomino, Mike Flores, Tony Chavez and Joe Martinez of Big Spring; Sam Paredez, brother of the bride, Rapid City, South Dakota; Benito Paredez and Ernest Lara, Pecos.

Ushers were Benito Porras, Johnny Porras, Agustine Paredez, brother of the bride, Big Spring; and Orlando Porras, Odessa.

The flower girls were Ciely Garcia and Monica Padilla. Ring bearer was Jolinda Gonzales. Train bearers were Susie Paredez and Charles Muldanado.

The parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Guadalupe Paredez, 607 N.W. Fourth St. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Abundez, 1010 Gregg St., Big Spring.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College.

The groom is a graduate of Big Spring High School, Howard College and Angelo State University with a BA in psychology. He is now a 2nd Lieutenant in the United States Air Force and is attending the University of Northern Colorado.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Sacred Heart Youth Center where Teresa Rocha served at the register.

Garden club hears report on council

The Planters Garden Club met Feb. 7 at 3:30 p.m. in the home of the president, Mrs. Paul Guy, 1305 Tucson.

Mrs. Guy presided over the meeting and roll call was answered with a favorite fertilizer. Mrs. Cass Hill gave the council report and revealed that the council had elected new officers for the coming year. Five golden awards were presented at the council meeting. Johnny Johansen presented a program on pruning and care of trees. Mrs. Hill also stated that Mrs. Paul Guy and Mrs. Hill helped decorate for the Chamber of Commerce Banquet. Each member was encouraged to attend the Regional and State Meeting in Odessa April 1-6.

Mrs. Hill, nominating chairman presented a slate of new officers. These include Mrs. Guy, president; Mrs. B.M. Keese, vice president; Mrs. Luke Fortenberry, secretary; Mrs. Hill, treasurer; and Mrs. Fannie Kent, council delegate.

Mrs. Guy requested a report from each committee chairman. Mrs. Hill presented the program concerning trees. She described landscaping as the creation of an environment that is pleasing, personal and functional. "Trees are the foundation of any landscape," she concluded.

Following the program the meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be March 7 at 3:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. C.Y. Clinkscale, 705 W. 18th.

MRS. ABEL ABUNDEZ

Paredes, Abundez vows solemnized

The Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Big Spring, was the scene of the Jan. 13 ceremony uniting Maria Rosario Paredes and Abel Abundez.

The Rev. J.P. Delaney officiated at the 10 a.m. service. The couple stood before a brass archway with greenery, roses, pink and dust pink carnations.

Mary Paredes, aunt of the bride and Margie Rodriguez provided the vocal music.

The bride's father presented her in marriage.

The bride was formally gowned in a traditional silk sheer enhanced with hand clipped chantilly lace. The fitted empire bodice featured a sheer lace yoke, edged in crystal pleating, sprinkled with iridescents and bridal pearls, a ring neckline bordered with pearls and edged in crystal pleating. The sheer bishop sleeves were trimmed with lace and pearls and the thin lace cuffs were edged in crystal pleating. The A-line skirt was edged in wide crystal pleating which swooped up into a double drape on the back of the chapel-length train. A row of tiny covered buttons closed the back. A ribbon marked the waistline and formed a double bow with long streamers. The soft embroidered veil of silk illusion was scalloped and gathered to a lace and pearl camelot.

The bride carried a bouquet of "Liza" fresh white roses, baby breath and greenery.

The matron of honor was Belen Paredes, Pecos, cousin of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. C. Duron, Ft. Worth; Mrs. G. Fierro, Lupita Molinar, Gloria Conteras and Mrs. B. Porras of Odessa; Kathy Patton, Mrs. A. Alvarez, Michelle Jones, Janie Rodriguez, Linda Rangel, Diana Guevara, Teri Ochotorena, Belinda

Claveran, Kathy Arroyo, Teresa Barraza, Elva Garcia, Viana Franco, Bonnie Espinoza, Cynthia Guilar, sister of the groom; Nellie Robles, sister of the groom; Melinda Casills, Sonia Reyna, Elizabeth Escanuelas, Lydia Martinez, Beatrice Correa and Cathy Chavez of Big Spring and Debra Lara of Odessa.

Junior bridesmaids were Minni Lara and Norma Lara, Pecos; Tiffany Donaghe, Forsan and Priscilla Porras, Odessa.

Paul Paredes, cousin of the bride served as best man.

Groomsmen were Chris Duron, Fort Worth, George Fierro, Bert Porras, Tito Canteras and Benito Porras of Odessa; Ismael Lujan, Lubbock; Albert Alvarez, Nick Reyna, Sammy Reya, Bob, Larry and Jimmy Paredes, brothers of the bride; Fred Paredes and Joe Correa, cousins of the bride; Pete Amaro, Paul Abundez, brother of the groom; Frosty Aguilar, Jimmy Robles, Arthur Hernandez, John DeLeon, Arthur Palomino, Mike Flores, Tony Chavez and Joe Martinez of Big Spring; Sam Paredes, brother of the bride, Rapid City, South Dakota; Benito Paredes and Ernest Lara, Pecos.

Ushers were Benito Porras, Johnny Porras, Agustine Paredes, brother of the bride, Big Spring, and Orlando Porras, Odessa.

The flower girls were Clely Garcia and Monica Padilla. Ring bearer was Jolinda Gonzales. Train bearers were Susie Paredes and Charles Muldanado.

The parents of the bride are Mr and Mrs. Guadalupe Paredes, 607 N.W. Fourth St. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Abundez, 1010 Gregg St., Big Spring.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College.

The groom is a graduate of Big Spring High School, Howard College and Angelo State University with a BA in psychology. He is now a 2nd Lieutenant in the United States Air Force and is attending the University of Northern Colorado.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Sacred Heart Youth Center where Teresa Rocha served at the register.

Start living your own life

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: My older sister is very beautiful and popular with both boys and girls. She is a cheerleader and is senior class president.

Unfortunately for me, I am not beautiful and popular and did not make the cheerleading squad. My only saving grace is that I am a member of the honor society.

My problem is while I love my sister, there are times when I feel good when she has a problem. I know this is wrong, but what can I do to stop feeling this way? — Beverly

Beverly: Stop fantasizing about your sister's life and start living your own.

The correct hairstyle use of cosmetics, and the right type of clothing will do wonders for your looks and personality. — Dr. Wallace.

Stockbridge by Thomasville.

The furniture designs of the early settlers of our nation illustrated great charm and native character. Now Thomasville designers take these same authentic motifs for a collection of bedroom furniture. These motifs include the spice box and shaped molding under the case top for a weighty look. Dressers feature a sculptured parting rail that continues around to the sides and creates a look of a chest-on-chest. The canted post on the lower section and the bracket foot is noteworthy. An arched effect is created with bold shaping on selected drawers and doors. A plank effect is featured on the case sides. Heavy post treatments with spindle galleries are noted on the hutch and mirror and wall headboard. The woods featured are maple veneers and maple solids which bring true native flavor to the group. The warm, mellow honey tone finish is in keeping with the antique originals. Brass finished hardware includes the willow ball pull and handsome knobs and escutcheons. This collection offers many charming motifs which will bring authentic Early American character to today's rooms.

Karon Calley becomes Mrs. Terry Don Fryar

Karon Calley, Forsan, became the bride of Terry Don Fryar, Garden City, in a candlelight ceremony Friday evening. Royce Clay, minister, performed the 7 p.m. rite in the Cedar Ridge Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Calley, Forsan. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Travis Fryar, 4001 Wasson.

The altar was decorated with a large center spray of white ball mums, white carnations, enhanced by baby's breath. A seven-branch candelabrum flanked either side of the scene. Mrs. Oscar Bocker provided the wedding music at the organ.

The bride chose to wear a gown of white semi-sheer cotton. A fitted bodice trimmed with sheer lace and baby blue insertion was featured. Full sleeves ending in wide cuffs also fashioned in the ensemble fell into an A-line skirt sweeping into full gathers in the back edged with a wide self ruffle beginning at knee-length and flowing into a chapel-length train in the back. The gown was made for the bride by her mother.

She carried a bouquet of baby blue carnations, yellow daisies and baby's breath.

Cathy Ford, Abilene, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. Perry McMillan, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man.

Melvin Fryar, Brownwood, uncle of the groom; and Weldon Ford, Abilene, uncle of the bride, were ushers. The groom's cousin, Cheri Wyrick, was flower girl for the wedding and Micah Epley, nephew of the groom was ring bearer.

MR. AND MRS. TERRY DON FRYAR

Mr. and Mrs. Fryar were honored with a reception in the fellowship hall of the 14th and Main Church of Christ. The bride's table was laid with blue under an overlay of white net gathered with baby blue bows. A centerpiece of white carnations enhanced the table. The three-tier cake was decorated with baby blue daisies and topped with wedding bells.

The groom's table was covered with a baby blue lace table cloth. Fresh apple cake and coffee were served.

The bride is a graduate of Forsan High School and is employed at Texas State Optical as receptionist. The groom is also a Forsan High School Graduate and is engaged in farming with his grandfather, R.V. Fryar.

The couple will make their home in Big Spring on Garden City Rt.

Dear Abby

No Wedding Bells, No Wedding Bills

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, Karla, is 20, and Bill, her boyfriend, is 22. They've gone together for nearly two years and have just announced that they plan to live together for about a year. Then, if they are compatible, they'll get married.

Bill's parents seem to approve of this, but I do not. I think it's immoral and that they would be living in sin. My husband doesn't really approve of the idea, but says if it doesn't work out it will be easier on Karla than a divorce.

Abby, I say if Karla and Bill love each other and want to live together they should get married now! Karla is the youngest of three daughters. Her sisters both had beautiful church weddings without any "compatibility tests" beforehand, and they are happily married. I promised Karla a lovely church wedding, too, but told her if she lives with Bill for a year, a wedding would be a mockery, and not to expect us to give her one. Am I wrong to feel this way?

SYRACUSE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You are entitled to feel any way you wish, but children who are of age (and self-supporting) have a right to determine their own lifestyles. If you believe a church wedding would be a mockery, it's your right to refuse to foot the bill for one.

DEAR ABBY: This is not a prank. I have heard there is a place in Texas where I could send cremated ashes to be made into pottery. If there is such a place, one's ashes would not have to be kept in a container and possibly lost. My husband and I plan to be cremated, and this would be an ideal solution for our remains. Can you help us, please?

MAKING PLANS

DEAR MAKING: I am not aware of such a place. But if one exists, I'll surely be advised.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212

Remake of film shows changes

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How times have changed! Twenty-six years ago Burt Lancaster and Deborah Kerr filmed the famous beach love scene for "From Here to Eternity" attired in swimsuits.

For the upcoming NBC mini-series of the same name, William Devane and Natalie Wood were nude. Even so, no one is going to see anything revealing. It's carefully edited, it's dark, and they're in the water.

"I think there was a lot of heated discussion about whether we're allowed to undress each other, whether he takes off both straps, and whether we can throw our suits up in the air," said Miss Wood.

"We filmed it undressing each other, throwing our suits up, and then making love. It's just a question of how they edit it."

The film was edited to convey an impression of nudity. Jerry Stanley, NBC's West Coast vice president for broadcast standards, said, "You will see him pull her bathing suit straps, then it cuts to a reverse shot and a fade out. We felt the undressing was too explicit and too awkward."

The six-hour series, adapted from James Jones' novel about love and brutality in the Army in Hawaii in the months before Pearl Harbor, is in some ways bolder than the 1953 movie. The movie, which was named best picture of the year and won Oscars for Frank Sinatra as Maggio and Donna Reed as Lorene, is a classic. Yet the mores of its day and Army restrictions kept some scenes tame.

The house of prostitution where Lorene works was a dance hall in the movie, and the stockade scenes where Maggio is beaten to death were all but eliminated to win Army cooperation in the filming. The mini-series tells all.

The first episode of "From Here to Eternity" airs on NBC on Wednesday and inaugurates the network's new "Novels for Television" series. The second and third episodes will be shown the next two Wednesdays.

It stars Miss Wood as Karen Holmes, Devane as Sgt. Mill Warden, Steve Railsback as Pvt. Robert E. Lee Prewitt, Roy Thinnes as Capt. Dana Holmes, Joe Pantoliano as Pvt. Angelo Maggio, Kim Basinger as Lorene Rogers, Peter Boyle as Fatso Judson, and Andy Griffith as Gen. Slater.

A weekly series, starring Devane, Thinnes, and Miss Basinger, is in the works.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED — Twenty-six years ago the famous beach love scene from the motion picture "From Here to Eternity" was filmed with the stars wearing swim suits. Now, NBC television is filming the story into a six-hour mini-series with actress Natalie Wood, pictured during an interview in her Beverly Hills home, and William Devane doing the same scene in the nude. Actually, NBC says no one will see anything as the scene is "done with reverse shots and fade outs."

Library can help with taxes

By REBECCA TAYLOR
Reference Librarian
Howard County Library

As tax time approaches, a number of individuals are discovering a lack of proper forms and information to complete their tax returns. Trips to the post office are often fruitless as the form you want always seems to be missing. Sometimes the standard instructions give inadequate information for the novice.

In order to assist those who prepare their own tax return, the Howard County Library keeps subscriptions to Commercial Clearing House's "Federal Tax Guides and Federal Tax Forms." Both of these services are updated regularly, weekly and monthly, so that the forms and information are always the very latest.

"Federal Tax Guides" include one volume of explanations and three volumes of codes and regulations. Latest court rulings and precedent setting cases are also discussed.

"Federal Tax Forms" presents a true copy of every tax form used by the federal government. These pages can be removed from their ring binder and copied on our Xerox machine. The copies are then completely legal for filing your returns.

Another interesting feature of these services, is the publication of small booklets called "Tax Angles and Tax Savings." Each of these booklets deals with some specific aspect of taxes.

For example, "Supplementary Tax Tables," covers annuity, depreciation and employment tax treatment, "Tax Planning 1979, and 1979 Tax Angles in Special Areas."

A newsletter issued weekly gives the news concerning on-going legislation, court cases, and I.R.S. rulings.

This service is kept in the business room near the Xerox copier. Books on tax preparation to be checked out are in the 336's or at the circulation desk.

THE NEW BOGARTS

Novel-based movie offers adventure

"THE GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY" offers high adventure in splendid style, written and directed by Michael Crichton from his own novel. The robbery takes place not in the Old West but in 1855 England; it is said to be based on the first real-life heist of a moving train. The crime is perpetrated by a group of polished crooks headed by Sean Connery, who is able to function equally well in high society and the underworld. The pace is leisurely, most of the film concerned with the theft of four keys required to open the strongbox of gold headed for the Crimean battleground. The climax is thrilling, with Connery himself scrambling atop the racing train. He gets fine support from Donald Sutherland, Lesley-Anne Down ("Upstairs, Downstairs") and an English cast. Rated PG, the film contains a number of double entendres but little else to corrupt the small ones. Except perhaps the message that crime can not only pay but provide jolly good fun.

'Midnight Express' playing now

Hayes relives experiences

Exactly two years to the day after breaking out of Turkey's notorious Sagmalcilar Prison, Billy Hayes walked onto a movie set which duplicated his cell.

"It was a strange, scary feeling," said Hayes. "I was shivering and sweating at the same time."

Seven years earlier, Hayes had been arrested at the airport in Istanbul, charged with trying to smuggle a small quantity of hashish out of the country. He was sentenced to four-and-a-half years in prison, but less than two months before his scheduled release, the Turkish high court "reviewed" his sentence — and resented him to another thirty years.

He later described his prison experiences and his daring escape in the best seller, "Midnight Express," written with William Hoffer.

That book has now become a major motion picture, produced by Casablanca Record and FilmWorks and released by Columbia Pictures, which is now playing at the Cinema. Since there was obviously no way the Turkish government would allow the movie to be made within its borders, director Alan Parker and production designer Geoffrey Kirkland took over the stark, stonewalled barracks of Fort St. Elmo on the tip of Malta, and created a precise replica of Sagmalcilar Prison.

It was here that Hayes experienced a jittery sense of deja vu.

"There were a few small differences between the set and the real prison, but the resemblance was uncanny," said Hayes. "The production people and the costume designer did a fabulous job."

"When I arrived, I walked past a group of Turkish kids and started to speak to them in Turkish. But they were Maltese extras and didn't understand me! I passed two Turkish policemen and that really shook me — I drew back! They looked so real. It took a while before I could put my arms around their shoulders to pose for a publicity picture."

When Hayes came to the set, director Parker was shooting a scene on a high balcony, overlooking the prison courtyard. Brad Davis was portraying Hayes with British award-winner John Hurt as the frail, eccentric English prisoner, Max, and Randy Quaid as the explosive American, Jimmy.

"Again, there was this odd, awful sense of being whirled back in time," continued Hayes. "I felt an immediate affinity for Brad Davis. He was so completely involved in the character, my character. He didn't even come out of it when shooting stopped. He wasn't trying to look like me. Although we're about the same size, he's dark and I'm fair."

"Randy is a lot taller than the real 'Johnny Booth,' but watching him I knew he had an emotional grip on the character."

"John Hurt really amazed me. He looked so much like Max that I was stunned. The hair had been shaved from his forehead, and the rest looked wispy, as if it was falling out, just like Max. With his cracked glasses and the caftan that Max picked up in India, the likeness was incredible."

"I talked with him later and he told me he hadn't read the book but has assimilated Max's character from the script. I was impressed with that."

Hayes' most unsettling experience was entering the huge "kagos" — Turkish for prison cell — which matched the one he'd shared with Max, Jimmy and a snoring trusty named Rifki.

"The filmmakers had everything right, down to the smallest detail. There were Turkist profanities scribbled on the walls and pictures of girls, cut out of newspapers, just as I remembered them. When I sat down on the bed and looked up at the bed-springs above me, I couldn't breathe, it was so real."

Later, the producers showed Hayes a few key scenes which had just been edited. "One scene comes just after I've been beaten by Hamidou, the head guard," Hayes recalled. "Brad Davis gets off the bed — he's in terrible shape — and Jimmy and Max help him walk down into the courtyard. I went into the theatre as an objective observer, but the reality was so strong it overwhelmed me.

"The other scene was in the Turkish court when I thought I was about to be released — and instead my sentence was changed to 30 years."

"It's a pivotal scene in the picture, as it was a pivotal moment in my life," Hayes went on. "Thanks to a close friend in prison (called 'Erich' in the movie), I had gained a new insight into Christianity. I was born between the principles of Christ — the willingness to forgive one's enemies — and blind anger at the injustice of what was being done to me."

"Brad somehow captured those conflicting emotions.

Dana Hodnett installed as Rainbow advisor

Dana Hodnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lanham Hodnett, Vincent Route, Coahoma, was installed as Worthy Advisor of the Order of Rainbows, Big Spring Assembly No. 60.

The installation ceremonies were Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple, 221½ Main.

Miss Hodnett dedicated her term to her father. Life was chosen as her theme. Genesis 1:21-22 was her scripture. Her poem is "The Silent Song" which was read by Stacy Hodnett, her sister. Her song, "You Light up my Life," was sung by Louis Loveless, Coahoma. Her colors were yellow and white, flower was the daisy and symbol was the butterfly.

Charlie Clay, Big Spring Masonic Order, opened the installation ceremony with an invocation.

Mrs. Hodnett presented her daughter with a Rainbow bible. K.D. Sanderson presented Sabrina Thomas with her gavel.

Installing officers were introduced by Mother Advisor Mrs. Edie Fryer. They were Debbie Strickland as installing officer, Midland. She was assisted by Debbie Thompson, installing marshal, Big Spring, Debby McCarty, installing chaplain, Midland, Mrs. Kenda (Born) Jones, installing recorder, Big Spring and Phyllis Hart, installing musician, Big Spring. These officers wore corsages of yellow daisies accented with butterflies.

The Rev. Charlie Murphy of Coahoma Presbyterian Church brought the address.

Miss Strickland presided behind a podium draped in white satin. A yellow daisy arrangement was at the base of the podium draped with gold butterflies.

Officers entered the assembly room through an archway of greenery, baby breath, daisies and hand-made butterflies.

Dr. Shirley Guthrie of Big Spring closed the installation service with a benediction.

A reception honoring Miss Hodnett was held after the ceremony. The table was covered with a yellow cloth and an overlay of white eyelet lace. The cake was accented with yellow daisies and butterflies. Homemade mints were served by Mrs. Louise Hamilton. Uncandles decorated with ribbon daisies and butterflies completed the table.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Candy Andrews, worthy matron, Mrs. Grace Kinney, Mrs. Addelle Tibbs and Mrs. Louise Hamilton, all members of the Big Spring Order of the Eastern Star. Also serving were Stefani James of Coahoma, a friend of Miss Hodnett.

Serving with Miss Hodnett will be Jean Alice Knox, worthy associate advisor; Ronda Beene, charity; Sabrina Thomas, hope and Robin Snodgrass, faith.

A luncheon will be served these girls and their advisors following church services

Sunday at the Coahoma Presbyterian Church.

Other officers are Robin Van Rosenberg, recorder; Amy Smith, treasurer; Susan Thomas, chaplain; Patty Garrison, drill leader; Karen Woodall, love; Rhonda Woodall, religion; Kim West, nature; Sandy Clark, immortality; Sherilyn Farmer, fidelity; Liz Ruiz, patriotism; Gina Loftin, service; Michelle Ray, confidential observer; Mary Lin Spencer, outer observer; Holly Parham, musician and Kisty Franklin, choir director.

New advisory board members for 1979 were installed. They are Mrs. Adelle Tibbs, Mrs. Grace Kinney, Mrs. Mary Ann Hartin, Charlie Clay, Mrs. Louise Hamilton, Mrs. Jerry Spencer, Mrs. Elva Biffer, John Gee, Mrs. Frances Gee, Donald Powell, Mrs. Candy Andrews, Mrs. Mary Ben Wright, Mrs. Ann Russell, Mrs. Dorothy Phillips and Mrs. Christine Riorden.

Guests were registered in Miss Hodnett's term book by Pam Hodnett, sister of the Worthy Advisor. The table was covered with a white lace cloth. A doll dressed like Miss Hodnett in a Rainbow dress with miniature-Rainbow pins decorated the table, and was a special gift to the Worthy Advisor from Mrs. Elva Biffer.

Special guests were Mrs. Charlie Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tinner of Coahoma; Mrs. Shirley Guthrie, Big Spring; Jean Sauze, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sauze, Midland.

The Rainbow girls and their advisors will attend the Coahoma Presbyterian Church Sunday at 10:40 a.m. as is their custom following an installation.

The next Rainbow meeting will be Feb. 13 at the Masonic Temple, 7 p.m.

AAUW to sponsor children's movies

The American Association of University Women is sponsoring children's movies at the Ritz Theater again this year.

Their purpose is two-fold; to present movies that children will enjoy, and to use the proceeds to provide college scholarships to qualified girls.

The movies will run for four consecutive Saturdays beginning Feb. 17 at 10 a.m. at the Ritz. The first movie will be "Support Your Local Sheriff," with "Clarence the Cross-eyed Lion" following on Feb. 24. "Flipper" will be the offering for March 3, and "Five Weeks in a Balloon" will be shown on March 10.

Children may purchase season tickets for $2 at their elementary schools Feb. 14, 15 and 16 and save money.

Tickets for individual movies may be purchased at the door providing space is available. Season tickets may also be purchased at the theater on the day of the first movie.

Adults attending with the children may purchase tickets at the same price as the children.

OMAR BURLESON
...To speak at Cactus ABWA Boss' Night

Burleson to speak for Boss' Night

The Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) will highlight its Boss Night festivities with the presentation of the 1979 Boss of the Year award on Feb. 20th.

The annual Boss Night event is designed to honor the employers of ABWA members. Omar Burleson, retired Congressman from this District, will be the guest speaker at the dinner meeting at the Brass Nail Restaurant, at 6:30 p.m.

Outstanding community service, business success, and consideration for employees are factors weighed in the selection of the Boss of the Year. Serving on the panel of judges for 1979 recipient are Bill Read, president of Coahoma State Bank; Mrs. Delores Hull, owner of Hesters Office Supply; and Truett Thomas, Hospital Administrator at Cowper Clinic and Hospital.

(All are past Boss of the Year recipients of Cactus Chapter).

One goal of ABWA is to encourage better employer-employee relations by helping business women to increase their efficiency and business skills. ABWA promotes the professional, educational, cultural and social advancement of business women.

The association currently has over 100,000 members nationally. As an educational group, the awarding of scholarships is one of ABWA's key programs. ABWA's 1,690 chapters awarded over $1,095,000.00 in scholarships this past year to 3,760 women. An additional $150,356.95 in scholarships was awarded from the national scholarship fund.

Cactus Chapter has awarded eight local scholarships, totaling $1,500.00 at the First National Bank by Feb. 17.
