'Safety of Americans' discussed

President in touch with rulers of Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today said he has been in touch with the new rulers of Iran and "we stand ready to work with them."

Carter said the administration has been in contact with designated Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan and that the new Iranian government was "very helpful in insuring the safety of Americans."

The president told a nationally broadcast news conference that "I see continued hope for very productive and peaceful cooperation with the new government of Iran."

Meeting reporters hours after followers of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini took control of the government of Iran, Carter said "our objective has been and is a stable and independent Iran which maintains good relations with America."

As for the effect of the takeover on U.S. oil supplies, Carter said the situation "is not a crisis, but it certainly could get worse."

If Iranian production, which once accounted for 900,000 barrels a day of U.S. oil imports, is not resumed shortly, he said, the situation "would require additional measures."

The administration is considering such conservation measures as forcing gasoline stations to close on Sunday and regulating heating and cooling levels in public and commercial buildings.

Carter said events in Iran have made it more important that Americans comply with voluntary conservation measures designed to save oil.

The president said "there is no immediate danger" to the United States from the current loss of 500,000 barrels of Iranian oil daily, but that world oil stocks are steadily being reduced. He supported Energy Secretary James Schlesinger's appeal for voluntary energy conservation.

Carter said public cooperation "early and on a broadscale basis" could insure that interruption of oil supplies because of the Iranian cutoff would be brief.

"The situation is not crucial now, it's not a crisis, but it certainly could get worse," Carter said.

The president said there must be instilled in the American consciousness that the United States can absorb these shortages if it shifts from oil to other energy sources and "if we restrain our wastefulness as much as possible."

On inflation, the president said the heavy, 1.3 percent increase in wholesale prices in January supported his prediction last fall that "inflation might get worse in the short run before it got better."

For his part, Carter said, he will continue to work to reduce the federal budget deficit.

LONDON GARBAGE GOES UNCOLLECTED — A London housewife hurries past a massive pile of garbage today in London as the strike by some of the garbage collectors continues. The strike is part of a nationwide campaign by Britain's Union of Public Employees for higher wages.

'Arson, destruction, cruelty'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's new revolutionary government reported today that all resistance to it by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's armed forces has ended, but it was having trouble controlling its own supporters.

Thousands of armed youths roamed Tehran threatening symbols of the monarchy and its foreign allies as Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini appealed to his followers for order and the surrender of thousands of looted weapons.

Two generals were reported slain. Khomeini condemned "arson, destruction and cruelty" and said those indulging in such "savage acts" were "disobeying Allah's orders and are traitors to the Islamic movement."

The "provisional operational staff of the revolution" in a broadcast on Radio Tehran said "all Iranian armed forces have laid down their arms and declared their total solidarity with the revolution. There is not the slightest resistance by the armed forces."

The announcement called on the revolution's supporters "to stop surrounding barracks and government centers and not to use their weapons, except against the enemy."

An army spokesman said Gen. Abdul-Ali Badrei, a former commander of the Imperial Guard, was shot and killed as he tried to talk with a group of insurgents who surrounded the guard's barracks.

Gen. Bokrat Jafarian, the military governor of Khuzestan Province, was killed when his helicopter was shot down near Ahwaz, the spokesman said. He said he did not know who fired on the aircraft.

Meanwhile, the new government's armed guerrillas rushed to threaten sites all over the capital, trying to maintain order and ward off attacks.

They took up positions around the 13-story Intercontinental Hotel, headquarters of most of the Western press, to protect it from a crowd threatening to burn it.

Radio Tehran said another crowd was marching on the Shah's Niavaran Palace "bent on burning and destroying it." The broadcast said since the revolution had triumphed, the palace was "part of the wealth and riches of the nation" and should not be harmed.

Armed youths converged on Sultanabad Barracks, on the northern side of Tehran, in response to a false report that the Imperial Guard and American military advisers were attacking supporters of the revolution there.

Trucks of armed guerrillas arrived at the Hilton Hotel and announced they were going to turn it into a hospital.

'Disastrous rip-off of Texas home buyers'

Rate hearing draws interest

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Proposals to raise the maximum legal interest permitted on home loans by 2 percent are a "disastrous ripoff of Texas home buyers," claims the Texas AFL-CIO.

The labor organization scheduled a rally at the Capitol today to dramatize its opposition to bills that would raise the maximum amount of interest allowable on home loans from the present 10 percent to 12 percent.

"Stop the billion-dollar lobby," is the theme of the AFL-CIO's campaign against the proposals.

State AFL-CIO President Harry Hubbard asserted at a Friday news conference that savings and loan associations have, in effect, gone on strike by withholding loan money until the Legislature raises the interest rate.

He said the legislative sponsors of the bill — Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, and Rep. Jerry Donaldson, D-Gatesville — each have received campaign contributions from supporters of the bill.

He said Meier received $21,300 in 1978 and Donaldson approximately $1,700.

"Mr. Hubbard is attempting to stir up the politics of this measure rather than debate the obvious merits it has, especially to the many thousands of workers he purportedly represents that will lose their jobs if this bill doesn't pass," countered Meier.

Asked if higher rates might lead to more loans and more jobs, Hubbard said, "It's not true if history repeats itself."

Lending institutions, which often borrow the money they lend to homebuyers, contend that in periods of "tight money," they cannot profitably lend money at the current ceiling rate of 10 percent. There is no indication, however, loan rates would rise to 12 percent.

A Democratic-Republican election controversy also was surfacing, with arguments over a 1980 presidential primary and proposals to move party primary elections from May and June to July and August or later.

Four bills pending in the House

Board officers to be sworn in

The annual banquet of the Salvation Army board will be held in the Cactus Room of Howard College starting at 6:45 p.m. next Monday.

New officers will be installed. The public is invited to attend. Tickets, priced at $4 each, should be purchased in advance. They can be bought from any board member or by contacting the Salvation Army post here.

Capt. Joseph Bennett of Dallas, second in command of the Salvation Army Texas district, will deliver a talk and sing.

Special awards will be presented during the program.

New board president is Warden Mays while Carrol Kohl is the new vice-president. Delbert Donelson was reelected secretary and A.J. Prager treasurer.

Proposals to increase gas, water rates due vote Tuesday

The City Council will give its second consideration to Pioneer Natural Gas Company's request for an ordinance allowing a rate increase when it convenes Tuesday, 9 a.m.

If the measure is approved, the 11.02 percent increase in rates will go into effect Thursday. The rate increase passed by a two-to-one margin at its first reading at a called meeting of the City Council Friday.

A second consideration will also be given an ordinance modifying the obligation of Pioneer Natural Gas Company to extend main lines to serve new consumers within the city limits. There will also be a second and final reading of an ordinance establishing fees charged by the gas company for setting, turning on, and reconnecting customer meters within the city limits.

Both of these measures were unanimously approved in the Friday meeting. The proposals are aimed at putting the cost of these initial services on the new consumer rather than passing the costs on to other customers.

Other items to be discussed include: —The award of a taxi service permit to W.R. Jewett.

—Consideration of an ordinance to revise charges for water rates.

—An ordinance concerning pool hall operation in the city.

—An ordinance calling for April elections in the city.

—Service Awards for city employees.

—Minutes for meetings of the Traffic Commission, Structural Standards Board, Detox Steering Committee and the Parks and Recreation.

—The award of a bid for scrap material from the Big Spring Industrial Park.

—A resolution authorizing Mayor Wade Choate to enter into contract with Roy Crim for engineering designs for street improvements under the 1979 Community Development Program.

—A tabled request for funds for the Big Spring Halfway House.

Q. Can an out-patient make purchases in the Veterans Administration Medical Center canteen?

A. Yes, says Joseph Rouleau, public relations chief at the VAMC. "The canteen here works just like a canteen in any civilian hospital. Some items may be restricted to in-patients only, but there are very few if any," said Rouleau. "All our services, of course, are restricted for the use of veterans and their families."

On the light side

About 200 folks soaked

DALLAS (AP) — Two men who soaked about 200 folks of their investments in a "self-watering" flower pot that never materialized have been sentenced to a total of 17 years in prison.

The men, William A. Rea II of Richardson and Russell A. Smith of Carrollton were the last two of several employees of Advanced Business Concepts, Inc., who were indicted in the scheme.

U.S. District Judge Sarah T. Hughes sentenced Rea to five years each on two counts and Smith to five years on each of two counts and two years on a third count. His two 5-year terms will run concurrently.

The defendants were accused of making false claims about the self-watering flower pots and of promising investors shipments of planters that never arrived.

Hughes earlier had denied Smith's motion to change his plea to innocent and Smith's attorney said he will use the denial as basis for an appeal.

All other employees of Advanced Business Concepts except Floyd Bell, a former president and company chairman, pleaded guilty and received sentences averaging two to three years.

Bell, who sought to be exonerated, was assessed the stiffest penalty, 25 years in prison.

Snowbathing etiquette

SHELLSBURG, Iowa (AP) — "In the morning for a wakerupper, there's nothing like it," says retired farmer Warren Pangborn.

"It" is snowbathing. And every morning Pangborn, 86, says he strips to the buff and walks outside, then rolls around in the snow.

"It may not sound like something you'd want to do, but I get a great reaction from it," Pangborn said. "It makes you start breathing deep. It sort of gives me a feeling like I'm on top of the world."

It's not just a passing fancy, either. Pangborn has been doing it for 40 years — every winter day, he says, that it's not windy and not much colder than 15 below zero.

Pangborn says there are some tricks to snowbathing, though.

"What you want to do is rub your skin and get it warmed up before you go outside," he advises.

Wright reaction

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, asked the chairman of a House subcommittee on military personnel to investigate Army recruiting practices.

In a letter to Rep. Richard C. White, D-Texas, Wright said an investigation into possible recruiting abuses might be warranted.

White's Armed Services Military Personnel Subcommittee is scheduled to open hearings on various manpower matters on Wednesday.

He included in the letter a copyright story in Saturday's Fort Worth Star Telegram that detailed recruiting abuses. The story said some recruiters pressed to keep up enlistment quotas for the all-volunteer Army.

Mail 'delayed'

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury has accused a Fort Worth postal worker and his wife of a massive mail theft scheme.

The 11-count indictment names Isaac Stewart and his wife Ruby. Prosecutors said it took seven legal-sized pages to list the goods found by federal agents in the Stewart home Jan. 2.

The truckload of items included wrist watches, cowboy boots, a home computer, calculators, 78 women's rings, a diamond bracelet, toys, cheeses, jet fighter parts, cigarette lighters, pen and pencil sets, clothing and government microfilm.

The indictment also alleged that Stewart stole 10 parcels from May of last year through Dec. 18.

Prohibition's goriest gangland crime

St. Valentine's Day massacre

CHICAGO (AP) — Fifty years ago, on a day when Cupids are supposed to shoot arrows of love, mobsters delivered a Valentine of lead.

Seven men associated with George "Bugs" Moran were lined up against a brick wall inside a North Side garage and riddled with machine gun slugs.

The St. Valentine's Day massacre, Feb. 14, 1929, was Prohibition's goriest gangland crime. It awakened the public's fear of organized hoodlums and was instrumental in bringing the federal government into the Chicago crime picture.

The massacre climaxed 10 years of gang battles for control of illicit beer and whiskey profits. The warfare had narrowed to a fight for supremacy between Al Capone's South Side mob and the henchmen of Moran, the North Side booze czar.

The massacre still is listed in police files as "murder by persons unknown." No one was ever brought to trial, but gangland vengeance erased 22 men whose names popped up in the investigation.

"Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, who had been in contact with Capone, was believed to have masterminded the hit. He and John Scalisi of the Mafia were indicted for the murders and released on $50,000 bond.

Scalisi later was slain, and the state lacked enough evidence to bring McGurn to trial. Seven years after the massacre, McGurn was machine-gunned down at a Northwest Side bowling alley.

Police blamed the Capone mob for the massacre, but couldn't prove it. The garage had served as Moran's booze depot, and Moran missed being there by a stroke of luck. Afterward, Moran told police:

"Only the Capone gang kills like that."

But Capone himself had an iron alibi. At the very time that tommy gun slugs were ripping into the seven victims, "Scarface Al" was chatting with the district attorney in Miami, Fla., where he was vacationing.

Told about Moran's accusation, Capone replied: "They don't call that guy Bugs for nothing."

Earl Aykroid, retired Associated Press staffer, was one of the first reporters to enter the garage after the shooting. "Inside was a scene of carnage rivaling a battlefield," he recalls. "Six men lay dead along the north wall of the building, their bodies riddled by machine gun bullets. A seventh man, fatally wounded, was being carried to an ambulance by two patrolmen. He lived only briefly.

A MEMORABLE VALENTINE'S DAY — This is a view inside a North Side garage in Chicago where seven men associated with George "Bugs" Moran were lined up against a brick wall and riddled with machine gun slugs. It will be 50 years ago on Feb. 14, when gangland's goriest crime, The St. Valentine's Day massacre, occurred.

But the attempt to rub out Moran's gang was a botched job, according to various accounts. Only two of Moran's toughest musclemen were killed — Frank and Pete Gusenberg.

The other victims were Johnny May, a mechanic who kept the bootleg trucks working; James Clark, Moran's brother-in-law who once was tried for murder; Adam Hyer, a trained accountant who has served time for embezzlement and now handled the gang's finances; Albert Weinsbank, operator of a speakeasy, and Dr. Reinhart Schwimmer, an optometrist strangely fascinated with underworld factions.

What brought them together? One account is that a hijacked truckload of whiskey was being brought in for sale. Other accounts say that was a phony report spread to get the Moran boys together.

Across the street, two brothers identified as Phil and Harry Keywell of the Purple Gang, which had interests in the Detroit bootlegging racket, watched the garage from a rented boarding house room.

They saw Moran's boys go in at about 10 a.m. The last was Weinsbank with his German shepherd dog, High Ball, on a leash. Weinsbank looked like Moran. Police think the watchers mistook him for the big boss.

The brothers telephoned the Circus Cafe 20 blocks south and said Moran and six others were inside. The cafe contact went to a small garage and said, "He's there and he's got six of them with him."

Two men dressed like policemen and two in street clothes piled into what looked like a detective bureau car and drove to the garage.

The "policemen," brandishing revolvers, entered the building and went to the back, where the trucks were. The two others followed, one with a package wrapped in newspaper. Moran's men thought it was just another raid. They were ordered to line up against the wall, and did.

The man with the package ripped off the newspaper. It was a tommy gun. He sprayed the seven men with slugs, back and forth, back and forth, and squeezed a torrent of shots into them after they fell.

Most of the victims were bundled in overcoats and wore fedoras. There was no heat in the garage.

The dog High Ball barked and snarled. He had been tied to a truck and kept lunging the length of his leash, but could not break free.

A landlady saw two men leave the garage with hands raised, followed by two policemen with guns. "Just another arrest," she thought.

But the shots and the dog's howls had drawn attention. Police found four men lying face up, blood pouring from their heads. Another was face down against the wall. A sixth was sprawled over a chair.

Crawling out from the entanglement of bodies was Frank Gusenberg, with 22 slugs in him. He lived for 90 minutes and was asked who shot him. True to gangdom's code, he replied: "Nobody."

Moran and two of his top boys were reportedly nearing the garage on foot when they saw the execution squad's parked car. Thinking it was a police shakedown, they went to a restaurant nearby. Afterward, they went back and found the street cluttered with police. They scattered.

Moran bootlegged until repeal, then turned to other crimes. In 1957, at 64, he died of cancer in prison, serving time for a bank holdup. Capone, who served time for income tax evasion, died in 1947.

The garage was used by a moving and storage firm until 1967, when it was torn down to make room for apartments for the elderly.

The bullet-scarred bricks were sold to a Canadian food executive, George Patty of Vancouver, who planned to reconstruct the wall of his den with them.

Elderly woman slain at home

RANGER — The body of Myrtle Ainsworth, 80, was discovered in the bedroom of her home about 11 a.m., here Saturday.

Her hands had been tied behind her back. A towel was wrapped around her neck and gauze had been stuffed into her mouth. Officers said her neat house had been turned topsy-turvy.

An investigation had turned up no suspects, according to Ranger Constable J. W. Vinson, Eastland County Justice of Peace M. D. Underwood said there was no doubt but that the woman had been murdered.

Mayor plans to run again

LORAIN — Vance Dickenson, mayor of Loraine the past ten years, has announced he will be a candidate for reelection, subject to action in the April 7 election.

Incumbent councilmen Evert Henderson and Mike Stuts have also indicated they will offer for positions on the city council.

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Texas delegation notes:

Freshman Rep. Phil Gramm learned that brevity has its advantages with fellow congressmen. The former Texas A&M economics professor was one of nine House members to introduce a resolution calling for a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution.

Gramm gained 11 cosponsors — including five Texans — for his effort that would prohibit federal deficit spending except during war or national emergency.

Gramm's resolution is 22 lines long, by far the shortest of the nine similar resolutions sent to the House Judiciary Committee for consideration.

"The concept of requiring the federal government to live within its means is a simple one... and should be short and to the point," said Gramm.

The five Texas cosponsors are Democrats Martin Frost, Joe Wyatt, Marvin Leath and Kent Hance and Republican Jim Collins.

Democrat Jim Mattox of Dallas was named by House Budget Committee Chairman Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., to head the committee's task force on National Defense and International Affairs.

Mattox will be walking a tightrope between House members wanting a strong defense at any cost and those more concerned with trimming the federal deficit.

"My objective," said Mattox, "is to make sure that we have a lean, tight and tough defense budget."

Mattox also said he wants to bring the task force to Dallas for hearings so that "some of the people in Dallas who are involved in defense can, when possible, put their points of view on the record."

The 96th Congress passed its first law last week. It set a later date for the president to send his economic report to Capitol Hill.

The continuing saga of Red China and Taiwan was addressed by a couple of Texans last week.

Leath introduced a resolution calling on the United States to recognize the Republic of China as the sovereign of Taiwan.

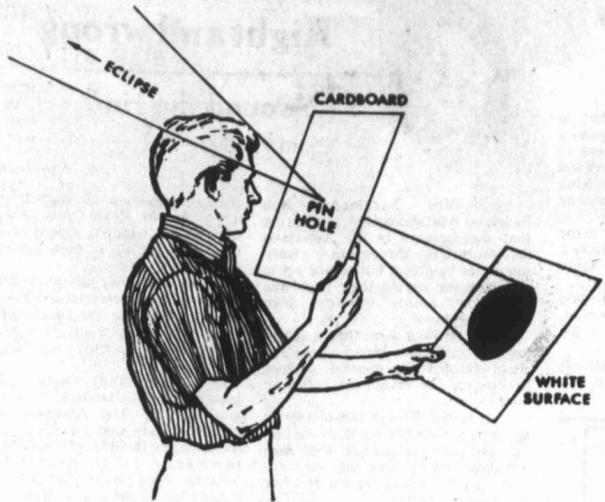

"When the United States officially recognized the Peoples Republic of China, it was said that we were just giving formal recognition of conditions on the mainland of China," said the freshman from Marlin.

"This resolution in the same way acknowledges the reality that the Republic of China is the government of Taiwan. The resolution calls for an official two-China policy."

House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth predicted the House will "create a mechanism" that will allow the United States to continue relations with Taiwan — including the sale of "defensive military weapons."

"In fact, do everything we've been doing, just as though our embassy still were there. We won't call it an 'embassy'."

SAFE WAY — Prevent Blindness recommends indirect watching as the only safe way to view the solar eclipse. The simplest indirect way is the "pinhole" method. A person can take two pieces of white cardboard, make a small hole in one, and with the sun at his back, focus the eclipse through the pinhole onto the second board. The size of the image can be changed by altering the distance between the cardboards. One may use the binoculars or a telescope as the projector, replacing the pinhole cardboard. With the sunlight at his back, a person should position the instrument over his shoulder with the eyepiece down so that the light passing through it focuses on the white cardboard. Never look at the eclipse through the pinhole or through the binoculars or telescope.

During solar eclipse

Eyes can be opened

Texans should not look directly at the sun Feb. 26, according to the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness. Although Texans will notice no visible difference in the day's brightness, a total solar eclipse will occur in a path from the Pacific Ocean crossing the northwestern United States. The eclipse will occur partially in virtually all the rest of the continental United States.

The solar eclipse will begin in Houston at 9:11 a.m. as the moon first touches the sun's upper right corner. The moon will hide 57.8 percent of the solar disk at 10:23 a.m. when the eclipse reaches its mid-point. The eastward moving moon will slowly pull away from the sun after mid-eclipse. At 11:41 a.m., the dark new moon will leave the sun's upper left corner.

Prevent Blindness recommends indirect watching as the only safe way to view the solar eclipse. The simplest indirect way is the "pinhole" method. Take two pieces of white cardboard, make a small hole in one, and with the sun at the back, focus the eclipse through the pinhole onto the second board. The size of the image can be changed by altering the distance between the cardboards. One may use the binoculars or a telescope as the projector, replacing the pinhole cardboard. With the sunlight at his back, a person should position the instrument over his shoulder with the eyepiece down so that the light passing through it focuses on the white cardboard.

Using either method, the circle of light on the cardboard will show the sun beamed as it passes between the earth and the sun. Never look at the eclipse through the binoculars or telescope. Photographers should also remember not to look at the sun through their camera viewfinder.

Houston area sun watchers can view the eclipse by means of closed circuit televisions at the Houston Museum of Natural Science. As part of the museum's free observing program, the Margaret Root Brown Solar Telescope will capture the sun's image and send it to monitors while staff members explain eclipse events.

Following the last total eclipse seen in the U.S. (March 7, 1970), 145 cases of eye injury were reported in a Prevent Blindness survey, 121 of them eclipse burns. Sixty percent of the casualties had looked at the sun directly with the naked eye. The remainder had tried to protect their eyes with various devices — sunglasses, totally exposed photographic negatives, smoked glass and welder's goggles.

Prevent Blindness is the only voluntary health agency solely concerned with preventing blindness through community service programs, public and professional education and research.

Rule 22 supported

By Bill Albright

Executive Vice President, Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce Industrial Growth and Development

Grassroots input has recently been very effective in blocking or improving bad pieces of legislation in Washington. Senate minorities can and often do represent the view of the majority of Americans.

To keep the voice of the "silent majority" from being drowned out by the highly vocal radical element, who still strangely influence Congress, we really need to protect a Senate procedural rule, Rule 22. Let Senators Tower and Bentsen know that we don't need a watered down version of Senate Rule 22. Keep our grassroots input strong and effective.

And while we're on the subject of legislation, if you don't want to see a city gain the same strength and congressional privilege as each of our 50 states now has, let State Senator Farabee and State Representative Ezzell know how you feel about this unfair proposed amendment to our Constitution. Write to them at the Capitol Building, Austin, TX 78711.

SANTA ANNA — Ten cars of a Santa Fe railroad train derailed one mile east of Santa Anna near Highway 84 about 8 a.m., Saturday.

Workers were still cleaning up the wreckage Sunday evening.

The train was transporting chemicals, including liquid gas and ammonia, but a spokesman said he did not know how much, if any, of the chemicals had spilled. The train was headed to Houston.

A WORLD BOOK SALE!

A World Book sale is really news... and it's good news for parents! Imagine saving $75 off the regular price of the 1978 edition... an impressive saving on the world's largest-selling encyclopedia.

World Book outsells all the others because it's the encyclopedia for the whole family.

World Book fits its language to its most likely readers.

Articles are written at the language level of those most likely to read them. For example, World Book's article on puppets—which would be of greater interest to young children—reads more easily than the one on thermodynamics, written for older children and adults.

Major articles begin with simple explanations, so that even young readers can get the basic information they want. The 24-page article on insects, for example, begins... "Insect is a small six-legged animal." But as the article unfolds, it progresses to a scholarly discussion of insect growth patterns, development, and classification.

You can see that World Book is the encyclopedia your children won't outgrow.

Mild, springlike weather enjoyed by most Texans during the weekend continued throughout most of the state today, and the forecast called for more of the same. Slightly cooler temperatures were predicted for North Central Texas. But otherwise, forecasters were calling for continued mild to Temperatures dipped below freezing in the state's northwest corner early today, but rose into the 60s along the coast. Predawn readings ranged from 29 at Dalhart to 63 in Brownsville. Pockets of fog formed over some southeastern sections.

Should King be honored with special day?

How do you feel about making Jan. 15 a national holiday, honoring the memory of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.?

Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, who one day may be president, has already said he would do all he can to have Congress designate the day in Dr. King's memory and President Carter has voiced much the same sentiments.

Writer Patrick J. Buchanan, in an article prepared for a conservative weekly called "Human Events," obviously thinks differently.

BUCHANAN WRITES THAT "declaring a national holiday in honor of Dr. King's principles and accomplishments would be an act of calculated polarization." Whether you agree or disagree, read on. Consider this, asks the author: This January 15, as Washington D.C., celebrated with a holiday the memory of Dr. King, across the Potomac, a holiday was declared to pay tribute to the memory of Stonewall Jackson and Robert E. Lee.

"To force conservative residents who live on grounds hallowed by the Army of Northern Virginia to pay homage to Dr. King would be as wrong as to require the black children of Anacostia to participate in pageants celebrating the achievements of the great Confederate captains," Buchanan wrote.

"To black Americans, and many whites, Dr. King was the essence of everything good about America," Buchanan added. "To millions of others, he was something else; the most divisive figure in the century's most divisive decade. A partisan who made the tactics of civil disobedience and mass demonstration the first resort of dissidents — when in a Democratic republic it should be the last. An ideologue of the Socialist wing of the Democratic party who lent his prestige to an anti-war movement which bears moral responsibility for the continuing tragedy in Southeast Asia.

"The range of opinion on Dr. King runs from martyr and saint to charlatan and scoundrel."

BUCHANAN STORMS that a "nation sensitive enough to minority concerns not to force its citizens to take a 'loyalty oath' will not demand of recalcitrants that they put Dr. King on a pedestal with Washington and Lincoln."

Buchanan's rationale is that "in the case of Carter and Kennedy we have a pair of politicians motivated by more than love and reverence."

The issue quite probably will come up before Congress and, if approved, will, no doubt, get the blessings of Mr. Carter.

The outcome of some national elections have been swung on far less volatile issues.

Right and wrong

Around the rim

Carla Walker

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has apologized for saying that the farmers in the American Agriculture Movement were motivated by greed, but he has yet to apologize for saying their problems resulted from their own mismanagement.

I think he owes them that much, if just for making a broad statement about farmers in general without backing up the statement with any facts.

I am personally not completely in agreement with the AAM or its tactics, but I do sympathize with their problems and I realize that they are making their needs known in their own individual ways.

BERGLAND, WITH HIS hard-nosed attitude toward the situation, and his refusal to even listen to anything the farmers have to say, has probably done them more good in the public eye than he could possibly do them harm.

American agriculture is the one industry that balances itself in foreign trade, rather than showing a deficit.

The food and fiber of the nation was once produced by a society that was largely agrarian, with over 50 per cent of the population producing food and fiber on 90 per cent of the land." Now, according to the actual figures of agriculture production, less than four per cent of the population provide much more food and fiber than ever before on much less than 50 per cent of the land.

That's mismanagement??? The farmer has put technology to use to produce more with less land, less hired help, and, increasingly less profit.

The problems, with some farmers, may be mismanagement. Some urban businesses fail because of poor management practices, and a percentage of farmers fail for the same reason. However, for most, even good management and efficient production haven't produced success.

The reason is that inflation has pushed the prices of almost every other product up, while the government has forced agriculture prices to remain low with "cheap food" policies.

The price of land, obviously necessary to produce foods and fibers has skyrocketed. Equipment which cost $3,000 in 1950 now costs over $20,000 because of "inflation" in the steel industry. Fuels needed to operate the machinery have followed the same course, although the increase there was even more drastic.

A young man (or woman) entering the farming business simply couldn't make back the investment in a reasonable period of time if 10 to 15 years would be considered reasonable. The creditors wouldn't wait that long.

The established agricultural producers, this year the grain producers in particular, are seeing their life savings vanish as costs mount higher and higher, but the price they receive for most commodities remains at the same level as it was in 1950; grain which sold for over $4 per hundred weight in 1948 now sells for $3 or less per hundredweight.

So, why don't they just quit gripping and find another occupation? For one reason, most love the vocation they have chosen, and many have never worked at any other job.

FOR A BETTER reason — try imagining what happens if they do quit farming. The American consumer will see food and fiber prices increase, not the little bit the farmers now request, but to whatever level farming corporations see fit. Our society has to have oil to function — and look at the prices that the American consumer is forced to pay, because it is pay or do without.

Food and clothing are no less necessary, and if corporations take over farming — which is already happening in some areas where farmers have been forced out of business — they will charge what they want, and the American consumer has little choice but to starve and go back to making clothing from flour sacks.

The changes asked by the farmers would mean, roughly, a three cent increase in the price of a loaf of bread, and little if any, increase in the cost of garments made of cotton. There would be small increases elsewhere, but nothing approaching the 18 per cent "inflationary" effect that President Jimmy Carter and Agriculture Secretary Bergland insist will result.

I sympathize with the farmers in Washington, and I feel that taking their complaints to the U.S. Congress is the best way to get changes. In my opinion, blocking traffic, clashing with law enforcement officials, carrying baseball bats threateningly and saying they will "stop producing in an agriculture strike," are the WRONG tactics.

Such activities have made my sentiments toward the AAM mixed, even though I agree with much of what they seek. I realize that many of the members are calmer and more reasonable, and it only takes a dozen militants to give the entire movement a bad name, but incidents like the violent clash with Washington police last week make me hesitant to lend any support to the AAM.

But, Bergland's reaction, unreasonable as it has to appear, even to those who know little about agriculture, probably helped the AAM a lot. Most people can sympathize with the farmers' frustrations when Bergland so openly illustrates the unreasonable closed-mindedness of the present administration.

I only hope that the AAM farmers in the capital restrain their tempers and use reason and rational action to find better ways to articulate their needs.

To paraphrase and slightly alter a philosophical statement I recently heard, when it requires violence to sell a cause, there can't be much worth selling.

'Rouge elephant'

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — While anticipating that Sen. Frank Church of Idaho might prove nettlesome as the new chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, administration officials are in temporary shock over the stunning speed of his attacks on Carter policies — particularly officials with short memories.

For President Carter, this spells serious trouble. It will tend to open further the gap between the executive and the legislature, dangerously widened by the post-Vietnam congressional claims to make foreign policy.

Considering Church's past, his conduct during his one month as committee chairman should not be all that surprising. "Look," one of Church's Senate colleagues told us, "he did a 180-degree flipflop on Taiwan when he read the mail from back home. But has the White House forgotten that he did a similar switch on planes for Saudi Arabia?"

The Taiwan "flipflop" was particularly irksome to the White House. For two years, Church had quietly been pressing the Carter administration for quick normalization with Communist China. Not once in all that time do White House or State Department officials recall him expressing concern for the fate of the Nationalist regime on Taiwan.

THAT WAS BEFORE the mail arrived on his desk from Idaho, where he will run for a fifth Senate term next year. After that, chairman Church issued a statement calling Carter to task for having failed to obtain from the Peking government a commitment "not to reunify Taiwan and China by force."

That may be par for Church's course. He impudently one member of his committee last year to support U.S. sale of F-14 aircraft to Saudi Arabia. On the next morning, he stunned that colleague by voting against the plane deal, which was bitterly opposed by Israel.

As chairman of the committee that used to be the most prestigious in Congress, Church has drawn heavy national attention for his Feb. 1 speech attacking Carter's failure to pressure Saudi Arabia to end its "resistance" to the Egyptian-Israeli peace package. Again, the only officials surprised by that attack on the nation which is the chief supplier of foreign oil to the U.S. are those with short memories.

Church has been jokingly called the "senator from Israel" in Senate cloakrooms. His 1976 presidential campaign was lubricated with contributions from the American-Jewish community, and he clearly looks to similar contributors to help with a potentially difficult reelection campaign next year.

Playing ethnic politics with foreign policy is common in the Senate. What concerns the Carter administration is that chairman Church is showing no tendency to change his ways under the challenge of new responsibilities at a time of great danger abroad for this country.

Three times in the past six weeks Secretary of State Cyrus Vance has consulted with Church, hoping to cement a partnership that might smooth Carter's foreign policy problems with Congress. This has become an urgent need with Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, the Republican leader, trumpeting the end of bipartisanship on the new strategic arms treaty. In those three talks between Vance Church, the senator did not once attack Saudi Arabia as he did in his Feb. 1 speech to B-nai B-rith. In fact, he did not even mention the Saudis to Vance.

"But, of course we're friends, Mr. Teng... uh... but...!"

Angina can be hard to diagnose

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am 32 years old. I get a very uncomfortable feeling in my chest at times. I mentioned this to my doctor after a severe chest pain during a brisk walk to catch a tour bus. My EKG reading was normal. As time went on I often felt the pain and pressure, not always sharp.

I returned to the doctor. He had me walk on three steps for about five minutes, then took the EKG. Again, normal. He mentioned angina pectoris, but said it was difficult to pinpoint.

Now, months later, I'm married and moved away. I still get pains and I don't feel good the way things were left. Is there a test I can request to determine if I do have angina pectoris? Or should I forget it? I can't get it off my mind. — J.E.

Your letter points out the fact that not all tests give clearcut results, even when outward symptoms (such as your pains) point to a certain problem.

One method of detecting angina pectoris is the exercise test, which you had. There are other forms. In one, an EKG is taken while the patient exercises until pain occurs. At that point it's assumed that the blood supply was not able to keep up with the heart muscle's increasing blood demands. Given enough exercise, anyone may get pain, even with normal vessels in the heart. So it is a matter of degree. With "angina," pain comes with mild activity that would be considered "normal" for others.

Sometimes angina can be confirmed by injecting a radioactive substance at the time of the exercise test, then measuring the heart's uptake of it. The substance concentrates in heart muscle areas that lack sufficient blood. Finally, the dye can be injected directly into the heart vessels to pinpoint obstruction.

After all this, some may have angina without the doctor being able to actually prove it. For most he could. I sympathize with your feelings.

You should seek further tests, not only to satisfy yourself, but to get the proper treatment if you do have angina.

Dear Dr. Ruble: X-rays show that I have two aneurysms. The smaller one is on the right side about where the aorta divides. The larger one is on the left side approximately the same place. Is surgery absolutely necessary or simply elective? — E.G.F.

Your surgery for the aneurysms is considered elective. But that's a term that loses meaning quickly. If your doctor has recommended surgery, he feels the risk in not having it done is greater than the surgical risk itself. One of the consequences of severe bleeding. This can present a profound emergency. Your doctor can discuss this possibility with you.

If one's health is good otherwise, the surgery is standard treatment. There is no other medical approach. Your age, which you don't mention, may be a factor. If you have age and health on your side the surgery might be even more desirable.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am a black female, age 25. A year ago I developed these unsightly black moles. Can you tell me something about this condition or direct me to someone who could help? Can they be removed? — D.P.

Moles are moles, whether on dark or light skin. In dark-skinned individuals they would appear darker, of course. They are nothing but elevated pigmented growths. If they are a cosmetic nuisance, they can be removed by a plastic surgeon. You should be aware, though, that dark skin is more prone to formation of keloids — scar tissue resulting from such things as incisions, etc. Note: moles that increase in size rapidly should be examined.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have a boy who had asthma. The doctor tried everything but didn't do any good. A woman told me to take him to an oak tree and mark as high as he was and she said when he grows past that mark he wouldn't have it anymore. So I did and it sure helped him. It may sound awful to you, but it's true. He doesn't have it anymore. — Y.F.

Children often outgrow asthma as their systems adjust to some of the causes. But I wouldn't bet on the oak tree test.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am a 16-year-old boy with normal development, except that my breasts are enlarged. I have been taking injections of testosterone for this. There hasn't been any improvement and my doctor will not increase the dosage for fear of side effects. It seems to me there is a procedure that will give me some visible improvement. Can you tell me? — M.B.

Gynecomastia (enlarged breasts in the male) is common in adolescence. This enlargement usually subsides on its own after puberty. It would be more pronounced if you are on the chubby side. Many young men write in about it, so you are certainly not alone.

Certain glands may cause it, and that has to be considered in treatment, but hormone treatment is not usually effective. The testosterone in the male (masculinizing) hormone, and its use must be carefully monitored.

If the breast problem persists at maturity, and becomes a nuisance, you can look into surgery as a remedy. For the present I would not be looking for more of the hormone, but asking about the advisability of stopping it altogether.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Some neighbors belong to a church group that claims that it, and it alone, has the full truth about religion. What is your opinion about this? — H.E.C.

DEAR H.E.C.: While I don't know the group you mention, the Bible itself cautions against such groups. Also, the Bible tells us that one of the signs of the evil latter days would be men who claimed to have an exclusive corner on the truth of God. "For the time will come when men will not put up with sound doctrine. Instead, to suit their own desires, they will gather around them a great number of teachers to say what their itching ears want to hear. They will turn their ears away from the truth and turn aside to myths" (2 Timothy 4:3-4, New International Version).

There is only one standard for the truth about God, and that is God's Word: the Bible. Groups may differ on minor points of interpretation, but all true Christians are agreed on the central truths of the Word of God. All acknowledge that we are sinners, in need of God's grace. All acknowledge that Jesus Christ was God's son, sent into the world to save us from our sins. All acknowledge that by faith in Him we can be saved.

We live in a day when many new religions are becoming visible. But the events of the past few months have shown us how dangerous some of these cults can be. Always test any group or individual by asking the question Jesus asked of His disciples: "Who do you say I am?" (Matthew 16:15, NIV). Salvation comes not because we belong to a certain group, but because we have invited Christ into our lives by faith as Savior and Lord.

Personal message

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — We have an urgent message for the kidnapers of William Niehaus, the Owens-Illinois executive who was seized at gunpoint in his Caracas home by Venezuelan guerrillas three years ago.

The message is this; do not let the recent killing of Pedro Celestino Calcurian, known among the guerrillas as "Commander Tuqueque," keep you from contacting us again to arrange Niehaus' ransom and release.

Calcurian, a reputed guerrilla leader, died in a shootout with Venezuelan police a few months ago. On his body, say our sources, they found a snapshot of Niehaus' three sons at their Caracas swimming pool taken years ago. The dead man could have obtained the snapshot only from Niehaus.

WE HAVE RECEIVED no word from the kidnapers since that shootout, and it's possible they feel the need of reassurance from us. We want the guerrillas to know that we are still willing to go anywhere in the world to meet with their representatives, and that we act independently of the Venezuelan and United States governments — or, for that matter, the Owens-Illinois company.

Our only contact in this matter is Donna Niehaus, who with her three sons waits in never-ending anxiety at their home in Ohio, hoping for word of her husband and praying for his safe release.

We reported in earlier columns how the guerrillas' attempts to contact Owens-Illinois to negotiate Niehaus' ransom were thwarted by mischance. After reading our accounts, the kidnapers secretly contacted us to ask if we were willing to become part of the negotiations.

Assured that we were willing, the guerrillas recently provided us with solid proof that Niehaus was still alive as recently as last May 8.

We believe the 48-year-old American businessman is still alive; we hope the kidnapers will overcome their suspicions and renew their contact with us. We will resume negotiations on their terms, and meet them at a time and place of their choosing.

FORGOTTEN HERO: Mrs. Harry James Carr Jr. is a proud Gold Star mother who wants to honor the memory of her oldest son, Lt. (J.G.) Edward Brown Jr. in her own way.

But it is not the way of the Veterans Administration, which refuses to unbend. As a result, Mrs. Carr will not get the free memorial plaque to which she's entitled, and will wind up paying $150 to commemorate her son in the way she wishes.

The son, a 25-year-old Navy flyer, was hit by Viet Cong ground fire in July 1965, and his Crusader jet exploded in flames. No remains were ever found.

UNDER VA RULES, his mother could obtain a free memorial marker — but only to be placed in a national, local or private cemetery. "There is no authority under which a memorial marker may be furnished for installation outside of these areas" the VA advised Mrs. Carr.

What Mrs. Carr wanted was to have a memorial marker placed on the wall of the ROTC building at Notre Dame, her son's alma mater. She rejected the VA's offer to provide a marker for a cemetery on the South Bend campus where faculty members and special students are buried.

"It makes no sense to have a memorial over an empty grave," she explained to us. "It would be a hollow gesture without any meaning. I know they have to have rules, but I'm not going to desecrate the honor I'm trying to pay to the memory of my son."

From what we learned from one VA source, Mrs. Carr's only mistake was letting the agency know what she planned to do with the memorial marker. This source said the VA sends out the markers by the thousands, and never checks whether the cemetery-only rule is observed.

TwEEN 12 and 20 — Creative writing introduces poets

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

It's the creative writing segment of this column and I totally enjoy introducing three poets.

Welcome to Linda Hayes, 17, from Lakeview, Ore. Lisa Jones, 11, who lives in Oklahoma City and Eugene Protsman, 20, who presently is in the Colorado State Prison at Canon City, Colo.

DREAMS

Soar high for the dream that awaits you.
Glide down and grasp it in your wing.
Carry it along in all that you do
Then free it to do magical things. — Linda Hayes

ON THE OTHER HAND

I look out the window of my mind,
To see my destiny,
I look hard — but I can't see just who
Will be the future me.
Sometimes I dream to be big and famous.
With a penthouse apartment 10 stories high,
To be on Johnny Carson every once in awhile,
And make all the other movie stars sigh.

On the other hand I could be a small-town lawyer,
Solving all cases with magical ease.

With my family and children — a nice normal life,
The lady on the courtroom trapeze!

To debate these things there is no need,
Time will tell who I will be,
I will hang loose until I discover,

The mystery of who will be me. — Lisa Jones

I'M TRYING, DAD

I was just a lonely wee lad
Who wanted so much to be with dad.

But I wouldn't heed him then
So I wound up getting time "under ten."

Being here so many years
Will only bring countless tears.

So I must quit now for I am crying
So please, dad, believe me,
I'm trying.

— Eugene Protsman

Squares register

Big Spring Squares had a registration of 18 people for the new set of lessons Jan. 30.

Lessons and registration for Feb. 6 was canceled due to weather conditions. Lessons will be held open to new registrants through Feb. 27. No new students can be accepted after that date for the lessons will be moving ahead too fast for new students to catch up.

Dance night was Feb. 3 when eight squares enjoyed dancing to the calling of Randy Phillips of Abilene.

Visitors from Abilene, Colorado City and New York attended. The door prize was won by "Our" Randy.

The caller for Feb. 17 will be Hap Pope, a former Webb AFB resident now of Reese AFB at Lubbock.

Busy Bees hear piano

The Busy Bee Hobby Club met for a covered dish luncheon Thursday with Mrs. Alfred Reynolds on Manor Lane. The Valentine motif was used in the table settings.

Mrs. Joe Froman entertained with selections on the piano during the luncheon.

Mrs. J.H. Duke, president, presided over the business meeting prior to the luncheon. The group decided to dispense with hostess gifts since the meetings will be held in the homes of members.

Projects were discussed. An instructor in ceramics will start a class in this media soon. A field trip is planned for April.

The next meeting will be March 1.

Be sure and love carefully

BOSTON (AP) — Some say it with flowers, others with candy. This Valentine's Day, a Zero Population Growth group is saying it with contraceptives.

To mark its third annual "Love Carefully Day" Wednesday, the Zero Population Growth group of Massachusetts is selling Valentine's Day cards with condoms inside to stress the message that everyone, especially teen-agers, should "love carefully."

On the pink and black card's outside is a pair of romantically inclined bunnies headed into a Tunnel of Love. Inside their boat leaves the tunnel, nearly swamped with baby bunnies.

On the back, a message says teen-age pregnancies account for a fifth of all births in the United States.

"It's a way of drawing people's attention to a serious problem," said Bob Weinstein, the executive director of ZPG-Massachusetts, who is coordinating Love Carefully Day.

Weinstein said 1979 marks the first time his group has sold these different Valentine's Day cards nationwide. Similar cards have been marketed for three years in Massachusetts, where contraceptives were illegal for single persons prior to 1972 and married couples needed a prescription for them.

"We included the condoms because they're the most accessible and least expensive form of contraception for teenagers," said Weinstein.

Anderson, assistant; Rosetta Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Rosa B. Stewart, chaplain. Committee appointments were Mrs. Person, chairperson; Mrs. Anna Green, Jo Hazel Dawson and Shirley Tate, program chairmen; Mrs. Viola Merritt, art; Clemmie Johnson, chairman of the social committee, Annie Huey and Fannie Wood, members; Mrs. Rosco L. Stewart, benevolent; Mrs. Naomi L. Graham, reporter.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Annie M. Anderson, 709 Edwards Blvd.

Soil builders study nutrition

Diet and Nutrition will be the program subject at the regular monthly meeting of the Organic Soil Builders Club to be held this Monday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Johansen, San Agnelo Highway. The program will be offered by C.R. Smith of Colorado City. Mrs. John Johansen, president, will conduct the brief business meeting.

AUNT JENNY — Aunt Jenny Wilson, of Cooked Creek, W. Va., is a traditional mountain woman. She plays the banjo and sings ballads year round but the winter finds her hard at work on her quilts. "I've made six quilts so far this winter and I'm working on two more," says the well-known southern West Virginia woman, who will be 79 later this month.

Banjo playing quilt maker remembers all

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent

CROOKED CREEK, W. Va. (AP) — The snow lies deep and even on the mountains and the sense of isolation even deeper, quilting time in Appalachia.

"I've made six quilts so far this winter and I'm working on two more," Aunt Jenny Wilson said with undisguised pride.

"Quilt patterns have such grand names: Jacob's Ladder, Dear's Paw, Milky Way, Texas Star, Clay's Choice. I couldn't tell you all the patterns I've made in my time."

"Whenever I get a quilt done, a hand is there to put it in, and that pleases me."

"I have three children, 11 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren. I'm 79 years old, or will be on Feb. 9, and haven't spent a day in a hospital in my life. If any woman has had more pleasure than I, well, buddy, I'd like to meet her."

Aunt Jenny Wilson, matriarch of Crooked Creek hollow, is a walking folk song.

She is a mountain woman with all that implies, a life shaped by remoteness, danger, blood feuds, hot passions and a stoic resignation to what may come. "If you're born to hang you'll never drown," Aunt Jenny says. "Let the big cat jump."

She has seen it all and endured it all, all the joys and horrors that have made Appalachia less a place name than a mystique.

She buried her husband too young. Coal mine cave-in. She carries knife scars on her back and arm, souvenirs of a square dance that went sour when the moonshine jug appeared. Yet the same nimble fingers that work a quilting needle also pluck a rooticking banjo; home-spun song and laughter abide. A mountain woman.

Aunt Jenny's banjo — she pronounces it, musically, banjer — has brought her not only pleasure, but in recent years, fame.

She has been, Lord help us, discovered. Students of Appalachian folkways for miles around have invited her to music festivals to listen to her play, question her, cherish her as a relic.

"Last year I went all the way to Arlington, Texas. My grandson and I drove out in his pickup truck."

For her, old mountain traditions are not a matter of academic research but simple remembering.

"I was the youngest of 11. I was like a toy to my brothers. They called me sparrow. I was so little and scrawny. I was always pestering to go with them but they wouldn't let me."

"One day my brother said, 'Sparrow, if you can learn to shoot a gun, ride a horse and play a banjo, you can go where the boys go.'"

"I learned all three. I was playing the banjer when I was 9 and by the time I was 14 I was playing at every dance around..."

"I don't dance anymore. I leave that to the others, and I do enjoy watching them."

"But, my, yes, I still love to play. Come spring I'll put new strings on that banjer and be off playing again. There's seven or eight places I've already been invited to."

"Not now, though. Buddy, you couldn't get me out in that weather. I'll just stay home and tend to my quilting."

Spring City Gals learn ceramics

The Spring City Gals Home Demonstration Club met Feb. 2 at Lee's Ceramics, with seven members present. Lee Turner taught the members the techniques of ceramics at the 1:30 p.m. meeting, from pouring a greenware to putting the finishing touches on. The group adjourned to meet at the home of Janice Mayes for refreshments.

Knocked For A Loophole

DEAR ABBY: Referring to the letter from a Florida CPA: He amended your advice to the woman who asked about the seriousness of her husband's practice of pocketing part of his daily income.

The CPA quotes you as saying it was indeed a serious offense, and her husband could be fined or jailed or both. Then he goes on to say that you, Dear Abby, didn't go far enough—you should have advised her that if she and her husband signed a joint federal tax return, she is equally guilty of fraud, and therefore subject to the same penalty.

Your comment: "Leave it to a CPA to catch the omission." Well, the CPA is correct up to a point; however he didn't go far enough either! Had he read Section 6013 (e) of the Internal Revenue Code, he would know that the spouse is relieved of liability under certain conditions.

On omitted income, it reads: "The other spouse establishes that in signing the return he or she did not know of, and had no reason to know of, such omission."
C.J.S.: TAX CONSULTANT VENTURA, CALIF.

DEAR C.J.S.: Leave it to a California tax consultant to find a loophole that was overlooked by a CPA.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to complain about barbers who charge bald-headed men and those with full heads of hair the same price for haircuts. She thought the baldies should pay half price.

You replied, "So how much should the barber charge the man with long hair that requires twice as much time for a haircut? Sorry, it all evens out. Anyone who feels that the trimming he's getting isn't worth the trimming he's getting should stay out of barber shops."

Gotcha, Abby! At my barber shop, in addition to the already inflated prices, they charge a minimum of $2 extra for long hair. And no discounts for baldies.

M.B.M.

DEAR M.B.M.: Your barber shop sounds like a clip joint.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has developed the habit of taking long naps (from one to three hours) almost every night when he gets home from work.

I think he is anti-social and uses these naps to avoid people.

He usually wakes up about the time most normal people are ready for bed. Then he stays up and reads, eats, watches TV, etc. He goes to sleep for the night about 1 o'clock and sleeps like a baby until it's time to get up for work. On weekends he sleeps most of the day and all night, too.

I told him I thought he ought to see a doctor, but he says there's nothing wrong with him. We're both in our early 50s. Do you think he's just being anti-social? Or is there something wrong with a person who can't seem to get enough sleep?

SLEEPER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband appears to be sleeping far too much for a normal, healthy person. Insist that he see a physician for a thorough examination.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Controversy swirling

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The controversy swirling around the fatal shooting of a former mental patient by police will be the subject of a Tarrant County grand jury review this week.

The victim, Samuel Taylor Stewart Jr., was shot to death by police after policeman J.C. Gual was wounded fatally by a bullet allegedly fired by Stewart. The 42-year-old former mental patient had barricaded himself in his home, but witnesses said he fled after police fired tear gas canisters inside.

He was struck by numerous rounds of gunfire as he fled the house.

Of prime importance to the grand jury will be the actions of policeman J.D. Fulbright, who was alleged to have advanced on the fallen Stewart and fired two last bursts of shotgun pellets into the body.

A police committee, which investigated the shooting at the request of Police Chief A.J. Brown concluded that Fulbright could not be prosecuted. It cited contradicting witness statements and said Fulbright was singled out for criticism despite gunfire by several officers.

Brown laid the committee's recommendations aside and told it to do more investigating and come up with a new report.

Bill to cut utilities?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Reps. Mary Jane Bode, D-Austin, and Leroy Wieting, D-Portland, have a plan they say will save old folks $15 to $20 a month on their utility bills.

The two introduced measures today that would set aside 1 percent of the current 7 1/2 percent Natural Gas Wellhead Tax to help the elderly poor with their utility bills by direct payments to the utility companies.

The program, if approved by the Legislature and Texas voters, would be administered by the Texas Department of Human Resources.

The authors estimated the cost at about $140 million every two years.

A similar program by Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, has been approved by a Senate committee.

"Even though they consume less energy than any other age or income group, the elderly poor pay a disproportionately large amount of their incomes for utilities that are for them essential to life and health," the House authors told a news conference. "It has been said that inflation is the cruellest form of taxation. If that is true, inflation's effect upon those elderly poor on fixed incomes surpasses cruelty."

Truth test next

DALLAS (AP) — Authorities will administer a polygraph examination Tuesday to a Mexican national who claims a U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agent stole $540 from him.

Raymundo Esqueda said the agent picked him up Jan. 30 for immigration violations and took him home to pack for Mexico. Esqueda said the agent searched a chest of drawers and found Esqueda's wallet.

The wallet contained $340, Esqueda said, but he discovered later the money was missing.

Authorities said Esqueda will be kept in Dallas until the investigation of the theft charge is completed.

Mardi gras countdown

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Relieved by cancellation of a planned garbage collectors strike, the city today began a Mardi Gras countdown with a series of talks to appease demands of a defiant police union.

The talks between city officials and the Police Association of New Orleans are aimed at formalizing major concessions made Saturday by Mayor Ernest Morial to end a 30-hour strike by the Teamsters affiliates.

Train jumps tracks

McINTOSH, Ga. (AP) — Two persons remained hospitalized today after a New York-to-Florida Amtrak passenger train jumped the tracks, sending 38 persons to the hospital.

Amtrak spokesman Jim Bryant said the Silver Star was traveling at about 80 miles an hour early Sunday when a loose wheel sent 13 cars of the 15-car train skidding from the elevated track bed.

None of the derailed cars overturned, and most of the 450 passengers were uninjured, he said.

Peace treaty talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next round of Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty talks will begin Feb. 21 at Camp David, Md. It could be the last American attempt at driving the two sides into removing obstacles to completing their historic agreement.

Acceptances to invitations have been received from Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan.

Bergland draws fire of Clements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements expressed strong support today for the American Agriculture Movement and joined it in calling for the resignation of Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

Clements also continued his criticism of President Carter's energy policies during a news conference scheduled during a Carter news conference.

"It would be a step in the right direction for Mr. Bergland to resign," began Texas' first Republican governor in 104 years. "Mr. Bergland does not represent the farmer."

Clements also noted that it was strange that "Mr. Carter was a peanut farmer" most of his life and is "not in tune with the farmer."

Clements said the Carter administration should quickly negotiate an oil and gas contract with Mexico, noting "he's off to a good start by leaving Mr. (Energy Secretary James R.) Schlesinger at home."

Clements was referring to Carter's trip to Mexico City later this week.

Bank bids reviewed

State National Bank of Big Spring was awarded the bid for county bank depository today in the Howard County Commissioners' Court meeting.

State National presented the best bid pledging 6 percent interest on county monies deposited for 30 to 89 days, 6 1/2 percent interest on county monies deposited for 90 to 170 days, and 7 percent interest on money deposited for 180 to 364 days.

The other two bidders submitting bids were First National and Security National, both of Big Spring. Commissioner Bill Crocker said, "as far as he could tell" State National had the best bid and made the motion to accept their bid as county depository for the next four years. Motion was seconded by Commissioner Louis Brown and carried unanimously.

An unpaid part of Jeffery Road, south of Big Spring, was accepted as a county road. Four people who use the road were present to air their grievances about the condition of the road. Commissioner Paul Allen made the motion to accept the road, adding that they couldn't promise to pave it but that they would grade it to improve the condition caused by the recent bad weather. Commissioner Brown opposed the measure raising the question that the court would be setting a precedent. The motion carried three to one with Brown opposing.

The 1979 grievance committee was chosen. Three members of the December district grand jury were picked to unite with all Howard County elected officials to air grievances of county employees.

The three grand jurors selected are Gerald Harris, Angel Jones, and John McKenzie pending their agreement to serve on the committee. They were picked by random by County Judge Bill Tune.

Items to be discussed later today are the approval of the ambulance company contract, the jail standard report and the treasurer's report.

N.L. Roll, Red Cross Director, will also meet the commissioners today and bids will open for the county's gas, diesel, and oil for 1979. Also commissioners will appoint members to the volunteer fire stations and open bids for a riding lawn mower.

Names in the news

Billy Carter backs out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Billy Carter backed out of appearing on a CBS interview show because of "unwarranted press speculation about matters that are purely private and personal," his attorney says.

CBS quoted attorney John Parks as saying the president's brother decided not to appear on "Face the Nation" Sunday after he decided that the publicity had been damaging.

Carter was criticized by Jewish groups and some administration opponents for making allegedly anti-Semitic remarks while playing host recently to an unofficial delegation from Libya.

Parks said no one from the White House contacted Carter about his scheduled appearance, adding: "If the White House had made such a contact that would have made him more eager to do it."

CBS reported Saturday night that presidential advisor Gerald Rofshoon's secretary called the network Friday and said Rofshoon was "very disappointed" and "very upset" that the president's brother was to be questioned on the program.

But CBS quoted Rofshoon as saying that he had done nothing to try to get Carter to cancel his appearance.

Bear Bryant's rib cracked

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Bear Bryant is reported resting comfortably in a hospital where he is being treated for a cracked rib.

Bryant, coach of the top-ranked University of Alabama football team, was admitted to West Alabama General Hospital on Saturday complaining of lack of sleep and an upper respiratory infection.

Associate athletic director Sam Bailey said the 65-year-old coach fell on his chest while getting out of the shower at home Tuesday night.

Dr. Hayes Boyd, the coach's personal physician, said Sunday that Bryant's condition was stable and that he would be out of the hospital soon.

Bryant holds a 284-77-16 record during 33 years as a head coach, 21 of them at Alabama.

Joan Little makes offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joan Little reportedly wants to do youth work at a church that supported her unsuccessful fight against extradition after she escaped from prison in North Carolina.

The Rev. Timothy Mitchell, pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist Church in Queens, said Miss Little made the offer to an assistant pastor who visited her Sunday at the North Carolina Correctional Center for Women.

Miss Little, 24, attracted nationwide attention from civil rights and feminist groups during her trial on charges of killing a North Carolina prison guard in 1975 while serving time on a robbery charge.

She was acquitted on the grounds that she acted in self-defense and was sent back to prison on the robbery charge. She escaped in 1977 just weeks before she would have been eligible for parole and was later captured in Brooklyn.

After losing her fight against extradition early last year, she was returned to North Carolina. She will be eligible for parole June 9.

REFINERY FIRE — Flames and smoke rise from a fire Monday at the Standard Oil Refinery at Whiting, Ind., near the Illinois border south of Chicago. Explosions shook the area as the fire was touched off early today. Firemen are containing the blaze to a 2-3 acre square. There have been no casualties reported.

Explosions rock refinery

WHITING, Ind. (AP) — A half-dozen explosions shook this small industrial town early today as a mammoth fire engulfed a Standard Oil Co. refinery, spewing flames 100 feet into the air and forcing about 1,500 nearby residents from their homes, police said.

No injuries were immediately reported, but police said communications with the sprawling facility were severed by the blaze.

Fire Capt. Edward Hrabovsky said about 2,000 persons worked at the refinery, once the largest in the nation, but he did not know how many were at the plant at the time of the blast.

The Whiting Fire Department reported no requests for ambulances, which it provides for the refinery.

Whiting is a town of 7,500 just across the Illinois-Indiana border from Chicago.

Fire units from the refinery fought the blaze early this morning, but some 100 fire-fighters from Whiting and surrounding municipalities were stationed outside the refinery in case the fire spread beyond the plant, said Whiting Fire Capt. John Hatzel.

The fire followed a series of blasts that ripped through pipelines and storage tanks about 11:45 p.m. EST Sunday and was reported contained in the area where it originated by 4 a.m. EST today, according to Hatzel. He would not say, however, that the fire was under control.

Frank Murzyn, a refinery electrician, said there was danger of flaming fuel spilling from the retaining wall of the ultra-former No. 4 unit where the fire apparently started. The wall is an earthen rampart surrounding the unit, where high-octane aviation fuel is produced.

Murzyn said if the flames spread, they might reach benzene-filled tank cars on adjacent railroad tracks or a large propane tank in the middle of the burning area. He said firefighters seemed to have been able to keep the blaze from spreading.

But an icy wind was blowing from the east toward homes only two blocks from the fire while some residents shivered in the sub-freezing temperatures, watching fire-fighters battle the blaze.

Police said 10 blocks were evacuated. Some residents were taken to the Whiting Community Center and others went to stay with relatives or at motels, a Whiting police spokesman said. An explosion at the refinery in August 1955 killed two persons and injured 35. Destroyed were 200 homes, 70 storage tanks and three refining units.

One of those killed was a 3-year-old boy who died when debris from an explosion struck his home.

That blaze consumed some 47 acres, burning itself out after eight days.

Police discovered a possible clue left at the scene of a collision between the Y.M.C.A., 800 Ownes, between 5 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday. Leading up to and away from the front entrance door were tracks indicating that the getaway vehicle may have been a skateboard. The broken glass resulted in a damage of $100.

Criminal mischief resulted in damage to three vehicles over the weekend. Between 10:15 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday, someone covered Leo Salzar's auto with eggs and obscene language written with white and black shoe polish. The vehicle was parked in his driveway. The amount of damage is unknown.

A rock tossed by two male subjects driving by K&K Upholstery Shop resulted in a broken rear windshield of a vehicle owned by Borden Mullins, 2:05 p.m. Saturday. The car was in the shop for repairs and was being worked on by one of the employees at the time.

Wiley R. Madewell Jr. suffered $50 damage to his vehicle while driving west on FM 700, between Birdwell and Goliad, Saturday. He reported that at 5:45 p.m., three juvenile pedestrians, about 9 years of age, threw a rock which struck the front passenger's door.

Tammy Jay Derrick discovered after exiting Bogarts at 2 a.m. Sunday that the automobile she was driving had been removed from the parking lot. The 1975 red Toyota, apparently stolen, was taken without the aid of keys sometime after 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Charles Robert Abrams, 23, of San Angelo was arrested at 2:45 a.m. today for the unlawful carrying of a weapon. Police said they sighted a pistol lying on the driver's side of the floorboard after stopping Abrams on a traffic violation.

Losses Saturday included a wallet containing $45 cash lost by Eula Walker in the parking lot of College Park TG&Y. Police aided her in her search, but it was not recovered. Total value is estimated at $50.

Perry Culwell noticed that he was missing a license tag from his automobile 3:38 p.m. Saturday. The car was parked in the parking lot of Barcelona Apartments.

A number of minor accidents kept police busy Saturday.

Irene Salgado, 405 N.E. 9th, and Dale Delores Johnson, 1511A Wood, collided in the parking lot of Dairy Queen, N. Lamesa Hwy., 1:42 p.m.

Brian Scott Robertson, 2509 Central, and Melvin Arnetta Brandom of Coleman were involved in a collision at Hwy 350 and Interstate 20 at 4:32 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Avalee Weeks Gunn, 1707 Goliad, and Louis Raby Dunham, 2820 Melrose, collided at 24th and Scurry, 5:20 p.m.

'Torture' strangler still free

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Police have checked 200 suspects since the "Bind, Torture, and Kill Strangler" claimed his seventh victim a year ago. But no one has been arrested and authorities think the killer is still in the city.

"We're working constantly," said Lt. Bernie Drowatzky who directs two detectives working fulltime on the case. "It's our hope that somewhere down the line we can come up with this man before he can do something again."

A year ago last week a Wichita television station received a letter from a man identifying himself as the "Bind, Torture and Kill Strangler." He took responsibility for the slaying of four members of the Joseph Otero family in January 1974 and three other murders. The latest was in 1977.

"He went three years one time without doing anything, but the Oteros and Shirley Vian," said Deputy Chief Bill Cornwell. "The doctors tell us as long as he's being able to fantasize what he's done, he might not do it again. But the fantasy may wear off."

Police have called in psychologists to profile the killer based on evidence in the murders and letters he sent to the Wichita Eagle and Beacon in October 1974 and to KAKE-TV in February 1978.

Police have used hypnosis without success on several persons who said they saw a car leaving the home where the Oteros were killed.

Cornwell and Drowatzky said they could not disclose other investigative methods being used. Both say they are convinced the strangler remains in the city even though he has not written in a year.

Cornwell said the killer won't be caught until there is "either a tip from an individual or a mistake on his part."

Besides the murders of Mr. and Mrs. Otero and two of their children Jan. 15, 1974, the killer claimed responsibility for the strangulation deaths of Shirley Vian, 26, in March 1977, and Nancy Jo Fox, 25, in December 1977.

Irish foul the wrong Bruin

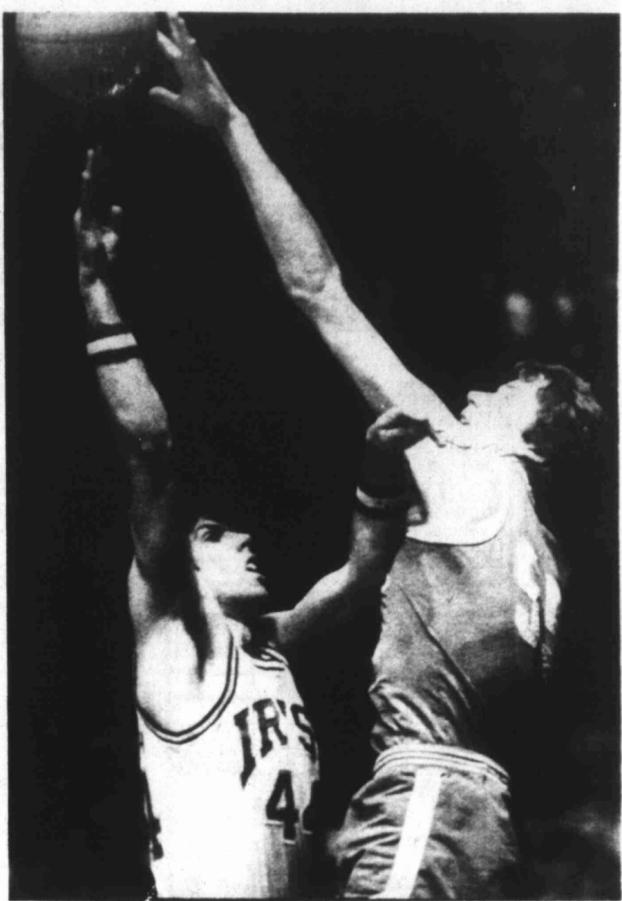

Associated Press Writer
Tyren Nauls is a fiery freshman with a senior's icy instincts. He was definitely the wrong man for the Notre Dame basketball team to foul in a crucial situation Sunday. "He's a confident individual," confirms UCLA Coach Gary Cunningham. Only a 64 percent foul shooter, Nauls was just perfect when he had to be — converting four free shots in the final 13 seconds as the fourth-ranked Bruins defeated the top-ranked Irish 56-52.

"In many ways, he reminds me of myself when I was a freshman," noted UCLA's cool senior guard Brad Holland after watching Nauls' pressure-proof performance in the face of passionate Notre Dame fans at the Irish's Athletic Convocation Center in South Bend, Ind. Nauls appeared not to be bothered by the legion of Notre Dame fans waving wildly behind the basket in an attempt to distract him at the foul line. During his pre-shot meditations, he looked only at the floor before shooting. "We fouled him because we thought he wasn't in his rhythm," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps. "Our other choice was (James) Wilkes. But he had hit two-of-two earlier." Nauls wasn't the only reason the Irish lost, of course. Their inconsistent offense was another. "We missed too many easy shots when we had the lead at the start of the second half," said Phelps. "They took advantage of our mistakes. Defensively we played well, but not offensively." Notre Dame's loss came one day after some upsets shook the Top Twenty. Third-ranked Duke lost a 71-69 shocker at home to Pittsburgh; No. 11 Texas A&M was beaten on the road by Texas Tech 67-63 and No. 16 Alabama dropped an 80-71 decision to Kentucky. Elsewhere, No. 2 Indiana State beat Bradley 91-72; No. 9 Marquette trimmed No. 5 Louisville 71-55; No. 6 North Carolina whipped Providence 89-55; No. 7 Syracuse defeated St. Bonaventure 74-69; No. 8

Roy Hamilton led UCLA with 12 points. Jackson and Kelly Tripucka paced the Irish with 11 points apiece.

Green's putt worked

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer HONOLULU (AP) — Hubert Green talked of a scene that took place on the practice putting green early last week as he prepared for a defense of his title in the Hawaiian Open golf tournament. "My putting had been terrible all year. "I was lost. "Ben Crenshaw was out there helping. Hell, my wife was helping me. "I was struggling, lost. People were laughing at me." So, he said, he went to "my putting stance No. 4-25-WB." It worked. It produced a relatively easy 3-stroke victory with a 21-under-par total of 267. He closed it out in a howling tropical squall with a 69, and no one got closer than the final margin over the last round. He made only one bogey for the week. "I worked on it," said Green, who now has won at least one tournament each of the last seven years and has 15 titles for his nine-year career. "Like any vocation, or avocation, you have to work at it to hope to do it well. I worked hard at it," he said and flashed his peculiar grin. "And it paid off." With a 4-shot lead, he birdied three holes in a row at the soaked and soggy Waialae Country Club. He started the string with an 18-footer on the sixth hole, followed with a 25-foot putt and then scored from six feet. That lifted his lead to 6 shots, gave him the margin he needed and sent wife Karen scurrying in search of an umbrella. Her timing was right. Moments later the misty rain turned into a storm with 40 mph gusts. Fuzzy Zoeller made the biggest — perhaps only — move of the stormy day. Zoeller played his back nine in 31, including birdies on the last two holes, for a 65 that put him alone at second with 270. He collected $32,400 from the total purse and, with his recent victory at San Diego, became the year's leading money-winner at $82,444. Green won $54,000. Larry Nelson shot a 67 and claimed third at 272. The trio of Texans at 273 were rookie Lindy Miller, 47-year-old veteran Miller Barber and former Masters champion Charles Coody. Coody and Barber had 69s, Miller a 70. Tom Watson, Player of the Year and the leading money-winner for the last two seasons, never really got in the hunt. He had a closing 72 and was far back at 281.

'Sir Slam' leads 76ers past Washington

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer Midway through the third period at the Spectrum in Philadelphia, center Darryl Dawkins of the 76ers drove toward the basket. Elvin Hayes of Washington was underneath to defend, but there was no stopping the man they call Sir Slam. Dawkins rammed home a ferocious two-handed dunk for two of his 13 third-quarter points, helping the Philadelphia 76ers — minus injured stars Doug Collins and Julius Erving — defeat the Washington Bullets 107-99 Sunday. In other NBA games Sunday, the Boston Celtics beat the New York Knicks 107-102, the Kansas City Kings nipped the Los Angeles Lakers 104-103, the San Antonio Spurs topped the Golden State Warriors 125-107, the New Jersey Nets defeated the San Diego Clippers 104-98, the Milwaukee Bucks clobbered the Denver Nuggets 126-87, the Indiana Pacers edged the Chicago Bulls 110-108, the Phoenix Suns trounced the Cleveland Cavaliers 136-101 and the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Atlanta Hawks 91-87. Celtics 107, Knicks 102 Boston, last in the Atlantic Division, climbed within one-half game of New York with its second victory over the Knicks this weekend. It was the seventh victory in the last eight games for the Celtics, who got 29 points from player-coach Dave Cowens.

MSU hires Bellard

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Former Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard has been selected as the new head football coach at Mississippi State University, sources said today. Mississippi State University scheduled a news conference this afternoon to announce the school's new coach but a spokesman declined to confirm Bellard's selection. "He's the new coach and there's no doubt about that," one source said. "They will make the choice known at the news conference." Bellard, who resigned as athletic director and head football coach at Texas A&M in midseason of 1978, will replace Bob Tyler as head coach. Tyler resigned on Jan. 22, one week after being relieved as the Bulldog athletic director. Sources said Mississippi State President James D. McComas had asked the state College Board Sunday afternoon to approve Bellard's selection. The sources said Bellard received unanimous approval in a telephone poll of board members. Contacted Sunday at his home in College Station, Tex., Bellard said "Things will take their normal course" and that he did not want to "pre-empt" any announcement by Mississippi State.

Hilary Hilton would rather be Chris than Farah

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent "A cross between Farah Fawcett-Majors and Chris Evert?" repeated Hilary Hilton, tossing her shoulder-length blonde hair. "I must say that is very flattering. "But if I had to choose between being one or the other, I think I would prefer to be Chris Evert." It wasn't really a fair question to throw at the attractive, 28-year-old raquet whiz from Pacific Palisades, Calif., but she was prepared for it. After all, magazines and newspapers have repeatedly called attention to her resemblance to the one-time sex symbol of "Charlie's Angels." Hilton's right to be spoken of in the same breath with Chris Evert, the world's top women's tennis player, is unquestioned. She is the only person to hold national titles in three different raquet sports — platform tennis, paddle tennis and tennis. She is in New York for a platform tennis invitational, now in progress at the Apple Platform Club in mid-Manhattan. She began last Saturday. The event continues next weekend. "Please don't misunderstand me," Hilton said. "I have the greatest admiration for Farah, whom I have met only casually. She is a striking beauty. To me, Chris' attractiveness lies in her inner being — her accomplishments. "I am afraid looks can be very fleeting." Hilton has shared the national doubles title in platform tennis, a popular offshoot game played with paddle and ball inside an enlarged chicken coop; has won the national women's singles title in paddle tennis and shared five titles in women's doubles and mixed doubles in the National Public Parks Tennis Championship, an event that draws thousands. "I came by my interest in sports naturally," she said. "I was encouraged to engage in outdoor activity — I was never pushed. I was playing paddle tennis with my father, a very good athlete, when I was four or five years old." Living near the water, Hilton became an expert surfer. She played volleyball, paddle tennis and tennis. "It was the environment," she said. "You just couldn't lie around in the sun all day."

Reds stifle NHL

By FRANK BROWN AP Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — When it was over, after the Soviet National team had dismantled the National Hockey League's attack piece by piece and won the Challenge Cup, the Madison Square Garden work crew took down the boards that border the playing surface ... piece by piece. At one end of the abandoned arena, the cover was taken off a rectangular pit which would swallow up the melted ice the way the Soviet defense had swallowed up the NHL attack — and the hopes the North American players would back up their claim on hockey supremacy. The sullen fans had long since filed out, leaving sullen NHL players to explain the 6-0 Soviet triumph that gave the visitors a 2-1 victory in the three-game series. "We gave it all we had," said Islanders defenseman Sal Pasvich. "We played pretty well. We worked our butts off and played hard, but they had a system, and any team with a system is going to beat the team that doesn't have one." The Soviet system was executed by workmen in different clothes; veteran Boris Mikhailov was their foreman. The Nationals cut off the NHL passing lanes the way a boxer cuts off the ring on his opponent. They negated Guy Lafleur, despite the exhortations of 17,545 voices crying "Guy, Guy, Guy" every time he handled the puck. "I didn't hear them," said Lafleur, who started Thursday night's 4-2 NHL triumph with a goal at the 16-second mark. He was powerless to please them, even if he had heard. The Soviets controlled his magic, withstood the bruising NHL body attack — not all of it legal — and got 24 saves from goalie Vladimir Myshkin to win the prize they came 4,665 air miles to

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Obtain the information you need so that you can handle a puzzling matter wisely. Use care in motion at this time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Think more about saving money instead of spending it, and cut down on expensive pleasures first. Make needed repairs to property.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your new ideas and put the most practical ones to work immediately and get excellent results. Be careful of your reputation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Confer with a trusted adviser so you'll know how to solve a puzzling problem. Take no risks with money matters now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use more good judgment and less reliance on your intuition for best results today. Consult an expert for advice you need.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle your most important responsibility early in the day for best results. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It is important you converse at length with associates until you come to a true meeting of minds. Show that you have poise.

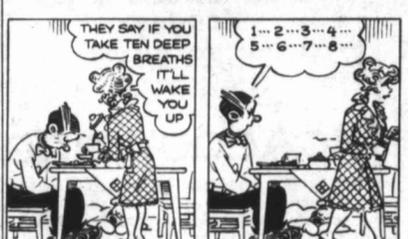

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be extra fussy about details and should be taught to concentrate on more important issues involved and then this becomes a successful life instead of a frustrated one. Don't neglect good religious training.
