

Firing squad busy in Tehran

Four more generals executed

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime executed four more of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's generals by firing squad early today and said it would bound the ruler in exile until he could only find refuge in South Africa or Israel.

Aides to Khomeini said Gen. Parviz Amin Afshar, former commander of the shah's Imperial Guard; Brig. Gen. Maunuchehr Malek, the infantry commander in Qazvin; Gen. Nematullah Motamadi, military governor of Qazvin, and Gen. Hossein Hamadanian, chief of the SAVAK secret police in Kermanshah, were shot at 2 a.m.

Their deaths brought to eight the number of generals executed by the new Islamic regime, and three more were killed by mobs. Sixteen more officials have been reported condemned to death, and the roundup is continuing.

Malek and Motamadi were held responsible for the bloody suppression of demonstrations against the shah in Qazvin, 90 miles northwest of Tehran, where scores were killed and tanks were used against the demonstrators. Last Thursday a firing squad executed Gen. Nematullah Nassiri, former national head of SAVAK, and three other top military commanders on a rooftop at Khomeini's headquarters.

In addition to the condemned in the upper echelons, two policemen were executed Monday in the central city of Najafabad for killing demonstrators in anti-shah riots.

Khomeini was reported to have sent word last week to the shah's host, King Hassan of Morocco, that he would demand the extradition of the monarch to face trial for "crimes against the Iranian people." The king told reporters in Paris he would reject any such request because Morocco and Iran have no extradition treaty.

The new Foreign Ministry announced today it had sent Hassan a message saying: "We will continue our efforts for the extradition and will force the shah into a situation in which he can go only to Johannesburg or Tel Aviv."

The shah's father, Reza Shah, died in exile in South Africa, and the son was one of South Africa's chief suppliers of oil. He was also Israel's chief supplier of oil, defying the boycott of his fellow Moslems, the Arabs.

The last royal government headed by Shahpour Bakhtiar said no more Iranian oil would go to Israel, and on Sunday the new government broke all relations with the Jewish nation and expelled all Israeli officials and government representatives from the country. On Monday, the government turned over the Israeli Embassy to Yasser Arafat, the chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization, who declared it the world's first "embassy of Palestine."

Khomeini, the 78-year-old Shiite Moslem leader of the year-long revolt that drove the shah from Iran Jan. 16, vowed in a broadcast today to continue his revolution "until the hands of the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain are cut from Iran."

In a radio address on the reopening of schools, he said the people must "strive and water the tree of freedom of the country. You will be liable if you fall short. Today the people of Iran, without any leaning toward left or right, have completed an uprising, and the traitors are waiting to demolish you."

Arson caused fire, states Ryals

Arson was the cause of the blaze that destroyed five townhouses under construction just off U.S. 87 near Comanche Trail Lake, according to Big Spring Fire Marshal Jim Ryals.

"All the evidence we have points to arson," said Ryals, today, following an extensive examination of the site. The Fire Department was alerted at 7:52 p.m. Sunday of the blaze. By the time firefighters arrived, the half-completed complex was burning out of control.

"We talked to witnesses who saw it when it first went up, and they said that a big ball of flame just appeared. It was out of control by the time anyone spotted it," said Ryals.

He was estimated through witnesses' accounts that the fire started between 7:30 and 7:45 p.m. Sunday, often a combustible liquid was spread throughout the interior of the complex, and ignited.

"We have sent several different samples from the debris to our lab in Austin. We should get a report from there about the type of material used in two or three days," said Ryals, this morning.

An insurance adjuster is scheduled to arrive from Dallas today to examine the site and confer with owner Jerry Worthy and contractor Al Lain. One estimate has set damages at over $80,000 for materials alone.

Griffin case still alive

James Griffin, whose contract as head basketball coach at Big Spring High School was not renewed in 1977, has appealed a Jan. 13 ruling by the State Board of Education which, in effect, concurred with a decision made by the Big Spring school board not to retain Griffin.

The Big Spring board of trustees acted on the recommendation of the school administration not to rehire Griffin because of his inability to maintain a harmonious posture toward other members within the athletic department and other members of the administrative staff.

Lynn Hise, superintendent of the Big Spring schools, and Mike McKinney, the school system's legal representative, have received copies of the petition from the Travis County district court in Austin, where the case will be tried. The date of the petition is Monday, Feb. 12.

McKinney declined to comment on the latest maneuver by Griffin other than to say he was studying the petition.

When the State Board of Education ruled in favor of the Big Spring school board it overruled a decision rendered by the State Educational Commissioner, M.L. Brockett, who issued the opinion that Griffin's grievance was legitimate and that he should be rehired by the school district.

No date for the trial has been set in the Austin court.

Chinese to pull out?

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Intelligence sources said today China's invasion columns have resumed their advance into Vietnam, but an official in Peking reportedly told a diplomat that Chinese troops have halted their drive and will soon pull out of Vietnam.

A Lebanese Embassy source in Peking said Chinese Deputy Foreign Minister Ho Ying told Lebanese Ambassador Elie J. Boustany that Chinese forces would move no deeper into Vietnamese territory and would soon withdraw, Japan's Kyodo news service reported.

It said the Foreign Ministry official did not divulge a timetable for the expected pullout.

Another Japanese report from Peking said Chinese troops in north China have been alerted for possible war with the Soviet Union and civilians have been evacuated from some border areas.

The intelligence sources in Bangkok said that after withdrawing some units Monday the Chinese sent in replacements and pushed ahead a mile or more.

Previously the Chinese were reported to have penetrated no more than six miles along any of the various invasion corridors they used across a 450-mile front.

Kyodo said Soviet and Vietnamese sources in the Chinese capital said heavy fighting was continuing between Chinese and Vietnamese forces in the area of Lao Cai, a northwest Vietnamese city just south of the border.

Fred Vera is named Dawson County Justice of Peace

LAMESA — Fred Vera, 32, a former city police investigator here, has been named Dawson County justice of the peace by the county commissioners.

The appointment ends an eight-month search for a successor to Richard Don Nelson, who was indicted for misapplication of public funds and subsequently dismissed from office.

Vera is the first Mexican-American named to the position in 25 years.

In a write-in election last November, called after Nelson had been dismissed from office, Vera was runnerup to John Parchman in the balloting.

After 42 days in office, Parchman decided he didn't want the position and resigned. Former elementary school principal K.D. Smith was appointed JP but Smith withdrew 36 hours later after commissioners were threatened with a suit for violating the public notice requirements of the Open Meetings Act, having met in closed session.

Vera leveled criticism at the commissioners for not asking him or any other candidate who ran for the office if they were interested in the position. Calling Smith's appointment a "hasty decision," Vera added "I did not believe such an injustice could be done to any candidate in Dawson County."

Dawson County Judge Leslie Pratt said that Vera had not been contacted about the position because the judge understood from a conversation with Vera that Vera was happy with his present employment (with Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line).

Other applicants were interviewed for the job before Vera was named were Jim Trulove, currently county juvenile officer; Dub Meador, operator of an ambulance service; and R.F. Spraberry.

Vera received 1,373 votes in the November election, compared to 1,535 for Parchman.

Vera thus becomes the fifth justice of peace in Dawson County in eight months. Barbara Harris served as interim JP after Nelson was disenfranchised and Parchman was elected.

Raid financed by Perot frees two in Iran

DALLAS (AP) — Texas millionaire H. Ross Perot says he unsuccessfully sought help from the U.S. government before sending his own elite squad of combat-hardened men into Iran to stage a daring rescue of two imprisoned employees of his Dallas-based computer firm.

"We went to the Department of Defense, the State Department, the White House and every other level of our government. But there was nothing, absolutely nothing, they could do," said Perot.

So, the crew-cut tycoon calmly told newsmen Monday, his men paid Iranian revolutionaries in Tehran to storm the Gasre prison Feb. 11, freeing about 11,000 prisoners including two EDS engineers, William Gaylord and Paul Chiapparoni.

Part of Perot's squad of 15 civilian commandos then led Gaylord and Chiapparoni on an exhausting journey 450 miles to the Turkish frontier where they crossed the border to freedom, Perot said.

The leader of the patrol was retired Green Beret Col. Arthur "Bull" Simon, 60, who in 1970 led an Army mission to the outskirts of Hanoi in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue American prisoners of war held by the North Vietnamese. The tall, leathery colonel, wearing a yellow sweater and faded blue jeans, sat next to Perot at the news conference smoking a cigarette.

The other members of the squad were EDS employees with prior military experience. Perot said each man was a volunteer.

Perot, the son of a Texarkana, Texas, cotton broker who graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy and built a billion-dollar computer business after learning the trade while a salesman for IBM, left unanswered many questions, including how they traveled, how they crossed the border, how much money was paid, and other details of the adventure.

"I'm not going to get into details for obvious reasons," he said.

Gaylord and Chiapparoni, both 39, had been jailed for seven weeks, apparently in connection with allegations of official corruption involving a contract won by Perot's computer firm. Perot said the escape plan was activated only after he failed to negotiate a $12.75 million "ransom" that he said was demanded by the Iranian government.

"Our first preference was to pay the ransom, but our efforts to pay it failed because the banking system in Iran no longer functioned," Perot said. "We then arranged with revolutionary leaders in Iran to have the prison mobbed."

He would not say how much money the riot cost, but he said it was paid in U.S. currency. "The American dollar is not as strong as it used to be, but it is still the best thing in the world to get you out of trouble," Perot said.

"Paul and Bill could receive no help from us in their escape from the prison. We could not be in the mob," Perot said. "Fortunately when the mob stormed, the guards put up minimal resistance."

He said they dropped their weapons and scattered.

"Paul and Bill climbed the walls and fled through intense gunfire for about two miles to a designated hotel for a rendezvous." There, Perot said, they met Simon and other members of the EDS squad. But he said Simon found out the revolutionaries had tracked them to the hotel, and he ordered it evacuated.

Perot, who orchestrated the escape from Turkey, said within two hours revolutionaries located the EDS hotel rooms and sprayed them with machine-gun fire. He declined to say whether his men were armed, but he said, "They had the equipment they needed."

The squad then took Gaylord and Chiapparoni on the journey across Iran's rugged terrain toward Turkey, arriving at the border about five days later. Several members of Perot's team waited on the Turkish side of the border, poised to fly into Iran in case the original plan failed.

Perot had a chartered Boeing 707 airplane waiting to fly the team out of Turkey. He said they flew to Frankfurt, Germany, where they flew commercial jetliners through London to Dallas, arriving Sunday night. They were greeted by several hundred jubilant friends and workers.

"It's wonderful to be an American and wonderful to work for EDS," said an elated Gaylord, who spoke briefly during the news conference but declined to elaborate on his adventure. "If you'd seen those wives and families, you'd understand our joy."

Perot said he began to prepare for the clandestine mission as one option after the two men were arrested Dec. 28.

"I called an old friend, Col. Bull Simon, and he came here and they went into training," said Perot, whose office building sits on a former golf course and is kept under tight security. It is surrounded by a fence and watched over by uniformed security guards who screen visitors arriving at the main gate. Perot declined to elaborate on the training program.

"It was a last ditch effort," Perot said. "In the final analysis our efforts to pay the ransom could not be done. The civilian population was getting arms. Mobs stopped shouting and started shooting. And we had two helpless men in the Iranian jail."

He said his men were arrested because the Iranians, who Perot said were more than $5 million behind in their payments to EDS, feared the firm would evacuate the country and not stay to operate the computers, which were used in Iran's welfare and national health programs.

Perot conceded the mission was a probable violation of Iranian law and a possible violation of American neutrality statutes.

"I suppose our attorneys will be working on this for next several months," he said. "But that was not the issue. To save the men was."

Costly movie passes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Ricky McDaniel, 28, an administrative aide to Rep. Ralph Wallace, D-Houston, has been charged with "criminal simulation," a misdemeanor, for asking an Austin copying service to make 200 copies of the legislator's free movie pass.

McDaniel has been Wallace's $15,000-a-year aide since 1977.

"I guess he wanted to go to the movies," said Wallace, a Houston deputy constable, about the Feb. 12 arrest of McDaniel.

"I was morally wrong, and I called him on the carpet for it. It's ridiculous that it happened, but it's also ridiculous that he was arrested."

The Travis County district attorney's office said McDaniel was arrested after picking up 200 copies of a movie pass issued to Wallace by the National Association of Theater Owners and operators. Wallace's name had been blocked out on the copies by a strip of paper.

All state legislators are offered the passes that allow the legislator named and one guest to attend a movie.

The district attorney's special crimes unit said the "criminal simulation" charge amounts to a forgery accusation, punishable by fines up to $2,000 and/or up to one year in jail.

Discrimination poll

WASHINGTON (AP) — Discrimination against blacks is still prevalent in the United States, but Americans are more ready to root out racial biases than some might believe, pollster Louis Harris says a new survey indicates.

Poll results, released today at a meeting of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, shows "the readiness of the American people to make new strides forward in reducing and eliminating prejudice is far greater than is commonly assumed by the establishment," Harris said.

Heart implant progress

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — A Missouri man who received a new heart in an implant operation three days ago is sore but well, according to officials at Grootte Schuur Hospital.

Hospital officials said Rick Anderson, 26, of Smithville, Mo., was progressing well.

Anderson was told more than a year ago he had 18 months to live. His long wait for a donor ended Friday night when the family of a suicide victim donated a heart. Dr. Christian Barnard placed the heart next to Anderson's diseased heart in what is known as a "piggyback operation."

Mrs. Cathy Anderson said her husband had pains where the incision was made but otherwise was in good health and eating. She spent four hours at the hospital Sunday watching him through a glass window and talking with him through an intercom.

Utilities hearing under way

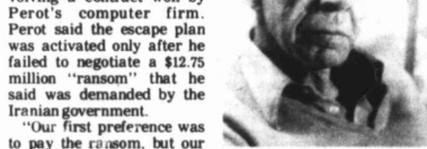

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Transactions among three Texas utility companies were made to benefit customers and at the same time try to cope with a volatile period in the energy industry, the chairman of the companies' parent corporation said today.

"What we have done is benefited our customers, and we feel confident that after our witnesses are finished, you'll feel the same," said Louis Austin, chairman of Texas Utilities Co., at a Public Utility Commission hearing.

The utility commission staff has recommended that almost $20 million be refunded to customers of Texas Electric Service Co., Texas Power & Light and Dallas Power & Light. The rebate recommendation came following a probe of almost all energy deals among the three utilities.

The three-member commission will hear testimony in the case that could last several weeks.

The three companies are subsidiaries in the Texas Utilities Co. system. They provide electricity to approximately 4 million persons in North, Central, East and West Texas, including the cities of Fort Worth, Dallas, Arlington, Midland, Odessa, Wichita Falls and

Vandals pump 3 bullets into parked car here

Local police spent a relatively slow Monday. A vandal pumped three bullets into the right side of a Ford pickup belonging to the city while the truck was parked at 819 W. 6th, over the weekend. Investigators suspect that the shots came from a .38 caliber or .357 magnum pistol.

Cost of the damage has not been estimated.

A thief ripped off a billboard belonging to Thelma J. Powell, 2401 Cheyenne, while it sat on her desk at the Goliad Middle School. The billboard was inside a purse, and was stolen between 10:30 and 11 a.m. Monday.

Inside the billboard were a variety of identification papers and six credit cards. Total loss has not been estimated.

Burglars were unsuccessful in trying to break into the Bottle Mart, 1508 B Marcy, sometime over the weekend. A south window was broken, but no one managed to get inside the store.

Police beat

Vandals pump 3 bullets into parked car here

Local police spent a relatively slow Monday. A vandal pumped three bullets into the right side of a Ford pickup belonging to the city while the truck was parked at 819 W. 6th, over the weekend. Investigators suspect that the shots came from a .38 caliber or .357 magnum pistol.

Cost of the damage has not been estimated.

A thief ripped off a billboard belonging to Thelma J. Powell, 2401 Cheyenne, while it sat on her desk at the Goliad Middle School. The billboard was inside a purse, and was stolen between 10:30 and 11 a.m. Monday.

Inside the billboard were a variety of identification papers and six credit cards. Total loss has not been estimated.

Burglars were unsuccessful in trying to break into the Bottle Mart, 1508 B Marcy, sometime over the weekend. A south window was broken, but no one managed to get inside the store.

Divorce: Millions of dollars at stake

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The long-delayed divorce trial of Cullen Davis and his estranged wife Priscilla begins today with millions of dollars at stake. Mrs. Davis, 37, says her community property in the marriage amounts to $75 million to $80 million. Davis says the most it could be is $4 million.

The court of retired District Judge John M. Barron of Bryan must settle the case, which has been dragging on for five years and was delayed by two criminal trials involving Davis.

The millionaire was acquitted in an Amarillo trial of charges he killed his 12-year-old stepdaughter, and charges accusing him of trying to hire the murder of the original judge in the divorce case, Joe Eidson, ended in a mistrial in Houston. Eidson has removed himself from the case.

The main point Barron's court has been asked to decide is not who is at fault in the broken marriage, but simply, the division of property.

Davis claims that two days before he married Priscilla Aug. 29, 1968, she signed a premarital agreement preventing her from claiming any of his inherited fortune. She says she never intentionally signed such an agreement.

Dragon that swallowed the sun

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next Monday, over North America, a giant dragon will seize the sun in its colossal jaws and try to devour it in a mighty battle across the sky.

That, at least, is what the ancient Chinese thought was happening in an eclipse of the sun — a struggle between light and darkness.

They banged gongs, shouted, shot off rockets and firecrackers, and generally raised a big commotion to scare the beast away.

And it worked. The dragon always released its bite on the orb.

producing the illusion. Practically all of North America will experience at least a partial eclipse, with a portion of the sun's disk covered over. And over parts of the Northwest and Canada, the whole sun will be obscured because they lie along the narrow path the moon's shadow will follow.

The closer a person is to this path of totality, the greater the portion of the sun that will be covered at maximum eclipse. For example, in Bismarck, N.D., 99 percent of the sun will be hidden, compared with 61 percent in New York City and 32 percent in Miami.

The eclipse will begin at about sunrise on the West Coast and about mid-morning in the East. It should last about two and one-half hours.

The moon's shadow, about 170 miles wide, will race eastward at 1,700 miles per hour from northern Oregon and southern Washington across northern Idaho and central Montana. It then will swing northeastward across northwestern North Dakota, into Canada and onward through Greenland.

A potential hazard posed by this and any eclipse is eye damage from staring directly at the sun.

Texas oil production declines

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Chairman John Poerner of the Texas Railroad Commission told oil and gas executives today that if crude oil production continues to decline at its present rate, the state will produce less than 1 billion barrels of oil for the first time in 15 years.

He noted at the statewide oil allowable hearing that 1978 production was slightly over 1 billion barrels and had dropped by 51 million barrels from 1977.

Poerner said as Texas moves into the 1980s it is essential that the Legislature provide sufficient funding to study the oil reserves in Texas reservoirs.

The commission routinely set the allowable for March at 100 percent. As usual, the East Texas Field was restricted to 86 percent production to avoid possible waste.

Oil and gas executives will be here March 20 to give the commission their views on the state of the industry.

Nominations by major purchasers of Texas crude oil for March showed several declines, but spokesmen said the figures did not reflect a decrease in demand. The lower nominations merely reflected what they are actually getting from their leases, they said.

Nominations for March totaled 2,795,817 barrels a day, a decrease of 29,964 barrels a day from February.

Poerner noted, too, that crude and petroleum products imported into the United States totaled 8,618,000 barrels per day for the 4-week average of Feb. 2. This is a million barrels a day more than a year ago.

Von Rosenberg is at session

Robert von Rosenberg, Big Spring State Hospital, attended a meeting of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism Advisory Council Feb. 13-14 in Austin.

Council members reviewed the "1979 Texas State Plan for the Prevention, Treatment, and Control of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism," making recommendations for changes and additions to this document required by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Jim Clipson, Jr., chairman of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism welcomed Council members and gave the state of the agency report.

Larry Mathis, executive director of the Alcoholism Council of Texas, gave a review of proposed legislation relative to alcoholics, drunk drivers, and alcoholism programs.

Von Rosenberg is one of 33 members of the Council representing the state planning regions and those state agencies concerned with alcoholism problems.

Much depends upon moderate blacks

These are perilous times for the white man in Rhodesia. If he stayed behind to face the gathering storm, he's looking for friends and there are no longer many who admit to being sympathetic to his problems. Most everyone concedes his woes are many and are multiplying.

Only recently, the nation's white voters approved a new charter which will ultimately transfer power to the black majority.

THERE ARE ALL sort of safeguards built into it to insure whites a continuing role in government, at least for a time. The charter so reads that the whites will hold 28 of the 100 seats in Parliament for the next ten years.

Charters, however, can be changed, just as are mutual protection pacts and trade alignments.

The ultimate importance of the document is clear: Prime Minister Ian Smith and his countrymen have decided they cannot stay black rule indefinitely.

Those whites who have remained behind in Rhodesia, no doubt, are uneasy. Did the charter come too late to help them? It's become quite evident that the guerrilla movements captained by Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe are not entering into the spirit of the celebration set off by adoption of the constitution.

Long since, they expressed their determination to take charge of the country on their terms. Not even the most optimistic of the white Rhodesians allow themselves the luxury of thinking that the white-to-black transition of power can be done without the participation of Nkomo and Mugabe.

The new charter is quite a concession on the part of Smith's supporters, when one considers the situation of a few years ago. Smith absolutely refused then to even consider the idea of any important participation by blacks in government.

Ultimately, the success or failure of the new constitution — and the survival of Zimbabwe-Rhodesia as a bi-racial society — will depend on the success moderate black leaders such as Bishop Abel Muzorewa, Ndabani Sithole and Jeremiah Chirau encounter in attempting to sell the charter to their black constituents.

IF THEY CAN win over public opinion — and if Prime Minister

Smith proves sincere in his avowed determination to bring about majority rule — white man and black man may be able to live in peace alongside each other.

It is obvious many Rhodesian whites have no stomach for such an arrangement. No fewer than 18,000 of them left the country for ever in 1978, a record emigration for any one year, and many more will follow before 1979 slips into history. To put that in perspective, if a like number of Americans fled this country in proportion to the population, more than 17 million people would be involved.

Rhodesia's 6.5 million blacks can afford to be patient. If the mad exodus of whites continues, the situation may resolve itself without amending the constitution.

May end abruptly

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Sudden escalation of Soviet dirty tricks, from incendiary anti-U.S. broadcasts into Iran to forged American intelligence "plots" against foreign governments, may abruptly end President Carter's submissive policy of turning the other cheek every time Moscow fouls Uncle Sam.

That is the core of the advice going into the Oval Office from high officials long alarmed at the impunity with which the Soviet Union, with its unfettered intelligence system, has been defaming the U.S. with its wounded, vulnerable Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

IF THE ADVICE is taken, Carter will reverse standing State Department orders that have given chief adviser on Soviet affairs Marshall Shulman veto power over all official State Department pronouncements on Soviet conduct. Shulman's paramount objective has been a new strategic arms limitation agreement (SALT). Accordingly, he rejected working-level State Department recommendations last month to hit Moscow hard for its inflammatory anti-American broadcasts into Iran. Instead, Assistant Secretary of State Hodding Carter was instructed to limit his first criticism of Moscow to the cream puff phrase "not helpful."

Later, Carter moved to more realistic language. But the net effect of the generally bland U.S. pronouncements on Soviet broadcasts has been zero. Just last week, for example, Radio Moscow trumpeted to millions of Iranians — emotionalized in the heat of revolution — that "plundering hands jointly created by the CIA and SAVAK" were preparing to murder Ayatollah Khomeini, the Moslem father of the revolution.

If that and similar charges were calculated to provoke an attack on the U.S. embassy in Tehran, they surely exceeded the Kremlin's loftiest hopes.

Beyond the immediate instance of Iran, high officials here fear that Soviet "disinformation" and propaganda mills are weighting the U.S. embassy scales dangerously to Moscow's advantage. Adding Kalfakesque overtones is the fact that Soviet use of the crippled CIA as principal malefactor on the world scene makes heavy use of scurrilous propaganda against the CIA from the mole-like anti-CIA cult in the U.S. itself.

Indeed, non-CIA officials here responsible for keeping a sharp eye on the agency as a front-line weapon (now virtually toothless) in U.S.-Soviet competition say that the U.S. anti-CIA cult probably receives some of its financing from Soviet sources.

"Keeping the movement going against the CIA clearly helps to give credibility to the Soviet disinformation campaign about what American intelligence is supposed to be doing around the world," one official told us.

This helps explain the sudden reappearance of what is known as the bogus "U.S. Army Field Manual 30-31B," which first surfaced in 1976 in Thailand and the Philippines. The forgery was published in Spain in September 1978, and shortly thereafter in France, the Netherlands, Norway, Italy, Portugal, Japan, Mexico, Denmark and Greece, usually in far-left but widely-read newspapers. All are in the U.S.-led Western camp.

THE BOGUS FIELD MANUAL, labelled "top secret," is an unusually sophisticated production job employing fuzzy photocopies and high quality literary design — telltale signs of Soviet authorship.

Liberal rules on infant feeding

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: A controversy has arisen in our house over my three-month-old infant. It has to do with solid food. What is the current thinking on this? Is three months too soon? Some doctors (mine) seem to think it is too soon, but other mothers say it isn't. My baby seems ready for it because he will take a bit — cereal, etc. — if it is offered on a spoon at the table. Please comment. — M.C.

The thinking on this used to be much more conservative than it is today. Some doctors used to advise waiting until 12 months. Differences of opinion can still be found. If you have a pediatrician advising you, I certainly wouldn't want to be the one to tell you to go against his wishes. His thinking may be based on factors you do not mention in your letter. For example, if a baby was premature things might have to wait a while.

Otherwise, current thinking does not discourage early introduction of solid food, and this is commonly done between three and six months. Solid food is not needed, though, in the first six months.

It's best to begin on a one-meal-a-day basis, and it's wise to use the meal at which he seems most hungry. A lot of "infant psychology" enters the picture, but from what you say I doubt you have any such problems. However, keep in mind that eating habits of a lifetime are formed in these early months, so don't stuff him with giant portions of any food. Try a bit of fruit at first, then begin introducing cereals and meats. From your description this tot should be taking just about anything you have on hand in the way of baby foods, at least, when he is six months old. Continue to give him the bottle since at this age milk remains his most complete food.

Dear Dr. Ruble: The difference, please, between a "gastric" ulcer and a "peptic" ulcer. — B.W.

No difference. The term "peptic" describes the kind of ulcer — one associated with the effects of acid on the walls of the stomach, intestines or esophagus. "Gastric" merely locates the ulcer in the stomach. Thus, one could have a peptic ulcer of the stomach or one in the intestines, and so on. There is a layman's language discussion of ulcers in general in the booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers." For a copy, send a quarter and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Big Spring Herald. A business-size envelope will do.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Where are women supposed to go for a Pap test when it is so expensive for just the few minutes' time it takes? I paid $25 plus lab work cost. I live on a very limited monthly income and I just cannot afford it. Are we older women supposed to pass it up? Don't we count for anything — we women past childbearing age? — Mrs. L.B.

Searching questions, these. Doctors do advise patients to take care of themselves and to get regular examinations and take expensive medicines, but costs continue to soar in the health field as in others.

The answers are not easy. Many cities do have good health clinics and other social services available at very low cost (nothing's entirely free). Yet many people just never seek them out or feel too proud to use them. In most cases, it is their tax money supporting the services so they should feel free to use them. At least you should be able to get the examination you mention. Check with a local cancer society office for information about services in your area. I doubt you need pass the vital bit of preventive medicine by. I would like to know how you fared.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been taking tranquilizers for seven years. I have been off them for two weeks now. I

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I lost my husband last year after 54 years of marriage. Although it is hard in some ways, I thank God for those wonderful years. We always put Christ first in our marriage, and I wish you would tell young people how wonderful life can be when Christ is first. — Mrs. W.P.

DEAR MRS. W.P.: Thank you for that testimony. I know it could be echoed many times by others who have found Christ gives a new and wonderful dimension to marriage. Certainly this has been the experience of my wife and I.

The decline in the American family is, I believe, one of the most alarming things happening today. The divorce rate is staggering, and there is no way of knowing how many marriages never reach the divorce courts but are nonetheless marked by tension and struggle.

God did not intend marriage to be a curse — quite the opposite! The Bible says, "Whoso findeth a wife findeth a good thing, and obtaineth favor of the Lord." Marriage is a great responsibility, but it is also a great privilege when God leads two people together for life. Our society all too often treats marriage casually, but a marriage based on self-giving love — the love Christ has for us and wants to give us — can be one of God's greatest blessings.

Dear Dr. Ruble: If a woman taking birth control pills misses a period, should she continue the pills or stop? — Mrs. N.E.

Stop until pregnancy is ruled out. Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Ruble, in care of The Big Spring Herald, for a copy of "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Good decision

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

Someone asked me the other day why I was in the field of journalism because it couldn't be because of the money involved.

That is true. I'm not in it to get rich. Every journalism professor that I ever had in college began his first class with the statement, "If you are in journalism for the money you might as well walk out the door right now."

MY INTEREST in journalism started when I was a junior in high school. Some friends of mine talked me into taking the journalism course as an elective. I didn't really want to at first. But then I decided to try it anyway. And, it was the best decision I've ever made.

In the class we learned the basics of journalism while writing stories for the school paper. I became involved in sports writing at the start of the course. Because of my interest in the subject and the need for a person to write stories about the junior varsity and freshmen football games for the local weekly, a friend and myself became the regular reporters for those games.

That experience more than any other made me realize that journalism was what I wanted to do with the rest of my life.

In my senior year in high school, I was the sports editor. It may sound unheard of, but I was not the first female sports editor that the school paper, The Diamondback, had ever had. When I was a sophomore, the paper had its first female editor. She was even allowed to ride the bus with the football team. I wasn't able to do that because I had to ride with the drill team. I had an assistant to aid me because of my other responsibilities as yearbook editor. But I did most of the work. I made the story assignments, laid out and pasted up the pages. We did everything from start to finish, including running off our papers with our small printing press.

I graduated from high school with the full intent of majoring in journalism. The more involved I became in the journalism courses at college, the more sure I was that I had made the right decision. It was intriguing to say the least. All the different people that I was able to meet. People that I would never have had the opportunity to meet otherwise.

JOURNALISM is not a dull field. There is always something happening. There are always interesting people to interview and interesting stories to investigate.

What I did not learn from my courses, I learned from working for the college paper. I started out in my position as news editor because there was no one else around during the summer that knew how to do page layout. It was a little shaky at first. But the more I learned, the more challenging the work became. Challenging in the sense that the more I learned, the more I began to experiment with graphic designs. It didn't always turn out right, but the head of the journalism department was there to steer me in the right direction.

And now, having been in "the real world" for nine months, I am still positive that the decision that I made six years ago was the right one for me.

Wallenberg alive?

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Eyewitness evidence has been brought to us that the Kremlin lied about a heroic Swedish diplomat who disappeared into the Soviet prison system more than 30 years ago. The Soviets put out the word that Raoul Wallenberg, scion of a wealthy Stockholm family, unhappily had died and been cremated. In fact, he may survive to this day as one of the living dead in the prison camps of the Gulag Archipelago.

Last year we reported the suspicions of international experts that Wallenberg did not, as the Soviets "admitted" in 1956, die in Moscow's Lubyanka Prison in 1947. The Kremlin's belated report of Wallenberg's death followed years of denying any knowledge of his whereabouts.

NOW WE HAVE first-hand evidence, from a fellow inmate in the remote, Vierhnieuralskaya prison camp that Wallenberg was still alive in 1959. Our source, former Polish army captain Abraham Kalinski, is now a chemical engineer in Israel after more than 15 years as a Soviet prisoner. He has no reason to lie.

Kalinski told our associate Sam Fogg that in 1951 he was joined by a new cellmate, David Vendrovsky, a former Jewish Telegraph Agency reporter. Vendrovsky had been transferred from confinement two cells away, where his cellmate had been Wallenberg and a former Latvian cabinet minister.

After a subsequent transfer, another inmate, Simon Gogoberidze, told Kalinski of sharing a cell with Wallenberg. The two peered through their slit-like cell window and could see Wallenberg plodding in circles in the exercise yard, under the watchful eye of his guards. That was in 1959, before Kalinski's release.

Eight years later, Kalinski learned that Gogoberidze had been released after serving a 25-year term, and visited him at his home. During their reminiscences, Gogoberidze remarked: "Remember that Swedish fellow Wallenberg? When I left, he was still sitting there in prison, with some Soviet colonel."

And in 1975, the daughter of a former Soviet prisoner told Kalinski her father had recalled many who had miraculously survived years of incarceration, including "one Swede who was still alive after 30 years." Kalinski is sure the reference was to Wallenberg.

IF HE IS STILL alive, Wallenberg would be 65 years old and would have spent more than half his life in the infamous Soviet prison system. What was his crime? As Wallenberg himself told his cellmate Vendrovsky in disbelief years ago, "All I did was save Jews."

He understated the case. As a 31-year-old diplomat assigned to the Swedish embassy in Budapest, Wallenberg issued special Swedish passports to thousands of Hungarian Jews destined for shipment to the Nazis' extermination camps. He also bought houses in Budapest with his own money, had them declared Swedish embassy property and used them as safe houses for Jews awaiting escape with their "Wallenberg passports."

With nothing more than neutral status and diplomatic bluff, he and his aides traveled the highways for days to save hundreds of Jews from a Nazi-ordered death march to Austria, demanding their return to Swedish protection in Budapest.

In January 1945, shortly after the Red Army had "liberated" Budapest, Wallenberg was invited to meet the Soviet commandant, Marshal Malinovsky, at army headquarters. He was never seen by the outside world again.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

I had the pleasure of attending my first city council meeting Feb. 13. I didn't address the council but was surprised at how intimidated I felt because of the attitude of the council and even by the tone of voice in which they responded to those who addressed them.

Too many of our city council members seem to be overly influenced by Mayor Wade Choate.

In the course of the meeting, Mayor Choate brought up what he seemed to believe as fact. He stated that everyone had failed to remember the closing of Webb, which he felt could account for the drop in water consumption and add to our water and sewer fund's money problems.

How could this be? To my knowledge, Webb was not on city water but had its own source, privately owned water wells! Water from those wells are now being used (for a minimal charge) by Cosden for industrial purposes because our costly city water fails to meet their standards. (Not only does it taste awful, but it clogs and corrodes machinery until it malfunctions. (Ladies, think what it's doing to your appliances!))

In talking with friends and relatives, the overall opinion was that what we say or do won't have any effect on the outcome on any particular issue, so why bother with it? This attitude has caused the situation to deteriorate to the point that only 2 or 3 determined individuals to work for what they feel is right or voice their opinion.

My only credentials are that of being a Big Spring tax-payer (and city water customer) and the mother of three small children, who I'm trying to rear to be good honest citizens.

If in the near future I don't make my opinion as public as this, don't think I've given up or decided to join the Silent Majority. As I've previously stated, I have three little girls and my first duty is to my family. I would like to urge each of you to voice your opinion and at least call one or all of our city council members and tell them your views on any particular issues.

If you don't feel that you're being fully represented by our present council, be sure to go to the polls April 7.

'Pirates' kidnap med officer

HONG KONG (AP) — Three Americans are being held in the Maldives Islands in connection with the shooting of a local official aboard their oceanographic survey ship, the U.S. Embassy in Colombo, Sri Lanka, reported today.

A spokesman for the embassy, interviewed by telephone, knocked down earlier reports from amateur radio operators that about 300 Maldivian "pirates" armed with axes and handguns boarded the survey ship Alyse Maru in the Indian Ocean, looted the vessel and kidnapped the expedition's medical officer.

"There are no pirates in the Maldives and contrary to some radio accounts, the vessel is in no danger," the spokesman said. He gave this account of what happened:

The Alyse Maru and its crew of nine Americans and one Japanese sailed into one of the northern atolls of the Maldives, an independent republic of 1,087 islands southwest of India, Saturday morning without prior radio clearance to enter the harbor.

The atoll chief, the highest ranking civil servant in the area, boarded the ship to carry out clearance procedures "and there was some kind of altercation."

"Someone on the ship shot the atoll chief. He was not seriously wounded. We do not know what caused the incident."

Other diplomatic sources said the atoll chief ordered the liquor and ammunition aboard the vessel sealed and the 10-member crew refused. The U.S. spokesman said he had "no specific information on that," but he said orders to lock up liquor and ammunition are routine for vessels entering foreign ports.

The embassy spokesman's account continued:

Following the shooting, government officials detained the captain and two crew members. They were being brought by launch to the capital of Male for questioning and were expected to arrive late today or Wednesday.

"The captain, before he left the ship, told them to stay but the latest report we had was that the ship appeared to be thinking of leaving and had pulled up anchor," the spokesman said. "We're not sure where it is. It's not in any trouble. It can do what it wants."

He said reports that a U.S. Navy plane from the U.S. Navy facility on the British-held island of Diego Garcia, about 750 miles to the south, was flying escort for the Alyse Maru was "absolutely untrue." "It would be a waste of taxpayers' money," he added.

The radio reports identified the three Americans detained as Captain Kenneth Leonard, Chief Engineer Craig Williams and Medical Officer Thomas Wienken.

The embassy spokesman said the foreign minister of the Maldives teleaxed the U.S. Embassy in Colombo "as soon as the incident happened on Saturday." He said Leonard's name was mentioned but not the others who were referred to as crewmen.

LOOTING AFTERMATH — Interior of a liquor store in Baltimore is a shambles after looters came through the store Monday. Various stores were struck by looters when heavy snow paralyzed traffic, including police, in Baltimore.

Brigadier, Mrs. Ball will retire June 10

Salvation Army Brigadier Robert Ball announced his resignation at the Salvation Army Advisory Board's annual Installation Banquet Monday night. Ball has headed up the operation in Big Spring for two years. The banquet, attended by 67 board members and guests, in the Howard College Cactus Room, reviewed Salvation Army services in 1978 and announced new officers.

Ball's retirement begins June 10 after 44 years of Army service for him and 45 years for his wife. The couple has purchased a small house in Orlando, Fla., where they will enjoy their retirement.

ROBERT BALL

Ball praised the board in his annual report saying that it has been an "active" board. The Salvation Army held over 300 religious meetings in 1978, he said, distributed 144 dolls at Christmas for a total of 1300 boys. In addition, they provided 725 Christmas dinners for the underprivileged, he said.

Transient cases totaled 1,493 in 1978 supplying transients with 6,877 meals and 1,500 articles of clothing. Lodging was provided for transients 2,331 times. Many hours were spent counseling alcoholics and others with special problems.

Recognition was given to the various groups who participated in ringing the bell at Salvation Army booths during the Christmas season. The ABC Club, Key Club, Noon Lions Club, Breakfast Optimist Club, Rotary Club and Kiwanis Club will be given certificates of appreciation. Christmas Committee Chairman Bob Crowell recognized the groups saying it was so cold when he was in the booth that "I didn't have to ring the bell, it rang itself."

New 1979 officers were installed. They are Chairman Warden Mayes, Vice-Chairman Rev. Carrol Kohl, Secretary Delbert Donelson, and treasurer A. J. Prager. New board members were also introduced.

The after dinner speaker was Major David Michaels of Dallas. Special music was provided by Joe Whitton of the Big Spring First Baptist Church. Captain Joseph Bennett had been scheduled for the special music and after dinner speech but was unable to attend due to inclement weather.

Mayes emceed the banquet and introduced the speaker. The invocation was given by Rev. Harland Birdwell of St. Mary's Episcopal Church and the benediction was given by Major William Thomas, a Salvation Army officer from Odessa.

Mardi Gras 'hostage'

Let the good times roll

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A police strike still held Mardi Gras hostage today but a federal negotiator saw some progress toward a settlement that would let the good times roll.

"On your first day back into negotiations you don't make 100 percent progress, but I am not disappointed," said mediator Ansel Garrett after a six-hour session that ended late Monday night.

Talks aimed at ending the four-day walkout by some 1,100 of the department's 1,514 officers resume today.

City officials remained apprehensive that the garbage collectors of Teamsters Local 270 might walk out in sympathy with the Police Association of Louisiana, which is Teamsters Local 253. Mitch Ledet, state secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters, maintained the suspense, saying only that a sanitation department walkout was "a good possibility."

A substitute force of 650 National Guardsmen, 126 State Police troopers and non-strikers patrolled the city. Officials said the crime rate remained low.

Garrett's carefully optimistic report on negotiations was the only one given. Both sides agreed in advance to stop insulting each other in public announcements and let the mediator do the talking.

Earlier, Mayor Ernest Morial took a glum view. Announcing the cancellation of tonight's elaborate Krewe of Pegasus parade, he said the realistic outlook was that Mardi Gras itself also will wind up canceled.

State check is withheld in CC

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City, already financially beleaguered, received another blow last week when it was learned the city did not qualify for a state check for city sales and use tax allocation.

Action city manager Brenda Tarter contacted the state comptroller's office in Austin about the matter and was told that Colorado City had a major taxpayer who had been paying levies on non-taxable items.

The taxpayer was reimbursed to the extent of $14,000.

For the period ending Feb. 1, Colorado City would have received $7,600. For the next period, Colorado City will have to pay the state a balance of $6,314.39.

Mrs. Tarter said that although Colorado City did not receive the expected sales tax rebate, it should not have too great an affect on the budget.

On the light side

Frozen dessert blues

TOMS RIVER, N.J. (AP) — The Washington's Birthday snowstorm not only put the freeze on Conrad Winters' promotion for his car dealership, it also left him stranded with 20 dozen cherry pies.

Winters had planned a pie eating contest for Monday, but up to 1 1/2 feet of snow blocked the bridges to his used car lot off the New Jersey mainland.

"I'm marooned over here," said Winters in a telephone interview.

After an initial bout with disappointment, he went for a walk and found some neighbors who were only too happy to find an excuse to celebrate the holiday.

"People are getting dug out and there were a lot of them outside. I gave all the pies away," Winters said.

Pretentious potato

SEATTLE (AP) — The potato has finally earned the status of main course, moving from its traditional place as an accompaniment or filler, at least in one Seattle restaurant.

Restaurateur Dennis Weaver opened The Price Is Right and developed the Entree Baked Potato, a name copyrighted in 1976. A 1 1/2 pounder in its naked state, this tempting tuber is dressed up 30 different ways — with embellishments such as cream cheese, crab and shrimp, tomatoes and hollandaise sauce.

And, for the diehard "meat and potatoes" man, Weaver has a potato stuffed with steak.

"We're out to convince people that the potato is a fun food. The potato today is where the pizza was six or seven years ago," said Weaver.

His downtown restaurant uses four tons of potatoes a month and Weaver eats a potato meal at least four times a week.

He thinks his fancy food in a plain brown wrapper could be the next fad, the hula hoop of dining.

Snowfall cripples city, looters grab 'goodies'

BALTIMORE (AP) — Authorities say they will prosecute all 303 persons arrested in connection with 1,335 looting incidents that occurred after a record 20-inch snowfall crippled the city. An additional 265 persons were arrested for violating an all-night curfew.

Mayor William Schaefer imposed the 10-hour curfew, from 7 p.m. Monday to 5 a.m. today, "in the interest of public safety" after widespread looting broke out Monday.

About 100 Maryland State Police helped city police through the night.

By early this morning, police spokesman Dennis Hill said 568 persons had been arrested — 303 on suspicion of looting and 265 for curfew violations.

Curfew violations are a misdemeanor, and often violators are merely taken to a police station and then sent home.

State's Attorney William Swisher advised officers to charge each person arrested in looting incidents with breaking and entering, which carries a maximum sentence of 10 years in jail.

Police said liquor and grocery stores, bakeries, auto supplies and furniture stores had been hit.

Looters were seen lugging a refrigerator down Pennsylvania Avenue. In the Oldtown area, people carried armloads of clothing still on hangers through the streets, the Baltimore Sun reported.

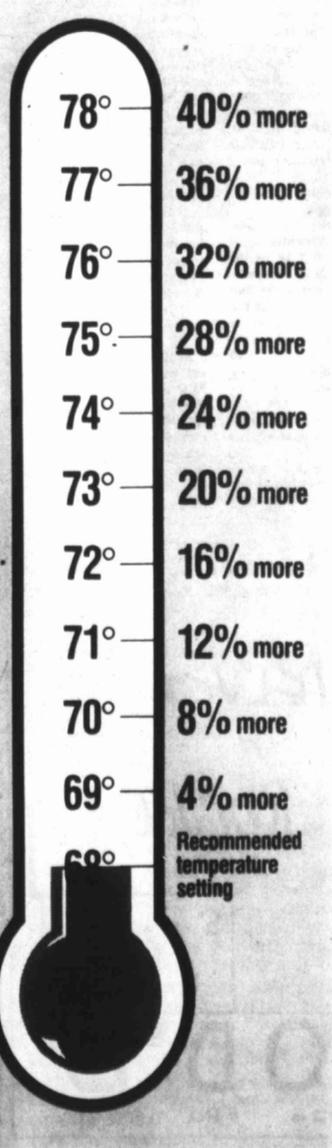

The looters included two middle-aged women hauling a large piece of furniture, still in its cardboard packaging. One woman said she didn't know what it was, "but whatever it is, I'm going to take it home."

The owner of The Furniture Connection said: "They took everything — television sets, color consoles, everything." The owner, who declined to be identified, said he and two assistants were going to spend the night in the store.

"We've got enough ammunition for an army. Machine guns. Everything," he said.

Shortly after the curfew went into effect, police broadcast a report that the Central District jail, the largest in the city, was filled with looters.

"I think they declared World War III on us," said Officer David Buschman of the Western District, where 37 persons were arrested before dark.

The higher you set your thermostat, the higher your energy consumption.

"Try lowering the temperature in your home to 68° this winter. You'll save on your heating bill!"

"A setting of 68° during the winter is the one Texas Electric recommends for both comfort and energy efficiency.

For each degree above 68° the energy used for heating your house is increased by approximately 4% per degree.

As shown by the chart the difference between the recommended thermostat setting and 74° is 24%.

At 78° the increase in energy usage is 40% or more.

Clearly, the lower you set your thermostat the lower your heating bill is going to be. And after last winter, one of the coldest on record, we think a lot of people are going to be trying their best to use less energy.

Remember to change the filter in your heating system regularly, too. A dirty filter causes your heating system to work longer and that costs you more. Check the filter at least once each month.

All forms of energy are costing more these days. If you're serious about saving energy and money, request a copy of our energy efficiency tips booklet on the comment portion of your electric service bill."

A 'Sorry' Excuse

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday I was to meet a friend in a store so we could shop together. I got there a little early and walked around checking prices. I had been in the store often, and even paid my utility bills there. My friend was late, so I walked out to see if perhaps she had misunderstood and was waiting for me outside.

To my surprise, the store manager followed me and made me go back into the store and empty my purse out on the counter! My knees started to shake and my heart was pounding and I started to cry. It was the most humiliating experience of my life.

After the manager saw that I had taken nothing, he just said, "Sorry." Then he walked away.

It still brings a tear to my eye and a lump to my throat when I think of it. I'm a six-time grandma in my 50s and it hurt me to be taken for a thief.

My neighbor tells me that if a person is searched for shoplifting and is found to be innocent, she can sue the store for false arrest. Is that right?

MINNEAPOLIS STAR READER

DEAR READER: You can't sue for false arrest unless you've been arrested. But if you're wrongfully accused of shoplifting you should see a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is of a highly confidential nature, and I would feel much more comfortable writing to you in care of a post office box than my hometown newspaper.

If this can be done, will you kindly publish your P.O. Box number? Thank you

DEAR MAN: Yes. It's P.O. Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

DEAR ABBY: I have recently taken a job which requires me to work very close to a dentist. (Sometimes our faces are only a few inches apart, and that's close!)

My first day on the job I noticed that my boss must have had onions or garlic for breakfast. Whew! I figured, "Well, that can happen to anybody once in a while."

After lunch there was no improvement. In fact, it was worse! I don't know where he goes for lunch, but he comes back smelling like a delicatessen.

This dentist's offices are in one of the best professional buildings in town and his patients are well-to-do and very particular. I can't understand why one of them doesn't tell him. If I were a patient, I surely would, but I only work here.

Any suggestions? I don't know how much longer I can take this. And I'd look awfully silly working with a gas mask, or a clothespin on my nose.

DEAR ASSISTANT: Speak up! He may appreciate it. (P.S. If he doesn't, your next job has got to be better!)

Child born out of wedlock more likely to be abused

ATLANTA (AP) — Children born out of wedlock are more than twice as likely to be physically abused than those of married couples, according to a large-scale study of abuse case.

The survey by Georgia's Human Resources Department and the Atlanta-based national Center for Disease Control involved 2,000 cases of child abuse, including 26 deaths. The report was released Friday.

"Children born out of wedlock were 2.5 times more likely to be abused than children born in wedlock," the report said. Among other findings:

—In 39 percent of child abuse cases, both natural parents lived in the household; the natural mother was sole guardian 26 percent of the time and the natural father sole caretaker 2.5 percent of the time.

—Of those natural parents abusing their children were half mothers — usually between 20 and 24 years old. More than half of those mothers were teenagers when they bore their first child.

—Slightly more than half of all abusers were male — 58 percent — and many were not the natural fathers. —Of sexually abused girls. Boys were more likely to suffer burns, abrasions, skull fractures, brain damage, malnutrition or multiple injuries.

Late hours not good

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I am not one to write to columns, but your advice today to the Newton, N.J. girl ("Miss Ugly") was only partially correct. In my estimation, I wholeheartedly agree with the haircut advice, but must disagree with the bedtime suggestion.

As a longtime teacher as well as the parent of a 13-year-old girl, I do not believe that setting arbitrary hours such as 10:00 and 11:00 is sensible — the individual situation must apply.

For example, the junior high bus our daughter must catch leaves at 7:30 in the morning, and is a 10-minute walk from our house. So that our family can function in the morning, our 13-year-old is up (at her own desire) before 6:00 a.m. For her, a 10:00 bedtime regularly (we've tried that) lets her get too run down. We've been consistent with 9:30 — and sometimes she even volunteers an earlier time.

Weekends are different — we've set no specific regular hours as her activities vary greatly from one weekend to another and we treat each schedule individually.

As a teacher, I've too often seen kids that age come to school beat because they're allowed to stay up too late and develop no self-control toward getting the proper rest. Common sense must be a guide, and teens need to learn this under parental guidance, and not merely by setting arbitrary but binding regulations.

(Please — don't print my name, as my daughter would be mortified! She and her friends read your column regularly.) — Parent, Everett, Wash.

Parent: Well put and I agree. You are a wise parent.

School finance beast has yet to be tamed

By STEVE MCGONIGLE
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Public school finance is an issue older than the pink granite Texas statehouse in which it's debated every odd-numbered year.

More prickly than cactus and more complex than Tom Landry's playbook, school finance has driven more than a few legislators to despair.

Rep. Tom Massey, chairman of the House Public Education Committee the past two sessions, once complained school finance took the fun out of being a legislator.

Few lawmakers disagree in principle that Texas has an obligation to assure its schoolchildren receive the educational opportunities to become the Einsteins of the future.

The real sticking point comes when the legislature must decide how much its willing to spend on education and to whom the money should be sent.

Ideally, the farm boy in oil-rich Andrews or the doctor's son in affluent Highland Park should receive the same learning skills as the ghetto child in Houston's Fifth Ward or the migrant boy in Mission.

But in practice, the opportunities to learn, like the children themselves, are very different. Where one child learns nuclear physics and plays football on an Astroturf-covered field, another is taught by a low-paid, inexperienced teacher and washes his hands in a bathroom with no soap.

Every school district receives state funds and collects local tax dollars to finance a basic educational program. Any excess local funds are used to "enrich" or broaden the district's curriculum.

The amount of local enrichment can vary from $30 per student in San Antonio's Edgewood Independent School District to $2,000 per child in the Laureles ISD on the King Ranch in South Texas. Along with the difference in dollars comes a difference in overall quality.

For decades, inequality in Texas public schools was deplored but largely ignored. A man named Rodriguez and a federal court in San Antonio changed that.

In what is considered a landmark school financing case, a three-judge panel ruled in 1971 that Texas was violating schoolchildren's rights to equal protection under the law.

Texas' financing system, the judges declared, "draws distinctions between groups of citizens depending upon the wealth of the (school) district."

The U.S. Supreme Court overturned the ruling in 1973 but warned Texas that the problem of unequal education finance had to be addressed.

Two legislative sessions since then failed to tame the school finance beast, although they did pacify it for short periods. The 1979 legislature will attempt to improve that record.

At issue, as always, is money. Legislators must determine what the state can afford to spend on education and how the funds should be dispersed.

Finance theories are almost as numerous legislators. What they have in common is their authors' wish to gain the optimum advantage for their constituencies.

Teachers want higher salaries; administrators want more teachers; parents want better school programs and lower school taxes; legislators just want to go home.

Simply put, the ABCs of school finance are these: —Texas has 2.5 million children in 1,100 school districts that vary tremendously in area, population and ability to pay for education.

—State funds are allocated according to a school district's taxable health, student population and teacher experience.

—Enough local tax dollars are raised to get state matching funds for a minimum school program. Leftover tax revenues go for local enrichment.

—Few school districts think they receive enough state funds and none want to beat the bushes for more local tax dollars.

—The legislature wants to please everyone and keep the school finance system out of reach of reform-minded judges.

Some school experts consider the last goal unattainable given the political obstacles to balancing the spending disparities across the state.

Raymon Bynum, associate commissioner for finance of the Texas Education Agency, is one who thinks politics and equitable school finance don't mix.

Meany raps Carter's foreign affairs action

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany has lashed out at President Carter's handling of foreign affairs, widening a rift with Carter and possibly signaling the beginning of a complete break with the president.

The relationship between the two men has deteriorated since Carter took office, and some AFL-CIO officials here say Meany is on the verge of a complete break. Such a rift between organized labor and Democratic presidents is rare.

Meany, a frequent critic of Carter's domestic policies, criticized on Monday the president's handling of issues ranging from the Middle East dispute to the weekend fighting between China and Vietnam.

"I don't know what his foreign policy is," Meany told a news conference after the AFL-CIO's leaders opened their winter meeting here. "Our foreign policy seems to be, we'll react to events. Something happens and we have something to say about it," he said. "You take Iran, it's a good case in point."

Meany said Carter backed the Shah of Iran for too long and then was too quick in recognizing the Islamic revolutionary government set up by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Removal powers support lags

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Walter Mengden found Monday that even his legislative allies would not back his proposal to give Texas governors the power to remove appointees to state commissions.

"As a long-standing backer of Mengden bills, this one worries me a little bit," Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, told Mengden, R-Houston.

Traeger and members of the Senate State Affairs Committee sent Mengden's proposal (SJR8) to a subcommittee.

"Right now the governor's appointees to state boards and commissions serve six-year terms, once they are confirmed," Mengden said.

"They function autonomously and do not answer to the governor, the Legislature or anyone else."

He said he has introduced similar legislation the past two lawmaking sessions and that the constitutional amendment would not affect current appointees.

Republican Gov. Bill Clements favors such removal powers. "Would this be called a patronage bill?" Traeger asked.

"No," the sponsor said. Chairman Bill Moore, D-Bryan, asked what would happen if a Democrat were elected.

"We might have a Democratic governor in Texas one day and the Democrat might fire the appointees of Gov. Clements," Moore said.

"The reason this safeguard (against removal) was put in the 1876 state Constitution was to protect us from that sort of situation," Moore added. "I think you're treading on dangerous ground."

Gubernatorial appointees usually serve six-year terms upon Senate confirmation and cannot be removed. Governors serving four-year terms can affect state board policies for six years after leaving office by making "eleventh hour" appointments.

"Is it going to be sent to the subcommittee, or to a subcommittee to be worked on for Senate review?" Mengden asked.

"We don't have a standing subcommittee," Moore said. "I could let you name the subcommittee, but the result would be the same."

Traeger and Sens. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth, and Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches were named to the subcommittee.

In other matters, the committee sent to the Senate a bill to retain the Board of Barber Examiners. The Texas Sunset Advisory Commission has recommended the board be abolished.

"This was written by the cosmetologists and the barber board," said Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso. "I think we need a barber board. I think the consumers of Texas need a barber board."

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, a member of the commission, said he would oppose the bill on the Senate floor.

Doggett won approval for his bill to raise the mandatory state retirement age from 65 to 70, to comply with federal law. The bill was amended to exclude state colleges and universities, which will not come under the higher age provision until 1982.

Beer drinkers may get gusto in smaller doses

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas beer lovers would have three more can sizes from which to drink under a bill approved by the Senate on Monday.

Senators voted 29-1 to authorize the sale of beer in 7-ounce, 8-ounce and 16-ounce cans, which are now prohibited.

If the measure is approved by the House, it would take effect Jan. 1, 1980.

Sen. Gene Jones, the sponsor, told reporters Texas is one of only two states that don't allow beer to be sold in cans under 12 ounces.

"Some people like small beers," said Jones, D-Houston.

The bill also was written, he said, "to keep wholesalers from competing with retailers."

He noted, too, that an amendment had been accepted to exempt Shiner Beer, a small South Texas brewery, from a provision prohibiting "dock sales." In such sales, distributors sell beer by the keg from their warehouses. Shiner still could sell beer by the keg at the brewery.

Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, said this was an important part of Shiner's business.

An analysis of the bill shows it also would:

—Prohibit manufacturers from selling directly to retailers.

—Require that beer in the new sizes be sold only in "retail packages" — such as 6-packs or 8-packs.

—Lock distributors into assigned territories.

—Allow retail beer sellers to acquire their supplies from any distributor in the state.

—Repeal the law that allows manufacturers to sell beer to private clubs.

In other action, the Senate approved and sent to the House bills that would:

—extend until Dec. 31, 1982, the time for the state to trade public school land for land of equal value.

—exempt the holder of a mixed beverage permit from posting bond if the permit holder has paid all taxes and fees on time for the previous 24 months.

—increase the fee for replacing lost license plates from $1 to $5, with half the money going to the county and half to the state.

—exempt non-profit water supply districts from the jurisdiction of the Public Utility Commission.

The House approved, 138-0, and sent to the Senate a bill allowing the prison system to spend up to $200 for burial expenses of inmates.

A WORLD BOOK SALE!

A World Book sale is really news... and it's good news for parents! Imagine saving $75 off the regular price of the 1978 edition... an impressive saving on the world's largest-selling encyclopedia.

World Book outsells all the others because it's the encyclopedia for the whole family.

World Book fits its language to its most likely readers.

Articles are written at the language level of those most likely to read them. For example, World Book's article on puppets—which would be of greater interest to young children—reads more easily than the one on thermodynamics, written for older children and adults.

Major articles begin with simple explanations, so that even young readers can get the basic information they want. The 24-page article on insects, for example, begins... "Insect is a small six-legged animal." But as the article unfolds, it progresses to a scholarly discussion of insect growth patterns, development, and classification.

You can see that World Book is the encyclopedia your children won't outgrow.

Call 800-447-4700 now to take advantage of this saving.

It's a sale you won't want to miss... a chance to own the 22-volume World Book in the luxurious Renaissance binding; was regularly $399, now special sale price only $324.

Old Brands Not Missed.

—National Smoker Study

Research shows 14 out of 15 MERIT smokers find total "taste" satisfaction.

Low tar MERIT has proven that it delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but can it satisfy smokers long-term? A nationwide research effort confirms it.

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

And in interviews conducted among current high tar smokers:

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

This ability to satisfy former high tar smokers over a long period of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is the first real taste alternative for high tar smokers.

Hawks shoot by Clarendon, 90-80

The Howard College Hawks used an effective press midway through the last half and the dominating inside play of R. Q. Tolliver to break an eight game losing streak and hand the Clarendon Bulldogs a 90-80 defeat in a Western Junior Conference game played in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Monday night.

The Hawks, behind the early bombs of Robby Randolph, jumped out to a quick 11-4 lead and appeared on the way to an easy win before Clarendon, behind the shooting of Harvey Oatman and Darrell Poarch, battled back to within one at 21-20 with nine minutes remaining in the half.

The two teams which occupy the bottom two spots in the Western Conference, battled in somewhat sloppy fashion until halftime, with Clarendon tying the score at 40 at the intermission.

Howard College scored the first four points of the second half to establish a lead quickly that they would never relinquish.

Coach Harold Wilder then ordered a full-court press shortly afterward, and the Hawks used it to build a sizable advantage. The pressing tactics of Allen Bonds, Elroy Green, Rocky Rawls, Randolph and Brad Melton forced numerous turnovers, and the Hawks capitalized to build their lead to 71-58 with 8:30 remaining to play.

Howard reached their biggest lead of the night with 6:30 remaining on a field goal by Green to give the Hawks a 76-60 lead.

Clarendon, behind the uncanny shooting of the 6'2" Poarch, rallied to within 82-74 with just over two minutes left, but could come no closer than this.

Randolph led the Hawks in scoring with 24 points, while Tolliver added 21. Tolliver and Linwood Hines were also instrumental in controlling the backboards in the second half for the Hawks, forcing Clarendon to have only one field goal attempt on many occasions. Rocky Rawls and Allen Bonds chipped in with 12 points for the Hawks, while Green added 11.

Poarch ended a great shooting night with 35 points, while Lott added 13 for Clarendon.

Howard is now 2-13 in conference play, while Clarendon is winless in 15 outings.

In district meet

BSHS swimmers place fifth

MIDLAND — The Big Spring Steer swimming team earned 27 points in the District 5-AAAA swim meet to place fifth in the team competition.

The Big Spring boys, behind Morgan Wise's first place in the 100-Backstroke, earned 15 points while the girls earned 12 points.

Six BSHS swimmers qualified for regionals in the individual competition, while the Steers qualified three relay teams for regionals.

Wise won his specialty, making All-District in the process, with a time of 1:00.01 in the 100-Backstroke.

The boys 200-Medley Relay team placed third with a time of 1:50.3. The third place finish earned the quartet of Wise, Kirk Nelson, Randy Stukel and Bill Hart the honor of Honorable Mention All-District. This group also qualified for regionals.

Ellen Karwedy also earned Honorable Mention All-District and qualified for regionals in the 200-Individual Medley with a time of 3:03.78, and placed sixth in the 100-Breaststroke with a time of 1:24.19.

The girls 200-Medley Relay earned sixth place and a berth in the regionals with a time of 2:20.3. This team was composed of Karwedy, Carrie Little, Marie Bonewitz and Lisa Fleckenstein.

The girls 400-Free Style

Relay also earned a sixth place and a spot in the regionals with a time of 4:41.5. This team was composed of Karwedy, Bonewitz, Cathy Miller and Paula Willadsen.

Little also qualified for regional competition in two events. Carrie placed fifth in the 200-Individual Medley with a time of 3:03.78, and placed sixth in the 100-Breaststroke with a time of 1:24.19.

Kathy Biggs placed sixth in the 200-Individual Medley and gained a spot in regional competition with a time of 3:27.49.

Tonda Batchelor also earned a trip to regionals with a sixth place finish in the 500-Freestyle. Her time was 7:34.76.

Midland Lee won the district title by accumulating 157 points. Crosstown rival Midland placed second with 133 points. Permian was third with 128 points, followed by San Angelo with 72, Big Spring with 27, Odessa with 25, Cooper with 24, and Abilene with two.

Somerville resigns

TCU coaching post

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Under fire from several of his own players who claimed he was too strict and doomed to the Southwest Conference cellar for the second straight year, Texas Christian basketball coach Tim Somerville resigned Monday.

Somerville had a record of 10-40 during two seasons at TCU. He was promoted from assistant coach to take over the program in 1977 when former coach Johnny Swaim resigned four days before the 1977-78 season opened.

A university spokesman who asked not to be identified said Somerville, 32, resigned because, "He felt in two short years here he was not able to recruit the type of players he wanted for his highly disciplined type of situation. He was looking for the very disciplined type individual."

TCU Athletic Director Frank Windegger offered only a one-year contract, and Somerville, whose record this year so far is 6-18 overall and 1-13 against Southwest Conference opponents, wanted more, according to a TCU spokesman. By contrast, TCU's football coach, F.A. Dry, recently won a five-year contract.

The basketball coach became embroiled in disputes with some of his players, who took various grievances, mainly involving disciplinary policies, to local newspapers two weeks ago. However, Somerville and the players said later the problems were resolved, and TCU was doing better in recent games.

TCU will begin a search for a new basketball coach as soon as the current season ends, Windegger said.

In the 1977-78 season, Somerville's team posted a 4-22 record during the 1977-78 season, an improvement over the previous season, when the Horned Frogs were 3-23.

UCLA takes top college ranking

NEW YORK (AP) — Three months ago, Bill Hodges of Indiana State would have jumped at being the No. 2 college basketball team in the country, but now he's having second thoughts — like being No. 1 again.

Hodges, the first-year coach who has guided Indiana State to a 24-0 record this season and a No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press poll last week, saw his Sycamores fall to No. 2 Monday, trailing front-runner UCLA by only five points.

"If you asked me before the season if I'd have taken the No. 2 ranking now, I would have said: 'Super, I'll take it,'" Hodges said from Des Moines, Iowa, where his team is scheduled to meet Drake tonight.

But Hodges wasn't singing the same tune Monday. UCLA, runner-up by six points last week, outpooled Indiana State 1,151 points to 1,146 and took over the No. 1 spot Monday. The Sycamores held a 37-23 first-place vote edge in balloting by a national panel of 60 sports writers and broadcasters.

"The polls are good in that they get in the newspapers day after day and increase fan appeal but more weight should be placed on the number of No. 1 votes," Hodges said.

"There's no way a team should be No. 2 after getting almost twice as many first-place votes. I'm not saying I'm not happy under the present situation. We've got a good schedule and you don't win 24 straight without deserving a high ranking."

Although it may be one place too low for Bill Hodges, UCLA, 20-3, and Indiana State were named on each of the ballots. The Bruins, who nipped Arizona State 85-83 and crushed Arizona 110-86 last week, were tabbed no lower than fourth. The Sycamores, who blasted West Texas State 100-75 and struggled past Southern Illinois 69-68, were ranked as low as seventh by one voter.

Notre Dame and North Carolina maintained the No. 3 and No. 4 positions after easy victories. The Irish, 19-3, collected 1,073 points following triumphs over Manhattan and West Virginia last week, while the Tar Heels, 20-4, received 978 points after beating William & Mary and Virginia.

Michigan State, 842 points, jumped into the No. 7 position, up one place, ahead of Syracuse, which fell from seventh to No. 8 with 814 points.

Marquette, No. 10 last week, moved into ninth place with 686 points while Arkansas rounded out the Top 10 with 601 points — one more point than Southwest Conference rival Texas.

WJCAC results

Midland College took an important 73-57 victory over Odessa College in a WJCAC game played Monday night in Midland's Chaparral Center.

Midland's Cullen Mayfield scored 26 points to lead the Chaparral charge, with Chuck McGill adding 18 for MC. Billy Ray Ennis was high point for Odessa with 17.

Midland is now 10-5 in conference, while Odessa dropped to 9-5.

Western Texas College of Snyder continued its dominance in conference play, taking a 101-84 victory over Frank Phillips. The win boosted WTC's conference record to 13-2, while Frank Phillips slipped to 7-8.

Amarillo College evened its WJCAC mark at 7-7 and remained in the running for a berth in the Region V Tournament to be held in Big Spring in March by taking an exciting 81-79 victory over South Plains. The loss dropped South Plains to 7-8.

Mike Young led Amarillo with 27 points, while Rickey Phillips was high point for South Plains with 14.

DERBY FAVORITE — Spectacular Bid, with Ronnie Franklin in the saddle, breezes to an 8 1/2-length win in the $59,800 Fountain of Youth Stakes at Gulfstream Park Monday. The 3-year-old colt, the early Kentucky Derby favorite, was an overwhelming favorite of the betting crowd, paying only $2.20 to win. Lot O'Gold was second.

Spectacular Bid is early Derby favorite

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP) — Spectacular Bid has his sights set on the Florida Derby March 6 and later the Kentucky Derby after handily winning the $59,800 Fountain of Youth Stakes at Gulfstream Park.

The 3-year-old grey colt showed Monday why he is an odds-on favorite to win the Triple Crown this year after finishing 8 1/2 lengths in front of runner-up Lot O'Gold.

"It was real easy," said jockey Ronnie Franklin, who guided his mount over 11-16 miles in 1:41.1-4 — one second off the track record. "The further he goes, the better he gets."

As a 2-year-old, Spectacular Bid was the 1978 champion and his first time out as a 3-year-old he took the Hutcheson Stakes at Gulfstream earlier this month.

Kentucky's perennial Southeastern Conference champs have been also-rans this year, but the Wildcats may be peaking as tournament time approaches.

You remember Kentucky...the team that captured the national championship last year. The Wildcats are only 14-10 this season, 9-8 in SEC play, and it took a 90-74 triumph over Georgia Monday night to reach those levels.

Freshman Dwight Anderson scored 23 points to lead the Wildcats, who connected on 20 of 21 free throws. Also in double figures were Lavon Williams with 18 points, Kyle Macy with 13 and Jay Shidler and Fred Cowan with 12.

Elsewhere in the SEC, fifth-ranked Louisiana State was idle but clinched one of the two berths in next week's tourney when Tennessee defeated No. 19 Vanderbilt 83-78. That left only Alabama, 79-76 winner over Florida, with a chance to the LSU for the title, although 11-5 Bama, 11-6 Vandy and 10-6 Tennessee all have a shot at the other bye into the semifinals.

Tennessee was led by Reggie Johnson's 27 points and Terry Crosby's 22, but needed a tip-in and a three-point play by Howard Wood to stave off Vanderbilt, which got a game-high 28 points from Charlie Davis.

Meanwhile, Reggie King became Alabama's all-time scoring leader. King scored 27 points against Florida, giving him a total of 1,929, bettering the mark of 1,909 set by Leon Douglas, now with the Detroit Pistons.

Vanderbilt was the only member of The Associated Press Top Twenty in action. The game between No. 15 Temple and Rider was postponed because of a snowstorm that blanketed the Eastern seaboard.

Meanwhile, Turk Tillman poured in 42 points as Eastern Kentucky trounced Tennessee Tech 100-72 and captured the Ohio Valley Conference regular-season championship. The Colonels were locked in a 68-64 squeaker with 8:42 left but outscored Tech 32-8 the rest of the way. Runnerup Western Kentucky was eliminated when John Randall's 24 points led last-place Murray State to a 66-64 upset of the Hilltoppers.

Lamar maintained a half-game lead in the Southland Conference by swamping McNeese State 103-83 as B.B. Davis scored 27 points and Clarence Kea added 25. Southwestern Louisiana remained on Lamar's heels with a 115-103 victory over Texas-Arlington despite an SLC record 20-of-20 free throws by UTA's Paul Renfro. USL's Andrew Toney didn't start for the first time in 79 games but came off the bench and erupted for 32 points.

New Mexico State solidified its hold on second place in the Missouri Valley Conference by downing Southern Illinois 86-76 as Slab Jones scored 22 points.

Basketball twinbill slated tonight

HC vs. Clarendon
Sands vs. Westbrook

A big basketball doubleheader is on tap tonight in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum when the Howard College Hawk Queens host the Clarendon Bulldogs at 6:30 and the Sands Mustangs meet the Westbrook Wildcats immediately after.

The Hawk Queens and Clarendon girls matchup is a most important game for both of the Western Conference squads. Howard sports a record of 5-4 in conference and 19-7 on the year, while Clarendon is 5-5 in conference.

Bear Bryant released

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Alabama football Coach Bear Bryant was released from a hospital Monday after 10 days of treatment, but Bama officials say they don't know when he will return to work.

The coach fell in the bathtub at his home and cracked a rib Feb. 6. He entered West Alabama General Hospital at nearby Northport Feb. 9 for severe pain and observation to make sure there were no complications.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan amusements early that include good friends. Put more thought into how best to commercialize on your particular talents.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning is fine for improving conditions at home, but don't irk kin in evening in any way. Entertain friends in the early evening only for best results. Show all that you are charming.

WEDDING BELLS — Patty Hearst and her policeman fiance Bernard Shaw will probably get married April 1, says Shaw.

'Young fools in love'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Because they're "just a couple of young fools in love," Patty Hearst and her policeman-fiance Bernard Shaw probably will get married April 1, says Shaw.

Shaw made the comments after returning to work from a two-week vacation with Miss Hearst following her Feb. 1 prison release. He told a reporter the wedding site was not yet chosen, but likely will be a church.

Miss Hearst served 19 months in prison on a bank robbery conviction. She helped rob a San Francisco bank five years ago while on the run with her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers. She announced her engagement while in prison.

A Valentine's Day wedding date originally was announced, but that was changed because her seven-year sentence was not commuted by President Carter as early as had been expected.

Gifts of cocaine

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Tony Orlando says he lived and worked "night and day" in a Hollywood saturated with drugs and that he never paid for cocaine because, "People would say, here's a little gift."

Orlando also says that when he was hospitalized in July 1977 for a nervous breakdown, he was suffering from "drug psychosis, which is not too far removed from an acid (LSD) trip."

Orlando, in the March issue of Ladies Home Journal magazine, says a "three-month involvement with cocaine" triggered his nervous breakdown.

The article reported it is common for Hollywood agents to provide clients with drugs, especially cocaine.

Orlando said he was having "personal and professional problems," and cocaine became a "synthetic boost." The drug's effects became "a nightmare" later, he said.

The magazine said that just before his hospitalization, Orlando's sister had died and his friend, actor-comedian Freddie Prinze, killed himself. Orlando is now performing again, but not with the duo, Dawn.

Great Balloon Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The New Mexico trio that made the first trans-Atlantic balloon crossing will be in a Kentucky Derby-connected race, but they won't be riding horses.

Ben Abruzzo, Maxie Anderson and Larry Newman, who piloted the Double Eagle II on its historic flight, will compete April 28 in the Great Balloon Race, which will be held in connection with the Kentucky Derby Festival.

The historic 3,105-mile flight of Double Eagle II began Aug. 11, 1978 and lasted 137 hours, 6 minutes, ending near Miserey, France, on Aug. 17.

Cold remedies—II

Cough industry nets $843 million year

NEW YORK (AP) — It's an intimate scene. A young couple in bathrobes confront us at their medicine chest.

The husband says he has everything he needs for a cold, and opens his side of the cabinet to reveal a dozen powders, liquids and pills.

But the wife, looking smug, says she too has everything she needs for a cold. Her side contains a single product that combines the active ingredients of all the others.

That's cold fighting, television-commercial style.

It is the kind of pitch that helped make multi-ingredient products perennial leaders of the $843 million a year cough and cold industry, the largest over-the-counter drug market.

Nobody claims these products cure a cold. All they do is ease the symptoms during the week or more a disease hangs on.

But some doctors and druggists are questioning the wisdom of the "shotgun" approach to cold relief.

"Too many ingredients can work at cross purposes," says Joe Graedon, pharmacologist and author. "There's an expectorant to get mucus out of the lungs, a cough suppressant to keep it in the lungs, and an antihistamine to thicken the mucus that's there."

A U.S. Food and Drug Administration study panel said it was "irrational" to combine more than three classes of ingredients because almost no one has that many symptoms at once.

But the drug companies say the FDA is wrong: more than half of cold sufferers have multiple symptoms.

"Advertising only encourages the consumer to try the product once. If it doesn't work, he'll stop buying it," says George F. Hoffnagle, vice president for scientific and regulatory affairs for Richardson-Merrell, maker of Vicks.

Hoffnagle says it's cheaper and safer for a cold victim who has several symptoms to buy one combination remedy than to experiment with different single-ingredient products.

The FDA panel found that the 50,000 cold remedies it studied all contained one or more of about 120 basic ingredients.

Of these, the panel said 44 were both safe and effective. But 22 others were branded as unsafe or mislabeled, and 54 were said to be safe but of dubious value.

The FDA panel added: —Cold product labeling often is "overly complicated, vague, unsupported by scientific evidence and in some cases is misleading."

—Advertising claims such as "cold medicine," "cold formula," or "for the relief of colds" should be banned.

—More research is needed into how the products affect children.

ALWAYS IMPROVING SERVICES ...West-Tex Telephone Coop

West-Tex Telephone serving West Texans

West-Tex Telephone serves over eight counties in this part of the state.

Back when the West-Tex system went into being, there were many rural areas that had no telephone service at all. Some of the early ones simply had a telephone line running along a barbed wire fence.

But now West-Tex, which headquarters in Stanton, has miles and miles of telephone lines and they serve portions of Martin, Howard, Glasscock, Dawson, Borden, Midland and other counties.

They now offer a selection of telephones in colors and styles. They have done away with their old six and eight party lines although there are two still on several by choice.

They offer alarms that ring outside if a telephone rings in the house and long extension lines. They have a very complete service which has developed through the years from the struggling beginning years.

Many rural areas went without telephones at all, until West-Tex looped out into their part of the world.

They constantly try to update and improve both their equipment and their service at West-Tex Telephone Coop. Like other larger telephone companies, they have some problems, but they work constantly to improve their facilities and most of all their service to their patrons.

Farm Barely breaking even 'beef'

By DON KENDALL
 AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although cattle prices are expected to increase gradually to new records this year, farmers and feedlot operators who produce the "finished" beef for consumers are barely breaking even with expenses, according to the latest Agriculture Department analysis.
 The main reason is the soaring cost of buying lightweight feeder cattle which then are fed grain and other rations until they are ready for the slaughter market.
 Farmers and ranchers who have cow herds, on the other hand, produce the calves that wind up as feeders. Thus, they are benefitting greatly by the higher prices for feeder stock.

 In a current "Livestock and Meat Situation" report, department economists show how higher costs are affecting those who feed cattle for slaughter.
 The figures are not intended as typical of all operations but do illustrate how costs and expenses stack up in the beef business.
 Based on costs last month, a producer would have to get $58.73 per 100 pounds to pay for the feeder steer and the feed consumed by the time it is sold in July, the report said.
 If all costs — including the feeder steer, feed, labor, depreciation and other expenses — are taken into account, the producer would have to get $66.52 a hundredweight for the finished steer after feeding it for six months and selling it in July.

 The department's current forecast is that Choice-grade market will average $60 to $62 per 100 pounds at Omaha, Neb., in 1979, a record high. In 1978, they averaged $52.94 per hundredweight, up from $40.38 in 1977 and $39.11 in 1976.
 In January, the cost of a 600-pound feeder steer — as used in the analysis — was $451.74. That was an increase of about 71 percent from $264.42 a year earlier.
 Costs of feed for six months, including $93.60 for corn, and the other expenses required to produce a 1,050-pound steer ready for market in July add up to $698.42.
 That translates into $66.52 per 100 pounds, the price a producer would need in July to break even.
 Despite the narrow range of profits — and those vary greatly according to how individual farmers and feedlots manage their programs — a larger share of the nation's beef is coming from fed cattle than was the case in recent years.
 As producers thinned out their herds, more cows and other nonfed cattle went to slaughter. Meanwhile, feedlot production declined, meaning that nonfed cattle made up a larger portion of the beef output.
 For example, when cattle inventories were still building and feedlots were turning out more animals, fed cattle made up almost 80 percent of the total U.S. beef production in 1972 and 1973.
 But in 1975 fed cattle comprised only about 56 percent of the beef output. They accounted for 69 percent last year as market prices improved in relation to feed costs.
 This year, according to USDA economists, fed cattle may make up nearly 80 percent of the total beef supply.
 That does not mean, however, that consumers will see more beef — just that more of what is available will be from fed cattle.

Because of fewer cows and other nonfed cattle going to slaughter, this year's total beef supply is expected to decline another 6 percent. It dropped about 4 percent last year.

Farmers help folks in D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Protecting farmers, who have been blamed for more than $2 billion in damage to the nation's capital, helped Washingtonians through one of the worst snowstorms in the city's history.
 Farmers and their tractors assisted city police and hospitals in making emergency calls most of Monday.
 "We didn't do it because of all the damage they blamed us for," said Paducah farmer David W. Sweeney. "We're doin' it just because we're good people."
 Sweeney said farmers have driven their tractors to aid doctors and nurses to and from hospitals, delivered medical supplies and helped a pregnant woman reach the hospital and helped free a snowbound U.S. marshal.

'Farmers' Summit is scheduled in Stanton

STANTON — The Texas Farmers Union will host a "Farmers' Summit" Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Stanton Community Center, two blocks east of the courthouse.
 Three issues have been selected for discussion and debate, with both pro and con being represented among the speakers.
 The first issue, "Is parity valid?" will be debated at 10 a.m. with Jay Naman, TFU president saying yes and Dr. Ronald Knutson Extension economist for Agricultural Policy and Marketing, Texas A&M debating the negative side.
 A barbecue lunch will be served at noon, with tickets available at the summit.
 From 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., Jim Hightower, editor of the "Texas Observer" will debate the affirmative against an "empty chair" of materials submitted by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.
 At 3 p.m., Robert G. Lewis, secretary and chief economist of the National Farmers Union will debate the affirmative opposing Dr. Willard F. Williams, professor of economics at Texas Tech University on the question, "Can farmers achieve a better price through protection?"
 The purpose of the meeting, say planners of the summit, is to arm farmers with information, and give them insight into the facts on both sides of the issues.

Outbreaks of scabies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outbreaks of cattle scabies, a skin disease, continue to be a problem this winter, says the Agriculture Department.
 Some 59 outbreaks in 12 states were confirmed in January. The states include South Dakota, Colorado, California, Texas, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, Wyoming, Illinois, Minnesota and Oregon.
 In January of last year, however, 83 outbreaks were verified.
 Since Oct. 1, 126 cases of cattle scabies have been confirmed, compared to 106 in the previous October-January period.
 Glen O. Schubert of the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service attributed the decline from a year earlier to "states strengthening import rules to prevent movement of infected cattle."
