Hundreds of deaths

Ugandan troops face invading Tanzanians

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan troops for the first time stood and fought an invasion force of Tanzanians and Ugandan exiles, resulting in hundreds of deaths in the heaviest fighting of the war, reports from East Africa capitals said Saturday.

Tanzanian officials said Ugandan President Idi Amin took the war back into Tanzania Saturday as Ugandan warplanes struck the town of Kyaka, 20 miles inside Tanzania. The Tanzanians said one Tanzanian was wounded and three Ugandan planes were shot down.

The war began last October when Amin's forces invaded Tanzania and drove as deep as Kyaka before withdrawing back across the border.

Uganda Radio, monitored in Nairobi, made no mention of the air raid on Kyaka, but claimed its troops had killed almost 1,000 Tanzanian soldiers and Ugandan rebels in a single battle last Tuesday and Wednesday.

It said 500 others were wounded and Ugandan forces captured three tanks and some heavy artillery.

The Uganda Nationalist Organization, describing itself as an umbrella group representing several exile groups fighting Amin's regime, claimed 300 Libyans and Palestinians fighting for the Ugandan president were killed, apparently in the same clash. Amin has said Palestinians are fighting for him, but Libya has denied reports that it sent soldiers to help Amin, a longtime ally.

The reports from the two sides indicated the big battle had been fought near Lukaya, about 50 miles south of the Ugandan capital of Kampala.

"We believe there were as many as

2,000 Ugandans at Lukaya," said an independent analyst in the Tanzanian capital of Dar Es Salaam. "It was the first time they (Ugandans) fought. Before, there would be a little artillery fire and they would flee."

"Now it seems that the rest of the road to Kampala is going to be a question of inch-by-inch, and you can expect more heavy fighting." He asked not to be identified.

Knowledgeable observers in Dar Es Salaam said it was not clear who won the battle, but "no territory was given up."

Daily supply flights from Arab states who support Amin, a converted Moslem, apparently have buoyed Amin's once-demoralized forces, observers said.

Syria raises possibility of war

A high-level U.S. delegation opened a Mideast tour Saturday to try to cool Arab tempers over the American-inspired Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty, but an angry Syria said the only way to deal with the challenge might be war.

"There is no other choice ... but the armed choice," the official Syrian newspaper Tishrin declared.

The U.S. team, including National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and President Carter's son Chip, arrived in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, Saturday to try to win the backing of King Khaled, or at least to mute Saudi criticism of the Egypt-Israel pact and head off Saudi economic retaliation against Egypt.

There was no immediate word on the outcome of the meeting.

Damascus radio claimed, however, that the Saudis last week threatened to cut off $1 billion in annual economic aid to Egypt if President Anwar Sadat signs the separate peace with Israel.

An Egyptian Foreign Ministry spokesman in Cairo denied that report. There was no official Saudi comment.

In a Newsweek magazine interview Saturday, however, Saudi Crown Prince Fahd indicated his country would not cut off aid to Cairo, saying Saudi Arabia is "deeply concerned about the welfare of all Arab countries and this will continue to be the case in the future."

In related developments Saturday:

—In the Old City of Jerusalem, Arabs and Jews clashed violently when a group of Jewish students tried to force their way onto the Holy Temple Mount, which is holy to Muslims and Jews. No serious injuries were reported. Four Arabs and five Jews were arrested. Authorities discourage Jews from entering the site because of possible confrontations with Muslims.

—In Kuwait, the newspaper Al Siyassa quoted Palestinian sources as saying guerrillas want to reactivate a radical terrorist strike force against U.S. targets and Arabs supporting Sadat.

—In Jordan, Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat, who told a Beirut magazine "the whole Middle East will explode if Sadat signs the pact," met with King Hussein of Jordan. It was only Arafat's second trip to Jordan since Hussein expelled Palestinian guerrillas from his country in 1970. In surprisingly mild joint statement issued after the meeting, both said they would resist "all attempts to liquidate the legitimate rights of Palestinians."

Accused in Oklahoma murders

Preliminary hearing set for Stafford

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A preliminary hearing in district court has been set for April 30 for mass murder suspect Roger Dale Stafford on a first-degree murder charge.

Oklahoma County District Attorney Andrew Coats said he and McClain County District Attorney Kay Hill will meet Monday to discuss filing other charges against Stafford.

Police say Stafford, 27, is the lone surviving suspect in the killings of six Oklahoma City steakhouse workers and the murders of three members of a Texas family last summer.

Stafford was arrested Tuesday night at a Chicago YMCA and was returned to Oklahoma City Wednesday afternoon.

He was refused bond at his arraignment Friday.

Tempers flared at the arraignment shortly before Stafford entered an innocent plea in the slaying of one person killed at a Siroloin Stockade steakhouse.

Stafford was arraigned before District Court Judge Raymond Naifeh on one first-degree murder count in the death of 15-year-old Terri Horst.

The defendant was represented at the hearing by Gary Dean, an attorney from Pryor.

Dean had angry words with police and Assistant District Attorney Jim McKinney in the courtroom shortly before Naifeh made his appearance and before Dean actually became Stafford's attorney of record.

Dean said he and his law partner, Tony Jack Lyons, were contacted by Stafford's brother-in-law, Roy Denning of the Chicago area. He said he had made several attempts to meet with Stafford but had been forbidden by police.

Then Friday Dean filed legal action to force authorities to produce Stafford in court. When Stafford was brought in to the packed courtroom Dean approached him and attempted to talk to him, but was restrained by police and rebuked by McKinney.

When one policeman grabbed his arm to prevent him from approaching Stafford, Dean shot back, "Arrest me, or get your hands off me."

Police then took Stafford to a courtroom hallway to await Naifeh's appearance.

Tom Kennedy, director of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation, said Stafford is the lone suspect in the July 16 slayings of the Siroloin Stockade employees during a $1,500 robbery and the June killings of Air Force Sgt. Melvin Lorenz, his wife and son of San Antonio, Texas, along Interstate 35 near Purcell.

Stafford's brother, Harold Roy Stafford, who died six days after the steakhouse killings in a motorcycle accident, was listed as an accomplice.

Stafford's estranged wife, Verna, is being kept in protective custody and investigators say she has placed Stafford in areas throughout the country where a number of unsolved killings occurred.

Oklahoma City police and the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation said they planned no further questioning of Stafford during the weekend.

Global flier visits nephew here before returning home

Charles Hull took off at 8:30 a.m., here Saturday on the last leg on his around-the-world flight, planning on putting down at the mission's point-of-origin, Winona, Miss., later in the day.

Hull stopped here to spend the night in the home of his nephew, Guy Griffith. His aircraft, a specially-equipped, single-engine Cessna 210, was moored overnight at the Big Spring Municipal Airport.

Hull, a white-hair businessman in his 50s, had started his flight Dec. 16.

He flew over the South Atlantic to Africa, landing at Nairobi, Kenya, then in Cairo, Egypt. He made his way east via India, taking care to fly over the Taj Mahal at Agra.

The Cessna has a pressurized cabin so that Hull could benefit from upper-atmosphere winds.

Such a craft ordinarily has a 90-gallon gas tank. The Mississippian had installed more fuel compartments so that it can carry 238 gallons, enough to stay aloft six hours. He even installed a fuel tank in the cockpit, leaving room enough only for the pilot.

Hull developed a love for flying when he flew daylight bombing raids out of England in 1943. In all, he participated in 25 missions over enemy lines.

Griffith, now a math teacher at Goliad Junior High, is himself a pilot of considerable experience. He flew the F-4 while in the military and has flown bombers.

The two have frequently been aloft together on local flights.

Last year, Hull flew along the Atlantic side of South America, perhaps preparing for this latest adventure.

Hull is in the farm supply business in Winona. His many friends in his home town were planning a formal reception for him when he returned home.

Flying is a great way to see the world, Hull concedes. Quite probably, he's already made plans for other excursions around the globe.

Area due to get weather station

The first in a network of solar-powered weather stations authorized by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation will be built near Big Spring by a Fort Collins, Colo., firm.

Electronic Techniques Inc., of Fort Collins will initiate its $1.5 million venture here. The 150 portable monitoring stations will transmit weather information through a satellite into a centralized computer system.

The stations are designed to allow researchers to monitor weather developments relating to wind speed, temperature, relative humidity, barometric pressure and precipitation.

Each weather station, to be built in the next 20 months, will be operated by batteries that draw their power from solar panels.

Action/reaction: Putt not asked

Q. Is it true that someone was chosen over All-Southwest Conference Putt Choate of Coahoma to speak at the Coahoma High School athletic banquet?

A. Putt likely would have had to decline the invitation even had he been asked, according to friends, because of his heavy study load in school. Connie Hood of Minton was the person invited to deliver the talk and he accepted.

Hiltbrunner: electorate should have a choice

"I think my candidacy should be considered. I think in any election the voters should have a choice," L.A. (Red) Hiltbrunner said, in making his formal announcement that he will be a candidate for the office on Big Spring city councilman, Place 3.

"We've been in Big Spring 30 years," Hiltbrunner continued. "I was with the Police Department for 16 years and since that time have been in business for myself. I have been in the public eye all the time."

"I believe I have a running knowledge of the problems of Big Spring, whether it is the Police Department, the Street Department or whatever. I believe this city can be operated without an increase in taxes. Our city officials are working on the budget now and I don't know what to expect."

When Hiltbrunner resigned from the Police Department in 1966, he had risen to the rank of captain. He worked with the Traffic Division and in Criminal Investigation, adding he did a little bit of everything within the department.

Hiltbrunner operated Alert Ambulance for ten years, stepping aside in that business as recently as August 1978. He sold all of his equipment at that time.

He is now operating the Hiltbrunner Transfer Service. He also farms some

Hart up on murder charge

A trial of two mothers

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — In many ways, it is a trial of two mothers.

One is possessed by the memory of her 8-year-old daughter's violent death. The other is stoic and reserved as she watches her son battle for his life.

The lives of both women were altered forever June 13, 1977, as were to a degree the lives of everyone living near the northeastern Oklahoma community of Locust Grove.

In the predawn hours of that morning, three young Tulsa Girl Scouts were brutally slain and sexually molested their first night at Camp Scott.

Gene Leroy Hart, 35, is charged with three counts of first-degree murder in the slayings. The state is seeking the death penalty.

Testimony in the case is scheduled to begin Monday. A six-man, six woman jury and two alternates were picked during a difficult 11 days of jury selection concluded Friday.

The three girls were beaten about the head. One was strangled. The hands of two of the victims were bound behind them. Their bodies were found with sleeping bags on a camp trail several yards from their bloody tent.

A massive search failed to turn up a killer in the rugged woodlands surrounding the camp.

Hart was charged 10 days after the deaths of Lori Lee Farmer, 8, Michele Guse, 9, and Doris Denise Milner, 10, all of the Tulsa area some 30 miles from Camp Scott.

At a month-long preliminary hearing last summer, the state linked Hart to items found at a cave near the camp. Experts also testified samples of hair and sperm taken from the bodies were consistent with samples taken from Hart since his capture.

Hart had been a fugitive from the Mayes County jail since September 1973 when he was charged in the killings. He had escaped from the jail while awaiting a post-conviction relief hearing on earlier convictions of rape, kidnapping and burglary.

He was captured by state agents in April 1978 at a shack in the Cookson Hills of eastern Oklahoma, some 50 miles from the Girl Scout camp.

"Gene Hart is not my enemy," said Mrs. Charles Farmer, a diminutive brown-haired woman who is the mother of the youngest of the victims. She has attended every day of the jury-selection process and most of Hart's other appearances in Mayes County District Court.

Mrs. Farmer and her husband, an emergency room doctor at a Tulsa hospital, have stringently avoided saying they believe Hart is guilty in the death of their daughter.

But they say whoever is convicted in the slayings should receive the death penalty.

"Someone has hurt our family. Someone has taken our daughter from us," Mrs. Farmer said quietly. "A life sentence is not enough. Nothing will be enough."

Garvin Isaacs, Hart's attorney, says the muscular former Locust Grove High School football star owes the state prison time totalling 305 years for his earlier convictions.

Mrs. Farmer sits across the courtroom from Hart's mother, Mrs. Ella May Buckskin, who usually attends the court sessions and always prepares Hart a home-cooked lunch he eats at the courthouse.

WILD ANIMAL ACT PART OF SHOW APPEARING HERE COMING WEEK
Famed Moscow Circus will set up in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum

For two performances

Moscow Circus due here

The Moscow Circus sets up in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum here for two performances this coming week. The unique show can be seen starting at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening and again at the same hour the following night.

The Russian circus family is in the midst of a 3½ month tour of America, authorized by the Soviet Ministry of Culture.

Totally unlike the routine annual announcement of an American circus' new seasonal plans, the mere fact that Soviet government authorities stamp an okay on Moscow Circus touring this country is at once another milestone in historic diplomatic-cultural decisions and marks the fourth time this century that the all-Soviet artists have scheduled performances within the United States.

Logistically, the movement of Moscow Circus' nearly 100 people, almost as many trained animal performers, and tons of specialized equipment and properties from the furthest corners of far-flung Soviet states across the oceans to American soil, is in itself a new record. Those logistic problems begin anew for the day-to-day scheduling from February through June in the United States.

Featured in the 1979 tour is Moscow Circus' famed Valentin Filatov with his company of trained bears. Eighteen of the big brown bears, indigenous to ancient Russian village fairs, drive motorcycles, box, tumble, balance and do acrobatic stunts. Filatov himself is listed as the Soviet's best trainer and wears the distinguished title.

Also in the Moscow Circus format are the world's strongest weight lifter, gymnastic champions, balancers, uncaged leopards, high-wire walkers and performances by dogs, cats, parrots and monkeys.

TOMMY LaTOURNEAU

Le Ann Seidenberger, Shawna Adams winners

Le Ann Seidenberger and Shawna Adams were the big winners in the Moscow Circus coloring contest staged under the auspices of the Herald.

Le Ann won first place in the 9-11 age bracket while Shawna's entry emerged as the best in the 6-8 age group. Each girl won five $6 tickets to the opening night show of the circus, scheduled for 8 p.m., Tuesday in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Le Ann, St. Lawrence Rte., is nine years of age, Shawna is eight. She lives in Big Spring. Twenty other children each won two $6 circus tickets. In the 9-11 year group, the runners-up included:

Joanna Lynn Hamilton, 9, Big Spring; Idolia Parras, 11, Tarzan; Christina L. Alvarez, 11, Big Spring; Barbara Joanne Archer, 11, Gail Route; Michele Lee Pechacek, 10, St. Lawrence Rte.; Loma Edens, 9, Gail Rte.; Sheri Myrick, 9, Gail Rte.; Sonceia Scott, 10, Coahoma; Molly Thompson, 10, Big Spring; and Johnny Arispe, 9, Big Spring.

In the 6-8 age bracket, runners-up were:

Stacey Walling, 8, Big Spring; Jimmy Don Smith, 8, Big Spring; Paula Kay Clanton, 8, Big Spring; Jason Jones, 7, Big Spring; Christy Alexander, 7, Big Spring; Robert Viera, 6, Big Spring; Jason Dent, 7, Gail Rte.; Tracey Owen, 6, Big Spring; Coy Donald, 6, Big Spring; and Shana Michelle Drewery, 8, Coahoma.

The winners can pick up their tickets Tuesday at the coliseum.

Local youth is in Job Corps

Tommy LaTourneau, son of Louise Burzine of Big Spring, has enrolled in the Job Corps and is presently training at Ouachita Civilian Conservation Center in Royal, Kan.

Tommy has selected carpentry for his vocational training, one of nine vocational trades offered at the center. In addition to the vocational training, education courses will be taken which can lead to a GED high school equivalency certificate.

Job Corps is open to young people 16 through 21 years of age who are not in school and who are unemployed. They can remain in the Job Corps up to two years and then receive assistance in job placement.

Each enrollee receives room and board, medical and dental care, work clothing, an allowance to purchase dress clothing and a semi-monthly living allowance. In addition, a readjustment allowance is given upon termination after six months in the program.

Hospital crises nothing new to seminar speaker

Ministers of churches in the area will have a rare opportunity next Friday and Saturday to study with a man who lives and breathes hospital crisis, and whose skills in ministering to these crisis of the sick has made him a sought-after leader for crisis-teaching seminars across the country.

Chaplain Tom Cole of Memorial Hospital in Houston is the man. He will lead a two-day seminar on "Ministering in Times of Crisis," this Friday and Saturday at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Chaplain Cole is director of pastoral care at the Houston hospital. One of three full-time chaplains at the general hospital, Cole's program for teaching local pastors how to counsel in the hospital setting was featured in the Houston Chronicle in January.

"The hospital is a controlled, crisis-oriented environment and therefore usable as a laboratory for training people to minister," Chaplain Cole explained.

It's an intense setting in which ministers can learn the skills they will need in the pastorate, Cole went on. In his program in Houston, the chaplain-interns spend 10 hours weekly in class, in addition to their round-the-clock, on-the-job training. But, he said, 80 percent of these trainees who go through the rigors of learning to cope with the grief and trauma in the hospital aren't actually training for a career in hospital chaplaincy. Most of them will be pastors and ministers in local congregations.

The seminar planned for Big Spring area ministers will be comprehensive because of limited time, but participants will find that a lot of informal time has been scheduled into the seminar for discussion and dialogue with the faculty.

Dr. Lee Butler, director of pastoral care at the Big Spring State Hospital, is coordinator of the seminar. Dr. Butler says that "I know of no other man in the country who understands better the crisis experience than Tom Cole."

Dr. Butler, who started his career as a chaplain in a general hospital, has planned the seminar with an eye toward meeting as many needs in as many areas that the seminar time-frame would allow.

The seminar is open to area ministers and physicians. Sponsored by the Volunteers at Malone-Hogan Hospital, it is free to eligible ministers.

For further information, one can call Emily Ward, (915) 263-1211, Ext. 107.

Gas company to answer to violation charges

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Southeast Texas gas distribution company has been ordered by the Texas Railroad Commission to answer charges it is violating numerous safety procedures.

A Tuesday hearing is scheduled on charges against Southwest Gas Distributors, which serves customers in Neme, Jefferson County, and in rural areas of Liberty County. The commission's gas utilities division reported its employees had inspected Southwest's facilities and "found significant violations of express safety regulations, several of which not only placed the safety of the customers in jeopardy but also impaired the ability of the utility to prevent or cope with safety problems."

RRC looking for coal mines

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Railroad Commission will be looking for abandoned coal mines with the help of a $75,000 federal grant.

Commissioners Mack Wallace and James E. Nugent approved an agreement with the U.S. Office of Surface Mining for the project Thursday.

Mrs. Bob V. (Patti) Rogers wishes to express her sincere appreciation for the gifts of prayer and beautiful cards in such overwhelming numbers. The friendship and caring symbolized by these gifts will remain a consolation in days to come.

St. Jude bike-a-thon scheduled March 31

COAHOMA — Terry Hansen, chairman for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Wheels for Life Bike-a-Thon, has asked residents of Coahoma to volunteer their time and energy for the March 31 ride.

Volunteers are needed to help conduct the bike-a-thon to raise funds to support the world-famous research center in its battle against catastrophic childhood diseases.

"We're looking for people who are willing to contribute a little of their time to help us help children live," Hansen said. "Our biggest need is for riders since they are the ones who will make this event a success."

"Those who want to ride should pick up their registration sponsor forms at Coahoma Jr. High from Rob Ethridge, principal, and start getting sponsors," Hansen said. "Everyone who raises $25 will get a St. Jude Children's Research Hospital T-shirt, and those who raise $75 or more will get a special biker's back pack."

"We'll have special prizes for the top riders," Hansen said.

At St. Jude's, doctors and scientists are studying leukemia, Hodgkin's Disease and other forms of childhood cancer as well as other deadly diseases that strike the young. The results of research conducted there are freely shared with doctors and scientists all over the world, enabling stricken children to have a better chance to live.

Founded by entertainer Danny Thomas, St. Jude's is the leader in the battle against these diseases.

"But as long as children are still dying," Hansen said, "St. Jude Children's Hospital must keep fighting. We need your help."

Volunteers can contact Jim Rackley, Box 451, Coahoma, Tx. 79511 to help. The telephone number is 394-4753.

Howard College Rodeo teams place first, fourth in regionals

The Howard College men and women rodeo teams stand first and fourth, respectively, in the southwestern region college competition.

At the end of the rodeo season, the top two teams in the region, and the top three individuals in each event will qualify for the collegiate National Finals Rodeo, scheduled in June at Lake Charles, La.

The men and women teams from Howard College have qualified each of the past four years, and are shooting for their fifth in a row.

In individual standings for the men, Mac Altizer, from Del Rio, ranks third in the all-around cowboy standings, followed closely by Wess Smith, Carlsbad, N.M., in fifth. Altizer ranks second in calf roping, and fourth in team roping.

Smith is ranked first in team roping and second in steer wrestling.

Jess Knight, HC cowboy from Justiceburg has earned the top position in the saddle-bronc riding competition, and Hank Adams, Big Spring, is ranked third in bull riding.

NECK AND NECK — Five slot cars, used in a sport called slot car racing, appear to flash by the camera's eye at the C. and T. Raceway at 2nd and Main Street.

The eight lane track costs a dollar an hour to use and racers must furnish their own cars. Slot cars may be bought at the track owned by Dean Emme.

Talented Air Force band appears here Thursday

The United States Air Force's official jazz ensemble, The Airmen of Note, has been acclaimed by music critics and musicians alike as "one of the best musical organizations in the big band field."

The band, which has traveled worldwide, will visit Big Spring Thursday to present an admission free concert. Packed with some very surprising sounds, this evening of musical enjoyment begins at 8 o'clock Thursday in the municipal auditorium.

The appearance of the musical group is being co-sponsored by the Big Spring Herald and the Cultural Affairs Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Advance tickets for the event are available at the Herald. Though the concert is free, those with tickets will be seated first. The tickets can be picked up in person or can be ordered by mail, if the applicant includes a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Sgt. Dave Steinmeyer of Jacksonville, Fla., one of the country's most respected jazz trombone specialists, directs the ensemble.

Steinmeyer began playing the piano at the age of seven and switched to the trombone five years later. He joined the Air Force in 1961.

Count Basie, one of the many jazz personalities who have appeared with the "Note", remarked, "The Airmen of Note are an absolute 'gas'...one of the best I've heard...and I speak from more than a couple of years' experience. I don't care what kind of a bag you put them in, jazz or dance, the results will always be the same...great music."

The "Note" has roots which go all the way back to 1942 and the late Major Glenn Miller's pioneering efforts with Air Force dance music. It was Glenn's idea to give the troops the music they wanted to hear...and give it to them with that remarkable professionalism that was his trademark.

The Airmen of Note carry on the Miller tradition, but dressed up a bit differently...creating their own new big band sound even as Glenn Miller did in his day.

The original Glenn Miller Army Corps dance band broke up after the war and it wasn't until 1950 that the U.S. Air Force formed another band, this time under its present name. As before, professionalism was the guideline, and sidemen came from some of the best dance groups in the country.

Charity bridge game is set

The Big Spring Country Club Duplicate Bridge Club will hold a Charity bridge game Thursday night at the Big Spring Country Club, beginning at 8 o'clock. Entry fee will be $2.50 per player. One will play with the same partner through the whole game.

Mrs. E.O. Ellington, director of the Duplicate Club has invited the public to participate. Entries can bring their partners and compete in an evening of fun and help this worthwhile continent-wide charity for Mental Health. Further details can be had by calling either Mrs. Elmo Wasson (director of the game) at 267-8362 or Mrs. E.O. Ellington at 267-6944. The club is affiliated with the American Contract Bridge League, a non-profit organization. All proceeds will go to the Mental Health Association. The ACBL Charity Foundation has named the Mental Health Association as its Charity of the Year for 1979.

This represents the second consecutive year the Mental Health Association has been so honored by the ACBL organization. The Mental Health Association used funds from the 1978 donation to produce a major educational film package, Learning To Cope, which emphasizes common sense approaches to dealing with everyday tension and stress.

World eating record contestants couldn't stomach competition

PUYALLUP, Wash. (AP) — It was a gastronomic mess, a batch of contestants who hoped to break some world eating records but couldn't stomach the competition.

They huffed, puffed, stuffed and bloated promisingly, but few if any who entered the gorging binge at a Puyallup shopping center could crack the pages of the Guinness Book of World Records.

In a variety of events that raised the eyebrows and turned the tummys of passersby, contestants wolfed down shrimp, grapes, potato chips, even snails steamed in garlic butter.

Cliff McHenry shuddered in despair and quit after 17 minutes had ticked by and he'd only ruffled the surface of two pans of potato chips.

To break the record listed in Guinness, he was supposed to down more than 60 ounces in 24 minutes 33.6 seconds without a sip of water.

"Arrechh," was his only comment.

Minutes later, Wayne Maxwell sat confounded by the grape-gulping record of 3 lbs. 1 oz. in 34.6 seconds. "Don't chew, just swallow," supporters urged as he bolted down handfuls of the fruit.

He failed in the grape event, rested and returned in half an hour to set a record he couldn't find in the books — eight large bell peppers downed in 9½ minutes. The stereo store and shopping center that sponsored the contest will submit his feat for possible publication in the Guinness book.

Over at snail-eating, Kelli

Seals, 20, of Federal Way, Wash., confessed that at $4 a half-pound, she hadn't even ordered enough escargot to break the world's record. That mark, 124 (Moroccan) snails in 15 minutes, was set in 1974 in Houston.

Instead, Ms. Seals succeeded at half a record, 63 snails in 5 minutes 37 seconds, but it is unlikely that that will impress Guinness.

Ross Shafer, the organizer of Thursday's contest, entered the shrimp-eating competition, downing 20 ounces in 4 minutes 6 seconds. But the book says a Kentucky man downed 40 ounces in 7½ minutes.

Then there was Gery Michels, 25, a burly Puyallup resident and crowd favorite, who sought to unseat Philadelphia's Linda Kuerth as the world hot dog champ. She devoured 23 franks in just over 3 minutes in 1977.

Michels pulled himself up behind a plate of raw wieners and commenced lustily.

But four dogs along, beads of moisture on his forehead signaled trouble. A bite or two later, he bolted for privacy.

Apparently, unknown to Michels, the wieners did not have to be raw. But the question had become moot by the time he reappeared — older, wiser and paler.

Heart fund drive gets under way

The Howard County chapter of the American Heart Association is having its annual heart fund raising drive today through Saturday March 24.

Today has been designated as "Heart Sunday", the opening day of the drive.

Local businesses have been contacted with the assistance of the BSHS Key Club.

The door to door campaign begins today with the help of some members of the BSHS Student Council, Hi-Y, and Tri-Hi-Y clubs.

Officials of the association say that people who greet workers in the drive at their doors should remember that heart research can endure only through the generosity of the campaign's friends and that every penny helps.

ROYALTY AT COAHOMA HIGH SCHOOL — Crowned Miss and Mr. Coahoma High School in an elaborate presentation at Coahoma High School Friday night were Robin Ethridge and Billy Grandon (above). Jamie Wallace and Chip Balzer emerged as winners of the Miss and Mr. Congeniality contest. A "Gone With The Wind" theme was adopted for the program, taking participants back to the pre-Civil War days of great plantations, magnificent houses, extravagant parties, all-day barbecues and formal balls.

Cancelled meeting angers 24

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sudden cancellation of a meeting of the Texas Commission for the Deaf angered about two dozen persons Saturday, and they met at the scheduled time to blast the commissioners.

Some had traveled from as far away as Abilene and Robstown, only to learn upon their arrival the meeting had been cancelled.

Chairman Gerry Gamme of Dallas had the cancellation notice posted Friday, saying he had to undergo oral surgery.

The commission has been in turmoil since it fired the agency's executive director, Carl Roberts, several months ago. Precise reasons have never been given for dismissing Roberts, who had considerable backing from deaf persons, their families and professionals who work with them.

Gayle Lindsey of Austin, mother of a deaf child, said Gov. Bill Clements should make good on a promise to "clear out dead weight" in government by replacing two board members whose terms have expired and a third who had resigned.

Eddie, come home. We forgive you for using your father's hand-tooled genuine leather cowboy boots to hammer nails into your free house. See Classifieds, C-5.

West hoping for a final hurrah

By NATHAN POSS

Sitting at the scorer's table last week during the Region V basketball tournament, I looked toward the top of the coliseum and noticed our cheesy photographer, Danny Valdes, motioning for me to come to the top. Danny looked somewhat excited, but that's been known to happen.

Reaching the top and entering the foyer by the main entrance, I noticed a crowd of people around somebody. They seemed to be acting like the person was a celebrity. Getting closer, I realized the center of attention was Charlie West.

West, who was a three sport star for Big Spring High School before graduating in 1964, was stopping through town on his way to talk about his future with the Denver Bronco organization.

After he chatted for a minute with his former high school football boss, Don Robbins, he and I moved to Coach Harold Wilder's office for an impromptu interview.

Local grid fans remember the talented West for his contributions to the 1963 Steer football game. West and such standouts as Albert Fierro, Thurman Randle, Eddy Nelson, Tim Smith and many others guided the local crew to an outstanding record of 8-2. This team beat district champion San Angelo when they were rated number one in the state, and narrowly missed out on a District 2-AAAA championship. No Big Spring team has matched this record since.

West was not highly recruited coming out of high school. He weighed 160 pounds, and was actually as renowned for his baseball exploits as a catcher and as an outstanding defensive player in basketball.

West played one year at San Angelo College, then a two-year junior college, before moving on to Texas Western (now UTEP). West matured while at the El Paso school, earning All-American honors on some wire services and publications.

West caught the eyes of professional scouts as he improved on his skills in college. He was the first person chosen in the second round of the 1968 draft by the Minnesota Vikings.

West stayed with the Vikings for six years, starting occasionally at both the cornerback and strong safety positions. He was the Vikings top kickoff and punt returner during these years.

While with the Vikings, he participated in two Super Bowls (in 1970 against Kansas City and 1974 against Miami). His biggest claim to the record books, however, came in his rookie season against the Washington Redskins. West fielded a punt and raced 98 yards to paydirt. The long jaunt gave Charlie the distinction of having the longest punt return in NFL history. The record still stands, although he shares it with two others.

West then was traded in 1974 to the Detroit Lions. He started at strong safety for four seasons before becoming embroiled in a contract dispute after the 1977 season. He had not signed a contract to play the 1978 season, and it appeared he would no longer play. But the Denver Broncos, needing a man with West's experience and all-around ability, traded tight end Charles Gay for him just before the past season began.

West, his wife Barbara and two children live in the off-season in a cabin in the forests outside of Princeton, Minnesota. This is located 40 miles north of Minneapolis.

The talented West, who also played one summer in the Cincinnati Red organization before embarking upon his career in the NFL, is now an impressively sleek 6'2", 195-pound specimen. He has spent much of his spare time in the off-seasons making an assortment of very handsome and expensive leather bags that he weaves by hand.

I first met Charlie in the second grade. My father was his basketball coach, and Charlie was our babysitter for a couple of years. At the time, I had an idea of his outstanding athletic ability. But all I basically cared about was that he told some very interesting bedtime stories and made the best homemade popcorn that I have ever tasted. And I've tasted some good popcorn.

He stayed in touch with the family throughout the years, but for some reason I felt a little strange interviewing him as we began talking. His easy going nature quickly put me at ease, however, and I felt he gave some most interesting answers.

POSS: What was your immediate reaction when you were called to Denver?

WEST: Elated. That's the only way I can describe it. I had had almost continuous confrontation for over a year with Detroit concerning my status there. I was happy that Denver contacted me — not only because they had playoff potential, but to move to a place that had natural grass, a player oriented coach and were coming off a successful year.

POSS: Were you at home in Minnesota or in Detroit when Denver called?

WEST: At my home in Minnesota. Detroit would not allow me in camp. They thought I would be a negative influence if I were in camp and would not demonstrate the positive attitude to play. I say that facetiously because I feel that I have always been nothing but positive in regard to my contributions to any football team.

POSS: Was it difficult mentally as a 12-year veteran of only two teams to walk into a new pro football organization?

WEST: Oh, yeah! The essence of pro football, whether you are breaking in as number one in your first year or going to a new team in the latter stages of your career, is to earn the respect of the players as far as what you might be able to contribute. I had doubts in my mind whether I would be able to do that or be accepted in winning that respect. It's an apprehensive time, but to start seeing that respect forthcoming is a warm feeling.

POSS: Can you relate it to any other experience that you have encountered in athletics?

WEST: Well, not only in athletics but in everyday life. Especially when you feel you have been accepted in a social group, at school, church, etc.

POSS: What living arrangements did you make upon arriving in Denver?

WEST: I lived out of a motel until I was sure I would stay with the squad for the remainder of the year. I didn't choose to pick up everything and move. I feel that I'm in the twilight of my career and decided to keep my permanent house in Minnesota and apartment dwell as long as I play.

POSS: How do you personally feel about the Denver Bronco organization?

WEST: I enjoyed my year in Denver. I enjoyed the directional leadership of my immediate coach and the head coach (Red Miller) — I welcome whatever opportunity that is presented for me to play with them next year. I want to finish up there.

POSS: You stated earlier that you were happy to go to a team with a player oriented coach. What did you mean by that?

WEST: A guy the players identify with. A guy that will stand up for the players, opposed to the management oriented coach. The management oriented coach is more concerned with the working of the organization. Red Miller is a man you can go talk to.

POSS: How do you see Denver's chances in the upcoming season?

WEST: Denver has to be one of the ten or 12 teams to be considered when you think about the playoffs. But that division (AFC West) has gotten extremely strong. I can't emphasize how strong it has become. San Diego was bonafide playoff caliber team at the end of last year. Oakland is expected to rebound. Seattle beat Oakland twice and some other tough teams. That makes for a real slugfest!

POSS: You guys won it last year with a 10-6 record.

WEST: Right. Looking at the type of competition in our division, it is conceivable that a 9-7 could win it. I think most teams shoot for an 11-5 record and feel if they achieve it they will be in the playoffs.

POSS: After losing to Pittsburgh in the last regular season game in heartbreaking fashion (a 21-17 loss in which Denver was on the Pittsburgh goal line as the game ended), do you think coming back to meet them in the first round of the playoffs had a negative effect on your team? (Pittsburgh, on their way to the world championship, won 33-10.)

WEST: All I can say is that there was a genuine feeling that we could win the game. As it turned out, the conditions weren't very good and we didn't get off to a good start. They dominated the game. They won handily. But that still doesn't detract from the fact that regardless of what had happened, we felt we could beat them.

POSS: As a vet defensive back, who would you classify as the scariest receiver in the league?

WEST: You can't classify because there are too many good ones. You would always leave out one. Swann is one of the better ones and the San Diego rookie (John Jefferson) really came on. Some of the unsung players like Seattle's Steve Largent aren't spectacular, but he beats people. Everyone has capable people. Generally, blazing speed makes me more aware, like the Jets Wesley Walker.

POSS: As you progress in the years, do you feel that you have to pay more attention to your body and play more and more with your mind?

WEST: Yes. I feel that I must pay more attention than I used to previous injuries and specific areas of training. I find that on the whole I'm a better player because I am smarter through experience. However, I know I've lost a little something physically.

POSS: Would you consider coaching after you retire from pro football?

WEST: After playing, I would certainly entertain a major college or professional coaching job. I've got a few 'irons in the fire' with coaches I have played for over the years. They have assured me that if they are in a position to hire someone, that I will definitely be considered.

POSS: Would you consider coaching in the high school ranks?

WEST: I wouldn't rule that out totally, but I really don't think so. Ideally I would like to do something that would make me entirely independent in earning a living. I would like to get into business, but I have no real background yet. What I am suited for is athletics, so naturally I have to give that priority.

POSS: Have you thought about going into the business of manufacturing your attractive leather travel bags?

WEST: I don't exclude that to a way of making a living, but as of right now I haven't done the necessities to what you have to do to market that product. I enjoy it as a hobby, but I would have to wait somewhere down the line in seeing if I could make it into a profitable business.

As the night was growing darker, Charlie had to drive on in order to visit his mother in Midland. Leaving, Delnor Poss asked him how his wife and two children were.

"Hey, Michael's 12 years old now and the best black hockey player I've ever seen," Charlie replied with a proud smile. For some reason, he appeared too young and healthy to have a child that old. "He can't run a lick, but man, can he skate!"

Walking through the foyer of the coliseum toward the exit, he talked of his meeting with the Denver management in two days and the toll that 11 years of action in the NFL had taken on his body.

"Hey, Charlie," I said "Your body looks like it's in good shape." I know quite a few women that have met him that really think he looks good.

"Yeah, I do lift weights really hard three times a week and run at least three miles in some form every day. But my knees have been giving me problems."

Exiting through the door toward the parking lot with childhood friends George Kirk and Billy Pineda, Delnor Poss said: "Hey, Charlie, good luck in your talks. You do have a good relationship with the coaches, don't you?"

"I get along with the coaches fine. It's that money man that doesn't think I'm worth what I know I'm worth."

Tapie takes lead in Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — Alan Tapie, seeking his first victory in five years of pro golf tour activity, birdied his first three holes, shot a 69 and moved into a 1-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $250,000 Doral-

Eastern Open.

Tapie preserved his lead with some brilliant, pressure-putting. He dropped at least three critical putts in the testing 5-6 foot range to save par. Two of them came on the last two holes.

He finished the windy day with a 206 total, 10 shots under par on the 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

Rookie Mark McCumber also saved par on the tough 18th, with a 12-15 foot putt, to finish off a 69 that left him alone in second at 207.

Bill Rogers managed a 70 in the brisk, gusty winds and was another shot back at 207 — very much in contention with 18 holes to go in the chase for a $45,000 first prize.

Bill Kratzert, the second-round leader, and Kermit Zarley, were next at 211. Zarley matched the course record with a brilliant 29 on the front side and completed the day with a 66. Kratzert, who didn't make a bogey through the first two rounds, had an erratic effort this time that included a pair of 6s, a total of six bogeys, a birdie and an eagle-2. That added up to a 75.

Jim Dent was next at 73-212.

Jack Nicklaus, meanwhile, continued to have his frustrating scoring problems.

"The back's OK," said Nicklaus, who sought medical attention after a muscle spasm during Friday's play. "It's sore, but it's OK."

But he finished bogey-double bogey for a 75 that left him at 222, 6 over par.

"It's very frustrating," said the man generally considered the greatest player the game has known. "I'm hitting the ball well. But," and he began emphasizing every word, pausing between every word, "I ... just ... can't ... score."

Calls Sparky stupid

Steinbrenner fuming over Lyle's book

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Toughened by their share of past controversies, the New York Yankees today shrugged off ex-teammate Sparky Lyle's literary attack with a collective "So what?"
But owner George Steinbrenner, seemingly more angered by Lyle's offensive than any of his players, called the pitcher "stupid" and classified some of his charges as "garbage."

In his new book, "The Bronx Zoo," Lyle wrote that Steinbrenner's close scrutiny of his ballclub bordered on meddling and was bad for the team.
The pitcher also said that third baseman Graig Nettles once committed an intentional error in an exhibition game against the New York Mets, hoping to prevent the contest from going into extra innings. The play backfired, Lyle said, when the Mets were unable to score even with Nettles' error.

"I don't mind what he said about me," snapped Steinbrenner. "I've been attacked by better than him. But I was especially disturbed about what he wrote about Graig Nettles. I'm not one of his (Nettles') favorite people and he's not one of mine. That's no secret. But what Lyle said about Nettles is garbage."
Nettles always gives 110 percent. If he had to pick a player to attack that way, he picked the wrong guy.
"That shows Sparky's intelligence level," Steinbrenner continued. "Everybody says he's a buffoon. He's not a buffoon. He's one of the least intelligent athletes I ever met."
Lyle said published accounts of the Nettles' incident were unfair and taken out of context. "It was like giving the punch line but not the joke," the ex-Yankee pitcher said at the Pompano Beach training base of his new team, the Texas Rangers. Lyle, however, defended and confirmed other passages from the book that attacked Steinbrenner and other Yankees.
Nettles denied the deliberate error story, but said the book would not change his relationship with Lyle.
"He knows...everybody knows I wouldn't do that,"

Phoenix nudges tired Spurs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Phoenix Suns Coach John MacLeod was taking nothing away from his own team after the Suns' hard-fought 128-122 win over San Antonio, but he did want to give some of the credit to the Los Angeles Lakers and New Orleans Jazz.
"It looked like the Spurs got a little bit tired at the end. Its understandable. Its their third game in three nights," MacLeod said of San Antonio, who beat the Lakers Wednesday at home and lost to New Orleans Thursday night on the road.
"We made the big baskets at the end. We played hard and we're playing pretty well now," he added.
The victory Friday night was the third in a row on the road for the Suns, who were playing their fourth game in a six game, eight-night road trip. Its the Suns longest road swing of the season.
San Antonio Coach Doug Moe agreed with MacLeod.

"We stood around and watched at the end of the game. We were hustling some, but at the end, everyone was watching."
Paul Westphal and Alvan Adams combined for 75 points, including three clutch baskets in the final 1:19, to propel Phoenix.
San Antonio had led much of the game before Phoenix went ahead for the first time since the second quarter when Westphal hit a layup with 1:19 remaining. He and Adams then each added baskets to clinch the game.
Starting Spurs forward Allan Bristow, who had 13 points, was ejected from the game with 8:30 remaining after he drew two technical fouls in a heated argument with referee Jack Madden. The fuming Bristow had to be physically restrained by Moe before finally relenting and storming into the locker room.

Reggie Jackson, another Lyle target in the book, also shrugged off the matter.
"The only time I get concerned about somebody popping off like that is if he pays my checks," the slugger said. "If Standard Brands (manufacturers of the Reggie candy bar), George Steinbrenner or (ABC Television executive) Roone Arledge says, 'You're a jerk,' I'd be concerned. But Sparky? Nah."
Then Jackson offered a poem.
"Smaller minds have nothing else to do. I don't care what they say. Do you?"

Malone, Rockets take victory over Chicago

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Moses Malone may finally be nosing ahead of Chicago's Artis Gilmore in what has been a five-year struggle between them in two different leagues.
Houston Coach Tom Nissalke said Gilmore may be the only center in the National Basketball Association that presents a problem for Malone.
"Gilmore has given Mo trouble because of his sheer size," Nissalke said. "After five years, Gilmore may be the last center which Mo has had real trouble with."
Malone pumped in 32 points and hauled down 22 rebounds to lead the Rockets to a 124-118 triumph over the Bulls Friday night.
Gilmore, who has faced Malone since the days of the now defunct American Basketball Association, scored 26 points and collected 13 rebounds.
But his performance was not quite enough to prevent the snapping of Chicago's three-game winning streak.
"He came out and did the job," said Gilmore of Malone's performance. "Twelve offensive rebounds in one game is outstanding."
Malone, the NBA's leading rebounder and top-scoring center, said playing Gilmore, the league's second-leading rebounder, is not easy.
"Once he gets within five feet of the basket, he's hard to stop," Malone said. "He's so strong, that if you play him close, they'll call fouls on you."
"He plays aggressively, which forces me to look for help from the weak side," Malone said.
Chicago bolted to a 29-17 lead midway through the first quarter, but the Rockets came back to tie the score at 33-33 by the end of the stanza.
Rudy Tomjanovich, who finished with 21 points, teamed with Malone to lead a second quarter spurt that carried Houston to a 53-45 advantage.
The Rockets led until Gilmore connected on two free throws with 7:02 left in the game and pushed Chicago into a 101-100 lead. The score was tied four times before Rick Barry put Houston ahead to stay with a jumpshot with 4:06 left.
The win moved the Rockets to within 2½ games of first place San Antonio in the NBA Central Division.

NBA Roundup

By The Associated Press
Doug Collins of the Philadelphia 76ers played his first game in nearly two months — and Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard didn't get to see much of it.
Collins, who underwent surgery Feb. 12 for an ankle bone spur and hadn't appeared on a National Basketball Association game since Jan. 21, contributed 10 points while playing 21 minutes of the 76ers' 114-106 victory over the Pacers Friday night.
Leonard was on the bench for barely 9½ minutes before referee Bernie Fryer thumbed him for objecting too strenuously to a couple of calls.
Darryl Dawkins, who had been bothered by an irritated right kneecap, scored 29 points, including seven dunks, as the Sixers broke Indiana's fourgame winning streak.
Bucks 134, Bullets 126
Junior Bridgeman's nine points in the second overtime shot Milwaukee past the Bullets after the teams ended regulation play at 114-114 and the first overtime at 118-118.
Bridgeman, who finished with 23 points, hit two jumps shots and two free throws and Marques Johnson, who wound up with 21, added a slam dunk as the Bucks built an unsurmountable 130-122 lead. It was only the Bucks' second road victory in 13 games. Wes Unseld had 25 points and Elvin Hayes 20 for Washington.
Celtics 99, Pistons 98
Dave Cowens sank a free throw with three seconds left to give the Celtics their victory over Detroit. Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell scored 25 points to lead Boston and Cowens had 15. M.L. Carr topped the Pistons with 23.
Kevin Porter had five assists for Detroit, putting him within 12 of the NBA season record.
Lakers 111, Hawks 110
Don Ford stole an Eddie Johnson pass, sprinted the length of the court and slammed home the basket with three seconds to play to sink the Hawks and halt the Lakers' five-game losing streak.
The Lakers trailed 109-101 with barely a minute to play before Ford's two jump shots and a sky hook by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar shaved Atlanta's lead to a basket.
Dan Roundfield's free throw with 18 seconds left gave Atlanta a seemingly unbeatable three-point lead, but Abdul-Jabbar made another hook with 14 seconds to play, then Ford made his big steal.
Abdul-Jabbar and Jamaal Wilkes led the Lakers with 27 points each. Armond Hill and Johnson had 20 apiece for the Hawks.
Warriors 117, Nets 102
Sonny Parker's 22 points and Tom Abernethy's 20 led Golden State past the Nets.
The Warriors pulled out to an 11-point lead after three periods, then scored the first six of the fourth quarter to take command. John Williamson of New Jersey scored a game-high 30 points.
Kings 120, Jazz 112
Sam Lacey scored 10 of his 22 points in the fourth quarter as the Kings held off New Orleans. Kansas City held a four-point edge in the closing minutes before Otis Birdsong's jumper and Lacey's pair of foul shots put the Kings ahead 112-104 with 1:42 to go.

Boros credits relaxation for aging success

MIAMI (AP) — When your golf game goes sour, says twotime U.S. Open champion Julius Boros, there's no need to try to bite the blade off your three-iron or drown yourself in martinis — just go fishing.

"Golf is a game of action and reaction," adds the 59-year-old shotmaster, one of a handful to earn more than $1 million on the tour. "You can't push it. The only thing you can do is keep swinging away and hope the results are good."

Boros is one of the legends of the game — "Mr. Slow and Easy," so imperturbable, so smooth that you expect him to go to sleep on his backswing.

A New Englander by birth but now a Floridian via North Carolina, he broke a Ben Hogan victory string in 1952 by winning the U.S.

Open in Dallas.

It was 11 years later that he succeeded a young Jack Nicklaus as champion by beating Arnold Palmer and Jacky Cupit in a playoff. Twice he was the tour's leading money winner and he played on four U.S. Ryder Cup teams.

The always relaxed veteran never grows old. Last weekend he finished 4 shots better than Nicklaus in Jackie Gleason's Invarrary event. This weekend he is teeing it up again in the Doral Open — and all the kids are looking over their shoulders.

He will play his round and then rush out and fish until dark.

A GOLF LEGEND — Julius Boros, twotime U.S. Open champion, autographs a program for a youngster after he finished his first round in the $250,000 Doral Open in Miami Thursday. Boros, 59, is one of a handful of professional golfers to win more than $1 million on the tour.

Fishermen can fight inflation

LUBBOCK — Talk about a bargain, perhaps one of the greatest recreational hedges against inflation today is your Texas fishing license.

This small, fixed price of $4.50 for a resident fishing license, an annual non-resident fishing license for $10.50, or the economical five-day non-resident fishing license for $4.50 allows the purchaser an opportunity to enjoy a variety of fishing across the state.

Texas fishing also affords the chance at a really big fish or even a new state record. For instance, a Texas angler has already caught the new, unofficial state record Florida largemouth bass when he landed the 12 lb. 4 oz. lunker at Lake Monticello near Mt. Pleasant on Feb. 4.

This large fish has been determined to be a Florida bass stocked by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and is only one of the results of good fish management in our state.

At the rate these fish are growing, it will not be long before the state record for both Texas and Florida bass (13-pounds, eight ounces) will be broken. This record has stood for 36 years, but 1979 or 1980 could be the year of a new record bass.

Fishermen are facing a changing situation in Texas as pointed out by Fisheries Division Director Bob Kemp.

"I believe the best fishing we have ever had will be a reality in the 1980's," Kemp predicted last month. "In fact, I think the 1980's will be the 'Golden Age' of fishing in Texas."

YOUNG IDEAS

By DICK YOUNG

VERO BEACH, Fla. — "Hah-ya, Villian?" he said, coming toward me across a wide-open patch of the Dodgertown complex. After all these years he remembered. I used to call Sandy Koufax "Villain," because he had the swarthy good looks that the Hollywood casting offices used to pick for the heavy in all those movies of 20 or so years ago when Sandy Koufax first came along.

You remember Cesar Romero, Steve Cochran? glistening black hair, prominent cheek bones, seductive smile, penetrating eyes. The black hair is salt-and-pepper now, and it bulges heavily from beneath the blue Dodger cap, but the dented dimples are the same, accentuating the gaunt good looks, and the deep voice still purrs.

"The first thing I want to do is deny the story Tommy is circulating, that he's going to start me opening day," said Sandy.

"I'LL BE THE BATTING INSTRUCTOR"

"You're here to teach the kid pitchers, aren't you?" "Well, between you and me, I'm really going to be the hitting instructor. Specializing in the long ball."

He may not have been the worst hitter in baseball history, but he ranks right up there with the bottom 10. He must have gone to bat 10 or 12 times before he hit a fair ball in the bigs. I don't mean a base hit. I mean a fair ball. He just kept striking out. Later on he got even by striking out everybody else.

It has been 12 years since Sandy Koufax threw a ball with malice aforethought. He quit after the 1966 season, jolting everyone, including the ballclub. He was 31, a peak age for a pitcher of Hall of Fame quality. He was still winning, still throwing smoke, but he was doing it on cortisone and other medication, and it was worrying him.

He made a pact with the Dodger team physician. "Let me know when I run the risk of permanent damage," Sandy had said. Dr. Robert Kerlan agreed. Sandy Koufax was not concerned as much with not being able to throw a baseball as he was with having a deformed, non-functioning left arm.

Early that season, 1966, Sandy was in Dr. Kerlan's office when Buzzy Bavasi dropped by. Buzzy, general manager of the Dodgers at the time, was a close friend of the doctor. They bet on the same losing horses at Santa Anita.

"I just told your pitcher to quit," Kerlan said to Bavasi.

"Sure you did," said Bavasi, giggling. "I'm serious," said Kerlan. Bavasi looked at Koufax. "That's good enough for me, Buzzy," Sandy said. "I'll finish the season, and that's it."

The Dodgers won the pennant, with Koufax pitching the clincher on two days' rest. Then came the most embarrassing episode in Dodger annals, four straight beatings in the World Series, with the Baltimore pitchers blanking them in the last three. The team took off for Japan not knowing if they were going there on tour to commit hari-kari.

When they returned, Koufax asked Bavasi when he thought a press conference might be set up.

"What press conference?"

"The retirement announcement."

"Oh that," he said. Maybe Bavasi still didn't believe it. Maybe he didn't want to. He was hoping Sandy would change his mind. "Mr. O'Malley hasn't gotten back from Japan yet," Bavasi said "and I can't call a thing like that without the owner of the ballclub."

"Buzzy, people are starting to hear things, they're asking me questions. People I've known for a long time. I'm starting to hedge with them. I don't want to lie. If you don't call a conference, I'm going to have to do it myself."

And so it was that Sandy Koufax hired a ball in the Beverly Hills Hotel and announced his retirement. You can mark that down as unique.

VICTIM OF SHRINKING DOLLAR

He tried TV announcing, and some real estate, and some plain hermiting with Anne Koufax, and when he opened the door after four years, he found that the dollars he had saved for his retirement were worth 22 cents.

I have heard romantics in the past few days say that Sandy has come back to the Dodgers because he loves baseball, and missed it so.

"Hell," said Sandy Koufax. "I needed a job, 'I needed a job, and baseball is the one thing in my life I was good at.'"

Snyder horse heads Sunland field

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — Pass Interference and Leaderless, both coming off decisive victories, will be tearing into one another in Sunday's Las Cruces Purse at Sunland Park.

The allowance spring, restricted to three-year-olds, will cover six furlongs. A prize of $2,300 rides on the outcome. Sunday's agenda will consist of 12 races starting at the usual 1 p.m.

Leaderless, a filly who operates out of the barn of Leroy Spires Jr. of Snyder, Texas, staged her last outing on March 10, went against a band of New Mexico-breds, and bountied in with a gaping 5½-length lead. The filly was on top from the first jump.

Pass Interference will be asked to haul the top weight of 121 pounds. No rider was named at entry time. Leaderless will have Don Howard at the helm, and will function under a fairly moderate 113 pounds.

The Las Cruces gathering will also consist of My Spanish Lady, 116; Kellies Leader, 111; Pyshee Dolle, 111; Winona's Hope, 108; Black Gown, 116; Madam Governor, 111.

Canucks break losing skin

DENVER (AP) — Vancouver Coach Harry Neale said he wasn't sure if his team would ever win another game.

But Friday night, the Canucks broke a seven-game losing streak by handing the Colorado Rockies a 4-1 National Hockey League loss.

"This was a big one for us. We had lost seven in a row coming in and won just one of the last 15. I was beginning to think we'd never win a game," Neale said.

"Colorado is one of the few teams we think we have a chance of beating if we play well. They miss (Colorado defenseman Barry) Beck in the worst way," he added.

The victory in the only NHL game Friday night firmed up Vancouver's hold on second place in the Smythe Division, boosting the Canucks six points ahead of St. Louis.

The Canucks broke open a 1-1 tie midway through the second period when Curt Fraser scored at 7:02 and Ron Tudor added another at 8:05.

"Except for that 1:03 stretch in the second period, we played very well against Vancouver," said Rockies Coach Aldo Gulinidin.

VOLLEYBALL PLAYER — Six-foot tall 165 pound senior Donald M. Gomes wants to play volleyball on the only volleyball team Rogers High school has. But the only volleyball team at the city's only high school is an all-girl team.

Deans honor roll named

SAN MARCOS — Three Howard County students were among the 3,629 students whose fall semester grades earned them places on the Southwest Texas State University Dean's Honor Roll and Superior Honor Roll lists.

To make the regular Honor Roll, a student must be enrolled for a minimum of 12 semester hours of coursework, excluding physical education activities, and achieve an overall "B" average.

To make the Superior Honor Roll requires grades of "A" in at least 12 of the required 15 semesters of coursework, excluding physical education activities, and no lower than a "B" in the other three-hour course. This translates into a 3.8 grade-point average on the 4.0 scale for honor.

Undergraduate courses only are considered in the tabulated list.

Incomplete, or "I", grades earned during the fall semester disqualifies students from the Honor Rolls.

Local students whose scholastic averages placed them on the Honor Roll include Grace Hollingsworth,

'Pastor's lover' convicted

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A woman who says her pastor became her lover and then shot his wife after she found them in bed together was convicted Friday on a reduced charge of being a party to second degree murder.

Janet Goodall, 35, said a gun that she was holding discharged when the Rev. William Tabor grabbed her arm. Then, she testified, he took the gun and shot his wife two more times.

No charges were ever filed against the former pastor of the Salem Evangelical Lutheran Church, who has left the ministry and now lives in Texas, in connection with the 1976 slaying of his wife.

A prosecutor, citing Mrs. Goodall's bizarre conduct and inconsistent statements about the case, said his office could not state without a reasonable doubt that the minister was involved in the death.

Circuit Judge Ted Wedemeyer ordered a presentence examination for Mrs. Goodall after she pleaded guilty to the lesser charge, which carries a penalty of five to 25 years in prison. She had been charged with first degree murder, which could have meant a life sentence, in the fatal shooting of Janice Tabor.

In October of 1976, Tabor and his wife had been preparing to move to Escanaba, Mich., where he had accepted a new assignment. The pastor had told police that he and Mrs. Goodall, a member of his congregation, had found Mrs. Tabor's body in the East Side parsonage when they returned from a farewell party at a nursing home.

Police at first believed an intruder surprised Mrs. Tabor in the home, but later discarded that theory and continued their investigation. Mrs. Goodall was finally charged in the death last year.

On the witness stand Friday, the divorcee and mother of four said her relationship with Tabor began after he sought her out to try to help her with marital difficulties she was then having.

Later, she said, they became sexually involved with each other, and she gave birth to a child a few months after the slaying.

Lee Wells, the deputy district attorney who was chief prosecutor of the case, said there was evidence that Mrs. Goodall was one of a series of women attracted to Tabor "for legitimate or even religious reasons only to be ruthlessly sexually exploited by this shamefully unprincipled man."

"He has a power over people," Mrs. Goodall testified. "He tells you to do something. You know it's wrong. You know he's lying. But you do it. He said there wasn't one person in this world he couldn't control and he tried to tell me how to do it. He said there's something in everybody you can buy and it doesn't always have to be with money."

Once, she said, Tabor denounced adultery in a Sunday morning sermon, then made love to her in the afternoon.

She said that when she asked him how he could preach one thing and do another, he told her "You have to learn to divide the two," that there was a purpose for his ministry and a purpose for his being a man.

Pat Nixon celebrates 67th

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon treated his wife to an early birthday dinner at the posh Plaza Hotel.

Mrs. Nixon's 67th birthday is today, but the Nixons felt like going out Friday evening, said Ken Khachigian, Nixon's press secretary.

Shortly after the Nixons arrived at the Plaza, they posed for photographers. "This is one of our favorite places," Nixon said.

The former president came to New York several days ago to see his first grandson, Christopher Nixon Cox, the son of his daughter Tricia and her husband, Edward Cox. The mother and her baby are still in New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

Veep observes Irish day

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale stood in for President Carter and walked away with a Waterford crystal bowl full of fresh shamrocks.

Mondale continued Friday what has become an annual observance of accepting the Irish government's gift for St. Patrick's Day. But this year, the ceremony was held a day before the day set aside for honoring the patron saint of Ireland.

Mondale told Irish Ambassador Sean Donlon that the president could not attend because he is resting at Camp David, Md., after his exhausting Middle East journey.

Sweepstakes winner free

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Frank McNulty is free today, St. Patrick's Day, after a judge ended a jail term he was serving for refusing to pay taxes on winnings from the Irish Sweepstakes.

McNulty spent 49 months in jail after he declined to pay an estimated $70,000 in taxes and penalties on the $128,410 prize he won in 1973.

The 67-year-old Irishman contended that since the money was earned in a foreign country, and since it had been deposited in a foreign bank, and never brought into the United States, he did not have to pay the taxes.

But the government said any U.S. citizen's income is taxable, no matter where it is.

Judge upholds revokation

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A federal judge has upheld a State Department revokation of a visa for South African boxer Kallie Knoetze.

U.S. District Judge Norman Roettger ruled Friday that Knoetze's attorneys had been unable to prove the revokation resulted from "impermissible political interference."

The State Department revoked the visa because the boxer had been convicted in South Africa of a misdemeanor — obstructing justice — which would be a felony in the United States.

Knoetze's lawyers contended the revokation came because of pressure from civil rights leader Jesse Jackson, who called Knoetze a symbol of South African apartheid.

Federal regulations could cost billions. AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Proposed federal regulations covering "hazardous wastes" could cost oil and gas companies $34 billion, plus an additional $10.8 billion a year in drilling expenses, Railroad Commissioner James Nugent says. Nugent urged the Environmental Protection Agency to exclude the disposal of drilling muds and oil field brines from its proposed regulations.

Not to reside on hilltop. LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lon Nol, former premier of Cambodia, says he'll move into his new home on an Orange County hilltop this week. Nol, whose government was toppled by Khmer Rouge insurgents in 1975, said he was moving from Honolulu to Fullerton, about 25 miles southeast of Los Angeles, to give his children better educational opportunities. The former premier, his wife and at least one of their eight children arrived at the Los Angeles International Airport on Saturday.

Permian Basin Medical Auxiliary will turn fashions into funds

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

Westside Community Daycare Center will be the recipient of funds raised by the Permian Basin Medical Society Auxiliary when they present their annual benefit style show.

According to Carole Owen, publicity chairman, the event will take place March 24 at the Big Spring Country Club beginning at 10 a.m.

Members of the style show committee have chosen the theme, "Fashion Garden" which will present an array of spring fashions from Swartz Ladies' Wear and Junior Shop.

Tickets are available to the public at Swartz and from members of the medical auxiliary at $3 each. Table reservations for groups wishing to be seated together can be made with Johnnie Stenberg, 267-1178, until March 19.

This year's style show committee includes Mrs. Gaye Cowan, chairman; Johnnie Stenberg, tickets; Jane Thomas, decorations; Carol Hunter, commentary; Jean Kuykendall, music and Carole Owen, publicity chairman.

An organization comprised of wives of physicians who are members of the Permian Basin Medical Society and the Texas Medical Association as well as women physicians and wives of deceased local physicians, the auxiliary's membership area includes Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties.

"The auxiliary's purpose is to assist in the Texas Medical Association's programs for the advancement of medicine and public health," revealed Mrs. Owen.

Officers for 1978-1979 are Donna Fish, president; Danna Moore, vice president; and Madeline Schwarz, secretary-treasurer.

Those taking the opportunity to attend the fashion show will observe a garden setting in conjunction with the new spring fashions from Swartz. The scene will be enhanced with geraniums against a backdrop garden arch. Potted geraniums will be sold at the end of the show.

"Swartz is once again helping with our annual benefit. Andy and Libby Swartz as well as Roberta Shive will be doing the staging," stated the publicity chairman.

This year's junior wear will be modeled as an extra feature, in addition to the missy fashions.

The women who will be modeling the cool spring styles will be Sue Broughton, Cheryl Lain, Jan Iden, Dorothy Stripling and Diane Lewis.

Other models will include Ann Turner, Claudie Patterson, Paula Duncan, Kathy Cowan, Cindy Cowan, Debbie Cowan, Julie Hunter, Kay-Kay Griffin, Patti Griffin and Kristy Mathews.

Kelly Draper and his puppets will be on hand at the style show providing entertainment and a running commentary with auxiliary member Carol Hunter giving a complete informative description of all fashions.

Music will be directed by Joe Dawes and provided by musicians Michelle Hunter, Mardelle Hamby, Charlotte Shelton, Rebecca Pierce, Susan Dawes, Danna Moore and Joan Bell.

They will add the accompaniment of tamborine and organ to the strains provided by recorders and a string duo.

Located at the entry ticket table will be a donation box for persons wishing to make further contributions to the work of the Westside Community Daycare Center.

Since its move to expanded quarters in the renovated Webb Air Force Base Youth Center, the community daycare center is now running at capacity enrollment, according to Pat Lawlis, director.

At its previous location, it was only possible to enroll 30 children due to space limitation. The center can now accommodate 55 children from six weeks through kindergarten age.

Although 30 percent of its funds must come from local sources (contributions and parent fees), the center also qualifies for 70 percent state and federal funding as a Title 20 center.

"With its projected budget of $168,940 for October, 1979 through October, 1980, the Westside Community Daycare Center is in urgent need of additional local support," revealed Mrs. Lawlis.

In order to obtain state and federal monies, almost $51,000 must come from local sources.

Founded in 1973 after the Big Spring Industrial Foundation demonstrated the need for such a center in developing a labor pool for local industry, the center is now open from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays.

Thirty families are presently on the waiting list.

Mrs. Lawlis revealed that vacancies are filled according to three priorities. These include protective cases under care of welfare authorities and children of A.F.D.C. mothers who find employment or enter training programs to qualify them for future jobs. Income eligibility is the final priority.

"Fees are determined according to family income," stated the daycare center director. "A family pays 1 1/2 percent of its gross monthly income for one child and 2 percent for two or more children.

It is required by state and federal guidelines under Title 20, to have one child caretaker for each four babies and toddlers; one for each five 3 year olds; and one for each seven 4 and 5 years olds. The center must also provide 30 square feet of indoor space for each child.

Included in the services provided are speech, vision and hearing screening as well as counseling. Breakfast, lunch and snacks (excluding special baby formulas) are also furnished by the center.

In addition to free play, the youngsters work in cheerful group learning centers for music, home living, crafts and reading.

"We try to involve the children in different community activities and take them on field trips," said Mrs. Lawlis.

Hygiene is also stressed, with each child having his own washcloth, toothbrush and comb.

The center has individual and group volunteers who help lighten the load of the employees. According to the director, volunteers from R.S.V.P.

(Retired Senior Citizens Volunteer Program) help out with many projects which include taking a child to appointments at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Other R.S.V.P. volunteers help with sewing projects.

"Men volunteers are especially valuable," stressed Mrs. Lawlis, "because most of the center's children do not have a father living in the home.

Working with the director is Melinda Casillas, assistant director.

Westside Community Daycare Center board members are Tom Balderach, president; Glynn Mouton, Danna Moore, Pat Moore, David Keller, Terry Newman, John Huffman and Mike Hamilton.

Extremely beneficial to many people in the community, the Westside Daycare Center will be receiving some of those much-needed funds if people in Big Spring and surrounding areas take the opportunity to attend "Fashion Garden" next Saturday.

It will give everyone a chance to see what spring has in store in the way of fashions, and in the same token, help raise funds for a much-needed community service.

STYLISH — Those who attend the Permian Basin Medical Auxiliary Fashion Show March 24 will be awed by the fashionable styles presented. Pictured here is Jan Iden wearing a white silk suit featuring a black silk jacket. Adding the finishing touch are coordinating hat and shoes.

ELEGANT — Dorothy Stripling, pictured here, is one of the models to be featured in the "Fashion Gardens" style show sponsored by the Permian Basin Medical Auxiliary. This elegant fashion, an ultra suede 3-piece suit, will stun all who look upon it.

Melodie Heath Ray weds in afternoon ceremony

Melodie Heath Ray and Rhett King exchanged wedding vows Saturday afternoon in the home of the bride's parents.

The Rev. Gary Reagan, First United Methodist Church of Paris, performed the 4 p.m. ceremony before an improvised altar of palms and string smilax with arrangements of lillies, Sonia roses, white iris and apricot carnations completing the setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Ray, 7 Indian Ridge.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie M. King, Paris.

Mrs. Julie Shirey accompanied Miss Dominique Launey, vocalist and guitarist singing "Angelicus" and "Evergreen" by Barbara Streisand.

The bride wore a gown of candlelight silk chiffon cut at angles cascading over a full-length skirt, designed by Michele Piccione. The wedding dress was princess with a re-embroidered imported Alencon lace fitted bodice extending below the natural waistline. The neckline featured a sculptures oriental influence.

The bride wore fresh flowers in her hair. She carried a semi-cascade of butterfly orchids, white sweetheart roses and stephanotis tied with wedding lace.

Julie Ray served her sister as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mavis Ann Ray, sister of the bride, and Paige Little of Big Spring. The three attendants wore floor-length peach colored dresses of giana and chiffon, with fresh flowers in their hair. Each carried colonial bouquets of Sonia roses, white iris and baby's breath. Cathy Valdez and Cathy Barker attended the bride's register.

The bridegroom's best man was his father, Jimmie M. King, Paris. Groomsman were Bert Hussey, Jerry Thomas and Tommy Felty, of Paris. Larry Woodridge served as usher. The ring bearer was Bill Hester, Ft. Worth, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. King is a graduate of Big Spring High School and received her B.S. degree from the University of Texas at Austin in December. She was presented as a Junior Helping Hand Debutante in Austin in 1977.

MRS. RHETT KING

The groom graduated from Paris High School and received his B.B.A. degree from the University of Texas last May. He is Operations Manager of Foxworth Gailbraith Building Center in Paris.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, a reception honoring the couple was held in the Dewey Ray home. Arrangements of lillies, Sonia roses, white iris, apricot carnations and string smilax were used throughout the house. A garden setting of caladiums, daisy plants and ficus benjamina trees completed the outside wedding decor.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen cut-work cloth centered with an arrangement of Sonia roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath in a silver epergne.

The four-tiered wedding cake was decorated with the bride's colors, peach, cream and light yellow, and was enhanced by a silver punch bowl and other silver appointments.

The groom's table was covered with a flowered cloth edged and garlanded with smilax. The chocolate cake centered the table with boxes of cake stacked on the side for guests to take home.

Out-of-town guests included Gen. and Mrs. Harold Byrd, Jr., Harold Byrd, III, Mrs. R. J. Byrd, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Ray and Karin Hill, all of Dallas. The bride's grandfather, the late W.W. Heath was a former U.S. Ambassador to Sweden. Other out-of-town guests were Dr. and Mrs. Phil Overton, Mr. and Mrs. Nita Davis, and Mrs. Nita Davis of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Schuler Nelson, Fort Worth and Katie Renaud, Detroit, Mich.; Cathy Barker, Paris and Mrs. W.T. Edwards, Midland.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Paris.

At 13, Paternity Suit Doesn't Fit

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible for a 13-year-old boy to father a child? Our neighbor claims that our 13-year-old son, Vernon, got Cathy, their 15-year-old daughter, pregnant.

Vernon has always been big for his age, but he never was a runaround, and he hardly ever looked at a girl. He has never been in any kind of trouble. He's a good student and an altar boy at church.

Vernon said he fooled around with Cathy "some," but he wasn't the only one. Cathy says she is sure Vernon is the one, but she admitted to having given in to three other boys. Cathy refuses to have an abortion because it's against her religion. She is very religious and always said she wanted to be a nun.

We don't know where to turn, Abby. If it's our son's baby, we want to do the right thing, but if it isn't, we don't see why we should be stuck with the responsibility, expense and so on.

Can you help us?

MONTANA MESS

DEAR MESS: First, you need some expert legal advice. If you can't afford a lawyer, consult your local Legal Aid Society. Then get some counseling from your clergyman, Family Service and/or Planned Parenthood office. It is obvious that both Vernon and Cathy need to know a lot more about the birds and the bees and PEOPLE. What kids don't know CAN hurt them.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 and take piano lessons, but I hate it. My lessons are almost over for the year, but my Mom says I have to take piano lessons again next year, and I don't want to.

What should I do?

PIANO LESSON HATER

DEAR HATER: Take your lessons and practice! Many adults have told me that one of the biggest regrets of their lives is having quit music lessons. But not one who quit has said that he was glad he did.

Do you hate to write letters of condolences, congratulations, and thanks. It's not difficult when you let Abby guide you in her booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (25 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Park View Manor residents honored with special awards

Parkview Manor Administrator Don King served as master of ceremonies when the local nursing home held its bi-annual awards ceremony for resident volunteers March 13.

"In appreciation for services as resident volunteers for Parkview Manor Nursing Home" was inscribed on the certificates presented to each resident volunteer for their services.

Jim Baum of KBYG Radio Station presented the honorary certificates to Annie Okeefe, Ronnie Cowart, Gloria Ross, Adella

McCall, Mavis Hayes and Lavina Logan.

Certificates were also presented to Hattie Gilbert, Alice Fox, Mary Martin, Thelma McMurray, Inez Thornton, John Lankford, Clem Kitten, Ed Mahoney and Dan Mean.

Adella McCall also received a special plaque for her services above and beyond the call of duty.

Family and friends witnessed the ceremony in a room decorated with flowers donated by Faye's Flowers and additional decorations donated by nursing home resident Dora Proffitt.

Green cake and punch were served, and those in attendance enjoyed entertainment from nursing home resident Clem Kitten who played Irish songs on the piano.

Aline Griffith received the employee's award for her services.

Art museum events start

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Museum of Art says a new Saturday series of gallery events has been inaugurated at The Cloisters.

The series, which continues through June 30, was organized "to introduce visitors on an informal basis to a variety of medieval crafts and related arts."

Miss Diamondback contestants compete for coveted title

A total of 26 girls have entered in the 1979 Miss Diamondback Contest according to Pageant Director Maria Faulkner. The contest, one of the highlights of the annual Jaycee Rattlesnake Roundup, will feature many pretty faces. Each contestant will be on hand at the roundup to greet the public.

Twelve finalists will be chosen by the officers of the Snyder Jaycees and the final judging will be conducted March 24 by a selected group of business and community leaders of Lubbock. The final Miss Diamondback will be crowned at the close of the roundup on March 25.

In addition to the roundup and pageant, which will begin March 24 from 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. and Sunday from 1-6 p.m., an Arts and Crafts Festival has been scheduled to be held in conjunction with the event. Many well-known artists from all over the state of Texas will be represented. Local artists are urged to enter early in order to secure good exhibit location.

"Response on the festival has been excellent, but we would like to have more local entries," stressed Mrs. Faulkner.

It will not be easy for the judges to choose 12 finalists among these 26 contestants, but they must be selected by March 23.

Negative act won't solve cereal problem

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Proposals to ban or restrict the television advertising of breakfast cereals could have "a profound negative impact on children's breakfasts," Eugene B. Hayden, President of Cereal Institute, warned in testimony delivered here today.

"Breakfast cereals are highly nutritious foods which, because of changing lifestyles and ease of preparation, are playing an increasingly important role in providing essential nutrition at breakfast," he told a public hearing on proposals by the staff of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to ban or restrict television advertising of all products to children, including breakfast cereals.

In his testimony, Dr. Hayden pointed out that a typical serving of a ready-to-eat cereal is low in calories and fat and high in essential nutrients. "It provides 25 percent of the U.S. RDA (recommended amount) for at least 7 nutrients before the addition of milk, but only 4 percent of the day's calories," he said.

Noting that the FTC's hearings have demonstrated a "massive amount of public confusion concerning food, nutrition and health," Dr. Hayden urged that improved nutrition education activities should be given a top national priority.

"But let's be realistic about the problem," he said. "It wasn't caused by television advertising to children. It won't be solved by the negative act of banning television advertising to children."

Ultimately, Dr. Hayden said, increasing the level of nutritional understanding will have to be a concentrated educational effort. It won't be accomplished by banning some television advertisements.

Here are other key points made in Dr. Hayden's testimony:

—Cereal makers have been adding key nutrients to these grain-based foods since 1941. As food consumption patterns at breakfast have changed, cereal makers have enhanced the value of these foods to consumers through nutritional fortification, voluntarily without any governmental requirement.

Texas Nurses Association hears talk on infant mortality rate

Sandra Regenie, R.N., C.N.M., spoke on the infant mortality rate at a regular meeting of the Texas Nurses' Association, District 24 recently.

Ms. Regenie, project director of the Permian Basin Peri-Natal Outreach Education Project, discussed why the Permian Basin has the second highest infant mortality rate in Texas as the TNA met in the reference library of the Horace Garrett Building at Howard College.

A letter from Rep. Mike Ezzell regarding the Attorney General's opinion H-1295 concerning "standing order" was read. Responses to other letters TNA sent concerning the AG opinion were discussed.

The first District 24 TNA

Book Scholarship was awarded to Ms. Gail Roach, a Howard College Nursing School student. The scholarship was awarded by TNA vote from a list of students submitted by the Howard College staff.

A report was given on plans to honor area nursing school graduates May 3.

A course offering instruction in basic personal care of the home and hospital patient for sitters, sponsored by District 24, Home Extension Service and Howard College, is to be held May 23 to 25, it was announced. The course is open to anyone desiring sitter instruction.

Mary McIntosh Bonilla was elected vice-president of the group.

The decision was made to meet throughout the year with monthly meetings in July and August in order to accomplish goals.

The April meeting date has been changed to April 12 because of the TNA State Convention. About 20 people from District 24 will attend the convention. The group hopes to win the membership attendance award for the second consecutive year.

Hostesses were Ollie Van Fleet, Mollie Butler and Virgie Allen.

Focus on family living

Energy consumption can be decreased by decorating

By JANET ROGERS, County Extension Agent
As families adjust their everyday living patterns for better use of energy, it will still be possible to enjoy the beauty and comfort of the home environment. The key is to begin thinking in terms of those small energy-saving changes when planning interior design improvements.

There are some decorating and home furnishings factors that will help decrease energy consumption while increasing comfort and personal satisfaction. Decisions in decorating that have greatest influence on energy fall into four major areas: use of color, lighting, window treatment, and wall and floor coverings.

Color can be one of the most useful tools in decorating for energy efficiency. Choose color carefully. Use warm colors — reds, yellows, oranges — during cold weather for north facing areas. Use cool colors — blues, greens, violets — during warm weather in east and west facing areas. Ceilings should always be a light color. Remember that large expanses of dark colors may require more artificial illumination. Light colors require less.

Energy efficient lighting is located where it is needed for work, study, safety and beauty. Make greater use of fluorescent lights in suitable areas. Fluorescent lights are more efficient than incandescent; more lumens per watt. One 40 watt fluorescent tube gives more light than three 60 watt incandescent bulbs. Replace opaque, light-obstructing shades with shades of white or near-white parchment, fabric or other materials for greater light distribution.

Decisions about window treatment are of major importance since much of the heat loss and heat gain takes place through windows and glass areas. Greatest protection from sunlight and heat is achieved through use of exterior shading; selection of proper interior treatment can further enhance protection. Shades should be mounted inside the window frame to prevent heat gain. This also prevents warm air at the ceiling from moving cold air at the window into the room. Draperies can also reduce solar heat gain. They are most effective if they have a light reflective backing, a separate lining and a closed top cornice.

Floor covering materials can help to insulate against winter heat loss. Avoid smooth surface materials such as vinyl, terrazzo, brick and tile which seem cooler than wood or carpeting.

Permian Basin Science Fair set

By JOHN W. DEATS
County Librarian

The Regional Science Fair for the Permian Basin will be held on Saturday, March 24, at the Coliseum, from 10:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Exhibitors from grades one through twelve will offer their best work. We would also like to extend a special invitation to visit the library's display of science books, magazines, and audiovisual material on the main floor. There will be an especially interesting program of three color films which will be shown in one of the conference rooms on the upper level.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is the producer of "Who's Out There?" and "Viking." The first is a winner of the U.S. Film Festival's Silver Screen Award and the Chris Bronze Plaque, Columbus Film Festival. Orson Welles does a fine narration as he traces the story of man's fascination with the possibility of life in outer space. "War of the Worlds" is discussed, being only one example of the long preoccupation of science fiction with this theme. Welles takes us from fiction to fact as he describes recent missions to the far planets and the prevailing modern view that extraterrestrial life is not only possible, but plausible. "Viking" emphasizes the role of individual scientists in the planning and execution of the great venture into Martian soil.

National Geographic investigates man's inner space in a unique film, "Man: The Incredible Machine." Through the use of the latest photographic techniques, the intricate structure and incredible functions of the human body are revealed as never before.

A WARM MOMENT — Dolores del Rio and Anthony Quinn share a warm moment during the filming of Hall Bartlett's "The Children of Sanchez." Quinn stars as Jesus Sanchez, patriarch of a family fighting to maintain its dignity in the face of overwhelming odds. A living legend of international stage and screen, del Rio portrays Grandma Paquita in the film released by Lone Star Pictures International.

'Children of Sanchez': Quinn's greatest role

"The Children of Sanchez," a highly-acclaimed motion picture starring Anthony Quinn in the greatest role of his distinguished career which already includes two Academy Award Oscars, opened Friday, March 16 at the Ritz.

An extraordinary human drama, "The Children of Sanchez" is a motion picture project that would not die. For more than 15 years, the classic Oscar Lewis novel, which has won international critical acclaim and is required reading in many universities throughout the world, presented many problems to filmmakers. Until, that is, six years ago when it was acquired by producer-director Hall Bartlett, whose unwavering dedication finally brought it to the screen.

Now, "The Children of Sanchez" is a complete human and emotional drama of individual people who have universal common denominators, with insight and passion about the need of stronger family relationships, dramatizing the dignity and stature of a family which, with all its human problems, strives for improvement, for meaning and for fulfillment.

When Bartlett set out to make the story of Jesus Sanchez and his family, he treated it as a story of universal themes, as true in Mexico as it is true in Los Angeles, New York, Paris, Tokyo, Berlin, Rome or London.

Anthony Quinn, who had been the single choice to portray Sanchez throughout the history of the project, enthusiastically endorsed Bartlett's concept and stars in the title role as the patriarch of the family.

Quinn himself stresses that the delay in making the film may have been fortuitous. Fifteen years later, he feels he is eminently more qualified to play the role, in which he gives one of the finest — if not the finest — performances of an already remarkable career.

"I am older now and bring qualities to Jesus Sanchez that are far different than they would have been in earlier years," he readily admits.

In the key role opposite Quinn is Lupita Ferrer, a radiating Latin beauty who is the leading actress in the history of Venezuela and who makes her American film debut as Consuelo, the daughter of Sanchez who makes the first move outside of the family. It is a bravura performance of fire and intensity that is sure to make Mr. Ferrer the newest of the great dramatic stars on film.

Also joining the cast in a pivotal role is Dolores Del Rio, the fabled Mexican beauty who remains the reigning figure on the Mexican film scene. For many years an international motion picture and stage star, Mr. Del Rio, as Quinn's mother-in-law, adds an aura of stateliness and sophistication to the family.

To work with Quinn, Bartlett assembled a major cast of stars carefully tailored to each role. In a unique stroke of casting, Duncan Quinn, the son of Anthony and Katherine DeMille, plays Quinn's son in the film.

"The Children of Sanchez" is a Lone Star Pictures International release.

Comedian Richard Pryor Study in contrast

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard Pryor: A study in contrast.

The public Pryor is on view in the nation's theaters with an 80-minute tape-to-film record of a concert he gave in Long Beach, Calif., late last year. Television can never do him justice; the big screen does. He roams the stage like a madman sage, erupting with outrageous verities. He is profane, some say obscene, but irresistibly funny.

Then take a look at Pryor behind the desk of his second floor office at his compound in Northridge, a far reach of the San Fernando Valley. The wildness is gone from the eyes. He is subdued, introspective, employing scarcely a word that couldn't be uttered in a tea room.

Why did he make "Richard Pryor, Live in Concert"?

He contemplates, then replies, "Money." "Money?"

"That's right. Pure greed. Also, to have my art etched in celluloid and shown round the world. Most of all, greed."

He's probably not serious, but you never can tell about Pryor. He did remark that he felt he had done good work and he was pleased with the results. The material was new, he said — "my audience wouldn't stand for repeating old stuff." The monologue covers a wide spectrum, including such matters as the difference between black and white funerals and the ring performance of Leon Spinks.

Pryor can even find comedy in personal mishaps — his own heart attack and his arrest after shooting up the unoccupied car of his estranged wife. He also makes graphic reference to male-female relationships.

The film has no rating, but producer Bill Sargent has appended the message in ads:

"WARNING: This picture contains harsh and very vulgar language and may be considered shocking and offensive. No explicit sex or violence is shown."

"I think that's a good idea to have that warning," said Pryor. "I have a vision of little old ladies coming into the theater by mistake and having coronaries." In fact, there was one little old lady at the matinee I attended and she seemed to be enjoying herself immensely."

Gallery shows 3 paintings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Gallery of Art says three paintings it has acquired during the past year are on view at present.

The 19th-century paintings are by American artists Eastman Johnson 1824-1906, Francis William Edmonds 1806-1863 and Thomas Wilmer Dewing 1851-1938.

Johnson's painting is titled "The Brown Family," Edmonds' is "The Bashful Cousin," and Dewing's is "Lady with a Lute."

The gallery also says it has acquired two "major works of early 16th-century German graphic art — a drawing by Hans Burgmair entitled "The Fight in the Forest," and an etching by Albrecht Altdorfer entitled "The Large Landscape with a Watermill."

TWEEN 12 and 20

Teens tough on young criminals

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

"Should teens who commit violent crimes be tried as a teen or an adult?"

A total of 3,460 teens (2,480 girls and 980 boys) from the United States and Canada responded to this question. Of the 3,460 teens, 2,831 (82 percent) thought that teen criminals should be tried in court as adults while 629 (18 percent) said the criminals should be tried as juveniles.

Interestingly, the boys (87 percent) had a higher percentage of those who wanted teen criminals tried as adults than the girls (79 percent).

Let's hear what particular teens had to say on the subject:

From Roy Meredith, 16, Florence, Ala.: If a teen commits a violent crime, he should then be old enough to be punished as an adult.

From Bobbie Bostic, 12, Mt. Vernon, Ohio: The young criminal should be tried as a teen and then helped with his problem by professionals.

From Kathleen Fowler, 19, Sacramento, Calif.: Try them as adults. The laws for minors are not tough enough.

From Tracey Biggs, 13, Michigan City, Ind.: No! Teens are not recognized as adults. We are not allowed to vote or drink so we should not be tried as adult for any crime.

From Kevin F., 16, Galesburg, Ill.: I'm black and proud that I was raised in the slums of Chicago. Crime is crime regardless of the age of the criminal. I believe in an eye for an eye.

From Tanya Knipping, 15, Ukiah, Calif.: I think a teen should be tried as a teen for a first crime and as adult if he should commit another one.

From Melinda Dean, 13, Rock Island, Ill.: I think that persons 14 and younger should be tried as a teen 15 and over as an adult.

From Katy Taylor, 14, Oklahoma City, Okla.: Teens who commit crimes need help and they won't get it if they are tried as adults.

From Linda Hafenstein, 14, Klamath Falls, Ore.: When teens commit violent crimes they usually are trying to be adult, so they should be tried as one.

From Joy Livergood, 14, Pottstown, Pa.: The victim (if it wasn't murder) should say how the juvenile should be tried.

I am awarding a TWEEN 12 and 20 T-shirt to Jackie Smith, 18, from Livermore, Calif., who said it best: "It all depends on if our society wants vengeance or rehabilitation. It's not how they are tried that is important, it's how they eventually turn out. ..."

MRS. MONTY NEWTON

Methodist rite unites couple

The wedding vows between Debra Sue Henson and Monty Madison Newton were solemnized Saturday night in the First United Methodist Church in Lubbock.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Milton Henson, Lubbock. The groom's parents are Mrs. Betty Neal, Lubbock, and Madison Newton, Anton.

Performing the 7:30 p.m. ceremony was Dr. Sam Nadar, First United Methodist Church pastor. The vows were spoken before an altar featuring an arch candelabrum holding 54 tapers. Burgundy carnations and baby's breath enhanced two sprays of mixed greenery.

Jim McClain, vocalist and Gordan McMillann organist, provided the wedding music for the rite.

The bride was presented down the aisle attired in a formal gown of white organza over peau de soie. The bodice featured a semi-Queen Anne neckline and empire waistline, adorned with re-embroidered Chantilly lace. Her full Bishop sleeves enhanced the styling of the gown. Cascading to chapel-length was the bride's train trimmed in wide lace.

She wore a veil of imported bridal illusion which fell to chapel-length from a lace-covered Juliet headpiece. Seed pearls accentuated both the gown and veil.

A cascading bouquet of white roses and baby's breath enhanced the bride's ensemble. She carried one pink rose and one burgundy rose for each mother.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Shirley Lynn Wilson, Lubbock. Bridesmaids were Joyce Ann Walker, Midland; Resa Diane Powell, Brackey Kay Hamblen, and Joyce Ann Ray all of Lubbock.

Randy Spradley, Lubbock, served the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Jeff Hobgood, Rex Jones, and Zane Butler all of Lubbock; and Larry Belcher, Anton.

Ushers included Jim Henson, brother of the bride; Lonnie Timms, and Quinn Martin, all of Lubbock; and Greg Couch, Anton.

The newlyweds were feted with a reception immediately following the ceremony in the church parlor. Mrs. Omega Hayhurst provided music at the piano.

The bride's table featured a four-tiered white cake designed with pink and burgundy rose accents. The groom's German chocolate cake was decorated in colors of gold and brown.

Out-of-town guests attending included the bride's grandparents, Mrs. Marzee Wright, Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Henson, Carlton.

Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Felts and Mrs. Mattie Glenn, all of Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Neal, Amarillo; and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hapgood, Pilot Point.

The bride is a 1976 graduate of Monterey High School in Lubbock. She attended Texas Tech and is presently enrolled at Methodist Hospital School of Nursing. She is a member of Sigma Kappa Social Sorority, Alpha Lambda Delta Honorary Sorority and the Dean's Honor List. She is presently employed at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock.

Graduating from Anton High School in 1976, the groom now attends Texas Tech University and will graduate in May. He is a member of Pi Delta Theta Social Fraternity, Sigma Gamma Epsilon Fraternity, Phi Eta Sigma Honorary Fraternity and the Dean's Honor List. He is employed by the Texas Tech Museum Research Center.

Following a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the couple will reside at 6302 Elgin Ave., No. 216, in Lubbock.
