America's inflation rate labeled unacceptable

Carter vows to hire price watchers

ELK CITY, Okla. (AP) — President Carter, labeling America's inflation rate unacceptable, pledged Saturday night to hire more price watchers and to identify publicly "irresponsible firms" that have made "unjustified price increases."

At a "town meeting" in this small Oklahoma city, the president said he was "deeply disturbed" by Friday's report of a 1.2 percent rise in consumer prices for February.

Carter said he was disappointed that medium-size businesses are not showing the same commitment to his anti-inflation program as most large corporations.

"Too many business leaders seem to feel that the fight against inflation is not their responsibility," he said. "I will take firm steps to deal with this problem in the days ahead."

One step he mentioned was an order to the Council on Wage and Price Stability to obtain regular reports on price increases from firms in "problem industries."

He warned labor unions to show restraint in wage demands, but his harshest words were for American business.

He said companies that are identified as breaking his administration's voluntary price-increase guidelines will be asked for explanations. If he doesn't like what he hears, he said, "I will not hesitate to identify those irresponsible firms and individuals to the people of this nation."

He predicted that "in a few weeks we will begin to see the results of this battle" against inflation.

On Sunday, after the town meeting in this community of about 10,000 persons, Carter planned to travel to Dallas for an address to a convention of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Later Sunday, Carter is to fly back to Washington for Monday's signing of a Mideast peace treaty.

In Elk City and Dallas, the president scheduled meetings with state and local Democratic leaders, who could be helpful to him if he seeks re-election in 1980 as widely expected.

In Elk City, Carter planned to meet local politicians in a high school classroom, but in Dallas the setting was to be a brunch at the home of Robert Strauss, a wealthy Texan and Carter's special ambassador for trade negotiations.

Carter last week set up a campaign committee to begin laying the groundwork for a 1980 re-election bid, which he is not expected to announce formally until late this year or early next.

In his 1976 campaign, Carter won Texas with 52 percent of the vote, but since has been hurt by agricultural farm protests and his successful campaign to win ratification of the Panama Canal treaties, which were unpopular in that state.

Carter lost Oklahoma in 1976, with 49 percent of the vote, but carried the area around Elk City, where he had appeared on Nov. 11, 1975 as a long-shot candidate for the Democratic nomination.

Carter drew only about 400 people at the time but promised them that he would return if elected president.

More than 4,000 people sought tickets for Saturday night's town meeting and the 1,100 seats in the high school gymnasium were awarded by lot.

Carter was scheduled to spend Saturday night at the home of Larry Wade, 40, and his wife Mary Jane, 34. Wade is a newspaper publisher who doubles as Elk City's mayor.

HAPPY RETURN — President Carter greets Oklahoma Governor George Nigh, center, and his wife, Donna, Saturday after his arrival at the old Clinton-Sherman Air Force Base. Carter will fulfill a 1975 campaign promise by returning to nearby Elk City, where he will hold a town meeting Saturday night.

Robbers free hostages

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Two robbers who held hostages in a Managua bank for three days after an abortive holdup surrendered to police Saturday morning. Their nine remaining hostages, all bank employees, were released unharmed.

The robbers' lawyer, Aquiles Centeno Perez, who helped negotiate their surrender, said the man and the woman, whose identities were not immediately disclosed, were taken to police headquarters, where they were booked on preliminary charges of armed robbery.

The two claimed to belong to a previously unknown guerrilla group called the People's Military Organization, dedicated to the overthrow of the authoritarian regime of President Anastasio Somoza. The president is chief owner of the bank they tried to rob.

Managua Police Chief Col. Nicolas Valle Salinas promised the pair that in return for their surrender their lives would be protected and they would not be tortured. Amnesty International and other international human rights groups claim police in Nicaragua often mistreat prisoners.

The robbers, described as a man about 22 and a woman about 18, demanded that Valle Salinas, their lawyers, bank officials and a journalist be present when they surrendered.

After the assembled group entered the bank, the robbers, their faces covered with handkerchiefs, emerged with their hostages, ending the 65-hour ordeal.

Police surprised the robbers as they tried to flee with their loot after the Wednesday afternoon robbery. One robber was killed, at least one escaped and the other two ran back into the bank and took 16 hostages. Seven hostages were released earlier.

Sneaky snake strikes searcher

By DON WOODS

A Western Diamondback rattler caught Perry Culwell, Jaycees past president, on the ankle Friday afternoon at the Jaycees Annual Rattlesnake Round-up. Culwell is in good shape, however, at Malone-Hogan

Hospital. Mike Faulkner rushed him to the hospital eight minutes after the strike. Culwell was in the holding pit when he was bit. He was wearing protective leggings. However, the snake struck between the leggings and his low top shoes. He was hit with only one fang. Culwell has been given 15 anti-venom and tetanus shots. Faulkner said Culwell would be sick for several days and his ankle would be swollen. He said Culwell would have some trouble walking at first.

In the good news, attendance was higher on Saturday than it had been the whole weekend in past years. Approximately 2,000 had walked through gates at 3 p.m. Saturday. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for children.

Weigh in for snake hunters began at 1 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. Saturday. Snakes were sold to Jaycees at $2.75 a pound Friday, $1 a pound Saturday and will net 50 cents today. Saturday afternoon snake searchers delivered 2,000 pounds of snake. Hunters will be paid for their snakes at 5 p.m. today.

Faulkner said the longest snake measured so far this year is 5 feet 7 inches. Trophies will be awarded for longest and shortest snakes and snakes with the most rattles. Most hunters bring in their longest and shortest snakes the last day of the event.

Some live snakes will be sold to a Colorado snake rancher. Others are skinned and the hide sold to producers of billfolds and belts. The meat is cooked and sold to Round-up participants.

Venom is also milked from the snakes and donated for scientific research. Connie Edgemon directs the milking this year.

She said she never gets over her fear of snakes and said she has a "healthy respect for them."

She started milking snakes four years ago because, she said, she felt a "civic duty to get rid of them and put them to some use."

The snakes have a lot of venom this year, she said. Some snakes are "dry" because they have been aggressive or have not had adequate water.

"Women are really more interested in milking them than men," she said, when asked if it was unusual for a woman to milk snakes.

The Rattlesnake Dance was held Saturday night at the Elks Lodge on FM 700 where the Miss Diamondback finalists were presented.

Last year the Jaycees earned $4,500. This year the take will be used to pay for playground equipment at Comanche Trail Park.

Miss Diamondback for 1979 will be announced today at 5 p.m. at the Howard County Fair Barn. The winner will be chosen from a field of 12 finalists. Trophies for longest, shortest and snake with most rattles will also be presented.

$1-a-gallon gasoline next?

By The Associated Press
Gasoline prices across the nation are higher than ever, and many service stations are cutting hours or closing on weekends because of tight fuel supplies, an AP spot check has found.

And connections don't appear to help. The gas station in Plains, Ga. owned by President Carter's brother Billy closed last week because it had used up its March allotment of gasoline.

According to the Labor Department's consumer price index, gasoline prices rose 2 percent in February and are up 18 percent since last June.

Prices have risen so much — in many cases a dime a gallon or more in the past year — that many gasoline dealers say $1-a-gallon gasoline could be a reality later this year.

Gasoline prices are highest in Chicago and New York, with premium leaded gasoline selling at some stations for more than 90 cents a gallon.

"A dollar a gallon? Sure it's coming, and soon," said one dealer in a suburb of Chicago who now is charging 90 cents. Bob Jacobs, executive director of the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association, said he expects "the public is going to be paying $1 a gallon by July 4th."

"It's the worst period since the days of the '74 oil embargo," said James Benton, executive director of the Gasoline Retailers Association of Northeastern New York.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Who's drunk?

A Texas law presumes you are drunk if a breath or blood test shows the alcohol content in your veins is one-tenth of one percent or higher. A 120 pound woman would probably reach that level after two mixed drinks in one hour.

It all depends on your weight, how recently you've eaten, etc. But don't forget any alcohol will reduce your efficiency. You can be "drunk" and unfit to drive even though your blood alcohol level hasn't climbed to the "official" level.

Sadat extremely happy

By The Associated Press

An "extremely happy" Anwar Sadat flew from Egypt to Washington Saturday for the historic signing of a peace treaty with Israel. Syria, meanwhile, called angrily for "revolutionary violence... to strangle the Sadat regime," but said it does not favor an oil embargo against the United States.

In Washington, Egyptian, Israeli and U.S. negotiators met to complete final details of the peace accord, but American officials said no last-minute problems jeopardized the treaty.

The Carter administration prepared for a lavish treaty-signing ceremony Monday at the White House, ending 30 years of hostilities between the two nations.

"I am happy, extremely happy," Sadat smilingly told reporters before boarding his special jetliner for the 14-hour flight to Andrews Air Force Base near Washington.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin was already in the United States, meeting Saturday with friends and American Jewish leaders in New York and preparing to help wrap up the final minor issues in the negotiations.

In other Mideast developments Saturday: —Arab League foreign ministers met in Mogadishu, Somalia, in a plenary session expected to be dominated by discussion of the treaty. Iraq has scheduled an emergency meeting of Arab foreign ministers in Baghdad for Tuesday, 24 hours after the Washington ceremony, to approve political and economic sanctions against Sadat.

—Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat criticized President Carter's offer to work with his Palestine Liberation Organization if the PLO recognizes Israel, but Arafat stopped short of rejecting the proposal.

—In Jerusalem, Arab protesters threw rocks at Jews holding an unauthorized prayer service on Temple Mount, sacred to both Jews and Moslems. No injuries were reported.

Shuttle arrival cheered

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The space shuttle Columbia arrived at the nation's space port Saturday to the cheers of thousands of technicians eager to begin a new era of space transportation.

Riding piggyback atop a giant Boeing 747 jetliner, the 75-ton orbiter ended its trouble-plagued journey from California to its new home by landing on the 3-mile-long runway it will use when operational in 1981.

The Columbia, the first spaceship designed to make repeated orbital trips, is scheduled for a two-day test flight late this year, piloted by astronauts John W. Young and Robert L. Crippen.

The test launch and flight had been scheduled for Nov. 9, but NASA administrator Robert Frosch announced a possible delay shortly after the 122-foot-long shuttle arrived at Cape Canaveral.

Second shipment of Nevada wild horses headed for Sweetwater

The second shipment this year of excess Nevada mustangs will soon be headed for Texas and their prospective "foster parents." The horses were removed from public lands in Nevada by the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), and made available for "adoption" by qualified individuals.

About 60 horses are scheduled to arrive in Sweetwater on Wednesday at the Steen Cattle Company corrals. They will be distributed beginning at 8:00 a.m., Thursday, March 29, to approved applicants who have been contacted by the BLM. In mid-February, 85 Nevada wild horses were shipped to Sweetwater and successfully adopted.

A charge of $90 per animal will be charged by the BLM for the expenses of delivering the horses to Sweetwater. The fee covers vaccinations, veterinary care, health inspection (required by the state for importation of animals), and transportation costs from Nevada. BLM personnel felt these costs would be higher if each applicant had to travel to Nevada himself to get his or her horse.

Applicants are limited to adopting up to four horses each year, under federal law. After one year the wild horses may become the property of the adopter. Title to the animals remains with the federal government for the first year as an effort to prevent inhumane use or commercial exploitation of the horses.

To qualify to adopt a horse, individuals must have adequate corrals and shelter, be able to provide food for the animal, and have some knowledge of caring for a horse. For more details and application information, contact the Bureau of Land Management, P.O. Box 1449, Santa Fe, NM 87501, toll free telephone: 1-800-545-8943.

In 1970 he was elected Secretary-Editor of the International Motion Picture and Lecturers Association (IMPALA). He has also served two terms as president and recently completed three years as Film Festival Chairman for the organization's Palm Springs Film Festival.

He is also co-publisher and editor of The Performer, the national magazine of stage and screen, as well as the west coast manager of Franklin Film Management.

He had been photographer for the Eye-o-graphic School of Biblical History in the Middle East and joined archaeological expeditions in Egypt and Jordan.

The two Big Spring Rotary Clubs sponsor the series. Tickets for the lecture will be available at the door at $4 each.

Thwarted kidnapper hurts woman

The mother of an adopted 11-month-old boy struggled with her assailant and would be kidnapper of her boy and was herself injured by the man before he fled into the night.

Maxine Roper, Tubbs Road, said a 5-foot 9-inch tall man with long, black hair appeared in her front door Friday night at 8 p.m. and attempted to wrestle her adopted son away from her before fleeing. He weighed around 180 pounds, wearing blue jeans and a white shirt.

Mrs. Roper was in the living room of her trailer home when the man entered just after her son and daughter-in-law had left. When she heard the front door open, she said, she thought they had come back in.

After struggling with the man and successfully preventing him from taking the baby she was taken to Malone-Hogan and treated and released for scratches and abrasions inflicted by the man during the fracas.

Sheriff's deputies have no suspects in the incident, but Deputy Charles Johnson said Mrs. Roper will be able to identify the man in a line-up.

SHAUN CASSIDY KEITH RICHARDS

Shaun Cassidy file suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shaun Cassidy, star of television's "The Hardy Boys," is suing the man who sold him a Hollywood Hills home, contending that the house was left in disrepair, a spokesman for the actor says.

The suit, filed Thursday in Superior Court, seeks $150,000 in damages from the seller, Victor Draai.

The suit contends that Draai had agreed to make repairs on the house but that repairs were not made on the plumbing, wiring and roof. Draai could not be reached for comment.

Cassidy's spokesman declined Friday to reveal the price the singer paid for the home.

Guitarist to serve time

OSHAWA, Ont. (AP) — Rolling Stones guitarist Keith Richards will serve his sentence for heroin possession on a concert stage here next month.

Richards will perform two shows to benefit the Canadian National Institute for the Blind at the 5,500-seat Oshawa Civic Centre on April 22, promoters and a spokesman for the arena said Friday.

Richards, who was convicted last October of possession of heroin, was given a two-year suspended sentence and ordered to perform the benefit concert as a condition of probation.

A spokesman said it was not known whether the rest of the Rolling Stones or any other musicians would appear at the concert.

Wayne 'deeply touched'

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — John Wayne was "deeply touched" last year when a flotilla of boats paraded by his Newport Beach home to welcome him back from a Boston hospital after lung surgery.

But the 71-year-old film star has turned thumbs down on plans for a similar boat parade past his house Sunday to welcome him back from Cedars-Sinai Hospital, where he underwent gall bladder and stomach cancer surgery Jan. 12.

"There's not going to be any boat parade," said Wayne's secretary, Pat Stacy. She said a group of Newport Beach boaters had planned to use the float-by as a fund-raiser to raise money for a John Wayne Cancer Research Fund that they wanted to establish.

She said, "Mr. Wayne said that last year he was most appreciative and deeply touched by the demonstration. But he doesn't want to lend his name to a fund-raiser at this time."

Wayne returned home Feb. 24 after the surgery, made necessary by the discovery of cancerous cells in his stomach. He was given an artificial stomach.

Black Panther leader charged with killing prostitute

Judge declares mistrial in murder case

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A judge declared a mistrial Saturday in the Huey Newton murder trial after the jury reported it was hopelessly deadlocked after four days of deliberations.

There was no immediate word on whether the prosecution would seek to retry the Black Panther leader on the charge of killing a prostitute in 1974.

Prosecutor Tom Orloff, whose case suffered a serious setback when the key witness against Newton recanted earlier testimony during the 3½-week trial, made no immediate comment.

Newton, 37, sat impassively in the packed Alameda County Courthouse as jury foreman Janet Hurly reported the panel was deadlocked 10-2 on its third ballot. She did not say which way the majority voted.

Newton, who fled to Cuba in 1974 to avoid prosecution in the murder case and on other charges, could have faced 15 years to life in prison on a conviction of first-degree murder. The prosecution, however, had asked for a conviction for murder in the second degree, which carries a penalty of seven years to life.

The jury resumed deliberations Saturday after reporting two ballots had produced no verdict, and after having Superior Court Judge Carl W. Anderston reread his instructions.

Newton, standing outside the jury room prior to the announcement of a deadlock, told reporters: "This trial is a farce. Anybody else would have been acquitted already."

The Black Panther co-founder was charged with shooting a 17-year-old prostitute Kathleen Smith on an Oakland street corner in August 1974. Before the jury got the case Wednesday, Orloff unexpectedly asked that Newton be found guilty of second-degree murder — a step down from the original first-degree murder charges. The jury, however, considered both charges.

Newton helped found the Black Panthers in the 1960s. After Miss Smith was shot, Newton fled to Cuba, forfeiting $42,000 bail. He ended his exile 2½ years later and returned to face the charges. He is free on $130,000 bail pending appeal on an unrelated case.

Davis divorce duel

Judge, DA call off feud

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Judge John Barron and Tarrant County District Attorney Tim Curry have called off their feud, and Barron has agreed to return to Fort Worth Monday to continue hearing the divorce trial of Cullen and Priscilla Davis.

Barron was incensed last week when prosecutors burst into his civil courtroom to subpoena trial records.

A retrial of Davis is still pending on conspiracy to commit capital murder charges. A Houston jury failed to reach a verdict earlier this year in the case in which Davis was accused of trying to have Judge Joe Eidsen killed. Eidsen was the judge presiding over the stormy divorce. He stepped aside, and Barron was called out of retirement to hear the case.

Barron left Fort Worth last week and said he would go home to Bryan "to hunt rabbits."

Mrs. Davis is arguing that most of Davis' multimillion dollar financial empire should be considered community property, but Davis says their community estate is less than $1 million and does not include any of his business interests. The divorce suit was filed nearly five years ago, and the current trial has been going on for five weeks.

State Judge Charles Murray said he got Barron and Curry to agree jointly they would exchange no further barbed comments. Curry promised he would not attempt to get any more divorce trial records until the end of the trial.

Murray, who as administrative judge played a major role in the appointment of Barron as the divorce judge, said Curry promised "that he would certainly do nothing until the case is over."

Murray said Joe Greenhill, chief justice of the Texas

Supreme Court, called Barron Thursday "because of the large amount of time and expense involved," and Barron agreed to stay on the case.

Berkley Homes, Inc. Presents

Michael Joseph

Employee of the month
February, 1979

Michael has been employed by Berkley for over a year and is an electrician. He said he was "really thrilled" to win the Employee of the Month award and that it would make him work harder to try and win again.

Mike is married and his wife's name is Donna. They reside at 904 Nolan. He is active in Jehovah's Witnesses. He enjoys basketball and football.

Michael received an engraved plaque plus a $50 savings bond. His name also is on the permanent plaque hanging in the Berkley office.

Berkley will honor an employee each month. They will be nonsupervisory personnel selected by plant leadmen.

You have to make time for yourself

Very few of us budget our time to the extent that we do everything we want to do. So says a Texas A&M University management professor, Dr. Douglas Stone, an organization psychologist who specializes in motivation theory.

Dr. Stone says that the single most important factor a business person, a teacher or anyone can do to utilize his or her day more efficiently is to realize that "you are the one who controls your time."

Many of us procrastinate and others feel we are being dragged along by unseen but powerful forces that conspire to slow us down to a snail's pace, if indeed we move at all.

TOO OFTEN, WE lose control of time by reacting to someone else's bidding and not tending to our priorities, argues Stone. The professor is on solid ground in his argument. In 24 years of time management experience and teaching practice he has made hundreds of presentations to professional business groups.

Stone suggests that one should work to set aside a part of each day for what he called "discretionary time," a time when a person can think and not have to worry about interruption or work.

"For a few hours each day," Stone advises, "limit incoming calls and meetings. Make time for yourself."

Stone also says that a set of priorities must be established. People, particularly those in business, succumb to the habit of doing the short, easy projects first and delaying the major projects.

"Of course, what happens is the major projects never receive the full attention they need," he contends.

STONE ADVISES establishing a priority system for problems. First would come the things that have to be done today. Second, the problems that have to be handled in the next few days. The third category would be reserved for undertakings that would personally enjoyable to do sometime in the future.

"Most people fool themselves into thinking they are using all their time efficiently," Stone says. "Keep a diary or a log of daily events and see who you are interacting with and why."

Sometimes it's scary what the logs reveal."

The A&M professor believes effective delegation of duties is another excellent time management tool. The key variable in a business setting is a good secretary.

An efficient Girl Friday will screen calls, organize meetings and establish office priorities for the person in charge, according to Stone.

"The boss doesn't have to see or decide on every bit of work that occurs in an office," adds Stone.

Stone also recommends that an agenda for all meetings be set out in advance. Few activities waste more time than a group of people sitting around trying to decide why they are meeting, he says.

Swift-kick cure Around the rim

Walt Finley

Dear readers, no fun and games today. Instead of meddlin', I'm preachin'.

If you put 19,120 seven-foot coffins end-to-end the line would stretch about 25 miles, and that's what it would take to contain 1977's murder victims in America.

As things stand, from two to five percent of the children in big cities will die at the hands of killers.

LAST YEAR 93 LAW enforcement officers were killed by criminals. And how many criminals were executed? Zero.

Life is precious in America, but only criminal lives. The lives of non-criminals are cheap and getting cheaper. Since 1968 murders have been going up at an average rate of seven per cent a year, and forcible rapes at about 10 percent.

Worse, we're getting more killing-for-laugh — senseless executions not related to fright or nervousness on the part of the fun-wielder. And in the face of this tidal wave of evidence the bleeding hearts and civil libertarians are still running around bleating that capital punishment deters no one.

SO, WHAT ELSE but to dust off the electric chairs and tidy up the gas chambers and poison needles for those who kill with cold-blooded premeditation and for those who kill in the commission of a crime? It's time their lives became cheaper and we began to weep for the innocent dead.

If 30 percent of the killers were put to death what do you want to bet there wouldn't be a large net saving of lives in the next year?

Now, let's forget about executions, and talk about the punishment of those who don't deserve the supreme penalty. As everyone knows, our prisons are pustules. Even those who go in lightly infected are likely to come out plus-4. They are places of shakedown, sodomy, terror and "kings of the yard."

So what can be done about it? Much. But first there has to be a greater certainty of punishment.

THIS IS OUR first failing — the hesitant swat, and it starts right in the juvenile delinquency years. As it is, judges often face the bleak choice of an admonition, which may only increase the swagger, and institutionalizing, which might ruin the child.

There is a better way. Perhaps one warning and then fast response. There's nothing inhuman about a town facility with small separate rooms out of which offenders will go in daylight hours between the dismissal of school Friday and its resumption Monday to work in the parks, a municipal potato patch or a workshop where they can sand and refinish public furniture. There's nothing wrong with weekend labor to repair vandalism. (For example, the two teens who are helping clean up Comanche Trail Park in lieu of a fine and sentence for hurling debris into the Big Spring.)

THE TRICK is no nonsense action. The youngster who is old enough to outrage the law is old enough to feel the law's anger. But, except for chronic and repeated delinquencies which may require other therapies, the response should be as short as it is sharp.

Our prison terms for adults are, in general, far too long. Usually, they don't reform but only reduce self-reliance, pervert and twist.

Why don't we acknowledge that sentences beyond five years are likely to be counter-productive?

We know it in our bones already, and that's why we have a chaotic system of plea bargaining, reduced charges, suspended sentences, wide use of parole, etc. But there is little fairness in it. One judge may assess 20 years for what another would give four.

WHAT WE NEED is a swift-kick prison system, tough for all to begin with and then steadily opening up on wider privileges, better food, better quarters and intensive job training. There's no future in brooms, binder twine and license plates.

For the first 60 days the new prisoner would be on the rockpile or in the brickyard. The food should be plain, hours long, recreation nil. In short, life should be about what it was in any navy 150 years ago.

After that, prison should become progressive, which every month (barring demotion for misbehavior) seeing a new widening of the horizon for each man. As the end of the sentence approaches conjugal visits should be allowed and few home leaves. The present business of popping prisoners out of the bottle with a cheap suit, $20 and no marketable skill is a disaster.

REPEATERS' WOULD discover that they couldn't come back to reassume their roles as yard-bosses. There'd be that purgatory again, and it wouldn't be easy.

All this, of course, is a theory, and all theories should be tested by pilot programs. But last year robberies, larcenies and burglaries cost Americans about $2.5 billion in addition to the death, injury and grief involved in 1,009,500 violent crimes.

One percent of $2.5 billion is $25 million. We can afford some experiments.

There's no place like Nome

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Ever since President Carter said that our energy crisis was the moral equivalent of war, I have believed we should have war crime trials for people who contributed to screwing up what little hope we had of not being so dependent on the Middle East.

High on my list of Energy War Criminals are the people who designed the Alaska pipeline so it would point directly toward Japan. After spending $7 billion constructing what was publicized as the eighth wonder of the world, these brilliant engineers, scientists and government bureaucrats have now discovered it is cheaper and more practical to send our Alaskan oil to the Far East than to the United States.

RATHER THAN admit they made a mistake, the oil consortium is lobbying to get permission to sell our Alaskan oil to Japan, and is suggesting that we buy Japanese oil supplies from the Middle East to make up the difference. At the moment the pipeline is running at half-capacity because there is a glut of oil on the West Coast, and to deliver it to the refineries on the East Coast the tankers have to go through the Panama Canal, to get the oil to where it is needed.

THE MAIN PROBLEM with finding Energy War Criminals is that no one will admit responsibility for selecting the route over which the pipeline was eventually built.

One engineer said, "It isn't my fault. I was only following orders." "Whose orders?"

"The oil companies all decided they wanted the pipeline to go to the coast of Alaska. I would have been shot if I hadn't built it where they wanted it."

The heads of the oil companies, of course, claim they're innocent. "We're small potatoes just doing our jobs. The State Department couldn't negotiate a treaty with Canada to put the pipeline on its territory, so we had no choice but to build it where it is. The environmentalists wouldn't let us bring the oil into California for refining so we had no choice but to ship it through the Panama Canal. We still could have delivered the Alaskan oil at a cheaper price, but they wouldn't let our supertankers go through the Panama locks."

A RETIRED OFFICIAL of the Panama Canal said, "We wouldn't let the supertankers through because they couldn't get through. I told them that at the time, and they said I was a troublemaker."

I went to the pipeline people, and related to them what the former official said about the supertankers and was told, "That's exactly what he would say. But why couldn't they have widened the canal?"

No one at the State Department would admit having had anything to do with the Alaskan pipeline, and I was referred to the Department of Energy which refused to take responsibility because the agency did not exist at the time the pipeline was built.

A CANADIAN government spokesman said Canada was innocent. "We would never tell another sovereign government where to build its pipeline."

My travels finally took me to Nome, Alaska, where I met a drunken engineering draftsman in a bar. He admitted, after several drinks, that he was the one who drew up the final plans for the pipeline.

Passing Kidney stone an 'experience'

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am 64 years old, a male, and today I had an extraordinary experience. While urinating I had a terrible sensation. The hairs on the back of my head picked up and it brought tears to my eyes. I passed a little bead about half the size of a BB. It plopped into the water. If you think lead is heavy, this seemed ten times heavier. I imagine this was a gallstone. What can you tell me what to do about this situation? — W.B.

You have passed a stone, but not a gallstone. Gallstones don't reach the urinary tract, but may enter the digestive tract (bowels) and exit via that route. I hope you saved the stone to show to friends. Now take it to your doctor. Future treatment depends on the composition of the stone.

Based on chemical tests of the stone the doctor might want to do certain blood tests — for uric acid and calcium, for example — as well X-rays of your kidneys.

Always save any abnormal objects passed for your doctor. They are very valuable in diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Should a person with high blood pressure get more sleep than other people? — H.F.

Probably. Blood pressure tends to go down during sleep, so in that sense sleep might be considered therapy of a sort. Just how much sleep would vary with the individual. For some, a nap in the afternoon might be advisable if it's practical to do that. Even lying at rest can be beneficial. On the other hand the role of exercise is being emphasized more and more these days, so it's really a two-way street, a blend of appropriate exercise and adequate rest. My booklet, "Controlling Blood Pressure," explains the problem in more detail than I can go into here. For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I hate to take your time with a trivial question, but — is it possible for an arthritic condition to affect the running of a wrist watch? My husband has arthritis bad and his wrist watch stops every hour or so. — M.G.

No connection. Get him a new watch for his birthday.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I've been unable to find bananas in my calorie count chart. Wouldn't you know I love bananas? — H.D.

A banana of average size has about 100 calories.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Please settle an argument between my husband and me. He claims that eating cured meats will make him less potent. He says they use saltpeper, and that this was used in the food when he was in the armed forces. I disagreed. I tell him that once the meat is cured and cooked, the saltpeper has no effect. — Mrs. J.B.

The "saltpeper" rumor dies hard, and is heard from these days on college campuses. Saltpeper is the familiar name for nitrate salts used to preserve bacon, cold cuts, hotdogs, etc. It has no effect on potency whether in cooked or uncooked meats, in spite of the common belief.

Nitrates are not to be taken lightly, however, even though the small amounts used in food do not cause poisoning. The main concern now is the possibility of nitrate being a carcinogen (cancer producer), a question the Food and Drug Administration is investigating, as they did earlier with "Red Dye No. 2" and the cyclamates (artificial sweeteners). Often, in matters such as this, the thought is the psychological father to the fact. If your husband has this idea let's hope this note sets matters straight.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have heard from time to time that animal dander is frequently a cause of allergy, to the point where some people cannot have animal pets. Just what is dander? — M.E.

Dander are tiny skin particles shed by animals. It's comparable to human shedding of normal skin, ordinarily not visible.

"You'll be pleased to know, sweetheart, that I've taken a few doses of this 'pcription'!"

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I really have problems with evil thoughts popping into my mind from time to time, even when I am trying to pray. I am ashamed of this, but don't know what to do. — T.Y.

DEAR T.Y.: This is not something that necessarily is overcome all at once, but I believe it can be conquered. The key is filling our minds so much with Christ that evil thoughts are simply pushed out. We must invite Christ into our lives to stay with us and occupy our hearts. As He occupies our hearts, He automatically forces out those things which are wrong. That is why it is crucial for you to grow in your relationship with Christ and allow Him to take over every area of your life. The closer you get to Him, the less these evil thoughts will bother you.

Let me make several suggestions. For one thing, remember that your thoughts are influenced often by what you allow to come into your mind. Stay away from anything which will only add more evil thoughts to your mind. Guard carefully what you read or watch, for example. The Bible says, "Whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable — if anything is excellent or praiseworthy — think about such things" (Philippians 4:8, New International Version).

Drawing up contingency plans Trucking strike feared

WASHINGTON (AP) — A worried Carter administration is quietly drawing up contingency plans for handling a national emergency it hopes won't occur — a nationwide trucking strike on April 1.

The chances of a walkout by 300,000 drivers and warehouse workers depend on the outcome of contract talks between the Teamsters union and the trucking industry, who are bargaining under intense pressure from President Carter's inflation fighters.

Within this chilly climate, workers are voting at local union halls this weekend on whether to authorize union leaders to call a walkout if a settlement is not reached by midnight next Saturday, when the current master freight agreement expires. Vote totals won't be known until later this week.

As they approach the deadline, bargainers are far apart over economic issues because of Carter's insistence that the nation's largest union settle within his "voluntary" 7 percent wage guidelines. Industry proposals are within that range, but the union wants about double that.

Government, union and industry officials say it is too early to predict the outcome. They continue to express hope, at least outwardly, that a strike will be averted.

But if there is a walkout, the effect on the economy will be swift and devastating, according to industry estimates.

"After two weeks there would be a very serious crisis in the economy," said one official, who asked not to be named. The first shortages would occur among auto parts, clothing, drugs, machinery and processed foods, he said.

Government officials refuse to discuss details of their contingency plans, other than to acknowledge that Carter almost certainly would invoke the Taft-Hartley Act to order striking Teamsters back to work for an 80-day "cooling off" period.

But the union anticipates such a move. Consequently, some Teamsters' sources say, union President Frank E. Fitzsimmons might call for work slowdowns or regional strikes rather than a national walkout.

In that way, says one government source, Fitzsimmons could create economic chaos without causing the national emergency required for Carter to use Taft-Hartley.

SURVIVES TWO-WEEK RAT ATTACK — Dave Holman, 46, manages a wave for photographer as Cook County Hospital nurse Bernadette Jones attends him in the hospital. Holman lay in a filthy basement for two weeks, fighting for his life against attacking rats. As a result of the ordeal, Holman's legs have been amputated below the knees, only a thumb and index finger remain on his right hand, and three fingers left on the other hand.

Three brothers kill witnesses?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Authorities who have charged three Maryland brothers with killing several prospective witnesses to their alleged burglary ring have amended the trio's indictment to include conspiracy to kill yet another witness.

Bruce Johnston Sr., 39, is being held on six murder charges. His brothers, David, 28, and Norman, 30, are being held in connection with five of those killings. In Wednesday's amended indictment, the brothers were charged with conspiracy and obstruction of justice in connection with a plot to kill Edward Otter, who allegedly fenced stolen tractors for the Johnstons. Otter is still alive.

TOO MANY PEOPLE ARE WASTING MONEY

One of the most critical health problems today is the number of people who are not taking the prescribed quantity of drug after having their prescriptions filled. Non-compliance, as it is called, can result in a lengthened illness and additional expense to revisit the doctor and to acquire a new drug supply.

Once you are sick, we urge you to follow your doctor's advice and to use the prescription he gives you exactly as we dispense it. Don't waste your money.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

55 SAVES LIVES

It works!

Since 1974, the year the 55MPH speed limit began, it's been the single biggest factor in reducing highway deaths... by more than 36,000. And don't forget. 55 saves gas. Driving at 55 rather than 70 can improve gas mileage up to 39%. So keep up the good work. Keep your speed at 55. It works — for all of us.

Unsafe working conditions

Karen Silkwood's personal story expected to unfold

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The personal story of Karen Silkwood and her concerns about nuclear fuel plant working conditions was expected to begin unfolding this week in federal court here.

Testimony so far in the $11.5 million Silkwood plutonium contamination suit has shed little light on what sort of a person Miss Silkwood was.

Her survivors are suing the Kerr-McGee Corp. and its subsidiary, the Kerr-McGee Nuclear Corp., alleging the firms were negligent in allowing Miss Silkwood and her Edmond, Okla., apartment to become contaminated with plutonium.

Kerr-McGee contends she contaminated herself, possibly to dramatize her accusations about unsafe working conditions.

On Friday, jurors got an unusual opportunity to form an impression about Miss Silkwood when they listened to tape recordings of an Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union workshop she attended about one month before her death in a Nov. 13, 1974, auto crash.

'Babe' still casting verbal barbs at Moore

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The face-to-face confrontation may be over, but Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz continues casting verbal barbs at his old political foe, Sen. Bill Moore.

"I just don't think anybody that irrational in the face of responsibility has any basis being chairman of a committee," said Schwartz, D-Galveston, of his shouting match last week with Moore, D-Bryan.

Wendell Mayes stations.

"The best Bill Moore and I have ever been able to do is to engage in a detente from 1971 until Monday," said Schwartz, second in Senate seniority behind Moore.

The two men clashed after Schwartz insisted he had a right to question a committee witness although he was not a committee member.

Moore, dubbed the "Bull of the Brazos," traded insults with Schwartz at a Senate State Affairs Committee Monday before gaveling the session to an end and almost striking the Galveston liberal.

Blaze in home kills six kids

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — Fire investigators still are unsure what caused a mobile home blaze that killed six children from two Mississippi families, but a young survivor says a candle was left burning when they went to bed.

The Wednesday night fire occurred while the parents of the children from two families were at work. Two older children, 11 and 13, in the trailer managed to escape and were treated for smoke inhalation.

On the light side

Power to paid-up people

MONCKS CORNER, S.C. (AP) — Feeling powerless, six residents of Moncks Corner decided it was time to settle up.

On The Day The Lights Went Out, the six showed up to pay overdue power bills. Each thought the blackout was at his house alone.

Actually, the state-owned Santee Cooper utility lost service to the community when a truck pulled down a transmission line.

Company cashier Brenda Ulrichsen said, "The power hadn't been off more than 10 minutes before they started arriving" to pay up.

One, surprised to find company offices dark, asked why. He was told about the accident and advised that his electricity had not been cut off because he hadn't paid his bill. The man then walked away — without paying.

Nothing wrong with locks

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — The locks in the new $5 million Jackson County justice building work.

Firefighter Fred Cuzzo and a girlfriend were on an official tour of the building. He went looking for a power switch for emergency use, walked through a door and found it only opened one way — from the outside.

Cuzzo smashed $78 worth of windows to get out, says Jackson County Building Department official Bert Baker, who wants the firefighter to pay for new windows. Cuzzo says he's not paying and wants the county to stop bothering him.

Medford Fire Department Battalion Chief Ralph Quincy believes Cuzzo's account.

When Quincy was checking out a defective alarm in the building, he wound up on the wrong side of a detention room door and also got locked in. But he was able to radio for help.

But the rooms aren't picking only on firefighters. Gary Aftseth walked into one of them and found out they work just as they were designed to. He, too, got locked in.

Aftseth, an architect, designed the building.

Comfortable life of cat

NEW YORK (AP) — Cozy the cat was a street-wise stray before she struck it rich. Now she's gone, but she left $6,400 to make life comfortable for other cats and dogs.

Cozy's good fortune was to be adopted by the late Beatrice Shepherd, a widow of a wealthy stockbroker. Cozy became a pampered pet and had the run of her owner's Long Island mansion.

When Mrs. Shepherd died two years ago, her $750,000 estate included "30 a week to keep Cozy in the manner to which she has become accustomed."

Marie Sterling, a retired schoolteacher and friend of Mrs. Shepherd, took Cozy in, along with Cozy's favorite chair. The cat got the best food and regular medical checkups.

Cozy was 18 years old when she was rushed to an animal hospital two weeks ago. She died there of old age.

Now, in accordance with Mrs. Shepherd's will, the balance of the $10,000 set aside to care for Cozy will be turned over to the Long Island Humane Association.

C-City Playhouse to give 'Oklahoma' performances

"Oklahoma," a Rodgers & Hammerstein musical, will be presented for eight performances this weekend and next weekend at the Colorado City Opera House.

The musical will be at 8 p.m. nightly Wednesday through Saturday and again April 4-7.

Price of tickets is $3.50 per person and reservations may be made by phoning 1-915-728-3491 or by going by the Colorado City Opera House. Reservations should be made as soon as possible as musicals presented by Colorado City Playhouse, Inc., usually are sellouts.

The box office will open from 1-5 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday and from 1-8 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. The box office will have the same hours the following week, April 2-7.

The Colorado City Opera House seats 160 persons with central air and heat to provide comfortable accommodations.

"Oklahoma" has been in rehearsal since late January. The play is based in Indian Territory shortly before becoming the state of Oklahoma. The plot is a simple one involving love and jealousy between the leading and major characters.

"Oklahoma" is a light, exciting and very enjoyable show and is one of the most popular musicals in American Theatre.

Directors of the play are

Carl Beery Moore and George Womack. Producer of 1979 Colorado City Playhouse productions is Marsha Moore.

One aspect of the Colorado City Playhouse production of "Oklahoma" which will set it apart from other productions of this musical is the use of audio-visual techniques during a "dream sequence."

This is the first appearance on the Colorado City Playhouse stage for a number of members of the cast which includes:

—Diana Davenport of Colorado City, a school teacher in her first appearance on the Colorado City stage, in the role of Laurey;

—Chris Hubbard, minister of youth, music and education at Colorado City's First Baptist Church, in his first appearance on the Colorado City stage in the role of Curly;

—Bill Martin of Snyder, worker in a brick factory, a veteran of four Colorado City productions, as Jud Fry;

—Quin Thornburg of Sweetwater, a Colorado City school teacher in her first appearance on the Colorado City stage as Ado Annie Carnes;

—Neil Holman of Colorado City, a school teacher, in the role of Aunt Eller. She was a member of the chorus in last year's production of "Annie Get Your Gun;"

—Greg Chaney of Colorado City, an oil field worker, in his first appearance on stage as Will Parker;

—Porter Richardson of Colorado City, a retired radio station engineer, a Playhouse veteran, as Ike Skidmore. He is in charge of stage design and construction;

—Elaine Fugate of Colorado City, a City National Bank bookkeeper making her second appearance on stage, as Gertie Cummings;

—Tandy Curlee of Colorado City, manager of Rockwell Lumber Co. in Colorado City, a Playhouse veteran, portraying Andrew Carnes; and —Mac McKinnon, editor and publisher of the Colorado City Record and president of Colorado City Playhouse, as Ali Hakim. He has also appeared in numerous Playhouse productions.

Members of the chorus are Ron Potts, Elmer Ward, Cecile Hubbard, Leslie Perkins, Anne Conard, Mickie Palmer, Ronney Conner and Tracy Womack of Colorado City and Ann Martin of Snyder. All are newcomers to the Colorado City stage with the exception of Palmer and Womack.

Singer vows to overcome crippling muscle disease

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Donna Fargo vows to battle multiple sclerosis the way she fought off a flustered mugger last year.

Miss Fargo, 35, was diagnosed last year as having multiple sclerosis — a neurological disease often called "the mysteriouscrippler of young adults."

About the same time, a mugger confronted her in a motel hallway in Ohio and demanded her purse. She refused, they scuffled and he fled.

"I'm going to treat this disease just like I did that man," Miss Fargo said in an interview. "I'm not going to let it get me if I can help it."

Her prognosis is uncertain. There is no cure.

"It's a disease that has varied symptoms and outcomes," said Miss Fargo, best known for her 1972 hit "Happiest Girl in the Whole USA." "It can cause blindness, paralysis or loss of speech. There's no way to know who's going to get it or what causes remission. It's all a big question mark."

"You just have to do things day by day, take care of yourself and hope for the best. It hits everybody differently. Some persons are immobilized early by it, but others live and manage very well with it."

"I'm going to continue looking on the bright side, take it easy and not overdue it. I'm thankful that I'm walking and talking. I'm fighting it spiritually. The fear of it will scare you to death. I hope and pray a lot. But it's depressing, and I've had a lot of discomfort."

Nevertheless, she's continued her career. She taped her own syndicated television show and continued to make records and do concerts. She'll know in April if the television show will be renewed for the coming season.

Her symptoms were numbness, stiffness and spasms.

"People should be sensitive to their bodies," she said. "People know their bodies better than anybody else. They should try to read their bodies."

"People always complain about being tired, but this was a different kind of tired. It's very hard to describe. Some days you just can't get up."

She and actress Lindsay Wagner are national co-chairwomen of the multiple sclerosis READ-a-thon program. Under the program, school children volunteer to read books and enlist sponsors who pledge a certain amount to multiple sclerosis for each book read.

Dust devil is cousin to dreaded hurricane

REBECCA TAYLOR Reference Librarian Howard County Library

The familiar dust devil and the dreaded tornado are related to their watery cousins, hurricanes and water spouts, in both kind and origin.

The cycle of air flow from hot, high pressure areas to cool, low pressure areas creates the local wind situation as surely as the global one. The difference between them lies in the scale and the shaping effect of the earth's surface, locally.

Hurricanes are formed in the doldrums, a band of latitudes from 6 degrees to 30 degrees, in late summer when the surface water reaches a minimum of 78 degrees. It is generally believed that the presence of low pressure waves in the upper atmosphere combine with surface "hot spots," formed by the ocean currents, to start an updraft of hot moist air. As the column rises, the spin of the earth gives it a spiral twist. The rising air cools and moisture condenses releasing more heat, the cycle then repeats itself over and over. Thus the column creates its own low pressure center and, under the proper conditions, grows into a hurricane.

Like the hurricane, the thunderstorms and accompanying tornadoes are created by vertical air movement associated with heating and cooling of high and low pressure air. It is believed that in the thunderstorm, shifting columns of rising and falling air accidentally shear against one another, creating a slight vacuum, and the low pressure center of a tornado is born. This occurs in about one cumulonimbus or thundercloud in a thousand.

The destructiveness of a tornado is caused by wind velocity and the explosive effect of the low pressure center. Wind velocity in a funnel has been estimated at from 100 to 500 miles per hour. The difference in atmospheric pressure inside and outside the funnel has been measured from 25 to 200 millibars.

Dust devils or whirlwinds are smaller cousins of the tornado which are formed in wind turbulence or by hot spots. They are much weaker than most other "whirlwinds," though occasionally they are strong enough to pick up a car momentarily. Once in Altar, Sonora, a dust devil was stationary at a construction site for four hours. It removed four cubic yards of sand and other items before being dissipated by a large bulldozer.

CONFRONTATION — Jud Fry (Bill Martin) is the hired hand and his insistence on courting the niece of his employer leads to a confrontation in this scene from the upcoming production of "Oklahoma" by Colorado City Playhouse. The niece, Laurey Williams is played by Diana Davenport.

PBS satellite marks first year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public television's satellite interconnection project is a year old this month, and the people who designed and built the system say getting here hasn't always been easy.

Among the unforeseen obstacles encountered along the way were seismic faults, quirky zoning laws, pockets of methane gas, Yazoo clay, sand, solid rock and chicken manure.

"There is probably a story connected with every terminal," says William D. Houser, director of the project financed by the Corp. for Public Broadcasting, a quasi-public organization which channels tax money to public TV and radio.

The three-channel system replaced a single-channel ground system using AT&T long lines, reducing the cost by more than one-half.

Bentsen lists basic causes of inflation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Senator Lloyd Bentsen, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, in a speech here listed government deficits, regulations and tax policies among the prime causes of inflation.

Bentsen spoke before the National Legislative Conference of the Associated Builders and Contractors.

"When you cast aside all the economic rhetoric and the theories there remains a major cause of inflation in America and that is the fact that the government has consistently spent more than it has collected in revenues and has printed dollars to cover the shortfall. You simply cannot run budget deficits of $30, $40 or $50 billion year after year without generating inflation in an economy," the Senator said.

"This basic fact of economic life has — at long last — been accepted and acknowledged by both the Administration and a growing number of people in Congress. There is a demand in this country for fiscal responsibility and this is perhaps our most valuable asset as we move to set our economic affairs in order."

"I recently proposed legislation that would save the American taxpayer $2¼ billion a year by eliminating Revenue Sharing for the states. Every state government in the country has a budget surplus, while the federal government runs huge deficits year after year."

"If we are going to stem inflation and regain control of our economy, we must be prepared to take a hard look at programs like Revenue Sharing for the states, that are popular, but not really essential. We have got to be prepared to sacrifice."

"We must also begin to address problems like excessive, counterproductive, government regulation that generate inflation in our economy. As some of you may be aware, I have been leading the fight in the senate to put the brake on government's incredible tendency to regulate and control our lives."

"Let me state at the outset that not all government regulation is bad or unwarranted. There is ample opportunity for creative, controlled government involvement in our lives."

"The problem, however, is that for the past decade our government has been writing regulations willy-nilly, without any standard of cost-effectiveness, without any understanding of what regulations mean to the person or company that must comply with them, without understanding of how over-regulation crimps our economic system, and contributes to inflation."

"As a result, we now confront a situation in which federal regulation alone costs the American economy over $100 billion a year — or about $500 for every man, woman and child in this country."

"If we are going to deal with the problem of inflation in this country we must also deal with the problem of sagging productivity. We have productivity increases on the order of one percent. The comparable figure for Japan is eight percent, and you can see the consequences in our balance of trade. There are important things that must be done to increase productivity: we need tax incentives for research and development expenditures, we need liberalized depreciations schedules."

"We have a tax system that encourages consumption and penalizes savings. That system must be changed. We must look for ways to encourage savings — and to generate capital and investment. For this reason I have proposed legislation that would make the first $500 of interest on individual earnings from a savings account exempt from taxation. That would jump to $1,000 for married couples filing a joint return."

"But in considering a fundamental issue like investment capital and its role in the dynamics of our economy, we should also appreciate that part of the problem is overregulation — mandated expenditures for socially worthwhile but economically sterile objectives."

"The centerpiece of my campaign to lighten the burden of federal regulations is my Regulatory Cost Reduction Act."

"It is not enough to complain about government regulation."

Calendar of Texas Events hot off press

Remember summer? Remember the pleasures of the out-of-doors? Freshborn flowers reaching for the sun, and warm, starlit evenings?

The brand-new Calendar of Texas Events covering the period from April through September has just been issued by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. It will help recall the fun things to do during the sometimes lazy, sometimes busy days of summer.

More than 750 events are listed, crisscrossing the state from border to border. They range from cultural jewels, such as the International Music Festival at Round Top, to the rollicking Fiesta Week in San Antonio.

There's action aplenty at dozens of rodeos, or whatever else one's interest — gun shows, gem shows, antique, car, dog, coin or art shows — there's something for everyone in Texas in the summertime.

Free copies of the Calendar tell where and when it's all happening. They are available at any Texas Tourist Bureau, or by

Extortionist flees with cash

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Police are searching for an extortionist they say held a Grand Rapids banker's family for $35,000 ransom, then slipped through roadblocks without the loot.

Authorities said Willard Van Single's wife, Jean, 57, her father, John Van Gemert, 83, and the couple's son, John, 24, were found safe at the family's home Thursday. An FBI spokesman said Van Single left the money at an intersection in Ottawa County. Roadblocks were erected after the money was dropped off, but came down three hours later. Authorities reclaimed the cash. The extortionist was described as a white male in his 30s and driving a green Ford stationwagon.

Nashville announces birth of pop music

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Nashville country music industry has announced the birth of a child — pop music.

The date of birth is uncertain, but it's been within the last 15 years or so. It was born in the recording studios best known for country music and is an offspring of the famous family "The Nashville Sound."

The parents and child are doing fine.

The Country Music Association hasn't really sent out a birth announcement, and record company officials aren't passing out cigars.

But Nashville is turning out an increasing amount of pop music. The youngster, nourished by parents like Chet Atkins and Ray Stevens, is growing and maturing.

A survey by the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences shows that 32 percent of all recording sessions here last year were for pop, rock, rhythm and blues or disco. Forty-four percent were country, with 16 percent gospel and 8 percent jingles.

Non-country singers who have recorded here include Julie Andrews, Perry Como, Paul Williams, Michael Johnson, Grand Funk, Dr. Hook, England Dan and John Ford Coley, Dave Loggins, Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme, Dan Fogelberg, Dobie Gray, Joe Tex, Lee Hazelwood, Burl Ives, Neil Young, Millie Jackson, Foghat, Dave Brubeck, Bob Dylan, Paul McCartney and Joan Baez.

"There have been a lot of songs made here but no one knows it," said Atkins, the famed guitarist who pioneered pop recording here as an executive for RCA Records in the 1960s. "It's been going on a long time. We've just kept it a secret."

About 15 percent more pop was recorded here last year than in 1977.

Additionally, rock groups like Dr. Hook, the Charlie Daniels Band and Gray live here. And RCA Records recently established a subsidiary label here, Free Flight Records, to put out pop music.

"Rock music can flourish here," said Phil Sigel, a co-founder of the Progressive Music Association.

Welfare cheating not worth risk, but some keep trying

Neither age, sex, nor money in the bank keeps some people from attempting welfare fraud, the head of the investigations division of the Texas Department of Human Resources (DHR) has revealed.

Director Ed Richards included the following cases in his monthly report to DHR commissioner Jerome Chapman:

In Montague County an elderly woman in a nursing home was receiving welfare benefits from DHR. Department investigators learned that she had $82,000 in cash resources. The case was referred to the district attorney and a complaint was filed naming a relative of the woman as defendant. The family was allowed to make a lump sum restitution of $2,335.56 to DHR.

Six women in Grimes and Washington counties were charged with fraudulently obtaining welfare benefits. All had falsified their records by failing to report income. Two have received probation terms and both were ordered to make restitution. Trials of the other four are pending.

In Castro County, DHR investigators found that a couple receiving food stamps failed to report ownership of two pickup trucks, one grain truck, and four expensive quarter horses. Nor did they report earned income. Found guilty in district court, the couple was sentenced to seven years probation and ordered to make full restitution of the $4,735 in food stamps fraudulently obtained.

"It's not worth the risk," Richards said, in commenting on welfare fraud attempts in Texas. "DHR caseworkers, eligibility workers, sophisticated computer assistance, and cooperative district attorneys all combine to furnish our investigations division great assistance in bringing welfare cheaters to justice."

In his report to Commissioner Chapman, Richards pointed out that since the first of the year, would-be welfare cheaters have fallen in bunches.

In Dallas County, 38 persons were indicted by a grand jury for welfare fraud for such offenses as abusing food stamp privileges and claiming children who didn't exist as dependents. Richards said his investigators spent two months making cases on the 38 persons.

The indictments represent charges of theft of more than $200, a third-degree felony punishable by a maximum prison term of 10 years. Sentences usually, but not always, are probated to permit the offender to make restitution.

In Webb County, 19 cases were made by DHR investigators and presented to the district attorney for prosecution. Individuals fraudulently obtained from the food stamp program by fraud was $54,476.

In the Aid to Families With Dependent Children Program (AFDC), 234 cases were presented for prosecution involving $153,004. Again, most of these were failure to report true income.

AFDC is DHR's only cash grant program, and is limited to one-parent families with dependent children, usually headed by a woman.

"Much of the money fraudulently obtained will be regained through court-ordered restitution," Richards said. In all, during January, DHR investigators probed 600 food stamp and AFDC cases, with 401 being referred for prosecution. Records indicate that 95 percent of DHR's cases referred to prosecutors result in conviction.

And during the month, the investigation division received $95,809 in restitutions, all of which is returned to DHR.

continue our efforts in stopping it."

Sixteen cases against food stamp trafficking recently were made in Central Texas, Richards said.

During January, Richard's report said, 167 food stamp fraud cases were presented to district attorneys for prosecution. Nearly all of these involved cases of failure to report true income. Total amount taken from the food stamp program by fraud was $54,476.

In the Aid to Families With Dependent Children Program (AFDC), 234 cases were presented for prosecution involving $153,004. Again, most of these were failure to report true income.

AFDC is DHR's only cash grant program, and is limited to one-parent families with dependent children, usually headed by a woman.

"Much of the money fraudulently obtained will be regained through court-ordered restitution," Richards said.

In all, during January, DHR investigators probed 600 food stamp and AFDC cases, with 401 being referred for prosecution. Records indicate that 95 percent of DHR's cases referred to prosecutors result in conviction.

And during the month, the investigation division received $95,809 in restitutions, all of which is returned to DHR.

Triple homicide

FAIRLAWN, N.J. (AP) — Police say they have no weapon, no motive and no suspects in the slaying deaths of two women and a 5-year-old boy.

Alice Molese, 37, Marcia Ferrell, about 38, and her son, Harold, 5, were found with their throats cut Friday night in this Bergen County community, First Assistant County Prosecutor Raymond Flood said.

Flood said the bodies were found shortly before 8 p.m. in a home the women shared by Mrs. Molese's estranged husband, Brian, and his friend, Larry Gallagher, both of New York City.

Flood said autopsies would be performed today.

Prosecution rests in trial of Hart

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — The prosecution rested its case against Gene Leroy Hart Saturday after testimony linked Hart with a northeastern Oklahoma summer camp where he is accused of murdering three Girl Scouts in 1977.

The defense opened its case by calling five witnesses before court adjourned until Monday. Hart's trial on three counts of first-degree murder is expected to conclude next week.

Hart's attorney, Garvin Isaacs, said the prosecution held no significant surprises. Isaacs told district Judge William Whistler after the state rested he was considering not calling any defense witnesses.

Karen Mitchell, a former Girl Scout counselor now a freshman at Oklahoma State University, was the last of the state's 32 witnesses called in six days of testimony.

She said she had placed items — reportedly recovered from a cabin where Hart was captured in April — in her trunk following a camp skit on June 8, 1977, five days before the three Girl Scouts were murdered at the camp.

She identified a small mirror and a small pipe as items she had at Camp Scott. Miss Mitchell said she next saw her belongings two weeks to a month after the three girls were killed. She said the pipe and the mirror were missing from her trunk.

Earlier, Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation agent Roger Chrisco testified that agents recovered the pipe and mirror on July 12, 1978, from the cabin where Hart had been captured three months earlier.

"You don't know who had access to the contents of that trunk before it was returned to the Magic Empire (Girl Scout) Council, do you?" Isaacs asked Miss Mitchell.

"No, sir," she replied. Isaacs has insinuated throughout the trial that investigators could have planted items of evidence.

Cheerleading tryouts for scholarships set

Tryouts for four scholarship-bearing cheerleading positions will be Saturday in Howard College's old gym, according to Dean of Students Terry Newman.

"We began awarding scholarships to our cheerleaders last year, both to insure that we have top candidates, and to reward the cheerleaders for all the work involved," said Newman, who explained that the scholarships cover all expenses — tuition, fees, books and a room for cheerleaders who wish to live in the dorm.

Anyone who will be a freshman at Howard College in 1979-80 is eligible to tryout. Participants must sign up by 9 a.m. but the present Howard College cheerleaders will be on hand at 8 a.m. for any who wish to begin preparing for the tryouts.

"The participants will be coached on a cheer — all will perform the same one in the tryouts — by our cheerleaders who are remaining with us from last year," Newman indicated. "Judges for the actual tryouts — which will begin at 1 p.m., will be a committee made up of the present cheerleaders, and some members of the faculty and administration."

Newman stressed that the positions would be open to anyone — not just cheerleaders, and not from any particular town or area. "They just have to be planning to go to Howard College in 1979-80," Newman said.

Lunch will be furnished to those who tryout.

Duties of the four who earn the positions of freshmen cheerleaders will be to lead cheers at all Hawk and Hawk Queen games, with the exception of overnight or weekend tournaments.

Wrong social security numbers can delay refunds, IRS admits

Tax refunds can be delayed by incorrect Social Security numbers and inaccurate addresses, the Internal Revenue Service warned.

To guard against unnecessary refund delays, the IRS encourages taxpayers to use the peel-off identification label provided with the tax package. The label is pre-printed with the taxpayer's name, address, and social security number, and needs only to be affixed to the tax return before it is mailed, according to the IRS. The IRS reminded taxpayers to check the information on the label before using it, however, to be sure all information is correct. Any changes should be made in ink on the label itself.

The IRS also reminded those persons who changed their names last year to report the new name to their local Social Security Administration office. This ensures that the new name will be assigned to the proper social security number.

Sycamores edge DePaul

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Unstoppable Larry Bird poured in 35 points and miracle man Bob Heaton scored the winning basket in the final 45 seconds, boosting No. 1-ranked Indiana State past DePaul 76-74 in the NCAA semifinals Saturday.

Bird, tossing in points from all over the court, led the Sycamores, unbeaten in 33 games this season, into the NCAA final Monday night against Michigan State, which routed Penn 101-67 in Saturday's other semifinal.

Indiana State held a 67-59 lead with 9:16 remaining when the Blue Demons, paced by Mark Aguirre and Gary Garland, staged a 14-4 spurt and took a 73-71 lead when Garland sank a 10-foot jumper with 4:33 left.

Heaton, with an assist from Bird, knotted it at 73, then with 1:37 left, Garland hit the front end of a one-and-one, making it 74-73 and bringing venerable DePaul Coach Ray Meyer within 90 seconds of a trip to the championship.

Heaton, whose off-balance, last-second shot lifted the Sycamores over Arkansas in the Midwest Regional final, took a pass from Carl Nicks under the basket and laid it in for a 75-74 lead. DePaul then called time out with 36 seconds left.

The Blue Demons worked the ball down court, carefully angling for their best shot. But Aguirre, letting fly from the wing, missed and Indiana state gathered in the rebound.

Leroy Staley hit a free throw with one second left for the final margin.

Bird, the college Player of the Year, hit 16 of 19 from the field for 84 percent, had 16 rebounds and nine assists. The Sycamores shot 62.5 percent for the game, while DePaul shot 54.5 percent.

Aguirre wound up with 19 points. Watkins scored 16, Mitchem 12 and Bradshaw had eight as only the five starters saw action.

Indiana State, gunning to post the first 34-0 record in major college basketball history, had an uncommon 22 turnovers, while DePaul had only eight. But Indiana State's huge rebounding advantage, 34-21, made up the difference.

UP TO HIS TRICK'S AGAIN — Indiana State's Larry Bird passes the ball backwards to teammate Alex Gilbert (42) Saturday during their game with DePaul in the NCAA semi-finals at Salt Lake. Defending for DePaul is James Mitchem (11).

Bird was begging.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — "I felt so good I was begging for the ball," All-American Larry Bird said Saturday after scoring 35 points and leading No. 1 ranked Indiana State to a 76-74 victory over DePaul in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball championships.

Indiana State qualified to meet Michigan State for the title Monday in a matchup that will send Bird, the college Player of the Year, against the Spartans' "Magic Man," Earvin Johnson.

Bird hit 11 of his first 12 attempts from the field in the first half and finished with 16 of 19. He also hit three of four free throws, accounted for 16 rebounds and dished off nine assists in a spectacular one-man performance.

However, the 6-foot-9 forward, who is a first-round draft choice of the National Basketball Association's Boston Celtics, was not happy with his all-around performance.

Zachry leads Midland past slumping Steers

The Midland Bulldogs used the pitching and hitting of Jimmy Zachry to overcome the Big Spring Steers by the score of 3-1 in a well-played District 5-AAAA game at Steer Park Saturday afternoon.

Zachry had three hits, one a solo homer, and scored runs. He also limited the Steers to only five hits before being relieved by Archie Booth with one out in the seventh.

Ricky Myers opened the inning with a walk. Tony Rubio then walked, before Myers was forced at third following a Larry Smith ground ball. Rusty Hayworth then chipped in with an infield single to load the bases.

Rubio then received a free pass to home plate when Zachry walked Warren. But Mike Evans struck out and Midland right fielder David Brigham made a beautiful diving catch of a line drive by Kevin McLaughlin to rescue the Bulldogs.

Big Spring, which has suffered from a severe case of the goose eggs recently, scored their only run in their half of the fourth.

Rice races by UT, Baylor

McAlLEN, Texas (AP) — The Rice Owls, paced by speedmen Darrell Mouton and Carlton Derrett, captured seven running events Saturday night as they piled up 128 points to win the City of Palms Invitational track meet.

The Texas Longhorns were second in the six-team university division with 111 points, and Baylor took third with 87.

Derrett took the 100-meter dash in 10.66 to edge Mouton who clocked 10.69. The pair swapped places in the 200 with Mouton winning in 21.19 and Derrett taking second in 21.39.

Monterey, Ector capture ABC Relays

Lubbock Monterey and Odessa Ector won their respective divisions in the annual ABC Relays staged yesterday at Memorial Stadium. The Big Spring Steers finished a most respectable third in both the men's and women's competition.

Woody Wilson won the discus and teamed with Connie Burdette to take the top two places in the shot put and give the Eagles an early lead. Starling won the 100-yard dash for the other Ector individual triumph.

Magic sparks Spartan rout

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Michigan State, led by spectacular Earvin Johnson and steady Greg Kelsner and a tough zone defense, overwhelmed Penn's Ivy Leaguers 101-67 Saturday in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball championships.

The Big Ten Conference tri-champions earned a berth in Monday night's championship game against the winner of Saturday's other semifinal game between top-ranked Indiana State and DePaul.

Michigan State, 25-6, had the game sewed up in the first half, when the Spartans looked like a pro team toying with a college squad.

The Spartans pounded out an embarrassing 50-17 halftime lead behind their two superstars as the gifted Johnson scored 15 points, handed out eight assists and collected five rebounds and Kelsner scored 14 points and pulled down seven rebounds.

The Spartans went on a 19-point scoring streak midway through the first half, with Johnson and Kelsner doing most of the damage to rush into a 32-6 lead with 7:09 left before intermission.

Penn, 25-6, was not able to score a point for nearly nine minutes during one stretch, and didn't break into double figures until 3:06 was left in the first half.

The Quakers' problems were compounded by early foul trouble to Ivy League Player of the Year Tony Price, who was saddled with three fouls and had to sit down with nine minutes left in the first half.

Johnson, scoring almost at will from inside and outside, was the game's high scorer with 29 points, while Kelsner contributed 28 for Michigan State, which led by as many as 42 points in the last five minutes.

Price, who fouled out with 3:43 left in the game, led Penn with 18 points.

The Quakers, who had been complaining all through the NCAA playoffs that they were under rated because of a so-called poor Eastern image, didn't do much to support their argument at all Saturday.

The Spartans scored 13 of the game's first 17 points, with Johnson leading the attack, and grabbed a 13-4 lead with 15:33 left before intermission.

After Bobby Willis scored a basket for Penn, Johnson fired a long-range jump shot, triggering Michigan State's 19-point run that powered the Spartans to their 32-6 advantage.

The result put Michigan State into the NCAA final for the first time in the school's history. It was the first appearance for Penn in the NCAA's Final Four.

Holmes retains WBC title; Shavers KO's Norton

THAT'S IT FOR NORTON — Fighter Ken Norton hits the ropes Friday night in Las Vegas as he is knocked out in the first round of his scheduled 12-round title elimination bout with Ernie Shavers. Referee in background is Mills Lane.

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Larry Holmes is still on top of his share of the heavyweight boxing world. Earnie Shavers is in position again to reach the top. Ken Norton is in limbo.

Holmes defended the World Boxing Council title by knocking down young Ossie Ocasio four times in the seventh round — the first time with three straight punishing left jabs — and stopping him at 2:38 of the round.

But the 34-year-old Shavers stole the show by stopping the 11-5 favored Norton at 1:58 of the first round after knocking him down twice.

"I really feel in all sincerity I'll beat Holmes next time," said Shavers who earned the WBC's No. 1 ranking and a September title shot with his victory, which was stunning because of it devastating suddenness. Shavers lost a one-sided 12-round decision to Holmes here last March 25.

"I'm gonna knock him (Shavers) out," said Holmes, who rode his victory over Shavers into a title bid against Norton, which he won on a split decision here last June 9. "I'm not Kenny Norton. When I back up I know what I'm doing."

But first Holmes will fight Mike Weaver, the No. 8 WBC contender who reportedly has a 23-8 record.

"It's signed and sealed," said promoter Don King, adding that he wants to put it in New York's Madison Square Garden.

King, who staged Friday night's bouts at the Las Vegas Hilton Pavilion, also said he would like to match Shavers against Scott Ledoux on the Holmes-Weaver card. Shavers said he would like to have what he called a tuneup before he fights for the title.

Ocasio, who didn't lose face from his first loss in only 14 pro fights, could find himself in the ring against an ex-champion. "They talked to me today about fighting Leon Spinks in six months," said Bill Daley, Ocasio's manager.

With things looking up for Shavers and the boxing picture still bright for the 23-year-old Ocasio, what does the future hold for Norton? He has been a major factor in the heavyweight division ever since he broke Muhammad Ali's jaw and scored a split 12-round decision as a virtual unknown back in 1973. "He's gone now," said Holmes of Norton.

"I don't know," the 33-year-old Norton said about his fighting future. "I can't make up my mind right now."

Norton is financially secure and has ties to television and the movies. He has a contract with NBC as a sports commentator and he reportedly has had offers to make more movies. He's already made two.

Wadkins retains TPC lead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Donna Young fired a 3-under-par 68 Saturday to maintain her 3-stroke lead with a struggling, 4-over-par 76 Saturday in the third round of the $440,000 Tournament Players Championship.

The howling, shifting wind, that gusts to 35 mph, and a course that Nicklaus earlier had described as awkward, combined to turn into a golfing horror show the event that is billed as the annual championship of the touring pros.

It was a mockery.

Young leads Sahara

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Donna Young fired a 3-under-par 68 Saturday to maintain her two-shot lead after three rounds of the $100,000 Sahara National Pro-Am.

Young has a 54-hole score of 203 entering Sunday's final round of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament. Charging into second place was 1978 sensation Nancy Lopez, who is shooting for her second straight victory.

The 22-year-old Lopez, a winner of nine LPGA events last year, fired a 5-under-par 66 over the 6,108-yard Sahara

Country Club course, giving her a three-round total of 205.

Next at 208 after a third-round 69 was Chako Higuchi. Penny Pulz was alone in fourth place at 210 after a 72 Saturday. First-day leader JoAnne Carner and Judy Rankin followed at 211. Carner had a 74 in the third round and Rankin a 72. Amy Alcott was alone at 212 after a 73.

Lopez won the $100,000 Sunstar Classic in Los Angeles earlier this month but didn't enter last week's tournament at Rancho Bernardo, Calif., which Carner won.

Aggies whip Rice Owls

HOUSTON (AP) — The hitting of Kyle Hawthorne and Rod Hodde led Texas A&M to an 18-5, 11-8 doubleheader sweep of Rice in the Southwest Conference baseball action Saturday.

In two games, Hawthorne was 5-of-8 at the plate, including two home runs and five RBIs. Hodde, the designated hitter, got five hits in nine trips and knocked eight runs across the plate.

The Aggies lifted their SWC record to 5-1, while Rice slipped to 3-7 in the conference.

Arkansas sweeps by TCU

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Rich Erwin and Steve Krueger each gave up only four hits as Arkansas sailed past Texas Christian, 7-1 and 10-1 in a Southwest Conference doubleheader Saturday.

Arkansas jumped on TCU starter Cameron Young for 10 hits and all seven runs in the opener as Erwin, now 7-0, gave up just one run in the sixth inning. Johnny Ray, Marc Brumble and Ron Reynolds each had a pair of hits to pace the Arkansas attack.

In the second game Arkansas snapped a 1-1 tie with nine runs in the final two innings, ending a pitching duel between Krueger, 3-0, and Glen Pierce of TCU, 2-1.

HOLMES RETAINS TITLE — WBC Heavyweight Champion Larry Holmes watches as Puerto Rico's Ossie Ocasio goes down in the seventh at Las Vegas Friday night. Holmes used the seventh to knockout Ocasio to retain his WBC title.

Brown Coach Rutigliano favors instant replays

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The National Football League should reconsider its rejection of instant replays as aids to officials on controversial plays, says Cleveland Browns coach Sam Rutigliano.

The coach, who was an analyst of instant replays during the 1979 Super Bowl telecast and who has worked as a commentator on NFL games for NBC, said instant replays would help officials on plays that decide the outcome of games.

Rutigliano said in a WHLO Radio interview that the NFL was looking for a 100 percent remedy to the problem of controversial calls.

By voting down the instant replay proposal earlier this year, Rutigliano said he felt the NFL placed undue pressure on its officials, who he said do a "super" job.

The Browns lost games to Pittsburgh and Houston last season on controversial calls. Instant replays in each case raised questions about the judgment of the officials.

AFA coach's pact extended

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Maj. Hank Egan reportedly has been informed that he will remain as Air Force Academy basketball coach next season but then may be asked to resign.

"It hurts a little bit," Egan was quoted as saying. "Coaching at the academy has been a big part of my life."

Pete Rose is mad at Bowie Kuhn...

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Pete Rose is mad at Bowie Kuhn and the only way baseball's commissioner can mend his bridges with the Philadelphia Phillies star is to take another look at the directive issued recently regarding exhibition game lineups.

Kuhn said major league clubs have an obligation to present "representative teams" for exhibition games and Rose said the ruling was one reason for his slow start with the Phillies this spring.

"You know spring training is different now than it was 10 years ago," said Rose. "It used to be that all you had to worry about down here was getting in shape. But now, with the commissioner's ruling, you got to play and there's no time to take extra hitting. I just came back from a road trip to Miami and Pompano. Hey, if I had stayed behind, I could've taken an hour or two of extra batting practice. You can't do that on the road."

Rose said his 2-for-26 spring start doesn't upset him particularly. "I'm not worried," said the $3.2 million free agent. "I'm not trying to make the team."

Another reason Rose said he has had a slow spring is the time he has put in learning to play first base, a new position for him.

"I've been devoting so much time to defense that I haven't paid much attention to hitting," he said. "I'm working an hour every day after practice at first base, learning the cutoff positions, the throws, how to hold the runner... all that stuff."

Rose said he was enjoying the transfer from third base. "It's a lot easier than the other switches I've made — from second to the outfield and from the outfield to third base."

The other aspect of his new job that Rose is enjoying is the increased traffic around first base and the chance to visit with other players. "More guys hit singles than triples, you know," he said.

Rose hits both, as evidenced by the career numbers that earned him his record free agent contract last winter. Among the 1978 accomplishments were his 3,000th career hit and a 44-game streak that set a modern National League record.

"The thing I remember most about the streak is the reactions of the crowds and the way they were on my side," said Rose. "It was amazing. You know, it's hard not to get a hit when you're in a gray (visiting) uniform and 40,000 people are yelling your name."

Rose's streak would have been worth $44,000 under terms of a new award that will carry a $1,000 per game payoff to the player with the longest batting streak every season. The cup that will be awarded along with the money was displayed Thursday and Rose had only one complaint with it.

"I think," he said, "it ought to be retroactive." The award will be sponsored by Aqua Velva, for whom Rose does television commercials.

...while Miss Rubio sues for support

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — divorce, which later was granted. Terry Rubio has taken her fight to a court here to force the Philadelphia Phillies' Pete Rose to pay child support.

A paternity suit filed by the 25-year-old woman in Ohio has been filed in Florida, too. She claims her daughter, Morgan Erin, 1, is the product of a 22-month romance with the former Cincinnati Reds baseball star. She said their affair ended in 1977.

A civil suit seeking support was filed initially in Cincinnati because Florida law stipulates that no valid paternity claim exists if the woman was legally married to another man at the time.

Miss Rubio, at the time of conception, was married to a musician named Ted Baker. At the time she was getting a

A spokesman for Miss Rubio said a 1976 Florida Supreme Court ruling has come to the plaintiff's attention which declared the paternity restriction discriminatory and therefore unconstitutional.

The new case was filed in Hillsborough Circuit Court Wednesday.

Miss Rubio wants the court to find that Rose is the father of the child and order him to contribute support and maintenance payments for the little girl.

Miss Rubio says she has no income since Rose cut off voluntary payments to her in December.

Rose said he has been instructed by his lawyers not to discuss the case.

NBA Roundup

By the Associated Press

Fifty-eight points in one night — not a bad evening's work even for Julius Erving. But in two games?

Actually, he scored 20 of those points on Nov. 8, so what's this about 58 points anyway?

Well, that's the way it'll look in the record book.

The Philadelphia 76ers and the New Jersey Nets played a rare National Basketball Association doubleheader Friday night. The first game — some 17 minutes, 50 seconds of it — was to complete a game that began on Nov. 8.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien ruled that the two clubs would have to replay the last quarter and 5:50 of the game — the point at which third technical fouls were assessed against Nets Coach Kevin Loughery and player Bernard King. The Nets protested the original outcome (a 137-133 loss), and O'Brien upheld their contention that there was no provision in NBA rules for three technicals against one individual.

The second time around, the Nets lost 123-117 as the Sixers' Erving scored 12 points in the final 17:50 to go along with the 20 he had scored on Nov. 8. The 76ers won the second game 110-98 with Erving scoring 26 points and helping a late rally.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Detroit beat Washington 124-114, Indiana outscored Houston 141-134, Atlanta defeated San Antonio 115-108, Chicago clobbered New Orleans 116-99, Denver breezed past Boston 137-113, Phoenix drubbed Kansas City 126-107, Los Angeles plastered San Diego 156-119 and Golden State edged Milwaukee 116-113.

Although there have been suspended games and NBA doubleheaders before, there was one unique thing about Friday night's game. After Nov. 8, the Sixers and Nets made a four-player trade — Harvey Catchings and Ralph Simpson going to New Jersey for Eric Money and Al Skinner. Catchings, Simpson and Money each got in the game for both teams. Skinner, meanwhile, didn't play for either team in the suspended game.

Pistons 124, Bullets 114

Bob Lanier scored 29 points to pace Detroit past Washington, which lost both head Coach Dick Motta and his assistant, Bernie Bickerstaff, during a flurry of technical fouls in the third period.

The Bullets had six technicals whistled against them, five in an eight-second span. Motta and Bickerstaff each were hit with two T's after the Bullets' Bob Dandridge was called for a foul and drew a technical. Only minutes later, Washington's Tom Henderson drew the game's sixth technical.

To supplement Lanier's scoring, John Long had 27 points and Kevin Porter 24 points and 12 assists.

The Detroit victory snapped a four-game Bullets winning streak.

Pacers 141, Rockets 134

Indiana rallied from a 20-point, second-period deficit behind Billy Knight and Ricky Sobers, and the Pacers took the lead for good at 94-93 on a layup by Knight at the end of the third period.

Knight scored 20 of his 28 points in the fourth quarter, and Sobers also had 28 points. Moses Malone led Houston with 33 points.

Hawks 115, Spurs 108

Terry Furlow's career-high 30 points helped boost Atlanta past San Antonio. The loss was the sixth in the past eight games for the Spurs.

Bulls 116, Jazz 99

Chicago broke a four-game losing streak with some hot fourth-quarter shooting and the 25 points of Artis Gilmore. Gilmore sank five consecutive shots at the outset of the final period as the Bulls hit 11 of their first 13 shots in that frame.

Nuggets 137, Celtics 113

Denver rolled to a 64-50 halftime lead on the shooting of reserve Tom Boswell, and David Thompson salted the victory away for the Nuggets by scoring 18 points in the third quarter.

Boswell wound up with a season-high 22 points, and Thompson had 31.

Suns 126, Kings 107

Paul Westphal scored 36 points and Walter Davis had 30 to pace Phoenix to its seventh victory in 10 games. Phoenix led by as many as 23 points in the second period after leading 35-25 after one period.

Lakers 156, Clippers 119

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Adrian Dantley each scored 25 points, and Los Angeles rolled to its biggest point total and victory margin of the season. The Lakers led 68-41 at the half as Abdul-Jabbar scored 14 of his points and grabbed 16 of his 18 rebounds. Abdul-Jabbar also had nine assists and eight blocked shots.

Warriors 116, Bucks 113

Nate Williams scored 17 points in the fourth quarter, including a basket and two free throws with five minutes left in the game to break a 99-99 tie. Consecutive baskets by Jo Jo White and John Lucas iced the win as Golden State broke a three-game losing streak. Williams wound up with 26 points.

YOUNG LEAS

By DICK YOUNG

CLEARWATER, Fla. — The conflict is this. Pete Rose is about the best hunk of copy ever to come down the big league pike. Reporters love him, and he loves reporters. Suddenly he finds himself with the Phillies, a ballclub that, if it doesn't have the worst relations in the bigs with its newspapermen, at least rates honorable mention. Its owner, an otherwise pleasant chap, refers to the men on the beat as Those-dirty-tyson-fitches, one word.

Rudy Carpenter's attitude encourages the Philly ballplayers to periodic heights of incivility that make Idi Amin come off as a gentleman. The ballplayers consider their owners' policies as an endorsement of their rudeness, indeed as a style-setter. The first guy to pop a newsmen each season just might find a bonus in his paycheck.

This situation raises the burning question: Will Pete Rose win-over his new teammates to the friendly spirit, or will they louse him up? The battle is as old as The Bible, the eternal struggle between good and evil. Has talked to Bowa already.

"I'm not gonna change," says Pete Rose. "And I'm certainly not going to go around trying to change any of them. But if they want to talk about it, I'll tell them what I think."

It already has happened. His particular buddy on the Phillies, even before Pete Rose came to the club, is Larry Bowa. A basically friendly fellow, Bowa has had some brushes with the Philly press. He set up a clubhouse ambush for a baseball reporter last year. The guy had written something that got under Bowa's skin. For muscular guys, many ballplayers have particularly thin skins. Every ballplayer should serve one year on the Broadway stage to learn what life is all about in the critical press.

Pete Rose realizes that newspapermen really are pussycats if you treat them with normal courtesy; if you just try to understand what their job is.

"Like I told Bowa, all they're gonna do is help make you money," said Pete Rose.

Somewhere along the line, while he was learning to say dese, dem and dose, Pete Rose became a very smart man. He realized that life is a two-way street, and that if you're nice to people, they'll more than likely be nice to you.

Talent helps, but there have been many, many ballplayers with Pete Rose's talents who haven't made $800,000 a year from their ballclub. Not to mention the commercials for Aqua Velva and all those other manly sidelines, like paternally suits. Pete Rose's macho image is such that even negatives can be turned to positives.

"I just believe that other guys have a job to do, too," is the message Pete Rose is sowing among "his new teammates without coming on too strong."

He spreads the tender gospel, and while he teaches, Pete Rose learns. He is learning how to hold a runner on the bag, how to charge a punt, the different cutoff positions he must take up when the ball is right, left, with a man on second, with two on, with one out, with the score tied. How to make the pivot throw to second. How to circle for a pickoff. How to wear a glove.

Yes, how to wear a glove. He wears a small mitt, as first-basemen's gloves go. He wore a small glove at third. But there, his hand was jammed deep into the finger slots. At first base, the glove is held loosely, far beneath the pocket and when the thrown ball hangs high into the webbing, the hand does not feel it. The stung. The glove is, in essence, a miniature cesta used by jai alai players.

"The big thing to learn," says Pete Rose, "is the throws the different guys make. Some sink, some tail, some take off. Bowa has a strong arm. His throws explode. Trillo throws sidearm. His sink."

Pete Rose is learning, too, about the Philadelphia newspapermen, who, as a group, are good, competitive, digging newsmen.

"They're all right. If they ask me a question, I don't think is fair, I won't answer it, that's all. Next question," he says, grinning. "But they got to know that if they take a cheap shot, it's not right, either. Like one guy wrote that when Bake McBride gets shampoo in his eyes, he doesn't play for two weeks." I told Pete I wish I'd thought of that.

Pete good for Phillies.

Pete Rose is good for the Phillies. He was acquired to lead his teammates in the World Series. He can also teach them values about life, and people, about appreciation of how well off they are, including having the right attitude.

Pete was thrilled the other day. Danny Ozark, the manager, told him that Pete Rose, 10, had come to him and asked, "Does my daddy have a chance to make the team?"

"Isn't that a wonderful attitude for the kid to have?" says Pete Rose, who is terrified by the thought that his son might go around saying, "My father is better than your father."

Deane, a 6-foot-5 senior playing for the West, hit nine of 12 shots and finished with 19 points, but it wasn't enough as the East held on in the second half to take a 114-109 victory Friday night.

Bailey said the East played together more effectively in the second half after battling to a 55-55 tie at intermission. "That was one of the big differences. Everybody was playing together very well."

Winning East Coach Joe B. Hall of Kentucky said he had no strategy to impart to his players at halftime. "I didn't tell them anything. They just played well. I just kept playing time, making sure everybody got to play about the same."

Midland is only three strokes behind the Bobcats, and will try to take advantage of their home at Hogan Park course next week to regain the district lead.

Becomes free agent after this season

Spurs might lose Larry Kenon

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Larry Kenon's impending free agent status is like a rattle in a new car. The San Antonio Spurs know it's there, but they'd just rather drown it out with the radio so they don't have to think about it for a while.

The Spurs, bound next month for the National Basketball Association playoffs, face the prospect after the season of either selling out big money or losing the All-Star forward to the free agent marketplace.

Kenon, 26, a 6-9 forward averaging more than 22 points and nearly 10 rebounds per game, is going to be asking for a healthy increase to his reported $240,000-per-year salary. And Kenon has already been quoted as saying he "wouldn't mind" signing with the punchless Knicks and playing in the NBA's glamorous New York market.

Some team insiders feel the Spurs will lose Kenon because they either can't afford or are unwilling to pay the large sums of money a free agent of Kenon's caliber would bring.

"I know they (the Spurs) could pay my salary," said Kenon, who still adds that talk of his possible departure is premature. "They were one of the strongest teams financially in the ABA. The team has never been in financial trouble. We've always drawn good crowds, attendance has been increasing since we've been here."

If what Kenon says is true, will the Spurs shell out to keep Kenon?

"That's another question altogether," said Kenon. "If they want to keep winning, I think they will. This is a new situation for them. They've never had to pay a lot."

Spurs President Angelo Drossos has nothing to say about Kenon's impending free agent status. "There isn't anything to comment about," he said curtly. "At this time, we're more concerned and we're devoting our interest to the playoffs and the ending of this season."

Why worry about it now? It's not an important story to him, me or anyone else until the season is over. We'll wait until after the year," said Spurs Coach Doug Moe.

Guard George Gervin, last year's NBA scoring champion and this year's leader, renegotiated his long-term contract with the Spurs after a bitter preseason feud in which he demanded to be traded. His salary at a reported $350,000-per-year leads the team payroll. Kenon's is second.

Kenon, a six-year pro who began his career with the New York Nets in the now-defunct American Basketball Association, doesn't hide the fact he likes the idea of playing in New York or one of the NBA's big city markets.

"I'll be looking at the things you can do outside the basketball court," he said. "For that, you have to consider the big cities for a few endorsements and things like that."

"But maybe I'll have to give up some things like that to play for a team like the Spurs, who give me the freedom to play wide-open, my type of game. There's no question I want to stay with a wide-open team."

"I haven't counted out staying here yet. Everybody is automatically counting me out of here," he said. "I'm here now and I enjoy playing here. But I keep my mind off of it as much as possible until the season is over."

The Memphis State product averaged 21.9 points per game for the Spurs two seasons ago and hit 20.6 points per game last year. He's having probably his best season this year and partially attributes that to a possible free agent windfall.

"I knew I had to have a good year because it was the last year on my contract. I trained a little harder in the summer," he said.

East nips West in All-Star game

The Chicano Golf Association will host an ABC selective drive golf tournament on Sunday morning beginning at 10:00 at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

There will be a five dollar entry fee per person. Prizes will be in the form of merchandise.

Industrial slow-pitch sets important meeting

The Industrial League Slow Pitch Association will hold an important meeting on Monday night at 8:00 in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

The meeting is scheduled to be short, but it is very necessary that those interested in fielding a team should be there, as entry fees will be set.

YMCA tee-ball registration underway for children

The registration for first and second graders interested in playing tee-ball is under way at the local YMCA. Tee-ball is a form of softball, but the ball is placed in a tee rather than pitched. Each team has nine players in the field, with the objective to introduce the participants to the game in a less competitive but quicker game.

The games will be played on Tuesdays from four to five p.m. They will consist of six innings or one hour, whichever comes first. The location of the games is at Boydston fields, north of the Y.

Registration will be open until April 11. A coaches meeting will be held April 3 at 4:30. Parents and umpires are also encouraged to attend. Members will pay $8.50 and non-members will pay $16.00. This fee also includes a tee-shirt.

Farm— West Texas pastures improving

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Spring has arrived on a wet note over most of Texas, boosting small grains and pastures in West Texas and the Plains, and bringing further planting delays in much of the rest of the state, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Cotton, corn and sorghum planting was about 90 percent complete in the Rio Grande Valley before the rainy spell, Pfannstiel said. In the Coastal Bend, corn and sorghum planting was 75 percent complete and about 85 percent of the cotton had been planted. Corn planting had also been active in Southwest Texas (Uvalde area), and corn and sorghum planting had been making good progress in the Central Texas Blacklands, South Central Texas and in parts of East Texas. Also, some corn, sorghum and rice planting had begun in Southeast Texas.

The National Weather Service reports the following four-inch soil temperatures: Weslaco, 72; Corpus Christi, 68; Uvalde and Dilley, 64; Austin, Beaumont and College Station, 61; Eagle Lake, 62; Lufkin, 55; Overton, 59; Stephenville and San Angelo, 60; McGregor, 59; Marfa, 56; and Lavon Lake (near Dallas), 57. Recommended minimum planting temperatures are 50 degrees F. for corn, 55 for sorghum and 65 for cotton.

Grazing is improving in most sections, particularly on wheat, Pfannstiel said. Much of the wheat in the plains will be grazed out rather than harvested for grain due to the strong cattle market.

The gardening season is off to a slow start because of the rainy weather, but onions and potatoes have been planted in many locations. Fruit trees are in full bloom, and a good fruit crop is in prospect, said Pfannstiel.

Reports from district Extension agents showed these conditions.

PANHANDLE: Rains will boost grazing conditions and wheat crop. But more moisture is needed in western counties. Some wheat is being irrigated and preplant irrigation is starting. The spring oat crop has just been seeded. Stocker cattle are moving off wheat that will be harvested for grain. Calving continues.

SOUTH PLAINS: Good rains over parts of the region will help the wheat crop and planting conditions, but have slowed land preparation. Preplant irrigation continues. Some onions and potatoes are planted. Grazing remains below average.

ROLLING PLAINS: Rainfall should boost the wheat crop and provide planting moisture. Alfalfa is growing well. Kleingrass is being planted in Throckmorton County. Onions and potatoes are being planted. Cattle are improving but feeding continues.

NORTH CENTRAL: Rains have delayed land preparation and planting and home gardening. Wheat is growing but needs warm, sunny weather. Oats are doing well but stands are thin due to winter kill. Cattle are fair to poor; supplemental feeding continues. Calving is active.

NORTHEAST TEXAS: Many counties have surplus soil moisture. Land preparation and fertilization of small grain and hay crops is under way where conditions permit. Some corn and cotton are planted. Vegetable gardening is increasing.

FAR WEST: Area remains dry. Land preparation and preplant irrigation continue. Home vegetable gardening is active, and commercial cabbage and onion plantings (from seed) are up, and lettuce is emerging in El Paso County. Lambing is increasing.

WEST CENTRAL: Good rains should boost small grain and range conditions and provide some spring planting moisture. Spring gardening is active and fruit trees are in full bloom. Livestock conditions range from poor to good, with supplemental feeding still active.

Two murder indictments are issued

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Capital murder indictments have been handed up by an El Paso grand jury against Donald White and David Leon Wallace in the December shooting death of colorful El Paso attorney Lee Chagra.

Both men have been held in the El Paso County jail since their arrests earlier this month. The grand jury returned indictments against the men on Thursday.

Chagra was gunned down in his fortress-like office near downtown El Paso on Dec. 23.

The shooting death of the attorney, known for his defense of persons charged with drug-related offenses, is near the center of a federal grand jury investigation into allegations of widespread drug trafficking.

White, 21, a Fort Bliss soldier, was arrested March 2 in El Paso. His bond was originally set at $200,000, but was reduced to $50,000 March 16. He also is being held under $7,000 bond on charges of unlawfully carrying a weapon.

Wallace, 20, was arrested March 3 in Compton, Calif. His bond also was originally set at $200,000. However, it was reduced to $100,000 on Wednesday.

Luis Fred Esper, 56, was arrested in Las Vegas earlier this month in connection with the Chagra case. However, he was not indicted Thursday.

The grand jury is still investigating.

He is assigned to the Coast Guard cutter Polar Sea, homeported in Seattle.

During the two and one half month cruise, the Polar Sea will assist scientists in a study of the Bowhead whale. Additionally, the cutter will participate in an ongoing project, studying the marine "food cycle" and will conduct numerous icebreaking test.

A 1965 graduate of Loraine High School, and a 1972 graduate of DeVry Institute of Technology, Phoenix, Ariz., Galvan joined the Coast Guard in April 1972.

Pvt. Garza is assigned
FORT HOOD, Texas — Pvt. Johnny Garza, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Garza, 705 S. Sixth, Lamesa, recently was assigned as an automotive repairman with the 1st Cavalry Division at Fort Hood.

Book fair dates listed
The Coahoma Awake Program will sponsor a book fair on April 2-3-4 for area students.

The fair is designed to stimulate interest in reading for learning and pleasure. Students will be allowed to browse through the books and make orders for all three days, and parents are invited to look at the books from 6 to 8 p.m. on April 3.

The fair will be held in the Coahoma Primary building in Room 6 of the north wing. It will be decorated in a circus theme, and free popcorn and balloons will be given away.

Military
Texas Army National Guard offering monetary bonuses

The Texas Army National Guard is giving $1,500 in bonus money or $2,000 in educational assistance to new recruits. The bonuses to new Guardsmembers will be given to any eligible man or woman without previous military service joining any Texas Army Guard unit between March 15 and June 15.

Announcement of the two monetary incentives for enlisting in the Texas Army National Guard was made in Austin by Texas' new Adjutant General Willie L. Scott. The newly promoted major general said the enlistment incentive and the educational assistance will go to non-prior service recruits enlisting for a term of six years.

No restrictions have been placed on either the unit or the type of military assignment the new recruit must enter. But a time limit of three months has been placed on the bonus. After June 15 only selected units of the National Guard will continue to offer the enlistment and education assistance incentives to new Guardsmembers.

Scott said, "We are looking for high school seniors or graduates who can meet our physical and mental standards and want to serve their state or nation. We have at this time the funding to offer this program to about 2,500 Texans."

One-half of the $1,500 enlistment bonus will be paid to the new Guardsmember following completion of basic and advanced training with the balance to be paid in three annual increments.

The educational assistance incentive will provide fifty percent of the educational expenses of a member for instruction at an accredited institution. It will cover up to $500 a year for a total of $2,000 over a four-year period.

The monetary enlistment bonuses are in addition to the new Guardsmember's regular pay.

Individuals interested in learning if they are qualified for one of the incentives should contact their nearest Texas Army National Guard unit or write to the Texas Army National Guard, Recruiting and Retention Office, P.O. Box 5218, Austin, Texas 78763.

BSHS grad is promoted.

Marine Lance Corporal Robert Delgado Jr., son of Margarita M. Corrales of 510 NE Eighth St., Big Spring, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with 1st Marine Division, Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

A 1977 graduate of Big Spring High School, he joined the Marine Corps in August 1977.

A new era dawns for the mentally retarded and handicapped

March is mental retardation month

By MICKIE DICKSON

What if you woke up some morning and discovered you had fallen through a rabbit hole into a world of the weird? You had grown so wide that you couldn't get through a doorway without the greatest difficulty, so short you could not reach the light. Getting up and down stairs was an attempt at Mount Everest, and when at last you made it outside, people seemed to be talking about such complex things you could not understand them. What's more, everything looked like gray shadows.

Millions of people wake up to such a world, in one way or another. For most of them this is nothing new — merely another grim challenge to run an obstacle course that for other Americans is no obstacle at all.

March is Mental Retardation Month. A time to turn our attention to the twelve million handicapped adults and eight million handicapped children in our country. They represent a vast array of disabilities — in addition to mental retardation, there is paralysis, deafness, blindness, cerebral palsy, amputations. The statistics also include people suffering disabling emotional problems and speech impediments.

Not too long ago, society's attitude was "Life is for the healthy." Offices, factories and schools were set up for the normal worker, and if you couldn't hack it, too bad. Public transportation and department stores were designed for the mobile pedestrian, and if you were a special case, better stay home.

The real world was pay phones you couldn't reach, toilets you couldn't sit on, stairs you couldn't climb and doorways you couldn't get through in a wheelchair. It was directions written for people with average IQ's and sidewalks designed for people with two legs. It was — with the exception of Braille — books and games and equipment produced for people who had the good sense not to let any misfortune befall them.

And then things began to change. America discovered there was a lot of talent going to waste. Much of that talent was deaf, blind or paraplegic. A special testing program in Connecticut, for example, discovered that 12 percent of the handicapped children who were studied were gifted, roughly three times as many as in the general population according to the same norms. Sharyn is one of those handicapped young women who truly did wake up to a totally weird world. She felt confused as she woke up to a pitch black room and her legs wouldn't move. She learned that she had contracted spinal meningitis shortly after high school graduation, and for days had been in a coma. She was totally blind and paralyzed from the chest down.

Nonetheless, with determination, faith and the help of her mother and friends, Sharyn went on to college, earned a degree in political science, and now helps support herself and her mother with various writing and editing jobs.

Like many others, however, Sharyn was ready for the community before they were ready for her. In one eight-week job with the Neighborhood Youth Corps, she assisted a group of youngsters in researching their community's roots, and this involved going with them to the courthouse to look up material. Not only did she have to maneuver a flight of stairs to get inside the building, but there were stairs between the various departments to manipulate.

There's a change in the wind for Sharyn and others who share her problems. The U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare's new regulations on the handicapped ban bias against the disabled under any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance. If old buildings need ramps and elevators, the changes must be completed by the mid-1980's. All new buildings must be designed with the handicapped in mind. Employers must not ask prospective workers whether they are disabled — only whether they can do the job. Retarded children are now entitled to be taught in the same schools that "normal" students attend.

Locally, the handicapped are enrolled in Big Spring schools. The other students are protective and helpful toward them and the rapport between them is good. Some of the handicapped are in engineered rooms to accommodate their special needs.

Alton Gatewood, director of rehabilitation therapy at the Big Spring State Hospital, has nine therapists on his staff that work with the handicapped of Big Spring as well as the ones at the hospital. A sheltered workshop is maintained where the handicapped are helped to develop skills, to train in work adjustment — where outside work conditions are simulated, and to maintain skills that they may have had so that they can go back to former jobs or similar jobs when they are able to.

Commercial contracts are obtained by the West Texas Council of Workshops and the Abilene State School to do such things as place plastic eating utensils in plastic bags such as you buy in stores, make hammocks, solder telephone parts, solder screws, bolts and nuts, assemble skateboards, and make ribbon bows like nurseries use at Christmas time.

The pay is on a piece work basis, based on a minimum wage if the participants are average production people.

Gatewood's staff teaches independent living skills aimed at managing home affairs such as managing money, buying and preparing food, and developing vocational skills for going back into the community. This is called a work village program. The participants are on a commensurate wage scale.

The recreational therapy program has social and recreational therapy. The recreation therapy includes games and exercises for body coordination and movement with specific therapeutic goals. The social therapy includes bingo, movies, dance programs, and instruction in the use of leisure time.

The hospital staff does a good bit of vocational counseling as do the schools and members of the Howard County Association for Retarded Citizens.

In spite of infirmities, employers are discovering that the handicapped make good workers in the right situations. Industrial studies show that there is no significant difference in accident rates between those who are handicapped and those who are not. In fact, some studies have shown that the handicapped worker has a better safety record, and at least one insurance company offers a 10 percent discount to wheelchair bound subscribers because of their favorable driving records.

Employers who have voluntarily done some of the adjusting that society must do and make the effort to accommodate handicapped workers are often surprised and delighted at the results. The blind can become good secretaries with slight modifications in the office set-up. Paraplegics can be excellent teachers. One young man became a scientist even though he is severely cerebral palsied and unable to push himself in a wheelchair, feed himself and virtually unable to communicate. Despite these obstacles, he invented a bloodless method of brain surgery with laser beams and helped invent the computerized system of instantaneous airline reservations.

If it seems amazing that the physically handicapped can do so much when given the chance, the retarded are no less surprising. The Washington Post carried the story of two young people — retarded since birth — who met and fell in love. They spent six years preparing for marriage. The groom worked as a busboy in a restaurant. The bride is studying to become a housekeeper. They decided not to have children because, since their retardation occurred during the birth process and was not congenitally passed down to them, they could expect to have normal offspring, and they do not feel they could properly raise a bright child.

In the living room of their apartment, the young husband works diligently at elementary arithmetic on a large blackboard. He has mastered the rudiments of addition and subtraction, and is currently involved in division, subtraction and Roman numerals. Both husband and wife learned to do housework, shop, budget and use local transportation. Their landlady reports that they are her best tenants. It is their chance, they feel, to show the world that they are like everyone else, only slower — that they have the same needs for affection, for respect and for responsibility that the normal population has.

The handicapped and the retarded have the same right to "risk" as anyone else. The price they have to pay is higher, but they have the same right to succeed or fail as the next person.

Easter Seal helps the handicapped

Claire is living testimonial

First grader Claire Huckel, born with cerebral palsy, is hobnobbing with Jack Klugman and a host of stars on National Easter Seal Telethon on KOSA-TV, channel 7, until 1 p.m. today.

By the recommendation of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huckel's family pediatrician, Claire was taken to an Easter Seal treatment center for rehabilitation services.

At age 2 she began a program of physical and occupational therapy and speech and language stimulation at the orthopedic clinic of Bucks County Easter Seal Center, Levittown, Pa.

Today, at seven, Claire walks (with the aid of long leg braces), runs and plays, having only mild involvement with the upper extremities.

She is a living testimonial of the value of early diagnosis and treatment of a disabling condition, and a symbol of hope for thousands of handicapped men, women and children who are receiving help from Easter Seal societies across the country.

The origin of the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults dates back to 1919 and is widely recognized as the organization that pioneered in identifying needs of physically handicapped persons and in providing rehabilitation services.

Services are adapted to meet specific community needs and qualified professionals, working under medical direction, provide treatment. The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center provides Big Spring and surrounding areas with such services.

Among the services offered through a nationwide network of more than 1,100 affiliates are physical occupational, speech and vocational evaluation; psychological testing and counseling; personal and family counseling; home and sheltered employment; special education programs; social clubs; day and residential camping; transportation; and referral and follow-up programs. Disabilities due to any cause, including cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, stroke, speech and hearing disorders, amputation, blindness, accidents, learning disorders, arthritis, or birth defects are all treated by Easter Seal centers.

Grants are made by the Easter Seal Research Foundation to finance investigation into those fields which directly relate to enhancing the physical, psychological, and social well-being of persons with handicaps.

Since 1956, grants totalling more than $4 million have been made to universities, medical schools, hospitals, and other research institutions.

Governing the Easter Seal societies at national, state and local levels are volunteer boards involving 30,000 men and women who represent many business and professional fields.

Local Easter Seal officers include Gertrude McCann, president; Ron Killough, vice president; Pat Killgley, secretary; and Margaret Barnett, treasurer.

Those actively involved on the local crusade-telethon committee are Ron Killough, crusade chairman; Michelle Hunter, publicity chairman; Mamie Roberts, Coffee and Tea Day chairman; and Lynn Hise, Lilly Day chairman.

Many volunteers assist the professional staff in fund raising, transportation of patients, camp counseling and other tasks contributing to the rehabilitation of the handicapped.

More than 95 percent of the funds are retained within the state where raised. Direct services to disabled persons and their families combined with education and research programs account for 76 percent of Easter Seals' expenditures.

Actor Jack Klugman is again hosting the National Easter Seal Telethon, heading up the star-studded March 24-25 Easter Seal spectacular. He added a new dimension to his distinguished career as a gifted performer with his memorable performance at the 1978 National Easter Seal telethon.

"It was the biggest thrill of my life," revealed Klugman, following last year's show.

The telethon began at 5 p.m. Saturday night and will continue until 1 p.m. today.

THERAPY — Claire's mother has played an important role in the youngster's therapy program. While Easter Seal therapists work with Claire at the treatment center, Mrs. Charles Huckel, under their guidance, works at home to keep her daughter's coordination and muscular strength as efficient as possible.

TELETHON TEAM — Jack Klugman, star of NBC's Quincy series took time out from his shooting schedule to meet 7-year-old Claire Huckel, 1979 National Easter Seal Child. Klugman is National Campaign Chairman for the Easter Seal appeal for the second consecutive year, and is again hosting the National Easter Seal Telethon which began March 24 and will end today at 1 p.m.

Getting a kick out of the martial arts

NEW YORK, N.Y. — If all you know about the martial arts is what you've seen in kung fu movies, get ready for a few surprises, says the February issue of Seventeen Magazine.

Americans are flipping over these ancient Oriental techniques, used for self defense and to get in shape. For some, they're even highly competitive sports. Judo has become an Olympic event and women will be competing in it for the first time in 1980.

In Japanese, the word "judo" actually means "the gentle way," and very few dangerous moves are allowed in the sport. The secret to most of the moves is balance, and you don't have to be the Bionic Woman to throw a man twice your weight. Knowing how to position your body for the best leverage can give you the power to turn your opponent's strength back against him—or her.

Calvary Baptist Church site of recent ceremony

Janine McDonald became the bride of Kenneth McMurtrey in a wedding ceremony at the Calvary Baptist Church March 10.

Officiating the 7 p.m. rite was the Rev. H.C. McPherson, pastor. He performed the ceremony before an altar enhanced by two seven-branch candelabums and an assortment of flowers. Completing the altar scene was a memory candle.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. McDonald, 1109 Johnson. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Cliff McMurtrey, 1609 Sunset.

Music was provided by Glenda Kohl, vocalist and Angela Kohl, pianist.

The bride was presented down the aisle in a white gown overlaid with lace which featured a chapel-length train. Her sheer sleeves were fashioned with a sheer ruffle which fell gracefully over the hand.

The tight bodice was complimented by a full skirt trimmed with a sheer ruffle. She wore a fingertip-length veil which fell into three tiers from a white cap adorned with lace.

A cascading bouquet of wood fiber flowers in a multitude of arrangements completed her bridal ensemble.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Natalie Blackshear. Bridesmaid was Kim Cadzew.

Mackie Vaughn served the groom as best man and groomsman was Danny Thomas of Coahoma. Ushers included Preston McKee and Mark Sundy.

Vanessa McMurtrey of Mertzon was flower girl for the ceremony. She is the niece of the groom.

A reception was held

following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was draped with blue cloth and a white overlay. The three-tiered cake of blue and white was topped with wedding bells. Crystal appointments were used. A three-branch candelabrum adorned with blue and white carnations enhanced the setting as centerpiece.

The bride is presently a senior at Big Spring High School and is employed by Bill Reed Insurance Agency. The groom is a Big Spring High School graduate and attended Howard McMurray college and is employed at Cotton Machinery Company. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McMurtrey, now back from their wedding trip to Carlsbad, N.M., reside at 4207 1/2 Oak in Big Spring.

Dear Abby

Commandments For Connubial Content

DEAR ABBY: I teach a Bible class for adults and was told that you had written a set of "Ten Commandments for Husbands" and also one for wives. Will you please run them again?

M.B. IN PASADENA

DEAR M.B.: Although I've published these "Commandments" three times, and have granted literally hundreds of reprint permissions for church publications (always without charge), here they are again:

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR HUSBANDS

- 1) Thou shalt put thy wife before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter and thy son, for she is thy lifelong companion.
- 2) Abuse not thy body either with excessive food, tobacco or drink, that thy days may be many and healthful in the presence of thy loved ones.
- 3) Permit neither thy business nor thy hobby to make of thee a stranger to thy children, for the precious gift a man giveth his family is his time.
- 4) Forget not the virtue of cleanliness.
- 5) Make not thy wife a beggar, but share willingly with her thy worldly goods.
- 6) Forget not to say, "I love you." For even though thy love be constant, thy wife doth yearn to hear the words.
- 7) Remember that the approval of thy wife is worth more than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers. Cleave unto her and forsake all others.
- 8) Keep thy home in good repair, for out of it come the joys of thy old age.
- 9) Forgive with grace. For who among us doth not need to be forgiven?
- 10) Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

P.S. Next Sunday, Ten Commandments for Wives.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with this guy for five months. Both of my parents liked him a lot until he grew a beard. When he showed up at my house with his new beard, my parents were actually rude to him.

They said he looked like a bum or someone who was trying to overthrow the government. Abby, I think his beard looks great and told him so. It's not shaggy or neglected-looking—it's carefully cropped and really looks neat.

I was so embarrassed when my folks put this guy down, I didn't know what to say or do.

Abby, how do you feel about beards?

PAM

DEAR PAM: If they're neat and well-cared for, I think they're great. Some of the most important men in history had beards: Moses, Jesus, Abraham Lincoln and Sigmund Freud, to name a few. And don't forget the Smith Brothers, who coughed up a fortune.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SAD IN ROCKVILLE, MD.": You can't make anyone like you, but you can make yourself more likable.

Focus on family living Easter eggs now, then

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Eggs become an important holiday food with Easter just around the corner.

In ancient times, eggs were sacred symbols and, later, were glorified in paintings and sculpture. Today, eggs are honored around Easter and can be dyed, painted and trimmed.

Be imaginative — use paper, lace, buttons, even ribbons — there is no end to the fun of decorating.

Before decorating, cook the eggs properly following these steps:

First, select top-quality eggs — Grade A or AA. Place selected eggs (not too many) in a medium size saucepan. Add enough cold water to come at least one inch above the eggs, and heat to boiling.

Remove from heat, cover and let stand 15 to 20 minutes.

TIP: To prevent an egg from cracking while cooking, add a few drops of vinegar or lemon juice to the water.

Cool immediately in cold water for about 20 minutes.

To properly dye Easter eggs, follow these steps: 1) Prepare the egg dye as directed on the package. 2) Or, use a few drops of food coloring in custard cups or muffin tins. 3) Dye only uncracked eggs. 4) Cover the eggs fully with hot water while dyeing, and spoon dye over eggs with a tablespoon. 5) Let stand, turning occasionally, until evenly colored. 6) Spoon out eggs and place on paper towels.

For some economical variations in dyeing eggs, cut designs from cellophane or adhesive tape. Paste on eggs before dyeing. Remove tape when dry for white designs.

Refrigerate Easter eggs promptly after dyeing — use the eggs within a few days. Discard all cracked eggs after the Easter egg hunt or use immediately — exposure to harmful bacteria can be dangerous.

Couple exchange wedding symbols

MRS. DONALD NASH

Toni Carol Sessions and Charles Francis Boyd were married in the Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Dallas Saturday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian M. Sessions, former Big Spring residents. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B.F. Sims, and her great-aunt, Mrs. Bennie Baldrige, are also Big Spring residents.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Boyd of Gorden, Tex.

The wedding was performed before a High Mass and featured an exchange of six symbolic objects including one dozen butterflies released during the ceremony, representing the mysteries and sensitivities of life.

The bride chose to wear a flowing chiffon gown fashioned with a lace bodice and trimmed in seed pearls. Her bridal veil of silk illusion was adorned with pearls.

Judy Muhm served the bride as maid of honor. Gacy Fulkerton was the best man.

Bridesmaids included Patsy Reynolds, Susan Stevens and Jennifer Boyd. Groomsmen were Mark Boyd, Allen Boyd, and Norbert Evans.

Flower girls were Tonia Musso, Stacy Sessions, and Tonia Boyd. Geoffrey Boyd served as ring bearer.

A reception and buffet feted the couple following the wedding at the S.M.U. Alumni Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyd are now on a three-week wedding trip to Greece and Rome.

MRS. CHARLES BOYD

Methodist ceremony performed Tuesday

The First United Methodist Church was the setting of the Tuesday evening wedding between Rebecca Barberan and Donald Nash.

Dr. Weldon Butler performed the 6 p.m. ceremony before an altar decorated with multiple-branched candelabrams.

Charles Parham provided the wedding music at the organ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Teodorico P. Barberan of Dagupan City, Philippines. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Nash, Coahoma.

The bride's brother, Teddy Barberan of San Diego, Calif., presented her down the aisle in a gown of white, overlaid with sheer. It featured an empire waistline and long sheer Bishop sleeves adorned with lace and bridal pearls. Her fingertip-length veil of illusion fell from a cap styled with flowers and seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet fashioned with white satin streamers.

Alice De la Cruz of Inglewood, Calif., served the bride as maid of honor. Best man was Bill Myers of Big Spring. Ushers included Mario Garcia and Freddie Green.

A reception honored the couple in the Garrett Hall of the church following the rite.

A graduate of Baguio General Hospital School of Nursing in the Philippines, the bride is presently a nurse at Malone-Hogan Hospital. The groom is an ADN graduate from Howard College and works as a nurse at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Following their wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will make their home in Big Spring at 505 Runnels.

Out-of-town guests attending the shower included Mrs. Herbert Jacob and Janet Jacob, Winters; Mrs. Frank Hirt, Mrs. Bernard Hirt, Mrs. Guy Hirt and Mrs. Steven Kadlcek, all from San Angelo.

Cake and punch were served to those attending.

Brent Garrett Jacob, born Feb. 8, was adopted by the couple March 2.

She packs own snacks

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: Since teens are avid movie-goers, I'd like to pass on a tip that saves me money.

The cost of "junk food" sold in movie theaters has skyrocketed to incredible prices, so I save money for my boyfriend by packing snacks that are nutritious as well as delicious.

I've used this money-saving tip several times and my boyfriend had a little extra to spend on us. — Rhoda, Fort Smith, Ark.

Rhoda: Super idea. My wife already has the "extra money" we'll save, spent.

Dr. Wallace: I really enjoy your column, but especially the column where the guy in prison tells how drugs got him there. I have tried drugs pot, acid, coke and PCP and was a pretty heavy user but this letter by the guy who was sent to prison as a direct use of drugs really made me think and has really changed my life. I made a solemn oath to never touch drugs again — ever.

I mean it — you changed my life.

I can't sign my name because my dad is well known in town. — Mary Jane No Name, San Rafael, Calif.

Mary Jane: I'd like to take credit for your "turn about," but all the rewards go to you. Congratulations.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 14-year-old girl who is a sophomore. Last year and up to recently this year, I was allowed to attend school dances. Now, my parents won't let me go because they think other kids smoke pot and drink booze at these dances (they don't).

They said that they didn't want me influenced by other people, but I'm not that stupid. All of my school friends go and we have a really good
