

Evacuation may occur

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Federal officials said Saturday that overheated fuel in the nuclear reactor at Three Mile Island was cooling. But they said thousands might still have to be evacuated if engineers perform a risky procedure to remove a critical gas bubble.

Nuclear technicians said they have the means to remove the bubble, but this operation could increase the risk of a chemical explosion that would rupture the reaction containment building and could release large amounts of radiation.

Metropolitan Edison officials, who operate the facility, claimed a one-third reduction in the size of the bubble and said the risk of a meltdown had been cut. But Harold Denton of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission told reporters in Harrisburg: "My own staff tells me the size of the bubble hasn't changed much."

If the bubble grows it could rob the nuclear fuel assembly of access to its coolant, overheating the plant and threatening a melt-down.

At a news conference in Washington Saturday, Joseph M. Hendrie, chairman of the NRC, said evacuation of citizens living 10 to 20 miles downwind of the facility was "certainly a possibility" when and if technicians decide to force the gaseous bubble from the vessel containing the nuclear core.

Hendrie said an evacuation "may turn out as a prudent precautionary measure" but that no decision has been made.

He said the reactor was stable and that the nuclear fuel was continuing to cool.

On Friday, NRC officials disclosed the "remote possibility" of a melt-down. Fears of radioactive release, whether meltdown or simply gaseous emissions, sent hundreds of nearby residents fleeing to distant towns.

With low-level radioactive gases still beaming from the plant on the Susquehanna River, Gov. Dick Thornburgh extended his advisory that preschool children and pregnant women stay at least five miles from the plant. Experts have cited the vulnerability of fetuses and young children to radiation.

Hendrie said that no move to force the bubble out is expected "in the immediate future" and any action must be "very carefully thought through."

Vice President Jack Herbein of Met Ed said, "I personally think the crisis is over." But Denton, chief of Operations at the NRC, said two hours later: "My own view is that the crisis won't be over until we have the core in a cold shutdown mode."

Herbein said repeated venting of radioactive gases reduced the size of the gas bubble to "two-thirds the size it was yesterday." He said that made the possibility of a melt-down even more remote.

Denton told reporters, "I can see things moving in a positive direction," noting that plant monitors show "noise coming from the core is lower than normal when the reactor is operating."

And an insurance company said that for the first time in U.S. history, a claims office had been opened to handle damages from a nuclear accident.

"This is the most serious incident we've had deal with," said John Quattrocchi, an underwriter with American Nuclear Insurers of Farmington, Conn.

NOT REALLY FUNNY — Youths in a convertible ride through Harrisburg streets with a sign "Just out absorbing some radiation." The sign refers to radiation leaked from the Three Mile Island Nuclear Generating Station just a few miles away. While these youths laugh, other persons are evacuating themselves from the nearby plant areas.

Union, industry struggle

WASHINGTON (AP) — As a possible midnight strike approached, the Teamsters union and the trucking industry struggled Saturday to settle on a new contract that some sources said would break President Carter's twice-loosened inflation guidelines.

Sources close to the talks, who declined to be named, estimated a tentative wage and fringe benefit agreement reached Friday would boost labor costs 30 percent over three years, nearly 10 percent a year.

The tentative economic settlement angered some of Carter's inflation advisers, who only Wednesday had made a major concession to the giant union so that the Teamsters would comply with the 7 percent annual wage guideline.

The administration had made the Teamsters negotiations a key test of Carter's guidelines program, and Carter himself said Friday that the talks are "a very important test case" for the guidelines. The reported settlement casts doubt on the future of the guidelines.

Several sources expressed confidence as of midday Saturday that the two sides would come to terms before midnight EST, when the current contract covering 300,000 workers was to expire.

Despite the optimism, chief federal mediator Wayne L. Horowitz said after the parties recessed early Saturday that the talks had reached "a very tense and delicate spot" and cautioned that one should not assume a peaceful settlement was certain.

"We've narrowed some differences but we still have some substantial things separating the parties," Horowitz said.

The union had the option of calling a strike if the settlement appeared out of reach. However, the union has indicated it might extend the old contract if bargainers were close to reaching agreement by midnight. That appeared to be the case, sources said.

New fighting in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — New fighting raged Saturday between government troops and Turkoman tribesmen in northeastern Iran as a nationwide vote on how the country should be governed ended with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini expected to get the Islamic republic he wants.

A reporter for Tehran's Kayhan newspaper who visited the embattled city of Gonbad-E-Qabus said fighting there was so heavy at times that the dead and wounded could not be collected from the streets.

The tribesmen want autonomy for their Gorgan province and return of land they say officials of the deposed government of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi stole from them. The clashes broke out Monday and about 50 deaths were reported in the first days of the fighting, but total casualty figures were not known.

Government forces blocked roads and cut off telephone communications to the city Saturday.

Khomeini's revolutionary government has pleaded for time to solve the problems of ethnic minorities. Early returns from the national referendum pointed to a solid victory for the 78-year-old Khomeini's plan for an Islamic republic to replace the monarchy in this nation of 34 million people.

Results from 11 provincial cities showed 99.7 percent in favor of an Islamic republic. But the results represented only about 3.5 percent of the 12 million people who are believed to have voted.

Many opponents of an Islamic republic apparently stayed away from the polls.

In Tehran, where many women and middle-class Iranians are believed to be wary of an Islamic state, voting seemed less lopsided than in the provinces. An official at Tehran's Abasabad voting station told The Associated Press he thought at least 30 percent voted against an Islamic republic.

The referendum was an open affair, with voters casting a green ballot for "yes" or a red one for "no" in full view of election officials.

A team of four French and African lawyers invited by the government to observe the referendum procedures noted the voting "obviously didn't conform to the Western idea of democracy."

The referendum amounted mainly to a vote of confidence in the Moslem clergyman's leadership.

BOY WITHOUT DOG — Justin Gill, who will be 5 years old Saturday, is shown here sitting next to his dog's house in Tolland, Conn., a suburb of Hartford. The boy's dog disappeared 2½ months ago and his parents are hoping the dog, Fig Newton, will return for their son's birthday.

City of Coahoma favored in ruling made by judge

COAHOMA — The City of Coahoma won the battle if not the war Friday in its long struggle with the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 over who has rights to serve water customers in the City of Coahoma and also within the district.

Earlier, the Public Utilities Commission had ruled that the city of Coahoma would be granted a right to sell water inside the city limits of Coahoma only while the water district could have those customers outside the city of Coahoma still within the district.

The City of Coahoma had argued they had "grandfather" rights under Section 53 of the Public Utility Regulatory act of 1975 to serve the area they had been serving as of Sept. 1, 1975.

Friday afternoon, district Judge Hume Cofer of Austin announced his decision to reserve the ruling of the PUC and remanded back to that commission in keeping with the law.

Judge Cofer ruled the commission had committed an error in basing its decision upon a theory in finding that Coahoma was operating a utility and as an agent of Howard County Water District, therefore not granting a certificate of convenience and necessity to the city of Coahoma under Sect. 53.

Therefore, the decision will be set aside and sent back to the Public Utilities Commission. The judge said also he is considering a decision that as a matter of law Coahoma was, in fact, providing water service to the area within all the water district as of Sept. 1, 1975.

What this means in layman's language is that everything reverts to the beginning, with Coahoma having the right to serve the area it has served and the water district is not allowed to sell water to anyone except the city of Coahoma.

When contacted for comment, Coahoma Mayor Joe Swinney was elated saying "I have worked so long and hard for this for four years and finally justice has been rendered to the city of Coahoma. I sincerely hope this ends the entire matter and that we may move on to other pressing matters for both parties concerned."

Following dismissal at Forsan

Heideman disputes claims

FORSAN — W.E. (Wally) Heideman, deposed as water superintendent for the City of Forsan, has taken issue with Mayor J. J. Barron, who says the council took action to terminate Heideman's contract with the city "for reasons of personal conduct."

Heideman, son-in-law of the late mayor of Forsan, Jack Lamb, claimed that Barron had constantly refused to allow him (Heideman) to perform his duties as water superintendent without frequent interference.

"Barron was supposed to work with me," Heideman, who is an experienced Class C Water Operator, "in order to learn about the water business."

"But, instead, he changed meters, turned water on and off without bothering to tell me. This is what led to our 'personality conflicts.'"

Heideman also said the city had three employees, not two. The other two were Susan Gaston, city secretary and tax assessor who resigned after Heideman also said he was relying on a legal opinion that the Thursday night council meeting was not held in accordance with the law and that the participants could be fined, as a result. The Heidemans claimed they thought the council meeting would be held Monday night and only after the proper legal notice had been posted.

Mr. and Mrs. Heideman claimed they were unaware the Thursday session was even taking place until shortly before it ended. Since they had been told it was illegal, they asserted, they thought it inadvisable to attend.

Heideman insists that when Mayor Barron was pressed to state reasons for the council's actions, he refused to do so.

Esther Strain third in bee

Esther Strain of Big Spring finished third in the Regional Spelling Bee at Lubbock Saturday and won herself a stereo for her efforts.

Emerging as the champion of the event, which attracted 18 entries from all over West Texas, was Michelle Evtatt of Crosby County. Second was Bart Harlan of Hockley County.

Miss Evtatt will now compete in the National Bee in Washington, D.C., later this year.

Miss Strain fell in the 38th round of competition when she failed to spell the word "casuistry." Webster defines the word as "a method or doctrine dealing with cases of conscience and the resolution of questions of right or wrong in conduct."

Esther, 13, is an eighth grade student at Runnels Junior High in Big Spring.

Threat of strike ends at Cosden

Threatened strike by members of the International Union of Operating Engineers against Cosden Oil and Chemical was called off at about 10 p.m., Saturday, two hours before the workers were due to walk off the job.

The new contract agreed to by both parties extends for two years and calls for a seven per cent pay hike for refinery employees. In addition, the workers will benefit from a more generous hospitalization plan offered by the company.

The union can also reopen negotiations for pay adjustments at the end of this year. Kenneth Howell, Local 826 labor negotiator, calls the Cosden terms "generous."

The renewal of talks began at 5 p.m., Saturday, two hours later than originally planned. Had the strike taken place, 530 men would have stayed away from their jobs at the local refinery.

The union was seeking a 73-cent-per-hour across-the-board raise for all union members. Cosden originally offered 60 cents per hour.

'Motorist Prayer' passes

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Franklin P. Dupree Jr. has ruled that a "Motorist's Prayer" printed on state maps "passes muster, albeit by a slim margin."

A class-action suit filed by two citizens in 1975 claimed the prayer put the state in the position of promoting religion. Dupree found it promoted safety consciousness but not religion because motorists are not compelled to recite it. The prayer asks "Our heavenly Father" to "Grant us safe passage through the perils of travel... steady our hands and quicken our way that we may never take another's life; guide us to our destination safely..."

New Jersey deaths rise

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — The deaths of two adults and three children in a tenement fire have brought to 18 the number of persons to die in Jersey City fires since Jan. 1, authorities said.

Friday night's fire took the lives of Magdalena Olivera-Rivera, 25, Lester Olivera-Rivera, 2, Manuel Cordero, 57, Lona Cordero, 10, and Blanca Cordero, 11, according to Lt. Charles Donahue. Six families lived in the building and most made their way to safety, Donahue said. Authorities said the fire did not appear to be arson-related.

Judge approves settlement

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has approved a $1.2 million settlement of discrimination suits against the San Francisco Police Department, in which the department promises that half or more of new police recruits in the next 10 years will come from minority groups and 20 percent will be women, and that promotion policies will also reflect more concern for minorities and women.

U.S. District Judge Robert F. Peckham approved the settlement Friday. It designates $400,000 for those who can show discrimination and $500,000 for testing and training programs. The rest will pay fees of plaintiffs' attorneys.

Angry inmates escape

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — About 15 angry inmates at the Richmond County jail broke a number of light fixtures when they discovered that officers had found a secret cache of "home brew," authorities say.

Jailer George C. Mutimer said that during an inspection Thursday, officers discovered a gallon jug containing a sugar and orange drink concoction fermenting in a sunny spot of the jail. When the prisoners found it missing, they went on a rampage, "breaking just about everything they could get their hands on," said Mutimer. Damage, however, was limited to several light fixtures and light bulbs.

Reeder Realty member of prestigious group

ERA-Reeder Realtors, 506 E. 4th, has joined ERA (Electronic Realty Associates, Inc.), a nationwide home marketing service, it was announced Saturday by Bill Estes, owner-broker.

As an ERA Broker, Estes said he will be able to offer such consumer aids as ERA's two home warranties — the Home Buyers Protection Plan and Home Sellers Protection, as well as photo-by-wire listings.

ERA, the fastest-growing national home marketing service, will have more than 2,500 brokers with nearly 35,000 sales associates in more than 3,750 offices nationwide by the end of 1978, according to Estes.

"With ERA's three exclusive consumer aids we offer, we can help people buy and sell their homes and alleviate the trauma of moving," Estes said.

"The Home Buyers Protection Plan," said Estes, "protects the homeowner against the operational failure of major home components including the central heating, electric air conditioning, plumbing and electrical systems, built-in appliances, water heaters and softeners and accessible sheet metal ducts."

"Home Sellers Protection coverage begins 15 days after the home is listed for sale with an ERA Broker, for up to six months, or until the home is sold. The coverage is identical to the buyer's plan, Estes said.

"A person moving long distances has always had to travel back and forth to find the right home. There was no way to make the search easier. ERA's 'Moving Machine' has changed all that. The 'Moving Machine' transmits six photos at a time of homes and descriptive data to prospective buyers practically anywhere in the country. The transmission only takes six minutes from the time the request is made to the central bank of homes on file at ERA's headquarters in Overland Park, Kansas. The buyer could be looking at these photos as they come off the machine sitting in his living room or in my office," Estes said.

According to Estes, more than 600,000 photos have been sent in five years and there are more than 20,000 active listings on file.

ERA-Reeder Realtors has been serving home buyers and sellers in the Big Spring area for the past 25 years.

Judge orders substantiation

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A U.S. district judge has refused to plug leaks to the media from a federal grand jury and has ordered lawyers for gambler Jimmy Chagra to substantiate their request to disband the panel investigating racketeering in the El Paso area.

Chagra, brother of slain El Paso drug defense attorney Lee Chagra, was arrested in February and charged by a Midland federal grand jury with conspiracy to smuggle cocaine and marijuana.

Oscar Goodman of Las Vegas and another brother, Joe Chagra, are defending Jimmy Chagra. They claimed "leaks" to media resulted in news coverage that tainted the grand jury.

But Judge William Sessions refused Friday to impose a gag order on the U.S. attorney's office that would have prevented members from talking to reporters about the case. Sessions said Goodman and Joe Chagra had until April 10 to produce affidavits and examples of news coverage for review.

The El Paso panel has heard Jimmy Chagra as a witness, but has taken no action against him.

The El Paso panel Friday indicted a former El Paso bank official, who had been convicted for marijuana smuggling, on five counts of perjury, charging that he lied under oath during his trial.

Rick de la Torre was convicted last August, when he was labeled as the "money man" for a smuggling operation.

The grand jury, along with others in Texas and Nevada, is investigating large-scale racketeering.

U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd said the special grand jury would recess and "rest for a while."

Boyd said he did not know when the special panel would reconvene.

NOT SURE Kids at hospital

Kids tour hospital

Kindergarten and second grade students from Kentwood elementary school toured Malone-Hogan Hospital Tuesday and Wednesday, leaving hospital personnel shaking their heads in awe at the "little doctors."

Spokesmen for the hospital said that Big Spring schools apparently are keeping abreast of health care procedures, from the elementary grades up.

The staff noted that medical terminology is a familiar language, and the technology well understood by the seven and eight year olds.

They saw a simulated heart pumping, and asked how much blood was pumped out of the heart per minute. They already knew how many times it beat per second.

One student accurately described the blood transfusion procedure. Another asked about hypoglycemia, and what happens if the blood pressure goes too high. Still another recognized an arteriogram when it was demonstrated.

Teachers explained that the field trip exercise is an important part of the educational program in elementary schools.

Second grade teacher Kay Smith, said that it serves to reinforce subject matter taught in the classroom, as well as to introduce a completely new learning experience to the child.

"This was by far one of the best field trips we've taken. We appreciate very much that the hospital gave us this type of opportunity to learn."

The Malone-Hogan Hospital Volunteers sponsor the tours.

Machinist strike shuts down United Airlines

CHICAGO (AP) — United Airlines, the nation's largest carrier, was shut down Saturday and no talks were scheduled in the first day of a strike by its machinists.

United, which carries an average of 130,000 passengers daily, canceled all flight operations after the machinists union went on strike at 12:01 a.m. EST. The airline said its planes probably would remain grounded at least until April 10.

Small groups of pickets were reported Saturday at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest, Kennedy International Airport in New York and other major terminals. The airline serves 110 U.S. cities, and thousands of passengers were forced to make other travel arrangements. A spokesman for Eastern Airlines said reservation agents in Chicago reported a 50 percent increase in telephone calls.

The International Association of Machinists, which represents 18,611 employees, has rejected two earlier contracts from the airline. A spokesman for the union in Chicago said a cost-of-living escalator clause is the key unresolved issue.

William Dengler, financial secretary of Chicago-area Local 1487, said the union is seeking a penny an hour raise when the cost of living index rises three tenths of a point. "The problem is there is no provision for 1979," Dengler said. United has agreed to give an hourly wage increase of 17 cents in 1980 and 18 cents in 1981 to offset increases in the cost of living index.

Black aviation pioneer recalls early flying days

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — When Charles Anderson first tried to learn to fly, white instructors told him they didn't want a black man in their cockpits.

So Anderson borrowed $2,500, bought a 55-horsepower Velie Monocoupe and taught himself to fly.

During 35,000 hours of flight time over 50 years, Anderson, now 72, became one of the nation's foremost black aviation pioneers.

During World War II, he was chief flight instructor at Tuskegee Institute, a small black college in Alabama, where hundreds of black pilots learned to fly.

Among his students was the late Daniel "Chappie" James — the first black four-star general — who commanded the North American Air Defense Command until he died last year.

For a month after Anderson bought his first airplane, he taxied from one end of a farm field to the other. Gradually, he began to increase power each time and the little plane strained to get off the ground, Anderson said.

One day he took off, flew a low circle around the field and landed. "That was it," he said. "Man, I was a happy cat."

Fun breakfast Set April 10

The "bunnies and Peter Cotton Tail" will be on hand to serve coffee and keep the program going in the Tuesday, April 10, Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Fun breakfast.

The program gets under way at 6:27 a.m. in the Howard College Cafeteria.

Cash awards of $25, $25 and $50 will be given away and everyone attending will be eligible. Chamber members only will be eligible for a $250 drawing.

Some lucky person will earn the "Big Spring A Ward."

The music will include a dixieland jazz band combo from Big Spring High School.

The breakfast will be sponsored by First Federal Savings Co. The emcees will be Pete Jones and Mike Faulkner. Julie Shirey will play piano music.

Six young adults die in wreck near Victoria

VICTORIA, Texas (AP) — Six young adults were killed early Saturday when the car they were in careened out of control, rammied a bridge abutment and flipped through the air, landing on its top.

Highway Patrol troopers said the accident happened about 1 a.m. on Loop 175 on the south edge of Victoria. The vehicle was headed northeasterly toward Victoria and had just crossed the Guadalupe River bridge.

The victims were identified as Kenneth Ray Salome, 25, Victoria; Michael O. Brown, 22, Refugio; Don Edward Cameron, 25, Taft; Mazie J. Lewis, 26, Refugio; Natalie R. Brown, 21, Refugio; and Eve Eldridge of Taft, believed to be in her early 20s.

Troopers said the car was moving at a high rate of speed when it went out of control. The vehicle skidded 186 feet, struck and straddled a side rail for 107 feet, slid off the rail and skidded 61 feet, hit the concrete bridge abutment with the top of the car, flipped into the air and flew 125 feet before landing upside down.

The car was flattened by the impact, and authorities had to pry the wreckage apart to get the victims out. The dead were taken to Citizens Memorial Hospital in Victoria.

Victoria County sheriff's dispatcher W.H. McManis said the car had just come across a bridge over the Guadalupe River when it hit the bridge over some railroad tracks.

Police beat Two bicycles stolen

Bicycle thieves hit the bike rack at College Heights Elementary during school hours Friday, taking two bikes. One belonged to John Osborn, 9, 1807 Settles, and was valued at $100, while Chad Musgrove, 11, 1606 Rannels, lost a $116 bike.

Ola Carroll, 83, 616 NW 4th, was bitten on the ankle by a dog on NW 7th at noon. The dog was located, and had the proper vaccination shots. Mrs. Carroll was taken to Malone-Hogan for lacerations to the ankle, but was not seriously injured.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department storage building at the State Park was broken into sometime Thursday evening or early Friday, and an undetermined amount of tools were stolen.

Mitchem Auto Sales, 700 W 4th, reported that a window screen was ripped off and a glass pane broken out in an apparent criminal mischief incident Thursday night or early Friday.

At 12:30 a.m. Friday, Patricia Wilson, 4110 Dixon, reported that someone threw a beer bottle through the drivers' side window of her car. Damage was estimated at $100.

A $55 battery was stolen from a car parked in the carport at 1004 Baylor between midnight and 7:30 a.m. Saturday. The car belongs to Dickie Jones.

Jim Richardson Anderson, 709 W. 16th, was uninjured when the car he was driving went out of control in the 900 block of Nolan, and went through the parking lot of Carver's Pharmacy, 310 E. 9th, and into the building. The mishap occurred at 11:35 a.m. Saturday.

At 8:10 a.m. Friday, a vehicle driven by Linda A. Eggleston, Gail Rt., collided with a parked car belonging to Barbara Draper, 2105 Alabama, in the same block as the Draper Residence.

Base to go no later than '81

SAN ANGELO — It has been confirmed that Goodfellow Air Force Base will be phased out no later than 1981.

Recent speculation had the military facility would remain open as long as 1984 but a Goodfellow spokesman said the Pentagon had confirmed that the operation can be completed either in late 1980 or early in 1981.

Thunderstorms, high winds prevail again

By the Associated Press
Thunderstorms pummeled Texas again Saturday. A tornado whirled through Central Texas, and high winds buffeted the mountains of West Texas.

Travelers in the West Texas mountains — especially motorists in high-profile vehicles or towing mobile homes — were advised to watch out for sustained winds of 50 miles an hour and gusts to 65.

The National Weather Service spotted a "possible tornado" five miles southwest of Comanche at 2:45 p.m. and placed Comanche and Erath counties under a tornado warning.

At Desdemona, 30 miles to the north, Department of Public Safety troopers spotted a tornado — perhaps the same one — at 3:15 p.m., and the warning was extended to Eastland and Palo Pinto counties. Almost simultaneously, portions of East Texas were placed under a severe thunderstorm warning.

A flash flood watch was in effect from Central to Northeast Texas, with the greatest possibility of flooding south of a line from Shreveport to Temple.

A severe thunderstorm dumped golf-ball-size hail near Brownwood, with showers also reported around Dallas, Waco and Fredericksburg in Central Texas, and Palestine and Longview in the east. Half-inch hail was reported in Cherokee County at Elkhart, and other stormy activity was reported in the Panhandle, near Amarillo and Canyon.

Temperatures remained mild, except for the far northwest.

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is forecast Sunday from parts of Kansas and Missouri north, by the National Weather Service. The precipitation will extend into a rain belt eastward below the Lakes through Pennsylvania. Areas of showers are expected from West Virginia and Kentucky south into Alabama and Mississippi.

TV scriptwriter prefers to avoid Hollywood pace

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP) — Suzanne Clauser, who is one of television's more sought-after scriptwriters, refuses to be cast in a typical TV mold. She won't pay airfare to attend show business parties; she prefers to work where she can watch both her typewriter and washing machine, and she likes to live in her country split-level with its serene view of a rural creek through her favorite window. Living in Hollywood where everyone talks, eats, drinks and breathes television, she said, would be too nerve-racking. Working in a small basement room of her split-level house, she did the most recent script of Louisa May Alcott's "Little Women" book. It became a two-part, four-hour television show. "I loved it as a girl," she said of "Little Women." "Of course, I hadn't read it for 30 years. I jumped up and down when they asked me if I wanted to write the script. "It's a remarkably modern story, especially in the society of today. It's excellently written. I was able to use some of the dialogue without changing it." Mrs. Clauser, 49, says she is a fluke among scriptwriters because she and her husband prefer to live in the country along U.S. 68 near here.

teaching a writers' workshop at Antioch College. He critiqued one of her scripts. She sent it to the "Bonanza" producer, who accepted it — and her career was launched. "Bonanza" aired 10 more Clauser scripts in later years. She also scripted such TV movies as "Pioneer Woman," about the struggles of a frontier wife; "The Family Nobody Wanted," about a couple who adopted nine children of different races, and "A Girl Named Sooner," about an unwanted girl in an Indiana town. Mrs. Clauser flies to Hollywood three or four times a year for conferences, but most of her conferring with producers is by phone. "I'm certainly not at the top, but I'm doing very well in my career," she said. "My agent has told me, 'You are considered to be one of the better writers out here.'" "But I'm no millionaire, and I never will be."

Her rejection list includes several TV-movie scripts, three pilots, one documentary-drama and a full-length film adaptation of the book, "The Trumpeter of Krakow." "I've paid my dues," she said. "No, I haven't broken even. I've had more scripts rejected than accepted."

The Herald recommends: Mays, Hunnicutt

As the rhetoric of the Big Spring City Council election goes into its last few days, there are several things the voters need to ponder in making their choices.

The harping of a couple of candidates on a few niggling issues — such as water rates or the airport hangar — tends to obscure the really important accomplishments in Big Spring over the past few years. That's akin to looking at a few scrawny trees and ignoring the lushness of the forest.

When Webb Air Force Base closed, Big Spring very easily could have shriveled up and died. Many thought it would, but it didn't.

INSTEAD VARIOUS elements of the community came together to work for the future of our city. The resulting influx of new business and industry has made the economy of Big Spring more diverse and healthier than at anytime in the city's history.

In the last five years the total taxable value of property in Big Spring has grown from more than $120 million to nearly $147 million — an increase of 22 percent. In 1978 alone, building permits set a record by topping $10 million for the first time — a testimonial to the great faith investors have in the future of Big Spring.

This growth has swelled the city's assessment rolls nearly $12 million — a 16 percent increase — which has enabled the city to hold down average tax rate increases to 3.5 percent a year, less than half of the annual inflation rate.

Another reliable indicator of the health of Big Spring is the amount of money spent by its citizens. Taxable retail sales in the last five years have increased about $36 million, 74 percent. In 1978 alone they increased almost 13 percent — a far cry from the dire predictions when Webb was closed. This also has increased the city's income from sales taxes.

Another major indicator of the general welfare is jobs. Five years ago there were 14,423 persons employed in Big Spring. Today 14,190 persons hold jobs here. This means that the city's industrial recruiting efforts have succeeded in replacing nearly all the jobs that were lost when the air base was closed. Meanwhile unemployment has reached its lowest point in five years, 3.2 percent. It is no wonder that the United States government has honored Big Spring for the most outstanding job in the nation of recovering from the closing of a military base.

And what has the city itself done with its added resources and revenues?

It now operates a municipal airport and maintains an industrial park with 13 persons — the same area that required about 200 personnel to maintain when it was the air base.

DESPITE ALL the talk about current salary levels, the city has been able to double police department and fire department payrolls in the last five years. This does not mean that further adjustment is not necessary, but all city employees need to be considered.

A detoxification center has been established for rehabilitation of alcoholics.

An office for Housing and Community Development now provides for street and sewer improvements and rehabilitation loans and housing programs for low income taxes.

A crime task force and a selective traffic enforcement program have been established.

The city and county tax offices have been consolidated for greater efficiency, and the city has joined with Howard College to reduce the cost of data processing services.

The westward extension of Eleventh Place is underway in cooperation with the state. Major improvements to Scurry Street have been completed.

A new hangar has been constructed at the airport which paves the way for the city to attract a major new industry. The city wisely is being very selective about prospective tenants for this facility.

All these things could not have been possible without the aggressive and farsighted leadership of the city council. Of course there have been some mistakes, too, but on balance the record is one of outstanding accomplishment.

But the job is not finished. There still is a need for the same aggressive leadership and vision on our city council.

The Herald feels the two candidates best qualified to help continue Big Spring along these healthy paths are Polly Mays and Sam Hunnicutt.

We recommend their election next Saturday.

Paperweight needed

Around the rim

Walt Finley

My bashful aunt, Marie Chastain, who celebrates her birthday today, says one of her friends answered an ad for a device to keep down utility bills, and the firm sent her a paperweight.

That travelin' man, Kenneth Hart, rolls out four minigags:

MAN: You sliced that golf ball and broke my window. What are you going to do about it?

GOLFER: Probably move my thumb further up the club.

FIRST GIRL: There are some things a girl shouldn't do before 20.

SECOND GIRL: I don't like a large audience either.

PATIENT: I've got a pain in my left foot.

DOCTOR: It's just old age.

PATIENT: Why doesn't my right foot hurt? I've had it just as long.

SUITER: Your daughter has consented to marry me.

FATHER: Then that makes you the second happiest man in the world.

HERALD REPORTER Eileen McGuire, proud mother who celebrated her birthday Wednesday, asks:

Wouldn't it be wonderful if people who lost their tempers couldn't find them again?

Ready for a short sermon? Ready or not, here it comes.

The 1980 census will cost U.S. taxpayers an even billion dollars, four times the cost of the 1970 nose count.

Much of the increased cost, according to the General Accounting Office, is due to inflation and the fact there will be more people to count. But the GAO says about $400 million is due to new procedures the Census Bureau wants to use.

Of that, about $11 million will be spent to make a better effort to find the relatively small percentage of people who would be missed if 1970 procedures were used.

The Bureau estimated it missed 2.5 percent of the population in 1970. It hopes to reduce that to 1.1 percent in 1980.

But the GAO, like most taxpayers, is wondering if the extra expense is worth the result. Why not just crank in a known error factor, for example?

Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats says:

"For the 1980 census, the bureau plans to spend more than four times the $222 million it spent for the 1970 census without assurance that there will be appreciable improvement in the data collected."

Comptroller Staats has raised a good question to which the answer is obvious.

We ought to be able to make do with an old-fashioned, inexpensive, 1970-type census.

MY BRIGHT COUSIN, Dr. George Ladd, an Okie in Muskogee, will give his elevator operator a gift on her birthday. "Last year I forgot — and every time the elevator came to my floor it carried an Off Duty sign."

Herald ad-visor Al Scott, who observed his birthday Saturday, reports proposition 13 is certainly making a big difference in California. "Los Angeles had some visiting dignitaries last week and the mayor rented them the key to the city," Al, alias Mark Twain, disclosed.

Super salesman Larry Bishop, who observed his birthday Tuesday, asks: "Do you get the feeling OPEC is picking your pockets?"

A DALLAS BROADCASTER told listeners Thursday night: "Traffic is moving at a standstill."

A report raps the performance of new safety bumpers. It's no wonder, with the test cars revving up to reckless speeds exceeding 5 miles an hour.

EX-ALPINE COWBOY, Jay Sanders, who rounds up words for the Herald and reportedly is on a honeymoon in Carlsbad, N.M., remarked last week:

A visitor from another planet today would take back a puzzling report of a strange civilization build around something called a Super Bowl.

$1,000 a plate

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — I have a confession to make. I was invited to the White House for the signing of the Begin-Sadat treaty Monday with my wife, and it didn't cost me a dime. Please don't get me wrong. I would have been willing to pay $1,000 for the invitation (at least my wife would have), but the telegram arrived and there was no mention of making a contribution.

THIS COULD mean one of several things: (1) President Carter is very pleased with the suggestions I had made in resolving the pull-back from the Sinai; (2) Jerry Rafshoon is trying to win me over to his man for the 1980 campaign; (3) the name Brzezinski went in the computer and somehow came out as Buchwald; (4) the Carters wanted to borrow our salad plates for the dinner; (5) I'm the only one in Washington who still thinks Bert Lance is a good banker.

It was a very nice evening as Middle East peace treaty dinners go. There were about 1,400 of us, and it was hard to tell the difference between those who had paid to get in and those who were there on freebies. We assumed that Begin and Sadat were not asked to contribute, but we weren't sure if the President had made Rosalynn or Miss Lillian kick in a grand.

The lady I sat next to asked, "Are you with Sadat or Begin?"

I told her I was with President Carter.

"Who invited you?" I asked her.

"We got our invitations through Ticketron," she said.

I seemed surprised. "How did that happen?"

"WELL, WE'RE tourists from Lafayette, Ind., and we're staying at the Hilton. We went to the hotel ticket agent and asked her what was playing in Washington tonight. She told us what was at the Kennedy Center, the National Theater, the Arena Stage and the Uptown Movie Theater. She also said she could get us two seats at the White House for a dinner in honor of Begin and Sadat for $1,000."

"My husband went through the roof. We said, 'Isn't that a lot of money for a dinner at the White House?' and the lady replied, 'Sadat and Begin are only playing for one night, and $1,000 takes care of everything including the tip.'

"My husband wanted to know where our seats were located, and the Ticketron lady took out a plan of the tables in the tent. She showed us two seats, but they were in the back, quite far from Begin, Sadat and Carter, so he said, 'Don't you have anything better?'"

"The Ticketron lady replied, 'I have two over here by Henry Kissinger, but they also happen to be next to the kitchen.'

"So we finally settled on this table. Where did you buy your seats?" the lady asked me.

I was too ashamed to admit I was there on the cuff so I said, "We got ours at the box office in front of the White House. I stood in line for two hours. My wife has never been to a peace treaty dinner before. We were going to use the money to pay the orthodontist, but my wife said since he's been waiting six months for his $1,000 he can wait a little longer."

Is grandmother in the 'safety zone?'

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I don't know if you have advised any grandmothers lately, but you have one waiting now. I am 51 and have not had a period in a little over two years. I started menopause at 45. My period shortened. Then I missed months, and now nothing. My husband insists I've hit the "safety zone," but this grandma isn't convinced. Is there a way to tell? I have heard about estrogen tests. Are they 100 percent accurate? This nervous grandma only wants the pitter-patter of little feet that belong to grandchildren, not grandpa's overconfidence. — Grandma.

You must be a new reader. Lots of young grandmas ask me this question, although not all in your charming style. Both you and grandpa can read the following to decide if you have reached your "safety zone."

If you have not had a period for one year and are past 50 (you qualify on both points) you are considered "safe." There are a variety of tests available to prove this, but as you have guessed, none of them is 100 percent infallible. By one year after menopause begins, ovarian hormone levels fall by 80 percent, but other hormones (such as follicle stimulating hormones and gonadotropins) rise. Tests for these hormones are rather expensive and can never be 100 percent reassuring.

The old rule of "no ovulation for year after age 50" is a pretty good one. Until then some form of contraceptive should be used. After age 51, women should continue contraceptive if they continue to menstruate.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My husband had a stroke caused by a blood clot. He has had wonderful physical progress, but we are still battling with the emotional stress. Do have anything on this problem? None of our doctors warned us of this traumatic experience, although they were excellent with the physical aspects. —

Mrs. D.B. Contact someone at a local rehabilitation facility. You will most likely find one associated with a large hospital. There has been much written on this important aspect of stroke rehabilitation. If you can't find anything you might find some pertinent pages on the subject in my booklet, "Stroke — Hope and Help," which you can get by sending 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald. See the section beginning on page 8.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Does one have to go to one's family doctor in order to get a referral to a plastic surgeon? I want to have plastic surgery on my nose, which has bothered me (mentally) for years. — H.D.

No laws says you have to. It is not a bad idea, however. Plastic surgery takes great skill, and your own doctor would recommend a surgeon whose work he values. This would be important for your ease of mind. Your general health status should be assessed by your doctor before any surgery.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I was told once that older people who live in Florida the year round cannot abide winters up north anymore because their blood has become thinned out. True or False? — M.D.

False and pretty silly. The reason people have trouble adjusting to northern winters is because it is just plain cold. Nothing to do with blood thinness or thickness. The idea persists, though.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have the late Dr. Thosteson's book, "The Everyday Medical Handbook." Did he have any other hardcovers? Also is there a list of his small booklets? — L.F.

For L.F. and others who've asked: Dr. Thosteson's last hardcover, completed before his death was "Every Woman's Medical Guide." You can get a complete listing of his (and my) booklets by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Our practice of continuing to update the little booklets will be continued by me as circumstances dictate.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can you tell me if premature ejaculation is a sign of prostate trouble? — M.M.

No. Many causes are due to development of sexual feeling.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, write to Dr. Ruble, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his invaluable booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Reader's questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have lived with my boyfriend for two years. He always says we will get married, but he never sets a date. I am beginning to wonder if he is using me. Do you think I should leave him? — N.B.

DEAR N.B.: Yes, for several reasons. For one thing, I doubt he intends to marry you. Marriage involves a legal and moral commitment, and it sounds as if he wants to avoid that. Very frankly — as often happens in this kind of relationship — it appears you are being used. As you are learning, there is no lasting stability in this kind of relationship.

There is another reason, too. I suspect from what you say that God has never played much of a part in your life (or the life of the man with whom you are living). But God loves you and has a perfect plan for your life if you will only turn your life over to,

Him. Think of that — the God who created the universe is concerned about you! Jesus said: "Look at the birds of the air; they do not sow or reap or store away in barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you much more valuable than they?" (Matthew 6:26, New International Version).

Part of God's plan for you may well include your marriage some day to the man He has chosen for you — someone who loves God and will love you. Don't be satisfied with an unstable, impermanent relationship. It would be better to remain single. Most of all, don't be satisfied with a life that leaves God out of its center.

What you have done is wrong in God's eyes, for God places a very high value on moral purity. But God loves you still, and the proof of this is that He sent Jesus Christ into the world to die for your sins.

More than taste-bud illusion

Water may be replacing the weather today as a topic of conversation.

Taste and hardness of water not only have become points of discussion and objects of wry wit, they have been injected into debates surrounding city elections. In an interview, O.H. Ivie, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District which supplies all or part of the water of a dozen cities and towns in this area, confirmed that the situation is more than a taste-bud illusion.

"I'm sorry to say that our water is really hard, moreso than ever before," he declared. "But the most remarkable thing is the generally patient and understanding manner in which residents of the area have borne the present condition. Of course they complain, as we do for we also drink and use the same water, but they shrug it off with a bit of sharp humor and hope for better days. Maybe they put up with it like they do sandstorms, hoping that tomorrow will be better. Nobody but West Texas would react that way."

Present taste problems are due to hardness of the water, not organic matter, he said, and do not affect bacteriological purity.

"There are things, like using activated charcoal in the filtration process, to improve water when it has a stumpy taste," Ivie added, "but when minerals are the cause, as is the case now, there is no simple or economical remedy. Weather and water quality are more closely related than most people are aware of, but in the meantime we will do all we can to help."

Here are his answers to questions on the subject:

Q. — Do we have a water quality problem?

A. — Yes. We feel it is temporary, but it is nevertheless real for the moment. Total dissolved solids in our water is about twice as high today as it was this time last year.

Q. — Why has this happened?

A. — All of Big Spring's water come from the District's two reservoirs, Lake Thomas and Lake Spence. Lake Thomas yields high quality water, but Lake Spence has a problem with salt intrusion on its watershed. In times of high inflow, this has a minimum effect; in periods of prolonged low flow, it increases.

During the past six years we have been in a period of subnormal runoff into our lakes. At Lake Thomas we have received only 100,400 acre feet of water while pumping out 13,600 acre feet in the six-year span. Other losses or withdrawal, principally evaporation, have amounted to approximately 57,700 acre feet. Consequently the lake has been almost exhausted. It is the only source other than small city wells, available to Snyder, so what remains in the lake is being stretched to maintain Snyder's supply.

Lake Spence, which had acceptable quality water at its peak, also has been experiencing a steady net loss of volume and an even more rapid decline in quality. The reason is simple. If you boil (or evaporate) a pan of water until half of its contents is gone, the half that remains still contains all of the original minerals. In short, it is twice as "hard" as before. Even if you add a modest amount of water from time to time, the remaining water has a higher concentration of minerals. In essence, this has been happening at Lake Spence.

Q. — Well, why do you use Lake Spence water during such periods as this?

A. — We have to. As I mentioned, the Lake Thomas supply is so small it has to be conserved. In former years we were able to overcome or lessen the effect of increased minerals in Lake Spence by mixing its water with higher quality Lake Thomas water. If Lake Spence quality declines, we increased the percentage of Lake Thomas water. Now we can no longer do this. In fact, we do not have enough Lake Thomas water left to use for mixing, or quality control. This means that a major part of the District's system has to rely on Lake Spence for most of the year. We now are having to "drink it straight."

And until there is a large inflow the quality may fall of a bit more.

Q. — Do you mean that even a small inflow into Lake Spence doesn't help?

A. — Yes, that is right. Actually, a small inflow may hurt for a time. The reason is that the riverbed contains evaporites (minerals that have been left in the stream bed as the poor quality low flow of the Colorado River has evaporated). These are flushed out by the small inflow and washed down to the pump intake. After a time this water mixes with the other content of the lake and makes no drastic change. But in the short run, before it does mix, this small flow appears at the intake at the upper end of the lake, sharply lowering quality. When we receive a large inflow, the opposite will be true.

Q. — Doesn't the District have water wells it can use instead of lake water during such times — to use instead of lake water or to mix with it?

A. — Yes, we have two District-owned wells fields, one about the center of the system in Martin County, and one on the westernmost tip in Ward County. In addition, we have small wells formerly used by the cities when they were small towns. Our Martin County well field will produce 4,500,000 gallons a day at peak pumping, the Ward County field 24,000,000 gallons a day. Combined city wells will provide perhaps 5,000,000 gallons a day. This compares with a peak demand of nearly 90,000,000 gallons a day.

We make use of this well water every year, but the reason we use it sparingly — or not at all during periods of low demand — is that we have to hold it in reserve for periods of peak summer consumption.

You see, when you pump water out of a lake, you can hope reasonably that in the long haul it will be replaced by inflow. This is not the case with water wells. When you pump a gallon of water from our wells, it is gone, because there is practically no recharge or inflow. Also, the harder you pump a well, the less it will yield day after day. The main thing to remember, however, is that our wells are our water savings bank, and when we exhaust our savings, they are gone for ever.

Let me say that the wells will be phased into production soon — but their effect on supply to a particular locality will depend somewhat on the location of the wells in relation to a particular city.

Q. — Isn't there something you can do to improve or protect the quality of our surface water?

A. — We have been facing this problem for years. In fact, we have invested upwards of $2,000,000 in special works which divert the highly-mineralized low flow of the river or its main tributaries so that this water will not get into Lake Spence. Last year, at the Colorado City and the Beals Creek diversion works, we took out 19,000 tons of chlorides (about twice that amount of salt), not to mention other minerals. Over the years we have prevented some 188,000 tons of chlorides alone from going downstream to Lake Spence. By the way, we had to move the Lake Thomas location upstream from the original site to avoid a salt problem.

When we planned on impounding Lake Spence, we led an effort which resulted in the banning of the disposal of oilwell brine in earthen pits, which leaked or percolated the brine into the water courses. But for 25 years this had been going on, and it will take time for the salt to leach out. There are some signs that this and our diversion efforts are beginning to upgrade quality of water in the river.

Q. — Isn't there some other special processes or devices which will help?

A. — Governments have spent multiplied millions of dollars trying to find a way to take minerals out of water economically. It can be done at great expense by distillation and other processes, but the cost of water is prohibitive.

Q. — Water rates were raised. Why can't the District give cities and their customers relief through lower water rates during this problem period?

A. — We wish we could, but our expenses are not only fixed — they go up during these crisis periods. We have no choice but to repay our debts on schedule. We have to pay higher prices for everything we use, particularly for electric energy used in pumping. Last year we pumped less water than the year before, yet our energy cost rose $300,000. Having to shift sources of supply caused more expense — it costs more to lift water from Lake Spence to Big Spring than from Lake Thomas to Big Spring.

Worse than these factors, however, we had to curtail and even cut off water from Lake Thomas to non-municipal customers in order to conserve the supply. So we lost over $1,000,000 in revenue last year. This hurt — it caused higher rates. It did, however, renew our appreciation for these non-municipal customers who have enabled us over the years to obtain revenue for water, a large percentage of which would have been lost through evaporation anyhow. This extra revenue made it possible to charge cities less for their water.

Q. — Can anything else be done?

A. — We are doing something to try to prevent or lessen the possibility of a recurrence of the present problem. We hope to learn Tuesday, April 10, that the Texas Water Commission will grant us a permit for a lake at Stacy. While water from Stacy likely will not be available to the area for 10 years, this additional supply of better water will afford us much more flexibility in controlling quality of water for all of our cities.

Q. — When do you think the situation will improve?

A. — I can't make a guess as to when. But I can tell you that if we capture a Spring flood — or one at any other reason — the quality will show great and almost instant improvement. If there is one bright spot in our present predicament it is that a big inflow of fresh storm waters would then represent a major percentage of total storage in the reservoirs. The quality improvement would be really dramatic. Another benefit would be the restoration of sales to our non-municipal customers who have been curtailed or cut off. This would reduce probability of having to raise rates.

None of us knows the future, but we do judge it from the past. During the 24 years we have been using Lake Thomas, it has averaged 39,800 acre feet inflow per year. As I pointed out, the average inflow for the past six years has been only 16,700 acre feet. This has never happened before, and odds are that we are due for some above-average years. From long-time stream flow records, the estimated annual flow at Lake Spence is pegged at 93,000 acre feet, yet the average since it began impounding water has been only 44,000 acre feet annually. Again, the odds are that this condition will be reversed. And when it is, no one will be happier for the patiently suffering people of our cities than are those of us who direct the affairs of the District.

Jerrek says he's in love

Dean of death row convinced state will never execute him

By TERRY SCOTT BERTLING
Huntsville Item

HUNTSVILLE — Five-year Death Row veteran Jerry Lane Jerrek says the state will never execute him. And, he's busy pondering over long-range plans instead of the prospects of being the first to die at the hands of the state by lethal injection.

Jerrek, known as the dean of death row by some because he's been there longest, five years and 23 days, says "It'll never happen" about the state trying out its new lethal injection execution method on him or any other inmate. "They just won't need it," he says about the new method.

The state has yet to use the injection method that replaced execution by electrocution in August of 1977. No man or woman has been executed by the state since Joseph Johnson of Harris County was electrocuted in July, 1964.

And while some contend

Jerrek may be one of the first to die because of his nearly exhausted appeals process, he has faith that new evidence his attorney has will eventually free him from the five-by-nine death row cells he has called home for half a decade.

Saying he's in love, Jerrek plans to marry a Yorkshire, England girl he met three months ago through letters. He hasn't talked to the Ellis Unit warden yet, but hopes he'll be hearing wedding bells on a prison chapel wedding before long.

He's got a large collection of photos of his bride-to-be as well as pictures of his family that includes seven brothers and sisters in his gold-colored cell.

He just chuckles about the lack of a honeymoon to accompany his wedding, but says that doesn't matter much.

Within the new few weeks, he expects to hear an answer from the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans on the appeal of his death sentence.

He rarely thinks about the possibility that the court may decide to uphold the sentence and the execution be carried out. "Every once in a while I might think about it. It doesn't bother me much. When you've got to go you've got to go," he says rather nonchalantly about an execution.

"I think about getting out and starting my new life over," Jerrek, convicted of strangling a 10-year-old girl to death, says.

And, if he were given the choice, he says he'd rather sit in the retired "Old Sparky" electric chair than to be the recipient of a lethal dose of chemicals through injection.

"The electric chair is not as painful, this injection, you don't know what it's going to do," he contends.

About pending legislation before the Texas Legislature that could put a moratorium on all executions for two years or abolish the death penalty, Jerrek says, "I wish they'd hurry up and pass it."

But about the possibility that he, like others when the death penalty has ruled unconstitutional in June of 1972, would have his sentence commuted to a life term, he says, "That would be just about my luck."

He claims "being in the wrong place at the wrong time" put him where he is, saying he's innocent although two signed confessions attest otherwise.

He contends he was with another young man who strangled the 10-year-old girl, and heard of the incident afterwards.

He says executions aren't a popular topic for conversation on death row.

He and his friends there play dominoes in the two-hour period each day they get out of their cells, or he just reads.

The most excitement he sees on death row is the raucous the inmates create when their favorite television shows are turned off or the channel is changed on the TV set visible from their cells. Death row favorites include Police Story, the only cop show they approve, and the new show, Supertrain. The condemned men don't care for Baretta because "He's just doing too much. Police officers don't do it like he does," says Jerrek.

And Jerrek claims there's not a whole lot of clout that accompanies the title of dean of death row.

Remember this course?

Howard College offers 'Indexing the Mind'

Do you have trouble remembering names? If so, the Continuing Education Department has announced that Howard College is again offering a solution for your problem with the short informal, non-credit course, "Indexing the Mind."

This course will be held on the three Thursday nights of April 5, 12, and 19 from 7 to 10 p.m.

It will also be held in Lamesa on April 16, 17, and 18 from 7 to 10 p.m. The Big Spring class will meet in the Tumbleweed room of Howard College, and the Lamesa class will meet at the Howard College Lamesa Center. Cost is $20 and includes the text which normally sells for $5.

In addition to learning how to remember people's names, you are taught how to remember numbers, five different ways to remember lists of things, and many more useful details. A few of the practical applications of what you will learn are how to give a talk without notes, remember a study outline, phone numbers, contents of a publication, a sales presentation, your schedule for the day, and just about anything that can be put into list form.

To make the learning process enjoyable, you are taught the dramatic things that can be done, such as remembering all the cards in a deck of cards in the order given, the day of the week of any date, cryptographs, and many other fun items. The method used to do all this can then be applied to the practical things you forget and need to remember in everyday life.

The method taught was

developed by the Greeks in about 300 B.C. The entire technique was researched by a major university in 1963, and it was recommended that this method be injected into the public school system at the 5th grade level.

Instructor for the course is nationally recognized Oklahoma memory expert and author Harvey Drake. Drake states that there is no such thing as a "photographic" memory. This means that any feat of memory he can perform can be taught to anyone else.

For further information, please call the Continuing Education Department at 267-6311, ext. 70 in Big Spring, and (806) 872-2223 in Lamesa. Students must preregister at the Continuing Education office located in the Horace Garret Building at Howard College, or at the Lamesa Center.

State National Bank promotes James Lee

ZBIGNIEW LETS DOWN HIS HAIR — Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's Polish-born foreign policy advisor, gets into the spirit of things with an unidentified lady during premiere of the film "Hair" in Washington tonight. The former Columbia University professor also took to the dance floor with his wife at the disco party that followed the showing of the film.

State National Bank promotes James Lee

James Lee, who recently joined the staff of The State National Bank, was promoted to assistant vice president at the annual stock holder's meeting, Tuesday, March 13.

Lee is primarily working with agricultural clients. His radio show, "Agriculture Spotlight" can be heard every Saturday morning on KBYG radio at 9:05 a.m. He discusses yard and garden problems as well as agriculture. He is glad to try to answer any questions listeners might have if they will write him in care of The State National Bank.

JAMES LEE

He and his wife, Patricia and son, Brandon, age 16 months, reside at 4026 Vicky. They are members of the First Baptist Church.

Prior to joining the bank, Lee was the county extension entomologist for Martin, Howard, Glasscock, Upton and Reagan counties. He was responsible for the insect pest management programs conducted by the various cotton producer organizations.

Lee also has served as a county extension agent with the Arkansas Cooperative Extension Service in Arkansas. As county agent, he worked closely with cotton, soybean and rice producers and 4-H leaders.

He received his B.S. and M.S. in entomology from the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville in 1970 and 1972, respectively. He also attended the University of Southern Arkansas at Magnolia.

While at the University of Arkansas, he was commissioned as second lieutenant in the United States Army Medical Service. He currently holds the rank of captain in the inactive reserves.

Downtown Lions Club selects sweetheart

Kathy Birdwell, a Big Spring High School senior, is the new sweetheart of the Downtown Lions Club.

She was chosen from a field of nine lovely young women at the Wednesday meeting of the club, at Howard College. First runner-up is Diana Dominguez, and second runner-up is K.K. Griffin. The three finished in a tie in initial balloting by club members, and Kathy was selected in a run-off.

Kathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Birdwell, both graduates of BSHS. Her grandmother, Mrs. Helen Early, also is a BSHS graduate. Kathy has been a key player on the volleyball team, has been active in track, the National Honor Society, band, speech team, the Key club, and in youth work at First Christian Church. She will represent the club in the district 2A-1 convention contest at Midland in early May. John F. Smith was chairman of the sweetheart contest, aided by Mrs. Frieda Hoover, who, along with each of the nine contestants, was presented with a gift from the club.

IRS assistance is available by dialing toll-free numbers

MIDLAND — With just two weeks to go to the April 16 income tax filing deadline, many taxpayers find that they need a little help to complete their tax return. In addition to the walk-in assistance provided by the Internal Revenue Service at its office located at the Federal Building on East Wall Street, Monday-Friday 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m., IRS assistance is available by dialing toll-free 1-800-492-4830.

Under the umbrella of the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) Program, community volunteers and IRS volunteers provide free tax assistance for low income, elderly and disadvantaged taxpayers on the following schedule:

Casa de Amigos — Call 682-9701 for an appointment. The center will be open every Monday until April 16 — 9 a.m.-12:00 p.m.

Midland Community Action Southeast Center — Call 682-4431 for an appointment.

First Christian Church Senior Activities — Call 682-7577 for an appointment. The center will be open Monday through Friday in the mornings only.

Garden Lane Outreach Center — Call 683-9041 for an appointment. The center will be open every Tuesday until April 15, 9:30 a.m.-8 p.m.

The following centers are open without an appointment:

St. Andrews Presbyterian Mission, Garden & Tyler, Midland, Texas; Every Monday until April 16 — 2 p.m. through 5 p.m.

Salvation Army, 300 S. Baird, Midland, Texas; Monday through Friday until April 16 — 8 a.m. through 4:30 p.m.

Midland County Library, 301 W. Missouri, Midland, Texas; Saturdays only through April 7; 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

Midland Community Action Eastside Center, 1301 E. Cowden, Midland, Texas; Every Tuesday and Wednesday until April 11, 5 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

Annual Texas Aggie Muster scheduled here April 21

Former students of Texas A&M University will assemble in Big Spring on April 21 for the annual Texas Aggie Muster.

The Muster activities will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Big Spring Country Club, Jerry Foresyth, chairman, announced.

The Muster is open to all former students and their families, parents of students and friends of Texas A&M.

The Aggie Muster dates back to the mid-1880s and has been held annually since that time. More than 350 Musters will be held around the world this year. During the wars, the Aggies mustered in foxholes, on the battlefield, aboard ships, in airplanes and in medical hospitals. In World War II, Muster was held on Corregidor shortly before the Japanese captured the island.

Every Muster is the same. The Texas Aggies pay respect to all those who are absent, because of death, since the last Muster. When the names of the honored dead are called from the Muster Roll, a friend of the deceased answers, "Here."

Colorado City Playhouse

'Crown Matrimonial' try-outs scheduled

Try-outs for the next production of the Colorado City Playhouse will be held today and Monday.

"Crown Matrimonial" by Royce Ryton, is scheduled to be presented in June at the Colorado City Opera House. The play takes place in Marlborough House in London, England in 1936. The time span covered in the play is from 1936-1945.

The try-outs will be held today at 2 p.m. and Monday at 7 p.m. at the Colorado City Opera House. Everyone interested is invited to try out and it is not necessary to be a member of the Playhouse to be cast in the drama.

According to the play's director, Charlotte Northcutt, the play revolves around the Duke of Windsor at the time he was courting and married to the American divorcee "Wally" Simpson.

"The play centers on the reaction of the Royal family to the prospect of a member of their family associating with and contemplating marriage to an American," Mrs. Northcutt said.

There are nine parts in the true-life drama, six for women, two for men and one for a man or woman.

Folklife Festival reservations being taken for display space

CISCO — The sixth annual Folklife Festival sponsored by the Cisco Civic League will be held April 21-22.

Reservations are being accepted for display space. Booths may be reserved by sending a $10 deposit to Mrs. John Boland, chairman, Box 411, Cisco, Texas 76437. The Festival is held in conjunction with the Cisco Frontier Jubilee.

Purpose of the festival is to demonstrate the arts and crafts and "old ways" of doing things, with a sprinkling of the new. A variety of demonstrators representing all phases of old and new arts and crafts will be displaying at the Festival.

Following the Mini-Trailride and the Frontier Jubilee Parade on Saturday morning, the doors of the Festival will open at the Cisco Jr. College Agriculture Building. Entertainment, "old fashioned" style shows, and various foods will be part of the Festival also. Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, and will begin at 10 a.m. Sunday with a religious service, and will end at 6 p.m.

Trinity Memorial Park and Mausoleum on the San Angelo Highway is proud to introduce a new addition of feature representation for its most recent development to the south side of the Cemetery. This section of ground was designed for development and made available for families' selection beginning in 1974. It was recently completed for burial arrangements and dedicated as the Garden of Canaan with a beautiful representation of the Crosses of Calvary in the center east end of the Garden. These beautiful crosses, besides their Biblical representation, provide a beautiful landscape scenery with a cross in the center reaching almost 12 ft. high and crosses on each side reaching a height of almost 10 ft. These crosses are permanently affixed on a solid concrete pedestal and will be landscaped accordingly. The center cross weighs approximately 2,700 pounds and is made of Carnelian Granite, which is quarried out of Milbank, South Dakota. The two smaller crosses are quarried out of Marble Falls, Texas, a Sunset Red granite weighing in excess of 1600 pounds each. The selection of granite crosses was made because granite is the most durable stone available and can be highly polished for the most durable material available for an everlasting memorial to those who are buried here. The manufacturing of these crosses was done by Granite Bronze, Inc. out of Marble Falls, Texas. After receiving the bulk granite to be used, the crosses had to go through sawing to specific measurements, assembly line production for sandblasting and polishing, and the final stages of etching the lettering on the center cross, which reads "Garden of Canaan" in gold-leaf lettering.

Runnels Jr. High

Choir prepares for concert

By SEAN GRAVES
The Runnels Junior High Choirs are keeping themselves busy with solo and ensembles, concerts, and contests that are coming up soon. Miss Hull, Choir director, has announced a concert to be held Tuesday night in the gym. The time for the concert has not been set yet. The Choir has started working on some new songs, some of which will be used in contest. The contest will be held in the early part of May. Choir members have received solos for solo and ensemble contest.

Miss Joyce Hull has gone, as pianist, with the Big Spring High School Meistersingers, the top choir at the high school, on a tour of colleges, which include Texas Tech and T.C.U. Miss Hull will return Monday.

Esther Strain, the Runnels Junior High Spelling Bee winner, went to Lubbock Saturday, March 31, for the regional contest. Runnels was very proud of its contestant.

Students in Mrs. Catherine Alred's history classes are getting a chance to teach the class themselves. Students were told to pick a topic, take notes, and bring handouts or other objects to enhance their presentations.

The answer to this week's Calendar Clue game was Oliver Wendell Holmes. The first three people to guess the correct answer were Les Kinman, Patricia Jones, and Bret Crenwelge.

Margolis named to honor roll

AUSTIN — The School of Social Work at the University of Texas at Austin has named 25 students to the honor roll for the 1978 Fall Semester.

To be listed on the social work honor roll, a student must earn at least 52 grade points during the semester, passing all courses. Total grade points are calculated by multiplying the number of semester hours undertaken by the value of each grade (A equals 4 points).

The list of honor students, made public by Dean W. Joseph Heffernan, includes Maridene Diane Margolis, Big Spring, cum laude.

Ramsey receives research award

LUBBOCK — Almost 20 years of seeking to improve the meat people serve and the processes that get it to the dinner table have brought Dr. C. Boyd Ramsey the highest award granted a researcher by the Texas Tech University College of Agricultural Sciences.

Ramsey was presented the Research Award at the college's sixth annual Honors Banquet-Pig Roast at the University Center Friday night. He is a professor of animal science and director of the Texas Tech Meats Laboratory, dividing his time between teaching and research.

Ramsey's studies have made contributions to live animal carcass evaluation, to improved method of processing meat at the packing plant and to the cooking process in the home.

In pork carcass evaluation Ramsey discovered that the depth of the loin-eye muscle is directly related to the area of the muscle, a finding that has greatly simplified live carcass evaluation.

In pork processing at the packing plant Ramsey has been concerned with seeking ways to conserve energy. Hot processing is one solution. Traditionally, animal carcasses are chilled before they are cut, but by cutting before chilling, the butcher can remove bone and fat and only the meat enroute to dinner tables needs to be chilled.

"The packing industry is a large consumer of energy," he explained, "and the chilling step is a high energy consumer. By reducing the mass that has to be chilled there is a great saving."

In cooking meat for the table, preference of the diner is probably the most critical factor, although Ramsey and the graduate students working with him have discovered some energy savers along with methods to protect flavor, tenderness and juiciness in meat.

Ramsey's current studies are concerned with pork, a meat he contends is every bit as nutritious and healthy as beef.

While pork used to be a meat considered too rich for good health, this is not true of today's pork, according to Ramsey. Producers breed and feed hogs to develop lean animals.

"There has been a great change in the fatness of hogs," he said. "Pork is leaner than beef today. It can be included in a weight losing diet."

The potential for pork production in West Texas is excellent, Ramsey said, but while he looks for increased production he sees no price relief.

"Pork prices tend to follow beef prices, and as beef prices rise, so will pork."

Among recent research findings by students working under Ramsey's direction is that best results in cooking a pork roast come from using a slow oven, set at 250 degrees, instead of the customary 325 degrees. It takes a third longer to cook the meat, but there is an energy saving and the roast is juicier. There is no difference in tenderness or flavor. If the roast is brought from the freezer to the oven, without thawing, cooking time takes 1.3 times as long but this tends also to make the roast juicier.

Best buys, in Ramsey's view, are large cuts of meat.

Grady Students place in meet

By JOANNA GRAHAM
Several of the junior high and elementary students placed in the U.I.L. literary meet at Greenwood. In seventh and eighth grade spelling Shanna Shewmake took second and Debra Jetter sixth. Adella Rivera and Brenda Gonzales took fifth and sixth in fifth and sixth grade spelling. Shawn Burns won third in the fifth and sixth grade Oral Reading.

In picture memory Greg McKaskle, Barbara Whately, Shelly Tunnell and Robert Scott took fifth as a team.

The High School U.I.L. meet is on April 6. There will be students participating in spelling, number sense, poetry, and prose.

Drivers Ed students traveled to Stanton Tuesday afternoon to secure learners permits.

Gatts placed on honor roll

NTSU — Dr. Miles Anderson, vice president for academic affairs at North Texas State University, has released the fall semester honor roll which lists 1,389 NTSU students.

Julie Clare Gatts, the daughter of Mrs. Anne M. Glorig, 601 Scott Drive, Big Spring, was named to the 3.5 honor roll.

Of the 17,300 students enrolled at NTSU in the fall semester, some 340 were listed on the 4.0 (or all "A") honor roll.

Big Spring High Students receive awards at Science Fair

By LORRAINE LANGFORD
Participants in the Permian Basin Regional Science Fair presented their projects before a judging panel of ten March 23-24. Excitement and anticipation filled the air of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum as all 63 entries waited to be judged. Joe Reed, director of the fair, said that all the projects were excellent, and judges had a hard time. At the awards assembly, there were 17 different speech awards presented for various areas of study. Mike Hanson received the Handbook of Chemistry and Physics, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Award. Sam West received the Junior Engineering Technological Society-US Award and the United States Air Force Award. Helen Hicks also won a US Air Force Award. Loretta Langford received The Marine Technology Society-US Naval Institute Award. Debra Hart received an honorable mention for the Eastman Kodak Company Award, which is given for the best use of photography. She also won the National Park Service Award. Stacy Wilson received an honorable mention for the United States Army Award.

Course offered

ODESSA — The registration deadline for persons interested in enrolling in next fall's operating room technology program at Odessa College is June 15.

The program can be completed in only 10½ months.

Instruction covers the handling of sterile instruments, the cleaning, stocking and preparing of operating rooms, and the setting up of instrument sets, sutures and specific supplies needed for different surgeries.

According to Val Jumper, director of the program, a person should be in good physical and mental health, should have normal dexterity, should have a high school diploma or GED, and should earn a satisfactory score on a pre-entrance examination to be accepted into the program.

Students successfully completing the study at OC will be eligible to take the national certification test given by the Association of Surgical Technologists.

An operating room technologist is capable of working in special surgeries such as eye, ear, orthopedic, and cardiovascular, as well as working in general surgeries.

For more details contact Jumper at OC.

Students awarded

ABILENE — A total of 555 students have been named to the dean's honor list at Abilene Christian University for the 1978 fall semester according to figures released by the ACU registrar's office.

Students qualify for the dean's list by enrolling in at least 12 semester hours and achieving a grade-point average of at least 3.45 on a 4.00 scale.

Among those included on the list are Jay Corn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Corn, 1705 Kentucky Way, 4.00; Greg Melton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Melton, 2601 Apache, 4.00; Chris Shortes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Shortes, 1606 East 25th, 3.73; Stan Vick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Vick, 2306 Lynn, 3.50; and Denise Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Young, 2313 Allendale, 3.79, all of Big Spring.

Winners of poster contest are named

By MELINDA CORWIN and BRONWYN ALLEN
Mrs. Rhoton's sixth grade science classes held a poster contest. Topics for the posters were noise, air, water, or litter pollution. The winners from each class were Robert Mendoza, first, Julie Miller, second, and Paul Prudomme, third, from first period; Preston Harrison, first, Melizza Hernandez, and Darla Witte, third, from third period; Lisa Subia, first, Dawn Underwood, second, and Todd Culwell, third, from fourth period; Renee Evers, first, John Buzbee, second, and Neasa Rhodes, third, from fifth period; Vince Solis, first, Elizabeth Trevino, second, and Phiscilla Escanuela and Janet Anderson, tied for third, from sixth period. First place winners were presented quick-silver ballpoint pen. Second and third place winners received candy bars.

Mrs. Jones' seventh grade girls' P.E. classes held "superstar challenges." The events were obstacle course, softball throw, scooter run, rope climbing, basketball free throw, and the shuttle run. The top six girls in each class received extra points as a bonus. The winners from first period are Melissa Velasquez with 36 points, Rhonda Atkinson, 31, Andrea Calderon, 28, Tatia Colvin, 24, Diane Boothe, 18, and Lisa Ausmus, 18. Third period winners are Angie Amaro, 30, Sherri Farmer, 27, Barbara Rodgers, 25, Yvonda Fennell, 24, Brenda McKee, 20, and Crystal Edwards, 15. Winners from fourth period are Tina Garza, 26, Margaret Vanderbilt, 23, Elisa Delgado, 22, Shelley Neill, 21, Maria Lopez, 20, and Debbie Denton, 19. Fifth period winners are Rita Fleckenstein, 36, Lesa Wilkerson, 34, Rebecca Mills, 34, Sylvia Ornelas, 31, Veta Crawford, 18, and Pam Burt, 17. From sixth period, the winners are Martha Vanderbilt, 34, Andrea Redwine, 31, Mary Sue Savell, 19, Debra Flores, 18, Melinda Corwin, 15, and Gwynette Gutierrez, 14.

On March 15, 1979, Mr. David Tipping, a seventh grade math instructor at Goliad, received a scholarship from the Petroleum Institute of Houston. Mr. Tipping was chosen out of all the Howard County math, science, and history teachers to attend. One hundred teachers were chosen from Texas. He will attend classes at the University of Houston for three weeks beginning June 11. Mr. Tipping's scholarship is sponsored by Reginald F. Hyer of Midland.

Goliad would like to congratulate Wendy Walker, who placed first in her seventh grade physical science "potato power" project in the science fair. Wendy used twelve potatoes to light up a 1.5 watt bulb.

Mrs. Warren's seventh grade language arts classes have been doing a unit on National Parks. The students were asked to choose a national park in the United States to write about. The students learned about notetaking, outlines, and bibliographies.

The library finished taking inventory, and books may again be checked out. Some new rules were made, and a list of them was given to each teacher.

The girls' and boys' track teams went to a track meet in Monahans.

Singing duo takes new dimensions

England Dan & John Ford Coley have walked through a new musical door. The change toward a dynamic rock style which began last year has crystallized in their latest Big Tree Album "DR. HECKLE AND MR. JIVE". England Dan & John Ford Coley bring the energy of their stage performance into their records. Today this is an accomplished fact.

They will be performing in Midland at Chaparral Center on Monday, April 9, 1979 at 8 p.m. Tickets for the concert may be purchased for $8 at the Chaparral Center Box Office, Music Haul Records in the Village and San Miguel Square and at Endless Horizons in Odessa.

"LOVE IS THE ANSWER", the first single released from "DR. HECKLE AND MR. JIVE", exemplifies Dan & John's transition. Written by Todd Rundgren, the song begins as a gentle ballad with intertwining harmonies, then gains momentum ending with a dynamic crescendo of voices. The new qualities and range of Dan's singing is brought to the forefront in this song.

The album also includes classic rockers such as "HOLLYWOOD HECKLE AND JIVE", "ANOTHER GOLDEN OLDIE NIGHT FOR WENDY" and Dan Seals' "ROLLING FEVER". The love songs for which the duo has become famous are here too. "WHAT CAN I DO WITH THIS BROKEN HEART" written by Dan Seals, John Coley and Bob

GIVE PERFORMANCE IN MIDLAND
... England Dan & John Ford Coley

Gundry. "WHAT'S FOREVER FOR" and John Coley's "CHILDREN OF THE HALF LIGHT" shine with their distinctive vocal style and emotion.

England Dan & John Ford Coley's stage performance has taken on new dimensions. Backed by five rock musicians, the concert flows from the wof, melodic songs which are synonymous with the duo's image, to the vitalizing emotion of rock. With the addition of Dan's expertise on saxophone and John's expansion to synthesizer, their performance gains an even greater magnetism. Their back up band (Dan Gorman on drums, Bubba Keith on guitar, harmonica & vocals, John Leland on Bass, Ovid Stevens on lead guitar and Michae Vernacchio on keyboards) appears on "DR. HECKLE AND MR. JIVE" for the first time.

Throughout the past year, Dan and John kept up a rigorous touring schedule which took them across the country. In the fall of 1978 Dan & John were welcomed by enthusiastic, cheering audiences in Japan and Hong Kong. It was ironic that their first overseas tour in many years would be to Japan, the site of their first top five single "SIMONE" in 1972. In the United States, they covered most of the major fairs and summer music festivals held across the country, broke attendance records at the largest amusement parks and held SRO performances at many of the colleges they played.

England Dan & John Ford Coley's first Big Tree singles arrived bulleted on the national Top 20 charts beginning with the RIAA gold "I'D REALLY LOVE TO SEE YOU TONIGHT" continuing through "NIGHTS ARE FOREVER", "SAD TO BELONG", "GONE TOO FAR" AND "WE'LL NEVER HAVE TO SAY GOODBYE AGAIN".

England Dan & John Ford Coley again branched into the field of writing for movies. They sang and wrote the theme plus five other songs for producer Hal Landers upcoming movie "JUST TELL ME YOU LOVE ME" starring Robert Hegyes and Lisa Hartman. The duo has also written the theme for television's "JAMES AT 16".

As far as musical history is concerned, the two performers go back many years. Dan began his musical career playing an upright bass (while standing on an apple crate) at the age of four. His dad played guitar, his brother played fiddle, altogether what came out was "simple hillbilly music". They became a local success, doing TV shows around the Texas area. But coming from a musical family Dan soon saw the limitations of his instrument and taught himself guitar and saxophone.

John Ford Coley emerged from a totally different background. There was nothing country about his upbringing or musical tastes, even as a child. Coming from Dallas, John at the age of six was a true cosmopolitan. He had set his sights on becoming a classical pianist, and today uses his classical background in composing many of his melodies. He adopted the guitar to add diversity and new elements to not only his stage presence but his songwriting as well.

Dan and John began their musical friendship in high school, involving themselves in various rock groups that were locally prominent. Their only real measure of success came through a group called the Southwest F.O.B. This group, where they remained for seven years, became a local success with a single.

Understanding wind becoming important

By REBBECA TAYLOR
Reference Librarian
Howard County Library

The March series on wind was based on a wide variety of materials available at the Howard County Library. Among the most useful were "Meteorology", by Albert Miller, "Tornado...Texas Demon in the Wind," by Dudley Lynch, and "Earth's Aura," by Louise B. Young. Aside from being a fascinating subject, understanding wind currents in various parts of the country is rapidly becoming more important.

The McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of Science and Technology has estimated that the entire electric power consumption of 1975 (2x10 kWhrs.) could have been produced by the winds available in the U.S.

The primary barrier to developing wind power is that it costs more to produce, at present, than fossil fuel produced power. With the rising cost of fossil fuels, this barrier is crumbling.

The most difficult technical problem with wind power is storage of the energy produced. This is the same problem which plagues the development of the electric car. The most popular type of battery is the lead-acid type used in cars now. However, these have a very limited capacity. In spite of these limitations, most individual experimenters use lead-acid batteries. Other methods range from mechanical storage as heat in water or stones, to feeding the power back into the utility lines. The number of different types of windmills now being used is incredible. The rotors range from a two blade propeller type weighing two tons, to an egg-beater type with balsa wood blades.

Although the Department of Energy is allocating funds for the development of many kinds of windmills, the most profitable one has been the standard propeller type. The prototype for the most successful model was developed by NASA. The Department of Energy is now expanding its applications. Currently, a 200 kW model is producing power enough for 60 homes in Clayton, New Mexico and a 2000kW model is being established near Boone, North Carolina.

For details on individual power plants, "Wind-Catchers," by Volta Torrey, and Cath the Wind, by Landt Dennis are available at the Library. Also, companies such as Grumman, Kedco and Dunliffe of Australia, offer home wind power plants for sale.

If 1 percent of our power needs could be met by wind power, millions of dollars less oil would be required. And experts estimate that as much as 10 percent would be provided by 2000.

SHELBY PARNELL, LEFT, AND GERRE HARRY
... Citizen, Social Worker of Year honorees for NASW

Parnell, Gerre Harry honored by NAWS unit

The local chapter of the National Association of Social Workers convened last week to recognize the Citizen of the Year and Social Worker of the Year, at La Posada Restaurant. Shelby Parnell and Gerre Harry were honored by the NASW group for their outstanding contributions to the community. Both are long-time Big Spring residents. Gordon Cavnar, local NASW chairman, and Delbert Mitchell, area president were in charge of the awards banquet.

Ms. Harry, honored as Social Worker of the Year, is a caseworker in the outpatient clinic at Big Spring State Hospital. She is a graduate of Big Spring High School, Howard College and received her Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology from the University of Texas, Permian Basin. She plans to receive her Masters from U.T.P.B. in August. Ms. Harry has been employed by the B.S.S.H. since October, 1969. She has two daughters who are married, as well as a son who is in the Navy.

Shelby Parnell, coordinator of Outreach Alcoholism Services at Big Spring State Hospital, was selected as Citizen of the Year. He attended John Tarleton State College, and is a graduate of Ranger Junior College. He has been employed over 21 years at the BSSH. From 1957 to 1967, Parnell was Alcoholism Counselor and coordinator of treatment services on the alcoholism unit. He spent three years as an alcoholism technician with the Texas Rehabilitation Commission, and the next three years as counselor and director of Phase I of a three-phase treatment program on the Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Unit.

Since 1973, he has served as coordinator of aftercare and follow-up of patients returning to the hospital catchment area. Parnell has attended 16 institutes on Alcohol studies at the University of Texas at Austin, three times serving as a faculty member at the studies. He attended Utah School on Alcoholism, North American Congress on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, numerous regional institutes on alcohol and drug abuse serving as a faculty member on nine different institutes including Advanced Studies on Alcohol and Drug Abuse at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Parnell has four times served as president of Local Texas Public Employees Association Chapter 52, is a member of the Texas Certification Board for Alcoholism Counselors and a member of the Advisory Committee on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse, Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

Parnell is married, has four children and seven grandchildren.

Nuclear power in Texas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said Friday that Texas has no state inspection of boilers in nuclear power plants now, but he hopes to have some sort of plan worked out for the 1981 Legislature.

Clements had no comment on the incident at the Harrisburg, Pa., nuclear power plants which resulted in the release of radioactive gas.

"We are out of the nuclear inspection business now on the state level," Clements told a news conference. "We have no budget; we have no people. But we are studying the question, and hope before the next legislature to have a program agreeable to all involved."

He said the state had ample authority for a state inspection program. He added that he would favor leaving authority for nuclear plant inspections with state state labor department which now inspects regular boilers.

Sam Hunnicutt Talks About The Issue:

I have a confession to make. I can't change the taste of our water. And to be honest with you, I doubt even if you elect me to the City Council that the City can do much about this situation.

When you get right down to it, most of our water here comes from surface supplies. Our well supplies are very minor, and the longer and harder that wells are pumped, the less they yield and the less we have in reserve.

Many of you can remember before our City became part of the water district — how you had to ration supplies, save bath water for plants and shrubs. That hasn't happened in the past 25 years, and most of that time we have had good to excellent water. Some of these days, God willing, we once again will have those big rains on the watersheds of our lake and once more we will have good water. In the meantime, there just isn't much that can be done to materially change quality of water unless you get into desalination programs which cost millions of dollars to set up, which are costly to operate, and which would be idle after the lakes catch a lot of fresh, good water.

I wish we could change water quality by complaining or promising. However, I'm grateful to have a supply, and I'm willing to work as a City Councilman with the district and others to enlarge that supply for future years so we can grow and develop.

Big Spring post office

Do-it-yourself units offered

The post office doesn't have to be open to take care of the public's mailing needs, according to Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty.

Hardesty says that is because of do-it-yourself facilities at the local post office. It is officially known as a Self Service Postal Central and it provides services 24 hours a day 365 days a year.

Hardesty said the unit is located in the lobby of the Main Post Office at 501 Main St., and sells stamps, envelopes, postal cards, changes bills into coins, provides ZIP Code Directory information and accepts letters and packages. Customer information signs tell customers how to use the Center.

Hardesty said a recent Postal Service survey of customers using the self-service centers in other cities found the overwhelming majority of users preferred them for "fast, time-saving service without long lines that sometimes occur at the regular post offices."

Since the first experimental unit was installed in 1964, the Postal Service has expanded the program to include more than 1200 self-service postal centers in 500 communities.

In Big Spring the self-service unit is located in the main lobby near the letter drops.

Malone-Hogan Hospital duty

DHR workers to help determine eligibility of needy patients

Medical Services Workers for the Texas Department of Human Resources (DHR) will be positioned in Malone-Hogan Hospital starting today to determine the eligibility of needy patients for services provided (DHR). Workers have been stationed previously in three El Paso area hospitals.

Hospitals participating in the program provide office space and equipment for the workers as well as reimburse DHR for one-half their salaries.

Hospital administrators generally have praised the efforts because the DHR workers obtain financial assistance for the needy patients to pay their hospital bills, which otherwise might go unpaid.

Patients benefit from the program because they are relieved of the anguish of facing insurmountable hospital expenses.

By locating the workers in hospitals, DHR is able to identify needy persons who otherwise might be unaware of the medical, financial and social services available to them.

In the El Paso area, four hospital-based workers have been situated at three of the city's major hospitals — R.E. Thomason, Providence and Hotel Dieu.

The workers are primarily concerned with screening needy patients to determine their eligibility for Medicaid, the state-authorized program of medical services for eligible low-income persons.

Since the hospital-based worker program began in El Paso last September, about 20 patients a month have been certified by the workers to receive Medicaid assistance.

Through the program, more than $200,000 in Medicaid assistance has been paid for the hospital care of needy patients in El Paso.

"This represents the amount of money that might have been lost by the hospitals because of the patients' inability to pay for their hospitalization," said Javier Aguirre, Medical Services supervisor in El Paso.

When determining the eligibility of patients for Medicaid, the hospital-based workers also determine eligibility for other DHR services, including Food Stamps, Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and other programs.

Aguirre noted the hospital-based worker has helped to alleviate the problem of needy patients leaving the hospital with unpaid bills.

"People with limited or no resources often aren't able to pay for their hospitalization," Aguirre said.

In many instances, these people are eligible for Medicaid or other types of public assistance, but are unaware of their eligibility.

When a patient with no health insurance or limited resources is admitted to the hospital, the hospital's business office notifies the hospital-based worker.

The DHR worker then contacts the patient and obtains the necessary information to determine if the patient is eligible to receive various types of assistance provided by DHR.

The hospital-based worker handles all paper work related to any type of medical assistance.

If the patient is eligible to receive other kinds of assistance, such as Food Stamps or AFDC, the hospital-based worker completes the necessary application form and then forwards it to a worker in the appropriate program for certification.

"Our workers are experienced staff members and are familiar with all program areas," Aguirre said. "They may not be experts in all programs, but they are knowledgeable enough to know whether a patient is eligible to receive any DHR services."

Aguirre said that administrators of the participating hospitals have been pleased with the program. Other hospitals in DHR's 23-county West Texas region are expected to be contacted about participating in the program in the near future.

Two DHR workers, Olga Rodriguez and Victor Zavala, are currently assigned to R.E. Thomason Hospital. One worker, Toni Zeidan, is assigned to Providence. Another worker, Vella Ortiz, works half-time at Hotel Dieu.

STEERS' MIKE GOMEZ TAGGED OUT IN FOURTH ON ATTEMPTED STEAL
Lee's Wade Cartwright waits for runner with ball in glove

Lee scores early

Steers lose to Rebs, 7-4

By CARLA WALKER
The Big Spring Steers were out-gunned 7-4 by an eleven-hit, blast from the Midland Lee Rebels Saturday at Steer Park.

The Steers threatened in the fourth inning, but only managed one run before Lee pitcher Alan Koonce shut down the inning with two consecutive strike-outs.

Big Spring made a final stand on their last bat in the seventh inning, scoring their final three runs on three hits off Koonce. Terry Willis, regular first baseman for the Rebels, was called to the mound to relieve Koonce, striking out the final Steer batter.

Koonce, however, won't be forgotten by the Steers. For the first three innings, Koonce struck out five batters, with the other four steers grounding out to the infield. Mike Gomez, Kevin McLaughlin and Tony Rubio all singled in the third inning, with Rubio getting credit for a run batted in when McLaughlin scored.

The final three of the Steers hits were contributed by McLaughlin, Rusty Hayworth and Mark Warren, with McLaughlin driving in two runs, and Tim Shaver, on base as a result of a fielder's choice, scoring on a Lee error.

Lee blasted four hits off losing Steer pitcher Luis Rodriguez in the second inning, with Wade Cartwright scoring on a single by Tom Morrison, and Morrison scoring on another single off the bat of Steve Pitts.

Designated hitter Clay Calhoun belted a double for the Rebels in the third inning, but to no avail, since the next three batters grounded out.

In the fifth inning, the Lee bats were hot again, with singles by Pitts and John White, putting runners on first and third. Alert play by the Steer infield averted scores, however, when White, attempting to steal second, was caught in a hotbox and tagged out. Pitts held at third until seconds before White was tagged, only to be caught between third and home in the second hotbox before the ball was returned to the mound. Pitts was tagged out, but Lee came right back to blast three hits and score two more runs before the Steers could get the final out of the inning.

Two more scores, batted in by Pitts, crossed the plate for Lee in the sixth, with the final Lee score coming on a steer error in the seventh inning.

The loss dropped Big Spring to 6-9 for the season, and 0-4 for district competition, while the Rebels evened their district record at 2-2.

Lopez is leader by two strokes

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — Nancy Lopez, moving nearer her third straight victory, took a 2-stroke lead with a 2-under-par 72 Saturday in the third round of a $150,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

Lopez, the tour's leading money winner in 1978, broke a three-way tie for the lead with a birdie on the first hole and enlarged her lead to 4 strokes midway through the front nine before slipping back to the pack.

She three-putted the 18th green for a bogey that left her with a 211 total, 2 strokes ahead of Chako Higuchi, rookie Beth Daniel and Donna Caponi Young, runnerup to Lopez at Las Vegas last week.

Flying Paster eyes big test

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Flying Paster, the West's top hope against Spectacular Bid in the Triple Crown races, tries to get back on the winning track Sunday when he faces nine rivals in the $150,000-added Santa Anita Derby.

Last time out, Flying Paster ran third in the San Felipe Handicap, but he carried 127 pounds in that race two weeks ago, spotting nine pounds to Pole Position and 13 to Switch Partners in losing by a head and a nose. Each starter in the 1 1/4-mile Santa Anita Derby will carry 120 except the filly Terlingua who gets 115.

Flying Paster, owned by Bernard J. Ridder, will be ridden by Don Pierce, who has been aboard the California-bred son of Gummo-Progne in each of his previous 12 outings. Flying Paster has eight victories, three seconds and a third in his career.

"At this stage of his career, he's the best 3-year-old I've ever been on," Pierce said of Flying Paster. "I rode in three (Kentucky) Derbys on horses that didn't have a chance, and I swore I'd never go back unless I had a good chance of winning it."

Schoolboys find way to end poor season

SCHULENBURG, Texas (AP) — Schultenburg's high school baseball team has found a way to end a bad season — stop playing.

Coach Frankie Joe Cernosek said the Class A school, 0-4 in district, has cancelled the remainder of its 1979 schedule because of injuries and lack of interest.

He said the school got district approval to withdraw and plans to play again next season.

Resurgent Longhorns triumph

DALLAS (AP) — The University of Texas charged to victory in the rain behind Ricky Fagett's excellent anchor in the climactic mile relay Saturday to capture the controversy-riddled Dallas Invitational Track Meet.

Houston, which had a lead over the Longhorns until the last event, finished next to last and notched second-place in the meet.

Baylor's Bjorge Ruud was disqualified in the 5,000 meter run in which he finished fourth because he didn't get his entry to officials in time.

Bear Coach Clyde Hart heatedly protested the disqualification but it held and gave Texas vital points. Officials said Ruud was allowed to run in error. Dean Fester of Texas was moved up all the way to third.

Texas finished with 129 points to 128 for Houston. Baylor was third with 81 and Texas A&M was fourth with 70.

Texas trailed Houston all day but closed fast when Keven Braun of the Horns posted a meet record 7-foot one and one-half inch high jump.

The meet was snakebit all day. Besides the rain which fell, officials failed to pace off 100 meters correctly and Texas A&M's Curtis Dickey won what turned out to be the 100-yard dash in 9.53 seconds.

Houston won the 200 meter dash, the 400 meter relay, the 110 meter hurdles, the 800-meter run, the triple jump and the shot put.

Texas' Oskar Jacobsson established a new meet record in the discus with an excellent throw of 198-feet, 8-inches. The old record was 187-8 by Bruce Dabelski of Texas-El Paso in 1977.

Todd Harbour of Baylor won the disputed 5,000 meters in 14:33.17.

Danny Ray Wright named to all-state third team

Danny Ray Wright, Odessa High, a 5-9 senior who averaged 20.2 points a game over the 1978-79 basketball season, was named to the Associated Press' third all-state Class AAAA team.

Two Lufkin players, Ronnie Blake and Larry Davis, were selected on the first team.

Lance McCain, Andrews senior, was named to the Class AAA first team.

Wants dull telecast

Watson leads by 8

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Tom Watson, who had established a commanding eight-shot lead, had but one fond wish for Sunday's final round of the $300,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

"I hope it's a boring telecast," said Watson, who picked up four shots on the field in two holes Saturday and owned the biggest third-round lead in the last three years.

"I hope nobody gets close enough to make it exciting.

"It's kind of hard to play with a big lead," he said, looking ahead to the final 18 holes of the chase for a $54,000 first prize he appeared to have clinched.

"It's hard to be aggressive.

"I'll probably play defensive. I'll try not to alter my play but, knowing myself, I probably will. I just don't want to make any big mistakes.

"My swing is still where I want it to be. I feel confident."

He'll need only a round of par 71 to match the tournament record for 72 holes, but that's not his goal.

"I want to win the golf tournament," he said. "I want to win because I love the golf course so much. If I can get the record, too, that's fine. But first I want to win."

And he's certainly in firm command. So much so, in fact, that Hubert Green was talking about giving him a handicap.

Lanny Wadkins, who had complained all week of his putting problems, didn't make a birdie in his 3-over-par 74 that left him far, far back in second at 207.

Tom Kite was third alone at 208 after matching par 71. The group at 209 — 10 shots back but tied for fourth — included Green, Floyd, Ed Sneed, Bill Rogers and Mike Morley. Morley and Rogers shot 72s, Sneed had 71, Floyd 69 and Green a 67 that included 30 on the back side.

Lee Trevino, in the hunt for a while, bogeyed four holes in a row immediately after the turn and finished with a 71-211. Arnold Palmer, playing his best of the year, shot 71 for 214.

Rettele is after win in Derby

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Armed with a well-worn road map, Loren Rettele is on his way to the Kentucky Derby.

The map leads from the Bay Area of San Francisco to New Orleans to Hot Springs to Louisville.

That's the route Rettele took with Esops Foibles last year. He's on the same path again this year with Golden Act.

Esops Foibles ran in the California Derby at Golden Gate and then won the Louisiana Derby and Arkansas Derby before running fifth in the Kentucky year-old on the West Coast, once last year.

Golden Act was second in the California Derby and won the Louisiana Derby March 18. He's now at Oaklawn Park, preparing for the $150,000 added Arkansas Derby April 14.

"It seems logical that we'd have to be the favorite in the race," Rettele said. "I wouldn't try to go out of town unless I thought I could win."

He said he knew that Golden Act had some ability "right from the start."

"His first start was a stake race at Del Mar," Rettele said. "He finished third. He acted like a colt who had a lot of potential. When he finally came around, he kept getting better."

Golden Act started seven times last year and won twice, including a $100,000 race at Bay Meadows. He never finished worse than third.

He won his first race of 1979, an allowance test at one mile, and then went in the California Derby.

"I thought he could win it, but we were giving the winner 10 pounds."

Star says he is undecided

HARRISONBURG, Va. (AP) — Ralph Sampson, Harrisonburg High School's highly recruited 7-foot-3 1/4 basketball center, denied reports Friday night he has narrowed the list of colleges he might attend to six.

The Washington Star and two Washington-based television stations had reported Friday that Sampson had cut his list to Virginia, Virginia Tech, Maryland, Kentucky, James Madison and North Carolina. "I never said that. Lots of quotes and rumors aren't true. This one isn't," said Sampson, who scored 23 points, grabbed 21 rebounds and blocked four shots Thursday night in leading the Metro All-Stars to an 86-85 victory over the U.S. All-Stars in the Capital Classic.

Sampson, who averaged 29.5 points and nearly 20 rebounds per game in leading Harrisonburg to a 26-0 record this past season, apparently has cut the list to a "rough six or eight," Harrisonburg Coach Roger Bergey said.

"He's talked about the schools that he's still considering, but that's all. Nothing is definite, and they may change," said Bergey, who has been advising Sampson during the course of the concentrated recruiting campaign for his services.

Campbell named grand marshal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Houston Oiler running back Earl Campbell has been named grand marshal of the Legends of Golf tournament, April 25-29.

Comedian Bob Hope will join numerous others in the pro-celebrity tournament April 25, sponsors announced Saturday.

Ten country and western singers, led by Willie Nelson, will perform at a banquet that evening.

The tournament is limited to golfers who are at least 50 years old and who have won the U.S. or British Open, Masters or PGA or played on a Ryder Cup team.

The final two days of the tournament will be televised nationally.

Dan Briggs is now a Padre

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have traded 26-year-old outfielder Dan Briggs to the San Diego Padres for a player to be named later, says Indians General Manager Phil Seghi.

Briggs had been one of four players at the Indians' spring training in Tucson, Ariz., competing for the left field position.

He signed with the Indians in March 1978 and went to the team's AAA affiliate in Portland for part of the summer, but joined the Indians for the last 15 games.

The deal Friday cut the Indians' roster to 29 players.

Champs defeated in Gloves

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Three-time champion Clinton Jackson was upset and defending champions Richard Sandoval and Jackie Beard advanced in Saturday's semifinals of the 51st National Golden Gloves boxing tournament. Jackson, a 24-year-old from Knoxville, Tenn., who is a veteran of 205 amateur fights, was outpointed by Randy Smith, 22, of Chicago in 156-pound action. Sandoval, an 18-year-old former Junior Olympic 95-pound champion defeated Milwaukee's Israel Acosta in the semifinals for the second consecutive year. It was the fourth meeting of the two 106-pounders and gave Sandoval a 3-1 advantage. Beard, who captured the Gloves and Amateur Athletic Union bantamweight titles last year, outpointed Myron Taylor of Philadelphia in a 119-pound fight. He was scheduled to face Kenneth Baysmore, 17, Washington, D.C. in a rematch between last year's AAU semifinals in Saturday's title match. The finals at the Indiana Convention Center were scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. EST.

Reds look to Seaver

By HAL BOCK (AP Sports Writer) Tom Seaver will throw the first pitch of the 1979 major league baseball season Wednesday when the Cincinnati Reds entertain the San Francisco Giants in the traditional National League opener. The April 4 start matches the earliest opening in major league history. The 1974 season also began on that date. Because the Reds are baseball's oldest franchise, they always get the early start in the NL and Seaver will oppose lefthander Vida Blue of the Giants with a capacity Riverfront Stadium crowd of more than 52,000 on hand. The early American League opener belongs to Seattle, where the Mariners begin their third season Wednesday night by entertaining the California Angels. Glenn Abbott is expected to start for Seattle, with Frank Tanana the probable pitcher for the Angels. A crowd of 35,000 is expected. Two more National League openers are scheduled Thursday. A crowd of 41,000 will jam

Wrigley Field in Chicago to watch the cubs' Rick Reuschel face the New York Mets. Pat Zachry or Craig Swan will start for the visitors. In Los Angeles, the Dodgers will raise their second straight National League pennant, then begin pursuit of a third with Don Sutton or Burt Hooton on the mound against San Diego's Gaylord Perry, the 1978 Cy Young Award winner. In the American League Thursday, there are three day games scheduled, with the World Champions, the New York Yankees, entertaining Milwaukee, Cleveland at Boston and Texas at Detroit. Toronto is at Kansas City in the lone night game. Mike Caldwell pitches for Milwaukee against Cy Young Award winner Ron Guidry of the Yankees with 50,000 expected to watch the second straight world championship flag raised at Yankee Stadium. Texas will use left-hander Jon Matlack against the Tigers' Dave Rozema. Cleveland sends Rick Wise against Boston's Dennis Eckersley at Fenway Park. Kansas City opens with Dennis Leonard against Jim Clancy for Toronto.

By Friday, all 26 major league teams will be in action, weather permitting. Friday's AL openers are the Chicago White Sox at Baltimore in a day game and Minnesota at Oakland at night. In the National League, Montreal plays a day game at Pittsburgh while Philadelphia visits St. Louis and Atlanta meets Houston at night. The Dodgers will be trying to become the first NL team to win three straight pennants since the St. Louis Cardinals of 1942-43-44. New York is after a fourth straight AL flag, a feat last accomplished in the majors by the Yankees of 1960-64. The season may begin with unfamiliar faces umpiring. The 51 regular major league umpires have been locked in a monthlong contract dispute with the two leagues and all spring training games have been worked by substitutes. The replacement umpires, if baseball stands firm against the regulars, won't be the only new faces. Philadelphia's lineup will feature $3.2 million free agent Pete Rose, who left Cincinnati after 16 seasons. The acquisition of Rose made infielder Richie Hebner expendable and the Phillies peddled him to the Mets for pitcher Nino Espinosa. The Phillies also added second baseman Manny Trillo in a six-player trade with the Chicago Cubs. All three players acquired by the Cubs, catcher Barry Foote, second baseman Ted Sizemore and outfielder Jerry Martin, figure to be regulars. San Diego has a new first baseman in Mike Hargrove, obtained from Texas in the trade that sent Oscar Gamble to the Rangers. In the American League, the biggest name to change teams was perennial batting champion Rod Carew, swapped by Minnesota to California in exchange for four players. The Angels also acquired outfielder Dan Ford from the Twins in an earlier transaction. Besides the half-dozen California players, including Ron Jackson, Danny Gooden, Ken Landreaux and Paul Hartzell, acquired in the Carew-Ford trades, Minnesota picked up veteran pitcher Jerry Koosman from the Mets. The Yankees have two new pitchers, Tommy John and Luis Tiant, both signed as free agents. Other free agents who signed with new clubs included pitchers Elias Sosa (Montreal), Steve Stone (Baltimore), Jim Slaton (Milwaukee) and Jim Barr (California). Pittsburgh signed handyman Lee Lacy and Los Angeles replaced him with Derrel Thomas, both out of the free agent pool. For the first time, a number of free agents decided to remain with their old teams. Included in that group were pitcher Larry Gura (Kansas City), outfielder Al Bumbry (Baltimore) and third baseman Darrell Evans (San Francisco). Major league baseball attracted more than 40 million fans last season, setting an all time record, and enthusiastic spring training crowds indicate that interest in the sport continues to build. "We had great pennant races, tremendous individual performances and record major league attendance for the seventh time in 10 years," said Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "That gives us considerable momentum which I fully expect to carry over into 1979."

many as 15 points in the third quarter and held an 11-point bulge entering the final period. But the Rockets battled back, trimming San Antonio's lead to 116-115 when Malone put in a layup with 20 seconds remaining. As the Spurs brought the ball downcourt, San Antonio's Allan Bristow got hemmed in by two Houston players and called a timeout with 11 seconds remaining. Houston's Mike Newlin stole the inbounds pass, drove the length of the court, but missed the easy layup with four seconds left. Houston's Robert Reid then missed the tip-in and Malone grabbed the rebound: "As time expired in the ensuing confusion, Malone was fouled by San Antonio's Mike Gale. He went to the line with a bonus situation, three shots to make two. With a record San Antonio crowd of 15,764 wildly yelling and pelting the court with ice, Malone calmly sank the first free throw. The second was delayed briefly because of the unruly crowd, but Malone hit it to clinch the game. # Rockets nudge Spurs, 117-116

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Somehow in the frenzied final quarter Friday night, the San Antonio Spurs lost a key National Basketball Association game to Houston and a chunk of their Central Division lead over the Rockets. And San Antonio Coach Doug Moe will probably get to pay a fine for the privilege of telling his version of what happened in the wild 117-116 Houston victory. "I thought the refs put them back in the game. They let every g— thing go. They just s— us. When we got ahead, they called everything for them. It was incredible at the end. I couldn't believe it," raved an incensed Moe, who watched helplessly as Houston's Moses Malone calmly hit two free throws after time expired to give the Rockets the victory and pull them within a half game of the Spurs. NBA coaches face an undetermined, but virtually automatic fine for criticizing the referees — a fact that didn't seem to bother the outspoken Moe in the slightest. The Spurs had led by as

Central retains lead in 5-4A golf tourney

MIDLAND — San Angelo Central retained the lead in the District 5-AAAA golf tournament, firing a round of 315 Friday. Competition took place in Hogan Park. The Bobcats now have a four-score of 1,215 strokes. Midland High closed to within two strokes of Central with a fourth round 314. The traveling tournament concludes next week at the Odessa Country Club. Abilene Cooper is third in the standings, 16 shots back of Central. John Slaughter of Cooper and Richard Minnix of Midland tied for medalist honors with 74s. San Angelo was led by David Stobaugh, who had a 77. Big Spring put together a 324 Friday and now holds down fifth place with a score of 1307. Odessa Permian is fourth, at 330-1295.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Penn State coach Joe Paterno was all set for the start of football practice today, but he had to postpone it until Tuesday because of wet grounds. Penn State won all of its 11 regular season games last season, went to the Sugar Bowl as the No. 1 ranked team, but lost to Alabama and came home No. 4.

Trailing Big Spring are Midland Lee, 330-1307; Odessa High, 329-1319; and Abilene High, 328-1321. Big Spring players and their scores included: Bruce Carroll 78, Jimmy Newsom 84, John Hernandez 85, Larry Boskas 77, Ben Garcia 89.

Forsan girls set four records in Plains meet

PLAINS — Forsan's girls placed second in the Plains Invitational Track and Field Meet here Friday with 101 points and set four records in the bargain. In all, the Buffalo Queens won five first places in the meet. No other team succeeded in setting a record in the invitational. The Forsan boys wound up fifth in team standings. Forsan's fens set records in the 440-yard run, the 880-yard relay, mile relay and discus throw. Lucy Thixton of Forsan won the 440-yard run in the record time of 60.34 seconds. Lucy's preliminary time of 60.9 also broke the old record of 62 flat. This is the first time Lucy has ever run the event in competition. In the 880-yard relay, Forsan's team of Karla Cregar, Valerie Adams, Kathy Harrell and Lucy Thixton turned in the record time of 1:50.4, beating the old mark by four tenths of a second. New Deal finished a distant second in the race in the time of 1:53.7. In the mile relay, Lauri Bristow, Debra Kountz, Kathy Harrell and Lucy Thixton shattered the old record of 4:28.9 by covering the distance in 4:20.43. Again, New Deal wound up in second place. In the 440-yard relay, Forsan was third in the time of 53.71. Running for the Buffalo Queens were Karen Hobbs, Joni Poyner, Karla Cregar and Valerie Adams. In the 880-yard run, Forsan's Kathy Harrell placed second in the time of 2:38.9. Karla Cregar of Forsan won the 220-yard dash in the time of 27.8. In the 80-yard hurdles, Valerie Adams, Forsan, placed fourth in the time of 12.7. The Buffs' Christi Adams was third in the shot put with a toss of 35-3/4, then won the discus with a heave of 108-5/8. The old record was 94-10. Joni Poyner, Forsan, placed sixth in the long jump with a 14-7 effort. Van Koutz coaches the Forsan team. He will take the squad back to Plains next Saturday for the district meet. Forsan boys' results: 440-yard relay team of K. Hooper, Tim Decker, D.F. Stanley and Randy Cregar placed fifth, 46.42. Donald Pena, second in 880-yard run, 2:14.7. Tim Decker, second in 330-yard intermediate hurdles, 43.5. Randy Cregar, fourth in 110-yard dash, 10.55. Ramon Holguin, third in mile run, 5:07.5. Randy Cregar second (23.1), and D.F. Stanley, fifth (24.03) in 220-yard dash. Ramon Holguin, third in mile run, 5:07.5. Team of Preston Daniels, Wade McMurray, Tim Decker and Donald Pena, fifth in mile relay, 3:55.1. Randy Cregar, first in long jump, 19-11. Todd Underwood, first in shot put, 48-4/2. Todd Underwood, first in discus, 133-3/4. Forsan's boys' coach is Ronnie Taylor.

Hunters shoot buffalo in Colorado

LAS ANIMAS, Colo. (AP) — A four-inch snowfall the night before made the chocolate-colored buffalo look even larger as they posed through the snow a half-mile away in search of food.

"They'll throw up their tails like a flag when they think there's danger near them," said rancher Roger Ratzlaff. "Then they'll start running."

Ratzlaff and his cousin, Dale Ratzlaff of Denver, own the buffalo grazing on the pasture in southeastern Colorado.

The Ratzlaffs began raising buffalo just over a year ago as a hobby and the herd had expanded to 20. For the hunt they turned out several surplus bulls in a 1,300-acre pasture. The pasture was flat, studded with bear grass and cactus on the west side where the buffalo grazed, but turned into broken mesa country, covered with cedar trees, about a mile and a half to the east.

Roger Ratzlaff, his eyes drawn into a tight squint by the glaring snow, pointed to the mesa and said, "If they go up there, we'll never be able to get them out. Let's just hope they don't strike out for the cedar."

Dale Ratzlaff and Don Novak of Golden had arrived a day earlier and had decided the night before that they would use muzzle-loading plains rifles. The reproduction rifles were indistinguishable from those used in the mid-1800s.

Novak and Dale Ratzlaff loaded their rifles with black powder, then rammed down lead balls, tightly fitted to the barrels by patches of cloth.

Boats also vulnerable to theft

AUSTIN — Boats and related equipment are just as vulnerable to theft as automobiles, judging from statistics compiled by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

About 25 boat thefts are reported across the state each month, and probably many other incidents go unreported. From Sept. 1, 1977, to Aug. 31, 1978, more than 1,000 boat thefts were reported, and about 150 more have occurred since that time.

"Boat theft is a continuing and growing problem and help is needed from boaters and the general public to put a stop to it," said Larry Williford, water safety law enforcement supervisor for the department. "If you lose anything or see anything suspicious, please report it."

Boats are not all that are stolen. A thief can take almost anything, including trailers, motors, canvas, navigation equipment, boat furniture, TV, tape decks and radio sets, tools, binoculars, heavy weather clothes, life jackets, scuba gear, water skis and fishing tackle.

The modern-day thief uses bolt cutters and can completely empty a boat in a matter of minutes. Batten down not just the hatches, but every means of entry to your boat. Dead-bolt locks should replace or supplement existing spring locks.

Inside hinges are best. If you must retain the outside type, make sure the pins are non-removable. Or replace hinge plate screws with lug-pins.

Attach strong hasps and padlocks on cockpit lockers, and use one-way bolts with lock nuts.

The thief can separate an entire outboard from a transom simply by loosening clamping screws. There are special clamping screw locks to forestall such losses.

Scientists may be overlooking a potential energy source in the electric catfish of Africa.

Or the electric eel found in the Amazon River watershed in South America.

Still too far away? Then let's consider the electric fish living in the coastal waters of North America.

According to information from Mercury outboards' fishing department, there are at least three electricity producing fish which live next to our shores.

They are the Atlantic electric ray, ranging from Nova Scotia to Cuba; the Pacific electric ray, which lives from British Columbia to southern California; and the lesser electric ray, which resides in the Caribbean.

Although biologists have studied most of these electric fish, they do not fully understand the process by which the fish can manufacture electricity.

Special cells in the fish's body act as electric producers, and chemical changes within the cells cause a buildup of electricity.

Tissues composed of these cells are arranged like plates in a battery and can be discharged when needed.

Lake Spence report

Blue catfish are showing up in increasing numbers at Lake E.V. Spence. One 25-pounder came near tying the lake record for this species. Crappie also were more numerous in the reports, along with black bass and striped bass. Here were some of the reports:

Triangle Grocery — Eddie Fuller, Randall Nixon, and Kenneth Burns of Odessa, three blue catfish, the largest 25 pounds, which was only 14 ounces under the record-holder landed a year ago by Larry and Dorothy Bishop of Denver City; Ronnie Bankhead, Odessa, two strippers to 12 pounds, and a 14-lb. blue cat; C.J. Booe, Seminole, a 3 1/2-lb. black bass, four strippers to 4 1/2-lbs., five crappie to 1 1/2 lbs., and a channel catfish.

Hillside Grocery — Hilton Goff and Bill McKinney, Odessa 20 blue cat to 10 lbs.; Jo Ann Burns and Mary Bessert, Robert Lee, a black bass and 12 crappie; Lois and Bill Schwager, Odessa, 25 crappie to 1 lb.; Ronnie Sledge, Lamesa, a 2 1/2-lb. black bass.

Edith Country Corner — Max Wise, Robert Lee, three channel catfish and a 3-lb. Striper; Red Lipsey, Kermid, 10 crappie to 3 1/2-lb. and 3 4-lb. black bass.

Wildcat Fish A Rama — Perry Nelson and party from Odessa, five crappie to 1 1/2 lb. and a 2-lb. striper; K.L. Burns, Odessa, a 15-lb. striper and a 17-lb. blue catfish.

Paint Creek Marina — Melvin Lambert, Ralls, a 5 1/2-lb. striper; C.R. Noe, Odessa, a 16 1/2-lb. blue cat; Jody Baker and wife, Odessa, 65 crappie; Richard Notley and Charles Notley and John Brinker, Odessa, nine strippers and three black bass to 5 lb.; Bobby Hobgood, Abilene, six strippers to 6 lbs.

Palmer's complaints are to be expected

MIAMI (AP) — Jim Palmer has a 5.28 earned run average in spring training, but the Baltimore pitching ace is in midseason form ... with his list of complaints.

The three-time Cy Young Award winner, who has won 20 or more games in eight of the last nine seasons, would seem to be without a care as the new season approaches.

Not so, Palmer, who in 1977 renegotiated a three-year contract extension through the 1981 season, complains periodically that he's underpaid.

He also offers an occasional bitter comment about Baltimore's outfield play, not without some justification in view of the pitiful 1978 performance by some of the players.

But those outbursts are but passing fancies compared with his complaints about aches and pains, real or imagined. He seems to issue medical bulletins about his health daily and he can bounce back off the critical list in a matter of hours, sometimes minutes.

Because of his stature and his value to the club, Palmer's physical condition is a matter of concern. But, like the boy in the fable who cried wolf once too often, Palmer is losing his credibility.

The 33-year-old right-hander complained of a pain in his lower back after playing catch two days before Baltimore's spring training camp formally opened. But he worked out the next day.

Junior Rangers cleaning parks

AUSTIN — If a number of state parks this year seem to have a specially spruced-up look, you'll know the Junior Rangers have been around.

A pilot program started in five parks last summer by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, whereby youngsters helped to combat the litter problem, was so successful that it now is being extended to 25 parks.

Junior Rangers are young people ages six through 12 years who voluntarily pick up litter for a total of four hours, with permission of their parent or guardian.

The time can be divided, on different days and in different parks, but when to meet and where to pick up litter is under the direction of a park ranger. When the four hours have been completed, the child receives a helmet with a decal certifying he or she has become a Junior Ranger.

Besides the obvious benefits to the park and the environment, the youngster is given incentive to learn and care about the outdoors. At Lake Livingston State Park last year, groups were conducted along a nature trail while they picked up the litter. This area had the best record of all for the season, with 85 participants picking up two tons of litter.

Parks now instituting the program include: Garner, Inks Lake, Pedernales Falls, McKinney Falls, Sea Rim, Mustang Island, Copper Breaks, Palo Duro Canyon and Tyler State Parks; Kerrville, Lake Somerville (Birch and Nails Areas), Goose Island, Abilene, Lake Colorado City, Possum Kingdom, Eisenhower, Lake Livingston, Fairfield Lake, Fort Parker, Lake Brownwood and Lake Arrowhead State Recreation Areas; San Jose Mission, Goliad and Hueco Tanks State Historical Parks.

Displays about the Junior Ranger program will be found in each of the office registration areas of these parks.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 1, 1979.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have a day and evening when your mind is logical and you are able to rightly decide the best course of action that could give you added abundance in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Attend a meeting that could help clear up any indecisions you may have. Plan how to stretch your finances.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have excellent ideas about improving your position in life, but be sure to talk to experts before taking any steps.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Good day to be with persons you like and respect and much good can result. Plan social affairs that are worthwhile.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Going after an important or outside affair can bring unexpected success now. Make your social life more satisfying.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Contact good friends and follow their suggestions. Concentrate on how to be more productive in the days ahead.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Follow your hunches and you can start a new plan that will bring you added success and happiness. Budget your money wisely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can easily perfect a talent now that you have not for some time. Show increased affection for the one you love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan your activities for the upcoming week so little time is lost. Spend as much time as you can with loved one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Visit new sites with an associate and cement better relations for the future. Relax at home tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Carry through with what is expected of you by family members and have increased harmony. Make plans for the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be more direct with congenials and get better results. Show the one you love that you are thoroughly devoted.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talk over financial affairs with close ties and get right results. Planning your personal life more wisely is possible today.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a brilliant mind and will learn easily, so be sure to give as fine an education as you can and teach the importance of specialization. Don't neglect religious training and teach good manners early in life.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have to be taught to be controlled in order to meet the exigencies of life successfully, since this is a very sensitive nature. Much fast thinking and good judgment is good.

The Stars Impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Hearst rehearsal planned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Members of Patricia Hearst's wedding party planned an evening rehearsal today, one day before the former kidnap victim and prison inmate marries police officer Bernard Shaw, her onetime bodyguard.

The ceremony and reception Sunday will be held at a naval base on Treasure Island, in the middle of San Francisco Bay, two months to the day after Miss Hearst's release from prison.

The Hearst family arranged to hold the wedding on the base for security reasons. It was keeping just about every detail of the celebration secret.

Carter cousin to marry

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Willie Carter Spann, who calls himself the black sheep of President Carter's family, plans to marry at the state prison here, where he is serving time for armed robbery.

The 32-year-old Spann, whose mother is the president's sister Gloria, has received permission to marry 41-year-old Jane Frey of San Francisco, who describes herself as an insurance worker.

"They were introduced a few months ago through a mutual friend, so it is sort of a prison romance," said Jim Kane, associate superintendent of the California Medical Facility prison.

None of the Carter family will attend Tuesday's ceremony, Kane said.

Spann is serving 10 years to life for two San Francisco bar robberies.

Drinking problems low?

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former U.S. Rep. Wayne L. Hays says that in his 28 years in Congress he only knew two or three colleagues who would get "pretty well inebriated" by early afternoon.

He said the percentage of congressmen with drinking problems is low compared to the incidence of alcoholism in the general population.

Woman, two daughters hospitalized after self-mutilation

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — A woman who reportedly claimed to be John the Baptist and threatened to behead herself was hospitalized with her two young daughters after all three underwent surgery to reattach hands chopped off with a butcher knife, authorities said.

"Everything indicates" that 23-year-old Bernadine Hill mutilated herself and her children, Hampton police Lt. G.O. Manor said Friday night.

After 11 hours of surgery, doctors reattached the left hand of 7-month-old Shonnel and the right hand of 5-year-old Shonda, said Jean Segner, a spokeswoman for Norfolk General Hospital.

However, Mrs. Hill's left hand, which had been "hanging on by a tendon," had to be amputated, she said.

Mrs. Hill was listed in satisfactory condition. The daughters, who also suffered abdominal cuts, were transferred to nearby Kings Daughters Hospital, where they were listed in good condition.

Manor said no charges would be filed until after police talked to Mrs. Hill. Her husband, Cpl. Wilson B. Hill Jr., is stationed at El Toro Marine Air Station in California and was en route here, he said.

A neighbor said she talked with Mrs. Hill on Thursday night and that she "called herself John the Baptist and said she might behead herself like the real biblical figure," police Capt. J.D. Samples said.

"We haven't talked to the woman (Mrs. Hill) yet, so we don't really know if the two incidents are connected," Samples said.

Mrs. Hill told workers at Norfolk General Hospital when she was brought in Friday that "Satan was her father, and he made her do it," Ms. Segner said.

Samples said Mrs. Hill's mother, Jewel Jennings, found the woman and the children about 10 a.m. Friday at their Hampton apartment.

MARTHA REED
Airman Reed in California

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Martha J. Reed, daughter of Mrs. Fern Pierce of New Bern, N.C., has been assigned to Castle AFB, Calif., for duty in the U.S. Air Force civil engineering structural and pavements field.

The airman, who recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas, studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Completion of this training earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Reed attended Big Spring High School. Her brother, Roy L. Pierce, resides at 906 Nolan, Big Spring.

Sgt. Monson judged best

LUBBOCK, Tex. — Stagg Sgt. Ralph D. Monson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen A. Monson of R.R. 1, Reynolds, Ill., is a member of the information office at Reese AFB, Tex., judged best in the Air Training Command.

Sgt. Monson is an information specialist with the 64th Flying Training Wing, which was recognized for its outstanding community relations and public and internal information programs.

The sergeant, a 1969 graduate of Rockridge High School, Taylor Ridge, Ill., attended Aplena (Mich.) community college and the University of Maryland European Division at Torrejon AB, Spain.

His wife, Jo Ann, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Day of Sterling City.

Training completed

Navy Airman Michael D. Bryant, whose wife, Mavis, is the daughter of Eldon G. and Bobbie F. Holland of R.R. 1, Box 170, Big Spring, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

He joined the Navy in December 1978.

Participating in 'Red Flag'

HAMPTON, Va. — Sgt. Jerry G. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winston G. Brown of Lamesa, is participating in "Red Flag," a continuing Tactical Air Command training exercise conducted at Nellis AFB, Nev.

Brown is an aerospace ground equipment repairman at Langley AFB, Va., with the 1st Tactical Fighter Wing.

The Red Flag exercise series is designed to provide air and ground crews with realistic training while operating under simulated combat conditions.

The sergeant is a 1974 graduate of Lamesa High School.

Money, money everywhere

EMPORIA, Kan. (AP) — Banker Glenn Tague can identify with the fictional television benefactor who gave away millions of dollars.

Tague, senior vice president and trust officer of Citizens National Bank and Trust Co., expects to give away $1 million this year as administrator of the Walter S. and Evan C. Jones Trust.

The Joneses were ranchers from Lebo, Kan., who died in the 1950s. They directed that income from 56,000 acres of pasture in Kansas and Texas be used for medical aid and educational assistance for young people in Lyon, Coffey and Osage counties in southeast Kansas.

The income has exceeded the most optimistic expectations.

The Kansas land, which rented for $4.45 an acre in 1962, went for $15 an acre this year. Gas and oil royalties that totaled $11,900 in 1963 reached $559,000 last year. Annual net profit from the trust has gone from $245,000 in 1962 to $965,000 in 1978. Tague says he believes it will surpass $1 million this year.

The foundation has also helped 20 communities build parks and recreation facilities. Its contributions have ranged from $41,950 for a 9½-acre park at Admire to $180,367 for a 62-acre park in Emporia.

Free spirit at large

SEATTLE (AP) — A penchant for dressing up like Abraham Lincoln or Uncle Sam and seeing the country by bus has won 56-year-old Franklin Burke many smiles — and a few nights in jail.

But Burke, from St. Petersburg, Fla., is untroubled by an occasional arrest. He says his duty is to spread patriotism as he rambles across the nation.

He said he was once jailed in Chicago for disturbing the peace while dancing in a street in his Uncle Sam suit.

Also in Chicago, sleeping in Lincoln Park in a Lincoln suit "because I was broke," he again was arrested. This time it was a loitering charge.

T.D. DUNCAN

Duncan among top graduates

Timothy Drew Duncan, 18, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey O. Nichols of Big Spring, was a February graduate of Lackland Air Force Base. He graduated in the upper 18 of his class of 400 in a training program for Security Police.

Duncan, who lived in Big Spring eight years and attended local schools, was a four-year student and graduate of Nacogdoches High School in 1978. He entered the Air Force in September, 1978.

Duncan, who was a member of the 14th and Main Church of Christ when he lived in Big Spring, is now stationed at a North Dakota air base.

HOWARD WATKINS

Watkins earns honor ribbon

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Howard K. Watkins, son of retired Air Force Master Sgt. and Mrs. Calvin H. Watkins of 3707 Calvin, Big Spring, Tex., has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

During the intensive six weeks of training, the airman earned the honor graduate ribbon for academic and military excellence. Completion of this training earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Watkins will now receive specialized training in the aircraft maintenance field at Sheppard AFB, Tex. He attended Weatherford High School.

Snyder grad is specialist

DENVER, Colo. — Airman Charles C. Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Stewart of 300 35th St., Snyder, has graduated at Lowry AFB, Colo., from the U.S. Air Force technical training course for weapons control systems mechanics.

Airman Stewart, now a specialist in the maintenance and repair of aircraft weapons control systems, is being assigned to Kunsan AB, Republic of Korea, for duty with a unit of the Pacific Air Forces. Completion of the course earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman is a 1978 graduate of Snyder High School.

- Get a free Cash King Collector Card at your checkout counter or store office. No purchase necessary. Each Card contains Cash King Games worth $2.55, $10, $100, $1,000 and $2,000!
- Each time you visit the store pick up a free Cash King Game Ticket (with four markers).
- Punch out the perforated markers on your game ticket and match them to the squares on your collector card. Just follow the easy rules on the back of your collector card. You could be the next big winner!

ODDS CHART

ODDS vary depending on number of game tickets you obtain. The more tickets you collect the better your chances of winning.

Cash King Series #K35 is being played in 88 participating Foodway, Win Dixie, Foodway Stores and 12 Borden Hardware and Thriftly Maid Centers located in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Scheduled termination date of this promotion is May 9, 1979. However, Cash King officially ends when all game tickets are distributed.

Railroad bridges improvised to accomodate nuclear reactor

CORSICANA, Texas — Had you been out along the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad tracks near here recently, you might have seen a million or so pounds of machinery riding on — and overflowing — a low-slung freight car. It also was heading for a bridge too narrow to let that big baby pass. But then you would have seen the giant load take a little hop, just high enough to clear the sides of the bridge, and settle down again on the other side to continue its journey. You would not have been drinking, either — it really happened.

Making it happen took a lot of ingenuity and effort, which saved a lot of time and money. Overall, the project was a significant engineering feat in modern railroading, industry observers agreed.

It began when Westinghouse Corp. came to FW&D, a subsidiary of Burlington Northern Inc., about shipping a nuclear reactor vessel from the Port of Houston to a power plant at Glen Rose, Texas, southwest of Fort Worth. The device was to be barged via the Gulf of Mexico from Pensacola, Fla., to Houston. Other railroads would carry it brief distances, but FW&D had the longest segment, 165 miles. The stretch included four bridges with steel plate sides which extended 4 feet 2 inches above the rail. Or too high for the fat reactor with its protruding parts to get through.

"It was necessary either to improvise to get through the bridges, or widen them at great cost," said Cleatus Rm Vining, FW&D chief engineer based at Fort Worth. "We had to wrestle with the thing a little bit. We wanted to keep the project simple because the work had to be done expeditiously. In addition, we didn't want to disturb any of the present track."

Since going through or around was out, Vining "came up with the idea to just raise the grade," or height of the track, enough so the reactor would clear the bridge. "To my knowledge, it was the first time this procedure had been used on any railroad," he said.

Vining, engineering supervisor Harold A. Haanes, and their colleagues, working with Westinghouse people, spent months in planning the project. Here's how it was done:

The reactor rode on a special heavy duty car owned by Westinghouse and called a Schnabel car, which is 178 feet long and has 22 axles. The reactor, when loaded, measured 22 feet 3 inches wide and was almost 21 1/2 feet above the rail. Gross weight on the rail was 1,325,000 pounds. "It was the biggest object we have ever moved," Vining said.

The wide load necessitated clearing all adjacent track, while the Schnabel car itself provided a way to ease around some trackside structures, such as signal towers: The car has hydraulic mechanisms which can shift the load 14 inches horizontally and 12 inches vertically.

Negotiating the four plate girder bridges was accomplished through Vining's raising-the-track idea: Simply laying another, portable track on top of the bridge track. The portable track consisted of 39-foot panels which could be joined together, just like you would set up a model railroad track. The panels had oak ties slightly larger than regular ties and each panel weighed between 11 and 12 tons.

Big Spring hosts young scientists

P.B.R. Science Fair winners revealed

By MICKIE DICKSON
A scholarly atmosphere pervaded the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Saturday as the Awards Ceremony got underway March 24, 8:30 a.m., for the Permian Basin Regional Science Fair.

Competition was keen between the high quality exhibits displayed around the room, and intelligent students and sponsors were tense.

Joe Reed, director of the fair, opened the ceremony with expressions of appreciation to all participants, sponsors, teachers and parents for a successful fair, Big Springs first. "Not everybody is going to get an award, but 'all of you are winners. You have studied, you have worked, you have learned and competed," Reed said, "You now possess knowledge which few people have."

The podium, occupied by Harold Bentley, assistant superintendent of Big Spring Independent School District, Johnnie Lou Avery, president of Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and Dr. Charles Hays, president of Howard College held a group of proud, hard-working educators, and sponsors of Big Spring. Each extended a warm welcome and sincere congratulations to the teachers, parents and students whose work and dedication made possible the impressive array of talent displayed on the coliseum floor.

The judges of the exhibits were extremely impressed by the high quality of the exhibits, the exemplary behavior of participating students, their parents and sponsors and the overall scholarly atmosphere of the entire undertaking.

Mrs. Helen Gladden, elementary curriculum coordinator and mother of Sam Gladden, fifth grade co-recipient of the first place group in the elementary division, handed out each award to the qualifying young scientists.

The elementary division awards were, 1st grade, 1st place, Linnea Balderach, College Heights School.

Rodeo queen hopefuls try to lasso title

One of 10 Howard College females will be crowned 1979 Rodeo Queen when the Howard College Rodeo takes place April 5-8 at the Big Spring Rodeo Arena.

Competing for the title are Lynn Peach, Kerry Swann, Dietra Fowler, Jill Walker, Cindy Russell, Leslie Welch, Suzanne Johnson, Andra Hohertz, Lyn Garner, and Mariella Wise.

Lynn Peach is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.G. Peach of Big Spring and is an 18-year-old HC freshman. Sign language, swimming, snow skiing and music are included in her list of hobbies.

Contestant Kerry Swann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Swann of Coahoma is also an 18-year-old freshman at the local college. She was chosen as April Girl of the Month at Coahoma High School and is a HC cheerleader. She enjoys playing tennis, water skiing, watercolor painting and is a member of the Choralists.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted J. Fowler, Dietra is a 22-year-old sophomore from Coahoma. In high school she was an SGA representative as well as cheerleader. Her hobbies include customizing and rebuilding cars, and jogging.

Jill Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Walker of Lamesa, is interested in photography and outdoor sports. She is a 20-year-old sophomore at HC and is a member of numerous clubs.

Another Rodeo Queen hopeful is Cindy Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ray Russell of Big Spring. As an 18-year-old HC freshman, she is a Hawk cheerleader and is a member of SGA. She likes children and all sports.

Tarzan native Leslie Welch is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon A. Welch. She was listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students in 1976 and enjoys water skiing, riding horses, country-western dancing and all outdoor sports and activities.

Suzanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy O. Johnson Sr. of Big Spring. This 19-year-old HC freshman participated on the Big Spring High School volleyball team. She is a member of the Howard College Press Club, Circle K and is Freshman Class treasurer. She enjoys bowling, meeting people, writing poems as well as water skiing and playing tennis.

Andra Hohertz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daryle Hohertz, is now a freshman at HC. In high school she was a member of the Student Council, Key Club Sweetheart, and cheerleader. Presently she is an SGA representative, Miss Howard College Presidential Hostess, cheerleader and a member of the Circle K Club.

She enjoys water skiing, playing tennis and traveling.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace B. Garner of Big Spring are the parents of Lyn Garner, a 19-year-old sophomore at Howard College. She is SGA president, cheerleader and secretary-treasurer of Phi Theta Kappa. She likes to collect menus and good poems and enjoys sewing and playing tennis.

Final Rodeo Queen contestant, Mariella Wise, is the daughter of Big Spring residents Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wise. This 19-year-old HC freshman has held many top honors including Miss Congeniality and second runner-up in the Miss Howard College Pageant. She enjoys dancing, swimming and being with her friends.

These 10 contestants will sell tickets entitling the one with the most sales to reign as 1979 Rodeo Queen of Howard College.

Mayor Wade Choate has issued a proclamation declaring April 1-7 Cinderella Girl Week.

The Cinderella Girl Pageant is the fastest growing pageant in the world today. Ethical standards, outstanding moral values and a complete youth development training program are the organization's main objectives.

Headquartered in Baton Rouge, La., the international pageant is held in the old governor's mansion. Begun in 1972, Carl Dunn is president of the International Productions and Publications Inc., which is the Cinderella Girl Pageant System.

Nelda Colclazer, recording secretary for the Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association, has been actively involved as coordinator and director of various beauty pageants since 1966.

Not until 1977 did she become an enthusiastic coordinator for the Cinderella Girl Pageant when she and Ruth Manuel decided to produce one.

Eventually the ABWA decided to utilize the Cinderella Girl Pageant and part of their ways and means.

During 1978 a Big Spring Cinderella Girl Pageant and District II was held with 11 girls from this area participating in state competition, one of which won talent division and qualified to go to the international pageant in Baton Rouge, La.

"This year we are having much more response than ever before," stated Mrs. Colclazer of the 1979 Cinderella Girl Pageant which will take place April 7 at 7 p.m. in the Howard College Auditorium.

Many talented girls will take to the stage dancing, playing various musical instruments, performing acrobatics, singing and twirling just to name a few.

"Some girls are self-taught and some have taken classes," revealed Mrs. Colclazer.

Pageant deadline, originally March 28, has been extended through today and those interested in participating are invited to attend the pageant tea at the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Cactus Room at the Howard College Student Union Building at 2:30 p.m. Entries will be accepted there.

Entry fee is $30 which can be paid by a business or personal sponsor. This fee includes insurance and is the only pageant obligation.

Rehearsals will be held April 2 and 3 at 7 p.m. in the Howard College Auditorium with final rehearsal April 6 at 6:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

Preliminaries begin at 9 a.m. April 7 and the public is invited to attend at no charge.

Selected to judge the competition are J. Gordon Lunn, Carl Rogers and Jane Gillit.

Lunn joined KOSA-TV in Odessa last year as a weather reporter. He is currently studying meteorology at Penn State University and has judged several beauty pageants.

Rogers, presently the sports director of KOSA-TV, Odessa, has been an Odessa resident for 21 years and an associate of KOSA since 1970.

Mrs. Gillit is in charge of Teen Fashion Board at Dillard's Department Store in Lubbock. As a resident of Wolfforth, she teaches poise and charm classes professionally and has judged many area, local and state pageants.

Master of ceremonies for the event will be Jim Baum of KBYG Radio Station, and entertainment will be provided by contestants performing a disco number.

The official Cinderella Girl Pageant Theme will be sung by Keith Lofton, formerly youth director of Midway Baptist Church and now a student at Hardin-Simmons University of Abilene.

Pageant admission price will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. All proceeds will go toward the ABWA scholarship fund for local girls.

Within the last year, a total of $1,900 has been presented to local girls in an effort to further their education.

According to Frances Swann, ABWA president, the Stephen F. Bufon Memorial Foundation makes loans or grants to girls recommended by ABWA.

"Any girl who would like to apply for a scholarship can contact any ABWA member or officer," explained Mrs. Swann.

Present officers of the Cactus Chapter include Mrs. Swann, president; Margaret Wiles, vice president; Mrs. Colclazer, recording secretary; Vonna Lee Davis, corresponding secretary; and Essie Jackson, treasurer.

In addition to the Cinderella Girl Pageant, the chapter conducts a Harvest Sale in November with members making homemade items, arts and crafts, and baked goods to sell to the public. Last year over $650 was raised for the scholarship fund.

Mrs. Colclazer was chosen as one of the few directors who was chosen by International Productions to receive a Who's Who in Pageants. She and two other ABWA members, Gail Earls and Esther Trantham, will be on the staff of the state Cinderella Girl Pageant.

Tot category, and her mom, Mrs. Rodney Fuqua; Melynda Grifford, competing for Cinderella Mini Miss, and her mother, Mrs. David Grifford; and Kari Jan Robinson, Mrs. Jerry Robinson's daughter, who will compete for Cinderella Teen.

Lawenda Rhea Tunnell becomes Mrs. Larry Creech

The wedding vows between Lawenda Rhea Tunnell and Larry Joe Creech were solemnized Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church of Stanton.

Performing the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Bill Shockley, pastor of Woodrow Baptist Church, Lubbock, at 7 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Tunnell, Stanton; and Mr. and Mrs. Thearl Creech, also of Stanton.

The altar was decorated by a rainbow candelabrum and two spiral candelabrum of brass adorned with satin bows, greenery and baby's breath. Completing the setting was a yellow unity candle with the wedding invitation made into it.

Providing the music for the ceremony was the groom's aunt of Stanton, Mrs. Peggy Creech, organist. Pianist was Vanessa Cooper of Sand Springs. Shelly Tunnell, Stanton, sister of the bride, served as vocalist.

The bride chose to wear a formal white gown of organza and imported Chantilly lace which featured a V-neckline enhanced by an organza ruffle. Her modish basque bodice and trumpet sleeves enhanced the full A-line skirt which flared to a wide circular hem trimmed with Chantilly lace over self-fabric ruffles. Medallions adorned the front and back of her semi-cathedral-length train.

A colonial bouquet of spring flowers and yellow roses enhanced the bride's ensemble.

Belinda Martin, Big Spring, served the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Roy Madison, Tarzan, cousin of the bride and Mrs. Gary Henson, Stanton. They were attired in yellow formal gowns of chiffon over satin featuring pleated skirts and blouson bodices.

Serving the groom as best man was Gary Chumley, Lubbock. Groomsmen were Scott Creech, Clarendon, cousin of the groom; and Bruce Graham, Stanton. Jeff Scott Creech, Clarendon, groom, Seminole and J.C. Tunnell, brother of the bride from Stanton, served as ushers.

The bride's sister, Jogay Tunnell, Stanton, was flower girl for the ceremony. She wore a dress of yellow tulle with a full skirt. A cumberbund sash defined the waistline in the back. Irvin Welch, cousin of the bride, served as ring bearer.

A reception feted the couple in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was draped with a white floor-length cloth and featured a centerpiece of yellow roses and daisies arranged in a silver candelabrum. A three-tiered cake decorated with yellow roses and separated with columns staged a flowing fountain enhanced by yellow and white flowers. A pair of white doves topped the cake.

MRS. LARRY JOE CREECH

Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Jody Yates, Mrs. Bruce Graham and Tana Yates.

The groom's table was laid with brown cloth and centered with a wooden candelabrum with amber candleholders. Yellow daisies and greenery decorated the base. German chocolate cake and coffee were served to the guests by Mrs. Steve Creech, Mrs. David Dillard and Mrs. Gene Wheeler.

The bride is a 1978 graduate from Grady High School and is presently employed by Houston Natural Gas, Midland. The groom graduated from Lovington High School, Lovington, in 1975, and is engaged in farming in the Tarzan community, where the couple will make their home.

A Word to the Wives Should Be Sufficient

DEAR READERS: Last week I printed my Ten Commandments for Husbands. Being a proponent of equal rights, today I offer my Ten Commandments for Wives.

If you missed last week's column and want a copy, please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

10 COMMANDMENTS FOR WIVES

- 1) Defile not thy body either with excessive foods, tobacco or alcohol, that thy days may be long in the house which thy husband provideth for thee.
- 2) Put thy husband before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter and thy son, for he is thy lifelong companion.
- 3) Thou shalt not nag.
- 4) Permit no one to tell thee that thou art having a hard time of it; neither thy mother, thy sister nor thy neighbor, for the Judge will not hold her guiltless who letteth another disparage her husband.
- 5) Thou shalt not withhold affection from thy husband, for every man loveth to be loved.
- 6) Forget not the virtue of cleanliness and modest attire.
- 7) Forgive with grace, for who among us doth not need forgiveness?
- 8) Remember that the frank approval of thy husband is worth more to thee than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers.
- 9) Keep thy home in good order, for out of it come the joys of thy old age.
- 10) Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who is pretty good at solving problems, but I need help with this one.

Last Friday night my parents came home and found my boyfriend and me lying on the couch with the lights turned off. We were just talking. Honest to God, I swear!

They made a big fuss and my boyfriend went home early. (He's allowed to stay until midnight on weekends, but he was so embarrassed by the way they yelled at me he left at 11 o'clock.)

Do you see anything wrong with two people lying on the couch and talking?

What would you do if it were your daughter, and you had always been able to trust her?

JUST TALKING

DEAR JUST: I'd tell her that she'd be wise to keep both feet on the floor, and so would her boyfriend—that talking in a sleeping position could lead to nightmares she never dreamed could happen.

I'd say, "I still trust you, Honey, but people think much better with the lights on—sitting up."

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (25 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

MR. AND MRS. STEVEN MARK YOUNG

Wedding ceremony performed Friday

Laurie Lynn Wooten became the bride of Steven Mark Young in a wedding ceremony held Friday evening in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bennett, Sterling City, Texas.

Royce Clay, minister of 14th and Main Church of Christ, performed the 7 p.m. ceremony before an altar enhanced by spring flowers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wooten, Silver Heels. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Young, 1401 Runnels.

The traditional wedding march played as the bride walked down the aisle in a traditional gown of candlelight gauze and antique lace. The molded bodice overlaid in gauze featured a stand-up neckline and long sheer gauze sleeves adorned in antique lace. Enhancing the A-line skirt was a double flounce edged in antique lace and satin ribbon. The bride's hair was coiffured in baby's breath and antique lace.

She carried a bouquet of gardenias and spring flowers accented with baby's breath over a white Bible carried by her mother in her wedding.

Lori Farquhar, cousin of the bride, Odessa, attended the bride as maid of honor. She was attired in a mauve organza gown pleated from an antique lace collar featuring a Queen Anne neckline.

Best man for the ceremony was Christopher Wooten, brother of the bride.

The newlyweds were honored at a reception immediately following the ceremony. Included in the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Farquhar, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. M.L. Nanny, Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Morgan, Nederland; Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Buchanan, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wooten, Houston; and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Ferrell.

Kate Guthrie and Jana Wagner served at the groom's table. Those serving at the bride's table included Beth Young, sister of the groom; Tina Lovelace and Tammie Tonn. Martha Wooten, cousin of the bride, served as registrar.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed by Ted Ferrell Insurance. The groom is also a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed by Wooten Transfer and Storage.

Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed location, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Mark Young will make their home at 601 Scurry.

Seventh grade students busy with career study

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

Today, teachers are encouraging their students as early as the 7th and 8th grades to begin thinking about their future career.

In conjunction with that effort, Compensatory Education Language Arts teachers Jean Slate and Becky Vines are conducting a career study with their 7th grade students at Goliad Middle School.

"Our goals are to encourage students to realize the different career areas open to them plus help them realize that school work does have a purpose," revealed Mrs. Slate.

Each student has chosen a career field and will be required to write a composition and fill out an information sheet. To do this, students use an Occupational Outlook Handbook. These exercises combine the language arts school work with the career aspect of the study.

"In addition to studying a particular career area, students have received general forms and surveys to help them become aware of their interests and aware of the wide range of career choices related to those areas," explained Mrs. Vines.

Beginning the first of this week, guest speakers have talked to the students about their various jobs.

Speakers included Anna Walker, Vocational Office Education instructor; and Judy Blick, Big Spring High School registrar, both of Big Spring High School. Harvey Rothell, guidance counselor, from the high school led students on a tour through the vocational classes.

Other guests speakers included Mrs. Ramona Harris, Howard College instructor, who spoke on licensed vocational nursing; and Joyce Wrightail from the Texas Employment Commission. Concluding speakers were Brad Mosher from the Industrial Arts Department of Howard College and Mike West, a truck driver for Birdwell Trucking Co.

Before the study is finished, students will have experience in filling out social security forms. Mock interviews for jobs will be conducted in an effort to show pupils the right and wrong way to apply for a job.

"We hope that these exercises will give students a chance to learn responsibility and at the same time, learn the practical aspects of life and reality," stated Mrs. Vines.

This is the first time a program such as this career study has ever been conducted at Goliad Middle School and according to these two teachers, it has been a great success.

"Although these programs do not discourage students from attending college, it does encourage them to learn some kind of vocational skill to fall back on," concluded Mrs. Slate.

Nurses will attend Dallas convention

Nurses from Texas Nurses Association District 24 will leave Tuesday for the 68th Annual Convention being held in Dallas at Loews Anatole Hotel April 4-7.

District 24 is one of the smallest in the state, but last year they won the membership award for attendance at convention. They are hoping for a repeat this year.

Members expected to attend are Lettie Lee, Mary McClendon, Charlotte Green, Linda Miller, Diane Austin, Sue Easterling, Betty Condray, Ollie Van Vleet, Mary Butler, Ruth Payne, Fannie Clark, and Virgie Allen.

In addition, there are eight students from Howard College Associate Degree Nursing School going. They are Elizabeth Arencibia, Gail Roach, Wanda Brewer, Sharon Harbuck, Shirley Nichols, Annette Reams, Zassar Gatson, and Ruth Owens.

Each year, the convention brings nurses together with state and national leaders to discuss trends in health care, which, in turn, provides them with information to continue to upgrade health care for the consumers.

The convention also affords nurses the opportunity to attend Continuing Education Workshops to increase their professional skills. Some of the topics covered in the workshops will be Skills Sessions in Clinical Areas, The Aging Population and Nursing Cost Containment, and Monitoring of Practice in Texas.

Some of the forums on issues will discuss the recent Attorney General Report on "standing orders" and to advise nurses of the status of the two major bills, which concern nurses, that are now in the Texas Legislature. These bills are The Nurse Practice Act and the bill to relieve the problem of "standing orders".

This year the convention will be attended by members on The Texas Pediatric Nurse Practitioners and they will have a pre-convention workshop on Women's Reproductive Health Care on Tuesday.

The theme of the convention will be The Seventies: Pathway to the Eighties and the keynote speaker will be Myrtle Aydelotte R.N. Ed. D., Executive Director of the American Nurses Association. Her topic will be Projects for Nursing: A Look into the Eighties.

As the convention is being held on the date of the regular monthly meeting of District 24, the meeting for April will be postponed until the next week which will be April 12. The time and the place, 7:30 in the Reference Library of the Horace Garrett Building, Howard College, will remain unchanged. There will be a report to the membership on the annual convention and nurses who are not members of TNA are invited.

Get canning supplies ready

By JANET ROGERS
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Get canning equipment and supplies ready — harvest and preservation season for garden fresh fruits and vegetables is just around the corner.

Canning is one of the oldest methods of preserving food. Proper canning insures safe food by processing food with high heat and protecting it with an airtight seal.

Heat destroys harmful bacteria and other microorganisms that cause food spoilage.

Also, heat inactivates enzymes that could cause undesirable changes in flavor, color and texture.

Two processing methods to use in home canning are water bath and steam pressure. The acidity of the food is the chief factor in determining which method to use.

For low acid foods such as meat, poultry, fish and vegetables, use a steam pressure canner — a heavy pan with a rack and cover which can be clamped down to make it tight.

The cover is fitted with a safety valve which will blow out if the pressure gets too great, a petcock to drive air out and a pressure gauge.

Keep all these parts of the pressure canner clean and in working order. Use directions for testing gauges once a year. Foods needs 10 pounds of pressure for processing to insure that food reaches the recommended temperature.

If the rubber gasket becomes hard, soak it in boiling water and stretch it to keep steam from escaping.

For high acid foods such as tomatoes, fruits and pickled vegetables, the appropriate equipment is a water bath canner.

This could be any large pan with straight sides, a cover and a rack to keep jars from resting on the bottom of the pan, thus allowing water to move freely around the jars.

Use a pan that is deep enough to allow the jar tops to be covered one to two inches and have space to gently boil. Large soup kettles could serve as water bath canners.

RONNIE BROWN

Ronnie Brown Trio to perform April 2

Concertgoers will be treated to a program ranging from the classics to jazz when Ronnie Brown appears at the Municipal Auditorium on April 2.

The Ronnie Brown Trio is being presented by Big Spring at 8:15 and will feature Mr. Brown at the piano with string bass and percussion rounding out the group.

Trained in the classics at Boston's New England Conservatory of Music, Ronnie Brown has become one of the nation's favorite nightclub performers, playing in such top spots as New York's Embers Club and Basin Street East; the Dunes and Sands Hotels in Las Vegas; The Kulm Hotel, St. Moritz; the Clift Hotel, San Francisco; the Raquet Club, Palm Springs; and the plush "Mr. Stox" near Disneyland.

He has also served as music director for the Balboa Bay Clubs and as music conductor and arranger for Metromedia television shows in Los Angeles. In 1975 he marked his debut on the concert stage with three tours over the course of seventeen weeks throughout the U.S. and Canada. Seldom has a group like this received the audience and critical acclaim accorded to the Ronnie Brown Trio.

The excitement created by his music plus an outgoing personality and personal charm have made him a popular television guest where he has appeared on "The Merv Griffin Show", the "Lawrence Welk Show", NBC's "Today Show" and others.

Ronnie has arranged,

Oral hygiene steps proposed

The modern science of dentistry has come a long way in the direction of prevention. We now know that it is possible to have and keep perfect teeth for a lifetime. By following a regimen of good oral habits at home, individuals can enjoy healthy teeth and gums from infancy to old age.

The five-step oral hygiene program proposed by the American Dental Association is as follows: First, daily brushing, preferably twice a day. Second, use a fluoride toothpaste. Third, see your dentist for a regular checkup as often as he recommends. Fourth, is to eat sensibly and nutritiously with as few sweets as possible — sugar is a prime cause of tooth decay. Fifth is daily flossing. Practicing these five steps at home in a daily routine can significantly reduce the occurrence of cavities and gum disease in childhood and in the mature years.

According to dental research, both cavities and gum disease are caused by the accumulation of an invisible substance called plaque, which is constantly coating the teeth and combining with bacteria and food debris — especially sugar. The ADA's five-point program is aimed at preventing the build-up of plaque in the mouth.

From the earliest age — around five is when most children develop the necessary manual dexterity — a child can begin to learn the techniques of brushing, and around the age of eight can start flossing. Parents and other influential persons can encourage and supervise these oral hygiene activities.

composed, accompanied and conducted. He calls on this strong and varied background in his programming which spans the musical world, successfully offering selections by Chopin and Beethoven alongside contemporary works such as "Slaughter on 10th Avenue" or Richard Addinsell's "Warsaw Concerto". Broadway show tunes and his own compositions. This same variety has been reflected on the artist's recording for the Columbia, Philips and Century labels.

A native New Englander, Ronnie was born in Warwick, Rhode Island. He began his entertainment career at the early age of twelve as the youngest organist-choir director in the Episcopal Diocese of Rhode Island. While still in high school he played in the Rhode Island State Band and organized and conducted combos for nightclub work.

He studied piano under Howard Goding and Anna Stovall Lothian and was graduated from the New England Conservatory with Bachelor of Arts and Masters Degrees where he remained for a time as a member of the teaching faculty. His advanced studies included television and radio production at Boston University, the Shakespearean Theater at Harvard University and arranging, conducting and composition at Boston's Berlee School of Music.

Make your own lucky breaks

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "She has all the luck!" How many times have you heard that? Perhaps you've even said it yourself, for we all know at least one person who seems to get all the breaks. But if you examine most "lucky breaks," you're likely to find there's more planning than luck behind those ideal situations, says Seventeen Magazine's April issue. Here's some ways to cultivate your own four-leaf clover:

Plan ahead. Anticipate a situation and prepare for it. "Then you can proceed with concrete plans based on evidence and experience, not fantasy and hearsay," says Howard Weeks, director of the Georgia State Employment Service.

Be willing to take risks. Many experts feel that risk taking is a trait often associated with high achievement. To overcome the fear of failure, ask yourself, "What's the worst thing that could happen if I do it?"

Look at something familiar in a different way. The ability to see everyday things in a new light is an important aspect of creativity.

Form helpful relationships. This isn't using people. It simply means taking advantage of the opportunities that come your way through friends.

Turn a misfortune into an advantage. When your approach to one goal is blocked, instead of feeling sorry for yourself, use a different approach or substitute another goal.

Try these methods for improving your luck. You'll find them more useful than any four-leaf clover.

Rose Stukel is president

Alpha Kappa Omicron chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met at the home of Celf Bedell with Doris Arcand presiding. Dot Frederick, from Bristol, Wisconsin, was a visitor. Celf Bedell and Donna Newell presented a program on Family. Mrs. Newell showed a film of the birth of her daughter, Heather. Girl of the Year and Pledge of the Year were voted on and will be presented at the Founder's Day Banquet, which will be held April 26.

Elections were held for the 1979-1980 year. Rose Stukel was elected president; Carole Lowstetter, vice president; Celf Bedell, recording secretary; Paula Gilmore, corresponding secretary; Donna Newell, treasurer; and Carole Lowstetter, city council representative. Paula Gilmore won the hostess gift. The next meeting will be April 10 in the home of Jan

Sims. Members are reminded to wear long dresses for the Pledge Ritual, which will begin at 7 p.m.

Insulation program slated

Home Insulation will be the program subject at the Monday night meeting of the Organic Soil Builders of Big Spring.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Payne, 2802 Clanton. Mrs. Sandra Killough of Texas Electric Service Company will present the program.

Mrs. John Johansen will conduct the business meeting. For further information call 263-6940

Rebekahs gather

The Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 met in the I.O.O.F. Hall at 9th and San Antonio Streets Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Jewel Thompson, noble grand, presided.

Olean Melton received a certificate of perfection in the unwritten work.

Sarah Griffith, representative, gave a report on the recent meeting of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas held in Abilene.

Members of Lodge No. 284 who were appointed to offices by Jerry Miller, the new president, were Sherri Wilson, chairman of the United Nations Pilgrimage; Ruth Wilson and Sara Griffith, aides to the chaplain; Robert Wilson, Grand Herald; Earl Wilson, Board of Trustees.

Lavelle Hill of John A. Kee No. 153, District Deputy President of District No. 11, will make her official visit next Tuesday.

Ruth Wilson presented Sherri her Past District Deputy Presidents pin.

Mrs. Thompson named Sherri Wilson, Gay Smith, Margi Norwood and Sue Nielson the refreshment committee for April. The committee announced that birthday night will be celebrated Tuesday.

Members are sponsoring a fifth Saturday night bake sale March 31. Proceeds from the sale will be used for sending a young person on the United Nations Pilgrimage Tour.

A pot luck supper will be held at 7 p.m. with entertainment provided by a live band.

The noble grand called for a general clean-up day at the lodge Saturday at 10 a.m.

The next meeting will be Tuesday in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Luncheon plans are finalized

The National Secretaries Association met Monday at the Family Country Kitchen.

The guest speaker was Johnnie Lou Avery, president of the Chamber of Commerce who gave the program on secretaries ethics.

Plans were finalized for the Secretaries Luncheon to be held on April 25 at the Brass Nail for secretaries and their bosses.

Jean Jennings, president appointed the nominating committee for 1979; Ella Vonne West, chairman; Marjorie Dykes, and Jane Overman.

Mrs. Hill appointed

The members of John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge No. 153 met at the IOOF Hall on West Highway 80, March 27, at 7:30 p.m. Mary Leek, Noble Grand, presided.

Hazel Lamar, recording secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting. Members who were sick were reported.

Mrs. Lamar read the recent correspondence. The commission for Lavelle Hill appointing her District Deputy President was read. She was presented to the Altar and given grand honors. She announced that she would hold her official visit at Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284, 900 San Antonio Street, on April 3 at 7:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend.

The commission for Frances Loftis appointing her Lodge Deputy was read. She was honored.

The undraping of the charter for Minnie Skalicky and Velma Waller was conducted by Desdemona Martin, chairman. Members assisting her were Mrs. Leek, Pauline S. Petty, Odelle LaLonde, Mrs. Loftis, Brookie Martin, and Charles Leek.

Mrs. Loftis, Lodge Representative to Grand Lodge that was held in Abilene, March 18-21, gave a very lengthy and detailed report of this meeting.

Mrs. LaLonde presented a very interesting program on the Life of Schuler Colfax, a very prominent IOOF and very prominent in the organizing of the Female Degree, known as the Rebekah Lodge.

Mrs. Martin thanked the Lodge for the Jewel she was given when she took the Decoration of Chivalry Degree in Abilene this year, at Grand Lodge.

Martin thanked the members who helped her with the Undraping of the Charter.

After the closing of the lodge, refreshments were served. Hostesses were Lois Hood, Johnnie Kemper, Marciel Morris and Edna Smith.

Jean Sauze visits Big Spring Rainbow order

Jean Sauze, Grand Visitor, Grand Assembly of Texas, Order of the Rainbow for Girls made her official visit to Big Spring Assembly No. 60 March 27.

Miss Sauze was introduced and presented a money corsage by Worthy Advisor Dana Hodnett who presided over the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sauze, Miss Sauze' parents, also attended the meeting.

Robin von Rosenberg, Grand Representative from New Mexico to Texas was also introduced. Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. Ouida Branson, mother advisor from Midland, and two Rainbow girls from the Midland Assembly.

Those initiated and receiving the degree of the order were Connie Grisham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grisham; Deborah Hamill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Farrell Hamill; and Genevia Galan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Galan.

The assembly went to Midland March 31 for a joint meeting with the two assemblies in Midland under the direction of Miss Sauze.

A hose drive will be conducted April 7 with Robin Snodgrass serving as chairman. Postage stamps will be collected April 6 commemorating the order's founder in 1922.

Mark Sexson wrote the Ritual giving it the name "Order of the Rainbow for Girls. Rainbow Girls will observe Founder's Day by attending church together on the Sunday nearest that date. The Big Spring Assembly will worship with the College Baptist Church April 8.

Ronda Beene, charity chairman, directed the assembly in an activity with Mountain View Lodge Nursing Home recently. Rainbow members also helped with the Easter Seal telethon March 25 while others went to Midland to work on decorations for the Grand Officers Luncheon for Grand Assembly which will be held in El Paso June 25-27.

Big Spring Assembly will serve as co-host to the Grand Assembly this year.

A project planned in an effort to raise money for Grand Assembly is a chicken-spaghetti dinner April 27 in the Cactus Room at the Howard College Student Union Building. Tickets will go on sale April 5.

The Assembly will be selling a "School Days and Memories" book made especially for Big Spring. It is designed for boys and girls from Kindergarten through high school.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Split when gang arrives.

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: My sister-in-law has two kids ages 3 and 4, and they sure are brats.

When they come to our house she lets them do anything they want. They write on the furniture, act rowdy and tear up the house. In fact, they even cuss.

Whenever I try to spank them, she says she is going to call the cops. I hate it when they visit.

Please tell me how to handle this difficult situation. — Sandy, Columbus, Ohio

Sandy: It's a shame the adults in this situation do not have your wisdom.

First, talk to your mother alone and tell her these children's actions upset you. It's mother's place to talk to your sister-in-law.

If this doesn't bring results, talk to your brother and "lay it on him."

If this doesn't work, make sure you are not home when the unruly gang comes over. Dr. Wallace: I have a really terrible problem. My dad won't let me wear perfume or any type of jewelry.

I'm 13 and I don't think it's fair at all. What do you think? — Barbara, Everett, Wash.

Barbara: It's apparent daddy doesn't want his daughter to grow up too fast, but I think a little perfume and jewelry in good taste would be OK.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 15 and dating a 17-year-old boy. We get along great not only as boyfriend-girlfriend, but also just as friends. I really care for this guy.

My boyfriend asked me whether I would marry him if I were his age. I told him I honestly didn't know. I hope I gave the right answer because I sure would hate to lose him.

I also told him that when I become 16 I am going to date other guys because I want to be sure he is the one. He didn't like this but he said he understood and wouldn't stand in my way.

I know you are against young girls dating older guys so that's why I want your advice.

We talked about making love but we both agreed it would be a big mistake. — F.K., Dubuque, Iowa

F.K.: I hardly think that a 17-year-old boy is too old for a 15-year-old girl.

My advice would be to stay close to this boy. He sounds like a winner.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and 28-cent stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. R. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.
