HIGH PRICED STRADIVARI — A violin made 300 years ago by Antonio Stradivari, the premier fiddle builder of all time, has been sold to a collector for about $400,000, the most ever paid for a stringed instrument. The instrument, unique because it is one of only 10 Strads that is decorated with inlaid wood, was purchased by an anonymous collector.

New death law okayed

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The Legislature has approved a new death penalty law that requires lethal injection of drugs instead of hanging for convicted murderers.

Gov. John Carlin has said he personally opposes the death penalty but has not threatened to veto such a bill. If Carlin signs the measure approved Monday, or if he allows it to become law without his signature, murderers could be sentenced to die in Kansas for the first time since a 1972 U.S. Supreme Court decision struck down the state's previous capital punishment law.

No one has been hanged in Kansas in nearly 14 years and the state's gallows at Lansing were dismantled a decade ago.

Cataract prevention?

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Scientists say a drug called "DSC" retards formation of cataracts in young rats and may someday be tested to see if it prevents human cataracts caused by diabetes.

L.D. Waterbury, a pharmacologist for the Syntex drug firm, announced the development Monday in Dallas during a meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

It is not known yet whether DSC is poisonous to humans, the scientist said. But it is known that DSC does not affect vision-clouding cataracts once they develop.

Proposition bogs down

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — A bill endorsing the proposition of granting the District of Columbia voting members in Congress has bogged down in the Legislature and may be dead for this year at least.

In the House, Democrats failed to garner enough votes Monday to bring the bill up for debate. In the Senate, where the measure had been scheduled for a vote, sponsors said the measure had lost several backers and appeared unlikely to pass.

The proposition must be approved by at least 38 states by August 1985, in order to become law. So far, five states have approved it, New Jersey, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota and Massachusetts.

DAV convention likely to lure 200 delegates

The Region I Disabled Americans Veterans organization will conduct its annual spring convention here Saturday and Sunday, with 200 delegates expected from an area that extends from Abilene to El Paso east and west and Borger to San Angelo north and south.

Local membership in the DAV totals about 212. Rocky Vieira is the commander of Chapter 47, the local unit.

The convention will have a business session Saturday at 8 a.m., in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum on the Howard College campus, with Bill Albright, executive vice president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce offering the opening speech.

A happy hour is scheduled from 4 to 5 p.m., Saturday at the Holiday Inn. The delegates will reassemble in the Howard College Cafeteria at 7 p.m., for a banquet, where Jim Baum will be the speaker. A dance is scheduled to get under at 9 p.m., in the VFW Hall on Driver Road.

Ernie Brock of El Paso, the Regional commander, is making plans to attend the meeting here.

The DAV auxiliary will gather with the men for the Saturday morning greeting and then will reassemble in another meeting hall within the coliseum for a business session.

Big Spring was last host to the Region I convention about seven years ago.

ATLANTA RHYTHM SECTION COULD BE BEGINNING or end of continuing concerts in Big Spring

'Track record' for Big Spring riding on ARS concert Friday

By CARLA WALKER

"If Atlanta Rhythm Section fails, the next concert—if there is one—won't be promoted by the same seven of us," said one of the locals who are footing the bill to bring ARS to the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Friday at 8 p.m.

Dr. Charles Hayes, president of Howard College formed a group including Jack Barber, J.F. Poyner, Jack Woodley, Dennis Bristow and two other Big Spring citizens to try to bring concerts to the Coliseum.

"The college students were asking for concerts, and it was on the fact that the Coliseum would be used for activities for the community as a whole that the bond issue was sold to voters," said Hayes. "I couldn't gamble college taxpayer's money, so I called around and tried to get a professional promoter to bring performers to Big Spring."

"Every promoter I contacted asked what Big Spring's 'track record' on attendance was," Hayes explained. "I had to tell them we hadn't had the facility long enough to have a record, and non would stick their necks out and take the risk—after all, they are in it for the money."

Hayes began trying to get some local citizens to support a concert, to give the community a chance to respond and give Big Spring a track record that promoters would buy.

The result was the B.J. Thomas concert, a great performance according to those that attended, but insufficient in terms of tickets sold.

According to Hayes—who along with another individual financed the $14,800 cost of bringing Thomas—2,400 people would have had to attend to make the two break even. Less than 2,000 attended.

"Even though we lost money, I wanted to give it another try," said Hayes. "I called around and got in touch with some people I knew were interested in the community, and the seven of us ended up splitting the $20,000 cost for ARS six ways, with two people splitting one share."

The cost of bringing in a group is not just the base rate paid to the performer. In addition, there is the cost of printing tickets, paying a warm-up band or performer, paying for off-duty law enforcement personnel to watch the area, paying the Coliseum rent, furnishing any equipment not already available at the Coliseum and more.

"Even if we sell out the Coliseum—about 6,000 counting floor seating," Hayes said, "we stand to gain only $5,400 to be split among all of us. If we lose money, it will be difficult to find a reason to keep pouring money into a losing proposition."

Besides discouragement of local supporters and outside promoters, a low attendance record will make it difficult to convince good performers to come.

"The seven of us aren't in it for the money," said Hayes. "But the performers obviously are. Most get a base fee to come, plus a percentage of the door take, and none of them like to play to an empty house and then read a review that said the Coliseum was only a third ful."

The seven local people bringing in the concerts have varying reasons for supporting Hayes' efforts. All stress the benefits—in terms of gas, food and city sales taxes—that will be generated by out-of-town concert goers.

The Coliseum will gain 10 percent of the take or a minimum of $600, even should the concert lose money.

Poyner and Woodley, both members of the administration staff of the Forsan Independent School District, and Jack Barber all list area youth as their principle reason for becoming involved in the concert efforts.

"I'd rather see our kids go to a concert in Big Spring, where I know law enforcement officials will be there to help prevent crowd problems, than to see them drive 100 or more miles taking chances of a highway accident, to go to a concert site where there is a past record of relaxation of drug laws," said Poyner.

The group plans to pay at least 15 off-duty policemen to attend the concert, and because it is a public facility, narcotics agents will probably be in attendance.

Dennis Bristow, brother-in-law to Hayes, was recruited because of his involvement in the music business. Bristow works at a local retail record-tape shop, and knows what concert performers have the potential to sell well to Big Spring music lovers.

"The Coliseum was sold to the community as an all-purpose facility," said one of the 'amateur promoters.' "If we don't use it, then it will be of no benefit to us, just a white elephant that was built at taxpayer expense and never used."

"If we can just get the ball rolling, it will go by itself," said Hayes. "From the contact we have had with promoters, it seems they will put up the money and bring these groups and individual performers in, if they know that Big Spring can attract a decent audience. Otherwise, the concerts will just quit, because I and the others can't keep losing money like we did on B.J. Thomas, and no professional promoter will take that kind of sure-loss risk."

"The Stalter Brothers are considering coming, but if the predecessors flop, they certainly won't," Hayes continued. "I guess you could say that this ARS concert will tell us whether to keep trying or forget it."

Clear Light Society planning symposium to legalize marijuana

TOKYO (AP) — An organization called the Clear Light Society — in what is believed to be the first move of this kind in Asia — is planning a symposium to urge the legalization of marijuana in Japan.

The society, with about 300 members, has scheduled the symposium for June 5 to point up what it complains are harsh laws against marijuana use here and in other parts of Asia.

The laws provide a maximum death penalty in Malaysia, South Korea and the Philippines; maximum life imprisonment in Hong Kong; 30 years and 15 strokes of the cane in Singapore; seven years imprisonment in Japan, and three years' imprisonment in India.

Koh Akutagawa, 45, who heads the Clear Light Society, said, "The law, we believe, violates civil liberties and is as unconstitutional as the ban on alcohol in some places in the old days."

Akutagawa is a prominent Oriental-style painter and a defendant in a marijuana case. He said in an interview that many doctors and research groups, including the U.S. National Institute on Drug Abuse, have held that marijuana is not an addictive drug.

One recent NIDA report was reported to have said, however, it did not regard marijuana as harmless.

Many western countries, he said, today pursue a policy that possession and use of marijuana should no longer be against the law.

"Our movement isn't intended to encourage people to smoke hemp because we like it," Akutagawa said. "We just want to see the law revised so that citizens can decide whether to use it as in the case of alcohol."

A metropolitan police official said the Clear Light members "are free to meet and speak. Japanese judicial officials declined comment on the constitutionality of Japan's 31-year-old marijuana law established at the request from the then U.S. occupation force."

In the symposium, the two-year-old society will bring together a dozen or so lawyers, doctors, medical researchers, writers and others, Akutagawa said.

Akutagawa's indictment in 1977 for smoking hemp which he grew in his yard led to the organization of the Clear Light Society in Kyoto. He remains free pending a final ruling by the Kyoto District Court expected late this year.

"I have two boys, the younger a 19-year-old high school graduate. Having smoked marijuana for the past several years, I let them smoke it, but ask them to refrain from drinking," he said.

Koichi Tamura, one of defense attorneys for Akutagawa and legal adviser to Clear Light, said Asian nations, except perhaps India where cannabis was banned under British rule, all "copied" marijuana laws of western countries after World War II.

"These nations, as was the case with Japan, skipped any due studies or researches in establishing the marijuana law," he said.

"Until then, many Asian peoples had long been free in growing, and some of them smoking, hemp which was, and still is, a material for the rope and fabric fiber industry for many centuries."

In Japan, fewer than 4,000 persons have been caught growing, smoking or trafficking in marijuana in the past six years. Police said they didn't have exact figures but that many of the defendants were released after being "admonished" or given suspended sentences.

They said stricter punishment of up to seven years behind bars is enforced for illegal cultivation and trafficking.

In India, marijuana is sold by licensed shops in some areas, with maximum amounts varying from state to state. It is smoked by itinerant Hindu holy men, known as "sadhus," and used in Hindu religious festivals.

In some Indian states, a regular smoker can get a medical certificate from a doctor that declares him an addict, permitting him to get marijuana from a licensed dealer. Marijuana is now grown in four states, but the government has pledged to phase out production by 1989.

In South Korea, a rapid increase in the number of marijuana smokers led in 1976 to an active, nationwide crackdown on traffickers, growers and smokers, including some big name entertainers. Officials did not say what caused the increase but said 1,460 persons were arrested that year with a maximum penalty of seven years in prison.

The number of arrests declined, but the discipline-minded government wasn't satisfied. It put into force in January 1978 a new marijuana law providing maximum capital punishment. Still, as many as 483 arrests were reported that year.

No details were available on what laws related to marijuana are in force in China, North Korea, Vietnam and other Asian communist countries. Many communist regimes have, however, taken a stern stand against drug users, terming them remnants of former colonial rule.

Capehart Housing to go on market first of June

The first 99 units of Capehart Housing at the former Webb Air Base are expected to go on the market June 1.

This news was given at a meeting Monday of Big Spring real estate brokers and salespeople by Ed Aiken Jr., president of Sweetwater Enterprises, new owners of the former military housing project. Sweetwater Enterprises is a subsidiary of Sweetwater Savings Association.

Work currently is underway to repair the units and to install gas and electric meters. Five model homes are being prepared for public showing about May 1, Aiken said.

Don Whitehead, executive vice president for the project, said the 99 units are contained in 77 buildings.

Duplex units with carports in the middle will be subdivided with lot lines dividing the carports and will be sold as single units. Duplexes with common walls will be sold as duplexes. There are also detached single family houses.

The first units are located in the former officers' section on North and South Albrook Drive.

Selling prices will start about $18 a square foot, but there will be options available to buyers at extra cost, Whitehead said. Some of the first units have dishwashers and disposals.

Aiken said his firm projects all the 465 units which will be available over a three-year period. He hopes all sales and financing will be handled through local real estate offices and financial institutions.

Mark Walker Memorial Scholarship established

Howard College and Mr. and Mrs. Jerrold Walker announce the establishment of the Mark Walker Memorial Scholarship Fund. This scholarship was created to perpetuate the memory of former Howard College student Mark Walker.

Since Mark was an active, enthusiastic student at Howard College at the time of his death, this was thought to be the most appropriate way to pay tribute to his memory.

The scholarship will be available for one or more Howard College students beginning in the fall of 1979. The recipient will be selected from applicants who are from the Howard County area and who are known to be of good character and to be good citizens. These were characteristics which Mark possessed to an outstanding degree.

Students wishing to apply for the Mark Walker Scholarship should contact Terry Newman, Dean of Students at Howard College. Contributions to this scholarship fund may be made through the HC Business Office.

Howard County Democratic Club to be organized Thursday night

A meeting to organize a Howard County Democratic Club will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the County Court Room at the courthouse.

"This club is to be completely locally controlled and will not be regulated or dominated by any elected officials," Jane Ray, state Democratic committeewoman of the 30th Senatorial District, said.

"We hope to raise funds through nominal dues or other methods devised by the membership for the purpose of supporting Democratic candidates and Democratic policies as directed by the local membership," she said.

Mrs. Ray said a guideline is offered by State Democratic Executive Committee to assist in setting up by-laws and getting clubs functioning.

She said some Big Spring residents may recall "that we had a Democratic Club in Howard County several years ago."

"It is hoped that a large turnout will be present at the meeting," she added.

Some cities lowering the tax bite

Some communities are neutralizing the threat of local increases in taxes in imaginative efforts to lower the tax bite. Other cities would be wise to follow suit.

How about a privately-owned fire department? Research published by the Local Government Center in Santa Barbara, Cal., indicates communities now contracting with private fire departments have cut the cost of their fire protection roughly in half.

Two shining examples of the concept are Scottsdale, Ariz., and Elk Grove Township, Ill. In Elk Grove, the owner of the American Emergency Services Corp., Gary Jensen, estimates he can save $6,000 each time he purchases a fire truck by buying one without decorative chrome.

The tradition, of course, has been for fire departments to use spiffy chrome-plated trucks which must be polished by idle firefighters at additional taxpayer expense on the theory that the fire van will be in the next downtown parade.

In Scottsdale, the owner of the Rural Metro Fire Department, Lou Witzeman, not only shuns chrome trucks, but factory-built equipment as well. Witzeman has discovered his company can build its own equipment for under half the regular cost.

Witzeman also discovered other ingenious ways to cut unnecessary costs without sacrificing efficiency. In a story appearing in TWA's February edition of Ambassador Magazine, Witzeman said 80 percent of all fires are kitchen or brush-type fires and can be doused with less than 300 gallons of water. For that reason, Witzeman developed what he called an "attack truck," which is basically an over-sized specially-equipped pickup truck with a 300-gallon pump.

The truck can be operated by one person, and it is the first piece of equipment Witzeman sends to a fire. If the fire is too big, he has additional equipment on the scene within minutes.

Witzeman deliberately cuts corners on non-essentials, but not on his equipment which features radio-controlled fire hydrants, remote-control units capable of carrying water into a fire too hot for a fireman and even microfilm viewers which permit firemen to examine the floor plan of a building while their trucks are still speeding to the blaze.

A PRIVATE FIRE invariably staffs a portion of its force with reservists. In Elk Grove, rather than pay for an expensive contingent of full-time firefighters who would be idle much of the time, Gary Jensen employed only nine full-time employees and supplements them with 17 paid reservists at lower wages. The reservists have regular jobs in the community and can be immediately summoned by portable paging radios.

What is the difference on the bottom line? The cost of the two operations, which have established creditable records in fire-fighting, works out to approximately $15 per capita in Elk Grove and $11 in Scottsdale. Compare those averages to the national average of approximately $30, and you can understand why similar private operations are spreading across the country.

It's obvious private enterprise can be used creatively in other areas to secure tradition public services for less money. According to Ambassador, the police force in Scottsdale is only half as big and much less costly than forces in other cities of comparable size. The reason? Civilians answer phones and do paper work which frees police officers for more dangerous work.

Scottsdale has also purchased a specially-designed garbage truck which uses hydraulic claws to empty cans. One driver can operate the truck and collect more garbage in one shift than two ordinary trucks with three-man crews.

Taxes in Scottsdale are relatively low, and it's easy to understand why.

Where are the fans?

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

Working on Saturday afternoons can get to be a drag sometimes. Especially if the next day's paper happens to be a small one. This past Saturday was one of those days. But there was a break in the monotony when I went with Carla "Jaws" Walker to the Big Spring Steers baseball game.

MAINLY I went to avoid being couped up inside the office on such a pretty afternoon. But I also went to help Carla keep the books. While she was out running all over the baseball park snapping pictures, I was keeping track of who scored when and on what play by which player. It got sort of hairy sometimes when the bases were loaded and I was trying to keep tabs on three base runners and the batter, too. But I managed with a little help from the announcer.

It was not hard for me to pick up the art of "keeping score". In the days when my brothers were involved in the Little League program in Navasota, my dad was the scorekeeper when he wasn't coaching a team of his own. He kept the records for many a game during those summer months. And, since I would get bored with the games if my brothers weren't playing, I would be at his side watching him. It didn't take me long to learn to do it myself. I suppose I did all right because Carla didn't have many questions.

Saturday's game, other than a diversion, was also a surprise to me. I expected to find more local fans in attendance. In fact, there were just as many people pulling for Midland Lee as there were fans rooting for the home-team Steers.

I was surprised because the size of the school and the size of the town should have warranted more people being there. When I was in high school, there were more people attending the 3-A high school baseball games than attended the Big Spring game. Also, the games I'm referring to were played in the middle of the week and not on a weekend afternoon like the Steer game that I attended.

THE FACT that there were so few people at the game only served to emphasize the one thing that I have noticed about this town, more than any other town — its lack of community involvement in their high school athletic programs. I have seen schools, with some losing programs comparable to Big Spring's, back their teams with great intensity. But not so here. Not even the student body seems to be interested in their fellow students' activities.

Even though it does get a bit tiring rooting for a losing team most of the time, the athletes who are involved in the programs deserve all the support they can get for putting their time, effort and hard work into competing for their school.

Interview with Qaddafi

Jack Anderson,

TRIPOLI — It is only a question of time before Qaddafi becomes a household word wherever strife and revolution command the news. The name belongs to Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi, the violent Bedouin who is dictator of Libya.

For centuries, Libya has been an arid wasteland of sand and sun, inhabited by some 2 million unfortunate clings to a parched existence of indescribable poverty. But the discovery of oil and the emergency of Qaddafi have lately transformed Libya into a nation, and a state of mind, to be reckoned with.

I have consistently abused Qaddafi in this space. I was, therefore, startled recently to receive a personal invitation from him to come to Tripoli for a face-to-face visit. My initial wariness was heightened by a warning from Central Intelligence Agency sources that not all who enter Qaddafi's door come back through — the current case in point being one Iman Musa-sadr, who has not been seen since he called on Qaddafi a few weeks ago.

NEVERTHELESS, I immediately left for Tripoli. While crossing the Atlantic, I mullied over my interview approach and topped up with growing discomfort the many carefree attacks and epithets I had launched at Qaddafi — for being "one of the world's most irresponsible leaders," for his "mad-hatter" partnership with Uganda's Idi Amin; for supporting a worldwide menagerie of revolutionary extremists; for trying to buy an atomic bomb from Red China; for providing terrorists with Red-eye missiles, shoulder-fired weapons capable of shooting down airliners. Suddenly, I wished I had been more diplomatic.

Qaddafi's Tripoli is something to see. Its hotels and bazaars teem with mysterious-looking figures of varying colors, nationalities and costumery — black military types from African trouble spots, Palestinian extremists plotting anti-Israeli adventures, Muslim revolutionaries studying Qaddafi as both the foremost theoretician and leading implementer of the Moslem state, Koreans wearing on their tunics identification badges featuring portraits of Kim Il Sung, even Moro tribesmen getting help for their revolt in the remote Philippines.

For the meeting, I was driven through a military compound of pleasing construction toward an almost palatial building, not huge but elegant, in the Islamic architectural style. But 100 yards short of that building, my escorts shunted me across a dirt field to a sheik's tent of multiple peaks and valleys.

Inside, the ground was covered with rich carpets, the sides were hung with rugs of spectacularly vivid design, with cushions of bright color strewn around the circumference. In the center stood four canvas-back folding chairs. Qaddafi motioned me toward one and sat down in another.

"I like to see the sky," he said, explaining this meeting place to the infidel. "It helps me to think better than when I am surrounded by walls." He seemed young for having ruled 10 years — not over 40, about 6 feet tall, ruggedly handsome, with dark countenance and black curly hair.

In his face, there is an arresting dichotomy. In relaxation, it is strikingly handsome; in agitation, it is a study in latent ferocity, with the black, blazing eyes of a desert hawk and a magnificent Bedouin scowl that caused my thoughts to stray to the missing Iman Musa-sadr.

His visage seemed to me somehow to be divided against itself — the upper half fierce, with a trace of anguish in the eyes; the lower half disarming, almost lost in thought, with a wisp of a smile playing across lips that spoke softly.

THE FACE REFLECTED his early life in the harsh, baked world of the Bedouin. He had been a bright lad who was sent to town to be schooled and found himself unaccountably jeered as a misfit. For the robes and habits that on the desert seemed so lordly and fitting were then somewhat bedraggled and out of fashion. "We are lions in the desert but jackals in the city," explained a Bedouin.

Qaddafi spoke in English, though there were interpreters present who did not hesitate to break in on their leader, lending a democratic flavor to the proceedings. He conveyed a truculent determination to lift up the downtrodden, the laughed-at, the pushed-around. Indeed, I have seen impressive evidence that his $10 billions in annual oil revenues are going not into the palaces of sheiks nor the coffers of oil executives but into free medical clinics, free housing and nourishment, free schooling for those who until yesterday were the poorest of poor.

He is devoted to the world revolution of the have-nots and pours petrodollars into revolutionary upheavals across the globe. He doesn't like being called a dictator. He is not in the government at all, he said; in fact, there is no government here at Westerners call it; the people rule.

Gasless draft

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — They're talking about bringing back the draft. They're also muttering about alternate service for those who don't want to go into the armed forces. The response from America's youth, as far as I can tell, is, "Hell, no, we won't go!"

As a middle-aged patriot, I think the youth of America owe something to their country. Those of us who put in our time believe that everybody, both men and women, should pay his dues before going out to face the harsh, cruel world of commerce.

I'M NOT INSISTING they join the Army, Navy, Air Force or Marine Corps. If they don't want to work in hospitals or the Peace Corps or the ghettos for two years, so be it. But they have to do something to serve their country. Not only do they owe it to the rest of us, but by sacrificing two years of their lives they will be enabled in spirit and filled with pride, knowing that they have played a role in keeping our nation strong.

There is a solution which I believe will not only make our youth better citizens but will also get the nation through one of its darkest hours.

I PROPOSE THAT every boy and girl, when they reach the age of 18, give up driving an automobile for two years. They could go about their business, continue their studies, work if they want to or drop out to find themselves, as long as they didn't get behind the wheel of an automobile for 24 months.

This could save the United States one billion gallons of oil a week. It would once again make our young people heroes in the eyes of their elders. Decals would be distributed with the logos of Mobil, Exxon, Sunoco, Gulf Amoco and Shell, which could be pasted in the windows of parents' homes, showing that they had a son or daughter serving in the War on Energy.

People doing two years of gasless duty would wear small buttons of an oil well on their lapels or dresses, so that those on the home front could buy them drinks, or take them into their homes for a free Sunday chicken dinner.

Clubs, similar to those run by the USO, would be set up all over the country where draftees could get information on bus and train schedules. The American Red Cross would make transportation tokens available for those in dire need. And, of course, once the person was discharged from energy service, he or she would be eligible to go to driving school under the GI Bill of Rights.

The beauty of this plan is that there would be NO exemptions. Rich and poor would be treated alike. Some might even want to make energy-saving a career. If they stayed in for 20 years and never drove, they would be entitled to a full pension, including an Amtrak pass, for the rest of their lives.

I tried the idea on several teenagers I know, and I received a mixed response.

Of the 25 youths I talked to, 23 said that if my idea was ever approved by Congress they'd go to Canada.

One girl said, "I don't think women should have to serve in the War on Energy. We're too delicate to walk."

The 25th person, a young man, said he'd shoot his toe off before he'd sign up.

Despite this reaction, I am certain that once the gasless draft goes into effect our young people, as they have done in every crisis in 202 years, will gladly give up two years of their driving lives to make this country a safer and saner America.

Tips on handling 'dumping syndrome'

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Mother is 83. Two years ago she had a bleeding ulcer and had two thirds of her stomach removed. Since then she has had daily bouts of nausea. Her physician calls it the "dumping syndrome." He says nothing can be done for it. Poor mother is ready to climb the walls. Is there such a thing as the dumping syndrome? Is there possibly something that can be done for her? — B.B.W.

This "dumping syndrome" occurs in about 10 percent of people who have had a part of their stomach removed. The cause of discomfort is not entirely clear. It is thought to be related to rapid emptying of the stomach (particularly of carbohydrates) and the build-up of fluid in the intestines. The resulting lower blood circulation is thought to cause the nausea, sweating, irregular heart, cramps and weakness. This is experienced after meals. For some a lowering of sugar intake can help the problem.

There is really very little else to do to change the new chemical ballgame going on in the intestines, but she can make living with it more pleasant. She should lie down for about a half hour after every meal. Her diet should be high in protein and she should eat smaller, more frequent meals, spacing them evenly during the day.

Certain drugs (muscle relaxers) might give her relief. I believe, though, that with the tips outlined above she might avoid much of her problem. Unless coped with properly the condition can lead to fear of eating and malnutrition. In time the patient adjusts and diet and symptoms become less of a problem.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am a 73-year-old lady. I read in your column how to prevent leg cramps at night by wearing a pair of lightweight socks. I tried this and it really works. I have not had cramps since. I hope you will print this item again so others can benefit from it. — Mrs. C.C.

Glad it helped you. It might others. For other tips on the subject see my booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pain." Send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is it true that women who have had breast removal may have arm swelling afterward? — Mrs. T.W.

Yes, it happens if lymph glands have been removed. They normally carry away excess fluid. An elastic sleeve and certain physical therapy helps remedy the problem. If this is your problem I suggest you discuss it with your doctor, who can arrange a program for you.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have heard that deep breathing can be harmful, causing the burning of something in the middle of the anatomy. I like to do deep breathing as an exercise, but having heard this I am worried. Can you shed some light on this? — H.S.

Nothing wrong with deep breathing for brief periods of time. I have not seen reports of any harmful effects. Prolonged hyperventilation (rapid breathing) may cause dizziness, pain and cramps in the arms.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What is niacin? I have heard it is helpful for headaches. True? — G.L.

Niacin is one of the B-complex vitamins. It may have a slight dilating (expansion) effect on blood vessels of the skin, increasing blood flow there.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: All the Christians I know seem to be so self-righteous because they think they have something nobody else has. I thought Christians were supposed to be humble. — F.F.

DEAR F.F.: I am sorry you feel this way. Your ideas about Christians may be keeping you from coming to know God in a personal and joyous way.

Christians should never be self-righteous. In fact, the Bible says the opposite should be true. If you will look into the Gospels you will find some of Jesus' strongest words were directed at those who were proud of their so-called righteousness. The reason a Christian can never be self-righteous — if he understands his faith — is that he knows he is a sinner in the eyes of God.

He also knows that he has been saved by God because of God's grace alone. God does not love us because we are better than anyone else. He loves us in spite of what we are. The proof is that God sent His Son into the world to die on the Cross for our sins. The heart of the Christian faith is that we trust Christ, and not ourselves, for our salvation.

"What happens now to human pride of achievement? There is no more room for it...the whole matter is now on a different plane — believing instead of achieving. We see now that a man is justified before God by the fact of his faith in God's appointed Savior and not by what he has managed to achieve under the Law" (Romans 3:27, 28, Phillips Translation).

I know Christians do not always act as they should. Yes, there is joy in our hearts, because we know Christ and we know that we will spend eternity in Heaven. But that knowledge should never make us proud. If anything, it should make us more concerned to share the good news about Christ to those who do not know Him.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

What the people of Coahoma may not know is the water problem with the water district should not have ever been.

Now the city of Coahoma has raised the city taxes because so much money was spent on lawyer fees and court costs and travel expense for officials.

I, as a county agent, that the men on the water district board have done a great job in defending our water taxes and since the district took the tax revenue from the city we have had our taxes lowered, not raised, as have taxpayers and property owners of Coahoma.

The people of Coahoma as a whole are nice and they, I hope, will turn out and vote for a whole new city government. We likewise would like to turn out to vote for our two men, Weldon McAdams and Marshal Day, incumbents on the district water board. Also, we want people to vote in the school board race.

I think Harold Aberegg should be returned to the school board.

Since the school audit of 1977, he and Donny Reid have been the two trustees in charge of overseeing the investment of school tax money. Such investments have drawn more interest than ever before.

I have enjoyed reading your Mailbag section and I am proud that we have a newspaper like the Herald in our town.

A Battered Wife Finds a New Life

DEAR ABBY: I just left a shelter for abused women and I'm starting a new job and a new life. Abby, please tell women who are being abused by their men that there IS help, but they can't do it alone. Get to a shelter where you're safe! Take your children with you. Don't call him. He'll only put out his hooks to get you to come back. You'll hear his same promises to get counseling or go to A.A., which will promptly be forgotten once you're home and under his control again. He didn't get that way overnight, and he won't change overnight either. Or in a week. Or a month.

Don't let your children grow up thinking this is a normal way of life. Children of abusers become abusers themselves. Don't believe that a bad father is better than no father at all. The end of battering is death, either of the body or of the soul. There's help out there. Get it before it's too late!

I spend more than an hour each morning driving my child to a day care center and then driving to work. I'm up before 6 a.m. and drop into bed exhausted every night. But it's worth it. I'm now free of abuse and beginning to enjoy life again. Women, memorize the phone number of the shelter for abused women!

FREE AT LAST IN ANCHORAGE, ALASKA

DEAR FREE: Unfortunately, there is not a shelter for abused women in every community—but I hope one day there will be.

DEAR ABBY: You missed the boat when MIDGE asked if she should tell her cigar-smoking, pot-bellied suitor she'd marry him if he quit smoking and got rid of his pot. You said, "Take him as he is, or not at all."

When a man is courting a woman, he will do anything to win her. Any suggestions she makes to him during the courtship will be considered "suggestions for improvement." After they're married, it's called "nagging."

Please reconsider.

ONE MAN'S OPINION
DEAR ONE: True. Some men will do anything to win a woman, but after he's won her, he reverts to his old ways. Somehow I can't see a cigar-smoking man who loves to eat give up such notoriously addictive habits permanently.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I hear some nifty say "congratulations" to a girl who has become engaged or married I want to scream.

Don't they know that it is not proper to congratulate the girl? They're supposed to congratulate the MAN, and wish the girl luck.

Please put this in your column, Abby. I'm sure a lot of people could use the information.

A FRIEND IN ALAMOGORDO, N.M.

DEAR FRIEND: True, one congratulates the man and wishes the girl luck. But in many instances, it's the GIRL who deserves the congratulations and the MAN who needs the luck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "A FAILURE AT 18 IN NORWALK, CONN.": A "failure"? No way!

Norman Lear (a success by anybody's standards) said at the Emmy Awards: "It is not true that you must be No. 1—or in the top 10—or you haven't made it at all. Young people need to know that there is simply being on the list for succeeding simply at the level of doing one's best."

"The truth is, you are not a failure if you don't make the top spot. Anyone may REACH for the brass ring, but only one may have it, so the joy of most of us is simply being on the carousel."

Thanks, Norman. Beautiful!

Kidnapped coed convict marries police officer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Newlyweds Patricia Hearst and Bernard Shaw, her former bodyguard, are honeymooning today in a secret spot after a gala wedding that capped five years of national attention for the kidnapped coed turned convict.

The couple boarded a private Lockheed jet Sunday night, hours after a double-ring Episcopal ceremony in a flower-bedecked chapel on the Treasure Island naval base in San Francisco Bay.

"I've never seen Patty so happy. Don't you think it's about time?" said Janey Jimenez, a federal marshal who befriended Miss Hearst during her bank robbery trial.

Ms. Jimenez was one of more than 300 guests at the mid-afternoon wedding under cloudless skies. The ceremony came two months to the day after Miss Hearst, 25, was released from federal prison on a presidential commutation of her seven-year sentence.

The guests, many in expensive furs, crowded the simple chapel for the traditional ceremony, which began with the wedding march and ended with "I do." But no rice was thrown and guests said neither the couple nor their families shed any tears.

Shaw, 33, is a divorced San Francisco police officer who met his bride while moonlighting as her bodyguard and proposed while she was behind bars. She has decided to keep her own surname while adding his—Patricia Hearst Shaw.

The bride stepped from a polished black limousine to the applause of spectators crowded around the chapel with nearly 100 reporters and photographers who were barred from the ceremony and reception.

The bride, smiling broadly, said nothing to reporters who shouted questions at her. But her mother, Catherine, said after the ceremony: "It was wonderful. I've waited five years for it."

The new Mrs. Shaw wore a bare-shouldered white gown of silk organza, satin and French lace. Around her neck hung an heirloom from her grandmother—a white gold and diamond pendant on a strand of pearls. She carried a lily-of-the-valley bouquet.

The mustachioed Shaw wore black tails, satin-striped trousers and a striped cravat.

The bride's maid of honor was her girlhood friend, Patricia Tobin, whose father is president of the San Francisco bank Miss Hearst was convicted of robbing with the Symbionese Liberation Army terrorists who kidnapped her in early 1974.

After the ceremony Sunday, the millionaire Hearst family threw a three-hour reception at a nearby Navy community center. Waiters poured from magnums of Taittinger French champagne and guests nibbled on a buffet dinner including chilled oysters.

The base, accessible only via the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, was chosen for the wedding because no one can get past sentries at the gate without a pass.

MR. AND MRS. BERNARD SHAW — Bernard Shaw and his bride, Patricia Hearst, leave the Navy chapel on Treasure Island in San Francisco on Sunday after their wedding ceremony. Following a reception, the newlyweds left for a honeymoon at an undisclosed location.

TwEEN 12 and 20 — Confusion over older guy

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 17 and my boyfriend is 29. We have been going together for over 4 years, see each other every day, and love each other very much.

He has already asked me to marry him when I graduate.

Now here is the problem. Many of my friends think he is too old for me and they want me to dump him. I'm confused. Please help! — Brenda, Ogden, Utah

Brenda: I'll after 4 years, you have to write to me because you are confused then you are not mature enough to handle marriage.

2 I still have negative vibes about 25 year old guys who date 13 year old girls.

3 I think you've got smart friends.

Dr. Wallace: I met this guy several months ago, and we started dating quite a lot. In fact, he told me that he loved me and I think I love him (I'm 18).

Well, one day I had to see him and went by his apartment and I discovered that he is living with a girl and I don't mean in a platonic way.

Now I'm confused and don't know what to do. Please guide me. — Tonya, Newark, Ohio

Tonya: It appears your boyfriend is a "snake in the grass." The best thing to do is to unload this guy but if you are "too much in love" to do it, make him make a choice, his lover or you.

Somehow I don't think you will ever be a winner in this triangle.

Dr. Wallace: I'd be very appreciative if you would allow me to share my feelings about my mother with all your teen readers.

I'm 17 and my mom is my best friend. On top of that, she is the neatest person I know. We are very close and I can share my feelings with her. We are totally open with each other.

I'm very lucky that she allows me the freedom to be myself. Our love is built on mutual trust and respect.

I just wish that every teen would have the same family relationship that I have.

Thanks for allowing me to share my feelings. — Debra Lou, Chico, Calif.

Debra Lou: Your letter made my day a lot brighter. Again you proved that open communication is the key to a happy family. Congratulatory!

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped large self-addressed envelope to Dr. R. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGNER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is no time to let yourself feel abused by any sort of condition that does not work out to your satisfaction. Keep objectives in view and do nothing that anyone else could take exception to.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't stir up trouble at home by bringing up moot points, but try to please him more. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets. Home is best bet this evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use care in motion whether indoors or outdoors, walking, driving. Try not to criticize regular associates and keep poised, peaceful. Spend evening quietly at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You think you could better a situation by spending extra money, but it could only make things worse for you. Build up your savings account for some possible needs later.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You think you are not getting a fair shake in life, but keep this to yourself, since you get little sympathy from others. Evening is fine for social fun, but don't spend unwisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You feel frustrated about situations you can do little about, so be sure you maintain equilibrium or you make matters worse. Consult a good adviser and you solve a vexing problem wisely tomorrow.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Treat friends with kid gloves today, since atmospheric conditions have them all feeling irritated. Avoid group meetings if you can.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't jeopardize reputation in any way or you get into trouble with one who has power over you. Show admiration for a bigwig instead of trying to criticize. Be careful with credit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have new ideas that need further study before putting them in operation. Avoid one whose experience is radically different from your own. Take more interest in civic affairs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you carry through with obligations at hand and get them out of the way quickly. Not a good day to have a heart-to-heart talk with mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do nothing that can irk an associate or you soon lose him. Get into civic work that will build your reputation.

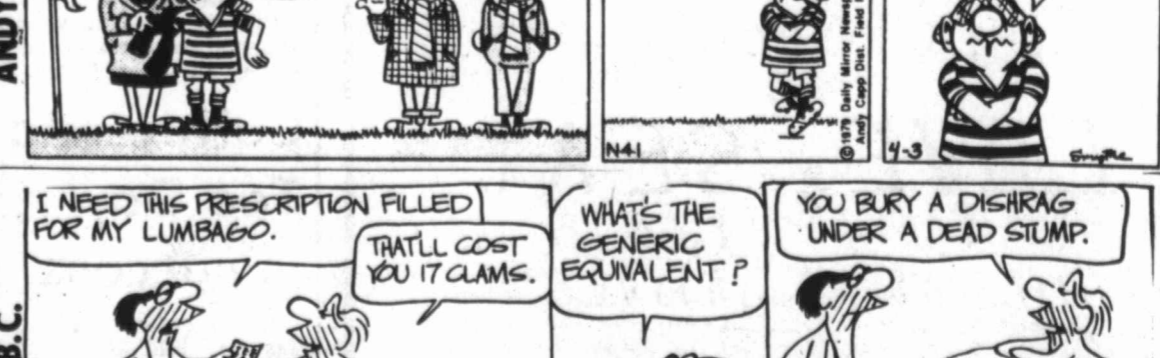

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have problems at work that seem difficult to solve, but objective thinking will do so easily. Try not to criticize co-workers and get more cooperation from them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care you do not spend too much money for anything today or tonight. Encourage mate more and get fine response. Be very candid about something that is bothering you.

JOHN F. KENNEDY MARILYN MONROE

Monroe laughed at rumors

CHICAGO (AP) — A maid and confidant of Marilyn Monroe says the movie sex symbol laughed at rumors that she was having an affair with President John Kennedy or his brother Robert. Lena Pepitone, who started working for Miss Monroe in 1957, quotes the actress as calling the Kennedy brothers "cute" and saying she liked them because they were "funny and smart."

"But I remember her insisting, 'They're not my type. They're boys,'" Ms. Pepitone says in the May issue of Playboy magazine.

Ms. Pepitone said the actress told her John Kennedy did not act like a president when he was around her. "He was always telling her dirty jokes, pinching her and squeezing her ..." the former maid said.

Miss Monroe met the Kennedys through actor Peter Lawford, who was married to a Kennedy sister, Ms. Pepitone said.

The article was excerpted from a Simon & Schuster book, "Marilyn Monroe Confidential," to be published this month.

Suicide attempt revealed

TORONTO (AP) — Margaret Trudeau says her husband, Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau, once encouraged her to visit a lover to end the affair and that she once attempted suicide because of it.

Mrs. Trudeau disclosed in her memoirs that she tried to plunge a kitchen knife into her chest after Trudeau accused her of being unfaithful. She said he told her: "You are sick."

The Toronto newspaper, the Star, reported Monday in the first excerpts of a week-long serialization of the book "Beyond Reason" that Mrs. Trudeau said she fell madly in love with a "high-powered American" at a tennis tournament in New York.

When her husband confronted her with being unfaithful, Mrs. Trudeau wrote, she screamed, "Okay! I've fallen in love!" She said she grabbed a knife and attempted to stab herself, overcome with guilt.

She said in the book that Trudeau followed her psychiatrist's advice and allowed her to fly to the United States for a brief meeting with the man, who she described as a "Southerner," to bring an end to the affair, but the relationship did not end.

Passman, Nixon to visit

MONROE, La. (AP) — Former U.S. Rep. Otto Passman, found innocent of accepting bribes, says he and former President Richard Nixon have agreed to exchange visits.

"I'm going to visit him in California in a few weeks and he's coming to Monroe later," said Passman, 78, following his acquittal on the charges arising from alleged congressional influence-buying by Korean businessman Tongsun Park.

Nixon called Passman shortly after the verdict was announced.

"We worked well together," Passman said. "I think it's nice that he still thinks of his old country friend."

Oil industry attacks gas tax legislation

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Wayne Peveto's assumption that his bill raising taxes on natural gas sold out of state would not also raise them for Texans has been attacked by the oil and gas industry.

The House Ways and Means Committee voted Monday to send the measure HB2045 to a subcommittee while it awaits a new estimate from Comptroller Bob Bullock on the price of natural gas.

But even if the new estimate in mid-April supports Peveto's view, that doesn't mean his bill will be approved. Committee chairman Bob Davis, R-Irving, flatly stated he opposes it.

Peveto, D-Orange, wants to temporarily replace the present tax of 7.5 percent of market price with a flat rate of 12.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet in 1980 and 13.9 percent in 1981.

The flat rate figures equal what the 7.5 percent tax would yield if the price of natural gas is as Bullock has estimated — $1.66 per 1,000 cubic feet (mcf) in 1980 and $1.84 per mcf in 1981.

Since gas sold on the interstate market costs less than gas sold within Texas, the bill would increase revenue from the same volume of gas. The tax on gas selling interstate at 50 cents per mcf would more than triple in 1980, from 3.7 cents to 12.5 cents.

"It's basically unfair for Texans to pay two-and-one-half times as much tax as the interstate market," said Peveto, the lead sponsor of the bill. "It's horrible that we in the Legislature have sat here and done nothing since 1972 while Texans have paid more and more in taxes but the interstate market has paid hardly any additional tax."

About $330 million of the added revenue from out of state would endow a State Higher Education Assistance Fund for construction and building repairs at state colleges outside the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems.

Bill Abington of Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association said there was no way the average weighted price for gas could reach $1.66 in 1980, — meaning higher taxes for Texas consumers.

Peveto responded: "The comptroller is the only one who has made a realistic estimate. The one we should leave it with is the state comptroller's office."

Robert Webb of Houston Lighting and Power said the bill would add $21 million to Houston electric bills in 1980 and 1981.

Aubrey Hamilton of Sun Gas Co., Dallas, said the bill would cause a $5 million annual "unreimbursed tax burden" for his company, which he said sells a "considerable amount of gas" at under 30 cents per mcf.

"Should this be the case, it would result in litigation," he said. Peveto said he was willing to add an exemption for wells under contracts without pass-through provisions.

Robert Heath, head of the attorney general's opinions division, said he "would feel comfortable defending the constitutionality of this type of tax."

Big Spring Employment Agency can fill needs

The easiest way for an employer to assure the selection of the best personnel available for service in his place of business is to interview and hire such workers through the Big Spring Employment Agency located in the Permian Building.

To assure Big Spring employers the best job applicants available, many hours of hard work go on behind the scenes at the agency, from the time an employer calls in a job opening until it is successfully filled. Job applicants are pre-screened so that employers will not have to waste time interviewing applicants who are not qualified for their particular job openings.

BIG SPRING EMPLOYMENT AGENCY Ruby Taroni, Sue Brown

In the field of office skills, the Big Spring Employment Agency carries on an extensive testing program. For example, if an employer wants to hire a secretary, applicants have been given a shorthand test, typing tests on both manual and electric typewriters, verbal, numerical and clerical aptitude tests. Included also are tests on business and industrial situations. The result of these tests may be used as a selection instrument in hiring applicants and as an indicator of future possibilities.

The Big Spring Employment Agency is a commercial business.

Private employment agencies render a different service from state and federal employment offices in that it is not involved in unemployment compensation, but devotes full time to job counseling, interviewing, testing and filling job placements.

If you're in the need of a job or in the process of trying to fill a vacancy, contact the Big Spring Employment Agency at 267-2535.

Beef alternatives are getting more expensive

Consumers who've been trying to beat the high price of beef by switching to non-meat substitutes may be out of luck. An Associated Press marketbasket survey indicates that the alternatives are getting more expensive.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and non-food items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1979 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list at the end of November 1977 because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

Here are highlights of the latest findings:

- The price of eggs — a high-protein alternative to meat — went up at the checklist store in 11 cities.

The price increases are blamed both on several factors including: high beef prices and the growing number of fast-food outlets selling eggs for breakfast.

- The price of a pound of butter went up at the checklist store in nine cities. Experts say the rising demand for cheese — another substitute for beef — means there's less butterfat to go into butter and that drives up prices.
- Meat prices show no signs of leveling off. Chopped chuck increased at the checklist store in eight cities last month and pork chops went up in five cities.
- The marketbasket bill went up last month at the checklist store an average of 1.8 percent during March. That compared with an overall average drop of 1 percent during February.
- The average market-basket bill at the checklist store increased 4.1 percent during the first three months of 1979. The boost during the same period of 1978 was 4 percent, indicating that prices today are rising just as fast as they were last year when the Consumer Price Index went up by almost 10 percent.

- Coffee prices continue to decline. The latest survey showed the price of a pound of coffee dropped at the checklist store in eight cities, to an average of $2.56 a pound. That compared with an average of $2.67 a pound a month earlier.
- No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.
- The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates were not included in the over-all total.

Messy lawns for the birds

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Looking for an excuse to stop fighting the dandelions in your lawn and keep the too neat neighbors off your back at the same time? Tell 'em your saving them for the purple finch.

Dr. Edward Geibert of the University of Wisconsin said Monday that his study of songbirds found that "where dandelions were allowed to bloom ... and then go to seed, the birds were predominantly purple finches." He said well manicured lawns draw mostly starlings.

Geibert, who was at the 35th annual Northeast Fish and Wildlife Conference, offered another excuse to quit grooming your lawn altogether. The neighbors may not care for it, but the mourning dove will be your friend for life.

Don't fence me in

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP) — It's one thing to steal a Rolls-Royce, and quite another to fence one.

Two would-be Rolls thieves abandoned their efforts to get the car out of a dealer's lot in this Detroit suburb when they couldn't smash through a steel fence, police said.

Officers surrounded the lot early Sunday when they saw the 1974 cream-and-brown Rolls piled into the fence.

A 20-year-old man was caught running from the lot, and another man was arrested in a nearby car bogged down in mud, said Sgt. Henry Hartfelder. Both will face burglary and car theft charges, he said.

At a nearby dealership last week, a car had been driven off by thieves who ran through a fence, Hartfelder said.

"This time, though, the fence held," said Hartfelder. "Fence 1, Rolls 0."

Fire house is fire trap

DOLGEVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The local fire house has had its general insurance policy canceled because it failed to meet minimum safety requirements, according to the insurer.

Members of the village board received word at a meeting Monday evening that Worcester Insurance Co. had canceled the policy for the Alfred Dolge Fire House. The firm cited such things as poorly installed electrical fixtures and poor circuitry in announcing the cancellation.

The board members asked the fire inspector to look into the matter.

SAM HUNNICUTT TALKS ABOUT THE ISSUES:

Should Big Spring try to get more industry? I believe that we should, and as your city councilman I will cooperate in sensible programs to that end. If a city doesn't grow and progress, it becomes static, then stagnant and eventually goes down hill.

Obtaining new industry is one of the most competitive jobs facing a community today. One of the things industrial prospects examine closely is the attitude and the efficiency of local governments. Cities that are disinterested and won't cooperate, or which are not operated soundly get scratched from consideration. Industries want to be where there are adequate services, progressive attitudes towards their people, and where there is a commonsense approach to meeting and solving problems.

By and large, our industrial park has been handled in such a way that it has not only brought us new industries and institutions, but has added several hundred jobs. One big tool we have for attracting a major industry is the new hangar-type building at the Park (former air base). Because EDA funds have been obtained, the city's share of this $1,100,000 project is less than one-third of the total cost. Yet it may well be the magnet which draws a large industry here. And if it doesn't immediately, rentals for warehousing alone will pay for the debt service operation and maintenance. I think it is a real asset.

I think that we are making progress toward getting new industry. I want to work in a City Government that makes this possible.

(AP/WIREPHOTO) DODGES QUESTIONS — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, the deposed Shah of Iran, dodges questions during a photo session in Nassau, Bahamas Monday as his wife, Empress Farah, and two of his children stand by. The Shah was asked how long he would stay in the Bahamas and would he go to another island and both questions remain unanswered.

Lignite coal burning can emit radiation too

HOUSTON (AP) — An energy researcher says radiation doses higher than those coming from nuclear power plants can be emitted by plants burning South Texas lignite coal.

Burning the low-grade form of coal releases radioactivity from trace amounts of uranium and thorium in the mineral, said Dr. Hal B.H. Cooper of the University of Texas Center for Energy Studies.

Cooper made his comments Monday in a speech at the opening session of the 86th annual national meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Cooper said this compares with an annual dosage of 2.7 to 5.9 millirems from comparable nuclear plants, and 9.9 millirems from North Texas lignite, which now is used more heavily and has lower radiation emissions than U.S. coal in general.

The average dose from U.S. coal would be 36.4 millirems a year, he said.

Cooper said radioactivity also remains in the ash from South Texas lignite, and in the sludge produced by pollution control "scrubbers" on the power plants.

He said lignite taken from South Texas, where uranium also is mined, gives off especially high radiation levels.

Cooper said the nation will be using as much as 66 million tons of Texas lignite by 1985, so much more study is needed to define the extent of the radiation problem.

The researcher said the lignite radiation affects the bone marrow most significantly.

He said studies show a person 500 meters downwind from a power plant burning South Texas lignite would be exposed to a bone dosage of 49.8 millirems a year, and some extremely radioactive lignite would produce an exposure of 378 millirems a

Higher oil prices may be allowed

NEW YORK (AP) — Administration officials say President Carter plans to levy a complex two-part tax on domestic oil and to allow higher prices for U.S.-produced oil, the New York Times reported today.

These moves would financially benefit the federal government and the oil companies but would mean greater costs to consumers for oil products.

In a report from Washington, the Times said that by Sept. 30, 1981, the combination of the tax on producers and the higher prices could produce $3 billion to $5 billion annually in federal revenue.

Here's why it takes fuel to make electricity.

It takes fuel to make electricity. A lot of people don't understand that, but it's true. Most of the power plants in this country require steam to generate electricity. To make steam you must boil water, and that requires a lot of heat. That's why we have to buy and burn large amounts of fuel, such as lignite coal and natural gas, every month. The steam we make with it turns the generators that make your electricity, which we distribute to you right when you need it. The fuel we use costs money, more all the time, which is why we show it separately on your bill. At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for. And to remember: it takes fuel to make electricity.

Yanks ship Series winner Beattie to the minors

When you've stood tall on the mound during the World Series, it's tough being cut down. That was Jim Beattie's somber prospect today. "I just didn't visualize going back to the minor leagues," the New York Yankee right-hander said Monday after learning that he had been sent to Columbus of the International League by the World Champions. "It may have seemed inevitable to other people, but it just didn't seem very real to me." Beattie was one of several players cut from major league rosters as teams moved to get down to the opening-day limit of 25. Both the American and National leagues start the season Wednesday.

Among the veterans to go were reliever Ken Brett, waived by the California Angels, and right-hander Buzz Capra, who was trying to make a comeback with the Atlanta Braves.

"I'm a little shocked — I didn't expect it," noted the 24-year-old Beattie, who won four of six decisions down the September stretch, added a victory in the AL playoffs and topped off the year with a World Series triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The decision to drop the 6-foot-6 right-hander was predicated more on the top-to-bottom strength of the Yankee staff, rather than Beattie's modest spring record of 0-4 with an earned-run average of 6.25.

The Yankees added three pitchers to their staff in the offseason — Tommy John, Luis Tiant and Paul Mirabella, recipient of the James P. Dawson award as the Yanks' outstanding rookie in spring training camp this season. They've joined a formidable staff that includes Cy Young winner Ron Guidry, Ed Figueroa and Catfish Hunter.

Beattie wasn't the only Yankee to go. The World Champions also sent rookie pitcher Ron Davis and outfielder Tommy Cruz to Columbus.

Brett, an 11-year major league veteran, had a 3-5 record last year with a 4.95 earned run average. The 31-year-old Capra was trying to regain his job after surgery that sidelined the right-hander for most of last season.

Pryor hoping ump's settle pacts soon

The only strike that Paul Pryor wants to see is the one at home plate.

"I hope (the umpires) will quickly make their own contract settlements and we can begin a new season," says the veteran National League umpire. "Let's play ball."

Beginning Wednesday, they'll play ball in the major leagues, one way or the other — but the chances are that most of the veteran umpires will be absent because of their current contract dispute.

Fifty major league umpires remained on the sidelines today, on the verge of the 1979 baseball season which opens with San Francisco at Cincinnati in the National League and California at Seattle in the American.

Each league had only one regular umpire under contract so far for the season — Pryor, an 18-year veteran, in the National, and Ted Hendry, a rookie, in the American.

Hendry has been working spring training games in Arizona with the blessing of the Major League Umpires Association which advised him to fulfill his contract since he signed before the current dispute began. Pryor went to work over the weekend after signing his contract just last week.

Explaining his action in a prepared statement, Pryor said: "After much thought, discussion and consideration of the ramifications, my decision was made to sign for two years. Each person in this dispute has his own individual decision. My relationship with my colleagues is a good one both on and off the field."

Pryor added that he has been in contact with some of the sidelined umpires, but would not elaborate on their discussions.

"I wish my colleagues well," is all he would say. The 51-year-old Pryor is No. 3 in seniority on the NL staff, behind only Ed Vargo and Lee Weyer. Hendry, 38, was added to the AL staff last season.

POINTING THE WAY — National League umpire Paul Pryor signals that the hit by Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies has bounced "fair" as Phils coach Tony Taylor signals Carlton to head for second base, where he ended up with a double. Pryor, after signing a two year contract with the league, was working his second game of the spring. The other umpires have yet to sign contracts in a dispute with major league baseball.

Nancy Lieberman honored as top female collegian

NEW YORK (AP) — Nancy Lieberman has never regretted the times she sneaked out of the house and went down to the playground to rough it up with the boys. "I never played against girls until I got in high school," says the 5-foot-10 All America point guard, honored Monday night as the best woman player in college basketball.

jumping up and putting finger marks all over the ceiling. The guys all resented me at first and my girl friends were envious. You have to take a lot of abuse but it was worth it." Now, Nancy says, sports who used to yell "Tomboy, why don't you play someplace else?" greet her with a friendly, "Hello, Nancy — gee, we caught you on the tube. You're great."

A statuesque redhead, Miss Lieberman is the 1979 winner of the Wade Trophy, symbolizing No. 1 in the women's collegiate sport. A 20-year-old junior, she led the Old Dominion team of Norfolk, Va., to a 35-1 record and the national championship. Her contributions included a 17.4-point scoring average, 254 assists, 144 steals and 276 rebounds.

league's best overall record from 1968-71, and won the Super Bowl his final season as owner. The Rams won six consecutive division titles, but failed each time to survive the playoffs — a source of great disappointment for Rosenbloom.

She was a combination of Larry Bird and Earvin "Magic" Johnson, so talented that Uncle Sam will build his 1980 Olympic team around her and Carol Blazejowski of Montclair State. Carol won the award last year.

This spectator appeal has not yet spilled over to the incipient pro game in the Women's Basketball League. Salaries in the 10-team league are said to range from $2,800 to $7,500 on some teams. Karen Logan of the New Jersey Gems is the highest paid at a reported $21,000. Salaries in the men's National Basketball Association average more than $125,000 with big name players drawing down to $50,000 to $80,000.

He was the major stockholder in Warner Communications and had oil drilling interests, but Rosenbloom's first love was football. "That other stuff is no fun," he said.

Nancy is not discouraged over the slow public acceptance of women's basketball while the female gender is thriving in individual sports, such as tennis and golf.

Nancy and Carol both are looking to professional careers after the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, but they won't come cheaply. "Olympic exposure should enhance our value," Lieberman said. "I don't think $21,000 would get either of us."

Rosenbloom is survived by son Steve, 34, whose title with the Rams is special assistant to the president; sons Daniel and Chip; and daughters Lucia and Mrs. Suzanne Irwin, in addition to his wife. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Chris Evert collected another $100,000 for a weekend of tennis Sunday while Nancy Lopez, on a rival TV screen, missed in a bid for her third straight women's golf crown, losing in a rare five-woman playoff in a $150,000 tournament. "Each year women's sports have made greater strides," Nancy said. "More doors are being opened to women athletes in every field. They are making more money and generating more excitement."

Rams owner Rosenbloom drowns

Rosenbloom and his wife, Georgia, were staying at a rented house in the exclusive Miami-area resort city of Golden Beach. Police Chief William Henrikson said officers were called after Rosenbloom was dragged out to sea by the undertow.

CAREW GETS EJECTED — California Angels' premier first baseman Rod Carew, left, argues with home plate umpire Jim Scott as Dodgers catcher Joe Ferguson and Angels Don Baylor try to restrain him during fourth inning action Sunday in Anaheim. Carew, who struck out, didn't like the umpire's calls and after a long argument, was ejected. The Angels went on to defeat the Dodgers 7-4 and take the "Freeway Series" two games to one.

Boarding home fire
Some victims saved?
 FARMINGTON, Mo. (AP) — Some of the 25 residents killed in a boarding home fire could have been saved if there had been enough staff members to lead them to safety, authorities said.
 The lone woman on duty was asleep when the fire started early Monday and was pulled from the building after she was trapped trying to awaken everyone, they said.
 "It's terribly hard for one person to assure 37 residents of a pathway to safety in that kind of a situation," said Marva Lubker, the governor's special assistant on nursing homes. Thirteen people escaped injury.
 Investigators today were still searching for what caused the fire. An electrical short circuit was suspected.
 A similar conclusion was reached in Connellsville, Pa., where nine people — all but one elderly — died Sunday night in a boarding house fire that authorities said was caused by an electrical overload.
 A third fire, at a jail in Dayton, Ohio, resulted in 28 people being hospitalized. Authorities said the blaze apparently was started by an inmate who ignited the protective covering in a padded cell. In all, 75 people were overcome by smoke.
 Farmington authorities said smoke inhalation killed 11 people who were pulled from the blazing Straughan Wayside Inn.
 The early-morning fire roared unchecked through the one-story granite building. Fire Chief Bob Oder said his department was at the scene within three minutes after an alarm was received, but it was too late for most residents.
 Bodies found inside the gutted structure were severely burned and were found in or near beds, he said.

Most fires set, Womack believes
 Special Investigator Ricky Womack of the Big Spring Fire Department says he has suspected of setting grass fires across the city in the past several months.
 "Probably 99 percent of the more than 30 grass fires we have had since Jan. 1 were set, either accidentally or intentionally," said Womack. "Lightening or the sun shining through broken glass — convection — are the only natural causes, and both are relatively rare."
 "We have had wetter conditions than usual, yet grass fires number much higher than usual," Womack continued. "Last year we had the same type of problems, and after some investigation, I've come up with the names of about six kids, between the ages of 10 and 15, that I feel sure are involved in setting the fires."
 Because the youths are juveniles, the case will be specially handled. Womack plans to contact the parents today and charges will probably be filed.
