

Heaven's Very Special Child

A meeting was held quite far from earth
"It's time again for another birth,"
Said the Angels to the Lord above,
This special child will need much love.

His progress may seem very slow,
Accomplishment he may not show;
And he'll require extra care
From folks he meets down there.

He may not run or laugh or play,
His thoughts may seem quite far away.
In many ways he won't adapt,
And he'll be known as handicapped.

So let's be careful where he's sent
We want his life to be content.
Please, Lord, find the parent who Will do a special job for You.

They will not realize right away
The leading role they're asked to play.
But with this child sent from above
Comes stronger faith and richer love.

And soon they'll know the privilege given
In caring for this gift from Heaven.
Their precious charge so meek and mild
Is Heaven's Very Special Child.

Dollar-a-gallon gasoline figures

How big a dent will it really make?

You know that dollar-a-gallon gasoline is going to put a dent in your budget. But do you know how big it will be?

The extra pennies at the pump add up. If you have any doubts, look at a few figures.

Suppose you have a car that gets 15 miles to a gallon of gasoline. You drive 10,000 miles a year. If gasoline costs 80 cents a gallon, you will spend $533 to fuel your car for 12 months. If the price goes up to 90 cents, your bill goes to $600. And if it hits $1 a gallon, you will have to spend $667.

Dollar-a-gallon gasoline could mean an extra $134 a year. Those extra dollars would have paid for almost 9 1/2 months of gasoline back in 1950. Surprised? Look at a few more figures, based on statistics compiled by government and industry.

The year is in the first column. The average number of miles per passenger vehicle is in the second. The third column gives average mileage; the fourth gives the price per gallon in cents; and the fifth lists the annual bill, rounded off to the nearest dollar:

Year	Miles	MPG	Price	Bill
1950	9,015	14.40	26.76	$168
1960	9,446	14.28	31.13	$206
1970	9,783	13.70	35.69	$255
1975	9,406	13.74	57.22	$392

Of course wages have gone up along with prices. In 1950, the average production worker earned about $1.45 an hour. He or she would have had to work about 11 minutes to earn enough money to buy a gallon of gasoline. In 1960, with an average hourly wage of about $2.25, it would have taken about 8 minutes. In 1970, it would have taken 6 minutes, and in 1975, it would have taken 7 minutes.

Today, production workers are earning an average of just over $6 an hour. At that rate, it would take 8 minutes to earn an 80-cent gallon of gasoline; 9 minutes to earn a 90-cent gallon; and 10 minutes to earn a $1 gallon.

How much you drive and what sort of mileage you get has a lot to do with your bills. Take the car that gets 15 miles to the gallon. Drive 8,000 miles instead of 10,000. At 80 cents a gallon, the annual bill would be $427 instead of $533. At 90 cents a gallon, the bill would be $480, and at $1 a gallon it would be $533.

Now look at a car that gets only 13 miles per gallon. Here is a look at what the annual fuel bill would be at 80 cents, 90 cents and $1 a gallon. First, assume you drive 8,000 miles in a year.

At 80 cents, the annual bill would be $492.
At 90 cents, the annual bill would be $553.
At a dollar, the annual bill would be $615.

Now assume you drive 10,000 miles.
At 80 cents, the annual bill would be $615.
At 90 cents, the annual bill would be $692.
At a dollar, the annual bill would be $769.

Do the same thing for a car that gets 17 miles to the gallon. First, drive 8,000 miles a year.

At 80 cents, the annual bill would be $376.
At 90 cents, the annual bill would be $424.
At a dollar, the annual bill would be $471.

Now drive 10,000 miles a year.
At 80 cents, the annual bill would be $471.
At 90 cents, the annual bill would be $529.
At a dollar, the annual bill would be $586.

Tanzanian forces take another city

DOKOLO, Uganda (AP) — Tanzanian and Ugandan government forces captured this city without a fight and moved out again Saturday on their slow march north and the next goal, Lira, one of three district capitals still controlled by Idi Amin's troops.

Pro-Amin forces destroyed three small bridges on the approach to Dokolo but Tanzanian army engineers and local inhabitants repaired them Friday.

The Langi and Acholi tribal areas in this north-central area have borne the brunt of Amin's wrath in the past. It is the home of former President Milton Obote, deposed by Amin in 1971, and its Christians have suffered recurring purges by Moslem Amin's killer squads.

Reports from refugees fleeing Lira, 33 miles to the northwest and 130 miles north of the capital of Kampala, said about 300 pro-Amin soldiers there killed two priests and an undetermined number of others.

All churches and convents in Lira have been looted or destroyed said Sister Janet, a Roman Catholic nun here. "They have taken everything from the missions, including the beds," she said.

She said a Ugandan priest, identified only as Father Anania, and an Italian missionary, the Rev. Giuseppe Sante, were murdered last month when they approached Lira's army barracks with five civilians to investigate a report that Tanzanian and government soldiers captured the area.

Lira, Gulu and Arua, Amin's home territory in the west Nile district, are still under control of Amin loyalists, whose numbers are estimated at between 3,000 and 10,000 men.

The combined force was expected to reach Lira and Gulu this week, but observers said it may be weeks before they move into the northwestern West Nile district for a showdown in Arua.

In Apach, nine miles northwest of Dokolo, five pro-Amin soldiers, one armored personnel carrier and other military vehicles were turned over to Tanzanian and Ugandan government forces Friday by local inhabitants who had formed an anti-Amin army composed of ex-soldiers.

Michael Olaka, 33 a former warrant officer who left the Ugandan army in 1977, said the local militia had driven out Amin troops recently, killing about 100 of them.

Amin launched an invasion of northern Tanzania last October, but the Tanzanians repulsed the invaders, and, coupled with anti-Amin exiles, began an invasion that last month ran Amin from his capital of Kampala, and chased his forces north.

House votes to give citizens final word

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — In a decision that could wreck a legislative compromise and bring on a special session, the House voted Saturday to give citizens the final word in a complex initiative and referendum process.

An amendment, adopted 113-15, took away the ultimate authority that Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby wanted lawmakers to retain.

The House delayed its decision on the entire initiative and referendum proposal (HJR3) until Tuesday after it appeared many of its supporters had gone home.

Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton and Gov. Bill Clements had negotiated for some time on a proposal that would meet Clements' demand for initiative and referendum but inject the Legislature into the process.

Clements says he will call a special legislative session if lawmakers fail to submit to the voters a constitutional amendment giving the people the right to initiate and repeal laws.

Gasoline shortage is real, says president of Cosden

Shortages of gasoline in scattered areas and consistent hikes in pump prices have created some suspicion among Americans that the alleged gasoline shortage may in fact be a conspiracy among oil companies to boost prices without provoking consumer protest.

That suspicion has been expressed locally.

"When it gets to a dollar a gallon, we'll get all the gas we want," Charley Clanton, owner of Clanton's Auto Sales, predicted in mid-April.

His indication that the gasoline shortage was a maneuver to raise prices rather than a genuine shortage was repeated by other service station managers in Big Spring.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger denies allegations that the gas shortage is a conspiracy in the oil industry to hike profits. He told the House Ways and Means Committee Thursday that the shortage of crude oil is genuine.

From where Kenneth Perry, president of Cosden Oil and Chemical Company sits, the shortage is real.

"The whole American Petro Fina System has a shortage," he said. "The shortage is being divided up between refineries."

The Big Spring refinery normally produces about 50,000 of the one million barrels of oil produced daily in the Permian Basin. Perry guessed that Cosden is currently operating at about 90 percent of its capacity though it could be as low as 85 percent.

Perry's estimate reflects what Schlesinger told the Ways and Means Committee. He said that a shortage of crude oil has held U.S. refineries to 85 percent of capacity.

Rip Griffin's truck stop, located on the IS bypass immediately north of town, has never had to close due to a shortage of gasoline but it has come close to running out on occasions.

It measures its sales in hundreds of thousands of gallons annually, is one of the busiest stops along IS 20.

On the other hand, the Fina Truck Stop near Cosden refinery, is now closed on Sundays due to the fuel shortage, whereas it used to stay open 24 hours a day seven days a week.

Currently, it opens at 6 a.m., and shut down operations at 10 o'clock each night Monday through Saturday. It works on an allotment basis and tries to make its supply last the whole month.

Only one Fina station here has been closed due to the shortage of gasoline but others could follow.

Sunday gasoline is still available here but not nearly as many stations remain open on the Sabbath as formerly. With most operators, the operators get their stocks replenished, after which they begin to worry over whether their orders can be filled "the next time around."

New clue surfaces in Reeves' deaths

A new clue surfaced Friday which may advance investigation into the April 26 fatal shootings of Ann Reeves and her son, Tracey.

Sheriff A.N. Standard declined to elaborate, except to say, "We have a new lead and it looks promising."

He is hopeful that some tangible evidence may be produced this week. The Reeves were found murdered near Centerpoint School after apparently being abducted from their service station. Robbery is believed to have been the motive.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Blocking traffic view

Q. Is there a city ordinance that prohibits parking a vehicle or placing a shrub or other objects within a certain distance from an intersection so that the objects don't obstruct the view of oncoming traffic? If so, what is the distance and to whom should violations be reported.

A. Blocking the view of oncoming traffic with vehicles or other objects is illegal, says Capt. Sherrill Farmer of the Big Spring Police Department. A city ordinance dictates that a vehicle may not be parked within 20 feet of a crosswalk or intersection. Also, shrubs, signs, walls and other obstructions may rise no more than two feet above curb level within 15 feet of the streetside private property line. Violations should be reported to the traffic division of the police department.

Their child a star

Memories of Mom

To actress Liv Ullmann, she evokes memories of cocoa and of bread and butter with bananas and apple jelly. A storyteller. The woman sitting by her bedside, looking up and smiling.

To opera star Beverly Sills, she was the most beautiful woman in the world. A comforter. The lady with the seal fur coat, who would carry her from place to place and into whose chest she would bury her head.

For Mother's Day, The Associated Press asked several well-known people across the country two questions: "For what one aspect of your character is your mother most responsible?" "What is your first, earliest, memory of your mother?"

Their responses: —Vice President Walter Mondale said he got from his mother, Claribel, a teacher, who died in 1967, "my appreciation for the value of honesty, my love of music and the joy of family life."

Mondale's earliest memory is his mother playing the piano for the children in the rectory where his father was a Methodist minister.

"I have two early memories of my mother," said Ricky Schroder, the 9-year-old child actor who co-stars in "The Champ" and whose mother, Diane, is currently with him on a film set in California.

"I remember her holding me in her arms, tickling me, and finishing off with a big kiss. The other one was when I was very small. I put some aspirins up my nose and I couldn't breathe. Mommy came and she took them out."

What did Ricky learn from his mother, who lives in Staten Island? "She taught me to be concerned with the feelings of others and to be considerate of other people."

—Gary Coleman, another precocious child star, who plays in television's "Different Strokes," said: "I think I'm nice because my mother always tells me to be sweet and courteous to elders."

The earliest memory he claims? "When I was 13 or 14 months old, I used to climb up on the back of the couch and eat wafer cookies and drop crumbs all over everything. I drove my mother crazy with it."

—Television newswoman Barbara Walters said her "first, clear memory" of her mother, Dena, who lives in Miami, was when Barbara was 7 or 8 years old.

"I had severe stomach pains that resulted in an appendicitis. I remember her rushing me from hospital to hospital and then finally being close by as I came out of the anesthesia."

What personality traits did she acquire? "I felt so wanted and well-loved by my mother that this feeling could have figured strongly in the wanting and loving that I have for my own child, the focus of my life, even though I am a working mother."

—Luci Arnaz, who is now starring in the Broadway production of "They're Playing Our Song," said she has become, like her mother Lucille Ball, "a relentless perfectionist." Her earliest memory of her? "7 a.m."

—Reggie Jackson, the slugging New York Yankee right fielder said he first remembers his mother helping his father, who ran a dry cleaning business. "I remember when I was about 4 years old, sitting next to her on a chair watching her iron clothes."

—Don Shula, the coach of pro football's Miami Dolphins, said his mother, Mary, of Painesville, Ohio, "has been a big influence in my life. She was very neat and industrious and I try to be that way."

—Sarah Jessica Parker, the 14-year-old actress who is the latest star of the Broadway smash "Annie," said: "I got from my mother my frankness. Neither of us hold anything back. We say what we think. And I got from her my love of little children — except when they're crying."

Her first memory? "I think was about 2 years old. I was in Athens, Ohio, where my family lived and I was lost in the snow. I was under a snow tunnel that my brothers and sisters had built and my mother found me. That's the first memory I have of knowing she was my mother. I can still see the face that looked down on me there, because I was lost and crying."

—Beverly Sills, former Metropolitan Opera star and now director of the New York City Opera Company: "I thought she was the most beautiful woman in the whole world. I remember her looking into a mirror, putting on this hat that had the most beautiful black veil. I was 3. When I was 2, I remember her wearing a big seal fur coat — seal was legal then — and I would bury my head into this coat that was just the warmest thing."

Her mother, Shirley Silverman, who lives in New York, is just as warm, she said. "I got my cheerfulness from her. She's always cheerful. She's always looking at the bright side of things."

Combination of items killed gas rationing plan

WASHINGTON (AP)

Lack of a sense of urgency, parochial voting, too many last-minute changes and a strange, politically motivated 1975 law combined to kill President Carter's standby gasoline rationing plan in Congress.

That seemed to be the consensus of congressional and administration energy strategists Saturday as they performed a post-mortem on the rejected plan and tried to figure out ways to build support for another.

Even though Carter said Friday he would not submit another plan and challenged Congress to write its own within 90 days, top administration energy officials were meeting this weekend on the possibility of a new proposal.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., disclosed Saturday he had phoned the president to urge him "not to close the door" on the possibility of submitting a new rationing plan.

The president, Byrd said, seemed "very receptive."

The administration is also considering a national odd-even form of rationing like that in California. But this would be to ease gasoline lines this summer, not for a major oil supply disruption.

The kind of new rationing plan the administration might support "at this point is still very uncertain, very formless," an administration official said Saturday.

However, the official, who asked not to be identified, said, "for a practical matter, international realities require that we have a plan."

Another possibility being explored on Capitol Hill is a bill by Sens. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., and Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., already progressing through Congress. It had been largely overlooked until now.

The bill, which gives the president rationing powers under certain circumstances, has already been approved by the Senate Energy Committee and is backed by chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash. Floor action is possible sometime this week.

The measure would have the president set gasoline-saving goals for each state during national energy emergencies.

States would have to respond with their own plans to meet these goals. If they failed to produce plans acceptable to the federal government, the president could step in and put in place a variety of gasoline-saving steps — including rationing.

Senate sources say the measure has a good chance of winning Senate approval and may be the vehicle that chamber selects to meet the president's challenge to write a new plan.

On the light side

Rent-a-wife--almost

CRANFORD, N.J. (AP) — For the man who has everything — except a wife — two Union County women have an answer.

For $20 an hour, "Rent-A-Wife" will water plants, clean house and do the shopping. And though the service is geared toward single men, Gail Kennedy and Freddy Kaiser, both divorced, don't discriminate.

"A lot of women scream 'I could use a wife,'" Mrs. Kennedy said.

Mrs. Kaiser said the idea was born from a session of "Coke drinking and hand wringing... We'd been doing it all our lives but never got paid for it." She added, though, that there are limits to what the service takes on.

Enterprising lady not sitter

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The vice president of the United Mine Workers says the profits from his new record will go to the union's organizing relief fund. But he's also getting in some jobs at Energy Secretary James Schlesinger and nuclear energy.

Sam Church is about to release a ballad entitled "Black Gold." A union representative will push the record at coal field radio stations, but the disc might get some play in Washington too.

"We're probably going to some senator's offices and start playing this thing. Maybe we'll even go to Schlesinger's office," he said.

The one that got away

They hope the photos will also show a Fish and Game Commission imposter who took on Sunday what may have been a record catch, saying the state agency needed it for the eggs.

Gibson, 49, of Wichita, said a man representing himself as a Fish and Game biologist weighed the white bass in at six pounds — 11 ounces better than the recognized world mark. The man then took the fish and four others caught by Gibson.

DFW Airport prepares for crash

EDITORS NOTE: Next to being trapped in a sunken cruise liner, or atop a towering inferno, the next worst thing to fill one with fear and loathing is an airport disaster. The nation's largest airdrome — DFW Airport — has prepared itself for that worst of worsts. AP writer TOM DeCOLA volunteered to be a "victim" in this quite realistic drill. His charred account follows.

By TOM DeCOLA
Associated Press Writer
GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — I knew as I pulled my old clothes over my old swim suit that before the night ended, I would be seriously hurt.

It was no dark premonition. It was a promise from the folks at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, the nation's largest. The occasion was a simulated airplane crash. My boss had decided I would be a victim, which is consistent with his normal train of thought.

"What are you going to do, exactly?" asked my soon-to-be-teenage daughter.

"Well, I think they're going to pour fake blood and stuff on me and make some wounds and things on my body," I answered.

Her reaction consisted of the only acceptable phrase for her age: "Oooh, gross!"

I admit that when Marlene Peyton of Denton finished with me, I was gross.

Mrs. Peyton is a disaster simulation consultant. She and her assistants transformed 127 of us "victims" into a ghoulish assortment.

Some of us were given fatal wounds, complete with shrapnel imbedded in skulls and stomachs, all surrounded by a clotted-blood concoction Mrs. Peyton whips up in her kitchen.

"Up on the stretcher, face down," Mrs. Peyton commanded. "Off with the shirt."

I complied and soon sported a third-degree burn on my back. Passers-by assured me that it looked real, even though it was mostly plastic and soot and

Two returning to VA Center

Two nursing assistants who entered Upward Mobility training at Howard College through the auspices of the Veterans Administration Medical Center two years ago have graduated and will return to work at the VAMC as Graduate Nurse Technicians.

The two, Celestino Cisneros and Ella Pat McCutchan, have earned their Associate Degrees in Nursing and will become Registered Nurses after they pass their State Board Examination.

Two other employees have been selected for training at Howard College and full pay and tuition will be furnished during their training program. Candidates for the Upward Mobility Program must agree to work for the Veterans Administration upon completion of their training for a period equal to three times the length of the training period.

the blood concoction. While my wound dried, a fireman burned a hole in my shirt.

It would be up to paramedics and doctors at the "crash" scene to make the proper diagnosis.

A woman wrote my supposed vital signs on my arm as another clue for the medics.

Buses rolled up to the Delta Airlines hangar used as a staging area, and the scenario was ready to begin.

We were a jovial, if gruesome, group as our bus splashed through the remnants of a heavy rain that fell minutes before we left.

The feeling began to change as we approached a remote section of the airfield, where an orange Braniff jetliner was parked. Its insignia were blocked out by paper and tape, because the plane also was playing a role. It was Universal Airlines flight 717, which crashed during a sunset landing.

Ours was the last bus to pull up at the scene. Baggage was strewn around the plane, and so were our "wounded" comrades. They were lying on the wet runway or in nearby fields. Some staggered around as if dazed and others lay in pools of realistic-looking "blood."

With darkness falling, the whole thing was losing its picnic atmosphere.

It was getting uncomfortable. It looked real.

At 8:15 p.m., sirens sounded the beginning of the exercise. Within seconds, winking lights of a firetruck were seen in the distance, heading for the crash site. Within three minutes, the first fire truck arrived. It signaled a steady parade of emergency vehicles screaming to the scene.

Portable generators ignited floodlights, and pulsing red emergency lights flashed from scores of vehicles.

As instructed, I wandered around the area as if dazed. My wandering took me past the "bodies" of several colleagues, some of whom were beginning to warm up to the parts they played.

"Medic, for God's sake, help us," some screamed. "Over here, over here," yelled others.

Two women began screaming. Others called out names. "Carol" and "Sheila" rang through the cold and eerie night scene.

My stroll was finally intercepted at 8:55 p.m. by airport Public Safety Officer Alvy Dodson. He walked toward me and took me by the arm. "Are you okay?" he asked. "Fine," I said. "You're sure?" "Yes, fine."

Dodson walked past me, but looked back over his shoulder.

Spotting the burned back of my shirt, he took me firmly by the arm and led me to the triage area.

Triage is common in wartime and in a disaster. It is the grisly practice of determining which victims can be saved and working on them first.

Those drill victims who were "dead" were loaded aboard refrigerated trucks that served as mobile morgues.

Those who would die despite treatment or who would live despite treatment were passed over.

Those who needed treatment were assigned a priority.

Problem settled without a shootout

The state of Montana and the city of New York had something going there for a while—the kind of thing that, in days of yore, would have wound up with a shootout on Boot Hill Drive.

It all started when consumer affairs authorities for New York City suggested that residents pledge themselves to "beefless Wednesdays" as a way of combatting high meat prices.

THAT DIDN'T SET well with Gov. Thomas Judge of the State of Montana. Judge, no doubt prompted by beef growers in Montana, growled that curtailing demands was hardly the way to increase the supply. Judge also drew attention that a consumer boycott called earlier in this decade served only to thin out the herds on western ranges, a factor that played a role in today's short and high-priced beef supply.

The governor wasn't smiling when he said New York was trying to shape a movement that could only hurt Montana's economy. He then fired off a protest to New York's mayor, Edward Koch, suggesting that Montanans were capable of a boycott, too. They could, he said, exclude the city in their vacation plans.

Gov. Judge's ploy was effective, to say the least. Quick to react when he spots an economic threat, Mayor Koch fired back an assurance that he personally was very fond of meat, ate it throughout the week and hoped that he heard no more of boycotts—steaks, tourism or whatever.

Koch also allowed that the high prices could be blamed mainly on price-gouging middlemen who come between producers and consumers.

The mayor also extended an offer to the governor for dinner the first time he was back east. The menu? It would feature the best in New York-cut steaks.

So there you have it. Montana is still producing and selling beef. New Yorkers, who from the start probably never took the news of the boycott seriously, are still eating beef, when they can rally the money for it. Who is to say the middlemen are not still in there taking their percentage, what ever it amounts to.

The middleman makes a good whipping boy but the American pays what he has to pay for what he wants.

Most of us do not practice moderation, perhaps because we cannot discipline ourselves. Maybe, too, the agencies assigned to remind us we that we might be eating too much, drinking too much, playing too much or working too much are ineffective because they are immediately cowed by someone in authority if they dare to speak out.

Getting the lowdown

Around the rim

Wall Finley

Angus Lind, who writes a column for the States-Item, has invited me to the National Society of Columnists workshop next week in New Orleans.

Angus asks: "Is your copy being over-edited? Some heavy-handed dillard of an editor stifling your creativity? The publisher blaming circulation decline on you? That what you need is the NSC."

"You'll actually have other bonafide columnists to kibitz with instead of newsroom wierdos."

ANGUS, THIS YEAR'S chairman for the event, lists 10 good reasons on the invitation for attending:

1. It'll look good in your obit or next job resume.
2. You'll steal more column ideas than you'll ever need.
3. You'll need more ideas after your ideas are stolen.
4. You'll impress your editors with your interest in self-improvement.
5. YOU'LL CRUISE down the Mississippi on the steamer Natchez.
6. You'll get to do in-depth research on oyster shuckers, how to peel a catfish, and Dixie beer.
7. Studies show dramatic long-term increases in morale and self-esteem after columnist conventions.
8. They may never let you go on another one.
9. It's the perfect excuse to come to New Orleans.
10. You'll go to Pat O'Brien's and find out that Hurricanes can devastate more than the coastline.

TOM WATSON, no, not the golfer, but the Herald publisher, recently returned from Wisconsin with a stopover at his alma mama Missouri University.

My chances of getting "snowed-in" in New Orleans are fairly thin. So, maybe the publisher will finance my trip to the 'Dixie' convention.

BUT JUST IN case he doesn't, I will be the guest of the City of Carlsbad, N.M., the National Park Service, Presidents' Park, the Living Desert State Park and the Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce Friday night, Saturday and Sunday for a "Press Day."

The invitation said the events were planned especially for members of the "working press" only. I don't know how they got my name.

New Mexico Gov. Bruce King and members of the New Mexico Congressional delegation are expected for the occasion. Yeah, but how can I afford it? It'll be "free" room and board for me, Velma, and Moonchild and 40 others.

FORMER HERALD SOCIETY EDITOR Candy Smith, now reporting for the Galveston Morning News and who celebrates her birthday May 18, says:

Our country once was known as a leading world power—until we started with other nations in Ping Pong.

Ex-Alpine cowboy Jay Sanders, vacationing in the Brady area, provides a tip:

Pay attention to Fortune Magazine's annual list of the top 500 business enterprises. Next year the first 400 may be professional athletes.

HERALD EXTRAS' swinging first baseman, Gigi Hofer, who celebrates her birthday May 16, provides a bulletin:

There's talk that TV executives may swing away from comedy programs. "How can they do that when the political season is just around the corner?" Gigi asks.

Lone Star intrigue

Evans, Novak

AUSTIN, Texas — As a listless session of the Texas legislature nears its May 28 closing, Ronald Reagan's political managers out in California may breathe a tentative sigh of relief thanks to this state's Byzantine politics and to Gov. William Clements.

It is highly probable the legislature will go home without authorizing an early 1980 Texas primary which would enable native Texan John B. Connally to sidetrack Ronald Reagan's rush for the Republican presidential nomination. Just enough liberal Democratic and conservative Republican senators are blocking action, for reasons that have nothing whatever to do with presidential politics.

BUT THE RELIEF of the Reaganites is only tentative for this reason: Clements, the newly elected Republican governor, could revive the bill with one word of support. What's more, he told us he could give that word, if the primary becomes part of a four-state Southwestern regional primary. That is a very big "if," surely precluding action in this session but possibly not a future special session.

The primary election has become the focus of state capitol intrigue amidst the boredom of a temporary truce on most issues between the conservative Democratic legislature and the conservative Republican governor. What mainly interests legislators about Connally's candidacy is not the presidency but how it rearranges the balance of power in Texas politics.

Hordes of Connally Democrats would surely support the former Democratic governor against Reagan in the May 1980 Republican primary. Thus liberals could control the Democratic primary, threatening a massacre of tory Democrats who run the legislature. Half-a-dozen conservative Democratic state senators are marked for slaughter.

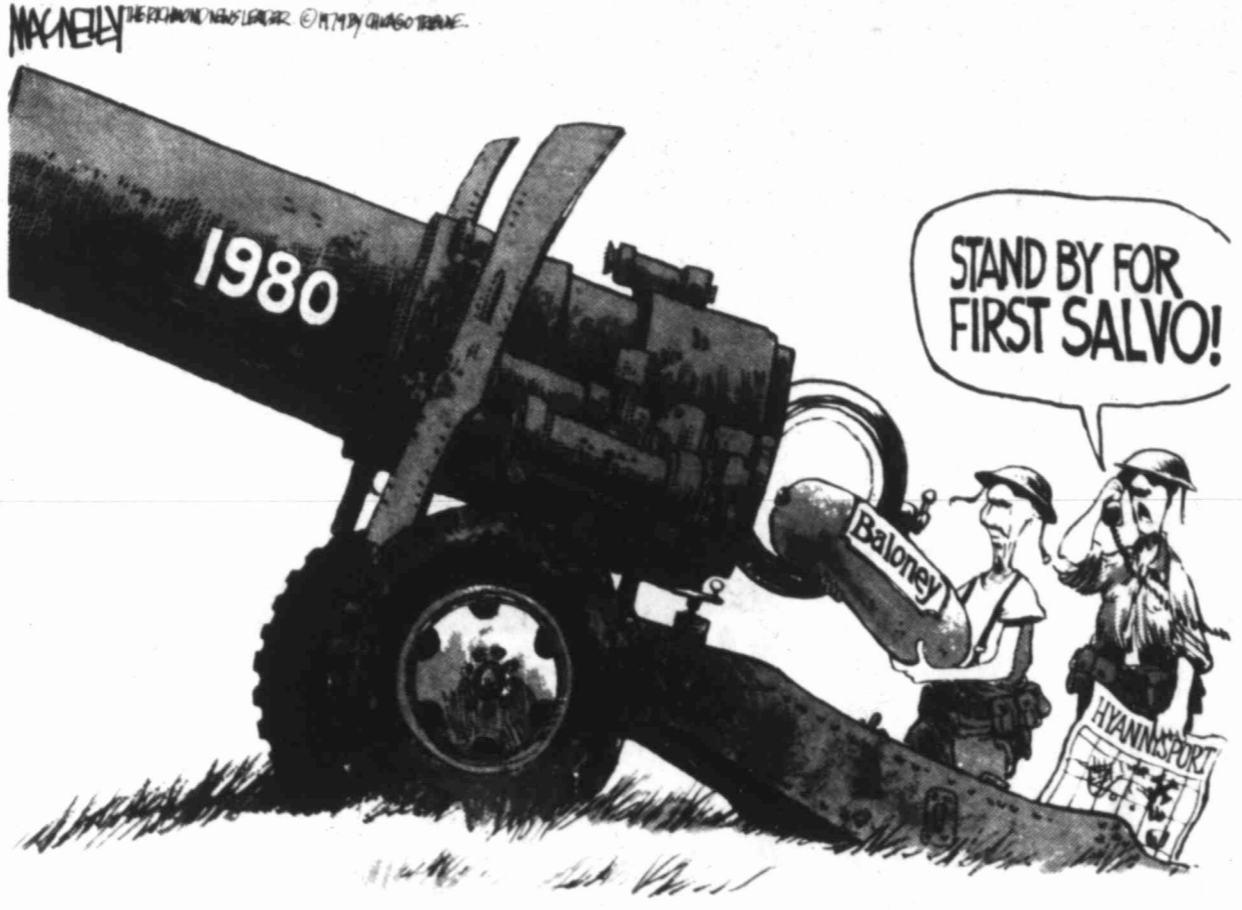

To preserve the status quo, the two powerful Democratic leaders of the legislature—Lt. Gov. William Hobby and House Speaker William Clayton—want a bill for a separate presidential primary in March, preceding the regular primary in May.

The unintended beneficiary would be Connally. Private polls show Reagan's Texas lead over Connally, exceeding 15 percentage points last November, had become a 20-point deficit in April. Such a Reagan debacle in the state he carried easily against President Gerald Ford in 1976 would electrify Connally's campaign if it came March 8, before Reagan could record triumphs elsewhere.

A majority in both houses probably favors passage of the bill, but 11 senators (out of 38) can keep it from being brought up. Since a solid 10 liberal Democrats will vote no, all four Republican state senators must vote yes to bring up the bill. Consequently, this tiny minority has been under intense pressure.

Regular Republicans, anticipating two-party development in the demise of the tory Democrats, oppose the bill. So do Reagan and his fire-eating Texas operatives. So does Texan George Bush, whose fragile presidential candidacy would be blown away by an early humiliating defeat at home.

Connally's official position is one of majestic unconcern. But his agents here (including former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, returning to active politics for the first time since his 1972 defeat for governor as a Democrat-for-Connally) have been lobbying hard for the bill. In private, Connally makes clear his preference. "John told me it really don't matter to him," one Republican legislator told us, "but he also told me he sure would remember who helped him when it counted."

This scuba diver begging for trouble

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am a 58-year-old man. About 18 years ago I had a cerebral hemorrhage and was hospitalized for a month. I recovered with no ill effects. Recently I had an opportunity to take a scuba diving course. One doctor says I must be out of my mind, and my personal physician refuses to clear me for the diving, although he says he doubts it would cause another hemorrhage. No one suggests that I stop driving my car, which might lead to damage to others as well as myself should I have a sudden hemorrhage. So far I have made two dives, one to 85 feet, with no ill effects. Can you give me some advice?—J.C.S.

What are you trying to prove? Certainly, at 58 and with your history of cerebral hemorrhage, there are more suitable sports to occupy your time than scuba diving. You beat the mortality odds in recovering from your hemorrhage and should feel fortunate.

The driving-diving analogy doesn't hold water, either. Driving a car does not involve the depth pressures and blood gas factors involved in scuba diving. Finally, what advice are you seeking? You've had some sensible advice and are going ahead on your own despite it.

No one can quote odds of your chances of having another cerebral hemorrhage, because there probably are very few divers around with your medical history. What do they say down at the school? What does your insurance agent have to say? My advice—hang up the tank and fins.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Do you recommend hot baths for a person with arthritis?—Mr. P.R.

Certainly, if it helps, and it often does. Many people find them relaxing. It may help relieve pain from the inflammation and relax muscles. I also recommend soaking the hands in a bowl of hot water for the same reasons. A nice, reasonably hot bath never hurt an arthritic. Whirlpools may give increased benefit, if available. For a fuller outline of therapy program for arthritis, see my booklet on "How You Can Control Arthritis." Other readers can obtain a copy by sending 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can you explain:

why cold air can bring on an attack of angina pectoris?—J.J.

Because cold constricts the arteries, including the vessels leading to the heart, which is the cause of the heart pain.

Women who wait

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — It is only fitting as we celebrate Mother's Day that we honor those women who sit at home and wait. Some of them wait for the plumber, others for the electrician. There are women, as I write this, who are still waiting for rug cleaners, United Parcel, J.C. Penney, a tree surgeon or the appliance repairman.

These are brave women, unsung, afraid to leave their houses for even a half hour because the person they are waiting for might show up the moment they are gone.

MRS. KATHERINE Davenport has been chosen this year to represent all the mothers of America who sit in a lonely vigil waiting for a repairman or a delivery driver who never comes.

I visited her home in Bethesda, Md., the other day to talk to her. She answered the door excitedly, but when I told her I was a journalist, her face dropped. "I was hoping that you were the lineoleum man," she said. "I've been waiting for him for three weeks."

"That's not a long time," she said. "It seems like an eternity," she said. "He promised me he'd be here to lay the lineoleum in the kitchen on April 23rd at nine o'clock."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How much influence should the Bible have on our daily lives? Should we try to follow it in everything, or just spiritual matters?—Mrs. L. J.

DEAR MRS. L. J.: The Bible is God's Word and, as such, should be the foundation of our lives every day. God has given it to us to guide us and encourage us, and we can never be fully obedient to Him if we ignore His Word.

It is interesting to note that the Bible is concerned about every aspect of our lives, and not what you might think are just "spiritual" matters. For example, the Bible gives us many guidelines about personal relationships. It tells us much about the way husbands and wives should act toward each other, and the way we should act toward our neighbors. I suspect that if

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

"Have you heard from him since?" "No, but I received a postcard from the Red Cross a week ago telling me he was well and that he was thinking of me." She showed me the card which she apparently had read many times.

"EVERY MORNING I call the lineoleum store and they say he's coming that day. I'm going out of my mind with worry. They get your spirits up and then by the end of the day they've sunk. Why do they say he's coming when they know he isn't?"

"I guess they don't want you to despair," I suggested. "We all need hope."

Mrs. Davenport twisted a handkerchief. "You don't know what it's like to just sit here waiting for the doorbell to ring. I don't sleep at nights because I have these nightmares that he took another job in Rockville. I keep wondering if he's getting enough to eat, or whether his truck has broken down, or even worse that the lineoleum I ordered never arrived. If he could just call and tell me he is all right, I could get through the days. But the uncertainty of it is driving me crazy."

I were to ask you what your greatest problems are, they would be related to the way others treat you and the way you treat others. Are such things "spiritual"? Yes, because God is concerned about them and wants you to follow His will in them.

This is not to say that the Bible is only a rule book to follow in every situation we face. But the Bible gives us spiritual principles, which we then apply to our everyday lives.

Learn to love God's Word, and ask God to help you as you read it so you will understand it and apply it to your life. Listen carefully to it as you hear it preached in your church as well. Remember: "All Scripture is God-breathed and is useful for teaching, rebuking, correcting and training in righteousness, so that the man of God may be thoroughly equipped for every good work" (2 Timothy 3:16-17, NIV).

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

I can not understand what the United States is quickly becoming. From my personal judgement, I can see another country falling into the hands of dictatorship. I do not feel the people of the United States are any longer in control of what happens here. I know the people vote for the person(s) they want to represent them, but with all the political pressures, corruptions, and political lies, no one person can be sure of who they are placing in office.

It seems the biggest thing in the news media are mandatory government controls on food, gasoline, oil and so many other things. The government is trying to introduce the draft again. What happened to voluntary enlistment? Don't we as Americans have the right to decide on our jobs, future, life, or whether we want to die in an inhumane war without much of a purpose besides greed and personal gain? New laws are being presented now to censor or place controls on the news medias of all types ranging from newspaper sources, to what magazines we can or can not read, even to the extent of what movies we may or may not see.

To go even further, some senators and representatives are trying to pass a bill requiring operators and passengers of automobiles to wear safety helmets. They call it self-protection. I believe Americans would be outraged were such a bill passed, but many Americans are fighting the very same thing with the motorcycle helmet law this very day.

The motorcycle helmet law has advanced some from its previous stage, now requiring only persons under age 18 to wear them, but that still is not enough. To make things worse, many states including Texas are trying to have the law repealed. I believe it is my constitutional right to dress how I want, read and see what I want, and decide whether or not I want to take my chances on a motorcycle without a helmet.

A helmet obstructs side vision, cuts out sound, and seems like it is choking you when the inside fills with wind. To add to that list, many lives have been taken from people resulting from broken necks from wearing a helmet at the point of impact in an accident.

The statistics many of us see listed in different medias regarding motorcycle fatalities without helmets is unreliable. If I were to die in a motorcycle wreck from internal injuries still not wearing a helmet, I'd still become a statistic that died without a helmet. I believe the decision should be up to the individuals.

If I chose to ride without a helmet and died from an injury in a motorcycle accident due to not wearing one, then I still made that particular choice. If I chose to defend my country in a war and lost my life, then again, that was still my choice. There is no difference until the government makes it a law you have to do one of them.

We also read where mandatory gas rationing may be soon coming into effect. Motorcycles have been deemed by the United States Department of Energy as strictly recreational vehicles. Motorcycles are some people's only method of transportation. They use less gasoline than a car, but can go twice as far. Yet, the Energy Department is allotting 1-10th the amount of gasoline to motorcycles as to passenger cars. No one seems to think about all of the big, gas guzzling four-wheeled monsters on the road today.

Let's unite, stand and speak; shout, or whatever is necessary to maintain our freedom and stop dictatorship from becoming reality in the United States. I, for one, hope to be able to make my own choices of how I want to live, and how I want to die... Be it free and "In The Wind," or lonely and forgotten on foreign soil with a brother's bloodstains on my hands in a war that was NOT mine.

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this time to say thanks to the Big Spring Herald and the citizens of Big Spring responsible for bringing to our town, the UP WITH PEOPLE concert.

It was to me, and many others I'm sure, a truly remarkable performance. It was two hours of exhilarating—song, dance and philosophy of life.

A world so full of problems it was more than worthwhile to see the students working together and to hear what they, as one, had to say.

Once again thanks for bringing to Big Spring the wholesome, family entertainment, which UP WITH PEOPLE stands for.

Mrs. Dusty Choate
Route 2 Box 153

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank the Herald for sponsoring the "Up With People" show and for making it possible to have this unique group in our community. What a shame, though, that less than 10 per cent of our populace came to enjoy these young people.

If there are less than 3,000 people in our area who are concerned with providing their families and themselves with an example of good, clean entertainment and in supporting young people who are trying to make it in a troubled world, then we have more problems than I imagined.

All I can add is that those present experienced a most enjoyable evening that was not only entertaining but was positive, uplifting and refreshing. Thanks again, Herald, for your efforts in making it possible for "Up With People" to be in our community.

Industry preparing for $2 gasoline

Here's a worry you can pigeon-hole for the future: Judging from the way things are going, however, the time for concern may not be too far removed.

The firms manufacturing the devices for gasoline pumps that register the cost-per-gallon, gallons sold and total bill are gearing up to replace the two figures listing cost-per-gallon with three digits.

The new pump heads will be adjusted to register the price as high as $2 a gallon. Just thought we'd help make your day.

U.S.-Soviet relations may be severed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says the United States' relationship with the Soviets will be severed "to a substantial degree" if the Senate fails to ratify the strategic arms limitation treaty.

"We have gotten the best deal we can," Carter said in an interview with visiting editors. "It is not perfect."

The president met with about 30 editors at the White House on Friday before leaving for Camp Hoover, Va., in the Shenandoah National Park for the weekend. The transcript was released Saturday.

Carter said the SALT NSA chapter names West

Mrs. Ella Vonne West, Management Assistant at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, was elected president of the Big Spring chapter of the National Secretaries Association for 1979. Mrs. West joined the Big Spring Chapter of NSA in July 1974 and has held offices of recording secretary and treasurer. She was selected as Secretary of the Year of the Big Spring Chapter in April, 1978.

Mrs. West is studying for the Certified Professional Secretary (CPS) examination and has taken specialized college courses at night in preparation for this exam. She has been very active in attending area seminars sponsored by various NSA Chapters throughout the area and has attended two Texas-Louisiana Division meetings as delegate from the Big Spring Chapter. Other officers for 1979-1980 include Jane Overman, vice president; Marjorie Dykes, recording secretary; Marguerite Cooper, CPS, corresponding secretary; and Edna Ames, treasurer.

Mayor declares day for Hitt

Mayor Wade Choate has declared today as Chaplain C.O. Hitt Day in Big Spring. Chaplain Hitt Day will be observed with special ceremony at the Veterans Administration Medical Center Chapel at 9:45 a.m. Chaplain Hitt will deliver the morning message at this service.

Hitt came to serve as chaplain at the VA Hospital in Big Spring when the hospital opened in July 1960. He remained in this position serving the religious and spiritual needs of veteran patients until his retirement in May 1969. The Hitts still reside in Big Spring and are active in community affairs.

Hoffman entered the Army in January of this year.

He is a 1978 graduate of Big Spring High School.

The private's father, Robert H. Hoffman, lives on Route 1, Andrews, Ind.

Camarillo gets AF promotion

ALTUS, Okla. — Celestino Camarillo Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Celestino Camarillo Sr. of 403 W. Ash, Laredo, Tex., has been promoted to master sergeant in the U.S. Air Force.

The sergeant, an administrative supervisor at Altus AFB, Okla., serves with a unit of the Military Airlift Command.

Sergeant Camarillo, a 1962 graduate of Martin High School, attended Texas Christian University at Fort Worth.

His wife, Manuela, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.M. Montanez of 101 N.E. Ninth St., Big Spring.

treaty he will sign with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev in Vienna during their summit June 15-18 "is to our great advantage and also to the Soviets' great advantage."

Clearly addressing his comments to fence-sitting senators who are unsure whether to approve the pact, the president said: "Rejection of the treaty will have the most devastating consequences to our country and I think to world peace. It will sever, to a substantial degree, the workable relationship between ourselves and the Soviets." He said failure of the Senate to approve the treaty also would "shake the confidence of our NATO allies" and would "make it almost impossible for us to pursue successfully the control of nuclear weapon development" in developing countries.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd said Saturday that Carter's claim that defeat of the treaty would make the United States look like a warmonger is "an argument that has no credibility" and was not likely to win any votes. Byrd has yet to announce whether he will support the treaty.

Carter said the treaty was fair, enforceable and verifiable.

Good Neighbor Commission wins

The Sunset Advisory Commission never issued a recommendation on the agency's continuation following an interim review late last year.

'So many things are so very difficult, ... yet, ... they keep trying CP kids must not become trapped by p

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a seven-part series on some special people who receive help in a variety of forms from the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

"We have to help Russell make his body respond to that agile brain," said physical therapist Kaki Morton. "We can't let him become frustrated or feel trapped inside a physically limited body."

Russell Rawlings, mentally well ahead of his two years, was born with Cerebral Palsy, as were Christi Clifford, 3, and Lucas Robles, 10 months. All three receive treatment at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

CP results from brain injury or restricted blood supply to the brain prior to, at, or immediately after birth. The damage, specifically to the motor area of the brain, causes an atonal muscular condition characterized by muscle spasticity (constant contraction or alternating, uncontrolled contractions and relaxations of one or more muscles) resulting in a loss of coordination or movement in one or more limbs.

Lucas, Christi and Russell have all shown improvement since they have been in the therapy programs at DRRC, thanks to the cooperation between the staff and the parents.

"I found out that Christi had CP when she was about a year old," said Christi's mother, Mrs. Hank Hardwick. "The doctor sent her here, and at the time, she was crawling with only her arms, dragging her feet behind."

At three, Christi is walking, thanks to braces and many hours of work in therapy. Stairs and keeping her balance are things that Christi is now working to improve.

Lucas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raul Robles, has been coming to the center about five months, and is now able to sit by himself.

"Without the center, we would have to drive him to another facility each week, maybe as much as two hours away because Lucas needs the therapy," said Mrs. Robles. "At first, he was a Mama's boy and I couldn't be out of reach while Kaki was working with him.

"Now, he likes Kaki so well he doesn't always want to go home," laughed Mrs. Robles. "They really care about him, and even Lucas can sense that."

Working with infants requires a lot of patience, since, at that age, it is impossible to request work or sustained effort.

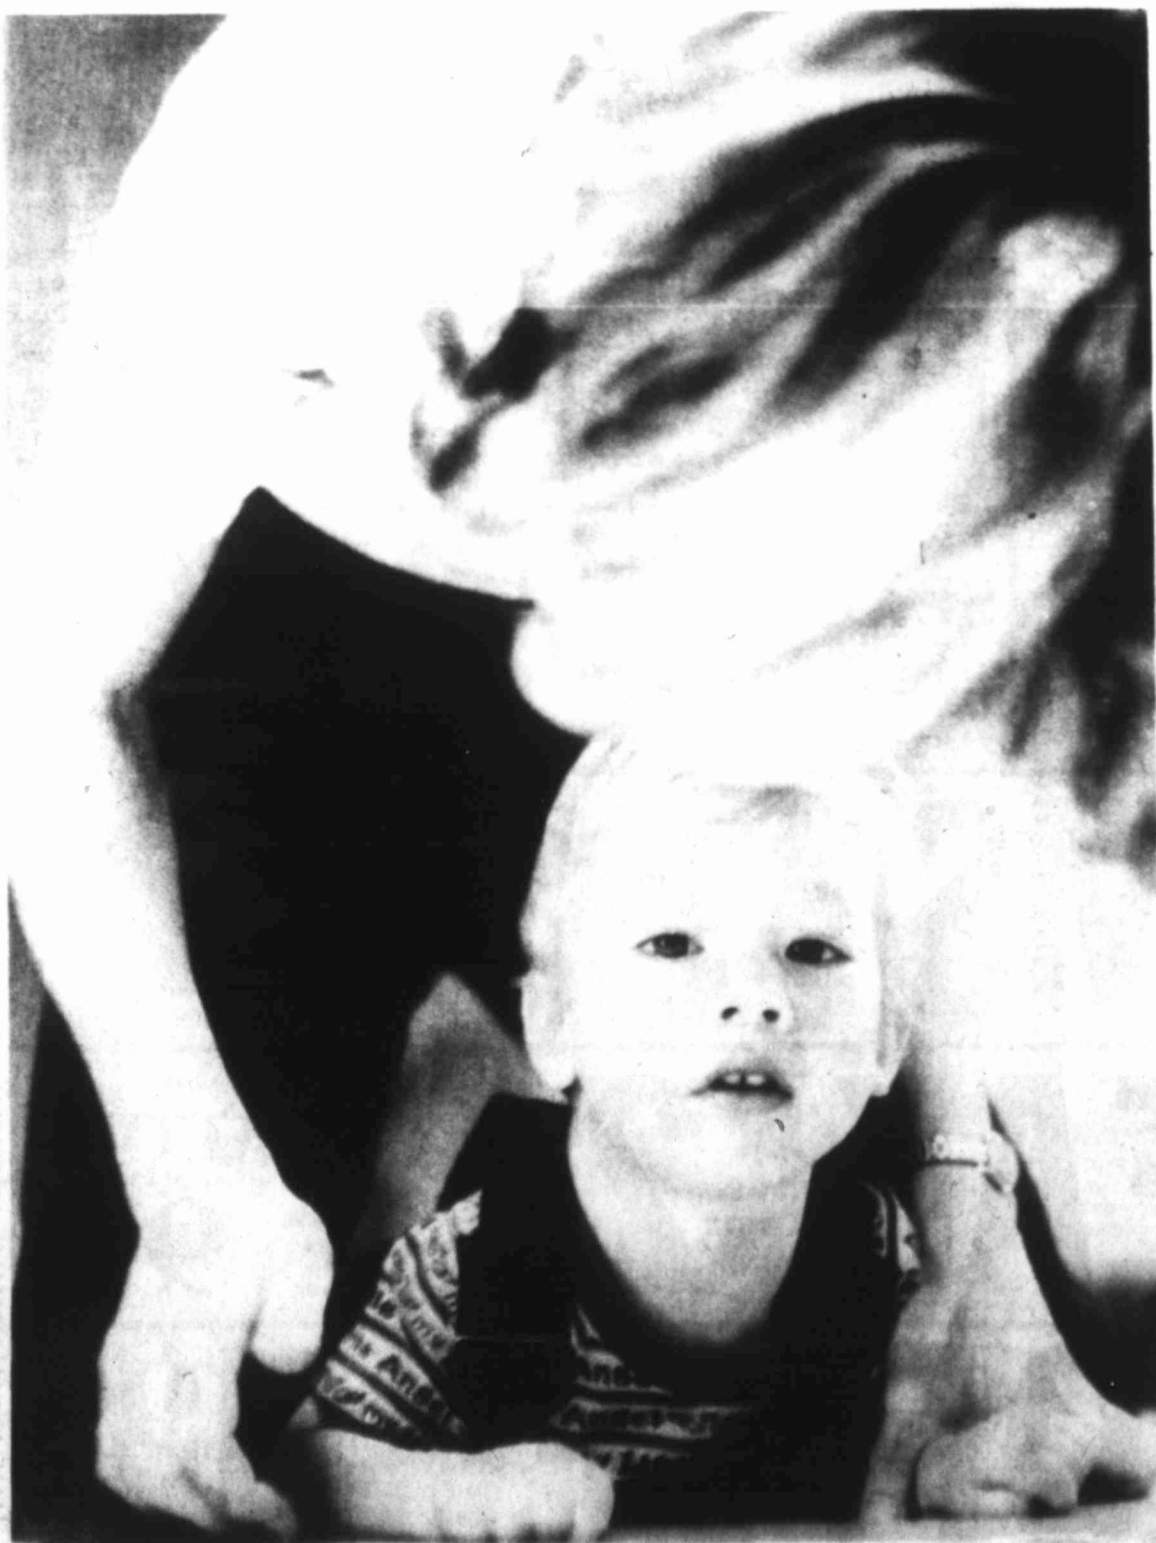

"We adapt the therapy to his play, and when he gets tired, we change games," said Kaki. "Mainly, with the CP kids, I try stretching the muscles, relaxing the spasticity and developing less affected muscles to give them more control over the limb."

"We crawl a lot, reach for things, pick up and clutch objects, and anything that makes the child use that muscle," Kaki said. "It isn't a disciplined thing, except that it is done on a regular basis, and in the end, accomplishes to a lesser degree the same thing as the more regimented therapy we use on older kids who are able to keep their attention on therapy. In some cases, we show the parents some exercises that can be done at home with the kids."

"Most of because the explained. crawl and p their time mind; it's parent who them."

"Most of these kids are really bright, because their play is in their minds," Kaki explained. "They haven't been able to crawl and play like other kids their age, so their time is occupied more with their mind; it's especially true if they have a parent who spends a lot of time reading to them."

"Russell loves books, so I always just pointed to the words as I read," said Russell's mother, Mrs. Paul (Caren) Rawlings. "He picks things like names and words up really fast, and remembers it even if he has only heard it once."

At an age where most babies are learning to walk steadily, Russell is sitting up and learning to use his hands, which involuntarily tighten into fists. However, mentally, he is exceptionally advanced. Russell knows the alphabet, can count to 10 (or higher sometimes) knows his left from his right and recognizes his name in print.

Russell began therapy at five months of age, very weak and small. "You could barely hear him cry because his voice was so weak and he couldn't hold his head up at all," said Kaki. "He has really improved, and a lot of the reason is his sweet nature and the way he helps me in the therapy. He'll try just about anything I ask him to, and then, when he accomplishes it, he'll say 'I doood it!'"

"It's kids like Russell, Christi and Lucas that you have to admire," Kaki said. "I've watched many like them work at therapy for years — always struggling to do a little better, first to please the therapist and the parents, and then, for themselves. So many things are so very difficult for them, yet, in spite of setbacks and discouraging hard work, they keep trying — until they 'doood it.'"

After an accidental injury, therapy to regain use of injured limbs is sometimes necessary, and doctors refer patients to the DRRC for the treatment. In part two, accident victims Scott Davis and Tom Farquhar tell what the center has meant to them.

... and sometimes for Christi, therapy hurts

New club organized

School Spirit is running high at BSHS. A new group of girls is being formed to transmit a wealth of enthusiasm and a sense of pride for their school.

Beginning May 15-17, (3:30-5:00), the candidates in groups of ten will be practicing and developing an original routine to the "Steer Fight Song." This routine will be presented before a panel of judges, Saturday, May 19, at 10:30.

To be a candidate, each girl must meet the following criteria: maintain a C average; good citizenship record; willingness to work long hours; good coordination; neat, pleasing appearance; and a appealing personality.

Future plans: Five to ten girls will attend a summer camp to learn new routines. These routines will be taught to the main group beginning the first week in August. Many hours of work will be demanded from each girl — no work — no glory. By being prepared before school begins, the girls will only attend one or two practice sessions a week during the school year.

These routines, skits, and talent acts will be presented at a special program — thus providing their first fundraising event.

BSHS cannot have a drill team that performs during halftime at the football games. Many People attend football to view the outstanding abilities of our BSHS band. These people are first rate and the public demands their entertainment. We are proud of the accomplishments of our band and should not infringe upon their halftime show. There are other areas in which a group of girls can perform.

Cheerleader tryouts scheduled Friday

By BRONWYN ALLEN and MELINDA CORWIN

The sixth grade cheerleading tryouts will be held Friday, May 18, in the gym, first period. Each sixth grade girl who wishes to try out must turn in her cheerleading permission form by Monday, May 14. The girls will practice Monday-Friday, from 3:30-4:30 p.m.

The students in the Computer Assisted Instruction class who achieved the highest grade-level gains for the month of April were Yvette Valdez, Shawn Morelan, Margie Kestermier, Cary Loya, Donna Morris, Eugene Vanderbilt, Aron Williams, Rolando Davila, Herman Orasco, Fabian Salazar, Sandra Gonzales, Mark Harper, Peggy Garcia, Martin Moran, Ricky Lopez, Ernelinda Chavarria, Anita Flores, Melissa Hernandez, John Granados, Pearl Sanchez, Rosita Munoz, Shane Fergus, Denetrius Pruitt. The gains were made in math, reading, spelling, and language.

The Goliad Beginning and Advanced Bands will present a concert in the high school auditorium on May 15 at 7:00 p.m. Twelve arrangements will be presented by the bands and instrumental solos will be presented by selected 6th and 7th grade band members. This is the last concert for the year and admission is free.

Mrs. Lancaster's science classes have been studying the dangers of using alcohol, drugs, and tobacco and the harm it does to the body. Friday, May 4, Mr. Kissinger, from the police department, visited the classroom. He brought a film that depicted the use of drugs and the horrifying results that occur from using drugs. He gave a short lecture at the end of the film about drug abuse in Big Spring and warned all young people to stay away from drugs or "run the other way" if someone had them. It was an eventful experience for all of the students.

Seventh grade students in Mrs. Schwarzenbach's Texas history classes are studying the various types of barbed wire and branding irons. They have been identifying different brands and discussing cattle trails and the work of early-day cowboys. They are also studying how the windmills aided Western settlers.

Outstanding choir members selected by Mr. Pedigo, Goliad choir director, will be announced May 24. Their names will be engraved on a plaque which has names of other outstanding choir members from the past few years.

Students in Mrs. Cheairs' and Mrs. Salisbury's English classes are studying folklore of different countries of the world. This involves researching in the library, writing original stories that resemble folk stories and myths, and telling these stories to the class. Students are making the discovery that men's ideas and concepts are amazingly alike, though the cultures appear to be quite different.

Teachers received a special invitation to visit the library during their conference period Friday, May 11, to make suggestions for additional materials and books to be added, and to get better acquainted with the present teaching aids available. Refreshments were served in the library by the librarian and aides.

The librarian, Mrs. Persson, has announced that all library books should be turned in May 15 to give students ample time to pay for lost books and overdue fines. Report cards will not be mailed to students who owe for lost books or fines.

In an effort to familiarize themselves with their school facilities for the upcoming year, all 7th grade students loaded buses Friday and went to Runnels. Mr. Henry, the principal at Runnels, talked to the students and prepared them for the 8th grade.

All 7th grade students who made all A's and B's on the fifth six weeks report card are:

New club organized

School Spirit is running high at BSHS. A new group of girls is being formed to transmit a wealth of enthusiasm and a sense of pride for their school.

Beginning May 15-17, (3:30-5:00), the candidates in groups of ten will be practicing and developing an original routine to the "Steer Fight Song." This routine will be presented before a panel of judges, Saturday, May 19, at 10:30.

To be a candidate, each girl must meet the following criteria: maintain a C average; good citizenship record; willingness to work long hours; good coordination; neat, pleasing appearance; and a appealing personality.

Future plans: Five to ten girls will attend a summer camp to learn new routines. These routines will be taught to the main group beginning the first week in August. Many hours of work will be demanded from each girl — no work — no glory. By being prepared before school begins, the girls will only attend one or two practice sessions a week during the school year.

These routines, skits, and talent acts will be presented at a special program — thus providing their first fundraising event.

BSHS cannot have a drill team that performs during halftime at the football games. Many People attend football to view the outstanding abilities of our BSHS band. These people are first rate and the public demands their entertainment. We are proud of the accomplishments of our band and should not infringe upon their halftime show. There are other areas in which a group of girls can perform.

AWARD WINNERS — The Coahoma High School students pictured above earned awards recently in Sul Ross Business Awards Day. Competition was held in typing, shorthand, accounting and free enterprise. In addition, the Coahoma team won a group award for excellence. Those competing included Debbie Reid, Linda Barr, Roxanna Daniell, Cindy McAdams, Paula McCraw, Donna Camp, Debbie Hinsley, Beth Rackley, Josie Martinez and Jean Wanner.

'Mother of the Year' happy

NEW YORK (AP) — "If people would have handed me a million billion dollars it would have not meant to me as much as being the American Mother of the Year."

So says Frances Davis Burtenshaw, 63, whom the American Mothers Committee named Friday as the 44th National Mother of the Year.

Mrs. Burtenshaw, a mother of eight and grandmother of 17, lives in Logan, Utah. She accepted the award during a luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria.

And why did she think she was so honored? "I just guess because I love people and I love children," she said.

GREGG ALLMAN

Allman pleads innocent

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Rock star Gregg Allman has entered a written plea of innocent to a charge of reckless driving and has been ordered to stand trial June 4 before Volusia County Judge Darrel Carnell.

Allman, 31, was charged March 16 after his car collided with a slower-moving auto on a Daytona Beach street. Two women in the other car required hospital treatment and the Florida Highway Patrol estimated damage to the two cars at $5,500.

OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN

MCA has exclusive rights

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Singer Olivia Newton-John will have to continue recording exclusively for MCA Records until her contract with the firm expires in 1980, the California Supreme Court has ruled.

The high court refused on Friday to review a state Court of Appeal decision upholding a preliminary injunction issued in Superior Court.

The injunction restrains the singer from recording for any company other than MCA while the suit is pending, or until April 1, 1982. The appeal court changed the date to 1980.

Vet employee recalls 'old days'

BSSH once operated farm

Burl Dennis' memories of events at the Big Spring State Hospital go back to two years after it opened on June 6, 1939. Dennis, who currently works as a warehouseman in Supply, went to work himself at the hospital in 1944, but his father, Floyd Dennis, worked as farm supervisor here from 1941 through 1945 and lived in one of the houses back of the power plant.

Not everyone remembers that employees and patients between them at one time operated a farm here on the hospital grounds. It was the senior Dennis' job to supervise the farming operations. The land was planted to cotton and feed. Patients, Dennis recalls, did much of the work, hoeing the crops, picking cotton. Feed was stored in two large trench silos, and contributed to the support of a dairy herd of 30 to 40 head of cattle. The hospital also raised hogs on its modern hog farm. A butcher shop was operated in the same building now serving as the hospital supply depot, Dennis pointed out. Milk from the dairy cows was taken to town for pasteurization and returned to the hospital kitchens for use.

With this knowledge and experience as part of his heritage, Burl Dennis went to work as a ward attendant in 1944 at the age of 16. His memories of hospital experiences are happy one, usually evoking a chuckle or smile.

"When I started working out here, we pulled a 12-hour shift, from 6 to 6, day or night," Dennis said. "We lived on the grounds and got 1 1/2 days off every two weeks. We lived on the grounds, ate in a central dining hall with our laundry furnished. On the average, there were about three attendants to care for 80 or 90 patients each shift."

Apartments were available for couples working on the grounds, Dennis said. Even top officials of the hospital lived on the grounds and took their meals in dining halls.

"If I'm making this sound like a bad time, then I'm not telling it right," Dennis continued. "It was a good period of life for all of us. We were like a family or colony. There was a warm feeling of closeness and we made our own fun. Patients and employees shared the Wednesday night dances and it was always an enjoyable time. There were no fences, even then, but there was a night watchman and even employees had a curfew — a definite time they had to return from their trips to town."

As part of his duties as attendant in the mid 1940s, Dennis watched the hospital barber as he performed his duties. When the barber quit, patients began to give each other haircuts and gradually Dennis was drafted into service for haircuts. He became the barber, without training, more or less by default. He liked barbering and quit work at the hospital to go to barber school. After he completed that school, he returned in 1948 and stayed until 1956 as the hospital barber.

BURL DENNIS
Second generation employee

His barbering put Dennis in touch with all the hospital officials. He is rather proud to recall that he was personal barber to all the hospital superintendents through 1956, except for the first one.

"I remember that Dr. Andrew M. Bowden was a great checker player, and many a Sunday afternoon he would call me to come over and play him a few games," Dennis recalls. "One time in the late forties he invited the world champion checker player here to entertain the patients and employees. A lot of checker players from town, as well as from the grounds, came out to play the man, W.A. Banks, and he lined us up at a table — 20 or so — and walked down the line making moves against us. He didn't lose a game. The patients enjoyed seeing him win them all."

"This story probably won't be very popular with today's ecologists," Dennis chuckled, "but at the time it took place, crows were a real menace to the economy of the hospital. Our fields were an oasis just north of town and we had lots of crow damage to fields of grain that we need to protect.

"Jem Henry, a groundsman," he went on, "read about a crow trap in a magazine and he built two of them on the grounds. They were built of chicken wire and wood and they were amazingly successful. One season Henry kept track and he trapped some 3,000 crows. Crow shoots were held periodically for the hunters in the area — from the hospital, from Webb AFB, and from town. The crows were released and given a flying start. Some got away, but many were shot. The system worked a lot better than scarecrows."

Just as with many other old-time hospital employees, Burl Dennis remembers the good times. After 20 years of barbering in Big Spring, he returned to the hospital in 1976 to work in supply and plans to stay for a while yet to contribute to the well-being of patients in his service job. His wife, Elizabeth, has also worked at the hospital off and on since 1941, with a total of some 23 years of service. But that's another story.

House, Senate go against Clements

Texas teachers win skirmish

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Teachers won a skirmish last week in their salary war with Gov. Bill Clements when both the House and Senate agreed to grant them 7 percent cost-of-living raises.

Clements wants teachers to be treated like state employees and given only 5.1 percent salary increases.

Legislators thought otherwise Friday when each house passed its own version of the $1 billion public school finance bill.

Representatives and senators agreed on little else beside teacher salaries.

Differences between the complex bills will force appointment of a House-Senate conference committee to draft a compromise both chambers can live with.

The votes were 28-1 in the Senate and 125-8 in the House to approve the separate bills.

"I guess we'll just have to wait and see if a higher figure comes out on this, what he'll do," Sen. Oscar Mauzy, Senate Education Committee chairman, said of chances Clements would veto a bill containing the 7 percent pay raises.

Republican representatives made no attempt to cut salary schedules in the bill, which was backed by the Texas State Teachers Association and school administrators.

Sen. Pete Snelson, D-Midland, led the Senate fight for 7 percent raises instead of the 5.1 percent increases proposed by Mauzy's committee. Snelson said Clements had overlooked the fact that state employees enjoy better fringe benefits than teachers.

Teachers are at least as deserving as senators' secretaries, who make an average of $17,208 annually compared with average teacher pay of $11,800, said Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches.

"Wouldn't you think that teachers who have our children in the schools are just as important as the secretaries to the members of the Senate?" Blake asked.

The big difference between the two bills is the Senate's inclusion of $452 million for covering school districts' revenue losses from the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment.

House members made reimbursement part of a separate bill implementing the amendment, resulting in far more money for school districts.

Rep. Hamp Atkinson, D-New Boston, chairman of the House Public Education Committee, said the Senate bill, gives no tax relief while the House bill does.

Mauzy said the Senate bill does a better job of trying to equalize rich and poor districts.

The Senate bill totals $1.03 billion for 1980-81 while the House bill amounts to $1.1 billion. Atkinson said the House bill spends $25 million to $30 million more than is available.

Mauzy said there is more than enough money available to implement the Senate version.

Senate provisions include $457 million for teacher salaries and benefits; $117 million for maintenance and operation; $173 million for equalization aid; and $256 million to local costs of the Foundation School Program at approximately today's level.

The House bill includes $264 million to keep local fund assignments from rising; $427.8 million for increased salaries; $152 million for equalization; and $117 million for maintenance and operation.

Hopes fade for missing men aboard downed rig

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Hopes faded Saturday for eight men missing and believed trapped aboard a collapsed oil drilling rig after a team of civilian rescue divers reported the platform slipped beneath the surface of the Gulf of Mexico, perhaps all the way to the 60-foot-bottom.

"It isn't very encouraging," said Coast Guard Lt. Gabe Kinney. "It's looking pretty grim." The Ranger I rig collapsed Thursday night about 12 miles off Galveston and had been partially submerged until Friday night, when a storm caused the platform to sink.

Officials pinned survival hopes for the eight missing men on water-tight compartments aboard the rig and air pockets that might have formed beneath the surface.

But as time passed, those hopes dimmed.

"These air pockets wouldn't sustain life for 40 hours," Coast Guard spokesman Tommy Clements said. "It doesn't look real good."

Coast Guard officials said the top of the rig was 29 feet below the surface and it was possible that the lower end rested on the Gulf's bottom.

Thirty-four men were on board the rig when it collapsed. Private boats and Coast Guard ships and helicopters pulled 26 to safety, and only four of those were seriously hurt. One of the four suffered a severed arm.

Paul Fromberg, 26, was aboard the rig when it gave way. "I didn't hear any crash," he said. "There was a sensation of dropping. I was in the galley when it suddenly dropped and we were up in the air with the furniture flying."

The 13 civilian divers, using extra-long air hoses, made their first probe of the wreckage Saturday morning after storms subsided enough to allow them to work.

The rig is owned by Atlantic Pacific Corp. of Houston and leased to Mitchell Energy Development Corp. No one from either business would speculate about what caused the threelegged platform to collapse.

Coast Guard officials in New Orleans released a list of the eight men believed trapped in the rig, but did not provide ages or hometowns. They were identified as Eddie Fredericks, John Perkins, Lee Cruddy, Dennis Smith, Walter Fobmogie, Ed Hanks, Barton Sealy and Cruz Pallmaraz.

Jury convicts three connected with riots

HOUSTON (AP) — A district court jury Friday convicted Travis Morales and Mara Youngdahl on charges of inciting a riot in connection with last year's riot at Moody Park.

The jury also convicted Thomas Hirschi on a misdemeanor riot charge.

The verdicts were returned late Friday in the court of District Judge Joe Kegans after 10 hours of jury deliberations.

Morales had to be removed from the courtroom following the verdict when he began speaking to the jurors on what he called "justice in America." He said the incident at Moody not a riot.

Park was a "rebellion" and Both Morales and Youngdahl face maximum prison sentences of 20 years; and Hirschi faces a maximum punishment of 18 days in jail. All three are eligible for probation.

Judge Kegans ordered the jurors to return Monday for the punishment phase.

The riot at Moody Park broke out after a celebration of Cinco de Mayo, a major Mexican holiday. Four businesses in a nearby shopping center were burned, a police car was burned and a police officer and two news reporters were stabbed.

Southwestern Bell Manager Bob Hurt said complete information about Long Distance rates is listed in the front of your telephone directory.

He said the telephone company expects to handle an estimated 1,966,000 calls in Texas this year. "Mother's Day is usually one of the busiest days of the year for Long Distance

Astros rip Cubs

HOUSTON (AP) — Terry Puhl's two-run double, his second hit of the inning, capped a six-run first inning and the Houston Astros used a 16-hit attack to trounce the Chicago Cubs 11-3 in the first game of a Saturday night double-header.

After Chicago had taken a 2-0 lead in the top of the first against winning pitcher Ken Forsch, 4-2, the Astros responded with four singles and two doubles on their way to their biggest inning of the season.

Craig Reynolds, Jose Cruz and Julio Gonzalez each delivered run-scoring singles in the inning, with Bob Watson adding another run on a double off the left field wall.

Puhl drove in the final two runs of the inning with a bloop double down the left field line off reliever Donnie Moore.

Sundberg keys Rangers win

Baseball Roundup

Rangers 3, Blue Jays 1

TORONTO (AP) — Jim Sundberg's home run in the eighth inning powered the Texas Rangers to a 3-1 victory over Toronto Blue Jays Saturday.

Steve Comer, 3-3, got the victory while Dave Lemanczyk, 2-2, took the loss. Last month Lemanczyk registered a one-hit shutout over the Rangers, with Comer again the opposing pitcher.

Toronto took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when Roy Howell singled home Bob Bailor, but Texas tied the score in the sixth Buddy Bell's sacrifice fly.

Sundberg blasted Lemanczyk's second pitch over the left field fence for his second home run of the season to put the Rangers ahead to stay. Texas got an insurance run in the ninth on a triple by Al Oliver and a single by Pat Putnam.

Comer left the game after walking Rico Carty with two out in the eighth inning. Rex Kern walked slugger John Mayberry, then Sparky Lyle came on and struck out Howell, who had barely missed a home run one pitch earlier when his drive over the right field fence curved foul by inches. It was Lyle's fifth save of the season.

Yankees 6, Angels 5

NEW YORK (AP) — Graig Nettles doubled Thurman Munson home from first base in the bottom of the ninth inning Saturday, giving the New York Yankees a wild 6-5 victory over the California Angels in a 27-hit slugfest played during a steady rain.

Munson opened the ninth with a single off Dave Frost, 2-1, the third California pitcher. Nettles, after twice failing to bunt, ripped a 3-2 pitch into the right field corner for the game's 12th extra-base hit.

The Yankees' 16 hits included four doubles, two triples and a solo home run by Chris Chambliss. The Angels collected 11 hits, including two doubles and three triples.

Chambliss snapped a 3-3 tie with a sacrifice fly in the fourth inning and gave the Yankees a 5-3 lead in the sixth with his third homer of the season and first in a month.

Red Sox 8, A's 2

BOSTON (AP) — Jerry Remy had five consecutive hits and George Scott and Dwight Evans added three apiece Saturday, leading the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 victory over the Oakland A's.

Every Boston player except Jim Rice had at least one hit as the Red Sox bombed three Oakland pitchers for 16 hits, including five doubles and home runs by Scott and Butch Hobson.

Boston right-hander Mike Torrez breezed to his fourth victory in five decisions, scattering five hits.

Remy beat out his fifth bunt single of the season in the first inning, added three more singles and then lined a double in a four-run seventh inning. He scored one run, drove in two and stole a base.

The Boston second baseman became only the third American League player to get five hits in a game this year. The others were Brian Downing of California and Rich Boettel of Toronto.

ANOTHER RECORD TOSS FOR MIKE CARTER — Mike Carter of Thomas Jefferson of Dallas heaves the shot to a new state and conference record at the schoolboy track and field meet at Austin Saturday. Carter tossed the shot 75 feet 9 inches to set a new state and conference record. Last week he tossed the ball 77 feet which would give him a national record if the toss is confirmed as a new record.

UT races to SWC track title

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Longhorns, with 1-2 finishes in the javelin and shot put and a pressure-packed 3:07.34 victory in the 1600-meter relay, unseated the Texas Aggies Saturday night as the Southwest Conference track and field champions.

Oskar Jakobsson, who earlier in the day won the discus, placed first in the shot with a 62-10¼ heave, and teammate Robbie Robinson finished second at 62-0 to give the Longhorns precious points in the closing minutes of the 64th annual track circus.

Jakobsson won the discus with a throw of 97.5 and placed fourth in the javelin to earn high-point honors for UT with 24 points.

The Longhorns then went into the 1600-meter relay, the evening's final event, with a narrow lead over the Aggies and Houston, which finished second and third in the meet.

Texas took the early lead on Ian Seale's 46.2 opening split and never trailed in the race to earn 10 valuable points, while the Aggies finished third and netted only 6.

Houston sprinter Rich Edwards fulfilled a pre-race pledge by beating Texas A&M's Curtis Dickey in the 100-meter dash, and Rice's Bruce Gingrich avenged his 1978 disqualification with a meet record in the 800-meter dash.

Rice's Bruce Gingrich avenged his 1978 disqualification with a meet record in the 800-meter dash at the 64th Southwest Conference track meet Saturday night.

Edwards, normally a slow starter, led from start to finish and recorded a wind-aided 10.18 victory over Dickey, who normally has a fast start.

He also became a double winner later in the meet when he charged to a victory in the 200-meter dash.

Gingrich continued the heated pace moments later with an SWC record 1:47.6 victory in the 800-meter dash to erase memories of the 1978 performance when he won the event but was disqualified for impeding a Texas runner.

Despite religion, Mrs. Alcindor a proud mother

NEW YORK (AP) — They had gathered in the ninth floor dining room of the New York Athletic Club — newsmen, sportsmen, marketing and promotional types — to pay tribute to the "Athlete of the Decade."

"We're a better team than we played tonight," said Lenny Wilkens, the Seattle coach. "We didn't do what we should have done."

JABBAR ALWAYS A WINNER TO MOTHER — Mrs. Louis Alcindor, mother of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, smiles as she sits in armchair at New York Athletic Club, awaiting for directors of the American Cancer Society to open envelope containing name of the "Athlete of the Decade." It would have been a nice Mother's Day present if the name had been that of her son — but it wasn't. She took it in good grace, laughing while telling newsmen that her son had never given his parents an ounce of trouble.

"Before the Muslims got him, he went to Catholic schools, always behaved himself and made good grades. He was an altar boy and sang in the church choir."

"Both his father and I were very unhappy when he became a Muslim. I got over it, finally deciding he was a grown man with his own life to live. I don't think Lewis ever forgave him."

The Alcindors — Jabbar was an only son — lived in the middle class Washington Heights section of Manhattan. The elder Alcindor was a transit policeman.

"Law started growing early and was always bigger than his classmates," Cora said. "He was 6-8 by the time he was 13 and shot up to his full height in high school. But he was never made to feel self-conscious. Teachers always gave him things to do that the smaller children couldn't do."

After high school, the college offers came.

"You wouldn't believe what some of them offered us — under the table, too," the mother said. "Texas, Boston College, North Carolina and Michigan State — they tried the hardest."

"I remember Texas offered us a trip to the White House and a visit with President Johnson on the way to Austin. I was dying to go, but my boy said 'no.' Then John Wooden of UCLA paid us a visit. He was such a nice, honest man. My boy said, 'I want to go to UCLA.' UCLA it was — and nobody was ever sorry."

During Jabbar's varsity career, UCLA won three NCAA championships with a combined 88-2 record. Jabbar scored 2,325 points. Milwaukee won a coin toss from Phoenix to get Jabbar in the NBA draft, then came his sensational pro career.

"I don't think about that Muslim thing any more," Cora said. "My son has given us a nice home in Queens and three lovely grandchildren — Habiba, Kareem and Sulama. A mother couldn't ask for more."

FISH BEHAVIOR

Some fish are swimming these days with small ultrasonic transmitters implanted in their bodies.

Biologists are using the radios to find out more about fish behavior, and they're learning some interesting things.

One research project reported to Mercury outboards' fishing department involved placing transmitters in 29 largemouth, smallmouth and spotted black bass in a Tennessee lake.

Among other things, biologists wanted to determine the relationship between fish movement and such things as water surface temperature, barometric pressure, water levels, cloud cover and water turbidity.

Of all the variables, the study showed that only water surface temperature was associated with major fish movement.

An intensive creel census of anglers showed that the per-hour catch rate of black bass rose during major movement periods, indicating that fish movement and the lack of angler success are related.

Most fish movements occurred in daylight hours and were associated with water surface temperatures between 52 and 75 degrees Fahrenheit.

The various fish species, when released together, went their separate ways.

Smallmouth bass traveled the farthest from the release site, with some fish going more than 3,000 feet.

Largemouth bass seldom ventured more than 1,200 feet away.

IT'S BEEN NICE — Michigan State coach Jud Heathcote (left) has a predictably disappointed reaction to the announcement from his star player Earvin Johnson (right) that he's going pro. Heathcote said Friday in East Lansing Johnson's decision will hurt the Spartans, but he said he supports Earvin's choice.

The challenge lured 'Magic'

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — In the end, Earvin Johnson decided the challenge of playing professional basketball was more alluring than another year as the campus darling of Michigan State cage fans.

So Friday, he announced he's cutting short his college career after two brilliant years and turning pro. And he said the millions of dollars waiting for him were not as important as testing his skills against the best players in the game.

The Michigan State sophomore flash, saying he's accomplished about everything possible as a Spartan, will offer himself in the June 25 National Basketball Association draft.

The announcement came as no surprise, since the 19-year-old Johnson led MSU to the NCAA championship this spring after two straight Big Ten titles. But the 6-foot-8 "Magic Man" said the decision still was not easy.

"It's been rough, you know

— I've been going through a lot," the Lansing hometown hero told a packed news conference. "I thought it would be best for me. It'll be a challenge to me to go to the NBA and test my skills. We did a lot in college that I thought would take four years — but it took only two."

"So next season, I'll be turning pro."

The Los Angeles Lakers pick first in the draft, and have indicated they are keen on Johnson. He went to Los Angeles earlier this week to get a look at the city.

"It was nice — the only thing I don't like is the gas thing," Johnson said, referring to California's gasoline shortage.

In Los Angeles, Lakers owner Jack Kent Cooke said the "chances are good we will draft him, but that decision I have not made. I believe Earvin Johnson will be the most exciting player to play in the NBA since Julius Erving."

MSU Coach Jud Heathcote had a predictable reaction to Johnson's announcement, which he said means the Spartans "instead of a super club, will be just a good club" next season.

"I thought of two things, vomit and suicide," Heathcote said wryly. "And I might still do both."

Gervin's shooting keys Spurs romp

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Forty-two points or no 42 points. Playoff or no playoff. It was just another night at the office for San Antonio's "Iceman."

"This is my job and the job is not over yet," unruffled George Gervin said Friday night after he poured in 42 points — a near record 20 in a crucial third-quarter surge — to spark the Spurs to a 118-102 playoff victory over shellshocked Washington.

The victory gave the upstart Spurs a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven NBA Eastern Conference championship series. The reeling Bullets, the defending NBA champions, return home Sunday for the fifth game.

"It was just one of those nights, you have one of those nights every now and then," added Gervin, the NBA scoring champion for two consecutive seasons. "We've got a 3-1 lead and they've got their backs to the wall."

The Spurs were nursing a 60-59 lead with 8:11 remaining in the third quarter when Gervin took charge and scored the team's next 18 points.

He single-handedly outscored the Bullets 18-9 over the next five and one-half minutes to give the Spurs a 78-68 advantage with 2:29 remaining. In one stretch, he reeled off eight unanswered points.

San Antonio increased its lead to 84-72 by the end of the quarter and led by as many as 20 points in the final period.

"We weren't able in any way to contain Gervin. I don't know how many points he had, probably 50," Washington Coach Dick Motta said before the final boxscore arrived. "We tried a lot of different people on him. I finally put (6-foot-7 forward) Greg (Ballard) on him, but then I think Gervin had gotten bored with it."

"It was so easy for him, it was boring. That's intended as a funny," Motta said without cracking a smile.

Gervin, celebrating the birth during Wednesday night's game of his third child, put in 19 of his 31 shots, some on dunks, others on soft 25-foot jumpers. Even with his blistering shooting, the Spurs managed only 45 percent as a team.

"It was an unbelievable performance," raved San Antonio Coach Doug Moe. "He got free and he hit the shots. He's tough to stop when he's not hot."

"I turned to (Louie) Dampier on the bench when he hit the first three (in the third quarter) and I said, 'This game is history.' He's probably one of the only guards in the league who can dominate a game," said center Billy Paultz.

Guadalupe River trout abundant

AUSTIN — Texas anglers who haven't tried their hand at catching rainbow trout in the Guadalupe River still have time to do so, as high water levels since January have caused a lower than normal harvest, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Department crews stocked 27,749 catchable-sized rainbows in the river below Canyon Dam during the winter, but water releases ranging from 700 to 5,000 cubic feet per second have held the harvest to only about 10,000 fish so far. This amounts to only 37 percent return for the put-and-take operation, instead of the usual harvest of well over 50 percent.

On the other hand, the other three areas stocked with trout were not hit as hard by flooding conditions and the harvest rates are much higher.

Either sex deer hunting legalized in some East Texas counties

AUSTIN — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has approved an experimental "preseason" antlerless hunting season for white-tailed deer in three South Texas counties.

The special 16-day season will be Oct. 27 through Nov. 11 in Dimmit, Maverick and Webb Counties.

The experimental antlerless season in these counties is aimed at increasing use of the under-harvested antlerless deer resource, and to keep deer numbers within the carrying capacity of the range, according to Wildlife Division Director Ted Clark.

The department's wildlife staff has proposed a post-season antlerless deer season, but after hearing testimony from representatives of South Texas ranchers and sportsmen, commissioners voted to change it to a preseason hunt. The possibility of greater hunter participation, better condition of the deer, and less chance of law enforcement problems were three reasons for the shift to a preseason experiment. Also, from a biological standpoint, it is desirable to remove the surplus deer early before the stress of winter sets in, leaving more forage for the remaining deer.

The commission, in another effort to increase the harvest of antlerless deer, also adopted an experimental either-sex hunting season for Bosque, Erath, Polk and Tyler Counties. This four-day season will begin Thanksgiving Day and end the following Sunday. During this time hunters will be allowed to take antlerless deer without an antlerless deer permit. However, all animals taken must be tagged with the appropriate tags from the hunter's license.

Did you know that?

Some male deer lose their antlers

LUBBOCK — An inexperienced hunter was heard to say that there wasn't a buck in the whole herd of deer spotted on a West Texas ranch last week.

This person was using antlers to judge the population of bucks in the herd and as all Texas Parks and Wildlife Department employees know, early spring is no time to try and count buck deer.

The white-tailed and mule deer of northwest Texas both lose their antlers during the winter following the mating season. With the elimination of the antler from the animal, it is hard to identify

Following the loss of the antlers, the process of growing new antlers begins.

Antler formation begins in most areas in April with the appearance of velvet-covered buds. Within two weeks, the characteristic branched pattern has appeared. During this period, the buck deer is careful to avoid hard objects that might hit his new antlers.

By August, the antlers are mature. Growth has ceased and the velvet has begun to dry at the tips. When the bony material of the antler has become fully hardened, the velvet dries and peels off in shreds helped by the animal rubbing its antlers against brush and small trees.

These deer "rubs" are a sure sign of bucks to the alert deer hunter scouting hunting areas in early fall.

Jon Walmsley makes it his way

Climb down Walton's Mountain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With all the nonentities struggling to make it in the record business, Jon Walmsley would seem to have it made. After all, the 23-year-old actor is already known to millions as Jason Walton, son of Olivia and John, brother of John-Boy. What's more, he already is established as a musician in the mind of a television-viewing public that has watched him grow from a freckle-faced, harmonica-playing adolescent at the inception of "The Waltons" seven years ago to the guitarist-pianist conservatory student of more recent episodes. So the strategy for the transition from small screen to chartbuster would seem obvious: Put Walmsley in a flannel shirt, stand him up in front of that rambling old house for publicity shots and call the debut album something like "Live from Walton's Mountain." Just one problem: It's not the way Walmsley wants to do it. "I've had a lot of offers from people who are interested in making a fast buck and doing a great publicity campaign and having the album called 'Jason Walton Sings,' or something like that," Walmsley said. "I just said, 'Forget it. I don't want to do that.'" A pause, then a candid afterthought: "People are going to know that anyway. So it's more something to get away from than it is something to capitalize on. "You can be a teen idol who's on a television show, and because of the popularity of that show, make a record, and you don't even need that much talent. And it can be a million-dollar career over a lifetime, you've really got to have something going or people are not going to continue to be interested in you." Right now Walmsley has no plans to leave "The Waltons," although when the show does die a natural death he'll be able to devote more time to his music than the evenings and weekends he now can spare. He also doesn't completely ignore the opportunities available to him through his show business connections, and has already gotten to play the odd concert encore with such luminaries as the

Doobie Brothers, Gregg Allman and Elvin Bishop. "The way I look at it is, I might not have had a chance to meet them otherwise," Walmsley says, almost apologetically. "But they wouldn't have wanted me to play with them if they didn't think I was good."

(AP WIREPHOTO) CLIMBING DOWN WALTON'S MOUNTAIN — Actor Jon Walmsley, known to many as Jason Walton, on the television series "Walton's Mountain," is shown recently in Los Angeles. Walmsley is embarking on a country-rock type music career when he is not performing for television.

Round three will begin in Nashville music but

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Introducing ... in this corner ... from Nashville, Tenn. ... the challenger ... the Nashville Jubilee. And in this corner ... also from Nashville ... the champion ... the Grand Ole Opry. It's time for round three of the bout between the Nashville Jubilee and the Grand Ole Opry, two live country music shows battling for crowds among thousands of tourists who will visit the city this year. The Opry, of course, is a veteran. It's been around since 1925 and has a remarkable record of 2,800 straight performances. The Nashville Jubilee, in its third year, is an upstart. It will present 61 shows this year — mostly on weekends — at the downtown War Memorial Auditorium.

The Nashville Jubilee include Roni Stoneman, who is "the nagger" on the television show "Hee Haw," Melba Montgomery, Vernon Oxford, Bobby G. Rice, Peggy Sue, Sonny Wright and Ronnie Robbins, son of Opry star Marty Robbins. The Opry averages a capacity audience of 4,400 at its shows in its $15 million auditorium 10 miles northeast of downtown Nashville. Tickets for the Nashville Jubilee are $5 and $6. Last year's shows averaged about 400 persons, but attendance reached 1,800 on some nights. Capacity at the War Memorial Auditorium is 2,200.

Alcott has unique manuscripts

By JOHN W. DEATS
County Librarian

Over the years, Louisa May Alcott's "Little Women" has had a wide following. Yet, until very recently, one of her more unique manuscripts remained unpublished, a product of her convalescence with spinal meningitis in a Boston hospital. "Diana and Persis" is the story of two women who met the options of marriage or career in different ways. The work is highly autobiographical, or Louisa and her sister were faced with similar choices. The introduction summarizes the author's remarkable fortitude in the face of illness and financial burdens during her productive life. Jules Verne has never been fully appreciated in English translation, since so much was lost from the original French due to editorial censorship. Modern readers are now offered a highly accurate version of "From the Earth to the Moon," thanks to the efforts of Walter J. Miller. He has begun a literary project of translating many of Verne's books, and our library already possesses his "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." These are large format books, with extensive notes and illustrations. Miller demonstrates the high degree of scientific sophistication, psychological insight, and political satire which make Verne an author for adults. "Zuleika Dobson" has been described as a comic farce, one of Max Beerbohm's best satires on the Oxford scene during the turn of the century. A young coquette captivates an entire class of students, with ridiculous results. E.M. Forster called the book "the most consistent achievement of fantasy in our time." Jessie Stuart is somewhat better known to American readers, with a style which is at once easy, humorous, and informative. "The Thread That Runs So True" concerns his early career as a school teacher in Kentucky during the 1920's and '30s. The book was instrumental in the raising of standards and pay for teachers in many areas of the United States. Stuart's "The Kingdom Within" is an autobiography just published this Spring, sure to be inspirational reading. Devotees of F. Scott Fitzgerald will welcome "The Price Was High," which collects fifty of the best short stories originally written for magazines like "The Saturday Evening Post." Some passages from the stories were eventually incorporated into novels like "The Great Gatsby" and "Tender is the Night." John Gunther is one of the few who writes equally well in fiction or nonfiction, but perhaps his most memorable book is "Death Be Not Proud." It is a frank account of the struggle of Gunther's very gifted and courageous young son, doomed to die of a brain tumor at age seventeen. This is a very sobering but rewarding story. Similar in theme but with a different approach, L. E. Sissmann's "Hello Darkness" is a remarkable collection of poems, many dealing with hospitals and suffering. Sissmann was a regular columnist for "Atlantic Monthly" magazine prior to his death due to Hodgkin's Disease.

Alcott has unique manuscripts

Art Bizzell new mayor

LAMESA — Art Bizzell is Lamesa's new mayor, succeeding Lloyd Cline, who did not seek reelection. The new mayor pro-tem is Nelson Hogg. Bizzell has been serving as mayor pro-tem since the resignation of Rick Smith. After the searing in ceremonies, the Lamesa city council adopted a resolution commending Cline for his long years of service to the community and presented him with a plaque and gavel. City councilman Bennie Lybrand was also sworn in. He was to have taken the oath of office at the last meeting but was absent on business.

The rear license plate on the car will have a blue sticker with the month the car's license renewal is required.

Marines not missing bets

SUN CITY, Ariz. (AP) — The Marine Corps is looking for "a few good men," even in this retirement community.

R.E. Roberts, 79, a retired newspaperman, received a Marine recruitment letter, addressed to him personally, promising a better job, good salary, promotions and other benefits.

"Either the Marines are in bad shape or the country is," said Roberts, a World War I Army veteran who fought hand-to-hand in the trenches of France and won a Purple Heart.

"I was reluctant to have to turn down the offer, but when you are a few months from your 80th birthday, you sort of hesitate about such a bold venture," he said.

Child welfare due discussion

Charlie's Angels--West Texas style

Meet the HC Presidential Classics

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

Everyone knows that Howard College is the home of many award-winning athletic teams, including both basketball teams, the Hawks and the Hawk Queens, as well as an accomplished and capable rodeo team.

The facility also houses various cultural operations as a part of the fine arts division.

But did you know that Howard College also has, not three, but 10 young coeds, affectionately known around campus as Charlie's Angels?

Charles Townsend never had it so good.

In fact, these official college hostesses belong to another Charles, namely Howard College President Dr. Charles Hays.

Officially known as the Presidential Classics, Charlie's Angels originated as a result of a brainstorm by the local college overseer.

It was approximately two years ago that he called in his assistant, then Mrs. Johnny Lou Avery, and assigned her the task of organizing the framework for a group of young women who would serve as the college's official student representatives.

With the new addition to Howard College, the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, Dr. Hays could foresee the need to organize a group of good-will emissaries to keep in step with the college's increasing involvement in community activities.

Now making up this elite organization are K'Lynn Boyer, Katy Brooks, Shawna Henry, Andra Hohertz, Kathy Keune, Belinda

Martin, Jan Phillips, Janie Rodriguez, Becci Rowden and Julie Underwood.

"We have done everything from serving as official hostesses for the opening of the new multi-million dollar coliseum to acting as greeters for the community United Way Kickoff Luncheon," explained the coeds of this multi-talented group.

Howard College is privileged to have in its midst such a unique cadre of coeds.

Here's your chance to meet them.

Well-known for numerous awards in 4-H and quarter horse shows is K'Lynn Boyer, daughter of Jerry and Sharon Boyer, Lamesa.

She is the product of a family who raises, trains and shows registered quarter horses.

As valedictorian of her graduating class at Klondike High School, Miss Boyer has continued her academic success at Howard College with a 4.0 average.

She was one of the original Presidential Classics as a freshman last year.

Talented Katy Brooks is well-known for avid interest in outdoor activities. Whether it be tennis, touch football or trail bikes, she's right out there among the best.

As the daughter of Mrs. Jeanette Brooks from Coahoma, Katy is another of the original Classics and will graduate from Howard College this month with the first two years, on the way to a degree in elementary education, completed.

Classic Shawna Henry, 18-year-old freshman from Big Spring, keeps her life busy with worthwhile school activities.

During her high school days, Miss Henry was actively involved on the varsity golf team, student council, choir and the annual staff. She was also secretary of her senior class.

As a one-time member of a church singing group that toured the state, she keeps involved in various church organizations, thus rounding out her need to contribute.

Piano, sewing and all outdoor sports are also enjoyed by the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Henry of Big Spring.

Only one word can describe Classic Andra Hohertz — busy. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Hohertz, Big Spring.

Fashion merchandizing is her career goal. Her past record of achievement and involvement includes cheerleader, Demolay Sweetheart, tennis team member, choir, Tri-Hi-Y, Chamber of Commerce Student Representative, junior class president, and the list goes on and on.

Presently, this active college hostess is Circle K service club vice president, newspaper reporter and business manager and is taking a full class load and working 20 hours a week. In her spare time, she sews, dances and participates in sports.

Kathy Keune from Lamesa is the reigning Miss Howard College and a graduate of Klondike High School.

As a Howard College sophomore, she too is another of the original Classics and she plans a career in business. Her major is in business administration and computer technology.

Almost everywhere this Classic has been, she's left her mark. Kathy's past and present has been and is full of involvement in sports, FHA, choir as well as several other extra-curricular activities.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Keune.

Computer science is what freshman Belinda Martin plans to major in.

As the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Martin, Lenora, Belinda graduated from Grady High School but not before totaling up a list of accomplishments. She served as editor of the yearbook, FFA local and district sweetheart, football sweetheart, junior and senior class president, and salutatorian of her senior class. She received the Springer Merit Award as outstanding student.

While enrolled in Howard College, she is a member of Circle K and involved in student government activities.

Coming from Abernathy, Jan Phillips is beginning her sophomore year at Howard College where she has been participating on the women's basketball team with a full basketball scholarship. She has garnered such awards as second team all-conference, regional all-tournament, all-regional team and on the conference championship team.

As a high school student, Miss Phillips was a member of FHA, vice president of FTA, president of Fellowship of Christian Athletes, a National Honor Society member, Who's Who and a track team member. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Phillips.

In an effort to prepare herself for her life's ambition — owning and operating clothing fashion store — Janie Rodriguez, selected last year as one of the original Presidential Classics, will transfer from Howard College next fall to finish a degree in marketing at Angelo State University. High school days saw much involvement from Janie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Rodriguez. She was a member of FHA, FTA, and OEA, serving as officer or winning awards on a regular basis.

As a college participant, she is involved in the Future Secretaries Association and serves as the organization's vice president. As a member of the Association of Mexican-American Students, she was named by the community as Deiz y Seis Queen.

Making a big impact where ever she goes, Becci Rowden is presently a Hawk cheerleader, secretary of the Spanish Club, and involved in student government affairs, in addition to being one of 10 Presidential Classics.

While in high school, the daughter of H.C. and Pat Rowden, Big Spring, served as cheerleader, class officer and favorite every year, including homecoming queen her senior year.

She was awarded scholarships from two foundations to attend college based on her academic excellence in high school.

Upon college completion, she hopes to be a high school Spanish and social studies teacher.

Finally, the Howard College Presidential Classics would not be complete without Mr. and Mrs. Robert Underwood's daughter, Julie.

She came to Howard College to major in business and is presently vice president of the college Baptist Student Union organization, a member of Office Education Association, and a recipient of several scholastic scholarships.

Before graduating from Forsan High School, Julie was a member of the tennis team, manager of the basketball team, a National Honor Society member, class officer and favorite and the recipient of numerous honors and awards.

Now you know why they are called 'Classics.'

Although these young women stand well on their own, the organizations backbone should also be commended.

Sponsoring these Presidential Classics are Don Melton, director of counseling and guidance and Mary Dudley, assistant to the president. Their task is smoothing out schedules and directing their activities.

When asked his opinion concerning his 'angels,' Dr. Hays declared "They are talented, charming and attractive. They make a great impression on everyone with whom they come in contact. I've become the envy of all the other community college presidents for having this group of young ladies to represent our college."

In fact, there's little effort to conceal the pride with which Howard College, as a whole, views the ten coeds.

Dr. Hays saw the role of the Presidential Classics as being a combination of public relations and service, a role which has more than adequately been fulfilled by the Presidential Classics.

CLASSY CLASSICS — According to Dr. Hays, he is the envy of all other community college presidents since his addition to Howard College, the Presidential Classics. Pictured here are Classics Janie Rodriguez, left, and Becci Rowden discussing plans for their next assignment as college hostesses.

YOUR NEXT ASSIGNMENT IS . . . — The Howard College Presidential Classics keep up with a busy schedule acting as the college's official hostesses. # Cynthia Huse becomes Mrs. Dwain Schneider

The Vandelia Church of Christ was the setting of the Saturday afternoon wedding between Cynthia Huse and Dwain Jay Schneider, both of Lubbock.

Tom Miholland, minister, performed the 2 p.m. ceremony before an altar enhanced by a 15-branched candelabrum flanked by floral arrangements of yellow carnations and spider mums.

The bride is the daughter of Walter A. Huse, 3206 Drexel, Big Spring. The groom is the son of Mrs. Carolyn Jean Schneider, Roswell, N.M.

Providing music for the ceremony were Lois Boyd, Paula Privett, Lyndal Privett, Steve Johnson, Ruth Boyd, Cindy Minnix, Pete Gentry and Brian Privett, all vocalists.

The bride chose to wear a white knit gown overlaid with white chiffon designed with a cameo bodice, and long sleeves. Falling to chapel-length, the bottom of the gown was defined with a deep ruffled flounce. Her fingertip-length veil of silk illusion completed her ensemble.

She carried a silk bouquet of yellow carnations and white daisies sprinkled with baby's breath.

Matron of honor for the ceremony was Jeanine Brunson. Bridesmaids were Kay Mayberry, Lougene Pruett and Maggie Orr. Pete Sakovich, Fort Worth, was best man Robert Spurlin, John Schneider, brother of the groom; and Pat Gallagher served as groomsmen.

Arthur Huse, brother of the bride; John Cowell and Grant Loring seated guests registered by Karen Aubrey.

The church fellowship hall was the reception site honoring the couple. The three-tiered wedding cake decorated with daisies was served by Mrs. Janice Merrifield, sister of the bride; Mrs. Kathy Schneider, sister-in-law of the groom; and Mrs. Paula Schneider, also the groom's sister-in-law.

The bride is a 1976 Big Spring High School graduate and will graduate from Lubbock Christian College in August with a Bachelor of Science Degree in accounting.

The groom graduated from Goddard High School in Roswell, N.M. and will be returning to Lubbock Christian College in the fall as a sophomore. He is employed as a brick layer.

Mr and Mrs. Schneider will be at home in Lubbock upon returning from a wedding trip to Dallas.

Mother's Day Tribute To Mothers Anonymous

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will use my letter on Mother's Day as a tribute to all those brave, unselfish mothers who gave up their babies.

I am a new mother whose heart is overflowing with gratitude to a 15-year-old girl I have never seen. I understand that she is a beautiful, intelligent person who became pregnant accidentally and decided on her own that her baby should have a better life than she was able to provide for it, so she put it up for adoption.

As soon as our son is able to understand, I shall tell him about his "real" mother and what a courageous person she is.

In the meantime, I pray daily for her well being and good fortune.

Sign me ...

BLESSED IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR BLESSED: Thank you for an appropriate letter for Mother's Day. I agree that giving up a child for its own good is the ultimate in unselfishness. God bless those mothers who did.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 11-year-old boy with a problem. My father died so long ago I don't even remember him, but Mom has a man living here at our house. He has been living here for about a year. Most all my friends know that my Mom is a widow, but what do I say when someone asks whose car is parked in our garage.

NO ANSWER IN ELGIN

DEAR NO ANSWER: Don't lie. Tell them the car belongs to a friend of your mother's. It does, and he is.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a physician who has just passed his 50th birthday. He tells all his male patients who reach 50 to slow down. If they smoke, he orders them to quit, but HE's a three-pack-a-day man.

He puts all his overweight patients on diets, but HE is considerably overweight himself and can't stay on a diet for two days. He insists that daily exercise is a MUST, but HE doesn't exercise at all.

He says that an annual vacation is essential to good health, but HE hasn't had a vacation in six years. And this will floor you: He wants all his patients to have a complete physical checkup every year, but HE hasn't had one for 10 years!

What's wrong with him, and how can I get through to him?

DOCTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: He's human. He finds advice much easier to give than to take. You can get through to him (maybe) by insisting that HE consult a colleague for a checkup. If he refuses, ask him to keep paying those life insurance premiums, so that you and your next husband can retire in comfort.

Bridal fashions traditional

By JANET ROGERS
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Bridal fashions for spring-summer '79 are traditional laces, contemporary soft, flowing fabrics, or a combination of both.

Traditional gowns are the most popular with antique laces, high Victorian necklines, tiered skirts, empire waist and princess styling.

Other popular styles include thin straps on bare shoulders with a lace or chiffon camisole, often covered with a soft capelet or blouson bodice. Soft, floaty skirts continue the feminine mood.

Bodice interest is often created with capelet collars, big smocks over flowing dresses, or chiffon blouses over Venice lace camisoles.

Popular traditional fabrics include soft chantilly lace or Venise appliques and intricate alencon laces. Soft flowing styles are created with shiny lightweight knits, satin, moire, chiffon, silk and velvet.

Current styling for bridesmaid gowns are flounced skirts, capelets, tiered skirts and gathered shoulder. Important colors are violet, mauve, banana and dusty peach.

Recent studies have shown that 98 percent of today's brides have formal weddings with a white or ivory dress. Most choose floor-length gowns with a chapel train.

Most brides buy their gowns ready-made spending an average of $230.

The 16 percent who make or have their gowns made spend an average of $100 to $150, including fabric, trim, lace and notions.

Current pattern books feature a number of bridal fashions enabling today's bride to create a totally individualistic look.

Revolution women discussed by DAR

The Elisha Mack Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, met at the Big Spring Country Club, May 5 12:30 p.m. for a luncheon, followed by a business meeting. Mrs. Jack Liscombe, regent, presided.

The members voted to meet in the homes during the chapter's next calendar year.

A wreath will be placed at the Howard County Veteran's Memorial by Mrs. Bob Wren, chaplain and Mrs. C.G. Barnett, vice regent. DAR, in cooperation with the Veteran's Council during the memorial Services, May 28 at 8 a.m., honoring deceased veterans of all wars. Members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Bernie McCrea, a member of Abigail Ann Berry Chesley Chapter, Abilene, presented the chapter, a book entitled "Women of the American Revolution," compiled by Mollie Summerville, and a sizable contribution which the chapter will send to the Kate Duncan School in Grant, Ala. in honor of Mrs. McCrea, a trustee of the finance committee of the school. She is state chairman of DAR schools in Texas.

Mrs. McCrea chose as her subject, "Women of the American Revolution."

She gave brief biographical sketches of seven women Patriots of the American Revolution.

The inspiring story of the patriot, Hannah White Arnett of Elizabethtown, N.J., was published in the Washington Post in 1890. Her "pep talk" to the discouraged group of men meeting in the Arnett home with Isaac Arnett prevented them from accepting amnesty in the summer of 1776. Many of them became heroes of the Revolution. The newspaper story helped solidify American Women's desire for a patriotic organization of their own. They shortly formed The DAR.

Nancy Morgan Hart was a pioneer patriot living in a log cabin on the Georgia frontier. She was a kinswoman of Daniel Boone and General Morgan. Her husband, Benjamin Hart was related to Henry Clay's wife and to Thomas Hart Benton. She was a good shot despite her crossed eyes. This prowess with a gun served her well when she was forced to prepare a meal for a party of Tories who had just killed a neighbor.

Mary Hays, called "Mollie Pitcher" and Margaret Corbin, known as "Captain Molly" each accompanied their artillery gunner husbands from Pennsylvania into battle. Each helped the husband with the artillery piece, and each "manned" the gun when her husband fell, and his wife, Margaret "Mollie" was shot in the shoulder. She was granted a pension by Congress.

Esther de Berdt Reed and Sarah Franklin Bache organized the fund raising campaign that enabled them and their friends to make shirts for the army. It was General Washington's suggestion that they use the money in that way.

Mrs. Reed was the wife of the governor of Pennsylvania. Her crew solicited funds from every house in Philadelphia. The idea appealed to all of the citizens. Lafayette even sent money for his wife's contribution.

After Mrs. Reed's death, Mrs. Bache took up the shirt making duties. The patriotism of the two women never failed though twice they were forced to evacuate their homes as the British advanced.

Deborah Sampson Gannett was an enlisted soldier in the Fourth Mass. Regiment and received a pension from Mass. in 1783 and from Congress in 1818. She slipped away from Middleborough, Mass one night, donned men's clothing and walked the fifty miles to Bellingham, where she joined up as Richard Shurtleff.

She performed her duties well. Later when she fell ill with a fever, the physician quickly arranged for her discharge under the name of Richard Shurtleff.

Deborah was a descendant of William Bradford, Miles Standish, and John and Priscilla Alden.

Bernie McCrea's mother's maiden name was Sampson, a direct descendant of Deborah Sampson Gannett.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jack Alexander and Mrs. John Key.

Teens are 'color'-blind

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Date a teen of another race? This question brought 3,410 responses from teens throughout the United States and Canada. Having no idea what you teens would say, I was extremely interested in the results.

Of the 3,410 teens who wrote regarding this question, a highly significant 2,520 (74 percent) said that they would date another teen regardless of his or her race.

Female teens (2,303 responded) voiced a much higher percentage of yes than did the males. A total of 2,016 (80 percent) girls said they would while 504 (20 percent) said they would not.

Interestingly, the boys also believe God would have made different races if He had intended us to mix.

From Carol Nichols, 15, Lodi, Calif.: I would much rather date a person of a different race who was nice than a person of the same race who was not.

From Cathy Goguen, 18, Nashua, N.H.: I would date a person of another race if I was asked, but I haven't been asked.

From Susan Compton, 15, Marysville, Calif.: I would not date a person of another race. In my opinion it is immoral.

Malone-Hogan has Kindergarten Day

'Let's Play Hospital'

By ROBBICROW
Family News Editor

Malone-Hogan Clinic was invaded by approximately 294 miniature doctors and nurses-to-be when the second Kindergarten Day was conducted May 8 and 9 by Public Relations Director Emily Ward.

Four and five-year-old kids from Coahoma, Forsan and Big Spring kindergarten schools were presented a skit entitled "Let's Play Hospital," revealing step-by-step all procedures involved for a TNA (tonsillectomy).

Employee 'actors' from the Malone-Hogan staff who participated in the play were Carmen Phillips, OR supervisor; Trent Riley, lab director; P.T. Chacko, chief radiologic technologist; Joyce Mills, dietician; Kenneth Randall, accounting; Josh Sullivan, purchasing; and Tim Salazar, OR orderly.

Jean Connelly, director of nurses, narrated the performance as various students from each school were selected to act as a 'pretend' patients.

"The skit was designed to help 4 and 5 year olds cope with being hospitalized," explained Mrs. Ward.

"It takes the child through admissions, to the lab, x-ray, to the room, surgery, recovery, and back to the room where mother and dad are waiting."

Although few of the kindergarteners are eager to have their tonsils surgically removed, most agree that they are more at ease and less frightened of hospitals following their trip to Kindergarten Day at the local hospital.

Prior to their field trip, students were prepared and motivated by creating posters using the theme "A Child's Medical Dictionary." Pupils selected various medical terms such as 'ambulance,' 'emergency' and 'accident' and conveyed the definitions in their poster drawings.

Judging the contest were pediatricians Ray Owen and Marc Schwarz along with their wives. Winners will be announced on Dr. Malone Day, May 20. At that time, posters will be displayed throughout the hospital.

Prizes of $50 will be given to the school of the student winning first place; $30 for second place; and $20 for third place.

Kindergarten Day concluded with the distribution to students by Malone-Hogan Volunteers, their very own hospital kits containing items used by real doctors and nurses.

Although most kindergarten-age children still associate hospitals with needles, blood and horrible-tasting medicine, students that participated in Kindergarten Day at Malone-Hogan learned that a hospital isn't such a scary place after all.

Motherhood is important to multiple sclerosis victim

The John Webb family lives life fully

By MICKIE DICKSON
Dr. Laurence Snively, a neighbor of hers, came in to share with me that Mrs. John (Annie Laurie) Webb, mother of two, and a victim of multiple sclerosis, is an inspiration to all who know her.

Johnny, 7, and Christy, 4, play in their backyard playground each day with many neighborhood children. John built the two story fort which boasts a pirate flag, and the sand box. Grandfather John C. Webb of Dublin built the park-sized swing set of windmill casing. John often remarks that it looks like they're running a day school by the number of small vehicles parked at the drive when he comes home from work.

Laurie, as she prefers to be called by her many friends, is a graduate of Texas Tech with a degree in English and Spanish and a teaching certificate. Laurie is a member of Mensa, the high IQ society.

Born in Big Spring's old Malone-Hogan Hospital May 17, 1945, Laurie moved away at an early age. She is the daughter of Jake (J. C.) Douglass, Jr. and the former Ann Griffin. Her maternal grandfather, O. P. Griffin was a county agent by presidential appointment, one of 11 appointed by President Woodrow Wilson during World War I, serving 37 years before he retired in 1944," Laurie said.

Laurie's dad, Jake Douglass, was active in the Masons and Eastern Star in Big Spring. He named a street for Laurie in the Douglass Addition, near where the Webbs live. Jake married Pat Phillips, daughter of Roy Phillips of Big Spring in 1957. The Douglass's now reside in Lubbock where he is in the Real Estate business.

J. C. Douglass, Sr. and Melissa, the paternal grandparents, owned the old Douglass Hotel at 3rd and Rannels, and were active in Masons and Eastern Star, Douglass being a 50 year Mason. Melissa was active in the American Red Cross and was chairwoman of the T.B. Association here for years.

Both Johnny and Christy were born by the Lamaze and modified Leboyer natural childbirth methods. No anesthetics were used and the birth was without pain for the mother and without trauma or shock for the child. Christy's birth is recorded on movie film and both mother and child are relaxed and happy. Carlton Wolters, M.D., a gynecologist who is a victim of polio, delivered Christy.

The family went swimming every day, before Laurie was stricken, at the Jewish Community Center in Houston where Johnny learned to swim at six months of age. He was diving at 18 months and the Webbs have moving pictures of him swimming and diving at two years. Dr. Wolters, who delivered Christy, swam each day with goggles on so he could watch Johnny underwater. He said that Johnny was always grinning with his eyes open under water.

Johnny is quite a dinosaur expert, looking them up in the encyclopedia at age three. He learned to read at four years. A group of adults took him along on a field trip the other day and remarked that it was just like having a professor along, for Johnny would look at the fossils and artifacts and tell them the period in which they were formed.

Mrs. Paul (Virginia) Chappell is Johnny's first grade teacher at Marcy Elementary, and has inspired him to read 300 extra books for credit this year. Laurie gives Mrs. Chappell a lot of credit for Johnny's continued interest in reading and learning.

Christy has quite an extensive antique doll collection given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Ann Jenkins of Maryland. When they arrived in a genuine CHECKING BUDS — John is showing Laurie Webb a bud on her red bird-of-paradise, a six-year-old plant she brought from Houston that hasn't bloomed for her yet. The bloom, if it develops, will look like a red bird-of-paradise.

Jenny Lind trunk, they were musty from being packed away a long time. She wanted to play with them at once, but was told that she couldn't until she was older. She said, "When I am old I'm gonna get some smelly dolls." Her thoughts on Johnny's interest are, "I like most people, but I don't like dinosaurs."

The Webbs built their own furniture except for the antiques, which they prefer, and a houseboat. The boat was built of scraps from the dump grounds in Port Isabel after hurricane Beulah. It was 26 feet long with one story and a deck. Mrs. Webb made the steering wheel, the inside of the cabin, beds and windows and John made the rest. It was docked 30 miles up the Intercoastal Canal at Arroyo City. The houseboat was flat, and like a sailboat it had a lot of surface area on the sides making it hard to anchor in a heavy wind if you have engine trouble. Loud horns are required on boats for emergency use, but so many boaters do not know emergency signals.

"At one time we found ourselves blowing the distress signal loudly because the engine had fallen off the back of the boat and other boaters would wave gaily at us, thinking we were greeting them with our horn," said Laurie.

Among the antiques which grace the Webb home is an antique wall telephone, a pump organ and a barber chair. Laurie misses playing the organ since her limbs are paralyzed.

Mrs. Webb was the first children's case worker in the Rio Grande Valley for the children's division of the State Commission for the blind. She was responsible for the well-being and needs of visually impaired children of 32 counties from Laredo to Corpus Christi. She pursued this work for five years.

While living in Houston and before being diagnosed as having MS, Laurie was on the board of directors of the Westbury Civic Club. Westbury is the largest undeveloped subdivision in the world, and is in southwest Houston.

She was the editor of the Westbury Crier, a monthly newspaper of 20,000 to 30,000 circulation which featured a yard of the month and local news such as little league baseball scores.

One of the main projects of the Civic Club was "Operation Identification." Residents were urged to engrave an identification number on all their valuables and furniture so that it could be identified if stolen. A sticker was placed on the home to discourage burglars. In the Dallas community in which this project was piloted, Operation ID cut down on burglaries 90 percent.

Laurie has had multiple sclerosis for about three years, spending two and a half years in a wheelchair paralyzed from the waist down. MS is a disease of the myelin or protein-like sheath of the nerve fiber. It is thought to be hereditary, especially from Scottish or English ancestry. Both parents have to have a gene for it in order for the child to be afflicted with it. MS usually comes on gradually, and 90 percent of the people who have it never know it in their lifetime. Laurie has an aunt, Frances Douglass, of Rio Dosa, N.M., who has had MS 45 years and still walks around.

"After working in the field of rehabilitation for several years, assuring others that they could make it, I became convinced that a physical impairment is not what handicaps people, but their own fears and attitudes about life," Laurie continued.

"It has been easy for me to greet each day with optimism these past three years because my husband, John, who is a social worker at the VA Medical Center, is an absolute genius at making people believe in themselves. With his confidence in me and my own drives, I don't consider myself handicapped as such, just detoured, perhaps, as a mouse in a maze."

Laurie has about 90 plants in her home which she loves. When people ask her if she talks to them, she says that that means if you care enough about your plants to talk to them you get close enough to them to notice what they need. In addition you furnish them with carbon dioxide. "The secret of having a green thumb is a brown thumbnail from digging in the dirt," she says. "Admire my plants if you will, but don't ask to see my fingernails."

In 1978 Laurie was asked to represent the Perman Basin in the Governor's Conference on the Handicapped. She is required to relay problems and barriers that the handicapped might encounter. The purpose is to eliminate barriers to successful living and employment for the handicapped of Big Spring and surrounding area. Next Saturday the Webb's will entertain their immediate neighborhood on Vicky St. in their backyard with an annual home-made ice cream and coffee social.

DINOSAUR STUDENT AND COLLECTOR — Johnny Webb, 7, is holding a Pteranodon with a 26 foot wing span which hangs in his room. Beverly Jenkins, his mother's sister, made it for him. Behind him is a portion of his dinosaur collection.
