

AWESTRUCK — Elodina Cazavez, left, and her son, Juan, watched as the twister passed right behind their house, only breaking a couple of windows and moving a pickup in their yard.

POSING — Neighborhood children couldn't resist the camera as they all but obscured Ernestina Valdez's 1968 Cadillac which was crushed under her mobile home.

SCARED BUT UNHURT — Ernestina Valdez talks with a reporter after her mobile home with her and her three children inside was overturned by a tornado late Sunday in Stanton.

Stanton mother pulls tot from wreckage

Tornado destroys homes, hurts one

By TOM WATSON
STANTON — "We were all scared and we were crying," Ernestina Valdez said Sunday night. Mrs. Valdez and her three children had been inside their mobile home on South St. Joseph St. when a tornado lifted the home off its moorings and turned it upside down shortly after 6:30 p.m. The trailer landed in a pile of rubble on top of the family's 1968 Cadillac. Mrs. Valdez, 28, said she crawled around and pulled her six-month-old daughter, Margie, from under a pile of paneling. Her other two children, Mary Lou, 5, and Raymond Jr., 4, managed to crawl out by themselves. Raymond suffered a cut on the right side of his head which required a few stitches but no further treatment. Sheriff Dan Saunders of Martin County said the Valdez boy was the only person injured in the twister which also destroyed two other dwellings and damaged 12 houses. Saunders estimated the tornado was about two blocks wide and traveled about two miles through the south side of town. One of the dwellings destroyed was a one-bedroom structure on Florence St. and belonged to Maria Villa who was not in the house at the time. All that remained of the house was a few foundation blocks. Furniture, appliances and building debris were strewn about 100 yards to the east. The other dwelling was a small metal structure on George Street East. It was occupied by Juan Miller, Saunders said. Miller was in Big Spring when the building collapsed. Many residents said they had no warning of the tornado. A few saw it as it first touched down but it passed by within a few seconds.

Mrs. Valdez, whose trailer was one of the first structures hit, said she heard nothing. The trailer suddenly lurched and was tossed over on its top. "The older kids were in the living room, and I could hear them screaming while I got the baby," she said. "I don't know how they got out, but they crawled out somehow." The family stayed Sunday night with Mrs. Valdez's sister. One resident who was surprised that his house was not damaged worse was Robert Barber whose house is on Florence Street directly across from Mrs. Villa's. The tornado broke off and twisted the trunks of large trees on either side of his house, damaged his car and hurled considerable debris around his yard. The damage to the house was several broken windows and shingles torn off. It appeared the twister passed directly over the house, and then wiped away Mrs. Villa's. Another family that had a close call was the Juan Cazaves, who live about 200 feet from where Miller's house collapsed. Cazaves was working under his truck, when his wife, Elodina, came running out to warn him after she saw the storm coming. They watched as the twister passed right behind their house before tearing down Miller's place. The wind moved another small pickup in the Cazaves' yard about 16 feet and overturned a truck bed. The only other damage was a couple of broken windows. As reports of the storm were broadcast, units of the Texas State Guard offered Saunders any help he needed. Col. Kenneth R. Dawson of Midland, commander of the guard's Fourth Military Police Group, said his Midland Company D had been out for training in cloud spotting for storm warnings all day. As soon as the reports came in, the unit headed for Stanton. They were joined by a few guardsmen from Company C in Big Spring but most of Company C was put on alert in Big Spring because the storm was expected to hit there after Stanton.

Spotted rain fell Sunday in the late afternoon and early Monday morning hours, varying as much as 4 of an inch within a two-mile area in some places. In Coahoma, for example, rain fell varied from 1.2 inches at one location to .8 of an inch at another. In Luther rain fell at one location at 1.2 inches and at another place at .5 of an inch. In and to the south of Ackerly, reports ranged from 1.1 to 1.5 inches, while north of Ackerly, only .6 to .7 of an inch was recorded. There was much talk of a tornado that supposedly touched down on the Howard-Martin line near Ackerly, but if it did touch down, then it was apparently in a field or uninhabited area. There was no damage reported. East of Big Spring, Sand Springs had 1.5 inches, but 10 miles west of Big Spring, the Wilkinson ranch soaked up only .25 of an inch of moisture. Eight miles southwest of Big Spring, .9 of an inch was measured. At Lake Spence near Robert Lee .6 of an inch of rain fell. One inch fell at the Lake Thomas Dam. Four miles northwest of the dam 2 inches fell. At the Colorado River Municipal Water District pump station north of Big Spring, .50 of an inch fell. The eastern section of Big Spring benefitting enormously from the downpours, the second of which started after 3 a.m. today. Measurements in that area of up to 1.65 inches were reported. The Experiment Farm's weather station reported .60 of an inch. Big Spring has officially received 2.72 inches of rain in 1979. Average rainfall by May 21, is 5.71. The first rain, which started around 7 p.m., Sunday, followed a dust storm out of the west which limited vision. Outside of a few signs that were blown down, little damage was reported, however.

'Port to Plains' road is pushed in Austin

By JIM DAVIS
Austin-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Governmental and business leaders from Abilene, Austin and Houston asked the Highway and Public Transportation Commission Monday to link their communities with a proposed new "Port to Plains" expressway. The route is a rival to one that put the new expressway through Big Spring and San Angelo. Abilene's delegation obviously was happy to hear that Gov. Bill Clements had appointed A. Sam Waldman of Abilene as commission chairman. The hearing was also the first official function of new commission member Ray Barnhart of Houston. Louie Welch, former Houston mayor and new head of the Houston Chamber of Commerce, referred to the home towns of Waldrop, Barnhart and DeWitt Greer of Austin in relation to the "Port to Plains" proposal.

"Don't lean over backwards to be fair," he urged. The hearing was requested by Bob Bailey, chairman of the Abilene Chamber of Commerce's Road and Transportation Committee, to push for designation of Lubbock to Abilene to Austin to Houston as a connector-route demonstration project. Such a project is proposed in 1978 Federal legislation, but there are several possible routes to connect the Texas plains with Interstate 10 near Houston. Bailey said the route supported Monday would give the Abilene area better access to the capitol. The influence of the entire project could extend throughout West Texas and into neighboring states. The project would involve turning existing highways into four lane express ways. Bailey stressed that while other routes would be shorter, the ones through Abilene and Austin would serve the most people.

K. H. MCGIBBON (LEFT) UNVEILS BUST OF DR. P. W. MALONE Honoree, founder of local hospital, looks on

Family greets surprise visitors

Malone's bust unveiled

A bronze bust of Dr. P. W. Malone, one of the founding fathers of the Malone-Hogan Hospital here, was unveiled during a ceremony at the hospital Sunday afternoon.

The bust complements one of the late Dr. John E. Hogan, both of which are now displayed in the lobby of the hospital.

On hand for the ritual were both Dr. and Mrs. Malone, along with Mrs. Hogan. Upwards of 250 persons dropped by to shake the hands of the Malones following the dedication of Chub McGibbon, a member of the hospital board.

Earlier, Mr. and Mrs. Malone and Mrs. Hogan were honor guests of the hospital at a Sunday luncheon at the Big Spring Country Club.

Dr. Malone Day had previously been proclaimed by Big Spring Mayor Wade Choate. Two surprise visitors in the Malone household were Wilson Malone, a brother to the doctor; and Joe Ward Malone, a nephew, both of Nashville, Tenn.

In acknowledging the honor paid him during the day, Dr. Malone said: "Thank you, Mr. (Norman) Knox and Mr. McGibbon, and all the employees who have made this such a wonderful day in my life.

"Really, this is the climax and highlight of almost 49 years practicing medicine in BS. I am so happy to see so many of my very dear and long time friends come to celebrate this occasion with me.

"I would like to pay a special tribute to my former partner, Dr. John Hogan, who was not only a great inspiration but a very hard worker in the founding of this great organization which is designed to render better health care to our friends.

"I would also like to pay a special tribute to my wife for putting up with me all these years, to my physician associates, the nurses and every employee down to the least and newest. Without all of their help and the great team work we have had through the years, none of which you see today could have been accomplished.

"You know the past almost as well as I do and you have the present before you. I look forward to many more useful years of service and to the completion of Dr. Hogan's and my dreams to make this an even greater medical center. We had planned and looked forward to the day when we could have at least 40 physicians specializing in the various disorders of the human body and the hospital building with at least 300 beds. Looking to the future, these two buildings (the hospital and clinic) were designed with that in mine.

"Again, many thanks for coming and sharing this most wonderful day in my life and my career."

Some parents not happy about it

Sweden outlaws spanking

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A new law that forbids parents from beating, spanking, cuffing or otherwise harming their children takes effect in Sweden in July, but some parents are not happy about it.

One father questioned said he thought spanking was good for children, and a spokesman for the small Maranata religious sect said frankly: "We will go underground if we have to but we will continue to exercise our natural rights."

Sweden will become the first nation with such a law, adopting it in the International Year of the Child. The law is a new step in a long process aimed at protecting children's rights here. A children's ombudsman and an emergency phone watch for youngsters already exist.

When the minority Liberal government introduced the bill to ban parents from spanking last March, Justice Minister Sven Romanus said it means "our society has taken an increasingly negative view of beating or spanking as a means of bringing up children."

There has been no organized opposition to the law but reactions from jurists, lawmakers, and parents have been mixed. Said one annoyed father of three:

"Spanking and spanking ... there's a difference between deliberate spanking and what I would call an outburst of temper. I never spanked my kids in cold blood, only on the spur of the moment. I am sure it does not hurt them but help them."

Most critical of the law were spokesmen for the Maranata sect, a group of about 300 persons who split from the Pentecostal Church in the 1960s. It sees physical chastisement by parents as a natural means of correction and an "ethical, moral and religious right."

The sect operates its own "pilgrim" schools in protest against the public school system, and Hans Brynte, principal of one Maranata school, said:

"If the authorities try to stop us we will go underground and fight on. They are suddenly outlawing an old cultural tradition and parents are declared idiots incapable of rearing their children. People in other countries will laugh at this and a whole generation will be criminalized because some sociologists shall have their way."

When the new law was debated in Parliament, Conservative Tore Nilsson protested it. Quoting the Bible, ancient Icelandic life rules of the book Havamal and a centuries-old Swedish law document, he said, "The law against spanking conflicts with our cultural tradition, with parents rights and personal integrity and with Western humanism."

Justice Minister Romanus took a different view. "This development reflects the new dominant view that the child is an independent individual who can demand full respect for his person, integrity and own value," he said.

The new law prohibits "any act which, for the purpose of punishing, causes the child physical injury or pain, even if the disturbance is mild and passing." It is meant to include psychological punishment, but legal experts have criticized the wording on this as too vague.

Many child psychiatrists, psychologists, sociologists and doctors have welcomed the new law as necessary to protect children.

"This law is long overdue because so-called spanking has in effect been a legalized, milder form of assault and battery or could lead to worse abuse," said

Gunnel Linde who belongs to a children's rights organization and has written a book on child beating.

And one welfare officer said: "In my work, I often become amazed at how little parents know about their children. They don't have to be bad to beat them, just ignorant, teaching the kids only the most primitive and ineffective way to solve conflicts — through violence against someone weaker."

Grade school children aged 8-10 polled at a recreational center were definitely against being spanked — not surprisingly — though they found it natural to occasionally beat a brother or sister themselves.

Peter, 10, noted, "My sister is always riling me. Then I hit her but that's OK because we are evenly matched. If my dad would hit me, or mom, it would not be fair but I would hit back too ..."

"Hitting is no good," he continued. "But some parents think they cannot bring up kids without spanking them. There the only thing is to run away for awhile so they become anxious and regret it."

Legal medical officer Sven-Olof Lidholm took a stern view of parents who beat their children.

Criticizing authorities for laxness in caring for maltreated youngsters, he said he receives more than 600 reports of child beatings annually, about 10 of them fatal. And he believes there are perhaps some 5,000 other children who are beaten regularly without it being reported.

The new ban does not carry any specific punishment. However, ordinary criminal law allows sentences of up to 10 years for serious cases and up to two years in milder ones.

Protecting children from bodily harm has been a long process in Sweden. Flogging in schools was partially banned in 1918, but as late as 1958 teachers in lower grade schools were still allowed to use some physical punishment on students.

Court refuses to hear plea of Texas killer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to hear the appeal of a Texas man convicted of murdering his former sister-in-law.

The justices left intact the 1976 conviction of Alton Von Byrd, sentenced to die for the June 6, 1976, shooting death of Linda Carol Price outside San Augustine, Texas.

Prosecutors said Von Byrd abducted Ms. Price from her San Augustine home, forced her to have sex with him and then drove her to a secluded wooded area where he shot her through the head.

Von Byrd's Supreme Court appeal raised three legal arguments:

Carter says he'll take second look

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acknowledging that black voters put him in the White House, President Carter says he'll take a second look at controversial plans to cut back on summer jobs for poor youths in 1980.

Addressing a predominantly black audience Sunday at Cheyney, Pa., Carter said flatly, "You and other black Americans are the reason that I am president."

Although his talk, a commencement address at once all-black Cheyney State College, focused on an appeal that blacks exercise their voting rights, he also touched on the job program.

A number of vocal and influential blacks were dismayed in January when the president sent Congress a budget calling for a $200 million cutback in the summer jobs program in 1980. This would be done by making 14-year-olds ineligible for participation.

"We will take another look at our summer jobs program, which has been seriously troubled," Carter told his Pennsylvania audience. "The level of jobs in the future will depend on the effectiveness of the program."

—That he was denied due process of the law when his trial's presiding judge refused to move the trial from San Augustine.

—That a written confession he signed should not have been used as evidence against him because he was not properly informed of his rights before signing it.

—That the trial judge was wrong when he refused a request to have Von Byrd examined by a defense-appointed psychiatrist after he had undergone a psychiatric exam by a court-appointed psychiatrist.

The arguments were rejected last July by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Guerillas battle troops Eight guardsmen killed

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Guerrillas killed eight national guardsmen in Leon and battled troops block by block in Jinotega as Mexico broke relations with the government of President Anastasio Somoza, accusing it of "horrendous genocide."

There was no immediate comment on the break in relations, which took Nicaraguan government officials by surprise.

Hundreds have been killed in almost daily battles since an uprising by Sandinista guerrillas was crushed by Somoza's national guard in September, and Saturday eight guardsmen were ambushed and killed by guerrillas in Leon, 60 miles north of Managua.

Houston con- murdered in Atlanta pen

ATLANTA (AP) — Killers using home-made weapons struck again at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary Sunday — killing a Texas man in a restroom near the prison athletic field, officials said.

John Marzloff, 36, of Houston, who was serving a 10-year sentence for bank robbery, died in the latest of "12 murders at the prison since Nov. 1976," said FBI agent Ed Pistey.

"The apparent cause of death was multiple stab wounds to the upper body," Pistey said. "We've recovered two weapons, apparently the murder weapons. One was still lodged in him."

The other was found nearby, Pistey said.

"The vast majority (of the 12 killings) have been done with homemade weapons," Pistey said.

Marzloff's body was found in a building near the athletic field. It is used for storage, but also contains restrooms and shower facilities, he said.

"We feel he was probably murdered pretty close to 1 o'clock," Pistey said.

There is no motive known in the latest slaying, Pistey said.

Federal prison officials have said they want to close the prison and have set 1985 as a "target date" for a shutdown.

Forty miles further north, more than 300 guerrillas took over Jinotega on Saturday night and by Sunday the national guard was attempting to retake the town block by block, refugees reported.

One witness who asked not to be identified said he could not say if there were dead or wounded, "but one thing is certain: there is fighting in all parts of the city." He said food has become scarce.

The highways leading to Jinotega were blocked by Somoza's troops, telephone lines were broken and no one has been permitted to enter or leave the city.

Mexico's break in diplomatic relations with Somoza's regime was announced by President Jose Lopez Portillo at a luncheon in Cancun, Mexico, honoring visiting Costa Rican President Rodrigo Carazo.

Lopez Portillo said he felt duty-bound to speak out after hearing Carazo's description of events in Nicaragua "and the gravity of the situation."

"It was something that we knew about and we didn't want to believe — that in Nicaragua a hateful attack is being carried out against the Nicaraguan people, a horrendous genocide," Lopez Portillo said.

At a news conference later, Lopez Portillo called on others to follow Mexico's lead in breaking with the Somoza government.

"How we would like that other Latin American nations ratify this decision. And from here, from this forum, I am asking them to do it."

An immediate problem caused by the rupture was the fate of 38 persons who have received asylum at the Mexican Embassy. The group includes 13 men, 13 women and 12 children. Many fled to the embassy fearing persecution from Nicaraguan authorities.

Opposition leader Rafael Cordova Rivas, freed from a Somoza jail last week, hailed Mexico's break in relations as a positive sign and said he hoped other governments would follow suit.

Rivas, one of three negotiators trying to mediate a solution to the Nicaraguan crisis peacefully last January, was arrested May 1 by authorities who accused him of subversive activities.

Auto insurance penalties may be outlawed in Texas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Auto insurance penalties for traffic convictions would be outlawed under a bill passed by the Texas House.

The bill went through with minimal discussion Friday on a calendar of local and uncontested bills.

Representatives were informed by their calendar that the potentially controversial bill was simply one "relating to premium rating plans."

Speaker Bill Clayton had referred the bill to the House Transportation Committee when it first was introduced instead of to the House Insurance Committee, where it normally would go.

"I don't know why we put it in transportation. ... Nobody fussed about it," Clayton said.

He said the bill had not slipped through unnoticed because there was a question or two on the floor when it came up.

As for the bill, he said, "I like it."

Clayton has backed legislation in previous sessions that would have eliminated premium surcharges for speeding convictions where the speed was between 55 miles per hour and 70 mph.

Former Gov. Dolph

Briscoe vetoed such a bill in 1977.

Premium surcharges amount to 15 percent for the second speeding ticket in a year or the third within 36 months. Once a driver receives a surcharge, it is added to the price of his car insurance policy for three consecutive years.

Surcharges also are imposed for driving with a suspended license, driving while intoxicated, hit-and-run accidents, negligent collision or any moving violation that results in cancellation or suspension of a driver's license.

The State Insurance Board says the surcharges add 1.5 percent a year — about $15 million — to insurance companies' total premium revenue from Texas.

The bill abolishing surcharges next goes to the Senate, where its likelihood of passage could be harmed by the inability of that chamber to do business because of the absence of "Killer Bee" senators.

Jerry Johns, president of the Southwestern Insurance Information Service, said the effect of the bill would be to raise premiums for good drivers while reducing them for bad drivers.

"If you can't penalize a consistently bad driver, who is going to pay for that? The person who is a good driver. Somebody has got to take up that slack," Johns said.

He claimed 80 percent of the drivers would "subsidize" the 20 percent who he said were "bad drivers."

ARTIST BEA SWAILS
With samples of work

Evidence of her hobby fills house of artist

"I loved painting better than anything I've ever done," Bea Swails said, referring to an oil painting hanging on the wall of her shop. "I stopped a doctor's bookkeeper and secretary to paint. That was in 1974. Soon I became fascinated with butterflies and now I wouldn't change that for anything."

"It all started," she continued, "when my daughter saw a 'not so great' West Texas tiger swallowtail butterfly and exclaimed, 'Oh, if I could only have that for Christmas.'"

Bea Swails and her husband made butterfly nests, caught butterflies, put them in glass eggs and later into glass cubes. The daughter-in-law and many others had "butterflies for Christmas." Their interest and business grew. They began shipping exotic butterflies from overseas farms.

Once a child paid Bea a compliment by asking, "Do you feed them?"

The daughter-in-law and son, Gwen and Jimmy Swails, now have their own business in Midland and it is called Swails Originals. They'd want some of their distinctive wall pieces.

Bea's husband, in spite of ill health, had always enthusiastically backed her. His death last April came as a heavy blow to the family. Bea finds it hard to go on, but she has courage. Recently, she managed to say:

"I'm grateful that God let him live until our four children were raised."

One can see her exhibit at the local Arts and Crafts Show in June at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Dog statue hero to kids

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Standing in front of an old three-story house here is a 4-foot-tall, 340-pound iron statue of a Labrador.

It has been there for three-quarters of a century, having weathered attacks from vandals and pranksters.

It is believed the statue was erected after the dog had performed some heroic deed. It is also believed the dog's name was Rover.

Mrs. Robert Carrel, whose family bought the house in 1970, says the dog is a hero to children now growing up in the neighborhood. And tour buses slow down and sometimes stop for a better look at the dog.

"If we sold our house and moved, we could never take the dog," she says. "It would be a terrible thing to do."

Thunderstorms spark flash flood alerts

By the Associated Press

Thunderstorms, many of them severe, lashed various parts of Texas this morning, triggering flash flood warnings in the Panhandle and Southwest Texas, already soaked by heavy rains Sunday afternoon and evening.

The Department of Public Safety in Del Rio reported two vehicles swept off Texas 163 about 16 miles north of Comstock in Val Verde County. There were unconfirmed reports of drownings, the DPS said.

The highway was closed because of flooding where it intersected the Devil's River in that area, about 45 miles north of EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy with scattered showers and thunderstorms mainly east and northern sections through Friday. Warm afternoons and mild nights. Highs in 80s north to 90s south, but near 100 in the Big Bend park. Lows in 50s north to 60s south.

FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Flash flood watch southeastern Panhandle and east central portions. Considerable cloudiness north partly cloudy south. Scattered thunderstorms and showers central and east. A few severe extreme east this afternoon and east tonight. Locally heavy rains east sections. Partial clearing tonight with showers and thunderstorms ending from the west. Clear to partly cloudy Tuesday warmer most sections. Highs 80s north to 92 south. Lows 40s north to 60 south. Highs Tuesday 70s north to 95 extreme south.

Del Rio, the state highway department reported. Ranch Road 189 also was closed 60 miles north of Del Rio because of flooding along the river.

Rain was expected to continue throughout today across much of Texas.

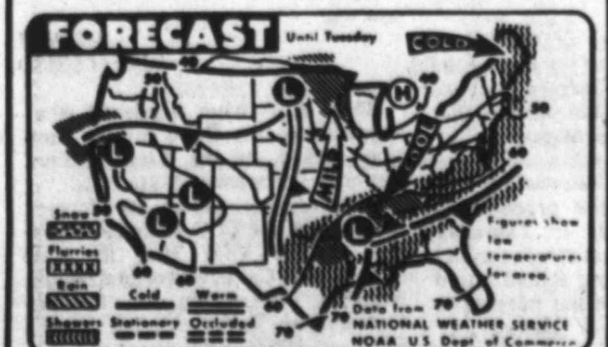

"As an upper-level storm moves across West Texas, thunderstorms are expected to intensify, with a few storms likely severe," the National Weather Service at Fort Worth said today.

"Thunderstorm activity will be widespread across most of the state today, though the most intense storms are expected to occur to the north of a Junction-Lufkin line."

Living on the lip of volcano

Forgive a lot of people for thinking that they are living in the Twilight of the Gods, that so many things which they have taken for granted for so long are about to be taken from them.

For some time now, some of us have decided we are homesteading on the lip of a volcano, that just down the road there will come a time when we can't heat our homes in the winter time, can't cool them when the hot weather gets here, can't always keep our food for future consumption and can't drive our cars even on necessary missions.

GASOLINE HAS suddenly become one of the most precious commodities, and we're using it at an alarming rate. Some of us are driving more than ever before, as if we were planning junkets in order to take our minds off the problem.

Critics of the oil industry say that expenses haven't gone up all that much, that the major producers keep upping the price even after reporting record profits. In short, they greeted the good news by allocating less and less gas to their various distributors, intent on charging more and more for the product.

The gasoline crunch is stumping some of the best minds in America. You talk to some of the people in California, where the earliest forms of rationing were started, and they'll angrily tell you that the oil barons purposely created a shortage in order to drive up the prices.

The president is taking a lot of heat. The anvil chorus which has gone to work on him likes to say he instituted no plan to head off a shortage, yet now is pleading with Congress for emergency powers to ration the fuel.

No one in Congress seems to agree on what to do to ease the shortage, yet everyone agrees that something should be done. The shortage may even now be reaching crisis proportions. If that is the case, Congress has waited too long to act.

The average American is running scared. There's no doubt about that. Yet he absolutely refuses to do what he can to solve the problem. He's driving more than ever before. He refuses to give up his luxury vehicles. He wants all members of his family to have the wheels to travel when they feel like it. The perfect rationing plan, to him, would be to restrict everyone's purchase of gasoline but himself.

People in other parts of the world have been on an austerity program for years, mainly because their fuel prices have always been higher than ours.

To the Americans' credit, they've been told so many things about the fuel crisis, or lack of it, they don't know what to believe. Consequently, they get in their vehicles and drive around aimlessly, worrying about it.

The problem obviously calls for a meeting of the minds and demands that each of us sacrifice a little in our life style. The point is, are we willing to do it until the time comes when we are forced to?

Not easy

Around the rim

Carla Walker

With news stories, and with most features, it is fairly easy to report objectively. However, being objective on the series I just finished about the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center wasn't easy.

In fact, it was very difficult to be objective.

Difficult — to watch two-year-old Russell Rawlings struggle so hard to pick up a small object, then watch him flash a big smile and say "Russell dood it!" — and still be objective.

Difficult — to see easy-going, lovable Lucas Robles needing the play-therapy to improve the use of his legs and hands — and yet remain objective.

OR TO SEE Christi Clifford work so hard at her therapy, and then see Michael Bissent pulling himself on crutches at the young age of three — and be objective.

It wasn't easy to see Ginger Atkinson, improving, yet not satisfied, ready to try harder after five years at a struggle many adults would have given up long ago — and still be objective.

Or to see Micah Epley struggle to make his speech understandable — and still be objective.

Difficult — not to think it is unfair for the kids, then realize that neither they nor their parents think about the problem, but how to overcome it — and be objective.

It was hard to see the sparkle in the kids' eyes and the courage in their hearts and not lose my own heart to them.

And, tough to watch Jo Ann Potter battle a crippling disease that struck in the prime of her life but hasn't defeated her — and remain objective.

Difficult — to watch Catherine Dodson battle Parkinson's and L.B. Thomas and Imogene Fryar pick up the pieces after a stroke — and remain objective.

Or — to watch Tommy Biggs learn to talk again at 82 after cancer took his voice — and be objective.

TO WATCH Tom Farquhar and Scott Davis work to recover from accidental injury, yet still talk more about the other patients at the Rehab than about themselves — and keep journalistic objectivity.

It was hard to watch the Rehab staff put in hours and hours of dedicated work and love while crediting success to the efforts of the patient — and remain objective.

Difficult — to see that work bring results — and not cheer.

As a reporter, I tried to be objective; I don't know how successful I was, but since the series is done, I have lost any objectivity I might once have had.

I lost my heart and more to the people who work there and those who need the services provided at the D.R.R.C. I was awed by the human drama that is enacted there each hour the Center doors are open.

Those doors were first opened 14 years ago, thanks to the concerned efforts of a large portion of the Big Spring community who donated money, time and labor to build the first small facility on Owens street. Director and for a time, only staff member Jim Thompson began to work with the handicapped from the Big Spring area.

Two locations, two directors and 14 years of growth later, the center still operates largely by donations from the community.

I've never been good at making pleas for money, and have myself been wary of those who were. I've also followed a philosophy of giving money only when I can see what results come of the gift.

I saw one little girl whom doctors once said could not be helped, walk through the doors of the D.R.R.C. And, anyone else who doesn't believe it can see Ginger Atkinson and many others — every week at the Rehabilitation Center.

Those results deserve support from the entire community.

Yes, I lost my objectivity; but the insight I gained into the courageous spirit of the workers and the patients was worth far more than anything I lost.

Lives saved

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — The assassination of Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., who was gunned down by the Rev. Jim Jones's religious fanatics at a jungle airstrip in Guyana last year, might reasonably have been a lesson to State Department personnel responsible for the safeguarding of world-traveling Members of Congress.

But Foggy Bottom's bureaucrats were slow to learn the lesson. Several congressmen almost met the same fate as Ryan's last December in the steamy, Guyana-like jungles of Burma. Mere chance, say our sources, prevented their massacre at the hands of cold-blooded killers every bit as dangerous as the lunatic members of Jones's People's Temple.

IT SHOULD BE remembered that Ryan's death — and the 900 murders-suicides that followed it at the cult's Jonestown commune hours later — was sparked by a congressional investigation of the People's Temple. The congressmen's concern for his former San Francisco area constituents and the families they had left behind led him to make the investigative journey to Guyana that resulted in his murder.

Although State Department representatives in Guyana did warn Ryan and his party that there were risks involved in his trip to Jonestown, precious little was done to ensure his safety once he insisted on proceeding despite the warnings.

Months later, when the lesson of Jonestown should have been digested by State Department security experts, several members of the House Select Committee on Narcotics left on a trip to the so-called Golden Triangle of Southeast Asia — the area of Burma, Thailand, Laos and Vietnam that is the center of opium and heroin traffic in that part of the world.

This was no junket. The congressmen were going to a dangerous, uncomfortable corner of the globe to investigate the traffic in hard drugs, much of which winds up in the United States. They wanted to find out more about the men who control the world's richest narcotics market.

In an earlier column, we identified from intelligence documents the international kingpin of dope peddling — a Burmese mercenary leader named Chang Chang Chi-fu.

Chang's fellow narcotics traffickers had been exposed by the Narcotics Committee, and the revelations had threatened to interfere with their billion-dollar dope operations. As ruthless as they are wealthy, the heroin merchants decided to eliminate congressional pressure on the local governments to crack down on their lucrative trade.

The method was to be simple and direct, sources informed our associates Jack Mitchell and Dale Van Atta: A small army of mercenaries was prepared to kill the congressional visitors in Burma.

THE HOUSE DELEGATION, which included Reps. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., Stephen Neal, D-N.C., Henry Hyde, R-Ill., and Robert Dornan, R-Calif., was to be gunned down as they were flying by helicopter over the Burmese jungles. Any survivors were to be dispatched by heavily armed ground troops from the dope merchants' army of mercenary bandits.

According to confidential sources, only a lucky, last-minute change in the schedule saved the congressmen's lives. They left Burma without knowing that it had almost become their last resting place. Months later they learned about the well-laid plot against their lives.

Footnote: A State Department spokesman told us he could not prepare a statement by the time we went to press.

Last stand?

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — On the eve of an historic Senate debate, President Carter's SALT II treaty has been jolted from an unexpected source: proposed testimony by CIA Director Stansfield Turner making clear that Russia can indeed cheat on the treaty.

That was not at all that the president had in mind when he ordered Adm. Turner to prepare testimony bringing the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) into line on the new strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT). He wanted Turner to back Carter's own statement that the treaty "will be verifiable from the first day it is signed."

Turner's voluminous brief, still secret, has stunned the White House by sharply disagreeing with the president. Examining various "cheating scenarios" that the Kremlin is likely to attempt, Turner points out one way after another Moscow could violate provisions of the treaty. "The way Turner makes his case," one of the few officials who have seen his brief told us, "it looks like the treaty can't really be enforced at all."

That suggests a Washington backstage drama rich in its ironies and nuances. No CIA director has been more criticized outside the agency or more unpopular in it than Stan Turner. His old dreams of becoming chief of naval operations or even chairman of the joint chiefs of staff are shattered. He has kept his job because of loyal support from Jimmy Carter, his old classmate at Annapolis.

It was naturally taken as a matter of course in this town that Turner would play Carter's SALT tune without a single errand note. If instead he pursues his present course, in the face of possible pressure from the president, it will be a remarkable valedictory for a career officer whose career has reached dead end.

The first sign of Turner's inclination came when his secret April 10 testimony to the Senate intelligence Committee was leaked a week later. Presidential aides were mortified by Turner's statement that full recovery of U.S. ability to monitor Soviet missile telemetry could take up to four years after the loss of the Iranian stations.

The reaction by Carter aides was apologetic, not because they viewed Turner as a rebel in their midst but because they considered him too dumb to know any better. Secretary of Defense Harold Brown hurriedly issued a public statement that Soviet compliance could be verified "adequately" in about a year. Carter aides peddled it hard to the television networks to wipe out the aftertaste of the Turner leak.

The president then ordered Turner to prepare his brief for the Senate, assuming he would make amends for his leaked April 10 indiscretion. What the Central Intelligence director has prepared will, if ever actually read by senators, be a grievous blow to Carter's hopes of ratifying an unamended SALT II.

The brief is an elaborate series of charts and graphs matching each provision of the treaty with the following: the "monitoring task" of the CIA; the "monitoring system" available; the "confidence" the U.S. could place in forcing Soviet compliance.

Some of these violation attempts could be quickly discovered and stopped; some might be discovered; still others could prove irresistible to the Soviets, even though they would run the risk of discovery, on grounds that the gain from cheating would outweigh the loss of being found out.

Whole milk not desired

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My daughter-in-law could not breast-feed her baby, so she put it on low-fat milk. I told her this is not good and that the baby needs whole milk. She did not consult her doctor on this. Will the baby be affected? The baby is very thin and has no appetite. — Mother-in-Law.

Grandmother's intuition is right. But read on.

In order of preference in infant feeding, I would list mother's milk first, fortified formulas second, and whole milk a poor third. Skim milk doesn't even make the list. Your daughter-in-law has probably fallen into the old "cut-the-cholesterol" trap: she hopes to spare her baby future arterial problems and obesity. The goal is praiseworthy but the method is horrible and dangerous.

Formulas are her answer. It is probably best to avoid any cow's milk in the infant's diet. The current thinking is that cow's milk has too much nutrient volume — calories, protein, sodium, etc. The infant is a delicate little wonder and can easily get into trouble. Its tiny system can't cope with an excess load, which can result in dehydration (loss of too much body fluid) and even infant obesity.

This is especially true through the first three months. Full development of the newborn's kidneys may take a full year.

If it must be cow's milk, it shouldn't be the skimmed type because that may create a deficiency in essential fatty acids.

While on this subject I'd like to return to a matter I discussed recently — solid foods. Ideally, these should not be given for the first six months and sparingly, if at all, in the second six months. There is no advantage in it and for the same reasons I cited above in talking about whole milk. The kidneys develop slowly in the early months and may not be ready for a heavy concentrated load of nutrients.

Your daughter-in-law should certainly check with her doctor about this infant's diet, and probably look to a good formula as an alternative. It's enough that adults get themselves in a tizzy about fancy-sounding words like "cholesterol." No need to transfer these anxieties to the helpless infant.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am engaged to be married soon and I want to get on the Pill. To obtain it, should I see my regular doctor or a gynecologist? Also, I have had allergies all my life, for which I receive weekly shots. Will I be able to take the pills? I don't want a child for a few years. — P.B.

Any medical doctor can prescribe the Pill for you. Most are being a bit more cautious about it these days, however. Get the required premarital examination and educate yourself about use of this form of birth control, its side effects, and whether it is the best one for you. The allergy shots should not interfere with your using the Pill. Your family doctor would probably be more familiar with your history and anything in your background that might make the Pill unwise for you to use.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My grandson recently returned home crying and explained his "dinky" was caught in his pants zipper. Well, after 10 minutes his grandfather finally separated the zipper from the skin. Is this fairly common among young boys who don't wear underpants? — J.R.

Many a young man had reason to rue the day the zipper was born. So have many parents and grandparents. The familiar tear-filled exclamation of the "unzipping" is repeated many times in hospital emergency rooms each year. It makes sense to encourage the wearing of underpants for young tots — avoiding this trauma among other things. On a more serious note, I would advise professional attention for this painful, frightening and possibly harmful situation, even though grandpa came through for him this time.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I understand there is a sheet listing all of the medical problems covered in booklet form. Is this list available? — How? — W.M.

The publishers have a list of my booklets, and it is now available by writing to me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Have you ever heard of a foot fungus condition treated by a pill taken by mouth? — H.F.

Yes. Griseofulvin, which is an antifungal medicine can be taken in pill form.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is it possible to catch emphysema from one's husband or from cats? — Mrs. B.B.S.

Emphysema is not contagious. Some common environmental or pollution problems may be affecting both of you.

Birth control is a highly relevant topic in today's society. Find out what you should know about it in an easy to read booklet, "The Twelve Birth Control Methods." For a copy write to Dr. Ruble in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I notice you have gone to several Communist countries in the last few years. What has been the reaction in these countries to your preaching? — S.G.

DEAR S.G.: My visits to Hungary in 1977 and Poland in 1978 were among the most memorable of my life. A few years ago we would not have thought such visits possible. But the world is changing, and we are thankful for the opportunities we have had.

The response to the Gospel in these countries was as great as any place I ever visited. Wherever I preached (usually in churches) the audiences were overflowing, and eagerly listened to the message of the Gospel of Christ. Sometimes people stood for hours before the meetings began. I was especially impressed with the number of young people who came. Everywhere we went, many indicated a desire to follow Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord.

No matter where I have gone in the world I have found that people are basically the same. Yes, there are differences between people in their social and political backgrounds. But every person wants happiness and inside peace. Every person wonders about the meaning of life. Every person wants to know if there is any hope for life after death. Materialism — whether it is the materialism of the Marxist of the materialism of modern America — cannot fulfill these deep desires of the human heart. Only Christ can, and He will when we turn to Him in repentance and faith.

We also live in a dangerously divided world. For the first time in human history we have the staggering capacity to destroy entire civilizations at the touch of a nuclear button. I know the issues are not easy, but I hope in some small way that my visits to countries with different ideologies than our own will bring some measure of understanding and peace. Most of all, I know that Christ is the Prince of Peace as He rules in our hearts. This is the Gospel, and we count it a privilege to preach Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior throughout the world.

Dear Editor:

As a new member of the School Board, I'm still getting my feet on the ground, but I have learned that we have a lot of interested parents that come to our Board meetings.

I hope the City Commission will consider carefully the proposal to move their meetings to Thursday evening. This will be in direct conflict with our long standing school board meeting time. I urge the parents to express their opinion.

We don't need a conflicting meeting as important as the City Commission on the same night the public conducts their school business. I hope the Commission will act prudently and consider the possible adverse effect this action could have on the school system.

FIRST KID RUNS COURSE — Amy Carter, daughter of President and Mrs. Carter takes part in an obstacle course race Saturday at the home of Mrs. Robert Kennedy in nearby McLean, Va. The event is part of an annual affair called the "Hickory Hill Pet Show", put on by Mrs. Kennedy benefitting the Runaway House, a program for runaway kids in the Washington area.

Forum holds final meet

The Modern Woman's Forum held their final meeting until September Friday at the Kentwood Older Adult Activity Center. A salad luncheon was hosted by Mrs. Allen Hull and Mrs. A. C. Bass. Mrs. Bert Affleck voiced the invocation.

Mrs. S.R. Nobles gave the program on the International Year of the Child, designated by the United Nations as 1979. The U.N. issued a call to all nations to give renewed focus to their own children's needs. It is also a time to celebrate the contributions, joys and riches which children bring to our lives.

Each participating country will concentrate on its own children and promote those projects and events that will produce major, lasting benefits within its nation. Each will examine its own needs and seek its own solutions.

President Carter established a national commission in the United States to hear the views of citizens on the needs of U.S. children. This commission will stimulate a dialogue at the community, regional, state and federal levels, encourage citizens groups and officials to examine the problems of children in their localities and work actively to resolve the problems.

Estefavia Lim, U.N. Special Representative for I.Y.C. reports that the physical needs of children are the greatest in developing countries.

In developed countries where children's physical needs are substantially met, the I.Y.C. tends to focus on emotional development.

Mrs. Lim concludes: "Children are the most fragile, defenseless, innocent and wretched victims of our collective neglect and indifference. Their survival in conditions of physical or emotional deprivations is no less than a miracle, a testimony to the strength of human endurance and resilience. In a world where so much energy and money is spent on human destruction, I.Y.C. is an occasion to rededicate ourselves to the highest human values, the love and compassion without which our children will not survive."

General Federation of Women's Clubs has a long history of involvement in programs relating to the needs of children locally and around the world.

Mrs. C.R. Moad coordinated a "Fashion for Fun" presentation of old and new fashions.

Fashions change season after season, but good style remains constant and the most flattering silhouettes of the past can be counted on to return, in newer versions, every few decades.

Mrs. Woody Smith provided the musical background for the style show as Mrs. Nobles and Mrs. Affleck modeled fashions of today and 1949.

Homemakers hear reports on council

The Airport Extension Homemakers Club met May 15 in the home of Mrs. Fred Jones, 810 Andrea.

Mrs. Jo Ann Marshall, attended.

The club president read a letter from the Police Department thanking the organization for donations toward the narcotics sniffing dog.

Council reports were presented by Mrs. Vern Vigar on the personal color chart.

Mrs. Montz Bunn won the door prize.

The next meeting will be June 26 at 11 a.m. in the park for a picnic lunch.

Post auxiliary elect officers

Morrow, chaplain; Margarito Duran, sergeant-at-arms; J.H. Taylor, officer-of-the-day; Dwight McCann, Sam L. Lewis and Geroge Kunkle, trustees.

The next regular meeting of the VFW Post and Auxiliary will be June 5 at 7:30 p.m.

Rights report presented

The Big Spring Credit Women met for their regular meeting at noon May 17 at Altertos. Thirteen were present.

A report was given on the three winners of the "Rights and Responsibilities of Credit" contest with checks being presented to first place winner Gale Pittman; second place winner John Willis; and third place winner, Tony Rubio.

Eddie Garcia received honorable mention.

It was voted on to meet in the homes of members through the months of June, July and August.

Chaplain Mary Lynn Welch adjourned the meeting.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Is 13 too young?

By Robert Wallace; Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 13 and my mom refuses to allow me to go on dates. She says I'm too young but I think she just cares about me too much.

Lots of kids tell me to go out secretly, but I'm afraid to. I guess my parents don't remember when they were teen-agers and had a desire to date. Do you think I'm old enough?

Please tell me what to do.

— Kay, Ogdenburg, N.J.

Kay: Age is important but so are trust and maturity when it comes to dating. It's difficult to tell you the moment you are old enough to date, but here are a few guidelines that I feel could be followed:

— First date, school or church function only, 14.

— First non-school or church date, 15.

— First car date, high school junior.

— First time going steady, high school senior.

P.S. Be happy your mother cares even if you think it's too much.

Put Safety First, And You Will Last

DEAR READERS: No problems today. Instead, I am devoting my entire column to tips that could save your life. Let's pretend you're a contestant on "Hollywood Squares," and you are asked the following question:

"More people are killed every year by (a) tornadoes, (b) cyclones, (c) lightning."

If you said, "(c) lightning," you would be right.

Michael Mogil of the National Weather Service says that most deaths caused by lightning could have been avoided if only common sense had been used. But common sense is not as common as most people think it is.

Lightning occurs during thunderstorms, so the logical time to start protecting yourself is when you see the storm clouds gathering.

As a general rule, avoid high places, metal and water! If you are outdoors, seek shelter in a house or other large building. (Steer clear of sheds or small buildings in isolated areas.)

If you are on the golf course, and can't reach a building, first drop your golf club, then head for your car — assuming the car is not a convertible, it will act as a "cage" to protect you. (The metal picks up the lightning, conducts it around you and into the ground.) Stay in the car. Keep windows and doors (and sun roof) shut.

Never stand under a tall tree. If lightning strikes the tree, electricity can run down the trunk, through the roots, into the ground and into your body.

If you are riding a motorcycle, bicycle or tractor — get off. The rubber tires will NOT protect you.

If you are caught in a flat, open field, bend down and put your hands on your knees. Do not LIE down on the ground. Maintain MINIMUM contact with the ground.

If you are inside, close windows and doors. Lightning can strike through an open window.

Don't take a bath during a thunderstorm. If electricity strikes the plumbing system, it can be conducted into the tub.

Don't use the telephone unless it is absolutely necessary. Electricity can travel through the telephone wires.

If you are jogging, stop and get out of the wide-open spaces or you can run into trouble. You are far safer indoors as long as the doors and windows are closed. Most deaths and injuries from lightning occur outdoors; almost half of all people killed by lightning are engaged in outdoor recreation.

Don't rely on rubber-soled shoes to protect you. Lightning can carry a jolt of up to 100 million volts. Rubber soles are insignificant as an insulator.

It's also not true that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. The conditions that attract the lightning bolt in the first place can attract it again.

Have a safe summer.

Love ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman, expecting my first child in three months.

Last month my husband's grandfather died. He was loved and respected by all who knew him. The entire family felt a tremendous loss.

My husband's family has let me know that our child is to be named after Grandpa Albert. If the baby is a girl, she will be named Alberta. I am told.

I, too, loved Grandpa Albert, but I hate that name. If offered a compromise, saying I will use Albert or Alberta for the child's middle name, but not for the first name.

My husband and his family insist that it has to be Albert or Alberta.

Can you help me?

EXPECTING

DEAR EXPECTING: It appears to be you against your husband and his family. I think they are unfair to demand that you give your child a name that you dislike. Your compromise seems fair enough to me. Stick to your guns. If you lose, your child will bear the name of one of the world's most brilliant scientists.

Here's a tasty way to conserve energy . . .

Digest

LULACs rap Hobby

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Ruben Bonilla, the outgoing state director of the League of United Latin American Citizens, fired a parting salvo at Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton at the Hispanic organization's state convention here. Delegates elected Raul Vasquez of Austin Sunday to succeed Bonilla. Vasquez defeated Ray Ramirez of San Antonio who had the backing of Bonilla. Noemi Villarreal of Austin was selected as the deputy state director. A resolution that accused Hobby and Clayton of "political hypocrisy" in supporting a separate presidential primary bill passed without dissent.

Violence at Red Lake

RED LAKE, Minn. (AP) — Federal officials have agreed to replace the Bureau of Indian Affairs superintendent on the embattled Red Lake Indian Reservation after a day and night of shooting that left two youths dead and the small community of Red Lake in ruins. An agreement was reached late Sunday between federal authorities and leaders of a group of dissident Indians to remove Roger Jourdain as president of the Red Lake Tribal Council and Celestine Maus as Bureau of Indian Affairs superintendent on the reservation in northern Minnesota where some 3,000 Chippewa Indians live.

Iran backpedals

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's revolutionary government, stung by Sen. Jacob Javits' resolution criticizing more than 200 firing squad executions in three months, told the United States to delay sending its new ambassador, then tried to soften the blow today. Nonetheless, Javits was assigned a 24-hour police guard at his Manhattan apartment building because of threats against him and his wife by the Iranian government, New York police said. The official Pars news agency said Sunday that the Javits' resolution represented "clear interference" in Iranian affairs, and that "continuation of such hostile acts of U.S. officials would make the Iranian government... revise its relations with the United States and limit them. The Iranian Foreign Ministry has asked the new U.S. Ambassador (Walter L.) Cutler to postpone his trip to Iran until such time as the political atmosphere between Iran and the United States is cleared."

Oil company execs claim:

Gas situation 'bad'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil company executives gave a generally pessimistic assessment today of the nation's fuel supplies and said Americans must adjust to driving less, driving slower and paying more for gasoline.

Executives of five major oil companies appeared before a Senate Energy subcommittee to face questioning on whether there really is an oil shortage and, if so, what they are doing about it.

James H. DeNike, a vice president of Shell Oil Co., said his company's stocks of gasoline are "less than they should be at this time of year" and that the situation will get worse this summer.

DeNike said the United States "will continue to experience energy supply problems over the next several years."

W. J. Price, a senior vice president of Chevron U.S.A. Inc. said the demand for gasoline increased 5 percent over the past year, while supplies of crude oil dropped because of the unrest in Iran. However, he said, Chevron will be able to supply about the same amount of gasoline this summer that it did last year, and that he was hopeful "May will have been a low point."

Both executives said the supply of oil on the international spot market, oil not already committed by contract, has dried up. All the industry witnesses said that if shortages are to be lessened Americans must be persuaded to change their driving habits, including using car pools and obeying the 55-mph speed limit. The executives also appealed for a relaxation of government controls, saying U.S. oil must be allowed to rise to the world price.

Before the hearing convened, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, predicted the rest of the nation soon would join the plight of California motorists and be forced to wait in long lines to obtain gasoline.

"I think it will spread," Jackson said. In addition to Shell and Chevron, executives of Exxon, Texaco and Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) appeared before the panel in what Jackson called "a fact-finding effort."

It began a week in which the Carter administration's energy policy will face key congressional tests. The biggest will come when House Democrats meet in a caucus Tuesday to vote on a proposal designed to block the president's decision to lift price controls on oil.

Organizers claim they have the votes to put Democrats on record against decontrol and to line up a House floor showdown on the issue.

In other congressional action, a task force looking into the nuclear power plant accident on Three Mile Island was presenting its findings today to a House Interior subcommittee. And the full House was to consider a Senate-passed measure to give the presidential commission investigating the accident the power to put witnesses under oath.

In an interview prior to the beginning of today's hearing, Jackson, D-Wash., said gasoline shortages will get worse before they get better.

"It's going to be tight all over the country," Jackson said. "We have a national psychosis that is not dissimilar to a run on a bank when everyone tries to get his money out. This time it's a run on the oil bank and everybody is out to get all they can while they can."

"Gasoline supplies will be tight all over the country as people start keeping their tanks full," he said.

He said oil companies should give a better explanation of why there's a gasoline shortage. "The biggest issue in the country today is whether there is a contrived effort to withhold supply of refined oil products from the market."

"I have no evidence that there is such an effort. But I want to get the facts out on the table."

Police beat Two injured in brawl

What was reported as a gang fight early Sunday morning resulted in injuries sustained by two men early Sunday morning and a property damage of $445.

John and Felix Hilario were treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital for head and arm injuries after they were assaulted by a group of men following a fight that broke out at a dance between 1 and 2 a.m. The victims reported being beaten with guns, rakes and steel bars.

Reports were also made by Enrique Calderon and Manuel E. Villa who witnessed the incident. The beating victims told police that they knew several of their assailants. After the assault, Felix Hilario reported that several of the persons involved came to his house where they damaged two windows of his home and broke the windshield of two vehicles parked at his home. The damage is estimated at $445.

Another assault incident was reported by Malone-Hogan Hospital Saturday, 7:15 p.m., when a victim was brought to the emergency room with a skull fracture.

Juan Rodriguez told police that he was confronted by six men at the corner of N.W. 8th and Douglas who beat him with a tire jack. He was transported from Malone-Hogan Hospital to a hospital in Odessa in stable condition.

Another man, Andrew Juarez, was with Rodriguez when the attack occurred. He reported that he was struck with fists by four of the six assailants.

At 7:45 p.m. Saturday, two officers encountered problems while attempting to arrest two local men. One man reportedly fought and ran from an officer while the second expressed his displeasure with indecent language and then attempted to strike the arresting officer. Another act of violence resulted in a broken window, valued at $40, at the home of Mary Allen. She reported that at 4:05 p.m. Saturday, an acquaintance put a fist through the window.

A number of thefts were reported over the weekend. James E. Early reported that a battery charger and alarm clock were taken from his mobile home at O.K. Trailer Park sometime between May 13 and Friday. The items were valued at $35.

Sometime between 10:15 a.m. Saturday and 7:30 a.m. Sunday, some items were taken from Annie Bell LaBrew's garage. She reported that a fishing rod and reel were missing along with her son's minibike. The woman's husband later found the rod. The minibike was also retrieved after it had sustained a bent fender.

Two women were reported to have stolen $50 from a cash register at Holiday Inn, 8 p.m. Saturday.

A patrolman noticed an open gate at Rockwell Brothers, 300 W. 2nd, early Sunday morning. The manager was notified but couldn't determine if anything had been taken.

Wanda Green told police that someone had let the air out of a tire and dumped a box of snuff in the front seat of her automobile, parked in her driveway, between 5:30 and 7 p.m. Saturday.

A San Angelo woman en route to Lubbock via Greyhound bus discovered her wallet missing while in Big Spring. Margaret West set the value of the wallet and contents at $40. Ronnie Barber returned home from an outing at 2:35 a.m. today to find broken glass on his front steps. The glass was shortly identified as his piggy bank. The thief got away with $50 in dimes and nickels. Before leaving he or she also damaged Barber's palm leaf plant. The plant was worth $7.50.

A 16-year-old Midland youth was injured Sunday when the car he was driving collided with one driven by Blain Callison, Gail Rt., Box 256.

The accident occurred at 2:15 p.m. on North Service Rd. at I-30 and Hwy. 350.

Richard Corbell was transported to Malone-Hogan Hospital by Schaffer Ambulance where he was treated for minor injuries and released.

Callison and a passenger in the Corbell vehicle, Lane Thornton, 19, of Midland, were unharmed.

A number of minor accidents were reported Saturday.

A truck driven by Harry Berman of Phoenix, Ariz., became entangled with electrical wires in the driveway of the Greyhound Bus Station, 3:35 p.m. The driver was uninjured but the wires were knocked down, according to police reports.

Curries shake hands of 2,500 Signal day for a family

Sunday was a signal day for the John Currie family.

The Curries gathered at the new State National Bank building, located at 901 Main Street, for an Open House and stood in line to shake the hands of an estimated 2,500 well wishers for three hours.

Bountiful rains hit the area later in the evening and that brought smiles to John Currie's face. State National is a bank which does a lot of business with farmers in the Big Spring areas and the moisture was desperately needed throughout the county.

All employees of the bank were on hand to serve as guides and hand out mementoes like flowers, currency bags and balloons for the kids.

Under the canopy of the parking area outside, tables were set up for the convenience of those who sampled the refreshments offered by the company.

John Currie said he was told by at least 30 people that each had been 50-year depositors at the banking facility.

Over the past decade, State National — which formerly was located at Second and Main Streets — has been one of the fastest growing banks in West Texas.

Within an hour after the Open House began, all the parking lots around the facility were full (something John said he never expected to see) and people were lined up part of the way down the block, waiting to get into the door.

The good weather held until long after the Open House had ended.

TOKYO (AP) — Beer is the most popular alcoholic beverage in Japan, accounting for nearly two-thirds of the liquor consumed in the country, according to a recent government study.

Flood claims two in Ozona

By the Associated Press

At least three people are reported drowned in flash flooding in Southwest Texas as thunderstorms, many of them severe, lashed various parts of Texas this morning, the Department of Public Safety said.

The DPS in Del Rio reported the victims were in three vehicles swept off Texas 163 about 16 miles north of Comstock in Val Verde County.

The DPS said it was looking for possibly two others believed caught in the high, fast-moving water.

The victims were identified as Bradley Elliott, 14, and Byron Elliott, 12, both of Ozona, and David Sanchez, age and hometown unknown.

The vehicles were found south of where the Devil's River crosses the highway. The highway was closed because of flooding where it intersected the Devil's River in that area, about 45 miles north of Del Rio, the state highway department reported. Ranch Road 189 also was closed 60 miles north of Del Rio because of flooding along the river.

Rain was expected to continue throughout today across much of Texas.

Some had reason to smile . . .

SMILING FACES — These four athletes came up smiling after participation in their various sports over the weekend. They are (left to right) Nancy Lopez, who won $100,000 in the Ladies PGA tourney; race driver John Mahler, the last to qualify at the Indianapolis 500 Time Trials; Ronnie Franklin, winning jockey in the Preakness stakes atop Spectacular Bid; and Terry Bradshaw, Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback who received a Doctorate of Laws from Alderson-Broaddus College during graduation ceremonies there.

Indy in uproar

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — With a final flurry of bumping and protesting, the field is set — maybe — for Sunday's 63rd Indianapolis 500, which may become known as the most confusing spectacle in auto racing.

The last weekend of time trials produced excitement, when a record 11 cars were bumped from the field by faster competitors; controversy, when a cheating scandal spread through Gasoline Alley involving new power restrictions; and anger, when four qualification runs were disallowed for rules infractions.

At day's end, the race billed as the world's richest purse also faced the prospect of being the world's most litigated.

Seven protests were filed, mostly against a last-day rules change on power restrictions, and one driver threatened court action to throw the whole lineup out and start over again with less than a week until race day. All that came just two weeks after the rival Championship Auto Racing Teams, representing most of the sport's big names, went to court to overcome the sanctioning U.S. Auto Club's rejection of 19 entries.

Lost in the confusion was the fact that the 33-car starting grid as finally completed is the most competitive in years, with an average speed of 186.771 mph, 24 cars between 184 and 186, and less than 10 mph separating the fastest and the slowest. It has just one first-time starter; veteran road racer Howdy Holmes, and five former winners, including four-time champion A.J. Foyt, three-time winner Al Unser, and Bobby Unser, Johnny Rutherford and Gordon Johncock.

It doesn't necessarily have the 33 fastest cars since rookie Bill Alsup was thrown out of the race after it was discovered that the Penske-Cosworth he qualified at more than 187 mph had the engine used by Bobby Unser a week ago. Since Unser qualified with it, that is illegal.

Alsup's car owner, Roger Penske, who already has Unser and pole sitter Rick Mears in the race, said the engine mixup was unintentional. He protested that the penalty was too severe, said it wasn't covered in the rules and asked that Alsup be given a chance to qualify with another engine.

USAC scheduled hearings today on that and the other six protests, all involving the cheating scandal and USAC's belated attempts to deal with it.

Bullets strike first, 99-97

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Bobby Dandridge of the Washington Bullets nodded, but it was the Seattle SuperSonics who went to sleep.

As he prepared to make an inbound pass with two seconds remaining in the opener of the National Basketball Association championship series Sunday, Dandridge made an almost imperceptible motion with his head.

But Larry Wright picked up the subtle signal, drove the lane for a bounce pass from Dandridge, and was fouled by Dennis Johnson on a layup attempt as time expired.

Wright, who came off the bench to score 26 points, missed his first free throw but sank the next two, giving Washington a 99-97 victory and a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series which resumes here Thursday night.

"Bobby motioned that the lane was open," Wright said. "I gave a head fake the opposite way and came down the lane."

"Wright just beat me," said Gus Williams, who scored 32 points for the SuperSonics and had blocked another Wright attempt when Washington brought the ball inbound with five seconds left.

The Bullets, trying to become the first repeat champions of the NBA in 10 years, had three chances to win after Dennis Johnson rebounded a John Johnson shot and tied the score with 25 seconds left.

After Tom Henderson missed and Seattle's Lonnie Shelton fumbled the ball out of bounds, the Bullets intended to set a double screen for Dandridge, their clutch performer who had 23 points.

But Dennis Johnson switched to foil the strategy and after Wright's hurried shot was tipped by Williams, Seattle's Jack Sikma knocked the ball out of bounds.

This time, Dandridge tossed the ball inbound, a move which may have confused the SuperSonics.

Dennis Johnson, guarding Kevin Grevey, moved to block the lane when Wright broke free and didn't agree with the call by official Ed Rush.

"I thought I blocked the shot," Johnson said, "but with all the noise, I couldn't hear a whistle. I thought we were going into overtime."

The SuperSonics, who won the opener of last year's seven-game series with Washington after trailing by 19 points, almost equaled that miracle comeback.

Trailing 91-73 early in the fourth quarter, Seattle reeled off two 10-point streaks — with Williams scoring six during each streak — and forged the tie when Dennis Johnson scored his 23rd point.

The SuperSonics picked up 23 points on 20 Washington turnovers, several while using a press in the closing minutes. But Seattle was outbounded 55-41 and hit only 11 of 23 free throws.

Cordero no angel in Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Trainer Bud Delp realizes the Preakness Stakes was another learning experience for jockey Ron Franklin. But he hopes it was for veteran Angel Cordero Jr., too.

Delp's colt, Spectacular Bid, romped to a 5 1/2 length victory under Franklin Saturday in the richest of 104 Preaknesses, but Cordero's controversial ride aboard Screen King, the thirdplace finisher, fueled anew the Franklin-Cordero — the kid vs. the veteran — rivalry.

"I hope Mr. Cordero realizes this game is for everybody to play, not just a select few," Delp said Sunday. "I hope he's been shown the light a little bit and realizes Franklin is a race rider just like him."

The 19-year-old Franklin called Cordero's alleged effort to force him wide on the first turn un-sportsmanlike. Delp said: "It was a childish act. He was jeopardizing the race. But Ronnie took care of that. He was worried about what Ronnie was doing instead of just riding his own race."

Several times Cordero attempted to force Franklin into the rail during the race, Delp said.

Flying Paster and General

Assembly set the early pace, with Screen King third and Spectacular Bid fourth. With about three-eighths of a mile to go in the 13-1/2 mile test, Spectacular Bid had this second leg of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown won, giving him a solid chance at becoming the 12th horse in history to capture the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

Sparky still 'Mr. Nice Guy'

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The scars to his wounded pride are still visible and the pain cuts deep, but Sparky Anderson has managed to find a bright side to his brutal dismissal as manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

That's Sparky, "Mr. Nice Guy," always the optimist, always the gentleman.

"As I travel around the country — in the airports and in the hotel lobbies — I am moved by the reception I get from people," said the best unemployed skipper in all baseball. "I don't feel alone anymore."

"I have a different concept, a greater appreciation of the game."

The not-so-old Silver Fox was the center of attention among celebrities of politics and sports who gathered here Friday night for a charity roast of A.B. "Happy" Chandler, ex-governor, ex-U.S. senator, ex-commissioner of baseball.

This is the Ohio Valley — Red's country — and the people still resent the crass manner in which Anderson was fired after leading the Reds to three National League titles and two World Series crowns while carving the best managerial record in the Cincinnati club's history.

"I haven't been back over there since they did you so dirty," Chandler told Sparky. A longtime Reds' supporter, the spry 80-year-old former commissioner paved the way for his own ouster by forcing baseball's hard-headed bosses to accept the first black player, Jackie Robinson, in 1947.

"Bill McKechnie once said managers have the worst jobs in baseball," Sparky recalled. "Nobody ever quits — they just get fired."

Anderson refuses to gloss over this indignity. He talks of it openly. "I feel a hurt," he says. But he has restructured his life. He has taken up residence in Thousand Oaks, Calif. He is busy doing radio and TV work. He is a traveling ambassador for baseball's pitch, hit and run competition. He is on the golf course more than Jack Nicklaus.

Anderson insisted he had received offers, even to manage this year, but was determined not to commit himself until his Cincinnati contract runs out in October. The inside word is that Sparky is headed for the Yankees.

Sparky said he now feels he owes nobody anything. "Before, I always felt I was where I was because of Bob Howsam, who hired me, and guys like (Johnny) Bench and (Pete) Rose, who made me look good."

Sparky acknowledged that there is an eerie feeling about watching a game from the stands.

"It's like being dead," he said. "You look down on the field and you're not there. You realize the game goes on. You feel you must give back to the game that has given you so much. All the guys have to realize that."

Sutton winningest Dodger!

Dodgers 6, Reds 4

Don Sutton gave up a three-run homer in the bottom of the eighth that pulled Cincinnati into a tie, but he was still the pitcher of record when Von Joshua led off the ninth with a homer that made Los Angeles a winner.

And that made Sutton the Dodgers' winningest pitcher ever. His fifth victory of the year was the 210th of his career, one more than Don Drysdale — and when the telephone rang in the Dodger clubhouse, Sutton figured out who the caller was.

"When they said there was a phone call, I almost expected it was Big D," he said. "I didn't think it was Jimmy Carter, seeing as how I'm a Republican ... To be able to pass Don is more than I'm really ready to figure out right now. It's something really special for me."

Giants 8, Braves 1

Bob Knepper stifled Atlanta on three hits while Bill Madlock drove in three San Francisco runs with a homer and a single.

Madlock hit his third homer in the third inning and hit his two-run single in the Giants' three-run fourth. San Francisco also got successive sixth-inning homers off Rick Mahler by Darrell Evans and John Tamargo.

Pirates 6, Cubs 5

Pittsburgh won its fifth straight and Chicago dropped its fifth in a row, thanks to homers by John Milner, Dale Berra and Omar Moreno.

Milner hit No. 6 with the bases empty in the first inning and Berra hit No. 1 with a man on in the fifth off Lynn McGlothen. Moreno's first, also with a man on, came in the seventh off Willie Hernandez. Ed Ott's sacrifice fly knocked in the Bucs' other run.

Expos 10, Phillies 6

It's a long, long time from May to September and, according to Danny Ozark, now is not the time to worry.

"I don't think losing one game or three games out of 162 is going to have an effect on professionals," the Philadelphia manager said Sunday after Montreal ripped his Phillies 10-6 to complete a three-game sweep of the National League East's three-time champions.

Mets 8, Cardinals 7

Richie Hebner had a two-run double in the first inning and a three-run homer in the 10th to keep New York in the game, then Frank Taveras belted a bases-loaded single in the 11th inning over St. Louis' drawn-in outfield for the victory.

"You can't figure this game out," said Hebner, who hadn't hit a homer since Opening Day. "One time you'll go 0-for-20, then you'll go 10-for-20. What's great about baseball is you play every day, so that if you're a bum yesterday, you can be a hero today."

A's 7-2, Brewers 6-1

Dwayne Murphy knocked in both Oakland runs with a homer and a single and Steve McCatty pitched five innings of shutout relief in the nightcap. Wayne Gross' two-out ninth-inning single snapped a tie in the opener. Milwaukee's Dick Davis hit a solo homer in each game.

Rangers 6, Mariners 4

John Grubb drove in three runs with a homer, sacrifice fly and single. Grubb's RBI single in the sixth capped a three-run rally, highlighted by Larvell Blanks' two-run single, that gave Texas the lead. In the fifth, Grubb hit a sacrifice fly to close the gap to 4-3. He started the Texas scoring with a leadoff homer in the fourth. Reliever Jim Kern allowed the Mariners just one hit in 31-3 innings.

Royals 5, Twins 1

Darrell Porter and Pete LaCock hit consecutive triples when Minnesota's outfield defense collapsed and Kansas City scored two runs with the help of shortstop Roy Smalley's throwing error while Paul Splittorff checked the Twins on nine hits.

Orioles 6, Blue Jays 2

Dennis Martinez fired a fourhitter and Lee May drove in two runs, one with a solo homer. Martinez, 6-2, retired 19 consecutive batters after Toronto scored in the second and third innings. May put Baltimore in the lead 3-2 with his ninth home run in the sixth inning. Ken Singleton also drove in two runs with a bases-loaded walk and a double.

Al wins!

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Al Geiberger came up with a magnificent tee shot on the 16th hole that stopped two inches from the cup and led him to a 1-stroke victory in the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

He finished with a round of 3-over-par 73 and claimed his 12th career victory with a 274 total, 6 under par.

Veterans Gene Littler and Don January, and the dynamic Tom Watson all made concerted challenges but fell short.

Littler finished tied with January for second at 275. Littler had a closing 68 and January shot 65.

Watson tied with Jim Colbert for fourth at 276. Watson had a 67 and Colbert shot a closing 69.

REFRESHER COURSE — Kansas City Royals' manager Whitey Herzog, center, gives a refresher course on ground rules to umpire Dave Phillips, left, as Minnesota Twins manager Gene Mauch, right, listens. Sunday was the first day that an American League umpire worked Royals Stadium because of a rain out on Saturday. Both managers said that they were glad to see the regular umpires back at work.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 22, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A fine time to rely more upon your intuitive perceptions and hunches but not on your judgment in deciding new outlets that you wish to be a part of your life in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal day to get in touch with persons at a distance for the information you need in order to make progress. Think constructively.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You made good plans to carry through with your obligations recently, and this is a good time to attend to them.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to please associates more and advance in your line of endeavor. You can gain more civic confidence by right actions.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use more advanced methods where work is concerned and impress higher-ups. Avoid confrontations by using tact.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Begin the day in logical manner and sidestep obstacles in the path of progress. Use your intuitions in dealing with others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find the right people who can assist you with some important project you are currently working on. Be sure of what you are doing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Communicate well with others and advance in career matters. Some revision where personal work is concerned is wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Express your capability at modernizing your job and gain the benefits. You can easily win the favor of a higher-up now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have talents in your subconscious mind that you want to put in operation, so do without further delay.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be more cognizant of the needs of your family and try to help them to the best of your ability. Avoid one who imposes on you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have increased strength now and your intuitive faculties are working extremely well and you can accomplish a great deal today.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Raise the level of your consciousness and you can command more abundance in the future. You have good ideas that need expression.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who has a great capability in using a modern system for gaining the aims that are uppermost in this fertile mind. Be sure to teach to complete whatever has been started for best results.

Biggest Texas spender in 1978 was doctors' gospel unit.

Special interest groups, influence growing

AUSTIN — To some, they are cancer spreading through the body politic; to others, they're just good government in action. But both sides agree that special-interest groups, representing virtually every major business and profession, are growing in number, membership and influence. Consider: —Special-interest contributions to successful legislative candidates are up 44 percent, from $1,304,508 in 1976 to $1,890,361 in 1978. —The average amount legislators received from special-interest groups climbed from $7,207 in 1976 to $10,388 in 1978.

treasurer, says the contributions give doctors and their lobbyists added access to legislators. That access is used to impart the doctors' gospel on more than 300 health-related bills the 1979 Legislature is considering, he says. Stuka says the bottom line in deciding whether a legislator receives a contribution is the voting record. Stuka says doctors don't have a political black list but there are a few legislators doctors would like to defeat each session. Two years ago trial lawyers outspent doctors in anticipation of a tough fight over medical malpractice legislation. But trial lawyers dropped from that high of $163,000 in 1976 to $106,525 in 1978. Doctors say they lost the battle two years ago and may be spending more now to bolster their forces for a future skirmish. Stuka says 78 percent of the legislative candidates that doctors supported in 1978 won. Dentists gave lawmakers $73,657 in 1978 compared with $40,100 in 1976. "Our policy is to contribute to the incumbent, unless he's been anti-dentistry," says Bill K. Forbus, chairman of DEN-PAC, the dentists' group. Forbus says dentists are spending more money this session to help candidates offset the increasing cost of campaigns. While campaigns may be more costly now, the legislature in general wasn't strapped for political funds. Lawmakers collected $613,051 more than they spent in 1978. Another reason Forbus cites for increased spending is that dentists are beginning to realize what the legislature can do to dentistry. "Legislators are wanting to control everything, dentistry like everything else. Everybody is more interested in the legislature than ever before," he says. Certified public accountants hope their contributions give them greater access too. Bob West, a CPA-PAC member, says. CPAs gave lawmakers $61,300 last year. "We don't intend to sway votes. We just want somebody to listen to our view," he says. West also says when his group contributes money, a lawmaker tends to think of that contribution as from the accounting profession. That gives all accountants access to the legislator regardless of whether they contributed to the campaign. Durward Curlee, executive director of the Texas Savings and Loan League, agrees that political action committees increase the clout of individuals who contribute to it. SAL-PAC, a committee representing savings and loan interests, contributed $42,500 to lawmakers last year. By pooling their money into a political action committee that gives candidates large contributions, small contributors can have an effect on who gets elected to the legislature, Curlee says. Savings and loan companies want the legislature to increase interest rates on home loans. Curlee says his group does not contribute to candidates on the basis of how they'll vote on savings and loan bills. Rather, he says the group contributes "to get good people elected."

Curlee says his group measures the "goodness" of the candidates not by issues, voting records or philosophies, but by their campaigns. "You can tell what type of candidate a man is by the way he's running his race," he says. But you can't always tell who finances a campaign. To make a connection between the contributor and the recipient takes a study of separate files in the secretary of state's office. And the filings are full of errors. NEXT: The policing of the records.

Libya's UN rep warns higher oil prices 'round the corner'

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Americans don't seem to realize "energy conservation is a challenge to all humanity," says Libya's United Nations representative, who warned higher oil prices could be expected soon. Mansur Rashid Kikhia said Sunday that the United States must change its trade policies toward Libya and prop up the falling dollar in order to stave off expected increases in the price of imported crude. "We would like to see the United States use the energy it purchases with much more wisdom, at least until another alternative can be found. We can't waste our oil, which is our main source of exports, for a super-affluent society," he said. The continuing rise in OPEC oil prices, he said, was necessary because of the decline of the dollar. He said the United States continues to buy Libya's oil but refuses to sell many items to the African nation. And he said that refusal stemmed from "pressure from the pro-Zionists."

Southwest Africa (Namibia). One of the burning issues of the conference was a request by the U.S. Senate to President Carter for removal of economic sanctions against Rhodesia. Most of the delegates, including United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young, predicted that the end of the sanctions could cause escalation of a guerilla war in Rhodesia. In an interview after the conference, Kikhia said, "The United States should stop imposing difficulties in trade with us because of political reasons. There seems that these political actions are pointed to the Arab countries, but not at other oil producers."

'Pray for profits' urged

By Bill Albright

Executive Vice President, Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce Industrial Growth and Development

There is so much p. from over regulation and control of our federal government that we really need to constantly review some of the more serious complications and resulting restrictions on our lives. The persistent hue and cry for wage and price controls should be the one to scare us most. Even though such controls have been tried for centuries and have failed repeatedly, some misguided advocates still continue to beat the drum for curtailment of jobs, loss of freedom of choice, and an increase of legislated shortages. The best recent example of such folly is well within memory. The Beef Story of 1973 and 74 and its effect on prices and supplies today, should warn us away from repetition. The President, you remember, imposed price ceilings on beef in 1973 — the cattle industry recognized that there was insufficient profit in raising beef cattle to warrant the continuation of expanding or even maintaining their level of production. Many of the herd cows and bulls were slaughtered with the result that production was cut back and today there are far less cattle available for the market than are actually needed. Of course, when anything is in short supply, its value increases. As examples, diamonds, gold, Rolls Royces, mink coats, and even gasoline. Conversely, when items are plentiful, they are comparatively less valuable, and less expensive such as ball point pens, electronic computers, food and feed grains, tape recorders and many synthetic items. Another point to be made here is to consider profits. The major incentive that a business man or a stock holder has to invest and risk his resources is the possibility of gaining a return or profit on his investment. Otherwise, why would any one want to take a chance? Would you go partners in business that would be restricted by government from making a profit? Of course not, — you say, "that would be ridiculous". But that is exactly what some advocates of controls and regulations are asking. Let's take a minute to look at profits. In the words of a well known journalist, lets "Pray for Profits". Because that's the source of our individual income. Whether you are government employed, retired, or work for a utility company, a hospital, or any private sector firm, your source of income is based on profits. Profits provide jobs — jobs pay salaries and wages — salaries and wages supply taxes which pay other salaries and wages. Without profits, can you visualize an economy? The government exists only because of profits — it does not create any capital or any goods or services. It only collects taxes on profits and if profits are reduced or restricted, then government is constrained in its spending. But here is the real paradox, Government has the power to print more currency in order to meet its payroll. This simply means that if the government doesn't raise enough money in taxes, they just print more dollars to make up the difference. The action is called deficit spending. The result is an excess of dollars which is an over abundance and when anything is plentiful — its value decreases — the American dollar is the perfect example. We call it inflation, our number one PUBLIC ENEMY. And the point to be made here is that wage and price controls can not — never have — and never will curb inflation. Rising prices and increased wages are not the cause of inflation — they are the result of inflation. The real major cause of inflation is deficit spending by the federal government. Solutions are not easy — but they are possible. It will take business, government, labor, and consumer working together for a change to bring about a stronger economy. There will have to be 'give and take' at all levels in both the private and the public sector. Productivity will have to increase, which means that we will need to work more conscientiously, be more efficient and conserve our resources to better use. Americans have come farther, in less time and with more progress and a greater increase in quality of life than anyone in the history of the world. We can continue to lead the way under our economic system if we will just be determined that we don't need excessive government interference with our freedom of enterprise. We need less restrictions and controls. What we need more of is HUSTLE!!! HUSTLE!!! HUSTLE!!!

Anti-nuclear group hails 'sweet decision'

EDMOND, Okla. (AP) — A "sweet decision" that ordered the Kerr-McGee energy conglomerate to pay Karen Silkwood's three children over $10.5 million was celebrated here Sunday. About 60 people showed up to protest the Black Fox nuclear power plant planned near Inola, and to celebrate the decision in favor of the former nuclear worker. The Sunbelt Alliance, an antinuclear group, sponsored the rally. The group listened to Bill Davis of the Silkwood litigation team and alliance member Jack Hachmeister praise Friday's federal court decision in Oklahoma City. "It vindicates Karen Silkwood and it vindicates the power of truth," Davis said. "It proves the power of the little people in speaking out against the most powerful group in the world — the government and the corporations."
