Plane crash death toll at 272

A story every reporter seeks

By PHIL MARTY
Cherokee Daily Times

I'd never seen anyone die. But Friday at 3:04 p.m., I watched as 271 people I never knew suffered a fiery death.

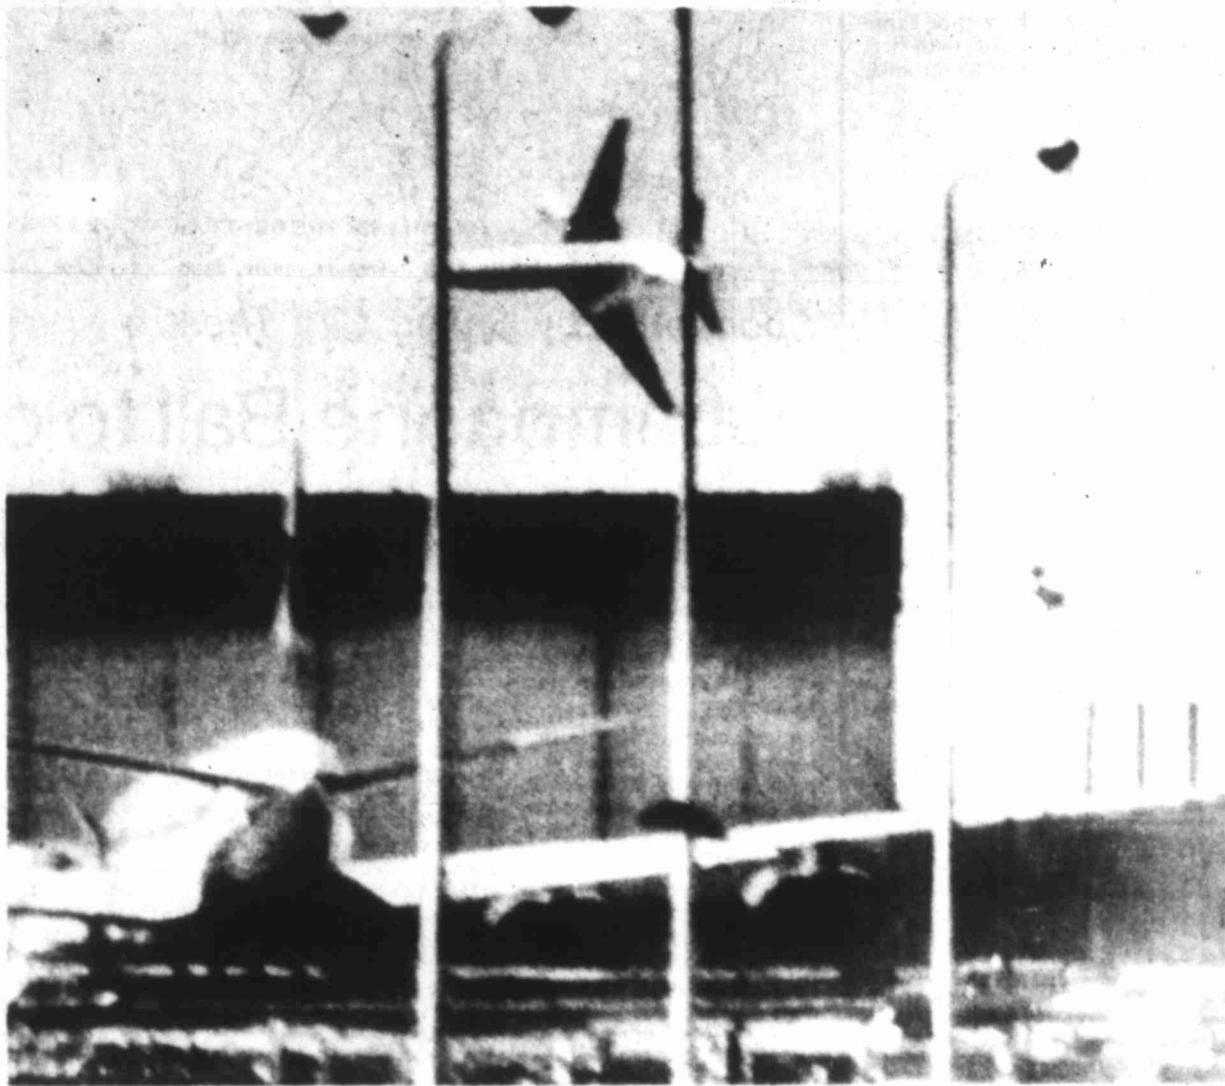

It was a story that all reporters seek, but no reporter really wants to write.

Through the television-like window of an Ozark Air Lines plane, I watched as American Airlines Flight 191, nonstop to Los Angeles, turned on its side and dropped to earth, bursting into a ball of orange flame and billowing black smoke.

As our plane rolled down the runway, my seatmate idly pointed out the big silver DC-10 taking off at a right angle to our left. I watched with only casual interest as the sleek jetliner lifted off, its nose jutting upward and tail dropping back in the familiar stance of departure.

But then, as the plane was just feet from the ground, something rolled over the top of the left wing. As the large metal piece hit the ground and burst into flames, I knew the left engine had fallen off.

It seemed like minutes that the jetliner hung there, clawing for altitude as smoke poured from the left engine. (See Editor, Page 2A, Col. 3)

DC-10 GOES DOWN — An American Airlines DC-10 turns on its side as it falls to the ground on takeoff from Chicago's O'Hare Airport Friday. A jet engine is visible on the higher wing, but the lower wing's engine has fallen off. All on board died. Photo was made by Michael Laughlin of Toronto who was watching from the terminal building. He used a 200mm telephoto lens on a Minolta 35mm camera. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Cockpit conversation wiped out by power loss

CHICAGO (AP) — Almost all cockpit conversations aboard an American Airlines jetliner that crashed Friday were wiped out by a power loss in a recorder, leaving only the word "damn" on tape after the plane left the runway, a federal official said Saturday.

Meanwhile, the death toll from the nation's worst air disaster rose to 272 Saturday, after sheriff's deputies reported that one person on the ground was among those killed. His body was found in a truck.

The power loss occurred in one of the jet's two tape recorders "a fraction of a second" after the nose wheel of the DC-10 left the runway of Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, Jim King, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, said in Washington.

He said the flight data recorder remained intact and officials were getting valuable information from it, including the jet's heading, speed and altitude.

King said the information gathered from cockpit tape contained "the normal checklist process" from the time the plane began moving down the runway to when it began to lift off.

After takeoff, King said, "we heard only one word and that word was 'damn.' From that point we don't have any tape at all."

King said that the cause of the power loss was not known but that it could have been due to a number of factors, including a possible circuit break or break in a wire.

The two tapes were flown to Washington on Saturday, and federal officials immediately began examining them. Investigators have not yet examined a ground-based air traffic controller tape, which will contain conversations between the pilots and the airport tower.

Both on-board recorders were housed in the tail section of the aircraft, encased in thick metal boxes, built to withstand heat up to 2,700 degrees. (See Crash, Page 2A, Col. 1)

Commencement exercises set for seniors in coliseum

Three hundred sixty-four Big Spring High School students convene for the final time at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

They are members of the senior class and they will appear in traditional caps and gowns for commencement exercises.

For the first time, the coliseum will be used for the rites. In years past, weather permitting, the exercises have been conducted in Memorial Stadium, where the seating capacity was more than ample but the acoustics weren't always too good.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Kenneth W. Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

The graduates will be certified by John F. Smith, principal. Assistant principals Craig V. Fischer and Morris Mopus will introduce the graduates while Dr. James E. Mathews and Charles E. Beil, members of the school board, will present the diplomas.

The pledge of allegiance will be led by Mitzie Ballios.

Presiding will be Supt. of Schools Lynn Hise. The processional march music will be provided by Lawrence Wheat. Michael Evans will offer the invocation. Meistersingers will sing special music.

Student speakers will be Jan Whittington and Barry Fish.

The program will close when the entire class will sing "Dear Old Big Spring High," the school song.

'The law is chauvinistic'

Birth certificate tells all

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a three-part series about how the state of Texas attempts to make parents support their children.

By EILEEN McGUIRE

Statewide, there are over 103,000 known Texas children whose birth certificates are incomplete.

They are the children who were born to unmarried women and whose fathers have never legally acknowledged their existence. Eighteen thousand of them are less than one year old.

The fathers of illegitimate Texas-born children are protected by laws designed to protect innocent men of being falsely accused. According to Midland attorney Mark Hoover, unless proof of marriage can be produced, health regulations in this state forbid naming the father on a child's birth certificate.

"The law is chauvinistic," he commented. "It protects the man."

The law is also somewhat protective of the child.

"There can't be anything listed on the birth certificate that determines that the child is illegitimate," he stated.

The telltale sign, however, is a birth certificate with a block of empty blanks where information about the child's father was meant to be recorded.

By Texas law, the blanks can be filled only through an often complicated court process and it must be done before the child's first birthday.

"Court rules include a statute of limitation of one year to initiate paternity suits," Hoover said. "The court feels that eliminating or extending the one year period would be unconstitutional."

If paternity is not established within the first year of life, he said, the mother and child may never go back to court for child support payments, inheritance rights or any other conditions that a legitimate child is entitled to.

If paternity is established, however, the child not only receives the rights of a legitimate child, but also the status of one.

"Once a court decree is entered," Hoover said, "that child is no longer illegitimate."

Legitimizing illegitimate children is Hoover's most difficult challenge as Regional Director of Child Support Enforcement, located at the Human Resources Department in Midland.

Most of the cases he works with are referred to him by county welfare offices. His job is to obtain child

REVEALING BLANKS — Texas laws forbid naming the father on the birth certificate of an illegitimate child. The law aims, in part, at protecting the child. The law dictates that no information be included on the document that would make it possible to identify the child as being illegitimate. Yet the absence of information is an unmistakable sign.

support for the children of his clients. But before he can obtain child support for an illegitimate child, he must first prove who the father of the child is.

"We begin with a statement from the mother," he said. "We ask her for the identity of the father and for as many specific facts about the relationship that she can give us. Then, I or another attorney will contact the man."

"If he acknowledges that the child in question is his and will sign a statement to that effect, we file a voluntary legitimation action. Once the court enters a decree, the child is no longer illegitimate and the father is responsible for helping to support that child."

"The child is also entitled to many other benefits — the same benefits as any legitimate child. The child may also have the man's surname if that is desired by the mother."

But what if the father refuses to sign the statement or denies that the child is his?

"That's a problem. In that case, we have to file an involuntary paternity suit. And the Texas Family Code requires that the suit be brought before age one or never."

He described the process. "First, pre-trial blood tests are done to determine the possibility of the man being the father. The blood test proves nothing. It is done only to exclude incompatibilities."

He said that a standard red cell screening would determine within a 60 to 70 percent range a possibility that the tested man could be the father. A more extensive test can put the possibility into a range of over 95 percent.

An even more accurate test is a genetic study, but, he said, "It is very expensive — several thousands of dollars expensive. The most common that we use is the standard blood test, so we have to prove in court through other means that the man is the child's father."

He said that a jury trial can be requested in a paternity suit and that in about 10 percent of the cases, it is.

Evidence, verbal and tangible, is introduced by both the plaintiff and the defendant.

Incriminating court evidence, he said, would be proof of any money that the man might have contributed to the child's support or expenses.

"If the man accompanies the woman to the hospital when she gives birth and then pays for the hospital expenses, that's pretty incriminating," he said.

Other admissible evidence would be letters written by the father to the mother mentioning the child in an incriminating manner or photographs of the man with the child.

Trial testimony may also be given by the woman's friends and relatives who knew about the relationship she had with the accused. The man may also present witnesses in his defense.

"Knowing how to question is also important," Hoover said. "The man's own testimony may be incriminating."

He said that even if a hospital is lax about health regulations and permits an unwed mother to name the father on the birth certificate, the courts will not accept it as proof unless it is used in context with other hospital data, such as evidence that he admitted her, paid the bills, or told some of the hospital staff that he was the father.

Only after a court ruling establishes that the child in question is the son or daughter of the accused, is it possible to file for court-ordered child support.

"It can be a difficult process," Hoover said. "Common law marriages are also a problem."

The benefits to be gained, make the effort worthwhile. Once paternity is established, the child becomes the legal heir of his or her father. The child is also entitled to the financial support of his or her father.

But the biggest advantage that can result from establishing paternity is emotional, Hoover said.

"The child has the benefit of knowing that his father is aware of him."

And the blanks on the birth certificate are filled.

Crash investigators predict 2 months of work to find cause degrees Fahrenheit and an impact 100 times the force of gravity.

Federal investigators said Saturday that it would probably be at least two months before the exact cause of the crash was known. But Elwood "Woody" Driver, vice chairman of the transportation safety board, said in Chicago that a preliminary investigation indicated "no evidence of pilot error."

All passengers, including many publishing officials on their way to a book sales convention, were killed when the wide-bodied DC-10 bound for Los Angeles lost one of its three engines and crashed in a field about 45 seconds after takeoff Friday from O'Hare International Airport.

Two other persons on the ground were injured by burning debris. One remained in critical condition Saturday; the other was in good condition.

Sheriff's authorities said John Craig, 41, of Addison, Ill., an employee of Courtney-Velo Excavating Co., was found dead in a company truck. There was some initial confusion over whether another person on the ground also was killed because several charred bodies were found on and under the truck.

Investigators said it was much too early to say why the engine fell off — or even that the engine loss caused the crash.

Driver said it would take at least two months to make a final determination of the cause of the crash.

Of the possibility of pilot error, Douglas Dreyfus, another federal investigator, said, "We haven't absolved anyone or anything yet." He said investigators were "in the midst of the start of our investigation."

"We'll home in on the dropped engine," Driver said. But the lost engine may not have been "the first sequence in the accident."

In Washington, consumer advocate Ralph Nader called on the government to ground all DC-10 jetliners for immediate inspection.

"When an engine separates from an aircraft on takeoff ... a design defect affecting other DC-10 aircraft is possible," Nader said. "As is the practice in military aviation, such grounding for testing and inspection is the only prudent course of action" while the crash is being investigated.

The crash demolished the jetliner, leaving only a piece of landing gear standing in a field of smoldering rubble. Many bodies still were missing or unidentified Saturday.

Rescue workers found 258 bodies, placed them in yellow and blue plastic bags and took them in police vans to a temporary morgue in an American Airlines hanger. Driver said the rest of the bodies were still buried in the debris.

At least 10 clergymen wandered among the bodies in the stark field Friday night, offering prayers and rites.

"I said some prayers and gave a general absolution," said the Rev. Ward Morrison, Roman Catholic chaplain of the fire department in nearby Elk Grove. "I really could not tell if they were men or women," he said.

Cook County Medical Examiner Robert Stein, with the help of forensic dentists, was working to identify the victims. "It's going to be a tough job," Driver said.

Meanwhile, an airlines spokesman said Saturday that many of the passengers may have actually witnessed the airplane's deadly descent on closed-circuit television.

Mary Rose Noel, a spokeswoman, said the jet was equipped with a television camera mounted behind the captain's shoulder, giving passengers a cockpit view of the takeoff. The equipment may also have allowed the passengers to overhear the final conversations taking place in the cockpit.

"There's a chance of survival in these things if there's no fire, but there was no hope in this one," Driver said at a brief news conference.

Driver estimated that about 10 seconds elapsed between the time the left engine came off and the crash.

He said the plane was traveling at about 180 mph when the engine came off. He said the plane rolled to the left and the left wing touched the ground, followed by the nose.

wing. But it really was no more than 10 or 15 seconds.

The plane couldn't have been any higher than 500 feet, holding steady, when it rolled to its left. From its almost graceful plunge, the jetliner smashed into the ground on its left wing, creating a giant ball of fire.

Then the inevitable black cloud of smoke rolled skyward. I looked at my watch. It was 3:04 p.m.

Inside our plane, the sound of the explosion couldn't be heard. There was only the excited babble of our passengers and the blank stares of our flight attendants.

I didn't need a newspaper or television to tell me the fate of those aboard the American Airlines flight. Deep inside, I knew they were all dead.

Champagne Ball to offer live dance entertainment Saturday

The Champagne Ball, hoped to become an annual affair, is scheduled by the Spring City Theatre for Saturday.

Live entertainment in the form of special dances will be offered by the members of the Theatre, who stress that they are not professional performers.

"We're just a bunch of people—everything from college students to an electrician and a medical secretary—who want to offer Big Spring and Howard County a new dimension in entertainment," said president of the group, Mark Sheedy.

"We aren't professionals; some of us have had college training in drama and productions, but mostly, we share a love of the theatre. We want the community to understand that SCT is for the people—we welcome anyone, whether they have acted professionally or have never been on a stage, to join us. All the members are volunteers, and we just want to have fun and offer quality entertainment," Sheedy explained.

The group has already done one production, "Potluck," and have two more planned for the near future.

Any money made by the Champagne Ball will go to pay expenses for the Theatre such as royalties and scripts for quality productions.

Special entertainment at the Ball will spotlight Nathan Whitehouse and Laurie Choate. Whitehouse, a dance student from the University of Arkansas, will be performing the feature dances with Miss Choate, a Big Spring native who is presently attending Texas Tech, where she is also a member of the dance department.

In addition, Miss Choate is an entrant in the Miss West Texas Pageant.

Another dance will be performed by a group of dancers "whose backgrounds are so varied that they prove anybody can be in the SCT," Sheedy said.

Greg and Lynn Smith, a husband-wife team from Gadsden, Ala., will be among the dancers. He is a mapper for the Howard County Tax Appraisal office and she is a medical secretary at Malone-Hogan Clinic, as well as SCT treasurer.

Also, Kelly Draper, employed by Faye's Flowers, will perform. He has a degree in theater and is the vice president for the group.

SCT secretary Chris Bourek works for KBST, and Carolyn Ford is director of Nutrition Program for the Elderly, over a six-county area of the Permian Basin.

Sheedy himself is an electrician, employed by A&N Electric. He recently graduated from Angelo State University with a degree in Theater productions.

Mother of four and employee at Big Spring Savings and Loan, Linda Hurt hasn't slowed down at all. She still has time and energy to dance and perform. Final member of the group is Rusty Mitchell, a recent graduate of Howard College, where he was honored as the outstanding Hawk Player of the HC drama department.

Mitchell and Sheedy will serve as masters of ceremony for the evening, which includes champagne and champagne punch at no charge over admission.

Tickets are available at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce or from any member of the group. Cost is $10 per couple or $7.50 stag.

Jim Ed Brown to perform

ODESSA — A show featuring country-western singer Jim Ed Brown, Helen Cornelius, Red Sovine and Don Gibson will be held in the Ector County Coliseum here the night of Saturday, June 2.

INTERLOCHEN, Minn. — Magic, juggling, dance and color will fill the stage of Granow Theatre at 8 p.m. today when the Interlochen Arts Academy presents "The Guillotine."

Written by Helen Duberstein, New York poet and playwright, "The Guillotine" revolves around a theatre company and parts of several plays that the company is rehearsing, and the title comes from one of the plays within the play.

The Interlochen performances mark the first production of "The Guillotine" outside of New York. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

John Oaks Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.K. Jackson of 716 Hillel Dr., Big Spring, is a member of the cast.

Picnic is held by Wives Club

A family picnic sponsored by the VA Wives Club was held Saturday, at the Comanche Trail Park.

Members, their families and guests gathered at the pavilion for a Pot-Luck dinner and games. Highlighting the event was the breaking of two pinatas by the children

Arrangements for the picnic and games were made by Charlotte Shelton, newly-elected Social Chairman, Sharon Pegan, Sharon Balderach and Susanne Dahl. This was the last scheduled event of the club until September.

Acts of public mischief are costly to everyone

Vandalism, pranks, and malicious mischief is costly to individuals, cities, counties and the State of Texas.

Those deliberate acts are costly in time, dollars and occasionally in injuries or death. The acts vary from throwing a bottle on the roadway to knocking over signs and delineators, to shooting out street and traffic signals, to removal of maps and signs at rest areas, to even trying to blow up a bridge with dynamite.

Perhaps it is due in part to West Texans being accustomed to having and using guns that the city and highway signs, street lights and traffic signals are more frequently damaged or destroyed by high-powered rifles. All signs and lights are installed by the cities and the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation (DHT) to insure the safe travel of the motorists. When a sign, delineator, light or signal is damaged, it could cause a stranger to be involved in a wreck, hopefully a fender-bender, but it has resulted in fatal injuries.

In some areas the acts of vandalism are more frequent than others, but this senseless destruction of public property happens in every county.

The persons responsible may not be aware of the consequences of these acts if they are caught. The discharging of a firearm from or across a public road could result in a fine of up to $200. Destruction of public property valued up to $200 is a Class C Misdemeanor; over $200 is a 3rd Degree Felony act. A misdemeanor conviction is subject to up to 1 year imprisonment and/or a fine not to exceed $2,000, depending upon the value of property damaged. A 3rd Degree Felony conviction is subject to two to ten years imprisonment and/or a fine not to exceed $500.

The time and money spent repairing or replacing signs and lights results in less maintenance of the roadway. The Department is requesting the cooperation of the public to reduce vandalism in order that the traveling public will have the best roads for the tax dollars spent.

Deaths

Richard Sellers

LAMESA — Services for Richard Norris Sellers, 30, of Lamesa were held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Downtown Church of Christ with Bob Cheatham and O.H. Tabor, ministers officiating.

Burial occurred in the Field of Honor at Lamesa Memorial Park under direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Sellers was pronounced dead at Medical Arts Hospital about 4 p.m. Wednesday after he suffered an electrical shock at a friend's home while installing a television antenna that contacted a high-voltage wire.

The Lamesa native served with the Army in Germany during the Vietnam era.

Survivors include his wife, Gloria; two sons, Gary and George, both of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norris Sellers of Lamesa; a sister, Stephanie of Lamesa; a brother, Randy of Hahn Air Force Base, Germany; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R.R. Sellers and Edna Watson, all of Lamesa.

Rotary plans exhibition

The Dorothy Garrett Coliseum will be alive with the sound of recreational vehicles and dozens of other utility trucks next Friday, as owners and drivers make final preparations for the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club's RV and Outdoor Exhibition, scheduled Saturday and Sunday.

By evening, the floor and the upper halls of the coliseum will be filled with an array of vehicles. Boats, motorcycles, hunting and fishing supplies, lawn and garden equipment, sporting goods and camping gear will also be on display.

The colorful attraction will represent a lot of hard work by the local service club, which has plans to sponsor such an event each year.

Arts and crafts exhibits will add an artistic touch to the displays.

An added attraction will be Frazier's World Fair Carnival, which will be set up near the coliseum.

Advance tickets are now being sold by Greater Rotary Club members for $1 adults and 50 cents children (6 to 12 years of age). Tickets will be available at the door Saturday beginning at 9 a.m., and at 1 p.m., Sunday.

Phone surge

CHICAGO (AP) — Former astronaut James Lovell predicts a growth in telecommunication markets over the next two decades that may rival the expenditures on the Apollo moon program.

Now a director of the North American Telephone Association, Lovell said in a recent speech that the explosion in new equipment and services should add some $20 billion or more to the current $50-billion-a-year telecommunications industry.

The Apollo moon program cost about $25 billion.

FIELD TRIPS — As the end of school approaches, many classes are taking field trips. This group, from Goliad School, was one of seven bus-loads of students from the school. Sponsoring the 402 students (the entire student body except for absentees) was Goliad principal Harlan Huijbregt, and teachers Mrs. C.W. Tanner, Mrs. Howard Schwarzenbach and Jim Dixon. The Heritage Museum was one of the stops the groups made.

New officers elected by DAV

Chapter 47 of the Disabled American Veterans elected their officers for 1979-80 Monday evening after a covered dish dinner prepared by the Auxiliary.

The officers elected were: James G. Morrow, commander; Y.J. Luna, Senior Vice Commander; Bennie Thomanson, junior vice commander; Fredrick C. Scott, second junior vice commander; Joel H. McMinn, chaplain, A.E. True, judge advocate and chapter hospital representative; J.H. Taylor, Officer of the Day; Grady Rhone, sergeant-at-arms;

M.H. Spivey adjutant-treasurer; and Walter Burchan, employment officer.

Rocky Vieira, present commander, will install the new officers at 7, June 11, at the VFW Hall.

Wreck at Ira fatal to man

An automobile wreck which occurred about 200 feet north of Ira at 8 p.m., Thursday resulted in the death 2½ hours later of K.W. Wortham, 46, of Snyder.

Wortham's pickup truck ran off the road and overturned. He was traveling on Texas Highway 350.

Services were held Saturday at 2 p.m., at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel in Snyder. Burial followed in the Snyder Cemetery.

He was an oil field pumper.

Return of the '17-year locusts'

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — The all-American version of the Biblical plague of locusts is surfacing now in seven Eastern states as millions of periodical cicadas end their 17 years underground.

"But there's no need to worry," says Stanley G. Gesell, professor of entomology extension at Pennsylvania State University. "They don't bother people, animals or vegetable crops."

The large, buzzing insects known as "17-year locusts" actually are not locusts at all. The misnomer apparently comes from frightened American settlers who thought they were witnessing a recurrence of the Biblical plague.

Periodical cicadas are found nowhere else in the world, Gesell said, adding, "In a year like this, when the cicadas emerge by the millions, it's easy to understand why the early Americans mistook them for locusts. The sight is spectacular and the sound is haunting and eerie."

To those in the know, however, "comparing cicadas to locusts is like equating a cow with a cat."

Gesell said. "Locusts are a type of grasshopper... Cicadas... are related to scale insects, leaf-and tree-hoppers and aphids."

For 16 years and 10 months, the cicadas are underground, sustaining themselves with the juices of tree roots. When they surface for two months of breeding, they do not eat at all.

They just buzz and breed, buzz and breed.

When the time is right, in May or June, large numbers of cicadas tunnel up from their burrows, two to 24 inches deep, making a hole the size of a quarter on the earth's surface.

The emerging soft, white, big-eyed "nymphs," or nearly mature adults, then head for upright objects — trees, bushes, telephone poles or even blades of grass. Clinging fast, they split and break out of their protective shells. Overnight, the inch-and-one-half-long nymphs harden, turn black and inflate little stubs into orange-veined wings. Their legs darken to a reddish color and their eyes turn glittering red.

Within a few days of this metamorphosis, they are ready to mate and the "music" begins.

The male cicadas produce their deafening, droning call to the females by flexing and relaxing two shell-like inflated drums on their abdomens.

The chorus begins at dawn and swells with rising temperatures to dominate the countryside until evening, when it subsides.

The sound will be familiar even to those who missed the cicadas' emergence 17 years ago. Similar sound effects are produced by the "dog-day cicadas' that appear every summer in much smaller numbers.

After mating, the females head for trees, where they slit open the bark on twigs, depositing between 400 and 600 eggs in batches of 24 to 28.

About a month later, in early July, the adults die. In a few more weeks, the eggs hatch and the new-born nymphs drop to the ground and burrow down to begin the cycle again.

Cicadas do some damage to trees while they are underground, but assessment is difficult, Gesell said.

"It's easier to assess how much damage is done by the females laying eggs. Many of the twigs die, as do young trees."

He recommends temporarily covering trees with cheesecloth — especially apple trees, which are the most susceptible.

"After all, the infestation will be over by the first of July — and in most areas, it will be years before the next 17-year brood comes up to have its few weeks in the sun."

There are two types of periodical cicadas, Gesell said — 13- and 17-year varieties. The 13-year batch is based mainly in southern states, while their 17-year cousins exist predominantly in the mid-Atlantic states.

Each group is made up of sub-groups, called "broods," which have different territories, numbers and years of emergence.

Gesell said it is believed there originally were 13 broods of 13-year cicadas and 17 broods of 17-year cicadas — producing one brood, each year, somewhere.

New chief dietician at VAMC is announced

Shirley Barryman, new chief dietician at the VA Medical Center, began work in Big Spring May 7. She transferred here from the Denver Veterans Administration Hospital where she was chief of therapy.

In Denver she directed the therapy section of the diet department. Here she is in charge of the food production department and the therapy department as well.

The therapy department includes cooperation with the doctors in preparing meals to meet particular needs of the patients.

She directs a 32 member staff.

Reward offered for information

The organization known as Voice of the Electorate (VOTE) is offering a reward for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for firing shots at city councilman John Massey's home May 23.

A spokesman for VOTE said that an attack of this kind endangers every citizen, regardless of whether or not he or she supports Massey's stand on issues. Contributions to the reward fund are being solicited.

Information can be directed to Lt. Claude Morris, Big Spring Police Department, telephone number 263-8311 ext. 50.

Contributions can be sent to VOTE Reward Fund, State National, Big Spring. All contributions will be returned if the reward is not claimed.

Why would anyone want the job?

Care to enter the guessing game in the presidential sweepstakes? You have nothing to lose. You have nothing to gain, either, outside of the satisfaction that you may be a little more astute about politics than the average person.

Few forecast the meteoric rise of Jimmy Carter three years ago. Few people, as a matter of fact, outside of residents in the southeastern section of the country, had even heard of him. Still, he emerged as the standard bearer of the Democratic party and, as it turned out, the champion vote getter in the general election.

SEASONED POLITICIANS are predicting that Carter will again head the ticket next year. Some are quick to add that all Teddy Kennedy has to do to replace Carter on the ballot is nod, but the story persists that Kennedy will not consent to having his name placed on the ballot.

What about the other Democratic hopefuls? Jerry Brown of California showed early foot but apparently has no staying power. He's back in the pack. Walter Mondale? He may forever be identified as Carter's running mate. Scoop Jackson? He's seen his day. Ed Muskie? Forget it. His very career is in neutral and going nowhere.

What about the Republicans? Ronald Reagan of California has widespread appeal but his age may do him in. The arch conservatives say John Connally not only would have universal appeal among the GOPs but looks capable of catching lightning in a bottle in the November elections.

Right now Connally is very visible, saying all the right things, leading all

Howard Baker of Tennessee by no means plans to be a spear carrier in next year's race. The Watergate tragedy gave him good exposure. He charms the ladies and compels a lot of respect among the men. Don't count him out.

Some Texans think George Bush is presidential material. George hit the ground running in New Hampshire. Right now, his most optimistic supporters list him no better than a long shot but he has a lot going for him, despite the fact that Democrat Lloyd Bentsen took him to the woodshed in the Senatorial race in 1970.

MANY REPUBLICANS think a conservative like Connally or Reagan cannot win the big prize, that the party will have to go with a moderate like Bush. Some of the well-beeled troglodytes in the party would rather lose with a man like Reagan than win with someone like Bush heading the ticket.

Gerald Ford? He is supposed to have told intimates he is making so much money as the party's elder statesman he can't afford to run again.

The big question is, why would any one — Republican or Democrat — want the job, with the nation facing the monumental problems it has?

Perhaps something Mickey Rooney said years ago explains the attraction of the office. The irrepressible Rooney was moved to remark: "I'd rather be a celebrity and in jail than a nobody walking around free," or words to that effect. Rooney seemed to be speaking the sentiments of a lot of people, certainly those addicted to politics.

Cure for blues

Around the rim

Walt Finley

Courteous Cora Conn, a classified worker for the Herald, slipped me a punny printed in the Palo Verde Valley Times, Blythe, Calif.:

"This country needs a family tree producing more lumber and fewer nuts."

Here's columnist Liz Carpenter's description of "Big John" Connally: "He is a political transvestite who at the Battle of the Alamo would have organized Texans for Santa Anna."

ENERGETIC EILEEN MCGUIRE, creator of the excellent series about "welfare mothers" asked during National Secretaries Week:

"How come secretaries get a whole week of glory and mothers only rate one day?"

The native of Marshall, Mich., also came up with a cure for the Monday Blues. Since everyone hates Monday and loves Friday, why don't we start the workweek on Friday?

JUNE BLOOM, Herald word chaser and now known in newspaper circles as "technicolor toes," following a recent operation, reports:

There are gasoline waiting lines in Las Vegas, but the terminology is different. Blackjack players don't say, "Fill'er up"...it's more likely to be "Hit me."

Jovial Jerri Davey, who retired as Herald Megaphone editor last Saturday after three years and who weds July 21, says:

"In some places there are almost no cars in high school parking lots. That's not because they're out of gasoline...they're out of school."

Ex-Alpine cowboy, Jay Sanders, who will be galloping down Corsicana way today, said the gasoline shortage is being felt in some local service stations. Saturday, Jay wanted to put a tiger in his tank and had to settle for a pussycat.

BOUNCY BONNIE DELEON, Herald word maker, heard an ABC announcer commit the worst mixed metaphor of the year:

"President Carter doesn't want to do anything to rock the boat and get off the track."

My ice eatin' aunt, whose three children now are grown, just received a notice that her 1978 income tax return was being audited and the "greetings" inspired her to poetry:

Your kids may make a lot of racket, but they'll sure keep you in a lower bracket.

MY BASHFUL AUNT, Marie Chastain, sent by Greyhound Bus a letter that purportedly was written by a businessman to some institution that asked him for a donation:

"In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it impossible.

"My shattered financial condition is due to federal laws, state laws, corporation laws, liquor laws, mother-in-laws, other in-laws and outlaws.

"Through these laws, I am compelled to pay a nuisance tax, amusement tax, gas tax, head tax, light tax, school tax, sales tax, income tax, food tax, furniture tax and excise tax. Even my brain is taxed.

"I AM REQUIRED to have a business license, car license, hunting license, and fishing license, not to mention a truck license, marriage license and a dog license.

"I also am required to contribute to every society, organization and racket with the genius of man is capable of bringing to life.

"For my own safety, I am required to carry life insurance, property insurance, earthquake insurance, tornado insurance, fire insurance, unemployment insurance, health insurance, and old age insurance.

"My business is so governed that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it.

"I am inspected, expected, suspected, dejected, examined, re-examined, summoned, fined, commanded and compelled until I provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need of the human race.

"SIMPLY BECAUSE I refuse to donate on something or other, I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held down, held up and robbed until I am almost ruined.

"I can tell you honestly that a miracle would have to happen for me to be able to enclose a check.

"The wolf has been coming to my door every day, and today she just had pups in my kitchen, so my obligations are now doubled."

New look

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The nice thing about working on a newspaper is that you can always find a psychiatrist who will explain the state of mind of people during a crisis.

Last week a psychiatrist in California came to the conclusion that people get very depressed waiting in gas lines. The victims feel a great sense of loss, and it is very difficult for them to adjust to it. Some of them resort to anger while others withdraw into themselves.

These startling revelations could have great impact on the mental health of the country. But that's not all. This is only the tip of the iceberg.

A PSYCHIATRIST friend of mine has been doing a study of the attitudes of Americans toward the problems they face today. He talked to 100 people and these are some of the scientific conclusions he arrived at.

People are much happier with a full tank of gasoline than they are going to the hospital for an operation.

When you take a car away from a high school student, he will turn his frustration into antisocial behavior.

Status symbols in the country are changing. A person who gets 22 miles to the gallon in a Honda is much more emotionally secure than a man driving a large Lincoln Continental with a telephone attached to the dashboard.

When a person keeps saying over and over again, "Things will get worse before they get better," he is a candidate for a nervous breakdown.

The way to avoid stress is not to try to buy gas on Sunday.

People who dream that they are first in line at a service station usually have happy sex lives.

Those who dream that just when they get to the station the attendant puts up a sign "CLOSED" should seek help from Masters and Johnson.

MOST PEOPLE who hate oil companies have had happy childhoods. Those who have had unhappy childhoods never expected the oil companies to behave any differently.

When you allow someone to jump ahead of you in a service station line, and you don't do anything about it, it usually indicates you had a weak father.

If you get out of your car and attack him with a monkey wrench it means you always had a supportive mother.

Those persons who are paranoid about the way the Department of Energy is handling the present energy crisis are not mentally unbalanced. Those who have delusions that the DOE is doing the best it can should be watched carefully and be referred for treatment at the earliest opportunity.

Crying is the healthiest solution to an energy problem.

PATTING YOUR GAS tank when it is full of gas does not necessarily mean that you are a Dirty Old Man.

If you are a woman and find every service station attendant attractive, this does not mean you are a nymphomaniac.

Putting leaded gasoline in a car that requires unleaded fuel will eventually cause bed wetting.

Those people who have a fear of running out of fuel and are constantly topping off their tanks are suffering from an incurable neurosis called Exomphobia.

People who have no other way to get to work overcompensate for their inadequacy by taking the bus. But they are not dangerous to themselves or others, and should be left alone.

"Okay, old timer... I'd better give you a lil' shot in the arm."

Bladder 'sag' a female problem

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I'm going to have my bladder "tied up." What exactly is meant by this? Also, I had a hysterectomy years ago. Would that make any difference in the surgery? This seems to be a problem with many women, so I'm sure your answer would be of interest to a lot of us. — Mrs. B.R.

I'm sure it will be. The urinary bladder is a cause of great trouble for a lot of women past 40. Understanding a bit about how it is constructed may help you understand the surgery.

The bladder is a reservoir for urine. In the normal healthy adult it measures about five by three inches and holds about a pint of urine. During growth years it becomes snugly attached to various nearby structures by strong ligaments and muscles. This arrangement works fine and does nicely through a normal lifetime. Unfortunately, for women especially, other forces take their toll on the supports — childbirth and tumors of the uterus chief among them. With age the bladder does tend to sag a bit anyway. The danger is that there will be a "puddling" of urine, itself an invitation to various infecting organisms. Many women complain of annoying frequency of urination and other symptoms of bladder sag.

For some, the time arrives to adjust matters surgically — as you say, to "tie it up." Surgeons once did, indeed, actually tie the bladder to various nearby structures with stitches into the bladder itself. That is almost never done today. Newer techniques have been developed to adjust the supporting muscles themselves, which works much better. The risk is low and the surgery usually results in relief from the urinary problems. Your hysterectomy should have no bearing on the outcome.

Dear Dr. Ruble: A few years ago the doctor told me I had shingles. They were on both sides under my ribs. Now, I have them again and am trying to get rid of them on my right side. They are much more painful this time. My doctor told me that my age makes the difference in regard to the pain. He admitted he may have been mistaken about my having them before. What do you think? — Mrs. D.M.

Everything points to a mistaken diagnosis years ago. Shingles (herpes zoster) is a virus infection and almost always affects one side only — the side in which the specific nerve has been inflamed by the virus. Also, shingles is practically always a one-time thing, although there can be recurrence of the pain after it subsides.

The older one gets the more trouble one has with shingles, both in degree of pain and its duration. There's no way to "get rid" of shingles. Like other viruses it must run its course. For more on this, see my booklet, "Facts About Shingles." For a copy send 20 cents to cover printing and handling. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope and send it to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My daughter has sinus trouble and she smokes. I tell her that is causing the trouble. She sees doctors for it, but gets no help. A word from you might help. — M.Y.S.

Here are two words: stop smoking. Dear Dr. Ruble: Is low blood sugar a threat in pregnancy? — J.J.

If you mean can a woman with low blood sugar have a successful pregnancy, the answer is yes, she can. In fact, blood sugar tends to rise slightly during pregnancy. High blood sugar is another matter, and must be carefully controlled in pregnancy. Nevertheless, you should tell your obstetrician about your low blood sugar condition.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What is the best kind of cough medicine to use? — Mrs. P.E.

A persistent cough is a matter for a good examination. For the occasional cough from a respiratory infection most of the over-the-counter preparations are sufficient to soothe the throat. If not, one containing codeine (by prescription) is effective. The codeine suppresses the cough center of the brain.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Should an infant on the bottle be given water? — J.S.M.

Infants need sufficient liquid like anyone else. Most get it in their milk. If a particularly heavy and concentrated formula is used, extra water feeding is needed. At least it should be offered between feedings.

Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Ruble, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I think I must be a television addict. I spend hours and hours every day watching television. I am a Christian and I believe this is interfering with my spiritual growth. What do you think? — Mrs. R.D.

DEAR MRS. R.D.: It is undoubtedly interfering with your spiritual growth in several ways. For one thing, the time you spend looking at television could be spent in more worthwhile activities which would help you grow. How many times do you watch television when you could read your Bible, or pray, or fellowship with other Christians?

There is another reason that TV probably is interfering with your spiritual growth. Much of what is shown on television today is frankly not worth looking at, and may even be harmful. A recent survey indicated that such things as sexual innuendoes and profane language have increased greatly in the last few years on TV. Television also often portrays lifestyles that are openly opposed to the Christian life. For example, television often suggests that we will find happiness if we only have material success. That is wrong, for the Bible says, "Watch out! Be on your guard against all kinds of greed; a man's life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions" (Luke 12:15).

You need to ask yourself why have this addiction, then you need to face it honestly before God and seek His strength to deal with it. Perhaps you are unconsciously afraid of responsibilities and are using TV as an escape. A trained Christian counselor may be able to help you. But whatever the reason, confess the matter to God and let Him show you how He wants you to be a useful person for His service.

Bergland interest

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — For the past two years we have reported on the efforts of some independent-minded farmers to break loose from the chemical industry's ever-tightening stranglehold on American agriculture.

By improving the age-old methods of crop rotation, natural pest control and organic fertilizer, these latter-day pioneers hope not only to avoid the skyrocketing expense of chemical farming, but to save their land from the destructive effects of heavy chemical use. Every time we have detailed these farmers' modest successes, we have drawn the wrath of the chemical industry and the agribusiness community with which it is so closely linked.

Now the big boys may really have something to scream about. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has begun to take an interest in chemical-free farming.

BERGLAND WAS approached on his 2,000-acre Minnesota farm during the Christmas holiday by Paul Billberg, a seven-year practitioner of natural farming who has become a true believer. Billberg told our associate Hal Bernton that Bergland "Really understands the problems with the misuse of chemicals" and asked the right questions.

Though Bergland is far from a convert — he uses heavy doses of chemical pesticides and fertilizers to produce his own crops of wheat, flax and grass seed — he did ask a top Agriculture Department researcher, Dr. Hanson Bertrand, to look into the subject for him.

So far the department has allocated some $70 million to investigate so-called "alternative" farming methods. Even this relatively modest amount has drawn fire from chemical-farming advocates.

A shrill critic of chemical-free farming is the Council of Agricultural Scientists (CAST), a supposedly objective scientific organization formed in 1972 to clear up the public's "misunderstanding" of agricultural-environmental problems.

CAST is a shining example of the incestuous relationships that exist in the agricultural establishment. It was initially given an operating base and more than $200,000 worth of free services by Iowa State University. And the Des Moines Register found that two-thirds of CAST's funding came from agribusiness firms whose products it is supposed to be evaluating objectively — Dow Chemical, Eli Lilly, Mobil Chemical, Monsanto and Shell Chemical.

Small wonder that one participant in a CAST task force came to the conclusion that the organization's hierarchy "seemed convinced that organic farming and gardening were part of some sort of conspiracy being directed at the very survival of the U.S. and advanced industrial society."

The hysterical view of the environmental movement is expected to be toned down in the final draft of the CAST report. But the sweetheart arrangement with the chemical giants remains.

HALL OF HEROES: Pitched into the inky waters of a squall-swept lake in Maine on a canoeing trip gone awry, a 13-year-old Boy Scout showed cool courage in the crisis, saving his brother and another companion from drowning in a night of terror. For his grit and levelheaded behavior in a panic situation, Charles Ouellette, 13, of Frenchville, Maine, has earned a place in our special Hall of Heroes.

On the morning of July 5, 1977, 12 Scouts and four adults, including Charlie's father and a guide, Pete Daigle, set out in eight canoes on a day-long expedition.

A brisk wind soon made the waters choppy and difficult for paddling. By dusk, conditions became so bad that the party pulled into shore and waited for the wind to die down. A little after 9 o'clock, Daigle decided it was safe to continue.

As a precaution, the eight canoes were tied together with Daigle's motor-powered canoe in the lead. But in the middle of the lake another squall struck, and the line between the third and fourth canoes tore loose.

Those in the last five canoes cut their lines and made it to shore separately. The first three continued on together, powered by Daigle's outboard.

Minutes later, a 5-foot wave crashed into the second canoe, flipping it over and dumping Charlie and 11-year-old Jean Paul Paradis into the water. They struggled to the rear canoe with 14-year-old Dave Albert and another 11-year-old, Mark Corriveau.

Then another wave capsized that canoe, and the four youngsters swam desperately to Daigle's craft.

Young Paradis panicked and tried to climb aboard the one canoe still upright, and it turned over. After making sure the boys had handholds on the bottom of his canoe, Daigle set off on the 1,000-yard swim to shore for help. Inexplicably, young Corriveau decided to follow him. He never made it.

Then Tommy Ouellette lost his grip on the overturned canoe and began drifting away. His brother, Charlie, holding onto the canoe with one hand, swung his body around so Tommy could grab his foot.

HOLIDAY LINES — Long lines will probably be the order of the day for travelers during the Memorial Day weekend, but the American Automobile Association reports that in Texas, gas will be available along major highways and in rural areas. In the Houston and Dallas area, gas will be more scarce, but still available. These motorists lined up early in West Houston to fill up for the weekend.

Closer look at legislature

Bees get much of blame

By SCOTT CARPENTER and JIM DAVIS

Herts-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — As the 1979 legislative session ends, Gov. Bill Clements and legislative leaders are looking for ways to explain their failure, and the Killer Bees appear to be likely whipping boys.

Much of the blame is deserved.

Clements has charged that the Bees' four-day flight killed the initiative and referendum.

But the House defeated the proposal, not the Senate or the delay caused by the Bees.

And the four days lost to the Senate by the walkout are not nearly as crucial as the Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and his supporters maintain.

Hobby undoubtedly expected a Bee filibuster against the bill that could have led to a separate presidential primary — the principal target of the walk out.

The filibuster would have knocked out any regular Senate business the Friday that the Bee flight began. The next two days were Saturday and Sunday, held open for work as a buffet on the filibuster.

The Bees did present Senate action Monday. But Hobby planned to bring up a bill on wire tapping after the primary bill was sent to the House.

Prior to the walk out, it was assumed that a filibuster would develop over that proposal, which would have allowed wire tapping in certain drug cases. If that had happened, filibustering probably would have eaten Monday's meeting time.

Besides, time didn't seem too precious after Senators began business late Tuesday. They managed to adjourn before the dinner hour that day and the next couple of days.

The thing to remember in the Legislature's final days is that time is important only in terms of killing or passing bills.

The bill that caused the Duiker signs up at Caltech

Matt Duiker of Oklahoma City, Okla., nephew of Mrs. O.J. Watts of Big Spring, has been accepted for enrollment in the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, Calif.

At Caltech, the focus is on engineering and basic research in physics, astronomy, biology, chemistry and seismology.

Two thirds of the incoming freshmen in an average Caltech class have scored a perfect 800 on advanced mathematics college entrance exams.

Matt, a graduate of Putnam High School in Oklahoma City, was a National Merit finalist. He plans to major in physics.

He is the son of Mrs. Wilda (Watts) Powers and is a cousin to Joey Watts, who attends Big Spring High School.

Guilty plea nets prison sentence

Billy Lyn Bailey, Midland, entered a guilty plea to burglary in 118th District Court in Stanton Thursday. She received a 10 year sentence for burglary of a Stanton drug store.

She was arrested Dec. 18, the same day of the offense.

Seminar set at hospital House rejects Clements-backed bill

The Big Spring Hospital will conduct its thirty-ninth Alcoholism Seminar Friday, June 8, in the auditorium at the Big Spring State Hospital.

These seminars are made possible through the Big Spring State Hospital and are being held in conjunction with Howard College.

Ken Schiweck, Ph. D., Director of the El Paso Center for Hypnosis, El Paso, will be the consultant for this day long seminar.

This seminar will be of interest to those working in the field of alcoholism and to those of the general public, who are interested in learning more about this problem.

Registration will begin at 8:00 a.m. and the general session at 9:00 a.m. A registration fee of $1 will be charged with an additional charge of $1 for those wishing to receive Continuing Education Units from Howard College. (The persons wishing to receive credit for attendance will be expected to remain the entire day).

The theme for the day will be: "Hypnotherapy of the Alcoholic"

Additional information can be obtained from Clyde J. Alsop, Training Officer, Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Program, Big Spring State Hospital.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — 3Jim Kaster, a puckish little man and Gov. Bill Clements' chief lobbyist, was on hand Friday night when the House washed its hands of the governor's initiative and referendum proposal.

He grinned impishly as he told reporters what he would advise Clements to give lawmakers for rejecting the cornerstone of the governor's "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights."

Clements had warned repeatedly he would call them back into special session if initiative and referendum — "I&R" to most legislators — went down. Now the question was not if but when Clements would call a special session.

Kaster, a former El Paso legislator, told reporters he would recommend that Clements call a special session in November, December or January.

"That would give the people of Texas an opportunity to see their legislators in action on that issue just before the filing deadline," Kaster said.

Political candidates must file for office by about Feb. 1, 1980.

Kaster joked that if Clements calls lawmakers together again in November or December, "maybe they could give the people a nice Christmas present and vote for initiative and referendum."

"If it goes down then, we could try April. And if it doesn't make it then, maybe September," Kaster said.

An April session would pull legislators away from their primary election campaigns. One in September 1980 would interrupt their races against general election opponents — chiefly Republicans like Clements.

Kaster said he was convinced Clements would call repeated special sessions until the Legislature submits an initiative and referendum constitutional amendment to the voters.

The final House vote on initiative and referendum was a 79-59 roll call on a motion by Rep. Carlyle Smith, D-Grand Prairie, to suspend rules and take up the measure. That was a majority, but House rules required a two-thirds vote.

Smith had failed twice before to persuade the required 100 House members to approve his measure giving voters the power to initiate proposals for action by the Legislature.

'THIS OUGHTA BE A CINCH' — Big Spring fireman John Fowler shows a rapt Vance McMorrises of Grady how to operate one of the firehoses at the Central Fire Station here. Young Vance seems to be posing a question: "How soon can I apply for a cinch job like this?" Vance is two years old.

Since Parnell arrived

Program has come long way

Shelby Parnell has a lot of success stories to tell about patients who have gone through, and have been helped by, the alcohol treatment program at Big Spring State Hospital. A modest man, Mr. Parnell does not have much to say about his own contributions to the program, but he has many words of praise for fellow workers and for patients who have stayed sober for many years after their stay at BSSH.

Dr. Roy Sloan actually started the alcohol program here when he appointed Leslie Ross the first alcoholism counselor in 1955. At that time, and when Parnell joined the staff in 1957, the program was allotted seven beds on one of the units.

"Actually, I came to work for Dr. Preston Harrison as alcoholism counselor," Parnell recalls, "and by then the program had expanded to 37 beds on the northeast wing of unit 9. There wasn't much money for work with alcoholic patients in those days."

Dr. Frankie Williams was a physician here then, before she became clinical director. Mr. Parnell noted Dr. Williams supervised the detoxification of the patients on Unit 2 and then sent them to the alcoholic unit. At that time there were approximately 270 employees and barely enough attendants to take care of the patients' needs. Although there was originally no segregated area for female, after three years or so, beds were allotted for six or seven female alcoholic patients on what is now the admission units.

Speaking of some of the innovations for which the program is noted throughout the state system, Parnell cited the beginning of the open door policy.

"What actually happened," he said, "is that Dr. Harrison selected 41 of the better-adjusted mental patients and moved them into the west wing of the alcoholic unit. Then, for them, and for those under treatment in the alcoholic program, we opened up the unit. It was quite an innovation and raised some eyebrows throughout the circuit. This beginning of the open ward policy which now prevails throughout much of the hospital and the state mental system. The alcohol unit was also the first to begin integration on the hospital grounds."

In 1967, vocational rehabilitation funds became available for the alcoholic programs and this led to fuller staffing. For the first time a full-time registered nurse was hired as were special social workers for the program.

Early in the 1970s the alcoholic program consisted of three-phase treatment, and Parnell became director of phase one. Phase one treated first and second admission alcoholic patients. Phase two dealt with more chronic alcoholic patients as well as those hospitalized for drug abuse. Phase three was for older chronic patients who needed a more structured and sheltered environment.

Within a few years, a more comprehensive program was under way, with a multi-disciplinary treatment approach taking over. It is quite a jump, Parnell said, from the original seven beds, serviced by one counselor and barely enough attendants to cover the 24-hour day, to the current program. At one time, the alcoholic program encompassed 194 beds and all were full. There is now a full-time staff of 55 to 60 people.

"From the original one person specializing in treatment of alcoholic patients, being paid $345 per month, the program has grown to approximately a half-million dollar budget," Mr. Parnell noted. "There are many dedicated people in the program, skilled and trained in the work."

In 1973, Parnell was appointed Coordinator of Outreach Alcohol Services. At present he is the supervisor for the hospital's 46-county catchment area, and has been instrumental in training 14 people in their duties as alcoholic outreach counselors. Parnell still gives a lecture per week to patients on the alcoholic unit as part of his regular duties. He has been a frequent speaker to service clubs and other organizations throughout his hospital tenure.

"One thing I did initiate at the hospital, and a thing that I originally heard some opposition to," he recalled, "was the holding of open Alcoholics Anonymous meetings on the hospital ward. Some people felt that there would not be adequate support from outside the hospital. At the first meeting there were only four AA members from the community, but since then we've held meetings that saw in excess of 400 members from all over the area. For many years, AA sponsored the unit Christmas party, furnishing gifts and necessities to hospital patients."

A homecoming was held after five years and 246 ex-patients from all over the area gathered in the day-room on Unit 10 to hear the special guest speaker, a neuro psychiatrist, also a former patient. The hospital has treated alcoholic patients from 14 to 83 in age. The 83-year-old patient had a stroke while he was under treatment here, but recovered from the stroke as well as his alcohol problem. After his release, he requested a return for treatment here in the hospital, even though his problem had no relation to the program here.

"We've all seen some times of short staff and low budget in the program," Mr. Parnell noted. "But those times were partially overcome by industrial therapy assignments for alcoholic patients. It was not uncommon for them to put in 60,000 man-hours per year in food services, in nursing services, and in yard services. They knew that they were useful in these endeavors, and it increased their self-esteem. Many times after their release, they returned to the hospital to check on their particular patients on other units to see that they were getting everything they needed.

Throughout the years, Parnell has seen a tremendous reclamation of human lives brought about by the alcohol program. And these lives are not just those of the patients, he claims, but the families of the patients as well.

"I remember the father of one present employee — an outreach counselor — who wanted out after four days in the program. He wound up staying 57 days and has just celebrated 21 years of sobriety," Mr. Parnell chuckled. "When he asked to leave so soon, I told him he could, but I asked him to first go to one downtown AA meeting with me. I came to pick him up in snow and sleet and he expressed surprise. I reminded him that no drinker ever let the weather interfere with his drinking, so there was no reason it should interfere with his staying sober, and he has done just that for 21 years."

Warning to his memories, Parnell unreeled human-interest stories from the years more and more rapidly. His first runaway from an AA meeting disturbed him. He always learned patient's names from the first day. When the patients returned on the bus to the hospital, he told each one goodnight by name. On that occasion, he missed one man, so he piled into his car and made a round of the night-spots looking for him, without success. He was called three days later to pick him up from a jail in Rotan. Sitting in a car on a used car lot out of the weather, the patient had watched Shelby drive by three times in his search.

"One Sunday night, I just had the feeling I just ought to come back out here," Parnell observed. "Sure enough, I found seven patients in their late 20s and early 30s sitting in a car drinking. There were five men and two women, and they were all ashamed that I caught them. One of those girls is now a head nurse in an area hospital."

There are many other phenomenal success stories — patient success, that is — stored in Parnell's memory bank. He recalls the case of one patient near 70 who remained under treatment for more than 90 days. After his release from the program, he returned to his community to be elected justice of the peace and serve in that capacity for several years.

"Help is the key word in this program," he concluded. "First the person with a drinking problem must admit that he or she needs help. And that help must be available. I like to think that we have given help to many people in the local and outreach programs. I hope we can continue to give it wherever there is a need for such help."

Thirty-eight nominated for Achievement Banquet

Thirty-eight high school seniors, representing four high schools, have been nominated for the 14th annual Zale's-Herald Youth Achievement Banquet, which will be held at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, June 7, at the Big Spring Country Club.

Big Spring High School and Coahoma High have the largest representations in the group. An even dozen were nominated from each of the schools.

The committee of judges who will determine the representation at the banquet and who will pick the outstanding student from each school will meet at the Holiday Inn at 6 p.m., Monday.

Tumbleweed Smith (Bob Lewis), Big Spring's favorite raconteur, will deliver the principal address at the banquet. Tom Watson, publisher of The Herald, will serve as master of ceremonies.

The nominees: Sands—Van Martin Gaskins, David Ray Mosley, Nathan Zant, Scott Davidson, Jill Floyd and Tammy Nichols.

Big Spring—Barry Fish, Barry Fish, Barry Thomas Rossion, Jim Griffin, Kevin McLaughlin, Scott Keith Campbell, Brenda Bell, Patricia Gail Hamilton, Mary Elizabeth Riley, Cynthia Ann Cowan, Michael Don Evans, Janet Whittington and Greg Henry.

Coahoma—Cynthia Kaye McAdams, James Dever, Stacy Hodnett, Jim Bob Read, Cindy McMahan, Stephen Glenn Sargent, Sarah Suzanne Shive, Nancy Howell, Fermon Gonzales Jr., Tracy Frazier, Deborah Kay Reed and Mike Henry.

Forsan—Beth Boeker, Randy Cregar, Jaylene Saunders, Lucy Thixton, Gregory Ward, Carie Poyner, Melissa Frank and Cathey Harrell.

July Cultural Carnival set at Odessa College

Odessa Cultural Council members are planning a full day of special "happenings" on-the-green of Odessa College, July 7, to kick-off the month-long 1979 July Cultural Carnival.

The all-day fun-fest is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. and end at 7 p.m. There will be exhibits from member organizations, food and drink booths, costumed actors from both the Permian Playhouse and Globe of the Great Southwest and both classical and country-western music. There will be something for everyone regardless of their tastes in art.

Tentative plans include entertainers from The Odessa Brand New Opree, furnished through the courtesy of Hoot Gibson, the director; as well as classical music.

"The Cultural Carnival is a combination of activities which showcase local cultural resources," said Dick Medley, Carnival chairman. These will include the Odessa Shakespeare Festival which will feature "Anthony & Cleopatra" and "Cymbeline" and Permian Playhouse's "Yankee Doodle" and "Basin Burelesque." The Odessa Art Association will be exhibiting at both theatres all month; there will be films by Odessa Cinema Society, including "Scaramouche"; a presentation by the Ector County Historical Commission, a performance by the Odessa Civic Concert Association, etc."

PICKER FEATURED IN COUNTRY MUSIC SHOW — John Hartin will be the featured instrumentalist for "Twelfth Street Rag," one of more than 40 members in "The Golden Years of Country Music." The two-hour show comes to Lamesa on June 29. Showtime is 8:30 p.m. at the Lamesa High School Football Stadium. Back-up site, in event of bad weather, will be the High School Auditorium.

Country music road show coming to Lamesa in June

LAMESA — "The Golden Years of Country Music" is coming to Lamesa, June 29.

The country music road show, a production of South Plains College, Levelland, will be performed at 8:30 p.m. at the Lamesa High School Football Stadium.

"Golden Years" features about 40 songs spanning 50 years of country music history.

Songs include "Will There Be Any Freight Trains in Heaven" by Jimmie Rodgers, known as the father of modern country music; "Mule Skinner Blues" by Bill Monroe, father of bluegrass; "Wabash Cannon Ball"; "Somke, Smoke, Smoke"; "Your Cheatin Heart"; "Folsom Prison Blues" and "Amanda" among many others.

Country and bluegrass artists represented in this show include Hank Williams, Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash, Flatt and Scruggs, Waylon Jennings, Dolly Parton and many others.

The music in "Golden Years" should sound pretty much like the original recordings, if John Hartin and crew have anything to say about it.

"We worked primarily form original recordings arranging all the songs and cast members listened to tapes of the originals," said Hartin, vocalist and electric guitarist in the show. Hartin also is director of a two-year program in country and bluegrass music at SPC. "We are trying to come as close as we can to the original sound."

"We think every artist we recognize in the show has made a definite impact on the business," said Hartin, who also has been a professional guitarist for a number of years.

"Golden Years," along with the music has a story to tell.

"There's a story developing in the fact that country music has left the hills and is being recognized in metropolitan areas," said Hartin.

"Certain things were happening in Kentucky with the bluegrass in the 30's and 40's; at the same time a completely different type of country music was followed in Texas by the Carter Family, who did a lot of recording and broad-casting down at Del Rio. They had a big 50,000 watt station that was heard all over the country," he added. The show goes on to recognize people who stuck with country music at a difficult time.

Golden years will feature faculty and students from SPC's country and bluegrass music program and students from the speech and drama department as well. Featured instruments will include fiddles, acoustic, electric and pedal steel guitars, mandolin, banjo, auto harp, piano, and drums. In event of bad weather the show will be at the High School Auditorium.

Mountain Wood Band on 'statehouse circuit'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — With a cover letter from the governor of Montana, the Mission Mountain Wood Band is touring the "statehouse circuit," playing free concerts from the steps of the state capitols.

The journey may be unique. No one in the five-member group has ever heard of anyone doing it. The band plays state capitols whenever it can as part of its regular cross-country tours.

They have a letter from Montana Gov. Tom Judge, who took a liking to the band formed seven years ago in the shadows of the Mission Mountain range of the Rockies in Missoula, Mont.

"There is a lot of red tape involved in setting one of these things up," Steve Riddle, 27, the leader of the group, said recently as he relaxed on the steps of the Tennessee Capitol after a performance.

"The letter goes in the door with us. It's sort of the Montana state seal of approval on our act ... that we're not going to do anything to offend anybody," he said.

Nashville was No. 12 on the list of capitol concerts. A handful of state office workers spent their lunch hour listening to the five-member group play three songs, including "Golden Rockets" by Hank Snow.

"We thought the Hank Snow number would go over big here," observed Riddle, who said he always has admired Snow's work.

Riddle said the band plays progressive country music. "We want to be the first through the door with this sound. It's got a country style, but we add some orchestration," he said.

Later in the evening, the band showed its versatility at a Nashville nightclub.

In "Utah Moon," Riddle and two other band members sang in what Riddle called "our Andrews Sisters harmonies." Terry Robinson added some yodeling on "Park Hotel," an ode Riddle wrote to a one-time hangout for University of Montana students.

The group has received national attention with an appearance recently on a Cheryl Ladd television special.

The band played its first out-of-state capitol concert in Wisconsin last fall. Other stops have included Florida, Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Utah and New York.

"In Utah, we played in a rotunda. It was like singing in the shower with the echoes," Riddle said.

Time magazine develops photographic essay to art

By REBECCA TAYLOR
Howard County Library

Time Incorporated was incorporated in New York in 1922. As a major publisher of photographic news magazines, the company developed the photographic essay to a fine art. Through its subsidiary, Time-Life Books, several series of volumes have been released combining the editors fine talents with many excellent and some never before published photos. Most of these well produced books are sold through direct solicitation of individuals. One of the most highly publicized, is the Old West series frequently seen on television. Two of the historically more recent series are This Fabulous Century and World War II.

This Fabulous Century begins with the prelude volume 1870-1900. Most of the Time-Life series books follow the same general format. There is a continuous narrative of events, movements and incidents with the appropriate photos nearby. Throughout the volume, there are additional short "side trips" describing a single incident or individual.

The 1930-40 volume of This Fabulous Century is illustrated by such items as radio programs in progress, depression ravaged children, movie and comic heroes, gangsters, dance crazes and the 1939 World's Fair.

From 1932-1934, annual earnings ranged from $216 for a farm hand to $8663 for a U.S. Congressman. A 1929 Ford cost $57.50, sirloin steak 29 cents a pound, a grand piano, $395 and a six room house with double garage sold for $2,800.

The World War II is outstanding in that the narrative is highly readable and the photos are frequently from newly discovered sources never before published. The reader does not become bogged down in detailed troop movement and battle plans as with most books on the subject. One can "read" the pictures and accompanying essays and get a coherent idea of the content or read the text, pausing to "drop anchor" and read the photo essays about Stalin, Mussolini, the Sullivan family who lost all five sons in the sinking of one ship, and many others.

As Demo convention site

Dallas may be eliminated

(PHOTO BY DANNY VALDES)

AMERICAN LEGION AWARDS — Patricia Jones, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Jones, and Alan Trevino, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Trevino, Jr., were the American Legion honorees for Runnels Junior High School. Dr. Hal Hansen presented the awards for the American Legion at a school assembly Thursday. Both students are eighth graders, and the award is for citizenship and outstanding performance during the year.

DALLAS (AP) — Legal snags in the proposed fundraising process may eliminate Dallas from consideration as the host city for the 1980 Democratic National Convention, a Dallas party executive has said.

The host steering committee has scheduled a meeting for 2 p.m. Wednesday, when it will decide whether or not to continue the bid for the convention.

"It's pretty much up to Dallas," said Susan Buck, Dallas County Democratic Party executive director. "We could bow out."

The problems have grown out of Dallas' offer to raise funds needed for the convention through a private host committee. The three other cities vying for the convention — New York, Detroit and Philadelphia — have pledged the use of public funds.

The Dallas Morning News has reported that the Democratic National Committee has found "complications" with the Dallas bid, and subsequently may cancel its planned June 13-14 visit to the city.

The committee plans to ask the Federal Election Commission for a ruling on the legality of Dallas' private committee offer, The News reported.

"It's difficult to get corporations to give money when they know there's a chance they might get prosecuted for illegal contributions," Ms. Buck said. "Their guidelines are just too gray."

"If the legalities get to be too much, we'll pull out."

Dallas would need as much as $3 million for promotional expenses and hall costs.

The committee also is studying the party's national midterm conference held last December in Memphis, the News reported. That convention also was funded with private contributions through a host committee.

"It's a crying shame that you have to put on a convention using public money because it breaks the law," Ms. Buck said. "That's the pits, but that's where it stands."

Full legal rights given to fetuses under new bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Frank Gaston, R-Dallas, attempted to add an amendment making an exception for abortions performed where medical information indicated that an unborn child had major defects that would prevent normal development.

"This would allow a physician to terminate a child with major defects. I don't know if you and I want that decision, and I don't know of any physician that wants that decision," said Rep. Gene Green, D-Houston, the bill's sponsor.

"Mr. Green is misleading you as he has in the past," Gaston said. "The state should not second guess a doctor who is on the scene at a given time."

Gaston's amendment was tabled, 77-46.

Rejecting arguments they would be tying the hands of doctors, the House passed a bill Friday giving full legal rights to fetuses that survive abortions.

A 101-31 vote returned the bill to the Senate, where it originated, for action on changes made by the House.

By giving aborted fetuses full legal rights, the bill has the effect of imposing on doctors a duty to do all they can to keep them alive, just as they would for a full-term baby.

The bill also authorizes the Texas Department of Human Resources to take custody of children born as a result of abortion and to sue to terminate the parental rights of their parents.

Tommy John's streak ends

Indians 8, Yankees 4

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bobby Bonds led off with the first home run of the season off Tommy John and added two doubles as the Cleveland Indians ended the previously unbeaten New York left-hander's winning streak at nine games Saturday by defeating the New York Yankees 8-4.

Bonds lifted John's second pitch in the bottom of the first inning over the center field fence — the first home run off John since last Sept. 3. Gary Alexander also homered off John, who was chased in the fifth inning and contributed to his own downfall with a throwing error that cost him two unearned runs.

Orioles 7, Tigers 5

DETROIT (AP) — Lee May rapped a tie-breaking two-run single in the 16th inning and rookie Sammy Stewart hurled five innings of one-hit relief to lead the red-hot Baltimore Orioles to a 7-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers on Saturday.

The Orioles won for the 26th time in their last 32 games and stretched their lead in the American League to East to 3½ games over Boston. The game lasted 5 hours, 17 minutes on a windswept, rain-spattered day.

Benny Ayala singled with one out in the 16th off John Hiller, 3-3, and took third on Eddie Murray's double. Fernando Arroyo relieved and issued an intentional walk to Gary Roenicke, loading the bases and setting the stage for May's game-winning hit.

Stewart picked up his second win against one loss.

A MERE SHADOW OF ITSELF — Los Angeles Dodgers Reggie Smith (8) leaps high in the air after Cincinnati Reds Ken Griffey home run in the sixth inning in Los Angeles Saturday. The Reds won 3-1.

Saturday baseball

Reds 3, Dodgers 1

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Johnny Bench doubled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and Fred Norman pitched a six-hitter as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-1 Saturday.

The Reds, who had been held to only three hits through six innings by loser Don Sutton, 5-4, broke a 1-1 tie with two runs in the seventh.

Dan Driessen started the winning burst with a one-out single to right and scored on Bench's double to right. Bench moved to third on a single by Ray Knight and scored on second baseman Dave Lopes' throwing error.

Norman, 24, who hadn't started a game in two weeks, pitched his second complete game of the season and only the fifth for Cincinnati this year.

Braves 5, Giants 4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Garv Matthews, who hit a two-run homer earlier, greeted Tom Griffin with a two-run single in the ninth inning, driving in the tying and winning runs and lifting the Atlanta Braves to a 5-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants on Saturday.

Pinch-hitter Charlie Spikes triggered the winning rally with a leadoff double off Dave Roberts, 0-1. Jerry Royster reached first on Roberts' fielding error, with Spikes holding second, and both runners advanced on Mike Lum's sacrifice.

Matthews, whose 10th homer of the season had given the Braves a 2-0 lead in the third inning, then jumped on Griffin with his game-winning single.

The win went to Gene Garber, 2-7.

Blue Jays 7, Red Sox 6

TORONTO (AP) — Roy Howell hit a three-run homer with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning Saturday, lifting the Toronto Blue Jays to a 7-6 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Howell's shot over the right field fence was his third homer of the season and came off reliever Bill Campbell, 2-2.

The Red Sox, who erased a four-run deficit in the top of the seventh, took a 6-4 lead in the top of the ninth on Rick Burleson's two-run single. But with two outs in the bottom of the inning, Alfredo Griffin beat out an infield hit and then beat the throw to second on Bob Bailor's grounder up the middle. Howell then ripped an 0-2 pitch from Campbell over the 375-foot sign.

Royals 7, Twins 4

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Willie Wilson drove in three runs and Todd Cruz knocked in two as the Kansas City Royals defeated the Minnesota Twins 7-4 Saturday.

The Royals had leads of 3-0 and 5-1 before Twins rookie John Castino slammed a two-run homer off Rich Gale, 4-3, with no outs in the seventh inning. Larry Gura replaced Gale and struck out four of the next six batters and later needed relief help himself.

A pinch-hit double by Jose Morales pulled the Twins to within one run in the eighth before the Royals put the game away with two runs in the ninth.

Angels 8, White Sox 4

CHICAGO (AP) — Dan Ford smashed two doubles and Brian Downing and Rick Miller each delivered two-run singles Saturday to lead the California Angels to an 8-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Frank Tanana, 4-3, gained the victory but needed seventh-inning help from Mark Clear, who earned his fourth save. Rookie Fred Howard, making his major league debut, took the loss.

Howard was given a 2-0 lead in the second inning on Eric Soderholm's fifth homer and a run-scoring single by Rusty Torres, but the Angels took the lead with four runs in the fourth and added three in the fifth.

EYEING HIS SHOT — Golfer Tom Watson watches his shot from a bunker on the 10th hole as he blasted close to save par and remain the leader during the third round of the Memorial Golf Tournament. Watson toured the soggy Muirfield Village course in even par 72 for a two under total for the 54 holes.

Watson takes 4-shot lead in Memorial

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Tom Watson, the outstanding player in the game for the past two seasons, turned back a pair of challenges and retained a commanding, 4-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the Memorial Golf Tournament.

A round of par 72 was good enough for Watson to repel the bids of host Jack Nicklaus and old pro Miller Barber, both of whom self-destructed at one time or another.

Watson, with a 54-hole total of 214, 2 shots under par, managed to finish the round as he started — 4 strokes in front of the frustrated field.

That lead twice dwindled to one when Nicklaus made his move on the front side. But he backed off with bogeys on three of four holes beginning on the 10th.

Then it was Barber, the chunky old pro they call "X," who made a move at the gritty Watson, the season's leading money-winner and gunning for a fourth title of the year. Barber ripped off four back-nine birdies, was within 2 strokes of the lead, then blew to a double bogey-6 on the 18th hole on the extremely difficult, 7,101-yard Muirfield Village Golf course.

The 48-year-old Barber finished second alone at 218, 2 shots over par, after a 71 in

Welch, Wyatt take lead in City Golf

Jim Welch and Riley Wyatt shot rounds of 72 to take the first round lead in the Big Spring City Championship Golf Tournament being staged over the Memorial Day weekend at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Welch and Wyatt will carry a one-stroke advantage over Gary Howell into the second round. Others still close to the leaders in the championship flight include Bobby Smith at 74, last year's champion Don Osborne at 75, and Johnnie Scott, Bob Waters and Eddie Acric at 76. The cut off for the championship flight was 80.

Ron Booth and Bernard Rains shared the lead in the first flight, both carding 71s. One shot behind Rains and Booth were the trio of Don Minyard, Tommy Mills, and Tano Chavarria. The cut-off for the first flight was at 90.

Don Stone's round of 90 led the field in the second flight. Willie Mendoza and R. M. Oliver had rounds of 91, with James Petty scoring a 92. Three golfers had rounds of 93.

A total of 57 golfers are participating in the three day event. Twenty-one qualified for the championship flight, 20 for the first flight, and 16 for the second flight. Action will continue today, with the final round scheduled for Memorial Day.

Sonics, Bullets resume series

SEATTLE (AP) — A pass remarkable is that Seattle's offense is not geared toward him.

"Most of my points don't come by design," said the quick, 6-foot-2 guard from Southern Cal, a veteran of four pro seasons.

"I'm most effective in the transition game, especially following loose balls and turnovers. I try to beat the defense downcourt. That way I can get the shot I want, not the one they want to give me."

Both coaches in this title series appreciate the value of a player like Williams, who has thus far totally outplayed his Washington counterpart, Tom Henderson.

"We like to run and we run better when Gus is in there to handle the ball and get things going," said Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens. "When he's on the court, nobody stands around."

Gus is one of the premier guards in the league, certainly one of the quickest," praised Washington Coach Dick Motta. "We've got to slow him down."

YOUNG IDEAS

By DICK YOUNG

Munson can't understand Guidry's unselfishness

I would have bet on it. Thurman Munson can't understand the unselfishness of Ron Guidry. Thurman Munson can't understand anyone's unselfishness because he is such a selfish person himself.

People who are deeply selfish can't comprehend the altruism of another. They make a deep mystery of it. They figure the guy who does something without thinking of No. 1 must be nuts, or more than likely has an ulterior motive that the suspicious guy just hasn't been able to figure out yet.

It never occurs to them that the satisfaction, the true pleasure that can be found in doing something for someone else, or for a group of people like your team, is motivation enough. That is the trouble today, really in sports and in our work and all around us. We're all so busy looking after No. 1 that the rewards of helping others are lost on the Thurman Munsons of the world.

Thurman Munson evaluates everything in terms of money. When you get into a discussion with him about his relations with others, he has a favorite phrase. "I've done a lot," he says, meaning he has piled up a lot of Ohio real estate, and therefore it doesn't really matter to him that people think he's a gruff cload.

So, it doesn't surprise me a bit that Thurman Munson says, "I think the man is crazy," when Ron Guidry takes himself out of the starting rotation, where he is Numero Uno, and assigns himself to the bullpen during the Gossage emergency.

There are two ways to look at this controversy: Is it good for the Yankees? Is it good for Ron Guidry? There is nothing wrong with Thurman Munson's deciding, if he wishes, that the Yankees are better off starting Guidry and relieving with Dick Tidrow, Paul Mirabella and Ken Clay. Obviously, the front office and the manager think otherwise. So do I. So does Guidry. Why else would he have volunteered for the switch?

Al Rosen would love to have it both ways. "I wish I could clone Ron Guidry," he says. "That way, we'd have him in the bullpen and starting every fifth day."

Guidry was bursting to volunteer for the bullpen last week. He wasn't so presumptuous as to go directly to the manager, so he used the old leak system. While having breakfast with Phil Pepe, Ron casually let it drop that he had the solution to the Yankees' temporary relief problem. Phil Pepe wrote it in the Daily News. The right people saw it. They got the message, proving newspapermen have some value, and are cheaper than a mailgram.

"The team comes first," Guidry said. "There is nothing else on my mind."

Of course, there is on Munson's. He proposed, immediately, that Ron Guidry should get a new contract. Good old Thurman, a big shot with somebody else's money.

Guidry has this season, plus two more to go on his existing contract. It averages out at $200,000. He extended his contract two years before he had his bumper 25-and-3 season. George Steinbrenner rewarded him with a juicy bonus for the big year, and undoubtedly will come up with another for Guidry's team spirit in this case.

"You know George," says Al Rosen. "He loves this kind of thing. He'll take him in his arms and say, anything you want, Ronnie."

When Frank Messer was doing his pre-game show with Guidry as guest the other day, he led Ron into the subject with something like this: "It takes a lot of courage to go from 25-and-3 as a starter to a seat in the bullpen."

"I don't know," said Ron. "I wouldn't have won 25 without the other guys. Maybe I owe them something."

The regrettable part is that some of the players don't realize he is doing it for them, his teammates. They think in terms of his doing it for the front office when he says the team comes first.

Guidry has faith in others. That, too, is a characteristic a selfish person does not understand. They talk of the jeopardy to which he might be exposing his arm by the abrupt change from a starter's routine, with its regularity, to the wrap-up reliever, who might be called on two, three days in a row, never quite knowing when.

"I'm sure my arm is going to be treated with a lot of respect," says Guidry. "That's faith and awfully good common sense."

It is ironic that Munson, the day he described Guidry as crazy for making the switch, hurt his shoulder in a collision at home while trying to score. Thurman has a drive to win that is almost as strong as his selfishness, sometimes stronger.

When he doesn't take time to think when he acts on reflex, he is himself a team man. If he had been thinking only of himself, he wouldn't have played into the catcher. Thurman Munson is a much nicer person when he's crazy.

63rd Indy 500 race has aura of uncertainty

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The mood prior to Sunday's Indianapolis 500 is about as surly, cold and bleak as the unseasonable weather leading up to it. Most of the racing fraternity sense the 63rd running of the Memorial Day weekend classic is the end of an era.

After more than 30 years under the control of the Hulman family, Indianapolis Motor Speedway is for sale, and there is no shortage of prospective buyers. A quick sale is expected. The Hulmans reportedly are tired of the hassles, the lawsuits and the criticism of the purse of "just" $1 million.

Speculation on who might actually win the race has taken a back seat to court drivers such as Tom Sneva, Danny Ongais or Wally Dallenbach finally win his first?

No one will even guess. The impact of the myriad of rules changes since last year is unknown. Most of the field is comprised of entries from the rebel Championship Auto Racing Teams group, and they never have raced under the current U.S. Auto Club rules before.

The CART teams, including most of the sport's biggest names, are running here under court order to obey the USAC rules. No one is sure whether USAC, CART or some yet unformed group of survivors of that war will be running the show next year.

Even the USAC regulars don't really know what to expect because new rules have been added this month. A pace car will pack up the field during caution periods for the first time. The pacer lights which kept the intervals between cars under the yellow flag are gone, opening up the race to a driver other than the one who runs the fastest all day with the fewest problems.

If the rules favor anyone, it may be the ageless Foyt. He has won every USAC race this season, and 1973 winner Gordon Johncock was quoted as saying: "USAC's rules are rigged so no one but Foyt can win." It's certainly not as simple as that, however.

The best bets, as always, are the former winners — Foyt, Al and Bobby Unser, Johncock and Johnny Herbert.

CONFERENCE TIME — Driver Janet Guthrie confers with a crewman during a break from practice at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway earlier this month. Although Miss Guthrie was faced with opposition when she first arrived at the Speedway in 1976, most drivers now accept her. This year's Indianapolis 500-mile race will be her third. See related story on Guthrie, Page 5-B.

U.S. Auto Club allows for qualifying on Saturday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The last thing anybody at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway expected to be doing the day before the 63rd Indy 500 was watching cars qualify for Sunday's race.

But true to its reputation as the place of the unexpected, that's exactly what the schedule called for today.

Much to their own surprise, 11 drivers bumped from the starting field during last weekend's time trials sessions had one last shot today at getting into the $1 million race.

The strange turn of events was the result of a ruling late Friday by the U.S. Auto Club upholding appeals of the nonqualified drivers.

USAC spokesman Paul Reinhard said the appeals, which had been expected to be no more than a formality before going to court, were "found to have merit" and that the three-man appeal board recommended that USAC ask officials of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway to "make a supplementary regulation," allowing the extraordinary session.

Because the race entry form gives the Speedway such authority, that made it unnecessary to get approval from all racing teams already in the field. That idea failed Thursday when driver-owner Jim McElreath and Don Biederstedt, owner of Eldon Rasmussen's car, refused to sign waivers for extra qualifying.

The Speedway agreed to USAC's request, and suddenly, just when it seemed that thoughts could turn from controversy to racing, there was the prospect of more than the traditional 33 starters for the first time since 1933.

The appeals claimed a USAC rule clarification on the size of turbocharger exhaust pipes gave their competitors unfair advantage on the final day of qualifying.

Willie Montanez led off the seventh with a walk off Pirate reliever Kent Tekulve, 2-5, and was exhaust pipe had been altered to override the manifold pressure limit, be reinstated or that the race be halted.

Another car owner, Wayne Woodward, was trying to get into the race by appeal.

Woodward went to Marion County Superior Court Friday to ask that his entry, denied a spot in the starting lineup after a USAC inspection revealed that the

Henderson, Mets rally past Pirates

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Henderson lined a two-run homer to straightaway center field in the seventh inning, carrying the New York Mets to a 10-8 victory Saturday over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Willie Montanez led off the seventh with a walk off Pirate reliever Kent Tekulve, 2-5, and was sacrificed to second. Henderson then lined a 2-1 delivery from Tekulve over the 410-foot in dead center for his second homer of the season, giving the Mets a 9-8 lead and putting them in front for the third and final time in the game. Joel Youngblood homered in the eighth for the Mets' final run.

They had taken a 5-1 lead in the third on a two-run single by Lee Mazzilli and Richie Hebner and an RBI single by John Stearns, all with two out.

Skip Lockwood, 1-5, gained his first victory of the season by shutting down the Pirates over the final two innings.

SAFE AT SECOND — Pan American University runner Garry Dippel (14) slides safely into second base as Brigham Young University second baseman Mark Adamiak attempts a tag. Brigham Young defeated Pan American 11-5 in the NCAA Central Regional.

OC, Midland advance to juco tennis finals

WACO, Texas (AP) — Mike Brunberg of Miami Dade South and Karl Richter of Odessa both captured victories Friday to set the finals match between the top two seeds in the National Junior College men's tennis tournament.

Brunberg, the No. 1 seed, struggled with Terry Ward of McLennan Community College in the first set before winning the match 6-4, 6-0.

Richter, the No. 2 seed, eliminated third-ranked Brian McDonald of Central Florida 6-3, 6-0 in the other semi-final contest.

Richter and partner Bill Heiser also advanced to the doubles finals with a 7-6, 6-2 triumph over Mitch Mitchell

Only to lose in the 13th Haddix rekindles the perfect game

NEW YORK (AP) — The details are still fresh in his mind, as though Harvey Haddix had pitched the game last week and not 20 years ago today. Then again, it isn't every day a man pitches 12 perfect innings of baseball and loses in the 13th.

So many things stand out: the pre-game meeting in which Haddix was going over the Milwaukee lineup, telling his teammates on the Pittsburgh Pirates how he would pitch to each of the Braves that night at County Stadium.

"Don Hoak got up and said, 'Harvey, if you pitch those hitters like that, you'll throw a no-hitter,'" Haddix recalled. "It broke up the meeting. I never did finish going over the hitters. We just went out on the field to play ball."

Play they did. On May 26, 1959, Haddix and Milwaukee's Lew Burdette stole the spotlight. Burdette was shutting out Pittsburgh, despite 12 Pirate hits — one of them by Haddix — and Haddix, the left-hander they called "Kitten," was mowing down batter after batter.

"There was nothing close to being a hit," he recalled. "They hit some balls hard, but they were right at guys. There were no running, diving catches or anything like that."

"Nothing like that. Just outs. Not a Braves batter reached base."

"Fastball and slider. That was it. I had excellent control with either pitch," said Haddix.

"Heck, Harvey, you could have knocked a gnat off their noses," added Bob Skinner, like Haddix now a coach with the Pirates.

All this time, through five innings...through six innings, nobody talked to Haddix.

"I went to bat in the seventh inning, and their catcher, Del Crandall, said, 'You got a pretty good game going here.' Otherwise, nobody talked to me the whole game. I was a lonesome guy."

It was just Haddix throwing strikes and more strikes. "He was only behind on the count once," recalled Skinner, lounging Friday night in the Pirates' clubhouse. "He went 3-1 on Eddie Mathews about the seventh inning. But he got him out, of course."

Of course, Haddix would have been ahead, but for the stormy weather conditions around County Stadium.

"It never did rain, but it was lightning and thundering, and the wind was blowing like crazy," said Haddix.

Skinner came up and blasted one of Burdette's pitches to right field, "but a gust of wind from the storm blew it back and Hank Aaron caught it," says Haddix.

"Normally, it would have been an easy home run," said Skinner. "Aaron had given up on the ball, but it drifted back."

Haddix had lost another potential run earlier. "Roman Mejias was on first base, and somebody hit a single," said Haddix. "Mejias hesitated rounding second, and they just threw him out at third. The next guy up hit a fly ball that would have scored him."

It was not to be. "Only one inning did I try for the no-hitter," said Haddix. "That was the ninth."

He got the ninth, then the 10th, 11th and 12th. Then came the 13th.

"The first man up, Felix Mantilla, hit a normal grounder to third. About a five-hopper," said Haddix.

"Hoak picked it up, looked at the ball in his glove — that's how much time he had — and threw it in the dirt to Rocky Nelson at first base. The first man on was their 37th batter."

Mathews sacrificed him to second, and the next guy was Hank Aaron. "I walked him intentionally to set up the force or the double play."

"Then came Joe Adcock. The second pitch to him was a slider, up and away, and he hit it right over the right-center field fence — for a double and one run."

A double, Harvey?

"Yep. Mantilla scored, then Aaron went and touched second. As I was walking off the field, I saw Aaron running across the pitcher's mound towards the dugout and Adcock passed him on the basepaths."

"So the game was over, but nobody knew what the score was. The next day, (National League President) Warren Giles ruled it was a 1-0 score," said Haddix.

"I was the last one out of the clubhouse, and I shared a cab back to the hotel with Hoak. We were sitting there, and he said, 'I've booted 'em before, and I'll boot 'em again. But I'll also make some good plays for you, Harv.' That was it: no apologies, and I didn't want any."

"I went back to my room, and my roommate was R.G. Smith. After I got tired of answering the phone, it was about 2 o'clock in the morning. I said, 'Roomie, let's get out of here. If we get fined, I've got it.'"

"So we walked the streets for a while, then we stopped for breakfast at about 6 a.m. And while we were having breakfast, I heard the people talking about the game."

"You know, there were about 16,000 people at the park that night, but I swear about 100,000 people have told me they were at the game or saw it on television — and it wasn't televised."

So there in the restaurant sat Harvey Haddix, who had, in fact, been at County Stadium that night 20 years ago. He listened to those people and said nothing.

Now he looks back and lists as his top achievement his two victories over the Yankees in the next World Series. "That was the highlight of my career," he says.

"That perfect game, yeah, I feel like I did something, but I didn't win."

So today, says Harvey Haddix, there will be a modest celebration of his achievement two decades ago.

"Oh, I might have a beer on it, you know. But nothing special."

Nothing special, he says, recalling a game that was very special indeed.

Rookie leads Corning LPGA

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — Rookie Lynn Adams shot a one-under-par 69 Saturday and took advantage of an error on the scorecard of veteran Judy Rankin to move into the lead going into Sunday's final round of the $100,000 LPGA Corning Classic golf tournament.

Adams, with a 215, held a one-stroke lead over Rankin, Donna Caponi Young, Penny Pulz and Alice Ritzman after three rounds of the 72-hole Ladies Professional Golf Association event.

Amy Alcott, Sally Little, Sandy Spuzich and Bonny Bryant trailed Adams by two strokes going into the final round at the Corning Country Club golf course.

"I'm in my first year on the tour, and I don't mind admitting it. I am not ready to win. For some reason, I'm scared to win," said Adams, a 28-year-old pro from Kingsville, Texas. "I will be going out there to win, but you have a feeling in your own mind when you are ready. When I do win, I want to win consistently. I just don't think my golf game is at the caliber right now to constantly shoot the numbers I am shooting."

Rankin, the first player ever to win $100,000 in a season on the LPGA tour, remained in contention for her 26th tour victory. She lost the lead because she signed a scorecard indicating she bogeyed the 16th hole, a hole she actually parred.

"I don't see how that can be," Rankin said of the error. "I even added it up." Because of the error, one stroke was added to her score.

Mickey Wright, one of the LPGA all-time winners, wasn't so lucky Saturday. She was disqualified for signing the wrong scorecard. But Wright was not a contender when the mistake occurred, eliminating her in the third round.

Susan O'Connor of Palm Springs, Calif., had shared the lead with Rankin after the second round but faltered, shooting a 6-over-par 76 to fall three strokes behind Adams.

Gymnastics camp offered at WTSU

CANYON — The Caravan of Camp will be hosting its twelfth annual session this summer. Each camp features gym classes for beginners, intermediates, and advanced students. Instruction is given in all olympic events, plus tumbling and trampoline. Such outstanding gymnasts as Rusty Mitchele, a 1964 Olympian, and Betty Alexson, serve as instructors.

The total cost of one week of camp instruction, including room, food and recreation, is $20.

There are several sessions through June. The closest camp is at West Texas State University in Canyon. Anyone interested locally should contact Nadine Teague at 7-8234.

BYU eliminates Pan Am

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Brigham Young pitcher Tom Morris scattered seven hits and his Cougar teammates pelted Pan American with a pair of four-run innings Saturday en route to an 11-5 victory in the NCAA Central Division baseball tournament.

The victory advanced the Cougars, 49-24, to Monday's game against the loser of a later game between Lamar University and top-ranked Texas. Sunday's games were pushed back to Monday because BYU, a Mormon institution, does not play athletic events on Sunday.

The loss eliminated the Broncos from the double-elimination tournament. It was the 14th loss in 18 NCAA playoff games since Pan Am played in the 1971 College World Series.

Pan American starter Larry Harris held the Cougars hitless until the fifth, when BYU took a 1-0 lead on a single by Mike Davis. Harris walked the bases loaded after two outs prior to Davis' hit.

BYU chased Harris in the sixth inning with four runs on a sacrifice fly by Cliff Pastornicky, a two-run single by Stan Younger and a throwing error by Bronc catcher Danny Firova.

BYU, the No. 4-ranked hitting team in the NCAA, added two more runs in the seventh on a wild pitch by Harris and Pastornicky's sacrifice fly.

The Cougars added four more in the ninth, highlighted by Younger's three-run double.

Country Club partnership slated next weekend

The annual Big Spring Country Club Partnership will be held June 9-10, Club Pro C.G. Griffin announced. There will be both a scratch and handicap division.

The scratch division will consist of 36 holes of medal play, with $700 merchandise to the champion. The top eight finishers will receive merchandise. The tee time for the scratch division will be at 2:00 each day.

The handicap division will also be a 36 hole affair, and will also pay $700 to the winner, with the top eight places compensated. The tee time for the handicappers will be 9:00 each morning.

Entries will be accepted until 5:00 on the night of Thursday, June 7. Only the first 100 paid teams will be accepted. Griffin emphasized. The entry fee is $30 per man.

After the first day, the medalist teams in each division will be paid $50 per team.

Included in the entry fee will be a tasty poolside barbecue for golfers and their wives, with music provided.

Anyone wishing to enter the affair should contact Griffin at P.O. Box 1207, Big Spring. Don Osborne is serving as the tournament chairman.

Chamber to host slo-pitch tourney

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce will host the first in what they hope will be an annual invitational slo-pitch tournament the weekend of June 8-10.

The affair will be limited to the first 40 teams that enter. Entry fee for the double elimination affair will be $55 dollars per team. There will be only one division in the tourney. It will be conducted at the Johnny Stone Memorial Park. Deadline for entering is Tuesday, June 5 at 10:00 p.m.

Each team can carry only 16 players on their roster.

Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place teams. There will also be ten all-tournament trophies presented, as well as a home run trophy. The most valuable player in the tournament will be presented a gift.

There will be a one-hour time limit on all games except the finals on both the winners and losers bracket championship games.

A 20 run rule will go into effect after four innings.

with a 15 run rule after five innings. This, however, does not include non-time limit games. Anyone ejected from a game is ejected from the remainder of the tournament.

Teams wishing to enter should mail or call all rosters and entry fees to John Weeks, 1512 Stadium, Big Spring. His number is 267-8323.

Teams entering should make checks payable to the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

DRAWING ATTENTION TO THE CAMP OF CHAMPS — Harold Wilder's Camp of Champs basketball camp will be held in two one-week sessions in July. Here, Barbie Kothman displays a Camp T-shirt which will be given to each participant.

Camp of Champs sets July dates

Howard College Athletic Director and Basketball Coach Harold Wilder has announced the dates for his popular summer basketball camp. This will be the seventh straight year Wilder has directed the event.

Camp dates for the girls will be July 9 to July 13. The camp date for the boys will be July 16 to July 20. This will be the first opportunity for the campers to utilize the spacious Dorothy Garrett Coliseum for the many activities.

As usual, the camp will feature some very qualified coaches in order to instruct the athletes. Among this year's staff will be David Middleton, Middleton coaches at Brazoswood and will direct the South All-Stars in the prestigious Texas High School Coaches Game in Fort Worth in August.

The camp is available to youngsters in grades five through ten. It annually has attracted campers from all over Texas as well as neighboring states.

It will include instruction in all fundamentals of basketball, such as shooting, ball handling, rebounding and defense. The members will also take part in nightly game situations that are developmental.

Each camp member receives a free Camp of Champs basketball T-shirt.

Applicants can write Camp of Champs, Howard College, Big Spring, Texas or call 267-8886 for further information.

Champagne baseball team files suit against school

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Members of the Grand Canyon College baseball team that was bounced from a national tournament because it had champagne in a locker room celebration filed suit against the school administration.

The suit to reverse the school's decision to withdraw from the playoffs became moot, however, when the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics selected a replacement team for its Nashville, Tenn. tournament.

The NAIA told The Arizona Republic that the Southern Baptist-owned school also would face some kind of censure for withdrawing its team.

Sparky takes the proper plane

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson made a decision Friday that probably saved his life.

After visiting former Reds' coach George Scherger in Nashville, Tenn., Anderson had the choice of returning to Los Angeles through Dallas or Chicago's O'Hare Airport. He chose flight connections through Dallas.

He arrived in Los Angeles late Friday afternoon, at approximately the time American Airlines' Flight 191 from Chicago was to arrive. The American jetliner crashed shortly after takeoff at O'Hare, killing 270 persons in the nation's worst air disaster.

PGA Tour considering two separate divisions

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — A plan to drastically alter the shape of the PGA Tour, in effect splitting it into major and minor divisions, is being considered and could go into effect in two years.

A feasibility study for the two-tour concept is being conducted and, "if the final determination is reached this year, it's possible to implement it by 1981," PGA Tour Commissioner Deane Beman said.

His statement Wednesday confirmed an Associated Press report of the proposed changes that were presented in a closed door meeting of the players more than three weeks ago.

On another matter, Beman said a brief tour for seniors, players over 50 years old, will be held next year. A maximum of six such tournaments will be held, but that number, Beman said, "is very ambitious. I think it will be more like three to five events."

He had said earlier that the tour office was "very much aware" that Arnold Palmer — the greatest drawing card golf has produced — will be eligible for the seniors tour next year.

The go-ahead to conduct a formal study of the split-tour plan was given at a meeting of the tour's policy board. Under the plan, which was proposed by the touring players, a major tour of less than 35 events would be held with minimum purses of $300,000.

Competing on this tour — which compares with the 44-event schedule now held — would be the tour's top 100 players.

The next 150 players, off a money-winning list, would compete in a series of tournaments carrying a value of $100,000 to $150,000. The plans call for "about the same number" of events on this tour as the major circuit, Beman said.

The major and minor tournaments could be conducted simultaneously in different cities.

"The advantages would be to play in 60 cities instead of the current 45," Beman said. "And each week for 30 tour weeks 250 players would be playing instead of the 150 or less now."

Under the plan, a certain number of the top performers from the secondary tour would move up to the major circuit each year, with a like number of players from the lowest spots on the major tour dropping back to the minor.

"This proposal was made by the players and that's important," Beman said. Under the current tour set-up "the top 100 players are winning most of the money. The other players are a great economic waste."

"The new proposal would provide an opportunity for more players to make more money."

Beman said he doesn't have "any personal feelings yet" about the proposal. "Whether both tours can flourish under this system, I don't know."

Rocket owner planning restructure

HOUSTON (AP) — Now that New Mexico businessman George Maloof has agreed to pay about $9 million to purchase the National Basketball Association Houston Rockets, his next order of business will be to name a head coach and general manager.

Maloo apparently would like to elevate head coach Tom Nissalke to the general manager's job and name assistant coach Del Harris as the head coach.

The consensus Friday was Harris would become the coach but Nissalke would not accept the general manager's position vacated by Ray Patterson.

Maloo said Friday his first duty as the new owner would be to offer the head coaching job to Harris, an assistant coach under Nissalke for the past three seasons.

Harris said earlier he would want full control over player transactions if he were to be the Rockets coach. Neither Harris nor Nissalke were available for comment Friday.

"One of the first things I will do as owner will be to ask Mr. Harris to become the head coach," Maloo said. "I've talked with Del before and I've been very impressed."

Maloo also said Nissalke could have the general manager's job.

"I do need good basketball minds and I would think if Mr. Nissalke would accept the general manager's job this would fill a void for me," Maloo said.

Maloo's representatives completed negotiations with Greenway Plaza, Ltd., previous owners of the Rockets, Friday morning following continuous meetings that started on Tuesday.

The new Rocket owners will pay a lease over the next five years of 12 1/2 per cent on gross gate receipts at the Summit Negotiators for the Arena Operating Co., which holds the lease to the city-owned facility, had sought a 15 per cent agreement.

"The fact that we were able to negotiate a 12 1/2 per cent lease for the next five years... with continuing options through the end of this century certainly indicates to us that the Arena Operating Company has a strong desire to assure the continuity of NBA basketball in Houston," Maloo said.

Vilas advances in Italian Open

ROME (AP) — Top-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina and second-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis of the United States won their semifinal matches Saturday in the $200,000 Italian Open Tennis Championships.

Gerulaitis stopped countryman Eddie Dibbs 6-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-3, while leg cramps forced unseeded Gene Mayer of the United States to withdraw from his match with Vilas after 12 games.

Vilas and Gerulaitis will meet in the finals Sunday.

Gerulaitis survived a slow start that put him behind 0-6, 0-1 and then jumped on Dibbs with an excellent service and an aggressive net game for a comeback in the 2 1/2-hour match.

Earlier Saturday, Dibbs, completed his quarter-final match against countryman Harold Solomon. It had been suspended by darkness Friday. Dibbs, leading 6-2, 3-6, 6-5, went on to win the final set 7-5.

POPULAR BASS
Name the most popular game-fish in America.
If you said black bass, you're right.
According to the experts in Mercury outboards' fishing department there are 10 members of the black bass family in this country.
Naming them in order of importance to sport anglers, the largemouth bass is number one. They are found in every state, live in almost all unpolluted warm water, and are known for their fighting abilities.
Second are smallmouth bass, also found in all states.
They differ from the largemouth in the length of the upper lip when the mouth is closed, body markings and habitat preference.
Smallmouth prefer swift, rocky water and are excellent fighters.
Next are spotted bass, sometimes called Kentucky bass.
Occurring in the Ohio-Mississippi drainage system as far west as Texas, they adapt well to impoundments and are spreading in range.
The Florida largemouth is recognized as a subspecies of the common largemouth bass.
Although it grows larger because of its environment, the only other difference is the number of scales along the lateral line.
Regional members of the bass family are: the Guadalupe bass found only in central Texas; Alabama spotted bass from the Alabama River system; and redeye bass, small fish from Florida to Tennessee. Also, Suwannee bass living only in three Florida streams; Wichita spotted bass in Oklahoma; and the Neosho smallmouth bass from the Ozark plateau.

Janet Guthrie is no longer considered a female freak in Indianapolis 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The lady has become "one of the boys." "Hi, Janet," Gordon Johncock yells amiably, giving a wave to the white-suited lady in the golf cart in front of garage No. 38 in the Indianapolis Motor Speedway's renowned Gasoline Alley. Janet Guthrie flashes her best smile and waves back. Other drivers pause to swap small talk and best wishes. The grease-stained mechanics come up and confer with her seriously on technical problems. No other driver — not even A.J. Foyt or Al Unser — is more besieged for autographs. The first and only female competitor to crash the hallowed Indy 500 no longer is a freak, a publicity-seeking woman trying to join the most macho fraternity in sports. She has made the team. Her appearance no longer creates flak and resentment. This marks her third time in the Indy 500 and she generally is accepted as a skilled and gutsy driver capable of surviving in the death-defying jungle of 200 mph speed demons. It wasn't always so. "In 1975, I had holes in my shoes, I had no money in the bank and no place to live — I thought I had had it in auto racing," Janet recalled Friday, a day when most of the action was centered in court instead of on the fabled old brickyard (actually asphalt). "Then Rolla Vollstedt gave me my first chance to drive a championship car at Trenton (N.J.). It changed my whole life." A newsmen suggested that Janet must be exaggerating. After all, she owned a BS degree in physics from the University of Michigan, she served in the aerospace industry as a research and development engineer and once had even been considered for astronaut training. "Of course, when I say I had holes in my shoes, that was partially superficial," she said. "But, honestly, I was ready to go to give a woman a job in the aerospace industry who is 40 years old and hasn't been doing that kind of work for nine years?" "I had spent 13 years trying to break into big-time automobile racing and, until Rolla Vollstedt gave me a car, I was at the end of my patience and my resources." The 41-year-old Guthrie qualified for the Indy 500 in 1977, but went out after 27 laps because of a gear foulup. She returned last year to qualify at 191.002 mph, a women's closed course record. Then, driving with a fractured wrist which she had not previously disclosed, she finished ninth in the star-spangled field, behind Al Unser, who won his third 500. Unser, hearing of Guthrie's injury, said she should have pulled out of the race. "She jeopardized my life and the life of every driver in the race," he said. "That is the only complaint I've heard about my racing," Janet said. "Everyone else has been very nice." "I remember when I drove my first oval-track race at Trenton, A.J. Foyt came around and offered any help I needed. Johnny Rutherford was marvelous. All have been great — except one." Al Unser, younger of the two racing brothers who have won a total of five Indy races, hasn't softened his attitude. "Have I apologized for what I said?" the defending Indy champion blurted when the question was put to him in his garage Friday. "Why should I? If she had a broken wrist, as she said, she had no business being on that track. She should have been disqualified." Other drivers have adopted a more understanding stance, particularly two-time winner Rutherford, the tough Texan. "Janet is different than most of the women who have been trying to crash this business," Rutherford said. "Most of them come out with fancy hairdos and painted fingernails and no intention to try to be a bonafide race driver. They just want the publicity and the chance to be around the guys." "Not Janet — I really

Turkey hunting gaining popularity in Texas

AUSTIN — Turkey hunters bagged 22 gobblers on Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game management area public hunts this year, according to Horace Gore, upland game program leader. This is a modest figure, but Gore said it represents the largest spring hunt ever for the department management areas, and it gives some indication of the growing popularity of the sport. Of the 160 hunters participating in the public hunts, only 20 indicated they had ever hunted turkeys in the spring, and 14 said they used a call to get their gobbler within range. Only one crippled bird was reported lost. The spring turkey season was offered in 57 Texas counties this year, and indications are that in areas where heavy rains did not interfere, hunting was good, Gore said. "The statewide hunter participation and harvest should easily surpass last year's, when an estimated 6,500 hunters took 3,000 gobblers," Gore said. More will be known about the 1979 harvest after a landowner postcard survey is completed in June. The April turkey gobbler hunts are timed to allow harvest of surplus gobblers after most breeding activity has been completed and while nesting is underway.

Moss Creek Lake Report

250,000 walleye fry were stocked in Moss Lake on April 11, 1979 by Bill Proxine and Jim Byers with a 100 per cent chance of survival at the time of stocking. Proxine, of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said it was rare to have an ideal temperature of the water being stocked as well as the water containing the fish to be stocked.

Moss Creek Lake was checked for fish by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Aquatic Biologist Bill Folis and technician Joe Vasquez on May 2. Folis reported that the lake was well stocked with all varieties of fish and that as the weather gets warmer, fishing should be ideal.

Several walleye have been caught lately in the 3-4 1/2 pound bracket. Channel catfish and bass are beginning to come shallow and spawn. Lately, all types of fish are being caught just as Folis predicted. The largest fish caught this far for the 1979 year was a 19 pound yellow catfish by Joe Earhart. The fish are biting and many striper will be filled in the near future. Walleye fishing should be the best ever this year since it was stocked five years ago. Many should weigh eight pounds.

Teenage baseball opens Monday

The Big Spring Teenage Baseball League will open its 1979 season Monday at Roy Anderson Park with two games scheduled to begin at 7:30. In the junior League opener the Elks will play the Angels. Other teams in the league are the Orioles, Lions, Yanks, Stanton Astros and Knott Texans. The Big Spring Gold Sox will open against the Stanton Sparks in the three team Senior League. The Stanton Buffalos is the third team in the league. The public is invited to attend all games.

THIRD IN OKIE RELAYS... This quartet participated in the Okie Relays last weekend, and finished third in their division in the 41.2 mile event. Each of the thinclads ran a 10.3 mile leg. The quartet took nearly four hours to finish the grueling race. It started in Elkhart, Kansas, and finished in Tezhoma, Texas. The Big Spring group had the fourth best time overall of all participating relay teams. From left to right they are Craig Neighbors, Brad Glaser, James Martin, and Dirk Davis. The group ran their legs in the same order.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, MAY 27, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to engage in studies to prepare you for a better understanding of the philosophy of life in which you would like to follow. Make long range plans for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): A good time to organize resources for the future that could bring added income. Let your intuitive perceptions guide you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): You understand how to gain greater abundance, but be sure you know exactly what you want! Show more coyness together.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You have fascinating ways of going after whatever means the most to you. So get into practice and gain the benefits.

SCORPIO CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You are now able to meet with trusted advisers and obtain the data you need. Take time for meditation.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Know what your personal aims and plan the right way to attain them. Strive for increased harmony at home.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): Make sure you do whatever will stamp you as an excellent citizen. Go to social affairs and meet persons who can be helpful to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21): Study new interests that could bring you added revenue in the coming weeks. Take time to show appreciation for the people through with your part in needs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21): Use your numbers and you'll know how to discharge promises to others in a most positive and accurate way. Show loyalty to friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Let your alien know that you intend to carry through with your part in any contracts between you. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A good day to show appreciation for the favors others have done for you. Take it easy tonight and be happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Change your attitude and you can see things more in their proper perspective. Study the most lofty philosophy you can envision.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You can benefit now by adhering to the finest principles and tenets of your philosophy. Make this a worthwhile day.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: He or she will be one who comprehends the ideas and thoughts of others. So be sure to give the best education you can afford with excellent results following. Be sure to give as much encouragement as needed early in life.

The Stars impel they do not compel. What you make of your life is targets up to you!

ROW DIKES — Water stands evenly following recent rains in one of Delbert Stanley's fields four miles south of Vealmoor. Stanley used row dikes to build small ponds each about eight feet long in his fields. Row dikes have been tested in the Lubbock-Amarillo areas and may prove useful to farmers in the Big Spring area. No dikes were applied in the rows that the tractor tires run in. The water has run to the low end of the field far in the background.

Special session threatened
Lawmakers in final hour

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas lawmakers went into the final hours of the regular 66th Legislature Saturday with Gov. Bill Clements' threat of a special session hanging over their heads.

However, Clements hinted he might not schedule the special 30 days until the latter part of the year or maybe until politically active 1980.

The Friday massacre of Clements' legislative program spelled death to a plan letting voters initiate legislation, a bill to legalize wiretapping in narcotics cases, and a bill giving the governor more power over state agency budgets.

"I'm set in concrete on this," Clements said earlier when stressing that he was committed to a special session for initiative and referendum. He said he would include wiretapping in the same call.

Saturday and Sunday sessions were set for last chance consideration of measures that had been approved by at least one house.

Ten member conference committees presented their proposed compromises on general appropriations, tax relief and school finances to their respective chambers for a final vote before the Monday midnight deadline.

Despite the loss of three crucial issues Friday, Clements' scorecard was not all zeros.

He had in hand an approved bill that would let him consolidate three energy offices into one. Another Clements proposal to let the governor remove any of his appointees, goes to voters in 1980.

The governor also supported and can claim his share of credit for the tax relief bill that includes new homestead exemptions from school taxes and re-evaluations of farm land in production. He also supported a bill calling for countywide single appraisals of property taxes.

And Clements will have 20 days after this session ends to look over the stacks of bills sent to his desk for signature or veto.

Among these is the $20.3 billion state spending bill that he had threatened to trim by vetoes to provide more funds for tax relief.

Other Clements' supported bills that lost out earlier include a measure to ban state income taxes, one that would require new taxes to be approved by two-thirds of each house, and a bill that would allow rollbacks of local new taxes by voters.

He also advocated repeal of Sunday closing laws, an issue that never got out of House committee.

Clements threatened once to veto any bill increasing home loan interest rates from 10 to 12 percent but had to do a rollback himself when mortgage bankers put on hold most FHA and VA home loans in Texas. Later he endorsed a bill with a "floating" interest rate not more than 12 percent and one was sent to his desk.

Public Notice

NOTICE OF HEARING
 THE STRUCTURAL STANDARDS BOARD

Owner(s), tenant(s), occupant(s), lessee(s) and all interested parties provided by law, are hereby notified of a Public Hearing to be held before the Structural Standards Board in and for the City of Big Spring, in the City Council Chamber of the City Hall, 310 Nolan Street, on Tuesday, June 5, 1979 commencing at 9:00 o'clock A.M. local time. At each location the Board will consider an order of demolition of an Urban Nuisance. Each address indicated below is located in the City of Big Spring, Texas.

At the hearing the Administrator will present evidence of the conditions existing at each location. An owner, lessee, occupant or tenant may present witnesses in his own behalf and is entitled to cross-examine any witnesses appearing against him. Any interested person may present evidence on relevant issues. After hearing evidence from each interested person present the Board will make its findings and issue appropriate orders in each case. These may include one or more of the following: (1) finding that the structure is not an urban nuisance; and suggesting further appropriate enforcement action; (2) granting of a variance in order to avoid imposition of an unreasonable hardship; (3) granting of an exemption in the case of a single family owner occupied dwelling, in certain prescribed circumstances; (4) finding that the structure is an urban nuisance and ordering repair or correction within a specified period of time and demolition of the structure if the repair or correction is not timely effected; (5) ordering reduction of the occupancy load in a structure or (6) ordering the vacation of a structure; (7) ordering closure of a structure that is open and vacant, or a portion of such a structure; (8) requiring removal of a structure from a structure that is ordered vacated or demolished; (9) requiring any person removed to be stored in the care and custody of a bonded warehouse facility or (10) requiring or causing the correction of a hazardous condition on the land.

Persons desiring to comply with such an order, if performed by city forces or by contract between the city and a third party, shall be the responsibility of the owner of the property in question, and shall comply with the provisions of the real property and the lien runs with the land. The city may use lawful means to collect such costs from an owner except for the cost of the land. Properties to be considered are:

Two Taiwan citizens arraigned in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Two Taiwan citizens who investigators say are members of Chinese-American street gangs in New York City have been arraigned on charges of extortion, conspiracy, gunrunning and racketeering.

U.S. Magistrate William F. Sanderson Jr. set bond at $50,000 each for Mike Kin Chie Yee, 28, and Cheung Hon Law, 23, both of whom listed a Dallas address.

Investigators said Yee is a member of the White Eagles gang and that Law claimed membership in the Flying Dragons.

The pair were charged with extorting money from operators of two Chinese restaurants in Dallas, one of which recently burned in an unsolved fire.

They were also charged with transporting Dallas-bought guns to the New York City gang. Investigators said four of the Dallas weapons were seized by New York City police last year when they arrested a man described as a member of a Tong, which is a secret Chinese society.

Affidavits from owners of the two restaurants said Yee and Law solicited bribe money from them by threatening to burn down their buildings.

An NIADA artist practices the art of doll making in Big Spring

Originals by Rene are for collectors

By MICKIE DICKSON
"Original by Rene," is the stamp of a true artist in doll making.

Starting out as a photographer who specialized in children photography with a desire to be creative, Rene Harrison, 801 W. 14th, did everything herself including tinting and painting of the pictures. She became interested in ceramics and started making dishes, clocks and figurines. She eventually acquired special equipment to mould and make porcelain bisque dolls.

Rene spent many years since she started in 1950 reproducing the antique dolls she loved before she started designing her own dolls. Her first original doll was of her mother, Mrs. Ethel S. Shockley, at 21 years of age. She has no special training.

From this beginning Rene progressed to famous personality dolls of people who interested her, period and fashion dolls. She has done some story book dolls such as Little Women, Scarlet O'Hara and the Five Little Peppers.

The period doll which Rene prefers to make are from 1800 to the early 1900 period.

In selecting the subject for an original, Rene chooses well-known personalities and names which are legend in history. "Portrait dolls," Mrs. Harrison says, "take a lot of research to make in order to get the character in their faces."

Each doll is completely and authentically dressed. Rene combs the garage and rummage sales for old materials and fashion from shoes to old leather gloves.

Some of the personality dolls in her collection are Ike and Mamie Eisenhower, Lyndon and Lady Bird Johnson, Princess Grace of Monaco in her wedding attire, John and Jacquelyn Kennedy, the present Queen Elizabeth of England, Queen Victoria and Albert, Winston Churchill and Abe and Mary Todd Lincoln.

Rene received a letter from Sydney, Australia containing a note from a doll lover and a picture clipping of a couple of "Rene Originals" winners in an Australian showing. The Abe and Mary Todd Lincoln dolls took first place.

Her Lyndon B. Johnson doll won second in the nation in the 16th annual exhibit of the United Federation of Doll Clubs at Washington, D.C. in 1965.

One writer says of this doll, "President Johnson would be recognized anywhere, his face filled with expression, the wrinkled brow, the deep wrinkle under the chin and up the lower cheek. Again the eyes have a feel to them which convey the personality of the president himself. Rene has made the starched white shirt, the black bow tie, and well fitting dress suit complete with the miniature white hanky showing from life expressions she has captured in her dolls.

"There is a portrait in this face which tells far more than words ever could. The wrinkled brow, the age lines around the eyes which clearly show with the glasses down over the nose. The expression in the eyes captures the twinkle and joy that is experienced as the granny cuddles this latest member of her family close to her heart. Rene leaves no question as to what the woman is feeling with this bundle in her arms," says another writer.

"Note the fine costuming detail in the lovely christening gown, the fitting style of the woman's dress and the detail of the hands."

This doll can be seen in the Cy's Doll Museum, 222 W. 3rd St.

"Dolls which are collectors items are of great beauty, complete to the most minute detail, and finished with painstaking care and intricate detail," says Rene.

Doll collections can be seen in museums and occasionally magazines picture doll collections, tell about the collection, the dolls and their collectors.

Some famous doll collectors are Eugene Field, the poet, Queen Victoria of England, Queen Marie of Romania, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and Montezuma, the Aztec Emperor.

Using firm but non-hardening plasticene, Rene sculpts each doll's head free-hand, using a little tool, forming features and hair, working from a photo or drawing. When it meets her approval, the molding plaster is mixed with water and the molds are poured on the clay sculpture. The mold usually comes off in four or five parts. After the porcelain is poured into the mold, cleaned up and fired to a porcelain temperature, the head is china painted and fired again about three times before the soft, delicate tones she prefers are produced. After this mold is made, she can make as many heads as she cares to from it.

The body and delicate hands and feet are then made and attached to the head to complete the doll.

Striking features of dolls by Rene are their life like quality and the expression in their eyes, which she always paints. All of her dolls are dainty and delicate with graceful hands which is also characteristic of her work.

Rene has been a member of the National Institute of American Doll Artists, Inc. since 1969. The NIADA was organized in 1963 to work toward the recognition of original handmade dolls expressing American culture. Each artist captures the diversity of American life in different materials; each has an individual point of view. Some artist specialize in historical figures, others capture real children, rollicking urchins and appealing old people. The dolls which come from these gifted artists are real people figures which mirror our life.

She is an associate member of the Heart of Ohio Doll Club, and a member of the Doll Club of Permian Basin which meets monthly in Midland.

Rene is interested in starting a Doll Club in Big Spring. The most rewarding part of her work is contact with people, whom she loves. She is seriously considering teaching feature painting on dolls and figurines.

"This doll business," she says, "is just a rewarding form of expressing myself. It's the frosting on the cake of my life."

Rene is married to Edward G. Harrington who is retired from Gulf Oil Corporation. They have two sons, John and Joe. John is in the planning department of Chrysler Corp. in Detroit, Mich. and Joe is a chief in the navy.

Two octogenarians hold onto their youth by making dolls

Doll collecting not for children only

By MICKIE DICKSON
"Dolls are not all child's play," says 80-year-old Annie Knight of Athens, and Mrs. Ruth Reeves of Luther.

Mrs. Knight has collected dolls all her life, and has made and costumed them for the last three years.

Mrs. Reeves has supplemented her income from her farm for years by quilting and making dolls.

Aunt Annie, as she is known far and wide, still has the only doll she had as a child, a little china Bi Lo baby doll over 75 years old. She's had many repairs, but it still has the original hands, feet and head.

Aunt Annie made and costumed or costumed a good many of the dolls in Cy's Doll Museum, 222 E. Third. Among these are the President's Collection which includes all the president's wives up through Patricia Nixon. Each doll in this collection is dressed like her counterparts in the Smithsonian Institute with a history of the style and when the dress was worn.

Another collection which she made is the patriotic one which includes President George Washington and Martha, Betsy Ross with her American flag with 13 stars, Mary Ludwig Hayes nicknamed "Molly Pitcher" because she accompanied her husband to war and carried water to the soldiers as they fought. She was the first woman to receive a soldier's pension in the United States, awarded to her in 1822 by the Pennsylvania legislature.

The collection of European queens was made and costumed by Aunt Annie and includes a beautiful Marie Antoinette who reigned from 1774-1789, with Louis XIV, in her coronation gown of pink satin.

She made the Little House on the Prairie Dolls, two Aunt Jemima dolls, and Little Women dolls. Three Shirley Temple dolls were made by her.

Miss Annie, as many call her, has collected dolls from all over the world, each dressed in its native costume. She has traveled in many foreign countries having been around the world once and in Europe three times and the Holy Land once. In many countries she bought doll kits and assembled them upon her return home.

The most expensive doll in her collection is a porcelain one called "Precious Baby," a trade name for an especially pretty doll which is much sought after by antique dealers and is a real collector's item. It is 2½ to 3 feet high and is an Effenebe Limited Edition doll with a certificate. There are only 2,880 of these dolls in existence. One of these dolls is in Cy's Doll Museum.

Miss Annie has her own kiln and makes her doll heads, hands and feet. She paints the china and porcelain doll faces and hair, then names the muslin bodies, stuffs them and dresses them as suite her fancy.

"I don't make a doll unless I make a character which represents someone," she said.

Miss Annie's enthusiasm and versatility in her work only prove the old saying that those who keep busy and interested in hobbies stay young.

People come from far and near to view the collection of dolls at Cy's Doll

MAKING A BELINDA DOLL — Mrs. J.H. Reeves has made many of these dolls to delight innumerable boys and girls in many places.

"MISS" ANNIE'S DOLLS — Pictured left to right in Cy's Doll Museum are Queen Elizabeth I of England, 1558-1603; front, Harriet Lane, niece of President James Buchanan, first lady of the United States 1857-1861; Grace Goodhue Collidge behind Mrs. Lane; Lucretia Rudolph Garfield, wife of President James A. Garfield, 1881; "Miss" Annie is holding Marie Antoinette, Queen of France, 1774-1789, when she was beheaded; Lou Henry Hoover; Martha Johnson Patterson, daughter of President Andrew Johnson who acted as first lady in place of her invalid mother; Dolly Payne Madison, 1809-1817 and Emily Tennessee Johnson who served as first lady for her widowed uncle, President Andrew Jackson.

Museum, 222 E. 3rd. This is a collection of every different kind of doll imaginable from antique to modern.

While Danny Valdes was at the museum on this assignment, a party came in from London, England to tour the museum. John and Luciana Parravicini and Bill and Sheila Delaney comprised the group.

Danny also drew the name of the winner of the museum drawing, Norma Lee Autry, 1313 Settles, of the Fairview Home Extension Club. Mrs. Autry won a Peggy Nisbett model of Betsy Ross. Peggy Nisbett dolls are made in England.

Another drawing will be held at the museum in December. Everyone who tours the museum is entitled to enter.

Mrs. Ruth Reeves, 85, of Luther, has made the Belinda doll, a rag doll with a pony tail for years. She makes a boy doll out of the same body and changes the head and hair-do.

The hair is made of Kentucky yarn from Mansfield, Kentucky and is an outline embroidery stitch. The eyes and mouth are made of felt, and the eyebrows, eyelashes and nose are painted on with embroidery paints.

The girls are wearing pinafores over their dresses, half-petticoats and panties.

The boy dolls are dressed in overalls to match the girl's pinafores, shirts and shorts.

Shoes are of a black material sewed in.

Mrs. Reeves dolls are in Chicago, California, Albuquerque, N.M. and as far away as Holland and France.

Mrs. Reeves still lives alone and does all her own housework and yard work though she has diabetes and high blood pressure. She drives her own car to town and even to church at night.

She taught Sunday School for many years at the Salem Baptist Church where she is a member of the Baptist Women's group.

A son, Cliff, farms her 320 acre farm at Luther.

Mrs. Reeves came to Texas in 1922 from Missouri in a covered wagon June 31, 1920 with her husband, Dave Reeves. Dave had tuberculous pneumonia and they hoped Texas weather would be good for him. He died in three years. They had six children, four of whom are living.

Mrs. Reeves farmed along eight years until the depression years, then moved to Justin, near Ft. Worth, to work as a salaried laborer with the Reeves family.

She married Jim, Dave's brother in 1932. He had four children.

Jim and Ruth Reeves moved to Luther in 1933 where they lived in a 12x16 one-room house over a dugout basement with four children.

Jim had a stroke in 1963 and was partially paralyzed. She took care of him at home for three years until he passed away.

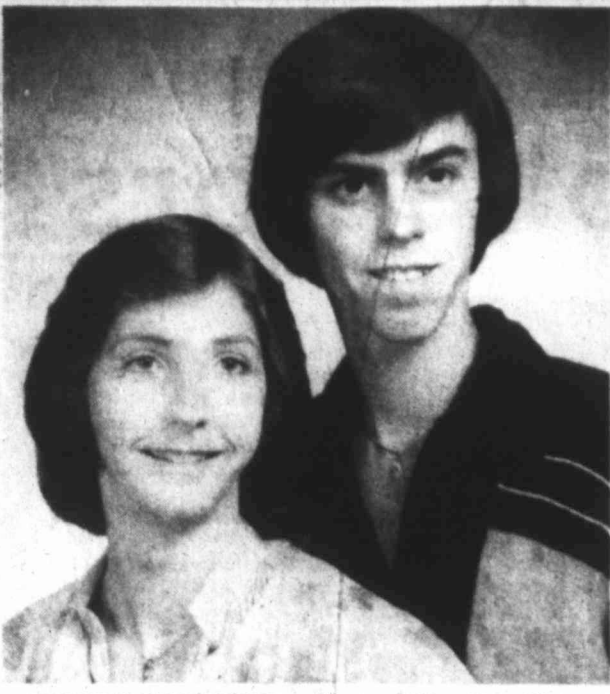

Mrs. Reeves made dolls, pieced and quilted quilts and other handwork and sold them to augment the farm income while her husband was ill.

The highlight of Mrs. Reeves life was a trip to the Holy Land in December 1972, with her step-daughter, Jo, and her husband, Jack Taylor, who is a Methodist preacher in Odessa. The group stayed in Jerusalem one night and saw Haifa and Tel Aviv.

Her oldest stepson is a retired Methodist preacher in Chicago.

Mrs. Reeves keeps busy and happy with her doll and quilt business, church activities and many friends. Carla Walker, a Herald staff and former member Sunday School pupil of hers, considers her a second "grandmother."

Marie Buckner and Larry Clarke wed in Presbyterian ceremony

SUMMER CEREMONY — Mr. and Mrs. Roy Glenn Deel, 1706 Morrison, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Tere Deel to Chris Chaney, son of Robert Chaney and Mrs. Jim Murphy. The wedding date has been set for June 30 in the First Christian Church. The Rev. Bill Smythe will officiate.

The First Presbyterian Church was the setting of the May 20 wedding between Marie Louise Buckner and Larry Clarke.

Dr. R. Gage Loyd performed the 5 p.m. rite before an altar accented with the traditional archway and kneeling bench. Swirl candelabrams and arrangements of white gladiolus atop marble columns also enhanced the altar scene. Completing the church decorations were tall candelabrams along the aisle intertwined with greenery and beautified with bows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buckner, 1206 Runnels. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Clarke, 3700 Calvin.

Wedding music was provided by organist Delores Bash who accompanied Joyce Bradley, vocalist.

The bride chose to wear a gown of candlelight chiffon designed by Fink Brothers of New York. The moulded bodice featured a V-neckline fashioned with tiny spaghetti straps. A full chiffon skirt fell from the waistline, terminating in a stylish floor-length handkerchief hemline.

A matching chiffon jacket, designed in blouson fashion with a high Alencon lace mandrin collar, was worn over the basic bridal gown. Full chiffon Bishop sleeves were gathered to wide matching lace cuffs. The natural waistline was emphasized with a wide scalloped pattern of Alencon lace and an array of candlelight silk flowers.

To complement her gown, the bride wore an Alencon lace picture hat featuring a round crown completely embellished in lace. A soft candlelight organza ruffle sat atop the hat brim enhanced by a spray of delicate silk flowers at the

A cascading bouquet of daisies, sweetheart roses and staphanotis sprinkled with baby's breath was carried by the bride adding the finishing touches to her ensemble.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Ashley Calvert. Bridesmaids were Irene Little, Toni Morrow, Paula Chane, sister of the bride, and J'Lane Hundley, Denton. They were attired in ankle-length gowns of soft flowing chiffon over taffeta. Designed with tiny belts at the waistlines, the gowns also featured skirts ending in handkerchief hemlines. The fitted bodices were accented by soft chiffon capes falling to points in front and back. Split points fell gracefully over the shoulders.

Jack Watson served as best man and groomsmen were Robert Buckner, brother of the bride; Roy Jackson, Amarillo; Kyle Choate, and Gary Baker, Odessa. Jon Elrod seated guests.

Bobby Chane served as ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony the newlyweds were honored at a reception at the Big Spring Country Club. Guests were registered by Candy Middleton and Cindy Middleton.

The bride's table was draped with white lace cloth overlaid by blue. The three-tiered cake featured a flowing fountain of blue water and was decorated in colors of blue and white. An arrangement of spider mums, gladiolus and baby's breath enhanced the setting as centerpiece. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

The groom's table featured an ecru cutwork cloth over rust cloth. Coffee and chocolate cake were served using brass and silver appointments. Champagne was served from a flowing fountain.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Harry Middleton, Mrs. Wade Choate, Mrs. Leland Calvert, Mrs. Bill Estes, Mrs. Jim Ray Smith, Mrs. Rogers-Hefley, Mrs. Jack Little, Tammy Thomas, Muleshoe; Paige Little, Mrs. Allan Kernodle, Mrs. Tom South, Mrs. Ralph Gossett, Mrs. Halvard Hanson, Mrs. L.D. Spradling and Mrs. Daryle Hohertz.

Attending from out of town was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Tom Buckner, Dalhart. The bride, a Big Spring High School graduate, is a sophomore at Texas Tech. The groom, also a Big Spring High graduate, is employed by Transport Life Insurance Co.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to South Padre Island, the couple will be at home in Lubbock.

Saturday evening rite solemnized in church

Miss Debbie Churchwell became the bride of Kelleigh Phillips in a ceremony held Saturday evening in the Airport Baptist Church with the Rev. David McNary, pastor, officiating.

Miss Churchwell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Churchwell, 1607 Vines. Phillips is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Fulcher, 2704 Lynn and Guy V. Phillips, Salinas, CA.

The vows were exchanged before an altar entwined with greenery with a blue bow on top, flanked by two seven-branched candelabrum and floral arrangements of gladiolus and daisies.

Jeri Booth played the piano and Debbie Fulcher, sister of the groom, and Cathy Weeks, provided the vocal music.

The bridal gown of organza over white satin featured a high neckline with sheer yoke and Bishop sleeves edged with Venice lace. The A-line skirt flowed from an empire bodice, enhanced by a matching chapel-length train trimmed with Venice lace.

The bride carried a bouquet of white daisies, blue carnations and baby's breath.

Julie Rodriguez served the bride as maid of honor. Debbie Fulcher, Big Spring, was the bridesmaid.

Dennis Rodriguez, Odessa, served his brother as best man. Groomsman was Randy Pittman, Big Spring, brother-in-law of the groom. Rusty and Jimmy Churchwell, brothers of the bride served as ushers.

Jodi Rees, Big Spring, served as flower girl.

MRS. KELLEIGH PHILLIPS

Becky Churchwell, Big Spring, sister of the bride, registered the wedding guests.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall after the ceremony honoring the bride and groom. The three-tiered cake of doves was topped with a cage holding bride and groom figurines. The table was enhanced by a centerpiece of blue carnations and daisies. Brenda Hemminger, Albuquerque, N.M., Charlesta Dickens, Teresa Davis, Kelli Bryans, Cindy Pittman, Judy Drake, both sisters of the groom, and Robin Spencer, all of Big Spring, served at the table.

Following a wedding trip to San Angelo, the couple will make their home in Salinas, Calif., where the groom is employed in a magnesium plant.

The bride is a 1979 Big Spring High School graduate and will be working for the telephone company in California.

The groom is a graduate of Salinas High School.

Wedding vows spoken in spring ceremony

The 14th and Main Church of Christ was the setting of the May 20 wedding between Kim Rene Coffee and Rocky S. Boggs.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Max Coffee, 2808 Cactus Dr. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Durward C. Boggs, Anson.

MRS. ROCKY S. BOGGS

Miss McLeod becomes bride of Miles Boadle

Barbara McLeod became the bride of Miles Boadle in a candlelight ceremony solemnized May 19 in the Wesley United Methodist Church.

Performing the 7 p.m. rite was the Rev. Dallas Nash. The couple spoke their vows before an altar featuring two arrangements of spring flowers accentuated by two multi-branched candelabras flanking either side.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd R. McLeod, Lamesa Hwy. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ben Boadle, 111 Jefferson.

Traditional wedding selections were performed by the groom's sister, Jacque Mauch, vocalist; and Melinda Blackburn, pianist.

A gown of ivory nylon lace enhanced with an ivory lace overlay was worn by the bride as she was presented down the aisle. The sleeveless gown was designed with a lace bodice and fashioned with a V-neckline. A picture hat adorned with lace completed her bridal ensemble.

She carried a bouquet of daisies dorned with greenery.

Carrie Martin, Midland, served the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids was Kim McWilliams of Canyon.

Attending the groom as best man was Dick Martin, Midland. Groomsman was Philip Lowry, Big Spring.

Ushers were Curtis Brunson and Steve Corson. Candles were lit by Jon McLeod, brother of the bride; and Eugene Boadle, brother of the groom.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Boadle were feted at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was draped with white cloth and accented with a net overlay. A centerpiece of spring flowers enhanced the setting.

The three-tiered wedding cake topped with doves was served to those attending by Theresa Thompson and Julie Walker. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

The groom's table was covered with yellow cloth and featured a chocolate cake. Silver and china appointments were used.

Out-of-town guests attended from Canyon, Midland, Odessa, Waco, San Antonio, Amarillo, Houston, Colorado City, Fort Worth and Mount Home, Idaho. Laurie Boadle, sister of the groom, served at the register.

The bride will graduate from West Texas State University in December with a major in computer information systems. The groom is a 1975 graduate of American Motorcycle Institute. He is presently employed by Ray Jones Chevrolet in Amarillo.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to San Angelo, the couple will reside in Canyon.

The ceremony was read before an altar decorated by a fern tree with arrangements of white gladiolus gypsophila, mauve daisy pompons, and fuchsia statice atop white pedestals flanking either side.

Wedding music for the rite was performed by a chorus from Abilene. Mrs. Charles Small, Abilene, was vocalist and director.

The bride was presented down the aisle wearing a white dacron polyester gown overlaid with silk Venice lace. The full skirt fell to a triple flounced hemline accented with wide lace and flowing to a chapel-length train. A white satin bow with streamers marked the waistline of the gown in the back. The high-necked bodice featured an inset of lace, ruffling at the neck. Full Bishop sleeves also complimented the gown design.

Her two-tiered bridal veil of white net edged with lace, fell from a headpiece adorned with seed pearls.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white cymbidium orchids amid white miniature carnations, gypsophila and English ivy.

Mary John Cherry attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Noack, Snyder, sister of the bride; and Susan Janice Truxal, Dallas, cousin of the bride. They were attired in sheer pale mauve dresses fashioned with empire waistslines from which pleated skirts fell to the floor. Each gown was accented by a cape extending to the waistline in the back.

Larry K. Boggs, Abilene, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsman were James Arnold, Abilene, cousin of the groom; and Richard Brent Clifton, San Antonio, brother of the bride.

The fellowship hall of the church was the scene of a reception honoring the newlyweds immediately following the wedding.

A white lace cloth draped the reception table from which silver and crystal appointments were used. The three-tiered cake atop pedestals was enhanced by the bridesmaids bouquets beneath the first tier. Pastel mauve roses and cupids were used for decoration. Four identically decorated cakes surrounded the tiered cake and ivy and pastel mauve daisy pompons enhanced the setting. The bride is a 1976 Big Spring High School graduate and has attended Howard College. She is presently a senior elementary education major at Abilene Christian University, Abilene.

The groom is a graduate of Permian High School, Odessa, and has attended the University of Texas at the Permian Basin. He served four years in the United States Navy and is presently in the Naval Reserve. He is a senior business major at Abilene Christian University, Abilene.

Following a wedding trip to San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. Boggs will make their home in Abilene.

Beth Boeker performs

The Studio of Ann Gibson Houser and Charles Parham, organist, presented Beth Boeker in her senior piano and organ recital at 8 p.m., May 22, in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church.

Guests were seated by Kristi Evans, Shelia Ward, Kimberly Evans, and Lauri Roberson, piano students of the honoree; Brad Robertson, and Lewis Boeker, brother of the honoree.

Miss Boeker, who has studied under Mrs. Houser for 10 years and Parham for two years entertained the guests with "Prelude VI and Fugue VI" by J.S. Bach; "Sonata in Eb Major" by Haydn; "Intermezzo" by Brahms; and "Hungarian" by MacDowell on the piano. She played "Prelude and Fugue in E Minor (The Cathedral)" by J.S. Bach and "Piece Heroique" by Franck on the pipe organ.

Two trumpet trio numbers were performed during the program by Dayton Robertson, Sam Robertson, and Kim Long accompanied by Mrs. W. R. Cregar at the piano. These numbers included "Stand Up for Jesus" and "Onward Christian Soldiers" both arranged by Norman Johnson.

The sanctuary held an arrangement of silk flowers in the honoree's chosen colors of peach, bronze, and yellow.

Miss Boeker was presented with an arm bouquet of yellow roses at the conclusion of the recital by her brother for Mrs. Houser.

Miss Boeker presented Mrs. Houser and Parham with momentos of the occasion.

Mrs. Elizabeth Boeker, grandmother of the honoree, was an honored out-of-town guest from Cotulla.

Immediately following the recital, Miss Boeker was honored with a reception in the Garrett Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church.

The honoree's dress was an evening-length white gown enhanced with small peach rosebuds and trimmed in beige-peach satin ribbon. The scooped neckline was trimmed in a self-material ruffle edged in white lace.

The reception table was covered with a white linen table cloth edged in white lace. A basket of white daisies enhanced the setting as centerpiece. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Guests were registered by Carrie Poyner. Members of the house party included Jaylene Saunders, Ladene Hartin, Stella Holguin, Kathy Harrell, Melissa Frank, Rhonda Shoultz, Mrs. George White, and Mrs. Derrell Baggett. They were presented with yellow and white daisy corsages.

Greeting guests in the receiving line were Miss Boeker and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Boeker; Mrs. Elizabeth Boeker, grandmother of the honoree; Mrs. W.R. Cregar, Mrs. Houser, and Parham.

Miss Boeker has competed in UIL Piano at the state level two years and in the National Guild of Piano Teachers Auditions for nine years. She received her high school diploma in piano this year.

Bride-elect recognized

Susan Musgrove, bride-elect of Clarence Palmer, was honored by a bridal shower in the fellowship hall of Crestview Baptist Church, May 18.

Hostesses were Velma Lloyd, Hattie Williamson, Ruby Fowler, Patsy Scott, Ireba Griffith, Deseree Bedford, Jen Davidson, Frances Cherry, Lucille Hopper, Frankie Walker, Joyce Harris and Karen Sullivan.

Corsages of daisies in different shades of yellow and white were presented to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Jerry Musgrove and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Phillip Palmer.

The table was covered with a yellow cloth draped with white nylon, centered with a bride figure featuring white and yellow daisies surrounding her. The decorated cake featured the names of the bride and groom. Crystal appointments were used.

The hostess gift was white frosted Corelle livingware.

The couple will be married in the Crestview Baptist Church June 15.

Couple honored

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Wash, Forsan, were honored May 20 with a reception in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wash, Forsan, in celebration of the couple's Golden Wedding Anniversary.

The couple's other sons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wash and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Wash also served as hosts and hostesses for the occasion.

Guests were greeted at the door by the honored couple's grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wash. Terrie Wash, granddaughter, served at the register. Welcoming scrolls were passed out by their great-granddaughter, Tanya Clinton.

A white satin cloth draped the reception table centered with an arrangement of yellow roses and chrysanthemums. Individual cakes arranged to form a three-tiered cake and decorated with golden wedding rings and "50's", were served by Mrs. Johnny Rutherford, Mrs. Diane Clinton, Charla Wash, and Renee Wash, all granddaughters of the couple.

Gold and crystal appointments were used.

Standing before a rose and carnation flower arrangement forming a "50", the couple welcomed family and friends as they stood in the receiving line.

Attending this special occasion from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Arnold, Weatherford; Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Crumley, Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Hunter, Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Crumley, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Crumley, all of Brady; Mrs. J.R. Jackson, Coleman; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shock, San Angelo; Sara Powell, Midland; and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaw, Hobbs, N.M.

Mr. and Mrs. Wash were married in Millersview, Tex., May 19, 1929 and moved to Forsan in June, 1929.

Mr. Wash, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Wash, worked for an oil company prior to going into business for himself. He was owner of Forsan Oil Well Service until five years ago.

Mrs. Wash is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. S.C. Crumley. The couple have 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. They are members of the Forsan Baptist Church.

Mrs. Avery reports

Members of the Big Spring-Howard County Retired Teachers Association heard a report on Big Spring's industrial development from Johnnie Lou Avery, president of the chamber of commerce, at noon Tuesday.

The meeting was the last luncheon of the year for the association. It was held in the Tumbleweed Room at Howard College.

Mrs. Avery noted that 31 buildings at the Big Spring Industrial Park are now occupied, providing jobs for 430 people. The chamber president also informed those present that 456 former Capehart Housing units would soon go on the market here.

A showing of five different homes, representing the five different floor plans available, will be shown to potential customers soon. Local realtors will handle the sales, said Mrs. Avery.

Members were told that Big Spring's income from tourism is high, ranking 20th in the state. The city's only shortcoming, according to Mrs. Avery, is a shortage of hotels and motels to handle large conventions that might choose to use the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum here.

In addition to the presentation by the chamber president, members were treated to a medley of popular tunes sung by Suzanne Cranford, accompanied on the piano by Betty Downey. The pair closed with a dramatic, religious musical reading of "The Church Triumphant."

Outgoing officers were presented with diplomas of appreciation, and outgoing president Dan Conley received a plaque. Ruth Sweatt made the presentations.

New officers were introduced by Marie Landers, program chairman. They are: Marie Landers, president; Linnie Keese, vice president; S.A. Walker, second vice president; Irene Springer, secretary; and Paul Sweatt, treasurer.

AAUW holds final meet

The American Association of University Women (AAUW), held their final meeting for the year at KC Steak House May 21 at 7 p.m.

Special guests of honor for the dinner meeting were scholarship recipients Patricia Hamilton and Shannon Koger. It was decided to donate $10 to the Educational Foundation Program of AAUW. A collection was taken for $15 to be given toward a mulberry tree for the school at the Big Spring State Hospital.

The new officers for 1979-1980 were presented and installed by Carol Hunter. The new officers included Mabel Beene, president; Judie Rickey, first vice president; Thelma Carlile, second vice president; Carla Warrington, third vice president; and Ola Mae Robertson, secretary; Linda Mason, treasurer.

A letter from Hugh J. Bradley, sovereign grand master proclaimed June 12 to honor members who died the past year with a memorial ceremony. Members appointed to work with Sara Griffith, funeral marshal, were Sheri Wilson, Olean Melton and Malinda Blackburn.

Chances were sold on a gift and Ruth Wilson won.

A fifth Tuesday night social will be held May 29 at 7 p.m. A white elephant bingo will be held for small wrapped gifts which members are asked to bring. Cake and punch will be served.

The June refreshment committee, appointed by Mrs. Thompson are Mattie Roberts, June Wiggins, Sara

Rainbow initiation conducted

Mr. and Mrs. McCullough announce birth of son

Mr. and Mrs. Ricky McCullough, 3912 Parkway, announce the birth of a son, Joshua Lane, born April 26 in Cowper Hospital at 4:47 p.m. He is the couple's first child.

The infant weighed 7 pounds 7 1/2 ounces and was 22 1/2 inches long at birth.

Maternal grandparents of Joshua are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sharp, Coahoma.

Paternal grandparents are R.J. McCullough and Mina McCullough, both of Big Spring.

Joshua also has a great-grandmother, Clara Sharp of Texarkana, Ark.

Children celebrate parents' anniversary

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Boyde Roper honored them with a reception on their 25th wedding anniversary May 15 in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co.

Roper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Roper, was born in Rosston and went to school in Forestburg, near Gainesville.

Mrs. Roper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Powell, was born in Decatur and went to school there.

Roper met Maxine Powell in the Assembly of God Church in Decatur and the couple were married there May 15, 1954, by the pastor, Rev. Smith.

One daughter, Diane Richter, Shreveport, and four sons, William of Luther, Ricky, Big Spring, and Tommy, 4, and Jimmy, 13 months, of the home, were born to the couple. Patricia, 16, is a foster daughter.

The table was covered with a white lace cloth centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a 25-year bell.

June Roper of Luther registered the guests and Juna and Patricia served the cake. Mrs. Ricky Roper served the punch.

Mrs. William (Juna) Roper also presided at the gift table.

Roper is self-employed, owner of the Roper Fire Extinguishing Company, for 20 years.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with this 29-year-old man from Ireland. I'm 20. I love him dearly, and he loves me and wants to marry me, but, Abby, you would not believe how cheap he is!

He takes me out and spends money on me, and has even bought me some nice gifts, but he will not spend a penny on himself. He lives with the barest necessities. I had to beg him to buy a kitchen table and chairs for his apartment because he felt as long as he had a coffee table and a chair he didn't need anything else. (He will drag the two chairs and coffee table from the living room into the kitchen.)

He doesn't have a bedroom set either. He sleeps on a bare mattress on the floor.

It's not that he can't afford a few pieces of furniture -- he can, he just doesn't want to spend any money. I've had my dad and brothers and friends talk to him, but he's stubborn as a mule. That's why I'm writing to you.

I don't want to marry him in the hope that one day he'll change and spend some money. I want to be sure now, or else start looking for someone else. I want to get married soon.

STUCK ON AN IRISHMAN, AN

DEAR STUCK: If you love this penny-pinching Irishman, make a list of everything he needs (within reason and wtd his means). If he gives you one of those fighting Irish battles, make another list -- of eligible men you know.

DEAR ABBY: My husband insisted that Gary, our 12-year-old son, get a paper route to teach him responsibility and the value of money. Gary is our only child, a little spoiled and not the most ambitious kid in the world. He has, a morning and Sunday route, so he has to get up at 4:45 to get those papers delivered. It's pitch dark at that hour and we're afraid to let him take his bike, so I get up and drive him in our station wagon while he throws the papers.

Lately, Gary stays up late studying and I haven't the heart to wake him up at 4:45, so I let him sleep and I deliver the papers alone.

Abby, I am 47 years old and I don't need a paper route. I've asked my husband to let Gary quit his route, but he says, "No, it will make a man out of him." Meanwhile, it's making a wreck out of me. What do you suggest?

HELPFUL MOM

DEAR MOM: Quit doing a single and wake up Gary. If he requires more sleep, he'll manage to get to bed earlier. It's generous of parents to help their kids with their paper routes, but where's papa?

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (25 cents) envelope to Abby, 152 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Jason Ray is born to Mr., Mrs. Haney

Mr. and Mrs. Doyce McKamie, Post, Paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Geep Haney, O'Donnell.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pearce, Post and Mrs. Opal Winters, New Deal are great-grandparents. Mrs. William McKamie of Meridian is also a great-grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyce Haney, 1800 Winston, announce the birth of their first child, Jason Ray, born May 21 at 5:18 p.m. in Lubbock Methodist Hospital.

The infant weighed 7 pounds 9 ounces and was 20 inches long at birth.

Maternal grandparents of Jason are Mr. and Mrs. Billy

Older Texans receive award certificates at luncheon

The first annual Older Texans Award Luncheon was held Tuesday at the Dora Roberts Community Center, with 140 persons attending.

Mrs. Ed Kissinger served as mistress of ceremonies.

Marshall E. Brown and L.R. Mundt were the recipients of the older Texan awards certificates given by Governor Clements for outstanding services to the community.

Brown is a member of the First Methodist Church where he is the assistant teacher for the Men's Bible Class. He is considered an official visitor for the church, and is often called

Teens need parents' trust

Dr. Wallace: I'm really hurt because my parents mistrust me but I have never done anything to bring about this mistrust.

I have been dating this same boy for a year now. He doesn't smoke or drink and is a faithful member of his church. He is the sweetest, nicest guy that I have ever dated. My parents say they like him but they treat him terribly and talk about him to others.

We are under a stiff curfew on the weekends and hardly ever get to see each other, and when we do my little sister must go with us. This embarrasses me to no end. This also proves my parents' mistrust.

Dr. Wallace, why are my parents this way? Are they wrong? — Mary, Florence, Ala.

Mary: Parents should trust their children until proven otherwise. I'm amazed at parents who will trust everyone but their own children.

Sending your little sister on a date with you to chaperone is a grave mistake on your parents' part. This is a case where "overprotection" is almost as bad as "underprotection."

Your parents are this way because you are a young lady and they want to make sure you stay "pure." I'm sure if you were a boy, they wouldn't watch you as closely.

MRS. KERRY DEE VAUGHN

Wedding unites couple Saturday

The wedding vows between Sandra Boubek and Steve Evans were solemnized Saturday evening at the East Fourth Baptist Church.

The Rev. Guy White, pastor, performed the 6 p.m. ceremony before the setting of a 15-branched candelabrum flanked on either side by two seven-branched candelabrams of brass. Greenery and blue bows accented the scene.

Tapers were lit by the groom's brother, Scott Evans.

Vocalist for the ceremony was James Kinman. He was accompanied by Mrs. Jerry Oliphant.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Laura Boubek, 4200 Hamilton. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. C.G. Evans, 2614 Larry.

The bride chose to wear a gown of soft white tulle and Alencon lace. The molded bodice featured a modified Queen Anne neckline and cap sleeves embellished with pearl-embossed Alencon lace. A single row of matching lace defined the raised waistline from which an accordion pleated skirt fell to floor-length, sweeping to back fullness forming a chapel-length train. The entire skirt and train were edged in scalloped Alencon lace. She wore a veil of white illusion which fell to chapel-length from a headpiece adorned with pearls and Alencon lace.

She carried a cascading bouquet of blue sweetheart roses, blue daisies, white stephanotis and white forget-me-nots adorned with blue streamers.

Kristine Boubek attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Stanley and Kelly Stanley, both cousins of the bride, Midland; and Susan Musgrove. They wore blue sheer gowns of jersey over white, featuring draped necklines on off-the-shoulder blouson tops. The long flowing skirts fell from gathered waistlines.

Mike Evans, brother of the groom, served as best man.

MRS. STEVE EVANS

Baptist church is scene of ceremony

The wedding vows between Altha Lou Kemper and Kerry Dee (Mackie) Vaughn were solemnized before an altar enhanced by a 15-branch candelabrum flanked by two nine-branched candelabrams on either side.

Dr. Calude Cravens performed the Saturday evening wedding ceremony in the Trinity Baptist Church at 8 p.m.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Velah Kemper, Knott. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Weaver, 601 Washington and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Vaughn Jr., Fort Worth.

The bride chose to wear a gown of white bridal satin featuring a molded bodice of English net accented by a wedding band neckline adorned with appliques of Alencon lace and seeded pearls. The long tapering sleeves were also beautified with lace and pearls. The full sweeping chapel-length skirt complimented the bridal ensemble designed at the hemline with Alencon lace and seeded pearls. She wore a veil of illusion which fell from an appliqued headpiece of matching lace and pearls flowing to cathedral length.

A cascading bouquet of baby rosebuds in colors of green, yellow and apricot, sprinkled with baby's breath, was carried by the bride.

Mrs. Jodie Wright served her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Zenobia Reid, Coahoma and Mrs. Jackie Tredaway, Midland. They each wore a gown of polyester fashioned with accordion pleats falling from an empire waistline. A chiffon cape in colors of green, yellow and apricot fell gracefully over the shoulders.

Best man was Kenneth McMurtrey. Groomsmen were Joe Wright, brother-in-law of the bride; and Terry Vaughn, brother of the groom. Guests were seated by Jimmy Kemper, Knott; and Joyce Kemper, both brothers of the bride.

Flower girl Marci Weaver, cousin of the groom, was attired in a yellow satin gown overlaid with yellow chiffon. She carried a white lace basket of green, yellow and apricot roses as she was Groomsmen were Donny Knight, Paul Spence, and Robert Garcia.

Guests were seated by Kurt Boubek, brother of the bride; John Stanley, cousin of the bride; and Casey Wilder.

Attired in blue dotted swiss dresses fashioned with cap sleeves and jewel necklines, Michelle Evans and Sonya Evans, both sisters of the groom, were flower girls for the wedding. Sean Stanley, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

The fellowship hall of the church was the scene of a reception held in honor of the newlyweds.

The bride's table was draped with white lace over white cloth. A five-branched silver candelabrum and the bride's bouquet enhanced the setting. Silver and crystal appointments were used to serve punch and a wedding cake decorated in the bride's color of blue. Serving were Cindy Fowler and Jacque Ward.

A blue cloth accented the groom's table. Beth Young and Clara Brown served using brass and gold appointments.

Guests were registered by Vicky Stanley. She was seated at a table covered with white lace over white cloth which had belonged to the bride's great-grandmother.

The bride is a 1978 Big Spring High School graduate and is presently employed by Three Rivers Electric Co., San Angelo. The groom graduated from Big Spring High School in 1977 and graduated from Howard College this year. He plans to continue his education at Angelo State University. He will be employed by Angelo National Bank in San Angelo where the couple will make their home.

escorted by Todd Tredaway, Midland, nephew of the bride.

Shane and Clint Kemper, nephews of the bride, served as ring bearers.

Rusty Williams and Aubrey Weaver Jr., brother of the groom, were candle-lighters.

Mrs. Brenda Kemper, sister-in-law of the bride, registered guests as they entered the reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Mackie Vaughn.

The bride's table was draped with white cloth accented by yellow ribbon. The three-tiered heart-shaped cake decorated in the bride's chosen colors, was topped with bride and groom figurines used by the bride's grandparents on their 50th wedding anniversary cake. Anna Kemper, sister-in-law of the bride, and Pat Daniels served using crystal and silver appointments.

A chocolate cake displaying a carriage topped the grooms table. Serving were Mrs. Leslie Williams, wife of the groom; and Mrs. Bee Zinn.

As a graduate of Sands High School, Ackerly, the bride is also a graduate of Commercial College of Midland.

The groom is a Big Spring High School graduate and has attended Howard College. He is employed by Cosden Oil and Chemical Co.

The couple will make their home in Big Spring upon returning from a wedding trip to Dallas.

A BIG SPRING SUCCESS STORY FROM ELANOR METHENY

The day Pat Walker's Figure Perfection Salon opened in Big Spring was a very important one for me.

I had heard about the program several years ago and was impressed with it. Naturally, when we were fortunate enough to get one located here, I made an appointment for an evaluation.

On July 12, 1978, I enrolled. Since that time I have had a weight loss of 36 1/2 lbs. and 62 1/4 inches.

My health is so much better and I have more energy than I have had in years.

It has been a pleasure to go to the Salon. The efficient personnel makes you feel so welcome and seem sincerely interested in your progress.

I recommend the program highly.

Sincerely,

Orientation scheduled

An orientation for Junior Volunteers at Malone-Hogan Hospital will be held June 1, at 1:30 p.m. in the hospital classroom.

The purpose of the program for Big Spring young people between the ages of 14 and 18 is to acquaint them with the world of hospitals, and to give those youths in the community who may be interested in health care careers an opportunity to see the hospital in action, as it cares for the sick in the community. The orientation will teach the psychological aspects of illness, the ethic code of the medical field, and the discipline of health care.

Applications may be obtained from Junior and Senior High school offices and should be returned to the hospital switchboard at Malone-Hogan before the Orientation.

For further information, call 263-1211, Ext. 124, between the hours of 9 a.m.-5 p.m. or after 5 p.m., call 263-3158.

MRS. STANLEY VICK

Church of Christ rite is performed

Ginger Lucille Howard became the bride of Stanley Louis Vick in the Altamesa Church of Christ, Fort Worth, Saturday.

The wedding was officiated by Dr. James R. Petty, minister. Vows were spoken before an arch of mixed spring flowers and candles. The pews were marked at the aisle by ribbon bows and enhanced with greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Franklin Laminack, Fort Worth. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Uran Vick, 2305 Lynn Drive.

Wedding music was provided by an a cappella chorus directed by Fred Cowly of Fort Worth. Dan Pratt Jr., also of Fort Worth, was soloist.

The bride was attired in a William Cahill designer gown, traditional in style. The ivory gown fashioned with a scalloped train, featured a white silk Venice lace flower pattern. The Queen Anne neckline was encircled by the matching lace pattern. The long full Bishop sleeves were formed from very sheer organza and trimmed just above the wrist in lace. The cuff terminated to a very delicate point and was enhanced with lace. Small covered buttons closed the cuff openings.

Trimming the empire waist and running vertically around the skirt was the floral lace pattern that also encircled the sheer panel of organza, giving the illusion of stained glass to the skirt. An ivory organza cap covered with Alençon and Venice lace was adorned with pearls in floral design.

Her sheer marquisette veil of illusion fell to the floor covering the train of her gown. She carried a bouquet of 12 cascading white orchids.

Mrs. John Reinhart, Roswell, Ga., was matron of honor. Maid of honor was Lisa Elrod, Canon Lake.

Serving as bridesmaids were Rebecca Cotter and Kimberly Rowland, both of Fort Worth; Janet Fry, Odessa; and Sherron Wilson, Paducah.

They wore dresses in pastel colors of pink, blue, green, orchid, peach, and yellow organza, fashioned with large bias collars. They each carried colonial nosegays of mixed spring flowers.

Greg Vick, brother of the groom, Clute, served as best man. Groomsmen were Scott Vick, Big Spring, brother of the groom; Frank Laminack, Fort Worth; Paul Prather, Big Spring; Jon Elrod, Big Spring; and Larry Wood, Abilene.

Attired in a floral fabric gown designed identical to the bridesmaids, Stacy Christine Laminack served as flower girl. She carried a basket filled with multi-colored petals.

Wesley Reinhart, Roswell, Ga., was ring bearer for the ceremony. Cam Reinhart and Adam Reinhart, also of Roswell, Ga., were candlelighters.

Serving as ushers were Rex Ackerman and Bill Cotter, both of Fort Worth; John Reinhart, Roswell, Ga.; and Mark Thompson, Houston.

A reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Vick was held in the church reception hall. The four-tiered bride's cake was decorated with yellow, pink, blue and orchid flowers. The groom's cake, German chocolate, featured mocha grapes decorating the top.

Serving at the reception were Cindy Crass and Annette Dibrill, both of Fort Worth; Carol Bankhead, Odessa; Vonna Howell, Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Mrs. Greg Vick, Clute.

Attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. to H. Vick, Mr. and Mrs. George Tarpley, and Mrs. David Elrod, all of Big Spring; and Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Tate, Dallas.

The bride is a senior elementary education major at Abilene Christian University and plans to continue her education at Texas Christian University.

The groom is a spring graduate of Abilene Christian University with a Bachelor of Business in accounting. He is employed by Weaver and Tidwell Accounting Firm, Fort Worth.

Following a wedding trip to South Padre Island, the couple will make their home in Fort Worth.

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Elliott, Burnsville, Minn., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Juliann K. to Mark K. Holler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Holler, Big Spring.

The wedding ceremony will be performed by Rev. Carroll C. Kohl, pastor, at St. Paul Lutheran Church, August 25.

Double-ring ceremony unites Laura Tucker, Larry Douglas

Laura Tucker and Larry Douglas were wed Saturday afternoon in the First Baptist Church of Blackwell in a double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Dan Grindstaff.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.J. Tucker, Blackwell. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Douglas, also of Blackwell.

Providing wedding music for the 4 p.m. ceremony were Rhonda Trull, pianist; Shirley Holland, organist; and Joyce Roland, vocalist.

The ceremony was read before an altar enhanced by a gold archway adorned with blue ribbons. Two multi-branched candelabras and two baskets containing blue flower arrangements accented the front of the church. Fresh rose and carnation arrangements were set atop the piano and organ. Completing the decorations were blue cloth flowers marking the pews.

The bride was presented down the aisle by her father attired in a gown of bridal satin designed with a chiffon overlay. Lace embellished the bodice which featured full sleeves and a scooped neckline edged in lace. A finger-tip-length veil of white illusion accented with rose lace trim fell from a chapel cap. A bouquet of blue and white roses carried by the bride enhanced her attire.

Mary Jane Tucker, sister of the bride, was maid of honor for the ceremony. She wore a solid light blue gown featuring a chiffon overlay. Junior bridesmaid was Patricia Palmer. Leslie Douglas, daughter of the groom, served as flower girl.

They were attired in gowns of light blue print fashioned with short sleeves. Ronney Feaster, Big Spring, attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Ray Walls, nephew of the bride, Blackwell; Will Lenoir, brother of the bride, Blackwell; Jim Palmer and Don Pence, Big Spring seated guests.

The bride's cousin, Darrell Hardin of Sweetwater, was ring bearer. Candles were lit by Jim and Bill Palmer, both of Blackwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Douglas were feted with a reception immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was laid

The newlyweds will take a delayed wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., the second week in June. They now make their home in Breckenridge.
