Nation's moral debt to Vietnam era vets remains 'outstanding'

By EILEEN MCGUIRE

While Confederate Air Force World War II planes circled overhead, tribute was paid to American veterans on the grounds of the V.A. Medical Center Monday.

The ceremonies, which included an honor guard, were conducted on the front lawn, around the flagpole. Across the drive, patients of the center and their families looked on as they were formally thanked for their sacrifices.

Following an invocation by Chaplain Clayton Hicks, President Carter's proclamation of Vietnam Veterans Week, May 28-June

2 was read by Garlond E. Evers, director of the center.

"This nation's moral debt to Vietnam Era veterans still remains outstanding," President Jimmy Carter said last week after issuing the proclamation.

He declared the week as a one-time opportunity to pay tribute to the people called upon to fight during the Vietnam conflict.

"They served their country during a painful time in a bitter war," Carter continued. "They returned home to a country divided over the war. They never received the welcome we showered upon returning veterans of past wars."

"As a nation, we have not yet fully recognized those who fought in Southeast Asia for their service and their sacrifice. Vietnam Veterans Week offers the people of the United States a timely opportunity to convey our honor and appreciation."

Representing Mayor Wade Choate, Chamber of Commerce President Johnnie Lou Avery stood before the crowd with John Massey, Big Spring's newest city councilman, to read the mayor's proclamation.

In recognition of the sacrifices of the Vietnam veteran, Mrs. Avery read the mayor's wish that all citizens "pay tribute to the thousands of men and women who carried their beliefs to that soil."

Some remarks regarding Vietnam Veterans Week were made by keynote speaker, Harvey Holcomb, Commander of the American Legion Department of Texas.

In reference to Carter's proclamation Holcomb said, "I do not agree with this administration on too many things, but in this particular instance, I say 'Well done, Mr. President.'"

Holcomb observed a national problem regarding the veterans of the Korean and Vietnam conflicts.

"The heroes of those never-declared wars don't sense the pride of a clear victory.

The veterans were honored with a 21-gun salute by the Texas National Guard Honor Guard of Detachment 1, Battery C, 3rd Battalion, 133 Field Artillery. The men were under the command of Staff Sgt. Jose Padilla. Taps were played by National Guardsman Robert Muller.

Special guests at the memorial service in addition to the speakers were Mrs. Harvey Holcomb; Mrs. Paula Evers; Virginia Bryant; Bill Albright; Michael Hamilton; C.D. Phillips, Commander World War II Barracks 1474; James Morrow, Commander, Disabled American Veterans, Unit 47; Fagin Johnson, Commander, Disabled American Veterans Chapter 34 of Lamesa; Jack Spivey, Commander, American Legion Post 355; Katie Spivey, representing the president of VFW Auxiliary 2013; Rocky Vieira, Commander, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 2013; Wanda Gurbough, president, American Legion Auxiliary Post 355; Ollie Branson, American Legion Auxiliary Post 605; Della Nobles, president of Gold Star Mothers; Colie Barber, C.U. Clements gives the 66th Legislature a 'B'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The 66th Legislature ended its regular session Monday with a "B" report card from Gov. Bill Clements but low marks from the Texas Consumer Association.

Lawmakers finished their major tasks hours before the constitutionally mandated midnight adjournment, avoiding the usual last-minute crush of activity.

With little debate they passed and sent to Clements bills that:

- Appropriate $20.2 billion to run state government over the next two years, a 29.8 percent increase over the current budget.
- Boost state aid to school districts by $967 million, about a third of which will be spent on 5.1 percent cost-of-living raises for school teachers each of the next two years.
- Carry out all provisions of the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment, including a school tax freeze for elderly Texans and repeal of property taxes on personal cars. Both the disabled and persons 65 and older will have $15,000 of the market value of their homes knocked off the school tax rolls. Other homeowners received a $5,000 homestead exemption automatically from the Tax Relief Amendment.

Clements, whose feisty style irritated some legislators as the 140-day session wore on, received standing ovations during courtesy visits to each chamber.

He said he would see lawmakers again in a special session on his initiative and referendum proposal, which they had cold-shouldered.

But the special session won't be soon, he intimated to the House.

"Those of you who have apartments with long term leases, just go ahead and give them up because we are not going to have a quick special session. And I will see you back in Austin before too long," Clements told the laughing, applauding representatives.

He later told reporters he had raised the "F" grade he had stamped on the Legislature just over a week ago when much of his program was languishing.

"I would be something less than honest if I said I was overjoyed with the session, overall. But looking over the record, I think I will have to raise my pre-commencement grade assignment from 'F' to 'B,'" Clements said at a post-midnight news conference over the leavings of a buffet he had provided for staffers and reporters.

The state's first Republican governor since 1874 said that overall, his program hadn't fared so badly in the overwhelmingly Democratic Legislature.

Adjournment came shortly after Speaker Bill Clayton delivered a speech that praised the House but raised the nagging doubts some feel after a session marked by accusations that legislators served special interests more than the public interest.

"This House did not shirk its duty. We faced the problems as our collective wisdom decreed," he said.

"Are the taxpayers, the school children, the infirm, the needy better served because we were here? ...

Have we guaranteed that this House will be remembered for the good it did Texas and not for what it did not do?" Clayton asked.

"...These are questions that the voting public of Texas will be called on to decide before another Legislature convenes."

The consumer association had its own answer.

Jim Boyle, its executive director, said the business lobby "feasted on the average consumer" and "homebuyers will be paying probably $20,000 to $30,000 more in interest because of the savings and loans' control over this Legislature."

The Legislature was the first to deal with the Sunset process that phases out agencies that lawmakers fail to continue.

Monday's final hours saw the most controversial of the agencies up for "sunsetting" this year granted a 12-year extension of its life, the State Bar of Texas.

Lawyers will have to share control of the bar with laymen, and non-lawyers will make up a third of the local grievance committees that review accusations against attorneys — that is, if Clements signs the bill. He said he would consider it carefully.

Although the pace Monday was nowhere near as frantic as the typical closing day, plenty of significant bills and constitutional amendments were approved.

Voters were sent proposed constitutional changes that would:

- Give the governor new powers to manage state agency expenditures, subject to approval by a high-level legislative panel.
- Shift appeals of criminal convictions from the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals to the 14 locally elected courts of civil appeals, except for death penalty cases and those involving major legal questions.
- Allow appeals, before trial, on district judges' rulings on such matters as the validity of search warrants. Both the defendant and the state could appeal.

Major bills passed and sent to Clements on Monday would:

- Create 20 new courts to handle burgeoning caseloads, including nine in Houston, Dallas and San Antonio.
- Give fetuses that survive abortion the same rights as children born normally, including the legal right to heroic medical efforts to keep them alive.
- Establish a state program of low-interest home loans — financed by revenue bonds and federal funds — for Texans with low and moderate incomes.
- Stimulate the state's infant wine-making industry by letting wineries sell directly to tourists and other consumers and use juice from vineyards other than their own.

Initiative and referendum a sure item for agenda Governor promises lawmakers one more bat

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements claimed a .760 batting average in his rookie encounter with the Texas Legislature but reminded lawmakers he will call them back to bat sometime before 1981.

"It will probably be at the worst possible time I can dream up," Clements said.

His special session agenda certainly will include initiative and referendum and possibly other matters.

"Of the 17 items which I ranked as priorities for my legislative team during the final two months of the session, a total of 13 passed," Clements told a news conference after the Legislature adjourned at midnight

"Only four — initiative and referendum, electronic surveillance, power for the governor to name commission chairmen and provision for proficiency testing of students — failed," the Republican said in his overwhelmingly Democratic Legislature.

"Obviously, I did not meet with overwhelming success in my first encounter with the Legislature," he added, "but neither, contrary to some reports, was my program ever in shambles."

Clements claimed victory in passage of:

- Single, countywide tax appraisal offices.

—Abolition of the 10-cent state property tax.

—Budget execution powers for the governor, as head of a seven-member committee.

—Enabling legislation implementing the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment and returning $450 million to taxpayers.

In addition to his four priority items that faltered, Clements mourned failure of a ban on state income taxes and back-to-basics programs for public education.

He said he would accept the 5.1 percent salary increase for teachers along with incremental raises as teachers reach certain experience levels.

"I'm disappointed that it (school finance bill) contains step increases along with 5.1 percent, but I will accept that," he said.

The governor has until June 17 to veto bills. Measures left on his desk after that date automatically become law.

Clements declined to specify what parts of the general appropriation bill he might strike out. Governors may veto line items within the state budget bill.

"This is too festive an evening to get into that kind of sad news," he told the news conference in his public reception room. Cold cuts, fruit and hors d'oeuvres covered his desk, and microphones were placed in a fruit bowl.

He said he probably will need until June 17 to decide what to pencil out of the appropriation bill.

Before legislators adjourned, Clements told House members they could cancel their five-month leaves. But he gave no other hints about when he would call the special session.

"It's really a roulette game of when is the worst possible time. Some people like to campaign in September or October. Others like to announce in February. Some like to ski in March," he said.

Infant's death spawned bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The death of a Mexican-American infant "inspired" the introduction of an emergency care bill, its sponsor says Monday. He accused a woman senator whose husband is a doctor of killing the bill.

Rep. Gonzalo Barrientos' bill would have made it easier for non-English speakers to get emergency medical care.

He said Sen. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth, a doctor's wife, "acted callously and totally without conscience" in blocking the measure.

Mrs. Andujar said one solution might be for those who needed health care in Texas to learn to speak English.

Barrientos, D-Austin, put out a news release, relating a story of Rachel and Isidro Aguinas, whose 11-month-old child died in his mother's arms in December after the Spanish-speaking farm workers purportedly had been denied hospital care in Dimmitt and Tulia.

Barrientos said he was shocked to learn a hospital staff and officers were subject only to a $200 fine for denying emergency treatment to ill or injured people who cannot demonstrate they can pay for the treatment.

He said his bill would:

- Insure that persons seeking emergency aid would be diagnosed even if they could not show they could pay for the service.
- Insure that if there were language differences between patient and staff, treatment would be provided before money was discussed.
- Increase the criminal penalties for "those callous enough to deny treatment to someone because they could not demonstrate their ability to pay for treatment."

If the denial was deliberate and the patient died, said Barrientos, the responsible person could be sentenced to up to 10 years in prison.

Mrs. Andujar blocked a Senate committee hearing on the bill by "tagging" it, which delayed a hearing until after the session ended at midnight.

Barrientos said he asked Mrs. Andujar why she had tagged the bill, and she told him she had not had time to review it.

On the light side

Texans down 'dillos

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Armadillos are just "horny, humpy-backed animals" that have no business being the official Texas mammal, says state Sen. John Traeger.

Traeger persuaded colleagues on Monday not to accept a resolution naming the nine-banded armadillo the official state mammal.

Sen. Walter Mengden said he was sponsoring the resolution after school children from his Houston district suggested it.

"School children are one of the most wonderful things in the world but not to write the laws for the state of Texas," Traeger replied.

"They (armadillos) take up the flower bed, tear up the roses. They're completely worthless, and we shouldn't have a horny animal representing the great state of Texas."

Dog-gone good idea

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — For 27 years, Robert Gillham had a dream. Now his dream has come true — he's received a patent for what he says will make a better hot dog.

The patent, classified by the U.S. Patent Office as a "basic pioneer patent," is for a coring device that allows you to stuff your hot dogs with your favorite cheese or filling, explained the 70-year-old former cheese salesman turned inventor.

The hole in the frank, says Gillham, 70, solves a problem that has long bedeviled cheesedog lovers — how to keep the cheese from burning while you heat up the hotdog.

Gillham says his invention will fix that, since it allows cheese to be added just before a hot dog is packed. And since it's inside the dog, the cheese won't burn.

Home of Shakespeare's 'Shylock' Original ghetto restored

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Venice's long-neglected Jewish quarter, the home of Shakespeare's Shylock and where the word "ghetto" originated, is being restored, supported partly by American benefactors.

The ghetto, a three-block area once inhabited by more than 5,000 Jews, derives its name from the old Venetian word "geto" meaning foundry, so called because it was built on the site of an abandoned foundry for casting iron.

Here for centuries, ever since the colony was created in 1516, the Jews lived their segregated and unequal life, apart from the rest of the city, surrounded by walls, but with their synagogues, schools and traditions.

"Venice's ghetto represents a unique experience in the history of the Jewish people," says Colombo Vitaliano, the cantor at the Spanish Synagogue. "It's an interesting example of the possibilities for living — in the heart of a pluralistic society — of a minority that had been able to preserve intact its faith and customs."

"It was a Jewish melting pot," says Mark Harris, a University of Manchester student writing a doctoral dissertation on the Jewish community in Venice.

"Jews from different countries, with entirely different customs, traditions and languages, were thrown in together bound by one faith," he says. "It was not unlike a Chinatown, but with exaggerated difficulties and elements of repression thrown in."

In "Merchant of Venice," Shakespeare portrays a relentless moneylender named Shylock operating in the Renaissance ghetto.

Fewer than 20 Jewish families now live in the area, built around a large square and isolated by canals. Impoverished families, mostly those of migrant workers, occupy the rest of the slum buildings. Most apartments do not have baths, and many rooms, especially on upper floors, are barely four feet high.

Fusetti Leda, who runs a third-generation jewelry shop, says her business is good, but her children do not want to live in the ghetto.

"They all left for comfortable places," says Mrs. Leda, who was born here 46 years ago. "Maybe someday if we can at least redo the interiors of these buildings — some people say they can make attractive duplexes or triplexes out of them — then, maybe, they may return."

Many of the Jewish specialty stores that used to dot the slum streets have disappeared. A snack bar with a big star of David on the window is serving ham-and-swiss sandwiches. A souvenir shop selling Jewish artifacts is run by a non-Jewish family.

But Colombo insists the ghetto remains the center of Jewish life in Venice. He points out that it still holds the synagogues, the rabbi's office, a rest home with kosher restaurant, the ritual bath and a bakery for unleavened bread.

On Saturdays and holidays, the Jews from Venice as well as Jewish tourists come to worship at two of the slum's five synagogues, all built within slum buildings presumably not to embarrass the doges, the Renaissance rulers of Venice, who had barred their construction.

Considered exquisite examples of Baroque architecture — rich in carved wood, gilt, and stucco decorations — the synagogues are the focal point of the restoration.

The synagogues are called "schola" — school — a Venetian designation for a center of community life as well as religious practice. Since they were built in the early 16th century, they have undergone repeated renovations.

They are the Schola Tedesca, the Schola Cantone, the Schola Italiana, the Schola Levantina and the Schola Spagnola. The Schola Levantina and the Schola Spagnola are open for services, and the other three are used as museums.

The Chicago chapter of the International Fund for Monuments took part in the restoration of the Schola Cantone and America's Save Venice Inc. in that of the Schola Levantina.

Work on the Schola Tedesca was supported by private German donors, and Italian organizations have contributed to the restoration of the Schola Italiana.

But the entire ghetto still needs a lot of work, and American and Italian groups are now preparing an international program for students to do volunteer work in the ghetto during their vacations.

Ships ready to sail Suez

Egypt, Israel move closer

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Egypt took more steps toward peace today as Israeli Navy ships prepared to sail through the Suez Canal for the first time in history, and President Anwar Sadat invited foreign airlines to begin flying between Cairo and Tel Aviv at once.

Three Israeli landing craft loaded with trucks from the occupation force in the southern Sinai joined a convoy that was beginning the northward trip through the canal at dawn. An Israeli civilian ship, the freighter Ashdod, passed through the waterway a month ago, on April 28, with a crew of 22 but no cargo.

Sadat said that following his weekend declaration with Prime Minister Menachem Begin opening the border between Egypt and Israel, foreign airlines can begin service between Egypt and Israel whenever they want to.

"There is no restriction, no boycott, let them come," he told reporters during a trip through the canal Monday aboard his presidential yacht.

Sadat added, however, that flights between the two countries by the Israeli and Egyptian airlines would not begin until after Israel completes the initial phase of its withdrawal from the Sinai peninsula at the end of the year. The Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty provides that an aviation agreement is to be negotiated by July 1980.

Egyptian officials said they expected only official delegations to be traveling freely between the two countries for several months.

Why Do You Say "Hello" to People?

Most of us say "hello" to others because it's a way to acknowledge their presence and their worth to us. It's just one of many simple, common courtesies which mean so much.

During bereavement, the importance of courtesy, combined with genuine concern, is uppermost. That's one reason why so many area families rely on Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home in their hour of need.

Official starts drive that nets lady new home

CLOVIS, Calif. (AP) — When Darrel Dietrich saw the elderly woman's crumbling home, he was shocked. So he started a drive to get it repaired.

Before the utility company official was done, 145 people had donated their time and materials to build 75-year-old Emma Traylor a new home valued at $25,000.

"I didn't know what to say," Mrs. Traylor recalled Monday. "I didn't believe it."

But this past weekend Mrs. Traylor moved from her 240-square-foot cottage with its leaky roof into the new 600-square foot cottage complete with indoor bathroom.

"It's beyond words," said Mrs. Traylor as she surveyed her new home.

Dietrich, Pacific Gas & Electric Co. manager in this central California city, said he happened on Mrs. Traylor's home while checking a broken utility pole. He found shingles on the roof crumbling and aluminum foil tacked to the ceiling to keep out the rain.

The one-room home was heated by a propane oven; the bathroom was outside — a converted chicken coop.

Dietrich said he first got $100 in donations from fellow Rotarian Club members to fix Mrs. Traylor's electrical service, but an electrician in the group volunteered to do the work for free.

Then, Dietrich suggested the Rotarians pay to have a new roof and siding built on the old house. He found that was impractical because the structure was riddled with termites and dry rot.

So, he suggested building a new house and began organizing volunteers.

Members of the local carpenter's union local built the structure on weekends. Sheet metal workers donated a natural gas wall heater.

The move also was handled by volunteers with Mrs. Traylor doing only the supervising because of her age and high blood pressure.

Next weekend, the volunteers will tear down Mrs. Traylor's old cottage. In the meantime, she wants to get used to her new surroundings.

State senate rejects 'Year of the Child' promotion

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate has rejected a resolution promoting 1979 as the International Year of the Child, a special year proclaimed by the United Nations and recognized by President Carter.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett could only muster 11 votes to bring up the resolution as 16 senators voted against it. This was far short of the two-thirds necessary to debate the House-approved resolution.

It died with less than two hours left in the 140-day regular session.

The resolution asked Gov. Bill Clements to appoint a commission of no more than 15 members to "carry out the goals and objectives of the special year."

It also asked the governor to set aside the third Thursday in September as Children's Day "for activities and observances symbolizing the importance of the well-being of children of this state and throughout the world."

Sens. Betty Andujar and Tom Creighton compared the Year of the Child to the "International Year of the Woman," which Mrs.

Andujar said was a "total disaster."

"It's the same concept, isn't it?" asked Creighton, D-Mineral Wells.

"No," said Doggett, D-Austin. "It would set up a commission to study children's needs."

"I'd try to tell you how to raise your children," shouted Creighton. "Well, mothers know how to raise kids, and they don't need state agencies — I'm for women."

Mrs. Andujar, R-Fort Worth, pointed to a phrase on "social progress," which she said troubled her. With such a broad guideline, "They could do anything they wanted to," she said.

Asked who "they" was, Mrs. Andujar said, "The government could step into the home between the child and the family."

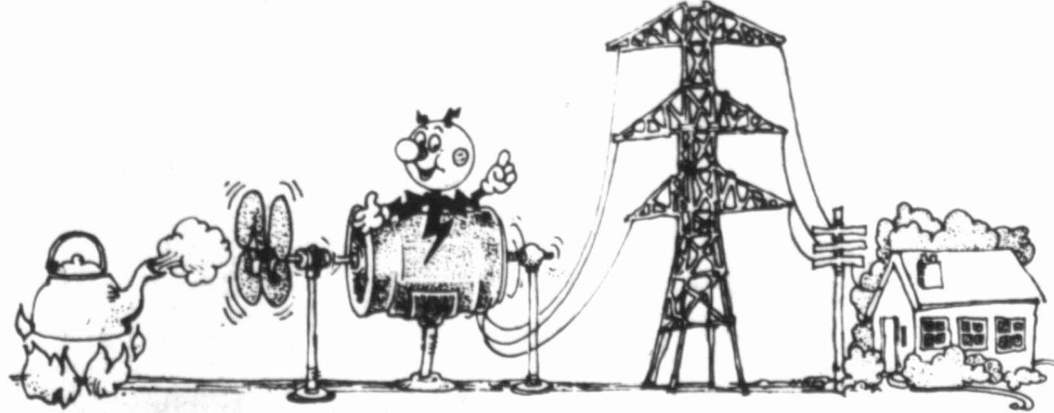

"I'm still pro-family, very strongly," she said.

Gems big

PARIS (AP) — Fall will not be the season for quiet, simple jewelry if French designers have their way.

At the recent showing of the fall collections, big, attention-getting pieces were the rule, with designers zeroing in on long, tassel necklaces, wind-chime earrings, beaded chokers and bright enamel pins.

Here's why it takes fuel to make electricity.

It takes fuel to make electricity. A lot of people don't understand that, but it's true. Most of the power plants in this country require steam to generate electricity. To make steam you must boil water, and that requires a lot of heat. That's why we have to buy and burn large amounts of fuel, such as lignite coal and natural gas, every month. The steam we make with it turns the generators that make your electricity, which we distribute to you right when you need it. The fuel we use costs money, more all the time, which is why we show it separately on your bill. At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for. And to remember: it takes fuel to make electricity.

PRINCE CHARLES QUEEN MOTHER

Prince 'needs good wife'

NORWICH, England (AP) — Prince Charles, heir to the British throne and the country's most eligible bachelor, says what he really needs is a good wife. Charles told an audience of school principals on Tuesday that he was deluged with mail after a controversial speech last February in which he blamed management for many of Britain's labor problems. "By far the best was a postcard which simply said 'What you need is a good wife,'" said Charles. "I'm sure that's exactly what I do need."

OTTAWA (AP) — England's Queen Mother Elizabeth is coming to Canada to go to the races and gather the clans. Her visit to Canada in June will include formal dinners, an evening at the International Gathering of the Scottish Clans in Nova Scotia and an afternoon at the horse races in Toronto. An itinerary for her visit released Monday said she will arrive in Halifax June 26 and spend four days there before taking a three-day trip to Toronto.

Nostalgic holiday for Colby

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was a nostalgic Memorial Day weekend for CIA Director William Colby. Now a lawyer in Washington, D.C., Colby headed the CIA from 1973 to 1976. He was in New Orleans the past weekend to celebrate the 34th anniversary of the World War II Operation RYPER mission with 42 of its 55 survivors. Colby was an Army major when the elite cadre of Norwegian-American volunteers parachuted into occupied Norway in the spring of 1945, as World War II was drawing to a close. Their mission was to work with local Resistance units to sabotage railways ferrying Nazi troops from Finland into France and Germany.

Bhutto survivors released

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — The widow and daughter of executed former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto have been released from detention in a police camp near Islamabad and flown here, the government says. An official announcement Monday said Nusrat Bhutto and her daughter Benazir asked to be flown to Karachi, where they live. Their release had been promised for several weeks. Bhutto, 51, was found guilty of ordering the assassination of a political foe in 1974. The man was not killed in the attack but his father was.

He will meet with President Bendjedid Chadli.

Mears earned $270,401 for Indy 500 victory

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "There are things that have to be done. Let's get 'em done. But we can't do it until we're all chasing the same rabbit...until we're all in the same camp."

For at least one night, however, both sides were smiling as the 35 drivers picked up shares of a record Indy purse of $1,271,955. Mears, 27, of Bakersfield, Calif., driving in just his second Indy race, took home $270,401 for his three-hour drive on Sunday.

"This is a great honor," said Mears, the pole-position starter who took the lead 18 laps from the finish when teammate Bobby Unser lost fourth gear. "I can't explain what it feels like."

Mears, who stayed up near the lead the entire race, finally got his chance when a yellow caution light slowed the entire field. He was able to close the gap behind Unser, and the two Roger Penske teammates appeared headed for a wheel-to-wheel duel to the finish.

When Unser dropped back, "There's no way we can go on separately," said Binford, respected equally on both sides of the often bitter conflict over control of championship car racing in the United States.

four-time champion A.J. Foyt came up to second place, but he limped across the finish line just three seconds ahead of third-place Mike Mosley when his engine went out on the last lap.

"Three years ago when I was driving across the Baja desert, I never thought I'd even be in a championship car, let alone win the Indianapolis 500," he said.

The total purse topped $1 million for the 10th straight year, and this year's prize package was nearly $127,000 more than the previous record $1,145,225 set last year.

The only larger winners' shares in Indy history were both claimed by Al Unser, who pocketed $271,697 for his first victory in 1970 and a record $290,363 for his third triumph last year.

Nine of the drivers, including Foyt, both Unser brothers, former winner Gordon Johncock and fourth-place finisher Danny Ongais, did not attend the banquet.

Mears' total purse included $103,500 in accessory prizes and $5,000 for leading 25 laps in the race. He also received the Ford Mustang pace car. Foyt earned $107,291 for second place and Mosley pocketed $65,031 for finishing third.

Ongais won $41,197 for fourth, and Bobby Unser, who wound up fifth, earned $62,319.

VICTORY FLAG — Indy 500 Starter Pat Vidan presents the checkered flag to Rick Mears used to signal the 27-year-old driver's victory in Sunday's race. Mears also received a check for more than $270,000 at Monday night's victory banquet.

Jim Welch wins City Championship

Jim Welch finished with a three over par 219 to capture championship honors in the three-day Big Spring City Golf Championship held Memorial Weekend at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Welch's total gave him a six-stroke advantage over Gary Howell and Riley Wyatt, who both finished at 225. Howell then claimed second place honors by defeating Wyatt on a playoff hole. Ben Garcia also finished in the money at 227.

Bernard Rains fired a three-day total of 232 to easily win the first flight. Rains was 12 strokes ahead of Don Knight's 244 total. Burl Dennis used 245 strokes to finish in third place in the first flight.

Don Stone won the second flight with a 285 total. This was good enough for a six stroke advantage over second place Terry Vaughn. Also placing in the second flight were Joe Rodriguez at 274 and John Stanley at 275.

A total of 60 players competed in the affair. Merchandise was presented to the top five finishers in each flight, with a $100 prize awarded to the champion of each flight.

Cardinals batter Abilene

The Big Spring Cardinals used the pitching of Frankie Rubio and a three run second inning to propel them to a 5-1 victory over the Abilene Eagles on Memorial weekend.

Rubio, Jody Flores and Tony Rubio scored consecutive runs in the second inning to give the Cards all of the runs they would need in the contest.

Abilene scored their only run in the second inning.

Brett swinging a Royal bat

Baseball Roundup

By The Associated Press

Royals 5, Orioles 4

George Brett, who had already hit for the cycle (single, double, triple, home run) in the first 15 innings, led off the 16th against Sammy Stewart with his second homer of the night and sixth of the year to power Kansas City over the Orioles.

Baltimore had tied it in the ninth on Ken Singleton's opposite-field homer after the Royals had taken a 4-3 lead in the eighth on Brett's two-run homer off Dennis Martinez. Gary Roenicke also homered for the Orioles.

Smalley keys Twins win

The Minnesota Twins have found a bunch of "cousins" among the American League's weak sisters. And just to keep things all in the family, shortstop Roy Smalley, Manager Gene Mauch's nephew, is leading the way.

The Twins broke a five-game losing streak Monday by outslugging the Oakland A's 10-7. That boosted their record against the A's, Seattle Mariners and Toronto Blue Jays, the AL's three worst teams, to 14-0.

In addition, they are 5-2 with Detroit and 3-2 over Cleveland, giving them a 22-4 log against teams with sub-.500 records. The only winning teams the Twins have played so far are California, Texas and Kansas City. They are only 4-14 against those clubs.

"All wins count the same. They don't put asterisks by the wins over the second-division clubs," said Smalley, who hit a two-run first-inning homer — his 10th of the season — and singled home two more runs to cap a tie-breaking four-run seventh.

White Sox rout Indians

Alan Bannister drilled three singles, drove in one run and scored two and Ken Kravec held Cleveland hitless after allowing three hits in the first inning. The White Sox went ahead with two runs in the second. Rusty Torres doubled home the first run Greg Pryor added a sacrifice fly. Bill Nahorodny, Bannister and Ralph Garr singled a run home in the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings, respectively, and Nahorodny homered in the eighth.

Pirates edge Mets

Bill Robinson, Grant Jackson and the rest of the Pittsburgh Pirates are delighted to be back home tonight.

Lee Mazzilli and the rest of the New York Mets are no doubt thrilled to see them out of the Big Apple.

On Sunday, Robinson hit a ninth-inning home run to break a tie and give unbeaten Jackson his third victory as the Pirates beat New York 2-1.

And on Monday, Robinson hit a run-scoring single in the first inning, a two-run tie-breaking homer in the fourth inning and a double to trigger a three-run ninth as Pittsburgh, with Jackson picking up his sixth save, ripped the Mets 6-1.

"This will give us the impetus for a run at Philadelphia and Montreal," Manager Chuck Tanner said. "We're going home for 12 games with a 6-3 road trip, two wins in a row and a chance to beat some teams and get things together." The Pirates are 5½ games behind Philadelphia and Montreal, tied atop the East. The Phillies and Expos open a series tonight in Montreal while Pittsburgh hosts Chicago.

Mahler a Giant killer

Atlanta beat San Francisco in a sloppily played game Sunday. Manager Bobby Cox thought his Braves could do better, so he chewed them out. And they did better. Then Cox played it low-key.

"I don't think clubhouse meetings win ball games. Good pitching does," he said. He got it from Mickey Mahler who allowed eight hits, struck out seven Giants and walked one in his first complete game of the season.

"I felt strong, had a good fastball, a good curve and a good slider — and the wind was blowing straight in, which was great," Mahler said. Atlanta Stadium is a home-run hitter's dream.

It was for Glenn Hubbard, who hit a three-run shot off Giants starter Phil Nastu. "It was a good pitch, a slider down by his shoes, and he just golfed it out," said Giants Manager Joe Altobelli.

Winfield leads Padres attack

Dave Winfield drove in three runs and pitcher Randy Jones drove in two to lead San Diego past the Astros. Jones, recording his fifth victory, needed ninth-inning relief from Rollie Fingers, who picked up his sixth save.

Summers ingites Tigers

Champ Summers, acquired from Cincinnati over the weekend, cracked his first American League homer to ignite a three-run second-inning while Jack Morris scattered seven hits in recording his first complete game of the year. Summers, who added two singles, triggered Detroit's three-run second with a two-out homer and Aurelio Rodriguez and Lynn Jones added RBI singles.

Rivers shot sinks Brewers

Mickey Rivers lined his third home run of the season with two out in the 10th inning to ruin a fine pitching performance by Milwaukee's Bill Travers. The blast gave rookie Ron Davis his first major league victory. Davis, recalled from the minors on Sunday, relieved Jim Beattie with runners at first and third and one out in the eighth, worked out of trouble and allowed one hit the rest of the way.

Murcer, Tidrow carry Cubs

Bobby Murcer hit two home runs, a solo shot in the seventh inning and a two-run clout in the ninth. But it was Bill Buckner who had the game-winning hit, a two-out, eighth-inning triple that broke a 1-1 tie and gave the Cubs their victory over Philadelphia.

Dick Tidrow, obtained last week from the New York Yankees, took over for Mike Krukow and allowed six hits and one run in five relief innings to chalk up his first NL victory. In three appearances (10 innings) with Chicago he has a win and a save and a sparkling 0.90 earned-run average.

Reds scramble past Dodgers

Cincinnati and Los Angeles battled through nine scoreless innings, then Dan Driessen homered for the Reds to open the top of the 10th — only to have Reggie Smith homer leading off the bottom of the inning.

In the 13th, Ken Griffey walked, Dave Concepcion singled and Driessen walked and Ray Knight broke the tie with a single off Charlie Hough. It scored two runs — and the Reds needed both. In the bottom of the 13th Derrel Thomas doubled and Davey Lopes singled for the Dodgers' final run.

Defeat Brigham Young in regional finals.

Longhorns advance to College World Series

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — No one could blame the Brigham Young Cougars if they didn't feel at home in Ditch-Falk Field, the home diamond of the University of Texas baseball team.

With 5,500 partisan Texas fans and a rowdy group of UT supporters called the "Wild Bunch" shouting approval, country-western music blaring between innings and nachos, a Mexican delicacy, on sale at the concession stand, BYU must have felt they were in a foreign country.

The Mormon Tabernacle Choir might have helped but Jim Tjader propelled the Longhorns into the first round of the College World Series Saturday against Connecticut, the Northeast Regional champion.

"I knew they were a good hitting team, but I felt as long as I could keep the ball down they would hit it on the ground," said Wright, who held BYU to two hits until he yielded a two-run homer by Cliff Pastornicky in the sixth.

Creel took over in the seventh and after a shaky start, shutout the Cougars the rest of the game, including striking out two batters in the ninth inning.

"We've got to get good pitching all the way through," UT Coach Cliff Gustafson said of the upcoming national championship tournament. "That's the name of the game."

Underwood Bros. to meet Thursday

TORONTO (AP) — The National League has the Niekro brothers and now the American League has the Underwoods.

And the two left-handed pitchers will do battle against one other Thursday night when the Toronto Blue Jays entertain the Detroit Tigers in the finale of a four-game set.

"I think it's stupid," Tom Underwood of the Blue Jays said Monday night after learning that his brother, Pat, three years his younger, is to get his indoctrination into big-league baseball Thursday night.

"It will be the first game of his major-league career and they're making him start against his brother. And here I am, trying for my first win of the season, and I have to pitch against him."

Pat was called up from Evansville of the American Association last week, while Tom has been struggling along with a winless record that now stands at 0-6.

"It doesn't make any difference to me," said Pat. "They tell me to start and I'll start. This will be the first time we've ever pitched against each other."

Detroit Manager Les Moss said Pat will be used as a spot starter.

"We had a double-header Sunday which means we need an extra starter for this series and that's why we're putting him in."

The Blue Jays will fly the pitchers' parents to Toronto from Kokomo, Ind., for the game.

BRETT'S BIG NIGHT — Kansas City Royals' George Brett is welcomed back to the dugout by Royals' Darrell Porter, top, and pitcher Larry Gura, right, after belted a home run in the 16th inning to defeat the Baltimore Orioles 5-4. Brett hit for the cycle during the five hour game at Royals Stadium.

RENOWN WOODCARVER — The Champagne Art Benefit proved to be a great success Saturday night when over 150 people attended. Here, chairman Jan Morgan looks at one of many artistic displays at the event, this one by renowned woodcarver Ernie Roche of Hubbard, right.

Attended by over 150

Benefit is success

The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center Endowment Fund is approximately $10,000 richer following Saturday night's Champagne Art Benefit at the Big Spring Country Club.

Mrs. Kent (Jan) Morgan, chairman and Mrs. Toots Mansfield, co-chairman, welcomed over 20 artists, potters and sculptors from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico displaying outstanding works of art.

Over 150 people were on hand at the event witnessing the creative work of Jerry Batson, Kilgore; Jodie Boren, Abilene; Don Bowen, San Angelo; Delbert Brewster, Andrews; David Brownlow, Fort Worth; Marianne Caroselli, San Marcus; Terry Gilbreth, Snyder; Boyd Graham, Abilene; Joan Marron, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Gary Myers, Ruidoso, N.M.; Ernie Roche, Hubbard; Rolland Rose, Andrews; Walt Rawley, Ruidoso, N.M.; Albert Richardson, Ruidoso, N.M.; Jerry Seagle, Austin; Richard Tadlock, Ballinger; Bob Tommey, Dallas; Rheata White, Muleshoe; H.C. Zachry, Abilene.

In the words of Mrs. Morgan, "The benefit was extremely successful."

A massive array of greenery including hanging ferns and palms decorated the country club foyer, compliments of Mr. G's Garden Center. Guests enjoyed champagne and hors d'oeuvre.

One of many highlights was the display by Ernie Roche, renowned wood carver. Although woodcarving and sculpting have been his full-time vocation for the last six years, he has carved all of his life. His country-western theme is carried out with much detail in his work and he has been considered by many to be the foremost woodcarver of the south-west.

"I consider woodcarving very challenging. You can't make a mistake," revealed Roche. "It's going to look the way it's cut."

He proved to the spectators that woodcarving is indeed a very expressive form of art.

Roche has shown his work in the Saint Theresa Church, Austin; the Texas Classic in Fort Worth and commented how glad he was to add Big Spring's Champagne Art Benefit to the list.

"I'll be back next year," concluded the artist.

The general consensus is that the Champagne Art Benefit was a great success, paving the way for the local rehab center to become a bigger and better facility striving for the betterment of the community.

'Cure' for Baldness Or Just Balderdash?

DEAR ABBY: I just heard that a scientist in Budapest, Hungary, recently came up with a formula that will actually grow hair on bald heads! They claim that this miracle lotion, which is a combination of herbs and chemicals, not only restores hair on bald heads, it also prevents people who have hair from losing it! This sounds too good to be true.

I'm told that the Budapest shopkeepers sold out their first shipment to some very cynical customers; when, a week later, the stuff started to show results, word got around and the shopkeepers had to call the police to keep the rioting customers from breaking down the doors.

Have you heard anything about this product?
INTERESTED IN ILLINOIS

DEAR INTERESTED: Yes, I've heard those hair-raising reports, but I'm skeptical. If this product from Hungary is not also from hunger, it will be marketed all over the world.

DEAR ABBY: PUZZLED IN MANHATTAN wrote: "I'm sure you've heard of Peeping Toms, but I'll bet you've never heard of a Peeping Tina. Tina is my wife. We have a view of a large apartment house from our bedroom window, and Tina loves to stand in the dark and watch men undress. Is something wrong with her?"

You replied, "Such curiosity is considered normal in adolescents, but your wife should have outgrown it by now." Abby, I've lived in high-rise apartments for years, as do many of my friends, and we all enjoy the game of "neighbor-watching." As a matter of fact, a pair of binoculars by the window is standard equipment for every apartment.

I am in my 30s and my friends are in their 50s and we aren't considered adolescents.

LOVES TO LOOK IN MANHATTAN

DEAR LOVES: Whatever happened to the right to privacy? Or do you go with the theory that people who undress with the shades up are closet exhibitionists? Granted there is a touch of the voyeur in all of us—but binoculars by the windows? Aw, c'mon!

DEAR ABBY: Why do fellows say, "I'll call you," and then you never hear from them again?

This has happened to me and a lot of my girlfriends so often it's not even funny.

HURT IN KOKOMO

DEAR HURT: Some fellows say, "I'll call you," because they think that's what most girls want to hear. And they're right. But it has about as much meaning as, "See you around," or, "Let's get together sometime."

The next time a fellow says, "I'll call you," if you want to shake him up, say, "Terrific. When?"

DEAR ABBY: Please settle an argument between my husband and me. He says that my sister's husband is HIS brother-in-law. I say that my sister's husband is MY brother-in-law, but he isn't my husband's brother-in-law. He is my husband's sister-in-law's husband. Who's right?

SAN CLEMENTE

DEAR SAN: Webster defines "brother-in-law" as follows: 1) the brother of one's husband or wife; 2) the husband of one's sister; 3) the husband of the sister of one's wife or husband. So your husband is right.

Western Drifters ready for Buffalo Gap campout

The monthly business meeting and pot luck supper of the Western Drifters Good Sam Club was held May 22 in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Co.

Evelyn Vigar called the meeting to order. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Milton Brown, secretary. He also presented the Treasurer's report.

Mrs. Vigar read a letter from Andrews expressing thanks and appreciation for the donation of $30 for new drapes in the clubhouse at Florey Park in Andrews.

Approval was given for the purchase of a scrapbook to keep club moments and clippings.

The group voted to order Good Sam brochures to be used to advertise the National Good Sam organization.

A letter of invitation was read from the Rio Vista Resort, Kingsland. They informed the group of their camping facilities.

The date of the June campout was changed June 8-10 at Buffalo Gap due to a conflict with Father's Day weekend. Host couple will be Joanna and Buddy Marshall. Sandy Wright and LaPrecia Adams were appointed to design a color scheme for a decal of the club logo. These can be used on both cars and trailers.

Joanna Marshall was appointed to secure prices for a stamp with the club name.

Members agreed to man a booth at the Recreational Vehicle Show to be held June 3 and 4 in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Club by-laws were reviewed and copies of them will be distributed at the next meeting. Members were reminded that the by-laws state that new members must be sponsored by a present member in good standing and should already be members of the national organization.

Pollyanna Brown reported that Laura Phillippe is recovering from surgery and Betty Gross is recuperating at home following a stay in the hospital.

A report of the May campout in Water Valley showed 11 rigs in attendance. This was a record for the club in campout attendance.

Twenty-one members and one guest, Shirley Bell, attended the meeting.

Presiding officer over the 25 members present was Noble Grand Mary Leek.

Hazel Lamar, recording secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting and sick members and visits to the sick were reported.

A 35-year veterans jewel was presented to Mrs. Clea Plew by Mrs. Lamar. Certificates of Perfection were given to LaVerne Rogers, Lois Vivian Hood and Beatrice Bower by Frances Loftis, lodge deputy.

Hattie Belle Boland thanked members for cards and visits to her while she was ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Plew also expressed their thanks and appreciation for cards and visits received during their illness.

Smoking bothers pets

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: My mom and dad both smoke. I know that breathing exhaled smoke can be irritating and dangerous to humans, but what about animals? I have a dog and a hamster. — Jenny, Athens, Tenn.

Jenny, Pet animals are very vulnerable to the humans' smoking habit and may suffer from a runny nose, throat irritations and sneezing. There is a chance that even a normal, healthy pet can become allergic to cigarette smoke, increasing his chances of getting lung cancer. Caged pets, such as your hamster and birds, are especially prone to respiratory trouble.

The best thing that you can do for your pets is to ventilate your house, and give them plenty of fresh air. Remember, pets suffer more in hot humid weather and weather that is very cold when it comes to breathing problems.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some motorcyclists refuse to wear helmets in the belief they make riding unsafe — but don't you believe it, says the University of Illinois.

Reporting on a behavioral study conducted by the university, the Motorcycle Safety Foundation reports 15.3 percent of the riders interviewed said they never wore helmets.

Many of these believe helmets restrict vision, some contend they interfere with hearing, and others think a helmet might cause neck injury in an accident.

A review of reports on thousands of accidents involving motorcycles showed that even full-face helmets permit ample peripheral-vision, according to the Foundation, which adds that a helmeted rider's hearing is not impaired and no evidence was found that neck injuries resulted from wearing helmets.

Tending to divas adds life to medical practice

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. Van Lawrence once lent a sympathetic ear to troubled soprano, and since that time his practice has been a little down in the mouth — or golden throat.

Lawrence said he loved classical music all his life but could take or leave the opera. However, the opera opted to take the doctor.

and I've been hooked ever since. Now, about a third of his regular practice consists of singers, he said, including "some pop, some cabaret and some hillbilly."

Largest lift

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's World Trade Center boasts the largest vertical transportation system in the world.

The HGO's assistant theatrical director was meeting the plane of a soprano star, but she arrived with a ticklish throat and refused to move until she was examined by a doctor.

His first experience with opera singers aside, Lawrence doesn't hold the traditional opinion that they are prima donnas. "I find a lot of other ear, nose and throat specialists don't really like to treat singers, saying they're crazy or cuckoo or just plain hypochondriacs," Lawrence said.

Temperamental

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Max, a gorilla imported from Germany, is expected to be one of the most colorful attractions at the Toledo Zoo.

Thinking it would get him off the hook, Lawrence offered to see the singer if she came to the hospital emergency room at 6 a.m. To his amazement, she accepted.

She had "the largest female larynx I've ever seen," and a healthy one, at that, Lawrence said. But the singer insisted he examine her after every rehearsal and be in the audience on opening night.

The 312-pound male animal is already up to pulling tricks.

Lawrence, who had never really been turned on by his regular medical practice, decided this was the life for him.

To knock out Max for a physical examination and movement to the zoo's new ape house, Dr. Joseph Hardin, a veterinarian, shot a tranquilizer dart into the gorilla's hide.

"I remember my chief in medical school told me no one could survive doing general ear, nose and throat work, and that I would have to develop a sub-specialty," Lawrence said.

Max pulled it out and threw it at Dr. Hardin.

"First I thought I was going to be the greatest ear surgeon in the world, and later I was going to be a plastic surgeon and reshape noses," the doctor said with a grin. "But it was this totally chance occurrence that pushed me into opera,

Enrollment sag

WASHINGTON, (AP) — A 4 percent drop in enrollment has been reported at state universities and land-grant college in the current academic year.

The decline was reported by the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, which said the total dipped from 3,362,946 in 1977 to 3,221,946 in the fall of 1978.

Rhodesia's first black president sworn in today

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia's first black president, Josiah Zion Gume, will be sworn in today and as his first official act will call on Bishop Abel Muzorewa to form the country's black-majority government.

constitution. One of the dissidents was the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole's Zimbabwe African National Union, which reiterated that it would not take the 12 seats in the lower house it won in the election. Sithole at first hailed the election as a democratic triumph but started claiming vote fraud when the returns made Muzorewa and his party the winner.

They contend that the new constitution preserves the whites' domination of the country because it gives them a veto in Parliament over constitutional amendments and control of the military, police, judiciary and civil service for at least five years.

The naming of Muzorewa's new biracial government will end 90 years of white-minority rule in the former British colony. But South Africa is the only assured foreign supporter of the new government, and it faces continuation of the guerrilla war waged by exiled nationalist leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, a boycott from the rest of black Africa and uncertain chances for recognition by the United States and Britain.

Gume, a former schoolmaster and diplomat and descendant of a 19th-century Zulu warrior-chief, was elected to the ceremonial figurehead presidency Monday by the two houses of the new Parliament elected last month. He is a member of the Ndebele tribe and is expected to act as a bridge between his people and Muzorewa's dominant Shona tribe.

Although there are only 230,000 whites, they are allocated 28 seats in the lower house to 72 for the 6.7 million blacks.

Muzorewa, whose United African National Council won 51 of the 100 seats in the lower house, will name a cabinet of 19 members including five whites. But two of the three other black parties announced they would not accept the two cabinet seats allotted each of them by a proportional representation system in the Cold 'Ford'

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — When Rear Adm. Richard Byrd and pilot Floyd Bennett crossed the North Pole, they did it in a Ford, so to speak.

Their craft, a tri-motor Fokker monoplane, was named the "Josephine Ford." It's now preserved in the Henry Ford Museum, which has the largest civilian-aircraft collection in the country.

Tending to divas adds life to medical practice
HOUSTON (AP) — Dr.
Van Lawrence once lent a sympathetic ear to troubled soprano, and since that time his practice has been a little down in the mouth — or golden throat.
As doctor to the divas, the ear, nose and throat specialist is summoned regularly from his seat at the Houston Grand Opera to treat the real and imagined ills of the world's most expensive vocal cords.
Lawrence said he loved classical music all his life but could take or leave the opera. However, the opera opted to take the doctor.
He came to his position as HGO company physician eight years ago in true theatrical tradition — a literal case of "Is there a doctor in the house?"
Actually, it was the Houston airport in the wee hours of the morning and Lawrence was asleep at home.
The HGO's assistant theatrical director was meeting the plane of a soprano star, but she arrived with a ticklish throat and refused to move until she was examined by a doctor.
Frantic calls to four doctors found them unsympathetic. After the telephone jangled him awake, Lawrence said he would like to help but was scheduled for surgery in a few hours, and it would be unfair to that patient if he went traipsing out to the airport.
Thinking it would get him off the hook, Lawrence of-Lawrence, who had never really been turned on by his regular medical practice, decided this was the life for him.

"First I thought I was going to be the greatest ear surgeon in the world, and later I was going to be a plastic surgeon and reshape noses," the doctor said with a grin. "But it was this

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) —
Max, a gorilla imported from Germany, is expected to be one of the most colorful attractions at the Toledo Zoo.
The 312-pound male animal is already up to pulling tricks.
To knock out Max for a physical examination and movement to the zoo's new ape house, Dr. Joseph Hardin, a veterinarian, shot a tranquilizer dart into the gorilla's hide.
Max pulled it out and threw it at Dr. Hardin.

the fall of 1978.

Rhodesia's first black president sworn in today

SALISBURY, Rhodesia
(AP) — Rhodesia's first black president, Josiah Zion Gumede, will be sworn in today and as his first official act will call on Bishop Abel Muzorewa to form the country's black-majority government.
The naming of Muzorewa's new biracial government will end 90 years of whiteminority rule in the former British colony. But South Africa is the only assured foreign supporter of the new government, and it faces continuation of the guerrilla war waged by exiled nationalist leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, a boycott from the rest of black Africa and uncertain chances for recognition by the United States and Britain.
Gumede, a former schoolmaster and diplomat and descendant of a 19th-century Zulu warrior-chief, was elected to the ceremonial figurehead presidency Monday by the two houses of the new Parliament elected last month. He is a member of the Ndebele tribe and is expected to act as a bridge between his people and Muzorewa's dominant Shona tribe.
Muzorewa, whose United African National Council won 51 of the 100 seats in the lower house, will name a cabinet of 19 members including five whites. But two of the three other black parties announced they would not accept the two cabinet seats allotted each of them by a proportional representation system in the constitution.
One of the dissidents was the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole's Zimbabwe African National Union, which reiterated that it would not take the 12 seats in the lower house it won in the election.
Sithole at first hailed the election as a democratic triumph but started claiming vote fraud when the returns made Muzorewa and his party the winner.
Another minority faction,
Chief Kayisa Ndiweni's United Federal Party, also rejected the two cabinet posts to which it was entitled and indicated its nine members in the lower house would become the parliamentary opposition to the government.
Muzorewa said he and his cabinet would take office regardless of what the other parties did. Prime Minister Ian Smith's transitional biracial government, which has been in office for 15 months, is scheduled to be replaced at midnight
Thursday, and the country will take the new name of Zimbabwe Rhodesia.
Despite urging from the United States and Britain to participate in the election, guerrilla leaders Nkomo and Mugabe boycotted it and vowed to continue their six-
