Movie producer is seeking information on Frizzell

The story of Lefty Frizzell, a country and western star who got his start in Big Spring, is in the process of being written and recorded. Producers of "The Lefty Frizzell Story" have requested that anyone in the community with knowledge of Frizzell's life, personal or professional, forward the information to them in order to help tell the story as it really was.

Producers have already learned that Frizzell made his first public appearance in 1950 at the Ace of Clubs in Big Spring which was owned by Stella and Hugh Simpson.

Credit will also be given to Truman Jones, a Mercury dealer who sold Frizzell a car at cost on a long-term note, so that Frizzell could compete for tour engagements.

Jones recalled that the 20-year-old upcoming star was a gentleman with high morals.

Any information regarding Frizzell may be sent to producer Manny Alvarez, 2125 S. Peppertree Ln., Visalia, Calif. 93277, or call (209) 734-0994.

Stone Age men, spears pretty tough

Margie's carcass helps prove point

DENVER (AP) — The 9,000-pound carcass of Margie, a circus elephant, which started in Big Spring Shrine circus performances many times, have helped scientists prove that Stone Age spears — and Stone Age men — must have been pretty tough indeed.

Armed with replicas of prehistoric weapons, archaeologists from six states attacked the carcass in an experiment aimed at proving the world's earliest elephant hunters actually used the stone-headed spears and axes to bring down their enormous prey.

The scientists found the weapons were stronger than they seemed — strong enough to kill an elephant weighing more than four tons — and that it would take equally tough cavemen to use them. "Our hands were really battered up," assistant Colorado archaeologist Steve Cassells said Tuesday. "I couldn't believe it when I looked at my hand this morning. I must have 150 nicks, plus a couple of big slices."

Margie's carcass was delivered to a Denver rendering plant after she died Friday in the back of a circus van en route from New Mexico to Denver.

Margie had been stricken in Santa Fe with an illness resembling food poisoning, the same illness that claimed the lives of her two long-time companions. She was being shipped to Denver to get her near other elephants, in hopes that companions would boost her spirits.

Spannaus job terminated

By JAMES WERRELL
Harry Spannaus was relieved of his duties as Big Spring Industrial Park Airport Manager, 4:50 p.m. Tuesday.

The decision to terminate Spannaus, was made by Paul Feazelle, acting city manager. Feazelle informed the city council of his intentions in a closed executive session following the council's regular meeting.

"Friday will be Spannaus' last day as industrial park manager. It was my decision that he was not fulfilling his job duties as he had in the past, and since he was still on full salary, his duties should have been the same as before he resigned," said Feazelle, today.

After announcing his resignation on June 1, Spannaus was asked by the council to remain at his post until the end of the month. Whether Spannaus agreed to do so is a matter of conjecture.

"He never made any commitment to me or to the city for any set period of time. It was my understanding that he would stay on until he found a new job or until the end of June, whichever came first," said Feazelle.

"I had indicated verbally to both Mr. Feazelle and the mayor (Wade Choate) that I would stay on until the end of the month. But I don't have that in writing," said Spannaus. "I had requested a 30-day delay from my new employers in order to continue as industrial park manager through June," he added.

Feazelle's specific allegations against Spannaus were that he failed to take responsibility for equipment at the park, and that he failed to discipline an employee who had been abusing the use of a city-owned vehicle.

According to Feazelle, Jimmy Foresyth, assistant airport manager, had been using a city-owned car for non-official business.

"He had been driving the car for personal use. I asked Spannaus to take action on this situation, and he refused," said Feazelle.

"Mr. Feazelle is evidently an expert at falsifying the facts. I have records that show that Jimmy Foresyth had previously been exceeding the mileage expectations on his car, and I took that one away from him," said Spannaus. "Then he (Foresyth) arrived with another city vehicle without my knowledge or approval. I told Mr. Feazelle that since I didn't authorize the use of the vehicle, whoever did authorize its use should be responsible for taking care of the situation," he said.

Feazelle also leveled the charge that Spannaus had refused to authorize the use of industrial park equipment by a city department. This Spannaus confirmed.

"In one case, a city department, I forget which one, requested equipment from the industrial park. I told them that I had been released from the responsibility of dispensing property on June 1, and that they should take their request to Mr. Feazelle," said Spannaus.

Feazelle maintained that since

Spannaus was still on full salary, and not just a consultant, that he was responsible for equipment at the park, and he did not fulfill his prescribed function by refusing to authorize its use.

Feazelle has not reached a decision about an interim replacement for Spannaus, but expects to either by Friday or Monday.

"We may have at least a temporary replacement as early as Friday. Finding a full-time replacement will be one of Don Davis (the new city manager's) first priorities," said Feazelle.

"I don't really mind leaving Friday, but I don't think it is right not to pay me for the rest of the month," said Spannaus. "I was terminated without any advance notice and without any due reason. You just don't do that," he added.

Spannaus said that his next move will be to file a grievance with the city as specified in personnel policy.

TRUCKERS ENCOURAGED BY TEXAS GOVERNOR — These three truckers called on Texas Gov. Bill Clements today and came away encouraged. They said they asked Clements to use his influence with Texas members of

Riding with her husband

Trucker's wife shot today

By The Associated Press
A trucker's wife was shot and critically wounded while riding with her husband in Alabama early today in the most serious incident of violence in a week of protests by independent haulers.

Shots were reported fired at trucks in three other states Tuesday and an industry official predicted more gunfire as truckers stayed off the road to protest fuel costs and load regulations.

"You get violence when you string it out," said Todd Spencer, a board member of the Owner-Operator Independent Drivers Association of America. "Nobody with big payments can afford to stay out long."

But there was no encouragement from the head of the Interstate Commerce Commission who listened to 15 truckers' complaints for two hours Tuesday and said he had sympathy but no power to help.

"There's no way to wave a magic wand," said A. Daniel O'Neal.

Authorities said Linda Pruett, 20, of Warner Robins, Ga., was wounded when gunfire hit her husband's semi-truck on U.S. 82 west of Northport. Her husband, Fred, 23, was not injured in the shootings.

"She's in critical condition," said a spokeswoman at Druid City Hospital in Tuscaloosa, Ala., where the woman underwent surgery early today.

A radio reporter, Sam Hart of WACT, Tuscaloosa, said the truck was struck on the driver's side by at least three bullets, apparently fired from an embankment across the road. There were no arrests.

There were reports of trucks being shot up in Kansas, Wisconsin and Tennessee. In Indiana, a truckstop protest resulted in the arrest of an irate motorist who allegedly threatened to shoot out the tires of trucks blocking fuel pumps, police said.

There were also some nervous moments in Union Gap, Wash., where five rigs at a truck stop had to crash through a fence to break out of a blockade by 100 other trucks.

Thirty rig operators were arrested in Maryland as hundreds of trucks snarled traffic by crawling along highways three and four abreast. Nine truckers in Milford, Conn., were charged with criminal trespassing for refusing to move their rigs out of a truck station.

The truckers are hoping they will find an ear for their complaints once foodstuffs begin to pile up for lack of transportation and shortages develop.

They predicted this would happen in about a week.

In Washington state, truckers eye aiming to stop deliveries of the multimillion-dollar cherry crop, now just ripening.

"The only way to get to the government and industry is to get to the people," said Matt Berry, one of the protest coordinators.

Milton Segel, head of the Massachusetts Food Association, noted that his state imports 85 percent of its food, mostly by truck.

Truckers also want uniform weight and load limits in all the states and an increase in the speed limit to 65 mph.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Better mileage

Q. Do radial tires really help improve gas mileage?

A. Tests show they do. Because of their special construction, radial tires produce less friction with the road surface. Therefore, it takes less power to roll along on them. Experts say gasoline savings can range from five to seven per cent.

Carter: If Kennedy runs I'll whip him

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Sen. Edward M. Kennedy makes a run for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, President Carter is quoted as saying he will "whip his ass."

Two congressmen who attended a White House dinner earlier this week said Tuesday night that Carter made the remark after being asked about a possible challenge by Kennedy.

Reps. William Brodhead, D-Mich., and Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., said they both heard Carter reply, in answer to the question, "If Kennedy runs, I'll whip his ass."

They said he repeated the remark after being asked to do so.

Appearing on NBC-TV's "Today" show this morning, Kennedy laughed when asked his reaction to Carter's reported comment. "Well, if I were to run, which I don't intend to, I would hope to win."

Interviewer Tom Brokaw persisted, asking, "So you don't expect him to beat you?"

"Well, since I'm not a candidate and don't expect to be," the Massachusetts Democrat replied with a smile.

Some 60 House members attended the dinner Monday night. They also were given a briefing on legislation now in the House to implement the controversial Panama Canal treaties.

Downey, who was sitting next to Carter at a small dinner table, said the president was asked how he felt about the 1980 presidential race. Downey quoted him as saying, "I feel good. I'm ready."

Downey said the president then was asked about Kennedy.

Brodhead said he was startled by the remark. "I thought my ears were deceiving me," he said. "(I said) excuse me Mr. President, what did you say? And Carter replied, 'If Kennedy runs, I'll whip his ass.'"

Asked what happened after that, Brodhead replied: "Nothing. I just went on with my dinner. I didn't know what to say after that. I was taken aback."

Both Brodhead and Downey were interviewed by telephone.

School board set to meet

School board members of the Big Spring Independent School District will vote on participation in Texas Association of School Boards Policy Service at the regular meeting Thursday evening in the board room. The trustees discussed the service in a special meeting May 24.

The service will cost approximately $3,500 initially and $250 each year after. The service includes policy manuals, yearly update packets and localization. Recent state legislation is included in the manuals.

Other business includes attendance zone considerations for 1979-1980 and commitment and application to receive regional media services for the next school year.

Trustees will open bids for band uniforms at the meeting and appoint a replacement member to the board of equalization. The Goliad maintenance projects will be discussed.

Resolution bills to be paid and monthly budget statement are also on the agenda. Also on the agenda is the six weeks report, tax department collection and the delinquent tax collection report.

ANYONE LOSE A HOUSE? — Retired telephone operator Lucille Long has been watching this "teeny weeny little old house" on the 1100 block of Mesquite for clues as to who it belongs to. She said that several years ago, an unknown person moved the "old, old" house to the location, set it down, boarded it up, painted it pea green and left it there. "I've been watching it real close," she said, "and it's been bothering me. Who does it belong to? What's the history behind it?" Her only clue is that some people named Shipley operated a tourist camp at the site before the "itty, bitty" house was planted there. Anyone know anything about this mysterious pea green domain?

Top float prize is $250

Rodeo week nears

What promises to be the biggest Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion of them all starts here Wednesday night, June 20, and continues through Saturday night, June 23.

Cowboys and cowgirls from throughout the United States will descend upon the Rodeo Bowl for the show, which will be the 47th annual such event staged by the Big Spring Rodeo Association.

Actually, Rodeo Week begins here with a street dance Tuesday night although the promoters of that event are not affiliated with the rodeo association. The area between Third and Fourth Streets east of the courthouse will be roped off for the dance.

A downtown rodeo parade is scheduled for 4 p.m. Wednesday, June 20. Cash prizes totaling $400 will be awarded to the top three floats in the parade. Decorators of the top float get $250, those displaying the second rated float will earn $100 while the float judged third best will come in for $50.

Tickets will be $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12. They are available at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, E.P. Driver Insurance, Ward's Boot and Saddle Shop, Smallwood's Western Wear, Citizens Federal Credit Union, First National Bank, First Federal Savings and Loan and Coahoma State Bank.

Quail Dobbs of Coahoma, probably one of the top half dozen rodeo clowns in America, will appear in the rodeo all four nights. He's inspired a million laughs with his antics here, says he always looks forward to "coming home" to the local show.

Some of the top entertainers in the country will perform during the show. Judy Lynn, who has several hit recordings to her credit, will sing the first two nights. Marty Davis and his band will be here for Friday night's event while Charly McLain will be the star of Saturday night's program.

The stock for this year's show is again being furnished by Tommy Steiner of Austin.

Specialty acts in the 1979 rodeo include two trained Brahma bulls and a horse act featuring Leon Adams and his wife.

Popular Don Ensley will again be the announcer for the show. An announcer can make or break a show like this and Ensley has the reputation for being one of the best.

Persons entering floats in the rodeo parade should call the Chamber of Commerce office, 263-7641, offering the name of the sponsoring firm or organization and the name and telephone number of the contact person.

This information will enable the news media to publicize the winning floats as well as expedite the payment of the prize being awarded.

On citywide bond election

More debate is planned

By JAMES WERRELL
The Big Spring City Council will hold at least one more discussion before deciding whether to hold a city-wide bond election.

Despite a possible looming deadline from the state, members elected to hold at least one more discussion about funding for a variety of civic projects. State officials informed the city several months ago that the deadline for beginning improvements on the local sewer treatment plant will be early fall.

"There has been some concern that if discussions go on too long, then the project won't be financed in time to meet the deadline," said Paul Feazelle, acting city manager. "Of course, we could always go to the state and ask for an extension," he added.

Total cost of plant improvements has been estimated at $1,750,000, with the city's share totaling $437,500.

Other civic projects under consideration, according to Feazelle, include: various street improvements; rejuvenation of the police department building; purchase of three additional fire trucks; construction of a new central fire station; enlargement of office space at city hall; construction of a new warehouse building; construction of floating fishing docks at Moss Creek Lake; improvements at the Comanche Trail Park Amphitheatre; and relocation of the city dog pound.

It is hoped that the city's fiscal agent will be able to suggest costs for various projects and a pay-out schedule at the next regular meeting of the council.

Following this, public hearings will be held to determine what the priorities of the citizens are, and a suitable method to finance the projects.

The city itself has taken the bull by the horns in regard to construction of new golf cart sheds at the Municipal Golf Course. After reviewing several different bids for materials (some including labor costs) the council decided to purchase the materials elsewhere and do the work with city crews.

determine what the priorities of the citizens are, and a suitable method to finance the projects.

The city itself has taken the bull by the horns in regard to construction of new golf cart sheds at the Municipal Golf Course. After reviewing several different bids for materials (some including labor costs) the council decided to purchase the materials elsewhere and do the work with city crews.

The materials will come from a variety of sources. "Nobody sells everything we need," said Feazelle.

Estimated cost for materials is $10,000. The city will construct 40 sheds to begin with, and then, if resources are available, 20 more at a later date.

For the first time in many months, the usually routine approval of the minutes of the last city council meeting stirred controversy, Tuesday. At the last meeting Councilman John Massey read extensively from letters included in the city audit, asking that they be included in the minutes.

Councilman Ralph McLaughlin objected, saying that the letters were already part of a previous meeting. But Councilman Larry Massey said he would lend his approval to the minutes until the letters were included.

They were included, and the minutes were approved.

Miller also objected to the passage of the first reading of a zone change for a 5.65 acre tract of land bordering 11th Place. Clyde McMahon had requested the change from single family to light commercial in order to construct storage buildings on the property.

Miller stated that he had spoken to several residents in the area who objected to the zone change, and others who claimed not to have been notified of the possible change.

The councilman was provided with a list of those who had been notified, and was apparently satisfied. He voted along with the rest of his fellow members to approve the change on the first reading.

The council passed the first reading of an amendment of the existing taxicab ordinance, but tabled consideration of awarding the local service to new owner Dave Mitchum. The city must complete a routine background check on Mitchum before awarding him the contract.

Two blocks were chopped from a federally funded street paving program on the north side of the city in order to meet budgetary limitations. A total of $160,000 was budgeted for the project, and in order to meet that figure, two blocks on Northeast Douglas, from Eighth to Tenth, will go unpaved.

Bill Hall, director of community development for the city, estimated that without the two blocks, cost will be $158,454 for paving the remaining streets.

In other business, council members approved:

—Claims for damages submitted by Bob Brock Ford and Pollard Chevrolet Dealerships. A city vehicle ran into the Ford vehicle, which, in turn, ran into the Chevrolet vehicle.

—A request for a non-conforming use permit to allow Luis Valverde to install a trailer home at 700 N.W. 10th.

—The first reading of a resolution authorizing a lease agreement between the city and the Texent Broadcasting Company, owner of KBYG Radio Station.

—The final reading of a resolution authorizing a lease agreement between the city and the Buffalo Trail Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

—A final reading of a resolution authorizing a lease agreement for increased parking facilities for the city.

—Appointment of Billy T. Smith to the Board of Equalization. Smith replaces J.O. Hagood who resigned for health reasons.

—A claim for damages submitted by Prospero Yanez. His car antenna was accidentally broken by city employees.

—Minutes of meetings of the Structural Standards Board, the city council, and the Planning and Zoning Board.

Woman, 19, raped at her home

A 19-year-old westside woman was raped at her home, 3:45 a.m. Tuesday.

According to police, a man in his early 20s entered the woman's home through a bedroom window early Tuesday morning. She awoke when the rapist placed his hand over her mouth.

Reports state that the man held a knife to her throat after waking her. Because she was afraid that the intruder might harm her infant son in the same room or her mother, who was sleeping in a back room in the home, the woman held back her cries.

Detective J.D. Carter will head the investigation to find the rapist.

An employee of the Bogart's Club at the Big Spring Industrial Park reportedly absconded with $4,000 of the club's money. According to the club manager, the employee was last seen 11:30 p.m. Monday, and the cash was discovered to be missing from the club safe early Tuesday.

Vandals went on a rampage at the Produce Patch, 700 Lamesa, sometime early this morning. While on routine patrol, Officer Roy Osborne noticed that the screened area of the store had been torn apart.

Inside he found that $500 worth of honey and canned goods, $1,000 worth of various fruits and vegetables and the cash register had been damaged. In addition, a calculator had been stolen. Total loss was estimated at $1,950.

Don R. Wallis, Trails End Motel, was the victim of burglars, sometime between 8 p.m. and midnight Tuesday. Stolen were a lantern, a coffee pot, a frying pan, cooking utensils, groceries, a sleeping bag, clothing, a pair of boots, two gallons of lantern fuel, two rods and reels, and two blankets belonging to the motel. Loss was estimated at $275.

Burglars also broke into Gill's Fried Chicken Restaurant, 1101 Gregg, sometime between 2:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tuesday. Stolen was $198 in cash.

Thieves came to Randy

Wallace's front door, noon Tuesday, with the tale that they needed a tube on his stereo. He wasn't looking, so they climbed out the back door, stole the stereo into a red Datsun pickup, and drove off. Loss was estimated at $560.

A beer bottle was thrown at a car belonging to Charles Campbell, 1506 Cherokee, as it traveled along the 1700 block of S. Gregg. Damage to the car was estimated at $200.

Mickey Marquez, 1621 Mesquite, reported that someone stole $206 worth of food stamps from her mailbox over the weekend.

A 1958 white Chevrolet pickup belonging to John DeKeyser, 3702 Caroline, was reported stolen 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. Then at 9:30 p.m., that same pickup was involved in a hit and run accident with a vehicle driven by Roberto M. Rodriguez, 707 W. 7th, near 800 E. 11th. Police pursued the pickup, but the driver abandoned the truck at the corner of Fourth and Abrams, and took off on foot.

Steven C. Barrow, San Angelo, miraculously escaped with his life after his 1979 Ford Thunderbird collided with a truck and trailer at the intersection of IS 20 and Highway 87 Barrow was southbound on 87 when his car collided with a truck and towed trailer driven by Donnie Rowland, Sarepta, La.

The top of Barrow's car was demolished, but he is in stable condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital with head lacerations and scrapes and bruises on his right arm. The accident occurred 11:46 p.m. Tuesday.

Family of slain teacher sues Christian for $9.4 million

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former White House press secretary George Christian ignored warning signals that his son might use a rifle to kill someone, the family of slain teacher Rod Grayson says in a $9.4 million suit against Christian.

Grayson was shot to death May 18, 1978, as he sat on a stool before an eighth grade English class at Murchison Junior High School.

Laura Grayson, widow of the victim, and her son, Ian, filed the suit Tuesday in 167th State District Court.

On the day Grayson died, John Daniel Christian left home with a .22-caliber semi-automatic rifle — a Christmas present from his parents — and walked to school.

At 8:45 a.m., the 13-year-old honor student entered his first period class, pointed the gun at Grayson and fired three shots.

Grayson, 29, was struck in the head, right arm and side.

Police questioned 30 students who witnessed the shooting. The boy's lawyer later said without a doubt the youth shot Grayson.

The youth remains at Timberlawn hospital in Dallas, a private psychiatric institution, where he was committed following a court hearing. At the hearing, two psychiatrists diagnosed the boy as a "hidden" schizophrenic who might kill himself.

No motive was established for the shooting. However, some classmates said John Christian was upset because a substitute teacher criticized an oral report he had given one day earlier.

Mrs. Grayson said the boy's parents, George and Jo Anne Christian, should have sought medical and psychiatric help for John months before the shooting.

"His (John's) personal attitude had changed from a peaceful and caring boy to one of violence and animosity, even telling others prior to the incident how he would like to sit at the top of the hill overlooking the school and shoot down in order to see how the bullets landed on people," the suit said.

Mrs. Grayson said the boy's parents should not have given him the rifle as a gift. The parents also failed to adequately supervise use of the weapon, she added.

In giving their son the rifle in 1976, the parents "entrusted a dangerous instrumentality to a child who did not have the training, background, experience or maturity to safely handle said weapon."

The parents were at home when John left for school and should have taken the gun away from him, the teacher's widow said.

Grayson made $201.92 a week. His widow said she

DOWN THE DRINK — Muslim zealots of the local Khomeini committee, the watchdogs of social behavior in Iran, pour more than $1-million worth of alcoholic drink down the drain at the Intercontinental Hotel in Tehran today. An order to destroy the contents of the hotel cellar was issued after some members of the staff objected to guests being served drinks in their rooms.

Summit security to be very tight

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Viennese who want to see Jimmy Carter and Leonid I. Brezhnev during their summit visit this weekend should turn on their TV sets. The security screen is going to be very tight.

The Austrian director general for public security, Robert Danziger, said 1,500 agents will be working during the four-day meeting to keep the U.S. and Soviet presidents safe. But a news report said 6,000 policemen, in and out of uniform, will guard the two leaders.

They will be reinforced by armed Soviet and American security men.

Informed sources said up to 600 American and Soviet officials, advisers and aides would accompany or precede the two presidents.

The Russians, one newspaper reported, tried unsuccessfully to book the entire Imperial Hotel, their headquarters during the postwar occupation of the city. The hotel said it couldn't cancel long-standing reservations for guests for the Vienna Music Festival. Brezhnev will stay at the Soviet Embassy near the center of the city. Students at a nearby elementary school were told to stay home Friday and Saturday in order not to interfere with the security precautions.

Carter, his wife and their daughter Amy will stay at the home of the U.S. ambassador in the Hietzing district, in the southwest part of the city near the Schoenbrunn Palace.

The Americans were reported to have reserved all or part of 10 major hotels, and with 2,800 reporters and photographers expected, accommodations were getting scarce. Army barracks were readied for at least 200 journalists.

Carter and Brezhnev will hold their talks in the Hofburg Palace, the former home of the Hapsburg dynasty, in downtown Vienna. They will meet first on Friday afternoon when they pay a courtesy call on Austrian President Rudolf Kirchschlaeger. On Monday they will sign the SALT II agreement in the Hofburg's ballroom, the Redoutensaal.

The newspaper Die Presse said a crew of Soviet doctors have been sent to attend Brezhnev, whose has been ill off and on for months. Two hospitals — one for the Russians — one for the Americans — have been designated to take care of any ailing members of the two delegations.

To transport Brezhnev and his advisers and aides, the Russians have sent a Soviet Zil limousine equipped with inch-thick bulletproof glass, three Mercedes limousines and a Rolls Royce.

Carter will be driven about the city in a Lincoln Continental, also equipped with inch-thick bulletproof glass.

A large high pressure system centered over East Texas produced clear skies and mild temperatures across all of Texas today.

Forecasts called for clear skies and warmer temperatures in northern and western sections of the state and for continued warm readings in South Texas. Highs were to be mostly in the 80s and 90s except for the Big Bend area of Southwestern Texas where readings were likely to pass the 100-degree mark.

There was no mention of rain in the forecasts.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 50s and 60s. Extremes ranged from 49 at Sanderson to 70 at Galveston.

Job may be too big for anyone

Anyone who thinks there is a shortage of paper in this country probably doesn't have a mailing address. The government is inundated in paper work, with bureaucracies demanding at least three copies of everything. The junk mail is proliferating as never before. Most products being made today never live up to the promises made for them, which are printed on the packages they come in.

THE PAPER MILLS are turning out their various products as never before. It is ironic that many of the country's newspapers, large and small, cannot obtain sufficient paper on which to print their products.

The government gets priority on paper, just as it does everything else, whereas the press takes what it can get. In a way, it's sort of like a kid in a large family waiting for a second table — he grabs what's left of the food.

If the allotment of paper the government was demanding was for critical documents, it would be understandable, but consider these items:

—The Sohio pipeline, proposed to carry Alaskan oil from the west coast to Midland for refining, has been in the paper-preparation stage for seven years. Recently Standard Oil of Ohio said it would scuttle the project because it was hamstrung by regulations and requirements that demanded more paperwork.

—To get to the groundbreaking stage for a nuclear reactor that will produce electrical power, it requires 11 years of paperwork.

—A public utility firm in New Mexico gave up on plans to build a solar energy plant because, after two years, it was making no headway in attacking the mountain of paperwork demanded by the federal government.

From all indications, the government has refined the paperwork routine to such a fine edge that our government could rightly be called the "paperwork bureaucracy." Thus anyone who sets out to attack our multitude of problems, including the energy crisis and inflation, finds himself stepping into a paperwork quagmire from which he cannot escape without spending incomprehensible amounts of money and time.

YET THE STORAGE of a simple thing like newsprint worsens. No small part of the reason is that the demand for all types of paper has suddenly grown by seven per cent while the price of energy, also critically short, has soared even more, and energy must be abundant to produce paper.

The congressman or group of congressmen who can attack this problem and do something to improve the situation could perform a public service few of his or their colleagues can equal. President Carter promised to tilt with the ogre when he first took office but apparently he has long since decided the job is too big for him.

Goby boat

Around the rim

Robbi Crow

If God had wanted us to fly, he would have given us wings (instead of wheels).

That statement may sound illogical, but it's good enough for me. All the aeronautical courses in the world couldn't make me comprehend how something as awesome as a jumbo jetliner ever gets off the ground to begin with and much less, stay in the air.

If I've learned anything from the disastrous DC-10 crash May 25 shortly after takeoff from Chicago's O'Hare Airport, it's to keep my feet (and wheels) firmly intact to the ground.

Movies of the past few years, including Airport 77, have only served to reinforce my fact-based fears concerning flying.

ALTHOUGH FIGURES conclude that more people are killed in auto accidents than in plane crashes, there's something about the mass number of people being killed at once in an air disaster that makes it sound far worse.

In the case of American Airlines' DC-10, all 272 aboard the plane died; 3 were killed on the ground.

Should the opportunity ever arise that I need to leave America for some reason, I'm going to do so aboard a gigantic "Love Boat"-like ship complete with restaurants and swimming pools. Sure, there's always the possibility it might sink, but I figure I can swim a lot better than I can fly.

Usually about the time I conjure up enough courage to take a trip on an airplane, another "world's worst air disaster" happens.

It has been determined that the primary cause of the DC-10 crash was cracks in the engine mounts which enabled the plane's engine to loosen and fall off.

AFTER THE discovery of more 2-inch cracks in the engine pylon mounting systems of two more DC-10s, the Federal Aviation Administration ordered all United States DC-10s grounded.

I suppose even airplane inspectors have "off" days every now and then.

"Hey, Charlie, isn't it about quitting time?"

"Yeah, Harry, but we've still got a couple more DC-10s here to inspect."

"Ah, let 'em go. No one will ever know the difference whether we inspect them or not. We'll get 'em next time around."

Of course that was slightly exaggerated and I don't mean to make something light of a horrible tragedy, but it's scary to think someone like you and me are left the responsibility of determining the safety of at least 33,000 lives. That is the estimated number of people in the nation who board DC-10s daily.

Granted, I don't know the first thing about airplane inspection procedures, but I do know that those who inspect them aren't perfect.

And until they are, I'll just leave flying to the birds.

Who skylab falls

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — It isn't too early to start thinking about Skylab. The latest report indicates that Skylab will fall on us "somewhere between June 20 and July 14." Hundreds of pieces of flotsam, some weighing as much as 5,000 lbs., will drop from the sky—God only knows where. Its "footprint" is said to be 100 miles wide and 4,000 miles long. According to Las Vegas bookmakers, the chances of a piece hitting a person are 150 to 1. The chances of it hitting you personally are obviously much less.

BUT WE ALL know people who take a bleak view of everything and they are the ones who believe that if Skylab is going to fall out of the sky, it will fall on them.

Buzzword is in this category. Ever since he read that the space laboratory was a goner he's been biting his fingernails. "I know it's going to fall on me. I just know it."

"How can you be so sure?" I asked. "There are four billion people on this planet. Maybe, with luck, it will land on the Ayatollah Khomeini."

"This is serious," Buzzword retorted. "Do you know that Walter Cronkite has canceled his vacation so he can cover it when it falls?"

Walter's always been interested in the space program. He covered Skylab going up, so obviously he wants to see what happens when it falls down. But just because he's worried doesn't mean that you have to be worried.

"Maybe," said Buzzword, "I should build a Skylab shelter. Then I'd be the only one left when the sirens sound."

"I WOULDN'T if I were you," I warned him. "If people find out that you have a Skylab shelter and they don't, they might shoot you to get into it."

"What am I going to do?" he cried. "It will be just my luck that it'll be waiting at a gas station on the 4th of July weekend for three hours, and when I get to the pump a solar panel will come whizzing through the roof of my car."

"You've got to look at the big picture," I told him. "There is nothing that says Skylab will even fall down in the United States. It could be strewn all across the Soviet Union or China or the Riviera. That's the beauty of Skylab. Every country in the world has an equal chance of being dumped on. If I know our people at NASA they're going to do everything in their power to see that it doesn't fall on the United States — because if it does their budget is going to be cut."

"What I don't understand," Buzzword said, "is why they would put up a space laboratory if they knew it would eventually fall down."

"They didn't think it would fall down until some time in the next century, and by then most of the people who sent it up would be on retirement pay and wouldn't have to deal with it. Believe me, they're as upset about their calculations as you are. They've hired a battery of lawyers to handle the class action suits that will come out of it."

"Suppose a piece of it hits a nuclear energy plant?" he wanted to know.

"Now I think you're overreacting," I said. "Las Vegas hasn't even put out odds on that one. The most important thing to remember when it starts raining Skylab parts is not to panic."

"What should I do?" he wanted to know.

"Go into the nearest subway station until the all-clear sounds."

"But then I'll get mugged," Buzzword said.

"Those are the chances you have to take if you want a safe and sane space program."

"Maybe Rafshoon's right, it's time to change my public image."

"There, it's done! See? I've parted my hair on the LEFT side!"

Is there any hope?

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Before I join the circus for fat people, I'm writing you to ask for help, if there is any for me. I have been a fatso for 20 years, trying to lose off and on (more on that off). I am a fat, obese woman of 255 pounds, 53, and 5 feet, 9 inches tall. Thank God I'm tall! I have tried every diet that has come along and some that haven't. I have enough diets to cover the kitchen walls, and have been in gym classes, health clubs, even tried pills and shots. I start every day and break a diet by dinner time. I am a hopeless case. — Fat Friend.

Seems that along with the fat you've retained a healthy sense of humor. That's good. I cut portions of your letter, which was long. In one section you list your past personal difficulties and in another your present health problems. The personal problems are, and I fear will continue to be a convenient crutch to help convince yourself that your obesity is "not your fault."

The rest of your letter is filled with familiar evidence of the traps people like yourself set themselves — like the alcoholic. But there is a big difference. The alcoholic has to go "cold turkey," you can do things gradually. Consider this: merely avoiding a single snack a day (certainly possible for the most weak-willed dieter) will pare off a significant number of pounds over, say, a year's time. Good habits beget good habits — in reducing as in other endeavors. You may even begin to shed that cloak of helplessness you've thrown about you. Try it. I'm sending you some reducing material.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I had an injection of dye into my arm vein about two weeks ago. It was for a kidney X-ray. About four days later I got a rash on the inside of the arm and a tightening in the armpit. Now when I extend my arm I can see a protrusion. Is this a normal reaction? — M.M.

It's not normal, but can occur in some people. It's a reaction to the solution. It usually lasts up to three weeks. If yours has not cleared up by the time you read this, report the matter to the doctor. He will want to note it on your records for future X-rays of this kind. Other methods can be tried that will not affect you this way.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am 54 and have an uncommon thirst. I don't understand it. I am a heavy smoker, about two packs a day. I've gotten into the habit of drinking liquid with my cigarettes — maybe 30 glasses a day, usually iced coffee or pop. I also have frequent and sometimes uncontrollable urination. It's just a habit I've gotten into to quench my dry throat. Can you help or suggest anything? — E.O.K.

I really suspect that your problem begins with your cigarette habit. If you feel healthy otherwise, you should do two things — stop smoking or reduce the amount, and be checked for gland problems — such as diabetes. The harm is not in the liquid drinking, but in the smoking. Coffee, if that's what you drink may increase urination, too.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

"I have not yet begun to fight!"

My answer

Billy Graham

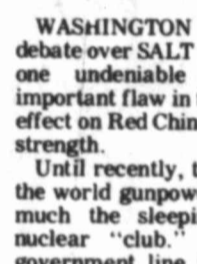

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think it is harder for young people today than it was in previous generations? Do you think they face more temptations? — Mrs. M.O.

DEAR MRS. M.O.: Yes, in many ways I suspect it is harder for young people today. Our modern, secular, materialistic society places so much in front of young people. The mass media — something unique to our generation — constantly presents a barrage of ideas and values which may be very different from Christian belief. The pressures to conform are stronger today, and there are so many ways in which our society gives easy access to harmful sins — sex, drugs, alcohol, etc.

But I find many young people who refuse to yield to the temptations all around them. This is encouraging. These young people have discovered that the meaning of life is not to be found in selfish pleasures or false and empty ways of living. They have learned that Satan clothes his temptations in very attractive dress — but his pleasures are still wrong, and they will still destroy you because Satan is interested only in trapping you. These young people have discovered that Jesus Christ gives joy to life and that loving Him is a far more satisfying way of living.

At the same time, there are many young people who have been enticed by the temptations of this world. This is tragic to see. I wish I could tell every young person in our nation about the love of God; how He wants them to know Him and serve Him because it is the best way to live. I believe every parent should take his responsibilities seriously, and do all he can to help his children to know God in a personal way through Christ. We live in a difficult time and need to do all we can help our young people fight the temptations of our age — many of which we have allowed to be tolerated in our society.

Needs 10 years

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — However the debate over SALT II turns out, there is one undeniable and increasingly important flaw in the treaty: It has no effect on Red China's growing nuclear strength.

Until recently, the nation that gave the world gunpowder has been pretty much the sleeping dragon of the nuclear "club." The official U.S. government line is that we needn't worry too much about China's nuclear capabilities for 10 or 15 years.

But a top secret appraisal shaves this rosy estimate significantly. "Within the next decade China is expected to produce and deploy both liquid and solid propellant (second generation) missiles in modest quantities," the report warns. "Within this time frame China will also have advanced from producing missiles based on Soviet technology to those of indigenous design."

A 1978 "MILITARY posture statement" prepared by the Joint Chiefs of Staff credits the People's Republic with short-range nuclear strike capability already. Though the Chinese have no operational ICBMs capable of reaching targets in the continental United States, they do have missiles that can reach neighboring Asian countries, Alaska, Australia, most of the Soviet Union, parts of the Middle East and American military bases in the Far East.

Furthermore, the report states, China is developing an ICBM that could hit American cities. Defense Department analysts say China's intensified industrial modernization is stressing its military industry, particularly its nuclear capability.

U.S. officials told our associate Frank Washington that the normalization of relations has given the Chinese access to American scientific data, technological items and industrial commodities, but they will not get missile know-how from us.

"China is making extensive efforts to acquire foreign missile-related technology and hardware," one CIA appraisal warned. "Endeavors include the exploitation of foreign industrial techniques, trade fairs, international conferences, trade delegation exchanges and technical publications..."

Figuring out how much of China's imports are going to the military is difficult, because ostensibly civilian contracts can be transferred to the military sector, according to the report. "Therefore, the purchase of entire plants such as steel-production facilities, while contributing greatly to the civilian sector, also enhances the capability of the industrial base supporting the missile industry," the intelligence document states.

FOR INSTANCE, CHINA purchased a sophisticated Swiss-made aircraft tracking system from France supposedly to be used for air traffic control. But intelligence analysts are convinced that the $2 million system will be used by the military for research, development, testing and evaluation of ballistic missiles.

Because of financial, human and material restraints China's nuclear program is not expected to equal ours or the Soviet Union's. But intelligence reports predict that in the 1980s China will be producing medium-range and intercontinental ballistic missiles, as well as air-to-surface, defensive and naval missiles. The Chinese are also developing nuclear submarines with missile firing capability, and are expected to deploy them within the next decade.

CORPORATE WELFARE? — Congress is considering a windfall for the coal industry that could cost the American taxpayers as much as $12 billion.

The bill under consideration would give American companies $2 billion in direct subsidies and another $10 billion in guarantees for development and construction of this country's first plants to convert coal into gasoline.

Proponents of the legislation, having failed in earlier attempts to get the bill through various energy subcommittees, have successfully repackaged the subsidy proposal as a "defense preparedness" measure.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

On Flag Day, June 14, citizens would do well to remember our flag's meaning. Stripes of red, patch of blue, numerous stars, and white pieces of fabric are of little importance by themselves. Red, white, and blue are colors claimed by many countries, among them Communist Cuba. The meaning of our flag is what Americans mean to each other, the respect we have for our fellow citizens, and our common dignity as citizens of a free nation.

Unfortunately, one group of citizens, which stands as proudly under the flag as any other group, has been singled out for abuse because of political expediency or misguided blame laying. The public employee who serves in the Civil Service has hardly been treated civilly by some politicians. The civil servant has seen his job taken away. (Remember Webb Air Base). The proposed scrapping of the Civil Service Retirement system, into which federal employees have contributed 7 per cent of all salary for years, threatens retirement security of career public employees who have only a politician's promise that benefits rightfully earned will not be wrongly reduced.

When many corporations are posting record profits, when private sector employees are urged to follow a voluntary 7 per cent wage increase guideline, more honored in its breach than in its keeping, only Civil Service employees have "mandatory" controls. In a year when inflation will top 10 per cent Mr. Carter will again enforce a pay cap which may well result in a 5 to 7 percent loss in earning power for GS federal employees since Mr. Carter maneuvered around the Pay Comparability Act last October.

On Flag Day, 1979, federal employees stand proudly. They are honored to help you get your Social Security checks, to care for your health in the VA, to work in the Department of Justice in the prosecution of criminals, to stop drug smugglers as officers of the Border Patrol, and to serve the country and the flag. Even though the public employee's morale is at a record low, according to high Carter official Campbell, we, your neighbors down the street and your friends (not the faceless "bureaucrats" of mindless political cartoons) pause with you to honor our shared citizenship and flag.

Police brutality hearing halt called

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal commission studying charges of brutality in the Houston Police Department brought a preliminary hearing to a surprise halt after the HPD agreed to comply with the board's modified subpoena.

The Commission on Civil Rights ended its hearing one day early when it found the city in compliance with its subpoena Tuesday after attorneys worked out agreements concerning documents to be furnished to the panel by the police department.

Members of the commission stressed that the finding would continue only as long as the police department acted in "good faith" in furnishing what it promised.

The commission is to return to Houston for a full-scale public hearing Sept. 12 as it winds up a national study of police practices.

"The focus of this study is to ascertain the nature and extent of police misconduct, specifically the excessive or unnecessary use of force," commission chairman Arthur S. Flemming said Tuesday. "It is important to note that its purpose has not been to identify, investigate or to resolve individual allegations of abuse."

The only comment heard by the commission from those presenting documents for scrutiny was that given to clarify what was contained in the evidence.

The commissioners explained witnesses will be allowed to present views, argue evidence and offer recommendations during the hearing in September.

Police Chief Harry Caldwell presented the commission with reams of material, including cases involving officers going as far back as 1970.

He told newsmen his department was doing "everything in our power to handle the number of slayings in the city. Actually, we are not in too bad shape when compared to other large cities."

Also appearing at the hearing was Jennifer Schaye, counsel for the Houston Public Interest Advocacy Center, a federally financed organization that checks charges of consumer fraud and police brutality.

She said the center has received 25 reports of police harassment since Jan. 15, and "only three or four of those we talked with were advised they had no cases."

"The others have been forwarded to either city or federal authorities," she said.

Steven Shiflett, president of the Houston Gay Political Caucus, told the commission he had proof that at least 100 homosexuals had been harassed by police during the past eight months.

Few of the cases were referred to the police department's internal affairs division because "files have a habit of disappearing or officers change their reports," he said.

Johnny Mata told the commission the League of United Latin American Citizens had opened its own unit to hear complaints of police brutality after the death of Joe Campos Torres, a 23-year-old Mexican-American who died in May 1977 while in police custody.

"We now have 18 complaints, most of which have been turned over to the U.S. Justice Department or the Houston police," Mata said.

The commission already has taken a look at the Philadelphia police department, which, along with Houston, has been the target of numerous complaints of police misconduct.

In Houston, the criticism of officers began shortly after the body of Torres was found floating in Buffalo Bayou near downtown Houston.

Three officers were convicted of violating Torres' civil rights and received probated terms.

Since then, several other officers have been charged with civil rights violations involving the use of so-called throw-down guns after suspects were slain by policemen.

In another case, former police chief Carrol Lynn was convicted by a federal jury on charges of obstruction of justice, perjury and extortion.

The data collected by the commission will be published next year with the findings and recommendations and recommendations going to President Carter and Congress for possible federal policy changes or introduction of legislation.

Next: A wild goose chase

FRANKLIN, Tenn. (AP) — Cocoa, used to hobbling around on three legs, wasn't a bit enthusiastic about getting an artificial fourth. And prosthetist Ed Dillard had never made a limb for a cow before.

"We're going to stay with it, all the way," Dillard said after one attempt at getting the calf to accept a new leg. "It may take me awhile, but I'm going to get that cow up."

Cocoa's leg was amputated when a break failed to heal. When she grew to 400 pounds, her owners knew something had to be done.

Dillard agreed to take on the task. The plastic prosthesis fit, but Cocoa kept throwing it off. He plans to fashion a different harness and try again in a week or so.

While Cocoa is Dillard's first effort at making artificial limbs for animals, she may not be his last.

"There is a wild goose some people have been wanting me to work with, but I can't catch it," he said.

Which Marten was that?

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature has passed a bill permitting open trapping of the "pine marten" in New York. But the furry critters may be hard to find — they live only in the forests of Europe.

A similar animal, called the American marten, once spread across New York. But heavy trapping reduced its numbers, and it is now found only in remote areas.

"That's the pine marten we're talking about, marten americana," says Gary P.N. SMNS OF THE Department of Environmental Conservation.

However, other authorities say only the European version, marten marten, can be called the "pine marten." Legally, that could render the trapping bill ineffective.

Marten trapping was banned in 1936 when the animal — which resembles a large bushy-tailed cat — was nearly rendered extinct.

The DEC has recently allowed limited trapping. The DEC, if signed by Gov. Hugh Carey, would permit the DEC to allow trapping permanently.

A coat of the European animal costs $7,500 and up. And furriers say an American marten coat would cost even more.

Judge gives verdict

SHERIDAN, Mont. (AP) — District Judge Frank Blair has spent a long time in courtrooms. But he had to turn down an offer to spend some time in a jury box.

Blair was summoned for jury duty recently time in a case to be tried before Justice of the Peace Barbara Brook.

Upon receiving the summons he "marched across the way to Judge Brook and informed her that we could not serve because the case might be appealed to our court," Brook recalled.

Replied Mrs. Brook: "I just wanted you to know how it felt to have the shoe on the other foot."

The 88-year-old jurist was excused.

"It was the first time in a long lifetime that we have been called to serve on a jury," Blair said.

Balancing his bank account

BRECKENRIDGE, Colo. (AP) — Philip Stagg, an itinerant carpenter, is $50,521 richer today due to an apparent $608 mistake in his Bank of Breckenridge checking account.

Stagg, 33, was awarded $70,000 by a district court jury last February, but settled for the lesser amount in return for a promise by the bank not to appeal.

His attorney, Gerald Itkin, said the incident stemmed from an overdraft notice in 1977. He said Stagg found the bank had failed to post a $608 deposit on the statement the bank was using to accuse Stagg of bouncing a check.

Itkin said the bank agreed it probably was a bank error and advanced the $608. But when a banker "became convinced that Stagg had ripped off the bank," said Itkin, Stagg was arrested and tried on a felony theft charge that ended in acquittal.

Stagg sued for defamation of character and intentional infliction of emotional distress.

Dean Boyd, president of the bank, said the bank had since changed ownership and the former president agreed to pay costs.

"If it had been up to us, we damn sure would have appealed it," he said.

No sweat to save on gas

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — To save gasoline, Connecticut state troopers will be going slower and sweating a little more.

State police said Monday they were responding to an 18 percent gasoline allocation cutback in June by ordering troopers to change their habits.

When practical, troopers are to park their cruisers in a visible spot with the engine off for 15 minutes of each hour, said Donald Long, public safety commissioner. He said that will reduce the ground each trooper will cover but will increase visibility.

Other gasoline-saving measures include keeping "normal patrol speed" on freeways at 55 mph or below and decreasing use of air conditioners in cruisers equipped with them, he said.

RAIN CHECKS NOW BEING HONORED ON SUGAR AND BACON

STATE LAWMAKER AFTER SCUFFLE WITH POLICE — Pennsylvania State Rep. Milton Street (D-Phila.) leans against a wall as he awaits an elevator in the State Capitol, Tuesday, after Street and three companions scuffled with Capitol police at Harrisburg.

Pa. Street and his companions were removing furniture from his Capitol office to a tent on the Capitol lawn when they were stopped by police, and an altercation ensued. Street erected the tent claiming his Capitol office is a firetrap.

Gifts pour into hospital where screen legend died

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Donations, some large and some small, are pouring into the hospital where screen legend John Wayne died as fans honor family wishes for "The Duke's" memorial — a cancer fund that won Wayne's enthusiasm in his final weeks.

"Some gifts are in the thousands, usually around $10,000, but I can't reveal the sources," UCLA Medical Center administrator Bernard Strohm said Tuesday.

The family asked that, instead of flowers, donations be made to the John Wayne Cancer Fund.

"This fund was discussed during the last two weeks," said a hospital spokesman. "Mr. Wayne was enthusiastic about it and he talked about it with the hospital and with his children."

Strohm said there were "many small donations, and a few large ones, but we really haven't looked at it all yet."

Meanwhile, Wayne's colleagues eulogized the hero who lost the last battle of a brawling 50-year career Monday, when he died of cancer at the age of 72.

"The Duke is dead, which means the tallest tree in the forest has been felled," said Motion Picture Association president Jack Valenti.

President Jimmy Carter said Wayne was "bigger than life."

"In an age of few heroes, he was the genuine article," said Carter. "But he was more than just a hero, he was a symbol of many of the qualities that made America great. The ruggedness, the tough independence, the sense of personal courage, on and off the screen, reflected the best of our national character."

In San Clemente, former president Richard Nixon, whom Wayne staunchly supported until the darkest days of the Watergate scandal, said, "John Wayne was true grit on and off the screen. The roles he played and the life he lived will inspire Americans for generations to come."

Request heard by councilmen

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Council heard a request Tuesday night from B.B. Hardee, manager of the local Texas Electric Service Company office, for a rate hike of 16.1 percent.

The council passed the increase, subject to the action of the Texas Public Utilities Commission which will set the actual increase to be granted TESCO.

The council passed a resolution authorizing Mayor Marion Bassham and City Clerk Brenda Tarter to borrow $17,000 from City National Bank to pay for a backhoe, which the city has purchased and is using. The money will be repaid from revenue sharing funds when they are received.

Farm Grain export market growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A thriving grain export market is growing even larger because of reduced crop prospects in the Soviet Union and some other parts of the world, meaning farmers may see higher prices for wheat and corn in the coming year.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday that exports in 1979-80 now appear larger than previously estimated.

But a senior department official said a huge U.S. reserve of grain — mainly wheat and corn — and the upcoming 1979 harvest will provide enough to go around for foreign buyers and American consumers.

The wheat harvest is under way now, but the newly planted corn will not be ready until fall. Corn and other feed grains such as sorghum are essential to the production of meat animals, poultry and dairy products.

In a new "supply and demand" report, the department said that "with prospects for a reduced grain crop" in the Soviet Union and "deteriorating conditions in Eastern Europe," exports of U.S. corn are expected to be a record 2.1 billion bushels in the current season.

Last Friday, the department said Soviet grain output this year might be around 190 million metric tons — with a possible range, depending on weather, of from 170 million to 210 million metric tons. In 1978, the crop was a record of 237.2 million metric tons.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pound and is equal, for example, to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

The analysis said corn exports in the 1979-80 year could set another record, ranging between 2.15 billion and 2.45 billion bushels, up 100 million to 150 million from earlier projections.

Wheat exports in the new marketing year that began June 1 were estimated in a range of between 1.15 billion and 1.35 billion bushels, compared to 1.2 billion in 1978-79. That represented an increase of 50 million to 100 million bushels from earlier estimates.

The larger exports are expected to help boost grain prices at the farm from what USDA experts had been saying, including substantially larger increases if U.S. crops fail to develop to potential.

Number of cattle being fed for slaughter still lagging

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government surveys show the number of cattle being fed for slaughter in key areas continues to lag below a year ago, indicating again that consumers will have less beef to eat in coming months.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday an estimated 7.7 million head were in feedlots June 1 in the seven major beef-producing states, down 4 percent from 8.01 million a year ago.

Howard Hjort, the department's chief economist, said total output of beef — meaning wholesale carcasses — is expected to decline by 2.4 billion to 2.6 billion pounds, down 10 percent to 12 percent from 1978.

But as he has before, Hjort told a news conference that larger supplies of pork and poultry are available and that this production momentum will carry on into 1980.

The seven states included in the report account for about 75 percent of the nation's beef output.

Purchases of wheat and corn by the Soviet Union are expected to reach nearly 15 million metric tons in the 1978-79 year, which will end Sept. 30, about the same as last year.

If these savings are passed along, he said, the department's earlier prediction that consumers will see an average food price increase of "around 10 percent" still is valid, Hjort said.

Carter's health insurance plan destined for struggle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's proposal to limit a family's annual health-care bill to $2,500 appears destined for an election-year congressional struggle with overtones of presidential politics.

Influential Democrats who would guide health insurance legislation are, for the most part, cautiously critical of the latest in Carter's national health insurance plans.

Most appeared unwilling to pick a direct fight with the president over HealthCare, as his proposal is called. But Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who introduced his own version of national health insurance last month, labeled Carter's plan "inflationary and too inequitable."

"The bottom line is...we can't afford it," Kennedy said at a news conference.

Carter's limited health care plan would combine Medicare and state-run Medicaid plans for the poor in a program estimated to cost $23 billion to $25 billion in 1983, the first year it would be in effect.

The bulk of that would go for the federal takeover of Medicaid plans.

Carter's plan would also:

- Protect everyone against the costs of catastrophic illness by ending limits on Medicare payments and requiring private health insurance plans to limit a family's liability for hospital and medical bills to $2,500 a year. The elderly and disabled would not have to pay more than half that, or $1,250.

- Guarantee free prenatal care and delivery to all pregnant women, regardless of what plan covers them. Their children would have free care for the first year.
- Require employers to pay at least 75 percent of all health insurance premiums. Employees or their unions could bargain with individual companies to increase that share.

As Carter outlined his limited approach, he was flanked by several long-time congressional backers of a variety of health insurance plans — including Reps. James Corman, D-Calif., and Charles Rangle, D-N.Y., the two who will introduce Carter's plan in the House.

Rangle, chairman of one of two health subcommittees that will consider the plan, said "it falls short of what many of us wanted," although adding that he was pleased the administration was finally sending its long-awaited legislation to Capitol Hill.

The chairman of the House Commerce health subcommittee, Rep. Henry A. Waxman, D-Calif., had a mixed reaction. "While the president's proposal falls short of meeting many of my major concerns," Waxman said, "it's a program which demonstrates a commitment to do more than simply provide catastrophic health care coverage."

House Speaker Thomas P.

O'Neill Jr., who said he was committed to Kennedy's proposal, said he would work toward a compromise. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., echoed that call, saying: "It is essential that we submerge personalities for the common good....There is enough credit to go around."

Kansas Sen. Bob Dole, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, branded Carter's plan an attempt to "federalize" the nation's health care system.

Likewise, Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., labeled the proposal a "gigantic step" toward increased federal spending and government regulation.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said that while Carter's program is not perfect, it sets the stage for Congress to put national health insurance at the top of the agenda.

Kennedy, chairman of the Senate Human Resource health subcommittee, which also will handle the issue, did not appear at Carter's White House briefing on the new legislation.

At his own news conference a few hours later, Kennedy said:

"The president's plan may well become the straw that breaks the back of the American health care system."

Kennedy's plan would insure everyone against most health care costs and impose strong cost controls on both hospitals and physicians. Private insurers would provide improved coverage for working Americans while Medicare-Medicaid programs would expand services to the elderly and poor.

The nation's 1979 health care bill is estimated to total $206 billion. The $23 billion to $25 billion cost of Carter's plan would be in addition to that, while Kennedy says his proposal would add only about $5.4 billion.

Hearings on the various national health insurance proposals, including Carter's and Kennedy's, will run most for a full House and Senate vote in 1980.

While benefit plans often find a generous reception in an election year, that tendency could conflict with the current belt-tightening mood on Capitol Hill.

Sandinista guerrillas control slum districts

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Sandinista guerrillas held control of slum districts in Managua today, firing at President Anastasio Somoza's national guardsmen from behind barricades despite rocket and strafing attacks by government planes.

Somoza reported heavy fighting also in the northern cities of Matagalpa and Leon, but a photographer who arrived from Leon said it was almost completely under guerrilla control and fighting had subsided.

The Sandinistas were also reported holding Esteli, another northern city.

Widespread looting broke out in Managua, and the U.S. Embassy prepared another airlift of Americans following the evacuation of 61 Tuesday from Somoza's private airstrip. An embassy source said five or six flights were being planned because of requests from frightened Americans trying to flee Nicaragua's civil war.

Fighting raged on all sides of Managua Tuesday. There was heavy gunfire within six blocks of the Intercontinental Hotel and Somoza's Bunker, his fortified headquarters at the infantry academy next door. At least one bullet smashed through a window frame in the hotel, but no one was hurt.

Scores of military jeeps and trucks, some towing or carrying 120mm mortars and heavy machine guns, pulled into the infantry school compound and came under heavy guerrilla fire. They were followed by another large convoy of military trucks and civilian cars bristling with weapons. One truck was loaded with mattresses.

Somoza's planes attacked the barrios of Nicaragua and 14 de Septiembre, two slums held by the Sandinistas and their supporters since Saturday, when barricades went up throughout the poor sections and young men brought out guns they had hidden to fight the national guard, Somoza's combined army and police force.

Conservative to head Baptists

POLE CAT — This kitten can't decide whether being on top of the world is all it's cracked up to be or not in this farm scene at Lucketts, Va. The cat got to the top of the fence post and discovered it was higher than it looked from down below.

HOUSTON (AP) — A rightwing coalition of Southern Baptists today pushed its drive to tighten controls on Bible interpretation after winning election of the Rev. Adrian W. Rogers of Memphis, Tenn. as president.

Additional proposals were in the works at the annual convention of the nation's largest Protestant body to bring about stricter doctrinal conformity and denominational seminary teaching.

The moves came in the wake of Rogers' surprise first ballot victory Tuesday, swamping five other candidates regarded as moderate conservatives in the generally conservative denomination.

It was "a definite turn to the right," said Marse Grant, editor of the North Carolina State Baptist paper, Biblical Recorder. Others offered similar assessments, but the Rev. Jerry Glisson of Memphis put a different slant on it, saying "this represents a trend to the right after years of moving to the left."

A highly conservative faction charging inroads of "liberalism" about the Bible in various denominational institutions has been trying for about a decade to gain official ascendancy, previously in vain.

But this time, the group mounted a political-style campaign, including six months of pre-convention rallies around the country and extensive caucus activity here. The strategy, called unprecedented in Southern Baptist history, succeeded.

"I'm elated and grateful," said the Rev. Paige Patterson of Dallas, a leader in the campaign. An ally, the Rev. Harold Lindsell, head of the Baptist Faith and Message Fellowship, called the outcome "a first step" in a continuing battle for Biblical orthodoxy.

He said the "people from the pews" have given the new president "a mandate to take a hard look at the theological seminaries" in the 13 million member denomination.

Rogers, 48, pastor of the 11,000-member Bellevue Baptist Church in Memphis, said he was not taking over the top office "with blood in my eyes, but with love in my heart."

Talking with reporters, Rogers said he wanted to project a positive tone, but would stand against any tendency to "compromise the word of God."

Rogers and the highly conservative group have insisted that denominational institutions uphold so-called "Biblical inerrancy," meaning that God literally inspired every word of Scripture, not just the ideas it contains.

Disputing claims that the focus on doctrine would detract from evangelism, Rogers said he is 100 percent behind the denomination's "bold mission thrust" to present the gospel to all the world by the end of the century.

The election results "meant there was a lot of unity behind Rogers," commented the Rev. Buddie

Gregg of Silver City, N.M.

Donald McGregor, editor of the Mississippi Baptist Record, termed Rogers' election a result of grass roots suspicions that the "existing structure is an ivory tower."

Others also saw an anti-institutional streak in the mood of the three-day convention, which runs through Thursday with about 13,000 "messengers" registered so far.

However, the ultra-conservatives lost out in the election of the first vice-president, which went to Abner McCall, president of Baylor University.

Cat-mouse game resumed by lawyers in Texas trial

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Attorneys were just five potential jurors short of qualifying a panel today as jury examinations entered the eighth day in the retrial of Elmer Wayne Henley, accused of murder in connection with the sex-torture slayings of 27 Houston area youths.

Prosecution and defense lawyers have interviewed 76 persons in the first seven days and have agreed on 27 of the 32 prospective veniremen needed to seat a jury in the case. After 32 persons are seated, each side will strike 10 names. The remaining 12 will hear the case.

Court officials expect the jury to be seated by the end of the week.

Henley, 23, was sentenced to six consecutive 99-year prison terms after his first trial in San Antonio five years ago. That conviction was overturned after a state appeals court ruled Henley should have been granted a hearing on a possible change of venue.

Two jail escapees face capital murder charges

STINNETT, Texas (AP) — Capital murder charges have been filed against two escapees from the Hutchinson County Jail after a Texas Ranger, a district attorney's investigator and a county commissioner arrested the pair without incident.

Sheriff Lon Blackmon said Tuesday jailer Jack Thompson was shot to death, apparently with his own .357 revolver, during the breakout Monday night.

The jailbreakers were identified as George Marshall Hall and Michael Clyde Jones. Hall had been charged with contempt of court involving child support, while Jones was charged with arson and escape, having broken out of the same jail six weeks ago.

Justice of the Peace Nadine Spinks said capital murder and escape charges were filed against the men Tuesday after they were picked up on Texas Highway 136 on the west side of Borger.

Blackmon said an Amarillo rancher who owned property near Borger became alarmed when he could not complete a telephone call to the Borger property.

Learning of the jailbreak, he telephoned officers. County Commissioner Murry Jennings, who knew the location of the ranch, accompanied the arresting officers. On their way, they saw Hall and Jones walking along the road and arrested them without incident.

Officers found a pistol in a trash container behind a Borger hotel.

Hall and Jones were returned to the Hutchinson County jail, a facility which Blackmon said does not meet guidelines of the Texas Jail Standards Commission. The breakout was the third from the jail in the last nine months.

He said Thompson was alone in the jail where he was apparently overpowered and shot to death.

Sitters aren't paid to sleep

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Several weeks ago a teen from Palm Springs, Calif., wrote asking if she should be allowed to fall asleep while baby-sitting if the kids were sleeping and the parents were going to be late. I said yes, it was OK. After all, the parents don't stay up all night watching their sleeping children. That was a mistake. Boy, did I catch it from the mothers!

Please allow me to share a few of the over 100 letters I received, chastising me for my answer.

From Mrs. Madeline Kennedy, Columbus, Ohio: "Teen-agers are rarely trained to wake up at the first cry of a child awakening in the night, as are parents..."

From Jeanne Marcy, Walnut Creek, Calif.: "... A baby sitter is paid to do a job. She is to be on the job at all times, not 'flaking out' on her responsibility..."

"Many people can attest to the frustration and worry of arriving home to find the baby sitter asleep on the couch, and of being unable to awaken her-him even after several minutes of strenuous attempts."

From Mrs. T. Woodstock, Seattle, Wash.: "We pay more per hour if we are out past midnight. Therefore we expect what we pay for - sitting, not sleeping."

From Mrs. Ava Culpepper, Oklahoma City, Okla.: "We owe it to our sitters to be home when we say we will. And sitters owe it to our children to be alert and awake, not asleep."

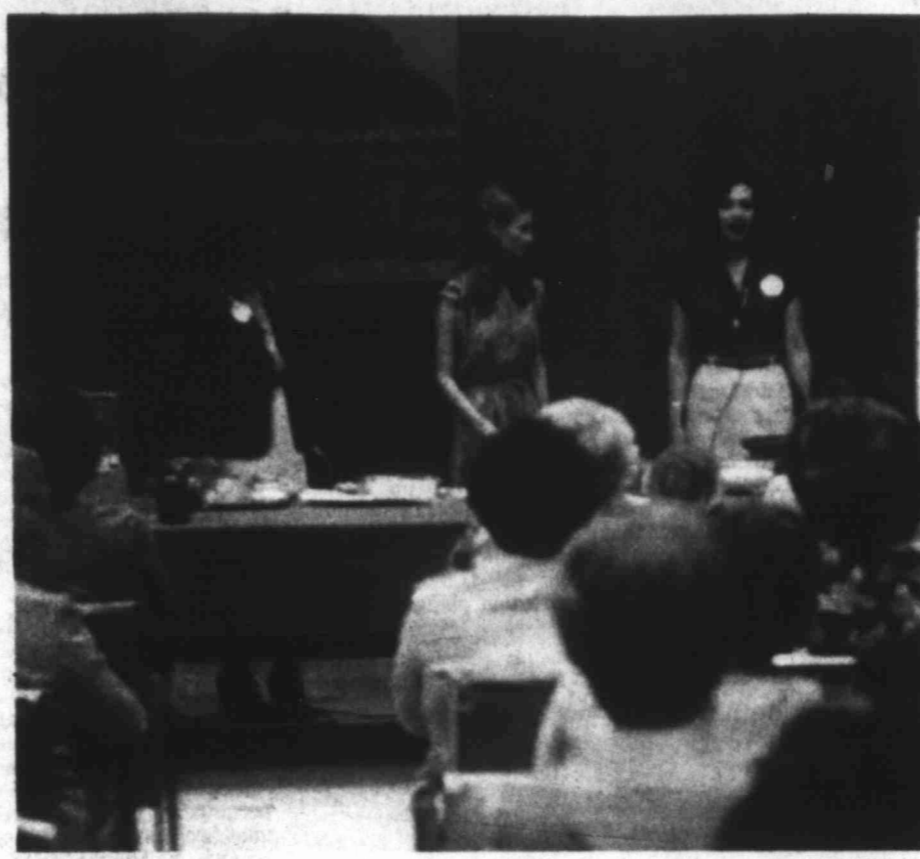

From Mrs. Beth Whitney, Huntsville, Ala.: "It all depends on the ages of the young children. If the children can walk and talk, and it's past 1 a.m., I see nothing wrong with the sitter dozing, but never if the children are infants."

From Mrs. Mona Wallace (my wife), Santa Ana, Calif.: "If you would have asked me, I would have told you. When we had baby sitters and the children were very young, we both showed concern when the sitter was found sleeping when we arrived home."

So, baby sitters, I must change my answer. NO, you cannot sleep while baby-sitting unless you are so instructed by the parents.

Parents, be home at the designated time, pay a fair wage and give your sitter a safe ride home.

My thanks to all who took time to write.

Dear Abby

Ex-Rated Marriage

DEAR ABBY: A reader asks, "How do I get back with No.17? Here's how I did it. My wife and I had been divorced for three months. I missed her like crazy, so I sent flowers with a note, 'I miss you, Baby Love, Allen.' She phoned to thank me, and asked if I wanted to stop by that evening. I went. We talked and cried and hugged and kissed. Then I asked if I could spend the night. She said, 'Not tonight. I have a headache.' We both had a good laugh because that was a private joke between us. We admitted that we still loved each other, and decided to try again. It's been 14 years and we're still in love."
 L.A. LOVE STORY

DEAR ABBY: I married the same woman three times! She had two husbands in between marriages and I had three wives. The only ones who came out ahead were the lawyers. Take my advice and move out, cool off, separate if necessary, but don't get a divorce unless you're positive you never want to see each other again.
 ALSO SORRY IN FRESNO

DEAR ABBY: I'm only a 13-year-old kid, but I've been through a lot. My mother divorced my father when I was 8. I can't count the number of times she went back to him because she thought it would be better for us kids. It wasn't. Tell the lady who divorced her husband to stay divorced until she can find a man who will give her a better life than her first husband.
 CHILD OF DIVORCE

DEAR ABBY: Tell SORRY IN ST. JO, who is considering remarrying her ex, to forget it. I married the man I said no to half a dozen times. He was the world's smoothest salesman. I finally said yes. He drank and chased, so I divorced him two years later. He wouldn't leave me alone, so like a fool I let him talk me into marrying him again. It didn't work out. I'm free now. I hear he went to Australia. I hope he stays there.
 STUCK TWICE

DEAR ABBY: I'm a man who remarried my ex. It was dumb. I made the same mistake twice.
 AND SO WEAPON, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: Tell SORRY IN ST. JO not to remarry her ex unless she sees they split up has been resolved. Gary and I were very much in love when we married. Our problem was too much family interference on both sides. After 10 years and three children, they succeeded in breaking up our marriage. We couldn't live without each other, so we decided to move away from both families and try again. We moved from New Jersey to California 10 years ago, and couldn't be happier.

Persian carpet market still flying high

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's Persian carpet market — where things seemed up in the air just a few months ago — has emerged still prosperous from the Islamic revolution. Its well-heeled foreign customers have been replaced by Iranians seeking a discreet way to get cash out of the country.

So the carpet business, a blend of hallowed national tradition and costly traps for gullible buyers, still runs on sweet tea and vociferous bargaining in a string of tiny shops on traffic-choked Ferdowsi Street. Not that the revolution has not left its mark.

Photographs of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the nation's Moslem revolutionary leader, are plastered over the plateglass windows of the shops. Portraits of the Imam Ali, a 7th century Moslem patriarch, gaze down inside the shops on piles of neatly folded carpets.

When Khomeini returned to Iran on Jan. 31 from his Paris exile, carpet dealers loaned him several of their most valuable specimens for his reception rooms. Khomeini was pleased. Now, with the Islamic revolution a strong backer of private enterprise, most dealers feel they have little to fear from Khomeini's administration.

Shopowners proudly recite to visitors the names of Americans, Britons, Frenchmen and Germans "who always used to buy from me," but add with a sigh that most of them have left. The big spenders now are well-to-do Iranians leaving their homeland who hope to take some of their money out in the form of carpets.

Iranian regulations now limit each departing traveler to the equivalent of about $285 in Iranian currency, and foreign money in Iran is difficult to get. But customs men often ignore a carpet or two under a traveler's arm.

The Iranian customers have driven up prices, providing a continued living to the merchants. A 6-by-8 foot Qom silken carpet that sold for $1,500 before the revolution plunged to $1,000 in the chaos of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's overthrow.

But now it is up to $2,000, and the values of some carpets are rising by 10 percent every six months.

In addition, half the 50-odd Ferdowsi Street stores have closed down since the revolution. Dealers say some owners had planned to move anyway because of traffic congestion and others have emigrated abroad. This means more business for the stores that remain.

Dealers readily admit that buyers have traditionally been at the salesmen's mercy when it comes to judging the quality and durability of a carpet. Some customers hire freelance "carpet appraisers" to accompany them to stores, unaware that many of these receive kickbacks once a sale is made.

The new Iranian buyers are more discriminating than most foreigners, however. In recent months, Iranian customers have been pressing for higher quality carpets, including more intricate designs and the best vegetable-based dyes in places of chemical dyes now commonly used.

This demand has sifted down to Iran's provinces, where women weavers spend 9 to 18 months on an average specimen. Many of the carpets have 1,100 or more hand-tied knots per square inch.

In one Ferdowsi Street shop, a merchant displayed a 4-by-6-foot Turkoman style rug for $700, with a central design of black diamonds and intricate rectangular borders. Other popular styles are pastel-colored Qom carpets and traditional Persian designs based on trees, flowers and animals.

Carpet merchants appear confident that a steady stream of departing Iranians will keep their business alive, at least until foreign tourism revives. They say many Iranians are slowly closing up homes and businesses, and will be leaving over the next one to two years.

(AP Wirephoto) PROSPEROUS MARKET — Merchants on Tehran's famed Ferdowsi Street wait for customers recently. For a while, they were hard hit by the absence of foreigners, many of who returned from business trips or vacations in Iran proudly carrying Persian carpets. But the carpet market has emerged from the Islamic revolution still prosperous. Ties to stand despite hassle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Saudi Arabia will maintain "strong, close and mutually beneficial" ties despite disagreement on such issues as the new Mideast peace treaty, the State Department says.

"For decades, we have worked closely with Saudi Arabia, and our mutual interests far outweigh any differences normal between countries," spokesman Hodding Carter said Tuesday. He was responding to a report that the United States is concentrating on repairing damage to its relationship with Saudi Arabia, rather than pushing for Saudi support of the Egyptian-Israeli treaty. Saudi Arabia has condemned the pact.

All farms with cropland must certify by the deadline to qualify for program benefits such as government crop loans, disaster payments and target price protection.

The certification requirement includes farms that do not or will not plant cotton or grain sorghum. Even though no program benefits are planted, a zero certification is necessary for protection on other farms the same producer has an interest in.

Failure for any farm to be signed up by the July 1 deadline will result in a loss of program benefits.

Man returned to face count

Wesley Lee Barree, Dallas, arrested in Dallas Tuesday on a felony DWI indictment from Howard County, was brought back to Howard County by Sheriff's Deputy M.L. Kirby.

Barree was arrested originally on April 12, 1978 and indicted Aug. 10, 1978. Indictment bond was set by District Judge Ralph Calton at $3,000. He was rearrested in Dallas when his bondsman withdrew the bond.

Driver injured in auto mishap

A local man, David Allen White, drove off the road five miles out on the Snyder highway in a gravel truck and knocked down two power poles. Highway Patrolman Ben Lockhart said the Mack tractor was totaled.

White was taken by private vehicle to Malone-Hogan Hospital where he was treated and released for a sprained ankle.

Eight years bring changes

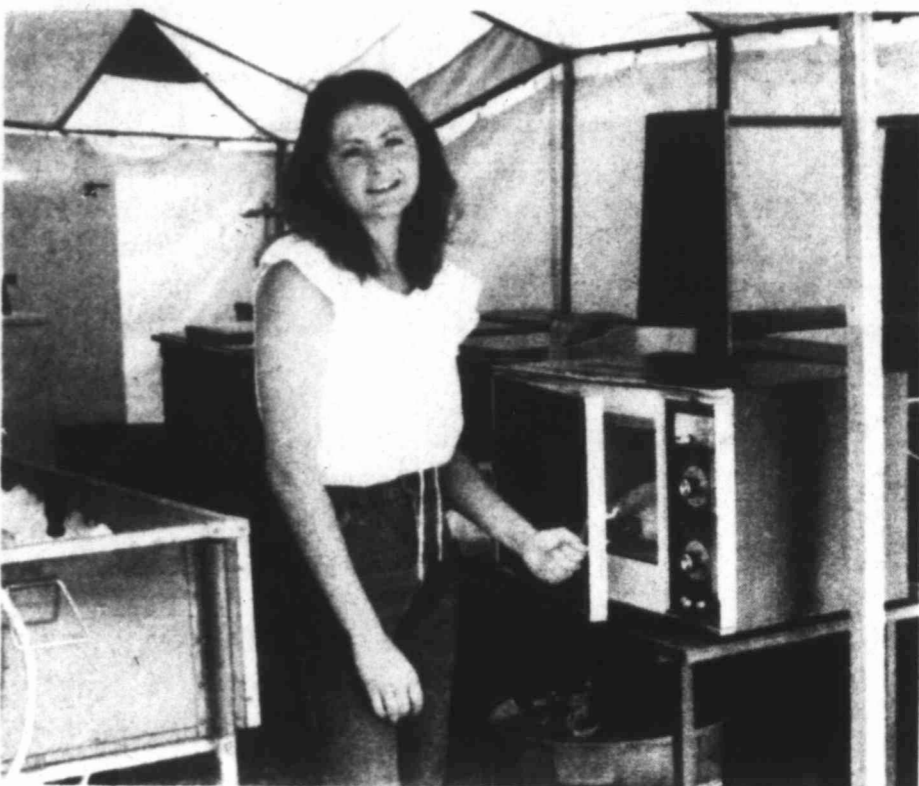

PEKING (AP) — A fragile mood, laced with a dash of freedom and buoyed by the promise of better things to come, separates the China of 1971 from that of 1979.

The eight years between those dates marked the heightened American awareness of this populous and richly varied country.

It began with an invitation to a U.S. table tennis team to play here in 1971 and reached its peak in a simple ceremony in the U.S. liaison office on last New Year's Day when Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping (Teng Hsiaping) — wearing a stickpin of tiny crossed U.S. and Chinese flags — toasted the establishment of Sino-American diplomatic relations.

Now, in the heat of a new summer, one may wonder whether the new mood will, like a toy balloon, over-inflate and burst.

Increasing number of Texas service stations are closing

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Automobile Association says the Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston areas have the severest problems as an increasing number of Texas service stations are closing early because of declining supplies.

In its weekly Texas Fuel Gauge Report, the AAA also said prices continue to rise, with the statewide full-service regular average passing 80 cents a gallon the first time.

The average of 80.3 cents for regular compared with 79.5 cents last week. The full-service unleaded average of 84 cents was up from 83.4 cent. The 86.4-cent premium average was up from 85.4 cents.

Self-service regular had the highest gasoline increase of the week, moving from 76.7 cents to 78.7 cents during the week. Unleaded moved from 81 to 81.9 cents, while premium moved from 82.6 to 84.1 cents a gallon.

The AAA said the highest price increases, however, involved diesel fuel, with the average moving from 80.7 to 83.1 cents a gallon.

This week's report was based on a survey of 416 service stations across the state, with 60 percent reporting they now are closing by 6 p.m. on Saturdays, 73 percent are closing on Sundays, and 68 percent are closing by 8 p.m. on weekdays. The respective percentages a week ago were 45, 71, and 64.

In Houston, however, 92 percent of the 49 stations surveyed reported they are closing on weekday and Saturday nights and 98 percent were not opening at all on Sundays.

The survey included 70 stations in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, with 87 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays and 91 percent by 6 p.m. on Saturday and all day Sunday.

Nine accept appointment to paper advisory group

Nine local residents accepted appointment to a newspaper advisory group after hearing Herald publisher Tom Watson discuss the responsibilities of and the perimeters within which such a committee will function during a meeting held Tuesday evening at the Herald.

The committee will meet again at 7:30 p.m., next Tuesday at the Herald to appoint a permanent chairman and to select a name. Present plans call for the committee to convene at least once a month for the purpose of discussing public suggestions for, as Watson put it, 'improving the newspaper product.'

Watson told the committee, which likely will be expanded to include 12 or 13 people, that the Herald personnel feels a deep responsibility to the community it serves and he felt that public input, channeled through a group like the advisory committee was the best way to establish a proper liaison with a community.

Watson said that some readers are prone to wonder if their complaints are being heard, adding that this committee could serve both the readers and the paper by fielding, such discussion, analyzing the complaints and passing them on to officials of the paper.

Those accepting appointment to the committee were Roscoe Cone, Mike McCracken, Helen Galddon, Ernie Boyd, Frank Rubio, Jimmy Jolley, Emily Ward, Elma Martinez and Dr. Halverd Hansen. Adrian Randle was unable to attend the Tuesday session because of a meeting he had to attend at Forsan but has indicated he will become a part of the advisory group.

Readership surveys taken by Harte-Hanks Communications Inc., parent firm of the Herald, will be made available to committee members as a means of making the public's desires and complaints known to the group.

Sen. Jackson will continue trade battle

By The Associated Press
Sen. Henry M. Jackson says he will continue opposing efforts by the United States to relax trade restrictions against the Soviet Union.

The Washington Democrat said Tuesday that the Kremlin's recent release of Soviet dissidents did not satisfy parts of the Trade

Reform Act. A provision of that act prohibits the United States from granting preferential trade status to the Soviet Union until Moscow gives assurances it is permitting free emigration. Jackson made his remarks as President Carter prepared for a summit meeting with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

Billie Sol Estes' trial begins in federal court

DALLAS (AP) — Paroled West Texas con man Billie Sol Estes was scheduled to go on trial today on federal fraud charges similar to those that once earned him a 15-year prison sentence.

Jury selection in the case was slated to begin this morning in U.S. District Judge Robert Hill's courtroom. But the charges outlined in the indictments have been detailed in court documents and newspapers for almost two years.

The indictments returned Feb. 22 charge Estes and two former associates, M. L. Copenhaver and Raymond K. Horton, with scheming to defraud four leasing companies of more than $589,000 by financing nonexistent steam cleaners.

According to the indictment, Estes, Horton and Copenhaver set up dummy corporations to buy and sell the non-existent cleaners. A total of 38 machines were bought on paper with financing from the legitimate leasing companies, the indictment alleges.

That indictment also charges the trio with unlawful use of the mail and violations of interstate commerce laws. The hefty document says false financial statements from the defendants and checks obtained from the leasing companies were sent through the mail.

The February grand jury also returned three other indictments against Estes and former associates. Those indictments, which also name his long-time secretary Sue Goolsby, charge the colorful wheeler-dealer with concealing assets to avoid paying income tax, and forgery.

Allegations that the paroled swindler was up to his old tricks have surfaced and resurfaced in newspapers, reports of state investigators and federal court documents since Don Trull, a former Estes associate, made off with a cache of documents he claimed detailed Estes' illegal business operations.

In the early 1960s, Estes was convicted of fraud in a scheme almost identical to the one outlined in the February indictments. He was paroled in 1971, and according to the unusual terms of his parole, is forbidden from self-employment or engaging in promotional practices. He has always maintained he worked as a janitor and a truck dispatcher since his parole.

U.S. District Judge Robert Hill has heard a variety of motions in the case, including attempts by defense attorneys to separate the defendants, and claims by Estes' attorney that the prosecution is illegal.

Irwin, who ironically successfully defended Trull on a kidnapping charge by attacking Estes' reputation, is likely to plan an offensive defense. If the tone of his motions and his past courtroom performances are indication, he will claim prosecutorial misconduct.

Prosecutors have on their side a plea agreement signed by Estes in October in which he pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to conceal assets from the IRS and concocting a scheme to defraud investors.

A federal judge overturned the agreement because it hinged on the actions of the U.S. Parole Commission. Estes was allowed to withdraw his plea, and has claimed since that time he was blackmailed into signing it by prosecutors who threatened to indict members of Estes' family.

Does federal spending fuel inflation?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Does federal spending fuel inflation? And if it does, should it be curbed by a constitutional amendment?

Those questions drew negative responses Tuesday from chairmen of congressional budget and tax committees during House hearings on proposed balanced budget amendments to the Constitution. Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, argued there "simply is no strong correlation between deficits and inflation." But sponsors of balanced budget amendments argued budget deficits do contribute to inflation.

Espinosa blanks Astros

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Nino Espinosa, who has been recovering from a case of tonsillitis, fed the Houston Astros aspirin tablets Tuesday night as he pitched his third shutout of the season.

The 25-year-old Espinosa beat the Astros 4-0, with the help of a two-run homer by Mike Schmidt and a two-run bases-loaded single from Bob Boone.

Espinosa, obtained March 27 by the Philadelphia Phillies, boosted his record to 6-5. He hadn't pitched for 12 days, missing two starts because of the throat ailment.

Considering his long layoff, the most surprising element of Espinosa's pitching was his control. He didn't walk a batter. He gave up six hits and struck out two.

"I realized I hadn't pitched in a while, and kept in mind that I didn't want to walk anybody," Espinosa said.

Espinosa said he had decided to challenge the Astros with strikes. He referred to the fourth inning when he had a three-ball, no-strike count on tough hitting Cesar Cedeno.

"I thought 'let him hit it out but it's going to be a strike,'" Espinosa recalled.

He gave Cedeno a fastball and the Houston first baseman flied out.

"My fastball wasn't popping," Espinosa explained, "but I had it spotted real good. And the cool night helped me go all the way."

Espinosa, who completed his fourth game of the season in 12 starts, said he had a feeling of confidence Tuesday night even when the game was scoreless and Houston starter Rick Williams had held the Phillies without a hit through the first four innings.

His confidence was rewarded in the fifth.

Williams (2-3) walked Greg Luzinski to start the inning, and Schmidt followed with his 18th home run of the season.

The Astros, who didn't get a runner past second, mounted their biggest threat in the fifth. Art Howe and Alan Ashby singled with one out. Espinosa struck out Williams and retired Terry Puhl on a fly ball.

The Phillies added two more runs in the seventh when Williams hit Luzinski with a pitch and walked Schmidt and Bake McBride, loading the bases.

Houston manager Bill Virdon came out to talk with his pitcher but left him in the game. Boone then ripped his two run single to make it 4-0.

STOPPED THIEF — Philadelphia Phillies' Bake McBride is tagged out by Houston Astros third baseman Enos Cabell, right, as he attempts to steal third base in the seventh inning Tuesday night at Philadelphia. The Phillies went on to the win 4-0.

Bell's bat sparks Ranger comeback

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Seldom does Buddy Bell have to bail out his glove with his bat.

But his ninth inning, 370-foot single off the left field wall with the bases loaded Tuesday night more than made up for any damage caused by a costly second inning error.

The Texas Rangers rallied for three runs in the ninth to nip the Milwaukee Brewers, 7-6.

Bell made a two-out error in the second inning and the Brewers scored four runs before Steve Comer could shut the door.

"How did it feel to open the gates to a four-run inning," a radio reporter asked Bell, thrusting a microphone in his face.

Bell replied without smiling, "I put a runner on first with two outs and if that's opening the door, it's a new one on me."

Bell, who has only six errors for the year, then went on a personal batting assault against Brewer pitchers.

He drilled his second homer of the year in the second inning, lashed a run-scoring single in the fifth inning, then delivered the game winner off reliever Jerry Augustine.

"I was just happy to hit it over their heads," said Bell. "I was trying to hit it to right field."

It was a wild game from the start with the Rangers' Billy Sample hitting his first major league homer in the first inning.

Then Gorman Thomas capped a four-run second inning with a two-run double.

Thomas had three doubles for the game, including another two-run double to give the Brewers a 6-4 lead in the eighth inning off eventual winner Jim Kern (8-1).

Reliever Kern, who came on in the seventh inning, said, "My fastball was moving well — particularly to left field after Thomas hit it."

Lary Sorensen (8-6) was the victim of the ninth-inning Ranger uprising. He walked a runner and hit the next. Then he threw wildly at first on a sacrifice to give the Rangers a run.

A check-swing single by Sample off reliever Bill Castro and an intentional walk set the stage for Bell's line drive game winner.

Bamberger added, "To blow a game like this is ridiculous."

Meyer favors UT in SWC grid play

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist football Coach Ron Meyer Tuesday picked the University of Texas as the most likely team to capture the 1979 Southwest Conference football title.

"Texas is in a class by itself," said Meyer, who recruited one of the top schoolboy football classes in the nation.

"Texas has defense and kickers and one of the most dangerous receivers in the country in Johnny (Lam) Jones," said Meyer. "Lam Jones is an exceptional player. He is in the class of our own (All-America) Emanuel Tolbert."

Meyer added "Some say Texas has a weakness at quarterback but I can't go along with that...they have a great array of quarterback talent."

Meyer continued "the next six teams could jump into the championship picture. They are Baylor, Texas Tech, Houston, Texas A&M, Arkansas, and us."

"TCU is much improved. They feel they recruited the best freshman class in their history. TCU could be a real factor in several games. They will be a force...an upsetting factor. And Rice will be much better."

About the Mustangs, Meyer said "We are a darkhorse. We will be favored in maybe half of our games. We won't be the underdogs as we were in the past."

"We will be competitive in the fourth quarter." Meyer said replacing Ohio State, Penn State and Florida on the non-conference schedule will be a big help.

The Mustangs meet North Texas State, Tulane and Wichita State in games outside the conference this year.

"We have five games at home and four of our first five games will be easy logistically," said Meyer. "On paper we have a chance to be competitive...a chance to get some momentum."

Meyer said a new rule in which freshmen get to report four days earlier than the veteran players on the squad will help.

"That will be an added plus because we are counting on freshmen so heavily," said Meyer.

Such highly touted running backs as Eric Dickerson of Sealy and Houston Westchester's Craig James are expected to make the Mustang offense, featuring quarterback Mike Ford's passes to Tolbert, even more potent.

But Meyer was cautious about predicting a title for SMU.

"I don't want to write any checks the team can't cash," said Meyer.

Colts owner Irsay eyes move to LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Baltimore Colts' owner Robert Irsay has said he is virtually certain he will shift his National Football League team to Los Angeles in 1980, but skeptical city officials aren't rushing out to have "Los Angeles Colts" tickets printed.

Los Angeles Coliseum Commission officials fear Irsay is using the threat of a move to pressure Maryland authorities into helping him construct a practice field for the Colts.

"We've been burned by him before and we're a little leery," Commission Chairman Kenneth Hahn said Tuesday after meeting with the Colts' owner. "I dealt with Walter O'Malley when the Dodgers were moving out here and I had a different feeling."

"He (O'Malley) said something and I could believe his word," continued Hahn. "I asked Irsay if he was sincere or just playing games and he assured me he was sincere."

"I'll believe it when we see the team playing in the Coliseum."

Hahn and other Los Angeles officials, searching for an NFL team to replace the Rams when they move from Los Angeles to nearby Anaheim in 1980, had first met with Irsay last January.

Irsay owned the Rams briefly in 1972 before the late Carroll Rosenbloom traded the Colts to him for the Los Angeles club.

"I've had it with Maryland," said Irsay. "My goal is to move to L.A. There'll be no more monkeying around."

"After he (Irsay) gets his facts straight, I think he would owe the governor an apology," said Oishi.

Named Detroit manager, replacing Les Moss

Sparky Anderson joins Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — Fifty-three games into the American League season, Jim Campbell saw the Detroit Tigers "just rocking along" a notch above .500.

So the team's president and general manager decided to rock the boat by firing low-key skipper Les Moss and hiring George "Sparky" Anderson, a self-described "crazy extrovert and wild enthusiast."

Anderson, 45, fired last November after nine seasons and two world championships in Cincinnati, agreed Tuesday to a five-year contract with the Tigers — the longest pact ever offered a Detroit manager.

"We're building an organization here," Campbell said. "I think Sparky can be a cornerstone."

Anderson will reportedly earn $110,000 a year with Detroit.

Moss, 44, will be paid off for the remainder of his one-year agreement and has a spot somewhere in the Detroit system "if he wants one." Campbell said.

The Tigers were 27-26 under Moss, and Campbell said he was "just not satisfied" with the team's progress.

But, "had Sparky not been available, we would not have made the move at this time," Campbell said.

Anderson had been mentioned as the leading candidate to manage several clubs since leaving the Reds.

"Everybody was saying I'd go someplace where I could take over a winner," he said by telephone from his California home. "But this Detroit club, it's the best young team I can see. I really enjoy working with good, young kids."

"I see the same things on that Detroit club I saw when we were starting out in Cincinnati," he said. "I'm extremely enthused."

It was only late Monday morning that the Tigers contacted Anderson. The deal was announced Tuesday afternoon, catching many Detroit players on their way

Dallas checked for NBA franchise

DALLAS (AP) — Norm Sonju, president and general manager of a group trying to bring a National Basketball Association franchise to Dallas, said Tuesday the league is "very bullish" on bringing an expansion team to the area.

"I have not heard one discouraging word," said Sonju, who will attend the NBA expansion committee meeting in New York next Monday along with attorney Doug Atkins, and business tycoon Don Carter.

"My big concern is that the NBA historically moves slowly on things," said Sonju, who was on the NBA Board of Governors when he was club president at Buffalo.

When former Buffalo owner John Y. Brown asked the NBA to move the franchise, Sonju suggested Dallas. Sonju was hired by Carter four months ago to lay the groundwork for an expansion team.

The NBA is expected to add two new clubs for the 1980-81 season.

"I don't know what it will cost to get into the league but it will be more than any franchise has ever had to pay," said Sonju.

Minneapolis, Dallas, and Toronto are expected to be the strongest competitors for the new franchises.

Asked the biggest negative for a Dallas team, Sonju said "Well, football is so big in Texas...that is a big concern. I saw a local sports page the other day and there was a front page story about Roger Staubach playing tennis. Now that's in May, not even football season."

Sonju said he felt the NBA also needed to do a lot of work on televising its product.

"How can you get good ratings when you have to stay up until 1:30 in the morning to see the end of a game?" asked Sonju, referring to the recent Washington-Seattle championship series. "I know I couldn't stay awake."

10-run inning boosts Mets

After the Cincinnati Reds scored five runs in the top of the sixth inning, the New York Mets knew they really had to come up with something.

They did — 10 runs. "I had a premonition that we were going to score 10 runs after they got their five," said New York center fielder Lee Mazzilli. "I said to Joe (Torre, the Mets' manager) that we were going to get 10. I called the shot."

Mazzilli had a hand in the inning, the Mets' biggest in their history, by drawing a walk and scoring one of the runs.

"This was definitely not a game-plan situation," noted Torre with a grin. "And I will have to say that they helped us a lot, defensively."

The Reds contributed two costly errors to the monster inning in which only four of the runs were earned.

The Reds had taken a 5-2 lead with their five-run sixth before the Mets came back with their 10. Before Tuesday night, the most the Mets had scored in a single inning was eight runs.

The combined total of 15 runs by the two teams in the sixth fell two shy of the modern National League record of 17, set by the old Boston Braves and New York Giants in 1912. The modern major league record for runs by two teams in an inning is 19, set by the Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox on April 10, 1977.

Indians rally past Angels

A two-out, two-run homer by Toby Harrah in the bottom of the ninth off Dave LaRoche tied the game. Bobby Bonds followed with a single off loser Mark Clear, stole second and scored on Andre Thornton's single, his fourth RBI. A two-run single by Tom Donohue in the seventh gave the Angels a 9-7 lead after they blew a 6-0 bulge. The rally gave Don Hood, the sixth Cleveland pitcher, his first victory since last July.

Red Sox errors spark Royals

The Boston Red Sox, leading Kansas City 6-4, appeared to have the last out — and their sixth consecutive victory — in sight when Willie Wilson lofted a catchable fly ball, but left fielder Jim Rice turned it into a three-base error. Steve Braun followed with a game-tying homer and the Royals pushed across a run in the 10th to beat the Red Sox 7-6.

With two out in the ninth and the Red Sox leading 6-4 on Carl Yastrzemski's two-run homer in the eighth, Wilson hit what appeared to be a routine game-ending fly ball which clanked off Rice's glove as center fielder Fred Lynn cut in front of him. Braun then homered off loser Dick Drago to tie it up.

Mariners stifle Blue Jays

Dan Meyer, Joe Simpson and Larry Cox delivered RBI singles in the first inning and coasted behind Glenn Abbott's six-hit pitching. Meyer also homered for Seattle's final run in the ninth.

Staub's bats sinks A's

Designated hitter Rusty Staub knocked in three runs with a homer and a double and rookie Pat Underwood won for the second time in as many major league starts by hurling a six-hitter for his first complete game. Jerry Morales also homered for Detroit and Alan Trammell became the first Tiger to steal home since Al Kaline in 1973.

White Sox rout Orioles

Junior Moore and Chet Lemon hit two-run singles in a seven-run second inning and Wayne Nordhagen and Claudell Washington slugged home runs as Chicago snapped Baltimore's six-game winning streak. Ken Kravec was the winner while loser Mike Flanagan was unable to retire a batter in the big second inning.

Guidry, Yankees win

The New York Yankees scored three times in the ninth to beat the Minnesota Twins 4-1 despite an injury to pitching ace Ron Guidry.

Roy White and Mickey Rivers stroked run-scoring singles in a tie-breaking three-run ninth inning and the Yankees got four-hit pitching from Guidry and Ron Davis. Rookie Darryl Jones started the ninth off with a double and one out later White singled to snap a 1-1 tie and send Jerry Koosman to his fifth consecutive setback.

Guidry allowed all four Minnesota hits before leaving after the seventh inning with an apparent back injury. Guidry was wheeled out of the locker room on a stretcher. His neck was in a brace and he appeared to be groggy but X-rays showed no fractures or nerve damage. The preliminary diagnosis was a muscle strain off the spine.

Giants rip Cubs

Bill North and Mike Ivie hit home runs in the first inning and San Francisco added four more extra-base hits to beat Chicago. Jack Clark had three of the Giants' nine hits, including a run-scoring triple in the second and a bases-empty homer in the fourth. The home run was his 10th of the year and gave him 40 RBI.

Bob Knepper got the victory, allowing nine hits, including Jerry Martin's solo homer in the ninth, and walked seven in an erratic performance. Loser Ken Holtzman allowed all of San Francisco's runs in the first and retired only one batter.

Hooton keys Dodger win

Pitcher Burt Hooton's two-out, two-run single highlighted a three-run rally by Los Angeles in the fourth inning and triggered the Dodgers over St. Louis.

Hooton scattered nine hits, but it was his bases-loaded single that snapped a 2-2 tie to give the Dodgers a lead they did not relinquish. The Dodgers added three more runs in the fifth, two on a bases-loaded single by Joe Ferguson, and Ron Cey singled home two more in the sixth.

Winfield, Perry spark Padres

Dave Winfield hit a three-run homer and Gaylord Perry gained his 273rd career victory as San Diego defeated Pittsburgh.

Perry, 6-4, scattered 11 hits, including Dave Parker's three-run homer in the ninth, to move into a tie with Red Ruffing for 17th place on the all-time victory list. The 40-year-old right-hander recorded 10 strikeouts to run his season total to 70.

Winfield extended his National League-leading RBI total to 53 and now has hit safely in 15 of his last 16 games.

PUZZLED ABOUT THOSE HOMERS — Los Angeles Dodgers' second baseman Davey Lopes is congratulated by a teammate after slugging a home run during a game in Chicago. Usually noted more for his speed on the base paths, Lopes says he's puzzled himself about his sudden burst of power that's made him one of the National League's leading home run hitters.

Jim Rice honored by AL

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston outfielder-designated hitter Jim Rice, who hit .419 as the Red Sox were winning six of seven games last week, was named the American League's player of the week, AL President Lee MacPhail announced.

Rice hit in six of seven games last week with five homers, four doubles and a triple. He had three three-hit games.

Bryan Trottier dominates NHL awards for 78-79 Orr named to Hockey Hall of Fame

MONTREAL (AP) — Onetime Boston Bruins defenseman Bobby Orr, 31, was among three former players named to the Hockey Hall of Fame, it was announced at the National Hockey League annual meetings.

Other selections were former star rearguard Harry Howell of the New York Rangers, the Oakland-California Seals and the Los Angeles Kings, and center Henri Richard of the Montreal Canadiens.

It was also announced that New York Islanders center Bryan Trottier won two of seven individual trophies awarded by the National Hockey League in a vote of members of the Professional Hockey Writers Association.

Trottier won the Art Ross Trophy for most points in 1978-79 season with 47 goals and 87 assists for 134 points. Guy Lafleur of Montreal had won the trophy the past three years. Trottier also won the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player.

Another Islander, Denis Potvin, won the James Norris Trophy as the league's best all-around defenseman. Goaltenders Ken Dryden and Michel Larocque of Montreal shared the Vezina Trophy for compiling the best goals against average — 2.55.

Canadien left wing Bob Gainey again won the Frank Selve Trophy as the league's best defensive forward. Minnesota North Stars center Bobby Smith scored 30 goals and 44 assists for 74 points in his first pro season to win the Calder Trophy as rookie of the year. Bob MacMillan of the Atlanta Flames, assessed only 14 penalty minutes in 79 games, won the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy as the league's most gentlemanly player.

Barry predicts Rocket changes under new coach Del Harris

HOUSTON (AP) — When Houston forward Rick Barry says his Rocket teammates are creative, he's not talking about writing poetry or artistic talent — a basketball in hand, preferably on the run, is their medium.

"We have a lot of very creative people out there in wide open court situations but not that many people who are creative in the set situation," Barry said Tuesday, analyzing the Rockets and predicting a running attack next season under new coach Del Harris.

"I know myself it's certainly easier to play the game when you're running up and down the court and the defense doesn't have a chance to get set and you have a chance to freelance and create. So what you are doing is trying to minimize the number of times you have to set."

That is the opposite approach to former head coach Tom Nissalke, who preferred the patterned philosophy on offense. Harris prefers to run and Barry welcomes the change.

"I think we have the type of personnel that can operate better under those situations," Barry said. "And when we do set up, I think we'll have a lot more diversity."

"Our offense last year was designed to get the ball to Calvin Murphy and Moses Malone and once in a while to Rudy (Tomjanovich) inside. That was the bulk and basic set of our offense. There were no plays for me, or Rudy other than to get the ball inside."

Another big difference next season will be defense, Barry said. Defense was not stressed last season when the Rockets won 47 games before losing to Atlanta in the first round of the NBA playoffs.

"I know that was killing Del (Rockets assistant coach last season)," Barry said. "It was killing me because I know the only way you win in the NBA is to play consistent defense."

"Tom is offense-oriented. Anybody that's been around him knows that. He's not a man who believes in stressing the defensive aspects of the game."

Harris was named to replace Nissalke last week as head coach by new Rockets owner George Maloof of Albuquerque, N.M. Maloof also offered the general manager's job to Nissalke but Nissalke has not accepted.

Ray Patterson currently is the general manager.

Auerbach likes NBA outlook

Cites Bill Walton, Magic Johnson & Larry Bird as main reasons

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's nothing wrong with the National Basketball Association that a few players with charisma can't cure, according to Red Auerbach, general manager of the Boston Celtics.

And, he says, there will be a few next season. One of them is Larry Bird, the Indiana State star who signed last week with Auerbach's Celtics for five years at some $600,000 per year, the highest ever for a rookie.

The others, Auerbach said, are Bill Walton, who will be with San Diego next season after sitting out a year, and Earvin "Magic" Johnson of Michigan State.

Johnson hasn't been drafted but has agreed to sign a contract for a reported $600,000 with the Los Angeles Lakers. He already has been approached by advertisers and theatrical agents from Hollywood.

"You don't need anything, gimmicks like the three-point play," said Auerbach. "Walton, Bird, Magic — they will give the league a shot in the arm."

"There were no new faces this year who could draw people in," he said when asked about the NBA's troubles, especially low television ratings. "Phil Ford and Mychal Thompson are good ballplayers but they can't sell me a ticket. Walton, Magic and the Bird can sell tickets."

Auerbach made his comments during the NBA's annual meeting for coaches, general managers, public relations directors and marketing directors.

The Board of Governors will meet June 19-22 at Amelia Island Plantation, Fla.

John Wayne's politics

'Go West, turn right'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — John Wayne was a man who professed a dislike for politics, yet seemed ever embroiled in it.

His politics, in a way, were a reflection of his screen persona: tough, straight from the shoulder and unabashedly patriotic. His motto seemed to be "Go West and turn right."

His image as an arch-conservative, an implacable anticommunist, a staunch defender of the Vietnam War and a man who thumped for candidates of the right became a part of his baggage.

Wayne frequently denied he was an arch-conservative, and said he was actually liberal on some issues. When he supported the Panama Canal treaty, some of his friends agreed.

He campaigned for Ronald Reagan for governor of California in 1968, but scoffed at the suggestion that he, too, might run for public office. He said, "I hate politics. I consider it a necessary evil."

His image grew from his campaign to rid Hollywood of any leftist taint and from a Vietnam stand so hawkish that he directed and starred in the "The Green Berets" at a time when every studio was shying from the war.

In the 1940s, when the Hollywood Ten was cited by the House Un-American Activities Committee and McCarthyism was developing, he helped organize the Motion Picture Alliance for the Preservation of American Ideals.

Wayne considered himself patriotic, but some within the group thought him a little pink. The alliance was divided into two factions — the "once-accommie-always-a-commie" group and those who welcomed leftists who repented their past indiscretion. He belonged to the latter group. Nevertheless, he considered politics something of a nuisance. "My main object in making a motion picture is entertainment. If at the same time I can strike a blow for liberty, then I'll stick one in."

He put his beliefs on the screen in "The Alamo." He saw the Alamo as a metaphor for America and the message was clear — stand up and fight for what you believe.

In 1966, Wayne went to Vietnam where a sniper's bullets barely missed him at Chu Lai, then came back to make "The Green Berets."

At the time, Wayne called the Watergate break-in "a party raid by underlings who enjoy playing cloak and dagger." As more and more Watergate revelations were made he began to waver in his support of President Richard M. Nixon.

He also showed signs of mellowing as emotions from the Vietnam War cooled. He had kind words for Jane Fonda, who had been his Hollywood opposition during the war.

In 1974, gripping a .50-caliber machine gun, Wayne rode an armored personnel carrier into Harvard Square in Cambridge, Mass., to take on the "Eastern Liberal Establishment." It was all in good fun. He had accepted the Harvard Lampoon's challenge to premiere his new movie, "McQ," in Harvard Square.

Area students on honor roll

STEPHENVILLE — Students making the A and B honor rolls and the Distinguished Students list totaled 500 for the 1979 Spring semester at Tarleton State University, according to TSU registrar John Whiting.

Students listed on the A honor roll must have a 4.0 grade point ratio on the 4.0 system and be taking a minimum of 12 hours. Bentsen is 'surprised' by Clements' criticism

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says the lines won't be cut between the Texas delegation to Congress and Gov. Bill Clements despite the governor's harsh words on its energy performance. "We're always pleased to see the governor of Texas and we'll continue to communicate with him," Bentsen, D-Texas, said at a news conference Tuesday.

Asked if he would attend another energy conference like the one organized Monday at Clements' request, the senator replied: "Let's see what his next proposals."

The governor at the meeting announced plans to send state officials traveling throughout the nation to promote the so-called "Texas position" stressing energy production.

"If they (Texas congressmen) have been talking about it, I want them to quit whispering and start yelling," Clements said after the meeting.

Bentsen said he was "surprised" by the governor's criticism. "The vast majority of us have been fighting this fight," the senator said. "As an oil man and as governor, he should be quite aware of the difficulty of convincing the Northeast and the Midwest of the position of a producing state."

Clements was head of SEDCO Inc., an oil drilling supply company, before his election last fall as the state's first Republican governor in more than a century.

Bentsen said he noticed that Clements' own energy pitch to the National Governors Conference did not start a national groundswell of support for legislation promoting energy production.

"I don't know if he whispered or he yelled," the senator said. "It obviously fell on deaf ears."

Bentsen said he supported a strong production plan, including a time limit to reduce the delays permits and lawsuits can cause for major energy projects. He also endorsed plans to increase government support for substitute fuel production, including synthetics.

"I think it's time that we had some very major, major guarantees made for substitute fuels," he said.

The Joint Economic Committee which Bentsen heads will hold hearings July 18 on rail rates charged to cities that converted to coal as an energy source and then found the transportation cost to increase substantially. Bentsen said Houston and San Antonio cases will be looked at as examples.

"We want to examine the escalating costs as well as the long and short range problems they pose for our efforts to achieve the national goal of reduced reliance on foreign oil imports," the senator said in a statement announcing the hearings.

"Left unchecked, this trend could jeopardize the goal of making coal a centerpiece of the nation's efforts to achieve greater energy independence and significantly weaken the prospect of controlling inflation," he said.

Coupon hustlers roaming airports

DALLAS (AP) — The welcome committee is getting fierce for incoming passengers on American Airlines flights.

Two college students, each armed with about $500 in $10 bills, approached as many passengers as they could Monday at Dallas-Fort Worth Airport, offering them $10 for the half-price coupon the airline has been giving each passenger.

As part of a promotion, persons flying on flights through June 17 receive a coupon that allows them to fly at half price between July 1 and Dec. 15.

"I'm really mad," said Jim Stanley, who flew in from Atlanta and sold his coupon for $10 to the first person who approached him.

"I never thought much about that ticket and sold it for $10 to the first person who came up to me. A minute later, I saw someone paying $15 for them. Now, they tell you in L.A. you can bargain and get $25. I sold too quick."

The "coupon mania" is a frantic bartering system that began in Los Angeles and appears to be sweeping the country.

United Airlines is offering the same discount, but does not fly into Dallas.

"I don't think I ought to give you my name," one student told a reporter.

"But I can tell you I was hired by a man who's from Los Angeles. He's paying me $50 a day to do this for him. He's here, roaming the air. If we want to get in touch with him, we just page Andy Coupon. He answers.

"So far, I've bought 30 today and my friend has bought 50. We don't plan to give up. I can't tell you anything else about the man we're buying them for. He's very mysterious. I don't know what he plans to do with the coupons."

Other coupon buyers say they plan to hoard the tickets until the special begins. Then they will sell them for double and triple the price. The coupons can save travelers as much as $300 if they are flying coast to coast, which is why the biggest business is being done in New York and

Council will receive audit

COAHOMA — The Coahoma City Council will hear a rate hike proposal by Texas Electric Service Company Representatives at their regular meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Coahoma City Hall. Big Spring city fathers turned down the hike at their regular meeting Tuesday.

Also on the Coahoma agenda is an $8,000 open note at Coahoma State Bank. Max Green will present an audit and the police department will be discussed.

Councilmen will also discuss a personnel matter, the dump ground and the sewer plant. The city sewer and water to Buddie Anderson's residence, in addition, will be discussed.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you avoid the tendency to break up existing conditions and refuse to be drawn into confrontations or disputes, you can gain active assistance from influential persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) By using more modern methods, you can gain personal aims more readily. Plan to have more prosperity in the days ahead.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Listening to the ideas of the influential is wise, but depend on your own judgment for best results. Allow time to meditate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Stop fretting and do something constructive about frustrating conditions. Make a new contact who can be helpful to you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be more loyal to your mate and don't permit others to influence you so much. Avoid one who has loose morals.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to cooperate more with associates and you can be more successful in the future. Use reason instead of losing your temper with others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't run off on any tangents at this time and keep busy at important work. Don't jeopardize your health in any way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take time to be with good friends and forget anxieties for the time being. Later you can handle business matters wisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go after vital data you need to improve working conditions and steer clear of partners who are irate now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Have serious discussions with associates and then get busy at your end of the work to be done. Clear up whatever is in error.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy and improve your property and possessions so that you become more successful. Be more practical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan just how to attain your personal aims and with less effort. You can gain the support of a higher-up at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan how to gain a special wish that means a great deal to you. Sidestep persons who have given you trouble in the past.

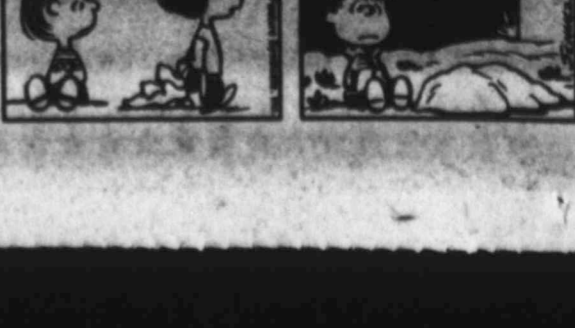

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will, from an early age, be interested in highly technical matters, so be sure to give free rein and to modern schools for best results. The fields of electronics and advanced science are fine in this chart. Give cultural advantages.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Tuition, room costs static

Recent figures reported by the College Scholarship Service indicate that on a nationwide average the cost of going to college will increase nine per cent next year. Howard College will not increase either tuition costs or room and board costs for 1979-1980.

While basic costs at some colleges will exceed $9,000 next year, Howard College offers room, board, tuition, books, and fees for a complete year for only $1500. Reported averages for basic costs ranged from $2,506 for public junior colleges to $4,977 at private four-year colleges.

Average charges for tuition and fees in 1979-1980 will range from $2,923 at private four-year colleges to $389 at public two-year colleges. The highest tuition reported was $6,590 for Bennington College in Vermont; tuition and fees for a full-load at Howard College average a $250 for a year.

Dr. Charles D. Hays, HC President, says, "Our facilities are comfortable and pleasant; our faculty is well-qualified, experienced, and committed to both students and education. One of the soundest economic and educational investments available is two years of education at Howard College."

Big balloon crash lands

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) - A giant hot-air balloon that took off from Edwardsville in an attempt to set distance and endurance records made a crash landing near Fairfield, Ill., after a six-hour flight.

A 4-foot tear in the 145-foot balloon caused the crew to crash-land near the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The balloon was heavily damaged and two CBS-TV newsmen aboard were treated for minor injuries. The balloon, one of the world's largest, was scheduled to float to the East Coast during a 24-to 36-hour trip.

On school legislation

Good marks, and bad

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The 1979 Legislature's report card on education may leave parents of school children wondering whether to praise or scold their representatives.

Lawmakers received good grades on improving classroom discipline, abandoning the widely disliked quarter system and designing a fairer method of distributing school funds.

Teachers now may remove troublesome students from class, curricula can be geared to semesters and poorer school districts can receive extra funding.

On the minus side, the legislature failed to pass a single bill to accomplish its constantly proclaimed goal of returning to the basics in public education.

Two "back-to-basics" bills were offered but neither cleared the legislative gauntlet. A bill detailing the elements of a basic school curriculum seemed primed for passage until it ran into an unexpected uproar over its potential impact on fine arts instruction. An explanation from the author, Rep. Wilhelmina Deico of Austin, calmed the ruckus but the bill succumbed to skittish senators.

A less specific plan by Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale never escaped a House subcommittee.

The only "back-to-basics" proposal that legislators approved directs the State Board of Education to suggest what tact lawmakers should take on the subject in the 1981 session.

In the area of measuring student and teacher competency, the legislature did little.

Only one of the bills requiring competency testing to measure student performance even received a committee hearing.

Rep. Lee Jackson of Dallas steered his voluminous testing proposal through the House only to see it die in the Senate in the session's waning hours.

Jackson's bill would have mandated annual competency exams in mathematics and English through the ninth grade. The tests' effects on promotion and graduation would be determined by school board trustees.

Jackson says he will reintroduce the measure in 1981.

The track record of teacher competency bills is much the same story.

Bills requiring tests for new teachers to be certified and for veteran teachers to retain their certification remained dead in subcommittee.

Lawmakers did send to the governor a watered down version granting a state teaching commission more authority to prescribe standards for training teachers. The State Board of Education retains the final word over all recommendations.

Legislation governing discipline of students and their instructors fared better with lawmakers.

Gov. Bill Clements already has signed a bill allowing the state education commissioner to suspend as well as cancel certification of teachers who violate their ethics code.

The governor is expected to follow suit on a bill allowing teachers to remove disruptive students from class and to recommend they be suspended.

Any student who is suspended could appeal the action to the school district superintendent and, ultimately, the board of trustees.

Teachers also win protection from harassment by Clements-approved bill that upgrades the penalty for threatening to harm a teacher to a jailable misdemeanor.

The governor's pen stroke also enacted a bill ending the state's four-year flirtati on with the quarter system. Beginning in August, schools will return to the semester plan.

The legislature's most wide-ranging handiwork, the 1980-81 school finance package, also contains some new plumbs for school districts.

For the first time, state funds are earmarked to expand programs for gifted students and to aid rapidly growing school districts.

The $988 million finance bill also pumps an extra $35 million into aid for educationally disadvantaged school children, and $152 million to boost spending in school districts with low tax bases.

School administrators generally hail the bill as the fairest, most progressive school finance package yet devised by the legislature.

Board of tax equalization meets June 29

The Coahoma Independent School District Board of Equalization will meet June 29 at 9:30 a.m. at the tax office of the school administration building in Coahoma. Purpose of the meeting is to determine, fix and equalize the value of all taxable property in the Coahoma district.

All persons with business before the board are invited to make an appointment to appear. Other equalization board meetings will be held from time to time thereafter.

Judge refuses to interfere in Roloff's homes battle

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A federal judge has refused to interfere with a state court that may require evangelist Lester Roloff to show today why he should not be held in contempt for refusing to allow state inspection of his three South Texas children's homes.

U.S. District Judge Owen Cox dismissed a suit here Tuesday aimed at blocking state closure of Roloff's homes and the removal of the 400 to 500 children enrolled at the facilities.

Attorney General Mark White has asked State District Judge Charles Matthews in Austin to close the homes, levy a civil penalty against the evangelist and hold him in contempt of a 1976 court order requiring Roloff to submit to state inspection and licensing of his homes.

Dismissal of the suit in federal court cleared the way for a hearing, scheduled to begin today at 2 p.m. in Austin, on the attorney general's motion.

Parents of children enrolled in Roloff's homes and trustees of the People's Church had asked in their suit that Cox issue a temporary restraining order preventing the state from closing the homes and removing the children. The parents contended the state, by licensing or closing the homes, violated their constitutional rights to educate their children as they saw fit.
