

Mutual commitment to world peace

Carter, Brezhnev end round of talks

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — President Jimmy Carter and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev opened their summit talks Saturday in conflict over regional trouble spots and defense spending but with a mutual commitment to world peace. U.S. sources said Brezhnev appealed indirectly to the U.S. Senate to ratify the treaty he and Carter will sign Monday limiting strategic nuclear weapons.

"We are not happy with everything in this treaty, but it reflects everything that is realistic and possible at this moment," Brezhnev was quoted as telling Carter in their first round of talks at the U.S.

Embassy. The two met for more than four hours in their first of three days of summitry. They then dined on smoked salmon and roast beef at the residence of U.S. Ambassador Milton Wolf.

The negotiating sessions were behind closed doors, but U.S. officials briefed reporters on what took place. In a banquet toast, Carter said the SALT II treaty "can be a framework for guidance toward new areas of cooperation and for facing peacefully those areas in which we still compete."

Carter said he and Brezhnev had come to the summit "to take one more step towards avoiding a nuclear conflict which some few might survive but which no side could win." He added, "We are working for cooperation among nations, for the peaceful settlement of disputes, for economic development, social justice and human rights around the globe."

"It is my feeling that this meeting can become an important step in improving Soviet-American relations and ameliorating the international climate," Brezhnev said.

Despite their differences, American officials described the both sessions as harmonious. Soviet officials withheld immediate comment, but the Soviet news agency Tass said the two sides "emphasized the significance of the positive developments of Soviet-American relations."

After the earlier meeting, Brezhnev was quoted by a U.S. official, who asked not to be identified, as telling Carter that "God will not forgive us if we fail."

Brezhnev is a professed atheist and the first question put to Leonid Zamyatin, the Soviet spokesman, at a briefing later for reporters was whether Brezhnev had been quoted correctly.

Zamyatin did not reply immediately and then said Brezhnev had said "Future generations will never forgive us."

Atheism is a cardinal tenet of communism. But the late Nikita S. Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders have, in their expressions, spoken of the deity.

Zamyatin said Brezhnev told Carter his decision to go ahead with U.S. development of the MX mobile missile had not gone unnoticed and would be closely watched by the Kremlin.

In the first round, in the morning,

Carter and Brezhnev outlined positions of the two superpowers on international issues. They held a second round of talks in the afternoon, concentrating on details of the SALT II treaty, including ways to guard against cheating.

The principal item of agreement was mutual recognition that one nuclear mishap could set off a worldwide catastrophe. They will translate this concept into reality Monday when they sign SALT II, a treaty to limit strategic nuclear weapons through 1985.

They will hold five rounds of talks in all over three days, and may wind up with a commitment to hold closer consultations in the future. These will not all be at the summit level, but could involve periodic conferences over military and political tensions.

The United States and the Soviet Union have been eyeing each other's defense spending warily for many years.

Cosden advances its timetable for moving 60 execs to Dallas

Cosden Oil and Chemical Company has advanced its timetable for moving its corporate headquarters from Big Spring to Dallas, the Herald has learned.

Ken Perry, president of Cosden, said in Dallas Friday that headquarters employees had been told the move would be completed by Nov. 30. Original target date was no later than March 1.

Perry said that preliminary plans for making the move had been accomplished a lot quicker than company officials had dared hope.

At the present time, officials are meeting individually with each of the employees who will be offered the chance to move. The employees, in turn, have been told to inform the company of their final decision as soon as practicable.

In his original announcement made several weeks ago, Perry said the move would be accomplished over a period of about a year.

The employees involved in the move, and they total about 60, will leave on staggered schedules rather than en masse.

Colorful history of rodeo includes shooting Cowboys to grab local spotlight

The sport most closely associated with Big Spring and the West — rodeo — takes center stage here Wednesday when cowboys from all over the nation converge upon the Rodeo Bowl for the 46th annual Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion.

There are bigger rodeos on the circuit but few with a more colorful history than the Big Spring event.

The first show was held here in 1933, the year before the Big Spring Rodeo Association was organized.

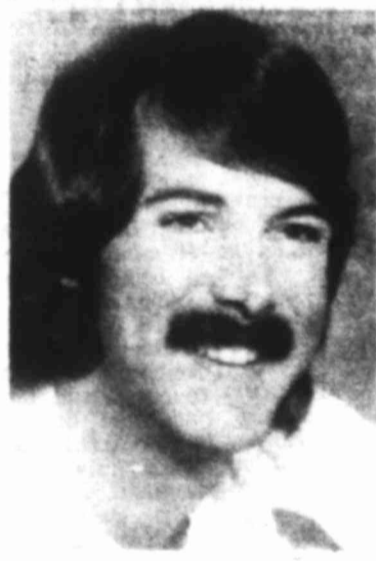

Ordinarily, the rodeo arena was located immediately west of what is now the Howard College campus. A group of men led by the late Tom Good built a grandstand and bleachers there seating an estimated 4,500 people. The last show was held there in 1949, but not before one of Howard County's most famous shootings took place in plain sight of a capacity crowd.

A cowboy named Herbert Frizzell gunned down another waddie named Buck Jones down in one end of the arena. Many of the people in the stands thought the incident had been planned. It wasn't. Jones was supposed to have threatened Frizzell's life. Whatever inspired the shooting, Frizzell was never convicted of the slaying. Frizzell was later to die in an automobile accident, however.

The rodeo association acquired 42 acres of land near what is now the Howard County Fair Association grounds and constructed what was then one of the most modern rodeo bowls in America; with concrete stands seating about 7,500. Baker Willis was the contractor.

The association later sold off part of the land but still own 31 acres of the original property.

Seven directors headed the original board. They included Good, the first president; Marion Edwards and Charley Creighton, vice presidents; Jess Slaughter, the arena director; Ira Driver, secretary; Bob Middleton, treasurer; and Harry Lee, grounds man.

MARTY DAVIS

After Good died, the association operated without a president for several years because Edwards and Creighton preferred to function in the roles of vice-president, however, Edwards later died and Creighton agreed to assume the post. He has been the association president for the past 16 years.

The rodeo was originally timed to be anchored about Labor Day but by that time many of the cowboys had gone north to the bigger shows. The association scheduled it for August for several seasons. Rain plagued the show for a number of years both in August and September. For the past several years it has been booked for the latter part of June.

Tommy Steiner furnishes the stock for the rodeo and there is none slatter than the animals Steiner sends here. Quail Dobbs, the famed Coahoma rodeo clown, always arranges his booking so that he can appear here. His act, versatile and refreshing, has become a tradition here.

The association has found that the gate is hyped by the appearance of country-western singers. This year, popular Judy Lynn will appear the first two nights of the show, to be followed by Marty Davis and his orchestra Friday night and pretty Charly McClain Saturday night.

There'll also be specialty acts each night. One features a pair of trained Brahma bulls, the other the expert horsemanship of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Adams of Oklahoma.

Some of the most famous rodeo cowboys who ever lived have competed here, among them Tom Ferguson, Larry Mahan, Don Gay and Toots Mansfield. Mansfield is now a director of the association and participates in the grand entrance which opens the show.

Tickets for each event are on sale at a cost of $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12. They can be purchased at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, the First National Bank, State National Bank, Smallwood's Western Wear, Ward's Boot and Saddle Shop, Coahoma State Bank, E.P. Driver Insurance and Citizen's Federal Credit Union.

There'll be a street dance Tuesday night east of the courthouse and a huge parade starting at 4 p.m., Wednesday with floats vying for $400 in prize money to be given away. The first place prize in that event is $200.

Souter hired as superintendent by Coahoma board of trustees

The Coahoma board of school trustees has employed Richard M. Souter as superintendent of schools. He will assume his new duties July 1.

Souter succeeds W.A. (Andy) Wilson, who retired this summer after 20 years on the job. Wilson is moving to Big Spring where he plans to continue in school work.

Souter is married and has three children. He and his wife are members of the Baptist Church.

He is a member of the American and Texas Association of School Administrators, Texas School Association for Planning, Evaluating and Research, a past president of the Lions Club, past treasurer for District XVII of the Texas State Teachers Association and a director of the Governing Board for Tri-County Educational Co-Op, which offers special education for students in 12 schools.

Souter received his BA degree from Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, his ME degree from the same school and has done graduate work at Texas Tech University.

He served as superintendent of schools at Anson for three years. Previous to that, he was superin-

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements told Texas legislators he would do it, and he did — whacked $252.4 million out of the 1980-81 state spending bill.

The bulk of his red penciling, announced late Friday, affected building plans of state agencies and colleges.

"At a time when we are asking for a reduction in employment, improved management effectiveness, higher productivity and elimination of unneeded services, our resources should be dedicated to effective service rather than bricks and mortar," said Texas' first Republican governor in 104 years.

Clements denied, in his statement, that he singled out any agencies or institutions and noted that his vetoes extended to almost every area of state government.

"There are many other reductions that I would like to make if my veto power were broad enough," Clements said. "However, the appropriation pattern used by the legislature imposes inflexibility on the veto authority. With budget execution power which I have requested, the governor in the future could be far more effective in managing state spending."

Voters will decide in 1980 if the constitution will be changed to give governors more power over state agency budgets.

Souter began teaching school at Post in 1960, doubling as the high school coach. He moved from there to Tulla, where he served as athletic director for four years.

Scurry county deputies hunt missing radioactive canister

SNYDER, Texas (AP) — Scurry County deputies searched Saturday for a missing canister of radioactive material that may have fallen from a truck.

"Evidently someone has picked it up and run off with it," said sheriff's deputy Larry Ball.

Deputies and employees of the Weaver Wire Line Service Co. searched along a 10-mile stretch of pasture without success Saturday for the red, 100-pound canister containing the radioactive element Americium. It has been missing since Friday morning from the rear of a Weaver truck en route to an oil well 10 miles southwest of this West Texas town.

Ball said the canister, believed to have bounced off the truck, is safe unless opened, and he added it would take a blowtorch to open it. The substance is used in the cleaning process of oilwells. It is lowered into the well to check for perforations in the walls.

Plan to expel 76,000 'boat people' assailed

By The Associated Press
U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim urged Malaysia Saturday to abandon its plan to drive 76,000 Vietnamese "boat people" back out to sea, and to instead continue providing shelter for the refugees on its shores.

Giuliani said Japan, meanwhile, called for an urgent conference to deal with the estimated 350,000 Indochinese refugees awaiting resettlement in Southeast Asia. Waldheim said he has spoken to representatives from the United States, Britain and other countries and supported the concept of a U.N.-sponsored meeting.

Malaysian officials conferred in private in the face of an international outcry against their announced intention to load the homeless Vietnamese onto boats and take them back out into the South China Sea.

A U.N. spokesman in New York said Waldheim asked Malaysian Prime Minister Hussein Onn to clarify the Southeast Asian nation's policy. The secretary-general urged "that Malaysia continue to provide temporary asylum for the refugees while international efforts to secure permanent places for permanent asylum are being pursued," spokesman Francois

Synthetic fuels development siphons support in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders, with tentative blessings of the White House, are launching an effort to encourage development of synthetic fuels as a means of reducing heavy U.S. dependence on imported oil.

The series of proposals, being billed as a congressional energy package, already has lined up heavyweight support in both House and Senate.

And House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas, perhaps the most outspoken congressional advocate of synthetics, says he's hopeful the first bill in the package can pass the House by the 4th of July.

"We'll celebrate an energy Independence day," he claims whimsically.

That bill would make available federal subsidies totaling $2 billion for industries that produce synthetic fuels — like oil from coal.

The subsidies would be in the form of direct loans, loan guarantees and a guaranteed minimum price, with the government promising to purchase excess synthetic fuels directly, initially for use by the military.

A government corporation to produce synthetic fuels also would be authorized under the bill — but backers say this would be invoked only as a last resort.

Efforts are expected to be made by Wright and others to greatly expand the scope of the bill on the floor. The measure has already been approved by the House Banking Committee on a 39-1 margin.

The bill envisions production of 500,000 barrels of synthetic oil daily under the program by the mid-1980s.

This is a far cry from energy independence for a nation that imports half of the 19 million barrels of petroleum it uses each day. But Wright and other backers claim it's an important first step.

"It will give the American people what they are waiting for," Wright said, "a sign that we are not going to be OPEC's patsies forever."

Surety Savings shuts down

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Surety Savings Association of Houston closed for the last time Friday after declining financially the past 36 months.

Attorney General Mark White filed suit against Surety in Austin state district court to cancel its charter and appoint a receiver for the institution.

Judge Herman Jones granted White's request and named as receiver Alvis Vandygriff, state savings and loan commissioner. Vandygriff immediately closed the Houston institution.

"There has been a substantial dissipation of assets and earnings of defendant resulting from violations of the Texas Savings and Loan Act," White's suit said without specifying which laws were broken.

"The filing of this lawsuit will probably produce a run on the association and the interests of the state and the association's depositors and creditors require such appointment immediately," White added.

The attorney general said he filed suit after the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation said Surety was insolvent.

"The state is working with federal authorities to see that the depositors of Surety Savings gain access to their funds as soon as possible," White said.

Vandygriff said in a separate statement that all Surety Savings offices regularly open on weekends will conduct business today as offices of Farm and Home Savings Association of Nevada, Missouri.

The Missouri institution purchased Surety's assets and liabilities after Vandygriff ordered the Houston facility closed.

In his order appointing Vandygriff, Jones said his unusual action was the only way to prevent Surety Savings from operating "in its impaired condition in violation of the laws of this state."

Complete story is not always told

When an individual pays the extreme penalty for having been convicted of a capital crime, newspapers and others in the business of distributing the news invariably paint a distasteful picture of how man's inhumanity to man is carried to the extreme.

A man was called to account for his sins in Florida recently and most of the newspapers which dispatched reporters to cover the story printed reams of copy about how barbarous it was to take a life under such circumstances, implying that man was merely reducing himself to the level of the perpetrator of the crime.

ONE EYE WITNESS lingered a long time over the damage done to the doomed man's body through the succession of electrical bolts turned loose by the executioner.

Whether you are for or against capital punishment is strictly your business. If enough sentiment is voiced against such punishment, it will be abolished. If, however, society decides it offers a last refuge against anarchy and it is better served by a law permitting capital punishment, the executions will continue and likely increase.

Who, however, cries for the victim of the crime? The wire stories carried on the execution in Florida devoted one paragraph to the murder victim and that did not appear until after all the gory details of the execution had been printed.

The writer of the execution story knows how to hold an audience. "We saw a man sizzle today," he wrote, quoting a state official who was present for the execution.

THE READER, HAD he been curious about why the man wound up on death row in the first place, would have had to figure out himself how the murder victim died, what motivated the killer and why the state decided to seek the extreme penalty against the slayer. The prosecuting attorney must have done a reasonably good job of 'selling' the jury on the idea that the state would be better served by ordering the execution of the accused. Under ordinary circumstances, juries are rather squeamish about decreeing death penalties and will do so only as a last resort.

Opponents of capital punishment see it as a euphemism for murder by the state. It is inherently discriminatory, they insist, because it is applied overwhelmingly to the poor, the uneducated and invariably against ethnic groups.

If the death penalty is applied only to certain groups, then it should be dropped. It should be applied to privileged members of society, as well, in cases where the individuals are found guilty of so brutal a crime that people decide they would be better served only if the accused is removed from their midst.

Canal and guns

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The administration's sub rosa encouragement of leftist efforts to overthrow Nicaragua's dictatorship now threatens President Carter's great foreign policy achievement, leading to his emergency telephone call Tuesday morning to Rep. John M. Murphy of New York.

Carter made this plea to Murphy, chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee, about hearings scheduled the next day on gunrunning to Nicaragua terrorists: don't let your hearings interfere with House passage of the bill to implement the Panama Canal treaties. The State Department the previous evening asked Murphy to substitute closed-door briefings for the public sessions; the president implicitly was backing up that request.

DESPITE THE pressure, the hearings went on as scheduled, filled with evidence of gunrunning to Sandinista guerrillas from communist Cuba, democratic Venezuela — and Panama. That evidence adds to the considerable troubles to be faced on the House floor June 12 but the bill turning the canal over to the Republic of Panama on Oct. 1.

Instead of telephoning Jack Murphy June 5, the president might better have remonstrated month ago with his great and good friend, strongman Omar Torrijos of Panama, about free-style gunrunning. But far from urging Panama to keep hands off Nicaragua, the U.S. government does not even admit that Panamanian hands have been very busy indeed.

Furthermore, the Carter administration is justly regarded throughout the Western Hemisphere as friendly toward any effort to oust Nicaragua's President Anastasio Somoza, despite absence of a democratic alternative. Bad enough that this might result in a communist regime in Nicaragua; it also might help kill the Panama Canal bill, with truly horrendous consequences for the president, the United States and Panama.

EVEN SOME FOES of the canal treaty fear the consequences of a defeated bill: a Panamanian takeover of the canal Oct. 1 by force, mobilizing all Latin American sentiment against Uncle Gringo. No wonder then that even Jimmy Carter was on the phone trying to minimize the impact of what the Panamanians have been doing.

Actually, Panamanian intentions were flashed in December 1977, in a private conversation between Gen. Torrijos, "maximum leader" of Panama, and U.S. Lt. Gen. Gordon Sumner, now retired but then head of the Inter-American Defense Board. The expansive Torrijos told how Panama would help bring down Somoza in neighboring Nicaragua. Sumner's detailed memo on the conversation drew more dust than attention at the Pentagon.

Once the Senate ratified the canal treaties, Panama joined fully into running men and arms into Nicaragua. Federal agents have submitted sworn statements to a grand jury that the Panamanian consul in Miami and an official of Air Panama, under direction of Panamanian intelligence, late last year smuggled arms to Sandinista guerrillas.

But the U.S. saw no evil. Even after federal Treasury agents broke the Miami case, the State Department could confirm no smuggling to the Sandinistas from other Latin American countries. In secret briefings, Lt. Gen. Dennis McAuliffe, U.S. commander in the Canal Zone, has told congressmen about the arms railroad leading from Panama. But there has been no public confirmation to this day.

Mental, physical ills often linked

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is it true that all mental illness can be traced to a real physical ill? This is the idea I got from listening to a discussion of the subject over my radio. If so, why aren't doctors emphasizing this fact in treating the mentally ill? — B.B.

It has long been known that a significant percentage of mentally ill patients do have some underlying physical ailment. Just what percentage of them are in this category is not known. One recent study indicates that it may be as much as 10 percent. Often, depression is the chief symptom of such physical ills. Glandular and cardiovascular (heart circulation) conditions underlie many cases diagnosed as psychiatric.

I believe most doctors accept this mental-physical relationship, and many outpatient mental health clinics are beginning to look more closely at the physical conditions of patients treated there. Interestingly, prison doctors also report that a significant number of hardcore criminals have serious health problems that have gone untreated.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am 62 and love eggs. I average 14 to 16 eggs a week. My wife says that's too much. It builds up cholesterol in my blood. Is she right? If so, how many eggs a week is right? — R.C.

First, you have to find out if you have a cholesterol problem. Not all egg-eaters have one, though many do. Most people with a high blood fat condition have to cut down or eliminate eggs altogether.

For most a reasonable number of eggs is three or four a week. But a cholesterol problem doesn't begin and end with eggs. Many other foods contain cholesterol. In general, cholesterol is best limited to 300 milligrams a day. A single egg yolk contains that much. Many find the egg substitutes helpful, adding it to the whites of regular eggs for an omelet. This might be your answer.

The booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly," has a listing of cholesterol content of various products. It also might help put this cholesterol controversy into perspective. For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Herald. If you have no immediate cholesterol problem, I doubt your dozen eggs a week will affect you adversely at your age. Most authorities aren't fussy about cholesterol in patients past 60.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What would cause redness and soreness in the palms of my hands? I am taking a tranquilizer and occasionally a hormone pill (estrogen). — M.A.J.

I would have to know more about you, your activities, etc. If your palms itch, I would suspect an allergy to the medicines you mention. Any new medicine is "guilty until proven innocent" in the best traditions of "medical jurisprudence."

Dear Dr. Ruble: Why do doctors say a hysterectomy should have no ill effects on a woman? I am living evidence to the contrary, and besides, even my own doctor recognizes that trouble can follow. I am taking estrogen tablets prescribed by him after the surgery. Can you comment? — Mrs. P.R.

I believe the contradiction arises from a misuse of terms. A hysterectomy is removal of the uterus, and this should not produce any general symptoms. But what many women have is both hysterectomy (uterus removal) and removal of ovaries. The fancy name for that is "hystero-oophorectomy."

With ovary removal we move into a different ballgame entirely, because that leads to a sudden decrease in hormone production. I suspect this is what you had done since your doctor does have you on estrogen medicine. I hope this clears up some of your confusion about this subject.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can you help me? It's like a second opinion. I have been to my doctor and asked all kinds of questions about hormones for enlarging the breast. He said if I were to take them I would have to take them for the rest of my life. Is this true? — Unhappy.

It's true, and your doctor has given you the best reason for not trying this method of breast enlargement. All the hormones do is promote liquid retention and provide temporary breast enlargement while being used. When the hormone is stopped, the breast returns to its original size.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am completely undeveloped at 15. I'm the only one in the family who has this problem. All my friends have had their period and are normally developed. I feel sort of strange. My mother says, "Be patient." But she's been saying that since I was 12. I haven't even begun to develop. I think the only way to start is by using a bust developer. Am I being impractical? Is the bust developer safe? — J.S.

All I can do is echo mother's advice. There's plenty of time left to wait to see what develops. Forget the bust developer, whatever happens. It won't work. You are one of those girls with late puberty. Breast development coincides with beginning menstrual periods and certain hormone changes.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have three children, one boy and two girls. None of them has the father's blood type. Possible? — H.B.

Not only possible but quite common. No need or space here to go into the mind-boggling genetic reasons why.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Ruble, in care of the Herald, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you really think Sunday should be any different from any other day of the week? — H.A.A.

DEAR H.A.A.: At one time in our society Sunday was very much a different day, and seen as such even by people who were not particularly religious. Now all that has changed. It seems like Sunday is just another day, no different from Saturday.

Christians need to recover a reverence for Sunday. God considered the sabbath very important in Old Testament times; one of the Ten Commandments states: "Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work: But the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work" (Exodus 20:8-10). It is important to note that Jesus kept the sabbath regularly.

Why did God set aside one day in seven? One reason is because He knew that we needed rest from our work. A person who works all the time eventually burns out. God has made us so that we need rest. We should not ignore this. To do so is to abuse our bodies and our minds, which have been given us by God.

But God also wanted us to worship Him, and the one day in seven was to be used also to turn our minds to Him. The day was not to be used just for our own selfish recreation, but to hear His Word and worship and praise Him. It is also a time to get together with other believers and encourage each other. The Bible tells us, "Let us not give up meeting together, as some are in the habit of doing, but let us encourage one another" (Hebrews 10:25, New International Version).

We may not necessarily keep one day in seven exactly the way people in other generations kept it. But we should use it for God's glory, remembering that "The Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath" (Mark 2:27, NIV).

Not too young

Walt Finley

Up to this point we have 63 declared candidates for president. Each of them patriotically hopes to save the country from the other 62.

Out of those 63 announced candidates surely there are a few who will disprove the notion that no one in his right mind would run for president.

In Connecticut a 95-year-old man is running for office. He steadfastly insists he is not too young to make the race.

BERTINA DELEON, Herald word chaser, commented:

"Now the truth is out, Bobby Burgess' dancing partner, Cissy King, didn't quit as reported. Lawrence Weik gave her a promotion. "He fired her."

My bashful aunt, Marie Chastain, remarks:

"You don't belong to the Now Generation if you think 'laid back' has anything to do with saving money."

Foxy Roxy McDaniel, who usually knows the score and who weds on July 7, says the next shortage we have will be bicycle chains. "There won't be any available until the price goes up 50 per cent," she explains.

FAST AND FLASHY Danny Valdes, who is vacationing in Lansing, Mich., and Cincy, Ohio, rushes in with bulletins:

There is bad news and good news.

The bad news is that we probably are going to have a serious shortage of gas.

The good news is that Federal Reserve Board Chairman William Miller said the gasoline shortage increases the risk of a recession.

So we won't have the money to go anywhere anyway.

Dear Editor:

You have performed a disservice by printing uncritically this bit of Planned Parenthood propaganda. You may as well have run a free advertisement for this federally-funded organization ($137 million in 1978) by reproducing (no pun intended) one of its brochures. I wish to point to the errors and inaccuracies in your article.

First of all, Planned Parenthood supports freedom of choice about as well as Adolf Hitler supported freedom of religion. The millions of unborn children, like the Jews that Hitler slaughtered, might question whether they were given the right to participate in this freedom so sanctimoniously proclaimed by Planned Parenthood.

In 1970, Robin Eliot, then president of Planned Parenthood called for "compulsory sterilization of all spouses with more than two children, and compulsory abortion of teen-age out of wedlock pregnancies." (Family Planning Perspectives, 1970). Freedom of choice anyone?

It is ironic that in 1963 Planned Parenthood stated in its literature that birth control prevents life from arising, while abortion takes a human life already in existence. Sixteen years later the same organization states (in your article) that "abortion is an essential part of reproductive freedom." What does killing of the unborn have to do with "reproductive freedom"? At the stage of the unborn's life at which an abortion is performed, there is no reproductive decision to be made — only a decision of whether or not to allow the developing human being to live.

Your greatest disservice is in calling Planned Parenthood a "voluntary" organization. Ms. Wattleton makes $70,000 per year, and I doubt that a "voluntary" organization could afford to hire "one of the largest public affairs firms in the United States" to sell its ideology to the public. In fact, Planned Parenthood is one of the most highly capitalized of all the federally-funded agencies in this country, staffed by professionals, not volunteers.

Dear Editor: I am very disturbed over our city government turmoil. All these vicious rumors are not going to solve anything.

"Take the bull by the horns" and get on with whatever has to be done. We bounced back after losing Webb AFB. Now our cotton crops look promising. We have oil activity and business is not bad.

To quote the late President Lyndon Johnson, "you can hook up two mules to a plow and if they don't pull together you can't plow a straight furrow."

Also, another quote of his was "hang the axe over his head and get him in the saddle." He called this barnyard philosophy.

So let's all see if we can't pull together and settle down to serious matters. When ex-President Gerald Ford pardoned Richard Nixon, he was severely criticized, but the one thing that made sense was, and I quote, he said "we have to get this thing behind us and get on with the business of running our government."

So if we need an outside audit let's have one. Then get on with hiring someone to fill our vacancies and hope and pray they will be the right one to help lead us to whatever needs to be done to get us back to normal. I love and have faith in our city.

My husband and I moved away for five years but we came back "home" to the city and people we love and trust. It has been so good to us and our family.

Ghana generals charged with corruption executed

LONDON (AP) — A military firing squad executed former president Gen. Ignatius Acheampong in Ghana Saturday after he was convicted of corruption, Radio Accra reported.

Acheampong was leader of the West African nation for six years until he was deposed in 1978. Another official, Gen. F. Uteka, a former border guard commander, was convicted by a revolutionary court along with Acheampong and both were executed at the Teshi military range near Accra, the capital, according to the broadcast monitored in London.

Shortly afterward, Britain announced its formal recognition of Ghana's new military regime, which is headed by a junior air force officer, Lt. Jerry Rawlings, who seized power in a coup June 4.

A Foreign Office spokesman refused to comment on the executions. "It is a matter internal to Ghana," he said.

In such situations, the United States normally continues its diplomatic recognition of whatever government is in power, making no special decision with each change of government.

Acheampong and Uteka were shot two days before scheduled elections to return Ghana to civilian rule for the first time since 1972. Acheampong was overthrown in a July 1978 coup led by another general, Fred Akuffo, who, in turn, was ousted by Rawlings. Akuffo and his top aides are reported to be in military barracks awaiting trial on corruption charges. Radio Accra said Acheampong and Uteka were convicted by an armed forces revolutionary court of amassing personal wealth while in office and "recklessly dissipating state funds."

The account said the generals were driven in a military vehicle to the military range and were given last rites by two clergymen before they were shot. The radio said it was the first execution by firing squad in Ghana since two lieutenants were shot after an abortive coup 12 years ago. It said the court began its hearings last Friday, but gave no indication of how many more officers await trial. A London newspaper, The Daily Telegraph, reported from Accra last week that 100 to 200 former military leaders are thought to be awaiting trial in the former British colony. Rawlings, the son of a Scottish father and Ghanaian mother, declared after seizing power that the June 18 elections announced by Akuffo's administration would go ahead as scheduled. Ghana, a nation with a population of about 9 million, once produced nearly a third of the world's cocoa. It became a nation in 1957, Britain's first African colony to gain independence. Cocoa production is now down to about 20 percent of world supplies, much of it smuggled out, and inflation has run as high as 150 percent a year.

Soviets protest picture

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass, the official news agency, said Saturday that a request by The Associated Press to transmit on contracted Soviet facilities two photographs of a Moscow dissident protest amounted to a "sordid venture" and "deliberate provocation."

On Friday, Tass' news photo division Fotokhronika refused to transmit the two AP pictures, one of them showing Soviet police seizing a Russian grandmother who staged a demonstration outside the U.S. Embassy.

The AP sent a formal protest to Tass on Friday and said it would have no comment on the Tass article Saturday.

Tass and another Soviet news agency, Novosti, are normally the only outlets in Moscow for the transmission of news pictures abroad.

The last time that Tass Fotokhronika refused to transmit AP photos of a demonstration was on April 20, 1978, when Irina McClellan, a Soviet woman barred for four years from joining her American husband in the United States, attempted to chain herself to a fence in front of the U.S. Embassy here.

United Press International photos of that protest also were refused, and CBS News was prevented from transmitting television footage of it to the United States via satellite.

A Tass story Saturday — headlined "AP's Sordid Venture" — quoted Antonina Doronenkova, a representative of the trade union organization of Fotokhronika, as saying:

"We are indignant at the attempt of some people in U.S. mass information media at poisoning the atmosphere between our countries." She added that "our colleagues" deemed the AP request to send the pictures as having "sordid aims" and evaluated it as a "deliberate provocation" on the day of the start of the summit conference in Vienna, Austria, between President Carter and resident Leonid I. Brezhnev of the Soviet Union.

The photographs of Antonina Agapova, 70, were made available to The Associated Press by friends of the Agapova family.

After the photos were rejected for transmission by Fotokhronika on Friday, AP's news transmissions from Moscow were briefly interrupted.

Stanley M. Swinton, AP vice president and director of its World Services Division in New York, later sent a protest "in the strongest terms" to Sergei Losev, general manager of Tass. Swinton said the Fotokhronika action "represents a violation of our agreement with Tass, as well as a violation of the Helsinki accords."

Attorneys will try to convince judge to toss it out

Henley's explicit statement center of attention

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Attorneys for Elmer Wayne Henley this week will try to convince a state judge to throw out a written statement Henley made to investigators when he was arrested in 1973.

The explicit statement was admitted as evidence at a 1974 trial when Henley was convicted of six murders and given six, 99-year prison terms. The charges were in connection with a homosexual torture and death spree that left 26 boys dead in Houston in the early 1970s.

Henley, 23, was granted a new trial by a state appeals court that ruled the San Antonio judge who heard the case should have held a venue change hearing sought by the defense.

The second trial began here two weeks ago. After questioning more than 100 local residents, the attorneys agreed on 34 potential jurors. The attorneys Monday will whittle that panel down to the 12 needed to hear the case.

State District Judge Noah Kennedy has said he will sequester the jurors once they are picked. The first action will be the hearing on the lone pre-trial motion — the defense attempt to suppress the statement.

Defense attorney Will Gray of Houston tried to have a Houston judge throw out the statement at the first trial. But State District Judge William Hatten — who presided in the case until it was moved to San Antonio — ruled that Henley had not been compelled to give the statement.

The statement was given to investigators shortly after Henley was arrested in the summer of 1973. Henley said he had shot Dean Corll to death. The defendant said Corll, 33, had masterminded the death spree.

In the statement, Henley said he was 14 when a friend introduced him to Corll.

"Dean told me that he belonged to an organization out of Dallas that bought and sold boys. They ran whores and dope and stuff like that. Dean told me he would pay me $200 at least for every boy that I could bring him and maybe more if they were real good-looking boys," the statement said.

At the first trial Gray argued that Henley's civil rights were violated by investigators who sought the statement.

In that statement, Henley said he did not cooperate with Corll until about a year after he first met him.

"...I decided that I could use the money to get better things for my people, so one day I went over to Dean's apartment on Schuler Street and told him I would find a boy for him," the statement said.

Henley's statement also detailed the methods in which Corll handcuffed the victims to a plywood board and homosexually raped them.

"Then he would kill them. I killed several of them myself with Dean's gun and helped him choke some others. Then we would take them and bury them in different places," the statement said.

Henley had led investigators to the burial sites.

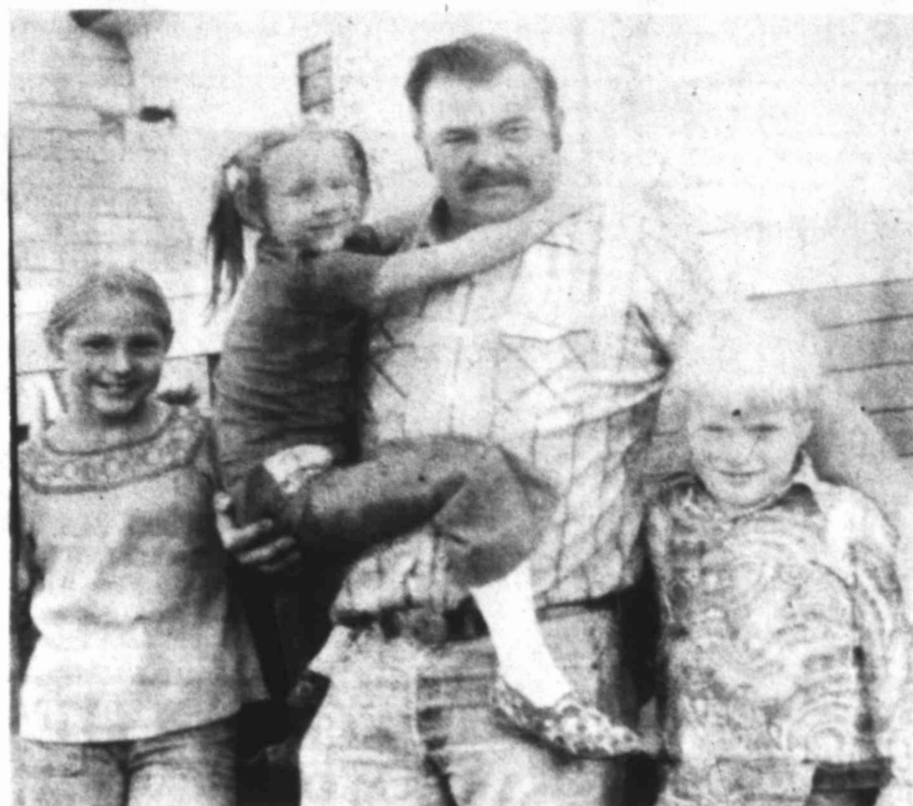

"I don't remember the dates on all of these because there had been too many of them," he said in the statement.

Gray has estimated it may take a week to hear the motion to suppress the statement.

Attorneys in the case have been placed under a gag rule by Kennedy. However, the judge said he will probably lift the order once the jurors have been sequestered.

WON'T SEND THEM TO SCHOOL — Maynard Campbell, 37, has vowed he'll go to jail rather than send his three children to public schools. Barbara Campbell, 12, left, attended public school only through the third grade, while Becky (being held) and her brother Chuck never have attended school. Campbell has been ordered by a judge to show that his children are registered for public school or enrolled in a state-approved plan for home education.

'They're claiming that we're not educating our children'

DENVER (AP) — Maynard Campbell says he would rather go to jail than send his three children to public schools. He says they can get a better education through a correspondence course.

Campbell's two youngest children, Chuck, 8, and Becky, 6, have never attended public schools. And he said he took Barbara, 12, out of school in the third grade because "she knew nothing" even as a straight-A student.

On May 10, District Judge William Eakes ordered Campbell to prove that his three children are registered for public school or enrolled in a state-approved home-education course. The judge warned Campbell he would be held in contempt of court if he failed to appear for an Aug. 30 hearing on the matter.

"There is no way I will comply with that order," said Campbell in telephone interviews last week. "I'm ignoring it. Nobody's going to take my kids."

Campbell, his wife, Brigitta, and their children live in Durango, and he operates a two-way radio business from his home. Campbell, 37, says he himself has a teaching certificate from the state of Florida.

He said that after he took his daughter Barbara out of public schools in Texas, he enrolled her in an accredited national correspondence course operated by the Calvert School of Baltimore. "It took a year and a half (in the correspondence course) to get her up to the speed of the third grade," said Campbell.

So Campbell did not even bother sending Chuck and Becky to schools and instead enrolled them in the same correspondence course.

Campbell said authorities in New Mexico, where the family lived prior to coming to Colorado about a year ago, also were concerned about the children not going to school.

But when they checked out the correspondence course and found it was "excellent," they gave their permission for the children to get their education that way, he said.

Campbell said he believes it is a violation of his constitutional rights to require him to prove he is obeying the law.

"The bedrock issue behind all of this is the simple fact that you are not required to prove your innocence, but they're demanding that we prove our innocence," he said.

"They're claiming that we're not educating our children, but they have not proven that, they cannot prove that."

Airlines forced to lay off hundreds of workers

MIAMI (AP) — With its 16 DC-10 aircraft sitting idly in the Miami sun, National Airlines has scrambled to piece together virtually a new airline.

National was forced to cancel dozens of flights, to lay off hundreds of workers and, most painfully, to all but scrap its prosperous New York-southern Florida market.

The federally imposed grounding of the huge aircraft 11 days ago stung the Miami-based carrier much more than most U.S. airlines. The DC-10 makes up 30 percent of National's fleet and accounts for about half its seating capacity. American, on the other hand, depended on its 30 DC-10s for 25 percent of its seating capacity.

For now, National is making do with its 40 smaller and slower Boeing 727s on its domestic routes and with one plane, either a 707 or a 747, leased from Pan Am on a daily flight to London.

But no one knows how long the patchwork system will have to operate, or how serious the long-term economic impact will be.

On June 6, the day the Federal Aviation Administration indefinitely grounded the nation's 138 DC-10s during its investigation of the American Airlines crash that killed 273 in Chicago, National officials huddled at their executive headquarters here.

By that evening, National had canceled its 30 New York-Florida departures, its eight international flights to Amsterdam, Frankfurt, Paris and London, one roundtrip Tampa-Los Angeles flight and about 18 flights within Florida.

"There was no great panic or frenzy," recalls Steven Kolski, vice president for flight operations.

The Women of St. Mary's Episcopal Church have just acquired a bar. Located at 109 Main, the historic building will be renovated for another kind of bar, the Bargain Box. You might expect that when those "crazy Episcopalians" lost their lease of many years for the Bargain Box and began looking for a new location that the end result would be provocative.

Many of you have known about the Bargain Box. It is a glorified garage sale with a long history of community service. Mary Joy Cowper started the project about ten years ago. Many Howard County residents have graciously donated such things as clothes, books and appliances for benefit sale in these years. It is an advantage for needy families, bargain hunters or people in search of costumes. Its location in the College Heights shopping Center was of mutual benefit until there was a desire to update and enlarge the center last fall and the Bargain Box was "out on the street." The Church's search began for a place to move the mountain of collected items. Rent being too high, a good location and an adequate size were difficulties encountered when Father Steve Birdwell, Rector, and Karen Barker, President of the Women, began to tour vacant facilities. It was feared that the good old days for the Bargain Box were over. Frustration set in with every investigation until word was passed to them about a possible downtown site for sale at a reasonable price. The possibility of owning instead of renting was worth thinking about. The Vestry concurred that the women should explore the possibilities.

The available building turned out to belong to an estate and it was in much need of repair. Legal work began and the exciting background began to unfold. It was not only a purchase of property, but also a piece of Howard County history. That part of downtown, originally named Front Street (now 1st) and Parker Street (now Main) was an extension of the Bauer property, most of which was on the north side. George and Louisa Bauer owned it as early as 1882, but because of legal entanglements, apparent from reading the abstracts, the Bauers were sued and part of ownership of the property became confused by 1885. By 1908, the Fishers, renown downtown merchants, enter the reading of the abstracts, and later, the Currie name also appears. There is no Mechanics' Lien available, but from other sources, it appears that the said building at 109 Main, only a small part of the abstract's property, was finished about 1905, having been built and leased by a Mr. Wristen.

The long, narrow building (18'x100') is described as having a brick north wall and a south "wooden party wall." Its next door neighbor, now used as storage for Thomas Office Supply, was the Wigwam Cafe, a famous hangout for early Big Springers. Cafes and Saloons were numerous on this part of Main in the early 1900's. One senior class held its prom in one of them.

The most current records show that in 1937 the building was deeded to Velma Marlin. In a complicated maneuver, she was acquiring this building settling disputed ownership between the Bauer Estate and Currie interests in this downtown area. In 1947, Mrs. Marlin sold the building to Harry Seden who deeded it to his wife. At her death it reverted to him, and how, upon his recent death, St. Mary's has bought it from the Seden Estate.

Father Birdwell is excited about restoring the building in the decor and style of the early century, but he also feels that in doing this, it will set the stage for restoring other buildings in that part of town. The bar itself is of sturdy, beautiful wood, though it is in severe need of repair. The women plan to use it as a check-out counter. Ceiling fans are planted, for turn of the century charm as well as being energy-efficient.

In the meantime, the Bargain Box is in operation in temporary headquarters at 115 Runnels with longtime co-ordinator, Mary Caton, having handed the reins to Dorothy Rae Edwards. Even the faithful are Dr. Paul Kionka and Ed Bowman, who assist their wives Riette and Liza. Through the years, Roberta Miller, Charlene Birdwell, Pansy Brooke and Jean Lancaster have been forces in the project's success. They look forward to a last move, permanent headquarters and a new way to put the bar to use.

SINGER'S GIRLFRIEND DIES — Singer Art Garfunkel poses with Lauren Bird in this recent but undated photo. The 26-year-old Lauren Bird was found dead Friday in an upper East Side Manhattan penthouse apartment the two shared. The girl's father said she may have attempted suicide because the singer would not marry her.

Ex-Big Springer named sales manager by Fina

DALLAS. — A series of changes involving Marketing Department personnel and Tambay Fina Oil Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary in Tampa, Florida, was announced here today by American Petrofina, Incorporated.

Ken W. Harmon, former assistant district sales manager, has been named Tampa district sales manager, effective June 1.

He replaces Herb M. Hone, who has been elected president of Tambay, a Fina jobbership serving 21 Fina service stations.

Former Tambay president, Gary A. Brill, has been named assistant district sales manager in Tampa.

In other changes, former sales representative, R.C. Eustice, has transferred to Tambay as sales supervisor, and Randy Sheffield, former merchandiser, will replace Eustice as sales representative in the 13-county area surrounding Tampa.

Harmon joined Cosden Petroleum Corporation in October, 1961, as a TBA warehouse salesman in Big Spring. Shortly after Fina acquired Cosden in 1963, Harmon moved to Dallas as a lube and TBA clerk. In 1967, he was named sales representative in Midland, Texas. He was promoted to Lubbock district sales manager in 1970, and he moved to the Tampa district post in 1977.

A native of Houston, he attended Big Spring High School, South Texas Junior College in Houston, and Texas A&I in Kingsville. He is married to the former Tillie Garrett and the couple have three sons.

Hone joined the Company as a sales representative in Springfield, Missouri, in 1962. In 1967, he was made district sales manager in Tulsa, Oklahoma, and transferred to Tampa as district sales manager in 1973, when Fina acquired the BP marketing properties in Florida, Georgia, and North and South Carolina. He has been in petroleum marketing since 1943, including three years as a jobber.

A native of Bowling Green, Ohio, Hone attended high school in Tulsa and the University of Tulsa. He is married to the former Ruth Cooper and the couple has three children.

Brill joined Fina in 1971 as a merchandiser. He was made a sales representative in St. Louis in 1972, in Jacksonville, Florida in 1973, and in Tampa in 1974. He was elected president of Tambay

Gas available in Big Bend

"There has been no gasoline shortage in Big Bend National Park, and no limiting of gasoline supplies is anticipated," said Park Superintendent Robert C. Haraden.

The park gasoline supplier, Newell Oil Company, Inc., of Alpine, has assured the park that gasoline will continue to be available.

"Our park gas stations at Panther Junction, Rio Grande Village, and Castolon are open seven days a week and are continuing their regular hours of operation," Haraden added.

"We want potential park visitors to know they won't be stranded out here without gas and that a West Texas vacation is a good alternative to a cross-country travel vacation."

The full range of visitor services and facilities are available throughout the park. All campgrounds are open and summer naturalist activities are in full swing. Lodging and restaurant facilities are available in the Chisos Basin and all camp stores are open.

Garfunkel's girl victim of overdose?

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Art Garfunkel's 26-year-old companion, Lauren Bird, may have killed herself with a drug overdose because he would not marry her, the young woman's father told a local newspaper.

"The last time I saw her was a week ago Thursday," Donald Bird, an electrical engineer from Queens, told the New York Daily News. "She told me that Garfunkel had refused to marry her again."

Miss Bird was found dead Friday in the bedroom of the penthouse she shared with Garfunkel. Building superintendent Ambrose Craig told police he found the body when he went to tell her he had found some domestic help she was looking for. Garfunkel reportedly was out of the country.

"Believe it or not, Garfunkel is a nice guy," Bird said, "but I could never get him alone to discuss my daughter with him. I tried to get my daughter to break up with him."

Bird said the policeman who notified him of his daughter's death had told him she died of a drug overdose but had not said what kind of drug.

'Shampoo' idea stolen, jury decides

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court jury has awarded $185,000 to a little-known writer who claimed that actor Warren Beatty and screenwriter Robert Towne stole her ideas to create the Oscar-winning 1975 movie "Shampoo."

The 9-3 decision Friday upheld accusations by Bernice Mann of West Los Angeles that Beatty and Towne plagiarized a script she wrote called "Women Plus." Columbia Pictures also was named in the suit.

Beatty starred in the film and collaborated with Towne on the script. Actress Lee Grant won an Oscar as best supporting actress in the movie, which also starred Goldie Hawn.

Mrs. Mann, a manicurist who quit her job after developing Parkinson's Disease, based "Women Plus" on her experiences in beauty salons.

Doubt SALT II will help reduce tensions

Yanks patrolling 'death strip'

By The Associated Press
EDITOR'S NOTE — Europe's nuclear "front line" will remain just as tense for American and West German soldiers after the signing of the SALT II treaty in Vienna. Here's a report from a town just eight miles from the spot where the West German, East German and Czechoslovakian borders meet.

By DAVID MINTHORN
HOF, West Germany (AP) — American troops and West German border guards patrolling the communist "death strip" doubt that SALT II will help reduce tensions on the East-West frontier.

"You can talk SALT to you better not neglect conventional forces. They're more important now than ever," said Maj. Fred Timmerman, 36, of the U.S. Army's 2nd Armored Cavalry Regiment.

"From watching the other side constantly, we know they're building up," said the West Point graduate from Harrisburg, Pa., executive officer of the 3,800-man unit, which patrols Bavaria's hilly, forested frontier with East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

NATO forces and Warsaw Pact troops facing each other across the demarcation line are backed by tactical nuclear weapons for use if central Europe becomes a battlefield.

Further back, the Soviets have stationed about 100 medium-range SS-20 ballistic missiles aimed at West European capitals, weapons the Americans could counter by employing Pershing missiles in West Germany.

None of these nuclear weapons is covered by the SALT II agreement, which sets limits only for strategic nuclear weapons, those in the United States and Soviet Union aimed at the other's territory. East Germany keeps 45,000 troops along its 830-mile frontier with West Germany, walling in its population behind 10-foot-high steel mesh fences, booby-trapped with shrapnel guns and land mines.

According to Western estimates, it costs East Germany $2.8 million a mile for construction, upkeep and nighttime illumination of the "death strip."

Encountering East German troops standing guard over a work crew on the frontier, Spec. 4 Kenneth Breeden, 20, of Houlton, Maine, remarked, "They'd shoot those guys if they tried to escape."

"The other side has gotten worse in the last couple of years," said Axel Diehm, 20, a non-commissioned officer in West Germany's paramilitary Federal Border Guard accompanying a U.S. Army patrol.

"Soldiers used to ask us for cigarettes, but now they seldom say hello. SALT won't change duty out here for us," the stocky, blond German said.

West German figures list 223 East Germans, including 170 civilians, killed since 1961 trying to flee across the border into West Germany and West Berlin. During the same period, 2,000 East German border guards jumped the fence and fled to the West.

Staff Sgt. Charles Gaither, 31, of Clarksville, Tenn., recalled the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia in August 1968 that crushed the liberal Prague government.

"We woke up one morning to see a battalion of Russian tanks surrounding the town of Asch just across the border," the veteran cavalryman said. "It was scary because we didn't know what was going to happen. We took cover and watched them for 2½ days before we were relieved."

Up to 1,000 troops at a time from the 2nd Armored Cavalry keep constant vigil on a 390-mile stretch of frontier, patrolling on foot, in jeeps or helicopters and sharing information with West German border guards and police.

Timmerman said joint patrols with the West Germans "are essential because the Germans have been on the border a hell of a lot longer than the troops.... They can see new construction and buildings that might escape our attention." In case of attack, other cavalrymen are ready to back up the patrols with tanks, howitzers, mortars and other heavy weapons.

Cub Scouts climax week of fun with cook-out

Cub Scouts climaxed a week of fun and adventure with a cook-out Friday evening as their annual day camp ended.

Five dens of boys participated in the program, and nearly all of them earned beads for perfect attendance, said Mrs. Jeannine Lewis, camp director. Many also received awards for skills, a camp T-shirt, and a camp patch.

Dave Reynolds was in charge of the special cookout, giving the boys a demonstration of foil cooling. Each Cub had his own packet of meat and vegetables cooked steaming hot over coals. Gerald Bullard provided the drinks.

Members of the staff were Dave and Nancy Reynolds, nature; Shirley Bullard and Phyllis Briggs, crafts; Patrick Connally and Robert Oliver, skills; and Mrs. Barbara Pierce, general utility.

The camp was held in Birdwell Park from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., and each of the dens rotated between the nature study, games, crafts, skills and other activities.

City receives $415,809 in sales tax rebates this year

The City of Big Spring received $133,120.49 in sales tax rebates in its June allocation, compared to $143,111.60 for the corresponding period last year, according to figures released by the office of State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Payments to the city for the six months of 1979 amount to $415,809.73, compared to $416,200.17. Coahoma received a check for $3,693.38, compared to $4,910.41 for the same month a year ago. On the year, Coahoma has received $10,030.58, compared to $11,822.40 for the same period last year.

Colorado City's share of the sales tax for June was down from $22,011.23 to $20,143.27. On the year, collections have dropped from $67,440.05 to $51,148.57, a decrease of 24 per cent.

Lamesa's June share of the rebate amounted to $48,560.46, compared to $50,128.62. For the first six months in 1979, Lamesa has received $145,513.01, compared to $159,390.60 for the comparable period in 1978—a decrease of eight per cent.

Stanton's income by the state sales tax amounted to $4,431.76 for the month and $11,625.25 for the six months' period, compared to $11,625.25 for June last year and $12,271.82 for the first six months of 1978, or a five per cent decrease.

Texas cities shared $218 million in rebates from the one per cent optional city sales tax during the first six months of the year, State Comptroller Bob Bullock said. This figure compares to $196.4 million that cities received during the same six months during 1978.

Bullock said that June allocations for the more than 900 Texas cities will be $67.7 million, compared to a 1978 statewide allocation of $60.9 million for the month. Dallas will get a check for $7.9 million, bringing the city's year-to-date payments to $25.8 million.

Houston's payment for June totals $14.3 million. The city has received $45.8 million in tax rebates for 1979.

San Antonio's rebate for this month will be $3.5 million, bringing that city's 1979 total to $12 million.

Fort Worth's check will be $2.6 million for a yearly total of $8.7 million. Bullock also announced tax allocations totalling $53.5 million to the state's two Metropolitan Transit Authorities. San Antonio will receive MTA tax rebates of $1.6 for June and Houston will receive $12.7 million.

Total payments for the 1979 fiscal year to San Antonio's MTA amount to $11.2. Houston has received $42.3 million during the fiscal year. MTA taxes are collected along with city and state sales tax by merchants and other permit holders in Houston and San Antonio and are rebated monthly by the Comptroller's office along with the optional city sales tax.

Gunn speaker at conclave

Joe Gunn, former Commissioner of the Texas Employment Commission and now secretary-treasurer of the Texas AFL-CIO, will speak at the June 20 meeting of the Odessa Central Labor Union, it was announced today by D.L. Willis president of the Labor Union.

Gunn resigned in December from the TEC and subsequently was elected by the Executive Board as Secretary-Treasurer of the State Labor organization. He formerly was president of the Houston Local of the Communications Workers of America, and will be seeking election to his first term at the July Texas AFL-CIO convention in Austin.

The Central Labor Union meeting scheduled for this Wednesday will be held in the IBEW Union Hall at Terminal Airport starting at 7:30 p.m. Union officers, members and their families are urged to attend this important meeting.

Clinic plans for cutback

SAN ANGELO—Effective June 30, the Goodfellow Air Force Base clinic will cease its extended hours of operations and will remain open only during normal duty hours, 7:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Under present policies, a physician is available at the clinic from 4:30 through 8 p.m. on weekdays and from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturdays. This service will be terminated June 30.

Under the new system, no physician will be available at the clinic during other than normal duty hours. Persons requiring immediate medical care by a physician will have to seek it from civilian medical facilities.

Active-duty dependents, retirees and their dependents should go directly to whatever local civilian facility they desire. Payment will be the individual's responsibility and is covered under the outpatient portion of CHAMPUS.

Active-duty military living off base should go directly to a local civilian medical facility. Payment is the responsibility of the Air Force, not CHAMPUS. Active-duty persons must notify the clinic resource management office the next day following their visit.

BIG JOHN — John Hartin, director of one of the few country-bluegrass college degree programs in the world, is starring in a new country music road show, making its appearance June 29 in Lamesa. Showtime for "The Golden Years of Country Music," a South Plains College, Levelland, production, is 8:30 p.m. at the Lamesa High School Football Stadium. Hartin, electric guitarist for the show, is featured in Roy Clark's "Twelfth Street Rag" and several Johnny Cash numbers.

Crops begin to make good progress

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — After a week of open weather over most of the state, Texas farmers are trying to complete spring planting and to cultivate weedy fields that have resulted from prolonged wet conditions.

Crops are beginning to make good progress over all the state although many of them are late, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. With good soil moisture conditions in most sections, open weather will allow crops to make good growth. However, farmers should give attention to moisture conservation since hot, dry summer weather is approaching.

Insect problems are increasing in some sections of the state and will continue to be a factor throughout the season due to many late crops, noted Pfannstiel. Thrips and fleahoppers are building up in cotton, and midge poses a serious threat to sorghum. Grasshoppers are beginning to increase in some pastures and ranges. The wheat harvest is getting under way in western, central and northern areas of Texas, including the Rolling Plains, as fields dry from recent rains. Wheat fields are turning color in the High Plains. A good harvest is in prospect.

Livestock and range conditions continue to look good over the state due to widespread spring rains, said Pfannstiel. And hay making is active in many counties due to good growth of spring forages.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: Cotton and sorghum planting is active as field conditions permit. Planting is late due to recent wet conditions. Hay baling is widespread. Wheat is making good progress and is beginning to turn color. A good harvest is in prospect. Cattle and forage conditions look good due to recent rains.

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton planting is in the final stages in the southern part of the region. Early stands are fair, some crop damage due to the seedling disease complex caused by cold, wet soils. Some soybeans and sunflowers are still being planted. Corn is making excellent progress. Wheat continues to move toward maturity; a good harvest is expected.

ROLLING PLAINS: Cotton planting and replanting is active over the area, and the wheat harvest is about to get untracked. Large acreages of cotton are being replanted due to recent heavy rains. Fuel supplies are generally adequate as the wheat harvest gets under way. Forage conditions are good.

NORTH CENTRAL: Sorghum is beginning to make good growth, but cotton is struggling due to the prolonged wet weather. Some cotton is still being replanted. Wheat harvesting is about to get under way, with good yields expected. Peanuts will be planted as soon as fields are dry enough. Hay making is active. Some early peaches and plums are being harvested.

NORTHEAST: Wet fields are still delaying planting of sorghum, peanuts and soybeans. Some wheat and oats have been damaged by recent rains. The second cutting of hay is ready to harvest in some counties; some first cuttings were lost to the prolonged wet weather. Peach harvesting is in progress. Livestock and forage conditions are good.

FAR WEST: Rains the past week gave a big boost to ranges and dryland crops. Alfalfa and vegetables are making good growth, but cotton is making limited progress due to cool weather. Small grains are being harvested, with good yields. Peaches and apricots are ripening. Lambs and calves of good weights are moving to market.

WEST CENTRAL: Cotton planting is about 80 percent complete while sorghum planting ranges from 50 to 100 percent complete. Wheat harvesting is active, with fair to good yields. Peaches are beginning to ripen in Gillespie County and have excellent flavor. Forages are average to above average.

CENTRAL: Wheat harvesting is getting under way where field conditions permit; good yields are expected. Wet, cool weather continues to hamper cotton growth. Thrips and fleahoppers are heavy in some cotton fields. Hay making is increasing as weather conditions improve. Peanut planting is about 25 percent.

EAST: Spring planting remains active, with some sorghum, cotton, peanuts and soybeans still going in. A lot of cotton is being replanted due to recent heavy rains. Early peaches are being harvested. Hay making is active as weather conditions permit; some hay has been lost due to continued rains.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER COAST: Most crops need open weather due to prolonged wet conditions. Some rice and sorghum are still being planted. Most cotton is squaring. Hay making is active as field conditions permit, and forages are abundant due to good soil moisture conditions.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Cotton is squaring and sorghum is heading. Fleahoppers are heavy in some cotton. Peanut planting will increase as fields dry. Harvesting of wheat and oats is active where field conditions permit. Peaches are being harvested. Most pastures are in good shape.

SOUTHWEST: While rains the past week were a blessing to ranchers, they caused considerable damage to small grains and vegetable crops. Large acreages of wheat and oats were knocked down by heavy rains and high winds. Some onions and cantaloupes have also been lost to hail and heavy rains. Pecan nut casebearers are heavy in pecans, midge are infesting some sorghum, and the western corn rootworm is active in some corn fields.

COASTAL BEND: Sorghum is turning color and cotton is setting bolls. Corn is in the soft dough stage. Peanut planting continues as field conditions permit. The peach harvest is about complete. Hay harvesting is active as field conditions allow; recent heavy rains caused some losses. Livestock and forage conditions are excellent.

SOUTH: Corn and sorghum are maturing. Sorghum harvesting will begin soon. Cotton is getting bolls. Recent heavy rains have delayed vegetable harvesting. Melons, peppers and cucumbers are being harvested where fields conditions permit. Pasture and cattle conditions are good.

Learn to live in peace

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The true test of the greatness of a nation is never how well it deals with war, but how well it can learn to live in peace. Wars have always been the easy way to settle disputes, but peace has always been difficult to maintain. Nowhere is this more evident than in the Middle East today.

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm Congressional Comment

The roots of our culture, our religion, and our way of life all come from this region. Now, as in the beginning of civilization, this area continues to be one of the centers of world conflict. From the Assyrians, to the Babylonians, to the Macedonians, Romans, Turks, and Europeans this area has for 5000 years been subject to repeated wars and foreign domination. In recent history the Middle East has been involved in a 30-year war that has often had profound effects throughout the world. In 1956 an Arab-Israeli War also involved France and Britain because of the nationalization of the Suez Canal by Egypt. Soviet military intervention was narrowly averted. The 1973 Arab-Israeli conflict led to the oil embargo and rapidly escalating oil prices at a cost to the U.S. economy of billions of dollars.

of 1977 with the visit of Anwar Sadat to Jerusalem the hopes for stability and peace in this region began to be a possibility. In March of 1979 a peace treaty was signed between Egypt and Israel. Though there are still significant obstacles to overcome, this action is a major step in the right direction.

All parties concerned are learning that the price of peace is never cheap. Anwar Sadat has been ostracized by his Arab neighbors and marked for assassination. Israel will have to withdraw from certain occupied lands making their strategic defense capability considerably more vulnerable. The American government will be required to pay $1.1 billion dollars in grants and provide $3.7 billion in military loans for Egypt and Israel.

It would appear that the motives of the United States to support peace in the Middle East are entirely altruistic — they are not. It is in our self interest that stability in this region be maintained. The continuous operation of the Suez Canal is vital to East-West trade. The flow of Arab oil is essential to the U.S. economy. There is a need for America to establish a military presence in the Mediterranean and the Persian Gulf which can effectively discourage Soviet aggression. A recent study was done by the Pentagon which found that the Soviet navy could only last eight days in the Mediterranean in the event of war — Why? because of the effectiveness of the Israeli Air Force. So is $1.1 billion too much to pay for a chance at peace? I think not. The cost of war is astronomical.

Sorley, Smith proved their worth

It's a long way from quarterbacking a 1-9 Big Spring Steer football team to directing the Nebraska Cornhuskers into two bowls in his last two seasons at the Lincoln school, including a Big Eight Championship and a berth in the prestigious Orange Bowl.

But that's the story on Tom Sorley, who graduated from BSHS in 1974. In fact, Sorley passed for 2,000 yards in his senior year here, with more than half of those yards coming from wide receiver John Thomas Smith.

Sorley and Smith's passing success that year was no fluke, either. Sorley will sign a free agent pact with an NFL team this week, and Smith played with both the Washington Redskins and Kansas City Chiefs last season. Smith has signed a contract for the upcoming year with the Chiefs.

Still, despite the efforts of these two, Big Spring could manage only one win in the fall of '73. Many of the games were extremely close, but not quite enough to win. It's amazing, considering that the team had two people that will be in NFL camps this year, and still managed only one win.

Depth is important, but a winning attitude is a necessity

Sorley and I, following a hot afternoon workout earlier in the week, discussed the local situation at a drive-in. He, his wife (the former Kendra Dewees of Big Spring), and their 18-month-old daughter Alicia were in town visiting relatives this past week.

We both agreed that one of the basic problems here is the depth situation. Or should I say, the lack of depth. In a normal football game, two or three outstanding individuals without an adequate supporting cast can't overcome ten or eleven good players on the other side. And in this district, that's usually the case. Big Spring is definitely hurting from a lack of numbers.

But a most important factor in success in any sport is a winning attitude. Sorley went from one extreme (BSHS) to a completely different one at the University of Nebraska. I asked him what it was like going from a somewhat negative attitude to a successful one, and if he felt that a winning attitude was habitual.

"Yeah, it sure is," Tom wasted no time in saying. "At Nebraska, all of the players expect to win, and the people expect it. It might make us work harder to achieve success. The players realize they can win."

In college competition, and especially more so in the professional ranks, there is but a fine line between the great performers and the good ones. Sorley definitely believes that faith in success plays a big role between winning and losing in these situations.

We also know that certain teams were probably going to get an early lead. "Sorley went on to say," but there was never any doubt that we would come back, and the other team knew it, too. Every year, Colorado jumped out in front of us by a touchdown or two. But we knew we would win, and they did too. As soon as we would rally and go ahead, they seemed to quit, knowing they were beaten."

The people in a community can also have some affect on a team, as anyone who has played at BSHS can tell you, and it can definitely be negative. The same is true sometimes at Nebraska. "Every year before we played Oklahoma," Sorley said, "people would come up and say, 'well, you guys have a good chance, but they sure are good.'"

Nebraska overcame OU, but Mizzov spoiled national title

Sorley and his teammates, however, finally overcame the Oklahoma jinx when they defeated the Sooners 17-14 on a cold afternoon last November. It assured the Cornhuskers of an Orange Bowl berth and took some of the heat off Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne from Big Red supporters, frustrated from losing to OU.

Nebraska, then ranked second nationally, needed to beat Liberty Bowl bound Missouri in order to lure top rated Penn State into the Orange Bowl to battle for the mythical national championship.

"We were leading the nation in total offense and averaging over 500 yards a game at that time," Sorley said. "Before the game, Coach Osborne called the offense together and told us that if we scored over 30 points, had 500 yards total offense, we would win the game. We scored 31 points, had 500 yard total offense, and lost the game 35-31. Missouri was awesome that day."

Penn State then opted for the Sugar Bowl and Alabama, setting up a Nebraska-OU rematch. Sorley confirmed wire service reports at that time stating that most of the Cornhusker players were not too happy about playing the Sooners again. "We played such a good game in beating them in November, and didn't feel we should have to play them again," Sorley then gave a slight grin, adding: "Besides, you don't ever want to play those guys (OU) twice in the same season."

Sorley influenced indirectly to Nebraska by UTEP coach

College recruiters sometime do themselves more harm than good with their mouths. They are salesmen, but sometimes they sell another school's program while trying to lure the particular athlete away from the place. It happens every year to countless coaches and prospective athletes.

Sorley was heavily recruited following his senior season. He was leaning toward Nebraska, with North Texas State (who John Thomas Smith signed with) still in the picture. Gil Bartosh, then the head football coach at UTEP, visited Sorley and Smith on the BSHS parking lot one afternoon during the recruiting season.

"Bartosh asked me who I was going to sign with," Sorley remembers, "and I told him I would probably sign with Nebraska. He then told me, 'You'll never get to play there.'"

"Man, that really ticked me off. That's when I decided that I would sign with Nebraska to prove that I could play."

And he did prove that. In his two seasons at the starting QB on the Lincoln campus, the Cornhuskers were a stout 21-5. This includes a victory over North Carolina in the Liberty Bowl his junior year and the loss to OU in this year's Orange Bowl.

He completed nearly 60 per cent of his passes the past season, and was intercepted only nine times in 13 games. He also played as the starting quarterback for the Big Eight Conference in the Challenge Bowl in January (against outstanding seniors from the Pac-10 Conference), passing for more than 250 yards in the game.

That's a long way from Big Spring.

Irwin takes 3-shot lead into final round of US Open

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Hale Irwin, one of golf's most grimly competitive performers, built a 4-under-par 67 around a dramatic eagle and surged into a 3-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the 79th United States Open Championship.

Irwin completed three trips over the subtle terrors of the famed old Inverness Club course in 209, four shots under elusive par.

Only Irwin and Tom Weiskopf were able to better par for the first three rounds. Weiskopf, plagued by illness and personal problems for some time, matched Irwin's 67 and was alone in second at 212, one under par.

Those two — each the holder of one major title — provided the tournament's most dramatic moment.

It occurred on the 523-yard, par-5 13th.

Weiskopf played in the group immediately in front of Irwin. As he stood in the fairway, he trailed by four shots. He gracefully lashed a 2-iron some 8 feet from the flag and had that putt for an eagle. And he made it, cutting the lead to 2 shots while the stony-faced Irwin watched from the fairway.

But Irwin, winner of the 1974 American National Championship, had a reply. The 34-year-old — who has a history of playing his best golf on the game's most demanding courses, also chose a 2-iron. He hit it some 18 inches from the hole and made that for an answering eagle-3.

Weiskopf managed to get one shot closer before the hot, muggy day was over, setting up Sunday's 18-hole showdown between a couple of the game's great players, each of whom has been in a slump.

Behind Weiskopf, it was two strokes back to Jerry Pate and Tom Purtzer, tied at 214. Purtzer, who shared the lead at the end of two rounds, slipped to a 75 while Pate closed up with a 69.

Lee Elder and Larry Nelson were next at 215. Elder had a 69. Nelson, who was tied with Purtzer at the end of 36 holes, had a terrible day. He made double bogey on the fourth hole, never made a birdie and had to settle for a 76.

Nicklaus disgusted with Saturday's round

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The thoughts of a 16th major professional golf championship still were dancing through Jack Nicklaus' head.

"If I played two good rounds — assuming the wind conditions were up — I could still win," Nicklaus told himself before he teed off Saturday, 13 shots off the 36-hole lead in the 79th U.S. Open.

"Then to do what I did at six. That's terrible," said the three-time open champion.

What he did was four-putt for a double bogey 5 on the 220-yard hole at Inverness Club.

"I hit a five iron, high and soft, just the way I wanted. It stopped dead on the right front where they had watered just off the green."

"My first putt hit the fringe and popped up, 15 feet short. The next putt went by 2 1/2 feet. I missed that. But it was a clean sweep. Not one of the putts touched the hole."

Nicklaus would rally from that unnerving experience to fire three birdies on the back side for a 1-over-par 72, his best effort in three trips around Inverness in this major test.

STUDY TIME — Crouching on the fifth green, Hale Irwin figures out the line of his upcoming putt during the third round of the U.S. Open Saturday at Inverness Club in Toledo. He missed the putt and took a par-4 on the 401-yard hole. Irwin has a three-round total of 209, and a three stroke lead entering the final day.

Dock Ellis traded to NY Mets

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Dock Ellis helped get Billy Hunter fired but he couldn't outlast Pat Corrales.

The controversial right-hander, who had a 1-5 record and a 5.98 earned run average, was traded away to the New York Mets of the National League Friday by the Texas Rangers for minor league pitchers Robert Myrick and Mike Bruhart.

The announcement came after the Rangers had whipped the New York Yankees 9-5 with their biggest offensive explosion of the year.

Ellis had a head-on collision with Hunter last year over team rules and Hunter was later fired by owner Brad Corbett.

Asked how he felt about returning to the National League, Ellis said, "I don't have a feeling... it's just another bleeping team."

Ellis was expendable after the Rangers traded infielder Dave Chalk and catcher Mike Heath plus cash to the Oakland A's for Lefty John Henry Johnson, who is 2-8 with a 4.36 ERA.

The Yankees also announced a trade after the game involving catcher Cliff Johnson and outfielder Jay Johnstone.

Johnson, who was involved in the fracas which injured relief pitcher Rich Gossage, was sent to the Cleveland Indians for lefty reliever John Hood.

Johnstone went to San Diego for right-handed pitcher Dave Wehrmeister of Hawaii in the Pacific Coast League.

Ellis said, "I love New York and if I have to go it is not a bad place. It has been fun down here."

Billy Martin might return this week!!

NEW YORK (AP) — Controversial Billy Martin will return to manage the New York Yankees this week, according to a published report.

The New York Daily News said in its Sunday edition that Martin, who resigned last July after managing the Yankees to two pennants and a World Series, will take the helm when New York opens a seven-game homestand against Toronto Tuesday. Official announcement would come Monday, The News reported.

Martin would replace Bob Lemon, the man who replaced him as Yankee manager last season and led the team to a second consecutive World Championship. It was not known in what capacity Lemon, who was scheduled to become the team's general manager next year, would be retained.

Yankee owner George Steinbrenner has accompanied the team for part of their current road trip and apparently made the decision on Martin as the Yankees played poorly in losing their last three games.

Yankee publicist Mickey Morabito, contacted during the team's game in Arlington, Texas, Saturday night, said he had "no comment. I have no idea what Mr. Steinbrenner's plans are."

Marvin Johnson signs with San Diego Clippers

Marvin Johnson, former Howard College basketball star, recently signed a free agent contract with the San Diego Clippers of the NBA.

Johnson played at the local school in the 74-75 and 75-76 seasons before embarking on an outstanding two years at the University of New Mexico.

Drafted last year in the second round of the NBA lottery by the Chicago Bulls, Johnson failed to make the final cut and did not play last season.

The addition of Bill Walton to the Clippers organization will force them to give compensation to the Portland Trailblazers. This will limit San Diego's current depth, and Johnson is hoping it will give him a better chance at making the squad.

San Diego is coached by Gene Shue.

Little Red Lopez defends WBC featherweight title

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — World Boxing Council featherweight champion Danny "Little Red" Lopez makes his seventh title defense Sunday, this time in the hometown of young No. 1 contender Mike Ayala.

But Lopez' manager says the champion no longer worries anymore about where he fights, not since he went to David Kotey's home in Ghana in November 1976 to win the WBC title.

"That proved to me that Danny can go anywhere and win," said manager Bennie Georgino. "He fought at what was 3 o'clock in the morning in the United States. He couldn't get used to the food and hadn't eaten in 24 hours."

"Once you're in the ring, nothing can help you. You're on your own," he added.

"Anywhere in the United States feels like home now," said the gangly 5-foot-8, 126-pound Lopez, 26. "I've trained here 12 days and I feel at home now."

The nationally-televised, 15-round title fight is in San Antonio, where boxing is extremely popular, partially because Lopez' title defenses hadn't been drawing enough fans in his home city of Los Angeles.

Top Rank Promoter Irving Rudd said television officials also didn't want to be put in a position of having to black out the huge Los Angeles market if the fight was staged there. San Antonio, the nation's 10th largest city, has a population of 800,000, but doesn't rank in the top 30 television markets.

Since the Kotey fight, Lopez, 40-3 with 38 knockouts, has successfully defended his title six times, once in a rematch with Kotey. Lopez won all of them by knockout and none of the fights went past the seventh round.

The 21-year-old, 5-4, 126-pound Ayala, 25-1 with 17 knockouts, grew up in San Antonio's rugged west side barrio only a few miles from the 17,000-seat HemisFair Arena, the site of Sunday's fight.

His last loss was in 1977 to former bantamweight champion Rodolfo Martinez. His main problems since have been outside the boxing ring and in the courts.

Ayala was charged with attempted murder last year after the Christmas Day 1977 shooting of stablemate Gilbert Galvan. Ayala's attorneys plea bargained the charge down to aggravated assault and Ayala was assessed a 10-year probation sentence earlier this year.

SMU fems capture AIAW crown

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Southern Methodist University star golfer Kyle O'Brien walked away with the team and individual honors at the AIAW Golf Championships on the Stillwater Golf and Country Club Saturday.

O'Brien carded a 72 in the final 18 holes and finished eight over par for the tournament to pace the Mustangs to an 11-stroke victory. O'Brien's nearest competitor — a trio of golfers — trailed the Indianapolis, Ind., native by 10 strokes.

SMU outlasted Florida, 12-19; Tulsa, 12-24; Arizona, 12-31; San Jose State, 12-37; Arizona State, 12-45; defending champion Miami, Florida, 12-55; Georgia, 12-57; UCLA, 12-63; and Florida International, 12-64, who rounded out the top 10 teams. Host Oklahoma State University finished 12th with a 12-71.

"This is what we wanted all year...the team title," O'Brien said. "The team got the cake, my title is just the icing."

Goolagong, Barker advance in England

CHICHESTER, England (AP) — Australian Evonne Goolagong gained the finals of the Chichester Grass Courts Tennis Tournament with a hard-fought 1-6, 6-4, 10-8 victory over American veteran Billie Jean King Saturday.

She will meet Britain's Sue Barker in Sunday's final.

Barker defeated young South African Tanya Harford 5-7, 6-2, 6-3 in another bitterly contested match.

THIS, YOU STUPID SPORTSWRITER, IS A FOOTBALL — Tom Sorley, who quarterbacked the Nebraska Cornhuskers into the Orange Bowl last year, looks as though he is diagramming a trick play to Herald Sports Editor Nathan Poss during an afternoon session this week at Memorial Stadium. Sorley, in town the past week, is the topic of discussion in the Hangin Out column to the immediate left.

McEntroe penalized in London for losing temper

LONDON (AP) — John McEntroe, arguing with the umpire and shouting at the crowd, officially was penalized Saturday before defeating Vijay Amritraj of India in a stormy third-round match in the Stella Artois Tennis Tournament.

McEntroe won 7-6, 6-1 and moved into the quarterfinals of the $125,000 event along with six other Americans and Victor Pecci of Paraguay.

The row, which shattered the sedate atmosphere of the Queen's Club, erupted almost as soon as McEntroe went on court. The 20-year-old left-hander refused to start the match, saying he needed more practice serves.

McEntroe continued his antics and the umpire imposed a game penalty.

Valentine leads Expos past streaking Astros

Saturday baseball

MONTREAL (AP) — Ellis Valentine clubbed a two-run homer and Ross Grimsley got eighth-inning relief help from Elias Sosa as the Montreal Expos defeated the Houston Astros 4-2 Saturday night.

Valentine's sixth homer of the season, a 400-foot blast to left center in the second inning off J.R. Richard 6-6, followed a one-out single by Gary Carter.

It gave the Expos a 2-1 lead after Jeff Leonard's RBI single for the Astros in the first inning. Montreal added its third run in the third as Rodney Scott singled with two out, stole second and scored on a single by Andre Dawson.

The Astros got their second run in the fourth as Jose Cruz beat out an infield single with two out and scored on a double by Art Howe.

Grimsley, 6-4, helped himself with a run-scoring single in the sixth after Carter's single, a forceout and a two-out single by Chris Speier put runners at the corners.

Grimsley left the game after giving up leadoff singles to Terry Puhl and Craig Reynolds in the eighth, the seventh and eighth hits he surrendered. Sosa then struck out Cesar Cedeno, got Leonard to hit into a fielders' choice and induced Enos Cabell to pop out foul.

Sosa earned his sixth save despite working himself into a ninth-inning jam. He got two outs with fly balls before Alan Ashby doubled and Denny Walling pinch-hitting for Richard, singled him to third. But Sosa then got Puhl to ground out to end the game.

Richard gave up nine hits, walking two and striking out 11 to bring his major league-leading total to 111. Grimsley walked none and struck out one in his seven innings.

Blue Jays stop A's, 3-2

TORONTO (AP) — Dave Lemanczyk scattered seven hits for his third straight victory as the Toronto Blue Jays defeated Oakland 3-2 Saturday night.

Lemanczyk, 7-3, walked only one batter and registered two strikeouts in going the distance for the eighth time this season. He was the victim of an unearned run in the sixth and served up Dwayne Murphy's fifth homer in the eighth.

Toronto scored two decisive runs in the fifth on Danny Ainge's bloop double to right, Alfredo Griffin's RBI single, a pair of sacrifice bunts and a sacrifice fly by Rick Bosetti.

The Blue Jays' other run came in the second when Rico Carty singled, stole second base and, after taking third on a groundout, scored on Bob Bailor's single off loser Steve McCatty, 4-2.

Kobel hurls Mets to victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Kevin Kobel hurled a three-hitter and Doug Flynn blasted a solo home run in the sixth inning, leading the New York Mets to a 2-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday night.

Kobel, 3-2, pitched his first complete game of the season, striking out three without issuing a walk. Atlanta's Mickey Mahler, 2-7, permitted only Flynn's homer and a double by Richie Hebner in the seventh before he left the game after seven innings.

Kobel survived a threat in the second. Barry Bonnell tripled but Glenn Hubbard and Bruce Benedict were retired on infield outs. Pepe Frias' fifth-inning infield single and Bonnell's seventh-inning single were the only other hits Kobel permitted.

Red Sox bomb White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Rick Burleson's inside-the-park two-run homer and a two-run upper deck shot by Jim Rice powered Dennis Eckersley and the Boston Red Sox to an 11-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday night.

Burleson's fourth home run of the season capped a three-run third inning. It came when right fielder Claudell Washington attempted a diving, one-handed catch of a line drive. Washington, who suffered a groin injury on the play, remained sprawled on the ground as Burleson circled the bases.

The Red Sox added three runs in both the fourth and fifth innings, with Carl Yastrzemski's two-run double keying the fifth. It was the 1,000th career extra-base hit for Yastrzemski, the 15th player in major league history to reach that mark.

Quality horse racing setting records at Ruidoso Downs

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — The quality of horses now campaigning at Ruidoso Downs is the best in the track's history, and General Manager Woody Erwin expects the current season to be another record-breaker.

Indicative of this trend, Erwin notes, was last Sunday's handle of $482,599 — which was a solid gain over the $446,557 recorded on the same Sunday last year.

The current season, from a mutual standpoint, is going very well, and we feel last Sunday's mutual strength is an indication of things to come," Erwin said.

So far this season, the gross handle, from 18 race days, stands at $6,641,109 — which is a gain of $261,588 over the gross handle recorded last year at this time. Last year, of course, was the best season, mutual-wise, in the track's history.

At this point last year, Erwin noted, 17 race days were run, and the total handle stood at $6,379,521.

Lake Spence report

Striped bass continued to be the dominant species mentioned in fishing reports at Lake E.V. Spence, but during the past week there also were some impressive catches of catfish.

The top striper of the week was a 15-pounder landed by Ronald Dennis, Odessa. Scott Trammell, Joshua, caught a 25-lb. yellow catfish and a 20-lb. blue catfish. Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Morris, Big Spring, landed 16 and 18-lb. yellow catfish.

Reports included: Skinny's Grocery — Paul Powers, Winters, a 9-lb. striper; Ronald Dennis, Odessa, two stripers to 15 lbs.; Fred Jobe, Lubbock, Kenneth Dudensing, Sweetwater, five stripers to 14 lbs.; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Trammel, and Weldon Trammel, Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Trammell, Joshua, four yellow catfish to 25 lbs., two blue catfish to 20-lb., 35 smaller channel and other catfish, and two stripers to 7 lbs.

Wildcat Fish A Rama — Gary Wideman, Sweetwater, 3-lb. striper; Dr. Robert Hampton and Hadley Hampton, Sweetwater, four stripers to 10 lbs.

Paint Creek Marina — Joyce and Bob Dawson, Lubbock, seven stripers to 10-lb.; Deann and Terry Carpenter, Seminole, two stripers to 3-lb.; Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Morris, and son, Big Spring, 50 channel catfish, also 16 and 18-lb. yellow catfish; Dwain Bishop, Lubbock, 8-lb. striper.

Phillies nip Reds by a Rose

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Manny Trillo, playing for the first time since fracturing a wrist bone May 5, doubled to open the last of the ninth and scored on a bases-loaded walk to Pete Rose as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Cincinnati Reds 4-3 Saturday night.

After Trillo's double, his first hit of the night, pinch-hitter Greg Gross's sacrifice bunt attempt bounced over pitcher Doug Bair's head for a single, Trillo advancing to third. Bob Boone then walked, loading the bases.

That brought up Rose, who after 16 years played out his option in Cincinnati last season and signed with the Phillies. Bair threw four straight balls to Rose, forcing home Trillo with the winning run.

Reliever Tug McGraw, who pitched two-thirds of an inning, was credited with his third victory against no losses. Bair lost his first decision after three triumphs.

McCovey's bat keys Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey belted his fourth homer in three games Saturday, a 425-foot two-run shot that powered the San Francisco Giants to a 6-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The home run gave the 41-year-old slugger 11 for the season and 516 for his career, most by a left-handed hitter in National League history. All of McCovey's homers this season have come since May 16.

John Curtis, 2-3, blanked the Cardinals for six innings and finished with a five-hitter.

The Giants jumped on loser Silvio Martinez, 4-2, for a run in the first inning. Bill North led off with an infield hit, stole second, continued to third on catcher Steve Swisher's throwing error and scored on Rob Andrews' sacrifice fly.

Sparky still seeking first win

DETROIT (AP) — Pinch-hitter Joe Rudi and Tom Donohue delivered eighth-inning singles off Detroit relief ace John Hiller Saturday, giving the California Angels a 4-2 victory and sending winless Sparky Anderson down to his third defeat as manager of the Tigers.

Willie Aikens singled with one out in the California eighth and went to second as Downing walked. Hiller relieved starter Jack Morris, 4-3, and Rudi, batting for Larry Harlow, singled on Hiller's first pitch to score Aikens.

After a wild pitch advanced the runners, Grich was intentionally walked to load the bases and Donohue singled to score Downing.

Dave Frost, 4-3, allowed five hits in 8 1-3 innings before Dave LaRoche got Jason Thompson to hit into a game-ending double play following a single by Steve Kemp. Thompson hit solo homers in the fourth and seventh innings for Detroit's runs. They were his seventh and eighth homers of the season.

Yount's single sinks Royals

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Robin Yount's eighth-inning single scored Ben Oglivie with the winning run Saturday, lifting the Milwaukee Brewers to a 3-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Oglivie led off the eighth with a single off Steve Busby, 2-4, took second on a sacrifice and raced home when Yount slapped a ground ball just beyond the reach of diving first baseman George Scott.

Busby carried a four-hitter into the seventh when the Brewers tied it 2-2 as Paul Molitor led off with a double, advanced on a sacrifice and scored on a double by Cecil Cooper. Busby pitched out of further trouble when he picked Cooper off second and struck out Gorman Thomas.

Indians scalp Seattle Mariners

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ted Cox delivered a run-scoring pinch single with the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Cleveland Indians a 4-3 decision over the Seattle Mariners Saturday night.

Toby Harrah led off the ninth with a single off John Montague, 4-1. Bobby Bonds walked and Rick Manning hit a fly ball off reliever Byron McLaughlin that sent Harrah to third.

Mike Hargrove was intentionally walked to load the bases before Cox came through with his game-winning hit.

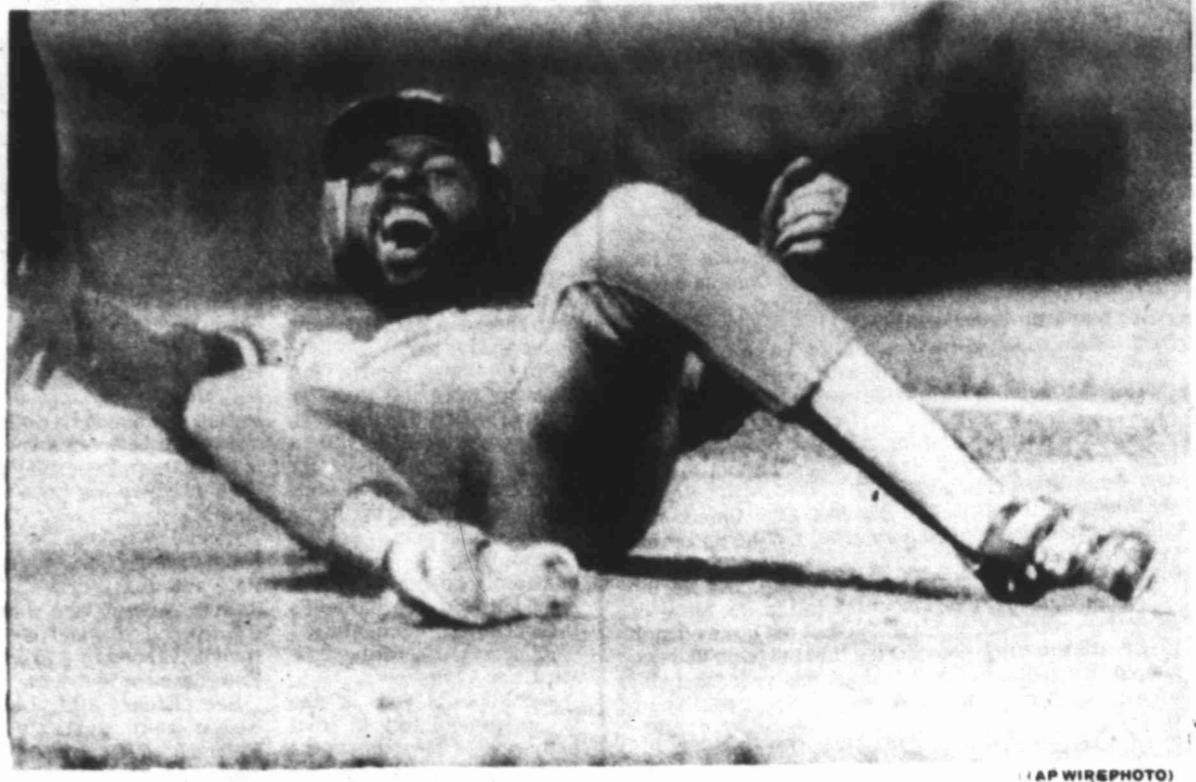

Winner Sid Monge, 6-5, pitched the ninth inning for the Indians and gave up only an infield single.

Blalock leading Locust LPGA

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Jane Blalock birdied the first three holes Saturday and stormed to a five-stroke lead after three rounds of the $100,000 Ladies Professional LITTLE HOLDING ON TO SECOND — Sally Little, of Dallas, Texas, follows the putt she just made on the 9th green in LPGA action at Locust Hill Country Club today. With a score of 5 under par, she continues in 2nd place going onto the back nine.

HAPPINESS IS AN INSIDE THE PARK HOME RUN — Kansas City's Willie Wilson comes up with a wide smile after he slid across home plate with a ninth-inning inside the park home run against the Brewers Friday night in Milwaukee.

The home run, Wilson's second three-run homer of the night, gave the Royals a 14-11 come from behind victory. Kansas City scored eight runs in the ninth inning.

Randolph's single defeats Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Willie Randolph slashed a 10th-inning single to score Bucky Dent from second base and the New York Yankees inflicted a loss on former teammate Sparky Lyle by beating the Texas Rangers 3-2 Saturday night.

Dent led off the 10th with a single off Lyle and moved to second on a sacrifice by Mickey Rivers. Randolph then greeted Texas relief ace Jim Kern with a single to right field to deliver the run that ended the Yankees' three-game losing streak.

Yankee reliever Ron Davis, who came on in the ninth to bail starter Luis Tiant out of a big jam, notched his fifth victory against no losses. Lyle, 3-6, had relieved Texas starter Dave Rajsich, another ex-Yankee, in the seventh.

The Rangers took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning on Pat Putnam's seventh homer of the year. The Yankees tied it in the fifth when Bucky Dent hit his first homer since his three-run blow in last season's American League East playoff game in Boston.

In the Rangers' fifth, Nelson Norman singled and Bill Sample brought him home with a looping triple down the right field line.

Right fielder Lou Piniella made a diving try for the ball but it hit his glove and trickled down the right-field foul line. The Yankees chased Rajsich, seeking his first major league victory, in the seventh. Former Ranger Juan Beniquez tied it when he hit a one-out homer and Rajsich was promptly replaced by Lyle.

The Rangers loaded the bases with one out in bottom of the ninth but Davis got pinch hitter John Ellis to ground into a double play.

Italy leading in Davis Cup

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Italy led Poland 2-1 after winning the doubles Saturday in their Davis Cup quarterfinal series.

Italy's Corrado Barazzutti and Adriano Panatta beat Wojtek Fibak and Tadeusz Nowicki 6-1, 4-6, 14-12, 6-2. The countries split their opening singles Friday.

Bonnett takes pole position

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — Neil Bonnett, who hours earlier captured the pole position for Sunday's 400-mile Grand National stock car race, roared back Saturday afternoon to win a bruising 100-mile qualifying race for the 1979-80 International Race of Champions series.

Bonnett, who was the winner last March in the 1978-79 IROC finale at Atlanta, edged out Bobby Allison by less than a car length. Darrell Waltrip was a few feet behind Allison.

Clements exempts foster children from UIL ruling
 AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has signed into law a bill that exempts foster children from the University Interscholastic League's residency rule.

The bill marks the first time in recent history that the Legislature has interfered with the UIL, the statewide arbiter of public school sports and other extra-curricular activities. UIL Director Bailey Marshall had asked Clements to veto the bill, but it was signed Monday without notice. The UIL did not learn until a reporter contacted the organization Friday that the bill had been signed.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, introduced the bill after stories were published that a 15-year-old foster child wanted to play football this fall when he enrolls as a high school junior at Lorena, a farming community south of Waco. The boy, whom state law prevents from being identified, was a tackle last year on a junior varsity team at Corsicana, where he was a resident of the state orphans' home for six years.

The Lorena High School coach reportedly wants him on the team, but a UIL rule requires a year's residency before a new student who is not a senior can play varsity football. He can play on the junior varsity team again or try another sport, but the rule

Anderson promises a World Series

DETROIT (AP) — It looked incongruous to see Sparky Anderson in the blue-trimmed white uniform of the Detroit Tigers rather than Cincinnati's flaming red, but there was no mistaking the man himself. Eloquent, his California-bronzed face beaming under a full head of silver hair. Obviously so happy he was bursting at the seams. It seemed he couldn't smile enough. He couldn't shake enough hands. He couldn't quit responding to unending salutes. A 9-year-old kid walks up for an autograph. A lady wants a Sparky Anderson signature for her father on Father's Day. "Welcome, wsparky, glad to have you!" people yelled. Sparky was back home — and happy. Not the home that he had festooned with National League and World Series trophies — but home, nevertheless. He was back on the field as a manager. "The pressure is behind me," he said. "The book is closed on the past. Let history and the people of Cincinnati decide what kind of manager I was. "Now I am taking over what I think is the finest young talent in baseball. I have a chance to put my imprint on the team — I never really felt that way at Cincinnati. I was naive. I always felt — as the people did — that the Reds were a team of stars and were supposed to win. "I am no genius. I intend to give the kids a chance to play baseball. If it backfires, I'll pay the dues. I'll accept full blame — not these kids. "But let me tell you something. I don't have lightning in the bottle. But if they keep me — and I hope to God they do — I promise you this: I'll have Detroit in the World Series."

MONTGOMERY WARD

Tony Dorsett's fiancee dies of mysterious ailment

DALLAS (AP) — Gigi Clayton had many things going for her—she was beautiful, an honors student, a debutante, and had a football hero who loved her and wanted to marry her.

The 18-year-old also had one thing going against her—a mysterious ailment that claimed her life last Friday.

Miss Clayton was the person who "taught me how to fall in love," said grieving Dallas Cowboys running back Tony Dorsett, who planned to announce his engagement to Miss Clayton in August.

The storybook life came to an end late last Friday night in the intensive care ward of Parkland Hospital. She was buried Wednesday. Hundreds of friends came from the University of Houston where she attended business technology class and from Dallas high schools she attended.

Dallas Cowboys football stars Ed "Too Tall" Jones, Tony Hill and Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson were honorary pall bearers.

Dorsett, who leaned into her coffin to kiss her goodby, said "I keep telling myself she's not dead."

"She and I had made so many plans together. Gigi was so full of life," Dorsett, a Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Pittsburgh, said.

"She'll always live within me."

Miss Clayton and Dorsett met at a Christmas party last year and dated for the first time a week later.

"She and Tony had plans. Everybody knew it was coming. It must have been some kind of strong relationship," said Ezra Clayton, the girl's father.

"They were just drawn together."

Everything was going fine until just after Memorial Day. The Clayton family attended a cookout at Dorsett's expensive estate near Wylie and the next day Gigi drove Dorsett to the airport so he could catch a flight to California.

She first became ill the next day while driving around Dallas in Dorsett's Mercedes-Benz. She returned home, complaining of a strange feeling in her extremities.

Mrs. Ora Clayton, the girl's mother, said she told her daughter to go to sleep and arranged an appointment with Dr. Dudley V. Powell.

"We thought that she had a nervous problem, but we couldn't figure out what it was," Dr. Powell said. He said she complained of headaches and he found her hands and feet to be cold.

Dr. Powell said she was hyperventilating, breathing too fast.

The doctor prescribed thyroid pills and urged her to start eating full meals.

On Friday June 1, she was supposed to pick up Dorsett at the airport, but was unable to do so and sent her brother, Gary Clayton, 23, instead.

The brother brought Dorsett to the house where they found she was barely able to walk.

Dorsett and the girl's brother took her to St. Paul Hospital to see Dr. Powell again.

"It was the same problem, except now she couldn't walk," the doctor said.

"I ran blood tests, thyroid tests—every kind of test. I couldn't find a thing," the doctor added.

The next day she was paralyzed.

"Her speech was going. It was hard to understand her at times," Dorsett said.

In the following days, Miss Clayton saw a neurological specialist, but still nothing could be pinned down as the cause of the mysterious ailment, said Dr. Powell.

"He went over her with a fine tooth comb, gave her all the tests—everything. All proved to be negative, prompting the specialist to agree that the problem had to be emotional," Dr. Powell continued.

Dorsett and the Clayton family took her home again. Dorsett stayed, trying to make her comfortable.

"He'd pick her up off the bed and set her down one way, then she'd say that way wouldn't feel right. He'd move her a different way, then a different way," the mother recalled.

"I remember Tony and I were standing next to her bed. She looked over and told him 'I love you.' And she looked at me and said 'I love you.' She could barely talk, and we told her we loved her, too," the mother said.

When the girl went to sleep, Dorsett left. The sleep was brief. She awakened, the mother recalled, saying "Where's Tony?"

"She must have known something."

Later, the girl broke out in a heavy sweat and asked her mother to call an ambulance. She died a short time later in the intensive care unit at Parkland Hospital.

The cause of her death remains a mystery. Family members were to be given a report on the autopsy today.

"It's such a mystery and I tell you it's tough. I was in love with her. I wanted to marry her," Dorsett said.

"She and I made so many plans that was unreal. And when I'm sitting down thinking about what happened, it just gets to me, man," he continued.

"I want to go home and spend maybe two or three weeks and get my head straight. I can't sleep. I can't do anything," Dorsett concluded.

DIES — Gigi Clayton, 18, whose engagement to Dallas Cowboys running back Tony Dorsett was to have been announced in August, died in Dallas, Texas a week ago. Miss Clayton had a mysterious ailment that claimed her life.

Big Spring BMX track to host stop on national tour June 27

On Tuesday June 26 the Midland-Odessa BMX track on Highway 90, 1 mile east of the Midland airport, is going to crackle with the hottest BMX action Texas has ever seen. And the next day, June 27 the Big Spring BMX park on Highway 87, 6 miles south of Big Spring, is going to erupt with the same white-hot competition. These two races are the second and third of a series which is taking the hot shoes of the BMX world from one end of the country to the other.

Nearly 300 riders are expected to participate in these two races which make up a part of this year's most prestigious BMX event — the NBA-Schwinn Tour. Registration and the BMX seminars for Midland-Odessa start at 5:00 p.m.; racing will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. and the action will continue throughout the evening. The racing at Big Spring will start at 4:00 p.m. sharp, but registration and race seminars begin at 1:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Schwinn Bicycle Company and sanctioned by the National Bicycle Association, the tour is bicycle motocross racing at its finest.

America's top rider will be there. The awesome Factory Team Schwinn riders —

Kevin Jackson, Richard Zagars, Chuck Houde, Mark Pippin and Don Atherton — will all be riding at their typical ultrasonic speed five riders, who have been cleaning up all over the west coast, are probably the slickest team in the country. However, the eagle-winged "Stompin" Stu Thompson is expected, the classy Bobby Encinas is certain to show, and the new Sun Tour Team, the Shimano Team and a host of other dazzling stars will be tearing up the track.

The Big Spring date will be the third on the summer tour. The second stop will be in Odessa. From Big Spring, the action progresses to Dallas, Wichita Falls, Shawnee, Oklahoma; Houston; New Orleans, and then onto Bradenton, Florida, for the East Coast activities. Big Spring is extremely fortunate to host a stop on the national tour.

Willie Nelson turns actor

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Fading, tattered T-shirts proclaim: "Matthew, Mark, Luke and Willie."

This Willie fellow counts President Carter among his disciples, too. He gets invited to the White House often. Willie Nelson, a serene, gentle, 46-year-old grandfather, has taken basic country music and fused it with blues and rock to become a premier stylist in musical history.

And his hybrid music has touched people all the way from the president of the United States to the young people who jam Nelson concerts to pay him unending loyalty. His appeal cuts across boundaries like an overzealous lumberjack.

Music, to Nelson, is an adventure. He's no staid disciple of duty to musical pigeonholes. Just when some were tabbing him "the king of country music," there was a reincarnation and Nelson released an album of venerable pop standards by Irving Berlin, George Gershwin, Duke Ellington, Hoagy Carmichael and others.

Now this bearded apostle has added another dimension to his career — movies. He's completed a film called "The Electric Horseman" with Robert Redford and Jane Fonda. This fall he plans to star in another movie, "Sad Songs and Waltzes."

Acting and singing are similar, he said in an interview. "You have lyrics either way. There's a certain MOVIE TIME — Country music singer Willie Nelson has finished making a movie with Robert Redford and Jane Fonda. He says acting and singing are similar because both involve lyrics and rhythm.

But acting represents a slowdown in the peppy pace he maintains as a country music troubador. "You do a lot of talking about everything before you make a movie," he said. "It's a lot slower than doing a string of one-nighters. You wait a long time for the cameras to get ready just so you can do your 30 seconds. But it's easy from then on if you know your lines. It's really fun. I like it."

Redford, he said, is interested in the lead role in a movie based on the Nelson album "Red Headed Stranger."

"He's fantastic," Nelson said. "He taught me a lot about acting just by being around him."

Nelson, whose casual dress often includes bandannas, sneakers and T-shirts, has been at the White House a half-dozen times since Carter took office.

"He just likes my music," Nelson said. "I'm told he takes my 'Stardust' and 'Troublemaker' albums wherever he goes. That's nice of anyone, but since he's president, that's very special."

PROPHECY — Robert Foxworth and Talia Shire in a scene from Paramount Pictures' suspense thriller, "Prophecy." Foxworth, who has been delivering accomplished performances during the past decade, will have his best shot at the bigtime as he stars in "Prophecy." His role as a health service scientist who discovers something frightening in the Maine woods is his best.

Foxworth stars in 'Prophecy'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Summer forecast for moviegoers: chilly conditions ahead.

Twentieth Century-Fox already is busting records with "Alien," featuring an outerspace creature that scares viewers witless. Paramount is launching a widespread June release of "Prophecy," a thriller about an ecological time bomb. And Universal has "Dracula" waiting thirstily in the wings.

Robert Foxworth stars in "Prophecy," along with Talia Shire, and it's the best shot at the bigtime for the Houston born actor who has been delivering accomplished performances during his decade in Hollywood. His role as a health service scientist who discovers something frightening in the Maine woods is not only his best. It was almost his last.

"I came very close to 'buying it,'" he recalled. "We were shooting a segment on a mountain road in British Columbia in which I was riding in the back of a converted military vehicle. All I had to do was stand up and look; it was not intended to be a stunt at all."

"All of a sudden the truck tipped off the road and rolled over three times. If I had stayed where I was, the roll cage would have taken my head off. I jumped. There were two camera crews down the hill, and one would have been crushed if the key grip (stagehand) hadn't pulled the camera away in time."

"Two people were hurt, and I was so happy to be alive that I was willing to go back to work. But John said, 'That's a wrap for the day.'"

He referred to John Frankenheimer, who directed "Prophecy" with secrecy akin to a CIA caper. "I think it was a good idea," observed Foxworth. "That way, the picture wouldn't be ripped off as a television movie."

CB convention coming

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you are going to be in Washington the weekend of June 29-July 1, you might want to drop by the 1st International Convention of CBers.

Just like a local jamboree, it'll feature speeches by government officials and CB organizations, panels on CB and other personal radio use and exhibits of radio, camping and boating equipment.

There'll also be dances the nights of June 29 and 30, and shows by country music stars Donna Fargo on June 29 and Johnny Duncan on July 1 at the Washington Hilton Hotel, the convention headquarters.

The Federal Communications Commission will have representatives to discuss single sideband CB radio and the General Mobile Radio Service on June 30, and the new Personal Radio Service on July 1.

The Field Operations Bureau, which enforces FCC rules, will display on June 29 and 30 one of the vans it uses to monitor CB and other radio transmissions.

And the FCC's Office of Science and Technology will provide its radio-television interference exhibit each of the three days and staff it with an engineer to answer questions.

An afternoon panel on June 30 will discuss emergency radio communications. Participants will include representatives from the Department of Transportation, the Coast Guard, the Maryland and Michigan State and District of Columbia police departments and REACT groups.

Susan Blazavich, the convention organizer, says CB groups from as far as California and Washington state, and from Ottawa and Nova Scotia, Canada, have chartered buses to bring their members.

The net proceeds from the convention will go to the American Lung Association, she says.

Why have a national CB convention? "Well, I've been a member of Marietta (Ohio) CB organizations for six years," Mrs. Blazavich says, "but we could never get everyone from the government and industry out there together to answer our questions about CB."

The national convention, she says, "will be an opportunity for all CBers to visit on a personal basis with those who make and enforce our nation's laws and influence the use of CB channels."

For more information, write CB'ers, 1714 Massachusetts Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20036, or phone 202-785-1041.

VILLAGE AT THE SPRING A SUBDIVISION TO THE CITY OF BIG SPRING, TEXAS EXCLUSIVE RESIDENTIAL LOTS BEAUTIFUL TOWNHOUSE TYPE CONDOMINIUMS

The Village at the Spring is not just another subdivision that has lots to build on, but a diverse community where it is difficult to maintain yards, and long on lovely condominiums and townhomes. Minimum yard maintenance is the key word in the planning and the zoning of the land. Natural growth left as it has always been, is encouraged at every turn on lots, by ways, along planned paths and the shore area of Conanche Trail Lake. The vistas created for the lots on these natural paths and the lake against the nearby mountains, with the historic "big spring", the part of the city's skyline, is unequalled in West Texas anywhere.

New district courts axed Airlines measure vetoed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said today he had vetoed the Southwest Airline bill as he promised Dallas and Fort Worth officials earlier. He also confirmed that he had vetoed the omnibus courts bill that would have created 20 new district courts throughout the state.

The two vetoes were on a long list of vetoes announced by Clements' office. The governor said he vetoed the courts bill (HB1626) because it departed from the tradition that Texas governors get to appoint judges to new courts. Nine of the proposed new courts would have had their judges elected in the 1980 elections before they began operating.

The new courts would have included four in Houston, two in Dallas and three in San Antonio plus one each in Hidalgo, Jefferson, Travis, Fort Bend, Williamson and Walker counties. There also would have been five multi-county courts. The so-called Southwest Airlines bill (SB772) would have prevented Dallas or Houston from denying access to any air carrier to any public airport for flights of less than 600 miles. Clements said that Southwest Airlines' desire to serve Dallas Love Field with interstate "violates the spirit and letter of agreement between the two cities in establishing the Regional Airport."

Other vetoes made by Clements included: SB389, to allow cities lying in two or more counties to hold local option liquor elections. However, Clements said, the bill also validated all prior elections and proceedings which was "an unjustified risk."

SB124, raising the mandatory retirement age for state employees from 65 to 70. However, Clements said, the bill also would allow a retired district judge to receive retirement pay one year, then practice law the next year by getting out of the retirement program.

HB1619, a bill making several changes in commercial shrimp seasons and limits for shrimp boats. However, Clements said, a Senate amendment added to the bill a provision creating the Fisheries Management Council "which apparently could not get passed by itself." He said this was totally unnecessary because it would duplicate work already being done by the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

HB1082, a bill that would allow all types of local governments to be self-insured. However, Clements said, a Senate amendment changed the original intent of the bill. As passed it would allow local governments to self-insure without having to comply with any of the safeguards provided in state law. "This bill provides no limitation as to the amount of exposure nor a requirement that the exposure be funded in a manner that is actuarially sound," Clements said.

SB785, special masters for district courts of Dallas County. SB861, notification to the clerk of a trial court. SB491, lengthen the hunting season in Sea Rim State Park. Clements said the Parks and Wildlife Commission already had the power to allow a longer season.

SB164, to require plumbing work done outside cities in counties of more than 100,000 by licensed plumbers. "I can imagine how unhappy farmers would be to do some plumbing work around their farm and have a city plumbing inspector give them a citation," Clements said.

be required to take any course or exam. Although the purposes of the bill are noble it is questionable if the public would be protected one bit."

HB1733, to allow local housing authorities issue bonds for acquiring mortgage loans. Clements noted he had already signed two bills concerning housing for lower and moderate income families. One, SB296, established a state agency to obtain federal housing grants and the other, HB1876, allow cities to establish non-profit corporations to issue housing bonds.

Tipping earns fellowship
Thirteen teachers from the West Texas OIC Area were named to receive fellowships to attend the 22nd Annual Petroleum Institute for Educators being held June 11 to 29 at the University of Houston.

Field has producer
The Credo, West (Wolf-camp oil and gas) field of Glasscock County gained its second oil producer and a location southeast extension to that pay with completion of Lingen Exploration, Inc., Houston, No. 1 Cox-Horwood, 3/4-mile south-southwest of the gas opener and lone producer from that pay and 15 miles northeast of Garden City, to pump 11 barrels of 41 gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 90,900-1.

Production was through perforations at 7,513-649 feet, which had been acidized with 5,000 gallons. A re-entry operation, it was cleaned out to old total depth of 8,348 feet, where 4 1/2-inch casing was set, and plugged back to 7,707 feet. Originally drilled by John L. Cox, Midland, as the No. 1 Horwood, it was abandoned Dec. 20, 1977.

Location is 1,320 feet from the north and 660 feet from the west lines of 25-30-W&NW. The oil opener, Lingen Exploration No. 1 Cox-Horwood, was finished March 26 for 116 barrels of 42 gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 1,379-1, through a 20-64-inch choke and perforations at 7,555-711 feet.

Special course is scheduled
The Adult and Continuing Education Department of Howard College has announced a two week Reading Improvement course for students in the sixth grade through High School level. The class will begin Monday and end June 29. Class will be held from 9:30-11:30 a.m., Monday through Friday morning. The class will meet in the Reading Lab located in the Howard College Administration Building.

Anne Vouillon will be the instructor for the course. Mrs. Vouillon has had experience as a Reading Lab director for the Webb Air Force Base Education Department. She also held the position of teacher coordinator for the Adult Basic Education program at the Big Spring State Hospital.

The curriculum of the two-week course is designed to help those students who need to brush-up some skills which will improve their reading ability. This course is not designed as a remedial reading course. Cost of the course is $20.00. A book will not be required for the course. The class will be limited to 20 students. For more information, please call 267-6311, ext. 70. Interested persons must pre-register in the Continuing Education office located in the Horace Garrett Building.

Ricky, Steve, Charlie 'worked' for their Father's Day gifts

Lamaze method includes fathers, too

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

Steve Shugrue "fought back tears" when he witnessed the birth of his first-born son June 10, one week before Father's Day.

His presence in the delivery room enabled him to be a working part of the birth of his baby, securing a bond between him, his wife and their baby, that up until the last few years, not many fathers have experienced.

More and more, couples are turning to the Lamaze method of childbirth — a method aimed at getting the father-to-be out of the waiting room and into delivery room as an active part during labor and delivery.

Diane Austin, ADN program instructor at Howard College, teaches Lamaze classes at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

She says an average of 13-15 couples attend the sessions which last six weeks.

"The father doesn't actually realize his wife is going to have a baby until it gets here. Through the Lamaze method, he becomes more aware of what's going on within his wife and he becomes a working part of the process," explained Mrs. Austin.

During the classes, couples learn the physiology of pregnancy. The changes taking place in the woman's body are explained.

"I tell them why they're back hurts and why they have indigestion; general things like that. Then we go through the four phases of labor and watch a delivery film."

Husbands become actively involved in the Lamaze classes by helping their wives with exercises. However, the major part of the classes are spent practicing breathing and relaxation techniques.

"During labor," stated Mrs. Austin, "a woman's contractions are much more intense if she is not relaxed. It is the husband's job to see that his wife is always relaxed and that she keeps her eye on one main focal point."

Mrs. Austin suggests they stare at a button on their husband's shirt or a spot on the wall to help keep their mind off of the contraction. Couples learn three breathing techniques and one pushing technique.

According to the ADN teacher, the highest level of breathing technique should be used when the most concentration is needed.

Mrs. Austin advises her students to take medication for pain if they need it in order to gain better control of the situation.

"Sometimes the pain becomes so intense that a woman will lose com-

BREATHE, BREATHE, BREATHE — One of the main purposes of the Lamaze method of childbirth is to get the soon-to-be mother's attention on something other than her contraction. The father-to-be plays a very important role in the coaching of her, making him a working part of labor and delivery. Here, Diane Austin, instructor, explains a new breathing technique to a couple taking the class.

plete control. If she will take the least amount of medication she needs, her whole purpose of taking the Lamaze classes will not be defeated and she will be awake and alert during the birth of her child."

Another important benefit prospective parents receive out of the Lamaze method is the understanding and realization of everything that is to take place.

"The more a couple knows going into childbirth, the less they fear. Many women are scared because they've listened to their grannies tell how awful it was. Nobody knows," explained Diane, "until they experience it themselves."

Couples are also educated on the different types of medication available during labor and delivery.

The Lamaze classes are a free service at Malone-Hogan and not just limited to patients of the hospital.

"We allow couples who plan to have their babies elsewhere attend the classes also, if we have room," said Diane.

When Linda Shugrue went into labor, she began with the highest level breathing technique.

Steve says he wasn't much help to Linda.

"I was telling her to breath when she was supposed to push and telling her to push when she was supposed to breath," recalls the new father.

But according to Linda, it made all the difference in the world by him just being there.

"I really believe the Lamaze classes helped, though," said Steve.

"Linda would get a much more intense look of pain on her face when she was distracted from her breathing. Breathing gave her more control."

After only three hours of labor, Linda gave birth to 7 pound 6 ounce Timothy Landon at 5:54 a.m.

"I couldn't have asked for a nicer Father's Day present," concluded Steve.

Another couple, Barbara and Ricky Stone also had their baby through the Lamaze method.

"We had more fun at class," stated Barbara. "Diane was a great teacher and she made everything so interesting."

The night before Barbara had her baby, she and Ricky saw a film at the Lamaze class concerning delivery.

"After watching the film, I was totally reassured. It did away with any fears I had," confessed the mother of Stephanie Marie who was born May 15 at 6:14 p.m. (A little late for Mother's day but early enough to make Father's Day.)

"Ricky was right there the whole time. He timed my contractions with a clock. Breathing helped keep me in control and Ricky being at my side reassured me," remembers Barbara.

When proud new papa Ricky asked what he thought about the miracle of birth, he replied, "It was neat. Nothing can ever take the place of that experience."

Shelley and Charlie Ebarb didn't have quite as easy of a time, but both agree without the Lamaze method, it would have been that much worse.

"Charlie was so proud after Eric was born. He held him right after he was born in the delivery room. I can remember while I was in labor telling Charlie to do all sorts of things. He was always right there when I needed him. Labor is probably as hard on the father as it is the mother," concluded Shelley.

Their son was born June 13 at 12:49 a.m.

All three of these first-time fathers have been a part of the most astounding miracle of all — the birth of a child, something they have as much right to be a part of as the mother.

Each has now become a father responsible for a little tiny human life; a task Steve Shugrue says isn't going to be easy.

"As complicated as things are today, it's hard enough for adults to keep on the right track. It's probably that much harder to steer a child straight," he explained.

New father Ricky Stone believes that the early years of a child's life are the most important.

"All we can do is to teach her right from wrong and let her make her own decisions and just pray to God she makes the right ones."

Being a unique part in the birth of their own baby, Steve, Ricky and Charlie have experienced something that will be a part of them the rest of their lives.

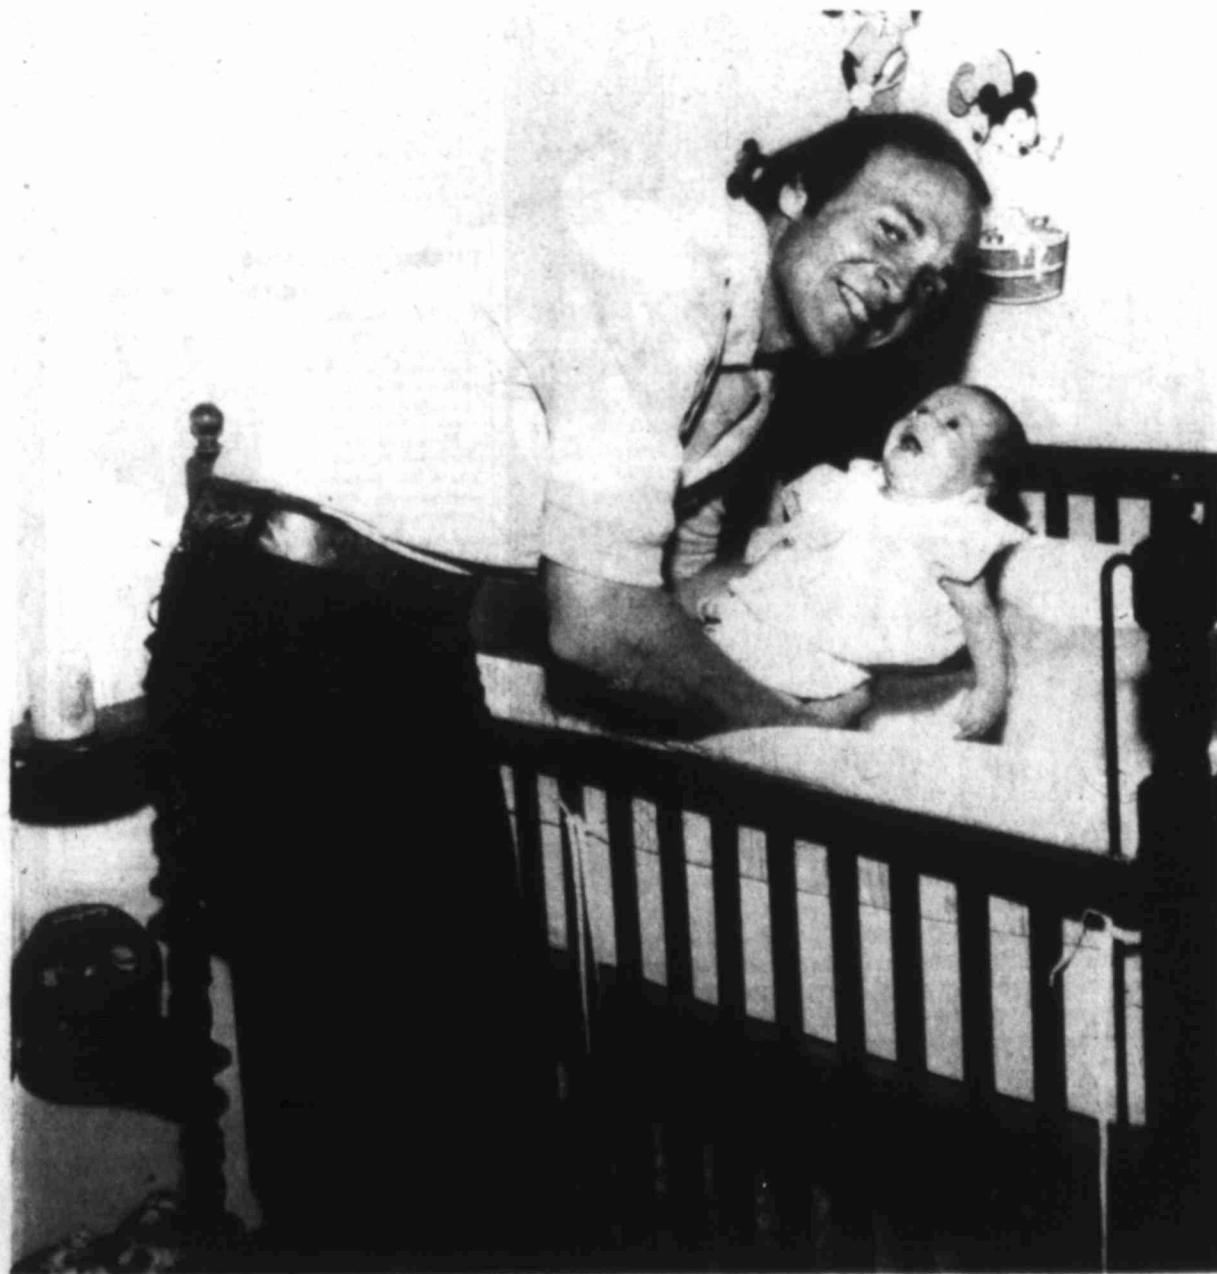

Father's Day now has a whole new meaning.

THE MIRACLE OF BIRTH — Pictured here is Steve Shugrue shortly after the birth of his son, Timothy Landon. Steve said being an active part in his wife's labor and

Trinity Baptist Church setting for ceremony

The Trinity Baptist Church was the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Elizabeth Ann Swindell and Matthew Thomas King.

The Rev. Claude N. Craven, pastor, performed the 3 p.m. double-ring ceremony before a spiral branched candelabrum holding white tapers. Flanking either side of the setting were two greenery trees accented by baskets placed on the steps to the altar. Votive candles and greenery marked the pews and a unity candle completed the scene.

MRS. MATTHEW THOMAS KING

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Swindell, 1001 E. 21st. The groom is the son of Mrs. Bettie Jane King, 1612 Lark, and the late Edward King.

Performing various musical selections were Lathan Wood, organist; Nancy Wood, pianist; and Don Anderson, accompanist. Vocals were provided by the bride's attendants, the groomsmen and the bridal couple.

When given in marriage, the bride was attired in a gown of white chiffon over soft sheen bridal satin. The fitted bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline and full sheer sleeves gathered to long-fitted cuffs designed to form points over the wrist. A deep flounce extending to a chapel-length train accented her flared bridal skirt. She wore a fingertip-length veil which fell gracefully from a caplet adorned with hand-clipped lace which coordinated with trimmings on the veil and train. Her entire ensemble and accessories were designed and made by her mother.

A cascading bouquet of mixed silk flowers in the bride's chosen colors of yellow, lime green and apricot was arranged on an olive wood backed New Testament brought from Jerusalem by the bride's uncle, Lt. Col. (Ret.) Fred Woodson in 1943.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Beverly Bell. Bridesmaids were Patti Swindell, cousin of the bride, Cindy Ellsworth, Romulus, Mich., and Lynn Dye, Orlando, Fla.

They were attired in gowns of yellow and lime green featuring crocheted eyelet inset waists and softly gathered flounced skirts.

They carried mixed arrangements of silk flowers coordinating with the bride's bouquet and were backed by white lace fans.

Lance Fuller, Deer Park, served as best man. Groomsmen were Don Anderson, Baton Rouge, La., Phil Swindell, brother of the bride, and Steve Brooks, Fortson, Ga. Guests were seated by the groomsmen.

Christi Swindell, niece of the bride, wore an apricot gown similar to the bridesmaids and carried a lace basket of silk flowers as she served as flower girl. Kaleb Hammond was ring bearer.

The church fellowship hall was the setting of a reception held in honor of the newlyweds. Becky Cummings, Wichita, Kan., registered guests.

The bride's table was covered with yellow cloth and overlaid with lace. A white net and lace skirt completed the table draping.

The three-tiered cake separated by columns, featured flowers matching those in the bridal bouquet.

Bride and groom figurines, enclosed in a gazebo, topped the cake. Crystal appointments were used by servers Donna Swindell, cousin of the bride, and Debbie Fritts.

The groom's table was draped with cream-colored cloth and set with gold appointments. The traditional Old English hexagon-shaped chocolate groom's cake was served by Mary Jane Wright and Tammy Newsom.

The groom's aunt and uncle were hosts for dinner at the KC Steak House Friday night following rehearsal.

The bride is a 1977 Big Spring High School graduate and has attended Arlington Baptist College for two years. The groom graduated from Big Spring High School in 1974 and is a 1978 Arlington Baptist College graduate. He is presently the director of youth and music at Central Baptist Church in Deer Park.

The couple will make their home in Deer Park upon returning from a wedding trip to Fort Worth.

Can a woman get turned on by a stranger?

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you've heard a lot of men complain because their wives are cold and unresponsive. May I tell you about my marriage?

My husband and I both work. In the evening I try to draw him into a conversation by asking about his work. His answers are short and dull. I try to generate conversation by telling him about my work, but he's clearly bored.

I've tried to discuss the news, politics, and even make small talk about people we know, but he cuts me short and picks up a newspaper, magazine or turns on the TV.

On Sunday he likes to stay home and watch whatever sport is on TV. After that more TV. Then he starts looking for an affectionate bed partner. Abby, I wonder how many women can get turned on by a stranger she hasn't talked to all week?

ICE-COLD CONNIE

DEAR CONNIE: Maybe when he says 'Hello' he's told you all he knows.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (25 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Bride-elect feted at recent shower

Carla Walker, bride-elect of Paul Harrold, was honored June 12 with a miscellaneous bridal shower at the Salem Baptist Church.

Hostesses for the occasion included Mrs. Wendell Walker, Mrs. Carroll Walker, Mrs. Jerrold Walker, Mrs. Woner Robinson, Mrs. Stella Brooks, Mrs. Leroy Walker, Mrs. Jan East, Mrs. Rodney Brooks, Mrs. Ronnie Wood, Mrs. Danny Walker, Mrs. A.L. Gatewood and Mrs. Marty Brooks.

A hand-made white, crocheted tablecloth of lace draped the refreshment table enhanced with a pink underlay. A basket floral arrangement accented the setting as centerpiece and was presented to Miss Walker as a gift. She also received an electric skillet and can opener from the hostesses.

Crystal and silver appointments were used and the entertainment area was decorated in pink.

Mrs. Gatewood presided at the gift registry. Guests

Sally Ann Kitchen honored at miscellaneous shower

Sally Ann Kitchen, bride-elect of Mark Brady, was feted with a miscellaneous bridal shower June 11 in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

Hostesses for the 7:30 p.m. event were Mrs. Russ Mauldin, Mrs. Laura Billaba, Mrs. Laverne Morris, Mrs. Rhonda Birdwell and Sharon Bickford.

Mrs. Billaba registered guests at a table draped with white lace cloth. A basket full of daisies greenery and candles complimented the setting.

The reception table was covered with white lace cloth and enhanced by two sterling silver candelabrum brought back from Germany by the prospective bridegroom's father, flanking either side. White cake with mint and pink decorations was served. Silver and Crystal appointments were used.

Guests were seated at tables decorated with base marble hurricane lamps. Special guests attending were the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Keith Brady, Bedford; the prospective bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Mabel Morrison, Big Spring; his aunts, Mrs. Jean Brady, Battle Creek, Mich., and Mrs. Ruth Eddy, Delta Mich., and the bride's mother, Mrs. Ruth Bickford, Big Spring.

The honoree was presented two corsages, one of orchids and the other of pink rosebuds. Mothers of the couple wore mint carnation corsages.

Miss Kitchen and Brady will marry July 7 in the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Gage Lloyd will officiate.

Saturday ceremony unites Rena Koonce and Clayton Hugh Harris

Rena Jeanine Koonce became the bride of Clayton Hugh Harris Saturday evening in the First United Methodist Church, Stanton.

The bride's uncle, Elder Gearl Koonce, Midland, performed the 7 p.m. rite before an arched and spiral candelabrum entwined with greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Koonce, Stanton. The groom is the son of Mrs. Carlynn Harris, Glasscock County.

Wedding music was provided by organist Thadd Koonce, Stanton, uncle of the bride; Dan Wheeler, Independence, Mo., uncle of the bride, soloist; and Randall Koonce, brother of the bride, Stanton, soloist and guitarist.

The bride was presented down the aisle wearing a floor-length white gown featuring an imported re-embroidered lace bodice with spaghetti straps. Her permanently-pleated chiffon skirt fell to a chapel-length train adorned with coordinating lace. A soft flowing cape designed with a high front neckline was fashioned with a V-back and fell to chapel length. She wore a fingertip-length mantilla-style, embroidered veil which was attached to a Juliet Cap.

A bouquet of peach-colored sweetheart roses, daisies and baby's breath accented her attire.

Barbara Koonce, Midland, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Wheeler, Independence, Mo., cousin of the bride; Carolyn Hopper, Stanton; and Joyce Fagon, Casper, Wyo. Each carried a miniature hurricane lamp in a flower arrangement.

Charles Harris, Glasscock County, attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Morgan Cox, Stanton; Darrell Collier, Midland; and Allan Sparks, Big Lake. Wesley Williams, St.

Lawrence, and Sid Batla, St. Lawrence, Kenny Seymour, seated guests.

The bride's cousin, Timberle Koonce of Stanton, served as flower girl and Daniel Koonce brother of the bride, Stanton, was ring bearer.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Harris were feted with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was laid with lace cloth and centered by a flower arrangement around a hurricane lamp. Miniature lamps encircled the arrangement complimenting the scene. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

The groom's table was draped with green cloth. A cowboy figurine surrounded by apricot daisies enhanced the setting. Brass appointments were used.

The bride is a graduate of Stanton High School and has attended College of the Southwest in Hobbs, N.M. The groom is presently engaged in farming and ranching.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to an undisclosed location, the couple will make their home in Glasscock County.

Saturday afternoon wedding ceremony solemnized in Ackerly Methodist Church

The wedding of Kayla Jean Gaskins, Knott, and Thomas Thad McDonnell of Dallas, was solemnized Saturday afternoon at the First United Methodist Church in Ackerly.

Rev. Weldon McCormick, pastor of Aldersgate United Methodist Church in Abilene, performed the 4 p.m. ceremony with Rev. Roy Havens, local pastor, serving as host.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mac Gaskins, Knott, McDonnell's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thad McDonnell, Levelland.

An arrangement of gladioli and mums with a background of palm leaves and English ivy was the focal point of the altar and communion table. Ivy entwined the altar rail and encircled votive candles which were placed in alternate windows. Pews were marked with ribbon bows of candlelight satin.

Ivory tapers in a spiral candelabrum were lighted by Dennis Martin, Ackerly, and Julie Jones, Dennison, both cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Jerry Hall, pianist, and Joe Whitten, vocalist, provided the wedding music for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a traditional, designer original, formal-length gown of ivory satin-finish organza embellished with French Alencon lace used lavishly on the English net bodice fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and long tapered sleeves re-embroidered in the same fashion. The A-line skirt was further enhanced by the elaborate use of Alencon lace to form a wide scalloped border around the hemline and chapel train. Lace on the gown was studded with seed pearls and iridescent beads.

A bridal veil of candlelight imported illusion was bordered with scalloped Alencon lace and applied with scattered re-embroidered lace motifs, extending to waltz length. She wore a veil which fell from a headpiece of jeweled lace.

A hand beaded lace covered Bible adorned with gardenias and stephanotis, was also carried by the bride.

Wendy Allison, Stratford, served as flower girl.

The bride's attendants were Kay Newcomer, Ackerly; Mrs. Kelly Gaskins, Knott, sister-in-law of the bride; Nancy McDonnell, groom's sister of Lubbock; Mrs. Bob Doty, Big Spring; Mrs. Sam Edwards, San Angelo; and Susan Stroud, Modesta, Calif.

Thad McDonnell, father of the groom served as best man. Groomsmen were Jim David of Washington, D.C.; Dave McGahren of San Antonio; Kirk Dooley, Scott Hagar, and Eugene Barnes, all of Dallas.

Ushers were Kelly and Van Gaskins, Knott, brothers of the bride, and Don McDonnell, Levelland, brother of the groom.

Kris Nichols, served as ring bearer. A reception was held in the fellowship hall, where Elaine, Lisa, and Susan Martin, cousins of the bride, served traditional wedding cake which was topped with an arrangement of daisies and smilax.

Presiding at the beverage table centered with a five-branch silver candelabrum holding an arrangement of daisies and mums, were Mrs. Marc Wimpee, Mrs. John Rains, and Susan Coigan. The reception tables were draped in floor-length, tiered, candlelight chiffon cloths. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Mrs. Mike Mathis, Lockney, registered guests. Serving in the house party were Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Peugh, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Roman, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Grantham, Mr. and Mrs.

Alfred Herren, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Perry, Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien Bowling, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. V.J. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cave, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hopper, Mr. and Mrs. M.E. Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Schuelke, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Paul Beall, Mr. and Mrs. John McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Coleman, Mrs. Nina Riddle, Mrs. Bonnie Brown, and Mrs. Abbie Burrow.

Out of town guests were Mrs. H.C. McDonnell, Mrs. Maxine Patterson, both of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jones, Denison; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Allison, Stratford; and Floyd Johnson, Austin.

Following a Caribbean Cruise aboard the Norwegian Cruise Ship, Sunward II, the couple will be at home in Dallas.

The bride is a graduate of Sands High School and Texas Tech University with a B.S. in home economics education. She was president of Vocational Home Economics Teachers Association of Texas, a member of Women's Service Organization, Fashion Board, and was on the Dean's List.

MRS. THOMAS THAD McDONNELL

McDonnell is a graduate of Levelland High School and Texas Tech University. He received a B.B.A. in finance, was on the Dean's List, served as vice-president of Phi Alpha Kappa, was active on the B.A. Council and in Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and served as president of the Independent Soccer League of Lubbock. He is employed in the Professional Development Program of the First National Bank in Dallas.

MRS. TIMOTHY HIGGINS

Miss Hudgins weds Timothy Higgins

Cristi Hudgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hudgins and Timothy Higgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Higgins, were united in marriage Saturday at the First Baptist Church, Coahoma.

Hollis Talley officiated the double-ring ceremony. Music was provided by Nancy Wood, organist, Coahoma; and Mrs. Ronnie Sikes, aunt of the bride, vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose to wear a gown of candlelight peau de soie overlaid with silk chiffon. The fitted bodice, featuring a Queen Anne neckline, was adorned with lace and pearls. Full Bishop sleeves also fashioned the gown which fell gracefully to chapel length. A veil of silk illusion falling from a Juliet cap, completed her bridal ensemble.

She carried a cascading bouquet of butterfly orchids, daisies, carnations and stephanotis sprinkled with baby's breath.

Kerry Swann, Coahoma, attended the bride as maid of honor. Katy Brooks, cousin of the bride, and Julie Higgins, sister of the groom were bridesmaids.

Charles Tindol, Coahoma, attended the groom as best man. David Higgins and Billie Higgins, both brothers of the groom, were groomsmen. James McCutchen and Robby Tindol seated guests.

Candlelighters were Patty Mathis, Lamesa, cousin of the bride and Jana Higgins, Coahoma, sister of the groom. Jennifer Sikes, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl and Christopher Leach, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony, the newlyweds were feted with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

Guests were registered by Toni Hallford, San Angelo, cousin of the bride. The bride's chosen colors of blue and yellow were carried throughout the reception motif. Refreshments were served by Diana Jones, Penny Huckabee, Cindy Fryar, Mrs. Richard Bumgarner and Donna Mathis.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Coahoma High School. The groom is employed by the Western Company, in Hobbs, N.M. where the couple will make their home.

MRS. CLARENCE PALMER

Ceremony performed in Crestview Baptist

The Crestview Baptist Church was the setting of the Friday evening candlelight ceremony uniting Susan LaDell Musgrove and Clarence Daniel Palmer. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jerry Musgrove Sr., 1312 Stadium; and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Raymond Palmer, 1416 Stadium.

Dr. Wayne Stephens, pastor, performed the 7:30 p.m. rite before an altar decorated with a superb arrangement of gladiolus, daisies and jade foliage, accented by a spiral candelabrum holding cathedral tapers. The bridal aisle featured candles leading to the altar. The scene was completed with a memory candle and palms.

Wedding music was provided by organist Ruby Fowler; pianist Patsy Scott; guitarist David Spence; and vocalists Tommy Walker and Billy Bullock, both of Alpine. The bride and groom also sang during the ceremony.

A formal-length gown of white organza was worn by the bride as she was presented down the aisle. Designed with a Queen Anne neckline bordered with Venice lace, the bodice was accented with full sleeves and a natural waistline. Motifs of matching lace adorned the sleeves which ended in ruffled cuffs of Chantilly lace. A satin ribbon streamer bordered in lace encircled the midriff and panels of Chantilly lace outlined with Venice lace was draped from the waistline, around the full skirt, forming the border of her chapel-length train.

She wore a veil of imported illusion which fell gracefully from a Juliet lace-adorned headpiece. A cascading bouquet of white silk daisies adorned with ribbon and sprinkled with baby's breath accented her attire.

The bride's sister-in-law, Elizabeth Musgrove, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Wendy Stephens, Kim Smith and Sandra Evans, San Angelo.

They were attired in yellow dotted Swiss gowns fashioned with full A-line skirts which fell to ruffled hems. They carried nosegays of white silk daisies accented with ribbon and baby's breath. Silk daisies adorned their hair.

Tom Musgrove, brother of the bride, served as best man. Groomsmen were Paul Spence, David Spence and Mike Pitts. Guests were seated by Tommy Sullivan and Gregg Moore.

Stacey Palmer, sister of the groom, Greg Stephens and Chad Musgrove, cousin of the bride, lit the candles.

The bride's cousin, Lesli Musgrove, was flower girl for the wedding and she wore a floor-length yellow, dotted Swiss gown similar to the bridesmaids. She carried a

Miss Pearce becomes Mrs. Nick Dabovich

Beverly Pearce became the bride of Nick Dabovich in a ceremony held Saturday evening in the Wesley United Methodist Church with the Rev. Marvin Roark, chaplain of the Methodist Hospital, Lubbock, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pearce, Big Spring. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Dabovich, Eagle Nest, N.M.

The 7:30 ceremony was performed before an altar accented with baskets of yellow majestic daisies, white gladiolus and wedding palms. White tapers held in spiral candle holders lit the setting.

Bill Schaffner provided the organ music. Wade Burroughs served as vocalist.

The bride selected a formal gown of candlelight organza designed with a Queen Anne neckline. The bodice was enhanced with Chantilly lace and seed pearls. Her bishop sleeves were caught at the wrist with cuffs of lace and seed pearls. Her long, full skirt fell to a flounce hemline which was swept into backfulness cascading into a chapel-length train. She wore a matching veil of Chantilly lace which draped over the length of her dress.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and babies breath tied with ivory satin.

Cindy Pearce served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Joel Dyer, Irving; Rosella Dabovich of Eagle Nest, N.M., sister of the groom; and Mrs. David Clinkscales, Big Spring.

Danny Dabovich, Eagle Nest, N.M., served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Royce Marion, Dumas; Brent Pearce, Big Spring; brother of the bride; Miles Dabovich, Eagle Nest; and Danielle Dabovich, Eagle Nest, sister of the groom, served as flower girl. Candlelighters were Lisa and Amy Uselton, Amarillo. Keith McCormick, Amarillo, was the ring bearer.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church honoring the couple. The bride's table was draped with a full-length white lace cloth over a white overlay. The centerpiece was silver candelabrum holding the bride's bouquet. A three-tiered cake was stationed above a flowing fountain topped with golden rings and doves. Heart-shaped cakes were positioned around the fountain base. Silver and crystal appointments were used by servers Mrs. Frank Clark, Mrs. John McBryde and Pam Matthews.

The groom's table was covered with a blue cloth with a white lace overlay. A chocolate cake adorned with marzipan fruit was served by Deanna Frierson. Nancy Dean attended the coffee service. Gold appointments were used.

Joni Jones attended the register. Blue rice bags were distributed by Lisa and Amy Uselton.

Members of the house party included Mrs. Robert M. Dean, Mrs. Winnie Booher, Mrs. Jo Ann Bradbury, Mrs. W.A. Moore, Mrs. Charles Beil, Mrs. Jimmy Morehead, Mrs. Bob Jones and Mrs. Jim Bill Little, all of Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Dabovich are on a wedding trip to the Austin area. The couple will make their home in Wheeler.

Mrs. Dabovich is a 1973 Big Spring High School graduate and a 1976 graduate of West Texas State University. She is employed as an accountant for the Beef Cattle Company in Wheeler.

The groom is a 1972 graduate of Cimmaron High School and a 1976 graduate of West Texas State University. He is also employed by the Beef Cattle Company as an accountant.

MR. AND MRS. RALEIGH RUTLEDGE

Couple celebrate 40th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Rutledge, Rt. 1, Big Spring, will celebrate their 40th anniversary today.

The couple were married June 17, 1939 in the First Baptist Church of Cross Plains, Tex., by the Rev. C.E. Poe. Mr. Rutledge's twin brother, Robert, and Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter, all of Abilene, served as attendants for the ceremony.

After working in the garage business in Brownwood with his older brother, Mr. Rutledge enlisted in the Air Force in 1941 for four years. He was separated from service in 1945 as a flight officer.

He and his wife went back to Brownwood until his employment with Onyx Refinery in 1949 at Abilene where he served as superintendent of maintenance until Cosden bought it out and moved them to Big Spring in 1958.

Rutledge now operates the laboratory of the polymer research.

Mrs. Rutledge is the former Ruth Mae Kelley of Coleman and Cross Plains, Tex. Four children were born to the couple, including Durward Earl of Hurst; Drexel Lee, Burleson; Tommy Mac, Lewisville; and Ragena Mae Ortag Jr., of Glendale, Ariz. They are also the grandparents of six.

As active members of the Baptist Temple Church, Mr. Rutledge serves as a deacon and Mrs. Rutledge works in the Junior Department.

During his spare time, Mr. Rutledge enjoys hunting and fishing while Mrs. Rutledge does needlepoint and painting.

Named to Dean's List

Denise Crenweige, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Crenweige, 2805 Apache, was named to the Dean's list for the 1979 Spring Semester at Texas A&U, University. To be eligible, a student must carry a minimum of 15 academic hours and maintain a 3.25 or better grade-point average. Miss Crenweige is a junior journalism major.

MRS. AL PHILLIPS

Couple marry in New Mexico

The First United Methodist Church of Clovis, N.M. was the setting for the afternoon wedding of Debbie Payne and Al Phillips, Saturday.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Richard Payne, Clovis. Rev. Payne performed the marriage rites.

The bridegroom is the son of Billie Phillips, Lubbock, and the late A. F. Phillips.

The altar was decorated with a large fan-shaped arrangement of yellow gladiolus and white lily-of-the-valley daisies on a pedestal, surrounded by a 15-branch candelabrum and two nine-branch candelabrum bearing yellow tapers. Potted palms completed the decorations.

Jerry Irby, Alamogordo, N.M., brother-in-law of the groom, served as soloist with Ferrell Roberts, Clovis, supplying the organ music.

The bride chose to wear a gown of candlelight organza with re-embroidered Chantilly lace trim. It featured a fitted bodice with a V-neck edged in lace and long, flowing, butterfly sleeves over fitted, lace-trimmed sleeves. The gown was enhanced by panels of lace down the front and back and a chapel-length train. She wore a candlelight hat of Chantilly lace.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of yellow and white daisies and baby's breath.

Diana Payne, San Antonio, served her sister as maid of honor. Connie Fiola, Canyon, sister of the groom, was the bride's matron.

Ty Phillips, Lubbock, was best man for his brother.

Groomsman was Joe Fiolo, Canyon, brother-in-law of the groom.

David Payne, Boston, Mass., brother of the bride and Jerry Irby, Alamogordo, N.M., brother-in-law of the groom, served as ushers.

Joni and Jinger Fiola, Canyon, nieces of the groom were the flower girls.

Candlelighters were Jennifer and Jerilyn Irby of Alamogordo, nieces of the groom. The guest registry was attended by Linda Irby, Alamogordo, sister of the groom.

After a trip to Ruidoso, N.M. the couple will make their home in Coahoma where the groom is a teacher and coach at the high school.

Mrs. Phillips is a 1974 graduate of Cooper High School, Abilene and is completing her education at Angelo State University, San Angelo.

Phillips is a 1969 graduate of J. Farwell High School, Farwell, receiving his B.S. and M.S. degrees from West Texas State University, Canyon, in 1974 and 1978 respectively.

A reception was held in the parlor of the church following the ceremony.

Parents' home wedding site

The wedding vows between Kimberly Ann Daniels and Ricky Dean Smith were solemnized June 8 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston L. Daniels, Sterling City Rt., Box T-94.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Morphis of Luther.

The Rev. Johnny Cortez Castro, pastor of the First Mexican Baptist Church, read the 7 p.m. double-ring ceremony before a fireplace enhanced with white spider mums, daisies and blue baby's breath atop the mantle. Fern, baby's breath and daisies flanked either side of the family Bible on the hearth.

The bride chose to wear an off-white, two-piece, street-length dress featuring a lace-trimmed bodice which buttoned up the front. Lace shoulder straps fashioned her attire as did the full skirt which fell to a ruffled edge-laced flounce. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue daisies accented with baby's breath.

Toni Cleavenger, Forsan, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a pale beige street-length dress and carried long-stemmed white mums tied with blue ribbon.

Tommy Meeks served as best man.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds were honored with a reception. The table was covered with blue cloth overlaid with white lace. An arrangement of spider mums, daisies and baby's breath accented the setting as centerpiece. Cut glass appointments were used to serve punch, mints and nuts. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with the traditional bride and groom figurines. Blue roses decorated the cake.

Serving at the reception table were Jan Williamson and Mrs. Sam Froman.

The bride attended Forsan High School and is now employed by Neefe Optical. The groom attended Lamesa High School and is employed at Meeks' Texaco.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to El Paso, Tex., and Juarez, Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Big Spring.

MR. AND MRS. A.L. GREER

Anniversary celebration planned

In celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Geer will be honored with a reception June 23, from 3 to 5 p.m. in their home at 316 East 15th St.

The open house will be hosted by their children and families. The children are Mrs. Francis Winn of Colorado City and Mrs. Serge Helfer of Slidell, La. There are four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

A.L. Geer and Dale Hall were married in the home of her parents in Loraine, Tex. on June 21, 1929, by the Rev. N.E. McGuire.

The couple have resided in Colorado City since their marriage.

Mr. Geer was employed by Shell Pipe Corporation for 35 years. Mrs. Geer was formerly a teacher in the Colorado City schools.

Friends of the couple are invited to come by for a visit as they celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

MR. AND MRS. RICKY SMITH

Baby's birth announced

Dennis and Gwynn Jump, Eagan, Minn., announce the birth of a daughter, Meridith Michelle. She was born June 6 weighing 7 pounds 6 ounces.
