

'The threat of a nuclear holocaust still hangs over us'

Hugs, kisses follow treaty signing

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — President Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev signed the SALT II treaty today, embraced and kissed each other on both cheeks and promised continuing efforts by their nations to limit the nuclear arms race. Carter termed the treaty a victory for peace but warned that "the threat of a nuclear holocaust still hangs over us."

The Soviet president declared, "We are helping to defend the most sacred right of every man — the right to live."

The agreement is the most sweeping thus far limiting the nuclear arsenals of the United States and the Soviet Union. It puts ceilings on the numbers of long-range missiles and bombers the two superpowers can deploy through 1985.

The signing ceremony climaxed a three-day summit here between the U.S. and Soviet presidents and almost seven years of negotiations. Carter boarded Air Force One and headed for home just over two hours later to address Congress and the nation on the treaty. An hour later Brezhnev headed back to Moscow aboard his jetliner.

Carter and Brezhnev signed the treaty texts in Russian and English sitting at a gilded table in an elegant onetime ballroom of the old imperial Hofburg Palace. They then rose, embraced and kissed each other on both cheeks. The audience applauded enthusiastically.

Each then spoke to assembled dignitaries, Brezhnev first.

"The entry into force of this treaty opens up the possibility to begin elaborating subsequent measures to not only limit but also reduce strategic arms," the Soviet leader said.

"... We are making a major step forward along the road of an overall improvement of Soviet-American relations and, consequently, of the entire international climate."

Responding, Carter declared, "We cannot interrupt or endanger" the arms limitation process — a phrase apparently directed at the treaty's foes in the U.S. Senate, which must ratify the pact.

He said the prospect of an unrelenting arms race "is a challenge to our courage and our creativity."

"If we cannot control our power to destroy, we can neither guide our fate nor preserve our future," he said.

"... Here today, as we set careful limits on our power, we draw boundaries around our fears of one another. As we begin to control our fears, we can better insure our future...."

"Not one nation on this Earth, not one people, not one human being is harmed, threatened or deprived by this victory in the battle for peace. A victory is here for all."

The American leader also noted that SALT II would clear the way for "even more substantial limitations and reductions" in SALT III.

In a comment clearly pointed at SALT's American critics, he added, "We cannot interrupt or endanger this process."

In a dinner toast Sunday night, Brezhnev also issued a warning to the treaty's foes in the U.S. Senate, which must ratify the pact to put it into effect. He warned that if there was "any attempt to rock this elaborate structure which has been so hard to build, to substitute any of its elements... the entire structure might then collapse, entailing grave and even dangerous consequences for our relations and for the situation in the world as a whole."

Some senators demand changes in the provisions of the treaty. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Sunday he would ask Carter to renegotiate parts of it.

After two days of meetings devoted to expositions of each government's policies on major issues between them, American sources said points of conflict were frequent but the sessions produced no acrimony or table-pounding.

Carter emphasized the scope of his differences with Brezhnev in toasting the Soviet leader at dinner Sunday night. Citing trouble spots in the Middle East, Southern Africa and Southeast Asia, he said "any effort by either of our nations to exploit the turbulence that exists in various parts of the world" would push them toward "competition and even confrontation."

"The United States can and will protect its vital interests if this becomes the route we must follow," Carter continued. "But there is another way — the path of restraint and, where possible, cooperation. That is the path we prefer."

Brezhnev's toast was directed to the U.S. Senate which must ratify the arms treaty to put it into effect and to senators demanding changes in the provisions of the treaty. He warned that if there was "any attempt to rock this elaborate structure which has been so hard to build, to substitute any of its elements... the entire structure might then collapse, entailing grave and even dangerous consequences for our relations and for the situation in the world as a whole."

The 22-page treaty limits each country to the deployment of 2,250 launchers for intercontinental weapons, a reduction from the 2,400 allowed by the SALT I treaty. It also limits to 1,200 the number of ballistic missiles that can be armed with multiple, independently targeted warheads.

The treaty is accompanied by a two-page protocol, expiring at the end of 1981, banning deployment of mobile and cruise missiles and air-to-surface ballistic missiles and limiting each country to the development of only one new intercontinental missile.

One issue that will figure in the Senate battle is the absence from the treaty of any limits on the Soviet Backfire bomber, which the Russians claim is not a long-range strategic weapon but which U.S. military men say could reach the United States from the Soviet Union by refueling in flight.

It was learned that Brezhnev personally promised Carter the Soviet government will not produce more than 30 such bombers each year. However, a Soviet statement being handed to Carter only promises limitations on the bomber without setting a production ceiling.

Jesse Curry, 18, charged with slaying of mother

An 18-year-old Big Spring man was charged with the murder of his mother today.

Officer Joe DiLiberto of the Big Spring Police Department arrived at 2715 Central minutes after a neighbor reported gunshot at 9:48 p.m. Sunday.

The officer found Lillian Barrett Curry, 50, lying on the front porch with a gunshot wound in her back and her son, Jesse Packard Curry, covered with fresh blood.

The woman was rushed by Shaffer Ambulance to Malone-Hogan Hospital where she died at 10:05 p.m. Her son was arrested and taken to city jail.

This morning he was transferred to the county jail and released on $25,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

According to police reports, the gun, a 12-gauge shotgun, was also covered with blood.

"Apparently they had an argument and he settled it with a shotgun," Detective Claude Morris said today.

According to Heflin, the woman was shot through a wooden door.

FIRST DAY ON JOB FOR NEW CITY MANAGER He's Don Davis, formerly of Palestine, Tex.

New city manager pleased to return to West Texas

After arriving in Big Spring from Palestine Sunday evening, Big Spring's new city manager, Don Davis, was in his office today.

Davis, who has 13 years of experience in city management, said he's been in close contact with Paul Feazelle, interim city manager, since deciding to take the job and feels that he's somewhat familiar with Big Spring already.

Feazelle was briefing him this morning.

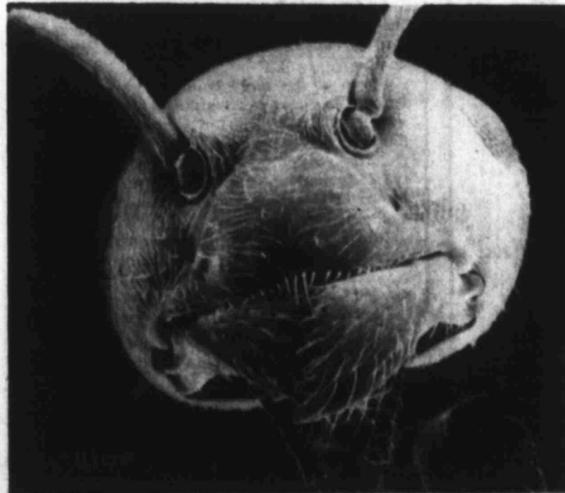

Originally from Lubbock, Davis said "I was anxious to get back to West Texas."

He said that the position as city manager of Big Spring is a career advancement for him and that he is impressed with both the city council and the city.

After graduating from Texas Tech, Davis worked for the city of Lubbock for two years. He was in public administration in Hurst, in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, for eight years before moving to Palestine where he served as city manager for nearly three years.

Davis said he'll be settling into his new job over the next couple of weeks. His wife, Linda, son, Jason, 7, and daughter Jaylon, 4, will join him after they've settled the family's affairs in Palestine.

Court's ruling effectively eliminates use of Laetrile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld a federal law that bans Laetrile, a substance intended for use by terminally ill cancer victims, from interstate commerce.

Voting unanimously, the court said that a federal law banning the sale of any drug not proved to be "safe and effective" makes no exception for drugs used by the terminally ill.

The court's ruling effectively eliminates the use of Laetrile until the federal Food and Drug Administration gives its approval.

In the future, cancer patients who want to obtain Laetrile will have to do so outside the bounds of the law.

In other actions today, the Supreme Court:

— Rebuffed an attempt by Pennsylvania state officials to bar newspapers from publishing "situation wanted" ads that refer to the advertiser's race, sex, age, national origin or religion.

— Agreed to consider expanding an individual's right to sue the federal government for damages when a constitutional right is violated.

Racial bias is to be discussed

ODESSA — Raul Guerrero, director of the Concerned Citizens for Justice Committee, and Susanna P. The meeting will get under way at 7:30 p.m. in the school administration office. Last month, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare accused the school district of racial discrimination, unequal educational opportunity, inferior educational facilities and services and discrimination in discipline procedures and counseling services.

On the light side

The bride wore cake

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP) — The groom threw cake at the bride. A relative threw dishes at guests. Guests threw chairs at cops. The cops threw guests in jail.

The bizarre melee broke out at the Blue Dolphin Restaurant during a wedding reception for 300 guests Saturday night. Police said the festivities had just begun when the unidentified groom and his bride started arguing. Loudly.

Things escalated when the groom tossed the wedding cake at his bride. One of his relatives then tossed the dishes and the restaurant tossed in the towel, calling the cops.

But the two policemen who arrived on the scene received less than an ecstatic greeting from the crowd, which turned on them, pushing and shoving. Reinforcements from Oakland, Alameda County Sheriff's Department and the Highway Patrol fared little better, as guests began breaking chairs, smashing mirrors and wrestling with officers.

When the 30-minute struggle ended, windows in five police cars were broken, three officers were injured and five guests were arrested on charges ranging from disturbing the peace to battery on a policeman.

And the bride and groom who started it all? They were nowhere to be found, police said.

Let them eat cake

SEATTLE (AP) — President Carter got a stale piece of cake. Energy Secretary James Schlesinger received a "rosecolored" crystal ball. And California's Republican senator, S.I. Hayakawa, was awarded a bottle of No-Doz.

Arline Mathews, founder of American Consumers Together, presented the "Marie Antoinette awards" at Seattle's waterfront park during a weekend rally organized to urge consumer boycotts of selected oil companies.

Ms. Mathews criticized Carter and Schlesinger for siding with the oil companies and teased Hayakawa for reports that he slept through a recent White House meeting on the oil shortage.

She urged consumers to demand that Congress force oil companies to open their books and that tax dollars be used to develop alternate energy sources. She also urged consumers to tear up their credit cards.

The awards were named after the famous French queen who, when told during the French Revolution that the peasants did not have any bread to eat, replied, "Let them eat cake."

candidacy for the No. 3 Republican leadership position in the House has had any success.

The chairmanship of the House Republican Conference opened up after U.S. Rep. John Anderson of Illinois decided to run for the party's presidential nomination.

Collins, of Dallas, was the last of four candidates to announce for the newly available House leadership spot.

"I got involved in it because I believe very strongly that the Republican Party should be more definitive," he said. "We ought to provide alternatives to all these big regulation, big taxes, big government programs of the Democrats."

The other candidates are U.S. Reps. Ed Derwinski and Paul Findley of Illinois and Sam Devine of Ohio.

"It's not the kind of campaign you campaign for exactly — outside of commitments," Collins said.

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen,

D-Texas, has sent out a new call for a crash program to boost synthetic fuel production.

In an address Wednesday before the National Federation of Independent Business, Bentsen said, "Our energy situation cries out for bold and dramatic action. President Carter's proposals for phased decontrol of domestic oil and gas prices, together with a windfall profits tax, are steps in the right direction. But they do not go far enough."

The crash program, with business and government cooperating to provide investment capital up to $50 billion, should produce one million barrels of synthetic oil per day from coal and shale by 1985, the senator said.

"It isn't a federal boondoggle," Bentsen added.

The nation needs a balanced budget amendment, says U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas.

The former Texas A&M University economics professor explained his views Wednesday to a House subcommittee on monopolies and commercial law.

"Even as we lower the federal deficit in fiscal 1980 and, hopefully, achieve a balanced budget in fiscal 1981, we can act decisively to show the American people our commitment to fiscal responsibility in the future by approving and sending to the states a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution," Gramm said.

"When I heard from these people I was shocked as it was my understanding that the overhauling of the food stamp program in 1977 was designed to take care of the poorest of the poor," the San Antonio Democrat said.

"But, from the facts that I have been receiving it appears that these are the very people that have been harmed by these changes."

He called for reinstatement of the pre-1977 method: counting shelter, medical and dental expenses as deductions when computing income for elderly recipients of food stamps.

Hope draws blank looks

PEKING (AP) — Bob Hope, accustomed to double takes from fans, got mostly blank looks in Peking.

"They are more interested in my golf club," he quipped.

Hope, 76, spent his first full day in Peking on Sunday, visiting locations for a 90-minute NBC television special, "The Road to China," he came here to film.

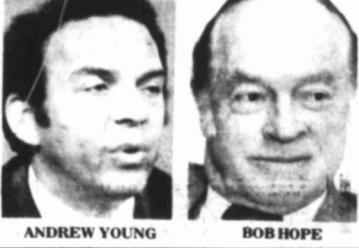

Hope is unknown in China because his films have not played here.

He is visiting the Great Wall today and is expected to leave Tuesday for Shanghai and several days of location work. Shooting begins in Peking on June 27.

Lamesan drowns in playa lake

LAMESA — Ricky Casarez, 16, of Lamesa drowned about noon Sunday while swimming in a playa lake on a farm about two miles west of Lamesa.

The boy's body was recovered by police officer Bruce Savage in about eight feet of muddy water, about 45 minutes after the boy went down.

Dawson County Justice of the Peace Fred Vera pronounced the youth dead at the scene. He ruled death by accidental drowning.

Vera said the youth and about six of his younger brothers and sisters had been swimming and playing at the lake. "I think the boy was just learning to swim, and we're not sure what happened to him," Vera said.

Authorities said the boy's brothers and sisters ran to their parents' house about 1,000 feet west of the lake to tell them what happened to their brother. The parents notified police of the incident, and Lamesa police, Dawson County sheriff's deputies and Lamesa volunteer firemen responded to the call.

It was the first drowning of the year in Dawson County. Arrangements for services are being completed at Branon Funeral Home.

George and Bessie Kennedy spent 58 years of wedded bliss together, all of it in West Texas, and raised eight children here.

George recalls he moved to Scurry County in 1901. Traveling by covered wagon, it turned into a 14-day journey. He was accompanied by members of his family and his mother's brothers and their families.

The women rode in a hack and the men in covered wagons, when they weren't walking or riding horses. He recalls the Kennedys shipped their household goods to Colorado City via the old Texas and Pacific Railway.

The family went originally to Scurry County with two mules and a mare. George moved on to the Morgan Community in Howard County in 1909.

He and Bessie were married Dec. 27, 1921, and moved to Big Spring in 1947. They bought their home at 706 E. 14th with a First Federal loan and have lived there since.

George had been a farmer until he went into the oilfield in 1945. He worked all over Texas and part of New Mexico for the Garner McAdams company.

Seven of the eight children they raised are living. They have a daughter in New York, Dura Van Evera; a daughter in Flagstaff, Ariz., Janie Brady; and a daughter in Phoenix, Norene Nejera.

T.C. Kennedy, one of their four sons, is residing in Port O'Connor. Wayne Kennedy and his wife, Gaiene live in Fort Worth.

The third son, Benson, is pastor of the Grace Baptist Church in Andrews. The fourth son, Bob, is a Cosden employee and part owner of the A-1 Key Shop.

Roloff ready for 'another Alamo'

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Evangelist Lester Roloff, preparing for what may be the last battle in his six-year legal war with the state, has called for all church youth homes to turn in their state licenses.

"Let's all get in violation together," the fiery preacher said at a Sunday night prayer meeting in his People's Church.

An Austin state judge has given Roloff until Tuesday to seek state licenses required for the three South Texas youth homes. But the 64-year-old preacher, who has been jailed before for failure to have licenses, says he will not obey the judge.

"When they put a license on the church, they put a license on the pastor," he said.

About 2,000 supporters filled the circular church Sunday night. During the prayer session, Roloff said he has heard from churches from across the state that plan to turn in their licenses.

Roloff has longed claimed that state licensing of a church-related facility is a violation of the separation of church and state doctrine.

He reiterated his claim that Tuesday will be remembered as a big day in American history. "Tuesday will write the story of another Alamo," he said from the pulpit.

"If Brother (Wylie) Cameron — an official at the home) and I could have the privilege of being another Travis and Bowie, it would be a real joy," the fundamentalist preacher said.

He told his followers that the resistance will be marked by song — not by violence.

"We'll put to rest any thoughts of violence. There'll be none," he said. "The heavier the burden, the more you ought to sing. It confuses the devil."

He said the court order that may close the homes is "murder for the hopes of these young people." He said there about 400 youths in his homes.

"If their plan should succeed, you put one thing down. We did not die a natural death, we were killed," he said. But the irrepressible Roloff maintained that his faith in the Lord will keep the homes open.

He talked about Noah and the ark.

"He was outnumbered. So are we. But 30 days after that first clap of thunder, he was in the majority," he said.

Roloff, who appeared on an hour-long television special Sunday, is expecting

Radioactive canister recovered by deputies

SNYDER, Texas (AP) — Scurry County deputies have safely recovered a missing canister of radioactive material that apparently fell from a truck.

An unidentified butane driver from Big Spring found the unopened canister lying along the roadside and apparently thought it was an electrical motor, deputies said.

He called authorities Sunday after reading the 100-pound red canister containing the radioactive element Americium had fallen from a truck transporting it from the Weaver Wire Line Services Co. to a well site about 10 miles southwest of this West Texas community.

Deputies and company employees searched the stretch of pastureland after the container was reported missing Friday.

The substance is used in the cleaning process of oil wells. It is lowered into the well to check for perforation in the walls.

Bureaucratic thinking baffles mind

There was a time in the not-too-distant past when Big Spring residents were hopeful that Amtrak would be able to give the area railway passenger service.

Some politicians were promising to do what they could to promote the return of passenger trains to this section of the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Those hopes have long since been abandoned. Even as the gasoline crunch gets worse for motorists, the decision has been made in Washington that Amtrak is too much of a good thing and services will be shortly curtailed.

AGGRAVATING THE situation even further is the fact that in the West, where distances are great and where the population shift has been most noticeable, there was never an abundance of ways to get around, even when gasoline was plentiful.

Most public transportation systems reported capacity bookings by passengers over the Memorial Day holiday period. The demand for Amtrak reservations, in places where it is available, far exceeded the supply of seats.

This development proves that, when forced to do so, many Americans will travel to distance points without their cars.

Amtrak, which has been reduced to only a few long distance trains, received 1,365,592 calls for booking service during the week ending May 20. As a matter of fact, it probably received a lot more than that but telephone calls were not accepted by Amtrak offices for extended periods of time. The 1.3 million figure is triple what the booking agents received during the same period last year.

The Los Angeles-San Diego trains were so crowded that more than 100 passengers had to stand. This segment of the train operation reported 120,000 passengers for the month, just 5,000 shy of the record boardings set in WW II.

Everywhere, Amtrak agents reported inability to handle the flow of requests for service.

BUS TRAFFIC was up dramatically, with the major firms reporting near-capacity loads on the long distance hauls. A vacancy on an airline was a very rare thing.

The message should have gotten through to the U.S. Department of Transportation but the Amtrak officials were too busy abandoning runs to notice.

Passenger service in the United States had never been on a par with that offered in the industrialized nations of Western Europe. There, most of the small towns and all the major cities can boast of excellent rail service. As a result, a lot of the people can function without worrying over an automobile.

Bureaucratic thinking defies the mind. Because rail transportation constitutes the most economic use of fuel in the world, U.S. officials should be thinking about ways to improve train service. Instead, they scheme to reduce it.

Alaskan blues

William F. Buckley, Jr.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — To imagine what it would mean to the economy of the United States, one would have to suppose that suddenly tomorrow no one was required to pay a personal income tax. For so long as the oil stops flowing through the trans-Alaska pipeline, revenues to the state are cut at the rate of 70 percent per day. It is no wonder that when last Sunday it transpired that the pipeline had been shut down, the news preoccupied all of Alaska.

"ALL OF ALASKA" is a paradoxical figure of speech because you have here one of the most exaggeratedly uninhabited stretches of territory in the world. There are 400,000 people and 586,000 square miles of land, which makes for more than one square mile per person, against which an interesting comparison would be Singapore, for example, which contains 100 persons per square mile.

The Alaskan pipeline was constructed only after the OPEC cartel broke down congressional resistance. The attitude in those days is oversimply described as: Why inconvenience Alaskan caribou, when we have oil all over the place at $2 per barrel?

So finally the pipeline was built, and the economic jolt to Alaska is suggested by the figures. In those days Alaska used to think in terms of $100 million per year in state tax revenues. With the pipeline, that figure went up by a factor of $10 million, and when peak revenue is reached in 1980, $8 billion per year will flow to the state.

After which? A precipitant decline in five years as established reserves are depleted, and of course, the question is whether the oil companies can set out and look for more. The pending frustration is the delay in auctioning territories in the Beaufort Sea area within which the successful discoveries are now operating.

There is a division of opinion as to whether the federal government, or the state of Alaska, owns some of this acreage but even that which is uncontestedly Alaska's goes on, month after month, unleased to developers, by reason of that fever known in parts of Tennessee as the Snail Darter Syndrome. The opponents of further development are worried about the bowhead whale, which sports in the Beaufort area. The whale is regularly harpooned by Eskimos, which is OK by the ecologists, but it is feared that off-shore development might traumatize the bowheads, though one would think they would suffer less from oilmen sinking their spears into 10,000-foot-deep geological anticlines, than from Eskimos sinking their spears six inches into the whale's flesh. But arguments with ecologists are difficult.

THERE, IS, OF course, a difference of opinion even among Alaskans, but one finds a quite general resentment against the Udall Bill, which would concentrate about 120 million acres (there are several versions of the measure) of Alaskan territory to federal preserves.

Rep. Udall, a great friend of nature, once was described as someone who resented any human habitation in his native Arizona left to get into the way of meandering buffalo. He has a great vision for Alaska, which is a great natural feast — superbly described, by the way, by John McPhee in his book, "Coming Into the Country."

But Alaskans are mystified, and resentful, over the lengths to which the Udalls are prepared to go. And, incidentally, powerless. In Alaska, a grand total of 1 percent of the land is owned privately.

Problem with depression

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I'm 18 years old and have a serious problem with depression. I am a healthy boy and have nothing to be depressed about except normal everyday problems. I don't drink or smoke, and friends say I am a fantastic and fun person. But sometimes I want to end it all. I know it is wrong to think this way, but it is like fighting a battle in my mind. I often get sick afterwards. Can you help? — Confused

Dear Dr. Ruble: How can we tell if we need psychiatric help? Where do we go? What can be done? I want to die. Everything in my world is so black. I have no true friends. No one loves me. Please help. — Anon.

Both of you need help with your mind problems, and soon. Start with a complete medical examination to make sure you are healthy physically. Since you are regular readers you may have seen an item I wrote recently about the link between mental and physical ailments.

Both of you suffer from the most common psychiatric problem — depression. These feelings frequently come on without any good reason — a sadness, trouble sleeping, and a general loss of interest in things.

Who needs psychiatric help? The individual can decide by asking himself if he is unhappy with things in general — marriage, work, school, children, family — a general unwillingness to be a part of the world.

Therapy can change your life by helping get rid of anger, hostility, tension, nervousness, family problems, alcohol, drug abuse, and even problems in communicating with others. Too many wait too long, hoping their problem will go away. They are discouraged by the time it takes and the expense. But, for those who need it, the rewards of getting help include a fuller, more meaningful, happy, and successful life.

Don't be shy about speaking openly about this with your family doctor. He's trained to recognize who needs psychiatric help.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I stopped heavy smoking over two years ago. I don't smoke at all now. Is the lung damage ever repaired by nature in those who have stopped? — C.M.

You're to be congratulated. The acute irritating effects of smoking stop for anyone who quits, although some irritation may remain for three months. Some scarring may remain and never disappear. But the risk of getting lung cancer decreases with time. After 10 years the risk for the former smoker is as low as for those who have never smoked.

Dear Dr. Ruble: "J.D." having trouble caring for her elderly mother's hair. I had the problem, and regular shampooing was painful for my 90-year-old mother because she found it hard to bend her head over a basin, etc. I now wash it the way you do with an infant. I use a wash cloth and a bowl of water. I wet the hair with the cloth, then massage in a small amount of baby shampoo, then a small amount of cream rinse to remove the shampoo. Then I rinse well, using the cloth and clear water. It's a lot better than spray shampooing and a lot more relaxing for her. The sprays tend to make the hair sticky and tangled. — Ms. S.

I'm always interested in ways readers have found to deliver "TL" to their elderly parents. I'm sure your technique is worth trying.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What causes moles and what should be done about them? — C.T.

A nevus (mole) is difficult to evaluate, even by a doctor examining you. I couldn't begin to at this distance. Most pigmented moles that appear after birth or shortly thereafter are harmless quirks in skin development. Likewise, those that appear later in life are usually non-malignant. Those that grow hairs are almost always harmless. It's the sudden and rapid change in the size, color, or pattern of a mole that must be investigated. Likewise, a mole that bleeds for no known reason has to be checked.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been having constipation recently. I haven't had any change in diet and have always tried to get enough fibrous foods. What really worries me is the presence of mucus when I have a B.M. There is no blood or pain. What could be the cause? — S.K.

The schedule of bowel elimination is an individual matter. That is, when a person develops bowel "rhythm" it is usually pretty well set for life. If a change occurs for no obvious reason (like a change of diet), the doctor would want to know why, and so should you. An examination is in order.

You tell me little in your letter, except that you have mucus. This might mean only an irritable bowel, but it can also signal more serious conditions — polyps or tumors, for example. I do not want to frighten you with medical ghosts, but I do want to impress upon you the importance of reporting such change in bowel behavior.

You may have developed an intolerance to certain foods — milk, for example. Mucus would be part of that picture. Many medicines can cause constipation — tranquilizers or any drug that tends to slow down bodily functions. Some find it difficult to imagine how such a thing as low thyroid activity can play a role in constipation, but it can. You may find other tips on this problem in my booklet, "You Can Stop Constipation." For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

If telephone rates keep going down as Bell Telephone claims, why does my bill keep going up?

Why does this object which takes up only five by eight and one half inches seem to take up 20 percent of my monthly budget?

I must hand it to the phone company. They paint a canvas with a bold stroke.

THERE WAS A TIME when the friendly phone man would come out to the house, install our phone and we were charged an installation fee.

Ma Bell has smartened up, though. They did away with the installation and now charge us a "service fee" for the privilege of running to the office, picking up our own phones and installing them ourselves.

The service fee, I suppose, is for all the energy it takes to push two wires together to switch the phone on from the office.

In days gone by, anyone lucky to have a phone acquired a simple black box. Then the company discovered a new idea for making more money — color.

That novelty has worn off. Now their monetary profits are made on anything but the standard phone.

We may call them Trimlines and Princesses. Ma Bell looks upon them as solid assets.

In the long run, telephones all do the same thing. The person at Point A speaks to the person at Point B.

But to hear the local salesperson talk, that is not the idea. The point is to have a phone which she excitedly says "lights up" in every room of the house.

Would we react?

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The catchword in the debate over the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty is "verification." Will we be able to tell if the Russians are cheating?

An equally important word — but one that is rarely if ever mentioned by supporters or opponents of SALT — is "enforcement." What will we do if we catch the Russians cheating?

A law that's not enforced is no law at all. Drivers will speed at will if police never make arrests. But there is no impartial traffic cop to flag down violators of SALT II. Each side must be its own enforcer.

AS A PRACTICAL MATTER, the enforcement options are limited and tricky. We can complain, of course, but the Soviets have a long track record of shrugging off complaints. We can go to the brink of nuclear war, as we did in the Cuban missile crisis of 1962. But the implications of such saber-rattling in the nuclear age are grotesque.

Provisions of both SALT I and II call for disagreements to be settled by the Standing Consultative Commission. The history of SALT I, however, suggests that the SCC carries about as much weight with the Russians as a Little League umpire.

Top-secret documents and intelligence sources reveal a few Soviet tricks that President Carter will not disclose to the Congress when he delivers his address on the SALT talks. The Soviets "drove trucks through the loopholes" of the first treaty as one source put it, and we challenged their cheating only mildly. "We sucked our thumbs," one SCC source told our associate Dale Van Atta. "It shouldn't happen again."

The "don't-get-tough" policy came right from the top. A secret Defense Department memo in 1976, titled "SALT Contingency Planning," advised against flexing too much muscle on "ambiguous" or "minor" violations of SALT.

In the event Soviet actions were ambiguous, then it would seem that the U.S. response would be to keep our options open in case of future abrogation and conduct those activities which are consistent with the letter of the agreement, the memo states. "This is basically our current plan."

In other words, the Soviets were allowed to cheat a little, but we played by the rules. It didn't take the Russians long to catch onto this pussycat policy, and they cheated their way althogether through the first arms treaty.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger approved of this pussycat policy, and they cheated their way blithely through the first arms treaty.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger approved of this appeasement, and attempted to rationalize it in the secret National Security Decision Memorandum 283 to the Central Intelligence Agency and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

"THE U.S. COMMISSIONER (SCC) should inform his counterpart that the U.S. Government is not accusing or implying that the USSR is in violation with existing SALT agreements," Kissinger wrote. "(The issues) involve questions concerning compliance and related situations we consider ambiguous. The purpose of raising these issues is to resolve these questions, and, as necessary, to bring about corrective action."

The only alternative to complaint to confrontation would be to disavow the treaty althogether.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

I'm totally confused by all the issues being bantered about in connection with our city affairs. I would like to inquire, of the Mayor or any other city official who knows, about the following:

If the City used city funds to purchase the inventory of the BX, the Officer's Club, the Hobby Center, and others, when Webb closed, what happened to everything that we bought? I assume this would include everything from bobby pins and liquor to furnishings and equipment in these buildings?

If there is nothing to hide — as everyone assures us — what possible objection could anyone have to a Federal audit of the inventory acquired by the Industrial Park when Webb was closed? Why not get on with it and get it over with?

Inasmuch as our Mayor and all our members of the Council are elected at large — and not by precincts or wards — why does the Mayor have anymore power than the members of the Council, except those given to him by our City Charter — which does not include the power to determine what goes on an agenda?

Why do we need a bond election to comply with state regulations in our sewer department when we read over and over that our water and sewer department makes a profit of some $250,000 a year that is transferred to the general fund and spent for general operation? Why can't we take the profits of the water and sewer fund and make the needed improvements to the sewer system? This seems logical to me, and if the cost of such improvements is less than $600,000 we could pay for them in a little over two years with profits from that department.

What are the unnamed "rumors" being circulated about, and who are the unknown "offenders" who are spreading them? If they are unnamed, and made by unknowns, why should people go to the District Attorney for "prosecution?" This is not only confusing, but sounds like mass hysteria or paranoia abounds.

Why is Mayor Choate "taking issue" with Announcer Pat O'Brian's broadcast concerning the requests for audits — federal or city — or whatever? If the Mayor doesn't know what's going on, or won't tell the people, how are we to find out except through the news media? Appears this is merely an attempt by Choate to further muddy already troubled waters. I, for one, intend to make an effort to catch Mr. O'Brian's newscasts in the future. Maybe he knows what's going on.

I may not be the smartest woman in town — but I'm smart enough to know a mess when I see and hear it. I think it's time we demanded and got some answers from somebody.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Is it possible for a person to use the power of his mind to influence the thoughts and actions of another? I have become interested in things like extrasensory perception. — Mrs. N.R.M.

DEAR MRS. N.R.M.: I am not a scientist and I do not claim special knowledge in this area. I do know that a great deal of research is being done on this matter. It may well be that there are powers to the human mind which are not generally known or used.

The question I have is this, however: even if it were possible to use the mind in extraordinary ways — including influencing the thoughts and actions of others — should it be done? I believe this is a very dangerous area, and as a Christian I do not think such things would be right. These ideas suggest that one could be influenced against his will, and that even his moral convictions could be overcome.

There are some theologians, I must warn you, who see such things as mind control as satanic in nature. Voodoo and black magic have always tried to manipulate events and people through the use of occult forces and evil spiritual powers. The Bible condemns such things and warns us to stay clear of them. The Bible does not go into great detail about satanic forces, but it reveals that they are real and powerful and can gain control over people if they are allowed to do so. It is interesting that one of the evidences of becoming a Christian in the New Testament was renouncing magic or sorcery, which probably included attempts to influence events and people (see Acts 19:19).

You need to ask yourself why you are fascinated with such matters. Do you secretly want to gain control over others? Are you hoping to manipulate events so you will have good luck? Such motives are wrong because they are selfish and sinful. I urge you instead to turn to Jesus Christ.

Mom 'censors' her mail

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Kay English, 16, from Ogden, Utah, has a boyfriend who is an 18-year-old college student. It seems mother opens his letters to her and reads them before Kay can get to the mailbox. Jan Greene, 17, who lives in Valparaiso, Ind., and Manuel Garza, 16, who resides in Fresno, Calif., will add a teen flavor. Welcome.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a very trustworthy young lady who is going steady with Jim, a freshman at Brigham Young University.

Jim and I have been going steady for about a year and he is a super guy. Jim used to call me every Friday night but lately we have been exchanging letters because he is low on money. After the first few that I opened, my mother has been opening and reading all of Jim's letters to me while I'm at school. She doesn't hide the fact that she does this.

Hi, Kay: I think your mother is really "off base" in opening your personal mail. This shows that she really does not trust you even though she probably says she does.

Solve the problem by having your letters sent to a friend's address. — Jan p.m. and 8 a.m. every night and Saturday and dial direct. This is very reasonable and will end mother's snooping. — Manuel

If you would like to be a guest teen writer, please write to me in care of this newspaper. Please state your sex and age.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 25-cent stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace in care of this newspaper.

I think it's wrong but mother says she can do anything she wants. Who is right? I'd also like to hear from the teen guest writers.

Kay I think mother is not acting very wisely by opening your mail, especially when you are meeting. Have a family meeting and see if this practice can be changed. In fact, show her the letters AFTER you have read them.

Get Acquainted party and Groom's Cake Party held

Susan Stroud, Modesta, Calif., a houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Joe MacGaskins, Knott, was introduced at a "Get Acquainted and Groom's Cake" party, Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Kelly Gaskins, Knott.

Miss Stroud and the Gaskins daughter, Kayla, were 1978 Four-H Youth Exchange's to Poland. Miss Stroud was a member of the wedding party when Miss Gaskins and Tom McDonnell were married at the First United Methodist Church, Ackerly, on Saturday.

Guests registered at a small oval table, laid with candlelight lace over blue, and centered with an arrangement of blue and apricot silk flowers in a blue crystal bowl.

Focal point of the counter from which refreshments were served was a copper compote holding a blue candle encircled with a ring of daisies. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

The guests were filled with "Groom's Cake", which were sent home with the wedding guests of Miss Gaskins and McDonnell.

The guest list included friends who were in the house party at the wedding. Also attending were Miss Gaskins grandmothers Mrs. O.B. Gaskins, Knott and Mrs. Gaston Marin, Lamesa. Out-of-town guests were Susan Colgan, Lamesa, Mrs. Kenneth Schuelke and Tarah of Lenorah, and Mrs. A.J. Beckmeyer, Sparenberg.

No Odd Couple; Both Are Slobs

DEAR ABBY: Our son and his wife are both 30. He's an assistant professor and she's a social worker. They've been married for a year and lived together for two years this summer and that. They're coming to visit us for two weeks this summer and I am not looking forward to it.

I love them both, but two bigger slobs I've never met! Thank God they found each other.

They were here last Christmas and my lovely home looked like a pigpen during their entire stay. They threw their clothes around, left wet towels on the bathroom floor, ate all over the house and smoked pot in their bedroom. I was exhausted picking up after them. I finally blew my stack just before they left. They apologized and we parted friends.

After they left, my husband told me that if I can't keep my trap shut (his words) and treat our children like guests, we should put them up at a nearby motel when they visit.

Abby, do you think I was out of line for telling those kids off? And how about laying down some ground rules before their next visit? I know I won't be able to keep my trap shut if those slobs don't clean up their act.

HAD IT IN GA.

DEAR HAD IT: Lay down some ground rules. If they break the rules, and you can't keep your trap shut (his words), put the slobs up at a motel.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who is an attorney, kept putting off updating his will. My nagging did no good. Finally, I got disgusted and made an appointment with one of the most prominent and expensive estate lawyers in town. Then I casually told my husband about it. That did it.

GAMBLERS BAD LUCK — "A gamblers special" charter bus locks the eastbound lanes of Interstate 80 near Donner Summit. The bus, enroute to Reno from Oakland with 44 passengers was one of 13 vehicles involved in chain-reaction accidents during a freak snow storm which slickened the highway. Forty nine persons were injured, including 11 who were admitted to a hospital. The other vehicles included 10 autos and two motorcycles.

Odd-even gas deal?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said today he will issue mandatory directives Tuesday concerning distribution of gasoline in Texas. He strongly indicated it would include a form of odd-even purchases — where cars with odd-number license plates could buy gasoline on odd-number days and even-number plates on even-number days. "I think we have to move out on something that has been tried elsewhere, maybe odd-even," Clements said in an informal news conference. "It has to be something that goes beyond the voluntary aspects." Clements said he would talk with his top energy advisor, Ed Vetter, later today and issue the directives Tuesday. Clements said his directives would concern all energy conservation. "This is going to be a no-tie summer," he said. "That will really become symbolic. No ties and short-sleeve shirts. That will be a strong signal to everyone to drive slower and turn up our thermostats. "It's just a gimmick," he said, "but I think it will work."

Long oily, hot summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. oil industry, considered by some the villain in the gasoline shortage, may be in for a long hot summer on Capitol Hill. Congressional liberals want to broaden their fight for a tough "windfall profits" tax on deregulated oil into an assault on the industry's major tax breaks. The push to change the oil tax structure has been fueled by the long lines at gasoline stations. Work on the "windfall profits" tax is expected to be wrapped up Tuesday in the House Ways and Means Committee. President Carter proposed the tax on excess profits the oil companies make as a result of his decision to phase out price controls on domestically produced crude oil. So far, the committee's bill would take a $6.8 billion bigger chunk out of those profits than Carter's proposal. Overall, $26.5 billion in oil industry profits would be recaptured in 1980 through 1984, under the bill.

Child molester sentenced

DALLAS (AP) — David Bratcher, the former director of a children's day-care center who was convicted on three counts of sexually molesting youths at his school, has been given stiff prison terms totaling 48 years. A Dallas jury deliberated almost five hours Saturday night before delivering the maximum sentence of 20 years in each of two sexual abuse counts and eight years on one count of indecency with a child. A fourth case had been dropped before the trial. Prosecutors said the terms would run concurrently and the 25-year-old Bratcher probably would be eligible for parole after seven years.

Jurors to get earful

DALLAS (AP) — Jurors are expected to once again don the special headphones that last week gave them an earful of the life convicted con man Billie Sol Estes has led since his 1971 parole. Federal prosecutors are relying heavily on 29 hours of secretly recorded tapes and the testimony of an undercover agent in their fraud cases against Estes and former associate Raymond K. Horton.

Diesel priority system is established by DOE

"Farmers are entitled to obtain sufficient diesel fuel to meet their requirements," according to Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland. They are also entitled to 100 percent of their farm needs of propane, butane and gasoline.

The Department of Energy (DOE) established recently a priority system for distributing diesel fuel, giving the highest priority to that used in agricultural production.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said any shortages of diesel fuel could significantly reduce the size of harvests, create a tight supply situation, and result in serious market disruptions. Wholesale suppliers of diesel fuel will be required to provide local distributors and retailers with supplies sufficient to meet farmers' needs.

To help implement the agricultural priority, ASCS will assist farmers in making application for their fuel requirements. "Upon request, we will help determine what constitutes agricultural production. We will also report planted acreages, cropping patterns and other information to fuel dealers, stated energy offices and the Department of Energy, in support of a farmer's application," Bergland said.

If the problems cannot be solved locally, ASCS will get further help from the DOE regional office.

Comment from Capital Clower does about-face

By SCOTT CARPENTER

JIM DAVIS, Harris-Marks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — Sen. Ron Clower was arguing against increasing Public Utility Commission powers last month when another senator noted that Clower supported that proposal when the PUC was created in 1975.

"I saw the error of my ways," the senator from Garland replied simply. Clower's words symbolize how the image of the utility commission has changed in its four-year existence and how it faces a serious public relations problem.

The bill Clower opposed would have stripped Texas cities of original jurisdiction in electric rate-making cases and given it to the commission.

A utility currently has to ask its customer cities for a rate hike but can appeal to the commission if unsatisfied.

Cities can give up their jurisdiction voluntarily, but only five tiny communities have done so.

Four years ago self-labeled pro-consumer legislators and lobby groups fought to create the commission with full rate-making authority. They said the cities didn't have the staffs, technical expertise or gumption to take on the utility giants.

Utility officials, however, were used to dealing with city officials — often wining and dining them and making political contributions to build what they considered to be a good working relationship.

They were suspicious of the proposed new commission and fought successfully to give 17 basically an appeal function in relation to the cities.

The irony of these rock-hard stands is the flip-flop both sides have made since that time.

SEN. RON CLOWER

This year the utilities poured lobbying time and money into taking the cities out of the rate-making picture — to accomplish what they previously opposed.

Utility managers believe that their former city council friends are playing politics with electric rates, rejecting even reasonable requests and passing the buck to the commission.

The managers have found that they can deal with the commission and want to cut out the middle step. They pushed their legislation through the House but failed in the Senate after some strong arm-twisting by the Texas Municipal League.

As the utility companies have warmed to the commission, pro-consumer groups have cooled.

Clarence Johnson, legislative director of the Texas Consumer Association, says he sees a trend for the commission to be a rubber stamp for the utility industry.

Few consumer-oriented groups will endorse that strong a statement, but their previous love affair with the commission definitely is over.

The pattern has been for the commission to approve something less than the companies wanted and more than the consumers wanted, thereby making no one completely happy.

Consumer groups have a sneaky suspicion that the companies are happier than they are, however, and the industry's big push to give the commission original jurisdiction fueled these fears.

The commission and its image probably will draw considerable attention from the press and the public in the near future.

Allen Erwin, the commission's youngest and probably most consumer-oriented member, announced last week that he is resigning to finish a novel about an energy confrontation between Texas and the federal government.

Gov. Bill Clements will appoint Erwin's successor, and you can bet that utility officials and consumer groups will be interested in influencing his choice.

The appointment will be an important one for the governor and the commission.

If the new member appears too industry-oriented, consumer groups will yell and the public — already sensitive about climbing utility costs — will have less confidence in the commission. If the choice is too consumer-oriented, the industry's new-found faith in the commission will be eroded.

Clements' image is on the line, too. He will be judged to some extent by his decision on this important job.

It may be the most important appointment of his term.

WATCHING IT GO — As Texas Rangers first baseman Pat Putnam dives for a wild throw, New York Yankees runner Willie Randolph watches the ball sail past and starts for second base in the first inning of Sunday night's game at Arlington Stadium. The pickoff attempt by Rangers pitcher Steve Comer went down as an error and Randolph advanced to third. The Rangers won the game, 6-3.

Expos kick Astros on Dad's Day

MONTREAL (AP) — Manager Dick Williams may have to re-think the regimen by which his Montreal Expos are saddled with batting practice.

The National League baseball club passed up BP Sunday to give the players more time with their families on Fathers' Day, and they responded in devastating fashion, pounding out five home runs and 24 hits on the way to a 19-3 thrashing of the Houston Astros in the rubber game of a three-game series.

"We had to report for 12:30, an hour before the game, and that was it," said catcher Gary Carter. "Everybody had their family with them today and everybody was really loose and relaxed."

It was a good thing the Astros were on the road, sparing their loved ones the sight.

Tony Perez hit a pair of two-run homers and Carter, Larry Parrish and Ellis Valentine had one circuit shot each as the Expos raked Houston starter Joe Niekro, 10-3, and five other pitchers.

The outburst of offense helped left-hander Dan Schatzeder improve his record to 2-1. David Palmer pitched two innings and Rudy May one in relief.

"This was one of those days where everything worked out all right," said left fielder Warren Cromartie, the only Expos starter who finished the game.

"We've been playing pretty good ball and have been swinging pretty good bats, and today the bats came alive. We haven't had the long ball lately, and today we had three in a row.

It was one of those days." Perez, Carter and Valentine slugged consecutive homers off Astros reliever George Throop in the fourth inning to set a club record. The homers contributed to a team record-tying seven hits in a row.

Montreal scored six runs in both the third and fourth innings, then added five in the seventh against Randy Niemann.

"It's really nice to get all those runs," said Schatzeder, who gave up a solo homer to Art Howe in the sixth, one on a single by Enos Cabell and one on a fielder's choice by pinchhitter Julio Gonzalez.

"The only tough thing is to keep the attitude that it's a close ball game and keep throwing strikes, because you can't walk people. They're going to get good balls to hit. How is the one who hit the ball well off me. Other than that, I had them pretty well off balance."

Palmer set the side down in order in the seventh and eighth, and May pitched the ninth, giving up two singles and a walk to load the bases after two were out before nailing down the final out.

"I know the fans weren't appreciative of him, especially when they got the base hits," said Williams of May, "but one was a little bloop to left. He'll be all right."

"We're past the trading deadline, so a few of them can relax now."

May had been rumored to be the most expendable member of the Expos, who lead the East Division by three games over St. Louis Cardinals.

Irwin stifles choke, wins Open

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Hale Irwin, hacker, choker, U.S. Open golf champion for a second time.

The 34-year-old former Colorado football star proved a harsh self critic Sunday after struggling to 4-over-par 75 for a 72-hole total of 288. His analysis:

"I've never worked so hard on a golf course. To go out and hack it and still emerge a winner makes me feel good."

"I didn't sleep well last night. I'd say I started choking on the first tee. This was not your casual round of Sunday golf, an interclub tournament. It was our national championship."

"If you don't feel it, you're not human or you're not something funny. The second time it's tougher."

Irwin escaped a nightmarish finish — he was four over the last five holes, double-bogeying 17 and bogeying 18 — to join only 13 other golfers as twotime Open titleholders.

"Fantastic," replied the 1974 winner of this major championship. "That's why I wanted two Opens. Hopefully, I can hang my star up and it will shine brighter."

Irwin struggled to a closing 75, good enough for his two-shot margin over two other former Open champions, Gary Player and Jerry Pate.

Player handled the immense pressure at Inverness Club the best Sunday, almost becoming the oldest player in history to win the Open. He had a 68, 3 under par.

"I thought if I shot a 66 I'd win the tournament. But I'm happy to finish second. Hale Irwin is the story today," said the 43-year-old South African, second in a fourth international tournament this year.

Pate, who shot a closing 72, also is fashioning a bridesmaid's reputation. He's been second eight times in the last two years on tour and said, "I'm a little bit disappointed."

Irwin's payoff was $50,000. Player and Pate earned $22,250 apiece.

With a five-shot bulge and six holes to go, Irwin seemed like a shoo-in to the 21,000 tramping Inverness' plush 6,982 yards and to the millions more watching via television.

This tournament was not only historic for Irwin, Calvin Peete became the second black ever to qualify for the Masters, the year's first major test.

Peete, 35, a fourth-year touring pro from Detroit, earned a Masters berth by tying for 11th place at 293. Lee Elder, the first black to play in the Augusta tournament, also was at 293, as was defending Open champion Andy North.

The first 16 finishers in the Open qualify for the Masters.

Tom Weiskopf, three shots behind Irwin starting the final round, settled for 76. He tied for fourth place with Bill Rogers and Larry Nelson. Rogers had 72, Nelson 73.

Another shot back in seventh at 73-289 came Australian David Graham. Tom Purtzer, who shared the 36-hole lead with Nelson, shot a 290 overall with a final-round 76.

Baseball Roundup

Tigers 8, Angels 4

American League teams be warned. Sparky Anderson already is being accused of influencing umpires and now that he has a victory, he's ready to take charge.

"This (victory) sure takes a lot of the pressure off," Anderson said after the Tigers defeated the California Angels 8-4. "(But) the people have been great to me. What angers me is the people have so much faith in me and I'm failing."

Anderson's Tigers used Jason Thompson's bases-loaded single to snap a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning enroute to victory, Anderson's first in four tries as an AL manager.

"I'm now in the mood and I know my players and I am rested enough," Anderson said, "and I'm ready to go with a plan for my pitchers."

Blue Jays 10, A's 9

Alfredo Griffin's two-run bases-loaded single boosted Toronto past Oakland. It was Griffin's fourth hit of the game.

The Blue Jays overcame an 8-5 Oakland lead on a three-run, pinch-hit homer by Otto Velez in the seventh. But the A's took the lead again, 9-8, in the top of the ninth.

Tony Armas and Jeff Newman homered for Oakland while John Mayberry had a two-run blast for Toronto.

Mariners 6, Indians 5

Bruce Bochte's two-run homer powered Seattle's threerun ninth-inning rally as the Mariners edged Cleveland. The Indians were led by Bobby Bonds' sixth career grand slam home run and a solo shot by Dave Rosello.

Orioles 8, Twins 5

Kiko Garcia drove in three runs with a double and a triple as Baltimore downed Minnesota to post its 10th victory in its last 12 games.

Benny Ayala and Lee May added solo home runs for the Orioles.

The Twins had taken a 4-1 lead on Ron Jackson's two-run homer, Bob Randall's run-scoring single and an error before Baltimore made its comeback.

White Sox 6, Red Sox 1

Chicago romped over Boston as Jorge Orta led the way with a bases-loaded triple and a double, and scored two runs.

Ken Kravec, 8-4, picked up his eighth victory in his last nine decisions and allowed six hits, including Mike O'Berry's first major league home run. Rick Burleson collected three of Boston's hits.

Brewers 5, Royals 3

Gorman Thomas slammed two home runs, driving in three runs, and catcher Buck Martinez sent home a pair of runs to lead Milwaukee over Kansas City.

Winner Larry Sorensen, 9-4, lost his shutout bid when Steve Braun hit his fourth homer of the season leading off the Royals' sixth. Darrell Porter also homered for Kansas City.

Giants 7, Cardinals 4

Pinch-hitter Bill Madlock snapped a 4-4 tie with a run-scoring single in the eighth inning and Willie McCovey added his third hit of the game, a two-run single, as San Francisco downed St. Louis.

The single capped a torrid four-game batting spree for the 41-year-old McCovey, who was eight-for-16 with 10 RBI in the string that began Thursday night against the Cubs.

Phillies 9, Reds 3

Bob Boone's two-run double triggered a six-run Philadelphia eighth inning and carried the Phillies past Cincinnati. The Reds had tied 3-3 in the seventh on Ray Knight's second homer of the season.

Boone finished the day with two doubles, a single, a walk and three RBI.

Pirates 5, Dodgers 1

Ed Whitson and Kent Tekulve combined for a two-hitter and Tim Lincecum in three runs to carry the Pirates past the Dodgers.

Whitson pitched 7-1 innings, giving up both the hits to Bill Russell, who hit a home run in the fourth and a single in the sixth.

Foli had a two-run double in the fifth and an RBI single in the ninth.

Lemon squeezed, Martin returns?

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees Manager Bob Lemon says his team "will be all right." But it looks like Lemon won't be managing the club if and when that happens.

Both New York morning newspapers have reported that Billy Martin will take over Tuesday as manager of the Yankees. Martin, reached in Iowa City, Iowa, admitted that he and owner George Steinbrenner are scheduled to meet following Martin's appearance in a pro-am golf tournament today. But he has denied that an agreement between him and Steinbrenner was made Sunday in Columbus, Ohio, as reported by The New York Times.

"That is absolutely not true," said the fiery Martin, who resigned last July after leading the Yankees to two pennants and a World Championship. "I'm just listening to you guys (the press) rattling on about it."

"I have not met with George at all" this weekend, Martin said earlier Sunday in Columbus. "We have not reached any agreement on anything. George isn't even here. I'm down here strictly for scouting purposes."

However, Doug Newton, Martin's agent, said his client and the Yankee owner were "supposed to be getting together today (Sunday) in Columbus." Steinbrenner was unavailable for comment.

The Associated Press reported earlier this month that Martin would take over as manager of the Yankees before the All-Star break in July. Originally, Martin was to return as manager beginning in 1980, when Lemon would become general manager. Apparently, that timetable has been speeded up.

Rumors that Steinbrenner planned to reinstate Martin this week surfaced Sunday in a report published by the New York Daily News. Steinbrenner, who accompanied the team during part of its just-completed road trip, reportedly was spurred to action as the Yankees fell eight games out of first place.

Lemon was taking things calmly.

"I've heard rumors all my life," he said. "Nothing surprises me in this game. If I'm gone, I'm gone."

"I've been in this game 42 years and this (manager talk) doesn't bother me," said the mild-mannered Lemon, who has a three-year contract with New York.

Buddy Bell hit two home runs, and Oscar Gamble blasted a two-run homer as the Rangers moved into second place in the AL West just 4½ games behind California.

"I don't remember the last time I hit two home runs in one game," said Bell. "I should have kept track. I don't do that very often. I was really thinking about getting three homers tonight. That third time when I grounded out, I kind of went up there acting goofy. I usually don't go up there acting that way."

Rangers ice Lemon's farewell cake

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Bob Lemon, the 1978 major league manager of the year, sat there looking at his shower sandals with his chicken getting cold on a paper plate in front of him.

"Have you heard anything since the game started?" he asked with a grin.

The Yankees had just taken a 6-3 whipping from the Texas Rangers Sunday night. But the main topic was the latest news or lack of it from the Yankees front office regarding the possible re-emergence of Billy Martin as the New York manager.

"So far, all I know is that we have a day off tomorrow," said Lemon. "Whatever the organization thinks is right is okay with me. If they want to change, well, fine."

Lemon, the team man, became the Yankees manager on July 25 last year when Martin tearfully resigned and led the Yankees from 14 games behind to capture the AL title and the World Series.

"I've been in this game 42 years and this (manager talk) doesn't bother me," said the mild-mannered Lemon, who has a three-year contract with New York.

Buddy Bell hit two home runs, and Oscar Gamble blasted a two-run homer as the Rangers moved into second place in the AL West just 4½ games behind California.

"I don't remember the last time I hit two home runs in one game," said Bell. "I should have kept track. I don't do that very often. I was really thinking about getting three homers tonight. That third time when I grounded out, I kind of went up there acting goofy. I usually don't go up there acting that way."

The Rangers immediately left for a crucial series with California. "This is an important trip, but it won't make or break up," said Bell. "But we've got to beat the front runner."

Catfish Hunter suffered his fifth loss as New York ended its road trip with a 4-5 record.

Steve Comer went the distance for the Rangers, giving up seven hits including Thurmon Munson's sixth-inning homer to notch his two-run victory against five losses.

Lemon said the Yankees were not the team they were last year because ace reliever Rich Gossage and Ron Guidry were out with injuries.

"And we just blew some games we should have won on this road trip," said Lemon. "We'll be all right."

Think Moscow!

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) — The Moscow Olympics may be slightly more than a year away, but there was little question what was in the thoughts of the hundreds of American athletes who competed in the National AAU Track and Field Championships over the weekend.

While the nation's best were hooting for victories in the annual AAU competition, most considered the meet — and meets upcoming between now and the 1980 Games in Russia — as part of a timetable.

"Moscow has of course been my goal all along," said Steve Scott, the United States' top hope in the 1,500 meters. "All my time and training are geared to beating Steve Ovett (Great Britain) in the Olympics. When I train, I pretend I'm running against him — he's the best."

"I'd love to win the gold," said Evelyn Ashford, who scored a double in the AAU sprints for the second time. "My timetable is geared step by step for Moscow. I want to beat the East Germans, and I feel like I can do it."

Ashford, a 22-year-old who ran fifth in the Montreal Olympics 100 meters, shattered the American record in that event Saturday during the AAU meet with a time of 19.97 seconds. She came back Sunday to run a 22.07 in the 200, a wind-aided mark that would have rewritten the American standard.

Scott, three-time AAU 1,500 champion, whipped Don Paige in Sunday's final, clocking 3:36.40 to Paige's 3:37.33.

The outlook for America in the Moscow Olympics is generally bright based on the threeday AAU meet at Mount San Antonio College.

Hole-in-one

R.P. Nickolson shot his first hole-in-one in a 29-year golfing career, Sunday.

The ace came on the 16th hole at the Big Spring Country Club Course after a drive of 145 yards.

Witnessing the event were fellow players Richard Terry, Daryl Hertz, Lon Brice and Travis Hunter.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 18, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have a real chance to get ahead in important ventures by putting more energy and resourcefulness into them. By encouraging those about you with the incentive of praise, you make considerable headway with them, too.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Iron out any wrinkles in any new projects you are engaged in and they will work more efficiently. Do whatever will improve conditions at home and with kin. Be thoughtful and kind.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You need more money at this time and can easily find the right outlets to gain it. Seek out an expert who can give you good advice.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can gain fine benefits if you understand what it is that a bigwig expects of you. Handling tasks wisely is the keynote now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study personal desires well and then go after the best of such. A new outlet that fascinates you should be investigated. Show affection for friends who have been loyal to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Good day to study whatever most activates you and get fine knowledge. Follow a hunch that proves out your finest views. Screen your friends carefully.

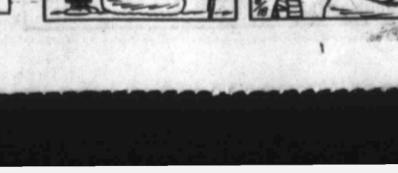

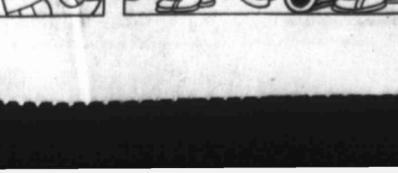

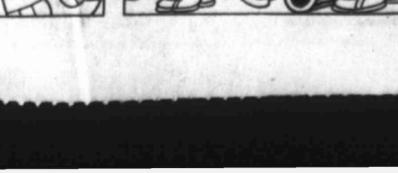

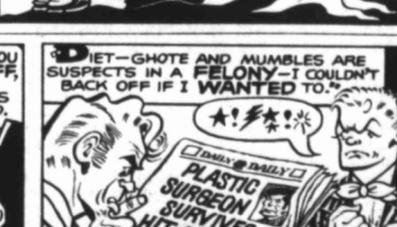

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good day to improve credit by handling debits and credits wisely. Come to a finer understanding with loved ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Come to better terms with one who will be in your life in some capacity in the future. Make your position in public more tenable, too.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Improve your surroundings and make a better impression on others. Listen to the clever ideas of a co-worker and follow them.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have the ability to be successful with any project that interests him or her because of the understanding of the various factors involved and using the best methods to operate. The scope here is great and your child should be encouraged early in life if fine results are to follow.

JCPenney's contributes heavily to the economy

DALLAS — J.C. Morgenson, regional vice president of J.C. Penney Company, Inc., has announced that the company contributed more than $357.7 million to Texas' economy.

Purchases from state manufacturers accounted for $233.2 million in merchandise which was distributed throughout the company's 2,090 J.C. Penney, the Treasury and Thrift Drug stores in the U.S., he said.

Combined payrolls in Texas amounted to more than $113 million going to approximately 35,081 full and part-time associates. The company employs 211,000 nationally and overseas.

Morgenson said the retailer paid about $11.4 million in corporate, property, use and unemployment insurance taxes in Texas.

"Additionally, our retail stores collected many millions of dollars in sales taxes for state and local governments," he said. "Texas has been very important to our company throughout the years. We opened our first store in the state at Dalhart in 1917 and we've always tried to operate in a manner that best benefits our Texas customers," Morgenson added.

At year-end J.C. Penney operated 208 retail support units in the state. Included are 129 J.C. Penney department stores, 3 Treasury, 20 Thrift Drug stores, and 56 other facilities and offices.

Morgenson said 4,557 Texans are stockholders in the company, which is the third largest general retailer in the nation. Last year, J.C. Penney Company achieved $10.8 billion in sales.

Morgenson "indicated that the company is greatly pleased with its growth in the state over the past 62 years. Our continued growth and expansion in Texas will be in direct relationship to the continued growth of the Texas economy and a healthy Texas business climate."

Mass extermination of dogs, cats ordered

PIEDRAS NEGRAS, Mexico (AP) — The mayor of this remote border town has ordered the mass extermination of all stray dogs and cats in an attempt to halt an outbreak of rabies.

Humberto Acosta told a news conference Sunday that beginning today Mexican health officials would shoot or poison stray animals. Acosta's action was prompted by the death of an unidentified 9-year-old girl at a local hospital last Saturday.

Officials here and in the neighboring South Texas community of Eagle Pass are waiting for the autopsy results.

However, Dr. Ruben

Chavez said he is "99 percent sure" the child died of the dreaded disease because she was showing the "classic symptoms of rabies" before her death.

More than 50 known cases of rabies in animals have been found on both sides of the border, and officials have predicted it could take up to six months to stop the spread of the disease.

In San Antonio, Gerardo Castano, 8, of Eagle Pass remained in critical condition Sunday night. The youngster was bitten by his father's small dog last month.

Although preliminary tests proved negative, doctors still were testing the youth for rabies.

Hustle 3 — It's difficult to say goodbye

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President, Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce, Industrial Growth and Development

This will be the last in this series of Hustle articles. Actually, this is number 123!

Of course it is always difficult to say goodbye to good friends, but in Chamber work, Industrial Development, or the travel industry, farewells come too often. In this case, my resignation as your Chamber Executive will be effective June 30. I will be on vacation til then, but will be available to help out as needed. My new position will be announced after July 1.

I do have a few things to say that I hope will be helpful to this community.

Much has happened since Inez and I left here to come to Big Spring almost two and one half years ago. From a professional standpoint, the most gratifying results have been in helping to pull the various groups of the Big Spring Area together as a unified entity. Oh sure, I am aware that there are still some unresolved areas of contention and that not everyone is oriented to the goals of quality growth thru positive progress. But, by and large, we have really come a long way in community unity. We have everything going to us as I reported in detail a couple of weeks ago. But make no mistake, the momentum must not be lost. And if we let up, just a little, we are liable to find that instead of progressing, we will actually be going back — because there is no status quo in community development. It is either forward or backward. And the Big Spring Area has all the tickets to go ahead!

Let me share a couple of unrealized goals or hopes that I feel will be vital to growth and well being.

First, or maybe this should be second, keeping the role of community harmony as paramount, so, second, is a viable industrial development program — under the Chamber's umbrella, and by this, I mean a really professional effort with a research team, a prospecting team, a contact team and an industrial relations team. Welded together by a professional Industrial Developer, Big Spring can realize major success to compete with neighboring communities. Both the City and the County are authorized by law to contribute funds to this program. And third — the Big Spring Area deserves a real concentrated effort in obtaining more return from the travel industry. Again, it is time to employ a professional approach to the Convention and Visitors Bureau activities. This is big business and if we wait much longer, we will lose out to our nearby competitors who are already reaping the benefits of a determined program. Those communities are using the hotel-motel tax to a good advantage in advertising and attracting visitors.

Well, there it is folks, pretty simple, but oh so vital; step one, two and three.

I have a special word for those who have done the most and received the least; your Chamber staff is the finest group of people that I have been privileged to work with. My sincere appreciation to them. Also thanks to the media, city, county, and school officials, the Chamber Board and Committees.

Inez and I leave all of you with much appreciation, best wishes, good luck, God bless and lots of HUSTLE!!!! HUSTLE!!!! HUSTLE!!!!

LOOTING IN MANAGUA — Frenzied Nicaraguans sack shops and stores Saturday as food and other supplies become more scarce after nearly two weeks of general strike. Most businesses and banks in the capital city are closed.

Sandinista rebels battle for provisional capital

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Sandinista rebels battled for a provisional capital in southern Nicaragua today, overran the national guard garrison in the country's second largest city and held large rebel positions.

The situation continued to deteriorate in Managua, where 50,000 persons jammed Red Cross centers seeking food and refuge from the fighting.

Most stores have been looted, food is growing scarce, and strong winds Sunday blew clouds of papers and debris from gutted stores down the streets.

The situation is "ten times worse than the 1970 earthquake" that devastated much of the city, a Red Cross spokesman said.

The rebel commander in the south, Eden Pastora, said his forces would take the city of Rivas, 30 miles north of the Costa Rican border, by Tuesday and establish a provisional government there.

The Sandinistas named a five-member junta over the weekend and said their aims were to overthrow 40 years of Somoza family rule, hold free elections and install a "government of international unity."

Maj. Pablo Emilio Salazar, 35, who commands Somoza's forces in the south, said there were about 700 men in the guerrilla force and they would be encircled and destroyed.

Col. Aquiles Aranda Escobar, the spokesman for Somoza's 13,000-man national guard, said the guerrillas had taken the villages of Penas Blancas on the Costa Rican border and Sapa, about two miles north on the Pan American Highway.

Aranda said the guerrillas were blocked there, but Pastora, in an interview on Costa Rican television that was filmed in Nicaragua, said his forces were advancing toward Rivas.

In Leon, Nicaragua's second largest city 54 miles northwest of the capital, Sandinistas were still fighting pockets of guardsmen who hid in buildings after their garrison was overrun and the building set on fire.

AP photographer Richard Cross was in the city Saturday and Sunday and reported some members of the garrison still held a fortified command post on the southern outskirts and were shelling the city with mortars while Somoza's planes rocketed and strafed
