Carter hits record low rating in poll

NEW YORK (AP) — A new ABC News-Harris poll gives President Carter's work the lowest rating ever and one of the lowest marks any president has received in the last 30 years. Only 25 percent of the 1,496 adults interviewed gave Carter a positive rating, down from 29 percent in May. The ABC-Harris poll taken June 13-17 found 73 percent giving Carter negative marks and 2 percent not sure. In May, Carter's negative rating was 70 percent, with 1 percent not sure.

Carter's current Harris rating compares with the 26 percent positive rating that the Harris poll found for then-President Richard M. Nixon in June 1974, two months before Nixon resigned in the midst of the Watergate scandal.

Using a different approval question, the Gallup Poll found a 24 percent positive rating for Nixon in July 1974. But the low point in modern polling history for a president was found in November 1951, when the Gallup Poll found only a 23 percent approval rating for then-President Harry Truman using a different approval question.

The Associated Press-NBC News poll found Carter's lowest ranking in August last year and in the last poll in early May. In both cases, those giving him "good" or "excellent" marks totalled 26 percent. In August, those rating his work "only fair" or "poor" reached 73 percent, while the same group totalled 72 percent in early May. The remainder were not sure. All of these poll figures have an error margin of at least 3 percentage points, meaning any difference between two figures of less than 3 points is not statistically significant.

The White House had no comment on the poll, but Vice President Walter Mondale said he wasn't concerned about it.

"I've been in public life a long time. Polls go up and polls go down. Polling at this point before a campaign is never very accurate," said Mondale, who was in San Francisco for a speech before the American Federation of Teachers.

The pollsters asked persons across the nation to rate the president's performance as excellent, pretty good, fair or poor.

The percentages of positive responses included both excellent and pretty good, the negative responses fair and poor.

Those questioned also were asked to rate the president on various aspects of his performance; the worst ratings were recorded on economic issues.

Carter got a negative rating of 82 percent on both his handling of the economy in general and his anti-inflation program, and an 83 percent negative rating on his efforts to deal with energy problems.

Sandinistas gain more ground on Nicaraguan national guard

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The Sandinista guerrillas overran another national guard garrison, in Matagalpa, and the government's offensive to retake Masaya appeared to be only a probing operation so far.

The rebels cleared out the garrison in Matagalpa, 55 miles northeast of Managua, after controlling the city for nearly a month and keeping the government troops pinned down in their barracks.

The rebels' Radio Sandino said five guardsmen were killed, a number of others were captured and a large cache of weapons was taken. One of President Anastasio Somoza's chief aides, Max Kelly, claimed the army abandoned the post in a tactical move so the soldiers could fight elsewhere.

The government claimed to have launched a counter-offensive to retake Masaya, 20 miles south of the capital. But reporters who toured the area found minimal national guard activity.

A DC-3 with a 50-caliber machine gun in the door strafed the countryside repeatedly, posing a threat only to farm animals.

Curry murder case will go before grand jury Thursday

The case of Jesse Packard Curry, who was charged June 17 with the murder of his mother, Lilly Curry, will be presented to the Howard County grand jury Thursday.

The grand jury will convene 9 a.m. Thursday and continue deliberations through Friday according to Assistant District Attorney Don Richard.

Curry was arrested June 17 after police were summoned to the home he shared with his mother, 2715 Central.

Police found Mrs. Curry lying on the front porch with a gunshot wound in her back. She died shortly after arrival at the emergency room of Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Other cases to be reviewed by the Grand Jury are:

—William Russell Ball and William Alfred Dahl, charged May 31 with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle; —Scott Murl Casselman and Scott Litton Davis, charged June 8 with possession of marijuana;

—Scott Murl Casselman, charged June 8 with possession of a controlled substance;

—Timothy Allen Davidson, charged May 17 with burglary;

—Timothy Allen Davidson, Julie Davidson and Russell Scott Bledsoe, charged June 26 with possession of marijuana;

—James Edward Early, charged June 12 with burglary;

—Melvine Ellis, charged May 24 with DWI—second offense;

—Kenneth Wayne Ford and Nolan McDaniel, charged May 31 with theft;

—Antonio P. Flores and Carlos Marquez, charged June 2 with theft by exercising control;

—Gonzalo Hernandez, Jr., charged March 13 with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon;

—Scott Allen Jackson, charged April 19 with theft;

—Ismael Juarez, Jr., charged April 23 with aggravated robbery;

—Joe Molina Ledesma, charged Feb. 15, with aggravated robbery;

—Curtis Roy Lockhart, charged with two counts of burglary, May 28 and May 31;

—Henry Ellis Minton and Monica Sheryl Wilson, charged Feb. 11 with the unauthorized use of a motor vehicle;

—Jimmy Moore and Ricky Ray Winters, charged June 7 with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon;

—Mary Gonzales Martinez, charged May 25 with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon;

—Randall Ray Roberts, charged May 10 with burglary;

—Gilbert Snyder, charged June 12 with theft;

—Harvey Lee Wheeler, charged May 10 with DWI—second offense.

Gas supplies may be shifted

Governors given new authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, faced with federal rules that contribute to long gasoline lines in urban areas, is granting governors new authority to shift up to 5 percent of their state's gasoline supplies from the country to the city.

That would be in addition to the 5 percent "set aside" they already control.

Carter made the new offer Monday after being told federal allocation rules "put the gasoline where the cars are not."

The common reaction of several governors queried was that they would have to wait until they see specifics of the plan before commenting on how it might work in their states.

Carter planned to work today on details of a "bold and forceful program" to cut the nation's thirst for imported oil.

He will explain the general outline of the program in a broadcast speech to the nation Thursday at 9 p.m. EDT — his third energy speech since taking office.

The program is expected to include a revived standby gasoline rationing plan, federal incentives for producing synthetic fuels, mandatory thermostat controls for non-residential buildings and a fleshed-out version of an "energy security fund" he proposed in his last energy speech.

Memorial ceremony, parade to mark July 4 observance

The Fourth of July in Big Spring begins with an 8:30 a.m. Independence Day Ceremony on the east side of the courthouse. Sponsored by the All Veterans Planning Council, the ceremony will include wreaths laid at the service memorial by Gold Star Mothers.

A parade, featuring decorated bicycles, homemade floats, costumed participants, a kazoo band, a firetruck, color guard and motorcycle escort begins from the east end of Highland Drive at 10 a.m.

Parade entrants will be judged at the parade starting point at 9:30 a.m. Silver dollars will be awarded in categories of tricycles, bicycles, costumes, wagons or three-wheel vehicles and motor-driven vehicles. Master of ceremonies will be Dan Wilkins.

A patriotic speech will be delivered by Dr. Brian Caplan, a newcomer to this country. The doctor and his family moved here from South Africa early this year.

Refreshments will be served following the program.

The parade is a fun event, begun by Highland South residents several years ago. It has grown into an annual community event and all Fourth of July celebrants are invited to come out and participate or watch.

Focalpoint

Action /reaction: How many miles

Q. If you traveled around the borders of Texas, how far would you travel?

A. According to the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, 3,816 miles. The exact distance would vary from time to time because the Rio Grande changes its channel quite a bit. The Rio Grande, incidentally, forms the Texas border for 1,248 miles, the Red River for 726 miles and the tidewater coastline for 624 miles — so take your wading boots.

DON RICHARDSON

ANDY VESTAL

New county agent happy to return to West Texas

Don Richardson put in his first full day Monday as Howard County's new agricultural extension agent — happy in the thought that he had returned to his native West Texas.

Richardson came here from Alice in Jim Wells County, which he had served as county agent since 1975. He is a native of Post in Garza County, where his father, Floy, still maintains farming and ranching interests.

He is married to the former Sharon Bernaud of Higgins, Tex. They have two children, son Blair, age 12, and daughter Shauna, 8. His family will join him here as soon as he can find suitable lodging.

Don fielded the Grand Champion steer at the State Fair of Texas in 1956.

After attending public schools in Post, Richardson enrolled at Texas Tech University, majoring in Ag. Economics. He graduated from Texas in 1965 and just this year earned his Master's degree in Ag Education at Texas A&M.

He left his options open in planning for a career until Billy Gunter, the District Agent at Lubbock, called, urging him to devote his life to county extension work.

Don had known Gunter while in 4-H Club work at Post.

Richardson applied for work with the Extension Service in 1965 and was assigned as the assistant agent in Guadalupe County under Henry New. He remained there 2½ years before he was named county agent in Lampasas County, succeeding Jerry Vines.

He stayed there almost eight years, during which time he promoted a very successful 4-H beef cattle program.

He emerged as the Texas winner of the National Achievement Award in 1974, an honor signifying that he was the outstanding county agent with less than ten years' experience in the state.

He moved to Jim Wells County in 1975 as the County Agent, succeeding Les Brandes.

Here, Don will devote his efforts toward promoting the best farming methods among adults while his assistant, Andy Vestal, will work primarily with the 4-H program. Vestal has been filling in as the county agent until a successor to Bruce Griffith could be named.

Richardson is a Methodist by profession of faith.

June building permits go over $500,000 mark

Big Spring building permits issued for the month of June totaled 41, only a little more than half of the June 1978 total but the dollar value was up sharply.

Two projects valued at $100,000 each and a residence planned by C.C. Grigg costing $82,000 brought the month's total this year to $501,288, compared to $388,692.25 for the same month in 1978.

One of the $100,000 buildings planned was for a Taco Villa Restaurant at 1501 Gregg Street. The other was for the remodeling of the old Piggly-Wiggly Store in the Highland Shopping Center for occupancy by Dunlap's Department Store.

J.O. McCrary applied for a permit for a new residence at 510 Highland Drive costing $70,000 while John Wayne Speegle is constructing a new home at 709 Avondale at a cost of $60,000.

Construction for the year is still lagging far behind the first six months of 1978, totaling $2,384,458, compared to $4,787,176 for the first six months of 1978.

Local guardsmen firing at Fort Bliss ranges

FORT BLISS, Tex. — Big Spring National Guardsmen, a part of the 49th Armored Division's artillery battalions, swung into their second week of training Sunday at Fort Bliss firing ranges north of El Paso.

The local guardsmen joined more than 1,800 Texas artillerymen last week for their summer encampment, taking advantage of the artillery post's sprawling Dona Ana and Oro Grande firing ranges.

The Texas cannoners fired their huge 155 mm and 8" self-propelled howitzers the first week. Rugged tactical exercises and Army Readiness Training Tests are scheduled throughout their second week of training.

Regular Army officers from Fort Bliss are evaluating the Texas Guardsmen. Big Spring Guardsmen complete their training Saturday.

The 49th Armored Division is also conducting simultaneous summer encampment at Fort Hood in central Texas and Fort Polk in Louisiana. In all, more than 100 communities are represented by some 8,000 Texas Guardsmen at the three encampments.

Check your car license

If your car license expired in June, said County Tax Assessor-Collector Zirah Bednar, the car should not be driven until it is registered. Otherwise, 20 percent of the registration fee will be added as a fine. If the car has not been driven the owner need only to sign an affidavit to that effect.

To register bring your three part renewal notice from Austin or the title and registration receipt to the Automotive Office at the courthouse.

Building rites set Wednesday

MIDLAND — Ceremonies noting the 50th anniversary of the Petroleum Building here, once known as the Shell Building, will be held in front of the structure at 2 p.m., Wednesday.

The 12-story structure, first major office building in Midland, was officially dedicated July 4, 1929.

The Midland County Historical Society is sponsoring the ceremony.

Estes defense action angers presiding judge

DALLAS (AP) — A surprised prosecutor and presiding judge reacted angrily when Billie Sol Estes' defense lawyer announced plans to put the paroled swindler on the stand.

"You're not shooting straight," U.S. District Judge Robert Hill told attorney G. Brockett Irwin at the close of Monday's proceedings.

Irwin had told Hill, after the government rested its case last week, he might not call any witnesses, indicating the case could go to the jury today.

Hill had based his schedule on Irwin's statement and threatened to hold the lawyer in contempt Monday when he made the surprise announcement.

"Why didn't he say this when I asked him for his witness list an hour ago?" demanded assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Rolfe when Irwin announced the new defense strategy.

Estes' co-defendant, Raymond K. Horton, testified in his own defense Monday and told Rolfe that his dealings with Estes are "none of your business and none of the IRS' business."

Estes and Horton are accused of defrauding investors in oil field steam cleaning equipment prosecutors claim never existed and with concealing business assets from the federal government.

The government's case relies heavily on 29 hours of taped conversations between Estes and an undercover IRS investigator in which Estes said he was an equal business partner with Horton. The 51-year-old Midland businessman dismissed the claims as idle boasting.

"He was always taking the liberty of saying he owned half of everything I owned," Horton said.

Horton said he set up a "perfectly legal" trust for Estes' children as a method of reworking Estes for the expertise he brought to several profitable business ventures. He hired Estes as a business consultant following the Abilene promoter's release from prison in 1971.

"I wanted to do business with Mr. Estes. I thought if we could do some business I would be glad to help his family," Horton said.

It was because of his financial problems, Horton said, that he decided to join in the deal to manufacture the steam cleaners, sell them to leasing companies and then lease them back.

Horton contended the steam cleaners existed and were inspected in a San Antonio plant by a former employee. But Horton said he later learned the cleaners were seized in a debt judgment against the plant owner.

Marble size hail falls at Levelland Monday

By The Associated Press

Winds gusted to 40 mph at the Lubbock airport and marble size hail fell at Levelland late Monday as thunderstorms rumbled across West Texas.

There were no immediate reports of serious damage.

Forecasts called for more widely scattered thunderstorms in West Texas today, but the rest of the state was to have clear to partly cloudy skies with temperatures mostly in the 90s.

Although several areas of West Texas had thunderstorm activity during the night, all the activity ceased long before dawn. Rainfall amounts were light.

The rest of Texas had clear skies and warm temperatures throughout the night. Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s with a few readings in South Texas remaining near the 80-degree mark during the pre-dawn hours.

Hoarding just won't get it done

There's not much doubt now but that the government and the oil industry have riveted attention on the energy crisis.

They say that President Carter himself was a long time in facing up to the problem. The chief executive came to fret about it only after his aide, James Schlesinger, became convinced that such supplies, the kind that came from fossilized fuels, would never again be plentiful.

LET US ALL concede that the nation, because it is so dependent on foreign imports, has a problem. Hoarding fuel, however, is no way to solve the problem. On the contrary, it can only aggravate the situation.

All over the nation, motorists are buying extra gas cans (some of them safe, some not so safe), filling them with highly-inflammable liquid and storing them away either in the trunks of their vehicles or in their garages.

Some hastily organized businesses are realizing enormous profits by adding supplementary gas tanks to people's automobiles and trucks. That means that such vehicles will theoretically be able to go twice as far as before on their supply of gasoline but they'll be spending twice as much once they do have to refuel. That may not bother the ultra rich but for the average wage earner it may pose a problem.

More importantly, however, if the sale of gasoline supplies is eventually restricted, as experts think they will be, then the problem will become more acute for those persons with jumbo-size tanks.

One fellow bragged that the range of his car reached a staggering 2,500 miles after the operation he ordered on his car but imagine the shock he is in for when he pulls into a station for a refill. He might have to drive down to the docks to catch an oil tanker recently in from one of the OPEC nations.

THERE ARE people in the Washington, D.C., area buying big gasoline storage tanks and planting them in their lawns. One of those is a former Secretary of the Navy, J. William Middendorf, who reportedly will have 4,000 gallons of gasoline in reserve if he can get someone to sell him that much fuel at one time.

Hoarding never solved any problem, whether a country had to deal with coffee, razor blades or a fuel crisis. A rush on supplies does nothing but send up the price of a commodity.

Sad to say, we're becoming a people growing cold and callous toward each other, with a one-dimensional "I'm strictly looking out for myself" philosophy.

The truth of the matter is, we're all in this thing together and the quicker we try to solve our problems collectively rather than individually, the better off we're all going to be.

Ideas: Good, bad

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

Is there a gasoline shortage or isn't there?

I don't really know enough about the entire situation to venture an opinion one way or another but I do believe that we Americans need to get away from our foolish use of energy. And, I do believe that some of the "solutions" to making us conserve that precious supply of energy are about as ill-advised and ridiculous as the government has ever come up with in the past.

The one particular policy advised and now being forced into law is that of setting all business and government thermostats at 80 degrees regardless of the climate or area of the country.

Setting the thermostat at 80 in the northeast where it doesn't stay hot for very long may sound like a good idea. But have those energy advisers ever been in Texas during the summer when it is common for temperatures to climb over 100 for months at a time, I seriously doubt it. And even if the temperatures decided to be nice and stay in the middle 90s the Gulf Coast regions would make it feel like 120. I know I grew up in that area.

Trying to work in a building with the temperature in the 80s would be like trying to work in a sauna. Impossible. I certainly wouldn't want to be a federal employee in the Houston-Galveston area right now.

Gov. Clement's policy of no ties and coats is a good one in my opinion. I see no reason to get all dressed up because the minute you walk outside you begin to perspire, the dressed-up look vanishes. It is one of the few practical solutions to beating the heat and the energy crisis that any governmental official has come up with. Good for you Mr. Clements.

ON THE NEWS the other night I heard another good idea that a gas company official thought of for his company. The employees would work nine-hour days and have every other Friday off. That way they would save gasoline coming to and from work. This company also made available to its employees a carpool system and a bus system that allowed many of them to leave their cars at home and relax on the way to work while saving gas and money. A very good idea, one that I would not complain about if I were an employee of the company. And it is good that the gas and oil companies begin to set the example of conserving energy if they want Americans to believe that there really is an energy crisis.

If there is or is not a shortage of fuel supplies, I am all for conserving the supplies that we do have. I have never believed in wasting anything, and that's what Americans have been doing with energy for way too long. Now is the time to change our ways. If we don't, what will be left for the next generations?

Summer talks

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — It's getting on to summer time and people will be going to places where they will meet strangers. How do you impress them? Here are a few things to say to make them realize you are someone to be reckoned with.

"My husband makes his own gasohol from potato peelings."

"Once you understand inflation, it's hard to hate it."

"My son is on the night shift at Three Mile Island."

"ELIZABETH TAYLOR Warner is in my Weight Watcher's class."

"We refinanced the mortgage on our home through Bert Lance."

"I think the oil companies are neat."

"I have this friend, Miriam who took Geritol every day, and then suddenly her husband asked her for a divorce."

"Roman Polanski is making a film with my daughter."

"Would you like to see a picture of our test-tube baby?"

"Our main business is supplying liquor for the Ayatollah Khomeini's state dinners."

"Harold knows everything there is to know about the SALT II agreements."

"We saw the King Tut exhibit, but we didn't like it."

"I had both Gore Vidal and Truman Capote for dinner last week."

"Margaret Trudeau danced at our son's wedding."

"WE LOOKED at Nixon's house in San Clemente, but decided not to buy it."

"We don't smoke or drink, but we still like to go to swinging bars."

"I'd rather watch bad television than read a good book."

"I never met a person from OPEC I didn't like."

"I wish my ex-husband would get married again, so I could stop paying him alimony."

"Things have to get better before they get worse."

"My brother works for a multinational corporation — in the bribery department."

"We feed a family of four for $25 a week."

"I have a friend on the Supreme Court who tells me everything that's going on."

"My wife is related to Queen Victoria, on the gamekeeper's side of the family."

Why potassium supplements?

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Please explain the function of potassium in the body. — Mrs. L.J.

A pretty technical question, but surely one that must enter the mind of many readers and patients who take potassium supplements.

Potassium is found in nature in adequate quantities. It is essential for total nutrition. Like vitamins and certain proteins, everyone's diet must include potassium because the body cannot produce it.

Most of it finds its way to the interior of cells (like red blood cells or muscle cells). Without it, cells are not able to do their work — taking in energy (as glucose) and using it to make new cells.

The average daily diet contains plenty of potassium, so supplements are seldom needed. Bananas and orange juice are rich in it. In excess it can be damaging.

Potassium got "publicity" with the increased use of water pills (for high blood pressure). There is danger of losing too much potassium along with the liquid loss. So supplements are used.

If there is a lack of it (as measured by blood tests) the patient complains of weakness, heart rhythm problems and poor intestinal function. Some water pills (diuretics) may contain a substance that avoids potassium loss. Certain other conditions cause a potassium deficit — diarrhea, vomiting, and adrenal gland problems, but the average person need not worry about getting less than his share with a normal diet.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have written before, but have seen no response. I will try again. Are you only interested in the simple questions? I asked why the bottoms of my feet burn? They feel like I'm standing on a hot stove. I'm looking forward, but not too confidently, for your answer. — "Hotfoot."

There are so many causes for hot feet that I couldn't begin to list them, much less discuss each individually. They range from diabetes (nerve involvement) to tight shoes, poor circulation and fabric sensitivity (nylons). The symptom is not to be ignored, especially one as dramatic as yours.

Many people complain about hot burning feet with REDNESS, and often no specific cause can be found. A fancy name for it is "erythromelalgia." A patient of mine had the burning only after he got into bed. His answer was to stick his feet out of the covers. Simple, but effective. Some even use fans. The booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet" may fill in other gaps in your knowledge of this subject. For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been dieting for a few weeks and have lost about 10 pounds. Do you know of some exercises that will reduce the "saddlebags" on my thick thighs? No matter how much I diet, I cannot seem to lose them. I take large amounts of vitamins. Am I getting enough for my body? I am 5-7 and now weigh 115 pounds. — Ms. D.L.

Sorry, I can't congratulate you on your successful weight loss because from the statistics you give me you may be below normal weight for your age and height. Dieting to remove unwanted weight in specific parts of the body puts you in the position of the cat who chases its tail, not an inap-

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: A friend has been talking to me about accepting Christ. I think it is a good idea, but I want to live it up a little bit before I do it. He says I am wrong to delay. What do you think? — J.D.C.

DEAR J.D.C.: I agree with your friend for several reasons. The Bible warns us against delay, and I take that very seriously. It tells us, "Now is the time of God's favor, now is the day of salvation" (2 Corinthians 6:2, New International Version).

Why does the Bible warn us against delay? One reason is because of the uncertainty of life itself. Think of the story Jesus told of the rich man who decided to "Take life easy; eat, drink and be merry" (Luke 12:19 NIV). But that very night he died, and God said, "You fool! This very night your life will be demanded from you" (vs. 20). Think how tragic it would be if you delayed accepting Christ and your life was snuffed out in an automobile wreck or other accident. You would be lost eternally because of your delay.

Another reason the Bible warns us against delay is because there is a proper comparison in your case.

You're getting closer to the solution when you speak of exercises, as you do in another part of your letter (deleted). That is a long and sometimes unrewarding effort, but worth the try. Finally, remember that man does not live by vitamins alone, so I do hope you are also including some substantial food nutrients in whatever diet you are on.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What would you say about the risks to a woman and the fetus if a woman of 40 gets pregnant? — M.A.

For a normal, healthy woman getting proper prenatal care the risks are quite minimal. There are probably more risks involved in a teenager who is not getting appropriate medical attention.

You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Ruble in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

natural tendency for our hearts to become colder and colder toward God, until we are no longer interested in coming to Christ. Paul witnessed directly to a Roman governor named Felix, and warned him about delaying because judgment would surely come. But Felix replied, "That's enough for now! You may leave. When I find it more convenient, I will send for you" (Acts 24:25, NIV). But Felix's heart grew cold, and he never turned to Christ.

I think there is another reason the Bible tells us not to delay. This is because God loves us and wants us to know the joy and peace that only Christ can bring. I know it looks to you like a life away from God is glamorous, but it is not. Some of the most empty people I have ever met have been those who had the opportunity to indulge in every pleasure and adventure life has to offer. Yet down inside they are empty and searching. Christ wants to give you a new start in life. Following Him will be the greatest adventure you have ever known.

Carter cuts back

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Suppressed White House minutes indicate that President Carter deliberately cut back gasoline supplies this year to keep his pledge to the other industrial nations that the United States would reduce oil consumption by 5 percent.

As late as May 7, after motorists in California already had started lining up for gasoline, Carter notified the Cabinet bluntly: "Our priority will continue to be home heating, agriculture and emergency needs over highway driving." He therefore predicted: "There will be less gasoline, and it will cost more."

Copies of the minutes were restricted to Cabinet members and marked "for your eyes only." Nevertheless, our associate Gary Cohn has obtained the confidential minutes from White House sources.

AT THE April 23 Cabinet meeting, the president turned to Energy Secretary James Schlesinger for a detailed report. The minutes record: "Dr. Schlesinger said that the nation continues to reduce its import of oil and that this reduction may create a problem in public understanding."

He blamed the drop in the oil gauge upon reduced shipments from Iran and cutbacks in Saudi Arabia. "This will create constraints in oil supplies," he reported, "in the beginning of the coming summer."

Yet he acknowledged that the government itself was endeavoring to hold down oil imports to meet "the reduction goals to which we are committed as part of the international energy agreement."

State the secret minutes: "The Secretary indicated that, in general, we will meet our goal of reducing overall demand in the United States by about five percent."

In this context, he warned the Cabinet: "Gasoline demand remains high, and a tight supply situation is expected this summer." Yet the same Schlesinger, calmly puffing his pipe and offering his views on the gasoline shortage, told reporters a month and a half later that the gasoline squeeze should ease. "Gas lines should end around the country," he said. "There should be no generalized shortages."

The record indicates, however, that he showed no interest in easing the gasoline shortage until the Carter administration began feeling the political impact of long gas lines and public anger over the 18-cent price increase per gallon.

EARLIER, THE administration quietly fostered a gasoline curb by allowing oil companies to take certain price rises as soon as market conditions would permit it. The companies couldn't make the increases stick as long as there was a gas glut. The Carter policy encouraged them to hold down production and create a tight market.

The president also kept dropping hints that he would decontrol gas prices, without quite doing so. The refiners held off expanding their production capacity, meanwhile, in anticipation of higher prices.

According to the minutes Schlesinger's deputy, John O'Leary, reported to the Cabinet on May 7 that "the Department of Energy anticipates national gasoline supply reductions will average two to three percent this summer over last summer, combined with an anticipated average increase in usage of three percent."

Carter did nothing to alleviate this anticipated shortage until he started hearing from angry motorists. He has taken full credit with other industrial nations, meanwhile, for keeping his pledge to cut oil consumption by 5 percent.

During the four weeks ending June 1, the domestic demand for petroleum products fell to 17 million barrels a day. This was 6.2 percent below the 1978 level for the same period. Most of the decline, as Carter had intended, came in gasoline consumption, which was down 10 percent.

'I'm very glad to be back'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Terre Fleener, a former San Antonio coed imprisoned in Israel for 20 months after being convicted of spying for Arab terrorists, is back in her hometown, visiting the grandmother who reared her and making future plans.

Ms. Fleener, 24, released from prison over the weekend, was greeted upon her return Monday with roses and champagne from friends and a tearful embrace from her 67-year-old grandmother, Rose Guerrero.

"I just want to go home and be with my grandmother," said Ms. Fleener, who lived most of her life with Mrs. Guerrero. Ms. Fleener, her associates said, plans to spend an undetermined number of days with Mrs. Guerrero before going to Washington for a press conference.

She has said she plans to reenter college, perhaps in California, and it has been reported she plans a book about her experiences in the Middle East.

"It's been very difficult, but I'm very glad to be back," Ms. Fleener told reporters upon her arrival at the San Antonio International Airport.

Ms. Fleener, the first American citizen ever jailed in Israel on security charges, was arrested and charged in 1977 with taking photographs and collecting information for Palestine Liberation Organization terrorists during a 1976 trip to Israel.

She was convicted in January 1978 after a one-day closed door trial and sentenced to five years in prison.

The sentence has halved last month, reportedly due to pressure from the United States. She became eligible for parole last week and was released Saturday.

"I am very, very grateful to the American government," she said as she walked to a car, arm-in-arm with her grandmother and surrounded by three airport security guards and reporters.

On the plane trip from Israel to Rome, Ms. Fleener told the associated Press that the PLO's terrorist tactics were "the only route available to them" and said she still believes "very strongly in the Palestinian people's struggle."

"I won't walk away from it," she said. "I won't let myself..."

But at Monday's reunion, she was asked if she still supported the terrorists and replied, "That's a tough question to answer. It's quite involved. I don't condone it or condemn it. I would rather explain it."

The 5-foot-6 Ms. Fleener, appearing nervous and much thinner than the more than 160 pounds she weighed at the time of her imprisonment, was attired in jeans, a checked sleeveless blouse and wore a navy blue scarf knotted around her neck.

She tearfully hugged her grandmother for several minutes and was overheard telling her, "I feel pretty good."

Airport security officers had originally told Mrs. Guerrero that Ms. Fleener had not boarded the flight in New York. Neither Mrs. Guerrero or reporters left the gate, however, and Ms. Fleener walked into the lobby a few moments later.

"I feel wonderful, excited, nervous and tense and I'm about to cry," Mrs. Guerrero said as she awaited her granddaughter. "I just want to take her home and let her get her feet on the ground. I'm going to let her do what she wants to do and give her a lot of love."

She refused to elaborate, saying, "I'm afraid I'm just a little overwhelmed right now. This is a complicated issue. I don't think I can handle that right now."

Catherine Edwards, Ms. Fleener's former political science professor at UTSA and a witness at the trial in Israel, said there would be a press conference in Washington by the end of next week. Washington was chosen, she said, because it is a national media center.

SUNFLOWER, TEXAS SIZE — J.R. Berry, 1210 Mulberry, looks over a ten feet, two inch sunflower which is growing in his yard. His neighbors have been referring to it as "Jack's Beanstalk," referring, of course, to the nursery story about the youngster who climbed a plant to explore the home turf of a hostile giant.

Most American hostages don't survive terrorist captivity

William F. Niehous, rescued last week after being held for three years by Venezuelan revolutionaries, is one of more than 30 Americans taken hostage by political terrorists in nations of the Third World in the last decade.

He was held the longest, and last week was the only one still in captivity. He was a businessman, while most of the others were on the U.S. government payroll. And Niehous, unlike many of the others, survived.

One of the first hostages was the U.S. ambassador to Brazil in 1969, Charles Elbrick, who was taken by leftist guerrillas and released after a few days when Brazil's military government released five left-wing political prisoners.

Dan Mitrone, 50, a former Richmond, Ind., police chief employed by the U.S. Agency for International Development to advise the Uruguayan police how to fight left-wing terrorists, was kidnapped July 31. Ten days later, he was found dead in a parked car.

The same guerrillas that year also held Claude L. Fly, an agricultural expert from Fort Collins, Colo., for 208 days.

In Argentina, the People's Revolutionary Army kidnapped Victor Samuelson, 36, of Cleveland, on Dec. 6, 1973, from the Exxon refinery he managed. He was freed four months later after Exxon paid a record $14.2 million ransom.

Eleven days later, members of the same guerrilla organization shot Alfred A. Laun 3rd, head of the U.S. Information Service in Cordoba, Argentina, in the stomach and dragged him from his home. He was later found abandoned, but alive.

John Patrick Egan, the honorary U.S. consul in Cordoba, was kidnapped Feb. 26, 1975, by left-wing Montonero guerrillas.

The Argentine government demanded the Argentine government prove four missing comrades were alive. When the government made no response after two days, Egan, 62, was shot in the head and his body dumped from an automobile wrapped in a Montonero flag.

North Koreans rebuff reunification talks

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea today rebuffed an invitation by President Carter and South Korean President Park Chung-hee for reunification talks, saying "the United States has no right to intervene in our country's domestic affairs."

The statement, in an English-language broadcast by the official Korean Central News Agency, appeared to reject Carter's "major diplomatic initiative" to settle differences between the two Koreas, divided since 1946. "The Korean reunification issue is an internal problem of Korea and it should be solved by Koreans themselves without intervention by external influences," said the broadcast, quoting a commentary by Rodong Simun, the North Korean Communist Party newspaper. "The United States has no right to intervene in our country's domestic affairs."

It said the United States could foster reunification by "stopping its intervention in the internal affairs of Korea and withdrawing U.S. troops from South Korea."

North Korea added that instead of reunification, the United States should talk with it about "changing the Korean armistice agreement to a peace treaty."

at the end of Carter's two-day visit to Seoul.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said North Korea, China and the Soviet Union had been notified of the proposal in advance, and there were "some indications" the North Koreans might accept.

The two Koreas held preliminary talks in 1971 and 1972 under the auspices of the Red Cross with the aim of reuniting families divided by the separation of the peninsula and the Korean War. The talks later became more political and in 1973 broke down.

Recently, the North Koreans indicated they wanted to open negotiations again and last week offered to include South Korea in peace treaty talks with the United States. Previously, the North Koreans contended that the South Koreans should be excluded because they did not sign the 1953 truce agreement.

The United States refuses to negotiate Korean peace without the governments of the North and the South participating on an equal basis.

During his visit, President Carter gave South Korea new assurances of American support if it is attacked. Officials said he made no final decision on when to resume the troop withdrawal that began after he took office but halted after intelligence reports showed a North Korean military buildup.

Dog days in Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana is only a governor's signature away from having an official state dog — the Catahoula hog dog.

Amid barks and growls, the Senate voted 32-4 Monday for the House-passed bill. After concurrence by the House on a minor amendment, the measure goes to the governor.

"The Catahoula is a dog used for many things. It's a good farm dog. It's faithful, affectionate, and well-intentioned — sort of like this Senate," said Sen. Jim Brown, who represents Catahoula Parish.

Sen. Elwyn Nicholson of Marrero wasn't impressed. "Would you agree that is one ugly dog?" asked Nicholson.

If the bill is signed by the governor, the Catahoula, known mostly for herding cows and hogs, will become a state symbol — right up there with the official fossil, the petrified palm, and the official insect, the honeybee.

Coffee on the gas line

ROSELAND, N.J. (AP) — Roseland officials say 11-year-old Billy Halliwell does not need a vending license to peddle coffee and packaged goods to motorists waiting in gasoline lines.

Borough attorney Ralph Conte said no license was needed "in view of the age of the applicant and the nature of the temporary conditions under which the sales activity will continue and based on a realistic interpretation of the word 'business.'"

The ruling came in answer to a complaint lodged by luncheonette owner Barrie Werfel who said Billy's coffee was selling for a nickel less than his own.

"I don't want him in front of my door," said Werfel, when told of the decision.

Said Conte: "I have equated the young man's activity with the summer sale of lemonade by children all over the state."

Nuclear project good, bad for city

Editor's Note: Nuclear power in this coastal town has brought in people and money, but it's also brought in more traffic, crime and a strain on municipal services. These things seem to bother more people than the question of nuclear safety.

BAY CITY, Texas (AP) — Most, like Chamber of Commerce Director Jim Sumpter and Police Chief Barney Mason, will look you square in the eye and tell you the massive South Texas Nuclear Project is good, damn good, for Bay City.

But there are a few, like 68-year-old Doug Havard, who will look you just as square in the eye and tell you it isn't worth the problems it's already brought and the nuclear catastrophe they fear it could later bring.

There's no question, however, that the once-placid commercial center for Matagorda County's ranchers and rice farmers has been transformed into something of a nuclear boom town by the construction 18 miles away of what will be the nation's largest nuclear power plant.

Bay City's population has nearly doubled to an estimated 22,000-24,000 since 1970. Sales tax receipts, fed by the millions of dollars per year from the 4,500 workers on the $1.7 billion project, have tripled since the construction began in 1976.

Apartment complexes, mobile home parks, new brick houses — and the grocery stores, fast food franchises and shopping centers that go with them — have sprouted in coastal pastures where farmers raised rice, maize and cattle only a few years before.

But they haven't sprouted fast enough to avoid a housing shortage. Some new one-bedroom apartments are bringing $300 per month — plus utilities. Rents jump every time contractor Brown & Root grants a blanket raise, said Bay City Tribune Managing Editor Jay Jacobs.

Bay City has even added a glistening new Cinema IV, which has lately been showing the thriller "China Syndrome," a movie about an accident at a nuclear power plant. The movie didn't seem to faze anybody and, besides, the moviegoers of Bay City liked "Rocky II" better anyway, said Cinema IV Manager Freddy Nolen.

But there are a few who note the increased crime.

unprecedented traffic problems and the strains on Bay City's schools and municipal services. And they also remind you of the nuclear accident last March at Three-Mile Island, Pennsylvania.

"The nuclear plant doesn't bother me a bit, not a bit," said Sumpter, 55, who knew about the planned plant when he moved his family to Bay City five years ago. "I personally can't see any more reason to worry about this than I would a refinery or an oil barge exploding or a hurricane blowing in."

"This plant and all the others will be safer because of what they learned in Pennsylvania," he added.

"I don't mind having the plant here at all. Most of the people I know are glad it's here," echoed Mason, who's seen the police force grow from four officers and a car 27 years ago to 24 officers and 11 cars today.

"It's brought us a few problems, mainly from the common laborers, the scum, the ex-cons who can't find any other job. But we've benefited more," he added. "It's damn good for the county and good for the city."

What about the extensive reports on the Three-Mile Island accident?

"It just bored the hell out of me," he said.

"I'm just flat scared of it. I was on Okinawa when they dropped that damn bomb on Japan," said Havard, who lives eight miles from the plant. "After they told me what that son-of-a-gun did, there has been a fear in me about that. Someone could get careless or something could go wrong and where in the hell would we be?"

"There's no question the economy's booming and we've got to have the electricity," said Matagorda County Tax Assessor-Collector James Humphreys. "But I sure wish that thing was up in San Antonio and they were going to be wiring the electricity down to us. That accident up East in Pennsylvania just scares me to death."

"Where are we going to put the waste? I don't want it here," he added. "Do you think they want it in San Antonio or Austin?"

Humphreys' tax rolls have fattened considerably and will increase by the time the plant begins operating in about two years. But Matagorda County and the Palacios Independent School District, a 1,400-student district in the southern tip of the county, are suing two of the STNP partners — Austin and San Antonio — for non-payment of taxes.

The municipally-owned utilities in the two cities claim their 44 percent of the STNP should be tax exempt. Humphreys agrees the utilities should be exempt in Austin and San Antonio, but not in Matagorda County, where the citizens derive no benefits from the two city utilities.

If the county and school district win, it could mean about $2 million, plus even more substantial future tax revenues when the project is completed. Since Austin and San Antonio have not yet paid, Humphreys said, "At this point, the South Texas Project is not paying its own way, not for the extra roads and services we've had to provide."

George Holst, the superintendent of the already petroleum-rich Palacios schools, said the project "is a tremendous boost economically." The district has had to add some portable classrooms in its elementary schools, but already had ample room in relatively new buildings, Holst said.

Patriotic service set

In honor of Independence Day, Hillcrest Baptist Church will host a special patriotic service 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Rev. Phillip McClendon, pastor, will present a special sermon, "Which Way America." Singing and special music will also mark the celebration.

The public is invited to attend.

Beauty contestant alive

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Contrary to one report, the dark-eyed woman who will represent Nicaragua in the Miss Universe Contest is alive and practicing yoga to take her mind off her country's war.

Patricia Pineda Chamorro, 9, and her mother fled the town of Rivas when fighting erupted there two weeks ago and took refuge in the Managua Yoga Institute. Miss Pineda hoped to leave today for Australia, site of the beauty contest.

Told of an Australian newspaper report that she might have been killed in the heavy fighting, Miss Pineda said, "As you can see, I am very much alive."

"The yoga is good exercise for the mind and body," she said in an interview Monday. "I particularly needed the yoga when I could hear the bombs exploding and the machine guns firing."

Byrd travels to Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Senate Majority leader Robert Byrd, who says he hasn't made up his mind on the SALT II treaty, traveled to Moscow today before a trip to the Crimea and a meeting with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

The West Virginia Democrat spent most of Monday sightseeing in Leningrad, where he laid a wreath at a cemetery to victims of the 900-day German blockade of that city during World War II.

Byrd's trip has been described as a source of concern to Carter administration officials, who fear that undiplomatic behavior by the Russians could turn the influential senator against the treaty.

Recent hard-line Soviet statements opposing any Senate amendments to the accord have drawn a hostile response from senators.

Pops conductor recovers

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Pops will be without conductor Arthur Fiedler, fireworks and Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture at its traditional July Fourth concert on the banks of the Charles River.

Fiedler, 84, is recuperating from a heart attack. The police have banned fireworks, claiming that officers cannot control the huge crowds they attract to the Charles River Esplanade. And the Overture is out because the group that handles the traditional accompaniment of cannon and church bells has quit.

The show had been coordinated since 1974 by Fourth of July Inc., an organization run by Belmont, Mass., businessman David Mugar. Mugar said lack of money, staff and time will prevent the special effects show.

Fiedler said he was not consulted on the decision to forego the 1812. "It's very dramatic and goes good with the fireworks," Fiedler said Monday in a telephone interview. "It's sort of a tradition."

Nuclear plant defects eyed

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A "significant deficiency" in the design and construction of the Callaway County nuclear power plant near Fulton, Mo., is under investigation, according to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The NRC says the defect, involving faulty installation of 24 key bolts, could have compounded any accident in the plant's cooling system. The bolts were replaced and NRC spokesman Jan Strasma said a decision on the quality of the repairs might come later this week.

Conoco pledges $7.8 million

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission said Monday Conoco has pledged $7.8 million to cover reclamation costs at 23 uranium mining sites in South Texas.

Commission approval of the bond means Conoco can proceed with mining operations on 6,900 acres in Wilson, Gonzales, Atascosa, Live Oak and Duval counties.

18-hour siege ends in Pasadena

Assassination info claimed

PASADENA, Texas (AP) — The FBI says it has some questions to ask a man who briefly held hostages while keeping police at bay outside his Pasadena apartment for 18 hours.

Ronald Wayne Johnson, 21, was charged with aggravated robbery Monday before City Judge Russell Drake after he surrendered to police without incident following a siege that began at 11 p.m. the previous night.

The FBI entered the case after Johnson's girl friend, Jamie Heineman, told officers Johnson had said he knew something about the May 29 assassination of U.S. District Judge John Wood in San Antonio.

Pasadena police confirmed that the FBI planned to question Johnson about the Wood case.

Ms. Heineman and her brother-in-law, Richard Putnam, told police they were held at gunpoint by Johnson from 11 p.m. Sunday until 1:45 a.m., when he let them go.

Putnam and Dahna Heineman, 18, both residents of the same apartment complex, told police Johnson took $18 from Putnam as well as a .45-caliber automatic Putnam said he was carrying for protection.

They told police they went to the apartment to visit Johnson and Jamie Heineman. The younger woman said she fled at the time of the alleged robbery, but Putnam was forced to stay.

Police persuaded Johnson to release the older woman and Putnam, but he refused to surrender himself.

Telephone communication was established with Johnson, who threatened to kill himself several times, police said.

Four tear gas canisters were dropped into the apartment's air conditioning vent about 2:30 p.m. and the electricity to the building was turned off, "to make him as uncomfortable as possible," police said.

Finally, he agreed to come out at 5 p.m. Police said they found a 30-caliber carbine, several clips of ammunition and three handguns in the apartment.

Firm to offer diabetes test

Diabetes is the third leading cause of death in the United States and contributes to serious conditions such as blindness and circulatory and heart diseases.

An important step in controlling any disease is early detection. The Medicine Shoppe pharmacy at 1001 Gregg Street is offering a free diabetes screening to the public Thursday, July 12, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Individuals planning to be tested should eat a balanced meal two hours before being screened. (Known diabetics will not be screened.)

People who are a relative of a diabetic or over age 40, or over-weight, and women who have had a baby who weighed more than nine pounds at birth should be checked.

"Finding the new diabetics helps them begin treatment before it's too late. Our goal is to make people aware of the incidence, symptoms, and seriousness of diabetes," says pharmacist Clint Holloman.

Nearly two million Americans have diabetes and do not know it. Only a physician can diagnose diabetes, but, once diabetes has been detected early treatment can control this disease.

Police beat City vehicle robbed

A city vehicle was robbed Monday afternoon while it was parked in front of city hall.

The vehicle, driven by city inspector, Dewey Byers, had a two-way radio microphone and an antenna removed. The value is unknown.

Culprits apparently smashed the glass at the main entrance door of Bolinger's Corner Grocery Store, 300 N.W. Third St. to gain admission. Monday evening's incident resulted in stolen property. The contents of the cash register was allegedly gone through. Value was not made known.

Harold Eugene Allen, 46, 2907 W. 13th, was arrested in Coahoma Monday afternoon and charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, a 1978 Ford pick-up.

Jesse Hora, 310 W. Seventh, told police he was attacked Sunday night by a subject known to him. Hora said the subject pulled an ax handle from the trunk of the car and swung at him in a manner to endanger him.

MISS TEXAS TEENAGER WITH GOVERNOR — Gov. Bill Clements chats with Miss Texas Teenager, eighteen-year-old Holly Roberts of Corpus Christi. Holly just graduated from King High School in Corpus Christi and plans to enter Duke University. She will represent Texas in the national Miss Texas Teenager contest to be held in August in Atlanta.

Man handed prison term

Guilty pleas were entered by two defendants tried in the 118th District Court Monday.

Walter Eugene Alexander Jr. went before Judge James W. Gregg at 3:30 p.m. Alexander waived his right to have his case brought before the Howard County grand jury and entered a plea of guilty on a felony charge of burglary.

Alexander was sentenced to five years of probation and was ordered to pay court costs of $66 within 90 days. He will report to Adult Probation Officer Guy Talbot each month during the next five years, paying a fee of $15 per month. Court-appointed attorney Robert Miller entered a guilty plea on behalf of his client, Robert Wilson Thompson, who went before Judge Gregg at 3:48 p.m.

Thompson had been charged with felony theft of over $200. He was sentenced to five years in the Texas Department of Corrections. He will serve a sentence of not less than two, nor more than five years in the institution.

The 177 days that Thompson has served in the Howard County Jail will be credited against his prison term.

Of agriculture, says visitor

Russians might be ashamed

Area conservationists were in Colorado City Monday attending a meeting of the West Texas Association of Soil and Water Conservation District Directors.

Carl Williams, Leon Sterling, Walter Stirl and W.L. Wilson Jr., directors of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District and Erwin A. Pavlik, district conservationist for the Snyder Field Office, Soil Conservation Service attended from Borden and Scurry Counties.

Richard Gesin, a Nolan County rancher and association president presided over the meeting. Reports on items affecting soil and water conservation district activities were made by Joe Antille, member of the State Soil and Water Conservation Board, Abilene; Kenneth Kuykendall, president of the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts, Cherokee; and John Millican, assistant executive director of the State Soil and Water Conservation Board.

During the morning business session Jim Davis of Sterling City, a director of the North Concho River Soil and Water Conservation District was elected president-elect. Dr. William J. "Dub" Waldrip, general manager of the Renderbrook-Spade Ranches, gave a report of his recent trip to Russia. Waldrip, along with three others, made the trip to Russia at the request of the State Department.

Purpose of the trip was to participate in a beef symposium co-sponsored by the State Department and Russia.

During his remarks Waldrip gave his view of living and travel conditions in Russia.

And although Waldrip was never enthusiastic about going to Russia to begin with and isn't the least bit interested in going back, he wishes every American could go to Russia as he did, the cattleman said.

"So they (Americans) could see that a state government isn't the answer," Waldrip said.

Waldrip said that while the Russians tried to get all the information they could from him and his crew about the U.S. cattle industry, the Russians were reluctant to tell — or especially show — them anything at all about Russian agriculture.

"They'd have a different excuse everyday," Dr. Waldrip said.

Shelters would be built around state-owned fields so one could not see them, the Colorado City cowman said.

"We finally decided after several days that the Russians weren't going to show or tell us anything," Waldrip said. "And, we concluded it might be because they were simply ashamed of it (their state agriculture)."

Following the morning session, the group toured the Berman and Stubblefield Ranch operation where a new type of grazing system has been put into operation. This grazing system is usually referred to as the Savory system or Wagon Wheel system.

The system is patterned after the short duration grazing system, but the movement and management of livestock is much different.

The Berman and Stubblefield Ranch was the first to install this system in Texas.

The meeting was hosted by the Mitchell Soil and Water Conservation District at the Colorado City Civic Center.

The August meeting will be hosted by the Concho Soil and Water Conservation District on August 21 at San Angelo.

Style isn't helping

Laudable, but bumbling

By SCOTT CARPENTER and JIM DAVIS

Harro-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Oil fields breed a special type of person, and Gov. Bill Clements' efforts to improve relations with Mexico demonstrate how he fits the mold.

Oil people tend to be heavy on confidence and action and light on diplomacy and subtlety.

Clements, who worked on oil rigs in his youth and founded his own drilling company, often exhibits these characteristics. Many Texas voters find them attractive.

But the governor's style isn't helping his efforts to build bridges of cooperation and friendship with Mexico — efforts that are as laudable as they are bumbling.

Millions of Texans trace their roots south of the Rio Grande. They treasure their heritage, resisting the assimilation that has blurred the identities of other ethnic groups in this country.

Clements places a strong emphasis on Mexican relations, symbolizing this commitment with a trip to Mexico to meet with President Jose Lopez Portillo earlier this year.

The governor has analyzed the problems involving Mexico and developed proposed solutions — the same way a wildcatter might look at a geological formation and declare "Drill here."

Clements' proposals address the problems of illegal aliens and the drug traffic and the possibilities of helping Mexico develop oil and gas the U.S. needs.

He took those solutions to a recent meeting of border-state governors and plopped them down. He appeared genuinely puzzled when the other participants didn't jump to support them.

Gov. Bruce Babbitt of Arizona undercut the positions in statements to the news media the day before. He said the proposal on joint efforts for energy development smacked of old-style imperialism.

Gov. Bruce King of New Mexico said he couldn't support Clements' proposal for documenting Mexicans to work in the United States while terms, but all the other participants recognized the subtleties involved and met privately with these persons.

Museum closes on Wednesday

The Heritage Museum will be closed Wednesday in observance of Independence Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilshire of Arlington visited the museum last week. Wilshire recently retired as president of Greyhound Bus Company.

Mrs. Wilshire, the former Florene Gillispie, is the daughter of the late Malinda Boydston and Edgar Gillispie and the granddaughter of one of Big Spring's most prominent early settlers, Joel Benjamin Dickerson Boydston.

Boydston, who was better known as Ben Boydston, was an early day land surveyor. Florene has promised to send pictures to the museum of the old Boydston home, which stood on North Benton Street, as no pictures are available here. She will also send some pictures of the family. The old home was torn down several years ago.

Former Big Spring resident Judith Pickle Lancaster and her husband, Jonathan, paid a visit to the museum while visiting relatives and renewing friendships.

Recent new and renewed memberships are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilshire of Arlington and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Hays.

In each dance there will be door prizes, contests in dancing, crab walking, screaming and many other events. All dances will be held from 8 to 11 p.m. Chaperons and a police officer will be on duty. For more information contact the YMCA at 267-8234.

Youthful Tracy overcomes experience of Billie Jean

In gruelling two-hour match

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King shrugged off the disappointment of losing to Tracy Austin to analyze the chances of the four Wimbledon semifinalists.

Billie Jean believes two-time champion Chris Evert Lloyd is the most psyched-up of the four.

Lloyd plays Evonne Goolagong Cawley in one of Wednesday's semifinals. Defending champion Martina Navratilova meets the 16-year-old Austin, a Rolling Hills, Calif., schoolgirl, in the other.

"I think Chris is the toughest mentally of those who have come through," said King, a six-time Wimbledon champion. "The semifinals are of two distinct types. Chris and Tracy sustain their drive inwardly."

"Martina is physically the strongest — she is a brute — but emotionally she is up and down."

"Evonne really cares and her game suits these courts."

But Billie Jean, still hoping to win a record 20th Wimbledon title in the doubles, would not be drawn on making a forecast, on either the singles or her own chances in the mixed and women's doubles.

Austin took more than two hours to beat Billie Jean 6-4, 6-7, 6-2.

"That was one of the best wins of my life," said Tracy, who trailed 0-2 in the final set. "I told myself to fight harder than ever."

Austin's semifinal opponent, Navratilova, took nine successive games against Australian Dianne Fromholtz to win 2-6, 6-3, 6-0 after losing the first set in just 20 minutes.

Lloyd outlasted Australian Wendy Turnbull 6-3, 6-4 after a 1½-hour baseline battle. "I have never lost to her and I found she couldn't hurt me," said Christ afterwards. "I think I am ready to play Evonne now. I haven't played her for 18 months, but I don't think her game has changed that much."

Lloyd, beaten by Navratilova in a dramatic final last year, feels she is better prepared mentally this time. "This year I am tournament tough — I wasn't last year. Having played Eastbourne (a recent Wimbledon "warmup" tournament) and won there, I believe I can do it here."

Cawley, who won the title in 1971, had a straightforward quarterfinal victory when she beat Britain's Virginia Wade — the 1977 champion — 6-4, 6-0 on the center court.

The Australian was very happy with her performance. "I felt fine. I was in good touch and feeling confident. When I am moving well that is when I am playing well."

Turnbull, well beaten by Lloyd, fancied Cawley's chances. "I think Evonne could be the danger," she said. "I know she would like to win. She has the kind of game to beat Chrissie and I think she could beat everybody."

Roy Smalley, Tom Seaver take Player of Week honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver of the Cincinnati Reds has been selected Player of the Week in the National League for the week ending July 1, the league announced Monday.

Seaver started two games during the week and won them both, defeating the West Division-leading Houston Astros 2-1 and the San Francisco Giants 2-0, allowing only three hits in each game.

Minnesota Twins shortstop Roy Smalley, the American League's leading hitter with a .369 average, was a unanimous choice as the league's Player of the Week for the period June 25-July 1.

Smalley had two hits in five of the Twins' six games, batting .462, with two doubles and three home runs. He also collected 23 total bases, drew four walks, drove in 11 runs and scored seven times.

El Paso rally narrows Cub lead

By The Associated Press

Five home runs powered the El Paso Diablos to a 9-8 Texas League baseball victory over the Midland Cubs Monday night.

In other Texas League action, Shreveport edged Arkansas, 3-2, San Antonio beat Amarillo, 6-1, and Tulsa and Jackson split a doubleheader. Tulsa won the opener, 4-2, and Jackson took the nightcap, 3-1.

Mike Bishop had two homers for the Diablos and Tom Bhagwat, Brandt Humphrey and Steve Lubratich had one each to help take a come-from-behind victory. Midland held an 8-3 lead until El Paso staged a seventh-inning rally, highlighted by Humphrey's solo homer. Javi Fierro had a homer for Midland.

Mike Heaton, 3-5, was the winning pitcher. Lee Umith, 4-3, was charged with the loss.

Shreveport scored three runs in the fifth inning to beat the Arkansas Travelers, 3-2. The Captains got the three runs on singles by pitcher Scott Budner, Howie Mitchell, Bob Brenley and Craig Landiu and a double to Mark Woodrey. Fred Tisdale had a triple and a double for Arkansas.

Budner, 3-8 was the winning pitcher. Arno Kirchenwitz, 4-4, was the loser.

Rust McDonald, 6-2, picked up the pitching victory as the San Antonio Dodgers edged the Amarillo Gold Sox, 6-1. George Stabern, 6-7, was the losing hurler.

US dominating Pan American games

Basketball Coach Bobby Knight ejected with 35 point lead

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — An unexpectedly fiery and colorful American squad blitzed their opponents; and controversial men's Coach Bobby Knight even managed an international competition rarity — being ejected from the game, even though his team was leading by 35 points at the time.

The U.S. medal haul of 20, including 10 golds, easily outdistanced everyone, with the Canadians, hopeful of beating the Cubans for second place overall in the games, next with 11 medals. Only two, however, were golds.

The Cubans had a slow start, in fourth place with only one gold, but their strongest sports are yet to commence play.

Sixteen-year-old Tracy Caulkins led the winners with two gold medals Monday, and goes for her third — in an attempt to garner five overall here — today in the 100-meter breaststroke.

The sensation from Nashville, Tenn., ripped off four seconds from the record she had set in morning heat races in the 200-meter individual medley, and then teamed with the 400-meter medley relay squad that knuckled an incredible nine seconds off the previous Games record.

Other individual U.S. gold medal winners Monday in swimming were Ambrose "Rowdy" Gaines, Winter Park, Fla., in the 200-meter freestyle; Steve Lundquist, Jonesboro, Ga., in the 100-meter breaststroke; and Bob Jackson, San Jose, Calif., in the 100-meter backstroke.

Games tried for another gold today with the 400-meter freestyle relay team. Linda Jezek, Los Altos, Calif., and Cynthia Woodhead, Riverside, Calif., of the victorious 400-meter relay team, were also back in action today.

one of the biggest upsets Monday was newcomer Denise Christensen's defeat of veteran Janet Ely Thorburn, of Dallas, in the three-meter diving. Miss Christensen, of Tucson, Ariz., is in her first international competition.

Michele Beaulieu, Millbrae, Calif., collected a gold in the solo-synchronized swimming.

Rangers blank Orioles

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles gambled on the base paths, but their risky went unwarded Monday night in a game Baltimore lost to Texas 2-0, shortstop Kiko Garcia was nailed trying to score on Ken Singleton's short fly to center in the first.

First baseman Eddie Murray was thrown out trying to advance from second to third on Lee May's fly to left in the fourth.

And left fielder Pat Kelly was erased as second as he tried to stretch his shot to the left field corner into a double.

"We gambled and didn't make it, that's all," Oriole manager Earl Weaver said.

"They were running away from the ball on the sacrifice in the first inning, and he (John Grubb) made a heck of a play to get him. In the fourth, Eddie just used some rather poor judgment, but again the throw had to be right on the money to get him," Weaver said.

Steve Comer, 8-6, allowed seven hits and three walks, but his teammates backed him with four double plays.

"Plays behind you like that really help," said Comer, who struck out two in hurling his second complete game of the season. "I thought Murray and Garcia used bad judgment. That was just a pop fly that Garcia tried to score on."

Dennis Martinez, 10-5, also went the distance, allowing just six hits, striking out three and walking two. It was his third loss in as many starts after winning ten decisions from April 22 through June 20.

"This is the best he's looked in the past three starts. He's coming back," Weaver said.

Catcher Dave Skaggs said the 24-year-old right-hander from Nicaragua "pitched well enough for us to win, but Comer did a good job and kept us from scoring any runs. Martinez had only one bad inning. He hung a slider to (Jim) Sundberg, and the rest of the game he did very well."

Sundberg, who missed several starts last week after being hit in the head by a pitch in the California series, doubled off Martinez in the second and fifth innings. His first double scored both Texas runs, coming after Richie Zisk had doubled and Grubb had walked.

"Sundberg, he's one of our trouble men. You have certain guys you just have trouble with, and Sundberg is one of them," Weaver said.

The Orioles will continue to be aggressive on the base paths, Weaver said. Kelly concurred.

"We're not always going to make it, but you've got to be aggressive. If you start playing scared in a defensive game, you're never going to make it."

In tonight's second game of the series, Ferguson Jenkins, 8-4, will start for Texas against Baltimore's Steve Stone, 6-5.

Yanks stop Bosox as John wins 12th game

By The Associated Press

Tommy John has been taking his lumps these days — not from American League opponents but from his own teammates on the New York Yankees.

On Saturday he was shagging flies in the outfield when one of the balls hit him on the right forearm. On Monday night, before he was scheduled to pitch against the Boston Red Sox, he was taping a television interview while the Yankees were taking infield practice when he was struck under the right ear by an errant throw.

"I was talking," said John, "and the next thing I knew I was on the ground. My head was going around and around."

John got up, was given some medication and then took the mound as if nothing had happened. He limited the rugged Red Sox to five hits and became the American League's first 12-game winner with a 7-2 triumph.

"I was alright once the game started," said John, "and I got a boost right off the bat when Reggie made that spectacular play."

"What do you think would have happened if I had dropped it?" asked Jackson. "They'd have booed. If I don't catch it, I'm gonna get booed."

Jim Spencer's home run in the fifth inning snapped a 1-1 tie. Jackson homered in the sixth and the Yankees broke the game open with four runs in the seventh on an RBI triple by Willie Randolph, a squeeze bunt by Bobby Murcer and a two-run single by Lou Piniella.

"A game like this makes it easy to manage," said Billy Martin, whose club is 9-5 since he replaced Bob Lemon as manager.

The game was tougher on rookie Boston pitcher Joel Finch, 0-1, who served up the home run pitches to Spencer and Jackson.

"I made two mistakes," said the youngster, promoted recently from Boston's Pawtucket farm team. "I tried to throw a sinker to Spencer and I got the ball up. The pitch to Reggie was an inside heater (fastball). I can't believe he hit it. He just stepped away and muscled it."

Baylor's bat leads Angels romp

Don Baylor hit his fifth home run in five days, singled twice, scored twice and drove in three runs as California topped Oakland. Baylor leads the major leagues with 69 runs batted in.

Baylor singled to drive in one run and scored another as the Angels scored five times against Oakland's Mike Morgan, 0-2, in the third inning. He hit his 17th home run of the season off Mike Norris in the sixth.

Jackson, Marshall hurl Twins win

Darrell Jackson and Mike Marshall combined on a six-hitter and Glenn Adams had three hits and drove in two runs as Minnesota won its fourth in a row. The Twins broke the game open with five runs in the third inning capped by Butch Wynegar's two-run double.

Foli's hit sinks Pirates

Tim Foli singled home Omar Moreno, who had doubled, to snap a 4-4 tie in the seventh inning and give Pittsburgh its victory over St. Louis. The Pirates jumped out to a 4-0 lead before St. Louis rallied to knot the score in the sixth on Tony Scott's two-run double and George Hendrick's two-run single.

Rogers, Expos blank Cubs

Steve Rogers hurled his fifth shutout and eighth complete game of the season as Montreal blanked Chicago. Rogers scattered eight hits and was helped by two double plays.

The Expos had 11 hits, including two each by Andre Dawson, Tony Perez and Ellis Valentine, whose check-swing single with the bases loaded drove in the final two runs of the game in the seventh.

Phillies upend Mets

The Phillies were so happy to be back home in Philadelphia that they provided the fans and themselves with two surprises — a complete game and a victory.

"I guess it's home cooking," said Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark.

The 6-2 victory over the New York Mets Monday night opened a 14-game Phillies home stand. And it was the first time in 12 games that Ozark has not had to call upon his bullpen.

The Phils lost nine of 14 games on their last road trip and dropped 29 of their last 44 prior to Monday's victory.

It was Espinosa's third triumph of the season over the Mets, his former team, but he took no particular pleasure in the feat.

"I just happened to pitch three good games against them," he said. "I have no hard feelings against the Mets because they traded me."

New York jumped on Espinosa for its two runs in the opening inning as Joel Youngblood walked and Rich Hebner followed with his fifth home run of the season.

But Manny Trillo slammed a three-run homer in the fourth inning — his first home run of the season — as the Phillies pulled ahead to stay.

Dodgers break losing streak

Steve Yeager slammed two home runs — including a game-winning three-run blast in the 12th inning — and drove in five runs as the Dodgers snapped a six-game losing streak by beating San Diego.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Daytime delays in various activities you have in mind can be annoying, but in reality they give you additional time to perfect and work a better course of action. Maintain a cheerful manner.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Find a better way of handling your daily chores. Steer clear of useless chatter that could slow you down. Be right on your toes.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) An associate could give you trouble because of disagreeing with you on a matter, so keep silent at this time for best results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't hurry at any work you have to do today, otherwise you could easily get it all botched up. Show more generosity to others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be careful in the handling of financial matters early in the day. A good time to engage in creative activities.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Not a good day to start a new project. Handle regular routines early in the day so you will have time for social activities later.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go to the right sources for the information you need. Find a better way to put your finest ideas across to others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you apply yourself seriously to the tasks at hand, you can easily get rid of money worries and be happier.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listening to what to what some of your dynamic associates have to say is wise now, and you get ahead faster. Be logical.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make a good impression on higher-ups now by being more precise where your work is concerned. Sidestep an opponent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are now able to realize an ambition you have had a long while. Use your intuition and make real progress.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A good day to handle obligations for which you have had little in recent days. Avoid a tendency to be extravagant.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have new ideas that activate you and should be put in operation quickly. Make sure your activities are well-organized.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will one with a serious nature, who will make plans and then carry through with them intelligently. There's much ability here at investigating and coming up with the true facts. Teach to be more understanding of others.

His Sex Drive Is No Joyride

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for five months to a 58-year-old sex fiend. If this letter makes no sense it's because I no longer know what a decent night's sleep is. I'm 63 and have been married twice before. I don't want to be a three-time loser, but this man is an absolute machine. His demands are exhausting, but he thinks I should be happy. I am not. I've even told him that I don't need or want all that sex, but he doesn't listen.

I've had a very active life with many interests. I belong to many organizations. I snorkel, paint and am interested in underwater photography, the local aquarium, Hawaiian music and island flowers.

My husband resents my activities. All he wants is me—in bed. And I mean for hours, day and night!

I try to keep a neat apartment and stay on top of my business dealings and correspondence, but now I no longer have the time or energy.

How do I slow this man down?
EXHAUSTED IN HONOLULU

DEAR EXHAUSTED: Tell him his demands are excessive. Let him know how much sex is enough for you. If that's not enough for him, give him two choices: 1) See a doctor to "slow him down." 2) Find a woman who is more his speed.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an avid sports fan who says I am a jinx. He is convinced that if I am in the same room with him, the team he wants to win will lose. He bases his opinion on past experiences. It's true that when I watch a game with him his team either does poorly or loses, but it's just coincidence, and it's ridiculous for him to label me a jinx. It has gotten to the point where his friends will call him up when their team is losing to ask if I'm watching the game with him.

We have a one-bedroom apartment, so there's nowhere for me to go except the bedroom when he wants to watch a game on TV. I have had enough of his nonsense. He promised to listen to your advice.
JINXED IN PHILLY

DEAR JINX: Get yourself a good luck charm. (A rabbit's foot, four-leaf clover or whatever, and announce that it will counteract the "jinx.") And hang in there. There is as much validity to your theory as there is to his.

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I broke up with my live-in girlfriend. (I'll call her Marsha.) After living together for two years, it became obvious that it just wasn't working out. It was a difficult break to make because although I have lost all feeling for Marsha, she still cares for me.

The problem: I have always had great rapport with Marsha's mother—a neat lady whom I call "Mom." I still see her often. She told me frankly that she hoped one day I'd be her son-in-law, but she never pressured me.

My friends tell me I'm wrong to maintain my friendship with Mom since Marsha might think I'm keeping the door open for a possible reconciliation at a later date. Abby, there is absolutely no chance of ever getting back together with Marsha, but I really like her mother.

What do you think?
M. IN CHICAGO

DEAR M.: As long as Marsha still cares for you, I think it's cruel for you to maintain your friendship with her mother. Be kind. Cool it.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Laasy Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

For the record

The announcement of the birth of Justin David Latimer in Sunday's Herald inadvertently left out the name of his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyndell Ashley of the Midway community, Big Spring. The mother, Mrs. Jeff D. Latimer, Corpus Christi, is the former Terriann Ashley of Midway.

YOUTHFUL STARS—Gary Coleman, 10, is flanked by co-stars Dana Plato, 14, and Todd Bridges, 14, all of NBC-TV's "Diff'rent Strokes" (Fridays, 8-8:30 p.m. NYT). Unlike other schoolage children, they spend their summers working.

How 'Dif' rent Strokes' little folks spend hiatus

Youngsters are getting out of school and doing things they will write about next fall when teachers ask for essays on "How I Spent My Summer Vacation." Children acting on television series do not get a summer vacation, but they do have a "hiatus" for several weeks when they do not work.

We asked the child stars of NBC TV's "Diff'rent Strokes," on hiatus until Mid-July, how they are spending their hiatus.

Ten-year-old Gary Coleman, Arnold in the series, went home to Zion, Ill., where he returned to the public school he attended before "Diff'rent Strokes." "I was happy to see all my friends again," said Gary, "but I think I learn more in the studio with our tutor."

Gary and his parents visited Washington, D.C., where they dined with Amy Carter, then took a brief

Todd Bridges, Willis on "Diff'rent Strokes," completed the eighth grade while on hiatus. Since he lives in Los Angeles, he continued school during the hiatus with the studio teacher, Louis Smallwood. "It's better because I only have to go three hours a day," said Todd.

On weekends, Todd, 14, and his mother traveled with the Hollywood Teens. With other actors like Scott Baio and Donny Most of "Happy Days," he went to St. Louis, Memphis, Louisville, and Philadelphia, singing at amusement parks. He also made some personal appearances at schools and fashion shows in the Los Angeles area and taped an appearance on "Dinah."

How to cure dating dyspepsia

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a high school senior and I have been dating girls since junior high school, and have never had dating problems.

About eight months ago I took a girl out and I got sick on the date. (I had dated her before and never got sick.)

I figured I was car sick and forgot about it but the same thing happened on our next date and the one after that. My parents said it was all in "my head" but still took me to a doctor who said I had nothing physically wrong with me.

Our high school prom is almost here and I've got a date with her but I need help, fast. — Rick, Oklahoma City, Okla.

ma City, Okla.

Rick: Go out on several short after school snack dates when there is no pressure. Relax and let her lead the conversation. Have no specific "plan" in mind — just be totally flexible. It will work — try it and see.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a junior high student, enjoy school and feel I'm well-adjusted, but I've got one problem I don't know what to do about.

There is a girl at school that I despise immensely. We were best friends but we had a falling out when she had a party and invited all of her friends but me.

Now she has a boyfriend and goes around school with her nose stuck up in the air.

She makes me so mad I could scream. What should I do about the situation? — Janet, Joliet, Ill.

Janet: Do nothing. Make and enjoy other friends and don't waste your time thinking about "Miss Stuck-up."

Dr. Wallace: All teens like to dress alike because they think it's in style. I think it's ridiculous but if you don't dress like they do, they think you are an oddball.

I want to wear what I want to wear but my mother wants me to dress in style. What do you have to say about the subject? — Alicia, Alameda, Calif.

Alicia: I think you should wear what you want to wear as long as it is decent and clean.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent, stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. R. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

NSA approves fund raising plans

The Big Spring Chapter National Secretaries Association met at noon, June 25, at Family Country Kitchen. Mrs. Ella Vonne West, president, presided.

The treasurer announced that a memorial had been sent to the National Secretaries Home Trust Fund Retirement Center in memory of Mrs. Lillie Curry, a recently deceased member.

Committee reports were heard from Mrs. Jan Steward, chairman of the audit committee, and from Mrs. Edna Ames, treasurer of the chapter. Various fund raising plans were suggested and approved by the group.

The Big Spring Chapter will host an Area Forum on September 8. Preliminary plans were discussed for the Forum, and will be finalized at the July meeting. The committee for this Forum is chaired by Mrs. Jane Overman and Mrs. Jan Steward.

A decision was made to change the time of chapter meetings. Formerly, all meetings have been held at noon. Now every other meeting will be an evening meeting, held at 6 p.m. The next meeting will be July 23 at 6 p.m. at Furr's Cafeteria.

Water, gas shortages don't mix in Kentucky

CLAY, Ky. (AP) — Water and gasoline don't mix. And neither do shortages of the two precious liquids.

Just ask the residents of Clay, a tiny, western Kentucky city where the energy shortage has become a secondary topic of conversation.

"You want to talk about water, you stand right where you are," Jim Coffey said Monday. "The market's out of deodorant and what you smell is what there is."

Coffey, one of Clay's 1,500 residents, said the two shortages have had a way of accentuating each other.

"First there isn't enough water to take a bath, then there isn't enough gas to get away from each other," he grumbled, on a day when the temperature and the humidity, near 90, were both high.

The water shortage, born of the city's antiquated, 40-year-old wells and a 200 percent increase in consumption over the past decade, was labeled an emergency by Mayor Larry Cowan on June 18. As a result, restaurants, laundries and beauty shops were closed, and city officials outlawed frivolous water use in Clay homes.

Most businesses have since re-opened and are using water sparingly. But cars remain unwashed, outdoor plants are wilting, and empty wading pools bake in the sun.

Residents must boil what water there is before they can drink it, and anyone caught squandering may be subject to a $50 fine.

One way or another, Clay's water woes have reached just about everyone.

Anthony Harris, owner of the local flower shop, had to dump his fresh-cut blossoms after they succumbed to thirst.

Debby Adams, a waitress at the Kountry Kitchen, faced the unpopular chore of shutting off the ice cream machine.

And Norma Holloman, a member of the Clay City Council, had to field countless telephone calls from irate residents.

"People are getting pretty hot under the collar," she said. "There's been a great deal of inconvenience, especially to the businesses. The laundry was closed for three weeks, and we have no idea when the car wash can reopen."

The problem, Mrs. Holloman said, is that the wells "have simply gotten run down. One was pumping two gallons a minute, and it's no wonder. I can't do what I did 40 years ago, either."

Several residents have complained about small red worms in their tap water, as well as a reddish yellow tinge.

"There's no doubt about it, we've had it rough," said Mrs. Holloman, who will travel to the state capital, Frankfort, on Friday in an attempt to win federal funding to solve the problem.

If the money comes through, city officials plan to lay a new water line 2 1/2 miles to Crab Orchard Lake. If not, the city will be faced with drilling a new well.

UN office will aid refugees

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The U.N. refugee office is preparing a list of orphans among the 76,000 Vietnamese refugees in Malaysian camps to assist in their adoption by foreigners, refugee officials reported today.

The list will give the histories of the young Vietnamese and Vietnamese-Chinese and other details about them, the officials said.

They reported inquiries have been received from would-be American parents and others but could not say how many there had been. There was no report of any adoptions.

There are an estimated 2,000 to 3,000 orphans under the age of 18 among the refugees in Malaysia. The officials said 1,843 of them — 1,506 males and 337 females — are among the 42,000 boat people in the camp on Bidong Island, off the northeast coast.

In addition to children whose parents died in Vietnam or on the voyage to Malaysia, the orphans include some whose parents stayed in Vietnam and sent their children away with others. The officials indicated these might not be available for adoption because the authorities fear the parents might turn up later and make trouble for those who took their children.

Meanwhile, refugee officials said, the orphans are being cared for by the other refugees with whom they escaped from Vietnam.

Gold mice

LONDON (AP) — Exterminators say that mice which go foraging in a London meat market are developing long fur coats to protect them from the chill inside the cold-storage units.

Operation Tighten-Up can make a difference.

At Texas Electric we want to help you get the most for your energy dollars. And we're doing something about it.

All over our service area... in neighborhoods just like yours... we're holding Operation Tighten-Up workshops. These one-hour sessions are designed to give you tips on home energy management. And a look at how simple do-it-yourself maintenance such as caulking, weatherstripping and insulation checks can make a difference in your electric bill.

To find out how you can have an Operation Tighten-Up workshop for your church, club or neighborhood group, just call Texas Electric. The more you know about using... and saving... energy, the better.
