Arthur Fiedler dead at 84

BOSTON (AP) — Arthur Fiedler, the zesty showman who brought classical music to millions as conductor of the Boston Pops, died today at his Brookline home. He was 84.

Word of his death came from his personal physician, Dr. Samuel Proger of Tufts New England Medical Center, who said the maestro died of cardiac arrest at about 7 a.m.

Dr. George Bottomley, the brother of Fiedler's wife, Ellen, said the maestro passed away quietly in his bed. He was found about 7:30 a.m. "He had been working, but he died in his bed," Bottomley said.

Bottomley said Fiedler's son Peter was away from home on National Guard duty. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

"To millions of people around the world the maestro personified the spirit and life of the city of Boston," said Boston Mayor Kevin H. White. "We probably never again will be blessed by the presence of such a gifted, vital man. Arthur Fiedler was a Boston institution, a man whose verve and talent transcended generations." Fiedler, who had remained vigorously active until the past year, had been recuperating from hospitalization for a heart condition. He had suffered a heart attack, his fifth since age 44, on June 9. He was released June 27 from the Tufts medical center.

The hospitalization was the latest in a series of illnesses that began with surgery to relieve pressure on his brain in December, 1978.

Fiedler opened his 50th season with the Pops in May. But a few days later, he collapsed backstage and spent several days in the hospital suffering from exhaustion.

In November, he was hospitalized for exhaustion, and on Dec. 11, he underwent brain surgery at Tufts New England Medical Center to correct difficulty walking.

The illness had forced Fiedler to cancel a planned televised celebration Dec. 17 on his 84th birthday.

Fiedler became conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra in 1930, and in the years that followed, he molded it into a Boston institution that lovingly fed classical music to people who swore they did not like classical music.

For 10 weeks each spring, he channeled the sometimes forbidding virtuosity of the Boston Symphony into the musical tastes of the "average guy." For most people, he was the Pops.

With his stern military mustache and flowing white hair, he led the orchestra through bouncy mixtures of light classics, show tunes and Top 10 hits.

Probably the biggest audience of his long career was on the night of the bicentennial Fourth of July. He led violins, horns, a row of cannons and the bells of a nearby church in a rousing version of "The 1812 Overture" before a brimming crowd of 400,000 people on the banks of the Charles River. The performance was such a success that 325,000 showed up for an encore on Independence Day, 1977.

Skylab's reentry time pinpointed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Skylab's "countdown to crash" ticked relentlessly on today, and a space agency official said there is a good chance all the debris from the faltering hulk will plunk harmlessly into the south Atlantic or Indian oceans on Wednesday.

"Right now, it looks like it's going to come down in the south Atlantic Ocean or in the Indian Ocean," said Richard G. Smith, head of the space agency's Skylab task force.

The North American Air Defense Command said today in its 6:55 a.m. EDT forecast that the 77.5-ton station will fall out of orbit in a 12½-hour period, between 5:54 a.m. and 6:24 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

The midpoint of that period was set at 12:09 p.m.

But Smith cautioned that predictions at this point are imprecise, and if the station "flies a little longer, pieces could hit Australia. Or if it flies even longer, or backs up, parts of it could fall in the United States."

The midpoint prediction has remained fairly steady — within a range of 12 minutes — for three straight forecasts, making it likely that Skylab will reenter at mid-day EDT Wednesday.

If the Skylab entry does begin at 12:09 p.m., the spacecraft would begin to break up over the South Atlantic and scatter hundreds of molten debris over that body of water, off the coast of South Africa, and in the Indian Ocean. The debris, with chunks weighing from 1 pound to 2½ tons, is expected to scatter over an area 4,000 miles long and 100 miles wide.

Eagle Pass rabies battle continuing

EAGLE PASS, Texas (AP) — City officials are confident a door-to-door pet vaccination drive can turn the tide of battle in Eagle Pass' war with rabies — the deadly disease that has killed one resident and left another hospitalized in "very critical condition."

"I don't see anything else but this. I don't think it can fail," said City Manager Robert Gonzalez, who indicated the program could start late today.

A team of five veterinarians will conduct a block-to-block vaccination program aimed at inoculating 100 percent of the dogs and cats in this beleaguered border city of 25,000.

A vaccination clinic for pets last week fell short of officials' inoculation goal of 89 percent.

On the previous forecast, issued six hours earlier, some of the debris would have dropped over west central Australia, a sparsely populated area, but under the latest forecast that area would be spared.

However, later forecasts could put Australia back into the picture. And if Skylab should stay up another hour beyond that point, the debris would fall in the United States and Canada.

Trackers said the Skylab was orbiting at an altitude of 110 miles, a drop of eight miles in 24 hours. At 100 miles, it will begin to glow from the heat of re-entry. At about 70 miles, it will begin to break apart.

"If the middle time-frame holds good, we are in an excellent set of orbits," said Richard G. Smith, head of NASA's Skylab task force. "That turns out to be the set of orbits with the least population under it." All the orbital paths in that middle time-frame pass over various sections of the United States. All also traverse large stretches of ocean.

NASA continued to emphasize that the chances are slim any pieces of Skylab will cause injury or damage. But the agency advised that people who hear news reports Skylab is coming their way head for the lower floors of a house or building.

Smith cautioned that the predictions, made by the North American Air Defense Command, are not precise because of different natural forces working on Skylab. These include variations in the gravitational pull of land masses and oceans, atmospheric friction and solar flares, which heat up the atmosphere and increase drag on a satellite.

Three burglary suspects seized with stolen goods

Three burglary suspects arrested Monday night in possession of several thousand dollars worth of stolen goods may clear up burglaries in three states: Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

Harvey Mitchell, 46, El Paso; Ricky Thompson, 25, Dallas, and a 16-year-old female juvenile from Memphis, Tenn. were arrested by four Big Spring police officers at the Holiday Inn, 300 Tulane.

Police began surveillance of the motel after they received reports that some burglaries had taken place there Monday night. After determining what room the suspects occupied police confronted the three and made the arrests.

The three were in possession of a large quantity of goods. Police have determined that one of three motorcycles recovered was stolen Saturday from a Dallas resident.

Also recovered were stereo equipment, and several television sets. Ownership of the two pickup trucks driven by the three has not been established. Also recovered were a gold wedding band and a tool box stolen from a motel resident Monday night.

Keys were found in their possession from motels in Van Horn and near Bastrop that had also been burglarized. A Major Task Force officer said motels seemed to be the suspects' specialty.

"After checking through the computer we found that the two males were wanted in Colorado City for theft by exercising control," said a Task Force officer.

The juvenile that was arrested claims to be a cousin of Mitchell, but authorities doubt the relationship because of her use of two different last names.

Also burglarized at the Holiday Inn Monday night was a maid's station from which an unknown amount of items were stolen.

Taxi 'competition' gains okay

By EILEEN MCGUIRE

The city, which suffered the absence of an operating taxi service earlier this year, will now have two.

In a regular meeting of the city council, 9 a.m. today, the council approved the request of David P. Mitchem for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity. The council also approved continued validation of Bill Lee's certificate.

Lee's certificate was applied for and received in November of 1978. An illness in the family, according to Lee, prompted his decision to sell the taxi service to W.R. Jewett in February, this year.

The sale was dependent on approval by the City Council on Jewett's application. Jewett was denied the certificate and Lee resumed ownership with Jewett operating the taxi service.

In June, Lee sold his automobiles and other equipment to Mitchem, who then applied for the certificate which was approved today.

During the interim of sale and approval of Mitchem's certificate, however, Lee decided that he wished to continue operations of a taxi service. According to City Attorney Elliott Mitchell, Lee's certificate is still valid.

Representing Mitchem, attorney John Burgess told the council today that Mitchem plans to upgrade the equipment he purchased from Lee. Mitchem said he currently has a 1976 model car on the road and is waiting on two 1977s. He had been operating on Lee's license.

In presenting his plans, Lee told the council that he has five late-model cars, 1974 and later, coming in. He said that customer's waiting time, which had drawn complaints in the past, was a problem that would be corrected.

Both men also presented cases for rate increases.

Lee wishes to increase meter drop from the current 95 cents to $1.15 and waiting time from $8 to $10. He asked for no increase in rate per mile, currently 50 cents, or charge for extra passenger, currently 25 cents.

Mitchem wished to increase meter drop to $1.25 charge per mile to $1 and extra passenger charge to 35 cents.

"Mitchem is being realistic," Burgess told the council, pointing out that gasoline prices had increased 25 cents per gallon since Lee took over operations in Nov., 1977.

"Fuel costs are 25 percent of the operating costs," he further stated.

Mayor Wade Choate agreed that requesting an increase was not an unreasonable request but would have to be dealt with at a later time.

City Attorney Mitchell suggested that he study the matter and make a recommendation to the council as to how to proceed with the requests. His suggestion was favorably accepted by Choate.

Meanwhile, certificates for both men were approved the council. The mayor noted that it would provide each with some competition.

The council also considered an emergency reading of an amendment to the city's truck traffic ordinance.

Mitchell told the council that the police department had encountered difficulty in enforcing Chapter 28, Article III of the Code of Ordinances because it failed to specify what constituted a through truck.

The ordinance was voted to be enforced by the council last February, following protests by citizens that truck traffic in Big Spring was a safety hazard to children in school zones and detrimental to property values and street repair costs.

The ordinance prohibits the operation of trucks from certain streets or parts of streets within the city limits, but fails to elaborate on what constitutes a truck.

Section 28-97 will amend the ordinance to specify that "no person shall operate any truck or commercial vehicle exceeding 10,000 pounds gross vehicle weight at any time upon any of the streets or parts of streets described below, except that such vehicles may be operated thereon for the purpose of delivering or picking up materials or merchandise and then only by entering such street at the intersection nearest the destination of the vehicle and proceeding thereon no farther than the nearest intersection thereafter."

The designated parts of streets that would be prohibited to commercial through trucks are Birdwell Lane, from 4th St. to FM 700; Goliad, from 4th St. to FM 700; 11th Place, from Sheppard St. on the west to FM 700 on the east; and that portion of N. 2nd St. bounded by U.S. 87 to the west and FM 350 to the east.

Following some discussion, the council voted to accept the amendment, with John Massey making the motion and Bill Henkel seconding it.

More discussion followed, however, and Councilman Ralph McLaughlin withdrew his vote to accent the amendment.

McLaughlin pointed out that trucks were necessary for progress and that an unfair cost to citizens improving property would be encumbered if it were necessary to transport the materials by any method other than a truck.

Monticello was used as an example of problems that might arise with the amendment since the only way to arrive at a destination on Monticello is by traveling on the forbidden Birdwell Lane.

It was also pointed out by a private citizen that cement must be poured within 30 to 40 minutes from the time it is loaded and mixed in a truck. A more time-consuming route, he stated, would present problems in that capacity.

Members of the council decided to leave the vote as it stood and try the amendment.

In other action, the council voted to appoint First Southwest Company as the city's financial advisor; to appoint McCall, Parkhurst and Horton as bond attorneys, and to appoint Ed Mitchell, long-time employee of the Big Spring Detoxification Center, as a replacement for Mr. W.D. Broughton, who had resigned from the advisory board.

The council considered the first reading of an amendment that would require that all facilities in which electrical meters are installed be grounded with two rather than one grounding rod in order to insure that grounding sufficient at all. The council tabled further discussion.

Minutes from the Big Spring Airport and Industrial Park Steering Committee and from the Big Spring Traffic Commission were accepted.

The Traffic Commission has motioned to study the safety of an intersection at 10th and Lancaster and the city council will also suggest a study of 10th and Pennsylvania.

The council will meet July 17 to consider items tabled for today's discussion in order that Larry Miller, who is on vacation, may be present for the discussions. City Manager Don Davis is also on vacation.

'Dealer' in jail nearly year while awaiting appeal

By DON WOODS
 Jimmy Dexter Bartley, Jr., has been a county jail inmate since his confinement there Aug. 22, 1978. He was convicted July 10, 1978 in 118th District Court of heroin delivery. His appeal was filed Nov. 15, 1978 by court-appointed attorney Roy Ford. Bartley and his attorney are awaiting a Texas Court of Criminal Appeals opinion.

Bartley had been out on bond three times since his arrest Aug. 31, 1977, but when he was bonded out of B and M Bonding Company four days before the trial July 10, 1978, he didn't have enough money to pay the bondsman. He was recommitted to Howard County jail Aug. 22, 1978.

Bartley elected to wait for the court of appeals decision in county jail rather than in the state penitentiary. His story goes back to a heroin delivery at a run down pawn shop on the east side.

Bartley elected to wait for the court of appeals decision in county jail rather than in the state penitentiary.

The drug delivery occurred Aug. 2, 1977 at a pawn shop set up by the Big Spring Police Department for the purpose of narcotics investigation. It was a store front on E. 3rd called the Shade Tree.

The store was staffed by undercover narcotics police woman Karen Mann. Her cover name was "Sunshine" and she played the role of liaison between local pushers and big time dealers in other cities.

According to the testimony of Ms. Mann in the trial, she was contacted at her home at 7:30 a.m. Aug. 2 by a man identified as a narcotics trafficker. In the course of their conversation he told her he had recently been sold eight ounces of pure heroin and asked her if she wanted to buy some for the addicts he thought she was supplying.

She asked him if he would sell $300 worth. It was a very small amount, just over 2 grams, and she doubted he would deal in such a small quantity. The man told her he would send Jimmy to deliver the stuff. It was about 8 a.m. when she hung up the phone and left for the Shade Tree.

At 8:15 a.m. she sat down at her desk in the pawn shop office. Jimmy came in and wordlessly showed her the tinfoil packet containing the heroin in a baggie with a brownish powder in it.

"It's a little light," she said, referring to the small quantity.

"Has anyone done any of it?" she asked. Jimmy replied that he had done some that morning and that it was "good stuff." She recalled his speech was slurred, his movements sluggish and slow. At other times, she said in the trial, these characteristics had been absent. His movements were, she said, characteristic of a heroin user.

Jimmy had come up against some hard times leading up to this delivery of heroin, Aug. 2, 1977. In June, 1975, his wife shot him twice with a .38 caliber pistol, once in the stomach and once in the chest. He said in the trial transcript that he barely survived. He was released from the hospital five weeks later.

A week later, in August, he had a wreck on a motorcycle while driving to work. He was hospitalized three months in the Veterans Administration Hospital from the new wounds and got out of the hospital in November. In February, he wanted to start working, he said, so he received an official release from the hospital and got a job. Shortly after he had an accident on a flight of stairs at work. Fearing doctors' orders to return to the hospital, Jimmy turned to heroin to kill the pain.

"After that, everytime I started hurting, then I would go buy some. One thing led to another, but..." By May, 1976, he was a regular user. He denied making a drug delivery to the Shade Tree.

Karen purchased 2.28 grams of four percent heroin cut for street use. A greater percentage could have killed heroin users. The delivery was the first step in Bartley's conviction.

The drug was selling at the time at $110 to $125 per gram. The amount she purchased would yield ten to 15 fixes if it were resold to users.

The purchase she made, though, was submitted to the Department of Public Safety lab in Midland, as were the other purchases she made. Ms. Mann said in the course of the Bartley trial she has come into contact with a number of "dangerous" people but had never used heroin or any other narcotic.

She said after the "sell" that Jimmy had said that he and his source would get back in touch with her about future transactions.

Karen got the money for the purchase from the police department. She usually had around $300 but if she ran low she arranged to meet with police officials in the middle of the day outside of town.

As a narcotic officer, "Sunshine" was very careful about divulging her identity. "Basically you more or less just lose your identity to the people that you associate with and become one of them, and portray one or several roles during which time you are undercover," she said.

Karen was with the agents when Jimmy was picked up on the night of his arrest, Aug. 31, 1977.

Jimmy described, in the trial transcript, the event of that night. Karen and two other agents picked him up and they drove past an eating establishment on the north side. The following quotes are from Bartley's testimony in the trial.

"Do you remember all the drugs you sold me?" asked Karen.

Jimmy replied, "I haven't sold you no drugs, lady."

"Well, its on video tape," said Karen. "Well, you'd better go back and look on the video tape," Bartley replied.

"Shut up," said another of the agents. "We'll forget whatever you did if you give us Bobby."

"I can't give you nobody, because I know a lot of Bobbys," he replied.

Someone asked if they had a warrant. The agent called in and found out that they didn't. Two other agents drove up.

"Who do you have there?" asked one. One of the agents with Bartley said he was the partner of a convicted dealer.

"Well, take him in," replied the agent, but the other agent replied that there wasn't a warrant.

"Well, we'll get one when we get there. We want to talk to him because J.D. said he is closer to the man than anybody." J.D. Moore is in prison on two heroin delivery convictions in 118th District Court.

"You know you sold me some drugs," said Karen. Bartley denied it.

Bartley went to trial represented by local attorney Roy Ford on July 10, 1978. He was found guilty in the 118th District Court of District Judge Ralph Caton. The jury set Bartley's punishment at 15 years in prison, following his election to have the jury set punishment. Bartley was sentenced Aug. 29 to no less than five and no more than 15 years in prison.

An appeal was filed Nov. 15, 1978, but a new trial refused Feb. 16, 1979. Bartley is currently getting credit for his time in county jail that will count against his prison sentence if his appeal is rejected.

Police beat Thieves return auto minus music, muffler

Thieves politely returned a 1977 Camaro stolen from Pollard Chevrolet last weekend, but kept a $50 eight-track tape player and a $100 muffler system.

Sand on the car and $450 worth of damages to the paint job led Lt. Claude Morris to believe it was driven around a pasture and scratched by a barbed wire fence. The thieves left the keys in the car.

Pollard employees wouldn't have known the car had been taken except that it was parked further from the curb when returned than it was the night before.

Broughton Truck and Implement Co., 910 Lamesa, reported three of its tractors burglarized while parked at the west loading dock of the T and P Railroad Freight Station last weekend. Two speakers each taken from two tractors and a radio was taken from a third. A windshield was broken on one of them. Damage amounted to around $500.

A .357 Magnum worth $350 and $50 worth of uniforms were taken from a truck parked at the Rip Griffin Truck Stop. A station attendant observed a Mexican American male carrying a back pack enter the cab and remove the items. The attendant caught him in the truck but the suspect eluded him and ran down to the interstate.

The items belonged to Eugene Essay, Route 1. Louis Griffin, 1002 E. 14th, reported the theft of a registered pooch worth $125 Friday night. The dog was kept in her fenced yard and she said there was no other way of escape except for theft.

Judy Wade, 1309 Scurry, reported her wallet stolen from the snack bar of the Bowl-a-rama bowling alley Monday at noon. She left the counter without the wallet and returned immediately to find it gone.

Garry Ray Gartmaker, 109 Jefferson, told police a blue toolbox worth $150 was stolen from his 1977 Ford LTD truck and a $100 wedding ring stolen from his room while staying at the Holiday Inn Monday night. Items were recovered and returned and suspects in the theft apprehended.

Also burglarized at the Holiday Inn was a room containing motel supplies. Unknown amounts of items were removed. The incident occurred between 12 a.m. Sunday and 6 a.m. Monday. Parking lots seemed to be Big Springers favorite place for auto wrecks Monday. James E. Ferguson, 1419 Stadium, collided in a 1969 Impala with a Texas Electric light pole Monday at 8 a.m. in a parking lot at 112 W. 2nd.

A blue Pontiac owned by Pollard Chevrolet parked in a private parking lot at Malone-Hogan Hospital was struck by another vehicle that left the scene.

Wildcat reported

Location is 2,520 feet from the south and 1,980 feet from the west lines of Taylor CSL No. 1.

The Bock opener, General Crude Oil Co. No. 1 Frank B. Jones, was finished Oct. 26, 1970 for a daily pumping potential of 335 barrels of 40.6 gravity oil, plus 200 barrels of water, from open hole at 12,077-135 feet.

Noret Petroleum Co., Lamesa, will drill the No. 1-A Noret as a location north stepout to the three-well Patricia, Northeast (Spraberry) field of Dawson County, 1 3/4 miles west and slightly north of the Gin, North (Spraberry) field and three miles southwest of Lamesa.

Location is 1,980 feet from the north and 660 feet from the west lines of 21-36-5N-T&P. Contract depth is 8,400 feet.

Grasshoppers ravish beauty

By EILEEN MCGUIRE
 When employees of the waste water treatment plant off of FM 700 went to work Monday morning, the property was lined with a long row of full, green healthy trees. By 10 a.m., one of the trees was bare of leaves.

A swarm of grasshoppers, who ravished the tree, were first spotted Sunday evening, according to Errol Porter, maintenance and relief operator at the plant.

He said the tree was sprayed with chlorodine Sunday night, but it only slowed them down. By 10 a.m. Monday, the grasshoppers covered the tree.

"There were millions of them," said Porter. "You couldn't even see the tree. The trunk was completely covered with an army of grasshoppers. You could see them moving up toward the branches."

The grasshoppers chewed the leaves from the tree, Porter said, until all leaves were on the ground. Now, the grasshoppers will devour the fallen leaves before moving on to another food source.

"This is the worst I've ever seen," stated Porter. He expressed concern for nearby trees.

According to Don Richardson, county agent, grasshoppers are not yet a problem in the city. He explained what he believed may have happened at the wastewater treatment plant.

"It depends on weather conditions," he said. "When it gets dry, grasshoppers may move in from ranches looking for new food supplies."

The wastewater treatment plant is located on a road leading toward the country.

Richardson said that a problem of grasshoppers, such as that experienced at the wastewater treatment plant, can be treated with either a homemade or commercial product.

There are several methods of treating such a problem, but Richardson said that the most effective he'd seen was a commercial bait product that contained a mixture of toxaphene molasses.

Though it's easier to but a product already prepared, he said that the most effective type of homemade treatment is a wet bait which is applied to the ground around the tree.

If the problem does spread to the city, the county extension office has recipes for homemade treatments.

The tree at the wastewater treatment plant, is not dead. It will bud again, said Porter. But for this year, the once beautiful Maple Leaf Fruitless Mulberry Tree is no longer a beauty.

Farm Taylor named man of year

Jimmy Taylor of Big Spring, a prominent rancher and banker, has been named a "Man of the Year in Texas Agriculture" for 1979 by the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association.

One of seven Texans selected for the honor, he was nominated by county agents in District 6 (Far West Texas) of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

Other recipients are S.M. True, Jr., Hale County farmer and agribusiness leader; Homer M. Gibbs, agricultural official with Texas Power and Light Co., Dallas; Clark Bolt, Waco Tribune-Herald farm editor; J.D. Sartwell, Jr., president of Port City Stockyards of Sealy and Brenham; Reynaldo Alaniz, Starr County rancher; and Ullus E. Ray, Sinton farmer and agribusinessman.

The awards are presented annually to outstanding leaders in agriculture and related industries, said Houston County Extension agent Billy R. Percival, president of the state county agents association. The awards also recognize contributions made by these leaders to improving levels of living and economic growth in their communities, counties, state and nation.

JIMMY TAYLOR

Taylor will receive his award during the state association annual meeting Aug. 5-8 in Amarillo.

Taylor has been in the ranching business since 1956. He is a Quarter Horse and Hereford breeder and has been active in numerous 4-H and youth related livestock activities, including judging Quarter Horse shows. He also is a 4-H adult leader for horse programs in Howard County. The West Texas rancher has been a strong supporter of all types of Extension Service programs in Howard and surrounding counties.

Taylor has worked his way up through the ranks at the First National Bank at Big Spring. He joined the bank in 1961 as agricultural representative and then was named assistant vice president. He has been serving as president of the bank since 1969. The bank has been a sponsor of many Extension activities and programs, particularly relating to 4-H.

Taylor was serving as Howard County Extension agent in 1961 when he entered the banking business. Before moving to Howard County, he had been Extension agent in Young, Reeves and Loving Counties. Taylor served in the U.S. Army from 1953 to 1955.

He holds a B.S. degree in animal science from Texas A&M University.

Among his many affiliations are director of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion, director of the Howard County Fair Association, director of the Sandhills Hereford and Quarter Horse Show, director of the Dora Roberts Foundation, and secretary of the Howard County Hereford Breeders Association. He and his wife, Mary Ann, have a daughter, Kristi.

Weather Sever thunderstorms plague West Texas

By The Associated Press

Golf-ball sized hail pounded much of West Texas and the Panhandle during a heavy thunderstorm that dumped between one-quarter and three-quarters of an inch of rain over much of that area.

The storms spawned several small tornadoes that did little harm, although the National Weather Service reported damage to a grain elevator and a trailer home 13 miles southwest of Vernon. No one was injured.

Driven by winds clocked at more than 75 m.p.h., hail damaged several windows in the Plainview area of the Panhandle.

Military Jackson extends enlistment with U.S. Navy for two years

Dan Jackson HM3 (AC) has extended his enlistment with the U.S. Navy for two years. He recently left the USS L.Y. Spear (AS-36) to attend the Aerospace Medical Technician "C" School in Pensacola, Florida. He graduated 8th out of a class of 26 with a grade average of 92.03.

He is now stationed at the Naval Air Station at Virginia Beach, Va. where he is now working with a naval flight surgeon in aviation medicine. He is responsible for the medical records of 300 navy personnel.

He is assigned to a fighter squadron of VF-14 which is the famous "Tophatters" squadron, the oldest squadron in the Navy, established in 1919. This squadron is part of Air Group I which deploys on the USS John F. Kennedy CVA-67. The "Tophatters" fly the highly versatile F-14A "Tomcat".

Dan is one of a select few corpsmen who has been awarded wings. He received these while stationed in Corpus Christi in March of 1978. He has attained many achievements and tokens of appreciation and has just been nominated for "Sailor of the Quarter". In June he received recognition of appreciation by the Navy Parachute Team East "Chuting Stars" for special medical services rendered. In August, he is scheduled to receive his "Good Conduct Medal."

Midland commissioners approve remap plan

MIDLAND - The Midland County commissioners voted 3-2 Monday to adopt a voter-redistricting plan that would implement only minor changes in precinct lines.

The plan was submitted by commissioner Durward Wright, a Democrat. Republican commissioner Win Brown submitted a more sweeping plan that was turned down.

Wright's plan is based on population count extrapolated from registered voters. Brown's plan was based solely on registered voters.

The approved plan now goes to the U.S. Justice Department for approval. If okayed, it will become effective Jan. 1, 1980.

No welcome mat out here for Shah

Only a few years ago, some Big Spring residents held out hope that the Shah of Iran was so favorably impressed with the reception military members of his country received here that he would intervene on the community's behalf and appeal to the U.S. Department of Defense to keep Webb AFB open.

If the Shah ever knew Big Spring existed, he never let on. The DOD went ahead with plans to terminate the Air Force operation here, claiming far too many pilots were being trained for military purposes.

IN VIEW OF what has since happened to the Shah, it's doubtful anything could have been done to sway the decision to close Webb for very long. The Shah and members of the royal family have fallen upon hard times. When he began to look for friends and possible hosts, the United States didn't stumble over its feet by throwing out the welcome mat.

The chill set in immediately after the Shah had been deposed, and it's not difficult to understand why. If America is to continue to benefit from Iranian oil, it must play the game according to the rules laid down by the revolutionaries in Iran. One of those is not to offer asylum to the Shah.

Our neighbor to the south, it develops, has an abundance of oil and doesn't have to curtsy for Iran's benefit. Mexico opened its borders to the former Iranian regent. When the Shah announced he had been invited to visit Mexico a few weeks ago, he voiced the likelihood his stay would last for several months.

MEXICO IS A land noted for its political firebrands but in all likelihood the Shah and his family will be safer in the Land of Manana than in the United States.

There's supposed to be a contract out on the Shah and there are any number of assassins in America willing to work for a fee. In Mexico, it might be much harder for a gunman to get near the Shah.

Quite probably, many people high in the American government will not rest easy until the Shah has accepted Anwar Sadat's invitation and taken up permanent residence in Egypt. America need nothing less than another political killing and such a thing would remain a distinct possibility as long as the Shah were living here.

Times remembered

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

This past Fourth of July started out like any other holiday for me — sleeping until late, spending time in the sun with friends and enjoying a good barbecued meal. But the day will always stick with me now as the day my grandmother died.

She was sitting at the kitchen table playing cards when she was stricken with a heart attack and died while the ambulance was en route. She was 84 years old.

THOUGH THE sight of her lifeless body lying in a casket will always be with me, so the beautiful memories I have of her alive will stay with me.

I will always remember:

Her determination to be dependent on no one even to the point of exasperating her children sometimes; a determination that kept her going even after broken hips and her inability to walk without support; a determination that I deeply admired.

Her smiling face and her sense of humor. Grandma could always take a joke and many she did take from my parents and my uncles and my aunts.

Her sweet-tooth for candy. Anybody that gave her candy was on her good side. A piece of candy was always good enough for her and many a time she got candy as gifts on special occasions. She was always passing it around and giving it to her grandchildren — only after our parents' permission, of course.

THE TALKS we had while I kept her company at times when Grandpa had a doctor's appointment. These I will remember more than anything else because it gave me a chance to really get to know the woman that had always been an important part of my life. It was from those talks that I learned about her feelings on marriage, her own and of marriage in general. I learned to love her as a person, not just because she was my grandmother.

The homemade cookies and cakes that were always there when we visited her.

The grief on her face when she lost her "baby" over 10 years ago. My mother's youngest brother died at the age of 32 after several years of illness.

The look of elation when her family gathered at her 50th wedding anniversary.

But more than anything else, I will always remember my grandmother as one of the most beautiful, loving and giving ladies that I will ever have the opportunity to know — a lady who I loved with all my heart.

Behind the curve

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — President Carter and his economic lieutenants returned from the Tokyo summit and plunged into non-stop strategy sessions on the worsening economic crisis that immediately duplicated their feat of last summer: getting behind Congress on the tax cut power curve.

Apart from energy programs it decided to support in these secret White House sessions Fourth of July week, the Carter team determined not to support an anti-recession tax cut. While scrambling to make up lost ground on the energy crunch, the tacit decision on the deepening recession was to stay cool. "I would say our proposing a tax reduction is just about impossible," one administration official told us.

What is nearly impossible in the White House is all but certain on Capitol Hill. A tax reduction passed by Congress before the 1980 election has been assured all along, and recession means it will be bigger and quicker. The cut now figures at $20 billion ($15 billion in individual taxes), with the economic slowdown pressing a retroactive effective date of Jan. 1, 1980, and possibly expanding its size to $30 billion.

THE LANGUID CONGRESS becomes fleet of foot when cutting taxes. Thus, the President is likely to be following in its wake as he did when he reluctantly signed the 1978 tax reduction. One politically sensitive White House aide predicted that once again Carter will give his approval to tax reduction when it is too late to get the political credit.

This derives from the tendency of this president, as with his predecessors, not to anticipate problems. But getting behind the power curve on tax reduction also points to other aspects of the Carter presidency that made necessary the desperate energy catch-up on Pennsylvania Avenue this holiday week.

At bottom is the chronically flawed performance by the administration's economic forecasters. Just as they were last to predict double-digit inflation, they trailed everybody in seeing recession ahead. Dr. Charles Schultze, Chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, on May 10 was still publicly denying the advent of recession.

There is still hope at the White House that the fall-off in the year's final quarter will be less severe than business economists expect, requiring no anti-recession medicine. Thus will the chemical balanced budget be preserved.

Even without such hopes, the President is inclined against tax cuts. "I really should have vetoed last year's tax bill," he recently informed a surprised adviser. White enthusiasts about taxing windfall profits and three-trimester lunches, Carter never has been turned on by lowering tax rates.

The President may well qualify for what Professor Arthur Laffer, guru of tax reduction, calls the deep root canal school of political economy. Mostly orthodox Republicans, its members believe those economic proposals that hurt the most — like deep root canal work — will do the patient the most good. That can also explain Carter's instinctive preference for energy conservation over production, prior to post-Tokyo changes.

THE ADMINISTRATION'S tax cut phobia also fits into the predilection of liberal White House aides for government rather than market solutions. While Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger has argued that gasoline decontrol is the antidote to long gas lines, the White House has preferred to think about rationing.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all persons are created equal..."

New test confirms heart damage

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is there a test now to alert one to a possible heart attack before it happens? — N.S.

No, but one is being developed to CONFIRM a heart attack within a couple of hours after symptoms of one, i.e., chest pain. While this might not appear to be of great importance to the victim, it is to the doctors treating him.

When heart muscle damage (infarction) occurs a certain enzyme shows up in the blood. Up to now, while this substance has been detectable, test results have been uncertain in many cases. The new test for the telltale enzyme is more sensitive, hence more reliable. One great advantage will be in ruling out heart attacks, thus avoiding unnecessary hospitalization. It also allows prompt treatment for a heart attack that formerly may have been delayed. The new test is not currently available for widespread use.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My husband has a very heavy beard and for years had been bothered by ingrown hairs. At times they are deep and inflamed. He cleans often and has tried various types of razors and shaving products. I am wondering if you have any advice or printed material on such problems? — Mrs.

A real problem for some men. Most develop their own individual way of handling the problem. Some cannot resort to growing a full beard. Tretinoin, a lotion, helps in mild cases. The irritation develops because nearby skin reacts to the ingrowing hair shaft as it would to any "foreign body." The subject is covered in the booklet, "Good Health for Your Hair." It answers other hair questions, too. For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have had bronchitis for several years. When I was in for my last physical my doctor was showing my chest X-ray to a medical student and commented: "These are calcium deposits." Would they have been in the lungs or in the bronchial tubes, or both? And what significance do they have? — J.C.H.

You witnessed a good professor teaching a medical student never to overlook anything in chest X-rays, even the most minute calcium deposits. The deposits were probably in the lung tissue, perhaps scars from an old infection. The doctor can tell much by the location and type of deposit, for example, what sort of infection was involved. That episode was an important part of the future doctor's training. The trend in modern medical teaching is back to much more of the direct observation methods, such as you witnessed.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Will you tell me how the caffeine is removed from decaffeinated coffee? Is there a harmful chemical used? — Mrs. E.H.

The coffee beans are first softened by steaming and the caffeine is removed with alcohol, which is in turn removed by re-steaming. The beans are then roasted. About 3 percent of the caffeine may remain after this processing.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have noticed in the past that you have strongly urged persons with emphysema to quit smoking. Great! But what about me? I have been told I have it and do not smoke and never have. Where does that leave me? I wish you would tell your readers that not all people who have emphysema are necessarily heavy smokers. — J.G.B.

Emphysema can occur in people who have never smoked or been closely associated with smokers. Other chronic lung irritants or allergies can be a factor. There is a hereditary form of emphysema.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What causes infection of the Bartholin glands, the ones inside the vaginal opening? I have one infected (on the left side)

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why do Christians call the day that Jesus died on the Cross "Good Friday"? What is good about it? It seems more like a tragedy to me. — M.N.

DEAR M.N.: Christians call that day "Good Friday" because what happened on that day was the most tremendous and important event in human history. It was on that day that Jesus made it possible for us to be saved.

Jesus Christ was the only person ever born for the purpose of dying. "He then began to teach them that the Son of Man must suffer many things and be rejected... and that he must be killed and after three days rise again" (Mark 8:31, New International Version). Why was this the case? The Bible tells us that the greatest problem in the world is human sin — rebellion against God. God is holy and created us perfectly. But we have rebelled against Him and chosen to go our own way. The Bible calls this sin. It says that because of our sin we are cut off from God and stand under His judgment.

But the Bible also tells us that God loves us. That is an amazing thing! If someone wrongs you, you probably and have been taking antibiotics for it. — J.M.

The Bartholins are small glands located just within the vaginal opening. They produce a lubricating mucus. They are subject to infection and cyst formation, the infection usually occurring along with a general pelvic infection, and swelling on the side involved. Antibiotics are usually effective, but in some instances the glands must be surgically drained.

Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung problem, write to Dr. Ruble for a copy of his booklet on "How to Control Emphysema," care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My three-year-old daughter has a discharge from her vaginal area. She has had this problem for about eight months. Her doctor does not seem worried about it. The area is very red and irritated. She wears only cotton panties. Can you offer any suggestions? — Mrs. C.F.

Your child's doctor has apparently ruled out infection. You are on the right track in eliminating possible reaction to fabrics. You might also investigate the possibility of a reaction to bath or laundry soaps. Some of the bubble bath preparations are notorious irritants for some youngsters.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

get angry and may even want to hurt him or her. But God loves us and does not want us to suffer the consequences of our sin. God does not want us to go to hell! Therefore, because He loves us so much He provided a way for us to be saved. Because He is holy and just, sin had to be punished. So what did God do? He sent His Son into this sinful world to take the punishment and judgment we deserved. On the cross, Jesus Christ took our sin upon Himself — although He was sinless. "But God demonstrates His own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8, NIV).

That is why the day on which Jesus died can be called "good." In one sense it was tragic that we had rebelled against God, since that made the death of Christ necessary. But through that death we can be saved, and that is good news!

How can you know this salvation for yourself? You can know it by accepting Jesus Christ into your life by faith.

Turn to Him in repentance and faith, and you too can know the joy of forgiveness because of what Christ did for you on the cross.

Pockets money

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter promised the voters he would ferret out government waste and improper use of the taxpayers' money. But in his search for misused funds, our millionaire chief executive failed to look in the handiest hiding place of all — his own pocket.

During his first two years in office, the parsimonious president spent only one-seventh of his $50,000 annual expense allowance. But instead of turning the two-year total of $85,727 left over back to the Treasury, Carter simply put the money in his personal bank account.

There's nothing illegal about a president pocketing unused expense money. Indeed, the practice has been sanctified by tradition in the 30 years of presidential walking-around money. Carter's predecessors in the White House didn't turn their leftover allowance back, either.

IN FACT, Richard Nixon, with his usual flair for imaginative income-tax calculations, tried to stretch that taxable expense allowance by claiming depreciation on White House furniture as a deduction, but the Internal Revenue Service disallowed it.

The unusual thing about Carter's expense money is how little of it he manages to use each year. The purpose of the $50,000 allowance was to spare presidents from having to pay unofficial costs of the presidency out of their own pockets. Former President Herbert Hoover estimated that "the minimum cost to the president is somewhere between $25,000 and $35,000 a year of conducting the White House in such a fashion as it should be conducted." That was 30 years ago, when it cost a mere three cents to mail a first class letter.

Yet we have learned, with the help of Jesse Sterns of the Sterns News Service, that President Carter spent just $1,108.52 of his $50,000 allowance in 1977, and $1,165 last year. In fact, IRS may disallow $12,111 of the 1978 "business expenses," which went for staff parties and receptions. (The remaining $1,054 was spent for meals, gifts and miscellaneous expenses.)

In contrast to Numero Uno, Vice President Walter Mondale scrupulously returns the unspent portion of his modest $10,000 allowance. In 1977 he turned back $4,934; last year he gave the Treasury $5,180.

While the $85,727 unspent presidential allowance is peanuts in a government that treats a million dollars as small change, the American public might be forgiven for expecting Carter, the born-again crusader for truth, beauty and economy, to set an example for the bureaucratic spenders he campaigned against.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor: I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Big Spring Fire Department. It has our gratitude in putting out the July 4 fire caused by fireworks. We would not allow our grandchildren to have fireworks, but that did not stop us from losing our garage and all the furniture we had stored in it. We were painting the inside of our house and had stored quite a lot of our furniture in the garage.

I know that fireworks are not to be sold or fired within the city. But many people in Big Spring do not, as there were fireworks fired not only on our street but all over town. The police did not have a chance.

What I can not understand is how does the city of Big Spring think it will be able to stop the firing of fire works in the city limits. When fireworks are sold just outside the city limits, I would think that the county commissioners would be able somehow to stop the sale of fireworks within the county, because the police can not stop it by themselves.

There were three Spanish men who helped us push our car from in front of the garage or it would have burned. Regrettably, we never learned their names. We would like those men to know that we thank them very much.

Daring doc derails escape

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The word is out among inmates at the Buncombe County Jail: don't mess with the doc — even if he is 78 years old.

Dr. John Young, jail doctor for the past 21 years, was on his rounds Monday when he found himself with a knife-sharp spoon in his back and hostage to two escaping inmates.

Young wrestled his captor, 40 years his junior, to the floor and disarmed him while the other would-be escapee, a nurse held hostage and deputies looked on in amazement.

"I wasn't going out of that building just because he had a spoon on me," the doctor said later.

The inmates, identified as Harady Lee Goss, 38, awaiting trial on charges of armed robbery and rape, and Bruce Talbert, 21, awaiting trial on a charge of armed robbery, now face attempted escape charges, authorities said.

Thrift begins at home

MONTICELLO, Fla. (AP) — Mayor Steve Rissman thinks public officials should do more than talk about cutting government waste. So he's trying to eliminate his own $1,200-a-year job.

He also says seven city councilmen for a city of 2,500 people is ridiculous — and two councilmen should give up their posts, which also pay $1,200 a year.

"If a city the size of Tallahassee can run with five people, there's no reason Monticello can't," he said. Tallahassee has 73,000 people.

Rissman said Monticello voters will decide in January whether to change the charter eliminating the mayor's salary and two city council positions, and that if the voters approve his proposal, he'll have earned his $1,200.

I do . . . quick

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Justice may be blind but not unfeeling, at least in the case of Howard Kelly, one of two men accused of the $400,000 holdup last month of a Wells Fargo truck in Kentucky.

Kelly, 28, and his father Howard Kalsbeck, 49, have agreed to be transported to Kentucky for trial, but they won't be moved until after Wednesday when Kelly is to be married in the Monroe County Jail here.

The bride-to-be is a Rochester-area woman who declined to give reporters her name. She said she had known Kelly for six years.

Kalsbeck and Kelly, both employees of Wells Fargo in the Cincinnati area, are accused of taking about $400,000 from an armored truck at gunpoint and leaving the driver shackled in the abandoned vehicle.

Kelly's court-appointed attorney, Samuel Schwartz, asked for the extradition delay Monday to allow the marriage.

"Who can deny the course of true love?" Schwartz asked.

Connally blasts Carter summit

HARTFORD (AP) — President Jimmy Carter's domestic summit at Camp David is an exercise in image making rather than problem solving, former Texas Gov. John Connally said during his first campaign visit to Connecticut.

Connally, one of those in the crowded field for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination, said Monday night that the summit has amounted to "a bunch of politicians, p.r. men and image makers. I haven't seen anybody who knows anything about energy."

Connally, who for many years was a leading Democrat, drew cheers from the 350 Republicans gathered at the Hartford club — at $25 a person — when he said the GOP must field a candidate in 1980 who can win.

"Can you imagine what another four years of President Carter will do to this country? How about eight years of Teddy Kennedy?" Connally said.

"I think the American people are tired of amateur night in Washington."

Connally contrasted what he sees as Carter's floundering leadership with his own long record of public service as governor of Texas, secretary of the Navy, secretary of the treasury, his role in reorganizing the federal government and his long experience as a successful Texas lawyer and businessman.

"We're going to have to have a president who knows the private sector and the public sector and how those two systems mesh. We're going to have to make up our minds in 1980 to change the country or this country as we know it, in my opinion, is going to be gone."

To solve the immediate energy problems of the country, Connally said, the government should open up more public land to oil exploration, allow for more use of coal and speed nuclear power development.

Coal should be used more heavily even if it means easing environmental restrictions somewhat, he said, and nuclear power plants could be built much faster if it weren't for the opposition of "a small minority."

Big Spring Employment Agency can fill jobs

The easiest way for an employer to assure the selection of the best personnel available for service in his place of business is to interview and hire such workers through the Big Spring Employment Agency located in the Permian Building.

To assure Big Spring employers the best job applicants available, many hours of hard work go on behind the scenes at the agency, from the time an employer calls in a job until it is successfully filled. Job applicants are pre-screened so that employers will not have to waste time interviewing applicants who are not qualified for their particular job openings.

In the field of office skills, the Big Spring Employment Agency carries on an extensive testing program. For example, if an employer wants to hire a secretary, applicants have been given a shorthand test, typing tests on both manual and electric typewriters, verbal, numerical and clerical aptitude tests. Included also are tests on business and industrial situations. The result of these tests may be used as a selection instrument in hiring applicants and as an indicator for future possibilities.

McMahon Concrete helps in growth of Big Spring

McMahon Concrete, headed by Clyde McMahon Jr. continues to commend Big Spring and Big Springers for their progress during the past years.

McMahon Concrete has been part of the Big Spring scene for many years and they work constantly toward a better Big Spring.

During recent months, Big Spring has continued to grow with evidence of expansion all around us. The former Webb Air Force Base is beginning to be utilized and more good prospects for many of the remaining buildings there are a result of the tireless work of both the steering committee, the city council and the industrial foundation.

There are many new businesses in town and constant building. "We are extremely proud of Big Spring and glad to be a part of its past as well as part of its future," McMahon states.

McMahon's is proud of all of the Big Spring citizens who have worked to keep Big Spring in the growing column. "We commend you all," they said.

Dear Abby

Drop the Grudge, Even Grudgingly

DEAR ABBY: I am a young man who will be married soon. A problem has come up. I have an aunt and uncle (I'll call Aunt Sue and Uncle Joe) who were my favorite relatives while I was growing up and they always treated me as if I were their own son. They are my god parents.

Well, some time ago, something happened between my parents and Aunt Sue and Uncle Joe. They haven't spoken since. I still don't know what was behind the quarrel.

I would like to send Aunt Sue and Uncle Joe an invitation to my wedding.

My parents may be hurt if I do, but I feel that if my parents want to hold a grudge, it is THEIR grudge, not mine. I am not sure my aunt and uncle would accept even if they were invited, but I think they'll appreciate being asked. What do you think?

C. IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR C.: Your attitude shows great understanding and maturity. Children should not be expected to "inherit" and perpetuate the grudges of their parents. (P.S. If you decide to invite them, advise your parents in advance.)

DEAR ABBY: When I am looking at merchandise in a store and a salesperson inquires in an almost-menacing, authoritative manner, "May I help you?" I always say, "No, thanks, I'm just looking." Then I invariably move on.

Perhaps if I had been left alone to look a little longer, I'd have decided to buy something. But when help is offered while I am trying to make a decision, I am forced to make an instant decision which is almost always negative.

Please tell salespeople that, if they want to make a sale, they should let the customer look around until he makes up his mind to buy.

INTIMIDATED BY SALESPEOPLE

DEAR INTIMIDATED: Where do you shop? In most places these days you have to beg a salesperson to write up your sale. I agree that a salesperson who intimidates the customer loses the sale, but an offer to help need not be "menacing and authoritative." How about a friendly, casual, non-intimidating, "If you need any help, please let me know."

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

FROM THE AIRBORN STORK — Cecilia and James Kinney admire their newborn daughter, Ualani, in a Honolulu hospital Friday. Mrs. Kinney, 19, gave birth earlier while aboard a United Airlines flight from San Francisco to Hawaii.

Plane gains passenger 37,000 feet above ocean

HONOLULU (AP) — United Airlines Flight 183 from San Francisco to Hawaii gained a passenger 37,000 feet above the Pacific Ocean.

Passenger Cecilia Kinney gave birth during the flight Friday to a 5-pound, 12-ounce girl who was named Ualani Kinney, said United Airlines spokesman Bill Bachran.

Mrs. Kinney, 19, had a medical certificate saying she was not expecting for another month. But labor pains began while the 747 jumbo jet was taxiing for take-off from San Francisco.

According to her husband, James, Mrs. Kinney was assisted in the delivery by a flight attendant, two passengers who were nurses, and a father of two who said he helped deliver his own children.

Kinney said he concentrated on keeping his wife calm during the five hours of labor in the back of the coach section.

Kinney, 26, had been discharged from the Air Force Thursday. He had been stationed at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines and the couple, who plan to live in Hawaii, were on the last leg of a three-day trip from Tokyo, Alaska and San Francisco.

Passengers took up a collection for the infant, Bachran said. Added Kinney, "People have been offering us a place to live and a job for me."

The Kinneys took a suggestion from a passenger and dubbed their daughter with a name combining U.A.L. for United Airlines and "lani," the Hawaiian word for heavenly.

Mother and daughter are doing fine at a Honolulu hospital. And, the airline gave the baby a 50 percent discount coupon.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Keep the Peace

By Robert Wallace, Ed.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 14 years old. A few months ago, this boy liked me and I liked him, but he had and still has a girlfriend. His girlfriend found out about us and now she wants to beat me up.

I think it's dumb for anyone to fight and he won't do anything to help. I have told her that I will not fight her. What should I do? — No Name, Reynoldsburg, Ohio

No Name: I would say that fighting over a boy like that is the dumbest thing either one of you could do. Stick to your decision not to fight.

Dr. Wallace: Last Saturday night my girlfriend and I had planned to have dinner at a nice restaurant and attend an art show. Saturday afternoon she called me and said she couldn't go with me because a boy she liked had called and asked her to see a movie with him.

I was really upset, but my sister said that she would do the same thing. I feel that my girlfriend should not have accepted the date with the boy.

Do you agree? — Maria, San Diego, Calif.

Dear Maria: Yes, I do. I feel she was rude and selfish. Your girlfriend should have explained that she was going out with you, and then told him when her next free evening would be.

Dr. Wallace: My girlfriend and I have been the best of friends since third grade. We are now sophomores in high school and our deep friendship is evident. Our friends call us the "Gold Dust Twins" because we dress alike and wear the same hairstyles (we are both blonde).

My problem is that I would like to now stop being a "twin" and maintain my own identity. I happened to mention it to my girlfriend and she was crushed. What can I do to keep our friendship, but still break the twin image? — Carla, York, Pa.

Missing witness forces delay

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A missing witness, whose testimony is considered central by defense strategists, has forced a postponement until July 30 in the murder-for-hire trial of millionaire Cullen Davis.

State District Judge Gordon Gray ordered the three-week postponement Monday after defense attorneys said they could not locate Pat Burleson.

Investigators for the Fort Worth industrialist have tracked Burleson to Los Angeles, but have been unable to serve him a subpoena, Dallas lawyer Mike Gibson said.

The defense maintains that the Fort Worth karate instructor conspired with Mrs. Davis and FBI informant David McCrory to frame Davis.

The wealthy oil heir, 45, is accused of plotting the contract killing last August of the judge presiding over the Davis divorce case. The judge was not harmed.

Defense attorneys also contended Monday that a bailiff in charge of prospective jurors was dismissing several prospects from jury duty without proper authority.

Although jury selection had been scheduled to begin

Monday, Gray used the occasion to dispose of a number of routine pretrial motions.

The judge granted one state motion to restrict defense lawyers from questioning witnesses about alleged sexual misconduct.

Gray ruled the relevance of such testimony must be determined in a bench conference before presentation in open court.

In an attempt last January to try Davis on the murder solicitation charges, a Houston jury deadlocked 8-4 in favor of conviction and a mistrial was declared.

The murder conspiracy case against Davis is based on two tape-recorded conversations last summer between the defendant and his one-time employee and pool-shooting crony, McCrory.

More rumors of resignation of Nicaraguan president

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza's resignation was again rumored to be imminent today as a knowledgeable military source said the national guard's situation was "hopeless."

Managua residents, who depend mostly on government broadcasts and publications and rebel radio stations for their news, flagged down foreign correspondents' cars Monday to ask: "Is he gone?"

"He's leaving at midnight," a boy of 12 volunteered. "Everybody is saying it. He's going to Miami."

Others passed similar information but beyond

"everyone is saying," nobody seemed to know where the reports came from.

Somoza's aides continued to insist that the dictator had no plans to leave the country. They said high-level visitors streaming to his bunkered military headquarters were there only for routine briefings.

However, other Nicaraguan sources said Somoza has agreed to leave when the U.S. government tells him to. But they said the Carter administration was still trying to arrange for a new government in which conservatives and leftists would outweigh the leftists of the Sandinista National Liberation Front.

The Sandinistas, whose guerrillas have won control of nearly every major town and city population center in the past six weeks, have shown no sign of being willing to take a back seat in the future government.

A knowledgeable military source estimated that the national guard, Somoza's combined army and national police force, could run out of ammunition in three weeks.

The source, who refused to be identified, said the guerrillas have cut the guard's overland supply routes, the government cannot retake the 24 cities lost to the guerrillas, and "all the top brass has its eye on the door."

He said the guerrillas "could really raise hell" in Managua if their northern and southern forces converged on the capital.

There were no reports of heavy fighting Monday.

Anit-aircraft resume trip to Fort Bliss

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Three anti-aircraft missile launchers have resumed their trip from Key West to Fort Bliss, Texas, after a long layover here.

The launchers sat on a flatbed truck for more than three weeks in an open, unprotected parking lot by an office complex here.

Police learned of them Friday and had them hauled to an impoundment lot over the weekend. Then began a search for someone who knew who left them and why.

The answer came Monday, police said, from a representative of the Lightning Trucking Co., who described them as victims of the independent truckers' strike.

By Monday evening, the trucking company had claimed the load and had left town — presumably for Texas, said police.

The truck and three launchers had been parked in the unprotected lot because the trucking firm's regular lot was full, police said they were told.

The FBI said the launchers had been at Key West and were on the way to their home base, Fort Bliss, in El Paso.

Yes, you can buy new Gustol now!

Now there's a cotton insecticide additive that makes sure worms eat your insecticide.

New Gustol is the spray tank additive specially formulated for use with a viral insecticide like Elcar® and B.T. insecticides like Thuricide®.

Biological insecticides must be eaten to be effective. And Gustol makes sure bollworms and budworms eat your insecticide. Not just a little but a lot. When that happens, you know your insecticide is going to do what you sprayed it to do. Kill worms.

This is no fluke. Gustol has been researched and put through extensive testing for the past three years by Sandoz, a company that never introduces a product until tests prove it works!

Right now, the worms are here. So right now is the time to order Gustol from your ag supplier.

Hangin' Out

By Nathan Poss

Talking about having to pay the price! The Houston Oilers rookies and a few vets reported to camp in San Angelo last week and began two-a-days on July 4. The temperature on Independence Day was over 100 degrees, as over 60 hopefuls hit the practice field. And when a person is carrying around an extra 15-20 pounds of equipment on their body, that 100 degrees is seemingly multiplied by two.

And to think that probably only five or ten of the players will still be around when the Oilers visit Washington on opening day, September 2.

Speaking of the Oilers, Bum Phillips had some of his usual interesting things to say at a press conference last week.

Phillips, explaining the Oilers rivalry with division foe and defending World Champion Pittsburgh as rugged, disdained any excuses concerning the weather in his team's AFC championship playoff loss to the Steelers. Said the colorful Houston coach: "The day we played them in the mud and the rain and the ice, they were perfect. I told a bunch of people that I don't think we could have beat 'em even. I mean, it was snowin' on both sides of the field and rainin' on both sides. Pittsburgh don't lose many games, period, and that day I don't believe a combination of teams could have beat 'em."

And although the Oilers are gaining popularity in San Angelo, most of the local diehards in that growing city still consider the Cowboys as the number one team. And Phillips, the honest man that he is, probably stepped on a few toes when he made a statement concerning Pittsburgh in the Super Bowl.

"I don't think there's any doubt about it," he replied when asked if he felt Pittsburgh would have won the Super Bowl despite the controversial pass interference call against Benny Barnes. "That day, the Steelers were 11 points better. Dallas got an onside kick, which you're not gonna get but one out of every 10 times. Pittsburgh was so far ahead, all they had to do was make them (Dallas) use up some time on the clock, and they couldn't lose."

When asked if the state of Texas was ready for a Dallas-Houston Super Bowl, Phillips replied: "I don't know if the word is ready for it or not. If you think Texas people are obnoxious now, get both of 'em in the Super Bowl and you'll find out how obnoxious we can be."

Phillips, the scope of many a camera during Oiler games for his country attire, has bought himself some new footwear for the upcoming season. The fashion calls for boots made from skins of wild turkey, crocodile and eel. Last year, it was anteater and ostrich.

A bit of irony in the Dallas Cowboys training camp. Ed (Too Tall) Jones retired in June to enter the world of professional boxing. But the Cowboys have a boxer turned football player in camp at present in the form of Willie Jordan, a 6'4", 250-pound rookie free agent defensive lineman that hails from Winston-Salem State in North Carolina.

A second team NAIA All-American last year, he was overlooked in the NFL draft, but was lured into camp by Dallas scout John Wooten. If he fails to make the final Cowboy traveling squad, which the odds are, Jordan will enter the ranks of pro boxing.

As an amateur, he has a most impressive record of 48 wins in 50 fights, including the Florida Golden Gloves championship. One of his two losses was to Woody Clark in the finals of the North Carolina AAU. Clark is a two-time member of the US Olympic heavyweight teams that has given Teofilo Stevenson a couple of very tough matches.

He has been working out in recent months with Joe King Roman, who had a title fight with Joe Frazier a few years back.

Speaking of Too Tall, Houston fight manager Hugh Benbow recently commented on Jones' chances in the world of boxing: "He'll get killed, get torn to shreds. He hasn't got a chance unless somebody can take about ten years and 80 pounds off him and give him the agility and hand speed that a fighter develops when he's a kid."

Maybe so, but if Too Tall is successful, it could be a great shot in the arm for the sport, especially considering the retirement of Ali, the greatest drawing card of all time.

It's possible that Big Spring could be represented in the Denver Bronco organization at the start of the NFL season by three players. Two, 12-year vet Charlie West and rookie free agent Tom Sorley, graduated from BSHS. The third, third-year pro Jeb Blount, is the son of former Big Spring Steer and UT standout Peppy Blount.

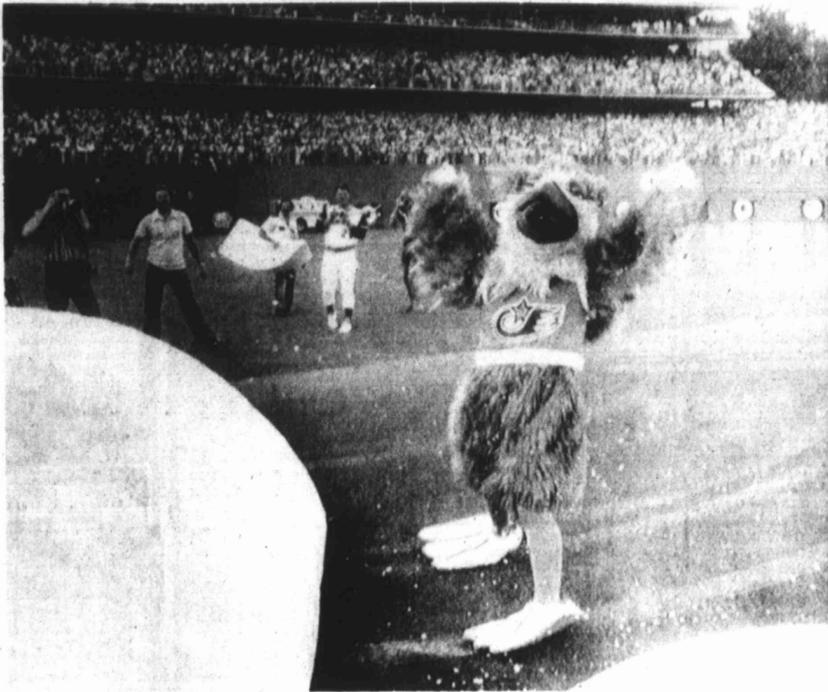

Sorley, in a Denver mini-camp a couple of months ago, met the younger Blount in a somewhat weird way. Both are quarterbacks, and Sorley said that Blount walked up to him and said: "Hey, Tom Sorley, Big Spring, Texas." Then in the tune of the BSHS school song, Blount began with the line "Dear old Big Spring High, keep the black and gold."

"I was kind of freaked out," Sorley reminisced. "Finally, he told me how he knew it, but I still couldn't believe it."

John Thomas Smith, who toiled for both the Washington Redskins and the Kansas City Chiefs the past season, is scheduled to report to the KC camp on July 14. Smith has been living in Big Spring over the past few months, and has been displaying his outstanding all-around athletic abilities on the basketball court and the softball diamond.

A LITTLE DISGUSTED — Atlanta Braves Jeff Burroughs tosses his bat to the ground in the first inning after being called out by home plate umpire Eric Gregg Monday night. The Braves lost to the Chicago Cubs, 7-4.

THE BIRD IS BACK — Ted Giannoulas, who has spent five years as the KGB Chicken, is rehatched out of a giant-sized styrofoam egg, foreground, in San Diego, July 8. The new Chicken looks like a first cousin of the original. The colors are different but the soulful eyes remain. The Chicken starts a week's run in Seattle tonight and will stay on through next Tuesday night's All-Star Game in the Kingdom.

Niekro, Andujar and Sambito named to NL All-Star pitching staff

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Rogers and Steve Carlton, who both flirted with no-hitters last week, were among those named Tuesday by Manager Tom Lasorda to an eight-man National League pitching staff for next week's All-Star Game.

Rogers, of the NL East Division-leading Montreal Expos, hurled 7 one-third innings of no-hit ball Saturday in Montreal against Lasorda's Los Angeles Dodgers before finishing with a four-hit victory. He also leads the league's starting pitchers in shutouts (five) and earned run average (.229) through Sunday.

Carlton, 10-8, allowed only one hit — a leadoff double in the seventh-inning by Elliot Maddox — and retired the first 18 batters in his 1-0 victory over the New York Mets at Philadelphia last Wednesday. The left-hander has two one-hitters this season and 103 strikeouts.

The two will join pitchers Joe Niekro, Joaquin Andujar and reliever Joe Sambito of the NL West Division-leading Houston Astros when the All-Stars meet next Tuesday for the golden anniversary All-Star Game in Seattle's Kingdom.

Also picked for the NL mound staff Tuesday were Gaylord Perry of the San Diego Padres, Mike LaCoss of the Cincinnati Reds and reliever Bruce Sutter of the Chicago Cubs.

Niekro, Andujar and Sambito all have played vital roles for the surprising Astros, who are off to the best start by far in the club's 18-year history.

Niekro, 13-3, won eight consecutive starts from May 13 through June 13, earning him NL Pitcher of the Month honors for May, while Andujar, who received the same award for April, has picked up three of his 10 victories in relief.

Sambito, the league's hottest pitcher out of the bullpen recently, has 10 saves and four wins. The left-hander currently is on a streak of 351 one-third consecutive scoreless innings covering his last 23 appearances, and his ERA has dropped to 1.08.

Perry, the 1978 Cy Young Award winner who will turn 41 on Sept. 15, owns a 9-6 record with eight complete games and a 2.48 ERA. He recorded his 100th strikeout of the season Sunday in beating the Mets.

LaCoss, who blazed out of the gate with eight straight victories, has an 8-3 mark and a 2.41 ERA. Sutter, the winning pitcher in last year's All-Star game in San Diego, leads the league with 19 saves and had a 1.17 ERA going into Monday night's game at Atlanta.

CHICAGO (AP) — "That's what both of us were trying to do," said Don Kessinger, "both of us were trying to win."

Kessinger, player-manager of the Chicago White Sox, and Manager Pat Corrales of the Texas Rangers went 1-on-1 in player changes Monday night. But Kessinger came out on top and the White Sox protected a 5-4 victory which knocked the Rangers out of first place in the American League West.

Corrales used seven straight pinch hitters in the eighth and ninth innings, while Kessinger employed four different pitchers in the eighth before Randy Scarbery finally held on to earn his fourth save. Chet Lemon's run-scoring double keyed a three-run sixth inning against loser Sergio Jenkins, 9-5, and gave winner Ross Baumgarten, 8-5, the 5-4 lead.

But the drama began when Buddy Bell, who earlier figured in a rarely by driving in two runs on a sacrifice fly, led off the eighth with a single and Ed Farmer relieved Baumgarten.

Farmer retired pinch-batter Oscar Gamble on a grounder as Bell took second. Ed Putman batted for John Ellis and Guy Hoffman replaced Farmer. Hoffman walked Bell to third but retired Jim Sundberg who had batted for Putman. Scarbery replaced Hoffman and walked pinch-batter John Grubb but retired pinch-batter Mike Jorgensen, to end the eighth.

"The main thing is to get the first guy out in the ninth," Scarbery later related.

Hoping to overcome clay-court specialist image

Solomon wins at Forest Hills

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chinese and Soviets had their five-year plans. Lots of car dealers offer two and three-year plans. And Harold Solomon has a three-year plan for better tennis.

The little baseline batter wants to start with a slight adjustment of image, beginning with that frequent appellation "clay-court specialist."

"That's a misconception. Let's change it," he said Monday night after beating old friend Eddie Dibbs 4-6, 7-6, 6-2 in the first match of the $300,000 Forest Hills Invitational. In Monday night's other match, Poland's Wojtek Fibak beat Mexico's Raul Ramirez. Solomon noted that he has won more titles on fast hard courts than on clay. But the fact is that he does play a lot on clay. Neither he nor Dibbs had played since the French Open, the last European claycourt tournament in early June. And he and Dibbs simply passed up Wimbledon, the most important tennis event on earth.

"Yeah, we were invited," Solomon said with a smile. "I really haven't enjoyed playing over there (Wimbledon) that much. There's a big difference between center court and the outside courts. It's OK if you're Borg or Connors, who always play on Centre Court or Court One," he continued. But I think the last time I played there I played on Court 12."

Wimbledon's grass courts can become very ragged during two weeks of play. And the conditions vary so much from court to court that players frequently have difficulty adjusting to the bounce of the ball.

What Solomon and Dibbs did between the French Open and now was practice every day in Florida. And in that spell, Solomon says he made a plan.

"I decided last week that over the next three years I'm putting everything into tennis. I'm really going to give it a go and see how far I can go," said Solomon, who has been a top 10 player for most of this decade, but whose results have been less than spectacular the last few years.

He says he has improved his serve, and his statistics Monday night were respectable. He got in 64.6 percent of his first serves. But he double-faulted at some crucial points, including three times to lose serve. Solomon scored often on cross courts and played more often in the vicinity of the net than usual.

The match was filled with errors, by both players. There were 19 service breaks in 31 games.

EDWARD KOCH JOHN DENVER

Lennon wants land

CHARLES CITY, Va. (AP) - Former Beatle John Lennon apparently is interested in buying property in Virginia and has been out with a real estate agent checking land in Charles City County.

Lennon was being shown "property and acreage that has a name," Morton G. Thalheimer Inc., a Richmond real estate agency, reported Monday. Several real estate agents in the state also confirmed showing property to Lennon and his wife, Yoko Ono, and one agent said they were seeking waterfront land.

Denver sings for whales

LONDON (AP) - Singer John Denver turned up at the 22-nation International Whaling Commission with his guitar, presented a petition signed by a half million Americans calling for an end to whaling, and sang a song titled "I Want to Live" to the delegates.

"It was certainly a new experience," said one whaling man who was about to spend five days discussing how many whales the world should kill in the next 12 months and how it might be more humanely handled.

Retain ties with ALC

Lutherans defeat resolution

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Delegates to the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod's biennial convention here voted Monday against a move to sever ties with the less conservative American Lutheran Church.

The resolution to dissolve the synod's "protesting fellowship" with the ALC was made by Gilbert La Haine Sr. of Lansing, Mich., who noted that a convention report concluded that the doctrinal differences between the two churches has grown.

After the resolution was defeated by a hand vote among the 1,100 delegates, the Rev. Dr. Martin H. Scharlemann, professor of theology at Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, said there was "theological deterioration" in ALC schools and seminaries. Scharlemann warned that the Missouri Synod will be embarrassed for having maintained the fellowship for so long.

The Missouri Synod, which claims 2.7 million members, adopted in 1969 a fellowship with the ALC which permitted members of the two church bodies to worship and commune with each other and let pastors preach in each other's churches.

Two years ago, however, the Missouri Synod declared it would not further advance fellowship as it studied differences between the two groups.

The ALC claims a membership of 2.4 million persons.

Dr. Jacob A. O. Preus, president of the Missouri Synod, said the conservatives demanding an end to the fellowship should be patient.

Preliminary hearings will be postponed

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - A scheduled July 19 preliminary hearing for Roger Dale Stafford may be postponed until mid-August if the murder defendant's public defender gets his way.

T. Hurley Jordan, who was appointed last week after the second of Stafford's lawyers quit because of a lack of payment, said Monday he wants more time to study the case.

District Attorney Andrew M. Coats said he will oppose the request.

Stafford, a 27-year-old drifter from Alabama, is charged with first-degree murder in connection with the July 16, 1978, slayings of six employees of a Sirloin Stockade restaurant here.

District Judge Carmon Harris set the preliminary hearing date last week before Stafford's second private attorney withdrew.

Jordan met with Stafford for two hours Monday. He said he needs more time to become familiar with the case and wants the preliminary hearing held after Aug. 1.

In a related development Monday, Coats disclosed he has used about $2,500 from a private trust for room and board for the state's star witness in the case.
