Cabinet, staff offering to resign

Carter working on new lineup

WASHINGTON (AP) — With all of his Cabinet and high-level staff offering to resign, President Carter is expected to decide by Friday where the ax will fall as he works on a new lineup to revive his presidency.

Senior officials were shaken by the move — the latest surprise in Carter's self-declared turning point — which left the government in limbo.

The 34 top officials affected said little in public beyond confirming that they had been asked Tuesday to tender their resignations.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the offers, made orally and not in writing, would be considered "carefully and expeditiously" by the president.

Cabinet secretaries were led to believe they would hear whether Carter would keep them in "in two or three days," one source said. Another source said the president's decision would come sometime "this week." Both sources asked not to be identified.

One White House official, reflecting the extremely secretive nature of the day's developments in this city that thrives on rumors, said, "Whatever the president's decisions may be, I can assure you he is keeping them to himself."

The number of resignations the president will accept remained unclear, but one White House official said "the president will accept some."

Members of Congress called Tuesday's announcement "strange" and "curious." Republican reaction was the harshest, but several Democrats also questioned the president's actions.

Powell's brief announcement that several high members of the administration had tendered their resignations left unanswered several questions:

What motivated the mass offer? Were the resignations solicited? And by whom, the president or his chief aides as they seek flexibility in restructuring the administration to bolster Carter's re-election odds?

Dodging such questions, one official who asked for anonymity, would say only that the resignations "were offered."

Asked why dozens of top people in government would be moved simultaneously to offer to quit without prodding, the official responded: "We felt it to be an appropriate step to take at this time."

Besides the 12 Cabinet officers, resignation offers came from all presidential assistants and special assistants, including Hamilton Jordan, Carter's de facto, but untitled, chief of staff. When the smoke clears, Jordan is likely to emerge with that title.

Powell, a Georgian like Jordan, could also be given expanded authority.

Speculation on those most likely to leave the Cabinet focused on embattled Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, who has said he would leave before Carter opens his anticipated re-election campaign.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, and Joseph A. Califano Jr., the secretary of health, education and welfare, both of whom have raised the ire of senior Carter aides, were also possible targets.

Reflecting the scope of the resignations, Warren Dunn, spokesman for Housing and Urban Development Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris, said, "my boss and everybody else's boss in Washington resigned today."

One Cabinet member was described by an aide, asking not to be identified by name or department, as "literally shaken" by the prospect that his resignation offer might be accepted.

Among those offering to resign were U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young; Budget Director James McIntyre; Middle East peace negotiator Robert Strauss; and Mary Hoyt, first lady Rosalynn Carter's press secretary.

Alfred Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, was not asked for his resignation, a spokesman said. Nor were any changes said to be contemplated that involve key national security affairs positions, reportedly including the jobs of Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, Defense Secretary Harold Brown, and national security assistant Zbigniew Brzezinski.

The resignation offers pushed the dollar down at the close of Tuesday's currency trading in New York.

Growth dictates expansion

In anticipation of expansion, Lubbock Manufacturing has expressed a need for increased facilities at Industrial Park.

The plant, which currently employs 45 people in the manufacturing and repair of tankers has been operating out of building 1103 since late 1977. The company was one of the first to set up industrial operations at the former Webb Air Force Base.

According to Bob Davis, executive officer, Lubbock Manufacturing's operations are growing. The growth has necessitated expansion into a second building, 1102. Davis estimated that the growth will require an additional 15 to 20 people, bringing the number of employees up to 60 to 65.

Division Manager Harry Spannaus said today that the need for a second building is due to both growth of current production and the addition of a new line of manufacturing. The industry will be going into massive production of components for tanker trailers and oil field equipment, he said.

Davis and Spannaus went before the Big Spring Steering Committee and City Council Monday to request that the new facility be rewired with 220 electrical outlets.

According to Davis, 220 is required for any type of machinery that will be used by any industry which may occupy that building now and in the future. He said that the current 110 voltage makes the building, formerly used as a small missile test facility by the Air Force, useless for any purpose other than storage with its current wiring.

A previous request to the Steering Committee by Lubbock Manufacturing was denied. Davis went before the joint meeting Monday in the airport terminal to ask why.

According to Steering Committee member Winston Wrinkle, the committee had opposed the request initially because it did not want to set an undesirable precedent.

The policy, Davis was told, is for the city to provide any initial improvements that are necessary when an industry moves in if the work to be done is something basic to the building, such as heating, lighting or repairs.

The city does not take financial responsibility for improvements that a particular industry deems necessary to its particular operations.

"I am open to paying a percentage of the cost," Wrinkle stated. Estimated cost of the improvement is $9,258.

Members followed Wrinkle's suggestion that the city would pay up to 25 percent of the cost, not to exceed $2,500.

The minutes of the Monday meeting, which included the motion was approved by the City Council at its called meeting Tuesday.

City funding of modification of building 1102 will be reimbursed by Lubbock Manufacturing through a $100 deduction in the industry's monthly rent of $400.

Inflation will be worse

Jobless rate might spiral to 7 percent, Miller says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The coming recession probably will be worse than the Carter administration has predicted, with sharply higher unemployment, says Chairman G. William Miller of the Federal Reserve Board.

Miller told the Senate Banking Committee Tuesday that unemployment could hit 7 percent this year and 8.25 percent in 1980, compared with the administration's worst forecast of 6.6 percent unemployment this year and 6.9 percent in 1980.

The difference between an unemployment rate of 6.9 percent and 8.25 percent is about 1.4 million jobs.

Miller said the Federal Reserve Board has forecast an overall decline in economic activity of between 0.5 percent and 2 percent this year and a range of activity of between a 0.5 percent decline and a 2 percent growth in 1980.

The administration outlook was for a 0.5 percent decline this year and a 2 percent increase in 1980. Inflation also will be worse, the board's forecast said.

"We see a moderate recession running through this year and into next year," Miller told the committee.

He said the recession probably started in the second quarter of this year and will continue through the first quarter of 1980.

While he said the recession should not be nearly so bad as the steep 1974-1975 economic downturn when unemployment hit a post-war peak of 9 percent, he added that nobody can be certain what will happen to the economy.

"The economic outlook currently is obscured by exceptional uncertainties, and the range of possible outcomes appears quite wide," he said.

But indicating he feels the administration's outlook is too optimistic, Miller said it "does seem to envisage a somewhat more favorable combination of real output and inflation" than the Federal Reserve Board feels is likely. Miller said the board's outlook was a consensus of the seven members, the first time there has been a consensus forecast.

Miller indicated the administration and Congress may want to consider reducing taxes, especially for business through accelerating the investment depreciation allowance. But he also said he would favor a reduction in Social Security taxes.

"We must ensure that our system of taxation does not discourage the saving and capital investment necessary to reverse the deterioration of productivity performance observed in recent years," he said.

Carter also has indicated he would favor a reduction in Social Security taxes as his first preference if the economy needed a boost from a tax cut.

U.S. envoy quits Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Lawrence Pezullo quit Nicaragua today, saying he was recalled because the United States feels the new Nicaraguan government "went back on" an agreement to turn over power to the rebel junta that drove President Anastasio Somoza into exile.

airport and a flight to Panama escorted by security men in bullet-proof vests.

He said the move was not a break in relations. Nations often use the recall of an ambassador to express displeasure at the actions of another government.

In this case, the recall came a few hours after members of the junta flew to Nicaragua to establish a provisional government outside Managua. The guerrilla movement threatened a bloodbath unless Somoza's handpicked successor, Francisco Urcuyo, abandoned his declared intention to hold on to the presidency.

"We feel the government of Nicaragua went back on the agreement we reached with them," Pezullo said, adding that Urcuyo "understood the nature of the agreement."

He said the expectation was that Urcuyo's government would stay in power only a short time, a cease-fire would be called, the junta would be called in to Nicaragua and the conflict would be ended.

He said a reduced staff would remain at the embassy, primarily for relief activities and protection of Americans remaining in Managua. He did not say how many staff members would stay.

The embassy lobby was packed with staff members, and suitcases were being thrown into a truck. The embassy's Marine guards were in civilian clothes, and Pezullo's security men were seen putting on bulletproof vests for the ride to the airport. They rode in a car behind his.

Sources close to the junta said Violeta de Chamorro, Sergio Ramirez Mercado and Alfonso Robelo Callejas left San Jose, the Costa Rican capital, shortly after midnight for Leon, Nicaragua's second largest city 55 miles northwest of Managua.

Leon was the first city captured by the Sandinista National Liberation Front in the offensive that resulted in the resignation Tuesday of Somoza and the end of the 42-year-old Somoza family dictatorship.

Action / reaction: TV and FCC blame

Q. What is the reason our local TV cable company doesn't provide us with programming from Station 17 out of Atlanta, Ga., a station whose programs our neighboring towns of Stanton and Lamesa enjoy? This is a 24-hour-a-day station. Channels 4, 8, 9, and 13 on the cable all carry the same network programs (ABC). Any of these stations could carry the Atlanta station on the cable.

A. Jim Lancaster, owner of Cable TV, says laws enforced by the Federal Communication Commission forbid him to subscribe for such a service. They have something to do with infringement of territory. The regulations, Lancaster adds, are detailed and couched in legal language but he adds he would be glad to show them to people who are interested.

Chinese-Russians to talk

PEKING (AP) — The Chinese government has agreed unconditionally to talks with the Soviet government to improve relations between them, the Soviet Embassy announced today.

It said the Chinese reply to the latest Russian note on the subject was delivered Monday in Moscow and specified that the talks — the first since the 1960s — should begin in the second half of September and should alternate between Moscow and Peking.

China named its Moscow ambassador, Wang Youping (Wang Yu-ping), to represent it. He has been named a vice foreign minister, slightly below the level which the Russians originally proposed for the exchanges.

The Soviet Embassy said the Chinese posed no substantive conditions for the talks, which it said would range over the entire spectrum of official relations between countries. They would include trade, technological cooperation, peaceful coexistence and non-interference in each other's affairs, the embassy said.

China and the Soviet Union have maintained relations but on a diminished scale since their ideological rift in the early 1960s.

Killing confessed

KIRKWOOD, Mo. (AP) — A McAllen, Texas man has told authorities he kidnapped, robbed and killed a fellow employee near Wichita, Kan., last week, St. Louis County police detectives said Tuesday.

Emilio S. Salas, 42, told authorities he kidnapped co-worker William George, 53, from a Wichita motel where the two men were staying, robbed him of several thousand dollars and then shot and killed him, police said.

Salas is hospitalized here after being accidentally shot by his father-in-law Saturday during a family quarrel in St. Louis.

Salas said he dumped George's body "about an hour's ride from Wichita on the way to St. Louis," said police Lt. Richard O'Connor, head of the St. Louis County Crimes Against Persons Bureau.

Police found a body late Tuesday near the Augusta, Kan., Municipal Airport. Authorities there had begun searching for the body after they were alerted by St. Louis police. A strongbox where the money apparently was kept was recovered at the Wichita motel.

Need for rapid action on water plant cited

By EILEEN MCGUIRE

Serious consequences could be lowered on the City of Big Spring if a modification of the water treatment plant is not completed by a deadline set by the state Water Quality Board.

Assistant City Manager Bill Brown said today that the city is under a compliance order to meet state regulations on sewage discharged from the plant by Jan. 1, 1981.

The problem has been a long-standing one, said Brown, who specified that the problem has nothing to do with drinking water, which does meet state regulations.

The water board has found that sewage discharge from the plant, constructed in 1962, does not meet state standards at the point of discharge.

Standards by the state water department, according to Brown, dictate that the discharge by 20-20, that is, 20 parts per million biochemical oxygen demand (B.O.D.) to 20 parts per million of total nonfilterable suspended solids.

"The plant does not have the capacity of producing an effluent which meets current standards," Brown stated. "If (the water) is not necessarily harmful because a lot of treatment occurs between the discharge point and the Colorado River."

The plant discharges into Beal's Creek which runs into the Colorado River. The Colorado River runs into Lake Spence, which is Big Spring's main source of water.

"Seventy miles of waterway is traveled before it (the discharge) reaches Lake Spence," Brown said. "By the time it's ten miles downstream, we've already had a reduction of B.O.D. down to about ten."

Brown maintains that the problem at the sewage plant does not effect water quality. He said that natural pollution does effect the quality with salt being the biggest problem. The water is not substandard, however.

Wo why is an estimated $1,750,000 going to be spent on a major modification of the treatment plant?

"The state says we have to meet standard regulations," said Brown. He noted that the estimated cost was just that — an estimate.

Three-fourths of the modifications, up to $1,312,500, will be funded by the federal government through the Economic Development Agency, according to Brown.

"Normally, it would be through the E.P.A. (Environmental Protection Agency)," he said, "but in this instance, it'll be through the E.D.A. due to the fact that the problem existed at the time that Webb closed."

Failure to comply with the state water board's order, according to Brown, could have devastating effects on the community.

The City could be subject to fines of at least $1,000 per day for each day past the unmet deadline, said Brown, as each day would be a new offense.

"It's a serious situation," Brown said. "I don't think anyone can afford that."

The city could also be prohibited from adding on new sewage taps to the sewage system, which would stigmatize industry.

It would shut down growth," said Brown.

"It's a serious situation. The degree of severity (of penalties) will be dependent on their (the board's) mercy."

Big Spring's portion of the funding for the improvement amounts to about $437,500 based on current figures of estimates.

That portion would be funded through revenue bonds, which would be paid for through water revenues. Some of the cost would be passed on to consumers in the form of an estimated $1 to $1.50 surcharge until the bond is retired.

How much time will construction require? Brown did not say. He did say that it would have to take no longer than Jan. 1, 1981.

"We have to meet that deadline."

Gold tops $300, dollar declines

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold topped $300 an ounce for the first time in history today amid uncertainty in the world's financial markets that President Carter will be able to implement his energy policies. The dollar dropped.

Gold, an investor's traditional hedge in times of monetary uncertainty, opened on the London market at $302.25 an ounce. This was an advance of $3.875 from Tuesday's closing rate in London of $298.375, the previous record price.

A month ago an ounce of gold was selling for around $280, and at the start of the year it was $225.20. The metal leaped the $200 hurdle for the first time July 28, 1978.

The dollar declined in New York late Tuesday on uncertainty over the news that Cabinet members of the Carter administration had offered their resignations to allow the president to pick a new team to cope with such pressing problems as the U.S. energy shortage.

The U.S. currency continued its slide on the Tokyo market, but dealers said news of an impending U.S. Cabinet reshuffle had no significant impact on Tokyo trading.

"I guess operators here don't know how to interpret the news and are withholding evaluation at the moment," one Tokyo trader said.

The dollar finished the day in Tokyo at 215.775 Japanese yen, down from 216.80 yen at Tuesday's close.

The dollar was also weaker as trading began on European foreign exchanges, which start their business day about the time Tokyo's ends.

In London the pound was quoted in morning trading at $2.2887 dollars, up from $2.2705 late Tuesday and at its highest level since June 1975.

GOLD PRICE — This graphic illustrates the rise in the price of an ounce of gold in the period 1976 to the present. The price of gold reached $303.88 today, the first time in history that it has topped $300.

'Trojan Horse' suit triggers new trial

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court ordered a new trial Wednesday in a "Trojan Horse" suit in which an injured worker switched sides at the last moment and argued against his co-plaintiff, the city of Houston.

Houston and Maurice Little were aligned as co-plaintiffs in a suit against Sam P. Wallace & Co. and Precision Insulation Co. Inc., after an explosion and fire which destroyed the water cooling plant at Houston Intercontinental Airport in 1971.

Little was an employee of Precision and was seriously injured as he was insulating water pipes.

At the trial, all the parties had finished presenting evidence when Little and Wallace settled their differences without telling the judge or Houston's lawyers.

In final jury arguments, Little's lawyer "wholly switched his direction" and argued that the evidence would not support a finding against Wallace — "his ostensible adversary."

The jury returned a favorable verdict for Wallace and Precision, as Little had argued.

A week later, the city learned for the first time that Little had announced to the court — while Houston's lawyers were out of the courtroom during jury deliberations — that he did not wish to pursue the suit against Wallace.

The city filed motions for a mistrial and a new trial, but the judge rejected the motions.

"City of Houston, under an adversary proceeding, had the burden to develop and present its own case, but it did not have the additional burden to defeat the Trojan Horse that had secretly invaded the city's camp," wrote Justice Jack Pope. "Counsel for Little switched sides and then undermined his co-plaintiff's and his own case as alleged."

Texan decides to wear coat and tie in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jim Mattox, who says he is a practical man and proud of his humble origins, wants to sacrifice coat-and-tie decorum at the altar of the energy shortage.

The Texas Democrat began the campaign Tuesday by appearing on the House floor without a coat and tie to deliver a speech about how to stay cool despite the new maximum 78-degree thermostat setting.

Mattox ignored requests House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill made for him to leave.

"The gentleman knows he is embarrassing the chair O'Neill," the speaker said. "I don't know if he is embarrassing himself."

Male House members are required to wear coats and ties.

O'Neill asked Mattox three times "to retire from the chamber." Although no one threw the Texan out, he was not able to, present his prepared remarks.

"Let us shed our coats and ties, roll up our sleeves and let the American people know we're serious about solving the country's energy problems," the text said.

In a post-encounter interview, Mattox said his mother was a waitress and his father a sheetmetal worker. His first job was on a freight dock. Ties are merely a device to distinguish between classes, he said.

"The whole concept of the coat and tie is an anachronism that should be changed," Mattox, a lawyer and former state representative, said. "What utilitarian purpose is there for a piece of cloth hanging around your neck?"

He had his views on coats and ties read into the congressional record earlier in the summer, but said he decided to take action after

Storm batters bus, 17 passengers hurt

BUCKEYE, Ariz. (AP) — High winds from a nearby thunderstorm battered a Greyhound bus, sending it sliding off the road onto its side and injuring 17 of its 24 passengers, three seriously, the Arizona Department of Public Safety said.

The bus, enroute to Memphis, Tenn., struck the guard rail on Interstate 10 just west of here shortly after dark Tuesday. Winds estimated at 60 to 70 miles an hour buffeted the bus moments before the accident, investigators said.

Officers said the wind appeared to lift and slide the rear of the bus.

"The bus was traveling at a reduced speed due to weather conditions, but it appeared the high winds caused the accident," said Patrolman Richard Graham.

"I don't know how to explain it," said Carroll Steele, 26, of Oklahoma City, Okla. "He (the driver) was going real slow and careful and then we just sort of slipped off the shoulder when the wind hit us."

"The driver tried to cut back up on the road but there was that guardrail.... We hit it hard and just rolled over," said Steele.

"It went in slow motion for me," said Lisa Knoll, 18, of Rockwell, Texas. "Everyone screamed at once, but afterward everybody calmed down real quick. It was a very relaxed accident. We crawled through a window hatch and over a tire to get out."

"Right after it went over somebody stuck their head in there and told everybody to be calm, and then started helping people out," said Tom Mason, 36, an unemployed painter en route to Phoenix. "The people that were hurt, some of them stayed inside and got first aid in there. Like all wrecks I suppose, you just have a feeling of turning over and there's nothing you could do about it."

Driver James Christian, 59, of Phoenix, was listed in guarded condition with back injuries.

The bus fell on its right side, hanging almost half of its length over the guardrail. Eastbound traffic on the interstate was backed up for several miles. The west-bound lanes were closed to allow three helicopters to land to carry the injured to hospitals in Phoenix, about 30 miles to the east.

The interior of the bus was a mass of disarray, officials said.

Another Greyhound bus traveling behind the one that overturned picked up the injured passengers and took them to a nearby hotel.

The Phoenix Fire Department was called to Sky Harbor International Airport when one helicopter developed control problems. But the craft landed safely and the injured was transported to a nearby hospital by ambulance.

Millionaires proliferate in U.S.

Inflation may hurt some of us but it moves others into the good neighborhoods.

Figures were released the other day which show one in every 400 of us has reached the status of millionaire.

Time was when only the Rockefellers, the Gettys, the Fords and the Astors had the wherewithal to qualify for that league, but no more. There are now 520,000 Americans who have enough assets to be regarded as millionaires and the number keeps growing. Inflation has caused incomes to boom, especially among those who build a better mousetrap and who know the time to buy and sell.

MEMBERSHIP IN the exclusive league has mushroomed in the past three or four years because the rate of inflation has accelerated. The dollar may not demand the respect it once did but a million of anything still impresses people, even the federal diplomats that bear George Washington's likeness.

For purposes of a study done by the U.S. Trust Corp. based on computer projections of population trends, a millionaire was defined as anyone with a current net worth of $1 million, debt not included. The figure the computer came up with, for those making the grade this year, is 15 per cent above 1978's 450,000, coincidentally close to the current rate of inflation.

Considering the fact that today's more than half a million millionaires still represent only a quarter of one per cent of the entire population, they remain one of the more elite groups.

A mere ten years ago, membership in the exclusive fraternity was estimated at only 121,000.

IF THE RATE keeps up, better than a four-fold increase every decade, inflation could conceivably make us all millionaires — and some of us would still be lining up to get food stamps.

When that time comes, a lot of us will be papering our walls with our currency and using the barter system to make ends meet.

Nothing below

Around the rim

Don Woods

I can't believe I did it.

ON A SUNNY June day in 1976 I found myself jumping face first through the open-door of an airborne plane. Suddenly, briefly, I too was airborne.

I was snatched a second later from an inevitable collision course with planet Earth by the sudden poise explosion of white nylon from a pack strapped to the middle of my back.

When, finally, I felt it was safe to open my eyes and to look around, I found I was hanging from a huge white parachute that was flapping and whispering above me. I was wearing a green Khaki jump suit, high top black army boots and a helmet. And I was falling.

At a height of 3,000 feet my primary thought was to get back to my environment. Strapped in a harness with my movement restricted by an only summary knowledge of the chute's guidance system, I was helplessly at the mercy of the prevailing wind.

The view was memorable. Guide lines on the chute enabled me to turn 180 degrees to catch the most favorable winds and see all around me. One thing you remember most is the sight of your boots with nothing below for 3,000 feet.

Why did I do it?

MAYBE IT'S in my family. Benjamin, 21, my brother, thinks it's neat to attempt suicide on Sundays in the dirt 250 cc's of dirt bike. Jumping out of an airplane is one thing but motocross racing is crazy. A person could get hurt! But he's a winner.

Why are dangerous sports gaining popularity? Maybe because modern man is so safe from things that men in the past weren't safe from. Many diseases no longer threaten the way they did our grandparents. Vietnam no longer presents itself as a real and present danger. Maybe modern men are bored by the physical safety of life.

Or maybe that's not the reason at all for increasing popularity of dangerous sports. Maybe danger is a nice change from normalcy. Some list danger as one of man's basic needs.

Rebels divided

William F. Buckley, Jr.

If you set out to try to discover what's going to happen in Nicaragua after Somoza goes, you will find it easy to talk to a lot of people presumptively informed, and hard to find an answer to your question. There are layers after layers of problems. Practically everybody hates Somoza, mostly for good reason. But betting on the nature of his successor is a dicey business.

The Sandinistas are divided. The United States representative is busily engaged in attempting to wrest from them a commitment of sorts to responsible government. But the only coordinating vision in the area is, as usual, that of the communists, through Fidel Castro who, having sent troops to liberate Africa and having the other day promised to send troops to defend North Vietnam against China, nevertheless has enough left over to pop across the few hundred miles that separate Cuba from Nicaragua, a distance no greater than the distance from Nicaragua to the Bay of Pigs, a symbolism not lost on Castro.

IN A LIFETIME of reading about caudillos and caudillismo, about banana republics and swaggering generals and Columbia School of Journalism-type foreign correspondents, I had not read a short account more illuminating than the memos circulated by Norman Wolfson, formerly the American PR man for Somoza, about his experiences with Somoza over a period of almost two years.

Wolfson's arrant honesty brings to his reminiscences a kind of textural authenticity of great effect. After meeting Somoza, he concluded he was dealing with "a boor, a rude overbearing bully." When he left Somoza, in January 1978, he had convincing reason to believe Somoza's associates intended to rub Wolfson out.

He doesn't, however, believe Somoza himself would have ordered the assassination — "Murder was not part of his repertoire." Indeed, "I truly like and enjoy Somoza, but any future contact I have with the man will have to be in the United States." Wolfson makes plain he is for hire as a PR man, even as lawyers are for hire as advocates.

BUT IN THIS memorandum, written after his professional obligations ceased, he finds himself under no lasting confessional vow of silence — and concludes about the boor and bully that he (Wolfson) "was performing a better service for my country by trying to help Americans understand Somoza than I did even by serving my country in the Navy during World War II."

Wolfson spices his 10,000-word narrative with wonderful episodes at the expense of many American journalists and publishers (myself included). There was never a clearer case of a journalistic mindset than that against Somoza. Now, minds can be richly deserved. However, the vaunted right of the public to know includes the right to know — if it should actually happen — that a particular Soviet dissident convicted of spying for a foreign power actually WAS spying for a foreign power.

The American public is entitled to know, to the best of the ability of our media to report on the matter, whether Somoza was, e.g., guilty of assassinating his enemy Chamorro (he wasn't in Wolfson's opinion); or systematically torturing the opposition (answer unclear).

Consider this episode: "Dan" Rather was the interviewer on a '60 Minutes' Somoza piece that was aired in the early winter of 1978. Viewers saw Rather interview a Nicaraguan mother, who tearfully reported that Somoza tortured political prisoners. Are you sure, are you SURE of what you are saying? Now, this is serious, it's going to be on the air. The lady nodded affirmatively.

Unexpected breast milk requires check

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I've developed a problem I haven't read about in your column. I am 35 years old and have two children, the oldest 14. I've started discharging what appears to be milk from both breasts. My doctor studied my pituitary gland, and that was normal. A prolactin test was normal also. What was he looking for? I am in good health, so can you explain? I take no medication. I'm baffled. Are you? — Mrs. K.T.

If your menstrual periods are normal and the discharge is scanty the chances are you are normal. Your doctor is being thorough. We know much more about the female hormone system today, so doctors routinely look for many problems they might not have years ago.

There are many causes for unexpected lactation (milk production) of this kind. The substance has about the same composition as normal breast milk. Over-manipulation of breasts in the non-pregnant woman (as in sex play) can cause it.

You mention not taking any medicines, which is important. Many drugs — tranquilizers, anti-depressants, or hormones — can cause the condition technically called "galactorrhea." Women with low thyroid activity or adrenal gland deficiency may have this.

The doctor is looking chiefly for a problem in any of several organs that can prompt lactation by abnormal production of certain milk-stimulating hormones to cause lactation. It may also occur in liver disease and diabetes. Certain pituitary tumors or hypothalamic disorders can result in abnormal breast milk production. Prolactin (a hormone) increases in the blood, hence your blood study for that.

In puzzling cases a series of special blood tests and x-rays may be necessary to pinpoint the source of hormone production causing the lactation.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My problem is high blood pressure. My doctor has helped me a lot with medication. I also take a tablespoon of blackstrap molasses a day to replace potassium lost with the water pills. Would continuous use of this darken my skin? — H.L.P.

Blackstrap molasses is the thick syrup extracted from raw sugar during refining. It is an excellent source of calcium, iron, and potassium, and it will not darken your skin in spite of its color. I should add for the weight conscious that a half cup contains about 215 calories. Nor would I advise this form of potassium replacement for the diabetic — because of its pure carbohydrate (sugar) content.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am an article you described the various symptoms for a thyroid problem. Every symptom fit my wife's condition, so she was seen by a doctor who found her thyroid was underactive. She was put on thyroid medicine and after a few weeks she feels stronger and has lost several pounds. Our sincerest thanks. — P.T.G.

Connally energy czar?

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The White House is seriously considering retired New York business tycoon John deButts as its new energy mobilization czar even though he is backing Republican John B. Connally to replace Jimmy Carter as president.

deButts retired Feb. 1 as chief executive officer of AT&T and the next day contributed the maximum $1,000 to Connally's campaign. While President Carter's aides are well aware of this, it does not make any difference. "John deButts is extremely well thought of around here, and we'd like to get him to work whether he is a Connally man or not," one White House insider told us.

He is on a list of possible successors to Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, expected to leave by autumn. But deButts' more likely role would begin sooner if the White House has its way: as head of the proposed Energy Mobilization Board, eclipsing the lame-duck Schlesinger as federal czar in charge of energy production.

JODY'S BATTLE FATIGUE

For the first time to anyone's knowledge, President Carter criticized press secretary Jody Powell in the presence of outsiders. But that mild criticism, during the Camp David meetings, does not suggest downgrading, much less removal, for Powell.

POWELL WAS BROUGHT up during Carter's sessions with non-governmental wise men invited to the mountain. After the senior staff (including Powell) had left the room, one outsider commented that he thought Powell was shooting from the hip a little too much lately and might be suffering from battle fatigue. He added that he felt the normal adversary relationship between Powell and the press was degenerating into all-out war.

To the surprise of those present, the president did not spring to the quick defense of his long-time aide. Rather, he noted that Jody seemed a little overwrought, was smoking even more than usual and was putting on weight.

Nevertheless, nobody expects any diminution of Powell's position. Next to Rosalynn, Powell is Carter's most trusted adviser. What some White House insiders would like is for Powell to be removed from the press secretary's daily firing line and be given a counselor's role. But even this is not likely unless initiated by Powell himself.

A footnote: Even more than Powell's politically damaging crack about long gasoline lines being good for Washingtonians, his snap reaction to White House domestic policy chief Stuart Eizenstat's now-famous memorandum generated ill will within the White House. Several presidential aides grumbled that a crack at the hard-working, long-suffering Eizenstat was uncalled for and unfair.

ROSALYNN'S DICTION There was an audible gasp at Bardonia, Ky., when Rosalynn Carter seemed to tell a Democratic party fund-raiser that "Jimmy is competent" — seemingly a public rejoinder to scurrilous private rumors that the president had retired to Camp David for psychological reasons.

Actually, Kentucky ears were having trouble picking up the First Lady's soft Georgia accents. Careful listening to tape recordings of her remarks showed her saying that "Jimmy is confident."

APART FROM THE unfortunate misunderstanding, Mrs. Carter put in a masterful performance substituting for her husband at the Kentucky dinner. She has progressed as a campaigner and is obviously one of the president's top political assets.

HAIG'S DEBUT Retired Gen. Alexander Haig's debut as a practicing Republican politician will be made before a closed-door audience of fat-cat financial contributors with newsmen and ordinary citizens barred.

Haig will speak before the meeting of the Republic Eagles at the posh Beverly Wilshire Hotel in Los Angeles July 22-23. Minimum contribution to Republican war chests of $10,000 is necessary for membership in the Eagles.

Successful ending

WASHINGTON — The kidnapers of William Niehaus — leftists who called themselves the Argimiro Gabaldon Revolutionary Command — have contact in many parts of the work, including New York City. We were in touch with them.

Indeed, when Venezuelan police accidentally stumbled across the jungle hideout where the Owens-Illinois executive was being held captive, they unwittingly ended months of secret negotiations we had been conducting for his release — and probably saved his employers $7 million.

Now that Niehaus is home in Ohio recuperating from his harrowing 40 months as a prisoner, the bizarre story of the ransom negotiations can safely be told. It is a story of clandestine messages, last-minute snafus and agonizing suspense for the businessman and his family.

NIEHOUS WAS kidnaped from his Caracas home in February, 1976. At the instigation of his friends, we wrote a private letter to President Carlos Andres Perez urging him to effect Niehaus' release. But the guerrillas would have nothing to do with Venezuelan authorities.

They also distrusted Owens-Illinois. Early in 1978, Niehaus' wife, Donna, told our associate Jack Mitchell that an attempt by the kidnapers to contact company executives in Geneva, Switzerland, fell through because of a last-minute misunderstanding. Months of ominous silence had followed.

On January 25, 1978, we published details of the botched ransom attempt. In later columns, we offered to meet the kidnapers anywhere in the world to negotiate Niehaus' release. After a long wait, the wary revolutionaries sent a note in Spanish asking for "a public statement on this matter." They enclosed a dated signature identified as Niehaus' by handwriting experts.

In November, 1978, and again last February, we complied with the request and repeated our offer to negotiate. More months of silence passed.

Then on May 27 we received a letter, in English this time, postmarked New York City. "We are prepared to release him for the sum of seven million dollars," the note said. A color snapshot of Niehaus holding a recent Venezuelan newspaper was enclosed — the first proof in more than a year that he might still be alive.

WE WERE TOLD to signify agreement to the ransom demand with a coded ad in The New York Times real estate section: "Wanted: a villa to rent from (date) with at least seven rooms." This would mean that we were prepared to deliver a ransom of seven million dollars on the date filled in.

But a snag developed. It appeared impossible to raise the $7 million in cash by the kidnapers' deadline. So we ran an ad that left the ransom amount open: "Wanted: a villa from June 11, number of rooms subject to discussion."

On June 20, we got the guerrillas' answer: "Mr. Niehaus was very disappointed when we showed him your advertisement." To everyone's relief, they did not threaten to kill their captive, but said they would hold him until we agreed to pay the $7 million in full.

To show acceptance of this demand, we ran the ad as originally worded, on June 25, and waited for further instructions.

They never came. On June 29, Niehaus was discovered by two Venezuelan policemen prowling the jungle for rustlers. The next day, federal troops arrived, and Niehaus' ordeal was over at last.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Budget hearing on Capitol Hill are not noted for their excitement, but when crucial matters like recessing for lunch come up, the proceedings are sometimes enlivened. At one recent session, Rep. Ed Patten, D-N.J., late for a luncheon date, was alarmed to note that the chairman, Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., had failed to adjourn promptly at noon. Strolling over to a couch, Patten picked up a pillow and heaved it at the chairman, saying "Let's break for lunch."

The recent Supreme Court ruling that Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wisc., could be sued for libel for publishing his "Golden Fleece" awards has our lawmakers in a tizzy. The Senate is hiring a special staff of lawyers to defend its members in future suits. And Proxmire's colleagues voted to let the taxpayers foot the bill for his legal fees — which have already exceeded $150,000.

Jimmy Carter, self-proclaimed champion of the "little guy," has done nothing to stop passage of a Senate bill that would make it tougher than ever for small family farmers to obtain from the big agribusiness corporations a share of federally subsidized irrigation water. High-powered lobbying by the big growers succeeded in virtually repealing the 1966 law intended to reserve federal irrigation districts for farms of no more than 620 acres. In the absence of any action by the Carter administration on behalf of the small farmer, the lobbying campaign may succeed.

Freshman Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., is unimpressed with the major perquisites of office, like free parking and stationery allowances. What really delights Gingrich is his "stack card" to the Library of Congress. It gives the former history professor the rare privilege of taking books off the premises, and for Gingrich that's the best "perk" of all.

Merit Switch On!

Low tar MERIT attracts increasing number of former high tar smokers.

Not too long ago, most smokers believed that low tar cigarettes simply didn't taste very good.

Then along came MERIT packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And the "low tar, low taste" theory was exploded.

No other new cigarette in the last 20 years has attracted so many smokers as quickly as MERIT!

And it's convinced some of the hardest-to-please critics of low tar smoking: high tar smokers. In fact, over 70% of MERIT smokers are coming directly from high tar brands!

It's clear: MERIT taste is changing attitudes towards low tar smoking.

SEAL COATING TO BEGIN
Says Bill Brown (above)

HALF OF FUNDING TO WASSON ROAD

Wasson Road to benefit from Operation Facelift

By EILEEN MCGUIRE
Wasson Road will soon lose its annoying roughness in an operation facelift that was approved by the Big Spring City Council at its called meeting Tuesday, 9 a.m.

Wasson Road was voted by the council to be the first street in the city to be seal coated under an approved $10,000 seal coating program. Other streets will be seal coated according to priority until funding runs out.

Assistant City Manager Bill Brown went before the council to present financial figures involved in the process. Materials to seal coat one city block of street, about 40 feet wide, will cost $178.12, according to Brown. Delivery of the material from Moss Lake Gravel Pit another $190.25. Labor would be an additional expense.

Brown told the council that it would be impractical to pull city employees off of current projects to do the seal coating. All projects would abruptly come to a halt, he said.

The County Road Department, under the supervision of Bill Mims, has made an offer to the city of Big Spring. According to Brown, the county crew, experienced at seal coating, would do the job using county equipment, now sitting idle, for what Brown said is a lower fee than would be available elsewhere.

Using the county crew, Brown stated that the cost of the improvements would amount to $1,733 per one mile of 22-foot-wide street. Since Wasson Road is about 40-foot wide, the cost would be nearly double per mile of that road.

Brown informed the council that there was only $10,000 in the fund designated for the purpose of seal coating, so it would be necessary to decide which streets needed it the most.

"$10,000 won't go very far," he said.

He said that he would need time to compile a list of streets needing the repairs, but noted that Wasson Road appeared to be the worst and was the street he had received the most complaints from the public.

Former city councilman Jack Watkins addressed the council to voice his support of the proposal.

He noted that it will cost about $5,000, half of available funds, to seal coat Wasson Road.

"That's lower than we could get from anywhere else," he said, recommending that the county's offer be accepted.

"It's a real bargain," he said, telling the council that he thought other capital projects to seal coat as many streets as possible that needed it in order to take greater advantage of the savings that the county was offering.

Construction of golf cart storage facilities at the city park was one such project he mentioned, noting that the council could find another way to finance the project to free capital for additional street improvements.

Councilman Larry Miller made the motion to go ahead with the $10,000 and let City Manager Don Davis "see if we can come up with any more money."

The motion was seconded by Henkel. The council designated Wasson Road as the starting point for the project and streets to follow will be discussed at the next regular meeting, July 24.

For loan of property of city

Rental fees to be exacted

Industrial Park property will still be available on a loan basis to the City of Big Spring, but for a fee.

Rental fees, recommended by City Manager Don Davis, were considered and accepted by the Big Spring City Council at the council's called meeting Tuesday.

The rental charges are based on recommendations by the Federal Aviation Agency.

According to the schedule, a fee of one per cent of the acquisition price of equipment, office furniture, office machines and rolling stock loaned to the city on a permanent basis will be collected monthly.

A rate of ten dollars per hour was recommended on rolling stock rented to the city on a temporary basis. The city will furnish the operator, fuel and maintenance for any equipment borrowed.

The same fees are charged Industrial Park tenants, with the exception of temporary use. Industrial Park tenants have the exclusive privilege of borrowing equipment without paying a rental fee, according to Davis' recommendation.

Davis also recommended that the fees be made retroactive to the beginning of 1979.

The rental fees will be paid into the airport fund.

Davis' recommendations were accepted by the council through a motion made by Ralph McLaughlin and seconded by Bill Henkel.

The use of city vehicles by employees were also discussed. Henkel motioned and Councilman Larry Miller seconded acceptance of a vehicle policy that had been prepared by Davis and his staff.

The policy aims at restricting unnecessary use of city vehicles by stipulating that only division directors — assistant city managers, police and fire chiefs, finance director, industrial parks manager and community development director — and employees on call who reside within the city limits may drive city vehicles home.

The policy further stipulates that "Any car

PERSONAL USE OF CITY VEHICLES PROHIBITED
Council adopts City Manager Don Davis' guidelines

driven home will be used for City business only."

The policy, according to Davis, cuts the number of vehicles allowed to be driven home in half, from 44 to 22.

A motion was made and seconded to table consideration of increasing the car allowances of police department detectives using their own vehicles pending further information.

An analysis compiled by Davis staff of monthly costs of operating the vehicles based on the past six months indicates that average monthly cost to operate each vehicle is $211 after reimbursement for out-of-town trips.

Assuming that 90 per cent of the vehicles use is for city business, according to the analysis, cost of operating each vehicle after reimbursement for out-of-town trips is $190.

According to Davis, the detectives' car allowance is $200 per month. The detectives are also reimbursed 15 cents a mile for out-of-town trips up to a radius of 100 miles and are issued a city credit card for trips of greater distance, Davis said.

"I do not recommend any increase in the monthly automobile allowance at this time," stated Davis in a written recommendation to the council.

Council members voted to accept the Electrical Board's passage of a proposal to change a city ordinance to require two grounding rods to be installed in new residential and commercial buildings.

To meet national electrical code requirements, according to the board, two grounding rods are necessary due to effects of soil erosion in the Big Spring area.

The council voted to accept the change, which will be added to the city's electrical code.

'We plan to take over this earth for Jesus'

'Pioneering' for Christ

FRANKSTON, Texas (AP) — They are "pioneers" living in a remote area of East Texas and using treadle sewing machines and other implements of a bygone era — but they feel they hold the future of the world in their hands.

"As far-fetched as it sounds, we plan to actually take over this earth for Jesus," says the group's leader, Tom Crotser, 46.

Crotser does not speak in generalities.

"Jesus Christ will return on the night of the 10th day of God's seventh month." That's Sept. 18, 1988, on a regular calendar, Crotser said.

Crotser, who has made nine trips to Turkey in search of proof that the Biblical stories are not just tales but are historically accurate, has worked out a scenario between now and 1988 that includes a global war, worldwide disasters and suffering, and the deaths of more than 200 million persons — all to be followed by 1,000 years of peace.

"We've researched the Bible and we feel we've proved it," he said.

Crotser, the son of Vaudeville magicians, himself a former magician and once a minister in the Christian (Disciples of Christ) Church, established his Holy Ground Mission 10 years ago on 43 acres of rolling hills and woods hidden a few miles south of this East Texas town and about halfway between Palestine and Tyler. His group now numbers 70, including 30 children.

Their women cook on woodburning stoves and their men work with their hands. Their children go to the mission's own school. But their purpose is not to escape the cares and worries of the modern world.

"It is to restore the old paths," said Crotser, holding the hand of his attractive wife, Margie, 40. The Crotser's have had five children, including one 21-year-old daughter who is married, and all of them live on the Holy Ground Mission in cottages they built.

Crotser said the women wear ankle-length dresses, light their homes with kerosene lamps and use foot-pedal sewing machines to make their clothes because "we have been called to restore all things to the original paths."

He said restoration was also the reason he has taken nine expeditions to Turkey where he has brought back photographs he says prove he has found the remains of Noah's Ark lodged atop Mount Ararat in Turkey. Crotser also says his group has located the Tower of Babel in Urfa, Turkey — not 1,500 miles away in Iraq where it has been generally placed by historians.

"These artifacts must be restored to the people before the second coming of Christ," Crotser said, explaining that was his interpretation of Ecclesiastes 3:15 and Acts 3:20,21, in the Bible.

In fact, all of his predictions are derived from the Bible. He said 1988 is significant because it is exactly 40 years — the Bible's definition of a generation — from 1948, the date of the founding of Israel.

depending on their needs. The women buy groceries once a week in Tyler, spending about $300 a trip. They grow some of their food in a garden of about four acres. Children play team sports or take the group's four horses for rides — once their chores are done.

The community makes a few concessions to technology. They have one telephone in Crotser's home-office. They use electricity for lights in the meeting hall and ringer-type washing machines, and the men use trucks and some heavy equipment in their work. There are no televisions, although Crotser said some members have radios.

Crotser says because the Bible does not specifically instruct people to celebrate the birth of Jesus, the group does not recognize Christmas Day.

"It's a day just like any other," he said.

Crotser, who denounces present-day churches because their stand "is so lukewarm" says anyone is welcome to join his group in East Texas or a branch — he claims missions in four foreign countries and four other states. He says he and his followers have 10 years to recruit 144,000 "soldiers" who will journey to Israel in 1988 to receive the second coming of Jesus Christ.

Crotser said this meeting will be followed by seven years of worldwide disasters and suffering, culminating in the Battle of Armageddon. After that, he said, Jesus will reign as king and there will be 1,000 years of peace.

"This is no pie in the sky," Crotser said. "It is God's will. It will be done."

Lady Lawyers— Legal Sheagles?

DEAR ABBY: I note that you frequently advise readers with legal problems to "consult a lawyer, and pay him for what he knows."
That's excellent advice. But today, when approximately 25 percent of the graduating classes of most law schools are women, your readers could wind up paying a lawyer for what she knows. And it would still be a good investment.
MS. PERLMAN, ST. PAUL, MINN.

DEAR MS. Thanks for keeping me on my toes. Mandy Stollman, a lady lawyer and vocal feminist in Milwaukee, has been chastising me for referring to lawyers as "him." Sorry. Old habits die hard. But I'm learning.

DEAR ABBY: A reader asked why so many children from "better" homes who have never known poverty or deprivation have turned to crime and violence.

By way of explanation you quoted PARENTS magazine: "A peek inside the middle-class home will reveal a child who lives with two adults—but has no real parents."

As a veterinarian, I have noted a similarity between the behavior of pet dogs left unattended all day long while the family is at work or at school, and the behavior of children who also, unfortunately, receive little attention or love because so-called parents are too preoccupied to spend time with their children.

Dogs become destructive and chew furniture, shoes, pillows and the like in an effort to get attention. You will find that children also become destructive, vandalizing property and injuring people in an effort to secure the attention that they, as individuals, desire and need. Thirty years of teaching experience has taught me that the child without love in the home is the problem individual in the classroom and on the street.

DAVID C. TUDOR, V.M.D.

DEAR DR. TUDOR: Well said.

DEAR ABBY: Now that vacation time is here, I have a word for those who take pictures and show them around: Please, do not feel that you have to identify every person in every picture. For example:

His wife, Stella, is the one standing next to the woman in green who's holding the poodle whose name is Filiz who used to belong to the couple on the left who live in Podunk. Now the ones in the middle are Betty and Harry..."

Take it easy

By Robert Wallace, Ed.

Teens: Summertime is here and sunbathing and exercise can mean a health glow and a trim figure, or wrinkled, cancer-prone skin and heat stroke, depending on whether or not a person uses care in starting out after a winter indoors.

S-I-O-W is the key word when it comes to both sunbathing and exercise, reports Co-Ed magazine. No matter how well a person tans, the first day out sunbathing should not involve more than 15 minutes of direct exposure. The next day the session can last 20 minutes, with five additional minutes added each subsequent day.

It is dangerous to sunbathe without wearing a cream or lotion, and the safest cream to wear is one which contains the ingredient PABA, which blocks the dangerous ultraviolet rays which can cause skin cancer.

A person should allow a good two weeks for the body to adjust to an exercise program. It is safest to exercise during the early morning or late afternoon when temperatures are lower.

Water should be drunk before, during and after exercise to prevent dehydration, and fresh fruit can be eaten as a snack to replace the potassium one loses through perspiration.

Watch for the signs of heat exhaustion, which are elevated temperature, extreme fatigue, muscle weakness, dehydration and personality change.

If an exercise partner complains of feeling dizzy and dehydrated, it's possible he could be suffering a sunstroke. Help him lie down in a shaded place, elevate his legs and pour liquid over his body before summoning a doctor.

Dr. Wallace: I had an accident six years ago that left me with almost no speech. I have improved but still have difficulty in oral communication.

My problem is my sister. I have dated my sister's friend, Janet, for a month and we enjoyed each other's company.

My sister is embarrassed because of the way I talk and told Janet not to date me anymore.

Janet still visits my sister but will not talk to me now. Due to my poor speech pattern, I cannot express myself to Janet. Please give me advice on what I should do. — Mike, Joliet, Ill.

Dear Mike: Keep your chin up, buddy! A guy with your spunk will do all right. In your case, it will just take a little longer.

Continue to work on your speech pattern and be polite to Janet, but don't press the issue with her.

I know it will be difficult, but treat your sister with kindness. Let's hope your spunk, determination and consideration rub off on your sister. She needs it.

Hyperactivity, frequently associated with minimal brain dysfunction (MBD), may be outgrown, but other more important symptoms can linger into adulthood. Cindy Miller to speak Thursday

Cynthia A. Miller, Midland, will be speaking to the Eagle Forum Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Blue Flame Room at Pioneer Natural Gas Company, on the International Year of the Child. Cindy will also appear on the Jim Baum show, radio station KBYG, at 7 a.m. Thursday.

Cindy is Mrs. Bill D. Miller, a wife and mother of four children. She is the West Texas Regional and Research Director of the Texas Eagle Forum and Public Affairs Analyst for the National Research Studies Unit.

She is a member of the National Congress for Educational Excellence, the Pro-Family Forum, Midland Republican Women's Club, and local Parent-Teachers Association and Birthright.

Mrs. Miller has served as president-elect of the Colorado Eagle Forum and a member of the Citizen's Advisory Board for Denver's ABC television affiliate. She testified for Colorado and Wyoming at the Ad Hoc Congressional Hearings on International Women's Year, researched the National IWY meeting and represented Colorado at the Congressional display luncheon on the IWY minority report.

Approximately 12 people attended the initial meeting of the Eagle Forum at the Y.M.C.A. in June, becoming a part of a national organization of women and men who believe in God, Home and Country, and are determined to defend the values that have made America the greatest nation in the world.

The Eagle Forum meeting Thursday is open to the public and concerned citizens are urged to attend in order to become informed and involved in helping to preserve family values in our nation.

WWI veterans and auxiliary meet

The Veterans of World War I Barracks 1474, and its Auxiliary met in regular sessions on July 14, at 10 a.m. at Kentwood Older Adult Activity Center.

Separate business meetings were held followed by a covered dish luncheon and games. Nine men were in attendance, including one guest, Grady Castle of Abilene.

Virginia Bryant presided over the 26 auxiliary members in attendance. A report was given on the State Convention by Bernice Micallef. Four members plan to attend the National Convention in Hot Springs, Ark., in September.

The Ladies Auxiliary voted to sell fruit cakes again for the Christmas season and also to have a garage sale in September. They will also help man the information desk at the V.A. Medical Center.

Jogging not for women

"Women are not built for jogging," according to a gynecologist, Allan G. Charles, MD of Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center. "The female bony pelvis is much wider than the male's," Dr. Charles explains. "The muscular and connective tissue supports of the female pelvis are often weakened by childbirth, and therefore the uterus is not well enough supported to withstand the repeated impact caused by heels striking ground. What results can lead to 'stress incontinence' when the pressure of the uterus on the bladder causes dribbling of urine on impact, and prolapsed uterus, in which the organ may protrude through the vagina."

Public Notice

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will begin at 9 a.m. on July 24, 1979, in the offices of the Texas Public Utility Commission in Austin, Texas, on a proposal by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to make certain changes in the format of selected Texas telephone directories.

The principal proposed changes are: (1) to separate business and residential listings in the white pages, with residential surnames listed once in boldface type followed by the alphabetical listing of the individuals' given names in regular type; and (2) to add, in addition to the "white pages" business and residential listings and the Yellow Pages business listings, a third set of "blue pages" listing the numbers of selected governmental and public service agencies.

Inquiries may be addressed to the Texas Public Utility Commission, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas 78757.

FIRST PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS — Francisco Urcuyo, newly named President of Nicaragua, talks to members of the press Tuesday at the Hotel Inter Continental.

Urcuyo asked that all members of the Sandinista National Liberation Front lay down their arms in the name of the country.

Junta members set up government

Bloodbath threatened

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Three members of the Sandinista rebel junta flew to Nicaragua today to establish a provisional government outside Managua. The guerrilla movement threatened a bloodbath unless dictator Anastasio Somoza's hand-picked successor, Francisco Urcuyo, abandoned his declared intention to hold on to the presidency.

Sources close to the junta said Violeta de Chamorro, Sergio Ramirez Mercado and Alfonso Robelo Callejas left San Jose, the Costa Rican capital, shortly after midnight for Leon, Nicaragua's second largest city 55 miles northwest of Managua.

Leon was the first city captured by the Sandinista National Liberation Front in the offensive that resulted in the resignation Tuesday of Somoza and the end of the 42-year-old Somoza family dictatorship.

The sources in San Jose said the three junta members planned to declare Leon the provisional capital of Nicaragua. They said one of the two other junta members, guerrilla leader Mois Hassan Morales, was in Masaya, in southern Nicaragua, and the other member, Daniel Ortega Saavedra, was in another Nicaraguan city held by the rebels. They said the three junta members would send for the two men as soon as the government was set up in Leon.

In addition to Leon and Masaya, the Sandinistas control 24 other cities ringing Managua.

Urcuyo, a Somoza man elected president by members of Congress early Tuesday after the dictator resigned, had been expected to step down as soon as the provisional junta named by the Sandinista National Liberation Front flew from Costa Rica to Managua.

Instead he called on the rebels in a broadcast to lay down their arms, and aides said he planned to serve the rest of Somoza's term, until Dec. 1, 1980. The new commander of the national guard, Lt. Col. Federico Mejia, told the troops to redouble their efforts "in the current fight."

"Urcuyo will be responsible for the bloodbath that is going to follow if he does not turn power over to the new government," said Manuel Espinoza, a spokesman for the Sandinista junta waiting in San Jose.

In Washington, the State Department expressed "grave concern" over Urcuyo's stand. It said it would "contradict understandings reached with the Somoza government and with Mr. Urcuyo himself, and deny the Nicaraguan people this historic opportunity for peace and reconciliation."

U.S. Ambassador Lawrence Pezullo met with Urcuyo briefly Tuesday afternoon. A U.S. Embassy source said Urcuyo's administration "was intended to be a caretaker government" that would last only until the junta took over.

The national guard's adjutant general, Lt. Col. Felix Sanchez, said the army was "holding its positions" and fighting only to defend itself. But more than 100 troops backed by armored cars, moved from Managua to Diriamba, 20 miles south of the capital, and engaged the rebels there, witnesses said.

U.S. State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said the United States wanted "to build a relationship of mutual respect" with the junta. But other State Department officials said the Carter administration wanted to avoid too close an identification with the junta because this might be more of a liability than an asset to the future government.

Somoza flew to his palatial estate in Miami Beach, Fla., Tuesday. He told a news conference he "was thrown out by an international conspiracy that has a majority of communists and desires Nicaragua to be a communist country."

Somoza, who is 53, said he hoped to return to the country his family ruled for 42 years, "maybe not as head of the government because I am too controversial a person, but I will be back as a politician."

A member of the Sandinista junta, Sergio Ramirez Mercado, said the junta would ask Somoza's extradition to stand trial for crimes against the people. The State Department said it would not comment until extradition was requested officially.

LINING UP TO LEAVE — People waiting to leave Managua Tuesday stand in line at the Lanica Airlines desk at Las Mercedes airport. General Anastasio Somoza, who resigned as President and left the country early Tuesday morning, is the majority share holder in Lanica, the only airline offering flights to the United States.

Teen shot to death by police never owned gun, dad claims

HOUSTON (AP) — The father of a teen-ager shot to death by Houston police after a high-speed car chase says his son never owned a gun and only took drugs to control his epilepsy.

The testimony of William T. Joyvies came Tuesday in the trial of former officers Walter E. Plaster, 53, and John S. White, 28.

They are charged with conspiring to violate the civil rights of Billy Keith Joyvies, 18, by planting a "throw-down" gun in his car. The youth died of a gunshot wound July 11, 1975, after a 30-mile chase with police.

The grand jury indictment returned against Plaster and White charges that they planted the gun to back up their story that Joyvies fired at them during the chase, and to substantiate the filing of attempted capital murder charges against the youth.

Named as an unindicted coconspirator in the case was Clarence M. Burkett, 27, also a former member of the Houston Police Department. Police Chief Harry Caldwell fired all three men in April 1978.

Joyvies told the jury in the court of U.S. District Judge John V. Singleton that his son experienced epileptic attacks "every three or four months" and was on medication at the time of the shooting.

Under cross-examination by defense attorney Don Lambright, Joyvies said, "Sometimes Billy kept the drugs in bottles and sometimes he didn't."

Police have said drugs were found in the youth's car at the time of the shooting.

Reserve Constable's Deputy R.J. Morrow, who began the chase after seeing Joyvies allegedly stealing a tool box from a pickup truck, testified Tuesday that when he arrived on the scene of the shooting, the youth was lying on the ground and "four or five officers were looking inside the car."

Morrow said he talked with Joyvies' girlfriend, Della Lee Weise, then 15, who was with the youth during the chase.

Then he went to search Joyvies' car for stolen goods, Morrow said, and found the gun.

In an opening statement earlier Tuesday, Lambright said evidence would show that Joyvies was "highly intoxicated on drugs at the time of the chase."

He said testimony would show that the youth "did fire at the officers."

Look for longer lines at gas pumps Energy alternatives eyed

HOUSTON (AP) — President Carter's energy programs will "freeze and reduce" domestic oil and gas production and cause longer lines at the gasoline pumps, an oil industry spokesman maintains.

"The best way to cure the shortage is to be certain that oil and gas is the most profitable investment anywhere," D.K. Davis, vice president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, told the Men's Club of Houston Tuesday.

But Carter's plan is based on "the fallacious premise that we're out of oil or gas in this country," he said.

"Under the Carter plan being debated, only $8 million would go to the producers for exploration and $40 billion of tax proceeds would go to the government," he said.

The country's energy now consists of 53 percent oil, 21 percent natural gas and 19 percent coal, Davis said, while all others — including hydroelectric, nuclear and geothermal power — make up just 7 percent.

million to be spent on photovoltaic devices, which produce electricity from sunlight. The DOE's goal is to produce solar electricity at a cost of $2 per kilowatt hour by the mid-1980s, he added.

But he scoffed at the cost effectiveness of these devices and other proposed energy alternatives.

"If your Houston electric bill is $100 a month, photovoltaic electricity at its cheapest can be delivered to you for only $6,670 a month — that's on a sunny day, of course," Davis said.

"The energy savings for a solar-heated school the DOE funded in Virginia two years ago will pay out the installation cost in 645 years," he said.

Davis said the proposed production of alcohol from agricultural products is a "classic example of American ingenuity." About 30,000 gallons of ethanol a day is now being produced for $1.22 to $1.80 a gallon, he said.

"If we could increase the capacity by 120 times, enough could be produced by 1990 to put one-tenth of 1 percent of alcohol in the country's gasoline supply," Davis said. "Agricultural people say we can't grow enough crops to make even that much alcohol."

"The making of alcohol for fuel will increase U.S. oil imports," he continued. "So take some of the publicity about agricultural alcohol solving all our problems with a grain of salt."

He said a demonstration windmill to generate 50 kilowatts in California cost taxpayers $1.7 million, or $28,330 per kilowatt.

"That's 30 times the cost of a nuclear plant," he said.

Only 2 percent of the nation's potential oil and gas production has been developed, Davis said.

"The bureaucrats are determined that we should walk away from the potential of the other 98 percent," he said.

Prices of gas rising, but more is available

HOUSTON (AP) — The price of gasoline is still rising in Texas, but more is available, a survey by the American Automobile Association shows.

AAA said in its weekly report of 418 service stations that gasoline supplies are much improved in the Houston and Dallas-Fort Worth areas.

Average statewide prices rose from 0.9 to 1.5 cents per gallon over last week's prices.

The average price of diesel was unchanged at 89.7 cents a gallon.

The AAA said 17 percent of stations surveyed in Houston and D-FW will pump gas on Sunday, compared to only 7 percent last week.

The governor's program-supplying more gas to stations in odd-even counties that agree to stay open weekends — apparently caused the improvement in Sunday gasoline supplies.

Fuel availability throughout the state improved for nights and weekends, according to the survey.

Last week 25 percent of stations surveyed were open Sunday, 23 percent pumped gas after 8 p.m. weekdays and 39 percent stayed open after 6 p.m. Saturday. Corresponding percentages this week are 30, 26 and 43.

The number of stations out of at least one grade of fuel declined from 4 percent last week to 3 percent this week.

Only 2 percent of the stations reported limiting customers' purchases.

Gasoline availability improved dramatically in San Antonio, with 35 percent of the stations surveyed open after 8 p.m. weekdays and 25 percent open Sunday, compared to 18 percent weekday night and 20 percent Sunday openings last week.

Weekend fuel availability also improved in Austin; 14 percent of the stations reported open Saturday night and Sunday compared to only 7 percent last week.

Sharp improvement in night and weekend fuel supplies was reported in Beaumont-Port Arthur, while supplies remained stable and relatively abundant in Corpus Christi, El Paso, Waco and Midland-Odessa.

AAA reported stations along Interstate highways in small towns and rural areas have good supplies of fuel. Evening and Sunday drivers, it said, have few problems finding fuel along the Interstate except near big cities.

Prices continued to increase this week, slightly more than last week's top increase of 1.1 cents per gallon.

Current average full-service prices (last week's average in parentheses) are: Regular 86.2 cents per gallon (85); unleaded 89.9 cents (89); and premium 91.7 (90.4).

Average self-service prices are: Regular 83.9 (82.4); unleaded 87.6 (86.3); and premium 88.9 (87.4).

Center is about 95% complete

It's still conjectural when the new Canterbury Retirement Center will open although the 120-unit structure is about 95 percent complete, according to manager Galen Bradford, who has moved his office into the structure.

The upper floors of the building are practically complete but some work remains to be done on the first floor, Bradford said. The manager added prospective tenants can contact him at the center, located at 17th and Lancaster, after 4:30 p.m., daily, and see their apartments.

The structure was built with a government loan by St. Mary's Episcopal Church here. The church's building committee is also discussing the possibility of enlarging the center.

Arson is suspected

Arson is suspected in a blaze which began in a house, 814 N.W. 6th, almost 24 hours after the first fire was extinguished.

The Big Spring Fire Department put out a fire which began around 10:45 p.m. Saturday. The wood-frame house, owned by Ms. Felix Rubio, 306 N.W. 10th, suffered only moderate damage and no smoke damage, according to the fire report.

Fire fighters were called back to the house when a second blaze began about 10:35 p.m. Sunday. Again, the house suffered only moderate damage.

The report states "suspected arson" as cause of the second blaze, though a spokesman said that the suspicion has not been proven.

The house was occupied by E.M. Perdon.

Gangsters involved in assassination of JFK?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Was the 35th president of the United States murdered by a conspiracy involving gangsters? Did other conspirators plot the killing of a major American civil rights leader?

The assassinations committee of the U.S. House of Representatives, in a divided decision, says that may have been the case when: —On Nov. 22, 1963, President John Fitzgerald

Kennedy was shot to death in Dallas. —On April 4, 1968, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was gunned down in Memphis, Tenn. It said it found "substantial evidence" that a St. Louis group offered $50,000 for the murder of King—but no proof linking the offer to his murder.

agreed with conclusions of earlier investigations that Lee Harvey Oswald assassinated Kennedy and James Earl Ray assassinated King. It said it found "substantial evidence" that a St. Louis group offered $50,000 for the murder of King—but no proof linking the offer to his murder.

they had any connection with Kennedy's murder. The report said "one critical evidentiary element" distinguishing Marcello from other mobsters is "credible associations... albeit tenuous" linking Oswald and Jack Ruby, who killed Oswald, to Marcello associates.

Texas grain dealer awaits extradition on fraud raps

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — While Texas grain dealer Robert Johnson prepares to return to Fort Worth for arraignment on fraud charges, his traveling companion is free on bond in his home town here.

Johnson will be returned to Texas from Pocatello, Idaho, Thursday and is scheduled for arraignment on a 17-count federal indictment before U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon Friday.

Johnson was charged with swindling Texas and Oklahoma farmers out of $2 million worth of wheat. He disappeared 2½ years ago and had eluded an extensive federal search for him until last weekend, when he was arrested in Rexburg, Idaho.

His companion, Irene Mary Olson, 40, surrendered to federal authorities here Tuesday. She was arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Gene Richey on charges of harboring a federal fugitive. Richey denied a prosecutor's motion that bond be set at $50,000 and Mrs. Olson was freed Tuesday on $7,500 bond.

The 40-year-old woman appeared at the arraignment with her 11-year-old son, Nathan, and two Wichita Falls attorneys. The charge against her was filed in Yakima, Wash., shortly after she and Johnson were spotted there by federal authorities about a year ago, the FBI said. They eluded capture at that time.

Bannock County, Idaho, authorities said Texas officers will fly Johnson, 43, to Texas Thursday for arraignment on 13 counts of interstate transportation of stolen property and four counts of aiding and abetting interstate transportation of stolen goods. Johnson was arrested for running a stop sign in Idaho. An officer checking his identity discovered Johnson was wanted on the federal charges. The former Iowa Park grain dealer said Monday he would waive extradition and return to Texas to face charges.

U.S. District Judge Marion Callister has set bond at $1 million. Mrs. Olson, who said she was an orphan originally from Minneapolis, said she had worked as a waitress until Johnson's arrest.

Although she was present at their home in Rexburg at the time of the arrest, Idaho authorities apparently did not know of the warrant out for her capture. When they returned to the home, she had disappeared. Although she was using her real name at the time of the arrest, FBI officials said she also had used the alias Marcie Caulder. She listed Johnson's parent's Iowa Park home as her local address, but could not be reached for comment late Tuesday.

Conspiracies or not, however, the committee

It named Carlos Marcello and Santos Trafficante as "the most likely family bosses of organized crime to have participated in such a unilateral assassination plan." But it said it found no direct evidence Marcello or Trafficante were in fact involved. Marcello, operating out of New Orleans, and Trafficante, out of Miami, deny

Space data to help aged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee will hold hearings later this month to explore how technology from America's space program might be used to help the nation's elderly. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says technology from the space program has helped in developing a variety of items

Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders

COPIES SELLING FAST — The Dallas Cowboys' Cheerleaders, shown in this poster which has sold more than 750,000 copies, were known to little more than the fans attending the Cowboys' games a few years ago before rising to international fame, now making world-wide appearances, television specials and movies. And the publicity continues with ABC planning a sequel to last year's movie about the girls and CBS taping a "Celebrity Challenge" show featuring eight of the cheerleaders.

Cowboys cheerleaders' fame still on the rise

DALLAS (AP) — Once upon a time, the only place you saw the Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders was on the sidelines, where they pranced to the music of the day and mouthed an occasional yell to justify their title.

Television cameramen and directors were fond of "cutting away" to the cheerleaders to give viewers something to look at while the action on the field was at a halt.

Some of the cheerleaders posed for a poster, which sold well. Television executives at ABC liked the way the girls looked on the tube, so they made a television movie featuring them. Viewers liked it a lot.

ABC liked the ratings enough to ask the cheerleaders to do a sequel. Now CBS-TV has entered the picture.

Several members of the cheerleading squad leave today for the West Coast to tape a segment of that network's "Celebrity Challenge." The eight cheerleaders appearing in "Celebrity Challenge" will jog through an obstacle course in a program to be broadcast in November.

"They wanted us to compete in several other events, but we just didn't have the time," said Suzanne Mitchell, the group's leader and director.

Back at ABC, it's possible that the girls will take a voyage on the "Love Boat." Ms. Mitchell says there's a "good chance" that a segment of that show might be taped next month.

If television doesn't tempt you and you're not in the market for a poster, then how about a nice yearbook? The cheerleaders are in the process of putting together 64 pages of color photographs, expected to go on sale in September.

It doesn't end when a girl's career with the official Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders is over.

A group of ex-cheerleaders known as the Texas Cowgirls is doing pretty well, too, even though their spic version of a poster was kayoed by Ms. Mitchell and the Cowboys organization.

The Cowgirls have sent a six-member squad to Japan, where they appeared on behalf of Mitsubishi Corp.'s automobiles in a month-long series of appearances.

Other Cowgirls are playing Las Vegas showrooms, and another squad will play the Cheerleaders in the movie "North Dallas Forty," which is being filmed in Houston.

Even as the Cheerleaders are publishing their yearbook, the Cowgirls say they're having a paperback book written about them with an eye toward a movie contract.

The Cowgirls play their first home game Aug. 4, a preseason tilt against the Denver Broncos.

The cheerleaders will be there, too.

The Keystone Cops

DETROIT (AP) — "I was beginning to feel like we were the Keystone Cops or something."

That's what State Police Trooper Doug Ballard said Tuesday after a suspect whose hands were handcuffed behind his back drove off with the trooper's squad car.

Ballard and his partner stopped a vehicle on Interstate 75 early Tuesday morning. When the driver began to struggle, he was handcuffed and placed in the back seat of the patrol car while the officers went to interview the passenger.

"All of a sudden we noticed our car was moving," Ballard said. "We went to see and I was able to get the door open, but then he accelerated and lost me. He hit a light post, too."

The trooper said the suspect apparently had climbed over to the front seat and had put the car into gear.

The squad car lumbered down the highway for about a quarter of mile, with the troopers in hot pursuit in the suspect's car.

That's when, according to Ballard, the troopers ran out of gasoline and were forced to watch their car speed out of sight.

It was found abandoned about a half hour later in an alley in Highland Park, a Detroit suburb.

Highland Park police say the story ended when a 23-year-old suspect was arrested after someone noted he was wearing handcuffs.

In the pits

PENNSBORO, W.Va. (AP) — State employees who are hot under the collar because of President Carter's policy on office temperatures are being offered some relief by Secretary of State A. James Manchin.

Manchin said Tuesday he will be passing out cans of deodorant to state employees and others "who have been sentenced to office ovens whose temperatures have been set by President Carter's indiscriminate energy policy."

The federal government recently ordered that thermostats in public buildings be set no lower than 78 degrees during hot weather.

Going to the swans

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — If your pet swan is bagged by your neighbor's dog, you could collect $15 from the state under a bill signed into law by Gov. Hugh Carey.

The new law adds swans to the list of domestic animals, whose owners can be reimbursed by the state under the Agriculture and Markets Law for damages caused by raiding dogs. The money comes from dog license fees.

But if your pet dog is bagged by your neighbor's swan, you may be out of luck. The bill signed into law Tuesday makes no provision for damages done to dogs by swans, which can be formidable animals when aroused.

NTSU inquiry

Colleges, foundations 'laundering money'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State colleges and private foundations routinely handle funds between themselves in a method that some would consider "laundering money," says a legislator involved in a probe of North Texas State University.

"Almost every university in the state has a private foundation," said Rep. Lee Jackson, R-Dallas. "Our concern is if it serves the public and if it leads to opportunities for abuses of the kind we've discovered."

Jackson and other members of the House General Investigating Committee turned over audit reports and other documents Tuesday to prosecutors from Denton and Austin.

At issue is whether North Texas State officials and officers of the North Texas State University Educational Foundation Inc. violated state law by depositing checks made out to the college in foundation accounts.

C.C. "Jitter" Nolen resigned as university president April 12 after mounting publicity over alleged misapplication of university funds. Hours after stepping down, Nolen and three others testified at a closed investigating committee hearing. One of the other witnesses, James Reid, recently announced his resignation effective Aug. 1 from his post as foundation executive director.

Two state audit report cite numerous instances of university donations being diverted to the foundation. State funds also were used to pay the salary of the foundation executive director.

Private foundations have been used as "bankers" by state colleges that need more money that the Legislature gives them, Jackson said. The foundations raise funds by contributions and can spend them almost without restriction, in contrast to their beneficiaries, he added.

The private entities often supplement state salaries of top university administrators.

"This has been for years considered standard operating procedure," Jackson said. "What we've considered to be laundering the money was standard operating procedure."

Committee Chairman Richard Slack, D-Pecos, said the panel will give the district attorneys a chance to review progress in the case before pursuing the matter. The committee will meet again Aug. 6 and Denton County District Attorney Jerry Cobb said he will know by then whether criminal charges will be filed.

Slack said regardless of what Cobb and Austin prosecutors decide, the committee probably will suggest legislative remedies and administrative changes at the university.

If criminal violations occurred, the Denton or Austin prosecutors would handle the case depending on where the activity happened, Cobb said.

The committee also agreed to ask Attorney General Mark White to file civil suit if necessary to recover any state funds improperly spent for private use.

Lack of national coverage cited

Harold Frei was the lone person who responded to a blanket invitation made to the public to attend the Tuesday night meeting of the Herald Citizens Advisory Board, held in the Conference room of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Others likely were discouraged from attending due to a slight rain which fell immediately before the 7:30 p.m. meeting.

Frei, who stated he resided in the Washington, D.C., area about two years ago, said he thought The Herald did not offer enough coverage of the Washington political scene and suggested that the newspaper avail itself more of the releases made available by the press secretaries of the various elective officers in Washington.

Frei also said he thought The Herald could perform a service by revealing how legislative representatives from this area and the two United States senators from Texas vote on certain issues.

Various questions about the editorial content of the paper, its manner of gathering news and the nagging errors which crop up in the paper, originally directed at the Herald's representatives during last week's interim meeting of the advisory board, were fielded by Publisher Tom Watson and Editor Tommy Hart.

A new member of the panel was greeted. She is Mrs. Bob (Sue) Lewis, who expressed a desire to see movie and book reviews in the paper.

Chairwoman Elma Martinez said the next regular meeting of the board would take place at the Chamber at 7:30 p.m., August 21.

Board members present for last night's meeting included Ernie Boyd, Mike McCracken, Adrian Randle, Roscoe Cone, Rozelle Dohoney, Mrs. Suncha Cristensen, Dr. Halvard Hansen, Frank Rubio, Emily Ward, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Martinez.

Derailment injures 16

KEARNY, N.J. (AP) — Port Authority officials say at least 16 persons were injured, one seriously, in a commuter train derailment that tied up trains between New Jersey and Manhattan.

The most seriously injured passenger, Stefania Baron, 64, of Jersey City, was taken to nearby Jersey City Medical Center with possible broken ribs, cuts and bruises, said Luis Ramos, nursing supervisor.

Four cars of a seven-car subway-type train running above ground left the tracks just west of a Hackensack River bridge in the meadowlands about 2:15 p.m. Tuesday, said Mark Marchese, a Port Authority spokesman.

Gasoline probe

Report may question judgment of companies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A joint investigation by the Energy and Justice departments has found no evidence of any deliberate actions by oil companies to create the current gasoline shortage, an informed administration official says.

But the source, who asked not to be identified, said the investigation's final report may question the judgment of the companies, suggesting they may have been over-cautious in trying to make their oil supplies last longer.

The investigation, cited by President Carter in a speech Monday in Kansas City, Mo., has been underway for several months and is near completion, administration sources said.

The report will be reviewed by investigators in both departments and a final version may be sent to the White House within the next few days, these sources said.

Carter said in his speech the Justice and Energy departments have written and departments were assigned to find out whether the current gasoline shortage, which created long lines at gas stations in many areas, involved any "improper activity."

An administration official familiar with the investigation told The Associated Press the two departments had found no evidence so far of "massive hoarding or conscious manipulation by major refiners at a critical time of need."

The official said the main emphasis of the investigation report probably would focus on "judgmental factors."

These may include questions of whether the companies were too "conservative" in stockpiling oil and petroleum products for the future, in setting production rates for refineries and in determining the allocation fractions that regulate the flow of gasoline to customers.

Watson, Nicklaus hoping to break Lytham St. Anne course jinx

As British Open begins today

(AP WIREPHOTO)

AND THAT'S THE 'HOLE' STORY — A delighted Jack Nicklaus peers down at the cup after scoring a hole-in-one on the par 3,212-yard fifth hole in the first round of the British Open Golf championship at the Royal Lytham and St. Anne course in England Wednesday. Nicklaus, the defending champion, used a five iron on the shot. It was the 10th ace of his career.

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP) — Tom Watson, a two-time winner of the British Open golf title, laughs off suggestions that the Lytham St. Anne course holds a hex for American players.

No American has won an Open here since Bobby Jones, an amateur, in 1926. But Watson, whose two victories have come in the last four years, hopes to change all that.

"I don't think there is much significance in the fact that no American pro has ever won here," said Watson. "We have been close, but just haven't succeeded. Maybe this year will be different."

If the jinx is to be finally laid to rest, Watson is the man most likely to do it.

The 29-year-old Kansas City, Mo., resident is in the midst of a phenomenal season that has seen him win four tournaments and finish second in four others. He has collected close to $400,000 in prize money, confirming himself as the new world golfing power.

He has had a few poor tourneys recently, and missed the cut in the U.S. Open. But he remains optimistic about doing well.

"I am certainly hopeful," he says modestly. "You can never tell, but I hope to play well."

According to Watson, driving will be the key to success on this 6,822 yard, par 71 course.

The rough here is rough in the extreme — more than 2 feet deep in places — and Lytham is the sort of course that can severely punish errors from the tee.

Wednesday's first round was expected to claim some unwary victims.

"In any major tournament you have to drive the ball straight," said Watson. "That is what I will be working on this week."

"It is very difficult to hit second shots from the deep rough here and then get them on the green. I hope I hit the fairways more than I did in our own Open. But if I hit the ball straight there will be no problem."

Most experts pick defending champion Jack Nicklaus, hoping to shake off a recent lean spell, as Watson's major rival for the coveted crown.

Strangely, not one of Nicklaus's three Open triumphs has been on an English course, and that knowledge is one of the motivating factors this time.

"I'd like to win in England, all three of my wins have been in Scotland," said Nicklaus. "The key is probably how well I putt. If I do well on the greens, I will be in contention."

The other three-time champion, South African Gary Player, spent Tuesday practicing with his 17-year-old son Wayne, playing in his first Open. Gary's other son, Mark, was caddy for his father, while an uncle, Bobby Verwey, was also among the qualifiers.

Player and the promising young Spaniard Sevy Ballersteros are rated the only obvious contenders in the 152-man field capable of preventing a U.S. victory.

Houston rookies meet Kansas City

Baker surprising Oilers with willing attitude

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Houston Oiler Coach Bum Phillips says, rather surprisingly, that second round draft pick Jesse Baker of Jacksonville, Ala. State has been the surprise of the Oiler training camp.

"His ability wasn't a surprise because we knew about that when we picked him," Phillips said. "It's his willingness to do everything that has been such a surprise."

"We'll work on pass rush, and everybody else will do nine rushes. Jesse will do 14 because he's jogging back to the end of the line."

Rumors spread quickly after the Oilers drafted Baker in May that he had an attitude problem. Baker answered his critics by saying he would report to training camp ready to prove himself.

"He was the best defensive end when he reported but he wasn't satisfied," Phillips said. "He wanted to get right to work and practice what would make him better."

Phillips, in fact, is pleased with the entire rookie crop that has been working out at Angelo State University. He says as many as 10 first years players could make the team.

"If I've done anything smart, in my time it's drafting this group," Phillips said. "It's something we all worked on, our scouts, coaches, other staff members and the scouting combines. It's paid off."

"I'm not naming them but that would be 10 of 43 players or nearly one-fourth of the roster. We told them from the first that we were trying to improve our team. And that's what they've tried to do all along."

Phillips said the 1979 rookies had more athletic talent than any group in his five years as an Oiler coach.

"We cut guys last year that would have made it two years ago," Phillips said. "And this year's group is better than last year's."

The Oilers rookies meet the Kansas City rookies tonight in a scrimmage at Kansas City.

Oiler veterans are due in camp by midnight tonight but most are already on campus.

Little League games rescheduled

The District III Little League All-Star Tournament games scheduled for last night were rained out, and they will be played tonight. In order to accommodate this, all of the tournament games have been moved back one night.

Tonight's action finds the Big Spring International League facing Midland Western in Pittman Park, with Midland Mid-City meeting Midland Eastern in the American League Park.

Thursday night's action will now find Midland North Central facing the Big Spring American League in the American League Park, while the National League of Big Spring will play host to the Lamesa All-Stars.

All games will begin at 8:00.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Beneath the restlessness and indecision of today's aspects there is the ability to use your imagination and sense of perception to find the answers that are important to your progress.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your mind is busy with new ideas and solutions to problems of long standing. Use more tact in dealing with others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study a new project that could bring added income in the days ahead. Don't permit any acquired assets to slip from your fingers.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be positive in going after your goals or you could get caught up in frivolities. Seek the company of persons who are successful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Listen to what an expert has to suggest and then go after your personal aims wisely. More devotion to mate pays off.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't let anything interfere with gaining your personal aims today. Take no risks where your good name is concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your position in the community in which you reside and try to improve it in some way. Make personal plans for the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are now able to make a fine impression on influential persons. Use your hunches. Don't be subservient to the wrong people.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy and handle your responsibilities instead of going off on some worthless tangent. Be careful in handling money.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listening to the ideas of associates brings you their goodwill now. Become more interested in civic affairs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't let yourself get upset over something which is beyond your control. Use extreme care in motion and avoid possible mishap.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Follow through on your plans to have greater abundance in the future. Be more understanding of the viewpoints of others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do those things that can bring more accord with family members and be happier together in the future. Think objectively.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... it is vital that you gain the approval of experts in rearing this interesting progeny of the modern era. One who has a highly developed psyche that can be used to greatest advantage. Give good religious training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
