

Carter removes Schlesinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter removed Energy Secretary James Schlesinger today and will nominate Deputy Defense Secretary Charles W. Duncan Jr. to replace him, government officials said.

Schlesinger confirmed that Carter has accepted his resignation. Capitol Hill sources said the president told congressional leaders of his selection of Duncan to take over the Energy Department.

Schlesinger, at the Capitol to testify before a House committee, was asked about reports that he was leaving the administration.

"That is correct," the secretary said.

There also was speculation that Transportation Secretary Brock Adams might be ousted today.

Asked about Schlesinger, House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas said he expected Carter to make the official announcement later in the day.

Wright said it was his understanding that Schlesinger would remain in office until the fall, while Congress is considering the president's recent energy proposals.

"It's cut and dried," one source said of the Duncan decision. Duncan refused to confirm or deny it early today, as did White House press secretary Jody Powell.

Under the shadow of Defense Secretary Harold Brown, Duncan, a multimillionaire and former Coca-Cola executive in Atlanta, has wielded more power than most Cabinet secretaries as he managed the Pentagon on a day-to-day basis.

White House political aides have high regard for Duncan and have long sought a wider role for him in the administration. Duncan, who is known to dislike Brown, has volunteered repeatedly for more responsibility.

Powell said he expected Carter to complete evaluating his Cabinet before the weekend and to turn his attention next week to his own senior staff. A high administration source said the Cabinet reshuffling would be "completed by the end of the day (today)."

On Thursday, in three announcements in 4½ hours, Powell said Carter had dumped Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and had accepted the resignation of friend and fellow Georgian, Attorney General Griffin B. Bell.

Revealing a new Cabinet look for an election year, Powell said Carter will nominate:

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Patricia R. Harris to succeed the controversial and outspoken Califano;

Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller to succeed Blumenthal, who has had frequent clashes with White House staff members;

Deputy Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti to replace Bell.

Powell said successors to Miller and Mrs. Harris will be named soon.

Adams may have undermined his own position Thursday afternoon with a statement that he had been asked to remain in the Cabinet but was "considering whether or not I should."

Adams said he was weighing such factors as "the commitment of this administration to mass transportation and moving Detroit towards a fuel-efficient automobile, the direct accessibility of the president to the Cabinet and the responsiveness of those with enhanced authority at the White House to the Congress and the American people."

Asked if Adams was staying, Powell replied: "The president has not yet had an opportunity to talk with Secretary Adams. He will do so in the near future."

WAITING FOR A TRAIN, CERTAINLY NOT A RAIN — Heavy rains which hit the area Wednesday and Thursday some of the Missouri Pacific Railway tracks in the Big Spring yard under water but didn't impede traffic. The view here, which isolates a long box car on one of the tracks, is from the west viaduct.

Enough rain — for a change

For a change, most everyone in this area — including people in Martin, Dawson, Borden and Mitchell counties — are saying they've had enough rain for the time being.

The abundance of moisture which has fallen over a period of two days has (1) brought smiles to farmers in all parts of a six-county area, (2) filled stock tanks and created lakes in some instances where there was none before, (3) closed down a segment of US 87 3.5 miles north of Lamesa (4), isolated families in the Midway community east of Big Spring, and (5) may produce the best runoff into the Colorado River. Municipal Water District's two big reservoirs, Lakes Thomas and Spence, in ten years.

Thursday's official measurement of rain in Big Spring, as reported by the U.S. Experiment Station, amounted to 3.37 inches. That brought the two-day total to 5.96 inches and boosted the year's rainfall to 10.26 inches.

Even heavier catches were reported in the experiment station's gauges farther north — two miles north of Big Spring a gauge trapped 7.79 inches.

Thursday's fall at Ackerly amounted to 2.5 inches, bringing the two-day total to about 4.5 inches.

The fall was lighter in Garden City but still amounted to 1.5 inches, which will do enormous good to pastures in Glasscock County.

Jo Hill of the Mitchell County Extension Office in Colorado City said the downpours there amounted to 2.5 inches Thursday. That followed showers which fell in the area Wednesday.

The H.H. Wilkinson Ranch eight miles west of Big Spring has benefited from 4.5 inches in two days, according to Mrs. Bill McIvlin.

Up to five inches fell in the Coahoma area, with very little washing in the fields reported.

A major problem developed in Stanton as the rains continued into the second day. An estimated 20 people were forced from their homes in the eastern and southern parts of the city. The Community Center was first set up to accommodate those who fled the high water. Some later returned to their home and the others stayed with friends and relatives. In all, about 20 people were forced to relocate temporarily.

The rainfall in Stanton averaged about 5.5 to 6 inches. US 80 (not IS 20) had to have barricades thrown up in places and those were still there this morning because the water simply isn't draining — there is no place for it to go. City hall estimates have 15 to 20 blocks within the Stanton city limits under water.

The city administration in Stanton is awaiting the arrival of pumps supplied by a Lubbock firm which would serve to inject some of the water into the earth and thus recharge the water tables which have been falling in recent years.

A spokeswoman for Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders said all roads in the county appear to be draining and are passable.

Parts of FM Roads 829 and 179 west of Lamesa are under water and motorists are being urged to stay off of them.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District issued reports that showed the two-day rain totals at Ira amounted to 2.5 inches while Snyder benefited from 4.2 inches. Six miles west of Snyder, the fall totaled 6.2 inches. The rains totaled anywhere from 5.8 inches to 6.3 inches about half way between Big Spring and Gail.

In Gail itself, fall up to 4.4 inches were reported. West of there, one measurement totaled 6.6 inches.

The fall was lesser at Sand Springs, with the total reported at 1.5 inches. However, Coahoma's fall was much heavier — five inches.

Westbrook's gauges caught 1.85 inches. The Spade Ranch over in Mitchell County soaked up 1.25 inches.

The water has been slow to come down the watersheds of Lakes Thomas and Spence.

Thomas had caught 1.25 vertical feet of water but the Colorado River and Bull Creek, both of which empty into Thomas, are running and the catch there could conceivably amount to as much as seven vertical feet.

The CRMWD officials will be happy if Spence traps as much as two vertical feet of water. The Colorado River and the creeks which feed Spence have just begun to flow.

It will be several days before water district officials can get true readings on the catches.

CHIEF BENEFACTOR — The Howard County cotton crop, which had been flagging in recent weeks, likely will be the chief benefactor of the rains which started in the county Wednesday and continued through this morning. This particular patch is located in the Elbow area southwest of Big Spring. Some farmers say they will be able to 'make a crop' as a result of the rain which fell over the two-day period.

'Million dollar rain' falls in Howard County

"If ever there was a million dollar rain, this was it," Howard County Extension Agent Don Richardson said this morning, following visits to several parts of the county to check on downpours which occurred here Wednesday and Thursday.

Richardson said that the general rain, which touched all parts of the county, not only were gentle enough not to damage the young cotton but came at exactly the right time.

The county agent said that the young crop had not yet begun to suffer despite the extended dry spell which had lay siege to the area.

Howard County now has 106,000 acres planted to cotton and, according to Richardson, could make a bumper crop unless unforeseen problems occur.

Some fields had broken terraces but losses due to washing were minor, according to Richardson.

Last year's county cotton crop was sharply reduced due to the fact that the rainfall did not occur at the right time.

Speeds exceed 110 mph

Driver of stolen car escapes following wild, wild chase

By DON WOODS

Big Spring Police officer Barry Smith reached speeds of up to 110 mph in high speed pursuit of a stolen station wagon this morning. Stanton and Lamesa units joined the chase down country roads in the Knott area but the stolen vehicle driver escaped apprehension.

Around 9 a.m. today Smith recognized the cream on brown 1978 Oldsmobile wagon as one that had been stolen in Ozona. Pursuit began at 95 mph on highway 87 near the Big Spring State Hospital.

Zippering north on highway 87 with siren blaring Smith radioed frantically for notification of Lamesa highway patrol units to head off the vehicle. The Big Spring police dispatcher radioed the message to Lamesa then notified Smith that a sheriff's vehicle, highway patrol and police vehicle would join the chase.

At FM 846, about 12 miles north of Big Spring, driver of the stolen vehicle turned west toward Knott. Speeds had reached to over 100 mph.

Smith followed the vehicle after the turnoff and speeds climbed to 110 mph. The Big Spring police dispatcher notified Stanton's sheriff office and summoned its units to the scene.

The fugitive raced through Knott and was reported to be at the intersection of a rural road west of Knott. Authorities then began receiving conflicting reports of the location of the car. When last heard the vehicle was reported to be seven or eight miles west of Ackerly.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Death policy

Q. The other day, a man crashed his car on a Big Spring street and was killed. The police didn't have the courtesy to inform his wife. She didn't find out until the funeral home called her to inquire about arrangements. Shouldn't there be some kind of regulation concerning this?

A. The local police department, according to Chief Stanley Bogard, has a policy (though not a regulation) which says that the investigating officer will either notify the family of the deceased or delegate the job to someone. Bogard says the victim was not declared dead until he reached the hospital and chances are the investigating officer was not present at the time. In some cases, the investigating officer may become too busy at the scene of the wreck to pursue such chores.

Will Gen. Haig make it to the top?

First there was George Washington. Then came men like Andrew Jackson, U.S. Grant, Teddy Roosevelt and Dwight D. Eisenhower. Had he fought for the faction which first invited him, Robert E. Lee, no doubt, would have been included in the elite group, too. Some didn't make it. Fellows like John Pershing, George Patton and Douglas MacArthur probably aspired to the job but, for one reason or another, never could rally the support needed to join the creme de la creme.

MILITARY TYPES have always fascinated the constituency, although they don't always have the qualities needed to lead a country. Washington earned the undying gratitude of his countrymen for his ability to inspire his troops on the battlefield. Although he earned the indestructible title,

"Father of his Country," some of his contemporaries were probably better qualified for the presidency than he was.

Jackson was scorned by many for his lack of social graces but he brought a frontier toughness to the presidency that stood him in good stead. Grant felt far more at home plotting military strategy than trying to bend Congress to his will. Roosevelt survived the slings and arrows aimed at him. Eisenhower had charisma and probably could have been elected more often than Franklin Delano Roosevelt but one wonders if he had any real appetite or talent for the job.

The world must now be wondering about the future of Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., who recently turned over supreme command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to Gen.

Bernard W. Rogers. After making known his plans to retire his uniform, Haig said he was keeping his options open. There is not much doubt but that he would accept the challenge of being the Republican standard-bearer in the 1980 presidential race, if it were offered him. The big question remains: Can he catch lightning in a bottle?

Certainly the ease with which the general won over our European allies established the fact that, in addition to having the skills of a soldier, he is possessed of unusual political and diplomatic acumen. Some of the king-makers in Washington are already speaking of him as presidential timber.

HAIG MAY HAVE fatal flaws, however. He has not been able to disassociate himself with Richard M. Nixon, the star-crossed president. Haig was chief of staff at the White House when the Watergate flood broke. It is true that he was accused of no misdeeds but his image suffered from the mere fact that he associated with some whose images did get tarnished.

Some Republican stalwarts like John Connally, Howard Baker and Ronald Reagan got a running start on Haig and may be hard to overtake. Haig's chief hope for the presidency appears to be in emerging as a compromise candidate, after a stalemate has developed in the race.

Stranger things have happened, but it appears more likely that Haig will settle for a lucrative job in private industry or be tapped for the presidency of some university.

Weaknesses Around the rim

Mickie Dickson

As I watched a tank battery fire Wednesday afternoon on the Homer Thorp lease on Rock House Rd., I became aware of some glaring deficiencies in our fire fighting procedures and equipment. The equipment on hand came from Sand Springs in spite of the fact that Big Spring was much closer. It didn't have the chemical foam necessary to fighting an oil or gas fire which, I understand, the Big Spring fire trucks are equipped with.

budget needs cutting, and volunteer fire department usually suffer yet, they are responsible for areas of the county that have the oil fires, and accidents involving tanker trucks. Another dangerous practice around Big Spring is the failure of citizens to yield right-of-way to emergency equipment on the way to fires. Grandon said he almost ran over an automobile that failed to pull over and stop as he should have until the fire equipment passed.

THE CALL FOR this emergency had to go through the sheriff's office to the proper area to answer it, losing precious moments for two messages — one to the sheriff and the other to the fire station applicable, when one call to the Big Spring fire department should have produced fire equipment properly equipped to handle the fire in question.

IT SEEMS TO me that it would be a good investment for the county to equip the volunteer fire departments with the chemical foam and other necessities to fighting expensive oil fires. I also think it would make better sense for the nearest, best equipped fire fighting paraphernalia to be dispensed to fight county fires.

I was informed that Big Spring fire department equipment could not be used beyond two miles of the city. Just how many tank batteries and other oil equipment including oil wells are inside the city of Big Spring? This seems like a terrible waste to limit Big Spring equipment to fight automobile and filling station fires only with thousands of dollars invested in oil production around the county with no proper equipment to control fires on leases and in oil fields.

In addition to the thousands of dollars lost such as two 250 barrel tank batteries burned in this fire is the loss of production when the four wells pumping into these tanks had to be shut down to keep the fire from spreading to them. In addition to the dollar loss is the loss in precious energy we're all cautioned on every hand to conserve.

Rev. Bill Grandon, volunteer fireman from Sand Springs, pointed out the fact that the volunteer fire departments were limited severely when it came to fire fighting and emergency equipment. When the While speaking of emergency needs of Howard County, I would like to put a plug in for a volunteer rescue squad with trained Emergency Medical Technicians to answer emergency call to wrecks, heart attack victims, drownings, etc. A lot of lives could be saved that are now lost, and damage could be prevented from too long a wait for attention by professionals.

Too crowded

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Clearing the DC-10 for return to the skies may end one specific air safety problem, but plenty more remain.

system to prevent mid-air crashes like the one that claimed 144 lives at San Diego last year.

How will they be dealt with — one at a time following each new disaster, or with a well-planned, comprehensive approach that will bring safety techniques abreast of air travel's speed, comfort and convenience? "It depends on the public's awareness of the problems, and the pressure that can be brought on airlines and government regulators to come to grips with them. To find out what are the greatest dangers facing the flying public, we surveyed aviation experts employees and consumer groups.

CRITICS OF THE FEDERAL Aviation Administration, including Ralph Nader's Aviation Consumer Action Project and the Airline Passengers Association, say the FAA is slow to anticipate safety problems, bestirring itself only after disaster strikes. They cite the DC-10's structural defects, such as the engine-mount crack that caused the recent crash in Chicago and the cargo-door latch failure that took 346 lives in a 1974 Paris crash.

The answers varied, in large part depending on the particular area that each group has to grind. But the basic problem all parties agreed on is our increasingly crowded skies — a problem that can only get more serious as the years go by.

Federal regulators deny that they have sacrificed passenger safety to the "keep 'em flying" demands of the airline industry. The FAA traditionally counters criticism by noting that, on a per-mile basis, air travel is far safer than driving on the nation's highways. Other problems include pilot fatigue — exacerbated by the time lag and irregular hours brought on by high-speed jet travel — and inadequate crash survivability safeguards that can keep a minor accident from turning into a holocaust of fire or toxic fumes. Both these problems involve economic factors of profit and loss, and so far neither the airline industry nor the FAA is convinced that action is worth the expense.

AIR TRAVEL IS booming. Sharper competition, lower prices, the growth of private aviation, even the growing difficulty of going long distance by automobile, have all contributed to an irreversible upsurge in flying. The number of passengers increased 13 percent last year alone.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: It will cost $233,000 more to keep a roof over Vice President Walter Mondale's head this year. The 86-year-old slate roof on the vice presidential residence in Washington is in such poor shape, it was decided to replace the whole thing rather than continue to patch the leaks on a piecemeal basis. Last year alone it cost $7,000 to keep raindrops from falling on the vee's head.

You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to: Dr. Ruble in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Jimmy Carter's successful "Anti-Washington" stance in 1976 seems to have caught on among presidential candidates this year. At least five of the president's potential challengers — Ronald Reagan, George Bush, John Connally, Robert Dole and Phil Crane — have set up their national campaign headquarters across the Potomac River in Northern Virginia. Meanwhile, "Mr. Outside" of 1976 has become "Mr. Inside" this time around. Carter is running from a headquarters in the District of Columbia.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

There's another Jimmy Carter in government service in Washington. He's a doorman at the House of Representatives. Unlike his short-timer namesake in the White House, this Jimmy Carter has been here since 1967.

Nothing special

William F. Buckley, Jr.

If the idea is to conserve energy, President Carter's speech was a poor example. Seldom has so much energy been expended by so many to yield so little. The homiletic passages by the president were entirely correct. It is true that much of America has become self-indulgent, true that we lust after material comforts, true that we have little appetite for sacrifice. But in what way has Jimmy Carter hoisted the banner?

1. CONCERNING the freezing of oil imports at the 1977 level: What good will freezing at that level do if OPEC, say a year, or even a few months from now, raises its prices? If it raises the price of oil by 50 percent — comparable to the raise this year — then we might as well be increasing our imports by 50 percent at current prices. What did President Carter tell us about pressures we would bring on OPEC? The answer is: Nothing. He did cite the great effort mounted in 1942 to create a synthetic rubber industry. He did not mention that during that period we were fighting a war against those powers that were preventing us from buying rubber. As the saying goes, I do not advocate war against the OPEC nations. I do advocate a policy designed to prevent a ruinous extortion.

And besides, Mr. Carter's jut-jawed announcement that never again in the history of America will we import more oil than we did in 1977 can only have brought a yawn at the chancelleries of the Persian Gulf. Because how much oil we import in 1981 is almost certainly a decision that won't be made by ex-President Carter.

2. While exhorting the American people to show courage, and to be disposed to sacrifice, President Carter showed exactly no courage. The only specific victim of his entire speech, other than the seven deadly vices, was the oil companies' windfall profits. These he proposes to seize — in order to launch a great program for the production of more energy. What this means, when you stick it in boiling water and burn off the fat, is that he proposes that the energy business become a public rather than a private enterprise. To do this in the context of the speech in which he talks about bloated government, about government remote from the people, shows either great gall of great simple-mindedness.

IN MENTIONING the reinvigoration of our search for energy, our president, summoning us to bravery on the field, fails even to mention thermonuclear energy — even in a catalogue of potential energy sources so comprehensive that it included everything except Laetrite. The American people are supposed to exhibit courage enough to face the moral equivalent of war. Their president doesn't show courage enough to offend Jane Fonda.

3. Mr. Carter's self-righteousness is distressing. He gave us to understand that among the fallen idols of America are the presidency, once revered but along came "Watergate"; and the notion that "our causes were always just," and along came Vietnam. The presidency has not always been honored in America, and the Watergate scandal is hardly more subversive of presidential moral authority than the huge distance between Jimmy Carter's promises to the American people as a campaigner and his performance as president.

Anyone who taught Jimmy Carter as a schoolboy that American "causes were always just" misled him deeply.

Appetite suppressors have place

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am 67 and trying to lose some of my 250 pounds. The doctor has prescribed Tenuate Dospan. Another doctor, a friend of mine, told me he doesn't like this type of medicine and says he will not prescribe it. It really does leave me with a feeling of being up tight and tense. I stopped them once and felt different, more relaxed. I would like your opinion. Would you prescribe this? — W.A.P.

may take until noon to "limber up" sufficiently to do chores. There may be other joint pain, and with some the temporal artery (located in the temple area) may be swollen and tender. Some patients complain of jaw pain. There may be a high blood sedimentation rate. That's the rate at which blood cells settle down to the bottom of a vial of whole blood. The polymyalgia rheumatica patient is frequently anemic.

hair — the follicle. Ask a dermatologist to recommend a technician in whom he has confidence. A professional electrolysis technician should have the proper credentials — education, etc.

Doctors must tailor a weight loss program to the individual based on many factors. For most, diet alone and a lot of willpower are sufficient. For some diet and the kind of drug you maintain may be appropriate.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Explain how a hair transplant works. I thought that if hair was removed it would die. — N.C.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I had a prostate gland operation recently and learned much to my surprise that when I ejaculate (or seem to ejaculate) with intercourse there is no semen produced. Is this part of the post-surgery picture? — R.O.

Tenuate Dospan (diethylpropion) is a so-called "anorectic" drug. It suppresses the appetite by acting on the nervous system. Drugs that work this way can cause nervousness, the "uptightness" you mention. You seem to be greatly overweight, probably to the point of endangering your health. For this reason, and because other methods of weight control have failed, I would not hesitate to give the drug a try. Effective weight loss should occur within the first month. If not, discontinue taking it. Also, the drug can cause a rise in blood pressure. And it can be abused.

The hair dies, but the follicle lives on to produce another hair — if the transplant is successful. The surgeon removes a "plug," including hairs and follicles. Sort of like transplanting a tree. If the root structure is intact, the transplanted tree continues to live and produce new leaves.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

For all these reasons, it is used cautiously and never frivolously for a weight loss program. It can be a convenient, temporary crutch to help the obese person rid himself of bad eating habits. Otherwise, once you stop taking it the pounds quickly return.

FOR MRS. P.Y. — Theoretically, electrolysis should work. It does for many women who have mild undesired hair problems. But the technique is no better than the technician using it. It takes skill and accuracy to get to the source of the really are. Take the Commandment, "You shall not steal" (Exodus 20:15). Does that only apply to things like burglary or shoplifting? Yes, it applies to such things, but think also of other ways we steal. Perhaps we cheat our employer by being lazy or taking too much time from our work. Or perhaps we take credit for what someone else has done. The point is this: there are all kinds of ways we can gain wrongfully what is not ours, and the Bible commands us here to be absolutely honest in every situation.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think Christians are still supposed to keep the Ten Commandments? — P.S.R.

Remember, however, that we are not saved because we keep the Ten Commandments. In fact, the more we understand them, the more aware we will be of the many ways we break them every day in deed and thought. We can never be saved by our good works. Only Christ can save us, for He alone was perfect and He alone provided a sufficient sacrifice for our sins by giving Himself on the Cross. But once we have come to Him, our desire should be to please Him in all we do. That will not be just an obligation, but a joy because we will be serving One who loves us and whom we love in return.

The Ten Commandments are more than a set of rules. They reflect the very nature of God himself. God is holy and perfect, and His Law (given in the Ten Commandments) gives us His will for human life. Remember that the Bible commands us to be holy, and it would be impossible to fulfill this command unless we followed the Law of God. "Be holy, because I am holy" (I Peter 1:16, New International Version). Remember that if you are a Christian you are called not only to believe in Christ, but to follow Him and obey Him as His disciple. We are called "to obey everything I have commanded you" (Matthew 28:20, NIV). Jesus said, "If anyone loves me, he will obey my teaching; (John 14:23, NIV). Sometimes I think we fail to see just how profound the Ten Commandments

Petition urges reconsideration

Women priests gaining favor

Although the tactics have turned more diplomatic, the drive for admission of women to the Roman Catholic priesthood is gathering force, with a rising share of American Catholics favoring it. While those doing so still are a minority, a new Gallup poll finds that they now amount to 40 percent, a figure that has risen steadily and swiftly from 36 percent in 1977 and 29 percent in 1974. At the same time, nuns and other groups of church women have joined in new, widely inclusive coalitions to press for official re-examination of the issue. As part of a "Second Argument Project," a petition bearing 13,000 signatures was presented to U.S. Catholic bishops at their spring meeting in Chicago, urging them to seek such reconsideration. It asked them to seek "withdrawal of the second argument" set forth in the 1977 declaration by the Vatican's congregation of doctrine that women cannot be ordained because they lack "natural resemblance" to Christ.

"This argument demeans all women and priests by claiming that male physical sexuality is the fundamentally important element in the priestly representation of the church," the petition says. Its signatories were gathered by a newly formed Women of the Church Coalition, made up of 13 women's and social justice groups, and presented to Bishop Michael F. McAuliffe of Jefferson City, Mo., head of a bishops' committee on women. Another coalition of eight national sisters organizations, called Sisters Uniting, urged continued dialogue on the issue, saying they question the "theological reasoning" of the Vatican declaration. Meanwhile, the new Gallup poll, commissioned by Preists for Equality and the Quixote Center in Mt. Ranier, Md., found that while support for women priests is growing among Catholics, "strong opposition" has declined from 47 per cent in 1974 to 36 percent in 1979. It also found the proportion favoring such ordinations have topped the half-way mark in several categories.

Foursquare Women appointed to offices

The United Foursquare Women organized July 12 in the home of Mrs. Ramona Herbert, 1308 E. 17th. First term officers were appointed by the Foursquare Gospel Church pastor, Rev. Willis Sparks. Appointed to office were Ramona Herbert, president; Jean Ward, vice president; Lola Cockerham, treasurer; and Gladys Russell, secretary. Circles of ministry were chosen by members who will serve according to their interests. Chairpersons of the circles are Gladys Russell, Dorcas Circle; Sally Sparks, Martha Circle; Lola Cockerham, Naomi Circle; Jean Ward, Ruth Circle; Ramona Herbert, Mary Circle; and Sandy Stamper, Lydia Circle.

The group is presently involved in a study of emotional and inner healing being taught by Ramona Herbert. Anyone who is interested in attending a meeting or being a member of the group is welcome. Members of other churches are also welcome.

Lutherans adopt stand on abortion

ST. LOUIS — The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, with 6,000 North American congregations having 2.7 million members, met in convention here July 6-13. Among the 1,000 voting delegates in sessions at Cervantes Convention Center in the church's headquarters city of St. Louis were Don Newjar, lay delegate from Midland, and Carrol C. Kohl, clergy delegate from Big Spring. Each pair of elected delegates represents an average of ten local LCMS congregations. The Synod meets every two years. The 1979 Missouri Synod convention, with the theme "God Opens Doors..." acted on 185 resolutions, most directed at church programs and activities for the next two years and beyond. Many observed that the atmosphere of this convention was much calmer than others in recent years, when the Synod underwent a doctrinal controversy over interpretation of the Bible.

A missions thrust was evident throughout the convention, with more than 20 resolutions passed which would dramatically increase the Synod's mission activity and awareness during the 1980's. Among other major actions, the Synod convention took a strong stand against abortion on demand, adopted a new hymn book and extended for the next two years its "fellowship in protest" with The American Lutheran Church. The abortion resolution labels that practice a "heinous crime against the will of God," and calls for a human life amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The hymn book, which will be a revised edition of the Lutheran Book of Worship, (LBW) is designated as "an official hymnal" of the Synod. It will be available from the church's Concordia Publishing House in mid-1980. Adoption of the revised book came after a study pointing to doctrinal and other problems with the LBW, which is used by three other Lutheran bodies. By an overwhelming majority of 861 to 147, the delegates approved continuation of "fellowship in protest" with The American Lutheran Church. Two earlier attempts failed which would have amended the resolution to specify suspension of fellowship. The LCMS and ALC have had fellowship allowing pastors to exchange pulpits and members to commune in each others churches since 1969. Since then, however, doctrinal disagreements have surfaced between the LCMS and ALC (respectively the second and third largest Lutheran bodies on the continent) leading to declaration of "fellowship in protest" at the Synod's 1977 convention. Among other action, delegates approved a $40 million fund raising campaign, authorized a new deaconess training program, gave "partner church" status to its Brazil District, and called for increased ministry to native Americans, hispanics, blacks and older people. In elections, 115 persons were chosen to serve on 27 national church committees. Chairing most convention sessions was LCMS President Dr. J.A.O. Preus, who is mid-way through his third four-year term. As the convention drew to a close, Preus said he was "thankful for the positive, mission-minded and peaceful nature of the convention."

The lookout tower was scarcely visible, and five miles ahead, straight up the mountain. With the whole afternoon ahead of me, I began the climb. It was a hot day, and the dry, winding road made the climb twice as difficult.

Then something wonderful happened. Sitting by the roadside in the shade of some friendly pine trees were an older couple and their grandchildren. They, too, were on the way to the lookout and were resting. I joined the group and continued the hike, chatting the whole way about families, places we had been, our home towns.

Before we knew it the fatigue was forgotten and two hours had flown by. We had arrived at the tower.

Life, too, sometimes feels like a different climb on a hot, dry day. Its demands and burdens can drain us of energy and the will to continue. God knows this, so He gave us His Church, a fellowship of believers to strengthen and encourage us along life's road.

COMBINING CULTURES — Bilingual services have worked out well at Primera Iglesia Bautista (First Mexican Baptist Church), 701 N.W. 5th. Rev. Johnny Castro, pastor, says he switches back and forth between the two languages, Spanish and English, during the services, without repeating what has already been said. He said that older parishioners appreciate the use of their native language, Spanish, while younger parishioners hear the sermon in the language that they are accustomed to.

Led by musical minister 'Joyful Sound' anticipated

The Rev. Ben Hodge III from Bethel Temple Assembly of God Church in El Paso, will conduct the "Joyful Sound" youth choir and orchestra at Evangel Temple, 2205 Goliad, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

MR. AND MRS. BEN HODGE III

Hodge, who arranges all of the music for the group, is the minister of music and youth in El Paso. He is currently in his final year of studies as a music education major at the University of Texas at El Paso.

As a musician, he is the recipient of numerous awards and honors.

Hodge recently married the former Cindy Hall and they have just returned from their honeymoon in Colorado. "Joyful Sound," composed of 33 young people, has been featured at several district youth camps, ministering to hundreds of youth in various parts of the nation.

The group features its own musicians who play trombones, french horns, trumpets, flute, keyboard instruments, drums and bass guitar.

Pastor Terry Wilson of Evangel Temple invites the public to attend.

He perished with his children Martyr honored through prize

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Pope John Paul II has assured the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and the Polish-American Catholic Committee of his "special interest and support" for their joint project to honor the martyred Polish-Jewish humanitarian, Janusz Korczak, it was announced by Maxwell E. Greenberg, the League's national chairman.

Officials of the ADL, the Polish-American Congress, the American Council of Polish Cultural Clubs and the North American Study Center for Polish Affairs met with the Pope to announce the establishment of an international Janusz Korczak Literary Prize for children's books.

A physician, educator and pioneer in child welfare, Korczak, though offered refuge for himself in August, 1942, chose to perish in the Treblinka concentration camp with children from his orphanage, rather than abandon them.

Describing Korczak as a "rare human being," Pope John Paul II told the 14-member group assembled in his private study that "he was a worthy symbol of the work of brotherhood you are undertaking."

According to Nathan Perlmutter, ADL's national director, the prize, an annual event, will be presented in two categories — the first for literary works written for children, and another prize for a book about children but written for adults.

"We think this a fitting tribute to an extraordinary man who set up the first Jewish orphanage in his native Warsaw and was co-founder of a non-Jewish home for orphans," Perlmutter said. "And all of us are gratified at the Pope's enthusiasm for our project."

The Pontiff praised the delegation for its selection of Korczak, who would have been 100 years old this year. "Korczak is an ideal symbol of morality religion," the Pope said. "And you have my admiration, devotion and my blessing in this important work."

According to Perlmutter, the first Janusz Korczak prize will be awarded in November.

"Selection of the winners will be made by a committee of scholars, editors and literary critics," he said, "with Pope John Paul II invited to serve as Honorary Chairman."

Awards in the amount of $1,000 each will be made in one or more of the following categories of published works:

—The trade book written for children, best exemplifying the principles of selflessness and human dignity by which Dr. Korczak lived and died;

—The most exemplary book written about the welfare and nurturing of children directed to parents, teachers, physicians, counselors or other members of the helping professions.

Books published anywhere in the world, said Mr. Perlmutter, will be eligible for the competition.

Testimony, gospel music highlight special night

The world-renown Dr. Jose Borras, an ex-Catholic priest from Madrid, Spain, will share testimony during "A Night of Abundant Life" July 27.

The program begins at 7:30 p.m. at the Municipal Auditorium and is brought to Big Spring by the Evangelistic Association of Corpus Christi.

Sponsoring the program here is Primera Iglesia Bautista (First Mexican Baptist Church) of which Johnny Castro is pastor.

Other special guests will be Sammy Fuentes, evangelist, musician, recording artist and composer of the now famous song "Varon De Dios." He will be accompanied by his singing group, "Psalms."

The Emmanuel, Corpus Christi's top gospel singing group, will sing some gospel favorites.

Admission to "A Night of Abundant Life" is free and all are welcome.

AMERICANS AND THEIR MONEY

We Americans enjoy 58 per cent of the world's wealth, but we comprise only 4 per cent of the world's population. We've worked hard, as a nation, however, for what we have, so perhaps we "deserve" it. The way we spend our wealth, though, may reveal what the future holds for America:

Food	$21,140,000,000
Housing	$28,641,000,000
Household Operation	$27,300,000,000
Cars & Transportation	$21,555,000,000
Clothing, Jewelry, Etc.	$46,018,000,000
Medical Care	$25,271,000,000
Recreation	$23,058,000,000
Alcoholic Beverages	$11,100,000,000

Flash flood watch in Southwest Texas

By The Associated Press
 Much of Southwest Texas was under a flash flood watch today as scattered showers and thunderstorms, some locally heavy, continued across much of the southern half of Texas.
 Counties included in the flash flood watch were El Paso, Hudspeth, Culberson, Reeves, Jeff Davis, Presidio, Brewster, Pecos, Terrell, Crockett, Schleicher and Sutton.
 Forecasts called for continued showers and thunderstorms, some locally heavy, across the southern two-thirds of Texas today. Most of the locally heavy activity was expected in Southwest Texas, where rivers and streams were running bankfull or near bankfull.

 The northern third of the state was to have partly cloudy skies and continued warm temperatures. Highs were to range from the 80s in North Texas to near 100 in far South Texas.
 Heavy rain has been reported in several areas, including at Austin where a daily record of 4.85 inches fell yesterday, including slightly more than four inches that fell during the night.
 Forecasters said satellite pictures indicate that much of the Pecos Valley, where creeks were running bankfull, got 3-4 inches of rain during the night.

WEATHER FORECAST

Commissioner says of oil taxes

Education should not be affected

WASHINGTON (AP)— The windfall profits tax on domestic oil production should not apply to the revenue Texas receives for its permanent school funds, state Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong told a Senate committee Thursday.

The income Texas receives from oil and gas production on state land is placed in permanent school funds, and the interest on the body or "corpus" of the funds is used for education.

"Therefore, the application of any crude oil 'windfall' profits tax to royalties paid to states with respect to state school lands not only will reduce directly the amount of funds otherwise available to such states for their educational programs, but take away a part of the corpus that we have struggled to maintain," Armstrong said.

"These sales have never been taxed by the federal government," he added.

The House made state royalties exempt in the windfall profits tax measure it passed. The Senate Finance Committee presently is considering the proposal.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., asked if the federal government had the authority to tax another government in any event.

"To my knowledge, there has never been a tax levied on the sale of property belonging to a state," Armstrong replied.

He said exempting the state royalty from any windfall profits tax would affect eight-tenths of one percent of the total Texas production.

At the same hearing, industry spokesmen requested exemptions for independent producers and production from stripper wells. They warned that a higher tax will mean less exploration and lower production.

Stripper wells are those which maintain an average daily production of 10 barrels or less.

Harold E. Wright of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association said the independent producers who find most of the nation's new oil will be strapped for cash to continue explorations under the windfall profits tax proposal.

"The average independent concentrates on finding and producing petroleum. Thus, he is a direct target on taxation applied to wellhead operations," Wright, of Dallas, said.

Figures for the past five years show independent producers put 95 to 128 percent of their wellhead revenue back into exploration, development and production, Wright said. "Contrary to public opinion, the domestic petroleum industry is not a financial bonanza constantly creating excess profits to be placed elsewhere in the economy," he maintained.

Joe B. McShane Jr., president of the National Stripper Well Association, said a new tax would prompt more abandonments of the low-producing wells.

The 1973 removal of direct price controls on stripper well production reverse a trend toward abandoning wells, McShane, of Monahan, Texas, said.

He said the proposed tax would put a halt to the gains.

"The windfall profits tax would jeopardize stripper operations in every oil producing region. Production would decline. The rate of abandonment of these wells, nearing the end of their productive lives in any case, would be hastened," McShane said.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, a finance committee member, has introduced an amendment to exempt from the windfall profits tax the first 3,000 barrels a day produced by an independent.

Bentsen said he also planned to introduce a stripper well exemption amendment.

'Showtime' introduced to Cable TV customers

"Showtime," the national satellite pay television service, has been introduced to more than 8,700 Big Spring Cable TV subscribers in Big Spring, Coahoma and Sand Springs.

"This is an exciting time for us," said Jim Lancaster, manager of Big Spring Cable TV. "Showtime" is a quality entertainment that has appealed to a variety of tastes. We feel this day marks the addition of a new entertainment alternative to the customers of Big Spring Cable TV Inc.

"Showtime" is one of the two largest national satellite pay television service companies. The service was inaugurated in July 1978 and since then has been introduced to nearly 800,000 homes in 45 states.

The "Showtime" signal originates from Vernon Valley, N.J., and is transmitted nationally via RCA Americom's Satcom I satellite.

"Showtime" subscribers can see 20 different attractions monthly for a fee of $10 monthly, including Hollywood movies of recent vintage and made-for-pay-television entertainment programs.

The installation fee for the service is $20, according to Lancaster.

Lancaster said his office would remain open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Saturday to accept orders for the service.

FFA will award wings for refresher training

A nationwide drive to encourage private pilots to sharpen their flying skills by taking refresher training in basic flight techniques has been launched by the Federal Aviation Administration.
 Purpose of the refresher training, similar to the recurrent training required of airline and military pilots, is to reduce the rising rate of accidents among general aviation pilots. There are 740 fatal general aviation accidents in 1978, an 11 per cent increase from 1977.

The decision to encourage the refresher training was made after an analysis of the accidents showed that a surprisingly large share involved experienced general aviation pilots who had logged 1,000 to 5,000 hours of flying time.

The encouragement will come in the form of a small pair of wings that FAA will award, along with certificates of completion, to pilots who take the refresher training. The wings can be worn as a lapel pin or a tie-tack.

For the pilot of a fixed wing aircraft, the refresher training consists of:

—One hour of flight training in basic aircraft control, stalls, turns, and other maneuvers.

—One hour of flight training concentrating on precision approaches and take-offs and landings, including crosswind, soft field, and short field techniques.

—One hour of instrument training, either in an aircraft or a simulator.

—Attendance at an aviation safety meeting, seminar, or clinic conducted under the auspices of the FAA's Accident Prevention Program.

Provisions were also made for refresher training for helicopter and glider pilots.

To encourage continuing participation in the program, the FAA will award a pair of wings with a star to a pilot who repeats the refresher training after 12 months. Wings with a wreath around the star will be awarded to pilots who take the refresher training a third time. Additional information may be obtained from local FAA accident prevention counselors. Full details are contained in FAA Advisory Circular 61-9 available at FAA general aviation district offices.

Don't delay seeing doc in case of animal bite

FORT WORTH — Texans should not delay seeing their doctor in case of an animal bite because of the increasing danger of rabies, according to Dr. John J. Cegelski, Jr., (D.O.), of San Antonio, president of the Texas Osteopathic Medical Association.

In a letter to all Texas D.O.s, Dr. Cegelski is urging the physicians to institute rabies treatment procedures immediately — even before the animal is analyzed by the Texas State Department of Health laboratory.

Dr. Cegelski said he has been in close contact with Dr. Raymond T. Moore (M.D.), commissioner of health, and Dr. Moor reports an unusual number of rabid skunks as well as other animals with an unexpected aggressiveness displayed by the afflicted animals.

According to Dr. Moore, three human deaths have occurred in Texas and the Health Department is currently reporting positive rabies findings in at least six animals a day.

"Regardless of whether you are bitten by your own pet or any other animal or creature do not delay seeing your physician," Dr. Cegelski said. "You cannot rely on the behavior of the animal that bit you as an indication of whether or not it is infected and of course every effort should be made to capture the animal for observation and testing," he said.

Dr. Cegelski is urging all physicians and the general public to make use of the regional offices of the Texas Department of Health for vaccines and information.

TWEEN 12 and 20 Parents refuse teen football opportunity

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'll be a sophomore in September and many people (coaches, teachers, classmates) have suggested that I play high school football. I'm a big kid for a freshman: 5-foot-10, 160 pounds.

I really want to play, but my parents say no. First they say that there is too much work at home (we live on a farm). After I solved that problem, my dad said, "What good is football going to do for you? Besides, you'll get hurt." The only hurt I have is that my parents won't give me the opportunity to do something that I really want to do—something that is organized, educational, recreational, a body developer and honest.

Maybe if you print this, they will see how much I love them. — Keith, Sonora, Ky.

Keith: I hope you get your wish. Just for the record many more male teens are seriously injured in automobile accidents than playing football. Dr. Wallace: I'm referring to a letter from Celeste of York, Pa., concerning her mother reusing uncanceled postage stamps that had delivered a letter. You said it was wrong to reuse such a stamp but I don't agree.

I would definitely use such a stamp. Our mail service is quite bad and 15 cents per letter is outrageous. I'll bet you reuse uncanceled stamps but tell people you don't. — Carol, Everett, Wash.

Carol: Our mail service might be bad and 15 cents might be outrageous for sending a letter, but I still think using an uncanceled stamp is wrong, not a crime, just wrong.

You would lose your bet.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. R. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Operator: I want to make a person to personal call. See Classifieds, C 5.

Her 'Real' Father Isn't Real Father

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-five years ago, when I was 2, my parents split up. My mother was an alcoholic and didn't want me. My father couldn't raise me alone, so I was given up for adoption.

The only parents I have ever known are the wonderful couple who adopted me, loved me, gave me their name and a good life.

Recently, out of the blue, my "real" father contacted me by telephone and said he was coming out to meet me. I had always known I was adopted and thought it rather exciting to be meeting my "real" father.

I'm not sure what I expected, but this man was a terrible disappointment. He is a heavy drinker, smokes like a chimney, has had a rough life and looks it. The father who raised me is exactly the opposite.

Although I feel sorry for this stranger, I don't know how to tactfully discourage him from wanting more of my life than I want to give him. I'm grown up now and have no desire for a close relationship. I don't want to shut him out completely, but we have nothing in common and I see no basis for more than a distant friendship.

How would you or your readers handle this?

FOUND IN OREGON

DEAR FOUND: I would be respectful and courteous, carefully avoiding any phony expression of affection in order to make him feel better. Any pretense of feelings that are not sincere would be more cruel than kind.

Irwin takes lead in British Open

In hopes of answering golf question

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP) — Golf fanatics have argued for years whether the U.S. Open or the British Open is the world's leading tournament. Hale Irwin, the current U.S. Open champion, doesn't profess to have the answer. But he could well answer the question "who is the Open champion?" by winning the British tournament as well.

Irwin went into today's third round at Lytham St. Annes with a 2-stroke advantage over young Spaniard Severiano Ballesteros. Irwin shot his second successive 68 for a 6-under-par total of 136.

"There are those in the States who feel the U.S. Open is the tournament that matters," Irwin said. "Our friends across the pond think this is the big one. To win both would really settle the argument as to who won the Open."

The last man to win both opens in the same year was Lee Trevino in 1971.

"I would dearly love to win the British Open," Irwin said. "It would be a big, big feather in my cap. It is pretty special."

Irwin's round included three birdies on the front nine and not a single bogey. The round lifted the bespectacled American above overnight leader Bill Longmuir.

The little-known Briton shot a 3-over-par 74 to end the day at 139, one shot behind Ballesteros. Two-time British Open winner Tom Watson was fourth at 140, after carding a 3-under 68.

Ballesteros' 65 was the best round of the day. It equaled the course record that Longmuir also had equaled the day before.

Ballesteros' round was remarkable in that he birdied four of the last five holes. The back stretch is regarded as the most difficult part of the course, and it finished off such dogged competitors as defending champion Jack Nicklaus.

"Sevvy's finish must have been fabulous," Irwin said, and the jovial young Latin modestly thought so too.

But he was willing to give much of the credit to Trevino, who played with him.

"At the 10th hole, he (Trevino) pointed out that I was not following through with my left leg. That helped me. After that, I played better," Ballesteros said.

Longmuir, the 26-year-old former truck driver who shot 65 Wednesday, was far from downhearted about finishing the second day in third place.

"I am not at all depressed," he said. "I didn't play well, but I tried hard, and I got as many pars as possible. It could have been a lot worse."

Behind fourth-placed Watson were Nicklaus and New Zealander Dennis Clark, both at 141.

Nicklaus shot six birdies on the first 10 holes but had to settle for a 2-under 69 after a disastrous back nine. Clark, a former New Zealand amateur, also shot a 2-under 69.

HALE IRWIN — U.S.A., kneels as he watches his putt at the 12th green, in today's Open Championship play. Irwin has a two-stroke lead in his hopes of winning both the U.S. Open and British Open in the same year.

Cousineau signs with Montreal

Bypassing lucrative pact with NFL's Buffalo Bills

NEW YORK (AP) — As a kid, Tom Cousineau never dreamed he'd be a pioneer.

Just a couple of months ago, when he was the No. 1 pick in the National Football League draft, the Ohio State All-America linebacker appeared on the verge of accomplishing a childhood ambition. Now he may become known as a sporting trendsetter.

"Any kid in the U.S. playing football grows up dreaming to play in the NFL," Cousineau said Thursday after signing a multiyear contract with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League. "I'm no exception but this is a very positive move."

"It's a possibility it will set a precedent. But that's not why I did it."

What the 22-year-old, 6-foot-3, 227-pound Cousineau did was become the first top pick in the NFL draft ever to bypass the NFL and sign with another league. He turned down what the Buffalo Bills termed "an offer in excess of any ever sought by a No. 1 draft choice."

He did it because the Alouettes' package outdid the Bills' best offer.

Although terms of the contract were not disclosed, Jimmy Walsh, Cousineau's attorney, said: "Montreal won more than Buffalo lost. It was a better business deal for Tom in Montreal. Better for money and from other standpoints."

Cousineau's signing lends credence to the CFL's position as a viable alternative to the NFL for graduating collegians.

"Jimmy came to us about a month ago," Alouettes General Manager Bob Geary said. "I guess he was looking for someone to compete with the Bills. We thought we lost him two weeks ago. It was a monetary thing but we got it worked out."

The CFL season began two weeks ago and Cousineau said he will be ready to step into the lineup next Wednesday.

"I'm in good shape. There'll be a period of adjustment to a different game," he said. In Canadian football, there are 12 men on the field at once, a team gets just three downs to move the ball 10 yards and the field is 110 by 65 yards.

"But it's that way for any player coming out of college. In college, especially in the Big Ten, you don't see the passing game like in the pros. In Canada, because it's so wide open, the passing game is even more important."

"I set a standard for myself and I expect to live up to it."

The Alouettes, who have been in the Grey Cup (the CFL's Super Bowl) four of the past five years, winning in 1974 and 1977, expect him to live up to their deal. Other American stars, such as Johnny Rodgers and Anthony Davis, have bolted for the NFL in the midst of their pacts with CFL teams.

"There is nothing in his contract to allow him to play in the NFL before his contract ends here," said Robert Berger, vice president of the Alouettes and son of team owner Sam Berger. "He's not a slave and we want him to be happy, like all our players. But there is no 'escape clause'."

Yankee drama continues as Rosen resigns

NEW YORK (AP) — George Steinbrenner, principal owner of the world champion New York Yankees, has begun looking for a new president for the American League team after Al Rosen resigned "to explore several other business opportunities."

Rosen, in a statement issued by the Yankees, said "contrary to speculation, I have not, nor will I, accept any of those business opportunities in the near future."

Rosen's resignation, which has been rumored for several days, apparently was triggered by a dispute between Rosen, Steinbrenner and Manager Billy Martin.

Rosen is rumored to be joining Bally, a corporation which will soon open a gambling casino in Atlantic City, N.J. Bally is run by Bill Weinberger, a longtime friend of Rosen's.

Last year, when Steinbrenner surprised a Yankee Oldtimers' Day crowd by announcing that the recently fired Martin was returning to manage the team and that Lemon would become general manager in 1980, it was also announced that General Manager Cedric Tallis would be retiring following this season.

It also is rumored that Steinbrenner may take over as president.

Rosen, 55, was lured out of private business by Steinbrenner to take the Yankees job two years ago. He is one of 16 limited partners who jointly own the club with Steinbrenner. Steinbrenner is listed as the principal owner.

Rosen's troubles reportedly began last month when Steinbrenner replaced Lemon, a close friend of Rosen's and a former teammate on the Cleveland Indians, with Martin about four months before Martin was due to return to the

Astros, Rangers continue slide

Baseball Roundup

Atlanta's Phil Niekro has caught his brother, Houston's Joe, as the National League's only 13-game winners and it looks like someone else may catch the rest of the Astros before too long.

The Brothers Niekro each surrendered six hits Thursday, but Phil did it over nine innings in hurling the Braves to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Joe lasted only 4-2-3rd in the nightcap as the Astros dropped a 9-5, 4-2 double-header to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Two-run homers by Willie Stargell and Phil Garner in the opener and John Milner in the nightcap helped the Pirates to their sweep of the Astros. Milner slammed a first-inning homer in the second game and Bruce Kison blanked the Astros on four hits until the ninth, when he needed help from Grant Jackson after retiring 17 consecutive batters.

In the opener, the score was tied twice before Garner's homer in the sixth gave the Pirates a 7-5 lead.

Braves trounce Cubs

Two-run singles by Rowland Office and Jeff Burroughs highlighted Atlanta's six-run fifth inning that erased a 2-0 Chicago lead. Office singled to tie the score and Burroughs' bases-loaded hit put the Braves on top 4-2. Burroughs hit a solo homer in the ninth.

Reds overpower Cards

Ray Knight drove in six runs with a grand slam homer, a single and a sacrifice fly to pace a 19-hit Cincinnati assault against Pete Vuckovich and four relievers. The Reds scored five runs in the first inning and continued the attack until Knight's third home run of the season and first career grand slam wrapped up the scoring in the ninth against Will McEnaney.

Dodgers upend Expos

Steve Yeager, Joe Ferguson and Davey Lopes slugged home runs and Burt Hooton scattered six hits as the Dodgers broke a five-game losing streak. The offensive outburst followed a closed-door pregame meeting following charges during the All-Star break by several players that Reggie Smith had "guit on us." Smith, angered by the remarks, said following the meeting that "I gave my side of it and everything is now geared toward a more positive attitude."

Curtis, Giants stifle Phils

John Curtis hurled a seven-hitter for his second consecutive 1-0 shutout and Darrell Evans drove in the only run with a fourth-inning double. Curtis struck out five and didn't issue a walk and was in deep trouble only twice but was helped by some fine defensive plays.

Padres topple Mets

Pitcher Randy Jones doubled and scored what proved to be the winning run and Dave Winfield cracked his 23rd homer. Mets starter Kevin Kobel retired the first 12 Padres before Winfield homered, giving him a league-leading 73 RBIs. Winfield has hit eight home runs and driven in 18 runs in the last 18 games.

Orioles, Angels split pair

Gary Roenicke drove in two runs and Mike Flanagan pitched a six-hitter to give Baltimore its split in the second game. California won the first game when Dan Ford's single broke an 11th-inning tie.

Reggie keys Yankee rout

Luis Tiant checked virtually everyone on Oakland — Jeff Newman hit a pair of solo homers — while Reggie Jackson hit a two-run homer and Brian Doyle drove in three runs with a double and bases loaded walk in the Yankees' victory.

Brewers rally past Blue Jays

Ben Oglivie's one-out homer in the eighth inning boosted the Brewers into a tie with Toronto, then Sixto Lezcano's one-out shot in the 11th beat the Blue Jays. Bill Castro got his third victory without a loss with 3-2-3 innings of shutout relief for Milwaukee.

Tigers rout Twins

Lance Parrish drove in three runs, two with a triple in Detroit's four-run fourth inning against Minnesota, and rookie Pat Underwood won his fifth game without loss with ninthinning relief from Aurelio Lopez. Rusty Staub added two RBIs for Detroit with a firstinning single off loser Jerry Kosman and a sacrifice fly in the sixth.

Indians ease past Royals

A bobbled bunt and a wild pitch spelled trouble for Kansas City's Dennis Leonard, who allowed only five hits in losing the game. In the first, Leonard bobbled Toby Harrah's bunt. Andre Thornton singled, scoring one. Then Leonard wildpitched Harrah to third, from where he scored on Cliff Johnson's sacrifice fly.

Wolfe's missed sign pays off in Bosox win

Larry Wolfe was supposed to be sacrificing Rick Burleson to second. Instead, he got Burleson and himself all the way home — and the Boston Red Sox closer to the top of the American League East. "I thought the hit-and-run was on," Wolfe said after misreading a bunt sign from third base coach Eddie Yost, swinging away and hitting his third home run of the season to break a fifth-inning tie and help the Red Sox beat Seattle 7-1 Thursday night. "I found out I was wrong (on Yost's sign) when I got back to the dugout," Wolfe said. "They told me it will cost a $2 fine from the Kangaroo Court." To which Manager Don Zimmer said, "It's going to cost him $1. I'm glad he hit the homer."

Dennis Eckersley scattered six Seattle hits and was nicked for the Mariners' only run in the fourth inning when Dan Meyer singled and Leon Roberts tripled.

White Sox sweeps Rangers

Ralph Garr was Chicago's big gun with a two-run homer in each game against the Rangers. Chet Lemon also homered for the White Sox in the nightcap while Richie Zisk had a two-run clout and Pat Putnam and Buddy Bell solo shots for Texas.

Chicago rapped out 26 hits—including five home runs, two triples and six doubles—Thursday night in battling from behind twice to sweep a doubleheader, 9-6 and 5-4. It was the White Sox' 10th victory in 12 games this year, and over two seasons Chicago is 9-4 at Arlington and 12-2 at Chicago for a 21-6 record.

"We sure hit the ball well tonight. It's nice to do that. Maybe the three days off helped us," said Chicago manager Don Kessinger.

"We've been very fortunate against Texas, but they're a great ball club. I'm very happy with the wins we've had, but in spite of our success against them, no, I wouldn't want to have to play them every day."

Little League All-Star action resumes tonight

Action in the Little League District III All-Star Tournament was cancelled last night due to the weather. Play is expected to resume tonight in both the American and the National League Parks.

In the National League Park, located just off Highway 87 on the Country Club road, the National League will play the Lamesa All-Stars. Lamesa won their opening game by a score of 8-2 over Midland Tower, while the National League All-Stars drew a bye.

The American League All-Stars will host the Midland North Central All-Stars tonight. The AL Park is located just east of Memorial Stadium on the east side of town.

In Saturday's night's games, the winner of tonight's Lamesa-National game will face Midland Western, a 3-1 winner over Big Spring International, while the winner of the American-North Central contest will face Midland Mid-City. Mid-City topped Midland Eastern 5-2 earlier.

All games are scheduled for an 8:00 start.

Ryan captures AL award

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Nolan Ryan of the California Angels was named the American League Player of the Week for the period of July 9-15.

Ryan pitched two complete games, allowing only seven hits and one unearned run in 6-0 and 6-1 victories over Boston and the New York Yankees. The victory over the Yankees was the seventh one-hitter of his career. Ryan leads the majors with 160 strikeouts and his five shutouts are tops in the A.L.

Fitzgerald injured in Poke camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Veteran center John Fitzgerald will be out of action until Monday at the Dallas Cowboys training camp. While the other veterans and rookies continued two-day workouts Thursday, Fitzgerald was having an abscessed molar extracted. The highlight of the Thursday workout was a brief rookie scrimmage. Tight end Doug Cosbie, third-round draft choice from Santa Clara, caught two touchdown passes during the scrimmage.

One was a 34-yard toss

Farris hoping horses sweep Rainbow

In second leg of Triple Crown for 2-year old quarter horses

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP)—Trainer Don Farris knows the odds are against it, but he would like nothing better Sunday than to wind up with the top three finishers in the second leg of the Triple Crown for 2-year-old quarter horses, the Rainbow Futurity.

admits Farris, the only trainer who will saddle more than one speedster for the 16th running of the Rainbow at Ruidoso Downs. "The odds are against it. It would take an awful lot of luck. There's no room for any kind of error."

But he was quick to add that he believes his three horses are capable of giving him the unique 1-2-3 sweep in the regionally televised 400-yard sprint of $501,000.

"I feel we've got a shot at fitting the board with all three of them," said the 45-year-old Farris, who has been training racehorses since 1960. "I'm not saying that's what will happen. But all three are healthy and running good."

Denim N Diamonds and Streaking Six, Farris has the top two qualifiers for the scramble that will see each horse collect a healthy paycheck with prize money scaled from $173,285 for first to $16,833 for last. Denim N Diamonds turned in a 20.11-second clocking in the qualifying trials, while Streaking Six posted a time of 20.18 seconds.

CHASING HIM OFF — After thinking he was out at second and leaving the bag, Texas Rangers' Bump Willis looks over his shoulder to find Chicago White Sox second baseman Jorge Orta in hot pursuit. Willis advanced to second on a second inning hit by teammate Buddy Bell in the first game of Thursday night's double header at Arlington Stadium. Willis was safe, but thought he was out when Orta took the throw with his foot off the bag.

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — If you went to a restaurant, would you order widow rockfish if it were on the menu? How about cowcod?
Would you buy black, vermillion, speckled, canary, yelloweye, yellowtail, olive, bocaccio or bank rockfish at your local supermarket?
Operating under the assumption you would not, the Oregon Legislature has agreed to amend state law and allow the marketing of all those fish under the name of snapper.
Just plain old snapper — or Pacific snapper, or Oregon snapper, or red snapper, or Pacific red snapper, or Oregon red snapper.
At the same time, the Legislature agreed it is OK to label sablefish as butterfish or black cod.
The measure authorizing the change was signed into law by Gov. Vic Atiyeh this week.

A real fat cat

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — By all but the strictest legal standards, Nicha has a chance to be a very "fat cat" indeed.
Nicha, a cat owned by the Ruiz family of Jersey City, is one of 205 finalists in next week's millionaire lottery drawing, New Jersey State Lottery Commission officials say.
But a deputy state attorney general says a cat can't legally win the lottery. So Nicha's legal partner, 15-year-old Andrea Ruiz, really has a chance to win $50,000 a year for the next 20 years.
Lottery officials say they were contacting the finalists this week when Miss Ruiz told them the other half of "Nicha R. and Andy Ruiz" was a cat.

No signs of oil from Mexico spill

Scientists rescue baby turtles

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Government scientists rescued 450 baby turtles from a Gulf of Mexico oil spill Thursday, but couldn't find the oil.

The scientists were in a specially equipped C-130 cargo plane, and their primary mission was mapping the oil spill resulting from a blown-out well off the coast of Mexico.

The airlift of the tiny Kemp's ridley sea turtle hatchlings was part of a joint effort by the United States and Mexico to save the endangered species from the runaway oil slick.

The oil has been gushing from the Ixtoc 1, an exploratory offshore well owned by the Mexican government, at the rate of 30,000 gallons a day since a natural gas explosion June 3.

Experts from the Coast Guard and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration boarded the airplane Thursday to begin a systematic mapping of the spill.

Although the plane flew within 13 miles of where the slick's leading edge was supposed to be, the observers said their instruments and visual observations found no sign of the oil.

Officials have reported no significant movement of the slick since aerial photographs located it about 300 miles southeast of Brownsville five days ago.

Marine biologists said the oil was headed for Playa el Rancho Nueva, an area of Mexico which is the traditional hatching grounds for the sea turtles, whose numbers have declined from more than a quarter million in 1947 to about 2,500 last year.

The turtles rescued Thursday with airlifted to Galveston. From there, scientists want to try to establish a new hatching grounds at Padre Island, according to Jim Woods, a biologist for the National Parks Service.

Meanwhile, scientists are on board the Coast Guard ship "Valiant" measuring the ocean currents off the coast of Tampico, hoping they can predict whether the oil slick is likely to head northward, toward the Texas coast.

They are to fly back to Corpus Christi today to compile their data, but officials said they probably wouldn't have an accurate interpretation until Tuesday.

A second research team has been working the Texas shoreline between Corpus Christi and Brownsville to identify areas which might be environmentally vulnerable should the oil reach the coast.

Miami boy, 14 victim

Booby trap claims life

MIAMI (AP) — "What are you going to say to a man when you've killed his only son?" sobbed Carmen Charles Falco, a Boy Scout leader who police say rigged a booby trap in his home that killed a member of his scouting troop.

Police say 14-year-old Richard Brush Jr. was struck in the chest and killed by a bullet from a .22-caliber rifle that had been rigged to the bathroom door of Falco's home to stop burglars.

No charges have been filed. Assistant State Attorney Robert Kaye said Thursday his office was awaiting a police report on the shooting.

"I knew exactly how to set it up. I knew exactly how to scare somebody away," said Falco, 31, who told police he learned to set booby traps while in Vietnam.

"Unfortunately, the only thing the Army taught me was how to use a weapon to destroy an individual in every possible way," he said.

Police said the rifle was positioned on a chair with a string running from the bathroom door knob to the trigger. When Richie opened the door, the gun went off.

The scoutmaster told authorities his home had KILLED — Richard "Richie" Brush, 14, was killed near his home in Miami Wednesday night when he climbed into the window of a home where the owner had rigged a rifle up to scare off burglars.

been burglarized three times this year — once earlier this week when an intruder broke in through the bathroom window.

Dade County homicide detective Fabio Alonso said young Brush smashed the same window Wednesday night and entered the house when no one was home.

"Richard was a little boy. He was a nice boy. He was an ordinary boy who loved camping. Why he went in that house I don't know," said the youth's father, Richard.

"I haven't the slightest idea why the boy broke in," Falco said. "Anything I had I would have shared with him. He was too beautiful a person to do something like this."

Falco and his wife, Kerri, both of whom work as counselors for a state agency, said Brush had left his bicycle pump and Boy Scout shirt at their home after a scout meeting Tuesday night — "nothing so urgent he couldn't wait until we got home."

Richard's parents became concerned when their son disappeared while watering their lawn about 10:30 p.m., police said.

The Brushes rushed two doors away to the Falco home after a shot rang out in the quiet neighborhood.

"I looked through the bathroom window," the boy's father said. "I saw something on the floor, but I couldn't tell what it was. Then I found my son on the floor, dead. My son, 14 years old, dead..."

Falco was called at work, and when he arrived home and learned of the tragedy, put his head against a police car and cried.

"I just hope that family can forgive me," he said.

Brush walked over and said, "Chuck, I'm so sorry."

"Mr. Falco is a nice man," said a neighbor, Aristides Lima. "The family isn't blaming him for this tragedy."

Insurance reps help Olson pay off campaign debts

By SCOTT CARPENTER

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
1979 Harte-Hanks Communications Inc.

AUSTIN — Lyndon Olson Jr., one of the three men who regulate the state's insurance industry, collected $13,550 from insurance representatives in May and June to pay off year-old campaign debts.

During his unsuccessful race for Congress, Olson received little insurance-related money. It was only after his appointment to the State Board of Insurance that insurance contributions came in large numbers.

Wednesday Olson denied any impropriety. "I have done my very best, assuming it makes a difference, to keep an arms' length from the fund-raising of my campaign committee."

Two insurance-lawyers-lobbyists, Forrest Roan and Jack Gullahorn, and two Waco attorneys now run

Olson's fund-raising efforts.

Roan and Gullahorn are registered lobbyists for the American Insurance Association and others. Gullahorn is the former chief aide to House Speaker Billy Clayton. Olson worked for Clayton briefly before he was named to the state board by then Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Required federal reports show most of the contributions from agents, officers and attorneys for insurance companies were for $100, the cost of tickets to a fund-raising dinner held at his ranch near Waco in May.

Shown as contributing $1,000, the maximum allowed by federal law, were Theodore P. Beasley of Dallas, chairman of Republic National Life Co.; C. Clifton Robinson of Waco, president of Citizens Fidelity Insurance Co.; Bernard Rappoport of Waco, chairman of American Income Life, and Rappoport's wife.

Olson also received contributions from political arms of various insurance interests, including $1,000 from life underwriters, $500 each from Texas Employers & Casualty Companies and Republic Financial Services Inc., and $100 each from Crum & Forester Insurance Company and the American Insurance Association.

"I've reported everything," Olson said. "I have made no attempt to circumvent anything. Many of the people that gave to the campaign gave before. I know that there were a number of people that were in the (insurance) industry that did not give before."

The federal filing for the three months that ended June 30 shows the insurance industry contributors had not given anything the previous 12 months.

Under federal law, the $1,000 individual contributors could not have given money before.

Olson said he reviewed the contributor list a couple of times before signing the federal report to make sure his political committee "wouldn't get me into any kind of compromise position."

If he had viewed any contribution as improper, he would have returned the money, Olson said.

"There is no strings to any of that money, period," Olson said.

"They were gifts to a (political) committee to retire a previous debt. No loans. When I accepted that money, I accepted it just like I've accepted money when I've run for office in the past. And that is, if you want to make a contribution to what I perceive to be good government, then that's fine. And if it's a contribution for any other purpose then you can have it back."
