CRIPPLED — Columns of black smoke billow from a crippled oil supertanker, the Atlantic Empress, Friday some 28 miles off the coast of Tobago in the Caribbean. The tanker, carrying 70.8 million gallons of highly flammable naphtha, collided in rain and fog Thursday night with the Aegean Capitan, a 210,257-ton tanker carrying light crude oil. Crewmembers abandoned both ships and searchers continued to comb the shark and barracuda-infested waters for 27 missing seamen.

Supertanker crash may result in worst oil spill

SCARBOROUGH, Tobago (AP) — Tugboat crews tried desperately Saturday to take a blazing supertanker in tow and haul it toward open seas in a race to save the southern Caribbean from what could become history's worst oil spill. Special disaster teams were called in from the United States to fight the pollution threat. Trinidad and Tobago coast guard officers said there was little hope that 27 seamen missing since the collision late Thursday of the Atlantic Empress and another supertanker, the Aegean Capitan, would be found alive. In what was almost a second tragedy, a helicopter taking John Donaldson, security minister of the twin-island nation of Trinidad and Tobago, crashed into the sea Saturday as he surveyed the spill area. But he and the three other persons aboard were rescued by a coast guard ship.

The two supertankers collided and caught fire in a thunderstorm 20 miles off the northeast tip of this tropical resort island, then drifted aimlessly, abandoned by their crews and spewing smoke and oil. Firefighters of the Trinidad and Tobago coast guard finally put out the blaze aboard the 1,066-foot Aegean Capitan early Saturday, and a tug towed it farther away from the island. From the air, oil could be seen leaking from its damaged bow at midday Saturday.

Taste of city water due to show big improvement

Customers of the Colorado River Municipal Water District are going to notice an almost immediate improvement in the taste of the water piped in from Lake Spence, according to Owen Ivie, general manager of the water district. Both Lake Thomas and Lake Spence are benefitting from major catches as the result of runoff from the recent rains. When the content at both reservoirs goes up, the alkaline taste of the water goes down. Spence has done even better, trapping between 25,000 and 26,000 acre feet since the first of the year. Together then the catch would amount to over 48,000 acre feet.

1977. The first of the CRMWD's big lakes will have trapped almost 14,000 acre feet of water as the result of last week's downpours before the runoff ceases. Spence, capacity of which is almost twice as big as Thomas, will catch in excess of two vertical feet of water, or 10,000 acre feet. The inflow at Thomas was the biggest since 1972. Since last May, Thomas has picked up about 23,000 acre feet of water. Ivie said that Lake Thomas apparently will catch from 6 to 6½ vertical feet of water, bringing its elevation to the level, it had Aug. 1.

Big challenge awaits new Salvation Army officers

Lts. William W. (Bill) and Linda Thrasher have arrived to their new command at the Salvation Army post here. Immediately, they have been confronted with a challenge in their first full command. The Salvation Army urgently needs $12,000 to carry its full services through to the end of the fiscal year Sept. 30. A number of friends are helping to bridge this gap, but more gifts are imperative to keep the work going. Demands upon the post have been heavier than normal, possibly to unsettled economic conditions. From 13 to 15 individuals stay overnight at the dormitories at the citadel, and receive two meals to help them on their way. Many are trying to get to new locations or families and would be homeless without Salvation Army help. In addition, the Army has ministered to over 3,500 local individuals with food, clothing, counseling, rehabilitation and youth programs. Several are now in working part-time while in the alcohol-drug rehabilitation effort. Every day, persons who can't be helped by other agencies turn to the Salvation Army, hence the drain on its resources, despite generous help from the United Fund. But the Thrashers are full of faith that friends will provide. Both have backgrounds in the Salvation Army, her's from parents who made a career in SA service and his from membership affiliation long before a call to full-time vocational ministry. A native of Florida Lt. Bill Thrasher spent most of his youth in Lubbock where he graduated from high school and earned a BBA degree at Texas Tech. He did office work, then went to the officer academy for 2½ years. From there he was at Santa Ana, Calif., Parkersburg, W. Va., then at Atlanta and San Antonio before being called here by special request of the board. Lt. Linda Thrasher is the daughter of Mar and Mrs. David Nelson, and in a sense this is coming back to sentimental ground, for her mother was Lt. Ellen Lynn, who, with Lt. (Mrs.) Guy Hepler, reestablished the Salvation Army post here in the early 1930's. The Thrashers were married June 17, 1972 in Muskogee, Okla., and they have two children, Christopher, 2, and Monica, 5 months. They expressed enthusiasm about the opportunities of their new post and already he is active in civic work as a member of the Kiwanis Club. SA friends who would like to help them get off to a good start may contact them or send contributions to the Salvation Army at Box 1248, Big Spring.

Carter considering authority increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Cabinet shakeup behind him, President Carter is studying White House staff performance, but well-placed sources said Saturday that another wave of firings is highly unlikely. Some of the Georgians that Carter brought with him to Washington 2½ years ago are likely to be given increased authority. Other trusted aides may be moved from official White House jobs to positions in Carter's still-unannounced reelection campaign. But the major shakeup within the administration seems complete. Carter had only one appointment, his daily national security briefing, on his public schedule Saturday. It was the first full weekend the president planned to spend at the White House since the end of April. Carter canceled plans to fly to Camp David, Md., for the weekend because his wife, Rosalynn Carter, was to begin a four-day cross-country trip with a series of appearances for United Way charities and some political fund-raising appearances, aides said. The president, who seemed tired but spoke in a firm voice during three public appearances Friday, was described by one occasional adviser as comfortable with the changes he has made and "not uptight or tense." But with the dust beginning to settle after five of 12 Cabinet officers were removed, questions are being raised about the impact that last week — one of the most dramatic of Carter's presidency — will have on his political future. One government official, unlikely to be affected by the intensive evaluation of the administration's performance, said he felt the president's reelection concerns were "absolutely" behind the sudden shifts that sent shock waves through the Washington bureaucracy. This official and others, declining to be identified publicly, said they believe the staff changes are intertwined with the president's fortunes in 1980. "You have to put your four-year presidency into the next 180 days," said the official, who has close ties to the White House. During the six months before the presidential primaries begin, Carter must prove that, with some new faces and revised White House operations, he can overcome the inefficiencies and political gaffes that have plagued his first 30 months in office, the official said. Carter's senior staff is expected to be left almost untouched by the expected internal personnel shifts, a source said. But perhaps as many as a dozen second- and third-level staff members, those directly involved in day-to-day White House operations, may find themselves in new jobs, the source added. White House press secretary Jody Powell said that a few new faces from outside the administration may be added to the White House staff. One former government official, referring to the confusion the shakeup is causing, said: "Right now, everyone is frozen. No one wants to say anything good or bad about anyone else because they don't know where they stand." The official requested anonymity. In addition to Hamilton Jordan, who became White House chief of staff on Wednesday, Carter's inner circle includes Powell and congressional liaison chief Frank Moore. Sources in the White House and outside of government said Powell is likely to be given enhanced authority. Moore, who was sharply criticized in the early months of Carter's tenure, is now on firm footing, they said. "He is so solid with both the president and Mrs. Carter that he'll do whatever he wants to do," said one lobbyist whose advice is sometimes sought by the president. A former administration official who left the government just before the shakeup said, "there's a strong feeling in the White House that Moore gets the 'most improved award' in the White House staff." The sources also said that political aide Timothy Kraft may eventually be compelled to leave the White House to work for the Carter-Mondale political committee and that Carter's media adviser, Gerald Rafshoon, will also be switched to campaign work. In addition, Jordan may be assigned a new deputy, Leslie C. Francis, from Moore's staff. There is some question about the future role of Robert Lipshutz, the White House counsel who is one of the few White House aides close to Carter in age. There have been reports that Lipshutz might leave, particularly if Carter feels the need to stir up his senior staff somewhat. But, one source said, "I'd be a little surprised. The man is an extraordinarily decent human being. He's not a carrier of great operational responsibility, but he is incredibly loyal."

Barbecue precedes tourney

Common sense, fair play and good sportsmanship, along with skill, are the tools that contestants in the second annual National "Texas Style" Partnership Domino Tournament will arm themselves with this week. The tournament takes place at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Thursday through Saturday. A barbecue will greet contestants at the coliseum at 11:30 a.m. Thursday. Rules will be explained and players will pair off for the plays which start at 1 p.m. Plays are expected to continue through 5 p.m. Play begins in both the Championship Bracket and Second Chance Bracket at 8 a.m. Friday. Play resumes at 2 p.m. Teams who progress to quarter finals will win back their $100 entry fee plus an additional $100 and a small trophy. Semi-finals begin at 8 a.m. Saturday. The four teams with the best won-lost records will qualify as finalists to compete in the 1 p.m. finals. Champs will be determined by the best three out of five games. All four of the teams making the finals could receive prize money in the amounts of $5,000, first place; $2,500 second; $1,200, third; and $600, fourth. The prize money is calculated on an expectancy of 192 teams entering. If there is any variation, prize money, which totals $11,700, will be pro-rated accordingly.

Impending recession may be worse than first prediction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The steep plunge in economic output during the second quarter this year, combined with another hike in government interest rates, indicates the recession may be worse than the Carter administration is predicting. The nation's gross national product declined at an annual rate of 3.3 percent in the April-June period, the largest quarterly drop since the depths of the 1974-1975 recession. Last year, the GNP rose 4.4 percent. Unless the preliminary second quarter figure is revised upward, the economy almost certainly will decline more this year than the 0.5 percent drop the administration is forecasting, a Commerce Department analyst said in an end-of-week interview. The Federal Reserve Board says the economic decline this year will be 2 percent. A White House economist was not ready to concede the recession will be worse than forecast. But he did say the administration's prediction is optimistic. The officials declined to be identified publicly. For the nation's labor force, a worse recession would mean greater unemployment. The administration says joblessness will rise to 6.6 percent this year and 6.9 percent in 1980. It currently is 5.6 percent. But the Federal Reserve Board says unemployment could hit 8.25 percent next year. That would mean 1.4 million more people out of work than the administration projects. The board's forecasts have been sounder than the administration's during the past year. G. William Miller, chairman of the independent Federal Reserve, predicted the current recession months before the administration did. Nevertheless, Miller said he agrees with the administration that no hasty move should be tried to speed economic growth, because such action would worsen inflation. Miller told a congressional committee last week that the recession, while worse than the administration predicts, should not be as bad as the 1974-1975 one, when the GNP — the value of all goods and services, discounted for inflation — declined 3.5 percent.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: It'll stay

Q. Do we have to accept the new Susan B. Anthony $1 when it is offered to us as payment? It looks so much like a quarter. It is confusing. A. Government officials say no, but they suggest you learn to 'live with it.' It's going to be here a long time. The dollar bill has such a temporary life it may be replaced entirely by the Anthony coin at some point in the future. The average life of a dollar bill is 18 months, that of an Anthony coin 15 years.

Why shouldn't popular vote decide winner?

Efforts to abolish the Electoral College have been renewed. Should such a thing come about, direct balloting by the constituency would establish the identity of the incoming president.

Now it comes to light that some minority groups are for keeping the present system of determining the winner of the highest office in the land. The electoral college has been threatened with extinction many times over the years — it was a favorite topic for debate in school Civics classes half a century ago.

SPOKESMEN FOR some of the minority groups have been maintaining that abolition of the Electoral College would deprive them of political clout that is disproportionate to their numbers.

Consider the word "disproportionate." It, no doubt, is important that minority groups have and need a strong say in government. Often, it's like shouting into the wind, as far as they're concerned. It's as if their mouths are forming words but nothing is coming out. People, all too often, don't listen.

For minorities to speak out for a system which is blatantly biased, however, can only be looked upon as a sad inconsistency with their insistence on equality and fairness. Ultimately, such a stance is sure to undermine their credibility as a political voice.

The Electoral College, an election scheme structured to give certain groups of citizens special influence on popular elections, is an undemocratic anachronism capable of thwarting the people's will.

In several past elections, minuscule shifts in the popular vote of one state could have changed the outcome of the race itself.

In 1976, a sigh of relief went up when the Electoral College system functioned properly. Jimmy Carter won the presidency after getting 51 per cent of the popular vote and 297 electoral votes.

THE SYSTEM, HOWEVER, could easily have plunged the United States into political turmoil. That could have come about had there been a shift of 4,000 votes in Ohio and as many in Hawaii from Carter to Gerald Ford. Carter would still have had the lead in popular votes nation-wide, but he would have been on the outside looking in.

Such fears are more than conjecture. Twice in the last century, the electoral college awarded the presidency to men who did not win the majority of the popular votes.

Why are reform efforts continually stymied? Each year, someone finds fault with whatever system is proposed to replace the existing one.

Though there are certainly technical difficulties in establishing a system of direct voting; nonetheless, a one-person-one-vote system is a fair, equitable way consistent with the democratic goals of the nation.

Minorities who argue otherwise are likely to lose political credibility.

The system of determining the winner in a popular vote works in other countries. Why couldn't it work here?

Criticism is answer

Art Buchwald

SHANGHAI, China — The Chinese path to Marxism, Leninism and Socialism is strewn with criticism. In fact the key tenet to their system of government is to criticize themselves and each other, according to the principles of whoever is in power at the time.

Weekly meetings are held by whatever unit you have been assigned to, where you are expected to confess your own failures. No one is safe from self-criticism, and the object of the meetings is to clear the air, motivate the individual and how that in an egalitarian society nobody is perfect.

WHILE NOT ADVOCATING the Chinese form of government, I believe weekly self-criticism sessions could be very helpful in this country and might make everyone a better person.

Let us assume that all the people involved with the gas crisis in this country met once a week to confess their sins. The Chinese method would go something like this:

Oil executive: I am a stupid capitalist roader and have failed in my struggle to fulfill the oil quota goals set for us by our beloved Chairman Carter.

Government energy official: No, comrade, it is I who must take the blame for letting down the motherland. My worthless regulations and bureaucratic blundering have done nothing but impede the free flow of gasoline to the workers and peasants. I deserve to wear a dunce cap and be marched through the streets.

CONSUMER: YOU may try to take the blame for the gas shortage, comrades, but it is I, through my laziness, sly tendencies and privilege seeking, who has brought about the shortfall in fuel. I am guilty of naked materialism and lack of fortitude to sacrifice my own comfort for the good of the republic. Consider me a miserable rat nibbling away at our greatest resource.

Politician: All that you have said is true. But my inertia and personal interest, not to mention my failure to show leadership, have resulted in the gasoline drought. In trying to appease the bourgeois oil interests I failed the proletariat, setting class against class, and bringing about a state of anarchy that I will live with the rest of my life. Send me to a rice paddy so that I can learn from my mistakes.

Oil executive: No, no, no. I refuse to let anyone else take the blame for our woeful condition. In my desire to seek windfall profits, I took the ultra-right political line, holding down productivity, raising prices and exploiting the OPEC dictatorship, to reap short-term gains at the expense of the masses. If nothing else, I deserve to be tarred and nationalized.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL: What you say may be true, but that does not let me off the hook. My deplorable lapse of judgment in accepting false and inaccurate reports on your ability to produce fuel was the biggest contribution to the chaos and strife we face. If I wasn't going to get a pension in two years, I would be asking to be sent to a farm.

Consumer: I cannot allow the oil companies and the bureaucrats to take this disaster on their shoulders. You are innocent victims of a massive conspiracy by me and my ilk to bring about a counter-revolution to abolish the 55 m.p.h. speed rule. Take away my car and give me a bicycle until I can mend my ways.

Politician: I have listened to all of you and I have come to the conclusion that you are right.

Yes, you can have too little salt

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Please explain low sodium in the body. What is the cause and is there a treatment? My husband has it. — Mrs. G.C.J.

Sodium (salt to most) is one of many elements (substances found in nature) that the body needs to remain healthy. Most behave the same way. Too much or too little can cause problems. You tell me little, so I can only generalize.

Sodium is found in the blood fluid that bathes the cells of the body. The usual problem is too much of it, which leads to increased blood volume, lung congestion, and other forms of edema (eh-DEE-muh) throughout the body. For high blood pressure, doctors recommend limiting salt in all forms, chiefly through abandoning the salt shaker.

A severe sodium lack causes weakness, confusion, even loss of consciousness. Some people pass out if they engage too long in activity that causes much sweating and sudden salt loss.

Medical causes of low sodium include severe diarrhea or vomiting, also kidney disease or pituitary or adrenal gland problems. Those are the glands that control salt levels. Diuretics (water pills) may cause excess loss of sodium from the body, as it may with potassium, another of those vital elements. Extreme edema (excess fluid) may cause a low sodium reading, since the substance is diluted, so to speak.

An ordinary diet provides the sodium most people need (three to seven grams a day). Treatment for low sodium depends on the specific cause among those mentioned. For some, additional salt may be needed. For others, restriction of fluids may help. The doctor should advise.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My surgeon has told me I have a hiatal hernia. What I don't understand is his statement that I need surgery for it. He said he would go through my upper stomach. Is this a common type of surgery? — Mrs. H.A.

Most hiatal hernias do not require surgery. Some (about 15 per cent) do. The hernia is a bulging of a bit of the stomach upward into the gullet through the hiatus. The hiatus is the small opening provided for passage of the gullet tube (esophagus) to the stomach. It may be too large or weakened, causing the hernia.

Surgery is recommended when conservative treatment, such as antacids and elevation of the head of the bed at night, do not help relieve pain. The surgeon can reach the hernia area by way of the abdomen (not through the stomach) or through the upper chest. If you want to study further, see the booklet, "Hiatal Hernia: Eight Ways to Combat It." For a Copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

CONFIDENTIAL FOR T.O. — ARTERITIS is inflammation of an artery (blood vessel). ARTHRITIS is inflammation of a joint. No connection between the two words, but there may be between the two conditions. You can have one with the other. You may have misunderstood your doctor's words. Go back and get clarification.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have a problem with the sun. I get little welts. Am I allergic to it, and if so what can be done? — M.F.

Use the word "sensitive" rather than "allergic." You probably are sensitive. All I can suggest is very gradual exposure if you must sun at all. Too, there are good sun screen lotions that block out the ultraviolet

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a Christian, but I have had a great deal of difficulty with sickness. I get discouraged and depressed so easily now, and yet I thought Christians should always be peaceful and calm. Could it be that I am not really a believer? — R.S.

DEAR R.S.: Only you know whether or not you are really trusting Christ for your salvation, and whether or not you have committed your life to Him. If you have, the Bible assures you that you are a child of God (see I John 5:11-13).

I suspect that your doubts about your relationship to Christ reflect a spiritual problem which has grown because of the circumstances you have faced. Nowhere in the Bible are we promised that Christians will always be immune to difficulties, including illness. We are part of a sinful, fallen world and that means we have problems and difficult times. Furthermore, you should remember that sickness often opens the door to discouragement and depression. We all are affected emotionally by our physical condition.

rays. Some medicines can increase one's sensitivity to the sun. Ask your doctor about any you are taking.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What are Beau's lines? What causes them? — M.M.

They are transverse (crosswise) grooves in fingernails. They may be from poor manicuring technique or may appear after any serious illness. Once the cause is removed new nails grow in, minus the lines. Nutritional disturbance, drugs, flu, or other general body disturbances may cause Beau's lines. They disappear when the cause is removed and new nails grow.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can sunning have bad effects on varicose veins? — M.Z.

It won't aggravate the vein problem, but it may cause a local pigmentation of the skin and some swelling.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Ruble in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

But it does not mean that discouragement and doubt are inevitable or necessary. If we have learned the secret of committing everything that happens to us into God's hands, then these things do not need to touch us. We need to look beyond our circumstances, and see that we are still in God's loving hands.

Think of the Apostle Paul. Once, he was in a Roman prison, suffering for his faith in Christ. And yet he could say: "I have learned to be content whatever the circumstances. I know what it is to be in need, and I know what it is to have plenty. I have learned the secret of being content in any and every situation, whether well fed or hungry, whether living in plenty or in want. I can do everything through him who gives me strength" (Philippians 4:11-13, New International Version).

Turn your eyes to Christ every day. Read His Word and take its promises as your own. Learn to bring every detail of your life to Him in prayer. You will never be the same when you realize how much Christ loves you and takes care of you every day.

One of my leaders, Herald Editor Tommy Hart, who observes his birthday Monday, dropped the following note on my desk:

Write down your house number...double it...Add 5...Multiply by 50...Add your age...Add the number of days in a year...Subtract 615...The last 2 numbers in your answer is your true age — not what you (or I) tell everyone...The other digits will be your house number...

ALSO OBSERVING his birthday Monday is J.O. Sheid Jr., former left-handed printer, now working in a classified position with the Herald. J.O. provides an energy bulletin:

The driver of a tank car didn't have any fuel last weekend, but in Big Spring he did a thriving business at service stations selling "Out Of Gas" signs.

THAT CIRCULATIN' MAN, Gilbert Narbaiz who will live it up on his birthday next Saturday, said: "Until Skylab started falling all around, residents of Australia didn't know the real meaning of Down Under."

Texans are responding vigorously to Carter's pitch for energysaving. Several business executives in Big Spring already have taken off their coats and ties.

Once we begin getting solar energy in Texas, is there any chance of harnessing humidity power?

THAT HIGHWAY MAN, Nathan Dalton, who was taking a shower on a battleship when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor, observed:

President Carter is willing to step up his pace and go anywhere across the land carrying his message to the people: "We have to cut down on travel."

Dalton, who used to be my son's boss, sez sure, we can put a man on the moon, but does it follow that we can achieve solar power. "It might be easier to put more men on the moon," he lamented.

HERALD HEADLINER, Marie Homeyer, notes the government is predicting the new Susan B. Anthony coins will replace the $1 bill. "The $1 bill already has been replaced," she said. "By the $10 bill."

Marie, who used some of her valuable time to jot down in my new phone book number which I frequently dial, is a graduate of Texas A&M. There are very few Aggie jokes that she enjoys, including the very, very old ones.

However, here goes. Texas A&M had a basketball player who received four F's and one D.

Coach Shelby Metcalf said, "Son, it looks like you are spending too much time on one subject."

Herald word chaser, GiGi Hofer, resigned Friday to accept a similar position in Sioux Falls, S.D., said:

"I've met a few people in my time who were enthusiastic about hard work. It was just my luck that all of them happened to be men I was working for at the time."

Fast fingers Sandra Green, proud new mama who returned Wednesday to renew her task of making words for the Herald, says:

Surely there must be a way to assure gasoline supplies when they're needed. She asks: How about changing the weeks to Tuesday and Wednesday?

Plain confused

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The flight of the wretched "boat people," fleeing communist butchery in Vietnam, has made headlines around the world. But little has been reported about the suffering of the Cambodian people who never reached the boats — for the simple reason that the country was effectively sealed off from outsiders after the communist victory four years ago.

Perhaps no Indochinese nation has been so cruelly worked over by war and bloody political repression. The gentle, peace-loving Cambodians were dragged into the Vietnam War by the U.S. incursion of 1970, were subjected to unspeakable savagery under the communist fanatics of the Khmer Rouge, and then last year, were invaded and occupied by their ancient enemies, the Vietnamese.

WE HAVE TALKED to some of the few Cambodians who managed to escape to the United States since the Vietnamese takeover. At first, they said, the Cambodian people were relieved. Now they are fearful and confused. Neither the Vietnamese nor the Cambodian village councils they set up are in firm control; Khmer Rouge Premier Pol Pot's troops are still fighting a guerrilla war in the bush.

Typical of the confusion that prevailed in Cambodia was the entry of Vietnamese troops into the tiny northeastern village of Sisophon last January 10, three days after they took Phnom Penh. Chey Rith, a literature professor turned bicycle mechanic, was better informed than most villagers; he had been listening to a radio hidden in a friend's hut. At least he knew about the capital's fall.

Yet though his country had been at war for more than a year, Chey had no idea who the conquerors were. He thought Premier Lon Nol had returned to defeat the communists. Then at 10 a.m. that January day a friend ran into the village from the rice fields, flushed and frightened, to tell of the invaders' approach. "They are all Vietnamese!" he told the astonished Chey.

The initial apprehension was followed by relief. "We decided, well, we've got to get away from Pol Pot no matter what, even if it means the Vietnamese," a refugee told us.

"It was harvest time, and we suddenly had the freedom to go out and reap as much rice as we wanted and keep it ourselves," said a former metal merchant. But there was no order, just spreading chaos. Every morning the Cambodians fanned out over the countryside looking for food.

The Vietnamese invaders attempted to restore order in Cambodia. They set up their own committees and named their own officials. In at least one case, they lifted an entire administrative apparatus from a Vietnamese city and installed it in a similar city in Cambodia.

A MARKET ECONOMY — banned by Pol Pot in favor of a bartering system — has sprung up. The Cambodians are digging up the gold they hid from the Khmer Rouge and using it to purchase Vietnamese goods and medicine. It also costs whatever the market will bear to ride the new buses that are suddenly available.

Age-old ethnic disputes have flared up when Vietnamese troops, suffering from food shortages, have commandeered rice from the Cambodians. There have also been sporadic reports of physical abuse and rapes by the occupying soldiers. But this is gentle treatment compared to the slaughter that followed the Khmer Rouge conquest.

Recent intelligence reports indicate that the puppet Cambodian ruler, Heng Semrin, has complained to his Vietnamese masters about the shabby way his countrymen are being treated.

The hapless Cambodian people — torn between traditional hatred of the Vietnamese and fear of the Khmer Rouge butchers — don't know where to turn.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: President Carter's fast-talking national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, gave congressional leaders his sales pitch on the SALT II treaty the other day. He argued eloquently for Senate ratification of the Soviet-American agreement. Just as he was ratcheting his high point, Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., interrupted with a quiet question: "Have you read the treaty?" Brzezinski cleared his throat, smiled wanly and admitted he hadn't.

+ The liberal images of Democratic Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota and Frank Church of Idaho were carefully protected in a "Dear Colleague" letter they signed urging fellow senators to support the federally subsidized Civilian Marksman Program. The letter mentioned that the program is supported by such apple-pie groups as the Boy Scouts and the 4H Clubs. What it didn't mention was the program's biggest supporter — the National Rifle Association.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI: John Connally, the Democrat-turned-Republican presidential contender, planned a recent campaign foray into California. He encountered massive apathy — little interest, minimal support. He quietly canceled the trip on the pretense that he had to attend to urgent law business at home... California's Governor Jerry Brown, an accomplished political chameleon, is projecting a liberal and conservative image at the same time. He maintains his liberal look by appointing left-leaning liberals to top posts and adopting some of their pet projects. But he shows his conservative side by hammering against government spending and high taxes.

Vaccination enforcement key to rabies control

EAGLE PASS, Texas (AP) — Somehow it just doesn't look right. The usually dog-infested streets of Eagle Pass and its Mexican sister city of Piedras Negras are eerily empty of strays.

That's about the only outward indication that this poverty-stricken border area has been stricken with a rare, deadly outbreak of rabies. Three children died, one of whom was infected on the American side of the Rio Grande.

Officials in this city of 20,000 point out, however, that the empty streets are just as obvious an indication that they've won. It's been three weeks since a rabid dog was found in Eagle Pass, prompting embattled City Manager Roberto Gonzalez to say Friday, "I feel very, very relieved."

Gonzalez and other officials also hastened to warn other American cities to heed Eagle Pass' misfortune and not be left vulnerable to rabies by public and governmental apathy.

"Other cities can't take this lightly," said Gonzalez. "It's a serious situation because a community can become apathetic and dogs will not be vaccinated."

"Is it a potential problem for any city," said Dr. Hans Peterson, the only veterinarian in Maverick County. "The pet owners must get their animals vaccinated. But the key is enforcement. The governments must cooperate with the veterinarians, enforce the laws and pick up those dogs that aren't vaccinated.

"We had less than 30 percent of our dogs vaccinated and you see what happened to us. Officials in any city can find out their dog population, see how many they've got vaccinated and figure out their own chances of this happening," he added.

More than 600 stray dogs — 14 of them rabid — were destroyed in Eagle Pass. About 50 of those were shot after evading capture. More than 90 percent the remaining 6,000 dogs are now vaccinated — many after state officials went door-to-door giving free vaccinations. Seventy residents, including Peterson, have been forced to take rabies shots.

In Piedras Negras, a reported 8,000 unvaccinated dogs were summarily gunned down by Mexican officials. It led one enterprising merchant there to bring in puppies from rural areas to sell for a dollar apiece because, "I heard there was a dog shortage here."

Piedras Negras officials, however, have refused to release any more information for fear that the news of the rabies outbreak would cripple the tourist business on which they depend.

A state law requiring rabies vaccinations of pets in Texas won't take effect until Jan. 1, 1980, but Eagle Pass has had a similar ordinance for the 10 years Peterson has been in the city. Maverick County had no such ordinance until after rabies struck.

"The ordinance was haphazardly enforced. There was little enforcement and cooperation. It has to be enforced to buffer ourselves from rabies in wild animals," said Peterson, who added that the only real vaccination programs in recent years were the clinics he held about five times per year. Those vaccinations cost $3, he said.

Gonzalez, who has been city manager for about two years, admitted the enforcement of the ordinance has been lax in the past, but blamed much of it on a manpower shortage in the animal control division. That force has since been tripled from four to 12, he said.

"It had never happened before and nobody thought it would. What was there to make anybody think it would happen this year?" he said.

Peterson and Gonzalez said, however, that the apathy did not lie solely with the government. "The people had an 'it-can-never-happen-to-me' type of attitude," said Peterson. "They didn't realize the responsibility of owning a pet. They didn't realize they were protecting their own families by vaccinating their pets."

All three of the victims — an unidentified 9-year-old boy in Piedras Negras; 8-year-old Gerardo Castano, who lived in Eagle Pass but was bitten in Piedras Negras, and 8-year-old Marianita Garza of Eagle Pass — were bitten by unvaccinated pet dogs, authorities said.

Those dogs got the disease after being bitten either by a rabid wild animal, such as a skunk, or a stray that had been bitten by a wild animal, said Dr. Charles Webb, chief of the communicable diseases section of the State Department of Health. There has been an increase in the skunk population around the Eagle Pass-Piedras Negras area in recent years, he added.

"There are so many skunks and so many of them have rabies and there are so many dogs in the area that we have a problem this year," said Webb, who added that it is "extremely rare" for a human to contract the disease.

Since 1960, rabies in humans has appeared at a rate of about twice a year in the United States, said Dr. Larry Anderson of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Symptoms in humans vary widely, but victims often appear agitated, are fearful of water and may drool. It also causes a fatal inflammation of the brain. Only three persons are known to have survived after contracting rabies, CDC officials said.

By vaccinating pets, a "protective wall" of immunization is formed, said Peterson. That is even more necessary along the Mexican border because of extremely poor rabies control in Mexico, he added.

Ironically enough, officials say Eagle Pass is now probably the most protected city in the state because of its high percentage of vaccinated dogs.

But what about a year from now when the current vaccinations expire?

"That's a tough question," said Peterson. "I guess it will be next year's first clinic before we know if anybody learned anything."

PRINCESS GRACE RICHARD NIXON

Nixons getting closer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon says he and his wife are moving to New York in November to be close to their family. "You must go where your family is — particularly when you reach my age," the former president said.

Nixon, 66, said his daughter, Julie, plans to move from California to Pennsylvania once her husband, David Eisenhower, completes a book on his grandfather, former president Dwight Eisenhower. Nixon's other daughter, Tricia, already lives in New York.

"With Tricia living in New York, and Julie coming, Mrs. Nixon and I wanted to be close to our children and grandchildren," he added.

Linen success surprising

FORT MILL, S.C. (AP) — Princess Grace of Monaco says she was "a little bit" surprised by the success of a line of bathroom and bedroom linen decorated with several of her original floral designs.

"I didn't expect it would generate quite so much attention," said the Oscar-winning former actress and wife of Prince Rainier Grimaldi of Monaco.

At a news conference after a tour of several textile plants in the Fort Mill area, Princess Grace said seeing her floral collages translated into designer sheets was "overwhelming and very, very interesting."

As Grace Patricia Kelly, she starred in about a dozen movies in the 1950s, and won an Academy Award in 1956 for "The Country Girl."

BILLY CARTER MRS. CHIANG KAI-SHEK

Widow condemns expulsion

NEW YORK (AP) — The widow of Nationalist Chinese leader Chiang Kai-shek has condemned Vietnam for expelling thousands of Chinese-Vietnamese refugees and has called on "all men and women with heart and conscience to stand up and be counted."

Madame Chiang made the appeal in a newspaper advertisement appearing in Friday's New York Times, The Washington Post and Los Angeles Times.

"The wave upon wave of massive expulsion of people, especially those of ethnic Chinese descent, from Communist Vietnam is not only an act of genocide but also a diabolical policy devised to extort money and valuables from those who are banished from Vietnam without rhyme or reason and is motivated by greed," she wrote in English and Chinese.

Billy returns to circuit

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — Billy Carter says he is returning to the celebrity circuit after a layoff forced by personal and legal problems.

President Carter's brother, once billed as one of America's great beer-drinkers, said his mail suggests interest in his personal appearances won't be hurt by his well publicized treatment for alcoholism.

"From the letters, I think there may be more interest than before," he said over breakfast at an Americus motel.

Last year, Carter was paid up to $5,000 an appearance for lending his name and face to various events.

Aug. 15 deadline approaching for Land Heritage Program

AUSTIN — With the August 15 deadline fast approaching for registration in the 1979 Texas Family Land Heritage Program, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown today reminded potential honorees to submit their application forms for consideration. "We are looking for Texas farms and ranches which have been in continuous agricultural production by one family for 100 years or more," Commissioner Brown explained, "so that we may honor their contributions to the productivity of the state." Since the inception of the program in 1974, some 1,245 agricultural properties have been enrolled in the honors program, sponsored by the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA).

TDA and histories of each property are included in the Texas Family Land Heritage Registry published by the Department.

"The accomplishments of the Land Heritage families and contributions of their lands cannot be overstated," Commissioner Brown said. "The Land Heritage Program provides one means of honoring this agricultural productivity which is the backbone of the Texas economy."

Families who may be eligible for the program may obtain registration forms from their county judges, county Historical Commission chairmen, or by writing the Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711. Once the completed forms have been certified by the county judge, they should then be mailed to the TDA Austin office for final consideration.

Pilot program for elderly

Food stamps to eat out?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Low-income older Texans in three urban areas will be able to buy restaurant meals with food stamps under a pilot program approved by the State Board of Human Resources.

Board chairman Hilmar G. Moore of Richmond voted for it but said he hoped the public wouldn't get a mistaken idea that "instead of the Cadillac thing we are sending them to the top restaurants."

The board, formerly the State Board of Public Welfare, still hasn't forgotten the old "Welfare Cadillac" song.

"We want the media to understand, we are not sending them to breakfast at Brennan's," posh restaurants in Dallas and Houston with the same name as a famous eatery in New Orleans, Moore said.

"Yes, sir, we'll have no Brennan's," said Merle Springer, deputy state commissioner of human resources.

The "Food Stamp Dine-Out Program" will be tested for six months in Abilene, Austin and the Houston-Galveston area, starting Oct. 1. If it works, it will be expanded.

Federal law and regulations allow certain eligible persons, including the elderly, to use food stamps to buy meals in authorized restaurants.

Springer said the human resources department would contract with certain restaurants to prepare and serve low-cost meals to persons 60 and over and their spouses.

"We feel they would be able to provide for certain individuals the balanced, nutritious meals they may not be able to prepare for themselves," he said.

Similar programs have succeeded in other states, Springer told the board.

The board also committed itself to cutting its staff by some 1,300 jobs by Aug. 31, 1981, in line with a legislative request that all state agencies pare their payrolls by 5 percent a year.

It adopted a "reduction in force" rule that does away with seniority as a prime consideration and substitutes productivity as the standard for judging which employees get laid off first.

Seniority would be a consideration only in breaking ties between employees with equal efficiency ratings.

In other action, the board: —Established maximum fees it will pay dentists who treat welfare patients. It will pay up to $36 for a stainless steel crown, $6 for an examination without x-ray and $18 for extraction of a tooth.

—Issued a new rule cutting off welfare checks to persons who don't cooperate with the Work Incentive (WIN) Program for as long as they refuse to cooperate. Old rules, struck down by the courts, provided a 90-day suspension of welfare payments the first time and a six-month suspension the second time.

To block Stacy Dam

LCRA files suit Friday

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Lower Colorado River Authority has filed suit to block construction of the $60 million Stacy Dam and Reservoir on the Colorado below Ballinger.

The suit was filed Friday in 126th State District Court here.

It challenges the permit issued for the project by the Texas Water Commission.

The LCRA challenged the project during 18 months of hearings before the commission.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District wants to build the dam 26 miles southeast of Ballinger mainly to provide drinking water for San Angelo, Midland, Stanton, Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder.

But the LCRA fears the project will endanger water supplies farther down the Colorado by holding back more than 36 billion gallons a year that normally flow into the LCRA's Highland Lakes chain.

The LCRA releases some of its impounded water to rice farmers farther down the river.

The LCRA also fears the reduction of the Colorado's flow below Stacy Dam would lessen the Highland Lakes' value for recreation and for generating hydroelectric power.

But the water commission accepted evidence that downstream lake levels would not be affected.

County's gross sales total $225,638,802

Gross sales in Howard County amounted to $225,638,802 during the first quarter of 1979, according to figures released State Comptroller Bob Bullock the past week.

A total of 802 outlets reported within the county. Gross taxable sales were $218,009,470. Deductions amounted to $194,907,399.

Use tax purchases for the county totaled $3,725,297 while the amount subject to tax reached $26,827,368.

With 12 outlets reporting, Glasscock County reported gross sales of 473,255, gross taxable sales at $307,134, deductions amounting to 160,251, use tax purchases totaling $21,046 and the amount subject to tax $167,929.

Martin County had 68 outlets reporting, with gross sales amounting to $10,794,142, gross taxable sales at $10,567,694, deductions amounting to $9,739,471, use tax purchases at $7,754 and the amount subject to tax at $835,977.

Mitchell County's figures:
Reporting outlets, 180; gross sales, $12,549,858; gross taxable sales, $11,858,012; deductions, $8,624,573; use tax purchases, $71,014; and amount subject to tax, $3,304,453.

Borden County:
Outlets reporting, 2; gross sales, $295; gross taxable sales, $295; deductions, none; use tax purchases, none; amount subject to tax, $295.

Dawson County:
Reporting outlets, 362; gross sales, $30,986,474; gross taxable sales, $28,111,067; deductions, $18,089,649; use tax purchases, $138,380; and amount subject to tax, $10,159,796.

Bullock said gross sales in Texas for the first quarter amounted to $48.5 billion, a $6.1 billion increase over the same three month period last year.

Bullock said that a sales tax analysis during 1978 showed that gross sales in the state exceeded $186 billion.

Railroad safety

Texas near the top

By The Associated Press

Early one February evening in 1977, a 39-car freight train derailed in northeast Dallas, igniting liquefied petroleum gas and spewing flames high into the evening sky from two ruptured tanker cars.

Though sensational and long remembered, such crises are rare, state and federal officials say.

The potential is always present, since more explosive and toxic materials are shipped by rail in Texas than in any other state. But officials say Texas railroads apparently are covering all the safety angles.

"I think they're doing a pretty good job. They really move a tremendous amount of hazardous material with very few accidents," said Ed Kasparik, a state rail planner with the Texas Railroad Commission.

"The heart of the petrochemical industry is around the Texas coast, coming out of here and going in all directions. It's really a wonder Texas has avoided a major disaster such as hit some of the other states," said Kasparik.

"It's a reflection to some degree that Texas railroads are in pretty good shape and aren't as undermaintained as they are in other parts of the country," he added.

Of all U.S. hazardous material shipped by rail in 1977, the latest year figures were available, 19 percent originated in Texas. But of 133 accidents, only 11—or 8 percent—were in Texas.

In 1978, 500 derailments were reported in Texas, an average of more than one a day, but officials said the total includes a number of very minor incidents "of consequence only to those in the local yard."

Jimmy Banks, public relations director for the Texas Railroad Association in Austin, said the railroads have to be safety conscious.

"Any time they have a derailment, the cost of it comes right off the bottom line. They have to pay it, the damage to the cars and the track and everything involved," Banks said.

"There's no way to eliminate derailments entirely, but the railroads try as hard as they can to prevent them. It's just bad business to have accidents."

The Federal Railroad Administration has commissioned a study of the density of hazardous material transportation related to the density of population.

Robert Folden of the FRA's hazardous materials division said preliminary reports indicate Texas will be near the top. At the head of the list of heavily traveled corridors, he said, will likely be those moving from Texas-Louisiana to Florida, from Texas-Louisiana to the Indiana-Michigan area, and up the East Coast.

More and more hazardous material is being shipped by train, Folden said, because "it's cheaper to ship by rail. Most of the chemicals are used in manufacturing processes, so they need the larger containers."

Banks said 70 percent of Texas' hazardous materials are shipped by rail, but only 9 percent of accidents involving hazardous materials are by rail. The other 91 percent involve trucks on the highways.

Kasparik agrees.

"It just so happens that when they have a derailment, it gets far more sensational, people are evacuated, and that makes news. Where the same day, they might have half a dozen truck accidents, and they aren't that newsworthy and get right on by," Kasparik said.

Among the derailments recently were four within a 20-day span near Tyler in East Texas.

A switch engine rolled from a side track last Feb. 6, on a cold, rainy afternoon, and sideswiped a freight train, knocking 30 cars off the track at Overton. Townspeople were evacuated for 90 minutes until it could be determined no leakage had occurred among the eight derailed cars containing propylene oxide, which officials said becomes toxic when it comes into contact with water.

Residents of Troup, a town nearby, were evacuated on Feb. 24 when six cars carrying a dangerous material derailed.

Earlier this month, two trains derailed near Marshall. One left 22 cars off the track just north of Marshall; the other left 21 cars off the track between Marshall and Longview.

Four accidents, so close together in time and distance, are unusual, said Robert Johnson of the Federal Rail Administration office in Fort Worth. He pointed out that only one of the four was caused by bad track.

"I've been down the highway before, and you don't always know why highway accidents happen," said Willard Schultz of Dallas, public relations official for Missouri Pacific Railroad.

"It's the same way with trains and derailments. Anytime you have anything involved of a mechanical nature, there's any number of things that can go wrong," Schultz said.

All of the Texas Railroad officials agree it's rarely the track that's the culprit. Millions of dollars are spent in checking the track and correcting deficiencies.

Many of the derailments—and the hardest kind to avoid, Schultz said—involve what he calls train dynamics.

"A pretty thorough study has been made as to the effect of operations of trains and their reaction under certain speeds and handling to determine just how a train does react," Schultz said.

"For example, slack action. That's the action between connecting cars, and sometimes that can result in an accident taking place. At slow speeds, you've seen a sort of wobbling from side to side of cars, and that's not due to the track but to the effect of train dynamics. At faster speeds, the train personnel can control the train better."

On the other hand, if the train goes too fast, or if the train is too long, unexpected conditions can bring on other problems when train workers try to stop the train.

"We have gone so far as to limit speed of movement of chemical trains to no more than 40 mph, and we limit the length of the train to no more than 74 cars," Schultz said.

"The fewer number of cars, the more control you have over the train. And the chemical cars, they're the big hopper cars for the most part. They're pretty good size, carry a lot of weight and are double insulated, too, and that makes them heavier."

Millions of dollars invested in maintenance, and abandonment of old tracks, are credited for Texas railroad tracks being in the best condition they have ever been in, officials said.

Several of the railroads have highly sophisticated, specially built railroad cars costing $625,000 and more, which detect irregularities to within a thousandth of an inch. Railroad workers can operate them at speeds of up to 70 mph.

On the light side

Dollar lower in Gretna

GRETTNA, La. (AP) — While some merchants are complaining that their clerks are mistaking the new Susan B. Anthony dollars for quarters, a Louisiana bank has decided to make a bargain out of them. Eighty cents gets you a dollar.

"No disrespect to the soundness of the dollar is intended," said Russell F. Haas of Guaranty Bank & Trust Co. "Perhaps the psychological timing is bad, what with President Carter's current monetary problems, but it's an old Guaranty Bank custom to have a 'money sale' when we open a new branch."

Haas said an uncirculated Susan B. Anthony will be offered — one to a customer — for 80 cents at a new Gretna branch July 26 and 27.

"We feel the Susan B. Anthony coin is a great tribute to a great American woman and to all American women," Haas said.

Poodle baffles solicitors

SEATTLE (AP) — Herminey Hazington is David Harrington's secret weapon in his fight against telephone solicitors.

Three years ago, Harrington changed the name on his telephone listing to Herminey Hazington. Herminey is his female Poodle-terrier.

Since Harrington's friends know his telephone number or have been told to look under Hazington, he figures a caller who asks for Mrs. Hazington is selling something.

He explained his two-pronged strategy:

"I usually say, 'I'm sorry but Mrs. Hazington isn't home. She's in Olympia lobbying for a bill to impose criminal penalties on anyone soliciting by telephone.' Then I hang up."

If Harrington is feeling especially mean, he cuts the solicitor short with, "Oh, isn't that too bad. She died yesterday."

Bless this car and its tank

NESQUEHONING, Pa. (AP) — For 46 years, motorists from far and wide have traveled to this coal country town annually to have the Rev. Monsignor Agnello Angelini bless their cars, but this year he plans a new twist.

"I'm going to add a prayer after the blessing that those who come have enough gas at least to get home," Angelini, 79, said Friday. "You know, to give them heavenly assurance."

Beginning Sunday and lasting for a week, motorists will park around the lifesized statue of St. Christopher outside Angelini's Lady of Mt. Carmel Church to receive the Roman Catholic priest's blessing.

"I say a prayer for the safety of those who drive in the car, especially for the driver," he said. "I sprinkle the car with holy water and I hand the driver mementos of the occasion."

In return, motorists often make small donations of money, which is given to the poor, he said.

By CAROL HUNTER
It is summer, and the familiar bright, shiny new car coming toward a Howard County resident marked "student driver" can be seen on our highways and byways, but, hopefully, not in the ditches. Although, through the 24 years in which C.W. Tanner, Supervisor for Driver Education in the Big Spring Schools, has been connected with the program there have been a few of these incidents. Since the days when his parents and grandparents learned to drive, the modern student is faced with more complex requirements for obtaining a license. In the good old days, little darlings presented themselves to the County Judge, at age 14, having practiced well, up and down the driveway, and they were granted permission to take the driver's test.

The automobiles, visible on our streets, include not only Big Spring, but also Forsan, Coahoma and Garden City schools. They represent only one-half of the extensive course of Driver Training, which is now highly regulated through our schools by the Texas Education Agency. There is cooperation with the Department of Public Safety, but the guidelines, rigid requirements, and vast amounts of paper work are products of the TEA. Of course, the age limit has been raised to 16 for obtaining the driver's license, but a learner's permit is issued after a student completes the 32 hours of classroom instruction and passes the written test. A student must be 15 on or before the first class. At one time, Driver Education was offered through the Study Halls. After those were deleted, and after a brief unsuccessful encounter with offering it through the PE program, the only solution was to schedule the course during spring quarter before or after school, at such a convenient hour as 7 a.m. There is a maximum of 35 in each class. The course must include prescribed clock hours for such topics as the driver and the pedestrian, automobile and preventive maintenance, highway traffic laws, driving procedures, first aid and emergency procedures. Practical subjects such as fuel economy are covered at this juncture. The student will see films, take tests, and, upon receiving his learner's permit, is able to drive with a licensed driver over 18 in the front seat.

Before Webb's closure, the Big Spring Schools would educate as many as 500 students during the spring and summer programs. The numbers are down this year. 390 enrolled and 343 will finish the program. The program is offered at a cost of $45 this year, but will surely go up next with inflation and gasoline prices. It is self-supporting except for the classroom phase which is budgeted through the school system.

Behind the wheel instruction is offered at one hour classes, numerous hours a day, again, starting at 7 a.m., for a three-week period. Three sessions are scheduled per summer. A student must spend 6 hours behind the wheel, and twelve hours in observation. Each hour there will be 3 students plus an instructor per car. Scheduling is a problem since family vacations and summer jobs are often involved. Instructors are degreed personnel with a college minor in Driver Education, usually his or her major was PE, and the minor was acquired with the driver education and safety requirements.

Car dealers loan the cars to the Big Spring schools. This summer there are nine cars, five are from Pollard Chevrolet, three from Bob Brock Ford and one Jack Lewis Buick. Other school districts have their own. Big Spring does not have to lease, as is the usual procedure throughout the state. Instead, the use is free by an oral agreement with the dealers. This is due to the good rapport between the department and the local car dealers through the years. Big Spring always maintains the cars in a superior way. The warranty work is done by the dealers, but the cars are never driven by the instructors for personal use other than lunch break. Kept at the Bus Barn over night, they are checked daily and oil changes etc. are made regularly. Each session will add approximately 1500 miles to the cars, and the dealers find that they are easy to sell, often to some of the students who have driven them. Cars are equipped with dual controls. Since most have automatic transmissions there is only a brake, with standard shift—brake and clutch. The instructor has inside mirrors, one set on the driver's eye.

There are mandatory hours set aside for rural and urban driving as well as off-street, parallel parking. A student having difficulty with driving may receive special help from Mr. Tanner. One of his less-fond recollections is of such a case, years ago. While giving an extra session, and just as Tanner was thinking that the young lady was getting the hang of things, she jumped a curb, kept going, crashing through the wall of a house, careening past an amazed woman, calmly sewing. Reeling to a stop, the car was literally up a telephone pole. No one was injured. In other near misses, Mr. Tanner has been involved at 180 degrees turns negotiated while traveling down the highway, a collision between two driver ed cars, one having run a stop sign. He states he is shocked by nothing. Recalling the last accident involving a student driver, Mr. Tanner was happy to note that it had happened several years ago. A student hit the gas instead of the brake at a stop sign, plowing into and disfiguring a Winnebago, due to take its owners on a vacation the next day, and totaling the car. Fortunately, a student has never had to be hospitalized, nor an instructor.

By the way, they do not receive hazardous duty pay. Mr. Tanner is quick to say that 80 per cent of the accidents involving student drivers is NOT the fault of the student. Most mishaps occur while the vehicle is at a dead stop, and hit by another party.

These months may be trying times for parents who are not fortunate enough to be equipped with dual controls or large amounts of patience. One fearful father recently concluded his letter to the insurance company thusly, "... Should you choose to insure this young lady, who, although having limited experience, knows all, I would applaud your bravery and courage." Reckless driving or ineptness at the wheel is not totally preventable by the Driver Training Course, but we have come a long way from the self taught era where the student worried only about how to pass the parallel parking, in days before power steering. Should one complete the course without expert driving skills, it is not the lack of scientific and well-planned exposure... and courage from instructors and parents alike.

T. WILLARD NEEL PRESENTS PLAQUE TO ROLAND H. WHITE
Looking on it Waymon Clark, manager of local firm

Safety awards presented to Neel employees here

Safety awards were presented to several employees of Neel's Transfer at a banquet hosted by the firm at the Brass Nail Restaurant here Saturday night.

Roland H. White was rewarded with a wrist watch for 30 years of driving without an unavoidable accident. Rolan is now a supervisor with the company.

Tom Traylor Sr., now in semi-retirement, was given a diamond tie tack and cuff links for 27 years of driving without a preventive accident.

Safety awards (pins) went to Waymon Clark for 20 years service, Roland E. White for five years, Craig Clark for three and Larry Freeman for two years. Clark is now manager of the firm.

Nona Kennedy and Susie Yancey were also honored for five years service as packers.

E.P. (Pep) Driver presented the awards on behalf of the insurance firm which represents Neel's.

TOM TRAYLOR

Mr. and Mrs. T. Willard Neel, now in semi-retirement, started the business in 1946. Joe B. Neel, T. Willard Neel's late father, was the first member of the family to start a moving van business there. That was in 1911.

Neel's now operates two warehouses here. Together, they embrace 25,000 square feet of space.

Neel's has been the local agent for North American Van Lines since March 1949.

They saved in May Adopted by 3 sparrows

By EILEEN McGUIRE
Eveett and Lois Hood, 4103 West Highway, have apparently been adopted for keeps by three sparrows who they helped rescue in May.

The Hood's son, Charles Hood, N. Birdwell Lane, found the birds after moving the T-hangar from the County Airport to Industrial Park in early May.

Mrs. Hood assumes that all of the activity of moving the hangar scared the mother bird away. Abandoned in their nest were three baby sparrows, too young to fly or hunt for their own food.

Between the two families, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hood and Charles and Dot Hood, the birds were kept alive.

The birds began their domestic lives living inside of a three-pound coffee can kept warm in a sink. The featherless sparrows were fed hamburger by hand by Charles and Dot Hood, who faithfully got up each night to tend to the birds' midnight feedings.

When the birds began to grow, it was time for them to go into a cage.

"My son was going to put them in a cage and hang it in his back yard, but he was afraid the cats would get them," Lois Hood said, "so he brought them over here."

Three weeks after the birds took up residency in Everett Hood's back yard, they were strong enough to survive on their own.

"We turned them loose, but they keep coming back. There's two sitting on the fence right now," Mrs. Hood said Saturday.

The cage, with an open door, still hangs outside and the birds continue to return.

"On the Fourth of July, we looked out at noon and there they were, all three of them,

PREFER SECURITY OF CAGE...SOMETIMES Sparrows still like their childhood home sitting inside the cage," Mrs. Hood said.

The birds aren't entirely domesticated, according to Mrs. Hood. They are afraid of strangers. But apparently, they haven't yet forgotten the hands that kept them alive.

And, for the time being anyway, they don't intend to.

Board chairman resigns

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Harry Provence has seen many changes in Texas public higher education in his 14 years on the Texas College Coordinating Board.

Provence, board chairman the past six years, will step down Sept. 1, two years before his term expires. He will retire Oct. 1 as editor-in-chief of the Waco Tribune-Herald.

He will be 65 on Sept. 9 and plans to travel overseas for a year. Gov. Bill Clements will name Provence's replacement.

Provence said he suggested Clements replace him with someone "not overly biased toward any one" state university or college.

The coordinating board supervises public higher education programs in Texas. The board also ac-credits degree programs at private schools. Provence was an original member of the board created in 1965 under Gov. John Connally.

Since then, the state has seen expansion of the University of Texas System, development of two-year, upper-level centers and additional medical schools at Texas Tech University and Texas A&M University.

Pupils can pre-register at IHM Catholic school

Students can now pre-register for the fall classes at the Immaculate Heart of Mary School, which will begin classes late next month. Formal registration will begin Aug. 27.

A total of 85 students have already pre-registered and indications are enrollment will reach 115 or 120, slightly more than last year.

Classes kindergarten through Grade Six will be offered. Adrian Saldivar is the school principal. A negotiated tuition is being installed by the school this year.

The school is accredited with the Texas Education Agency, is a member of the National Catholic Education Association, the Texas Association of Non-Public Schools, is affiliated with the Catholic schools of the Diocese of San Angelo and is associated with the Education Service Center — Region XVIII. In order to enroll in kindergarten, children must be five or older before Sept. 1.

The school was founded in 1961 and was staffed by sisters of the Most Immaculate Conception until 1976. The first lay principal was appointed in 1976.

New programs planned for the new semester are "Servants of the Lord" and "Knights of the Altar."

Supervisors also plan to start a student council, a library reading club, a safety patrol, a choir and troops of Brownies, girl scouts and cub scouts.

A back-to-school night for parents is planned in September.

Bustamonte behind bars

George Bustamonte, was arrested Friday in Abilene for possible probation violations. He is being held in Howard County jail without bond on the authority of District Judge Jim Gregg.

Bustamonte entered a guilty plea in 118th District Court May 31, 1977 entering a building with the intent of committing a theft. He received a ten-year probated sentence.

He was arrested in Abilene on suspicion of delinquent probation fees amounting to $60 and two public drunk charges.

Irwin falters on final day

Ballesteros captures British Open

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP) — Severiano Ballesteros, a Spaniard in a hurry, won the British Open Golf Championship today by hanging on grimly while American stars like Jack Nicklaus, Hale Irwin and Ben Crenshaw faltered on the last lap.

Ballesteros, 22, and plagued with back trouble, finished with a one-under-par 283 for 72 holes in a championship marked by high scoring throughout.

He was the only player to finish with a sub-par total on Lytham's 6,822-yard, par 71 course. His nearest rivals, Nicklaus and Crenshaw, both finished on 286, two over par and 3 strokes behind. And on the final day Ballesteros was the only player really to tame the wind buffeting down the back nine.

And his victory meant the "Lytham jinx" on Americans was still very much alive. Not since Bobby Jones won the Open in 1926 has an American won in the five times the tournament has been held at Lytham since.

Ballesteros started the day at even-par 213, two strokes behind Hale Irwin, the current U.S. Open champion, a stroke ahead of Nicklaus and two strokes ahead of Crenshaw.

But while the others — including Australia's Rodger Davis, who led for a brief time — faded in the teeth of the notorious back nine, Ballesteros kept firing his long drives ambitiously down the narrow fairways with their thick clusters of rough ready to catch anything off line.

It was a day of fluctuating fortunes, with the lead swinging among Ballesteros, Crenshaw and Davis, the 28-year-old unheralded Australian.

But it was the steady Ballesteros, showing remarkable powers of recovery, who went the entire round without going over par.

The overnight leader was Irwin, at 2-under par 211, but he very quickly lost touch with the lead after he took a double-bogey 6 on the second hole. He never recovered from that and took five more bogeys on the back nine to finish with a 5-over-par 289.

Midway through the round Davis started to make a run after he turned the first nine in 32, three under par for the round, to go 1 under par overall.

Four steady pars coming home kept Davis in the lead — sometimes on his own, sometimes with Ballesteros, sometimes with Crenshaw. But the "fearsome five" — the last five holes on the back nine that spoiled the cards of most of the superstars — took their toll and Davis bogeyed four of them to end way back at 288.

Neither could Crenshaw keep up the pace, starting 2 over par, he turned in a 2-under 33 and picked up a stroke coming in before the back nine hit him hard with first a bogey 5, then a double bogey on the 17th, when his tee shot landed in the crowd, his second in a bunker and he took 4 to reach the green.

Nicklaus, who started at 214, one behind Ballesteros and three behind Irwin, had a bad start with a bogey on the opening hole and another midway through the front nine. But he still kept within sight of the leaders and looked to be a contender right up to the 11th, when a birdie put him one over par.

But then a couple of bogeys on the par 5 13th and at 15 pushed him back and although he clawed back a stroke with a birdie on the 16th, he was by then too far behind to dent Ballesteros' lead.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

INTENSE MOMENT — Severiano Ballesteros of Spain watches a putt fall just short of the cup in action at the British Open yesterday. Ballesteros rallied past Hale Irwin to record his first British Open title in his young career.

American League advances to All-Star finals

Chris Lamb hurled a one-hitter and benefitted from a 14-hit attack from his teammates as the American League All-Stars raced to a 13-4 victory over Midland Mid-City in Little League District III action Saturday night. The game was played at the American League Park.

The AL victory sets the stage for a Monday night championship affair at the American League Park with defending tournament champion Lamesa. Lamesa routed Midland Western on Saturday night.

The AL struck for three runs in the first inning on hits by Jay Pirkle, Lamb, Doug

The American League had Walker and Chris Harwood, but the Mid City All-Stars struck for three runs in their half of the second on Lamb's wildness.

But Harwood, David Shortes and Jason Farthing scored to open the third inning as the AL regained the lead by an 8-3 count before the side was retired.

After that, it was simply a matter of how much the final margin was to be, as the AL gradually added to their lead. Lamb also began overpowering the Mid City hitters at this stage, as he struck out six of seven consecutive hitters at one point.

advanced into Saturday night's round by defeating Midland North Central on Friday night by a score of 4-1.

Jay Pirkle hurled a no-hitter in the contest for the AL, allowing the only North Central run when he walked in a run in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Dough Walker and Chris Lamb accounted for all of the American League runs in the contest, as each blasted a home run. Walker's round tripper was the most effective, coming with two men on base.

Brad Hickman absorbed the loss for North Central. Lamesa advanced into Saturday night's semifinals by defeating the Big Spring National All-Stars by a score of 7-3 on Friday night.

Jimmy Don Whitley smashed a two-run homer in the second inning off losing pitcher Mark Walker to key the Lamesa attack. Winning pitcher Gilbert Arredondo aided his own cause with a double. Other extra base hits for the winners included Mario Baltazar's double and Jerry Mason's triple.

Both Arredondo and Walker fanned 14 hitters in the contest.

Seaver changing, but still winning

ST. LOUIS (AP) — As might have been predicted, Tom Seaver is discovering new ways to glean the most from a major league career already brimming with achievement.

Evidence of it was displayed Friday night. And now, the wonder is, to what new heights will a change of style catapult the 34-year-old Cincinnati Reds' right-hander?

Seaver, a stockily built threetime winner of the National League Cy Young Award, earned most of his acclaim by blowing down hitters with blistering fastballs — the major impetus of his 229 career victories.

But against the St. Louis Cardinals, the pattern was altered. He fanned one and walked none. And during an efficient performance, he baffled the Cards 3-0 on six singles.

Seaver, who in the process became only the 16th moundsman to record 50 lifetime shutouts, afterward was pleased most by a changeup he has worked hard to perfect.

"But if I'd had that sucker (changeup) eight years ago ... wow!" he permitted himself to wonder. "You don't throw it when you have the other (fast) pitch. You don't need it."

In Seaver's case, necessity became the mother of pitching invention when the five-time winner of 20 games dipped inauspiciously to a 16-14 record in 1978.

This spring, after losing 6-2 to the New York Mets on June 4, he stood 2-5. But since then, by utilizing his knowledge of his own limitations, he's clicked off eight straight triumphs and has surrendered but 13 runs in 70 innings.

Seaver reflected on his transformation. "I still throw hard enough," he said, "but I don't have that good movement with my fastball.

It only makes my other pitches more effective."

To date, Seaver's career has been embellished by two World Series with the Mets, his 10 seasons with 200 or more strikeouts and his current aggregate of victories, tying him for 40th place on the all-time list.

That would satisfy some but not Seaver, who looks ahead to possibly achieving 300 career triumphs.

Coaches make Camp of Champs a success

Harold Wilder's Camp of Champs finished Friday and was declared a success, as 105 boys participated in the basketball learning experience over the past week.

The girls camp conducted the week before attracted 49 females.

There were 13 instructors in last week's affair, including Wilder. Other coaches helping included Ron Taylor of Forsan High School, Bobby Beall of LaVernia High School, Tony Mauldin of Morton High School, Tommy Collins and Mike Randall of Big Spring High School, Randy Smith of Midland Lee High School, David Middleton of Brazoswood High School, and Scott Wilder, Casey

Wilder and Bubba Stripling, students at Texas A&M.

Middleton will be the head coach for the South in the upcoming Texas High School Coaches All-Star basketball game in Fort Worth.

There were numerous awards in the week long event. The camp was divided into three age groups, with each group having five players receiving All-Star plaudits, with one MVP.

In the Pee-Wee League, the All-Stars were Randy Hayworth, Zane Rutledge and David Shortes of Big Spring, Lex Weatherly of Haskell, and Craig Morgan of Odessa. The MVP was Mike Hogan of Odessa, while the winning team was the Panthers, coached by Mike Randle.

In the Little League, composed of seventh and eighth graders, the All-Star players were Robert Lehrer of Haskell, Troy Wallace of Greenwood, Daniel Bristo of Forsan, Shawn Strey of LaVernia and Chuck Moran of Lake Jackson. The MVP was James Schkade of Albany, while the winning coach was Ron Taylor.

In the Big League, composed of ninth and tenth graders, the All-Stars were Stacey Carter of Colorado City, Kielie Mays and Russell Bedrich of Lake Jackson, Bryant Holloway of Odessa, and Jamey Davis of Haskell. The MVP was Steve Brazzel of Abilene, with the winning team being Marquette, coached by Middleton.

Too Tall vs. Alzado? A lucrative possibility

Sylvester Stallone might not have known what he was creating when he sat down with his wife and wrote the script for "Rocky" a couple of years ago. Other than an abundant bank account and nationwide fame, he might have also created a few headaches for the Dallas Cowboy and the Denver Bronco coaching staffs.

After watching the film for the first time, countless people have wandered away from the theater in a Walter Mitty world of make believe. They all fantasized, including me, putting themselves in the place of Rocky Balboa, and dreaming of knocking out Apollo Creed, Muhammad Ali, or whoever.

I even knew one guy who was so fired up after watching the movie that he ran five miles in a near sprint, stopped and ate four raw eggs (including the shells), then did push-ups until his arms collapsed. A real sicky! I mean, I'm usually a health freak, but not quite to that extent. Maybe it was the music.

Contrary to what many believe, even a gargantuan and somewhat famous and secure 270-pound star professional defensive tackle might leave the movie in a fantasy of taking punches and throwing jabs. Which is exactly what Ed (Too Tall) Jones said he did in Dallas two summers ago. Too Tall recently told Dallas Morning News columnist Skip Bayless that he hadn't considered boxing until watching the now legendary movie.

At first, many thought that Too Tall was simply trying to make the Cowboy organization jump and boost his salary over $200,000 a year. But Jones has disclosed that money had nothing to do with it, although you have to believe it did cross his mind. Too Tall says however, and I won't disagree, that he is simply chasing a fantastic dream, something that most people can't quite work up the nerve to do.

Too Tall's boxing ability is still a mystery, but such is not the case of Lyle Alzado. Alzado did test his boxing pro prowess last week against Ali, and although it was just an exhibition, he did look like he remembered the skills he learned in his youth as a Golden Gloves champ in Brooklyn.

Ali was obviously not in great shape or in a championship frame of mind, but still deadly serious from the second round on, after he realized that the massive 6'4", 250-pound All-Pro defensive tackle was rough and ready.

Ali, who said that he was definitely through with boxing as a means of keeping his heavyweight belt, even went as far as to publicly praise Alzado.

"For a non-fighter, he's great," the legendary champion said. "He's got the potential to be a world champ in the next two years if he continues to improve."

Now, it is reported that Alzado is contemplating retiring from professional football to follow Too Tall into boxing. Denver Coach Red Miller feels that Alzado will definitely play one more season with the Broncos, but who knows?

If he does, boxing promoters Don King and Bob Arum would probably stage a fight between themselves to sign the inevitable bout between Alzado and Jones. I mean, who could write a better script.

It would undoubtedly be a financial bonanza for the athlete. Most people, and TV networks, would much rather pay to see an Alzado vs. Too Tall matchup rather than a Larry Holmes vs. Leon Spinks affair.

Alzado, who is the second highest paid defensive lineman in the NFL at a reported base salary of $172,000 a year, could probably at least triple his 16-game NFL payoff on one bout with Too Tall.

It's all just pure speculation, but I wouldn't be surprised to see it happen in the next year. And while I'm thinking about it, what about a Billy Martin vs. Reggie Jackson bout in the preliminary to the big boys'...

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can now make considerable progress in career matters by following a well-rounded plan of action wherever you can gain the goodwill of others. Engage in activities you enjoy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get busy at making your home more charming so you enjoy more comfort there. Show more consideration for loved ones.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't depend on friends today for social outings since they are busy with own affairs. Strive for harmony in the home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make plans to put those fascinating new ideas to work that could bring more success in the future. Express happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Personal aims can be attained now if you are more steadfast in actions. Handle a public matter wisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Privacy is the keynote today. Take time to make plans and regulate your life more intelligently. Improve your appearance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good day to plan your outside activities for the future. Avoid a tendency you have to be unresponsive with a family member.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) You now know what to do in order to bring greater success and happiness, so be sure to do it. Be more thoughtful of others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Study new ways to expand via new interests and projects of work. Take time to contact persons who can be helpful to you in the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan the future wisely so that you have more security. Concentrate on how to be more productive in career affairs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't let it upset you if there are delays in your plans today. This will soon pass. Make the evening a happy one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show appreciation to those who have been loyal and kind to you today. Be sure to take time for improving your health.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) The evening is best for whatever that has to do with pleasure, since you have duties to attend to during the day.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those interesting young persons who are inclined to put things off instead of reaching quick decisions and could lose out if not taught early in life to speed up. Religion is a must here. Sports are good.

Kern revives Rangers

Baseball Roundup

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Relief ace Jim Kern preserved Texas' one-run lead by pitching out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the seventh inning with the help of a line drive double play and the Rangers went on to beat the Kansas City Royals 4-1 Saturday night.

Starter Doc Medeh, 4-3, gave up only two hits through the first six innings but singles by George Brett and Darrell Porter and an error by shortstop Nelson Norman loaded the bases in the seventh.

Kern came on and struck out Amos Otis. Pete LaCock then smashed a line drive at Norman and his flip to second baseman Bump Willis for the final out.

LeFlore Sparks Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — A two-run homer by Aurelio Rodriguez and heads-up base running by Ron LeFlore helped the Detroit Tigers defeat the Chicago White Sox 4-2 Saturday night.

With the score tied 2-2 in the fifth, LeFlore led off with a walk and went to second on a wild pitch by loser Ross Baumgarten, 9-6. Lou Whitaker's bunt down the third base line was fielded by Chicago catcher Milt May but third baseman Jim Morrison ran into him, knocking the ball away.

The speedy LeFlore, seeing the ball on the ground and home plate unprotected, never broke stride as he scored the tie-breaking run. The Tigers scored an insurance run in the eighth on a wild pitch by reliever Guy Hoffman.

Cardinals explode by Reds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Run-scoring hits by pitcher Silvio Martinez and Keith Hernandez keyed a nine-run third inning that carried the St. Louis Cardinals to a 12-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Saturday.

Martinez, 8-3, delivered a two-run single and Hernandez rapped a three-run double in the third — the Cards' biggest inning since September of 1977. Ken Reitz also contributed to the 14-hit attack with two-run single in the third. He also had three runs batted in for the game.

Twins sweep pair

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Bombo Rivera slammed a two-run homer in the eighth inning to rally the Minnesota Twins to a 4-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays and a sweep of their doubleheader Saturday.

The Twins won the opener 6-4 behind the combined pitching of Dave Goltz and Mike Marshall.

Rivera's hit, his third of the game, came off loser Balor Moore, 2-2, who had walked Glenn Borgmann to start the inning. Bob Randall sacrificed pinch-runner Rob Wilfong to second and Rivera then drilled his second homer of the year deep into the left field stands.

Hoskin Powell's run-scoring single snapped a 4-4 tie in the sixth inning of the first game. Butch Younger also drove in a run in the sixth with a sacrifice fly to help Goltz raise his record to 9-6.

Marshall, appearing in his 56th game, pitched two hits innings to record his 19th save.

Haas, Brewers stifle Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Moose Haas pitched a three-hitter and Sixto Lezcano belted a three-run homer Saturday to pace the Milwaukee Brewers to a 5-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians for their eighth straight triumph.

The Brewers jumped on Cleveland starter Len Barker, 0-4, for four runs in the first inning. Haas, 7-6, gave up a leadoff double to Mike Hargrove in the first, but limited the Indians to a pair of infield singles the rest of the way.

Paul Molitor led off the Milwaukee first with a single and went to second on a ground out. Cecil Cooper followed with a run-scoring single to center. Ben Oglivie walked and Lezcano slammed a line drive over the center field fence, his 13th homer of the season.

Orioles bomb Angels, Ryan

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rookie Sammy Stewart, making only his third start of the season, allowed six hits in eight innings while outdueling California's Nolan Ryan and pitched the Baltimore Orioles to a 10-2 victory over the Angels Saturday night.

Eddie Murray drove in three runs with a homer and two singles and John Lowenstein slammed a bases-loaded triple in the eighth as the Orioles took the season series from the American League West leaders 9-3 and extended their lead in the AL East to 3½ games over Boston.

After striking out the side in the first inning, Ryan yielded run-scoring singles to Lee May and Rich Dauer in the second and two more runs scored in the third as the Angels committed three of their four errors.

Three more hits, including an RBI single by Murray, finished Ryan, 12-7, in the fifth and another run scored as May grounded into a double play.

Stewart boosted his record to 6-3.

BACK FOR A WHILE AT LEAST — Oakland Raiders' quarterback Ken Stabler began practicing with the National Football League Club Friday in Santa Rosa, Calif. Stabler, who had been absent without leave from the camp since July 12, said "I still want to be traded," upon arrival at the training camp.

brought the crowd of 36,258 to its feet. Kern went on to record his 17th save.

Kansas City's Paul Splittorff, 10-9, gave up nine hits before leaving with one out in the seventh. Buddy Bell went 3-for-3 for the Rangers with three singles. After Billy Sample doubled to lead off the seventh, Bell singled him home and later scored on Richie Zisk's single.

Willie Wilson singled and scored for Kansas City in the first inning on Al Cowens' grounder and Wills' RBI single tied it in the third. Norman singled home the go-ahead run in the fourth as the Rangers snapped a four-game losing streak and pulled to within two games of first-place California in the American League West.

Eighth inning homers

sink stumbling Astros

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Robinson and Phil Garner each clouted eighth-inning solo home runs to end the phenomenal pitching streak of Houston reliever Joe Sambito and lift the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-5 victory over the collapsing Astros Saturday.

Sambito, 4-3, who had not allowed an earned run in a span of 402-3 innings dating back to May 1, took the loss as Houston fell to its fifth straight defeat and its 12th in 13 games.

The Pirates, winners of six in a row and 10 of their last 17 games, trailed 5-4 in the eighth. But Robinson led off with a homer to right center, his 20th of the season, and Garner followed with a two-out homer to the same spot, his third in three games.

Pirate reliever Enrique Romo, 5-3, notched the victory with ninth-inning relief from Kent Tekulve, who posted his 14th save.

Randolph, Jackson pace NY

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Randolph's grand slam and Reggie Jackson's three-run homer highlighted a 10-run fifth inning that gave Ron Guidry and the New York Yankees a 12-4 victory over the Oakland A's Saturday.

Guidry, 7-7, pitched six innings, striking out seven, but allowing home runs by Jim Essian and Dave Revere. Ron Davis and Goose Gosage finished up.

Oakland starter Craig Minetto, 1-3, held New York hitless over the first four innings before Jackson singled to start the fifth. After Jackson stole second, Roy White was safe on an error by second baseman Mike Edwards. Chris Chambliss' single scored Jackson. Another error and an infield hit loaded the bases before Randolph hit his first career grand slam. It was his fourth homer of the season.

Mariners rout Bosox

BOSTON (AP) — Leon Roberts paced a 16-hit attack with four runs batted in, leading the Seattle Mariners over the Boston Red Sox 13-5 Saturday.

Willie Horton chugged home from third base in the sixth inning on a foul fly by Roberts to break a 3-3 tie and the Mariners added two runs in the seventh on a single by Mario Mendoza and consecutive doubles by Ruppert Jones and Bruce Bochte.

Boston got two runs in the seventh on doubles by Jack Brohamer and Fred Lynn and a single by Jim Rice, but Byron McLaughlin preserved the victory for reliever John Montague, 5-3.

Seattle added two runs in the eighth and five in the ninth of relievers Dick Drago and Tom Burgmeier. Loser Steve Renko, 8-4, allowed three runs on five hits in the first, but hung on until the seventh when Bill Campbell came in to relieve and faced one batter, Bochte, who doubled.

Cubs nip Braves on error

CHICAGO (AP) — Scot Thompson's fourth single of the game rolled through the legs of Atlanta left fielder Jeff Burroughs in the ninth inning Saturday, allowing Dave Kingman to score from first base and give the Chicago Cubs a comeback 3-2 victory over the Braves.

Mike Lum's pinch-hit homer in the eighth had given Atlanta a 2-1 lead. Barry Foote started the Cubs ninth with a single and, after Ted Sizemore ran into his own bunted ball, pinch-runner Miguel Dilone stole second. He went to third on Ken Henderson's ground out and scored on Kingman's pinch single off loser Gene Garber, 5-10. Thompson's hit and Burroughs' error gave the victory to Dick Tidrow, 6-2.

Giants outscore Phillies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Left-hander Bob Knepper, winless since June 12, scattered eight hits and Jack Clark and Mike Ivie belted home runs, leading the San Francisco Giants past the Philadelphia Phillies 4-1 Saturday.

Clark's two-run shot and Ivie's solo blast highlighted a four-run, third-inning rally. Knepper, 7-4, blanked the Phillies until the sixth when Bake McBride's single, Mike Schmidt's two-out single and Bob Boone's double accounted for the Philadelphia run.

The Giants threatened in the first two innings and finally broke through off loser Steve Carlton, 11-9, in the third. Marc Hill led off with a walk and Knepper sacrificed. After Bill North struck out, Joe Strain's bloop single to right gave the Giants a 1-0 lead.

Clark followed with his 19th homer of the season, a 390-foot shot to left-center. Ivie then belted his 14th homer of the season.

Morton arrested

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — Denver Broncos quarterback Craig Morton says poor judgment was the cause of his arrest by Colorado State University campus police for driving under the influence of alcohol.

"I'm really sorry it happened ... I guess I didn't use very good judgment," said Morton, who was arrested early Friday near the Broncos' training camp at the Colorado State campus.

Morton, 36, was released after head Coach Red Miller posted a $425 bond, but the veteran quarterback faces a court appearance Aug. 27. Morton also was fined an undisclosed amount by the Broncos for violating team rules.

"The guy made a mistake," said Miller. "He's been disciplined under our rules, and we'd like for that to be the end of it."

According to Lt. R.M. Curry of the Colorado State campus police, Morton, who participated in Denver's practice on Friday, was issued a warning by officer Karl Swenson and then arrested 10 minutes later when he ignored a stop sign.

CLOSER LOOK — Umpire Jerry Crawford moves in for a close look as the Pirates Tim Foli tags Enos Cabell of the Astros, who was trying to steal second. Cabell was called out on the second inning play in Friday night's game, which Pittsburgh won 9-3.

Springs impressing Cowboy staff

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Rookie halfback Ron Springs, another surprising discovery of the Dallas Cowboys scouting system, continued to steal the show at the Cowboys training camp Friday.

Springs rushed for 71 yards and a touchdown, and completed a 41-yard half-back pass in a rookie scrimmage.

Springs came to the Cowboys in the fifth round of the draft from Ohio State, where he saw a sparkling career go flat last season after a knee cartilage problem.

"Obviously, we didn't rate him as good a runner as he is," Coach Tom Landry said. "He is big and strong (6-1, 200 pounds), which is awful important in an NFL back."

Springs' recovery from a disappointing senior year at Ohio State doesn't surprise Cowboy scouting boss Gil Brandt. "Ohio State didn't have an outstanding year.

Springs gets hurt against Baylor. The guy sits out two weeks; he's not in shape when he comes back; he doesn't play as well as expected. You wind up making a bargain in the draft. It's a combination of things that causes a player to be down-rated."

Coaches say Springs has the speed, mental capacity and pass-receiving ability to make it.

Landry singled out other performances for praise after Friday's workouts. Gaining the precious mention were fullback Wayne Russell of Cheyney State, offensive linemen Robert Shaw of Tennessee and Brad Hendrix of North Alabama, wide receiver Chris DeFrance of Arizona State, tight end Doug Cosbie of Santa Clara, defensive linemen Bruce Thornton of Illinois, Ralph DeLoach of California and Mike Calhoun of Notre Dame and defensive backs Aaron Mitchell of Nevada-Las Vegas and Wade Manning of Ohio State.

Cousineau lured by money to CFL

By The Associated Press

A sparkling diamond earring glistens from his left ear. Even in the sweltering humidity of mid-Manhattan he is the picture of sartorial elegance with his pointed-toe shoes, tapered pants, suede jacket and leather vest.

Tall, dark and macho handsome, he could stop pedestrian traffic at Hollywood and Vine, New York's 42nd and Broadway or the corner of Bourbon and Canal in New Orleans.

But be careful you aren't tempted to pull any of that "Tutti-frutti, it's spring again" stuff.

Tom Cousineau is one of the roughest, toughest hombres to be coughed up from college football ranks last season — rated by the pros on the basis of the National Football League draft as the most desirable hunk of beef on the market.

But the NFL, with all of its millions of dollars, doesn't get him. The Montreal Alouettes do — in one of the strangest twists in years.

Picked by the Buffalo Bills, the 6-foot-3, 227-pound All-America linebacker out of Ohio State chose to cast his lot with the neighbors across the northern border.

"I saw a game in Toronto between the Argos and Alouettes," the imposing athlete said at a hurriedly called news conference in New York Thursday to disclose his decision. "It's a different game than ours. The field is longer and wider. It is a more open game. I like a lot of movement. I consider it a great opportunity."

He is the first NFL No. 1 draft pick to prefer the Canadian League.

Cousineau had to suppress a smile when someone asked him if he chose the Canadian Football League over the NFL because it would enable him to be "a big fish in a small pond."

"I've played against the best and held my own," he replied evenly. "I can play in the NFL. Personal security had nothing to do with my decision."

Cousineau has been holding his own ever since he first picked up a football as a kid back in Bloomington, Ind. He survived the notorious football regimen at Ohio State under Woody Hayes. He was All-Big Ten as a freshman, Most Valuable Player in the Orange Bowl as a sophomore, All-American and the Cleveland Touchdown Club's Collegiate Player of the Year as a senior.

Why would a man with such impressive credentials scorn the potential riches and national exposure of the NFL?

"We weighed the offers and the alternatives," he said. "Montreal offered us the better deal."

The "we" was not editorial. Sitting at Tom's elbow was Jimmy Walsh, the Alabama dynamo who handles Joe Namath's business affairs.

Walsh denied the suggestion that the Bills had offered Cousineau a contract in the $1.2 million to $1.3 million range — "in excess of any ever sought by a No. 1 draft choice ... including Earl Campbell, Tony Dorsett and Ricky Bell."

"We went back to the Bills, as late as last Tuesday," he said, "and we were told, in effect, 'This is the market — take it or leave it.'"

DRAWING ATTENTION — All-America linebacker Tom Cousineau would draw attention anywhere — even without the diamond earring he wore for a visit to New York Thursday. The former Ohio State grider became the first NFL draft pick to prefer the Canadian League when he announced his signing with the Montreal Alouettes.

Tagged shrimp worth cash

AUSTIN — The shrimping season starts July 16 in Texas Gulf waters, and shrimpers are asked to be on the alert for tagged shrimp which are worth monetary rewards.

This spring Texas Parks and Wildlife Department crews tagged and released almost 30,000 brown and pink shrimp in the Lower Laguna Madre and the Aransas Bay system. Tagged shrimp returned to the department or the National Marine Fisheries Service are eligible for computer-selected rewards ranging from $1 to $500.

Each tag is a green plastic ribbon which is inscribed with the letters "NMFS" and a six-digit identification number.

Bird spotters being sought

AUSTIN — Volunteer bird spotters are being sought by the Canadian Wildlife Service. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has been asked to invite Texas observers to help census color-marked shorebirds and to pinpoint their movements during migrations.

A program started in 1974 is being continued this year by the Canadian agency in banding and color-marking shorebirds in James Bay. Yellow-orange feather dyes and yellow or light blue leg bands are being used to mark the birds according to age, date and place of capture.

Anyone sighting such birds is requested to record details of species, place, date, color marks and, if possible, parts of the bird that are marked, plus numbers of other shorebirds present. For color and other metal leg bands, information needed includes which legs the bands are on, colors, relative position of bands if there are more than one, and where placed on the bird.

The International Shorebird Survey scheme involves a network of volunteer participants in local areas who report all numbers of shorebirds seen, whether marked or otherwise. The object is to define their migration routes between the Arctic breeding grounds and wintering areas, and to identify critically important estuaries.

Anyone in the United States wishing to take part in these projects and help conserve an important segment of North American bird life should contact Brian A. Harrington, Manomet Bird Observatory, Manomet, Mass. 02345.

Texas P&WD sets warden deadline

AUSTIN — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department reminds persons who might be interested in applying for training as a state game warden they must have the application on file in Austin by 5 p.m. July 31.

Application forms may be obtained from department field offices or by writing to the Personnel Section, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Tex. 78744. The game warden training academy will convene in late October.

Staub traded to Montreal

DETROIT (AP) — On the streets of Detroit, comments ranged from "It's about time," to "Montreal? You're kidding." But few were surprised that Rusty Staub, reportedly the highest paid player in Detroit Tiger history, was leaving the club.

"They (the Expos) have expressed a great deal of interest in me," he added. While the Detroit designated hitter may have been expecting a move, the manner in which he was told of the change was somewhat abrupt.

The move took effect immediately, said club spokesman Lou Matland. In exchange for Staub, Matland said Detroit would receive a player to be named by December 31. If the two clubs do not agree on a player by that time, he said the Tigers would receive a cash payment.

When contacted, Staub did not indicate whether he had any say in the move. However, the trade followed a two-month contract dispute that ended with his request to be traded if the Tigers would not meet his salary demands.

At the time of his return, he said if the Tigers would not meet his demands, he wanted to join a club that would. The Detroit club reportedly had a $200,000 contract with Staub.

In 243 trips to the plate this year, Staub was hitting .235 with 57 hits, nine home runs and 38 RBI. In addition, he had 12 doubles and one triple. In 1978, he contributed 121 RBI, hitting .273. He has a major league lifetime average of .280.

It's not the first time Staub has played for Montreal. He spent the 1968-71 seasons there, after being traded from Houston.

Bobby Knight: Pro or con?

Bobby Knight considers himself, above everything else, a teacher. When he left for Puerto Rico and the Pan American Games last month, the passport he gave the customs officials listed his occupation as "Teacher."

"I think my responsibility is to teach," said Knight, who once took a course at Ohio State given by former football coach Woody Hayes. "I made up my mind that if I ever was in that position (coaching), I would make sure that I would teach like Woody, making the course a meaningful experience for everybody," he said.

So Knight gives a course in the methods of coaching basketball. He has several rules. Nobody wears hats and nobody can come in barefoot. He makes class attendance mandatory, deducting a grade for every class that a student misses. There are no exams, and Knight grades his students on the organization of their notebooks.

For his basketball players, Knight has fewer rules. There's no curfew, but players must wear jackets and ties on the road. The most important rule is no drugs. Early last season, the Indiana team was devastated when Knight threw three players off the team and placed five others on probation for smoking marijuana.

"I don't think too many coaches would have had the courage to do that," said Bob Kinney, Knight's former sports information director at West Point.

The other rule on Knight's teams are no moustaches or long hair during the season.

"I think that kids look neater that way," Knight says. "But the important thing is to teach them something. Unless you're the head of General Motors, you're going to have to learn to accept rules."

Knight feels that few people can motivate themselves. "It's human nature to sluff off," he said, explaining why he constantly pushes his players to reach new heights.

"Outside of my parents, he's been my greatest motivator," said Dave Bliss, a former Knight assistant and now head coach at Oklahoma. "He's a dynamic person, very driven. In a war-time situation, he would make a great general. He's totally dedicated to coaching, and he's the smartest person I know."

"I think Coach Knight has always gotten the most possible out of his teams," said Mike Krzyzewski, now the head coach at Army who played and coached under Knight. "He impressed upon us how each individual couldn't do his own thing, that the team was all-important."

"At times I didn't like being pushed so hard. But I was thankful for it afterwards. If you just tell him what you think, he'll respect you. He cuts short people who are underhanded or devious. He's a perfectionist. All I can say is God bless the guy who helped me reach my potential."

Knight is fascinated by history, and is a big buff on the Civil War. Al McGuire, the former Marquette coach, calls him Gen. Patton. He has a photographic memory and is a speed reader. According to Kinney, Knight would read a thick history book on long road trips and paperback cowboy books on short trips.

He fishes and plays golf with his few close friends, but his passion is eating and sleeping basketball. And he shares that knowledge with almost anybody who expresses a sincere interest.

Knight studied basketball with the masters, and he is glad to impart his wisdom to other coaches. "Basketball is not a form of espionage," he says. "It's not like the CIA."

"If you look at the coaching clinics, you'll see Bobby Knight at many of them," said Wayne Martin, coach of Morehead State. "There are some highly recognized coaches who won't share their knowledge."

Knight's mentors were Clair Bee of Long Island University for tactics, the late Joe Lapchick of St. John's for handling personnel and Fred Taylor, who coached Knight at Ohio State, for organization. He acknowledges his debt to these coaching greats, often citing their contributions to his career.

After Indiana won this year's NIT basketball championship, he interrupted the public address announcer to call Lapchick's widow, Barbara, down for the awards ceremony. And the first phone call he made after winning the NIT was to

Borg reaches Swedish finals

BAASTAD, Sweden (AP) — Bjorn Borg trounced fellow-Swede Kjell Johansson 6-3, 6-0 before a record crowd of 6,000 Saturday to reach the finals of the $110,000 Swedish Open Tennis Championships.

Taroczy, seeded second behind Borg, outlasted French veteran Patrick Proisy 6-2, 4-6, 6-4 in the other semifinal.

Smith outduels Gullikson

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Stan Smith defeated Tim Gullikson, 6-3, 6-2 in the finals of a $30,000 challenge tennis tournament Saturday. Smith's performance earned him $10,000.

In a consolation match for third place, Tom Gorman beat Bob Lutz 7-6, 7-6.

NEW WALL — Dan Proffitt, an employee of Mr. G's Garden Center, 2301 Scurry, points to a temporary wall built Thursday. The center had extensive damage when a stolen backhoe collided into the west side of the building. The backhoe was stolen from the Industrial Trench and Cable Company, Lubbock. The tractor was taken from the 2200 block of Gregg. The keys were in the ignition when it was stolen Thursday afternoon.

Apathy of voters dismayed Baum

Jim Baum can't believe he did it.

Little over a year ago he was in the midst of a campaign for Congress. Never before had he offered for public office, and Wednesday he told the Downtown Lions Club about some of the humorous aspects of the experience.

Although he expected to run on a shoestring ("and I wasn't disappointed in this"), there were times when he wasn't sure if there would be enough in the cupboard for the next week's campaigning. He decided that the great middle-class family would be his target, and he discovered that there is a wide divergence of interpretation in which constitutes a middle-class family.

His own formula, developed after 10,000 personal housecalls and 1,000 miles of travel is that of a house with toys and tricycles strewn in the yard and oil slicks on the driveway, and dogs, some of whom had things other than biting in mind.

Baum said he wouldn't trade the experience, but he was disturbed at the apathy that many people displayed. One voter told him that "you're either on the take or will be," another said "well, what difference could you make."

One thing about it, he plans to be involved as a result of his experience.

Farm Texas crops holding up despite scarce moisture

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — In spite of some dry weather and widespread fuel shortages, livestock and cash crops look good across the state, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dry-weather stress is apparent in pastures and crops in West Central, Central and North Central Texas — including sorghum, cotton and peanuts — but livestock in those areas are holding up well, and markets are generally steady, Pfannstiel said.

The widespread fuel shortage is troublesome almost everywhere — hindering the cutting of one of the most bountiful hay crops in years and the harvesting of good crops of cotton, corn, sorghum and wheat, he said.

Liquefied petroleum and natural gas are available, but diesel and gasoline are scarce and high-priced almost everywhere. Only Southwest Texas reports that all fuels can usually be found, Pfannstiel said.

The Panhandle, Plains and the North Central Texas areas are finishing off a high-yield wheat crop and getting favorable prices. State-wide, the pecan crop still looks promising, and an excellent quality peach crop is going to market. The state's other major cash crops — cotton, soybeans, peanuts and sorghum — are doing well, he said.

The following conditions are reported by district agents:

PANHANDLE: Soil moisture is down because of hot, windy weather. Pastures and ranges are above average and cattle look very good. Wheat is almost harvested, with good yields and prices. Cotton is squaring, corn is tasseling and sorghum is growing well. Potatoes are harvested in Deaf Smith County, and early peaches are being picked. Grasshopper control continues.

SOUTH PLAINS: The nearly harvested wheat crop is above average. Soil moisture is adequate — helping corn, sorghum, soybeans, sunflowers, sugar beets, ranges and livestock.

ROLLING PLAINS: Tight fuel supplies are troublesome. Some crops have been damaged by storms. But cotton and peanuts are growing well. Cotton is blooming and squaring in most counties, sorghum is heading, and except for grasshoppers, insects are light. Ranges are excellent. Alfalfa shipment is heavy, with strong prices in Wilbarger County.

NORTH CENTRAL: Gasoline and diesel supplies are skimpy, although LP and natural gas are adequate. Rain is needed. Livestock are holding up well. Wheat is described as the best crop since 1973. Peanuts and sorghums are up to a good stand, oat seed bed preparation is under way when soil moisture permits. Corn is showing heat stress, cotton is progressing and good hay yields are reported. Peaches and peaches also look promising.

NORTHEAST: Pastures and ranges are above average, livestock are in good shape and prices are steady. Diesel and gasoline are tight. Generally good soil moisture has produced a good wheat crop, and a second hay cutting is under way. Sorghums are all planted, peanuts and soybeans are doing well, peaches are in full harvest and a favorable pecan crop is set.

FAR WEST: Dryland crops and ranges need rain, but irrigated cotton is doing well and a good alfalfa crop is in its third cutting. Livestock look good. Fuel is adequate, but gasoline and diesel are short in several counties.

WEST CENTRAL: Low

soil moisture is reported everywhere but Coleman, Taylor and Menard counties. Crops and livestock need rain. Fuel is tight, and prices high. Cotton is squaring, sorghum is about 75 percent headed, wheat yields and prices are good, hay is being cut, and peanuts are doing well. The peach harvest looks excellent and pecans hold promise. Livestock look good.

CENTRAL: Pastures are dry, but livestock are holding up. The market is active, with some price upturn. Most sorghum is turning color and some is mature. Cotton looks good, but insects are at work, especially in Hill County. Hay yields are high, and peanuts look good.

EAST: Soil moisture is short to adequate. Diesel fuel and gasoline are just short. Pastures and livestock are holding up. Hay yields are good. Cotton is about 75 percent squared, corn harvest is starting, and peanuts and soybeans are progressing. Sorghum is almost planted. Peaches and peaches look good, but aphids are heavy in some areas.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Pastures, ranges and livestock look fairly good though moisture is a little short. Marketing is steady. Cotton is squaring and starting to set bolls. Sorghum is heading and turning color, corn harvesting has started, and a good hay harvest continues. The pecan set is favorable, but there is scab damage.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: Sorghum is turning color, soybeans are almost all planted, melons are doing well, the bulk of the corn crop is being harvested and pecans still hold promise. Hay is into the second cutting. Cattle look good and pastures are average. Diesel and gasoline are short.

SOUTHWEST: Ranges are drying, but livestock still look good.

Immunizations are offered

Immunizations for young children are given each Tuesday from 8 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. at the Big Spring-Howard County Health Department, 201 Lancaster Street.

In view of the law requiring immunizations for entrance to school, parents are urged to start immunizations for their children early in life.

Immunization for diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (DTP) and oral polio should be started at about two months of age.

Measles, mumps and Rubella shots should be given at 15 months of age. It is very important that all immunizations be completed and boosters given as needed. A booster for DTP and Polio must be received after the fourth birthday.

Effective September 1, 1979 measles vaccine is required for persons up to 12 years of age or through the sixth grade. If the vaccine was given prior to the first birthday, it must be repeated. A history of the Measles illness, verified by a physician's statement will be accepted in lieu of the measles vaccine.

The regulation for mumps vaccine states that, effective

September 1, 1979, children 18 months and older attending pre-school and kindergarten, and students attending the first grade in schools (or through age seven in ungraded schools) must have received the Mumps vaccine or provide a physician's written statement of Mumps illness.

Remember that a personal immunization record showing dates and kinds of immunizations must be kept on each child. All immunizations must be validated by the doctor of health clinics to be acceptable by the schools.

The cleanest luggage in the world — or out of it?

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — When Neil Armstrong took that giant leap for mankind 10 years ago, he was toting two suitcases so sterile they were compared to a football field besmirched with two finger-prints.

The "rock boxes," crafted from 12-by-13-inch aluminum ingots heated to 1,000 degrees for three hours, were antiseptically cleaned at Union Carbide's Oak Ridge, y+12 plant to less than 10 billionths of a gram of matter per square centimeter.

Each was cleaned with distilled water, isopropyl alcohol, benzene, freon and nitrogen gas before ultrasonic vibration in a vacuum chamber and inspection for lint under a fluorescent light.

"Those two boxes that went up in Apollo 11 were the cleanest pieces of luggage anyone would take anywhere," said Harvey Cobert, Union Carbide's public relations director. "Less than 10 billionths per square centimeter — that's about equal to a couple of fingerprints on the size of a football field."

The boxes — now part of the Apollo display at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. — measure 19½ by 10½ by 7 inches, and each held 40 pounds of moon rocks. The boxes were insulated and highly polished to reflect sunlight, keep them from exceeding 150 degrees and minimize heat loss. When Armstrong stepped onto the moon, the temperature was 10 below zero.

Researchers cleaned the boxes in a filtered room where air was changed 366 times an hour so the Earth's bacteria wouldn't contaminate the moon and any microbes recovered from lunar samples would indicate life on the satellite. Technicians wore two pairs of gloves, caps, masks and nylon jump suits and boots.

"There was a lot of trial and error and it was months before the boxes were acceptable to NASA," Cobert said. "They were made one at a time. They had to be hollowed out for weight and have a perfect seal for no contamination. They were sealed in an antiseptic Teflon bag and then put inside two polyethylene bags which were sealed."

And just in case something forced Armstrong to climb up the lunar module ladder faster than he had climbed down, the ab had an ace up its sleeve — a 3-foot pole with a net for some "rock fishing" in the Sea of Tranquility.

Tubb to meet with officials

County Trapper Kenneth Tubb will meet with Howard County Commissioners Monday at 9 a.m. in the Commissioners' Courtroom at the Courthouse in a special meeting.

Other business includes conferences with Andy Vestal regarding the County Fairbarn, Janet Rogers regarding the telephones in the county extension office, Treasurer Zirah Bednar regarding the Tax Appraiser's budget, Margaret Ray, county clerk, regarding salary of election judges, and with John Deats and Rebecca Taylor regarding personnel.

New employees will be approved at Monday's meeting and there will be a work session for the 1979-1980 budget.

A resolution will be adopted authorizing County Judge Bill Tune to finalize papers on the former Howard County Airport.

Radical departure from old form

Bacharach music style changes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Burt Bacharach's publicists start offering entertainment writers free plane trips to hear his new show at Lake Tahoe, you have to figure something's afoot. After all, Bacharach is not exactly an unknown commodity. Working with lyricist Hal David, the guy churned out dozens of top 40 hits over a 20-year period, making household names out of people like Dionne Warwick and the Carpenters. Not to mention a couple of notable film scores — like

"What's New Pussycat" and "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — and a Broadway musical, "Promises, Promises." Come to think of it, though, we haven't been hearing much from Bacharach lately, aside from gossip column stuff on his separation from his wife, actress Angie Dickenson. He hasn't worked with David in three or four years; his last big personal recording success, in fact, was the "Butch Cassidy" soundtrack, and that goes back quite a ways. What's he up to now, anyway? The answer — and the reason for the publicists' invitation — arrives in the mail in the form of Bacharach's new album, "Woman." It's a collection of orchestra music performed by the Houston Symphony, and it's a radical departure from "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head."

more different than anything that I've ever done, but it's the way I feel right now," he says earnestly, rolling a glass of ginger ale between his hands. "My music is very reflective of how I'm feeling. If you said to me, write another song like 'Don't Make Me Over,' I don't know how to write a song like that anymore. You can't go back. And I never will stay still." Besides, he adds, he's never been afraid to try something new. "I wrote things that were against the grain all my life without being intentional about it — odd bar lines, odd time signatures, things that musicians couldn't play in the studio when we were recording, that bands couldn't play in the theaters. I was always kind of swimming upstream, breaking rules."

Favorite summer pastime
New novels stimulating

By JOHN W. DEATS, County Librarian
No question about it, one of summer's favorite pastimes is to read straight through a good novel from cover to cover, with scarcely a pause between chapters. We will be looking at several new works which, hopefully, will prove to be just that stimulating. First, I wish to quote Peter Bart, first-time author of the forthcoming book, "Destinies." "It is clear that the present generation, conditioned by television, instinctively wants to express itself in that medium. And yet, because of the vulgarization of ideas and emotions we see in film, more and more intelligent youngsters are starting to move back to the novel." Ruth Beebe Hill took great pains and long research in order to write a first novel which is a small masterpiece, "Hanta Yo." Yes, I spelled that right, and the title may suggest to you that the book deals with Indians, which is a correct assumption. Sioux Indians, circa 1750-1830, to be exact, and much of Mrs. Hill's research involved careful translation of those ancient idioms which have been obscured by time and the era of reservation life. A Dakota Indian, still is fluent in his native tongue, aided the author in capturing the sights and the sounds of a lost culture. Entirely different is A.P. Kobryn's "Poseidon's Shadow," a suspense story centering on a renegade United States nuclear submarine, whose captain and crew refuse to obey orders to fire at a Russian target. A chase ensues, between the renegade vessel and the deadliest attack submarine in the American fleet, and nuclear war may hang on the result. Turning to another first novel, "The Dogs of March" is fascinating in its detailed character development of Howard Elman, a middle-aged New Englander who loses his job in a textile mill, copes with his wife's hysterical paralysis, and has trouble relating to a college-aged son. To make matters worse, Howard is threatened with losing his small, stony farm to a wealthy new neighbor. What makes all of this interesting is that the reader grows to care about this larger-than-life, barely literate character who is at times capable of an eloquence of feeling.

Big Spring State Hospital Rehabilitation Services are varied Work Village teaches living skills

By MICKIE DICKSON

The seventeen resident members of the Work Village at Big Spring State Hospital work full time on the hospital grounds and learn living skills to use in community living. There are five patients working toward saving money for their first months room and board in the Work Village who will be residents around August 1.

The Work Village, one segment of the Rehabilitation Services Department, is a quarter-way house for discharged patients who need vocational experience to help them become productive citizens.

Dr. Preston Harrison, former superintendent of BSSH established the Work Village program in 1965 for the chronic schizophrenic patients. It is now for all eligible referred people in the West Texas catchment area of the hospital as well as patients released from the hospital.

Cathy Baca, hospital employee in nursing service, testifies to the fact that Work Village has successfully trained her in work adjustment and living skills.

Cathy has worked on west psychiatric north as a full time employee for a year and a half.

Mrs. Baca was a GI bride from Chatham Kent, England. She lived in El Paso from 1958-1972, has one daughter, 22, and two grandchildren.

After a divorce from her husband and an unsuccessful return to England for a year, she came back to El Paso, and she put her 16 year old daughter in a foster home. In Nov., 1974 she was committed to the BSSH where she was a patient for three months, then entered Work Village for three years training.

While a resident of W.V. she bought a $400 car in addition to paying the $124 a month room and board, and dedicated it to VW to take other residents shopping and on errands. In addition, Cathy bought her clothes, helped her daughter and established savings accounts for herself and two grandchildren. The WV residents helped her buy gas and oil for her car.

By Thanksgiving of 1974 her daughter's father had taken her into his home and sent her to school. She graduated from high school and is now married, has two children and attends Community College in El Paso.

Cathy and her room-mate now have an apartment in Big Spring, and she drives a nice car. Every Saturday these two make out menus for a week and shop for groceries.

Cathy said, "We keep our food budget down to $60 each a month like we were taught to do in VW. I do all the Mexican, Italian, Chinese and English cooking and my room-mate prepares the American dishes."

She gives credit to her Catholic faith for strength to see her through her trials. Father Andrew Marthaler, Catholic chaplain, Marthaler, chaplain, helped her a lot while she was at BSSH, and she joined St. Thomas Catholic Church while in work village. She helps make the tamales for their summer festival every summer.

The Rehabilitation Services Department, under the able direction of Alton Gatewood, a licensed recreational therapist, follows each patient admitted through all or some of twelve different areas until he is discharged. The unit treatment team staff, composed of psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, rehabilitation technicians and case manager, R.N.'s, activity director and anyone who may have a contribution to make determines the needs and outlines the program for each patient.

Forty-six full time employees plus 23 in the work village operate under the rehabilitation technicians, the administrative technician, the referral coordinator and the work evaluator.

The patients participate in occupational therapy, recreational therapy, music and dance therapy, physical therapy, work adjustment therapy, bibliotherapy, art therapy, horticultural therapy, speech therapy, barber shop, beauty shop and the patient library until they are discharged.

Occupational therapy usually consists of sewing, handwork, ceramics, wood-working and hobby type activities which improve coordination and have therapeutic value.

In occupational therapy, Mrs. Lee Nix, licensed therapist, holds 50 minute classes in ceramics, embroidery, ceramic tile work, rug making, crochet, copper tooling, leathercraft, etc. each participant making two of each project. He keeps one for himself and the hospital keeps the other to sell. The hospital has an automatic kiln to fire the ceramics and bisque items.

Recreational therapy includes swimming, using balance beams and other exercise equipment, punching bags, games such as volleyball, baseball and basketball, and bus rides and movies.

The music and dance therapy is folk singing, instruction on musical instruments, and dancing.

Physical therapy is for handicapped patients and is given by doctor's prescription only. This may include whirl bath, gait training, and corrective exercises.

The Sheltered Workshop houses the work Industrial Therapy department. This is one of the West Texas Council of Workshops. The work here is done on a piece rate basis and the participants receive an equivalent to the minimum wage with established norms. These patients and WV residents are evaluated every three months according to the criteria set out by the U.S. Dept. of Labor, and their salaries are adjusted to that evaluation.

The jobs which the sheltered workshop undertake are contracts for companies in the area that can be done on an assembly line basis. These include packaging plastic ware for Thompson Company of Arizona, making hammocks for the Tin Jim Company of Mineral Wells, and trimming and cleaning spark plug boots for Spark Jamak Company. The contracts come to them from the Texas Council of Workshops in Abilene.

Under the supervision and direction of Eva Watkins, licensed therapist, Margaret Matthews, and John Morelion, trainers, patients, work village residents and half-way house residents make the all nylon 5 1/2 feet hammocks which hold 600-800 pounds, hang 21 ft. 4 inches, 10 ft. 2 inches and twist into an approximate four inch by six inch size to fit into a plastic box to be sealed elsewhere; clean, check, trim and take out plugs in the end of spark plug covers and package plastic tableware each day. An average of about 135 people participate in sheltered workshop.

Bibliotherapy is a selected reading program for those patients who are referred by the treatment team. Schizophrenics are especially helped by poetry, for instance.

Art Therapy allows the patient to freely express himself with pencils, paints and pastels. Each one is allowed to create whatever he wants. Richard Thomas is the able licensed art therapist who conducts this discipline.

Horticultural Therapy is used as a means of developing responsibility and a sense of the seasons of life.

The patients who need speech therapy are evaluated by the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center and treatment is carried out at the hospital as outlined by them.

The barber shop teaches the patients to shave themselves and how to take care of their hair, as well as cutting hair and shaving.

The beauty shop is therapeutic, and hair and skin care is taught here.

The patients have access to the patient library to check out books or to read in the library.

Each department is headed by qualified therapists that are licensed in their field.

Patients are then tried on a work adjustment station before release from the hospital.

When the unit treatment team staff feels that a patient is ready for discharge, but unable to maintain himself independently in the community, he is taken into the work village, and put on a job on the BSSH campus commensurate to his aptitude, abilities and interests.

Those discharged patients who need vocational experience undergo a series of vocational testing which includes general aptitude testing battery, the Geist picture interest inventory, 16 personality factor questionnaire and vocational counseling.

The U.S. Department of Labor allows the hospital to hire residents, as long as they are in training, at sub-minimum wages. They cannot, however, pay below 50 percent of the $2.90 minimum wage.

The hospital endeavors to use all the hospital facilities to provide necessary work adjustment training for the eligible or referred people. The patients are placed in classified work stations where the supervisor is willing to employ them to work along with regular employees. At the present time, work village residents are working at clerical jobs, in food service, at the canteen, in house-keeping and maintenance.

In the work village, the residents are taught personal and social adjustment such as how to get along with people, how to make application for a job, accepting the fact that they have been patients in a mental hospital and overcoming the stigma attached to it. How to attain and maintain self confidence is taught along with personal grooming.

Independent living skills such as housekeeping, food selection for good nutrition, how to buy, prepare and serve foods, income budgeting and self awareness are learned in Work Village.

The Work Village is now housed in building No. 504, above the Outpatient Department in a dormitory setting. The residents take their meals in the hospital dining room. Volunteers provide transportation for shopping trips in town to those who do not have their own cars.

GLAZING CERAMICS — Instructor Lee Nix and Aide Dorothy Mojica, watch as Earl Snedeker, Jr. of El Paso, glazes his project.

NEW HOME — Four new cottages will soon house the Work Village at Big Spring State Hospital. Each cottage will hold eight residents. Cooking facilities are included to teach them food preparation and serving to add to their budgeting, shopping and nutrition skills.

CHARTING PROGRESS — Cathy Baca, an MHRM Aide and graduate of Work Village, making her rounds on west psychiatric ward at Big Spring State Hospital.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. Don Crittenden, Gail Rt., announce the marriage of their daughter, Cathy Ann to Roy D. Drake. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Drake, Sand Springs. The couple were united in marriage Friday morning in the First Methodist Church of Coahoma. The Rev. Jim Taylor officiated.

Eunice First Methodist Church scene of Louisiana wedding

The First United Methodist Church, Eunice, La., was the setting of the July 7 wedding ceremony uniting Dr. Stephanie LaHaye and Marshall Lynn Cauley, both of Houston.

The Rev. George McVay performed the 2 p.m. rite before an altar enhanced by large urns of aspidistra, Boston fern, ivy and pitosporum. Bows of aspidistra leaves centered with white ribbon and stephanotis marked the pews.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Philip Webster LaHaye, Eunice, La., and Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Q. Cauley, 524 Scott, Big Spring.

Wedding music was provided by Stanley Coleman, vocalist and organist; and Suzanne LaHaye and Charles Seale, vocalists.

The bride chose to wear an ivory gown of silk organza fashioned with a small Victorian collar adorned with lace and seed pearls. Cap sleeves formed by a crystal pleated ruffle accentuated her attire as did the high front waistline beautified by scallops of Alencon lace. Lace and seed pearl appliques embellished the sheer yoke and bodice of the gown. The A-line skirt, which flowed softly to a chapel-length train, featured a crystal pleated ruffle at the hemline, overlaid with a wide scallop of re-embroidered Alencon lace.

Completing her bridal ensemble was a chapel-length veil of illusion which fell gracefully from a small Juliet cap adorned with lace and seed pearls. She carried a delicate spray of ivy and stephanotis centered with a Mother of Pearl Bible.

Suzanne LaHaye, Eunice, La., served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Philip LaHaye Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, Thibodaux, La.; Mrs. Brad Stephens, Kindall Park, N.J.; Mrs. Charles Bowie, Eunice, La.; Pamela Casey, New Orleans, La.; and Sherry Ernest, Houston.

Dr. Richard Cauley, Arlington, brother of the groom, attended as best man. Groomsmen included Bruce Hutto, Big Spring; and John Rutherford, Longview. Guests were seated by Sam Cook, and Gary Hinds both of Houston; Fred Schonwald, Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Dr. Philip LaHaye Jr.,

Thibodaux, La.

Christa LaHaye, niece of the bride, Thibodaux, La., served as flower girl. Ring bearers were Philip LaHaye, III, and Mark LaHaye, both of Thibodaux, La., nephews of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple were feted with a reception in the Eunice Country Club.

The bride attended Louisiana State University and received her Bachelor of Science and Doctor of Optometry degrees from the University of Houston. She is now employed by U.S. Public Health Hospital in Houston.

The groom is a Big Spring High School graduate and received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Texas at Austin. He is presently a third-year student at the University of Houston, College of Optometry.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., and Pensacola, Fla., the newlyweds will make their home in Houston.

BSSH work village teaches skills

Four new cottages are under construction for the Work Village occupants. Each cottage will house eight residents and will have cooking facilities. The cottages are due to be finished in 30 to 45 days. These facilities will increase the Work Village capacity from 22 to 32. An average of 20 per month has been the census of Work Village with their present limited facilities.

The Work Village program is a transitional living program that is 6-18 month training program on the average, though there is no time limit set. When a person starts producing as much as 75 percent of the amount regular employees produce, the staff begins to get them ready to seek employment in the community, including putting them on as full time employees at the hospital. Regular application has to be made through the personnel department of the hospital, and they are made to be aware that they will be competing with other employees.

Lucile Harrison, supervisor of living for Work Village, serves as social worker and counselor concerning living adjustments and maintains rapport with the resident's families.

She also helps place patients and residents in the community upon discharge. She has been with the BSSH 16 years.

Ruth Eubanks is work coordinator with the responsibilities for proper job placement of patients, to work with and counsel on the job if there are problems and acts as liaison between employer and employees. She has been with the hospital 20 years.

There are three WV residents due to become full time employees of the hospital in the near future. One of them is J.W. Bledsoe in Food Service. Bledsoe has been in Work Village one year working in every area of food service. He is learning to budget his money, takes care of his clothing and is looking forward to moving to Big Spring in September.

His sister, Mrs. Tup Ferguson of Midland, has been a volunteer at the BSSH for many years, coming once or twice a week to work. Bledsoe was in nursing service before he became a patient at the hospital in 1978. He likes to read and enjoys sports.

The Rehabilitation Services Department spends 185,000 therapeutic treatment hours a year to help people become productive citizens of the community, and they deserve the support of area citizens.

SEPTEMBER RITE — Mr. and Mrs. James W. Findley, Sterling City Rt., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Margaret Colleen to Jimmy E. Darling Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy E. Darling Sr., Weslaco, Tex. The date has been set for Sept. 8 in the College Baptist Church, Big Spring.

Focus on family living

Get handle on stress

Get a handle on stress — it can make life more interesting.

Stress comes from basic forces — physical activity and mental or emotional activity. Even happy events cause stress.

Humans thrive on stress, so develop some ways of dealing with it.

Work off stress physically by walking, running, playing tennis, or gardening.

Talk out worries with someone you trust and respect. Sometimes another person can help you see a new side to problems and thus a new solution.

Learn to accept what you cannot change. If the problem is beyond your control at this time, try your best to accept it until you can change it.

Although there are many chemicals, including alcohol, that can mask stress symptoms, they do not help you adjust to the stress itself. The ability to handle stress comes from within you, not from outside.

Get enough sleep and rest.

Schedule time for recreation to relax your

Coahoma women form new club

A group of young women from Coahoma met Thursday night in the home of Jo Anne Ezell to install a new chapter of Beta Sigma Phi called Alpha Tau Rho.

Pledges for the chapter include Arlene White, Jan Nichols, Shirley Terry, Glynn Drewery, Kathy Nichols and Pat Winters.

Other new members are Sue Scott, Jayne Titsworth and Jo Anne Ezell.

To promote the ideals of Beta Sigma Phi while being a service to the Coahoma community is the purpose of the chapter.

Officers for the coming year include Jayne Titsworth, president; Kathy Nichols, vice president; Sue Scott, recording secretary; Jo Anne Ezell, treasurer; and Pat Winters, corresponding secretary.

Jerri Lynne Davey weds Harvey Hocker Saturday

Jerri Lynne Davey became Mrs. Harvey Lynn Hocker in a candlelight ceremony performed Saturday evening in the First Christian Church.

Byron Corn, minister of the Birdwell Lane Church of Christ, read the 5 p.m. rite before a communion table backed by a large fern tree featuring a unity candle in the center. Flanking either side of the setting were brass swirl candelabras and large arrangements of carnations and daisies trimmed in blue. Aisles were marked by blue bows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Davey, 2608 Larry Dr. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Hocker, Sterling City Rt. Mrs. Everett Bedell, pianist, accompanied vocalists Brad Small, Mark Warren, Carrie Little, Charlotte Beil, Shelley Wood and Rhonda Wilbanks.

The bride was presented down the aisle wearing an A-line silhouette gown of silk organza and Raschel lace. The fitted empire bodice featured an overlay of lace tracing the sheer Brussels lace yoke and ring neckline. Deep sheer pleating encircled the yoke and shoulders gracefully forming the cape design. Falling from the lace adorned waistline was the A-line skirt enhanced by a deep pleated flounce edged in lace which extended the full length of the chapel-length train. Lace edging framed the waltz-length veil of French illusion gathered to a matching lace and pearl Camelot. Her entire bridal ensemble was sprinkled with pearls.

A cascading bouquet of white sweetheart roses, carnations and blue daisies sprinkled with baby's breath enhanced her attire. White picot ribbon tied the arrangement.

Darlene Shumate, Enon, Ohio, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Laurie Dromsky, Augusta, Ga.; and Carol Davey, sister of the bride.

They wore floor-length gowns of angel blue lustraglow. The A-line silhouettes featured blouson bodices with spaghetti straps. Deep Venice lace scalloped the shoulders and necklines. Cording traced the waistlines and created streamers. Each carried a nosegay of blue daisies, white carnations and baby's breath. Silk flowers adorned their hair.

Steve Westbrook was best man. Groomsmen included Wynfred Hocker, brother of the groom; and Billy Davey, brother of the bride. Guests were seated by Wayne Griffith and Ronnie Westbrook.

Serving as flower girl was Melissa Dietz, cousin of the bride, Arlington. She wore a long blue gown of dotted Swiss accented with lace. She carried a basket of silk blue flowers.

The bride's cousin, Nathan Wayne Dietz, Arlington, served as ring bearer.

Candles were lit by Robbie Dietz, cousin of the bride. She wore a gown identical to those of the attendants.

Immediately following the ceremony, the newlyweds were feted with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

A floor-length cloth of white knit, pleated and topped by an overlay of lace, covered the bride's table. A three-tiered cake featuring a flowing fountain was decorated with blue-tip roses and sugar bells. Three satin bells topped the cake. Crystal appointments were used by servers Mrs. Kenneth Bryant, Arlington, aunt of the bride; Corby Bryant, cousin of the bride, Arlington; Mrs. Irene Reed and Cindy Westbrook.

A cloth of beige knit topped by a ceramic duck enhanced the groom's table which was centered with an arrangement of rust, gold and brown flowers. Silver appointments were used. Serving were Mrs. Wayne Dietz, aunt of the bride, Arlington; and Mandy Hitt.

Sonia Gay Bryant, cousin of the bride, Arlington, registered guests.

Attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. N.E. Dietz, grandparents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bryant, aunt and uncle of the bride and their children Corby, Sonia Gay, Kevin and Alex; and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dietz aunt and uncle of the bride and the children Melissa and Nathan Wayne, all of Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller, aunt and uncle of the bride; Norfolk, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. John E. Fern, Azle, Tex.; and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Looney, Sterling City.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Big Spring High School and is currently employed at Citizens Federal Credit Union. The groom graduated from Forsan High School in 1972 and attended Howard College. He is currently employed by Big Spring Cable TV.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will reside in Big Spring.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER JAY MARTIN JR.

Miss Dickens weds Walter Martin Jr.

The wedding vows between Charleta Ann Dickens and E2 Walter Jay Martin Jr., were solemnized July 14 in a morning ceremony in the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. J.D. Bilbro, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiated the 9 a.m. rite before a reflecting pool and waterfall set before a garden setting accented by mass arrangements of ivy and greenery.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dickens, 609 Circle Dr. The groom is the son of Mrs. Jan Armstrong, 1604-A Lincoln.

The bride was presented in marriage to a recorded wedding march by Mendelssohn featuring Jesse Crawford at the pipe organ. She wore a skirt and blouse combination of ecru muslin designed with a shadow-lace yoke framed by a deep ecru lace ruffle over a dusty rose and ecru floral waltz-length skirt fashioned by a handkerchief hemline bordered with a dusty rose ruffle edged in ecru lace.

She carried a long-stemmed rose of silk in the color of dusty rose. Ecru lace, baby's breath and ribbon adorned the flower.

Mrs. Mark Weston, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor. She was attired in a street-length dress of dusty rose and carried a silk rose adorned with ecru lace and ribbon streamers.

Mark Martin, brother of the groom, served as best man. The bride's brother, Randy Dickens, presented the wedding prayer.

Immediately following the ceremony, the newlyweds were honored at a reception. Lynnetta Robins, cousin of the bride, registered guests.

An antique cloth, made by the bride's great-grandmother, draped the table which featured a two-tiered cake adorned with roses and sweet peas in shades of rose and plum. Serving were Mrs. Larry Nelson, sister of the bride; and Mrs. Randy Dickens, sister-in-law of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Dickens, aunt and uncle of the bride, hosted a brunch at their home following the reception.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Lindy Oldfield and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Weston, Sayre, Okla.; Ronnie Oldfield, Weatherford, Okla.; Mrs. Gene Mayo, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Wayne Shuey, Barney Oldfield and Lynnetta Robins, all of Forgan, Okla.; Mrs. Larry Nelson, sister of the bride, Omaha, Neb.; Terry O'Brian, Pampa; and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Dixon, Del Rio.

The bride is a Big Spring High School graduate and has attended Howard College. The groom, also a graduate of Big Spring High School, is a member of the U.S. Army, presently stationed at Fort Polk, La. The couple will make their home in Leesville, La.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Sybil Duncan, Robert Lee, and Bruce Hatfield, Vealmoor, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Starla Renea, Vealmoor, to Mark Stanzyk Kaczyk, Snyder. He is the son of Mildred Kaczyk, Snyder and Jack Kaczyk, Auburn, Mass. The couple will speak their wedding vows Aug. 25 in the First Baptist Church, Snyder. The Rev. Buck Hatfield, uncle of the bride-elect and pastor of the Faith Baptist Church, Snyder, will officiate.

Cults: Freedom or Brainwashing?

NEW YORK, N.Y. — In recent years, thousands of young Americans — most of them between the ages of eighteen and twenty-four years old, white and middle class — have left their families to join another kind of family — religious cults.

No matter what the basis for their foundation, cults have one thing in common — devotion to a strong leader. Whether cults are evidence of a dangerous epidemic or a religious revival, experts agree on the reasons for their sudden popularity. To those who feel disoriented by the modern world, cults promise certainty in place of confusion, community in place of alienation, purpose in place of aimlessness, reports Robert Friedman in the May issue of Seventeen.

Opponents of the cults, often led by former members and parents of current members, accuse the groups of practicing brainwashing, mind control, and thought reform. Psychiatrists like John Clark testified in court that the practices of one of the most popular of the religious cults — the followers of Sun Myung Moon — includes isolation, sleep deprivation, a protein deficient diet and peer pressure.

Deprogramming centers sprung up across the country in an attempt to thwart the teachings of the cults. Critics of these centers, including the American Civil Liberties Association, accused the deprogrammers of using the same brainwashing techniques the cults supposedly employ.

Couple exchange wedding vows

Christine Jo Soldan and Michael Dwayne Frady exchanged wedding vows Saturday morning in a family ceremony conducted in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. W.F. Henning Jr., minister of the church, officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Soldan, 1806 Donley. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Frady, Benton, Ark.

The couple stood before an altar on which was placed a Latin Cross. White gladiolus and white daisies were arranged before the cross, and were flanked at either side with brass candle holders.

Mrs. Kathleen Tedesco, sister of the bride, provided music at the organ. Mrs. Melanie Churchwell was vocalist.

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white chiffon over taffeta. The gown, which fit off the shoulders, had a deep ruffle edged with a double row of Chantilly lace, with bridal satin ribbon between the rows of the lace. The gown featured a two-tiered skirt, with each tier edged with a double row of Chantilly lace and bridal satin ribbon.

A two-tiered shoulder-length veil of tulle edged in Chantilly lace was draped from a bandeau of Venice lace interspersed with seed pearls.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Carol Hart. She wore a floor-length pink gown of flocced dacron organza with puffed sleeves and double ruffles at the bottom of the skirt. In her hair she wore cascading pink organza roses. She carried nosegay of white starburst poms and pink miniature carnations. Best man was Paul Soldan Jr., brother of the bride, Little Rock, Ark.

Ushering was Michael Tedesco, brother-in-law of the bride.

Rebekah Tedesco, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a pink dress accented with white ruffles. Candelighters were Louis Soldan and Daniel Tedesco, nephews of the bride.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. Rachel Tedesco, niece of the bride, attended the guest register.

The reception table was covered with a white linen cloth edged in lace. The table was centered with an arrangement of silk pink peonies, white dogwood and baby's breath in a leaded crystal vase, a gift from the bride's cousin in Germany. Centering the base of the vase were miniature bride and groom figurines.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Peggy Soldan, baked and decorated the three-tiered cake with white icing and pink roses. The cake was topped with a cluster of pink satin bells.

Crystal and silver appointments were used at the reception. Mrs. Kathleen Tedesco and Mrs. Peggy Soldan served guests.

Following a wedding trip to Cloudcroft, N.M., the couple will reside in Canyon.

The bride is a 1975 graduate of Big Spring High School, and received her Bachelor of Science degree in education from West Texas State University in Canyon this year.

The groom attended schools in Bryant, Ark. He served three years in the United States Army, and is now employed by American Equipment and Trailer, Inc., Amarillo.

HANSEN TWINS — David and Patricia Hansen of Ogden, Utah, hold daughters Elisa and Lisa in their laps prior to the girls' leaving the University of Utah Medical Center last week. The Siamese twins were joined at the tops of their heads and separated.

'I think it's a miracle'

Twins still face surgery

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Seven weeks after he sat outside an operating room wondering whether his Siamese twin daughters would survive surgical separation, David Hansen is giving his girls piggyback rides.

Lisa and Elisa, wearing identical pink checkered frocks, made their first public appearance Tuesday.

"I think it was a miracle, definitely so," said Hansen, 25. As he spoke, Elisa sat placidly in his lap seeking her thumb.

"Sometimes I sit back and can't believe it really happened," said his 22-year-old wife, Patricia, who was holding Lisa.

The beaming parents spoke at a news conference at the University of Utah Medical Center, where teams of surgeons separated the twins May 29 in a 16½-hour operation doctors said was the first of its kind to be successful.

The 21-month-old twins were joined at the tops of their heads.

"I think that God played a part in it. I think it was between our doctors and our Heavenly Father," said Mrs. Hansen.

The twins were at their home in Ogden periodically in the months prior to their separation, but Tuesday marked their first trip home since then.

They are nearly able to crawl and surgical team spokesman Dr. Stephen Minton said they should walk soon.

Despite their encouraging progress, Minton said the twins still face "constructive surgery creating a skull. At this time, they don't have a skull."

He said such an operation would be several months away.

Lisa and Elisa wear padded bonnets that contain plastic strips to protect the soft tissue covering their brains. Minton said they did not have to wear the bonnets at night, but added, "They like to play with blocks and hit each other with blocks, so basically we have to protect them from each other."

Letha Lewis is named Chairman

Letha Lewis was named Chairman of the annual Membership Show at the July meeting of the Big Spring Art Association. Other members of the committee are Linda Rupard and Janie Harmon. Details will be given at the August meeting. The show will be held in September.

President Becky Smiley welcomed members. Guests welcomed were: Kathy Davis, Seminole; J.D. Keel, Seagraves; Jeff Rosario, Henderson, Nev.; Marshall Long and Joe Hernandez of Knott; Jacque Thomas, Bobby Broughton, Jess Taltan, Dana Wilkerson and Joy Decker, Big Spring.

Yearbooks will be ready in September. Bess Wagner is in charge of the project.

Coming shows will be held in Hobbs, N.M.; Carlsbad, N.M.; and Amarillo, Tex. Those interested may obtain details from Becky Smiley.

New members are Dana Wilkerson and Nancy Richardson. Members rejoining this past month are Virginia Whitlen, Elsie Merrell, Bonnie Hale, Durwood Blagrove, LaRue DeViney and Joy Decker.

A pastel portrait demonstration was given by Vicky Clark of Seminole.

Mrs. Clark did a colorful head and shoulders portrait of a cowboy. The drawing for this demonstration was won by Martha Conway. Mrs. Clark is well known for her pastel and oil paintings. She emphasizes the western scenes and is interested in recording the life of a vanishing era. Since 1976 she has won 29 art awards in many West Texas shows, including five Best in Show awards. She teaches oil and pastel workshops in Seminole.

Tipping of the Brush awards went to Mary Raley, first; Arlys Scott, second; and Paul Warren, third. These paintings will be displayed at the Citizens Credit Union, State National Bank and the Clip and Curl Beauty Shop.

Hosts for the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. C.M. Lewis and Martha Conway.

Wedding Scratched, Hosts Get Jockeyed

DEAR ABBY: A friend of my husband's asked us if he and his girlfriend could be married in our apartment. They are both divorced and seemed very well suited to each other. We saw the lady only once, since she lives in another city. I went to a lot of trouble, decorating my home with flowers and arranging for music, food and wine for 22 guests.

Exactly one hour before the wedding was to take place, the man called to say that they decided to "postpone" the wedding for a while. He gave no reason.

Abby, this wedding was to be our wedding gift to the couple, but since the wedding never came off, there is no reason to give them a wedding gift, right?

Would we be out of line to send this man a bill for what the party cost us? My husband said we should skip it.

STEAMED IN CALIF.

DEAR STEAMED: If the man is a gentleman he should offer to reimburse you. If he doesn't offer, skip it.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Laney Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Miss McCasland and Craig united in evening double-ring ceremony

Karen McCasland and James Richard Craig were united in marriage Saturday evening in a candlelight ceremony at the Birdwell Lane Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McCasland, 618 Bucknell. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. James Harold Craig, Robert Lee.

R.L. Roberts performed the double-ring ceremony as the couple stood before an archway entwined with greenery. Arrangements of gladiolus enhanced the setting as did two swirling candelabrams and two nine-branch candelabrams.

An eight-member a-cappella chorus performed the wedding selections. Soloist was Debbie McCoy.

The bride was attired in a Bianch gown designed with a molded bodice of re-embroidered lace and jeweled cameo motif. Full sheer sleeves gathered into lace cuffs fashioned her bridal ensemble. The buffon skirt of imported French lace flowed gracefully over taffeta into dust ruffles sweeping into a cathedral-length train. She wore a crown of embroidered lace outlined with seed pearls from which a three-tiered veil of illusion fell.

A cascading bouquet of white gladiolus sprinkled with baby's breath accented her attire.

Ginger Reed attended the bride as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Lori Jennings, Tulia; Juli Shive, Humble; Karen Seaburg, Texas City; and Denie Prichard, Odessa, cousin of the bride.

They wore floor-length gowns of soft flowing quiana of pastel yellow. Each carried a bouquet of yellow lilies accented with baby's breath.

Craig Fields, Brady, attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Steve Watts, Stenet; George Abalos, Robert Lee; Johnny McCasland, Odessa, brother of the bride; and Craig Howie, Bedford, cousin of the groom.

Greg Melton, Jim Henshaw, Seymour; Bernard

Kastner, Abilene; and Paul Prather served as ushers.

Nikki Anderson was flower girl. She was attired in a dotted Swiss, floor-length gown of mint green.

Following the ceremony, the couple were feted with a reception in the fellowship hall of the 14th and Main Church of Christ. Guests were registered by Lori Presley.

A white floor-length cloth draped the bride's table which was centered with a five-tiered cake featuring a flowing fountain. Silver and crystal appointments were used. Serving were Linda Stater, Kathy Hester, Judy Kephart, Carla Howie, Linda Howie, Adria Kastner and Jamie Craig.

Attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rutherford, Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Prichard, Mr. and Mrs. Milford Prichard, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Prichard and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kelley, all of Odessa; and Mr. and Mrs. Ed McCasland, Edgewood.

Other guests attended from Bedford, Robert Lee, San Antonio and Oklahoma.

The bride is a 1977 graduate of Big Spring High School and has attended Abilene Christian University. She is employed by the First National Bank of Abilene.

The groom graduated from Robert Lee High School in 1976 and will graduate from Abilene Christian University next May. He is employed by Texas Pacific Oil Company in Abilene.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the newlyweds will make their home in Abilene.

MRS. JAMES RICHARD CRAIG

Julie Anne Norwood weds Charles Brown

Julie Anne Norwood of Midland and Charles William Brown of Casper, Wyo., were united in marriage Saturday evening in Midland.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Norwood of Midland, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Brown, 2407 Allendale Rd., Big Spring, and formerly of Midland.

The candlelit, double-ring ceremony was performed at 7 p.m. in Midland Lutheran Church by the Rev. Charles W. Meyer, church pastor.

Wedding music was provided by Stephen Spain, organist and Mrs. Terry D. Robinson of Galveston, vocalist. John R. Norwood, Midland, brother of the bride, was candlelighter.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length white gown of crystal organza. The fitted, V-necked bodice had an overlay of silk Venice lace and was trimmed in Chantilly lace. The long, fitted sleeves of organza and lace were also trimmed in Chantilly lace. The A-line skirt had a deep flounce edged at the top with Chantilly lace and tapered into a chapel-length train.

The bridal veil was a walking-length mantilla of illusion scalloped at the edge with lace and gathered to a lace cap. The bridal bouquet was a white cascade of daisies, miniature carnations, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Susan Mendenhall, Midland, was maid of honor. Catherine Ann Brown, San Angelo, sister of the bridegroom, and Carol Lawrence, Beaumont, were bridesmaids. Mrs. Robinson also served as brides matron.

The bridal attendant's floor-length gowns were of organza with lace trim in pastel shades of blue, yellow, green, and apricot. They were designed with an at-the-shoulder ruffled neckline, a fitted bodice and A-line skirts. The attendants carried color-matching bouquets.

Kathleen Kirwan, Midland, was flower girl, and David Pine, Midland, served as ring bearer.

Craig M. Harges, Midland, attended the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Patrick F. Schneider of San Antonio; Fred E. Howard III, Texarkana, Tex.; and Thomas W. Norwood, Midland, brother of the bride.

Stephen D. Norwood and Jeffrey A. Norwood, both of Midland and brothers of the bride, served as ushers.

The reception following the ceremony was held at The Petroleum Club of Midland.

Following a trip to Las Vegas, Nev., and Los Angeles, Calif., the couple will make their home in Casper where Brown is employed as an electrical engineer with Continental Oil Company.

The bride is a graduate of Midland High School and was graduated in May with a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Texas School of Nursing in Galveston. She attended Texas A&M University for pre-nursing study and was a member of the Texas A&M Nursing Society.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Midland's Robert E. Lee High School and was graduated magna cum laude in May from Texas A&M with a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering. He was president of Eta Kappa Nu, honorary electrical engineering society, and is also a member of Phi Eta Sigma, I.E.E.E., Tau Beta Pi and Phi Kappa Phi.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mrs. Frank D. Norwood, Sr., El Paso and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Gaines of Houston, all grandparents of the bride. Also attending were Mrs. Bruce T. Adamson, Columbus, Ohio, sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Fulkerson, Victorville, Calif. Mrs. Fulkerson is the bridegroom's grandmother. Mrs. Lee H. Williamson of Big Spring, great-aunt of the bridegroom also attended.

Pre-nuptial honors included a bridesmaid luncheon Saturday at Midland Country Club. Hostesses were Mrs. Robert Grace and Mrs. Dick Robinson.

The parents of the bridegroom were hosts for a rehearsal dinner Friday evening at The Midland Hilton.

MRS. CHARLES WILLIAM BROWN

'TWEEN 12 and 20

Forget guy

By Robert Wallace, Ed.

Dr. Wallace: My boyfriend lives 250 miles away. He never writes and I have only seen him once in the last two years.

I don't want to give it up because I've known this guy for over 12 years and I care for him. What do you think I should do? — Linda, Wenatchee, Wash.

Linda: I'll swear other teens will think I made up your letter, but only you and I know that I didn't.

My dear, enough is enough. Find yourself another beau. This one is long gone.

Dr. Wallace: My boyfriend, 16, tells me he loves me and that he will never hurt me. Not so long ago, we started really getting serious and we almost "went all the way." But I said no. Well, the other night he said it might be good for us to stop seeing each other for a week, just to see how much we really like each other.

Should I go along with this or should I put my foot down?

I really love this guy a lot and don't want to lose him, but still I don't want to get hurt. What should I do? — Teresa, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Teresa: I think your boyfriend is using this ploy to get what he wants. Give him a week off and don't show that it bothers you.

When he returns, tell him the answer is still no.

Candlelight ceremony solemnized Saturday

Marsham Hoyt became the bride of Robert L. Carlile Jr., in a candlelight ceremony Saturday evening in the St. Luke Methodist Church, San Angelo.

The Rev. Norman Roe, pastor, performed the 7:30 p.m. rite before an altar decorated with white lilies, asters, daisies, snapdragons and baby's breath. Sterling silver altar candles entwined with greenery enhanced the setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Clyde E. Hoyt Jr., San Angelo and the late Clyde E. Hoyt. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Carlile Sr., 2200 Cindy, Big Spring.

Providing the musical selections for the ceremony were vocalists Mr. and Mrs. James Griffin, Carrollton. Jerry Taylor accompanied at the organ.

The bride chose to wear a gown of white mist organza over sand beige quiana by B. Young, Originals of San Angelo when given in marriage by her brother, John Hoyt. Fashioned with a caplet collar floating about the shoulders, English lace spring buds caught up in the edging also enhanced her attire. Designed with a fitted bodice, soft flowerette lace encircling the empire waistline from which an Aline stem skirt, adorned with lace flowers at the hem, fell to a chapel-length train.

A colonial bouquet of minuet roses and stephanotis sprinkled with baby's breath accentuated her bridal ensemble.

Cathy Mayes, Big Spring, attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Gay Byers, Graham; and Allison Massey, San Angelo. They were attired in white over beige off-the-shoulder dresses and each carried a basket of fresh spring flowers.

The groom's father attended his son as best man. Groomsmen were Dale Curlee and Bill Hoyt, both of San Angelo. Bruce Carlile and Kelly Carlile, brothers of the groom, Houston, seated guests.

Casey Griffin, nephew of the groom from Carrollton, served as ring bearer during the ceremony. He carried a pillow made by Mrs. M.W. Tillman of West Point, Miss., grandmother of the bride. Handmade lace made by the bride's great-grandmother and used on the bride's mother's wedding dress, decorated the pillow.

Immediately following the rite, the couple were honored at a wedding reception in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table was draped with white satin cloth and featured a special arrangement of bridesmaids bouquets. A three-tiered cake with beige icing and white filligree decoration was topped with a fresh arrangement of yellow daisies, baby's breath and ivy. Serving were Shanna Garrison, Big Spring; Mrs. Marcus Barnett, Houston; and Karen Hoyt, sister of the bride, San Angelo.

A beige handmade lace cloth, made by the bride's great-grandmother, covered the groom's table which featured a beige iced cake topped with the traditional bride and groom figurines. Kelly Collins, San Angelo; and Kelly Bagley, Dimmitt, served.

The buffet table was enhanced by white linen cloth belonging to bride's grandmother, the late Mrs. C. E. Hoyt. Daisies and ivy accented the setting as centerpiece. Sterling silver appointments were used.

Guests were greeted and registered by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morgan, San Angelo; and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Zellars, Big Spring.

Others in the house party included Charlie Lewis, Big Spring, and Lynn Hargrove, San Angelo.

Guests were entertained by the Jim Wynn ensemble and served champagne from a sterling silver champagne fountain on the patio.

Parents of the groom hosted a rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the San Angelo Country Club.

The bride graduated from San Angelo Central High School in 1974 and attended Southwest Texas State University. She is a 1978 graduate of Angelo State University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in speech and government. She was formerly employed in the Calendars Committee of the House of Representatives in Austin.

The groom is a 1972 graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College and the University of Texas at Austin. He graduated in 1979 from Angelo State University with a Bachelor of Business Science degree in marketing. He is employed by Safeway, Inc. in San Angelo.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Mescalero, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. Carlile will reside in San Angelo.

Engagement party held

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Reynolds, Garden City, announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Rebecca, to Rex Cotten, son of Mrs. Lloyd Cotten, Lamesa, at a party in their home the evening of July 14.

Kristi Reynolds, Marfa, niece of the bride-elect, registered guests at a round table enhanced by a bouquet arranged in a cut-glass crystal pitcher.

The rectangular dining table was covered with a cut-work ecru linen cloth. A silver compote filled with pink sweetheart roses, pink carnations, white daisies, spider mums and baby's breath centered the setting. Silver candlesticks holding ecru tapers completed the scene. Silver appointments were used.

The family room refreshment table was accentuated by an arrangement of bronze and yellow daisies, white statice and yellow freesia. Cooper appointments were used.

The glass-topped table in the garden room was centered with a country-style arrangement of brightly colored fresh flowers.

Guests attended from Rankin, Fort Stockton, Midland, Big Spring, Lamesa, Sterling City, O'Donnell, Lubbock and San Angelo.
