

AFTERMATH OF AIRCRAFT CRASH — An FBI agent takes photographs of the remains of a Prinair commuter passenger plane that crashed Tuesday in St. Croix, U.S. Virgin Islands. Authorities report that eight people were killed in the crash and three were critically injured.

Five Texans die in plane crash

CHRISTIANSTED, Virgin Islands (AP) — Five Texans were among eight persons killed in the crash of a small inter-island plane as it took off from the airport on the island of St. Croix.

The 13 other persons aboard the De Havilland Heron were injured, three of them critically.

The 19 passengers included 12 Texans from Baptist churches in Abilene and Clyde on an annual missionary trip to St. Kitts, in the Leeward Islands.

Puerto Rican International Airlines said the dead were Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Connel Jr., Stephen Sepaugh and Jack Rosinbaum, all of Clyde; Sharon Geyer of Rising Star, Texas; the co-pilot, William Piniero of Puerto Rico, and an unidentified man and woman who were not from the U.S. mainland.

A hospital spokesman said the critically injured were the Rev. Riley Fugitt of the First Baptist Church of Clyde; Caleb Watson of Clyde and the pilot of the plane, Jose Rivera of Puerto Rico.

The other Texans aboard were Mrs. Fugitt, her son Mickey, Pam Patton and Mrs. Preston Porter, all of Clyde. They and the other six injured passengers were reported in stable condition.

The plane had come from San Juan

Tuesday, picked up eight passengers at St. Croix, one of the U.S. Virgin Islands, and was taking off for St. Kitts, 125 miles to the southeast, with a full load.

"The plane took off in a steep incline at first," said an eyewitness, charter pilot Bill Kelly. "It stalled and then it veered to the right before it crashed. The plane's nose and right wing hit the ground at the same time. There was no fire."

Domino tournament to take place in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum

All reports to the contrary, the second annual World's Championship Texas-Style Domino Tournament will take place in its entirety in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum here starting following a barbecue Thursday.

The meal will be served at 11:30 a.m., at the coliseum and play will get under way immediately thereafter.

A total of 66 two-man teams are entered into the competition. New champions are assured, since the 1978 winners, Lowell C. Taylor and Dale Harbin of Kermit, will not compete this year. Taylor and Harbin won a total of $2,000 last year.

Each team entered will play up to 20 games. Entry fee is $50 per player.

Entries are expected from as far away as Phoenix, Kansas City and Oklahoma City.

In Texas-Style play, the play is off one spinner only — the first double played.

There will be no charge for watching the play but spectators will be confined to the gallery section and not allowed on the floor.

George McAlister, who originated the idea of the tournament, is director of the meet. Lloyd McLeod, who co-authored a book on the game with McAlister, will help direct the flow of play.

Co-sponsor of the tournament is American Petrofina Inc. Play will end Saturday night.

Former Amarillo resident replaces Albright

Tillery named Chamber exec

By EILEEN MCGUIRE

At a press conference today, 10:30 a.m., the new executive vice president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce was introduced.

Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, Chamber president, made the announcement that F. LeRoy Tillery of Amarillo had accepted the position, vacant since June 14 when Bill Albright resigned.

Tillery will assume his new duties Aug. 13. His wife, Bette Anne, and their children, Stephen, 16, and LeAnn, 6, will join him as soon as possible.

In making the announcement, Mrs. Avery expressed appreciation to the Search Committee, made up of chairman Jack Redding, Ray Don Williams, Bob Hurt, John Taylor, Jimmy Taylor and George Weeks.

The committee had been responsible for developing criteria for the new executive, selecting and screening applicants, interviewing and narrowing down prospects, and making recommendations to the board.

Tillery, according to Mrs. Avery, was selected from among 18 applicants, two of which were local residents.

Some of the applicants had previous or current chamber experience, but Tillery was selected as being the most suitable to Big Spring's and the Chamber's needs, said Mrs. Avery. Tillery is currently the assistant manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

His background includes extensive training and experience in Chamber and similar management and some personal experience with the aftermath of the closure of an air base.

Tillery went to work as assistant manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce June, 1968. Amarillo lost an air force base that same year when the base officially closed Dec. 1.

The former Amarillo base was converted to an industrial park and the city was faced with what Tillery says was "a lot of hard work" in turning Amarillo into the booming city it is today.

From what Tillery has seen of Big Spring's recovery from the loss of Webb Air Force Base, he said, "It looks very good to me." He said that Amarillo did not have as much construction and other activities underway as immediately after the closure as Big Spring has had.

Tillery said that his only past experience with Big Spring was during college, when he sold encyclopedias in this area.

"I wanted to be a manager for my own Chamber," Tillery gave as his reason for wanting the Big Spring position. He said that he felt it was a position that would allow him to use his experience and other qualifications.

Tillery has had in-depth training and experience with industrial development. Industrial development will be a focal point of Tillery's job duties.

"The primary need here is more jobs to replace jobs lost by the base," Tillery said, adding that a key to recovery is to get everyone involved in it.

As chief executive officer of the chamber, Tillery sees his function as "carrying out the wishes of the board of directors." His primary duties will be implementing decisions of the board.

According to Mrs. Avery, Tillery was highly recommended by Don Hilemon, Amarillo Chamber executive.

"He knows this business inside and out. His strongest areas are in industrial development and overall management of a Chamber," according to Hilemon.

Tillery's experience includes having served as general manager of the Olney Chamber of Commerce, 1966 to 1968. He was district executive of the Boy Scouts of America in Amarillo from 1962 to 1966.

Before entering college, Tillery worked in the oil field and upon college graduation was an instructor

'Not a weed left on Main' goal of cleanup challenge

Main Street here will become a cleanup challenge this weekend if Mrs. A.C. Moore and her friends succeed in an idea.

Plans call for volunteers to gather at 8 a.m., Saturday at 11th and Main for a weed-cutting mission. Their goal: 'Not a weed left on Main.'

It all started when Mrs. Moore answered her own question: 'Have you driven down Main Street lately?' Mrs. Moore has and found that recent rains caused the avenue to look 'weedy and seedy.'

Coincidentally, several boys came by her home at 1907 Main Street looking for work. They began to talk about how Main Street needed cleaning. The youths — James Bailey, John Tinnerstet, Shirley White among them — decided with Mrs. Moore to do something about the problem. Investigation proved that most of the weeds and uncut grass are on private property. The other is getting people to help remove the weeds and trash.

"If any resident can't help and doesn't want his or her front yard mowed, just tell us," Mrs. Moore said. "We need hoes and rakes and lawn mowers. Most of all, we need somebody on the other end of them. Please join us at 8 o'clock Saturday morning at 11th and Main. Let's challenge the residents on Runnels and Scurry streets (in a cleanup drive)."

Mrs. Moore planned to spend today and Thursday at Lake J.B. Thomas, where she is getting her lawn tools in shape for the Saturday project. Her phone number at the lake is 1-573-6063.

German records on turning coal into gas

Scientists intensify search of documents

COLLEGE STATION — More than 30 years after the fall of Berlin, Texas A&M University researchers are finding clues for ways to reduce U.S. dependence on oil imports from records left behind by the German war machine.

Nearly half a million documents weighing several tons, which describe the technical process for turning German coal to gasoline as well as the construction of plants to do the job, were seized by the Allies as Hitler's Germany collapsed.

The documents contained detailed information on synthetic fuel technology developed as early as the 1930s when Hitler began gearing-up his war machine. They include information on the action of catalytic agents, the development of gas generators that were fitted on vehicles, the coal liquefaction process and even the blueprints for constructing plants. The Texas A&M scientists have been going over the records for two years, abstracting the information and providing a description of the material for use by other researchers.

Funding for the massive project is running out, Irgolic said, with nearly 90 percent of the documents still untouched and many of the German insights into synthetic fuel production still buried in the mountains of records.

In another major project that could help reduce the nation's dependence on Middle East oil, Texas A&M engineers are continuing their studies on a clean and safe process to convert lignite coal to gas by burning it underground.

The scientists already have demonstrated the practicality of the process with an experimental well near Rockdale which began producing gas in March. The gas comes from a 15-foot-thick lignite seam 235 feet beneath the surface of a Central Texas cow pasture. Two drill holes 10 feet apart were used; air is forced through one hole to feed and regulate the burn, producing a low grade gas from the other hole. Two days after the test began the experiment was producing gas at an average rate of 400 cubic feet per minute.

"At that stage the gas is roughly enough to run a 1,300 horsepower turbine," said

Dr. James Jennings, a petroleum engineer who heads the project. "But it can produce gas at five times the present volume."

Other than small amounts used in other experiments, the gas was flared off. A collection system was not installed since the first phase of the experiment concluded in April.

"There is good reason to believe the process will work on a commercial scale," Jennings said.

Still other energy research at Texas A&M involves the use of animal wastes to produce methane gas, the use of wood chips for generating power, chemical methods for squeezing more oil out of existing wells, solar studies to develop solar energy and dozens of other energy-related projects.

Carter to speak on TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, seeking to speak directly to millions of Americans tonight in a rare primetime broadcast news conference, says the media have exaggerated the extent of his administration shake-up.

The president and his aides say both U.S. and foreign reporters are blowing up the power of Carter's inner circle of faithful Georgians, especially chief of staff Hamilton Jordan.

House will try once more

WASHINGTON (AP) — With raised energy consciousness, the House is making another try at giving the president standby gas rationing authority. This time leaders are confidently predicting approval.

After rejecting the first plan 246 to 159 on May 10, the House today was considering a recycled and expanded version that has become a major piece of President Carter's energy program.

The House Rules Committee approved the measure by voice vote Tuesday, opening the way for its consideration by the full House.

Rain from Claudette forces evacuations

By The Associated Press

A flash flood warning was in effect until dawn today in Jefferson County where major street flooding was reported in Port Arthur. Groves received 7.60 inches of rain since early Tuesday. Rainfall at the Jefferson County Airport amounted to 3.12 inches by midnight and more was falling.

At Beaumont, 3.86 inches of rain fell between midnight and 4 a.m.

Forecasts called for the remnants of Claudette to drift slowly northward, dumping very heavy rain along the way.

Forecasters issued a tornado warning for Matagorda County early today after several tornadoes were sighted between Matagorda and Wadsworth. There were no immediate reports of damage.

The area offshore from Matagorda and Brazoria Counties was under a special marine warning. Forecasters said wind gusts of up to 50 mph could be expected as the backside of Claudette moved near the coast.

The upper Texas coast between High Island and Sabine Pass was also under a special marine warning for several hours early today. Forecasters warned of high, gusty winds, heavy rain and rough seas.

Small craft operators along the upper Texas coast were warned to stay in port.

A flash flood watch was issued for today for all of Texas to the right of a line from Palacios to College Station. Forecasters warned that up to six inches of rain would likely fall in that area.

Police moved through high water early today to help residents of several Southeast Texas towns evacuate their homes as heavy torrential rain from Tropical Depression Claudette lashed the area.

There were no reports of injuries, but reports from the area were sketchy.

"It's mayhem down here," said a spokesman at the Orange County sheriff's office.

"We just don't know how many people are being evacuated," she added. The spokesman said the residents were being taken to schools in the area where shelters have been set up.

"Some of the schools can't be used because they are flooded," she continued.

Water was at least 18 inches deep in the streets of several cities.

There were unofficial reports that Port Arthur had received about 15-18 inches of rainfall since early Tuesday.

At Bridge City, residents were moved into Sims Elementary School.

Many sections of West Orange were inundated, a police spokesman said.

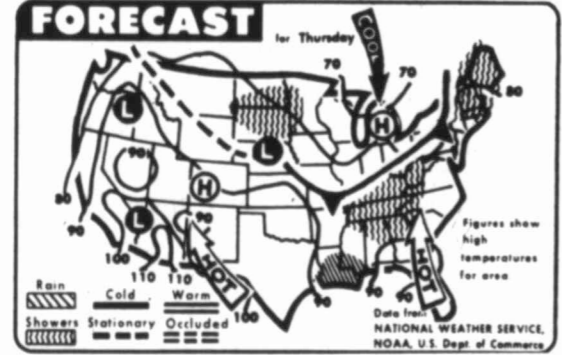

Flooding was also reported widespread at Beaumont, Fannett, Hamshire and Groves.

Claudette's remnants were moving slowly northward in Southeast Texas early today.

The National Weather Service issued numerous warnings and advisories throughout the night.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for Thursday calls for rain over the central-Gulf Coast and showers over the upper Midwest, the Ohio Valley and northern New England.

U.S. Navy Leapfrogs to perform at Reese

Have you ever tried playing "leapfrog" 12,500 feet above the ground? The skies above the Reese Air Force Base, Texas Open House will be filled with the U.S. Navy's Parachute West Demonstration Team "Leapfrogs" as they perform a skyborne display of freefall parachuting.

The Reese Open House is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, August 4 and 5. The Leapfrogs will perform once each day. Their Saturday show is scheduled for 3 p.m. Their Sunday show for 1 p.m. Reese is near Lubbock.

The Leapfrogs are assigned to the U.S. Navy's Special Warfare Group One based at the Naval Amphibious Base Coronado, in San Diego, California.

All team members are selected from the Navy's world famous underwater demolition "frogman" teams (UDT) or the Navy's elite SEAL team. SEAL's are the Navy's counter-guerrilla warfare experts who are trained to conduct small unit operations in hostile areas while operating in and from the sea, air, and land.

During their Reese show, the Leapfrogs will perform the aerial acrobatics, and precision free-fall parachute techniques used by members of the UDT and SEAL teams during combat airborne infiltration operations.

For the convenience of their viewing audience, the Leapfrogs attach colored smoke canisters to their boots and climb to an altitude of 12,500 feet (two miles) above the demonstration landing area. Their show emphasizes split-second aerial maneuvers and landing accuracy.

A jumper can control his freefall rate of descent from a relatively slow speed of 120 MPH to a breathtaking head down speed of 220 MPH by changing his body configuration with his arms and legs.

Following each show, the Leapfrogs will be available to sign autographs and describe first-hand to their audience, the art of parachuting that is their profession.

Other highlights of Saturday's Open House activities begin with a civilian aircraft fly-in from 9 a.m. to noon. A chili cookoff will run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. with an Ol' Fiddlers' contest scheduled from 2 to 4 p.m. The day winds up with a barbecue dinner from 6 to 9 p.m. and a street dance from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Highlights on Sunday will be performances by the U.S. Air Force Drill Team from Washington, D.C., the 539th U.S. Air Force Band from Lackland AFB, Texas and at 3 p.m. the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds Aerial Demonstration team.

Bluster no solution for energy woes

Many Democrats in politics will tell you that Gov. Bill Clements will be a hard man to beat in the next gubernatorial election, even though he isn't of their political persuasion.

People obviously like a man who is not afraid to speak out on any issue. Mr. Clements is prone to do that, whether or not he is well briefed on the subject. The government also comes across as a man against big government, against the welfare state and definitely for the ordinary taxpayer.

Clements makes no bones about being a friend of the oil industry — and why not? He was the founder of SEDCO, the world's largest oil well drilling company. Clements stays in hot water a lot of the time because he talks when perhaps he should be listening. It wasn't too long ago that the governor caused a few ripples by suggesting a revival of the old bracero program. That was enough to throw a pall over the whole Border Governors' Conference in Brownsville. Clements promptly was rebuffed by Bruce Babbitt, the governor of Arizona, who obviously didn't think much of Clements' plan.

A lesser man might have put a zipper on his lip. Not so the Texas governor. It wasn't long before Clements threw caution to the winds and proceeded to blast President Carter for his performance at the Tokyo economic summit. Specifically, he took Carter to the woodshed for proposing to commit the United States to a plan that would limit oil imports to this country.

"We are going to have to create and produce more energy," Clements declared, adding later, "this country cannot stand a no-growth policy."

Clements' remarks reflect the "cheaper-crude-or-no-more-food" philosophy which has been sweeping the country of late: If OPEC doesn't get a little more sensible in its pricing of oil, this rationale goes, we'll just boost the price of wheat, we'll refuse to share our technological knowledge and etc.

The argument won't hold water. The sad fact is that the sheikhs of OPEC are in the catbird seat, as far as the state of the world's economy is concerned. We, on the other hand, have the power to irritate, perhaps even inconvenience them — but no more. Bluster, alas, is no solution to our energy woes.

The governor, if he gains credibility, is going to have to embark upon a more imaginative tact. Still, where votes are concerned, he's saying the things the people like to hear.

How to resign

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Books on etiquette have a way of neglecting to inform you of the correct way to proceed in other than workaday situations. Last fall I opened the pages of Letitia Baldridge's new edition of Amy Vanderbilt's book, to see what the proper form of congratulating a cardinal on the selection of a particular pope — and found nothing. Today I opened it to see what is an appropriate letter of resignation when you have been dismissed by a president as a member of his Cabinet. Incredibly, once again I found no entry.

SURELY JOE CALIFANO'S letter to Mr. Carter is an example of how it oughtn't to be done? Begin with the reality: Mr. Califano was fired — I-ried by President Carter. He wasn't fired because Califano wasn't performing as secretary of HEW. Quite the contrary, Califano was a Stakhanovite secretary of Welfare. He is a man of immense energy. His appetite for social work is the largest since Eleanor Roosevelt's, about whom James Burnham once wrote that she looked upon the entire world as her personal slum project. Joe Califano would have loved it if Congress had tripled his budget, and perhaps tossed him also responsibility for running transportation, the mails, the environment and Andy Young, just to name four national headaches.

You may have complaints against HEW, as who doesn't — Joe Califano's predecessor once told Meg Greenfield of Newsweek that one of the things he had to worry about on Christmas Day was how to persuade women students at the University of Arizona to go out in greater numbers for basketball, otherwise under the law he'd have to cut all subsidies to Arizona on the grounds of sex discrimination. But you shouldn't complain about the way Joe Califano handled what is after all his legal mandate.

SO THE president calls him and — Califano tells the press — says Califano has done a "superb" job, but that the president was undertaking a reorganization, etc. Politicians tend to speak even face to face in the Aesopian mode. This got so bad at one time between President Nixon and Interior Secretary Walter Hickel that, taking mercy, Walter Hickel finally said to the president, "Do you want to fire me?" To which Nixon answered something on the order that he would be immensely grateful if Hickel left.

So Joseph Califano, fired for doing his duty but failing sufficiently to please the Georgian capo Hamilton Jordan, goes back to his office to dictate a letter of resignation. And what does he say? He goes on and on about his gratitude to Carter for serving. He goes on and on about the wonderful work of HEW — three of four paragraphs that must have been taken from his standard speech about the responsibilities of government to the halt and the lame.

Then a cautious paragraph about how anyone who discharges the responsibilities of the secretary of HEW vigorously is bound to initiate "controversy."

The references there are to Califano's anti-tobacco stand, which hurt the feelings of tobacco growers, and his insistence on taking over the University of North Carolina, which hurt the feelings of the people designated by the state of North Carolina to run the University of North Carolina. Then he finishes with the sentence, "I wish you well as you continue striving to fulfill the enormous responsibilities of your office, and to which you are achievements, of which you can be justly proud."

That sentence really stretches the stylistic requirements of good sportsmanship. It comes in closer to Uraiah Heep, Sycophant, than to Knute Rockne, Good Sport.

Early season burn can mean trouble

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am allergic to sunlight and break out in redness and itching rash where I have been exposed. Will you discuss this in your column and give us sun sensitive people some suggestions as to what we might do? I am a female, age 50 — Mrs. P.H.

We are well into the sunning season. I tried to anticipate it earlier with a column devoted to the sun worshipers, but, as expected, this month's mail brought its share of letters just like yours, from those who left themselves "in the oven too long." At least I suspect that in many instances this is what occurs, although there can be other causes, which I'll discuss also.

You may or may not be sensitive. Some people naturally are. Yet the most common cause of reaction is too much sun. A burn at the beginning of the summer can lead to further reactions as the season wears on. You tell me in a part of your letter deleted for space that you have eliminated medicine as a cause. The chief ones are antibiotics, phenothiazines (sedatives), antihistamines, sugar control pills, and barbiturates. Chemical causes include deodorants, cosmetics, perfumes, soaps and — surprise — sunscreen lotions. People with lupus or porphyria are sensitive.

Many people who are otherwise sensitive can tolerate the sun's rays before 10 a.m. or after 3 p.m. when they are not quite so strong. Many people are lulled into false security by labels. No matter what labels say, no product is 100 percent effective for everybody.

For most people soothing lotions and avoidance of further exposure is all that's needed. For severe reactions cortisone or drugs such as those used against malaria may be needed.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is it true that eating laundry starch can make you anemic? — Mrs. P.p.

It won't, but I think I can guess where you got the idea. Of course, laundry starch was not intended to be eaten at any time. Some people do develop strange quirks of appetite, a condition called "pica." Some, women most often, may begin eating things like clay or frost from a refrigerator (a favorite, it seems) or any substance that takes their fancy. Some eat starch by the boxes. The point is that general nutrition suffers because of this emphasis on one, usually unwholesome, part of the diet. Anemia results eventually.

Dear Dr. Ruble: This is in reference to your note for the family with the aphasic (speech impaired) stroke patient. As an occupational therapist, I have worked with such patients and realize the frustration they and their families experience. I'd like to recommend an aid I've found helpful and easy to make — communication cards. I cut out pictures of the most needed items — brush, glass of water, food, book, clothing etc. — and glue them onto index cards. I hook them with a binder or string. This allows the patient to communicate at least some of his needs and restore some confidence. — O.T.R.

Fine. I neglected to add a note in the earlier aphasia item about the importance of speech therapy, specifically. Many speech therapists across the country would remind me.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am 86 and slightly hard of hearing, but whenever I blow my nose hard I can hear wonderfully well. What is the cause of this? — M.J.

Probably blockage of the eustachian tube. There are two of these running from the throat to each middle ear. Air in the tubes equalizes pressure on both sides of the ear drums allowing them to vibrate properly. If a tube is blocked, hearing is diminished. Your blowing apparently unblocks your tubes, allowing the drums to vibrate better. Look into the cause of the blockage.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know you are a very busy man. Do you personally write all the speeches you give and also your daily newspaper column? — J.E.

DEAR J.E.: The writer of Ecclesiastes in the Old Testament once said, "There is nothing new under the sun" (Eccles. 1:9, New International Version). I have often thought of that as I have spoken or written, because I know that what I say may have been expressed many times before by other people.

Through the years, God has given me some wonderful people at various stages of my ministry to help me in research for my sermons and writings. There have been times, however, when I have had no one to help in these areas, and I have almost broken physically under the strain of trying to get everything done. Members of my team, conscious of my need for new and fresh material, are constantly handing me items they have gathered from the Scriptures or from the press or other sources that they feel would be helpful.

Others also help from time to time with comments or suggestions. My greatest help through the years has been my wife, Ruth, who has merged her amazing capabilities into my own ministry. She also helps me on a regular basis with this column, as does one of my staff who does research and editorial work. Each column, however, represents my own answer to the question asked.

I hope you and other Christian people everywhere will pray that God will give us the wisdom we need as we seek to serve Him in the many opportunities we have to proclaim the Gospel. Pray that all of us engaged in this ministry will be faithful to God's Word, because that is His promise of God Himself that His Word "will not return to me empty, but will accomplish what I desire and achieve the purpose for which I sent it" (Isaiah 55:11, NIV).

Cold chills

Around the rim

Robbi Crow

"Hi! My name is Talking Tina, and you better be nice to me!"

Ten years later, I still get cold chills every time I think of those words. Whatever possessed me and my brother as kids to stay up late at night watching horror flicks on the tube, I'll never know. I do know, however, what didn't motivate us (actually just me, I was the chicken) to stay up late watching "Dracula," "Count Yorga the Vampire," and "The Twilight Zone," — bravery or guts.

Prior to positioning myself in front of the television set, I made sure I was bundled up with plenty of blankets and pillows to cover my eyes and ears during the scary parts. I turned on every light in and outside of the house; and I made sure I had a clear path down the hall just in case Dracula and his fangs got too close.

TODAY, I'D rather be horse whipped than watch a horror movie. They stick with me too long afterward, returning in the form of nightmares.

It's been quite a while since I've had a dream about Talking Tina, but I still think about her.

Talking Tina was doll in an episode of "The Twilight Zone" that belonged to a little girl who was living with her mother and stepfather.

And believe me, this wasn't any ordinary baby doll. For some reason or another, she was out to get that stepfather.

While at the dinner table one night, Talking Tina winked at the stepfather, who, at the moment, was quite amazed at what his step daughter's doll could do.

"I didn't know your doll could wink," he said.

"She can't, daddy," said the little girl.

So, the stepfather told the little girl to leave her doll at the table and go outside and play. After she had left, he lit his cigarette lighter and held it up to Talking Tina's nose.

"Ouch, you burned me," she said. "If that man had any sense at all, he would have left the country. I would have. I mean those going to believe you when you say you had a conversation with a plastic doll?"

As the show progressed, the stepfather was sitting on the couch watching television with his wife when the telephone rang.

"Hi! My name is Talking Tina, and I'm going to kill you!"

NOW DON'T LAUGH. To a 9 or 10-year-old kid, that's pretty scary. Especially if that kid's got a closet full of dolls. I did.

Toward the end of the episode, the stepfather became obsessed with killing the doll before she killed him.

One night while he was in bed, he heard the water dripping in the bathroom. When he got up to turn it off, it stopped. He proceeded to go downstairs. That he shouldn't have done because positioned on one of the steps was Talking Tina. The stepfather tripped over her and fell down the stairs to his death.

Both the mother and daughter ran down the stairs to see what had happened. Lying right next to the stepdad was the doll.

All of a sudden, she opened her eyes and smiled and said...

"Hi! My name is Talking Tina, and you better be nice to me!"

I bet they were, don't you?

WASHINGTON — The long-simmering feud between President Carter's two top foreign policy advisers, Zbigniew Brzezinski and Cyrus Vance, has bubbled over again in the administration's handling of the Nicaraguan civil war.

Thanks to Brzezinski's ability to detect the Russian Bear behind every international development, Vance was pressured into proposing that the Organization of American States send a "peacekeeping force" into Nicaragua to prevent a Marxist takeover. This suggested return to the days of U.S. "big stick" diplomacy was rejected out of hand by the OAS, leaving Vance with egg on his face.

IN FACT, OUR associates Gary Cohn and Bob Sherman have learned, the secretary of state was bitterly opposed to the idea of intervention, correctly sensing the suspicions with which it would be received by gringowary Latin American nations. Behind the scenes, Vance argued that even a suggestion that the United States wanted a continuation of its dominance in Nicaragua was unwise, unethical and unworkable.

But because of Brzezinski's near-hysterical fear of communist influence among the Sandinista guerrillas who toppled President Anastasio Somoza, Vance was instructed by Carter to make the foredoomed suggestion that the OAS intervene, even though Vance personally opposed such a plan.

While the latest manifestation of the Brzezinski-Vance feud was apparently over a genuine disagreement on policy, there is a widespread suspicion in Foggy Bottom that the continual sniping is really a reflection of the National Security Council chief's overweening ambition.

In short, Brzezinski wants to be the man who dictates foreign policy to a president woefully inexperienced in international politics.

The key to an understanding of Brzezinski's avellian maneuverings, his critics say, is his intense desire to match or surpass what he sees as the achievements of his predecessor, Henry Kissinger, who ruled U.S. foreign policy under Presidents Nixon and Ford.

The Constitution explicitly bars a foreign-born citizen from becoming president, but there is nothing to prevent a naturalized American from gaining great influence as a presidential adviser. Like the German-Born Kissinger, Brzezinski, who was born 51 years ago in Poland, is seen as taking the best route open to him in the quest for power.

Like Kissinger, Brzezinski has a background in Ivy League academia. And like Kissinger, he has "rotted" under "him a few feathers" in Washington with his combative personality and a sometimes arrogant exercise of raw power. His Polish background is believed to explain his unwavering Cold War hostility to the Soviet Union.

BRZEZINSKI'S UNDOUBTED abilities have so far persuaded Carter that he is to be relied on, though he enjoys far from universal respect among the president's inner circle. Hamilton Jordan, the new White House chief of staff, refers to Brzezinski jokingly as "Woody Woodpecker"; Brzezinski returns the compliment by referring to Jordan as "Porky Pig."

As for Vance, the Nicaragua fiasco wasn't the first time the urbane secretary of state was humiliated by Brzezinski's street-tough tactics. In the midst of SALT negotiations with the Russians, for example, Vance was embarrassed when Brzezinski tried to telephone Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko — who diplomatically refused to take the call.

Vance has also suffered, State Department sources say, from deliberate leaks out of Brzezinski's office that put the blame for the Iranian situation on the CIA — when in fact Brzezinski had ignored State Department warnings that the shah was in serious trouble.

ALTHOUGH IT IS ONE of the worst-kept secrets in Washington, the White House steadfastly denies the Brzezinski-Vance feud. A spokesman for Brzezinski also claimed the reports of a dispute between him and Vance over Nicaragua are "malicious and untrue."

It seems doubtful however, that Carter can succeed in this endeavor with a zigzag foreign policy — zigging with Ziggy one day and zagging with Cyrus the next.

A BETTER IDEA: The Ford Motor Company recently signaled its support of gasohol by presenting to Brazilian President Joao Batista Figueredo a new Ford modified to run on 196-proof alcohol made from sugar cane.

Bundy found guilty of two murders

MIAMI (AP) — Theodore Bundy, a quiet law student who never forgot Mother's Day, waved at the courtroom crowd after a clerk read the verdict — guilty of murdering two women and trying to kill three others at Florida State University.

Bundy's mother slumped backward and his lawyer paled at the verdicts late Tuesday, but Bundy waved and smiled, and later told a friend he was simply perplexed.

Prosecutors promised to ask for the death penalty. The same 12-member jury that convicted the 32-year-old Tacoma, Wash., resident will remain sequestered to hear arguments on sentencing Saturday and Monday. A simple majority vote is needed to recommend life or death. Judge Edward D. Cowart can overrule the jury.

The jury deliberated six hours to end the 4½-week trial. Bundy was found guilty of first-degree murder in the deaths of Lisa Levy, 20, and Margaret Bowman, 21, both of St. Petersburg, Fla.

They were beaten with a crude oak club as they slept in the Chi Omega sorority house at Florida State University in Tallahassee, Fla., on Jan. 15, 1978. Both were garroted with panty hose.

Bundy also was convicted of attempting to murder Kathy Kleiner DeShields, 20, of Boca Raton, Fla., and Karen Chandler, 21, of Marietta, Ga., both Chi Omega members, and Cheryl Thomas, 22, a student from Richmond, Va., who was attacked in her apartment.

In addition, Bundy was found guilty of two counts of burglary.

Prosecutors argued that Bundy's crooked teeth left a crude wound on Miss Levy's body, eyewitness Nita Neary said she saw Bundy leave the sorority house and hair similar to Bundy's was found in a panty hose mask in Miss Thomas' duplex.

The defense argued the case was built on shoddy police work and shaky dental evidence.

Bundy's 54-year-old mother, Louise, fell against the back of her courtroom seat as the verdicts were pronounced. She has called Bundy "the kind of son who never forgets Mother's Day."

"I can't believe it," she said. "This isn't the end. There will be appeal upon appeal..."

Prosecutor Larry Simpson said, "It was a common-sense jury and they used their common sense. We certainly will ask for the death penalty."

Bundy's long-time friend and supporter, Carole Ann Boone of Seattle, said Bundy called her from jail after the verdict. "More than anything he was perplexed," she said. "He was really baffled at the short amount of time the jury was out and the evidence they chose to review."

Bundy also faces trials on charges of murdering 12-year-old Kimberly Leach of Lake City, Fla., and Dearborn, Mich., nurse Caryn Campbell, 23, in Aspen, Colo., in 1975. He has been convicted of kidnapping in Utah, where he was arrested in 1975 while attending law school.

After Bundy escaped from a Colorado jail in 1977, the FBI described him as wanted for questioning in 36 sex-related slayings.

He has been charged only in Utah, Colorado and Florida.

Australian coal would be cheaper?

WASHINGTON (AP) — San Antonio Mayor Lila Cockrell told a congressional hearing Tuesday it may be cheaper to buy Australian coal than bear the rail freight costs for the domestic variety. After the city decided in 1973 to convert its electric generating plant from oil and gas to coal, it found the rail shipping costs from Wyoming to San Antonio rose substantially.

Mrs. Cockrell told the Joint Economic Committee the coal freight rate rose 133 percent between 1973 and 1978 in order to subsidize the railroads' less profitable operations.

"Frankly, our crystal ball just didn't show anything like that escalation," she said. "This certainly is not going to be an incentive for other cities and utilities to convert to coal."

The mayor said she recently started negotiating with the Mitsubishi Corp. of Japan to find if shipping Australian coal by water routes might be more economical than the Wyoming to San Antonio rail route.

"It seems ridiculous to me that there is even a remote possibility that we can better serve our citizens by importing coal from halfway around the world than we can by using our own resources," she said.

Norman Lorentzen, president of Burlington Northern Inc., said the prospect of foreign coal purchases might be a "gimmick" utilities and cities are using to dramatize their claims of excessive rail rates.

"There are no conflicts between the goals of the American rail industry and a sound national energy policy. Without a viable rail industry, this nation simply cannot have an effective energy policy," he told the committee.

Lorentzen said his railroad, which hauls coal to San Antonio, has invested more than $665 million to equip its coal hauling service.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, the committee's chairman, said a balance between energy and rail transportation goals is needed.

"I want to make it clear that in my judgment the revenue needs of the rail industry are real and pressing. But this need cannot be allowed to jeopardize national energy policy goals," he said.

The senator said it was "ridiculous" that Texas and Florida utilities were finding it cheaper to import coal from South Africa and Poland than use American coal shipped by rail.

Don Jordan, president of Houston Lighting and Power Co., said the company was abandoning its plans to convert more plants to coal because it found the freight rates rose too much after it started a coal conversion program.

"We do not feel that our customers should bear such a disproportionate cost of revitalizing the nation's railroads," he said.

Controversy over birth continues

Test-tube baby celebrates first

LONDON (AP) — Louise Brown, the world's first authenticated test-tube baby, is a year old today, but the controversy set off by her birth continues.

"She is the perfect baby, pretty, big for her age, and very forward," her 32-year-old mother Lesley told the Daily Mail, which signed an exclusive contract with the Browns before the baby was born.

"She began talking at 10 months, and we think that she's not only going to grow up into a very pretty blonde but a very intelligent one too," Louise's 39-year-old father, John, told the newspaper.

Mrs. Brown could not have a baby normally because the fallopian tubes leading to her womb were blocked and the blockage could not be removed surgically, the same problem 40 percent of the infertile women in the world have.

She went to gynecologist Patrick Steptoe and physiologist Robert Edwards, who had been doing pioneer research for 12 years into microsurgical techniques for fertilization in vitro, meaning in glass, and embryo transfer.

The British doctors took an egg from her ovaries, fertilized it with her husband's sperm in a glass dish in

TEST TUBE BABY IN MARCH ... Louise Brown of England (AP WIREPHOTO)

Steptoe's laboratory in Oldham, and reimplanted it in Mrs. Brown's womb where it developed normally.

"We found nature could not put an egg and sperm together, so we did it. We do not see anything immoral in doing that," Steptoe said.

Louise was delivered by Caesarean section on July 25, 1978, at Oldham General Hospital. The government Medical Research Council confirmed she was the first test-tube baby on record.

The births of at least two other test-tube babies have been reported since, one, a girl, in Calcutta, India, on Oct. 3, 1978, and the other, a boy, in Glasgow, Scotland, on Jan. 14. Both infants were reported normal and in good health.

But with these and other test-tube births said to be on the way, religious leaders, scientists and many others are still divided over religious, ethical, scientific and legal issues raised.

20-year pin awarded to chief's secretary

Two longtime city employees received awards at Tuesday's regular meeting of the Big Spring City Council.

Doris Smith, chief's secretary at the Big Spring Police Department, was awarded a 20-year pin. She and her husband Leonard moved to Big Spring in 1958.

She joined the police department in 1959 as a radio dispatcher, and in 1962 was promoted to traffic clerk. She became an intermediate clerk in 1964, and in 1972 was named secretary in the department.

She was promoted to her present position in May of 1978.

Donald Hamilton was awarded a five-year pin. He and his wife Nancy came to Big Spring in 1968, and he joined the Fire Department in January of 1974 as a firefighter. He was promoted to the position of driver in 1975, and in June of this year he was promoted to his present position as Fire Inspector.

Baseball heads TV favorites

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An estimated 18 million Americans tuned in to the "50th Annual Baseball All-Star Game" July 17, giving NBC its first top-ranked show this year in the national Nielsen ratings.

But the All-Star game and a CHiPs rerun at the No. 16 slot were NBC's only entries in the top 20 for the week that ended Sunday, and CBS remained top banana with an overall average of 14.7 in the ratings released Tuesday.

CBS has finished or tied for first in four of the last five weeks. ABC, continuing its ongoing game of tagalong, had a 14.5 average for the week while NBC trailed with 13.9.

The last time NBC had a No. 1 show was on Oct. 17, 1978, and it was also a baseball game, the final contest of the Dodgers-Yankees World Series.

Although ABC had five of the top 10 shows — six, if you count the tie between "Mork & Mindy" and "Laverne & Shirley" at the No. 10 position — two CBS telecasts, the "Miss Universe Pageant" and a rerun of "The Jeffersons," took second and third place, respectively.

The A.C. Nielsen Co. bases its ratings on a survey in which each rating point represents about 750,000 homes. The ratings are used by networks to determine advertising rates.

Last week's top 10 shows and their ratings, as announced by Nielsen:

- 1, "50th Annual Baseball All-Star Game," 24.4 (NBC);
- 2, "Miss Universe Pageant," 22.7 (CBS);
- 3, "The Jeffersons," 20.7 (CBS);
- 4, "Three's Company," 20.7 (ABC);
- 5, "Fantasy Island," 19.7 (ABC);
- 6, "Alice," 19.2 (CBS);
- 7, "Taxi," 18.7 (ABC);
- 8, "Sunday Night Movie: War Games," 18.6 (ABC);
- 9, "Dallas," 18.4 (CBS);
- 10, "Mork & Mindy," 18.0 (ABC).

At the bottom end of the ratings were three ABC reruns: "Operation Petticoat," with a 6.7 rating; "Hardy Boys Mysteries," 6.3; and "Battlestar Galactica," which finished 60th with a 6.1 rating.

The rest of the bottom 10:

- 51, "Friday Night Movie: Reincarnation of Peter Proud," 10.0 (ABC);
- 52, "The Lovebirds," 9.3 (CBS);
- 53, "The Paper Chase," 9.2 (CBS);
- 54, "Good Times," 9.1 (CBS);
- 55, "NBC Special Report: The Day They Landed," 9.1 (NBC);
- 56, "Project UFO," 9.0 (NBC);
- 57, "Saturday Night Movie: 'Animal Crackers,'" 8.6 (CBS).

Marriage with a twist

HARRINGTON, Del. (AP) — The wedding chapel was a stomach-churning carnival ride, the wedding march was rock music blaring through two loudspeakers, the reception room was a big red-and-blue striped tent and the bridal suite was the floor of a tractor-trailer truck covered with blankets.

As for the honeymoon — well, it was non-existent for Bob and Shirley Johnson, who had to get back to work at the Delaware State Fair.

The two, who had been engaged for four years, tied the knot Monday on the Himalaya, a train of silver cars that twirl riders both forward and backward.

Johnson, 36, and his 35-year-old wife, veterans of more than 40,000 miles across the United States with the James E. Strates shows, were married by Kent County Clerk of the Peace Edith Hemphill, who called the ceremony "probably the most unusual I have ever performed."

"We just always wanted to get married on a ride," said Johnson, who has run the carnival's ape and giraffe shows for the past nine years.

Aliens snub airfield

LONGMIRE, Wash. (AP) — So far, alien beings have snubbed an airfield built for them near Mount Rainier.

Members of the New Age Foundation, which built the "spaceport" 13 months ago, are now building the signal tower. At the top will be a pyramid-shaped metal device to transmit thought energy provided by group members, says Wayne Aho, New Age Foundation leader.

The group will gather in a circle around the tower and clasp hands to form a giant "battery." Aho said. The friendly thoughts will soar skyward and can be received by the spaceships, Aho says.

The UFO landing field is located on the 14-acre headquarters of the New Age Foundation near the entrance to Mount Rainier National Park. It was above Mount Rainier in 1947 that an airline pilot reported the first flying saucer sightings on record.

Hamsters suffer setback

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Okaloosa County commissioners, alarmed when a North Florida hamster was awarded a psychologist's license, have voted to end the practice of supplying the certificates to all who apply.

The commissioners passed an emergency ordinance Tuesday limiting psychologists' occupational licenses to persons already holding state-certified licenses or having a Florida Psychology Association certificate supporting their professional qualifications.

Busing supporters say amendment defeat good

WASHINGTON (AP) — House opponents of a proposed constitutional amendment to ban busing as a desegregation tactic say its defeat Tuesday was a victory for "basic human rights." But supporters vow the issue will come back to haunt its detractors in upcoming elections.

"I recommend that we dispose of it by soundly defeating this constitutional amendment and demonstrating to the world that the United States is not going to turn the clock back on basic human rights," said opposition member Rep. Mendel Davis, D-S.C.

Supporter Rep. Robert Dornan, R-Calif., predicted 10 to 15 House members will not return to Congress in 1980 because they voted against the measure.

"Seats will definitely change," he said, adding that anti-busing amendments will be brought up for a vote at every opportunity. The amendment, proposed by Rep. Ronald Mottl, D-Ohio, and originally endorsed by a majority of House members, failed on a 216-209 vote. A two-thirds majority was required for passage.

The amendment would have prohibited the busing of any public school student to a school other than the one nearest the child's home. Mottl says busing causes "white flight" and actually makes public schools more segregated.

Not All Roots Bear Uprooting

DEAR ABBY: I can understand the adopted child's desire to know who his "real" parents were. I'm sure that almost every person who sets out to find his "real" parents imagines that he or she is the product of a beautiful, impetuous love affair between a couple who were forced by circumstances to part.

Such is not always the case. A child can be born as a result of lust, greed, fear, intimidation, blackmail, rape and a number of other ugly situations. Abortions were not always possible, and if they were, many would have refused.

Before a person starts searching for his "roots," I suggest he or she ask this question: Would I be more or less happy if my real mother were to say to me, "I don't know who your father was. You were conceived in a brothel and he had $5." Or, "I got drunk one night and found out later that I was pregnant. When I told the boy, he took off and I never saw him again."

Or, "Your father forced my car off the road one dark night."

Or, "I was an Army nurse in World War II and your father was a superior officer and I was afraid to report the attack." Who would want to be the product of an affair between the Jewish girl in Holocaust and the prison guard who promised to keep her young Jewish husband alive in return for her favors?

I think someone should point out that these mothers might well be protecting their illegitimate children from further pain by disclosing the circumstances of their conception.

SPEAKING FOR MYSELF

DEAR ABBY: Our son has been going with the same girl for the last four years. They met in college and have been going steady ever since. We have met her and like her very much.

They are planning to marry this November. Although we live in the same city as the girl's parents, we have never met them. I know of no reason for this except that neither side has ever taken the initiative.

Is there any rule regarding which set of parents is supposed to invite the other first? If the parents of the boy are supposed to make the first move, when and how do we go about it?

HIS FOLKS

DEAR FOLKS: It's your move. Telephone the girl's parents and tell them how happy you and your husband are about the engagement. Then invite them to join you as soon as possible for lunch, dinner, cocktails, tea or whichever is mutually convenient.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter thinks she knows everything. She says that if children have the same father but different mothers, they are half sisters and brothers. But if they have the same mother and different fathers they are stepsisters and brothers.

I say that when children have the same mother but different fathers or the same father but different mothers they are considered half sisters and brothers.

And stepchildren are simply "adopted" children. Please straighten this out since we are having some very loud arguments about it.

PROVING A POINT

DEAR PROVING: Stepchildren are the children of one's husband or wife by a previous marriage. Half-sisters and half-brothers are sisters and brothers through one parent only.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-you-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (25 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

JUNK FOOD DISPLAY — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader is pictured beside a display of what he termed junk food Friday in Washington. Nader said the display describes how food factories are shortchanging consumers' health and weekly budgets.

TwEEN 12 and 20 — Baby sitter's dilemma ---what to charge?

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Baby sitters: Money is at the root of the most common complaints teen-age baby sitters have regarding their employers, according to a recent magazine survey.

Responding to a query to describe their biggest babysitting problems, the greatest number of problems focused on the "right" hourly rate to charge. While the rate varies anywhere from $1 to $2 per hour, the average fell at about $1.25. There seems to be a "going" rate in each neighborhood, and anyone who baby-sits regularly should occasionally check around to see what the rate is.

Another common complaint was directed at those parents who have a new baby and then expect their regular baby sitters to care for him as well as an older brother or sister, without offering a raise in hourly rate.

An increase in the hourly rate is also expected if an employer wants a baby sitter to help with cooking or cleaning, in addition to caring for a child.

Judging from the letters, a number of mothers expect a teen-ager to be both sitter and housekeeper for $1.25 an hour.

Finally, if the parents shortchange the baby sitter, the sitter is faced with a dilemma: does she risk irritating the parent by bringing it to her attention, or does she shortchange herself?

Dr. Wallace: I've got a really bad problem. I'm 15 and I went to my first party last weekend. I got drunk and was hanging all over a guy I hardly knew.

He called me a few nights ago and asked me out. Now I'm worried that he thinks that I hang all over every guy I meet, because I don't.

What should I do? — Megan, York, Pa.

Megan: First off, stop drinking and by no means drink on your date. Then apologize for your unusual behavior at the party. Tell him it won't happen again and make sure it doesn't.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 AND 20 in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mavis Ann Ray honored at champagne brunch

Mavis Ann Ray, bride-elect of Joseph Frank Griffith, was honored with a brunch Saturday at the Big Spring Country Club.

Special guests attending were Mrs. Guy Griffith, mother of the prospective bridegroom and daughter, Mary and Mrs. Dewey Ray, the honoree's mother. Mrs. Rhett King, Paris, Tex. sister of the bride-to-be was the special out-of-town guest.

Hostesses were Mrs. James Duncan, Mrs. Ike Robb, Mrs. Horace Garrett, Mrs. Don Newsom, Mrs. R.H. Weaver and Kelly Weaver.

The hostess gift was white nylon organza place mats embroidered with yellow rosebuds and smilax with matching napkins. The champagne brunch was served at four tables, seating six, covered with white lace cloths with celery linen overlays. Each table was centered with bouquets of the bride-elect's chosen colors of peach, blue and cream in Sonia peach roses, delphinium blue flowers, blue bells and crocus and cream and ecru carnations, white cysanthemums and baby's breath.

The champagne table was draped with a cream lace cloth with a celery linen overlay and centered with a large arrangement of the same bridal colors of peach, blue and green. Silver appointments were used. The couple plan to be married Aug. 11 in the First United Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m.

Three hijack Bangladesh airliner; hold 38 hostages

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Three hijackers commandeered a Bangladesh airliner across the Indian border to Calcutta today and threatened to kill their 38 hostages one by one unless the Bangladesh government delivers a $1 million ransom, informed sources said.

The hijackers were believed to be Bangladesh citizens. Informed sources who asked not to be identified said they were told the hostages included a member of the Bangladesh parliament and the chairman of the Bangladesh tourism corporation.

The Biman Airlines plane was hijacked 10 minutes after it took off from the Bangladesh garrison town of Jessore, 60 miles from Calcutta, bound for the Bangladesh capital of Dacca.

The Fokker F-27, a twin-engine prop-jet that carried 43 persons, landed in Calcutta at 8:45 a.m. and was quickly surrounded on one side of Dum Dum airport by security police.

Two hours after its arrival, a woman and her 2½-month-old child were released, the Dum Dum Airport manager said. He said 41 persons, including the hijackers and a four-member crew, remained on board.

Atizur Rahman, the Bangladesh deputy high commissioner in Calcutta, the equivalent to a consul general, began negotiations for the release of the passengers and plane shortly after it landed.

Rahman was joined later by a group of Bangladesh officials who flew in from Dacca.

LONE SAILOR — Lone American sailor Gerry Spiess, 39, of White Bear, Minn., gets a kiss from his wife, Sally, as they are reunited here Tuesday aboard his 10-foot long sailing boat "Yankee Girl" after he had sailed across the Atlantic.

Virginia to England U.S. sailor does it solo

FALMOUTH, England (AP) — The solo sailor from Minnesota's White Bear Lake says loneliness was one of the worst things about his 54-day Atlantic crossing in his homemade, 10-foot sloop.

"I badly missed company and had to pass the time reading books and magazines," said 39-year-old Gerry Spiess after he docked the Yankee Girl here at the southwest tip of England to the cheers of 10,000 Britons.

Spiess hadn't spoken in so long "he sounded as though he needed a drink of water," said his 37-year-old wife, Sally, who flew to England with his parents, Louis and Jeanette Spiess.

The Yankee Girl was the smallest craft ever to cross the Atlantic from west to east, displacing the 12-foot Nonoalca in which American William Verity made a 68-day voyage in 1966 from Florida to Ireland.

However, the Guinness Book of World Records says the smallest trans-Atlantic voyager was the April Fool, just under 6 feet, in which Hugo S. Vihlen, another American, made an east-to-west crossing from Morocco to Florida in 1968. His time was 85 days.

Spiess, a former employee of the Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co., set out from Virginia Beach, Va., and encountered the usual hazards of a solo ocean crossing in a small boat.

He told a reporter that after one "particularly bad storm the thought crossed my mind that I might have to give up. I felt very despondent during these times, but the boat handled fantastically, beyond my expectations."

"He got pitched overboard after some bad weather when the seas were still rolling," his wife said. "He told me he climbed back so fast he scarcely got wet."

"I did have some bad moments, but I'm absolutely delighted to have made it at last," Spiess told reporters.

"He shows no sign of ill effects," said Mrs. Spiess, who helped make the beef jerky that was a major item in her husband's diet. "He looks tan, looks good. I don't think he's lost any weight."

"It was fantastic to see him in such great shape. He didn't even seem all that tired."

Refugee status in Texas uncertain; money gone

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State welfare officials say Texas' ability to take care of needy refugees from Vietnam and Cambodia depends on a supplemental appropriation pending in Congress.

Right now, says Richard Gresser, program manager for the Indochina Refugee Program of the Department of Human Resources, almost all federal money is gone. No state money is involved.

"Due to the increased numbers being received in the state the funds (from Health, Education and Welfare) are insufficient and without them we cannot operate," Gresser said Tuesday. "There is no state money furnished."

Gresser said refugee assistance operations for August and September, will depend on a supplemental appropriation to HEW now pending in Washington.

Texas has an estimated Indochina refugee population of 27,000, the second largest in the nation.

Gresser said about 3,000 of these receive financial and medical assistance through state welfare administration. Monthly payments have been about $100,000 a month in Texas or about $30 per person, on the same basis as Assistance to Families of Dependent Children.

He estimated the refugee program will cost about $3 million during this financial year, all federal money.

He said many of Texas' refugees were sent to other states first but moved to Texas because of the climate.

Houston has about half of the refugees receiving assistance, Gresser said, but there are sizeable populations also in the Beaumont, Port Arthur and Dallas areas.

Adult mud puddle

Four-wheelers hit the grime for title 'King of the Slime'

HOUSTON (AP) — It's been said that the only real way to tell the difference between adults and children is by the cost of their toys.

Now couple that axiom with the apparent fact that children seem to have an almost magnetic attraction to anything resembling a mud puddle, and the result is the premise behind Boggin International north of Houston.

Here is four-wheelin' citystyle as every kind of vehicle from Subarus to tractor-trailer cabs plow through axle-deep muck in side-by-side trenches 100 yards long, battling for the title of King of the Slime.

As many as 1,000 people at $3 a head line up next to the pits each Sunday to get splattered with brown, Gulf Coast mud the consistency of overcooked chocolate pudding and watch drivers of $15,000 four-wheel-drive pickups burn out their clutches.

"Instead of going up into the backcountry around Austin or other places to run their dune buggies and off-road vehicles, people come here," said Larry McShaffry. "Because we're closer to the city, I think the fuel shortage has helped rather than hurt us."

McShaffry said he used to operate a tow-truck and made a lot of money "going out to the boonies to rescue people who got their vehicles stuck."

"There's 380,000 pickup trucks in Harris County alone, so this operation seemed like a natural," he said.

Besides the muck-filled dragstrip, Boggin International also offers an obstacle course for dune buggies and motorcycles, a sand-covered dragstrip for more conventional rates and an oval dirt-track.

"We even have a small, spring-fed lake for swimming," McShaffry said. "We offer entertainment for the entire family."

Sure enough, there was an entire family there — George Michel, 45, his wife Maryann, and their son and daughter, all of Spring, Texas.

"We were just out for a Sunday drive on the freeway and saw the sign, so we decided to stop in because our son is bananas over cars and motorcycles," Michel said.

"It's not the NASCAR 500," he said with a grin, "but it is automobile racing, even though it's a little crazy."

A stockbroker with Merrill Lynch, Charles Wade, pointed to a yellow Jeep parked nearby when asked why he was spending his Sunday watching this muddy mayhem.

"I do some four-wheelin' in Houston. There's still some places where you can go sliding through the mud and have a good time," he said. "We came out here to see these guys sliding around."

Also watching the sliding was a bare-chested man in a baseball cap who identified himself as a minister — he was wearing a cross to prove it — but declined to give his name, fearing his congregation wouldn't understand his spending a Sunday in such a manner.

"We drive by here on the freeway all the time and see the sign, and we always wanted to see what it was like," he said. "This is the first Sunday I've had free in six months."

As he cautiously scanned the crowd for familiar faces, he said he probably would enjoy the show much more if he could only relax.

Weekend supplies better,

Gas increases 1.7 cents

HOUSTON (AP) — The price of gasoline is still climbing toward $1 a gallon, and this week it increased an average of 1.7 cents per gallon in Texas, the American Automobile Association reports. Last week the average increase was 1.3 cents.

In its weekly survey of 420 Texas service stations, AAA also found slightly fewer service stations are open at night and more are limiting purchases or are out of at least one grade of fuel.

Statewide 23 percent of the stations are open after 8 p.m. weekdays, while 39 percent will be open after 6 p.m. Saturday. Last week, 26 percent were open week nights, with 43 percent open Saturday night.

Talking with service station owners, AAA reports the decrease in night availability is partly caused by stations operating longer during the day. Others say they are closing nights to save gas for Saturday and Sunday.

Although the statewide figure for Sunday fuel availability stayed the same this week — 30 percent of the stations expected to be open several cities, such as Austin, Corpus Christi and Houston show an increase in Sunday availability.

Twenty percent of the stations in Austin, 50 percent in Corpus Christi and 21 percent in Houston say they will be open this Sunday. The corresponding percentages for last week were 14, 45 and 19.

As July fuel allocations begin to run out, 7 percent of the stations surveyed reported that they are out of at least one grade of fuel, compared to 3 percent last week.

Also, 8 percent of the stations say they are limiting purchases (not counting stations under the odd-even sales plan), compared to 2 percent last week.

AAA reports stations along Interstate highways in small towns and rural areas still have good fuel supplies, and travelers should have few problems finding gas, except at night in big cities.

Gasoline prices continued their upward spiral, with self-service premium gas showing the highest increase, up 2.5 cents to 91.4 cents per gallon.

Current average full-service prices (last week's average in parentheses) are: Regular 87.9 cents per gallon (86.2); unleaded 91.8 (89.9); and premium 92.1 (91.7).

Average self-service prices are: Regular 85.5 cents per gallon (83.9); unleaded 89.3 (87.6); and premium 91.4 (88.9).

The average price of diesel fuel rose from 89.7 to 90.8 cents per gallon.

Forsch hurls 4-hitter at Cubs

HOUSTON (AP) — Three games ago, the Houston Astros were looking for the bottom of a horrendous slump and wondering where they had lost the great pitching, heads-up base running and clutch hitting that had put them on top of the National League West.

Astros pitchers, who led the league in complete games with 34, hadn't lasted a full nine innings since July 5, and the team had lost 13 of 15.

But Houston ace Joe Niekro gave Houston a full game and a win Monday for its second consecutive victory, and the Astros made it three in a row Tuesday as they backed up Ken Forsch's nine-inning, four-hit pitching with 15 base-raps to blast Chicago-6-1.

"We've got our game going again," Houston Manager Bill Virdon said. "Our problem was we just weren't getting any hits, and you can't run the bases when you're not getting any base runners."

"We've had good hitting the last three games and our pitching is as good as it ever was," he continued. "I think the team is breaking loose now."

The Astros, not known for their prolific hitting even when they were playing like worldbeaters, did more than break loose Tuesday.

Every Astro except Terry

Puhl got at least one hit, and Puhl made up for his lack of hits by getting on base enough times to score two runs.

Houston got one run in the first inning when Puhl took first on a fielder's choice, stole second with two out and scrambled home on one of Jose Cruz's patented high-bouncing, infield hits.

The Astros broke the game open with a three-run fourth. The scoring started when Enos Cabell singled, moved to third on Jeff Leonard's hit and crossed the plate on a grounder by Alan Ashby to shortstop Ivan DeJesus, who bobbled the ball trying to start a double play.

Then Forsch hit a grounder that forced Leonard at third and moved Ashby to second. Julio Gonzalez followed with a double that scored both baserunners.

Houston got its fifth run in the sixth inning when Leonard singled, moved to second on Art Howe's hit, took third on a fielder's choice and streaked home on Forsch's suicide squeeze bunt.

The next inning saw the Astros scoring one more time as Puhl slapped a grounder through the legs of first baseman Bill Buckner and took second on the error. He moved to third on a single by Jose Cruz and scored when Cabell hit into a double play.

Smith vying for starting spot with Chiefs

As Kansas City training camp opened last week

By NATHAN POSS

As John Thomas Smith reported to the Kansas City Chief camp last weekend in Liberty, Missouri, he must surely have hoped that his second year in the NFL is more stable than the first.

Last year, as a rookie free agent, Smith entered the Washington Redskins camp as a defensive back. He made the final cut of the veteran team, and things looked bright for John, his wife Sandra and young daughter Kelly.

But three weeks into the regular season, the Redskins were at a shortage of running backs. Washington then signed former Arkansas running great Ike Forte, and subsequently released Smith.

Smith then began a series of Monday and Tuesday tryouts with Philadelphia, Atlanta and Kansas City.

Kansas City finally signed Smith, and he finished the season there, playing the final seven games on the specialty teams.

Smith, who set a District 5-AAAA record in his senior season at BSHS by catching 61 passes for 1,050 yards, later starred as a safety and punt returner for Hayden Fry's North Texas State teams from 1974-77.

This role of versatility has also impressed both the Washington and Kansas City coaching staffs, as he was used as a backup both offensively and defensively during last year for both squads.

Kansas City Head Coach Marv Levy is hoping to utilize Smith on offense and the specialty teams this year, Smith indicated before departing to camp last week.

Smith made his mark as a Chief during a 23-0 victory over San Diego in one of his first games in a Kansas City uniform, winning one of the very few game balls that were given out to any team members. His game ball was for his outstanding hitting on the specialty teams on that afternoon.

Shortly afterward, the 6'2", 185-pounder signed a series of three one-year contracts with the Kansas City organization. His salary, of course, is based on his ability to make the final roster each year.

But after last year's experience of moving from one team to another, he feels confident of his ability to make a contribution to the Kansas City team, and even to contend for a starting position as a wide receiver. "Just learning what is expected of you as a pro and getting that first year in definitely makes me more confident this year," Smith said last week during lunch at the Spanish Inn. "I won't worry as much about the cuts (during training camp) and should be able to concentrate more."

Yaz slams 400th career homer

By The Associated Press

Mike Morgan wasn't even born when Carl Yastrzemski broke into professional baseball, but he became part of the Yaz legend Tuesday night.

Morgan, who won't turn 20 until Oct. 10, was on the mound in the seventh inning of a tie game when Yastrzemski, who will be 40 on Aug. 22, unloaded his 400th career home run, the 18th player in history to reach that mark.

"I figured I had waited long enough," Yastrzemski, who hadn't homered in 19 games, said after his two-run shot sparked the Boston Red Sox to a 7-3 victory over Oakland. The drive landed in the rear of the A's bullpen in right-center near the 380-foot mark.

"It was a fast ball and I hit it good," said Yaz. "Yeah, I watched it and I felt it that one didn't go out, then I didn't know when I'd hit another one."

Orioles sweep twinbill

Baltimore left fielder Gary Roenicke's leaping catch in the eighth inning robbed Seattle's Bobby Valentine of a grand slam to preserve the first-game victory. Then John Lowenstein hit a grand slam of his own and drove in six runs in the nightcap. The Orioles, who have won seven games in a row, extended their lead in the AL East to five games over Boston.

Yankees slip by Angels

Pinch-hitter Lou Piniella singled home the winning run off Dave LaRoche with two out in the seventh after a walk to Jerry Narron and Chris Chambliss' single. Ron Davis, 9-1, was the winner, allowing just one hit in four innings after starter Luis Tiant was tagged for long home runs by Willie Aikens, Rod Carew and Dan Ford.

Brewers continue winning

Gorman Thomas and Buck Martinez homered and Paul Molitor and Dick Davis hit RBI triples as the Brewers recorded their 11th victory in 12 games and handed rookie sensation Pat Underwood his first major league defeat in six decisions.

Johnson's blast lifts Indians

Cliff Johnson slammed a tie-breaking two-run homer in the top of the ninth and Rick Wise won his seventh straight decision with a seven-hitter. Cleveland's Andre Thornton tied it in the fourth with a two-run homer.

Templeton leads Cardinals

Garry Templeton hit two doubles and a triple, collected two RBI and scored twice, leading St. Louis over Atlanta behind Pete Vuckovich's six-hitter. Bob Horner drove in two of Atlanta's runs, with a double in the first off Vuckovich, and a homer in the ninth.

Mets rally by Giants

Alex Trevino's two-out single in the 12th inning drove in the tie-breaking run, leading New York over San Francisco. John Stearns later capped the rally with an RBI single for the winning run.

Dodgers rout Phillies

Dusty Baker slugged a grand slam homer and Ron Cey hit a three-run shot as Los Angeles routed Philadelphia with a season-high 22-hit attack. Winner Burt Hooton gave up Greg Luzinski's 10th home run, a three-run shot in the first inning for the Phillies' runs.

Red Sox capture Marfa Tourney

MARFA — The Big Spring Red Sox swept three consecutive games and the Marfa Indians Baseball Tournament in the process over the past weekend. The Red Sox started their championship march by defeating the Alpine A's by a 6-3 score. They then rallied in the semifinals to upend the Van Horn All-Stars and take a 10-9 victory.

The Red Sox then captured the championship in convincing fashion, slugging out a 17-1 decision over the Kermit A's.

There were numerous outstanding performances by the Red Sox, most noticeably the All-Tournament play of Frankie Rubio and Joe Martinez, and the MVP Award won by Adam Yanez.

Others aiding the Red Sox winning cause with their efforts at bat and in the field included Tony Lujan, Ernie Garcia, Mike Gamboa Paradez, Mechie Sarmiento and Amano.

Out of the park home runs were belted by Garcia, Lujan and Rubio.

Red Sox pitchers Gamboa, David Cruz, Kubio and Jimmie Lujan also were instrumental in winning the crown, as they stopped the enemy hitters effectively.

The Red Sox would like to thank all of the sponsors that helped them. Their winning trophy is on display at Sportsworld.

Carr joins Celtics

BOSTON (AP) — M.L. Carr says he wants to bring a championship to Boston, and Celtics President Red Auerbach says the slick forward is in the mold of the old Celtics who brought many a National Basketball Association trophy home.

"In order to get the best opportunity to be on a championship club, I felt it was here in Boston," the 6-foot-6, 205-pound former Detroit Piston said Tuesday at a Boston Garden news conference where the club announced his acquisition.

"There will be a championship during my years here," said Carr, who signed a multi-year contract as a free agent. Terms of the pact were not disclosed, but Carr noted, "It's got me smiling."

"He is reminiscent of the old Celtics," said Auerbach, who coached the Celtics to numerous NBA championships between 1946 and 1966. "He's a guy that will play a role. ... We want to get into the old Celtics mold."

Carr, who led the NBA in steals last season, also tossed in 1,497 points for an average per game of 18.7, second best on the Pistons. He also hauled down a total of 589 rebounds.

Angels rout Wink Wildcats

KERMIT — The Saunders Angels advanced into the championship round of the Teen-Age League district tournament by walloping the Wink Wildcats by a score of 15-2.

Tommy Gutierrez, with relief help from Blake Rossos, hurried the victory. Moe Rubio and Russell Stukel led the Angels hitting with two hits each.

The Angels face the winner of the Wink-Alpine game at 6:00 tonight.

Quiet, please! Players concentrating

around to watch the progress of play. At the table, starting at the left, are Walter Wheat, Harold Hall, Gil Jones and Don Reynolds. Jack Cook (in cap) and Hal

Battle gather at the table, perhaps to offer advice on occasions. Howard Schwarzenbach (with arms crossed) and Jim Zack watch from afar. Some of the players are warming up for the second annual National Texas-Style Championship Tournament starting Thursday in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

SLOW BUILDUP TOWARD A FAST FINISH — Champ Rainwater (far right) cautiously makes a play in a practice round of dominoes at the Big Spring Country Club. Competing with Rainwater are, from the left, Earl Reynolds, Jim Zack and Charles Sweeney. None of the four men here lays claims to be a champion but all play a deliberate, determined hand. They'll be close to the action in the domino tournament starting here Thursday.

COMING OUT WITH THE 6-BLANK — Jim Zack, who has played a few hands of dominoes in his time, is thinking far ahead as he comes out with the 6-blank on this play. The action in the second annual National Texas-Style Domino Tournament gets under way Thursday and continues through Saturday.

'WORTHWHILE PLAY' — There are enough 'rocks' on the board at this stage of a domino game to count for something, if the player can figure out the right combination. Someone is playing off the spinner and looking for a heavy score. At least five doubles are already in play.

QUICK WAY TO COUNT — The Chinese abacus is the quickest way to tabulate a domino score. Here, the fingers of a player nimbly check off points for a game. It's a thinking man's man and the fellow not well briefed in mathematics soon gets lost in it.

Council post may be filled

COAHOMA — The Coahoma City Council will consider a replacement for former councilman Clifton C. Harrison at its regular meeting, 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the City Hall.

Harrison resigned his seat on the council June 19, saying that he disagreed with certain procedures. The council has operated with the vacated seat since that time.

The council will also consider revising the animal ordinance and hiring an outside employee for an, as of yet, undisclosed purpose.

Begin recovers slowly

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin is recovering slowly after being hospitalized for a blood clot that blocked a small artery in his brain, and his doctors say they will stop issuing daily medical bulletins of his condition.

Dr. Assa Harel of Hadassah Hospital said Tuesday that Begin was continuing to improve gradually as expected, but there were no dramatic changes.

Two family doctors reached by The Associated Press said that from the information released by the hospital they believed Begin had suffered what commonly is called a stroke. Begin's doctors have refused to use the term because it usually indicates paralysis and is not a precise medical word.

Begin was expected to be released next week, and his doctors said he should be able to function normally in office.

British actors protest

LONDON (AP) — Actors and actresses mingled Tuesday with showgirls, ballerinas and impresarios, slowing traffic to a crawl in Piccadilly, as 3,000 British entertainers gathered to protest the theater policies of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's government.

The mile-long procession Tuesday from Hyde Park Corner to the royal opera house at Covent Garden was organized by the actors' union, Equity, to protest cuts in government subsidies and an across-the-board increase in sales tax.

Among the participants was Susan Hampshire, star of the television series "The Forsyte Saga."

"The Scrooge-like cuts by the government will only worsen what is already a critical situation," said Sir Ralph Richardson, 76-year-old stage star and veteran of more than 42 British and Hollywood movies.

Gays picketing movie

NEW YORK (AP) — The producer of a movie starring Al Pacino as a detective who goes on a psychopathic murder spree after discovering his own homosexuality says "we're not making an anti-gay picture."

"All we're doing is making a film called 'Cruising,'" says producer Jerry Weintraub. Gay rights groups contend the film's portrayal of homosexuals harms their cause.

The movie focuses on an undercover police officer, played by Pacino, who is supposed to stop killings of homosexuals in Greenwich Village, where the movie is being made.

However, the detective goes on a psychopathic killing spree when he uncovers his own homosexuality.

Protesters showed up Tuesday during filming. Many called the mayor's Office of Motion Picture and Television to demand a halt to the movie.

Telephone directories are not address books

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has news for phone book users — the directories are not address books.

"We feel the purpose of the telephone directory is to properly list phone numbers," Jan Morrison, Bell's phone book production manager for Texas, said Tuesday. "The postal service will be glad to answer questions about a zip code."

Mrs. Morrison told a Public Utility Commission hearing the phone company has been asked several times to list zip codes with addresses but decided against it.

"Zip codes can easily be confused with telephone numbers," she told commission lawyer Allen King. A general map showing zip code zones is included in directories of larger communities, she added.

"But isn't it a fact the telephone book really is an address book?" King asked.

The company doesn't think so, she replied.

Mrs. Morrison testified at a hearing on several changes Bell wants to make in phone books.

The company wants to add a "blue pages" section listing government agencies and community service phone numbers. White pages would be divided between residential and business numbers.

Separate surnames in the white pages would be listed once, with given names, addresses and numbers indented underneath.

Yellow pages would not change.

King said he thought the proposed changes could go

Oil slick could reach Texas coast in 10 days

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Scientists gathered here to trap the northerly meandering of a Mexican oil slick are predicting portions of the slick could drift into U.S. waters within 10 days.

But Coast Guard Cmdr. Joel Sipes, leader of the multi-agency effort, warned that precise tracking of the slick is impossible.

Dr. Jerry Galt, a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration scientist, predicted the bulk of the thick slick probably will remain south of the border. But he added, "The problem for us is to try to figure out how the patches will move."

Galt said several patches have split off from the main slick. The oil has been gushing since June 3 from an exploratory well drilled in the Bay of Campeche by the Mexican national petroleum industry.

The northernmost patch was located 220 nautical miles south of Brownsville.

Officials have said as much as 30,000 barrels of crude are escaping daily.

Sipes reluctantly acknowledged that the team's task is similar to recent attempts to predict where the ill-fated Skylab would fall.

The scientists said some of the patches are as much as 10 miles wide.

A South Carolina scientist hired to study the Texas Coast, said, "The trick is to keep the oil out of the bays."

Dr. Miles Hayes spent a week studying the Texas Gulf Coast. He rated portions of the Coast as to their relative vulnerability to damage from the crude.

"If we could control where the oil would go, it would be on those fine-grain beaches," Hayes said as he pointed to strips of Texas beaches on a map.

Hayes said previous work with slicks has shown that sandy beaches are relatively easy to clean. He said the beaches do not absorb the oil and probably would suffer lasting damage.

But he warned that four passes connecting the Gulf with the interior bays must be blocked if threatened by oil. He said the southern Laguna Madre and Corpus Christi Bay are among the more vulnerable spots.

He also said marsh and mangrove areas could suffer much environmental damage as well as damage to wildlife.

Lt. Cmdr. Jim Paskevich said booms could be used as physical barriers to protect the interior waters.

Sipes cautioned reporters at a Tuesday news conference the team is working under a "worst case" situation. He explained that all the predictions are tentative, but that the team is preparing for the worst possible situation.

Galt said oil probably will hit shore at Cabo Rojo, Mexico — a sparsely populated area south of Tampico.

He also said aerial reconnaissance and shipboard study has shown that the slick varies in thickness and color.

He said some of the areas are so thick that when he threw a paper airplane off the deck of a Coast Guard cutter, "The airplane goes down, sticks, stops, and stays vertical."

"If you pick it up, it's like warm fudge."
