

REDUCED TO RUBBLE — The ruins of a west Houston apartment complex smoulder late Tuesday afternoon in the aftermath of a seven-alarm blaze. More than 100 fire units worked for three hours to bring the fire, which destroyed almost 1,000 apartments, under control. Fire officials have called the fire the worst in Houston's recent history.

Apartment fire 'worst in history'

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Mayor Jim McConn said today he will ask that a tabled ordinance requiring fireproofing of wood shingle roofing be enacted at once in the wake of a huge apartment complex fire that left 600 to 800 persons homeless Tuesday.

restrictions on woodshingle roofs for multi-unit residential projects. One councilman tagged the proposal for further study.

McConn said he would ask the council to suspend the two-week tabling action today and pass the ordinance.

"This fire didn't originate in the shingles but they contributed greatly to the spreading," McConn said.

Under terms of the ordinance, wood shingles would be permitted for multi-units only if they are installed on solid wood decking covered with asbestos.

"The dog saw it and started barking," Nancy Wood, 44, said in recalling that the beagle, Blue, gave her the first warning of the fire.

Even as the sun was setting, six hours after Blue barked at the red flames, the gutted buildings radiated a glow. Firemen still shot water to the structures. And residents tried to sort out their lives.

The Red Cross and others quickly set up shelters for the homeless, and two bulletin boards in the apartment clubhouse were filled with offers of help; homes for the night, free meals, animal shelters, storage areas.

For some, though, the tragedy was too great.

"Go away, please," said a young man with soot-stained clothes.

His roommate, 25-year-old Rod Hainey, explained they had lost everything in the seven-alarm fire.

"There was nothing to save," said Hainey, his face reddened by the flames. "Everything was burned."

"We just moved from Canada," added Hainey. He said they just moved three months ago and work for themselves in the construction business.

Behind him, on the tennis courts, people arranged plush velour sofas and oak china cabinets, preparing for the night.

Police Chief Harry Caldwell said the area would be well guarded, and issued passes to residents to let them back in. All others would be kept out of the fired area, littered Tuesday night by on-lookers with expensive cameras.

For Caldwell and others, the fire was the second disaster in a week.

Tropical Storm Claudette chased 5,000 out of their homes last Wednesday and Thursday, dumping up to 30 inches of rain on the northeast Texas coast.

More than 12,000 homes were damaged in the flood.

"Thank God nobody was killed," said Jim Privette, the designer for planned renovation of the Woodway Square Apartment clubhouse.

"We're getting lots of help from a lot of people," he said. "I'm impressed with the people offering help."

Privette saw the fire as he flew into Houston from Denver Tuesday afternoon.

Mary Jane Carpenter, who drove past the blaze on her way home, said, "It was a huge column of billowing black smoke—just a mass of flames."

"I've never seen anything like it in my life."

Privette doesn't know if the clubhouse will be remodeled now.

"It really doesn't make any difference at this point," he said.

Standing beside the swimming pool were two young women in bikinis—their only clothes.

"Everything, everything's gone," mumbled Peggy Gardner, 19, a waitress in Cowboy's restaurant. "No shoes, no money."

She and roommate Bette King, 21, spent the day at a Galveston beach about 30 miles south of Houston.

"When we got home, our apartment was burned to the ground," Ms. Gardner said.

The first thing they did was call their parents in Buffalo, N.Y., who had already heard reports of the fire.

Then they started looking for the apartment manager, to get their $600 security deposit.

"That's the only money we have," Ms. King said.

But they hadn't yet secured a bed for the night.

"We're taking one thing at a time," she said.

House asking price Carter may not be willing to pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is ready to give President Carter the gas-rationing authority he wants, but only at a price he may be unwilling to pay — repeal of part of his month-old mandatory thermostat-setting program.

The House was meeting today to complete action on the rationing legislation after giving the president the latest in a long string of unwelcome energy surprises late Tuesday.

The rationing bill's floor manager, Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., says adoption of the thermostat-law rollback has added new controversy to the legislation and again put its passage in jeopardy.

And leaders are no longer as optimistic that the legislation can be placed on the president's desk by the end of the week — the start of the monthlong congressional summer recess.

The apparent rationing victory the House gave the president Tuesday night was short-lived. It was followed up by a 267-152 vote to repeal the law championed by Carter requiring commercial buildings to set their thermostats at no less than 78 degrees in the summer and no more than 65 degrees in winter.

That law has been in force only since July 1, but member after member took to the floor of the House — itself held at an energy-saving 78 degrees — to complain about how uncomfortable Americans have been under the law.

Under the amendment by Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, buildings could be exempt from the temperature control law if utility bills — or other documentary evidence — could be produced to show that an equivalent amount of energy had been saved through other means.

Dingell said there's no question about the White House position on the amendment — it's opposed.

"We tried to stop it but there was nothing we could do," Dingell said. "It's just another example of the House approving something it didn't understand."

Clear selling for boat owner

If you went knocking on doors, trying to sell a boat "with all the extras," chances are a lot of people might ask "where is the lake I'm going to use it in?"

A boat owner obviously had great faith in The Herald's ability to sell such an item however. He placed the following ad in the paper: "17 foot blue and white V bottom Glastron with 130 HP inboard motor, walk-thru windshield, heavy duty trailer with spare tire. AM-FM tape player, skis, life jackets included. Excellent condition."

The subscriber to the ad says he received numerous calls on the offer. He asked that the ad run for a week but sold it on the fourth day and called to stop it.

Whether you have a boat to sell, or a camel to buy, the best place to let people know about it is with a "people ad" in the Herald. Call 263-7331 to include your ad in the Herald.

Recent rains push averages far above normal readings

Rainfall Tuesday and Wednesday brought the amount for July far above the normal amount for the month, and boosted the yearly total very close to the normal amount.

The official total for Big Spring for the month is 6.29 inches. Normal July amount is 2.11 inches.

The normal amount for Jan. 1 through Aug. 1 is 10.82 inches. The official total for Big Spring so far this year is 10.61 inches, according to experimental weather station staff.

Total amount for Tuesday and last night is .35 of an inch.

Moss Creek Lake received 1.8 inches between last night and this morning. Lake Thomas got only a trace.

Mrs. Bill McElvain at the Wilkinson Ranch west of Big Spring reported 1.25 inches fell Tuesday afternoon and this morning. "The crops are looking fine," she said. "This rain is really making them grow." A gauge near Lake Spence received .75 of an inch Tuesday and Wednesday.

Near Luther .3 of an inch was reported from a shower that began around 4 a.m. A lady there reported that the "crops are sure looking good."

The U.S. experiment farm weather station in Big Spring received only traces.

Midland received .45 of an inch. A CRWMD official said Lake levels would not be affected by the rains from the last two days but that consumption would probably be lowered by 35 percent. He said this will be caused by less lawn watering and less use of evaporative coolers due to rains.

Bill Creger, principal of Elbow School in Forsan, reported that 0.8-inch of rain was registered at the school Tuesday and another 0.2-inch this morning. About an inch of rain was received in the area during the two days.

A light sprinkle of rain was reported in the Ackerly area this morning. Amounts varied Tuesday. About two miles south of Ackerly, 0.5-inch of rain was registered. Rain amounted to about 0.7-inch just outside of Ackerly.

In the Lenorah area of Martin County, 0.3-inch was reported to have fallen Tuesday morning. Additional rain this morning brought the gauge up to the 1.12-inches mark.

According to the Glasscock county agent's secretary, Carol Montgomery, Garden City received an abundant 3.5-inches of rain Tuesday and another inch reportedly fell about midnight.

At the Planter's Gin in Lomax, one-inch of rain was registered Tuesday and another 0.25-inch fell during the night.

The Knott area near the Coop Gin received about one-inch Tuesday with another 0.1-inch falling this morning.

The Flower Grover area reported no rain today, though the area received 0.5 to 0.7-inch Tuesday.

The Dawson County Extension Office reports that one-inch of rain fell in and around Lamesa Tuesday. The western part of the Dawson County received from 0.2 to 0.6-inch of rain. A light shower was reported in Lamesa this morning.

Music maker Bradley resigns to take Snyder High School job

Bill Bradley, identified with music making in the Big Spring school system for 13 years, has resigned to become assistant high school band director at Snyder High School.

At Snyder, he will become assistant to Sammie D. Robertson, who resigned recently as band director at Forsan High School to take charge of the band program at Snyder.

Bradley served as band director at Big Spring High School for 12 years, during which time the Steer Band became recognized throughout the state.

Bradley instituted the "Campus Revue" programs here, which invariably drew capacity houses and paid for many of the band's activities and trips.

Steve Waggoner succeeded Bradley as high school band director here a year ago, when Bradley expressed a desire to shift some of his work load. He then became an assistant to Waggoner and the band director at Runnels Junior High School.

Under Bradley, local musicians won district, regional and state awards too numerous to mention. Several of his "Campus Revue" productions were presented before state dignitaries in Austin.

Bradley's replacement here has not been named.

BILL BRADLEY

Robertson replaces Don Eiring, who is leaving the school teaching profession for a job with an oil firm. Robertson taught in Snyder Junior High from 1975 until 1977.

Robertson, like Bradley, is a graduate of Texas Tech University in Lubbock. Robertson has served as band director at Hearne, Seminole and Lockney, as well as at Forsan.

Attracting investments stressed by TESCO exec

The state's natural gas supplies could be delivered to the northeastern United States in the event that region suffered a severe oil shortage, an official of Texas Electric Service Company has warned.

right out of the state of Texas or one of the other producing states," TESCO Vice President Wes Taylor said during a Public Utility Commission hearing on the company's state request in Austin.

Taylor testified Monday in connection with TESCO's request that it be allowed to maintain a fuel oil reserve of 2 million barrels.

Referring to the federal government's goal of forcing Northeastern utilities to use natural gas instead of oil, Taylor said Texas natural gas — including that under contract to Texas Electric — could be diverted for that purpose.

"Now, of course, those utilities have to get the natural gas somewhere. One of the things we fear is they are going to look down here and say, 'That company is in pretty good shape. They've got lots of lignite. Let's take their gas and give it to the people in the Northeast.'"

"You know," Taylor said, "there's more senators and congressmen from the Northeast than there are in this part of the country."

He said Texas Electric is trying to prevent the kind of thing that has happened to Northeastern utilities, some of whom are paying as much as $25 a barrel for their fuel oil.

Taylor concluded his testimony in the company's $88 million rate increase request and was followed by TESCO accountant Judy Voss. She testified as to the source and validity of the financial and accounting data in the company's rate request.

Company treasurer Dave Kelch began his testimony Tuesday on TESCO's ability to attract the financial investment necessary to continue its program of changing to cheaper, more abundant fuels to generate electricity.

In testimony filed with the PUC, Kelch said the company's financial position remains inadequate to continue its construction program on terms most favorable to its customers.

"The burden of financing our construction program and the continuing effects of inflation on all costs are holding earnings below a level that is adequate to maintain our financial integrity," Kelch said.

He pointed out that last January, TESCO's parent company, Texas Utilities, for the first time in its history had to sell common stock below book value.

"Due to the persistent inadequacy of earnings, TU stock continues to trade on the market at a price below book value," he said. "These factors are damaging our ability to attract, at the lowest possible price, the capital required for our construction program."

TESCO is building new generating plants that use lignite coal and nuclear fuels instead of high-priced natural gas and oil. Although customers do not pay construction costs, they do pay for use of the construction funds, which must be obtained by selling stocks and bonds.

Machine operator sentenced

CHICAGO (AP) — A snowplow operator who took his rig on a rampage that killed a man during the city's January blizzard has been sentenced to 90 days in jail.

"I am sorry this tragedy happened," said Thomas Blair, 44, of suburban Sauk Village as he was sentenced Monday. Blair had pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless homicide. Circuit Judge George Marovitch also sentenced him to 21 months of probation.

The victim was James Holman, 41, a passenger in one of the cars smashed by Blair's snowplow on Jan. 24 as Chicago dug out from the blizzard of Jan. 13-14.

Twin in okay condition

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Siamese twin Elisa Hansen is in satisfactory condition after minor surgery to adjust the incision on her head made when she was separated from her sister, says hospital spokesman John Dwan.

Her twin, Lisa, remained at home in Ogden during the operation Tuesday at the University of Utah Medical Center. The 21-month-old twins, born joined at the top of the head, were separated May 29 after 16½ hours of surgery.

Dwan said the followup surgery is "not uncommon in cases of major surgery." He said the operation took about an hour.

Liberal laws adopted

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The state Supreme Court has adopted what some say are the nation's most liberal rules on lawyer advertising — one paragraph that says counselors must not allow misleading or fraudulent ads.

But some lawyers don't appear anxious to hawk their trade. "I think it's horrendous," said Philadelphia trial lawyer Mark Mendel. "I think lawyers who advertise are anathema."

The court last week formally repealed several pages of rules that specifically prohibited advertising in newspapers and on radio and television.

Car workers laid off

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The number of Dayton-area employees laid off by General Motors Corp. has grown to 1,585 with the furloughing of 675 workers at the Delco Air Conditioning Division.

The layoffs at Delco will begin Friday and will continue for two weeks. The 675 workers represent 11.7 percent of the division's 6,100 hourly workers.

Last week, 910 production workers were idled at GM's Inland and Delco Moraine divisions. A fourth GM division in Dayton, Delco Products, has not announced any layoffs.

Ex-husband of murder victim offers reward

PLAINVIEW — Robert Bradic, ex-husband of murder victim Lela Mae Bradic, 35, has offered a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who committed the crime.

The woman was found stabbed and shot to death at her beauty salon here last Thursday.

Police questioned about 15 persons last week but came up with no suspects in the case.

Several teaching jobs vacant in Big Spring

Several teaching positions remain to be filled on the Big Spring public school staff, according to Harold Bentley, assistant superintendent.

The school district is accepting applications for an assistant band director's position on the high school level and is in need of several Special Education teachers.

Also, Math and Science positions on the seventh grade level are open, along with several coaching jobs on the sub-variant level.

Bentley also said the school system is in need of a speech therapist.

The faculty will report for an in-service training program Aug. 20, a week before classes take up here.

A public hearing on the school budget will be held Thursday, Aug. 9, according to Supt. Lynn Hise.

FLYING HIGH — Jack Peterson, left, of Berkeley, Calif., and his ground assistant, Dan White of Santa Cruz, Calif., landed in Big Spring Tuesday on their way to Kitty Hawk, N.C. Peterson's flight is a bit unusual in that he is making his journey from California in a hang glider that he made from an original kit. He says that he has reached altitudes of near 8,000 feet but usually keeps it at 2,000 feet above ground. They have been in the air for three weeks and expect to reach their destination in 10 days.

Apricots, tomatoes posing problems in Howard County

The local County Extension Office has had an unusual amount of calls in recent weeks about problems with tomatoes and apricots according to Don Richards, Howard County Extension Agent.

A high percentage of these problems with tomatoes involve plants infected with Curley Top. This disease is our most common problem on tomatoes. Small tomato plants turn yellow and die. Larger plants appear to be during the winter. Hor-

Closer examination reveals branches curving downward, leaflets rolling up and twisting. The leaves are stiff and leathery with purple veins on the bottom of the leaf. The entire plant will often be a dull yellow.

This disease is difficult to control. Resistant varieties are not readily available. The virus is spread by the leafhopper, not by mechanical means.

Spraying to kill the leafhopper is not practical as the leafhoppers move from plant to plant fairly rapidly. The insects come from surrounding weeds in the spring, so weed control around the garden may be helpful.

Researchers have shown that leafhoppers prefer to feed in full sun. Light shading of all but a few plants may keep most of them from becoming infected.

Many apricot trees have died this spring and summer in Howard County. Others have many dead limbs and appear to be declining. Most of these deaths appear to be caused mainly by severe weather and improper care rather than disease organisms.

He'll get back empty bottle

MORAGA, Calif. (AP) — Almost 20 years ago, Alan Puccini polished off a jug of red wine, scribbled a note that he stuffed inside, and tossed it into the Atlantic.

This week, he'll get it back.

Puccini, now 38, says he was about a day out of New York from Genoa, Italy on Aug. 18, 1959, when he penned a note that included his parents' address in Atherton, Calif., and heaved the bottle into the Atlantic.

Last week, his phone rang and a voice said, "I've got something that belongs to you."

Scot Scotty of West Palm Beach, Fla., said he found the bottle while in the Bahamas and tracked Puccini down using the address on the note. Puccini said Scotty told him a friend would be flying to the West Coast this week with his bottle.

Odessa police joining union

ODESSA — More than 90 of Odessa's 134 police officers have indicated they plan to join the International Brotherhood of Police Officers Association.

A chartering session was held at a local restaurant this morning.

The police union, which has offices in Austin, reportedly was contacted by Odessa police officers following the dismissal of assistant police chief Tommy Callendar from the force.

Deaf-mute charged in murder

DALLAS (AP) — A deaf-mute charged in the strangling death of a prostitute may not be tried for a year because of communications difficulties, prosecution and defense attorneys agreed Wednesday.

Jerome Fisher, 27, has been in custody since his July 14 arrest in the death of Dorothy Armstrong and held on $25,000 bond. His attorney has asked Judge James Zimmerman to reduce the bond to $5,000 so Fisher can return to his family.

Zimmerman is conducting a hearing on that request and also must decide if Fisher adequately understands his legal rights.

Two sign-language experts had to explain to Fisher the meanings of the words "judge," "court" and "trial." The hearing marked Fisher's first appearance in a courtroom.

One of the sign-language experts said it will be "some time" before Fisher comprehends sign language well enough to stand trial.

"He's very eager to communicate with us, and he's picked up American sign language very quickly," said Ann Phillips.

Nuclear plant welder's charges hurt morale

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has found some validity to allegations made by a former Comanche Peak nuclear plant welder. In each case, however, the NRC pointed out that the allegations have no bearing on the safety of the plant.

Texas Electric Service Company today released the results of the NRC's investigation into allegations of improper welding on stainless steel liners in the plant's unit 1 refueling pool, spent fuel pools and transfer canal of the fuel handling building (an underwater canal through which fuel rods are moved during the refueling process).

The former employee made his allegations to the NRC on May 25. They were the subject of a news story in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram on May 30.

In a cover letter on the report, the NRC said it found the allegations were "essentially true." In the report itself, the NRC said the allegations were neither specifically confirmed nor refuted.

"The allegations, if confirmed, would have no safety significance, it said, adding that no items of non-compliance with NRC requirements were found by the investigators.

Two of the former worker's six allegations were found to be "probably true" and one "perhaps true." These allegations specified instances of improper welding on the stainless steel liners.

In each case, the NRC said, the allegations would have no safety consequences, even if true.

"Texas Utilities Generating Co. responded with a letter saying the company believes any recent increase in morale problems stems from the allegations made by ex-employees.

"The irresponsible charges they have made have received publicity that far exceeds the significance of their allegations."

Police beat Car thief apprehended

A patient of the Big Spring State Hospital was arrested in Lubbock, Tuesday night, for suspicion of stealing a car here a few hours before.

Mike Robinson, 1210 Nolan, reported his 1964 Chevrolet Bel Air missing at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The auto had been parked behind the Rip Griffin Truck Terminal.

A few hours later, Lubbock authorities called local police with the news that the car had been recovered and a suspect in the theft was in custody. Detective George Quintero traveled to Lubbock this morning to pick up the prisoner, a Lubbock resident.

Her car and another driven by Bobby Beck, Coahoma were eastbound on Highway 80 when Beck attempted a left turn from the right lane and the collision occurred.

Seven other mishaps were reported Tuesday.

Gasoline availability up but so are prices

HOUSTON (AP) — Drivers are hearing the best news about gasoline since Memorial Day in this week's American Automobile Association report on 419 Texas service stations.

Gasoline availability is up, and prices are up, but by only half a cent.

The price of diesel fuel, however, jumped more than 2 cents to an average 92.9 cents a gallon.

The AAA said the brighter availability outlook for the weekend results largely from an increase in the number of stations to be operating Sunday, especially in metropolitan areas.

Across the state, 33 percent of the reporting stations will be open Sunday, the highest level since a 36 percent report for the Memorial Day weekend.

But in small cities and towns, many of which are on Interstate highways, the number of Sunday operators fell from 33 percent to 25 percent.

A 4 percent increase was reported in stations out of at least one grade of gasoline, up to 11 percent, but the AAA said most operators indicated they would begin receiving their August allocations before the weekend.

Availability on Sunday is expected to increase significantly in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, where 32 percent of the stations plan to be open, compared with 12 percent last week.

A 5 percent increase in Sunday availability was reported in Houston and San Antonio, up to 25 percent pumping gas.

The two cities also reported better weeknight availability. In Houston 8 percent of the operators reported they now stay open after 8 p.m., up from 6 percent. San Antonio reported 30 percent, up from 28 percent.

There was little change in weekday operations statewide, with 24 percent of the stations pumping gas after 8 p.m. weekdays and 39 percent after 6 p.m. Saturday.

Prices were up, but only a little, averaging half a cent.

Self-service averages were (last week's price in parentheses): regular, 85.9 cents a gallon (85.5); unleaded, 89.8 (89.3); and premium, 91.7 (91.4).

Full-service prices were: regular, 88.4 (87.9); unleaded, 92.2 (91.8); and premium, 93.9 (92.4).

$232,000 damages alleged in two suits

Damages totaling $232,000 were claimed in two suits filed this week in 118th District Court.

The suits involved an automobile accident in which Patricia L. Carlson and Cheryl Dianne Jones claims they were in a vehicle that allegedly was struck from behind by a car driven by Anna Beatrice Nanny. Ms. Carlson, 29, and Ms. Jones, 28, claim they were slowing down for a stoplight at the corner of Birdwell Lane and Marcy Drive. Their car was headed east when it was struck from behind on July 25, 1978.

The two victims claimed, in separate suits filed by Sweetwater attorney James Wilks, that the force of the impact crushed the bumper and left fender of their vehicle. Both claimed the accident caused whiplash to the cervical spine area.

Ms. Jones also said, in her petition filed through her lawyer, that headaches and a pain "radiating" down from her neck to her left arm had resulted. She also said she had become prone to nervousness and depression.

Ms. Carlson, Sweetwater Red Cross director, said the wreck caused the loss of grip in both of her hands.

The petition also said the vehicle that struck their 1978 station wagon was following too closely and using excessive speed.

The petitions claim $100,000 each for damages, $10,000 each for doctors' bills and $50,000 each for loss of ability to work.

On the Light side

Pony Express rides again

GLENROCK, Wyo. (AP) — Pony Express riders are galloping across Wyoming again this week — but padnuh, things ain't quite like they was.

Today's riders still face heat, tornadoes and rattlers, but the beef jerky has been replaced by grub flown in from New York's famed "21 Club." And the upstarts even have a publicity agent.

Twelve riders are racing 1,905 miles from St. Joseph, Mo., to Sacramento, Calif., this summer to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the death of Sir Rowland Hill, an Englishman credited with inventing the first adhesive postage stamp.

The race is being sponsored by the British Post Office. Riders left Missouri on July 14 and hope to reach California on Aug. 22.

A dream come true

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — For 30 years, Vern Stepp dreamed of a cross-country horseback ride. And now, 14 months and 4,186 miles later, the dream is reality.

Stepp, 58, left Kansasville, Wis., May 11, 1978 with three horses, a CB radio and a Stetson clamped firmly on his head. One of his horses was killed by a truck on the highway that links Alaska and Canada, where the temperature plunged to 31 below. In South Dakota, he battled 14 days of 100-degree heat.

The CB kept him company — to the surprise of many truckers.

"It was kind of classic," he said. "Truckers simply didn't believe it. There's no way the human mind can put a CB on a horse."

Pigeons back in Coast Guard

HONOLULU (AP) — The Coast Guard is back in the pigeon business.

In February, what was described as the first search-and-rescue squad of pigeons died while searching for five fishermen. The pigeons, trained to peck an alarm if they spot an orange object in the water, were in a bubble suspended from a helicopter. When the chopper made a forced landing in the water, the birds drowned.

This time, the Coast Guard says the pigeons' container will be attached to the side of the fuselage, enabling the crew to pull it up above the waterline if necessary.

Project Sea Hunt manager James Simmons says he hopes to have the pigeons airborne in October and ready to work early next year spotting brightly colored life rafts.

"This has only been done once before, with three birds," he said. "It's not like you're making Fords."

USS Pueblo incident memory fades

'Buy from a Spy' a reminder

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Ed Murphy says customers are often bewildered by the slogan for his camper center, but "Buy from a Spy" is more than a sales pitch to the former navigator of the USS Pueblo.

Eleven years ago, the businessman was Lt. Ed Murphy, second-in-command aboard the decrepit spy ship that surrendered without a shot when North Koreans torpedoed it in the fog-shrouded Sea of Japan.

One man died in the attack and several of the 82 crew members were injured. The North Koreans held them prisoner for 11 months before releasing them in December 1969.

The Pueblo incident is one that has faded from America's memory, say a handful of the Pueblo crew now living in San Diego. But the men from the Pueblo sometimes remember it all too clearly.

"I'm reminded of the torture just from the sheer physical pain that recurs from time to time," Murphy said. Ten officers were "tortured brutally during those first weeks," he said, "and the scars that remain aren't just physical."

Murphy's kneecaps were separated and repeated beatings by the North Koreans also took their toll on his back. "It's kind of sad," the 41-year-old father of two said, "because now I can't play baseball with my son and I have to be careful even riding a bicycle."

But he is not bitter, and toys with the idea of returning to North Korea. "I've become fascinated with the country because I can identify with a part of history," Murphy said, "and I'd really like the opportunity to go back — not as a spy, though."

Since several live in this military town, fate has thrown crew members together on more than one occasion. Murphy was reunited with Tony LaMancha when the former Pueblo sailor — now a bank manager — called him about a business loan Murphy had applied for.

"This job is a little less dangerous," LaMancha laughed. "I was one of the fabled 27 communication technicians on the Pueblo — the job is still classified as far as I know. But it was no big secret — we were an intelligence gathering ship."

LaMancha, 32, is somewhat cynical now, he admits. "The Pueblo opened my eyes a little sooner to politics," he said. "We were made scapegoats, fall-guys, by the government. Because we surrendered."

"Nobody blamed (then-President Lyndon) Johnson for having us there in the first place; they blamed the Koreans for having the nerve to come out and get us," he said.

For Jim Kell, the Pueblo is a topic of conversation that sometimes creeps up, "but I tend to downplay it."

Once the Pueblo's assistant officer in charge of the intelligence group, Kell is now 42 and the assistant director of finances for the City of El Cajon.

"I guess I do think of the Pueblo still. It's something I can't forget," he said. "I don't wake up in the middle of the night in a cold sweat or anything."

Bundy vows long fight to Florida electric chair

MIAMI (AP) — Condemned by a judge as "a total waste of humanity," Theodore Bundy, has been ordered to pay with his life for the beating and strangulation murders of two sleeping women. But it may be a long time before the people of Florida collect.

"In a way, this is my opening statement," the articulate former law student said in an emotion-choked monologue Tuesday shortly before he was ordered to die in Florida's electric chair.

"This is just the first... early round of a long battle," Bundy vowed between snuffles. "I haven't given up by any means." It was the first time in his five-week trial he had shown any emotion.

He refused to plead for mercy. "Absurd," said Bundy, "to ask for mercy for something I did not do."

Judge Edward D. Cowart was unimpressed.

"It's a tragedy for this court to see such a total waste of humanity," said the judge. "You're a bright young man. You'd have made a good lawyer. I'd have loved to have you practice before me. But you went another way, partner."

Twice the judge ordered Bundy put to death "by a current of electricity... passed through your body until you are dead," for the deaths of Margaret Bowman, 21, and Lisa Levy, 20.

Cowart said the beating of Miss Bowman "was vicious, vile, wicked and atrocious."

Both women were attacked with a crude oak club as they slept in the Chi

Omega Sorority house at Florida State University in Tallahassee the morning of Jan. 15, 1978. Bundy also was convicted of three counts of attempted murder in the beatings of three other women who lived in the sorority house and in a nearby apartment. Cowart sentenced Bundy to 198 years in prison for burglary.

Louise Bundy, 52, of Tacoma, Wash., looked at the courtroom floor as the sentences were imposed on the son she has called "my pride and joy." Then she left, tight-lipped, saying nothing.

Death sentences have taken on added impact in Florida since the state sent convicted murderer John Spenkelink to the electric chair on May 25.

But Bundy's determination to fight his sentence, combined with other pending trials and an automatic Florida review process, seem certain to push any potential execution date years into the future.

Bundy is due for trial Sept. 17 in Lake City, Fla., on a charge of strangling 12-year-old Kimberly Diane Leach on Feb. 9, 1978. The prosecutor there says he expects Bundy to be made available.

Bundy also is charged with murdering a Michigan nurse near Aspen, Colo., in January 1976, but Colorado authorities say they're probably the last in line for Bundy. A 15-year Utah prison sentence awaits him for the 1974 kidnapping of Carol DaRonch near Salt Lake City.

Bundy's attorneys have already announced they will seek a new trial in the Chi Omega case. And they say they have found a half-dozen constitutional grounds for appeals.

Meanwhile, Bundy has an automatic right of appeal straight to the Florida Supreme Court.

Questioning of Davis jury continues today

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors were prepared today to resume questioning of 65 prospective jurors that remain in the murder conspiracy trial of millionaire Cullen Davis.

The panel of 65 was seated Tuesday after State District Judge Gordon Gray dismissed 10 more prospects who said they had formed an opinion in the case. Monday, he dismissed 30 persons who said their feelings as to Davis' guilt or innocence would influence their verdict.

Gray said he hoped 32 "qualified" jurors could be found among the remaining 65 prospects, but conceded it would take at least a week to do so.

Prosecutors completed individual examinations of six prospects on Tuesday. Three were excused for cause.

After the state ends its questioning, the defense, led by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, will conduct its interrogation.

Once the 32 are agreed upon, prosecutors and defense attorneys will "strike" 10 each. The surviving 12 will form the jury for a trial some say could extend until Christmas.

Fort Worth industrialist Davis, 45, is accused of masterminding a summertime 1978 murder-for-hire scheme involving his divorcee, Joe Eidson.

Eidson, who was not harmed, masqueraded as the victim of a contract killer as part of an FBI scenario that led to Davis' arrest Aug. 20.

The case was transferred to Houston last fall and then back to Fort Worth after the Houston jury deadlocked 8-4 for conviction and a mistrial was declared Jan. 22.

The defense contends Davis was framed by his ex-wife Priscilla and others.

Chief prosecutor Jack Strickland addressed the panel of 65 Tuesday afternoon and then launched into individual questioning of the prospective jurors.

He told the group the indictment against Davis alleges both solicitation and conspiracy to commit capital murder, first degree felonies punishable by a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Haynes objected vehemently when Strickland said the indictment alleged Davis conspired to "assassinate Joe Eidson, to have him killed for money."

Haynes argued against use of the word "assassinate," but was overruled.

Later, Haynes succeeded in blocking Strickland from discussing the Houston trial.

SALT II would place nation in underdog's position, Clements says

WASHINGTON (AP)- The proposed Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty accommodates the Soviet Union and should not be ratified without amendments, Texas Gov. Bill Clements told a Senate committee Tuesday.

"We are indeed the world's strongest nation with military capability only a part of the matrix," the former deputy secretary of defense testified.

"But it is our military capability that is falling behind and that is what is fundamentally wrong with this SALT treaty."

Clements said he supported nuclear arms limitation treaties, but the SALT agreement as written would place the nation squarely in an underdog's role.

"We will lose credibility," he said. "This treaty will be destabilizing because our allies will question our basic strengths."

The governor said the United States' military capability has declined in the past two and a half years.

Clements held his position in the Department of Defense under Republican leadership from 1973 to 1977 and participated in the early stages of U.S.-Soviet negotiations for the SALT II treaty.

"I assure you that I do not appear before you today in a partisan role," Clements told the Senate Armed Services Committee. "I speak to you as an interested American who feels deeply that this SALT treaty is not in the best interest of our nation."

Clements said he could support the treaty if several changes were incorporated and the Senate endorsed spending about $25 billion during each of the next few years to reinstate "necessary strategic programs."

The governor included on site inspection for both parties as one of his qualifications. The treaty's critics have said verification of the Soviet Union's compliance would be impossible without it.

Texas has 'bet' with California

WASHINGTON (AP)- Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, says he has had a long-running mock argument with a California colleague about whose district is the fastest growing in the nation.

A Census Bureau study released Tuesday shows Archer is losing-but not by much.

Estimates of the staggering growth of the west Houston district from 1970 to 1978 clocked in at 62.8 percent, 1.1 percent behind the San Diego district held by Rep. Clair Burgener.

Archer said he was not giving in because he thought the Census Bureau's estimate of 759,000 was too low. He put the figure closer to 900,000.

Whatever the outcome of their private "fastest growing" dispute might be after the 1980 census, some predictions are possible.

Texas stands to gain in congressional reapportionment by two seats if the census bureau's estimates hold true.

Even without the new districts, the study indicates lines of most districts would have to be redrawn at least partly to take into account population changes that put most districts too far from the average.

The state Legislature has the authority to redistrict after the 1980 census.

The average population in the 24 Texas congressional districts is now 542,000, the study said. When the state Legislature completed its redistricting task after the 1970 census, the average population was about 466,000.

Some courts have held that the redistricting procedure should end with each district varying not more than one percent from the average.

No districts now fall within that boundary.

The one that comes closest is the fourth, held by Rep. Ray Roberts of McKinney. The study estimated the North Texas district to be 1.5 percent below the average.

The census bureau stipulates, however, its margin of error in the study is 3 percent.

Following Archer's district in population growth are the 3rd district based in North Dallas, held by Rep. Jim Collins, 33.1 percent; the vast 21st District from San Antonio to San Angelo to the Big Bend, held by Rep. Tom Loeffler, 27.8 percent; and the 22nd District from Houston to the Brazosport area, held by Rep. Ron Paul, 27.7 percent.

The four fastest growing districts are held by the delegation's only four Republican members.

Following in population growth are the 2nd District in East Texas, held by Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin, and the 10th District in Central Texas, held by Rep. J.J. Pickle of Austin. The study said both districts grew at a 26.9 percent clip.

The 18th District in Houston's inner city showed the most population loss, 7.3 percent. Rep. Mickey Leland, the district's freshman Democrat, said he was concerned about the population loss but it was too early to be seriously working on redistricting.

"We are gearing up to work with the said. "There are some things that can be done with redistricting to preserve the integrity of the 18th district."

Leland is the state's only black congressman and his district is heavily black and Mexican-American.

The census bureau's study showed the only other Texas congressional district that lost population since 1970 was the 20th, held by Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez in San Antonio.

The core city district's population declined by 3.6 percent.

In the state House preparations are being made for the redistricting chore, which includes redistricting of the Legislature.

Many suspicious of Census Bureau's canvass

Is the United States going to use the 1980 census as a method for ferreting out illegal aliens?

One might think so after what happened during a trial census run three years ago in Austin.

Immediately after the census-takers cruised through Austin's Hispanic neighborhoods, in swooped the Immigration and Naturalization Service, executing a dragnet for illegal aliens.

The Census Bureau and the INS say this was purely coincidental, nothing more than an unfortunate accident of timing. Quite probably, that is true but that doesn't make it forgivable all the same.

EVERY CITY and hamlet in the state is running scared, fearful that they will turn up with fewer people than they've been bragging about for ten years. Most everyone agrees, too, that the short count results from the fact that everyone in a minority neighborhood is not included in the census. The immigration people may get upset over the fact that there might be hundreds of unaturalized people lurking out there somewhere but when the Census Department goes to work the city boosters want everybody to raise their hands.

Eligibility for federal assistance grants is determined in part by a population count. Communities which turn up with fewer people than expected feel it in the treasury.

Moreover, the number of people in minority groups and below the poverty line — a prevalent condition with minorities in the Southwest — is essential in determining the degree of need to which programs are designed to respond. Again, if that minority count comes up short, the people entitled to aid — and everyone else in the area — is short-changed.

SOME HISPANICS deliberately dodge the census takers for good reason. That type is suspicious of government in any form. Many simply hide out when word gets around that the head-count is about to begin. Some are in this country illegally and don't want to be deported. Other simply mistrust the motives and the aims of government. They've possibly experienced nothing but bad things through previous contacts with officialdom and don't want to borrow trouble.

Thus, when the INS staged its raid when the Austin census test was going on, it probably set back efforts to get an accurate count by more than a few people. At the very least, the Census Bureau should have anticipated the problem and notified the INS to lay low in Austin for a period of time — and the INS, on its own should have had enough sensitivity to the problem to have avoided the foulup.

The Census Bureau is prohibited by law from releasing personal information on anyone — private citizen or government official. But that safeguard in writing counts less than the real-life events which occurred in Austin.

The damage may well be irreparable there; the government must redouble efforts to insure the mistake not be repeated.

Getting hooked

Around the rim

Don Woods

Seasoned journalists tell us that in producing light hearted leading, it's okay to digress from facts, as long as readers know it's all in fun.

Sometimes, however, non fiction is stranger than fiction and such stories need no embellishment.

Some friends and I were on our way, a few years ago, to the Kerrville Folk Festival; a potpourri of progressive country and folk music set in the picturesque background of the Central Texas Hill Country. We arrived in Kerrville at the home of a friend where we would stay the night and unpacked.

An invisible string furnished with hooks strung from bank to bank had hooked me by the toe! I realized to my chagrin the helplessness a fish feels who is dumb enough to swallow the hook on a troutline.

KEEP A COOL head, I thought. (The current that had born me so eagerly along was now pulling me under with a vengeance.) Tread water upstream to keep your head above the water and take the pressure off your toe, I thought. Yell like crazy! I thought.

Years later, it seemed, three friends got to the line and tried to undo the hook from my foot. Afraid of being entangled themselves in the troutline they retreated to the bank to return with reinforcements: a row boat owned by a fat farmer whom I would meet later.

Before my friends got back with the boat an anonymous hero had swam over, dove under the water and calmly unhooked my poor toe. The calvary finally arrived with the boat and I hooked a tired arm over the side. (Some friends, I'd rather had the three that Job had.)

Somewhere in the back of my half-conscious mind I heard the report of small arms fire. The three in the boat yelled their alarm to a fat farmer on the bank, standing on the grass with a smoking shotgun and shouting something in a deep voice about bringing his boat back. A true insult to injury.

So troutlines I don't care too much for. In other words, I don't think I'd ever get hooked on them.

Jimmy's cut

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Although it came out in his old fuzzy use of language, now supposedly replaced by decisive rhetoric, President Carter last week tipped a change that dwarfs all the recent cosmetic transformations: a tax cut effective next Jan. 1.

The eight members of the House and Senate gathered at the White House Thursday morning to discuss anti-inflation policy could scarcely believe their ears. Shortly after entering the meeting, the president made a statement that, according to note-taking lawmakers, was close to this: "It might be a very good idea if, in about October, we propose a tax cut of around $20 billion effective Jan. 1, 1980."

Whether this constituted a flat statement of a 180-degree policy change was cloaked by Carter's old imprecision. But even if he was not proclaiming an instant abandonment of his iron line against any tax reduction in the face of deepening recession, he was obliquely signalling a high probability that change is on its way. Nobody left the White House with much doubt on that score.

THE POLITICAL implications surpass anything done so far to salvage Carter's presidency. Republicans have been counting on the administration to remain in the deep root-canal school of political economy: when people really suffer from economic policy, it must be working. If Carter instead embraces tax reduction, it may blunt the Republican edge for 1980 while restoring his own political fortunes.

The first sign of this reassessment came after we reported that Carter, just as last year, was lagging behind the conservative tax-cut coalition in Congress. One senior administration official, a member of the Economic Policy Group, told us he agreed with that assessment and hinted that change was ahead.

The change was suggested at Carter's July 25 news conference. Responding to a question about Republican tax-cut plans, he declared "there is no free lunch" but did not rule out a tax cut. "When I heard that," one influential liberal Democratic congressman, who has been backing the president's hold-the-line campaign against tax cuts, told us, "I felt a cold chill."

Chill or not, this congressman was in the White House next morning for a regular meeting of the Democratic congressional task force against inflation with anti-inflation czar Alfred Kahn. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas started the fireworks by declaring that with unemployment expected to surpass 8.5 percent in the current recession, a tax cut is absolutely imperative.

That set off a barrage from practically everybody else present, especially the Democratic fiscal big guns of Capitol Hill, all ardent root-canal advocates: Chairman Edmund Muskie of the Senate Budget Committee; Chairman Robert Giarmo of the House Budget Committee; Chairman Al Ullman of the House Ways and Means Committee. They insisted on tight fiscal policy, no matter how deep the recession goes.

Bentsen, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, retorted that his colleagues could think what they would but he was predicting the administration, probably by October, would be advocating a tax cut for Jan. 1. It was then that Jimmy Carter entered the room to lend credence to Bentsen's forecast.

Shingles-chickenpox connection

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am female, 23. A year ago, I had shingles. My doctor didn't know too much about this, except that it is caused by the same virus that causes chickenpox. About a week after my shingles appeared my young daughter came down with chickenpox. Did she get it from me? There were no other cases of chickenpox in children she was around.

Also, it is possible to get shingles from trying on a pair of eyeglasses after someone with shingles has tried them on? One more question: If you only get chickenpox once does that mean you only get shingles once? — Mrs. S.C.

It is possible that your daughter got her chickenpox from your shingles. It's the same virus (herpes zoster) involved. A person who has not yet had chickenpox can get it from someone with shingles.

Beyond this fact, the chickenpox-shingles connection is not clear. Shingles, which is chiefly an adult problem, may be a reactivation of the old chickenpox virus in later years in those who had chickenpox when young. We don't know enough to say this for sure. Another frequently asked question is whether or not a person can get shingles from exposure to someone who has it. Most authorities doubt it. Chickenpox is, on the other hand, very contagious.

Essentially, both shingles and chickenpox are one-time affairs. One infection provides immunity thereafter. In unusual circumstances, as in severe illness, the immunity can be weakened and the virus act again.

As to your other question, the herpes virus is not transmitted by objects such as glasses, spoons, etc.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have an enlarged parathyroid gland and am told it should be removed. I have an appointment for a second opinion. Is there any medical treatment for this? — Mrs. G.S.

The parathyroids are four bead-sized glands imbedded in the thyroid gland (in the neck area). They produce a hormone that keeps the calcium content of the blood at a required level.

There is no medical treatment for enlargement. When treatment is needed, surgery is the only course. It may be needed if a person has problems such as bone-thinning or kidney stones.

Sometimes the parathyroid problem is minor. If so, surgery can be avoided, but the blood calcium level has to be checked periodically. That indicates how the problem is progressing. The need for surgery becomes a "judgment call," and physicians frequently consult each other on such matters.

The problem is that many patients who delay surgery tend to neglect the follow-up attention (blood checks) so nothing is done unless an emergency arises. Don't fall into that trap.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What causes cryptitis and what be done for it? — J.F.

Cryptitis is inflammation of crypts — tiny pockets under folds of the membrane just inside the rectum. They are mighty uncomfortable if they get infected, and they are subject to constant irritation as with difficult bowel movement. The area may become swollen and frequently cause great itching. The first step is careful hygiene. Hydrocortisone suppositories and hot sitz baths help control the problem. Surgery for this is reserved only for very stubborn cases.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a dark vein on my lower lip that stands out. It is about the size of a pea. At times it gets smaller, then it will enlarge again. What can be done about this? — Mrs. J.C.

I doubt that this is a vein. From your description it sounds like a mucocele (mucous cyst), a fluid-filled affair. They frequently occur in the lower lip. In that area they seldom grow larger than pea-sized. They may also occur inside the mouth. They have a thin, transparent layer of skin and are filled with a fluid, which appears blue. Often such cysts rupture, drain, and disappear on their own in a few months. If it is bothersome for you it can be removed by your doctor. They are harmless. The changes in size can be related to fluid content.

Shingles can be a painful disease! For a copy of the booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can read about the causes — and cures for this troublesome complaint in the booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." ## My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I'm terrified of God. I keep following along trying to follow His rules and hoping He doesn't take any special notice of me. — B.F.

DEAR B.F.: In one way it is good that you realize God is holy and is not simply a mild-mannered or vague personality who does not care what we do in life. But, in another way, it is important for you to know that God loves you. You need not fear Him if you understand who He is and what He has done for you.

Why are you terrified of God? I suspect one reason is because down inside you know that you are not perfect. You also know that God is perfect; if He judges us for our sins then you think you have no claim on eternal life in Heaven. You may also fear that God will judge you right now by bringing problems into your life.

Yes, God is holy, and God will judge sin. This is something many people have lost sight of today, but it is still true. "It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment"

(Hebrews 9:27). But there is something else you need to know. God loves us and does not want to have to judge us for our sins. He loves us so much that He has made it possible for us to be saved. He knew that we could never be saved by our own good deeds, because our good deeds can never blot out the sins we have committed.

That is why Jesus Christ, God's Son, was sent into this world — to take away our sins. He was perfect, but on the Cross He died as a perfect sacrifice for sin. In the greatest wonder of all history, God Himself made it possible for us to be forgiven.

How can you know this? Confess to God that you are a sinner, and trust that Christ has done for you. Invite Him into your life to forgive you and give you a new life. God has promised to forgive you if you turn to Christ. He can be trusted. "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:1).

We don't bother

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Two years ago, Dragisa Kasikovich, chief editorial writer of the militantly anti-communist Serbian-American newspaper, Liberty, was brutally beaten and stabbed to death in Chicago, along with the 9-year-old daughter of his fiancée.

Regrettably, the murders may have been instigated unwittingly by our column. The previous day, we had detailed the intervention of the UDB, Yugoslavia's secret police, in affairs of the Serbian Orthodox Church. The column was published in Liberty along with Kasikovich's editorial comments, which may have led his killers to believe, mistakenly, that he was the source of our information.

This is the suspicion of Senate investigators. The murders were never solved. Now we are beginning to understand why.

TOP-SECRET intelligence documents make clear that foreign agents can literally get away with murder in the United States, as long as the FBI and the State Department decide it doesn't affect our own national security.

At least eight prominent anti-communist exiles have been assassinated in this country since 1955, intelligence sources told us. One was strangled with his necktie, another had his head split open and a third was blown to bits in his car.

A top-secret report spells out for such anti-communist exiles — and the hired guns who stalk them — just what kind of protection the exiles can expect from the FBI: None.

"National security" is, operationally, not deemed to include threats against United States residents directed at chilling or curtailing their political activity," the report states. report states.

In other words, political exiles are fair game for the paid killers of the repressive regimes that they fled to the United States to escape. Their only protection is the local police in the communities they live in. But as the secret report notes, "local police departments are hardly a match for foreign intelligence services," whose agents frequently operate with the advantage of diplomatic immunity.

The FBI concentrates its limited manpower and budget in the counterintelligence area on countries "whose intelligence activities are hostile to, or of particular concern to, the national security of the United States," according to agency guidelines.

But there's "an easy way out" in cases of political murder. An FBI source told our associate Dale Van Atta that "we can accurately say no federal statutes were violated in these foreign agent incidents and so we aren't required to help the local police."

Even this limited interest in agents of supposedly "hostile" powers is absent in cases involving nations whose intelligence operations are considered of lower priority, like Chile, Iran and the Philippines. It's always "open season" on political refugees from those repressive regimes.

Even in the unlikely event that the FBI sticks its nose into a politically sensitive area, the CIA and the State Department are standing by, ready to discourage any embarrassing enthusiasm. A top-secret report, prepared for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by its counsel, Michael Glennon, cites two instances when the FBI was warned about pursuing foreign agents too assiduously.

IN ONE INSTANCE, regarding SAVAK (the shah's secret police), the CIA provided the FBI with a list of 13 SAVAK agents in the United States — but not so that the G-men could keep an eye on them. Quite the contrary. The CIA stipulated that the list was "for information only and that no action should be taken without prior consultation with the CIA (even though) five of the 13 were not diplomats."

On another occasion, the FBI stopped an investigation of intelligence activities by certain Filipino diplomats after receiving this stricture from the CIA station chief in Manila: "There should be no active investigation of official Philippines government representatives in the U.S. without advance consultation with the embassy and CIA headquarters, the reason being that such investigation would result in reciprocal (action) against American intelligence personnel in the Philippines."

Even without the CIA and the State Department on its back, the FBI faces an additional obstacle in any investigation of crimes by foreign intelligence agents. Notes the Senate report, "The aggrieved parties are frequently dissident emigres with deep suspicions...that the FBI, CIA and the foreign intelligence agency in question are somehow in league with each other." The report concludes, with understatement, that the dissidents' fears "are not entirely unfounded."

WASHINGTON WHIRL: The vitriol poured on Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., in the Soviet press these days is exceeded only by the adoration lavished on Leonid Brezhnev. Jackson's misgivings about the SALT II agreement have earned him the title "Knight of the Cold War" in Soviet propaganda. The sniping at Jackson appears in everything from the Bulgarian Boy Scout Weekly to confidential Kremlin documents that fabricate statements and incidents about Jackson, apparently to discredit SALT opponents in the eyes of the Politburo. According to Tass, Jackson and Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, belong to "circles connected with the military-industrial complex and have a stake in building up the missile nuclear arms race."

—One thing Pat Harris doesn't have to worry about in her new job as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare: leaks. From the commode in the secretary's private bathroom, at least. When her predecessor, Joe Califano, first took office, he complained that the toilet didn't flush fast enough. The General Services Administration sent plumbers around with a new model. Then Califano complained that the new one leaked. Though the plumbers found the problem less than drastic — a GSA official rated the leak at about one drop per day — they obligingly swapped Califano's toilet with one from an assistant secretary's washroom down the hall.

Kissinger interviewed

NEW YORK (AP) — Television personality David Frost, who interviewed former president Richard Nixon, now will talk with Henry Kissinger, the man who helped shape Nixon's foreign policy.

Frost will interview the former secretary of state in an hour-long televised program Oct. 11 on NBC, the network announced Tuesday. The show coincides with the publication of the first volume of Kissinger's memoirs that month.

Frost said he will be spending the next two months concentrating on such areas as "the ending of the Vietnam War, the controversies currently raging over United States policy in Cambodia, Kissinger's relationship with world leaders, including former President Nixon, the various crises in the Middle East."

Indian leader released

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Indian leader Russell Means, saying prison was "worse than I expected," has been released from the South Dakota Penitentiary after serving a year and three days of a four year sentence for rioting.

"When I came in I made the decision to force a positive result out of a negative situation," Means said Tuesday. He won parole last week.

Means, a central figure in the American Indian Movement in the early 1970s, was convicted of riot in a 1974 clash between police and AIM supporters at a Sioux Falls courthouse.

No inside information

CHICAGO (AP) — A score of theater critics and photographers assembled for an interview with Farrah Fawcett-Majors, but they got no inside information on her recently announced separation from her husband, actor Lee Majors.

Just before she appeared Tuesday, a public relations spokesman said she would not answer questions regarding the separation announced Sunday.

She was here to plug the soon-to-be-released movie, "Sunburn," shot on location in Acapulco. Co-starring with Art Carney and Charles Grodin, she is cast as a bright, funny model flying off to the tourist playground to help solve an insurance swindle.

Energy crisis a danger

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The gas lines and economic problems Americans are facing this summer present an opportunity as well as danger, says Cardinal Terence Cooke.

"When we have been beset by these problems, we are all tempted to go the route of fuming, or blaming, or ignoring, or just giving up," the archbishop of New York City said Tuesday.

But historically, he added, "we have been at our best when we have been aware of the danger every crisis poses and yet have accepted it as an opportunity to work together in a positive way."

Section missing from gas line near Austin

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Railroad Commission engineers said Tuesday they found a 10-inch section missing from a leaking natural gas line that apparently caused two deaths in Carthage last month.

Jerry Worden, a commission safety engineer, said the plastic pipe was buried 2 inches to 3 inches below a dry creek bed.

The bodies of Janet Blair, 14, and Doris Holman, 15, were found June 28 lying face down in the creek bed.

Worden and others testified at a commission hearing on whether three people violated regulations requiring odorless substances be added to the odorless gas.

The plastic gas line was connected to a steel line installed by Dick Anderson. The plastic line was installed by J.C. Mangham and was hooked to a house owned by Mrs. Herman Milstead.

Commission tests on June 29 indicated the gas did not have enough odor to meet agency requirements.

Carpooling has its advantages

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Motorists who regularly leave their cars at home to ride in carpools should get a break on their auto insurance, an insurance industry spokesman said today.

The State Insurance Board should study creation of a separate rating classification for people who carpool at least half their work week, said David B. Irons, attorney for the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office.

"Whether or not participating in carpools actually reduces the insured exposure, we believe such a program would be worthwhile if it served only to inspire a conscious participation by a broad segment of the work force in the program of national energy conservation," Irons said in testimony prepared for a two-day insurance board hearing on car insurance rates.

The industry has asked for an average statewide rate hike of 21.7 percent. The insurance board's experts have recommended an 8.9 percent average increase.

Last year, the board raised rates an average of 3.2 percent after the companies requested an 8.9 percent increase.

Irons said the average motorist who drives his car to work pays 26 percent more in collision rates than the car owner who uses his car for pleasure and recreation.

If a motorist leaves his car at home at least 50 percent of his work week, he should pay less for collision coverage.

Irons said. The industry tentatively recommends lowering collision coverage so that it is only 13 percent more than paid that paid by motorists who do not drive to work.

The new classification would help drivers who choose to carpool some days but take their own cars to work at other times.

Under the industry recommendation, the average Harris County driver would save $22 by leaving his car in the driveway at least half his work week.

The average policy holder is described as being a male over 25 or a female over 21 with a new medium-priced Chevrolet, Ford or Plymouth driven to work but not used for business. Coverage consists of minimum liability, $5,000 personal injury protection, $50-deductible comprehensive and $200-deductible collision.

Regardless of whether the insurance board decides to take carpooling into account when setting future rates, the industry needs higher rates beginning Nov. 1, Irons added.

It is hard to document whether carpooling actually reduces liability and physical injury risks, he said.

"For example, carpools may reduce the number of separate vehicles on the street, but a single accident involving four or five carpools can produce four or five times the amount of bodily injuries," Irons told the board.

Merit Taste Key To Success!

'Enriched Flavor' cigarette sparks whole new taste era in low tar smoking.

A few years ago, most smokers agreed: low tar meant low taste.

Then along came MERIT and a whole new taste idea called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And the "low tar, low taste" theory was exploded. Exploded with proven taste in a new low tar cigarette.

No other new cigarette in the last 20 years has attracted so many smokers as quickly as MERIT!

It's clear: MERIT taste is changing attitudes towards low tar smoking.

Astros hold back Giants

HOUSTON (AP) — The pitching brothers Joe Niekro of Houston and Phil Niekro of Atlanta are winning games on the family plan. Both went after their 15th victories of the season Tuesday night but only Joe succeeded, shutting out San Francisco for six innings and eventually becoming the first 15-game winner in the major leagues this season in a 6-4 victory over the Giants.

innings and the knuckleball ace held the Giants to three hits until he tired in the seventh and departed in the midst of a three-run rally. "I contribute my good start this season to the ball club," said Niekro, who never has won more than 14 games in a single season. "They have played great baseball behind me. I also went into the season not trying to do more than I am capable of doing. Last year I had a good spring and when the season started, I tried too hard." Niekro felt his knuckleball was near its peak Tuesday night but he had problems finding the plate, walking five batters. "My knuckleball was about the best of the year," he said. "And when it is working good, you sometimes have trouble getting it over the plate."

The Astros rebounding from a seven-error 8-0 loss on Monday night, staked Niekro to a 6-0 lead after two innings and scored on McCovey's single. It marked the first earned run Sambito had yielded in 23 innings.

But Rivers might be illegal

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers routed the Detroit Tigers 11-3 Tuesday night, but the game might end up in the Detroit win column yet. Sparky Anderson, manager of the Tigers, says there was a Yankee in Ranger garb on the field and he's considering asking for a Ranger forfeit of the game. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn voided a Monday trade that sent Rivers to the Rangers for four minor league players, but Rivers played for Texas against Detroit both Monday and Tuesday. He had two singles in the Rangers' 16-hit attack against four Detroit pitchers Tuesday.

"They should never have put that player on the field. If you know about it before the game, how do you play him," an angry Anderson said. A substitute 1-for-1 trade of Rivers for Ranger outfielder Oscar Gamble was approved Tuesday afternoon. Although Gamble was scratched from the lineup just before the game and held out of the contest, Ranger officials negotiated during the game trying to work some other alternative.

Winfield leads Padres rout

Dave Winfield buys tickets so kids who can't afford them can see baseball games for free. Dave Winfield also hits very well for the San Diego Padres. He leads the National League in hitting with a .345 average, is tied with Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt for the lead in runs batted in with 81, and his 25 home runs puts him third behind Schmidt and Chicago's Dave Kingman. His fielding, throwing and baserunning aren't bad, either, if you like understatements. Despite all this, Winfield insists: "People just don't know who Dave Winfield is." Atlanta's Phil Niekro knows. The Braves' right-hander gave up three of the five Winfield hits and two of the four Winfield RBI that helped the Padres to a 10-3 rout of the Braves Tuesday night.

Expos 5, Cardinals 0

Rudy May pitched a three-hitter in his first start of the season and recorded his first shutout since Sept. 26, 1978 as Montreal blanked St. Louis. Rodney Scott scored on Andre Dawson's first-inning groundout to give May all the offense he needed. Dodgers 7, Reds 6. Dusty Baker and Bill Russell drove in two runs each and Los Angeles survived a ninth-inning rally by Cincinnati to nip the Reds and give Don Sutton his first victory in six weeks. Phillies 4, Cubs 1. Nino Espinosa's six-hitter helped the Phillies beat the Cubs. Bake McBride's inside-the-park homer got Philadelphia started. His drive to right-center appeared to have been caught by center fielder Jerry Martin after a long run, but he collided with right fielder Scot Thompson and the ball fell loose.

Indians sweep pair from Red Sox

Things have been perfect for Dave Garcia in the past week or so. For Don Zimmer, they've been perfectly awful. And Tuesday night took the cake. "I want to cry," said the manager of the Boston Red Sox. It wasn't only that Zimmer's team lost a doubleheader to the Cleveland Indians, 11-10 in 11 innings and 3-0. It was how the Sox were dropped. They held a 10-5 lead going into the ninth inning of the first game, but poor relief pitching allowed the Indians to tie the game and send it into extra innings. Then Toby Harrah won it for Cleveland with a run-scoring double with two out in the 11th.

Kenon apparently leaving Spurs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Larry Kenon, seeking an $800,000 per year contract, says it's very unlikely he'll be back with the San Antonio Spurs next season and is believed to be headed for the Los Angeles Lakers. Forward Allan Bristow has already signed with Utah, veteran guard Louie Dampier says he won't be back with the team and veteran 6-foot-11 forward-cen-ter Coby Dietrick said Tuesday he's signing with Chicago. "The Spurs and I are a long ways apart," Kenon, 26, told The San Antonio Express. "At this point, I would say there is a small chance that I would be a part of the Spurs this year."

I feel I am the best all-around forward in the game and I expect to be paid so," added Kenon, who averaged more than 22 points and nearly 10 rebounds per game last season. The Express quoted Los Angeles sources as indicating that the 6-foot-9 Kenon, a two-time NBA all-star, had worked out a deal with the Lakers, but that Lakers and Spurs officials could not agree on pre-arranged compensation. The Lakers, the Express said, fear that NBA Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien might give the Spurs stand-out guard Norm Nixon as compensation if a pre-arranged deal can't be agreed on. Kenon reportedly made $240,000 last year, second on the team only to NBA scoring champion George Gervin.

Saunders Angels win twice in State Teenage Tourney

KILLEEN — The Saunders Angels of Big Spring won their first two games in the State Teenage League Tournament here yesterday to advance into the final round of the winners bracket. The tourney is a double elimination affair. Big Spring took a 4-2 win in the opening game against host Killeen. Moe Rubio hurled the win, limiting the Killeen squad to only three hits. Big Spring jumped to a quick 2-0 lead in the opening inning on hits by Robert Rubio and Tony Ontiveros. They increased the lead to 4-0 in the top of the sixth on a two-run single by Moe Rubio. Killeen's only runs came by virtue of a hit, a walk, and an error in the bottom of the sixth. Big Spring then spotted Snyder a 6-0 lead in their second game of the day before staging a winning rally. The Snyder team jumped on Angels starter Blake

Rosson for four runs in the first inning and one more in the second before Tommy Olague was summoned from the bullpen. He allowed one more run in the inning, then settled down to stifle the Snyder hitters the remainder of the way. Meanwhile, Big Spring gradually chipped away at the Snyder lead, scoring four runs in the bottom of the second, three on a bases loaded triple by Marcus Armendariz. Big Spring then used singles by Olague and Robert Rubio, coupled with two walks and two Snyder errors in the sixth inning to take an 8-6 lead in the bottom of the fifth. Saunders Angels are now one of only two teams undefeated in the tournament. They will meet Houston Spring-Klien tonight at 8:00 p.m. Spring-Klien, a Houston suburb, is also undefeated in the affair.

TwEEN 12 and 20 — She wants to swap home ec for shop

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 14-year-old girl who hates cooking and sewing and I'm signed up for home economics when school starts in September.

My problem is that I would much rather take auto shop. I know you will laugh at this but when I graduate I want to be a truck driver.

I also want to get a job pretty soon working at a gas station.

Please give me your honest thoughts — Bonnie, Fredericton, New Brunswick.

Bonnie: I would never laugh at what you want to be. In fact, I think you should be able to substitute auto shop for home economics.

Just who is this person that says that cooking is a female's role and auto work is a male's?

Take mother to school and see if you can get your schedule changed.

Most progressive schools will allow any student to take these classes.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 16-year-old girl with a very big problem. I have an older cousin, a guy, who has hands that are too fast, if you know what I mean.

Whenever I baby-sit for his mother, he waits until we are alone and then makes terrible passes at me. I made the mistake of asking him what he wanted for a belated graduation gift and he told me. It was sex from me.

I'm scared that one of these times I won't be able to stop him. What should I do? — Nameless, San Antonio, Tex.

Nameless: No one needs extra money that much. Stop baby-sitting for your aunt. If she asks why, tell her. But refuse to baby-sit for her.

Dr. Wallace: I went to a going-away party for a boy who was going into the Army. The moment I saw him I knew he was "Mr. Right." After talking to him, I was convinced he was my guy.

I've dated lots of guys but I've never felt this way before. I'm 17 and a little young but I'm already thinking of a chapel to be married in. Please help me. — Becky, Burlington, Iowa.

Becky: I don't know what kind of help I can offer. You seem to be doing just fine on your own.

Just make sure "Mr. Right" feels the same way you do. Even if he does, your relationship is much too premature to be thinking of a chapel to be married in.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 AND 20 in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Daddy Won't Buy Her Bottom Line

DEAR ABBY: As the father of an intelligent, well-developed 17-year-old daughter, I would like your opinion on a matter that troubles me.

Lisa wear short shorts that are just about as short as shorts can get. To be even more specific, a good portion of her shapely rear end is exposed to public view. It wouldn't be quite so offensive at the beach, but when she walks around the shopping center in high heels with half her behind showing, I must object. My wife agrees with me.

I voiced my disapproval to Lisa, and she informed me that it's the accepted mode of dress these days for her generation, and furthermore, my prudishness amazed her.

What do you say, Abby? Sign me...

OUT OF WORDS

DEAR OUT: Inform Lisa that it may be the accepted mode of dress these days for her generation, but her Southern exposure is offensive to yours. And to please show a little more consideration—and a little less cheek.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to a letter from JOHN who complained because his name is synonymous with a toilet, a hooker's customer, and a "Dear John" letter saying, "It's all over, so get lost."

Well, my name is Mary. And my name, too, has been abused. For example, "Lazy Mary, won't you get up," "Mary, Mary, quite contrary," "Bloody Mary," and don't forget that suggestion that "we all make Mary."

Yes, I know there is a song stating that "Mary" is a grand old name, but that doesn't help.

Sign me...

"RATHER BE SUSIE" IN OREGON

DEAR ABBY: I'm 33, married to a wonderful man, and we have two fine children. So what's my problem?

I eloped at 16 and never had a wedding, which is the one big regret in my life.

My husband and I are going to Las Vegas for a vacation soon and I understand there are places where couples can get married in a church-like setting. I am told they have beautiful chapels, filled with flowers, and they even have someone to perform the ceremony. Furthermore, you can rent a lovely wedding gown and tux, and have regular wedding pictures taken.

I want to know if you think I'm crazy to want a really beautiful wedding, Abby. My dream is to have a picture of myself as a bride in a real wedding gown.

I am embarrassed and ashamed to ask my husband what he thinks of my secret wish, but if you reply I will show him your letter, unless you think the whole idea is completely nuts. Sign me...

SENTIMENTAL IN TEXAS

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: I don't think the idea is nuts. It's lovely. Since you are already married, why not have your marriage vows renewed in that lovely Vegas chapel. Five will get you 10 that your husband will agree to it. I hope so.

CONFIDENTIAL TO F.S. IN ARLINGTON, VA.: True, a new broom sweeps clean. But the old broom knows where the dirt is.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Miss Wood is honored co-workers

The Jack and Jill School staff and friends honored Susan Wood, kindergarten teacher and music staff member, with a going away banquet Monday evening at K-Bob's Restaurant.

Miss Wood, who has served Jack and Jill four years, is returning to her home in Hatch, N.M. to live near her parents. Her father is Rev. Jim Wood, pastor of two Church of God congregations in Hatch.

The 16 co-workers and friends who attended the banquet presented Susan with a plaque in appreciation of her work at the school in the field of music and education.

Apprentices learn skills

NEW YORK, N.Y. — If you've had it with reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic, switch to basketry, blacksmithing and quilting bees, says the June issue of Seventeen Magazine.

Students in Heritage Arts Program at Salem College, in Salem, West Virginia, spend their school days studying these subjects as well as apothecary science, spinning, weaving and nineteenth century printing.

Once well-versed in these colonial skills, graduates of the program go on to twentieth century careers at historic sights throughout the country.

Students at the school apprentice to a master craftsman, who teaches them the rudiments of their chosen trades. When apprentices have proved their proficiency, they are promoted to journeymen, and then, in turn, they advance to master craftsman status.

To get students in the mood for their journey into the past, classes are held in ancient log cabins on the West Virginia campus.

How to slow down and beat aging

Aging. No one has learned how to stop it, but Family Circle has done the next best thing. The magazine has pulled together information, including the results of studies done at the Gerontology Research Center, a division of the National Institute on Aging, and research being done at Stanford University and Michigan State University on how to battle, slow down, and even beat the aging game, at least visually. Included in the July 17 issue are the following:

- Teeth: Periodontal disease is the most common reason for the loss of teeth in people past the age of 40. Take care of your gums to take care of your teeth.
- Posture: Stand straight and exercise. Many doctors now believe that regular exercise arrests or even prevents the calcium loss that leads to osteoporosis, a thinning of the bone, which causes them to be brittle and less flexible.
- Also, suggests the magazine, try these subtle deceivers to hold back the years:
  - Color that gray: Blondes should go sunnier, redheads more golden and brunettes to a lighter brown.
  - Lost weight: Thin bodies look younger. But don't get too thin since you need enough fat to keep your skin supple.
  - Switch makeup: Use softer, pinker tones in foundation and blusher, subtler shades in eyeshadow. They are more complimentary to a mature face.
  - Change glasses: If you wear bifocals, check into the new "no-line" designs for a younger look.
- Smoking: The G.R.C. has discovered that smoking can shave six to seven years off one's life expectancy, but if you stop, lungs return to normal within two years.
- Intellectual Ability: Getting old does not necessarily mean one gets senile. Nor, notes the G.R.C. in the article, does it mean that brain cells die and intellectual ability becomes impaired. Forgetfulness similarly is not an automatic function of old age.
- Diet: Various experiments suggest that eating less food, but eating nutritiously, may prolong life.
- Mental Attitude: According to Stanford University Medical School internist Dr. Walter Bortz, celebrating old age rather than dreading it can extend your life span.
- On the beauty beat, the magazine recommends the following:
  - Skin: Many experts now recommend the use of sunscreens every day, even in the winter. It protects your skin from exposure to ultraviolet rays which break down the skin's elastic fibers.
  - Wrinkles: Always apply moisturizer to damp skin for the most benefit. And, pay special attention to the throat, under-eye area and corners of the mouth.

Money for elderly woman pouring in

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — One man sent a $700 check; another mailed $100 in cash. Some sent a $1 bill with no return address. Several mailed checks for $15.04 — the exact value of the food destitute 91-year-old Matie Schultz was jailed for stealing last week.

Contributions for Mrs. Schultz are pouring in from across the nation. A total of $2,300 was received Monday and Lorraine Wernert, president of the senior citizens group coordinating the fund, estimated Tuesday that the total would reach $7,000.

An Illinois man scrawled on a scrap of paper, "I hope this helps. No one should have to steal to survive in the U.S.A." The note was clipped to a $700 check.

"God bless you," wrote an unidentified woman who mailed a $1 bill.

The national attention, however, has done more than generate contributions. It's also soiled San Antonio's image, said Mayor Lila Cockrell, who has launched an investigation into why Night Magistrate Mary Elizabeth Ladd forced Mrs. Schultz to spend a night in jail.

"Since this case has been brought out so much in the media, not only locally, but across the country, I felt a responsibility to inquire about it," said the mayor. "I think it is most unfortunate. The city of San Antonio is not an uncaring city."

Mrs. Cockrell said she would report to city council members in Thursday's executive session. Ms. Ladd, 28, often at odds with other city and county judicial officials, is appointed by the council.

Mrs. Schultz was "resting comfortably" Tuesday in a hospital, where she was admitted last Friday for exhaustion brought on by her sudden celebrity status.

"The excitement was just too much for her. She is thrilled and shocked by all the help. It's something she didn't expect," said Rev. Bob Pugh, who has regular contact with Mrs. Schultz.

Officials at the supermarket have dropped the misdemeanor theft charges, which carried a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Mrs. Schultz had been bilked out of her $5,000 life savings by con artists in 1973. She said she lived on $238 per month in pensions. Texas Department of Human Resources officials said, however, that Mrs.

Schultz had on several occasions refused aid.

Mrs. Schultz was arrested and booked the morning of July 24 after taking $15.04 worth of sausages, ham and butter. But she was forced to spend the day in jail before Ms. Ladd came on duty at 8 p.m.

Although the woman qualified for a personal recognizance bond, Ms. Ladd refused to release her and set a $400 bond Mrs. Schultz couldn't pay.

Mrs. Schultz, who records show had no prior arrest record, was released the next morning by a justice of the peace on a personal recognizance bond.

Ms. Ladd, criticized in the past for being too lenient with criminals, said Mrs. Schultz repeatedly refused to give a correct address. She added that she didn't want to simply release the elderly woman late at night without knowing for sure where she lived or if she had a place to go.

Jail matrons, she added, wanted to take the woman home and "pleaded" with Mrs. Schultz to give her correct address.

Mrs. Cockrell said she is especially concerned about the fact Mrs. Schultz had to wait in jail all day before being arraigned by the night magistrate.

Don't look Ethel!!!!, it's the 'nude robbers'

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Their modus operandi might be described as 'stick 'em up and take it off.'

The bandits, nicknamed the "nude robbers" by police, relieve their victims of cash at gunpoint, then order them to strip to their underwear.

"We're taking this very seriously," said Lt. Herman Faiola, director of a state police task force working on the investigation with local police departments. He said three women victims have been raped.

Authorities believe the robbers, who work in two- or three-man teams, are the culprits in more than a dozen stickups in the Lancaster area since January.

They have a penchant for hitting fast-food restaurants, especially on weekends. The stickups take about 15 minutes, and they flee on foot, according to authorities. So far, they have eluded police.

"I suspect they make people strip so they (victims) are stymied, so they don't follow them out the door. They ditch the clothes right down the street," Faiola said.

The latest strike came on the weekend of July 21-22, when Pappy's Family Pub near Lancaster and a McDonald's Restaurant near Harrisburg were hit, police said.

After emptying a safe and the cash registers, the gunmen forced the manager, bartender, and three female employees to strip to their underclothing, then took the victims' cash and fled.

Manager Gerald Miskelly said the order to disrobe was "the last thing that happened before they left. It's not like they're getting some thrill out of watching people strip down to their underwear."

FUTURISTIC — Looking like something right out of the pages of science fiction, two Tenneco Oil Company refinery workers at Chalmette, La., rehearse what they would do in the event of an emergency, wearing sophisticated protective clothing of a decidedly futuristic style.

Return to grassroots beneficial

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says his return to the grassroots, featuring hard lobbying for his proposed tax on windfall oil revenues, has given him "a much clearer sense of what this nation is, what its problems are."

The president's nine-hour trip Tuesday to the lush green hills of Kentucky also brought him campaign-like acclaim in the small, whiskey-making city of Bardstown, where he held his first U.S. "town meeting" in four months.

And before heading back to Washington, the president made a surprise trip to a tiny Indiana town struck by severe floods last week. He had declared the area a disaster area before departing Washington.

The stop at English, Ind. — which took him 65 miles out of the way on a helicopter trip from Bardstown back to

Air Force One at Louisville — drew favorable reviews from some of the town's 600 residents. "You've restored our faith in government," said one woman. "It shows he's concerned," said Harvey Dearborn.

The questions put to him by citizens at Bardstown, with one exception, dealt with topics and concerns Carter often is asked about in Washington: prospects for gasoline rationing and a resumption of the military draft; the new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty; the plight of Vietnamese refugees; and environmental concerns.

The exception was one woman's complaint about her local telephone service, which Carter promised to look into within 24 hours.

Runaway oil spill moves closer

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Runaway Mexican oil that is threatening Texas coastal industries and recreation continued inching toward U.S. waters today. A Coast Guard spokesman said late Tuesday that the northern most evidence of the massive oil spill was a thin sheen spotted 60 miles south of U.S. waters and about 35 miles offshore. Richard Griggs said the surface sheen "doesn't represent too much oil." Griggs said the northern most patch of oil was 100 miles south of U.S. waters and some 20 miles offshore. The oil is still spewing from a blown-out Mexican well from the Bay of Campeche. The well has been gushing up to a million barrels of oil a day since the June 3 blowout. The latest projection by experts gathered here to track the oil indicated traces of the spill may cross into U.S. waters by the weekend. The oil posed a threat to a 41-year-old fishing tournament that in the past has only been canceled by war. Mary Lou Campbell of South Padre Island said 700 fishermen are expected to compete in the 3-day event that begins Thursday. She said some of the fishermen will be competing as far as 100 miles offshore. "We talked with the Coast Guard and they seemed to think it would not effect our tournament," Mrs. Campbell said. The oil also poses a potential threat to the multi-million dollar Texas shrimping industry. Griggs said samples from the spill are now being tested for toxicity. Guy Pete, a long-time Texas shrimper, said he feared that even a thin sheen on the Gulf surface could cause damage to the shrimp. "I'm not a biologist, but the sunlight is just as vital to the sea as it is to a farm," Pete said. He called the oil spill "the biggest threat I can remember that we've ever had here." He recalled that during World War II U.S. ships sunk in the Gulf caused problems for Louisiana shrimpers. He said oil from those sunken ships turned up in his shrimp net during the war. Griggs said Coast Guard equipment aimed at heading off the oil was being trucked here from North Carolina. The equipment includes booms that are used to physically lock or divert the oil. Experts are particularly worried about oil that might get into the Laguna Madre or other interior waters. Pete said any damage to the shrimp would be a major hardship to him and other shrimpers. "Every dollar I've ever earned has come out of that gulf. That's all I know... all I do," he said.

Chagra's trial starts Wednesday

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Jimmy Chagra, a Las Vegas gambler charged by federal authorities with managing an interstate drug operation, goes on trial today before a judge who took the case after his predecessor was gunned down in San Antonio. Stricter than usual security was imposed on the federal courthouse. Guards planned to search briefcases and purses, and the U.S. marshal brought in extra deputies from out of town. U.S. District Judge William Sessions, who took the case after the assassination of Judge John H. Wood Jr. May 29, earlier turned down Chagra's plea for a delay. The postponement request was based in part on the Wood assassination, which Chagra's lawyers feared jurors would link to Chagra. Wood had refused to get out of the case and overruled Chagra's claims he was biased. Chagra, 34, could be sentenced to from 10 years to life imprisonment plus a $100,000 fine and confiscation of his alleged drug profits if convicted of the government's most serious charge — "continuing criminal enterprise." To get a conviction, federal prosecutors must prove Chagra undertook to violate federal drug laws with five or more persons whom he organized or directed and that he made a "substantial" income from the operation. The charge alleges Chagra arranged delivery of 1,000 pounds of marijuana in Connecticut, 2,000 pounds in Pennsylvania and 17,000 pounds in Oklahoma. Chagra pleaded innocent at his arraignment to the "continuing criminal enterprise" charge as well as to three counts of conspiring to distribute cocaine and two counts of marijuana smuggling. Meanwhile, an El Paso grand jury investigation into the international drug trade, fueled by the murder last December of Chagra's brother, Lee, continues.
