Vet donates part of pension to VAMC for past 22 years

For 22 years, Earl and Sarah Summers have been sending monthly donation checks to the Veterans Administration Medical Center. The money has been a percentage of his veteran's disability pension. Summers was told in the early 1950's that he was terminally ill. He started sending the checks to be used for the now phased out chaplaincy fund. He made the promise that the checks would be sent as long as "God allowed him to live." Summer's donations exceed $20,000.

The Summers are still sending the checks. However, the chaplaincy fund has now been combined into a general purpose account. The account is used for programs and activities from which all the patients benefit. In March of this year, the Summers were nominated for the Administrator's Commendation, a national award honoring individuals who have made a personal contribution.

Wednesday, the Summers received the award at a special banquet at the VAMC.

According to Garland Evers, VAMC director, this is the first time the Administrator's Commendation has been awarded in this area.

The award is given by Max Cleland, national administrator of Veterans Affairs.

The Summers' daughter and granddaughter Linda and Nikie Fanning were present for the presentation.

Also at the luncheon were Evers, Clayton Hicks, chaplain and Joe Rouleau, VAMC volunteer chief, the three persons who nominated the Summers for the award.

Nuclear accident might have been avoided, NRC says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Three Mile Island nuclear power plant accident last March might have been prevented if only the plant operators had allowed safety equipment to function as planned, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission staff said today.

The NRC Office of Inspection and Enforcement, in a report more than two inches thick, said it was still investigating some 35 possible violations of federal operating rules and radiation protection limits in connection with the accident last March 28 near Harrisburg, Pa.

But Victor Stello Jr., director of inspection and enforcement, wrote in a summary of the report, "Perhaps the most disturbing results of the investigation is confirmation of earlier conclusions that the Three Mile Island Unit 2 accident could have been prevented, in spite of the inadequacies" that investigators found.

Stello said the plant's design, equipment, accident analyses and emergency procedures "were adequate to have prevented the serious consequences of the accident, if they had been permitted to function or be carried out as planned."

"For example, had the operators allowed the emergency core cooling system to perform its intended function, damage to the core would most likely have been prevented," he said.

Instead, the core of the reactor, containing its radioactive fuel rods, was severely damaged by overheating and released so much radiation inside the reactor building that the operators are still unable to enter it for inspection and clean-up operations and the building may remain sealed at least through this year.

Jimmy Chagra -- smuggler or hero?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Jamie "Jimmy" Chagra — longtime smuggler of "Colombian Connection" cocaine and marijuana or a hero who flew to South America only on a mercy mission?

Lawyers for the 34-year-old Las Vegas gambler and the United States government placed that question before jurors Wednesday at the start of Chagra's trial on charges he masterminded the importation of tons of marijuana and pounds of cocaine.

The eight-man, four-woman jury was picked after U.S. District Judge William Sessions of El Paso warned that jurors must not consider the fact that the original judge in the case was assassinated May 29.

Federal Judge John H. Wood Jr. of San Antonio was murdered by an unknown gunman as he left his apartment.

Sessions is protected around-the-clock by armed U.S. marshals, and guards searched purses or briefcases of everyone entering the federal courthouse.

Wood was not the only person connected with the case to die violently.

Chagra's lawyer brother, Lee, was murdered last December in his El Paso office, and the records law enforcement officers found there reportedly fueled a federal grand jury drug investigation that still continues.

The Chagra charge with the biggest wallop is "continuing criminal enterprise" in illicit drugs. Conviction carries a prison sentence of 10 years to life imprisonment, a possible $100,000 fine and confiscation of any profits he might have made from the drug trade.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Ronald Guyer of San Antonio said in opening arguments to the jury that the continuing criminal enterprise law "may be termed the 'kingpin statute.'"

"What the government will bring to you will be testimony of accomplices of Mr. Chagra, co-conspirators who acted with Mr. Chagra in many offenses from 1974 to 1978," Guyer told the jury.

He said the government would prove that Chagra flew to Colombia in November 1977, met a confederate who had "made contact with Mr. Chagra's sources" and flew out with 13.2 pounds of cocaine.

Other accomplices, Guyer said, sold 4.4 pounds of the drug and returned $70,000 to Chagra to finance a shipload of marijuana from Colombia.

Local man charged with theft

Wine drinking transient top suspect in payroll checks case

By JAMES WERRELL. Local law enforcement agents believe that a 63-year-old male transient with a taste for cheap wine stole over $96,000 worth of payroll checks from the Greyhound Bus Terminal.

A suitcase destined for Midland was stolen from a platform at the Big Spring Greyhound Bus Terminal on the morning of July 25. The suitcase contained $96,876.69 in payroll checks issued by FWA Drilling Inc. of Wichita Falls.

Local police and Texas Ranger Eddie Almond were informed of the theft Monday after one of the checks totaling over $250 had been passed at the Gregg Street Safeway Store.

Police learned Wednesday that another check, totaling $288.16, had been cashed at the local Furr's Supermarket.

Before Wednesday, investigators had only vague leads to follow in the case. But the case broke wide open with the arrest of Roy Lusk, 35, 1804 Hearn, 4:55 p.m. that day.

Lusk is suspected of having had three of the checks totaling over $1,600 in his possession on the same day of the theft.

"We think that he (Lusk) took the checks to a local convenience store owner to prove to him that he could pay him some money he owed him. After that, we believe he returned the checks to the guy who stole them," said David Spilman, member of the Big Spring Major Crime Task Force. Spilman and Almond, learned the identity of the 63-year-old suspect from Lusk, and had a warrant issued for the suspect's arrest. Lusk, in the meantime, has been released from custody on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond.

Spilman theorized today that the thief may not have known that the suitcase was full of checks.

"We think he may have just stolen a suitcase to sell so that he could buy wine," said the task force member.

In fact, he added, the suspect was spotted on the north side of the city with a bottle of wine and no suitcase, on the day of the theft.

Both investigators are certain that the suspect is no longer in Big Spring.

"We know for sure that he left town that day on a Greyhound bus," said Almond.

When Lusk was arrested, he was charged with theft over $10,000. It will be later decided by a grand jury whether he will be prosecuted on this charge, said Almond.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: 'Cruising' kills

Q. What is the leading cause of death for teenagers 15 to 19?

A. Motor vehicle accidents, the majority of which are related to alcohol. The typical fatal teenage accident occurs on a Friday or Saturday night between 10 p.m., and 1 a.m., within ten miles of the driver's home. There are three or more youngsters in the car, and they are usually "cruising" rather than headed for a specific destination. The accident occurs within an hour after the victim has engaged in moderate to heavy drinking.

Tops on TV: Allen's energy

Although the network gives no indication what will be covered in tonight's episode, ABC's "20-20" still looks like the best bet in a rerun heavy schedule. It airs at 9 o'clock. Music fans should also tune in on PBS's "Soundstage" at 10 p.m. It features Patti La Belle and the dynamic Peter Allen. Reviewers say that Allen's energy can't be captured on record, so check out the real article on the tube.

Inside: Balls of oil feared

FEDERAL OFFICIALS, surprised by thick balls of oil that washed up on a Mexican beach, have called for immediate mobilization of massive equipment to combat the world's largest oil spill. See page 11A.

A DEAF-MUTE, who is taking a crash course in sign language so he can understand the murder charges against him, will go before a Dallas grand jury, Aug. 21. However, attorneys said if he is indicted the trial could be delayed up to a year because of difficulties in communication. See page 7B.

Want ad proves peachy idea

Sometimes, the initial impact of a "people's ad" placed in The Herald is overshadowed by the success it achieves in succeeding editions.

Take the firm which placed the following ad in the paper: "Peaches — $6 a bushel. You pick and bring containers. Southwest of Garden City."

The distance potential customers had to travel to find the bargain didn't stop many from responding. Initially set up to run for three days, the ad inspired many telephone calls. Its subscriber extended the ad in six more editions "due to the excellent response and results."

The most patented and quickest way to get results on items you are trying to sell or buy is through a want ad. Call 263-7331 to place your order.

Police beat Teen charged with robbery

Robert Evans, 19, 1201 Frazier, was arrested and charged with aggravated robbery, 12:51 a.m. today.

Detective Ted Lancaster made the arrest at Evans' residence.

The suspect is thought to have been responsible for two robberies of local Seven Eleven Food Stores last month.

The first occurred on July 14 at the Seven Eleven at 1801 Gregg. According to reports, a robber used a can opener to threaten the clerk at the store, and made off with $100 from the cash register.

On July 19, a robber entered the Seven Eleven at 300 11th, and threatened the clerk with a knife. Stolen were $170 in cash and six packs of Kool cigarettes.

At noon today, Evans had not yet been transferred to the Howard County Jail, and no bond had been set.

A 17-year-old youth, was arrested early Wednesday on suspicion of theft at the Gibson's Discount Store. The former Gibson's employee, was held by store officials until local police could make the arrest.

He is suspected of stealing $750 worth of knives from the store.

A man stole a $27.95 bottle of vitamins from the Big Spring Health Food Center, 1305 Scurry, 5:45 p.m. Wednesday. The thief first tried to get a cash refund for the vitamins. When the owner, Eva Nall, told him he couldn't do so without a receipt, he walked out.

It was later found that the vitamins had been filched from the store shelf.

A graphic equalizer booster for a car stereo was stolen from a 1977 Chevrolet van belonging to William Allen, 1502 Kentucky, Tuesday night. The item was valued at $130.

A residence at 814 Lorilla, owned by Dula Snow, 711 Abrams, was ransacked recently. Sheetrock, windows, doors and screens in the home were broken, causing a total of $600 worth of damages.

Two motorcycle riders were treated at Malone-Hogan Hospital and released following an accident at IS 20 and Highway 87, 8:54 a.m. Wednesday. Jeffrey Stovall, Box 231, broke his right ankle in the wreck, and his passenger, Dianne Fletcher, Sterling City Route, sustained minor cuts and bruises.

According to reports, Stovall's motorcycle was southbound on Highway 87 when it collided with a northbound car driven by Nathaniel Warren, 904 N.W. 2nd, Warren was uninjured in the mishap.

Amy Chacko, 5, 2511 Ann, was treated at Malone-Hogan and released after she was hit by a car on the 2500 block of Ann, 7 p.m. Wednesday. According to reports, a car driven by Mary Wright, 2715 Ann, stopped as two young pedestrians ran in front of her auto.

As she began to move forward again, five-year-old Amy ran in front of the vehicle.

Four other mishaps were reported Wednesday.

A parked vehicle belonging to Preston Daniels, Sterling City Route, was struck by a vehicle driven by Gary Singleton, Southland Apartments, at 20th and Gregg, 11:14 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Violet Johnson, 1310 Utah, and Eugene Bryant, 4115 Muir, collided at 1000 E. 4th, 11:42 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Annamæ Barklev, 4113 Muir, and Lance Pless, 609 Elgin, collided at 24th and Goliad, 3:55 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Ronald Taylor, Lubbock and Norma Gressett, 4008 Vicky, collided at 2400 Gregg, 6:30 p.m.

Criminal cases rise

Criminal cases in 118th District Court increased in July, according to the district clerk's monthly report.

A total of 17 cases were added during July to the existing 236 bringing the total of cases pending to 253. A total of seven cases were disposed of bringing the total to 246.

Murder cases pending are 11, rape cases total 13 and drug related cases total 51. Of the cases seven disposed of, two were burglary cases by guilty plea. A felony DWI and a theft case were disposed of by guilty pleas.

The arson case of Lee Andrew Cole was disposed of by jury trial.

A total of 45 probation revocation cases were filed in July. Three probations were granted; one in a felony DWI case and two on burglaries.

A total of six persons were committed to the Texas Department of Corrections in July; two in connection with burglaries, two in connection with forgeries, one arson and one theft. A total of 20 years in prison was assessed in July.

One jury was called in the arson case and a "hung" jury resulted from the aggravated robbery case of Gilbert Ike Coffee.

Total number of persons indicted in July was 15.

Module builder is godsend To Texas cotton producers

It looks like a giant trash compactor. But the module builder is a godsend to Texas-Oklahoma cotton producers.

Developed jointly by Cotton Incorporated and engineers at Texas A&M University, the module builder speeds up harvesting by as many as 15 days and frees the cotton grower from dependence on the cotton gin.

It's a huge machine that makes neat stacks of cotton which are left in the fields until gin time.

And because the module builder is capable of holding up to nine bales of stripper cotton, which is then loaded onto a special flat-bed truck, cotton trailers which have been used for years to haul cotton to the gin have almost become obsolete, according to many growers.

In the past, if a farmer used trailers to get his cotton to the gin, then his whole harvest operation was often dependent upon the supply of available trailers. The module builder has helped separate the ginning and harvesting operations so that growers can keep on harvesting even though the gin may be backlogged or down for repairs.

Since properly protected modules can be left in the field for weeks at a time without any noticeable damage to the cotton, a grower can harvest his cotton at the most convenient time for him and not have to worry about the progress at the gin.

And what are other advantages to the grower using the module builder system?

According to Ray Adams vice president of sales with Bush-Hog Continental Gin Company, a leading manufacturer of module equipment located in Prattville, Alabama, moduling can be an advantage because ginning has become such a problem for growers.

"The cost of ginning cotton has increased many fold in the last decade and we have every reason to believe that it is going to continue to increase," he said. "There has been a trend to have fewer and fewer cotton gins each year.

"As the number of cotton gins gets smaller, the volume of these gins increases. But it also is becoming more difficult for the farmer to get his cotton ginned immediately. The expense of owning cotton trailers is getting to be too high and the economics the module system provides makes it an ideal operation to turn to."

Randy Eiland, a grower from Lamesa, Texas, switched to module builders to avoid losing cotton to the unpredictable West Texas weather.

"We have a lot of bad weather in this area at times, and before we got module builders our stripping depended on how many trailers we could get to the gin," Eiland said.

"Since we have gotten the module builders, our strippers can just run continuously to keep building modules. We don't have to worry about getting trailers or being out of trailers.

"Module builders help make a grower money because a crop can be lost in this area, by leaving cotton on the stalks. By stripping continuously and putting cotton in modules, you can completely avoid this happening. We can't store it on the stalk in West Texas. You can lose too much of it too quick."

Harold Worrell, a grower from Altus, Oklahoma, has been impressed with the efficiency module builders have allowed him in his harvesting operation.

"I had heard about module builders," he said, "and I had decided they would speed up my harvesting operation. I farm about 2,500 acres of stripper cotton, and I was having problems keeping all my trailers loaded and getting them to the gin and emptied so that I could keep on stripping. I was filling those trailers up nearly every day. Module builders made me think I could get by a lot easier."

"Module builders save me a lot of wear and tear on hauling cotton to town and it saves a lot of labor tromping it on trailers. I don't know if it's much cheaper, but it's a whole lot faster."

And how does this remarkable machine work?

Dr. Milton L. Smith, a professor of Industrial Engineering at Texas Tech University, who has worked extensively with module builders, explains:

"Initially, when the basket on a cotton stripper gets full, the load is dumped into the module builder. It usually takes two or three dumps before there is enough cotton to pack. Once there is a sufficient depth to pack, then the module builder goes into operation.

"The trumper compresses the cotton as it moves from front to back and back to front of the module builder. This operation constantly compresses the cotton and will occur many times throughout the process of building a module. With each successive dump, the trumper will first of all level out the cotton in the module builder and then start to pack the loose cotton. And this continues until the module is fully formed.

At that time, the operator will raise the back gate on the module builder, and a tractor pulls it forward, leaving a module that is free-standing to sit there in the field until it is ready to be moved."

One of the key developers of the module builder was Lambert H. Wilkes of Texas A&M University. Together with J.K. "Farmer" Jones, a researcher for Cotton Incorporated, they completed work on the first module builders in 1971 and 1972. Research on the module builder was funded jointly by Cotton Incorporated, and Texas A&M.

The result of their research has not only saved the grower valuable time and dollars with his cotton operation, but has significantly improved ginning techniques.

Research by Cotton Incorporated on the module builder has also led to other valuable developments. For instance, the module feeder was developed, enabling cotton modules to be fed directly into the gin. The feeder-cleaner has also recently been introduced, as a result of Cotton Incorporated research. The feeder-cleaner removes approximately 60 percent - 70 percent of the trash out of stripper cotton as it is fed into the gin. This means improved grades and more cotton dollars for the grower.

Three facing burglary raps

Three burglary suspects were transferred to county jail this morning from city jail. They were arrested in connection with separate incidents.

Willie Ray Myles, 18, 1002 N. Main, was arrested July 22 on suspicion of the burglary of the home of Oscar James and simple assault. Myles was charged Tuesday with the offenses. He was arrested in Eastland by an Eastland County Sheriff Deputy. Bond has been set at $10,000 for the burglary and $15,000 for the simple assault.

Roger Boone, Plant City, Fla., was arrested in an alley in the 400 block of Scurry July 22. He was arrested on suspicion of the burglary of the First Methodist Church. Bond was set by City Judge John Coffee at $25,000.

Ronald Dale Mathis, 1511 Oriole, was arrested Saturday on burglary charges filed the same day. Bond has been set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin at $15,000. The arresting officer was Mike Eggleston. Mathis was arrested on the Andrews Highway.

New speech pathologist at Rehab Center researching stuttering

By EILEEN MCGUIRE

Looking for a small town with a dry climate, Marianne Murphy recently moved to Big Spring and began work Monday as the new speech pathologist of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

She replaces Marcia Wilkerson who is returning to North Texas University at Denton for her Masters Degree. The two have been working together this week with Marcia acquainting Marianne with her patients.

Marianne, who has been at the Rehab Center since October, 1978, says she has been out of college for four years and is returning to further her education.

"The field changes so fast. It changes day by day," she said.

Marianne will work with 30 to 35 children and adults with communication disorders at the Rehab Center.

Though this is her first professional job, Marianne's educational experience has included working with speech delays and disorders of people from ages 2 through 68.

Originally from Paris, Texas, she graduated from high school there in 1974. In May, 1978, she received her B.S. from Texas Christian University at Fort Worth. As the most outstanding student in her field, she was a Senior Scholar and graduated Magna Cum Laude.

She learned of the opening in Big Spring through TCU where she recently received her Masters in Speech Pathology.

Marianne said that she had received some speech pathology for vowels as a child, but her interest when she entered the university was in music.

"I originally planned to go into music. I enrolled in music, but when I saw the practice rows, I said 'no more'."

Marianne, who plays clarinet and piano, had earned several state championships with her musical abilities and says she still enjoys listening to music.

Since speech had been another interest, she opted to pursue that. Her training has included voice, fluency (stuttering), impaired hearing, aphasia, articulation and language delays and disorders from early childhood through adulthood.

While at TCU, she was active in the First Methodist Church and served as president of several university organizations, including an honorary speech origination, and held offices in community groups.

She is currently working on her Certificate of Clinical Competence with the American Speech and Hearing Association. She is a member of the Texas Speech and Hearing Association.

She has a special interest in stuttering and neurologically impaired language disorders in children.

Her college thesis, "Voice Onset and Termination Time in Stuttering and Non-Stuttering Children" dealt with her interest. Her thesis has been selected to be presented to the American Speech and Hearing Association at its national convention in Atlanta, Georgia. It will be Marianne's first publication.

She is currently working on a research for a second publication, "hopefully in the Journal of Fluency Disorders," with TCU professor Dr. John Baumgartner. The article, she said, will take up where her thesis left off.

She said that she is behaviorally-oriented in speech pathology. While helping area children with speech difficulties at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, she will have an opportunity to do clinical research and says she hopes to do something with that.

Seizure of British oil dominates conference

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP)—The dispute between Britain and Nigeria over Nigeria's seizure of British oil holdings overshadowed the Commonwealth Conference as it turned today to world economic and political problems and Southeast Asia.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington confronted Nigerian Foreign Minister H.E.O. Adefope at an outdoor reception Wednesday and displayed his anger over the Nigerian government's seizure of British Petroleum's holdings in the West African country.

British officials were convinced that Nigeria's purpose was to warn Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher against recognizing the elected new biracial government in Zimbabwe Rhodesia, and Carrington told reporters:

"Nothing could be more counterproductive and less likely to succeed than an action of this kind to move the government's policy on southern Africa. This will have a serious affect on Anglo-Nigerian relations."

He strongly denied Nigeria's allegation that Britain was supplying oil to South Africa, which Nigeria said was the reason for the takeover.

Adefope told reporters the takeover was "not necessarily linked with Zimbabwe," but added, "We must get Britain to look at Zimbabwe in a different light ... No black African can consider himself free until southern Africa is free."

Zimbabwe Rhodesia has a new black-majority government led by Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa, but Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, co-leaders of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance, and many members of the Commonwealth regard it as a facade for continued domination of the country by former Prime Minister Ian Smith and the white minority.

Nkomo, who has 15,000 fighters in camps in Zambia, was an invited guest at the opening of the conference Wednesday and sat about 12 feet behind Mrs. Thatcher. He listened impassively as she said her Conservative government was "wholly committed to genuine black majority rule in Rhodesia."

Weather

Rain activity results in cooler temperatures

By The Associated Press
Showers and thunderstorms were expected today over large portions of Texas with rain activity expected to result in slightly cooler temperatures.

Late night and early morning shower activity resulted in a flash flood watch for northwestern portions of South Texas early today. A flash flood watch was in effect late Wednesday for the Edwards Plateau and Hill Country area of Central Texas and for the northeastern part of North Texas.

Very heavy thunderstorms were reported early today east of a Childress to Laredo line and north of a Laredo to Lufkin line. Just before sunrise the activity continued over the watch area and in the northeastern part of North Texas. A new area of thunderstorms was moving into the northwestern Panhandle from Colorado.

Early morning skies over the state were generally clear in West Texas, South Texas and along the Gulf Coast and partly cloudy elsewhere. Patchy fog was reported in the southern plains region with visibilities occasionally below one mile.

Early morning temperatures over the state were generally in the 60s in West Texas and the 70s in North and South Texas. Extremes ranged from 64 at Amarillo to 80 at Brownsville.

The forecast for today called for fair skies in West Texas and partly cloudy skies with showers and thunderstorms in the Panhandle and southeast portions of West Texas, the north and west portions of South Texas, and all of North Texas.

WEATHER FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Some low cloudiness otherwise mostly fair through Friday except a slight chance of showers or thunderstorms over southeast portions and over western Panhandle this morning and over the Panhandle and south Plains tonight. Warmer most sections through Friday.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Chance of thunderstorms mainly Panhandle and mountains over the weekend. Otherwise partly cloudy days fair nights. Highs in the 90s except near 104 Big Bend lowlands. Lows in the 60s and low 70s except 50s mountains.

WEATHER FORECAST — Warm, sunny weather is expected in the forecast period, Thursday until Friday, for most of the country. Rain is forecast from the mid-Atlantic coast to New England.

Inflation in electric rates

Washington policies blamed

Policies set in Washington, D.C., are the primary cause of inflation in electric rates, financial expert Eugene W. Meyer said today in Austin.

"As long as the federal government insists on running huge government deficits and papering them over with funny money, we'll have inflation," he said.

"Washington is telling electric utilities and their regulators, 'You go out and present the bill for inflation to the American people — and while you're at it, take the heat for it.'"

Meyer is vice president and director of the New York investment banking and securities brokerage firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co. He testified today during the Public Utility Commission's hearing on TESCO's request for an $88 million rate increase.

TESCO, like all other electric utilities, is having to seek capital for its construction program under adverse market conditions, he said.

Although some say these market conditions are a "momentary aberration," Meyer pointed out they have lasted since 1972.

"Seven years of momentary aberration almost leads me to believe it's a trend," he said.

The fact that TESCO still has a AAA bond rating is highly advantageous, under these market conditions, because it allows the company to obtain capital at the lowest interest rates, which means lower rates to its customers.

For the benefit of customers, Meyer said, the PUC should set rates that will help the company maintain that bond rating.

"If you are really concerned about keeping rates as low as you can for as long as you can, then you should do what you can to maintain the AAA," he said.

On the other hand, he said, "If you are interested in having higher rates over the long term...then by all means, let the bond rating drop."

In his pre-written parent company, Texas Utilities, last January was forced to sell new common stock below book value for the first time in its history.

If nothing is done to correct the financial conditions that made the below-book sale necessary, Meyer warned, the value of the company's stock is likely to continue declining.

The PUC should be greatly concerned about common stock selling below book value because that will mean higher rates for customers.

TESCO is requesting that it be authorized a return to its common stockholders of 15.5 percent. The company presently is authorized a return of 13.75 percent, but has not been able to earn that return because the PUC did not adequately consider the effects of inflation and made no adjustments to allow for construction costs incurred since its current rates went into effect.

The PUC staff, in the present rate case, is recommending the return be raised to 14.25 percent, saying that because of the sale of stock below book value, "it seems clear that the equity return authorized in the past...is no longer adequate."

Meyer took the stand today after the completion of testimony by TESCO

Treasurer Dave Kelch.

During cross-examination, Texas Municipal League Attorney Don Butler noted that "if history repeats itself, it seems that there is always something else that you're asking the ratepayer to pay for today that's going to benefit him or her in the future...And then when the future gets here, it seems there's some other project that has to be paid for at that time."

Kelch commented, "It appears to me...that there's a benefit there today in the customer knowing that he will have electricity at some time in the future, even in the face of this energy problem or crisis we have in the country."

And, he continued, "Let history repeat itself and (let our customers) remain having some of the lowest electric rates there are. That's a pretty good deal, as far as I'm concerned."

Maddox called down but did he lose?

Rep. Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., is probably nearer to the prototype of politicians than anyone in Washington. Obviously he is the sort that fellow residents of the Bay State like most. They kept re-electing him until he piled up seniority to be considered for the Speaker of the House and was persuasive enough to get elevated to the position.

O'Neill has no appetite for taking stands in controversial things but he came down rather hard on Texas Democrat Jim Maddox recently. In so doing, he may have gotten the worst of it.

IT ALL HAD to do with comfort. The thermostats in the nation's capital building had been set at a rather uncomfortable 78 degrees, in accordance with a presidential decree. As a result, members of the House of Representatives and senators had been finding the obligatory costume of coat and tie increasingly oppressive.

Maddox hails from a part of the country where men open their collars and roll up their sleeves before tackling a project. He decided to defy tradition and venture to his seat without a coat and a tie. Furthermore, he was wearing a short-sleeved shirt.

O'Neill prides himself on being a fierce guardian of congressional traditions. He was having none of that. When Maddox rose to deliver a talk calling on the House to lead the way in coming to grips with the energy crunch, he never got to say much. O'Neill, on three occasions, asked Maddox to depart the chamber.

"The gentleman knows he is embarrassing the chair," O'Neill said. "I don't know if he is embarrassing himself."

Unshaken, Maddox blandly ignored O'Neill and managed to get in a few words.

Tradition might have been on O'Neill's side but Maddox appeared to have reason on his. Where is it written that the absence of a coat and tie will diminish the dignity of the House?

All over the country, dress codes are being changed because the situation demands it. Americans are shucking their ties, hanging up their coats and adjusting to a new set of realities.

WHY SHOULD the congress of the United States be bringing up the rear in this eminently sensible grass-roots movement?

Probably because a room cooled to 78 degrees isn't very comfortable in Washington (or anywhere else, for that matter), the Congress is threatening to amend that mandatory thermostat-setting program, in exchange for gas-rationing powers which it would grant to President Carter.

The Washington scene could get interesting in the dog days of August.

No simple chore

Around the rim

Eileen McGuire

An eighth-grader, huh?

The government says its income tax forms are so easy to understand, a junior high school student could fill them out. If I'd had any sense, I would have hired one.

The income tax form is so easy to understand that I did my own in January as I have for many years. I later found that the sections explaining what is considered taxable income is the easy part. Finding out what deductions you're entitled to is a bit more difficult.

Others around me were still struggling with their income tax returns long after mine was filled out and in the mail. When I heard that refunds would be delayed because the government had run out of money, I was thankful I had filed early because mine was already back.

THEN I FOUND out about a deduction that I had missed. I missed it because of the wording. Such a complicated-sounding expense couldn't possibly apply to my simple hand-to-mouth existence.

Fortunately, the government allows two years to file a revised return. And no wonder...

To file the revised return, I first had to send off to Austin for the specified form. When it arrived several months later, I again had to send to Austin for an additional form and instructions required for the deduction I intended to claim.

When the form arrived, I found that I had a lot of digging into records to do in order to satisfy three-part questions and two pages of questions.

The questions were baffling and the instructions designed to make the questions easy to understand were written in a language that was only vaguely familiar. I recognized the English alphabet but I'd never seen the letters arranged like that before.

Finally, I sat down to a table with my initial return, a bill of receipts and records, new forms and two sets of instructions, a dictionary, a calculator, and assorted writing paraphernalia spread before me.

First, I read the instructions. When I attempted to begin filling out the form, I realized that I didn't understand the instructions.

I reread them, deciphering each complex sentence into a simple one. I found that one sentence may or may not be related to the one before it and by the time I finished the second reading, I still didn't understand what I had read.

AT LAST, I hit on a system of reading one question on the form, finding the appropriate sections (never found together) that applied to that question in the instructions, rewording the sections in a simple language that made sense to me, and then throwing my hands up in the air because my neat piles of material had slid into one giant mess in the middle of the table and my pencil was somewhere underneath.

I couldn't spare more than a finger to shuffle through the mess or I'd lose my three places in the instructions, one in the dictionary, and might never see the question I almost answered again.

It was about three hours after I began the above method that I came upon an "or" in the instructions. Rather than answer all 40 questions, I could go a shorter route and answer only one if I elected to forfeit any expenses that I might have had in excess of the standard deduction. I elected.

My efforts will be rewarded with an additional $66 refund, even though I'm probably entitled to more.

The $66 was an amount overpaid in taxes which is rightfully mine, yet I had to earn it back with months of waiting for instructions, deciphering paragraphs that had to have been written by either someone with a Ph.D. in English or a sixth-grade graduate with a dictionary, and the type of evening that keeps aspirin manufacturers in production.

The government takes money from my paycheck with no questions asked for undisclosed purposes. I do not receive a list of where each dollar will go or why they are entitled to it.

I know that it is my duty to help support the programs that the government that allegedly represents me is involved in. Yet to get something back from the government that it took from my paycheck that it was not entitled to entailed the above.

Having never before filed a revised return, I am now wondering what else I may be in for and if $66 is worth it.

Incidentally, I used the simple, quick and easy short form. I must have missed something in the eighth grade.

Moynihan's blast

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Senator Moynihan, in a brilliant speech now publicly available, says what is overdue on the matter of state money and private schools. His analysis is easily compressed: 1) Everyone who runs for the office of president of the United States has come out in favor of "constitutional" means of helping private schools. 2) The least offensive means of extending such aid is by tuition tax credits. 3) No one can know what the Supreme Court will say about tax credits until they are authorized. Therefore, 4) legislators who on the one hand subscribe to the platforms of their parties, and then hide behind ultramontanist constitutional skirts are either hypocrites (They don't really want a pluralistic school system) or cowards (they are afraid of the secularist lobby); or incoherent (like the Supreme Court).

THE NARRATIVE OF Senator Moynihan can be compressed, as I say, but it must be read fully to be savored, and his essay is available free of charge from Educational Reviewer, Inc., Box 3070, Grand Central Station, New York, NY 10017. Senator Moynihan has never been in better form.

He begins by saying that although everybody knows that not every non-public school is Catholic, in fact the opponents of aid to private schools have primarily in mind the survival of the Catholic school. The figures reveal that the program of attrition is doing very well.

In 1965 there were 13,292 parochial schools enrolling 5.6 million students. In 1970 the figures are 9,979, with 3.3 million students.

All of this is a result of a series of Supreme Court decisions beginning with Everson in 1947 which took a view of the First Amendment's clause prohibiting the establishment of religion which, quite simply, had never been taken before.

Senator Moynihan provides an illustration. "In Wolman vs. Walter (1977) Mr. Justice Blackman on behalf of the Court found it constitutional to provide non-public school pupils with 'books,' but unconstitutional to supply them with instructional materials and equipment." In other words, a book may be provided, but not a map." Senator Moynihan comments, "The Court has yet to rule on atlases, which are books of maps."

MOYNIHAN TALKS revealingly about the political aspect of the constitutional quarrel. Take Mondale, vice president. One day Moynihan is talking to Mondale, and Mondale says to him, Pat, why don't you go on over to HEW (Department of Health, Education and Welfare) and get a few million dollars from them for the inner-city private schools, 'cause the bread is there, and it's perfectly legal to get it. So Moynihan called HEW, and they fumbled and mumbled, and what they do at HEW.

What has President Carter said on the subject? He endorsed, indeed had a critical hand in writing, the Democratic Platform of 1976 which says "the Party renews its commitment to the support of a constitutionally acceptable method of providing tax aid to the education of all pupils in non-segregated schools in order to insure parental freedom in choosing the best education for their children."

"Renews"? Yes. Because in 1972, Senator McGovern had declared his "support of the tax credit approach to aid the parents of children attending parochial and other bona fide non-public schools." And one presidential election earlier, Hubert Humphrey had said "I favor the creation of a system where parents would be able to receive a tax credit when their children attend private schools."

Honey presents several problems

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is honey harmful to infants? Three doctors have told me it is not pure. My mother keeps nagging me to give my four-month-old son honey with his water. — Mrs. A.S.

Best to follow your three doctors' advice even though "Dr. Mother" probably gave it to you with no harmful effects. There are several problems with honey. It is composed of simple sugars, fructose and glucose, which can cause diarrhea in infants. It may contain pollen from the flower plants, clover, etc., which can cause an allergy problem. It may also have other impurities harmful to the infant.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would getting rid of my cat solve my sinus problem? — K.K.

Do you want cat fanciers to come down on me for calling cats sinus ravagers?

Let me put it this way: A person can be allergic to cat dander. An allergy can be a factor in sinus trouble. I suggest you be tested to see, first of all, if you have an allergy problem, and secondly, whether your poor cat is the cause of it. If it is, then find a nice home for it and you may find sinus relief. See the booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble" which discusses the range of sinus disturbance. For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 79-year-old woman in excellent health. I don't smoke or drink, but for 20 years I've indulged in the very expensive but very delicious habit of eating macadamia nuts. Can you tell me their food value? Are they good for protein? How about calories? Can they cause dry skin and an annoying itch? I don't eat much meat because I don't care for it, but I do eat fish, chicken, turkey, vegetables and fruit. I also have a cup of the "nouveau chic" drink — bottled water — daily, and a cup of tea or coffee daily.

The only food I eat in excess is macadamia nuts, a small handful each day, sometimes twice a day. I brush off the salt. How long would I have to eliminate the nuts to find out if they are causing my skin problem? When I asked my dermatologist, he backed out the door, presumably for somebody with a more important question. — Ms. V.M.

I love macadamia nuts. My reference tells me they come from an Australian evergreen tree, which is cultivated in Hawaii, where, I assume, you picked up your expensive habit 20 years ago. You can estimate the calories you get by figuring about 700 per cup. They are 8 percent protein, 72 percent fat, and 16 percent carbohydrate.

I doubt that the nuts have anything to do with your skin condition. You can test that by eliminating the nuts for from 14-18 days. Usually skin allergies show as hives or eczema. You are in excellent health because of your sensible diet, with or without the nuts. I agree that you have a very expensive but delicious habit.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

President Carter says he is looking for ways to conserve energy and cut down on oil imports. He says he wants alternate sources of energy developed and wants a windfall profit tax put on the oil companies. This money is supposed to be used for this purpose, but the way I understand it, he is going to give the money back to the oil companies to develop these sources of energy. It seems to me that the oil companies control too much energy now and that is our main problem.

Carter says we need an energy source that is renewable, such as alcohol made from plants or animal waste. Nothing has been said about how many barrels of oil per day go into the making of nylon and other synthetic materials that are in direct competition with our natural fiber. The synthetic materials come from oil which cannot be replaced. Our natural fiber is replaceable and they say we have too much. Why is the oil not being used for fuel instead of making material that can be made from a renewable source?

Cotton makes a better material. It is warmer in winter, cooler in summer, more fire retardant, and replaceable. It is true that some ironing boards might have to come out of moth balls, but this might be better than no fuel.

It comes down to who you would rather support — your cotton farmer or the oil companies and some oil sheiks who are getting all of the money. When the farmer gets the money, he spends it here. This renewable source does not have to be developed by anyone — we just need to take advantage of it.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I'm not in the habit of reading the Bible — where would you suggest I begin? — W.J.O.

DEAR W.J.O.: The Bible is God's Word to us, and that is why it is important for us to know it and grasp its truth. Think of it — God has actually spoken to us! This is a wonderful truth, and we should pray that God would give us a great hunger for His Word.

If you are not familiar with the Bible I suggest you begin with one of the Gospels. I often suggest the Gospel of John, because it was written to help us grow in our belief. "These are written," the writer tells us, "that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in his name" (John 20:31, New International Version). Another reason I suggest you begin there is because once you understand who Jesus Christ is, and what He has done for us in God's plan, then you will be better equipped to see what the rest of the Bible is all about. The Old Testament, for example, is a tremendous story of the way God has been at work since the dawn of history to bring salvation to the human race.

But if you are not familiar with the Bible it will be harder for you to see this central theme.

So, I suggest you also read some of the New Testament letters, which tell us how to apply the truth of the Gospel to our lives. You might find it helpful to read carefully the little book of First John, for example, because it concentrates on God's love for us and the assurance we can have that we are saved if we have committed our lives to Christ.

Later you will want to read other parts of the Bible, including the Old Testament, until you become familiar with the whole Bible. You might begin your Old Testament reading in Psalms and Proverbs. As you read other parts of the Old Testament, note how God worked in the lives of people, and apply that to your life.

The most important thing in reading the Bible is to ask God to help you apply it to your life every day. God wants to change your life and has given His Word for that purpose. "Do not merely listen to the word, and so deceive yourselves. Do what it says" (James 1:22, New International Version).

Hit-man rings

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — It reads like a paperback thriller or the script for a Hollywood suspense flick, but it is frighteningly, incredibly real. The secret police of at least six South American military regimes have been running a joint undercover operation whose function is to assassinate common enemies in foreign countries.

The secret organization is called "Operation Condor," after the bald-headed vulture of the Andes. Its headquarters is located in Chile. Though membership has varied since Condor's formation in 1976, other member nations have included Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay.

ALTHOUGH CONDOR functions as an intelligence-gathering organization to keep track of "leftist" exiles and other opponents of the ruling juntas, its "Phase Three" section is the Mafia-like enforcement arm, according to top-secret documents and other sources.

The special section "involves the formation of special teams from member countries assigned to travel anywhere in the world to non-member countries to carry out 'sanctions' — including assassination — against Condor enemies," according to a "top Secret-Sensitive" report of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

One "Phase Three" team is charged with drawing up the Condor "hit list" in a particular country. Then a second team is dispatched to locate the targeted victims and conduct surveillance on them. Finally, a third team, drawn from one or more member police agencies, is sent to carry out the "sanction" decided upon.

So far, apparently, Condor has failed to establish an outpost in the United States, but an attempt was made at one point to open a station in Miami, according to the secret report. The CIA got wind of the plan and notified the State Department. A formal protest to the governments involved was considered, but was vetoed by then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Instead, U.S. disapproval of the proposed Condor station was quietly relayed to the Chilean secret police, DINA, which seemed to be the moving force behind Condor.

The outpost was never set up, but this may not have stopped Condor from doing its dirty work in the United States. In September 1976, the prominent Chilean exile, Orlando Letelier, was blown to bits with a young American associate as they were driving past the Chilean chancery on Washington's Embassy Row.

THE CONFESSED hit man claimed DINA had hired him, and a secret FBI report at the time stated: "It is not beyond the realm of possibility that the recent assassination of Orlando Letelier... may have been carried out as a third phase of 'Operation Condor.'"

Quick action by the CIA and the French and Portuguese governments prevented similar Condor strikes on another occasion, sources told our associate Dale Van Atta. Following the assassinations of the Bolivian ambassador and a Uruguayan attaché in Paris, and a Chilean diplomat in the Middle East, a Condor first team had selected three prominent European leftists as targets for retaliation. But while the second team was looking for the targets, the CIA discovered that the assassinations were to occur in France and Portugal and urgently notified those governments. French and Portuguese authorities tipped off the intended victims, then called the Condor nations' representatives on the carpet "to warn them to call off the action," according to the secret report. It added: "They did — after denying that it had ever been planned."

Because of worldwide outrage at the Letelier murder — three top officials of DINA were indicted in the United States, but extradition has been refused — the Chilean president, Gen. Augusto Pinochet, dissolved the sinister police force in 1977. Its replacement agency is primarily an intelligence-gathering agency, CIA sources said.

But others are not so sure that DINA's ghost has been laid to rest. Chilean undercover agents have still been able to enter the United States on false passports to buy electronic eavesdropping equipment and the secret report notes that "persons accompanying President Pinochet to the signing of the Panama Canal Treaty used false passports."

The report concludes, "What is clear, is that DINA and Condor possess both the motive and capability to harm United States residents."

SOUND OFF: Q. My solution to the oil crisis: free enterprise. We'll see competition. And we'll see the people work out solutions. — Patricia Tursi, Yakima, Wash.

A. Great idea. But who's going to persuade the OPEC nations, which rig oil prices, to return to the free enterprise system? If they sold their oil on an open market, economists tell me it would reduce the price by $12 to $15 a barrel.

Q. I would like to know why Frank Sturgis, who used to work for you, wound up at Watergate? — Ora Gates, Mobile, Ala.

A. He worked for Richard Nixon, not me. Sturgis was hired by the Nixon campaign to break into Watergate.

Haig before Senate again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Alexander Haig, the former supreme allied commander in Europe, today renewed his call for the Senate to set the SALT II treaty aside while it works to bolster the nation's nuclear and conventional defenses.

Pleas from Haig and others for more defense spending as a price for ratifying SALT II appear to have picked up significant Senate support. Sen. Alan Cranston, the Senate's No. 2 Democratic leader, predicted Wednesday the treaty will be ratified after a compromise involving increased military spending and a commitment to seek far deeper reductions in nuclear weapons in the SALT III negotiations.

Haig told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee an unchecked drive by the Soviet Union to increase its nuclear might has placed it on the verge of achieving strategic superiority.

He made a virtually identical appeal last week to the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"A firm, unambiguous demonstration of renewed U.S. strength and ability to lead is long overdue," Haig said.

"It is essential that this debate result in a demonstration of our resolve to redress this imbalance by an immediate and unequivocal commitment of greater resources to our defense needs."

At a news conference Wednesday, Cranston contended that the debate over the treaty is shifting away from the specific provisions of the pact because opponents have failed to win converts with their claim that SALT II is fatally flawed.

He said the new focus, on America's overall defense posture, results from warnings that the Soviet Union is seeking nuclear superiority and from demands that defense spending be substantially increased to meet the threat.

Refreshing break from TV reruns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A lovely respite from the summertime network doldrums, and just in time — "Oberndorf Revisited," is airing this month on independent stations around the country.

Airing on more than 100 stations, blanketing the major TV markets, "Oberndorf Revisited" is further proof that banded independents are a solid alternative to network viewing. And this particular alternative, distributed by Air Time, Inc., is a gem.

It is a story of love and retribution and forgiveness, based on Irwin Shaw's short-story, "The Inhabitants of Venus." Unlike the TV adaptation of Shaw's "Rich Man, Poor Man," this hour-long drama carries a quiet literary quality.

It's almost like reading a book on TV, much the same sort of feeling you might have gotten from watching PBS' "American Short Story" series a couple of seasons ago.

"Oberndorf" is about one Robert Rosenthal, a wealthy young American Jew who returns to the German winter resort where he spent much time before World War II. The war has just ended, and Rosenthal is drawn to Oberndorf by the warm memories of his youth.

But he is haunted by visions of Nazi horrors, and by the memory of an incident on an Oberndorf ski slope just before the war. He'd been left to die on a frozen ski slope by a hateful young Nazi, sentenced to death for being a Jew.

The drama turns on Rosenthal's attempt to reconcile his pleasant feelings about Oberndorf and its people and his urge for vengeance. Complicating things is a beautiful young German woman, Ulie, who has herself endured the pains of war.

Auto insurance claims won't decrease

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Contrary to what some consumers might believe, the current gasoline shortage will not decrease auto insurance claims, says an insurance company spokesman.

Inflation has increased the costs of automobile repairs and other things that insurance pays for, J.M. Eddins, vice president of Maryland Casualty Companies, said in prepared remarks today.

Eddins and others testified at a State Insurance Board hearing on the industry's request for a 21.7 percent average statewide hike in automobile insurance rates.

"Under the current situation, we cannot expect any added advantage from a change in speed limits, as was the case in 1974," Eddins said, referring to the drop in speed laws from 70 miles per hour to 55 mph.

The subcompact that consumers buy for better gasoline mileage are higher accident risks and cost more to repair, Eddins added.

"Also, when accidents do occur in these smaller automobiles, the bodily injury implication is much greater than if the same accident had occurred in a heavier automobile," he said.

Eddins represented the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office, which files rate recommendations for car insurance companies.

The insurance board staff has recommended an 8.9 percent rate increase. Board Chairman William Daves said Wednesday the panel will rule on the rate hike request in about a month.

On Wednesday, the insurance board heard comments on possibly reducing collision insurance costs for motorists who regularly carpool.

A motorist reduces the chances of his car being in accident by leaving it at home and carpooling, industry spokesmen agreed. But they asked whether more people riding in a single auto would increase physical injury risks in the event of an accident.

"We really don't have any hard data, but there are offsetting (risk) factors" to carpooling, said David Irons, attorney for the service office.

Irons said carpooling definitely would help conserve energy and should be encouraged. As a starting point, he proposed creating a new insurance class for motorists who carpool at least half the time.

Texas who drive to work pay more for collision coverage than other motorists. City dwellers who commute to work in their private cars also pay more liability insurance than urban Texans who don't drive to work.

In Harris County (Houston), the average driver taking his car to work pays $44 more in annual premiums. An average driver is described as a male over 21 or female over 25 with a medium-priced 1978 Chevrolet, Ford or Plymouth who drives to work with basic coverage.

Metcalfe will drill Howard County venture

Howard County drew locations for two wildcats.

Tom R. Metcalfe, Midland, will drill the No. 1 Kim Unit, a 10,500-foot wildcat in Howard County, 1 1/2 miles southeast of the Spraberry opener of the depleted Knott (Spraberry and Canyon) field, 2 3/4 miles northwest of the depleted Bond (Spraberry and Canyon) field, 3 1/2 miles east-southeast of the Knott, West (Spraberry and Pennsylvania reef) field, but separated by the depleted Knott field, and 12 miles north of Big Spring.

Location is 2,400 feet from the north and 1,650 feet from the west lines of 13-33-2n-T&P.

The Spraberry opener of the Knott field, Union Texas Petroleum, division of Allied Chemical Corp., No. 1 Shroyer, was finalized July 12, 1967 to pump 60 barrels of 42 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 650-1, through perforations at 6,438-7,797 feet. A Pennsylvania failure, it was drilled to 8,889 feet.

Barron Kidd, Dallas, will drill the No. 1 Cassie Buchanan, a 3,800-foot Permian wildcat in Howard County, 5 1/2 miles northwest of Clearfork production in the Coahoma, North (Fusselman and Clearfork) field and seven miles north and slightly west of Coahoma.

Location is 790 feet from the south and 660 feet from the east lines of 56-27-H&TC.

The Coahoma field produces from the Clearfork at 4,651 feet.

Wheat plays classics of ragtime from 'Sting'

Downtown Lions were treated Wednesday to examples of Russian musical composers and how their works were influenced by Europeans.

Larry Wheat presented passages from several Russians, then excerpts from European composers such as Chopin and Strauss from whom the themes were extracted. These ranged from the soaring melodies to militant discordance.

All this does not mean that Russian composers were not innovative, for they were at time leaders in many areas, Wheat said.

As a bonus, he threw in a classic bit of ragtime lifted from the musical from which the "Sting" took its theme. Dan Conley, program chairman, introduced Wheat, who is to further his musical studies this autumn at TCU where he has been given a scholarship for his outstanding talent.

Three cubs to compete in contests at Snyder

Three Cubs won the right Monday evening to represent pack 306, sponsored by the First Baptist Church, in the council Cub physical fitness contests Saturday in Snyder.

Charles Pierce will represent the 8-year-olds, Todd Kuykendall the 9-year-olds, and Keith Tucker the 10-year-olds. They emerged as winners in contests held Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Lewis, 4212 Parkway. Den 3 held a belated pinewood derby elimination with James Lewis emerging as winner, followed by Terry Briggs and Jody Strong.

Judges for the various events were Porter and Phyllis Briggs, Glenn and Barbara Pierce, Curtis Strong, and Judy Hamilton. Loren Lewis was in charge of the hot-dog cookout which used an energy theme with, among other things, solar tea. Next pack meeting will be late in August at a date to be fixed later.

26 local grass fires traced to exploding firecrackers

Big Spring Fire Marshal Jim Ryals reported that during July the department had fought 28 grass fires, all of whom were caused by firecrackers.

In addition to the grass fires, firecrackers were responsible for setting the roof of a local home on fire.

This was just one of seven house fires that occurred during the month.

The department also answered calls for fire at two businesses; three unoccupied homes; two storage buildings; five vehicles; nine trash cans; and 11 false alarms.

'Economic censorship' aimed at rebroadcast of 'Lou Grant'

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association charged today that representatives of the nursing home industry are attempting to impose "economic censorship" on television viewers by blocking the Aug. 27 rebroadcast of an episode of the "Lou Grant" television series.

The two groups contend that the American Health Care Association (AHCA) is putting pressure on CBS television affiliates and potential advertisers because it "is so fearful of public disclosure of some of the problems which exist in certain nursing homes."

The president of the nursing home lobby group wrote to all CBS affiliates on July 20 urging them not to rebroadcast the episode entitled "Home," which stars Ed Asner and Jack Gilford. Because of the industry pressure, three potential advertisers — Prudential Insurance, Oscar Mayer & Co., and Kellogg's — agreed not to sponsor the rebroadcast, according to AHCA spokesmen.

Earlier this month, the two retiree organizations — which have a combined membership of 12 million — presented their national republic service award to Ed Asner and the "Lou Grant Show" producers for the "Home" episode.

"We honored that episode for its sensitive portrayal of so many aspects of the aging process and the attendant success and failure of our society in dealing with that process," AARP and NRTA said. "Home" not only accurately depicted the bureaucratic red-tape and negligent abuse that many older people must face each day, it also showed clearly the absurdity of age discrimination and mandatory retirement as well as the need for dignity and purpose in the lives of all Americans — regardless of age.

"The 'Lou Grant Show' is proof that a weekly television series can deal with significant social issues and can inform and enlighten an audience without sacrificing its essential entertainment value.

"We trust that neither the CBS affiliates nor other potential sponsors will be intimidated by the nursing home industry. After all, the airwaves are supposed to belong to the people, not to economic special-interest groups.

"We urge all CBS affiliates to air the episode on August 27. And we urge any of our 12 million members who may have missed the original broadcast of 'Home' last February not to miss it this time. It's well worth watching," the retiree associations said.

Blind trackster competes to prove a point

PLANTATION, Fla. (AP) — "There's no greater feeling of accomplishment than crossing the finish line first," says 17-year-old Sheila Holzworth.

But when she started doing it at high school meets back in Des Moines, Iowa, opposing coaches stopped liking it. Sheila, who lost her sight in a freak accident at age 10, runs with an electronic pager to help her stay in her lane.

"At first, everyone said, 'Oh, isn't that nice. A blind girl running track,'" the Dowling High School senior said. "But when I started winning, they started becoming jealous. Coaches complained that I was getting an electric zap out of the device to help my time — as crazy as it sounds."

She may compete as long as she follows the rules, the Iowa High School Athletic Association ruled. Holzworth was here to receive her paging system from Motorola's communications department. She changed into a maroon and white running suit to demonstrate it on Plantation High's track.

"Winning means a great deal to me because I like the attention," the sprinter said. "I like the attention because I don't want to be shoved away like blind people used to be. I like to show that being blind doesn't mean you're useless."

She also enjoys trick skiing, horseback riding, roller skating, cycling and dancing, but admits the skiing requires some polishing and her time of 12.8 seconds in the 100-meter dash isn't as good as it could be. The Iowa state high school record is four-tenths of a second faster.

"Being blind is more of an inconvenience than a handicap," Holzworth says. "Heck, the hardest thing for me to do is match my socks in the morning."

The electronics company's pager makes her track competition easier. She'd been guided by a family friend and ham radio operator, but sometimes the transmission failed or she'd pick up signals from other hams in the area — once for a pizza order.

"Whenever it failed, I'd end up running into a fence or out of the lane and wiping out someone," she explained. "I never imagined this new system could be this good. It's almost perfect."

Her competition has drawn a lot of attention. Holzworth has been asked to lead an annual Easter Seals Marathon and the family has been approached about making a movie.

"I just hope that what I'm doing will help other blind people realize their potential," she said. "I'd like to compete in track in college and the Olympics if I keep improving."

Rights Act violations more subtle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mexican American spokesmen say discriminatory tactics, blatant and subtle, are frequently employed to reduce their clout four years after the inclusion of language minorities in the Voting Rights Act.

Wilma Martinez, president of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund, said a polling place in one Houston district was barely changed.

She said the new location, however, moved the polling place from a Chicano to an Anglo neighborhood, placing it across the freeway and reachable to poorer voters from the Chicano neighborhood only by public transportation.

Willie Velasquez, director of the Southwest Voter Registration Project, told of a Chicano worker in a small West Texas town who said he would be fired if his name appeared on a voter registration roll.

Nor is it unusual for Mexican-American voting rights activists to be ordered out of town, he said.

"West Texas politicians are not housebroken," Velasquez said.

The organizations held a news conference Wednesday to mark the fourth anniversary of the language minorities amendments to the Voting Rights Act.

Joaquin Avila of MALDEF said a legal drive is under way to bring county governments in line with the act's provisions. The San Antonio, Texas, staffer predicted suits to force redistricting of gerrymandered county precincts would dramatically increase the number of Mexican-Americans elected to county governments in 1980.

Special targets are 99 counties in Texas, six in Arizona and 23 in California, he said.

Velasquez, also of San Antonio, said his group plans 200 additional voter registration drives in the Southwest before the 1980 election, bringing the total number to 400 drives in 125 cities.

Pressure is mounting to delete the bilingual ballot provisions of the act, Al Perez of MALDEF's Washington office said. "This year has been the year in which the efforts have probably gained more momentum than in past years," he said.

Ms. Martinez, of San Francisco, said those who oppose the bilingual ballot provisions usually argue against the cost. "You quickly find the real reason for opposing it, is the immense fear people have of bilinguality," she said. "I sense that this fear is what is motivating many people."

State Rep. Paul Moreno of El Paso, Texas, said the Voting Rights Act has changed the state political scene significantly as politicians learn they must submit their redistricting plans to the Justice Department for approval.

Immediate mobilization of equipment to combat oil spill ordered in U.S.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Coast Guard officials, surprised by thick balls of oil that washed up on a Mexican beach, have called for immediate mobilization of massive equipment to combat the world's largest oil spill.

Coast Guard Capt. Roger Madson, who is directing the spill containment operation, has ordered "strike teams" and equipment from North Carolina and California to battle the spill in the Gulf of Mexico.

Coast Guard spokesman Richard Griggs said Wednesday that six 15,000-pound "floating fences" were being shipped here. The mobilization was called for after the unexpected discovery of "tar balls" on a Mexican beach about 60 miles south of Brownsville.

"It was a surprise that it washed up that far north. It was sooner than we anticipated," Griggs said.

The oil is flowing at a rate of 30,000 barrels a day from the runaway Ixtoc 1 oil well in Mexico's Bay of Campeche, said Coast Guard Lt. John Mitchell.

The thick oil has been flowing out of control since the well blew out June 3. Experts have projected it may take until October to cap the well.

The 612-foot floating fences — called booms — are made of rubberized material and float two feet below the water and two feet above. They can be used either close to the coastline or offshore. Previous projections have said traces of the oil may turn up about 40 to 50 miles off the Texas coast this weekend.

A six-hour Coast Guard flight from here Wednesday charted the northernmost evidence of the slick about 70 to 80 miles southeast of Brownsville. Griggs said the slow northward movement of the oil is apparently continuing.

But Craig Hooper, a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration scientist aboard the flight, said there was no evidence of any patches of oil in that general area.

The oil that washed ashore and left a five-to-10-foot wide strip along the Mexican beach may have floated north undetected beneath the Gulf's surface, experts said.

A NOAA plane was scheduled to make a reconnaissance flight today to again track the northern edge of the oil.

The officials gathered here to monitor the massive slick are now actually dealing with a series of smaller slicks.

Tax hearing set Aug 10

SNYDER — A hearing has been set for 10 a.m., August 10 on a temporary restraining order to enjoin the Snyder Independent School District from certifying its 1979 tax rolls.

The order was issued by Judge Jim Gregg of 118th District Court in Big Spring after the petition was filed in 132nd District Court here by Jonisue and Lawson Stiff. Judge Wayland Holt of 132nd District Court disqualified himself from the hearing.

In their petition, Mr. and Mrs. Stiff identify themselves as taxpayers, owning oil and gas interests in the Snyder ISD. They state they are filing the suit on behalf of themselves and all other persons similarly situated.

The petition states that the board of equalization of the school district has treated for the purpose of taxation the working interests under an oil and gas lease in a different manner from the royalty interest under an oil and gas lease, and that such differentiation for purposes of taxation is in direct contravention to the constitutional framework and equality and uniformity of taxation.

Big Springer on honor list

AUSTIN — The School of Social Work at The University of Texas at Austin has named 29 students to the honor roll for the 1979 Spring Semester.

To be listed on the social work honor roll, a student must earn at least 52 grade points during the semester, passing all courses. Total grade points are calculated by multiplying the number of semester hours undertaken by the value of each grade (A equals to 4 points).

The list of honor students includes Maridene Diane Margolis, VA Hospital Quarters, Big Spring, magna cum laude.

Rodeo Week starts today in Lamesa

LAMESA — Rodeo Week formally starts here today with a 5 p.m., parade downtown.

The first of three rodeos will get under way at 8 o'clock this evening at the Rodeo grounds on South Houston Street.

Those planning to participate in the parade should gather in the area of the Little League park about 4:30 p.m., according to Roy Burdett, parade coordinator.

Seven sheriff's posses and riding clubs will take part in the parade.

A special attraction in the parade this year will be the mounted rodeo from Texas Tech University who takes part in all Tech football games.

Following the parade, a barbecue will be held in the Dawson County Community Center. Sponsors of the barbecue are the Dawson County Sheriff's Posse and the Rodeo Association.

Lake Spence level rises

Lake Spence, one of the two reservoirs maintained by the Colorado River Municipal Water District, caught an estimated 1,500 acre feet of water from showers which fell in and around the lake Wednesday.

The elevation of the lake is now 1858.34 feet. The vertical rise was 2-10ths of a foot.

Because it fell where it did, the taste of the lake's water is almost certain to improve further, water district officials said this morning.

Rediscovering railroads

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Much of America's economic development in the early days of the Industrial Revolution can be attributed to the building of the railroads. Railroads are a safe and reliable form of transportation that could run in almost any kind of weather. During the latter half of the nineteenth century, owning a railroad was a sure road to wealth. European monarchs would pour millions out of the public coffers into American railroad stocks. Corporate wars were fought by robber barons over control of this transportation system.

Looking back on the history of the railroads it is hard to imagine that this once-thriving industry has fallen on such hard times. The idea that some railroads would one day become nationalized would have been considered heresy just 20 years ago. Railroading has been in decline and our whole economy is suffering because of it. This industry has been subjected to an extensive rate and service regulation system administered by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The ICC has been slow to act on numerous important cases, and often companies were not allowed to make a reasonable profit. Over the last several years the industry's rate of return has been around 1 percent, among the lowest for any economic sector in the Nation.

Not all of the blame, however, can be placed on the government. Railroads have lost much of their business to subsidized trucks, airplanes, pipelines, automobiles, and barges. The railroads did not stop growing because the need for passenger and freight transportation declined... that grew. The railroads are in trouble because often the need was not filled by the railroads themselves. Management has not been responsive to competition and has not shown a willingness to enter the 20th Century and compete. Labor is also to blame. Some labor rules that are in effect today date back to World War I. Prominent among these were rules on the "100-mile day" and other feather-bedding techniques such as the use of fireman. The 100-mile day refers to the option open to train crews to elect to be paid a full day's pay for working eight hours or for operating a train for 100 miles. The two methods yielded roughly equivalent results in the World War I era, but today many trains cover much more than 100 miles during an eight hour period. By the late 1950's the transition of locomotives from steam to diesel was nearly completed but fireman have remained on many trains.

As this industry has

Cockroaches 'ankle deep' infested woman's house

SCENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Police arrived on the quiet city street expecting only to respond to a call about a barking dog. Instead, they found an ankle-deep swarm of cockroaches that had spilled from a house to the street and trees, covering one policeman as he stepped from his cruiser.

Inside, the officers discovered a 64-year-old woman with her two dozen dogs, 15 cats, two mice and a parrot — all victimized by cockroach and flea bites.

"It's unbelievable, but true," said police Sgt. Rudy Basha, who said the cockroaches were "ankle deep" in some spots. "The cockroaches were all over the street. The walls of the house were so full that they had nowhere else to go."

Schenectady's health commissioner, Dr. William Bartlett called the infestation "incredible," and added it was the worst he's ever seen in 20 years on the job.

Although city police had initially said there were "hundreds of thousands" of cockroaches around the house, exterminator Harry Linindoll said later "the number is definitely in the millions."

One of the two women who lived in the house, 64-year-old Iva Fletcher, was taken to Ellis Hospital, where she was in satisfactory condition with cockroach and flea bites covering much of her body.

The ambulance that transported the woman, as well as the Schenectady Animal Shelter van and four police vehicles at the scene of the incident, had to be fumigated.

James Provost, manager of the animal shelter where the pets were taken, said the cats were so starved in the house they had fed on each other's flesh. The cockroaches, in turn, had apparently feasted on the flesh of everything in the house, including each other.

Provost added that several of the mice and the cats had to be destroyed because they were so badly bitten.

"It was a nightmare," Provost said. "I had to shake my head to find out if it really happened." Provost said cockroaches stretched from "wall to wall and floor to ceiling."

The other resident of the house, 66-year-old Madeline Cooper, was not home at the time of the incident. Both women face cruelty to animals charges filed by the animal shelter.

Tuesday night, city officials sprayed insecticides over a three-block area around the infested house, and pledged to have the building torn down by the end of this week.

Landlord Peter Galvin, who lives in Rotterdam, N.Y., said the infestation was not his fault. He said the women had not allowed him into the house in the past year.

Galvin said he will fight the demolition since he still holds a mortgage on the property.

Night people--they work under cover of stars

HIS CLIENTELE EXPECTS THE BEST FROM HIM — One of Big Spring's most favored places for quality food is the Brass Nail Restaurant, located on US 87 South. Because the restaurant is open only for the evening meal, Chef Johnny Green (above) must work at night. The meals he prepares are becoming famous all over the state.

ON CALL 24 HOURS A DAY — Local residents rest easier, knowing that people like Glenn Grigg and Katie Kernodie (above) man their posts for night shifts with the Shaffer Ambulance Company here. Grigg and Ms. Kernodie have to be prepared for any kind of an emergency when called to the scene of an accident or answering a call for an ambulance at a local residence.

SPECIALIZES IN EVENING SNACKS — Loretta Barnard can expect an abundance of orders for doughnuts and other sweet breads once night comes on. She's assigned to the night shift at Winchell's Doughnut House, located at 2111 South Gregg Street.

HELPING MAINTAIN LAW AND ORDER — A city facility that could never afford to close is the Big Spring Police Department. Personnel is on duty there 24 hours a day, both in the station and on patrol. Here, Sean Curran fills out one of the required forms made following an investigation. Curran's shift, for the most part, occurs after the sun goes down.

REAL ART IN BEING A BARTENDER — John Dawson, who hails from England, finds himself the busiest after night comes on. He's a bar-tender at the Brass Nail Night Club and the club begins to come alive when night comes on.

FRENCH WOMAN TOURS TEXAS STYLE — Renee Richeton, a native of Luneville, France, has been vacationing in the United States for three weeks. One of her stops was in Big Spring where she toured the Potton House, the Heritage Museum and the Howard County Library as well as visiting a Dawson County ranch where she viewed cotton for the first time.

French woman Renee Richeton says . . . 'Americans smile a lot'

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

Before griping about how much gasoline is in Big Spring, Tex., be thankful you don't live where Renee Richeton lives.

Ms. Richeton is a native of Luneville, France where she says gasoline was selling for $2.40 per gallon, 3 weeks ago when she left.

Her fourth time to be in America, the French, German and English speaking woman is visiting a friend in Big Spring, Mrs. Tom (Nancy) Koger.

"We met in Sherman, Tex. We were both attending Austin College," recalls Renee. "The college was conducting a seminar for people who speak or study several different languages."

Mrs. Koger has been the Big Spring High School French teacher since 1976. She is married to Tom Koger, a coach at the senior high school.

The three-week seminar attended by these two women enabled them to be roommates for that period of time, each learning more about the other one's country.

"People who spoke French were enrolled in a class taught by an American lecturer and they studied contemporary America," explained the France-born teacher.

"Those who spoke English were enrolled in a class taught by a French-speaking lecturer and they studied contemporary France," she concluded.

Ms. Richeton was born the daughter of French parents, although her mother speaks German.

"The town I was born in, Luneville, is very near the German border," she explained. "I now teach school in a small town near Luneville. The town is known throughout the world for the expensive crystal made there."

According to Ms. Richeton, when the Shah of Iran celebrated his country's 2000th birthday, he bought all of the crystal from Baccarat, the town where Ms. Richeton teaches English.

"Baccarat is much smaller than Big Spring," she revealed. "It has no more than 5,000 people."

On the whole, Ms. Richeton likes America.

"The first time I was ever in America, I was surprised to see how big everything was, even the people. I had never seen so many fat people in my life."

Ms. Richeton, herself a tall, slender brunette, says some people in France have weight problems, but they're not as large as they are in America.

She attributes America's weight problem to the excessive eating and lack of exercise.

"In France, we walk a lot, especially up and down stairs. We don't spend all of our time in elevators," she explained.

She revealed that France has a parking problem and even if people do drive their cars, they usually end up walking a long distance anyway.

park right in front of your destination. We ride bicycles a lot; not just because it's fashionable, but because we've always done it.

While visiting with the Kogers, Ms. Richeton has been taken on a grand tour of West Texas. She says the area "has a sort of grandeur about it," although she misses the water, grass and trees of her native country.

"Just the other day," said Ms. Richeton, "I got to see my first horned toad. I was horrified at first, but when I realized it was harmless, I took a picture of it."

She also visited the ranch of Mr. Koger's parents in Dawson County where she viewed cotton for the first time.

"While on our way to the ranch," stated Mrs. Koger, "we passed several oil derricks. Renee said she couldn't believe we had a gas shortage when we had all of the oil right here in Texas."

"I went to the rodeo this year also," continued Ms. Richeton. "I enjoyed it, but I don't think I'd go four times in a row. Maybe I would if I knew the people taking part in it and knew more about the sport itself. When I went," she continued, "I really didn't care who was winning."

One thing about America which really impressed Ms. Richeton was the fact that "people are always smiling." She claims the people of southern France smile, but it's fake. People in northern France who have suffered through invasions and wars are "hard to get to know. But once you break through, they're sincere," she explained.

Ms. Richeton has traveled to California, Nevada, Utah, Washington, New York and Canada and she says no matter where she goes in America, everyone is smiling.

"They may all have different ways of thinking, but they still all smile a lot," she concluded.

TWEEN 12 and 20 — Kissing cousins should cool it

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 15-year-old girl and for two years I have been fooling around with my first cousin Jim who is 17 and very good looking. We have never "gone all the way" because I don't want to get pregnant, but we have gone pretty far.

My mother found out what was happening and threatened to take me to a shrink if I didn't stop. But I think I'm addicted to Jim because I still see him.

Please answer my questions. Do you think I'm a pervert for liking my cousin? Should I continue to see him? I will admit that he does have sex on his mind almost all the time. — C.M., Hagerstown, Md.

C.M.: No, you are not a pervert for liking your cousin, and no you should not continue seeing him. First cousins are family. Besides, Jim's one-track mind should tell you that all he really wants from you is sex.

Write to Dr. Wallace, TWEEN 12 AND 20 in care of this newspaper.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. R. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Abby

Ballet Tights Don't Make A Pantywaist

DEAR ABBY: I was outraged when I read the letter from UPTIGHT MOM whose son, 12 years old and an excellent skater, wanted to take ballet lessons. She feared if he did he might become a sissy or go the gay route.

Apparently UPTIGHT MOM doesn't realize how much masculinity and athletic ability are required in ballet. I would like to see a sissy lift a 130-pound ballerina with one hand and hold her over his head. And all those leaps, turns and jumps require muscle control, coordination and strength that the finest athlete would envy.

Ballet does more for a young man's body than football. I'd much rather see my son in "Swan Lake" than at the Rose Bowl. At least I wouldn't worry that he might be carried off in the middle of his performance with a fractured jaw and a broken leg.

LONG BEACH MOM

DEAR MOM: Read on for more response to UPTIGHT MOM:

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for telling UPTIGHT MOM to let her son take ballet if that's what he wants. I'm a ballet teacher and I've had college-age males come to my classes to learn grace and flexibility. I've had discus throwers, mountain climbers, gymnasts and tennis players in my classes.

If people realized how difficult and physically demanding ballet is, they wouldn't think it was for sissies. I know that many coaches of soccer, basketball and ice hockey have required their teams to study ballet.

K.M. IN SAN JOSE

DEAR ABBY: I'm surprised at UPTIGHT MOM. I happen to be a 13-year-old girl who goes to ballet classes three times a week, and I know for a fact that there is nothing wrong with the guys in MY class.

TEED OFF IN MY TUTU

DEAR ABBY: Please tell UPTIGHT MOM not to have any fears about her son becoming homosexual because he expressed a desire to take ballet lessons in order to improve his ice skating.

I am well acquainted with someone who worked with Baryshnikov, and she told me that Baryshnikov had to beat the women off with a club!

IN THE KNOW IN N.Y.C.

DEAR ABBY: Talk about ignorance! UPTIGHT MOM wins the prize. Before my son won the Golden Gloves championship he was advised to take ballet lessons to improve his footwork. He followed that advice and didn't feel the least bit embarrassed about it. He knew he was no sissy. He has told other young boxers that ballet lessons teach a man to move with speed and rhythm in the ring.

Sandy Smith feted at bridal shower

Sandy Smith, bride-elect of Eugene Alexander, was honored with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Jane Overman July 30. Co-hosting the event was Frances Brackeen.

In the receiving line with the honoree, were her mother, Mrs. Billie Smith, and the prospective bridegroom's mother and grandmother, Bobbie Alexander and Ellie Pearce. These honored guests were presented corsages of yellow silk flowers.

Refreshments were served from a dark wood table centered with an arrangement of summer silk flowers in a copper and brass scuttle. Crystal and silver appointments were used. The hostess gift was a toaster-broiler combination.

Miss Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Smith, and Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alexander, will be married tonight at 7 p.m. in the Wesley United Methodist Church.

Four Cinderellas will venture to international competition

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

"The wonderful memories and experiences gained from our four days at the State Cinderella Girl Pageant will be treasured for a lifetime," says Nelda Colclazer.

Mrs. Colclazer, along with Esther Trantham and Gail Earls took a group of girls to Denton's Texas Women's University June 25 and came back June 29 with 36 trophies.

"It was a hard week for the girls, their mothers and the staff, but the competition and final staging was so beautiful, it made it all worthwhile," continued Mrs. Colclazer.

Winners in the State Cinderella Girl Pageant were Karen Johnson, fourth alternate of the top five in the 3-6 age division; Audrei Polo, fourth alternate of the top five in the 10-12 age division; and Tyimi Brooks, overall talent winner in the 10-12 age division.

Honored at the Cinderella Girl Awards Breakfast June 29 were Amy Osborne, Best

Song and Dance; Felecia Ford, Best Sportswear and Best 14-Year-Old; Dawn Estes, Best Musician and Community Award; and Valeri Meeks, Best 17-Year-Old.

Prior to the Cinderella pageant, International Modeling and Talent Association (IMTA) competition was held.

"This competition was conducted mainly to get the girls warmed up for the Cinderella Girl Pageant," explained Mrs. Trantham.

Winners included:

3-4 YEAR OLDS — Cassie Underwood, first alternate sportswear and party dress; Karen Johnson, second alternate swimwear, vocal and acrobatics.

5-6 YEAR OLDS — Marcie Weaver, first alternate sportswear, swimwear, TV commercials, and novelty dance; second alternate sleepwear, jazz and vocal; and Crowned Cameo Girl Queen; Stacey Mauldin, first alternate vocal and winner of TV commercials; Kimberly Gee, winner rainwear.

DUET — SONG AND DANCE — Marcie Weaver and Karen Johnson.

7-8 YEAR OLDS — Kimberlee Wing, second alternate sleepwear.

9-10 YEAR OLDS — Amy Osborne, winner of TV commercials and song and dance.

11-12 YEAR OLDS — Dawn Underwood, first alternate instrumental; Mary Weaver, second alternate Cameo Girl; Audrei Polo, second alternate swimwear and winner of party dress and vocal;

Cynthia Mason, second alternate party dress and tap dancing and first alternate Cameo Girl.

13-14 YEAR OLDS — Felecia Ford, winner evening gown and vocal and Crowned Cameo Girl Queen.

15 YEAR OLDS AND OVER — Dawn Estes, first alternate swimwear, vocal and Cameo Girl; and second alternate evening gown; Valeri Meeks, second alternate Cameo Girl.

Mrs. Colclazer, Mrs. Earls and Mrs. Trantham, all members of the Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association that helped sponsor the event, were asked several months ago to serve on the staff of the State Cinderella Girl Pageant.

"It was an honor and privilege to work with 180 girls from all over Texas as well as the fine Christian staff that provided good clean entertainment and competition for the girls," stated Mrs. Earls.

Each Big Spring participant took gifts to the pageant and exchanged with all other contestants from other Texas towns.

"This was one of the many highlights of the pageant," stated Mrs. Earls.

Final staging of the State Cinderella Girl Pageant was held at the Historic Old Main Auditorium in Denton.

Felecia, Audrei, Karen and Marcie will again be representing Big Spring as they go on to the International Cinderella Girl Pageant to be held Aug. 13-17 in Baton Rouge, La.

Local business sponsoring the Big Spring Cinderellas to state competition were the First National Bank, The Kid's Shop, Mort Denton Pharmacy, Tot-N-Teen, O. D. O'Daniel Trucking, Mr. G's Garden Center, Margarets, Big Spring Hardware, Pretty Things, Joanne Poyner, Morris Robertson Body Shop, Good Housekeeping Shop, Bilt Rite Pallets and Big Spring Seed and Chemical.

Mrs. Trantham concluded by saying "There was definitely a closer relationship between mothers and daughters after a week of fun and work."

Even Cinderellas have to eat

Somewhere in the midst of all the hustle and bustle of preparing for pageants, Cinderella Girls have to eat, too.

Here are a few recipes used by the mothers of these young beauties to keep their energy up from pageant to pageant.

Mrs. Bill Brook's
FLUFFY STUFFED POTATO

2 medium-size baking potatoes
1/2 c. cottage cheese
1/4 c. plain yogurt
1 tablespoon onion flakes
1/2 teaspoon butter-flavored salt paprika
chopped chives

Bake potatoes in a preheated 400 Degrees F. oven for one hour. Remove potatoes, and reset oven to 425 Degrees F. Slice potatoes in half. Scoop out pulp, and place in a bowl. Mash pulp with a fork, then mix in cottage cheese, yogurt, onion flakes, and salt. Fill potato skins with potato-cheese mixture. Sprinkle paprika on top, and return to oven. Bake until tops are lightly browned — about 10 minutes. Before serving, sprinkle with chives. Serves 4 (85 calories per serving).

Ginie Polo's
MUSHROOM AND CHEESE PUFF

1 pound fresh mushrooms
4 tablespoons oil, divided
1/2 cup chopped onion (1 medium)
6 eggs, separated
6 ounces grated Cheddar cheese (1 1/2 cups)
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper

Preheat oven to 350 F.

Rinse, pat dry, and slice mushrooms (makes about 5 cups). In an oven-proof skillet heat 2 tablespoons of the oil until hot. Add onions and remaining mushrooms; saute until golden; about 5 minutes.

Spread to evenly coat the bottom of the skillet; set aside. To egg yolks add cheeses, flour, salt and black pepper. Beat whites until stiff peaks form when beaters are raised. Fold whites into cheese mixture. Spread on top of mushrooms and onions in skillet. Top with reserved sauteed mushrooms. Bake until puffy and firm, about 20 minutes.

Mrs. Wayne Johnson's
ONE POT BEEF CASSEROLE

4 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup thinly sliced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
1 pound ground chuck
3 tablespoons Courvoisier
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 (10 1/2 ounce) can consommé
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups thin medium noodles, uncooked
1 cup sour cream
Chopped parsley

Lightly brown onions, garlic and mushrooms in butter. Add meat. Cook, stirring, until meat loses red color. Stir in Courvoisier, lemon juice, consommé, salt and pepper. Simmer, uncovered, 15 minutes. Stir in uncooked noodles. Cover. Cook 10 minutes or until noodles are tender. Stir in sour cream. Do not let it boil. Sprinkle with parsley and serve. Serves 4.

Mrs. Aubrey Weaver's
COUNTRY STYLE VANILLA

ICE CREAM

3 eggs
1 3/4 cups sugar
3 cups milk
3 cups whipping cream
2 tablespoons vanilla extract
1/4 teaspoon salt

In a large mixing bowl beat eggs until foamy. Gradually add sugar; beat until thickened. Add milk, cream, vanilla and salt; mix thoroughly. Chill. Churn-freeze.

'Workaholics' coming to their own defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Although they really can't spare the time, workaholics are speaking up in their own defense. Their habits, they say, are not indicative of emotional weakness. Instead, they personify excellence.

The attitude quickly surfaces in conversations with workaholics, who resent the word as pejorative. They are tired of being considered psychological misfits, of being poor family people, of being drinkers.

And they have defenders. "What's wrong with this country," said Eugene Jennings, a counselor to many executives, "is that we have too few workaholics and too many part-time executives play acting a role."

Marilyn Machlowitz, who dealt with the subject in her doctoral dissertation at Yale, comments that "practicing psychologists do not so much define workaholism as they denigrate workaholics."

Jennings, a professor who not only instructs budding workaholics in his Michigan State management courses but who acts as a confidential adviser to corporation chiefs, maintains the word is loaded with myth.

"The large majority of chief executive officers of major industrial corporations who worked their way from the bottom are workaholics," he states flatly. He feels they might not have got there otherwise.

"In science and the arts we admire workaholics," he states. But in business — well, that's another story, one often associated with a variety of negative personality traits, which Jennings calls nonsense.

He maintains that highly successful, self-propelled executives do not have an unusually high divorce rate. He claims that on average they do not die prematurely. And he insists they are seldom alcoholics.

Some, he suspects, might have better marriages and better health, because they must tend to such matters or see their goals undermined. For the same reason they may be inclined to avoid heavy drinking.

Miss Machlowitz studies indicate they are not money-mad or power-crazy either. "The workaholic's ultimate goal is not money and not even power — it is simply to be No. 1. Recognition by others is the greatest triumph."

They do, of course, recognize the value of money. In fact, she says, they crave it, but usually as a measure of success. Jennings, a prolific author and a pioneer in the study of executive mobility, or the routes to success in the corporation, conducts regular studies of executive behavior and has access to executive profiles.

A question he always asks is: "Are you happy?" And, he says, "those most likely to answer 'yes' are those working 60 hours a week or more, which by his definition makes them workaholics. These workaholics apparently don't apologize, as they once might have. One message they deliver, said Jennings, is that with too few people showing singleminded dedication, and too many pursuing the "full" life, too many jobs are being done poorly today.

Misconception about director laid to rest

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lewis Milestone has sometimes complained: "People seem to think I directed only one film of merit — 'All Quiet on the Western Front'."

That misconception should have been laid to rest with a tribute paid to Milestone by the Directors Guild of America last weekend. The Guild's theater was filled with industry leaders who watched scenes from a wide variety of films by the Russian-born director who was the first to win an Academy award (for "Two Arabian Knights").

An invalid at 83, Milestone listened to the parade of eulogiums and anecdotes and in the end responded in his usual puckish style: "Fine thing — you invite me here tonight and then you take away everything I had to say."

His films said it best. They displayed the variety of his talent, the melodrama of "The General Died at Dawn," "The Strange Love of Martha Ivers" and "Arch of Triumph" — a pair of musicals: "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (Al Jolson, Harry Langdon) and "Anything Goes" (Bing Crosby, Ethel Merman.)

Steinbeck classics: "Of Mice and Men" and "The Red Pony." Comedy: "The Front Page," "Capote," "Ocean's Eleven," "Spectacle," "Kangaroo."

The dominant element in his work is the bitterness of war: "All Quiet," "A Walk in the Sun," "Pork Chop Hill." Not shown was Milestone's final movie, the 1962 "Mutiny on the Bounty." He replaced Carol Reed, who resigned after trying to cope with Marlon Brando. Milly (his nickname) stuck it out but laid no better. "At least I made enough money to retire," he has remarked.

The program was introduced by Robert Aldrich ("The Dirty Dozen"), past president of the guild and assistant to Milestone on three films. Aldrich had worked for a number of directors and remarked that his most important lesson from them was "to understand what the game of being a director is: The game is power."

He added: "Milly had all the tools for being a director, above all, an innate sense of power."

Deaf-mute's murder trial to be delayed

DALLAS (AP) — A deaf-mute, who is taking a crash course in sign language so he can understand the murder charges against him, will go before a Dallas grand jury Aug. 21.

Although a tentative trial date of Sept. 7 has been set for Jerome Fisher if he is indicted, prosecution and defense attorneys have said the trial could be delayed up to a year because of the difficulties in communication.

Judge James Zimmerman, who Wednesday reduced Fisher's bond from $25,000 to $5,000, also set an examining trial for early August.

Fisher's older sister, Lillian Mills, made the bond and Fisher was released.

"I'm going to work with Jerome to investigate this case," said court-appointed attorney Scott Anderson, adding he will join Fisher in sign-language class.

Fisher, 27, is charged with murder in the strangling death of prostitute Dorothy Armstrong. Family members say Fisher was asleep at home at the time of the slaying, which took place in a motel room.

One of two sign-language experts who have been working with Fisher said it will be "some time" before he comprehends sign language well enough to stand trial. "He's very eager to communicate with us, and he's picked up American sign language very quickly," Ann Phillips said.

Fisher can neither read nor write, she added.

Making his first appearance in a courtroom,

Fisher had to be told the meanings of the words "judge," "court" and "trial."

"I'm not even sure he understands he is charged with murder," Anderson said.

Fisher lived with his sister before his July 14 arrest. She said the family had worked out a private sign language to communicate with her brother. "When I wanted him to wash the dishes, I would take him over and show him," she said. "He would do it."

Fisher's plight is an eerie parallel to that of Donald Lang of Chicago, whose story was made into a recent television movie.

Lang's conviction for a 1972 killing was overturned because he was found unfit for trial and unable to aid in his own defense. The Illinois Supreme Court ruled that the state Department of Mental Health had to teach Lang how to communicate so he could be retried. The department is appealing the order to the U.S. Supreme Court, contending it has no responsibility because Lang is not mentally ill.

Before that conviction, Lang spent six years in a mental hospital after being found unfit for trial in a 1965 prostitute killing. He eventually was released because the witnesses died.

Taxpayers organize statewide

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texans upset over taxes chewing away nearly half of every $1 they earn have joined in supporting a proposal to give citizens authority to bypass the Legislature in making laws.

Representatives of 20 local taxpayer associations voted unanimously Wednesday to organize a statewide effort in favor of initiative and referendum.

Former Attorney General Waggoner Carr of Texas 13, Inc., a non-profit tax relief group, said the campaign is expected to cost at least $125,000.

The goal is to gain legislative approval of a proposed constitutional amendment whenever Gov. Bill Clements calls a special session.

The 1979 regular session rejected the proposal, which was the cornerstone of Clements' "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton opposed the measure.

Carr told a news conference the associations, meeting for the first time Wednesday, supported "direct" initiative and referendum, which means voters could bypass the Legislature through petitions and elections in making laws.

Carr said the associations represent 45,000 Texans in Gonzales, Tyler, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Austin, Houston, Waco, Yoakum, Lubbock, Weslaco, Plainview, Rungo, Galveston and Irving.

Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, and, according to Carr, some dozen House members also were present.

The purpose of the statewide campaign, Carr said, is to "gain power to control our tax destiny in the years ahead."

"Government has grown too large, it is costing too much money and taxes do not leave enough in our pockets to maintain our desired standard of living," Carr said.

He said the U.S. Department of Commerce estimates the average American pays 45 cents out of every dollar he or she earns in taxes. "The feudal serfs were required to give their feudal lords one-third of their labor. The average American is already required to give his government almost one-half of all he makes," Carr said.

Based on current trends, Carr added, the commerce department has stated the taxes will claim 85 cents out of every $1 in 20 years.

He suggested the "tax revolt" of the 1970s may become "only a Sunday school picnic compared to the tax revolt that will inevitably come during our children's time" unless government spending and taxing is cut back to a "reasonable level."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, AUG. 3, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Make up your mind just what you want to do that is expansive and carry through with a plan of action in which real progress can be made. Maintain a positive outlook.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day and evening to take those trips that will give you added income. Your intuition is very accurate now. Express happiness.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Know what your responsibilities are and carry through with them in a conscientious manner and make real progress.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Confer with associates and know exactly what to expect in the future. A good day for communicating successfully with others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Put those new ideas you have to work which could mean added income in the future. Strive for happiness.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Go after whatever will make your personal life more as you would like it to be. Show more cooperation with associates.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't put your good reputation in jeopardy by some unwise action today. Take health treatments and improve your appearance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be faster at reaching decisions with associates and become more successful. Don't neglect an important business matter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan how to have more income in the future and take initial steps now. Listen to what an expert has to suggest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be more positive than usual in going after your aims. The evening is fine for engaging in amusements with congenials.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure there are no obstacles now in the path of your progress. Know what the needs of your mate are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good day to be your gregarious self and bring more worthwhile persons into your life. Show that you are generous.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good time to start a new project that could give you added income in the future. Take needed health treatments.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who likes to study, so be sure to give a good education that will fit your progeny for a given success in whatever field of endeavor is chosen. Be sure to give good spiritual training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

PUBLIC NOTICE
 Coahoma Independent School District
 Coahoma, Texas
 The rendition period for filing homestead exemptions under house bill 1060 has been extended until August 15, 1979.
 All exemptions must be on file in the school district tax office by August 15, 1979.
 House Bill 1060 for the purposes of the $5,000 and $10,000 homestead exemption. A residential homestead has been defined as the residents and the land used for residential purposes. This would limit the amount of land included in the homestead to no more than 1 to 5 acres.
 A) All are eligible for $5,000 exemption
 B) Over 65 eligible for $5,000 and $10,000 exemption
 C) Disabled eligible for $5,000 and $10,000
 Note: If you are not certain if you qualify, call the tax office for information. 394-4242.

Marketbasket survey

Grocery bills still up

By The Associated Press
 Supermarket shoppers had to stretch their dollars still further last month as grocery bills measured by an Associated Press market-basket survey rose by more than half a percent.

At the start of August, the average cost of a random selection of food and non-food items was about 5 percent higher than it was seven months earlier. One out of four products checked by the AP went up during July.

The AP survey covers 14 commonly purchased food and nonfood items. The price of the items was checked at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. A 15th item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped at the end of November 1977 because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

Among the latest findings: —The marketbasket bill went up at the checklist store in seven cities and down in six cities during July. On an overall basis, the average marketbasket was seven-tenths of a percent higher at the end of the month than it was at the start. During June, in contrast, the average marketbasket bill dropped by seven-tenths of a percent.

—Comparing prices today with those at the start of the year, the AP found that the average marketbasket bill at the checklist store has increased by 4.9 percent.

—The price of food has been rising much more than the price of other supermarket items. When non-food items were removed from the marketbasket totals, the AP found that the average bill at the checklist store had increased by 6.2 percent in the first seven months of 1979.

—Coffee and milk led the list of items increasing in price last month. The price of a pound of coffee increased at the checklist store in 11 cities, to an average of $3.03. The price of a quart of milk went up last month at the checklist store in seven cities, reflecting higher prices paid to farmers.

—Eggs decreased in price in seven cities at the checklist store, offering bargains to consumers looking for non-meat sources of protein. There also were some specials on meat — the price of chopped chuck went down at the checklist store in five cities during July, while frankfurters declined in six cities.

No attempt was made to weigh the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents. The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on
