Strategist warns

Democratic Party 'asleep' to danger

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 1980 census will force a realignment of congressional and legislative districts throughout the nation, and a Democratic strategist said Saturday that his party is "sound asleep" to dangers of dramatic Republican gains.

"The 1980 reapportionment will profoundly change the makeup and political balance of power of Congress," said Lee Webb. He said GOP leaders have pursued a "brilliant" strategy of focusing money and expertise on winning elections at the state level where lawmakers and governors will control the reapportionment process.

Webb, a self-described progressive who is executive director of the Conference on Alternative State and Local Public Policies, is warning Democratic leaders that Republican candidates could win enough 1980 races to blunt the Democrats' statehouse dominance.

The conference opened a two-day meeting in suburban Bryn Mawr on Saturday.

Both political parties can be expected to do as much gerrymandering as possible in 1981, when the reapportionment process will actually occur. Gerrymandering takes place when a political party uses legislative control to redraw district boundaries to give special advantage to party candidates.

The Democrats approach the 1980 election in an enviable position. The party enjoys majority rule in both legislative chambers in 30 states and holds the governor's chair in 32 states. But Webb says the GOP made significant gains in 1978.

In 1977, with the percentage of voters who identify themselves as Republicans in decline, GOP Chairman Bill Brock kicked off an effort to rebuild the party from the bottom, up. The party poured money and staff expertise into state and local campaigns.

In 1978, the Republican National Committee spent $2 million on legislative races, increasing the number of GOP legislators by 317, and wrestled control of six legislative chambers away from the Democrats. In the meantime, GOP gubernatorial victories cut the Democrats' edge there by five.

According to a Republican National Committee analysis of the legislative balance, "a mere gain of 26 legislative seats, strategically located throughout the country, would place 12 more legislative chambers under Republican control.

Police think payroll check thief is in San Antonio

Local police believe the thief who stole over $96,000 in payroll checks here may be in San Antonio.

"When he left Big Spring, he bought a bus ticket to San Antonio. It's as simple as that," said Detective David Spilman, member of the Big Spring Major Crime Task Force.

The checks issued by the FWA Drilling Company of Wichita Falls were stolen, July 25, from a platform at the Big Spring Greyhound Bus Station. The culprit cashed two checks totaling about $530 at Big Spring grocery stores, and then left town on a bus.

Local police arrested Roy Lusk, 35, 1804 Hearn on Wednesday and charged him with theft, but doubt that he is the one who stole the checks. "He (Lusk) is probably going to end up clearing himself," said Spilman, Thursday. "He gave us information about another suspect and we have a warrant for his arrest right now."

Lusk, said Spilman, was arrested after showing a local convenience store owner three of the stolen checks.

"We think Lusk was just trying to convince the owner that he could pay back some money he owed him," said Spilman. "Then he returned the checks to the guy we are looking for."

The detective said that he has notified San Antonio Police of the suspect's possible whereabouts, and hoped that an arrest would be made sometime this weekend.

SALT II treaty debate in Senate results in military budget battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's consideration of the SALT II treaty has resulted in a battle over increasing the military budget, with President Carter being asked to pay a high price for the votes needed to ratify the pact.

At the same time, critics of the treaty and some of its allies as well have proposed at least 26 amendments, some of which would be certain to cause the Soviet Union to either reject the revised pact or reopen negotiations.

The arms limitation treaty now has undergone a month of public and private hearings before three Senate committees. Its supporters say it has withstood all attacks, that no fatal flaw has been found and that it will be in good shape for debate on the Senate floor, now scheduled for early October.

"We believe the treaty will stand up to bombardments on the floor," one supporter says. "It has seen the worst of the opposition, and the volleys have fallen short."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., says the opposition has been effectively defused, that any crippling amendment will be defeated, and that vote count trends indicate the treaty will be ratified by more than the necessary 67 votes.

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, a leader of the opposition, calls that "rhetorical baloney" designed to stampede undecided senators.

"When Senate floor debate on the treaty begins, the focus will shift back to the specific provisions of the treaty, and the need for amendments or binding reservations to correct glaring flaws will be obvious," Garn said.

Other fierce opponents of SALT II vow to postpone a final vote on the pact for years if necessary to ward off ratification.

But for the moment treaty supporters are worried about the squeeze play from Senate hawks and doves that is placing Carter under extreme and conflicting pressures to increase or hold the line on military spending levels.

The White House says the president is willing to discuss any proposals for more spending but that there will be "no trading for votes."

The month-long congressional recess that began Friday has presented both sides an opportunity to regroup and get strategy and game plans in working order.

The president already is committed to a 3 percent defense spending increase over the rate of inflation to help meet the threat of increasing Soviet momentum in nuclear and conventional weapons. A vocal Senate coalition led by Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., is demanding much more be done than that.

These senators demand for increases in the range of 4 percent to 5 percent is bolstered by warnings from the Joint Chiefs of Staff, former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and others that the Soviet Union is close to achieving nuclear superiority.

That is an advantage that could be used as a weapon to make the United States back down in time of crisis and to gain world dominance.

Kissinger wants a substantially increased five-year defense plan to shore up U.S. defenses by deploying the MX and Trident missiles, developing air defense against the Soviet Backfire bomber, restoring the nuclear balance in the European theater and beefing up the U.S. capacity for regional defense.

Nunn and two treaty critics, Sens. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and John Tower, R-Texas, asked the president in a letter to spell out exactly what he is willing to spend on a wide range of specific weapons systems.

Their demands touched a sensitive nerve among Senate liberals, many of whom are longtime advocates of significant arms reduction.

Several threatened to vote against SALT II if it becomes a vehicle for even greater military spending. Others want guarantees that negotiations for SALT III will promptly achieve deep cuts in the arsenals of the two superpowers.

Twelve of them, including Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., urged Carter not to link the treaty with the defense budget but to provide the opportunity for both to be judged on their merits.

Others say an abrupt increase in defense spending would automatically lead to higher taxes, more inflation, greater budget deficits and a weakened economy in a time of popular demand for less government spending.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he believes the gap between hawks and doves can be bridged in a delicate compromise that will satisfy the former without driving off the latter.

Church said that if the gap is bridged successfully, ratification of the treaty is guaranteed.

"My best hope is that the White House will think very hard during August and come up with a formula that is very tangible and that will indeed bridge the gap," a Senate staff expert on the SALT treaty, who asked not to be identified.

Many SALT advocates say the administration can help the case for the treaty immeasurably by deciding promptly on a basing system for the mobile MX missile, which the president wants to deploy as a hedge against the growing vulnerability of the U.S. land-based missile force to Soviet attack.

Some Senate advocates of SALT worry that the problem of ratifying the treaty is intensified by Carter's reputation as a weak chief executive.

"Senators who have no faith in the ability of the man in the White House to deliver, get tougher and demand immediate payment instead of promises — COD's instead of IOU's," said the Senate staff expert.

Drive maintains good momentum

If the Howard County Ministerial Alliance's drive for funds to support Bible chairs in three Howard County high schools maintains the momentum it started with, the drive will end successfully within a matter of weeks.

In its first week, a total of $2,473 was raised toward a goal of $12,000. That included $535 donated Friday and Saturday.

Checks should be made out to the Bible Fund and forwarded either to Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the Big Spring First Baptist Church, or to The Herald, which is helping coordinate the drive.

Everyone eligible to attend reunion

Registration for the Howard-Glasscock Old Settlers Reunion begins 9 a.m. Friday at the Old Settlers Pavilion at Comanche Trail Park.

Anyone who has ever lived in either county is invited to participate.

The program gets under way at 10 a.m. A barbecue dinner will be served at noon. Beef, donated by Larry D. Sheppard Funeral Home, will be prepared by Charlie Merritt and helpers. The dinner will include pinto beans, potato salad, ice cream, coke, tea and coffee.

There'll be music all day long and contests will highlight the festivities. All old-time fiddlers are invited to bring their fiddles and participate in a program of old-time fiddlin'.

An exhibition of square dancing, featuring local dancers, will be an attraction at the Old Settlers' Dance, 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Dora Roberts Exhibition Building at the Howard County Fairgrounds. Music will be provided by Hoyle Nix and the West Texas Cowboys.

Tickets to the barbecue and to the dance are $3 per person for each event. Tickets are still available at KHEM Radio, Joy Boy's Restaurant and Dr. Gale Kilgore's office. Tickets will also be available on the day of the reunion, at the 9 a.m. registration.

Tickets to the dance may also be obtained at the gate that night. According to Don Brooks, reunion vice president, some 300 people are expected at the barbecue. Up to 400 are hoped for, says Bill Henkel, president.

Ad inspires 50 inquiries

The response one woman received when she decided to give away a dog with the help of a Herald "people ad" so overwhelmed her she called the newspaper to say:

"Please help get it out of the paper, so people will leave me alone."

The woman received more than 50 inquiries about the dog, a Doberman, which she offered free "to a good home." The animal, she reassured readers of the ad, was a "good watch dog but was not an attack dog."

The ad ran in the Herald only one day.

Whether you are trying to buy or sell something, the best way to let the world know about it is by advertising in The Herald. The newspaper's telephone number is 263-7331.

Focalpoint

Action / reaction: On call 24 hours

Q. Why doesn't the animal shelter operate on weekends. We're as nervous as anyone about the threat of rabies and when stray animals show up around here on Saturdays and Sundays there's nothing we can do but try to run them off or stay in the house.

A. "With only two employees, we are working with a limited number of personnel at the pound, and those employees need time off just like everybody else," said Bill Brown, assistant city manager. "But in the near future we will try to adjust the hours so that they work in staggered shifts. This could provide weekend coverage," he added.

Brown also said that Big Spring's animal warden is on call 24 hours a day. When he is not at the pound, he can be contacted through the police department.

Calendar: Blood donations

MONDAY
Donations of blood will be accepted from noon to 6 p.m. at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

TUESDAY
Post 2013, Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Auxiliary will meet, at 7:30 at the VFW Hall on Driver Road.

The regular meeting of The Voice of The Electorate (V.O.T.E.) will be held at 8 p.m. in the County Courtroom, with chair-person Terry Bradbury presiding. All interested persons are welcome to attend.

Tops on TV: Cop show

If you like madcap movies, you'll probably go for "Freebie and the Bean," scheduled to get under way at 8 p.m., on ABC. It stars James Caan and Alan Arkin as two San Francisco cops who try to make the biggest arrest of their careers, a big-time mobster (Jack Kruschen). Their problem is complicated by the fact that he's due to be blown away by his former partners in crime. The finals in the annual PGA Tournament are scheduled to get under way at the Oakland Hills Country Club in Birmingham, Mich., at 2 p.m., and ABC will be there to look over the shoulders of the linksters.

Man charged in deaths

MARION, N.C. (AP) — A 20-year-old man has been charged with accessory after the fact in the deaths of two women whose bodies were buried in the rugged McDowell County woods.

Officials said Friday that Henry Guy Burnette was held on $50,000 bond on charges of helping Danny Allen Parton bury the bodies. Parton was charged with two counts of first-degree murder in the slayings about four weeks apart in the spring. A woman, Kay Frances Wright, was charged last Monday as an accessory.

Officials ban deportation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has barred U.S. immigration officials from deporting an avowed homosexual who was detained after his arrival at San Francisco International Airport.

U.S. District Judge Robert Ingram issued a temporary restraining order Friday night barring the return of Eduardo Martinez to his native Mexico pending a court hearing scheduled for Monday.

Utah challenges act

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The state has challenged attempts by the Bureau of Land Management to close some desert paths cut by off-road vehicles on Utah land administered by the federal agency.

The state attorney general's office filed suit in U.S. District Court Friday to force the agency to identify, preserve and protect public rights of access to roads travelled for at least 10 years. The bureau is trying to close roads to restore vegetation cut down in the path of the increasingly popular off-road recreational vehicles.

Bison's carcass discovered

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — The whole carcass of a 500-pound giant bison that roamed prehistoric Alaska has been found preserved in the permanently frozen ground north of Fairbanks, according to a published report.

The animal, 20,000 to 40,000 years old, was found by two miners, the All-Alaska Weekly said in a copyright story Friday. The weekly quoted University of Alaska paleontologist Dale Guthrie as saying it was the first time an entire frozen mammal had ever been found in North America and excavated so it could be studied using modern analytical techniques.

Supertanker finally sinks

NEW YORK (AP) — The supertanker Atlantic Empress, carrying about $50 million worth of crude oil, has sunk about 350 miles east of Barbados as a result of a collision with a Greek vessel two weeks ago, says an oil company spokesman.

John Flint of Mobil Oil Corp. said the tanker sank Thursday night after two new explosions on board. It was carrying about 2 million barrels of Mobil crude oil, 1.5 million of which went down with the ship, Flint said Friday. The tanker, owned by the Branco Shipping Co. Ltd., had been adrift in the Atlantic since the July 19 collision with the Greek-owned Aegean Captain that killed 27 people.

Joint meeting slated Tuesday

Howard County commissioners will hold an emergency meeting with members of the Big Spring city council at 9 a.m. Tuesday to discuss two common effort proposals.

One of the proposals would have the county lending the city personnel and equipment to the city to seal-coat several city streets.

The city, in turn, would extend its fire protection to certain rural areas within the county.

The meeting will take place in the county courthouse.

Willie Myles free on bail

Willie Ray Myles, 18, 1002 N. Main, was released from the Howard County Jail Friday, 10:45 a.m., on a $1,500 bond. Myles has been charged with burglary.

Also released was Ronald Dale Mathis, 17, 1511 Oriole, charged with burglary. Mathis was released at 10:50 a.m. on a $1,500 bond.

Coop to name new officers

COLORADO CITY — The annual meeting of the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative Inc. will be held Sept. 11 at the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperatorium, at which time directors will be elected.

Reports by officers, directors and committees will also be offered. Named to the nominating committee were Anson Henderson, Edward Roach, Linty Ray Webb, Jake Autry, Everett Haggerton, J.D. Richardson and Raymond Althoff. They will meet at the headquarters building of Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative Aug. 9.

Police Beat

Man charged with rape

A local man was arrested Saturday in connection with the alleged aggravated rape of a 24-year-old woman.

The woman told police that she was picked up by the suspect and his brother near the intersection of 15th and Benton. The two reportedly drove the woman to a local motel where she was allegedly forced to participate in sexual activities with various men. The woman filed a complaint at 4:50 a.m.

Police arrested Terry Dean Watkins, 39, 1708 Owens. He has been charged with aggravated rape. He was transferred to the county jail, 12:15 p.m. Saturday, and released on a $10,000 bond, set by county judge Bill Tune.

An Andrews man, Allen Wayne Dower, 35, was arrested by police Friday during a fight in the parking lot of the Americana Club. According to a police report, the man was one of two subjects who left the club during a disagreement. An officer found the men fighting outside. Further investigation revealed that Dower was in possession of an unlawful weapon.

Dower was arrested and charged with unlawful carrying of a weapon on licensed premises. He was transferred to the county jail at 12:20 a.m. Saturday. Bond was set at $3,500 by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

Thornton's Department Store reported Friday that a stolen credit card had been used to purchase a $314.95 stereo set during the day.

Benny McChristian told police that sometime between 9 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday, someone had crossed his fence and stolen 100 pounds of peppers, valued at $50, from his property.

A girl's bicycle, valued at $73, was reported stolen from the YMCA, 5 p.m.

Friday. Ruth Garrison told police that she had locked the bicycle before entering the YMCA. When she returned, the lock was open and the bicycle gone.

Alfred Clay Parker reported that he was assaulted in front of the Starlite Club, W. Hwy. 80, by a former employer, 7 p.m. Friday. The alleged assault occurred during what Parker told police was a pay dispute.

A boy's bicycle, owned by Ismael Paredes, 11, was reportedly stolen from the sidewalk at K-Mart's while the boy was inside of the store, between 8:15 and 8:30 p.m. Friday. The bicycle was valued at $35.

Thomas Walker reported that an unknown person or persons broke a window at his residence sometime between 11:20 and 11:45 p.m. Friday. Amount of damage was not determined.

Town and Country, 3105 Parkway, reported that the glass was broken out of the front door at 11:55 p.m. Friday. Damage was not determined.

Tim Plew, 14, reported Saturday that his bicycle was stolen from his residence sometime between Tuesday and Wednesday. The bicycle was valued at $65.

Theft of $185 worth of merchandise from an automobile parked in the back lot of Bogart's was reported 1:30 a.m. Saturday. Entry to William Price's automobile was gained by breaking a vent window. Missing was a caddy on which a C.B. radio and 8-track tape player and speakers were mounted. A CB antenna was also taken.

An attendant at the 7-11 Store, 4th and Franklin, told police that known persons entered the store and stole two six-packs of beer, with a total value of $4.58, 1:55 a.m. Saturday.

Spring and the Big Spring Independent School District, Friday. The program, which included daily swimming, crafts and games at the city park, was provided at the cost of only $1 per child for the entire two month's activities. The kids marked the final day Friday with a picnic and various contests.

Estes files amended motion for new trial

DALLAS (AP) — West Texas con artist Billie Sol Estes has filed an amended motion for a new trial, saying a juror was coerced against his will into voting guilty in Estes' federal trial last month.

"I do not feel that I voted my convictions in convicting Mr. Billie Sol Estes," juror Raymond L. Loggins said in an affidavit accompanying Estes' amended motion, which was filed Friday.

Estes and a co-defendant were convicted July 11 of conspiring to hide assets from the Internal Revenue Service. Estes was also convicted of swindling a Texas Panhandle farmer out of $30,000.

Sentencing for Estes and former associate Raymond K. Horton is set for Monday in U.S. District Judge Robert M. Hill's court. Loggins cited poor health, claustrophobia, pressure from other jurors and exposure to news coverage of the trial. He admitted he read news accounts of the trial despite orders to the contrary from Judge Hill.

"I failed to vote my convictions on the evidence I had seen because of the influence of the news media and the effect of the long deliberations," Loggins said.

"I became too sick to resist the constant bombardment applied by some of my fellow jurors in favor of conviction."

"I further suffer from a fear of enclosure and tight spaces... and at the time of our final vote I began to sense this claustrophobia to such an extent that I felt compelled to give in and vote guilty so that I could escape the confines of the jury room," Loggins said.

'SPECS-TACULAR' — The old adage about men not making passes at women who wear glasses can be easily disproved, especially if the woman behind the specs is

Ann-Margret. She is seen here on the right in a recent photo, and on the left in a scene from a comedy sketch on her up-coming TV special "Las Vegas Palace of Stars."

Ezell to visit here four times in August

State Rep. Mike Ezzell plans to be in Big Spring four times during the month of August.

Ezell will also visit Colorado City Tuesday for a noon speaking engagement at the Kiwanis Club luncheon.

Ezell will take part in opening ceremonies of the United Girls Softball Association National Tournament here next Wednesday evening.

He will return to Big Spring Thursday, Aug. 16, to deliver the principal address at the Psychological Association of Greater West Texas meeting, scheduled to begin in the Texas Electric Service Company building at 7 p.m.

Other Big Spring stops will be on Aug. 21 and Aug. 28, when he is here on district business.

Ezell was in Abilene Saturday attending a reception and dinner for comedian Bob Hope at the Abilene Civic Center. Proceeds from that 8 p.m. meeting, go to benefit the Joint Venture for Crippled Children.

Ezell's August itinerary:

- 4, Snyder — City Hall to present Honorary Texan Certificate to Silvia Donadei, Swiss citizens, 10:00 p.m.
- 6, Snyder — Meeting with Senator Grant Jones and Community leaders, City Hall, 8:00 p.m.
- 7, Colorado City — Kiwanis Club Luncheon, Civic House, main speaker, noon.
- 7, Austin — Capitol, state business.
- 8, Big Spring — United Girls Softball Association National Tourney, opening ceremonies, Roy Anderson complex, 8:30 p.m.
- 16, Big Spring — Psychological Association of Greater West Texas, Texas Electrical Service Company, main speaker, 7:00 p.m.
- 18, Austin — Texas Public

Bullock may quit politics

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock, who has made no secret of his desire to be governor, said Saturday he may quit politics in 1982 and start selling cars.

Bullock said he "wouldn't be surprised to see" Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby run for governor in three years but added, "That's pure speculation on my part and nothing more."

Bullock also said his suggestion last week that the Texas AFL-CIO unions organize 169,000 state employees created "mass hysteria."

In a political footnote on State Capitol Dateline, a weekly radio program, Bullock said President Carter is in "bad trouble" in Texas and faces "real hard sledding" in 1980.

Asked when he might decide on a possible race for governor, Bullock replied:

"A good while from now. I've just kind of lost some of the romance for it; I really have. I want to do a real good job where I am, and I'm not even sure I'll run there again."

Asked if this meant he was thinking of quitting politics in 1982, Bullock, 50, said, "I might, I might. I think everybody, especially people that reach my age, think about doing a different thing than they've done in the past."

"I've thought from time to time through the years I might like to have an automobile agency," Bullock said. "I came close to buying one in Mason, Texas. It's a fascinating business."

Bullock said Gov. Bill Clements told him he was "unalterably opposed" to Bullock's suggestion that unions organize state employees. "He told me ... he would do everything in his power to see that it did not come about."

"I told him I intended to do everything in my power to do it," Bullock added.

Bullock said he suggested union representation for state employees because he said there are hardly any state agency guidelines for vacations, job classifications or merit pay raises.

He said most people associate unions with strikes, but state law prohibits state employees from striking.

Bullock said he had had 18 letters responding to his union proposal — "not any from south of Dallas" — and 16 had opposed it.

"I don't intend to get out and conduct a big membership drive for the AFL-CIO. That's their business," Bullock said. "But if there are enough employees that do appoint them their agent to talk to me, you can bet your rear end I will talk to them."

"The percent of state employees who agree with me on this is not great, frankly," Bullock said.

Asked about Carter's reelection chances in Texas, Bullock said, "I think he's got real hard sledding in this state. I like the man personally. I think he's a hard-working man. I think he's a real good man. I think he's a basically good American, but I really kind of doubt whether he's got what we call leadership ability to get the job done."

Bullock said, however, if Carter is nominated he would "work anyway I can to get him elected."

Oct. 12 was chosen as the next meeting date.

Police expose story as hoax

MONAHANS — Monahans police say the story a Dallas man told about a mugging and a robbery which allegedly occurred east of the city last Monday apparently was a hoax.

A Ward Memorial Hospital spokesman said that a 26-year-old man appeared at the hospital at about 3 a.m., Tuesday claiming he had been attacked and robbed of $300 cash, a gasoline credit card and a diamond ring.

She said a female hitchhiker lured him into stopping and then drive her to what appeared to be an abandoned automobile. When he stopped, he said a man armed with a pistol got out of the car, attacked him with a pistol and beat him before taking his valuables.

In checking the man's story, police discovered that the alleged victim had been involved in this type of incident at least five times. The man's injuries apparently were self inflicted, the police say.

Why did House let Diggs down so lightly?

Our legislative bodies in Washinton remind us of that business man who, after learning that his partner had not only robbed him blind but stolen his wife as well, leaned over to tell him, "some day you're going too far."

The House of Representatives recently censured one of its own, Rep. Charles Diggs Jr., a Democrat from Michigan. It was the first time in more than half a century the lower house had been bold enough to take such drastic action against a colleague.

ALL DIGGS HAD done was illegally use $40,000 of his office salaries. He had already been convicted in a federal court of kiting his office payroll and pressuring his employees into giving him kickbacks totaling $40,031.66, money he used to pay off personal debts.

For that indiscretion, Diggs was sentenced to serve three years in the slammer, but he remains free until each avenue of appeal has been exhausted. In the case of a congressmann that could last forever.

Reassured by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill that no further action would be taken, Diggs told members of the press he had no plans to resign his position, in fact, would seek re-election next year.

Can you imagine a man committing such a crime in the private sector and getting off with a slap on the wrist? That's all his punishment in the House of Representatives amounted to.

THE HOUSE'S rationale in the manner would indicate that it is following the advice found in holy writ: "let ye who are without sin cast the first stone."

The legislative body's reluctance to do nothing more than censure Diggs, it would appear, tells his peers don't approve of his behavior but approve even less of him being caught.

Regardless of his appeals, his frank admission that he misused the money should be enough warning to his constituents. His party should do everything in its power to keep him off the ticket next year.

The voters have to share much of the blame. His name was under a cloud when the constituency marched to the polls to determine his political future last year, and they gave him a solid vote of confidence.

Perhaps the voters have decided that Diggs has outlived his usefulness and will send him into political retirement and thus prove O'Neill wrong — that the matter is far from closed. Or is that too much to expect?

Missed a bet Around the rim

We're getting close enough to the football season for Texas coaches to issue statements blaming injuries and bad officiating for whatever may happen.

Sylvester sensation Shay Moffett, who celebrates her ninth birthday next Sunday, tipped me off that there's a new Jimmy Carter doll. It takes one step forward, one step backward, two steps sideways and hands you a peanut.

Shay, has Glenn, your hard working daddy, been brainwashing you?

GOV. BILL CLEMENTS recently spoke 40 minutes to members of state boards and commissions. But he missed a great bet by not asking for volunteers to reduce the number of state agencies.

Talk about a miserable sense of timing? At the very moment that Carter is ripping into them, some of the big oil companies are having to confess the sin of record earnings.

INTREPID EL PASO HERALD-POST reporter John G. Edwards, reports on the 'Case of the putter that killed a goose.'

"One way of looking at it is that Dr. Sherman A. Thomas birdied the 17th hole at the Congressional Country Club in Bethesda, Md. But such jokes are not up to par to the United States and Wildlife Service.

"All it knows is that it has a dead Canada goose on its hands, and it has filed against Dr. Thomas some of the more unusual charges ever brought under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of 1918.

"On May 3, the doctor apparently clubbed a goose to death on the 17th green, but the reason is in dispute.

"He says he accidentally hit the bird with an approach shot, and bludgeoned it with his putter to put it out of its misery. Another version, however, is that he felt the goose's honking had caused him to flub a shot, and, in a rage, he went after it.

"THE COUNTRY CLUB has been thinking about expelling Dr. Thomas, and now the Wildlife Service has gone even further with two misdemeanor counts that could cost him $500 in fines and six months in jail if he is convicted. The charge: killing a goose out of season, which in Maryland ended Jan. 26.

"The law lists many prohibited ways of hunting migratory birds — bait, unplugged shotguns, electronically amplified bird calls — but Kurt Schmoke, the Federal prosecutor in the Thomas matter, said, "No one has been able to turn up a putter case before."

CURVACIOUS CARLA WALKER, oops, I mean Carla Harrold, started Wednesday parlaying my priceless editorial advice and her stupefying stubbornness as a general assignment reporter for the Odessa American.

The newly wed former Herald reporter said many people don't realize how reliable West Texas weather is. "Just think how certain it is that our weather will be anything but predictable," Carla concluded.

Kitty (Stanford) Ferguson, you know the woman who inspires advisor Don and who recently celebrated her birthday, said:

Some of Jimmy Carter's critics wouldn't give him the time of day, but they're always glad to tell him it's later than he thinks.

Robert Shirly Gandy, 40, was a star fullback for Brady in 1957 when the Bulldogs went to the state finals before losing to Terrell. He was shot to death in his sleep Thursday morning in Brady as were Molly Farr, 50, a receptionist at Wilkerson Funeral Home in Brady and Mrs. Farr's daughter.

Ex-Alpine cowboy, Jay Sanders, who now corrals words for the Herald, played right halfback on the 1957 Brady team that spotlighted Gandy. Jay, who was injured in 1957, revealed up to 20 million Americans are failing to file income tax returns, but the IRS says many of them just don't understand the law.

"If that's a valid excuse — move over — here comes one more," Jay said.

Inflation in nursery

Art Buchwald

EDITOR'S NOTE: Art Buchwald is being reevaluated by the White House to see if he is worthy of staying in Washington. While waiting for a decision, he left behind some of his favorite columns.

The opening of the school year and the tight money situation are working hardships on many parents throughout the country.

My friend Block was in despair when I saw him the other day.

"WHEN ROGER WAS born," Block said, "we immediately took out an insurance policy for his education. Now because of inflation and the high cost of schooling, we've used it all up, and Roger still has six months to go."

"College is that expensive?" I asked.

"What do you mean, college?" Block said. "Roger goes to nursery school."

"Nursery school, huh?"

"Twenty-five hundred dollars a year, not counting the yearbook or the prom," Block said. "I guess our big mistake was sending Roger to pre-nursery school. You start a kid at 3 in school, and then you have no money left for his serious education when he becomes 5. If I had to do it all over again, I would probably let him stay in his sandbox, but Alice was adamant about his getting a good, solid background."

"Couldn't you borrow some money from the bank to let Roger finish out nursery school?"

"Well, we did borrow a thousand dollars at the beginning of the summer."

"What happened to it?"

"We used it to send Roger to day camp."

"AT LEAST the money wasn't wasted," I said. "Aren't there any government grants for kids who want to finish out nursery school?"

"I looked into it. Most of the grants available are in graduate work for children who are either in the fifth grade or above. The particular nursery school that Roger goes to could have gotten a large grant from the government if it was willing to do research in germ warfare. But the headmistress said she wouldn't allow her children to do any research at the school that couldn't be published later."

"I guess scholarships are out?" I said.

"You don't understand," Block said. "It just isn't the tuition that kills you in nursery school. It's the school bus, finger paint, clay, and chocolate milk that really mounts up the cost. You have to add another $1,500 for that."

"It's like a yacht," I said. "It isn't the initial cost but the upkeep that counts."

"Exactly. I went to Yale for what it's costing me to send Roger through nursery school. But when I tell him this, it doesn't seem to faze him at all. Kids take everything for granted these days."

"You haven't suggested to Roger that he could wait on tables to earn part of the tuition himself?"

"Alice is against it. She says nursery school should be a happy time for a child, and a kid shouldn't have to worry about working just because his father hadn't made adequate plans for his education."

"You do seem to be in a spot," I admitted. "But I guess the day Roger graduates from nursery school, you'll realize all the sacrifice and agony were worthwhile."

"I probably would, but Roger has already indicated he wants to go to first grade."

'Giggle Incontinence' usually overcome

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: For the past three months I've had the problem of wetting when I laugh, sneeze, or jump. I don't think it is emotional because I'm in high school, have good friends and an understanding family. I can't seem to control this when it happens. I am embarrassed by it. Is there any way to correct this without seeing a doctor? I cannot afford to see one. My family is not wealthy. — B.K.

If your wetting occurs only during such times and if you are not a bed-wetter this could come under the heading, "giggle incontinence," frequently found in high school girls. It's a form of stress incontinence, the kind brought on by a sudden increase of pressure in the lower abdomen as from a laugh, cough, or sneeze.

No medicine or surgery is needed for this, and it tends to subside with time, when humorous situations produce less profound reactions. You need not worry about this so long as you have no other urination problems. As for being examined, (a good idea anyway) check with your local medical society for sources of inexpensive or free check ups. For the present you can help yourself over this period by emptying your bladder before exercise or parties. Try to void whenever the urge strikes you. A full bladder contributes to the problem.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please explain Prinzmetal angina and how it is different from regular angina pectoris. How is it treated? — J.H.

"Variant" angina is another name for it. The common angina pectoris is heart-related pain in the chest and arms that results from physical exertion or stress. Variant angina produces the same kind of pain, but it appears when one is at rest, frequently even arousing a person from sleep.

Either type means insufficient blood supply to the heart muscle. The immediate cause of the insufficiency distinguishes the two types of angina. In the common type, the immediate cause is the stress or activity that creates the sudden increased need of the heart for blood. The clogged vessels cannot supply it, so pain results. In the variant type the blood vessels may appear normal. One theory is that they suddenly go into spasm (contract), thus reducing the flow of blood, causing the pain. Artery hardening may contribute to the spasm, however.

The doctor distinguishes between the two types of angina from distinctive ECG readings, also by the timing of attacks (when at rest). Nighttime dyspnea (loss of breath) may also be found in patients with variant angina, which is not a common problem.

A major emphasis on treatment of the variant angina is long acting nitroglycerine-type medicine to dilate the blood vessels in spasm. For more on angina in general see the booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: If only I had read your response to Mrs. W.O., who asked about signs of impending stroke, a week sooner! My husband suffered one after several days of complaining about his feet feeling like concrete and of faintness. — Mrs. J.A.M.

No one can make the point more eloquently than you have. I trust your husband is getting the immediate post-stroke therapy that is so important.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 69 and have been taking a medicine called "Pavabid" for five years. I assume it's for my circulation. My weight and blood pressure are normal. I have always been on the calm side, but lately I have been light headed and jittery. Could the drug be at fault? Should I discontinue it? — M.K.

In general, Pavabid (papaverine hydrochloride) produces few side effects. It acts chiefly on the arteries. Some of the side effects reported include constipation, increased perspiration, increased heart rate, diarrhea, headache, drowsiness and skin rash. Undesired side effects do not always mean a medicine has to be discontinued. The possible benefits of a drug have to be weighed. Often the plusses with it outweigh the minuses without it. The decision should be your doctor's to make.

Did you know that 80 percent of stroke victims resume to some degree their former lives? The booklet "Stroke Recovery — Hope and Help" describes the causes and treatment of stroke. For a copy write Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 35 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it true that mox: ovary cysts are malignant? — M.V.

Quite to the contrary the great majority are benign.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: How much spinal fluid is removed in a spinal tap? — J.K.

Only a small amount, usually less than a teaspoonful depending on the types of tests and how many are to be done.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Rubie, in care of the Big Spring, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Zip is zapped

WASHINGTON — The computerized letter from Amoco Oil Company was brief and to the point: Claire Cherry of Atlanta, Ga. had been rejected for a credit card because of income level, type of bank references and the company's credit experience "in your geographical area."

It wasn't the Deep South, or Georgia, or even Atlanta that Amoco disapproved of, it was Cherry's neighborhood, as disclosed by her postal zip code. She is a white divorcee who makes about $14,000 a year, which should be ample to pay her gas bills. But she lives in a zip that has been zapped by Amoco's credit analysts as a neighborhood of poor credit risks. So, no credit card.

THE GEOGRAPHIC gimmick Amoco uses in its "credit scoring system" is the subject of an investigation by the Federal Trade Commission. The FTC's concern is that the use of zip codes, particularly in urban areas that are still largely segregated, is just a sneaky way of discriminating against minorities.

Amoco insists that an applicant's location alone is never the main reason for refusing a credit card. The zip code is only one of 14 criteria on which applications are judged. On the other hand, Amoco told our associate Tony Capaccio that their system works — that zip codes can indeed be used to predict high credit risks.

Few creditors use the zip code in their scoring system, and Amoco is apparently the only major oil company that does. Under the Amoco system, the nation's 39,462 zip codes are classified on a scale of 1 through 5; applicants in Class 4 or 5 have the best chance of approval, those in Class 1 or 2, the worst.

Amoco puts only 855 zip code areas in Class 1 or 2 in the entire country, but the effect can be significant on a credit card applicant's rating. In most states where Amoco does business, a minimum score of 55 points is needed for approval. An applicant who lives in a Class 1 zip area is automatically penalized 17 points, no matter what his or her credit history may be; for a Class 2 neighborhood, the penalty is eight points.

The FTC's investigators have found a nationwide pattern in the zip code users. As a general rule, the greater the percentage of minorities in a given zip code area, the greater the likelihood that it will get a low classification.

IN ATLANTA, for example, a Georgia State University sociologist analyzed city zip codes that Amoco had relegated to Class 1 or 2. He found that 73 percent of Atlanta's non-white population was concentrated in these zones and only 23 percent of the city's whites.

"It was found that as the percentage of non-whites in each zip code was increased, the percentage of credit applications approved decreased."

the analysis showed. "The above data indicates that the denial of credit is strongly and significantly related to the non-white racial composition" of the zip code zones.

In Massachusetts, the state attorney general's investigators found a similar pattern in the zip code neighborhoods that Amoco had in effect blacklisted. The findings particularly incensed Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., who feels the Amoco system of "neighborhood slight" strongly discourages restoration of rundown urban areas.

The FTC is quietly working on a consent agreement for Amoco's consideration; the company would agree to stop using zip codes in its credit scoring system, without admitting any wrongdoing in the past. Massachusetts has filed suit against the oil company, charging that blacks are twice as likely as whites to be rejected for credit cards under the Amoco system.

For its part, Amoco claims that if it is forced to abandon the use of zip codes, it would have to turn down about 28,000 more credit applications a year than it does now.

INCREDULOUS KHRUSHCHEV: Nikita Khrushchev, the late Communist Party boss of the Soviet Union, was an early believer in a "conspiracy theory" concerning President John F. Kennedy's assassination. In 1964, when the late Drew Pearson had a conversation with Khrushchev, the Soviet leader asked him, "What really happened?" Pearson told him, in effect, that it was just the way it had been reported by the newspapers — and presumably by the Soviet ambassador. Khrushchev was "utterly incredulous," according to a confidential CIA memo.

"When Pearson said it was understandable that foreigners had difficulty comprehending this fantastic episode, but in fact (Lee Harvey) Oswald was made and had acted on his own, Chairman Khrushchev said flatly he did not believe this," the CIA memo stated. "He said he did not believe that the American security services were this inept." Commented Pearson: "I couldn't make a nickel with Khrushchev on this one."

Khrushchev, of course, professed to believe the assassination was a plot by American right-wingers.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Among those who are NOT invited to Camp David to give Jimmy Carter advice was a little-known expert who could have given the president an earful on a long-ignored way to help the country out of its energy crisis. He is Dr. Paul Bente, a softspoken chemist who spent 27 years with Dupont and now heads the Bio-Energy Council, a non-profit organization that keeps track of research in the conversion of organic material into fuel that can heat homes, power generators and run automobiles.

This "biomass energy" already provides 2.5 percent of the nation's energy.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: There is much comment on "born again." What does that mean? — Mrs. A.Y.

DEAR MRS. A.Y.: This is a term found several places in the Bible. It refers to the fact that God can come into our lives and remake us spiritually. We can begin again — we can be "born again."

The main place this is found is in the third chapter of the Gospel of John, and you might want to look at this chapter. It tells about a very religious man named Nicodemus, who came to Jesus to find out more about Him. Jesus told him that in spite of his religious background and his many good deeds, he needed to be "born again." Nicodemus did not understand Jesus at first, and thought Jesus was somehow suggesting that he needed to be reborn spiritually.

This is something only God can do. We can make all kinds of resolutions to change our lives, and try all kinds of ways to make ourselves acceptable to God. But they are all unsuccessful, because by nature we are sinful. God, however, loves us and wants to come into our lives and touch us and restore us to a right relationship with Himself. That is why He sent His Son into the world — to make it possible for us to be born again spiritually. He came to make forgiveness and new life possible. As the Bible says, "Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! In His great mercy He has given us new birth into living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead" (1 Peter 1:3, New International Version).

You, too, can be born again, by a simple act of faith and trust. Give your life to Christ. Turn to Him in repentance and invite Him by faith into your life. If you do, you will begin to know the truth that Christ will make you a new person. "If anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has gone, the new has come!" (2 Corinthians 5:17, NIV).

'It will be self-supporting'

Halfway House director cheered by support

By EILEEN McGUIRE

Financial problems prompted a request by the Big Spring Halfway House, represented by board member John Bennett, for a $3,000 city grant at the July 24 city council meeting.

The city grant, which the council agreed to recommend, would match a $3,000 county grant that the county has agreed to give the facilities if the city agrees to the match.

The $6,000 in grants would be used to reduce the Halfway House's 8,000 in outstanding debts, accumulated by the institution under what Bennett told the city council was "irresponsible spending and gross mismanagement in the past."

The alleged mismanagement led to the discharge of the Halfway House director and the hiring of new director William C. "Dub" Nelson who arrived in Big Spring with his wife, Sue, July 27, three days after the city council meeting.

Nelson says he has a good feeling about Big Spring and the Halfway House's place in it, partly because of the meeting.

"It showed that the community is supportive. Anytime a city and county supports something like this, it's a boost. The Halfway House is here for the community. Community support is motivating to the staff. It makes us feel like the community wants it. We feel real good about it."

Nelson also said that the Halfway House should not have had to go before the city and county to ask for financial help.

"Any halfway house should be self-supporting when it's been here as long as this one has. And it will be under normal circumstances, a halfway house should be able to pay its own way."

He said that the key is to provide the clientele with a consistent program that gives them what they need.

"If the clientele is getting something out of the program, it will be self-supporting. Clientele participation will make it self-supporting. If they just stay until they get a job and their first paycheck, and then leave, it doesn't work."

The Big Spring Halfway House was set up more than a decade ago as a transition home for persons reentering society from the Big Spring State Hospital and the Texas Department of Corrections.

The Halfway House is also a transition point for alcoholics and drug-users and provides counseling for persons in the community who don't need a place to go but do need help.

The state provides some support for each client that leaves a state institution and enters the Halfway House. When the client is ready to work, he contributes up to half of his earnings or $100 monthly, whichever amount is least.

According to Nelson, the client may remain at the Halfway House until both the client and staff agree that he's ready to reenter society on his own.

"There's no time limit," said Nelson. "It might be anywhere from two to 18 months. It does no good to rush a client out before he's ready, because he'll just end up coming back."

Nelson, a reformed alcoholic, has had both personal and professional experience with halfway houses.

"I'm a recovered alcoholic," he said. "I have been for five years now."

Nelson said he had been a heavy drinker for a number of years and the conditioned worsened with additional problems he incurred in 1970.

"In 1971, I was diagnosed a chronic alcoholic. I spent the next three years going in and out of the state hospital. I was just getting into therapy and AA (Alcoholics Anonymous) when I decided that I wanted to help others with emotional problems."

During Nelson's recovery period, he went back to school and in 1974, earned his Associates of Science degree. His studies were in applied sciences, psychology, sociology and the humanities.

Nelson's wife, Sue, had attended nursing school where she studied internal medicine and received training in alcohol and drug abuse. She had worked as a unit director and in public relations at a hospital.

In 1976, the husband and wife team founded the Coronado Halfway House in Plainview with the help of the Central Plains Community Action Center. They served as directors of that house until coming to Big Spring.

Nelson, who is a certified counselor with the State of Texas, learned of Big Spring's need of a director through the Texas Association of Alcoholism Counselors of which he is a member.

He said that the Community Action Center wanted to convert the Coronado Halfway House into a house strictly for alcohol-related problems and he didn't think it would work as well as a house that was open to a variety of clientele.

He said that diversification is necessary if the house is to be self-supporting and that it is also good for the clients because they see others with problems, not necessarily the same problems, and "they help each other."

Nelson said that there is a common bond between all clients whether the problem is alcohol, drugs or emotional. What it all boils down to, he said, is not being able to deal adequately with stress.

"Emotional problems are similar to not being able to cope and using drugs to handle the stress. It applies to all problems. There are biochemical factors, too, but each person has a stress point. Every individual can function at some level in an environment that doesn't exceed his stress point."

Nelson said that the job of the Halfway House is to "get each individual at a level where he is functioning comfortably and not over — or under-utilizing his capabilities."

(PHOTO BY DANNY VALDES)

MAJOR CHANGES — William C. "Dub" Nelson, new director of the Big Spring Halfway House, and his partner-wife Sue are working some major changes at the facility. All but one of the old staff have been or are being replaced with experienced qualified people, according to Nelson, and the program is being completely restructured. The couple came here from Plainview where they founded and directed for three years the Coronado Halfway House.

Under-utilizing capabilities, he said, creates as much unhappiness as pushing one self beyond his capabilities. The key to handling stress, he said, is to "get the individual functioning at a level that he can take."

To do that, a consistent program that fills individual needs is required and that, said Nelson, is what the Big Spring Halfway House will offer under the management of him and his wife.

"You might say we're moving the Coronado Halfway House here because we're going to use the same philosophies. We're restructuring this one completely and modeling it after the other."

He said that the halfway house in Plainview had experienced a 70 percent success rate with the use of a consistent, structured program matched to individual needs.

"One-to-one counseling is the key," he said, noting that different stress levels had to be taken into account in designing an effective program.

"We also offer one-to-one counseling to non-residents. This halfway house belongs to the community and we want to provide what services the community needs, including out-patient counseling. Individuals are free to come in when they have personal problems and we'll refer them to others if we can't help."

"Sue and I are paraprofessionals. We can refer them to the professionals."

The Halfway House uses professionals — doctors and psychiatrists — as consultants. It also works in cooperation with various agencies.

"Our job is to compliment agencies like the De-tox Center and the state hospital. We are not separate from them."

Nelson said that halfway houses have come a long way since the time that he spent two days in one in Lubbock as a client.

"There wasn't one in Plainview. I was in one in Lubbock for two days in 1972. It was very depressing. There were no programs. The only purpose was to get you to quit drinking, get a job, and go."

"Things are different now. The stigma's gone. People know that it takes time. So many of the halfway houses are getting away from the old concept, but some still

Police slowed by shortage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There's good news about one shortage, at least — police have run out of traffic tickets.

And that's meant more traffic violators are getting warnings instead of tickets, city police say.

The Franklin County sheriff's office and the Highway Patrol have supplied city police with some of their traffic tickets until a new shipment arrives, possibly later this week.

Police ran out of tickets two weeks ago and as a result drastically reduced the number of citations issued, the Columbus Dispatch said.

Paving projects due discussion

STANTON — Stanton city councilmen will consider proposals to write off delinquent utility bills and discuss the paving of North College and Second streets when they convene here at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday.

The officials will also conduct a public hearing, at which time they will receive input from interested citizens on the proposed use of Entitlement Period II General Revenue Sharing Funds and consider the writing off of delinquent personal property taxes for the years 1973-74.

Before adjourning, the council members will talk about priorities in equipment purchases for the municipality.

push them (the clients) out too soon.

"We work with the individual. What does the client need? That's the key to good results. When both the client and we feel that he's ready to leave, he does. Until then, he's free to stay."

"What's the use in sending him right back out? We don't work on numbers. Maybe we'll have 150 residents a year."

With two clients to a room, the halfway house has a capacity of 30 clients. Currently, there are 19 and Nelson said more are arriving this week. There is a waiting list.

Nelson said that clients will come from the Big Spring State Hospital, Texas Rehabilitation Commission, Texas Pardons and Parole Board, and the Commission of the Blind.

"I think we (Coronado Halfway House) were the first halfway house to accept blind alcoholic," said Nelson. "He was there one year and is now a certified counselor in Lubbock. He's been sober for several years."

Nelson said that the Big Spring Halfway House clients are responsible for the upkeep of their own rooms and they all eat in a central dining room.

"When they arrive, we let them do jobs around here and see what they are capable of. Then, when they're ready, we see about jobs in the community. The community has been real receptive to giving them jobs."

"We teach them how to handle stress and cope with their problems. We give them a structured environment that they can handle and teach them how to structure their own environment after they leave."

"We teach eight-week curriculums on everything from budgeting to personal and social adjustment. The consulting counselors help us with the adjustment groups."

"We don't view the clients as 'sick' and we don't allow them to see themselves that way. We view their problems as stress problems. They have to learn to handle the behavior problems through change."

"The client assumes responsibility for his own actions."

About the changes at the Halfway House, Nelson said,

"We've had complete cooperation from the board (of directors). They are very enthusiastic and supportive."

In addition to the program, the staff has also undergone a major change at the Big Spring Halfway House.

"We have a whole new staff, except for C.W. Cross, who is a staff assistant and in charge of transportation. Everyone else is gone."

Nelson said the house is currently working with only half of its staff of eight while the jobs are being filled with persons who will be an asset to the house.

"We are very strict about having only experienced, qualified people working here."

The first thing the Nelsons did upon their arrival was to hold a meeting with the residents about the staff changes.

"They were very enthusiastic," Nelson said. "This past weekend they all volunteered to clean the facility and we had a lot of fun doing it."

A large note on a bulletin board in the front office thanks the residents for "a good job."

"They can sense your sincerity," said Nelson. "They know when someone is sincere and when someone isn't. Titles mean nothing to these people. You have to earn the privilege of guiding them. It's earned through mutual respect, genuine caring and firm love."

Nelson, who was raised in south Texas and has spent 20 years in West Texas, and Sue, originally from Levelland, had a message that they wanted to pass on to the people of Big Spring.

"Long before we came here, we heard that the people here were really nice," Nelson said. "Big Spring is unique and I want the people who live here to know what people in surrounding areas think of them. They see Big Spring as a progressive city with a lot of unity."

"We've been keeping up with what's been happening here in Big Spring. They've got a purpose here. We're headed in one direction here (at the Halfway House), too."

COAHOMA INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT COAHOMA, TEXAS

The Coahoma Independent School District would like to clarify the recent tax increase statement of 29 percent published in this paper. The law requires the minimum tax rate to operate the school district and publish any additional tax rate increases. Coahoma I.S.D. has been assessing a 1.65 per hundred tax rate with an 60 percent assessment. In the spring the assessment ratio was changed from 60 percent to 75 percent. This is to offset the losses due to homestead exemption and local exemption provided for the citizen over 65. This is the only increase. This assessment will not increase most taxpayers tax dollar providing they file for the homestead exemption. Land owners will experience some increase on land not eligible for the homestead exemption, but the homestead exemption they can file on will lower the overall taxes on their land. If there are any questions, please contact the school administration office and personnel will be glad to figure your taxes for the 1979 tax year.

Railroad, San Antonio waging war

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Pauline is in peril. The greedy, dastardly villains have lashed our heroine to the railroad tracks, leaving her helpless in the face of the steaming runaway train — a Burlington Northern coal train.

It sounds like an episode from the old silent movie serial "The Perils of Pauline." It also sounds like Mayor Lila Cockrell's version of the bitter battle between San Antonio and Burlington Northern Railroad over the rapidly escalating price of hauling Wyoming coal to generate the city's electricity.

At the heart of the matter, city officials warn, is the future of President Carter's national energy policy stressing the use of more coal and less oil and natural gas.

The price of hauling the coal has more than doubled and nobody, charges Mayor Cockrell, will want to build expensive coal-fired power plants if the Interstate Commerce Commission continues to indiscriminately grant rate hikes. Carter, they say, must do something.

Burlington Northern officials counter, however, that the economic survival of the nation's railroads is at stake. They contend the railroads, strapped by inflation like everybody else, must get a fair rate of return or go under. That, they add, would jeopardize the national energy policy because there would be no efficient way to haul the coal.

One thing is certain — the ICC and Burlington Northern, a huge, profitable transportation-resources conglomerate based 1,000 miles away in Minnesota, are taking a whale of a public relations beating in San Antonio.

"Burlington Northern's image here is next to —," snapped Eloy Centeno, board chairman of the municipal utility City Public Service.

"My image, and I think that of CPS customers, is of a greedy, monopolistic corporation that doesn't care at all about San Antonio consumers," said Mrs. Cockrell, noting that Burlington Northern has a monopoly on the rail line from Wyoming to San Antonio. "The pitiful thing is the image of the ICC meekly smiling and giving them what they want."

"Burlington Northern's makes a good scapegoat," said one official close to the controversy and sympathetic to the railroad. "They're 1,000 miles away and don't have regular access to the local media."

"It's not a happy state of affairs," Burlington Northern Vice President Frank Farrell acknowledged in St.

Paul, Minn. "Some political figures have made some pretty strong statements, some that are misleading."

The rate increases have also affected several other Texas cities and utilities, including Houston Lighting & Power Co., that depend on Burlington Northern to haul their Western coal.

But the fight is centered in San Antonio, where bitterness lingers from years of litigation with LoVaca Gathering Co. over natural gas.

City officials and U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, a San Antonio Democrat, regularly harangue the railroad, the ICC — and President Carter for allowing the rate increases to occur.

They've filed a federal court suit against the ICC in an attempt to block the 30 percent increase granted last December, have enlisted the aid of U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and regularly go to Washington to seek help. City officials are even considering a boycott of the coal to dramatize their plight and have looked into buying foreign coal.

For example, when the railroads filed for an industry-wide 7.8 percent rate hike two weeks ago, Mrs. Cockrell said, "The railroads have gone mad."

The San Antonio Express-News has railed against Burlington Northern in several editorials, calling the rate increases "the great San Antonio train robbery."

Front-page News columnist Paul Thompson regularly refers to the "Burlington barracudas" and the Express-News has printed the ICC's telephone number and encouraged its readers to call and complain.

All the fuming, however, has done little good. The rate has leaped from the $7.90 per ton estimate first quoted in 1973, to the $10.93 per ton rate first set by the ICC when the shipments started in 1974 and to more than $18 this month. If the latest increase is granted, the rate will be near $20 per ton for the more than 2.5 million tons of coal the city brings in annually.

Meanwhile, the nearly one million CPS customers, whose bills dipped when the city began using coal in 1974, are seeing their bills rise accordingly.

"It now costs as much to generate electricity from our coal plant as it does from the gas-fired plant it replaced," Mrs. Cockrell recently told Bentsen's Joint Economic Committee. She said the city spent $250 million to switch to coal-fired plants, expecting the lower overall fuel cost for coal to justify the investment.

"The adjustments being made in the rates are absolutely necessary if you are going to strengthen and preserve the American rail system," countered Farrell.

"The reason for the increases has been the same thing affecting everybody else in our economy. The cost of locomotives moving this traffic, for example, has doubled since 1972. This is not a case of simply deciding to increase the rate. We have to prove to the ICC that the rate we charge isn't more than fair," he added.

Farrell said, however, that the initial 1974 coal rate didn't properly reflect Burlington Northern's $665 million investment in coal traffic equipment in the last five years and the $1.5 billion it plans to spend in the next five. San Antonio owns its own coal cars.

That rate disparity, he said, was largely corrected with the 30 percent increase granted last December. The railroad had asked for a hike of more than 50 percent, which Mrs. Cockrell said is proof the railroad is pirating San Antonio.

Farrell vehemently disagrees. He said the rate of return on Burlington's railroad operations last year, calculated in keeping with ICC guidelines, was only 1.6 percent — a figure scoffed at by San Antonio officials.

Under questioning by Bentsen at the economic committee hearing, Burlington President Norman Lorentzen indicated, however, that other methods of calculation might show the return could reach 4-6 percent.

Confidence vote given Sweatt

ODESSA — In the wake of the resignation of two city officials and the retirement of a third, the Odessa city council has given City Manager Kerry Sweatt a vote of confidence.

A Friday meeting of the council was called to put an end to more administrative shakeups and stop rumors that more administrators will be departing their posts.

The two administrators who resigned their posts were Assistant Police Chief Tommy Callendar and Public Works Director Bryan Henderson, both of whom were asked to quit. Odessa Finance Director Ray Fuqua elected to take retirement, announcing he would enter business in the private sector.

The city employs more than 600 people.

Edward Cole is elected TAPTA's chief officer

Edward D. Cole, owner of Westex Auto Parts Inc., with locations in Big Spring and Odessa, was elected president of the Texas Auto and Truck Parts Association during the annual convention held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dallas this weekend.

According to figures released by the TAPTA, there are over 2,000 auto dismantlers in Texas.

The Auto Dismantlers and Recyclers of America, affiliated with the National Association of Auto Dismantlers, held a seminar on the basics of auto recycling in conjunction with the TAPTA convention. Auto dismantlers from all over the southwest were enrolled.

Don Rouse, ADRA field representative, was present and some of the topics discussed included the fact that the auto dismantling industry is the nation's 16th largest in dollar volume.

Rouse said that by using recycled or used auto parts the American people save two-thirds of the energy necessary to produce new parts and millions of barrels of oil annually.

TAPTA was commended for its efforts in its own beautification program.

It costs more to maintain a mile of line today than it cost to build it

Inflation is a persistent problem with every business but especially the electric business because you must generate and deliver the power. The folks who generate our power have seen construction costs quadrupled and fuel costs skyrocket in the past 10 years. Our own lines cost about as much to maintain today as it cost to build them originally. But, in spite of these higher costs, the price of power from the electric cooperative will never be a penny higher than it has to be. That promise is a 40-year tradition.

BSSH to conduct 40th alcoholism seminar

The Big Spring State Hospital will conduct its 40th alcoholism seminar next Friday in the auditorium at the Big Spring State Hospital.

These seminars are made possible through the Big Spring State Hospital and are being held in conjunction with Howard College.

Melvin Sikes, Ph.D., Director of Research and Professor of Psychology, from the University of Texas at Austin, will be the consultant for this day-long seminar.

The theme for this seminar will be, "The Phenomenological Approach to Alcohol Abuse." This seminar will be of interest to those working in the field of substance abuse, and to those of the general public who are interested in learning more about this problem.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m., and the general session at 9 a.m. A registration fee of $1 will be charged with an additional charge of $1 for those wishing to receive Continuing Education Units from Howard College. (The persons wishing to receive credit for attendance will be expected to remain the entire day.)

Additional information may be obtained from Clyde J. Alsop, training officer, Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Program, Big Spring State Hospital.

WEEK'S VISITATIONS BEGINS MONDAY FOR FIRST BAPTIST SINGING GROUP
 'His Children' to appear in prisons in Oklahoma, Texas

Musical ensemble slated to launch tour Monday

The youth musical ensemble of the First Baptist Church, known as "His Children," will start a week's tour of Texas and Oklahoma prisons Monday.

The ensemble, which is under the direction of Joe Whitten, has added the Oklahoma State Prison at McAlester, Okla., to its schedule.

Its schedule calls for a 7 p.m. concert at the Department of Corrections in Lexington, Okla., Monday; three concerts in the Oklahoma State Prison at McAlester, Okla., starting at 2 p.m., Tuesday; a 5 p.m. concert at the Stringtown Correctional Center in Stringtown, Okla., Wednesday; and a 6:30 p.m. appearance at McLoud Correctional Center, Farris, Okla., Thursday.

Friday will be a "free day" for the Big Spring group. Members will take in the Six Flags Over Texas amusement park at Arlington and see a Texas Ranger baseball game that night.

At this time, there is no concert booked for the ensemble Saturday. The group will leave Arlington for Gatesville Sunday morning. They will offer a 1:30 p.m. program at the Mountain View Unit for Women.

Following that performance, the singers will leave for home. Estimated time of arrival is around 10 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 12.

The ensemble will present the same program they will offer in the prisons at the 6 p.m. worship service in the First Baptist Church today.

The public is invited to attend.

The ensemble has been engaged in this unique type of ministry for the past five years.

'Gift of life' slated Monday

Big Spring blood donors will have a chance to give the "gift of life" from noon to 6 p.m. Monday at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

According to blood drive officials, Big Spring hospitals required 710 units of blood from May through July. During that time, however, only 225 units of blood were donated. Officials ask that Big Spring donors help to make the community self-sufficient in meeting its need for blood in the future.

Billy T. Smith award winner

Billy T. Smith, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 22, Texas-Oklahoma District, will be the recipient of the Kiwanis International Foundation's special award for 1978-79 lieutenant governors.

The award was earned by Smith because all clubs in his division have now contributed 100 per cent to the 1979 Voluntary Birthday Gift Contribution Plan Campaign.

The award will be presented to Smith at the district convention, which will take place in Galveston Aug. 9-10-11.

The Big Spring man received a person commendation from Harry S. Himmel of Chicago, president of the Kiwanis International Foundation.

Unable to communicate, understand

Dallas murder suspect isolated

DALLAS (AP) — Sitting in his family's living room, bidding a domino hand in a crude sign language understood by a few relatives and friends, deafmute Jerome Fisher seems a world removed from the seedy hotel where police say he strangled a prostitute and left her body under a scalding shower.

Isolated by his inability to communicate or understand others, Fisher is an island unto himself — unable to hear, speak and probably unable to understand even that he is charged with murder.

At home he is treated with warmth and love. Neighborhood children drop by to pester Fisher for ice cream money and friends greet his return from jail with a slap on the back or a kiss on the cheek. A television blares in the background.

But Jerome's world is one of silence, of frustrating attempts to communicate with outsiders and almost futile attempts to grasp the sign language gestures his interpreters use in an effort to make him understand the charge brought against him.

Police and prosecutors say Fisher was the man who picked up 19-year-old Dorothy Armstrong on July 14 and took her to a motel near downtown. There, they say, he wrapped a bedsheet around her neck, choking the life out of her before he shoved her head beneath a blistering stream of water.

His family, however, says Fisher is innocent, that he was home the night Miss Armstrong died.

At 26, Fisher is thick-set, his belly bloated by years of inactivity. Except for three years of public schooling and a year at the Texas School for the Deaf, he is virtually uneducated. He can't read and can only scribble his name.

"I'm not even sure he understands he is charged with murder," said court-appointed defense attorney Scott Anderson. "If he can't communicate with me well enough to assist in his own defense, then he cannot get a fair trial."

Dr. Kenneth Z. Altschuler, the psychiatrist Zimmerman appointed to examine Fisher, said that aside from his hearing and speech problems, Fisher is "perfectly normal."

Although a thorough examination has not been completed, Altschuler said Fisher is not mentally retarded, and shows no signs of mental or emotional disorders.

His interpreters, Elizabeth

Criswell and Ann Phillips of the Deaf Action Center, said Fisher is bright, quick and has picked up the finger alphabet and more complicated American Sign Language for the Deaf they have spent hours trying to teach him.

But, Mrs. Criswell said, it is "almost impossible to explain to him abstract concepts."

Fisher wept as District Judge James Zimmermann tried for more than 20 minutes during a hearing Wednesday to explain the murder charge while Mrs. Criswell patiently reduced the statements to primitive two-word sentences.

After the hearing Zimmermann reduced the bond from $25,000 to $5,000, and Mrs. Criswell said Fisher would begin training at DAC soon, the first comprehensive schooling in his life.

Fisher has lived with his elder sister, Lillian Mills, since their mother died two years ago. She says her brother is a loving, gentle man who enjoys picnics, dominoes and card games with her husband and the four children still living at home.

"He is special, mainly because he's my brother," Mrs. Mills said. "We're just glad to have him home."

"He's a good boy," said one neighbor, who asked not to be identified. "You can't find nobody to say nothing bad about him," she added, putting her arm around Fisher and kissing him on the cheek.

Fisher was arrested July 15, when the room clerk from the Uptown Motel No. 1 pointed him out to police as the man he had seen checking in with Miss Armstrong. The clerk, Jerome Arrington, told police Fisher returned from the room alone, paid the $5 bill and left.

Arrington found Miss Armstrong's body about a half-hour later, he told police.

Fisher's case bears a striking similarity to that of Donald Lang, a 36-year-old Chicago deaf-mute accused of killing two prostitutes.

Lang's conviction for a 1972 killing was overturned because he was found unfit for trial and unable to aid in his own defense. The Illinois Supreme Court ruled that the state Department of Mental Health had to teach Lang how to communicate so he could be retried. The department is appealing the order to the U.S. Supreme Court, contending it has no responsibility because Lang is not mentally ill.

Ironically, Zimmermann said he was a classmate of Louis B. Garippo, the Illinois Circuit Judge who presided over Lang's conviction in the 1972 slaying, at the National Judicial College.

Dallas police have discounted a rape-assault complaint filed by a South Dallas prostitute that implicated another man in the Armstrong slaying.

The woman told police she was raped a gunpoint at the Uptown Motel No. 1 by a man that told her she looked like a woman he had killed — a woman named "Chicken." The woman said "Chicken" was a nickname for Miss Armstrong.

But police Investigator Marshall Touchton, who investigated the assault complaint, says the suggestion that the man who allegedly raped the woman also killed Miss Armstrong is "not based in fact." The woman bore no resemblance to Miss Armstrong, he said, and a hotel room clerk said she had not seen the alleged rape victim all day on July 19, the day the attack was supposed to have taken place.

Furthermore, Touchton said, the woman said she had cut her assailant "four or five times" on the back, but the man she accused bore no slash marks. And that man had a solid alibi for the night Miss Armstrong was killed, Touchton said.

The sergeant is a 1973 graduate of Big Spring High School.

Slape draws Chanute duty

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Thomas C. Slape, son of Dewey J. Slape of 1712 Purdue St., Big Spring, Texas, has been assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, here, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the civil engineering field.

Airman Slape is a 1978 graduate of Big Spring High School.

Closer look

Appointments draw fire

By SCOTT CARPENTER and
JIM DAVIS
(Harte Hanks Austin Bureau)

AUSTIN — Supporters of the Texas sunset process are unhappy with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's appointments to the Sunset Advisory Commission and are worried that Speaker Billy Clayton's will be worse.

Hobby named Sens. Ed Howard of Texarkana and O.H. "Ike" Harris of Dallas to four-year terms on the important commission.

Harris' appointment particularly incenses supporters of sunset—a review process whereby each state agency has to justify its existence periodically.

Harris is a 13-year Senate veteran, plain-spoken, conservative, Republican and basically anti-sunset.

He opposed the whole idea when the legislature set up the process in 1977 and voted against most sunset commission proposals presented to the 1979 Legislature. He gives no indication of changing his mind.

"I don't think it (sunset) was as successful as everyone anticipated it could be," Harris says.

He says his role on the sunset commission shouldn't be prejudged, but he talks about losing the battle to stop sunset in 1977 and continuing the fight.

Howard, a first-term Democrat, isn't easily classified. He wasn't in the legislature when the battle to create sunset was fought two years ago, but he expresses general support for the process.

He voted for much of the legislation that made some significant changes in the agencies reviewed last session. But he also served on the Senate Economic Development Committee, which catered to the wishes of the various special interests wishing to protect pet agencies. So did Harris.

Rep. Lance Lalor, House sponsor of the 1977 sunset bill and sunset commission member the past two years, is worried that Hobby's appointments signal the lieutenant governor's basic opposition to sunset.

By appointing two Economic Development Committee members to the commission, Hobby is trying to put the breaks on the sunset process, Lalor says.

Hobby denies that. "I support it and I always have," Hobby says. He declines to detail the reasoning behind his appointments.

Leaders of Common Cause, the self-declared citizens' lobby that initiated the sunset idea, are worried about which two representatives Speaker Clayton will name to the commission.

Harris and Howard replace Sens. Bill Meier of Euless and W.E. "Pete" Snelson on the commission, and the changes probably won't make much difference.

Meier, like Harris, is seen basically as an obstructionist to the more significant changes proposed for reviewed agencies. Snelson, like Howard, supported some changes and opposed others.

Sens. Lloyd Doggett of Austin and A.R. "Babe" Schwartz of Galveston, both sunset supporters, remain on the commission for two more years.

But on the House side, the two commission seats up for appointment are held by strong sunset supporters: Lalor and Rep. Lee Jackson, a Republican from Dallas.

If Clayton replaces them with legislators who philosophically oppose sunset, the effect could be staggering to the process.

Reps. Bennie Bock II of New Braunfels and Bill Ceverha of Dallas remain on the commission for two more years. Ceverha is a strong sunset supporter, but Bock has taken a protectionist attitude toward the reviewed agencies.

Since commission rules require three affirmative votes on each side for any action, two new anti-sunset House members could team with Bock to block any significant action.

Clayton's office indicated last June he would make his appointments soon, but something has delayed things.

Sunset backers won't rest easy until they get the news — and see if the legislative leadership has effectively sunsetted sunset.

Coleman wins gold medal In Sports Festival II

Mile Coleman of Ackerly, who was an Olympic alternate to the 1976 games in Montreal, captured the gold medal in the International Clay Pigeon Division of the Olympic Sports Festival being held in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The Sports Festival in Colorado Springs is an Olympic type affair, with competition strictly from the United States.

Mike competed on July 27 and 28 in the competition, and set a record in doing so. The world record is 199 out of 200 targets, but there must be 22 countries participating in order for the achiever to be recognized. But Coleman's 200 straight did give him a national record.

Coleman practiced for three days with his competition in Colorado Springs before the finals shooting days. Coleman hit on 98 the first day of practice, then connected on a perfect 100 of 100 on the next two days of practice. So, counting the practice days with the actual competition at the Sports Festival, Coleman hit on over 400 targets in a row.

Coleman was among 3100 athletes in Colorado Springs in the various categories. All have Olympic aspirations for the 1980 games in Moscow, and Coleman is hoping that his performance during last weeks competition will help him when the United States Olympic Trials for the Clay Pigeon representatives take place in San Antonio next year. The trials will take place in either May or June.

Coleman's main competition in the trials will probably be Don Haldeman and Charvin Dixon. These two represented the United States in the 76 games in Montreal, and will be on hand in San Antonio, as they were in Colorado Springs.

Coleman, who practices daily in his specialty, feels optimistic about his chances of repeating his success in the Sports Festival when the trial take place. "I feel that I have as good a chance as anybody. Only two out of 150 will get to go to Moscow, and they are all pretty even," he said.

USGA National Tourney to begin here Thursday

The National United Girls Softball Association will be held Thursday through Saturday, August 9-11, at the Roy Anderson Complex on the north side of Interstate 20.

There will be two five team brackets, as girls in Division 3 and Division 4 will be on hand for the national affair. Division 3 are ages 13-16, with Division 4 being ages 17-19.

Teams from as far away as Virginia will be on hand for the tournament.

The five teams from Division 3 will be from Virginia, Hobbs, N.M., Midland, Abilene and Big Spring. The Big Spring team will be composed of the All-Stars of that league.

The five teams in Division 4 will be from Virginia, Lovington, N.M., Odessa, Denison, and either Midland or Abilene. Midland will face Abilene this afternoon to decide who the fifth representative will be.

All Division 4 games will be played at Roberts Field, with all Division 3 games being held at the Garrett Field. There will be a one dollar admission charge for adults and a fifty cents charge for children under 12 for a two-game session.

The co-directors for the national tournament, locals Tommy Meeks and Jackie Thomason, have employed two local umpires among the total of nine that will officiate the three day affair.

A.A. Rucker, a member of the governor's staff at Austin, will be on hand when the opening ceremonies get underway at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday night. The tournament will be dedicated to A.C. Jones, a faithful friend of girls' softball, who is seriously ill in Houston. The national president, Brent Watson of Midland, will also be on hand to help start the tourney.

Totaled, there will be more than 150 girls, plus managers, coaches and chaperones participating. The out-of-town teams will be housed at Howard College.

Action will begin on Thursday morning at 9:00 a.m. Other game times will be at 11 a.m. Thursday, 6:00 p.m. Thursday, 8:00 p.m. Thursday, 9:00 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. Friday, 8:00 p.m. Friday, with a final game, if needed, at 2:00 p.m. Saturday.

Following the tournament, a banquet and awards presentation will be held at 6:00 p.m. on Saturday at the Old Settlers Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park.

Oiler tackle recovering from brain surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers starting offensive tackle Greg Sampson remained in the intensive care unit at Methodist Hospital today following surgery Friday night to remove a blood clot from his brain.

Dr. Floyd Robinson, who performed the surgery, said the operation was a success, but declined to issue a statement on Sampson's condition until later today.

Sampson, the Oilers number one draft choice in 1972, went into surgery Friday night after doctors performed a brain scan and found a blood clot.

Sampson had experienced severe headaches since the first day of the Oilers training camp at San Angelo, Texas. Sampson suffered headaches prior to the start of workouts and the problem intensified when he received a blow in the Oilers first workout.

Oilers spokesman Mike McClure said Sampson would be lost for the 1979 season, but no prognosis was available on his pro football career.

SWINGING AT THE BIRDS — Rex Caldwell waves his putter on the ninth at Oakland Hills Saturday after sinking a birdie putt on the par three, 225-yard hole. Play came during third round action in PGA.

'Longshot' sure of PGA win

Caldwell out in front

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Rex Caldwell, a longshot journeyman, made a critical putt in a driving rainstorm, waited out a 45-minute weather delay and swept into a 2-stroke lead with a 4-under-par 66 Saturday in the third round of the 61st PGA National Championship.

His only bogey of the day came after the storm delay when he almost missed his tee time for the resumption of play.

"I went running (to the 18th tee) and didn't even have time to take a practice swing. I just put the peg in the ground and went after it," he said.

The drive found the rain-drenched fairway, but he missed his second shot to the left of the green and made bogey, well after the national television cameras had ended their coverage for the day.

"I'm pretty sure I'm gonna win," said the uninhibited Caldwell, 29.

"This is great. It's a golf tournament, a major, the PGA. It's just everything wrapped up in one."

"I'm hitting it good. The swing is in the slot. I never struck a nerve out there. It's amazing the way I was. I'm really amazed that I wasn't nervous."

Caldwell, now in his fifth year of Tour activity, never before had led through three rounds. He had this one with a 203 total, 7 under par on the historic Oakland Hills Country Club course.

His lead, at times, went as high as four strokes.

But that was before the violent thunderstorm swept the hilly course with torrential rains, high winds, thunder and lightning. A gallery announced at 34,000 bounded for cover, the press tent was ordered evacuated, players sought shelter and a television blimp, which handled relays from announcers on the course, was ripped off its mooring by the winds and later was found in someone's back yard.

And it was before Caldwell's closing bogey — his first in 28 holes — and a birdie by Ben Crenshaw, again after television coverage was completed.

Crenshaw, the dynamic man the other pros call "Gentle Ben," muscled and emoted his way to a 69 that left him alone in second at 205.

It was another two shots back to Tom Watson, the outstanding player of the season, Australian David Graham and Jerry Pate, tied at 207. Watson, a four-time winner this year but in a minor slump the past month, shot a 69. Pate, a former U.S. Open champion who seems to play his best in the major championships, also had a 69. The slender Graham matched par 70.

"I feel my chances are good," said Watson. "If I can play a good round tomorrow, I've got a chance to win the golf tournament. If I can get out of the box fast tomorrow, I have a chance to put some pressure on the leaders and maybe win the golf tournament."

Ron Streck was next at 69:208, five strokes back.

Tied at 209 and the only others under par were Gene Littler, Gibby Gilbert and Bruce Lietzke. Littler, who won the U.S. Open here in 1961, closed up with a 67. Gilbert shot a 68 and Lietzke had a 71.

Lopez takes 7-stroke lead over Kasmierski

SUNNINGDALE, England (AP) — Defending champion Nancy Lopez of the United States held a commanding 7-stroke lead over fellow countrywoman Joyce Kasmierski after the third round of the European Women's Golf Championship on Saturday.

Lopez tamed the 6,174-yard par 74 Sunningdale course for the third straight day. She shot a 4-under-par 70 for a 207 and was 15-under for the tournament.

"I have never led by 7 strokes after three rounds of a tournament before," Lopez said.

"But you are never too far ahead. Anything can happen. I shall just go out there and try to play a good last round."

Kasmierski was at 214. American Pat Bradley shot six birdies on the incoming nine and jumped into third place with 215. Mardell Wilkins of the United States was at 217.

Lopez needed a 1-under-par 73 Sunday to set a new low of 280 for the tournament. Judy Rankin set the record of 281 in winning the title two years ago.

Kasmierski, 32, who never has won a tournament in 10 years on the pro circuit, began the day 3 strokes behind Lopez and stayed in contention with the leader for the first seven holes.

Kasmierski bogeyed the eighth and struggled to hold her ground as Lopez came charging home on the inward nine.

The last three holes made all the difference. Lopez birdied the 16th and 17th and narrowly missed a 15-foot birdie putt at the 18th. Kasmierski bogeyed the last two holes.

"It was a kind of up-and-down round for me," Kasmierski said. "There are still 18 holes to play. I guess I have had my bad day and I'm all ready to get back to work tomorrow."

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Third-string quarterback Glenn Carano, subbing for kayoed Roger Staubach, passed Dallas to its only touchdown as the Cowboy's tripped the Denver Broncos 7-6 Saturday night in a defense-dominated National Football League exhibition football game.

Staubach suffered a slight concussion midway in the first quarter when he was tackled by linebacker Joe Rizzo. Staubach was knocked out for some five minutes before he was helped to the Cowboy bench. He later walked under his own power.

Denver, playing in its first preseason game, built a 6-0 lead in the first half on chipshot field goals of 23 and 30 yards by Jim Turner before Carano harnessed the Cowboy offense for a 76-yard scoring drive.

Carano hit tight end Jay Saldi on passes of 17 and 14 yards before a costly interference penalty by Bronco rookie Wiley Turner of Angelo State in the end zone set up Larry Brinson's one-yard scoring plunge.

Rafael Septien kicked the extra point with 1:46 left in the first half.

Denver also lost two of its players in the hard-hitting matchup before 61,192 fans in Texas Stadium as defensive tackle Don Latimer and running back Rob Lytle departed with knee injuries.

Dallas, which lost to Oakland 20-13 last week, evened its preseason record at 1-1.

Denver used three quarterbacks with starter Norris Weese completing five of nine passes for 81 yards in favor of Craig Penrose.

Rookie Fred Martensen of Arizona State finished up for the Broncos who fumbled away an excellent chance to go ahead late in the fourth quarter.

Cowboy rookie defender Mike Calhoun of Notre Dame stripped the ball away from Martensen and recovered at the Cowboy 43 to end the final Denver threat.

The game was played in 90-degree temperature and the humidity was 47 percent, which affected play.

SWC coaches enthusiastic as fall drills approach

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — To hear the nine Southwest Conference football coaches tell it, everybody in the SWC is going to have a good football team this year. But as Texas Christian Coach F.A. Dry observed, this is still August and the season starts in September.

"Everybody has to be excited and optimistic about the coming season. If they're not, then they're already dead," said Dry, who promised even his Horned Frogs would be improved, even though preseason predictors say TCU will again be near the bottom of the SWC standings.

There was a healthy supply of optimism Friday when the coaches gathered in San Antonio for the official kickoff of the 1979 season.

Texas Coach Fred Akers, whose Longhorns are ranked nationally in preseason polls and considered the early SWC favorite, told reporters, "We will have a good football team. I'm not ashamed to say it."

"I think there's a whole lot of teams that can win it. I don't think there's any question we will be competitive," said Houston Coach Bill Yeoman, whose defending champion Cougars are again expected to be one of the conference's top teams this season.

"We could win it. Some good things would have to happen and we might have to have some help from some other teams. Crazy things have happened. We're going to have a good football team," said Southern Methodist Coach Ron Meyer, who had one of the nation's best recruiting seasons last year to go with the already talented, but still young, 1978 Mustangs.

"When we walk on the field every time, we'll have a chance to win," modestly observed Texas A&M Coach Tom Wilson, whose Aggies are expected to be among the SWC's top two or three teams.

There was hope displayed even from the bottom of the SWC.

"We have an excellent freshman class. We can compete," added Dry, coach of the perennially hapless Horned Frogs, whom nearly everyone acknowledges will be better this year.

"We're going to be a better football team. I don't know how much better. Everybody seems to think right now that they are going to be better," said Rice Coach Ray Alborn, whose Owls are picked no better than eighth or ninth in the SWC.

Preseason forecasters, however, seem to agree with the coaches that everybody in the conference, except maybe rebuilding Arkansas, will be improved this season.

"This league has gotten tougher and tougher," said Texas Tech Coach Rex Dockery.

A reporter mentioned the rebuilding to quick-witted Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz, who retorted, "That's got to be the greatest understatement since General Custer said they look like friendly Indians."

But Holtz added, "We're going to be a lot better than the prognosticators think we are — but not as good as the alumni want us to be."

Steelers edge Bills 15-7

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Third-string quarterback Cliff Stoudt directed a fourth-quarter march to set up Matt Bahr's third field goal of the game Saturday as the Steelers edged the Buffalo Bills 15-7 in the first National Football League exhibition game for both teams this season.

Only moments later, Pittsburgh defender John Banaszak jarred the ball loose from Bills' quarterback David Mays and defensive tackle Gary Dunn returned the fumble 32 yards for the only Steeler touchdown of the contest.

Buffalo starter Joe Ferguson led the team to a 7-0 lead early in the second period with a 10-yard scoring pass to tight end Reuben Gant.

However, later in the quarter Barr kicked a 41-yard field goal to put Pittsburgh back in contention and booted another in each succeeding quarter. His first kick in the second half covered 39 yards and the winning boot 25 yards with 1:17 remaining.

Walling's hit gives Astros a win

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston pinch-hitter Denny Walling's infield single scored Enos Cabell from third base and gave the Astros to a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves night in the first game of a two-night doubleheader Saturday.

Cabell led off the ninth with a single, stole second base and went to third on a single by Rafael Landestoy. Then Gene Garber, 5-11, intentionally walked Alan Ashby prior to Walling's game-winning hit.

The Astros built a 3-0 lead on a run-scoring infield hit by Houston starter Joaquin Andujar in the second, Terry Puhl's RBI single in the fourth and a sacrifice fly by Craig Reynolds in the sixth.

But Atlanta tied it in the eighth on a two-run double by Rowland Offive and a run-scoring single by Bob Horner.

Andujar's second-inning single was his second hit in 42 at-bats this season.

Indians 12, Rangers 8

CLEVELAND (AP) — Toby Harrah belted a grand slam home run and Dan Spillner pitched 32-3 innings of scoreless relief as the Cleveland Indians outscored the Texas Rangers 12-8 Saturday.

Harrah's 11th homer, hit into the left field seats off Ranger starter John Johnson, 4-13, doubled a walk to Mike Hargrove, Bobby Bonds' double and a walk to Andre Thornton. Gary Alexander then followed Harrah's bases-clearing blast with his 14th home run to give the Indians a quick 5-0 lead.

Bonds had three hits and scored two runs, and Thornton and Alexander scored three runs each for the Indians.

Rick Waits, 11-9, gave up three-run homers to Buddy Bell and Dave Roberts, and a solo shot to John Ellis. Jim Sundberg added two hits and two walks, and three runs scored to the Texas attack.

Spillner allowed only one hit in picking up his first save.

The Rangers scored their first run in the third when Sundberg doubled and was driven home on a single by Mickey Rivers.

Cleveland stretched its lead to 8-1 in the third. Bonds singled and Thornton walked, chasing Johnson and bringing in Bob Babcock. The rookie pitcher got two outs, but walked Alexander to load the bases, Duane Kuiper singled home a run and Tom Verzyer singled in two more.

Ellis' 11th homer, in the fourth, cut the margin to 9-2, but the Indians got the run back in the bottom of the inning when Thornton reached second on a fielding error by Ellis, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on Cliff Johnson's sacrifice fly.

The Rangers made it 9-5 in the fifth when Sundberg walked, Nelson Norman singled and Bell stroked his 11th homer.

But Cleveland retaliated in their half of the fifth to build their margin to 12-5. After Alexander and Verzyer walked, Dave Rajsich relieved Babcock. Jim Norris singled, loading the bases, Rick Manning drove in two runs with a single and Bonds added the last Cleveland run with single.

Texas ended the scoring in the sixth when Ellis and Sundberg walked and then rode home on Roberts' three-run homer, his third.

Pirates 4, Phillies 0

PITTSBURGH (AP) — John Candelaria and Kent Tekulve combined on a five-hitter and Ed Ott drove in two runs to pace the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

Candelaria, 10-7, making his first start since he was involved in a minor auto accident Tuesday, held a 4-0 lead on a five-hitter through seven innings before he was relieved by Tekulve to open the eighth.

The Pirates took a 1-0 lead in the third when Dave Parker doubled off loser Nino Espinosa, 7-9, and scored on a single by Willie Stargell.

The Pirates chased Espinosa with a three-run fifth inning that began with a bunt single by Omar Moreno, who stole his 48th base of the season before Stargell walked intentionally with two out.

John Milner then singled to right, where outfielder Mike Anderson misplayed the ball for an error. Moreno scored, Stargell took third and Milner reached second.

After Bill Madlock was walked intentionally to load the bases, Ott singled to score two more runs.

In the sixth inning, Philadelphia's Pete Rose singled to right, giving him 2,426 singles and tying him with former Pirate Honus Wagner for the all-time National League lead in singles.

Tigers 5, Royals 2

DETROIT (AP) — Rookie Mike Chris held Kansas City hitless for the first six innings Saturday and Lou Whitaker broke an 0-for-17 slump with a pair of hits, including a run-scoring triple in the third inning, to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 5-2 victory over the Royals.

Chris, a 21-year old left-hander making his first major league start, didn't allow a hit until Hal McRae blooped a double down the right field line in the seventh inning. Al Cowens followed with a single, scoring McRae and Darrell Porter, who led off the inning with a walk.

John Hiller replaced Chris after Cowens' hit and gave up a single to Amos Otis before retiring the next three batters. Hiller finished the game to gain his eighth save.

Detroit scored twice in the third off Larry Gura, 7-8, on a single and stolen base by Ron LeFlore, a triple by Whitaker and Steve Kemp's double. The Tigers added a run in the sixth when John Wockenfuss doubled with two out and scored on Jason Thompson's single. Detroit completed the scoring in the seventh with a pair of unearned runs.

Red Sox 8, Brewers 6

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Carlton Fisk and Carl Yastrzemski belted three-run homers in a six-run Boston second inning, and the Red Sox held on to defeat the Milwaukee Brewers 8-6 on Saturday.

The Red Sox erupted in the second, after Dwight Evans, who had been behind 0-2 in the count, drew a two-out walk. Rick Burleson followed with a single and Fisk with his sixth homer.

A walk to Fred Lynn chased loser Reggie Cleveland, 1-5. Bob Galasso came on to walk Jim Rice and then served up Yastrzemski's 18th homer for an 8-2 Red Sox lead.

Sal Bando singled home a run in the Brewers' fourth off winner Allen Ripley, 2-0, and they closed to within 8-4 when Sixto Lezcano hit his 16th homer in the fifth. A single by Robin Yount and a triple by Paul Molitor chased Ripley in the eighth and Bando singled home Molitor for the Brewers' final run.

Angels 7, Twins 1

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — American League batting leader Brian Downing drove in two runs with two singles and Carney Lansford drilled a two-run homer to pace the California Angels to a 7-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins on Saturday.

Downing's two-run single in the first inning capped a three-run outburst against loser Dave Goltz, 10-8. Downing also singled in the eighth and scored the Angels' fifth run when Joe Rudi followed with a triple.

California starter Dave Frost, 10-7, had a three-hitter going until Mike Cubage singled and Hosken Powell doubled with one out in the eighth.

Frost was relieved by Mark Clear, who struck out Rob Wilfong and got Ken Landreaux on a popout. Clear then set down the Twins in the ninth to earn his 10th save.

Lansford's homer came off reliever Mike Bacsik in the ninth and scored Rick Miller, who doubled. Miller also drove in a run in the seventh when he doubled home Bert Campaneris, who had tripled.

The Twins' only run came in the seventh when Landreaux and Danny Goodwin laced back to back singles and Glenn Adams hit a sacrifice fly one out later.

Lawton Princess rated in today's Ruidoso action

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — Lawton Princess, a filly with plenty of experience in Ruidoso Downs stakes competition, looks like a rough customer in Sunday's Jockey Club Stakes.

The seven-furlong duel, a stepping stone to the upcoming Ruidoso Derby, offers added money of $12,500. Nine three-year-olds will answer the call.

The Jockey Club Stakes fills the featured 11th slot on a 13-race program which gets moving at 1 p.m.

Last time out, she came from far behind in the First Lady Handicap at 5½ furlongs and just missed catching Lucky Wilma by a neck. Lawton Princess was full of run when she ran out of real estate.

Fans, players pay tribute to Munson

Flags, pennants lowered to half staff in Yankee Stadium

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal transportation safety investigators continued to seek reasons today for the crash which killed New York Yankees star Thurman Munson near the Akron-Canton airport in Ohio.

Meanwhile, his teammates, shaken by the sudden death of the club's captain, prepared to fly to his funeral Monday.

Yankees fans paid an emotional nine-minute tribute Friday night to the memory of the fallen catcher, one of the most popular players on the team, following a prayer offered by Terence Cardinal Cooke, archbishop of New York.

With eight Yankees starters standing motionless at their positions, heads bowed, cheers and applause thundered through Yankee Stadium following Cardinal Cooke's prayer and the singing of "America The Beautiful" by Metropolitan Opera star Robert Merrill.

Both the Yankees and Baltimore Orioles stood at the top steps of their respective dugouts. But instead of the traditional moment of silence, the fans responded with a long, loud tribute to Munson's memory.

It grew louder each time Munson's portrait was flashed on the Stadium scoreboard. Each time the portrait was removed, it was replaced by a short message of inspiration.

It read: "Our captain and leader has not left us — Today, tomorrow, this year, next ... our endeavors will reflect our love and admiration for him."

The Yankees also announced that Munson's uniform No. 15 would be retired — the eighth Yankee number to be so honored — and that his locker also would be retired. The locker will remain in the clubhouse, vacant, with Munson's identification, No. 15, in place above it. A plaque also will be placed on the center field wall at the Stadium in Munson's memory.

The Yankees clubhouse and dugout were off-limits to reporters before and after the game against the Orioles. George Steinbrenner, principal owner of the club, spent about an hour before the game attending a team meeting. When he met reporters in an adjacent corridor, he was ashen.

He said Munson's widow, Diane, had spoken with Yankees outfielder Bobby Murcer Thursday night and asked that the team's series against Baltimore go on as scheduled. "She said Thurman would have wanted it that way," Steinbrenner said. "We'll play tonight, Monday we'll go to the funeral (scheduled for 9:30 a.m. in Canton). If we don't get back (in time for Monday night's nationally televised game), we don't get back. We'll forfeit."

Neither team showed much enthusiasm for playing the game, which was won by Baltimore, 1-0.

"After something like this," said Lou Piniella of the Yankees, "I just don't feel like playing the game."

Rick Dempsey, an ex-Yankee who is now Baltimore's regular catcher, remembered his days as a teammate of Munson's. "He always encouraged me," Dempsey said. "He'd always say 'Nice going.'"

Finally, Dempsey broke down and cried bitterly, covering his face with a towel.

Yankees fans sent telegrams expressing sympathy for the loss.

Around the Stadium roof, all flags and pennants were lowered to half staff and the Yankees players wore black armbands on their left uniform sleeves.

There was speculation that the crash early Thursday evening was caused by a sudden power failure in the million twin-engine Cessna

Citation jet which Munson had purchased only last month.

Ed McAvoy, coordinating the investigation for the National Transportation Safety Board, said Friday in Akron, Ohio, that the plane was slightly off center in its descent and that it was traveling at 93 knots, 11 knots above stall speed.

"So far, the investigation is only in a preliminary basis," McAvoy said. "We have determined that the plane was slightly off center in its descent and just missed a tree, all of which indicates to us that there was a sudden rate of descent."

Two passengers riding with Munson, David Hall, 32, and Jerry Anderson, 31, escaped the crash with burns. They were unable to rescue the Yankees star.

MOMENT OF HARMONY — The New York Yankees Reggie Jackson, left, and Thurman Munson wear happy smiles Oct. 17, 1978 after their team won the 1978 World Series at Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles. The two were not always entirely happy with each other. Jackson, brought to the Yanks, was given a contract that dwarfed Munson's. But the two learned to live together long enough for the team to win three straight pennants. Munson, the Yankees captain, died Thursday, when his plane crashed at Canton-Akron Airport.

YOUTHFUL — Thurman Munson poses during his junior year at Kent State University. He did not finish his college career, signing with the New York Yankees shortly after this picture was taken. His college coach, Richard "Moose" Paskert is credited with convincing Munson that his best chance of making the majors was as a catcher. Munson wanted to be an infielder. Munson went on to become one of the premier catchers in the major leagues, and first Yankee captain since Lou Gehrig.

Tackle football, soccer on YMCA full agenda

The Central and Lakeview YMCA's announce the introduction of a new youth sport programs to be offered this fall. The programs are tackle football and soccer.

Tackle football will be offered to children from the third through sixth grade, and will be divided into two leagues third and fourth, American, fifth and sixth, National.

Soccer will be offered to children first and second grade. This program will be structured as to allow all participants to play equal amounts of time. For more information contact the YMCA at 267-8235.

CGS hosting Sunday tourney

The Chicano Golf Association will hold a Selective Drive ABC Golf Tournament on Sunday morning beginning at 10:00 a.m. at the Comanche Trail Golf Course. People wishing to enter should do so by 9:30 in the club house.

The entry fee for the affair is five dollars. Merchandise will be awarded to the winners.

Former big league originally hoped to bring a major league franchise to Alamo City

Moon issues ultimatum for San Antonio baseball

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Three years ago, Wally Moon's former major league teammates warned him about the financial perils of becoming a minor league owner. But nobody told him it would be this bad.

Moon has lost $100,000 — more than his life savings from 11 major league seasons and two World Series — since becoming the owner of the Class AA San Antonio Dodgers in 1977.

That financial beating has prompted him to strongly warn San Antonio political and business leaders this week to produce commitments for a new stadium and more support by Oct. 1 or Moon and the nation's 10th largest city might be out of the professional baseball business.

"I am going to make every effort to keep the franchise here, but I have exhausted all of my own financial resources. We must have a new stadium and we must have support. If baseball has a future in San Antonio, it must be done now," said

Moon, 49, National League Rookie of the Year in 1954 and a lifetime .289 hitter as an outfielder with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I'm not in much of a position to be delivering an ultimatum, but I guess that's what it is," he added.

The Texas League Dodgers are not only forced to play in the shadow of the National Basketball Association's San Antonio Spurs, but must play in deteriorating, tiny, remote V.J. Keefe Field on the St. Mary's University campus.

The 3,700-seat stadium costs the Dodgers $18,000 annually to rent from St. Mary's, while the Shreveport Captains, for example, pay $1 per year to rent a municipal facility.

Keefe Field is on the fringe of San Antonio's rugged westside barrio and is three miles from the nearest freeway. Moon asked 27 members of a local civic club Thursday how many knew the location of the stadium. Only six raised their hands.

None had been to a game.

The Dodgers, facing financial problems typical of many minor league teams, warrant little media coverage and even less promotional support from businesses in this city of nearly a million residents. There is also little money for advertising and promotions.

Meanwhile, Moon's team won the Western Division first-half title, but is averaging only about 1,200 per game. That's still its best showing since Moon took over the franchise. The Dodgers drew 56,000 in 1977 and last year drew 74,250, an average of 968 per game.

El Paso, in sharp contrast, has drawn more than 163,000 in the first half of this season alone.

Moon's front office staff has been trimmed to himself, his general manager Wally Joe and Sales Director Steve Ford. His wife and 17-year-old daughter help out some, but a fulltime secretary had to be pared from the budget this year.

Family expenses have also been trimmed to essentials. Moon drives a 1968 Ford and drew no paycheck his first two seasons. His salary this year is $18,000. He made $64,000 one year in the major leagues.

The obvious question is: Why did Wally Moon, who holds a masters degree and was secure as a college coach in tiny John Brown University in Arkansas, bring this debacle upon himself?

"Most of my life is centered around baseball and I have an abiding interest in it. I feel there must be a place for player development.

"I didn't expect to make a great deal of money. I expected to make some. I was aware of the perils of minor league baseball and my friends and former teammates reminded me of them. Some of them don't have the foggiest notion why I'm doing this," he said in his tiny office in a makeshift building at the stadium.

The explanation was interrupted so Moon could act as secretary and answer the phone.

He continued, "A major reason was that San Antonio has a chance to be a major league city. My main ambition is to bring a major league franchise to San Antonio. The basics, except for a stadium, are already here."

Moon proposes that the city build a 5,000-8,000-seat multipurpose facility downtown on city land near the HemisFair Arena. "I think we're talking less than $4 million," he said.

Moon has gone to Mayor Lila Cockrell and members of the city council, but said he has received "almost no response."

In Wednesday's strongly-worded statement, Moon said the city must commit to a new stadium, his expiring lease with St. Mary's must be renewed and the business community and general public must support the city's professional baseball.

Otherwise, he said, "I will be forced to dispose of the baseball franchise."

1999 HOPEFUL — Two-year-old Essex Ferguson of Miami, Fla., had only the smallest amount of trouble seeing out of his future helmet as he sat on the Miami Dolphin bench with players during a scrimmage with the New Orleans Saints Saturday. Essex seemed to be right at home nestled there among the giants but, he didn't stay too long because his nap was more important than a silly old scrimmage.

Performs at ease with Howard Cosell during Cowboys-raiders game

Tarkenton passes first test of commentary

Fran Tarkenton may have finally found his calling. After 18 years of scrambling around, he seems to have found steady work.

And he's a natural at it. His new job is occupying the hot seat between Howard Cosell and Frank Gifford on ABC's "Monday Night Football." Tarkenton and Don Meredith will share color duties, alternating in the role of the former pro quarterback whose career is playfully ridiculed by Cosell.

Tarkenton held up admirably Saturday in his ABC debut at the Hall of Fame

Game between the Dallas Cowboys and the Oakland Raiders. He and Cosell bantered well together. This is important because ABC's regular season broadcasts are in prime time, and they need viewership from the folks who don't have subscriptions to "Pro Football Weekly" or don't know the up-to-the-minute point spreads.

"If the game is 35-0, how do you keep interest?" asks Tarkenton. "You've got to talk about something besides the game. Howard is a unique super talent. He gets conversations going. I enjoy that type of bantering. I'm a master at it. I do it all the time."

But more importantly for the football fan, Tarkenton gives real meaning to the term expert commentator. His analysis was interesting and forthright, and his commentary drew praise from Cosell. "I like the way Sir Francis talks — right on the line."

If anything, Tarkenton may have problems because he's hyper-critical. His standards may be too high for mere mortals after his spectacular career with Minnesota and the New York Giants stamped him one of the greatest quarterbacks in National Football League history.

"After playing 18 years, I know all the ins and outs," he said in a telephone interview. "My problem will be opposite to many color men. I might be too critical because I demand such excellence of myself and people around me. But the important thing is I've got to be me. I've got to be honest."

Tarkenton has the utmost confidence in himself. When he was looking around for a network TV job, he wouldn't accept second-string duty. He wanted to be part of a network's top football crew. NBC, which used Tarkenton as a pregame commentator the past three years, turned him down. ABC, which had problems convincing Meredith to increase his work load when the network got Sunday and Thursday games, said yes.

Tarkenton, a participating chairman of the board of a management consulting firm headquartered in Atlanta, was asked if it would be difficult to stay on top of the football beat because of his varied business interests. "It won't be hard because I'm a sports fan," he said. "I read the sports pages every day."

Tarkenton retired from football because it wasn't a satisfying outlet anymore, even though his 1978-79 season was a good one.

"I haven't had a single pang of regret," he said.

"Quite frankly, football wasn't fun last year. I had done it too long."

His first pang may come Oct. 15, when the Vikings play the New York Jets. That Monday night, the best Minnesota quarterback will be in the broadcast booth rooting for the Vikings.

It could be a very helpless feeling.

Texas Ranger front office becoming a comedy of errors

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The players sit in luxurious leather lounge chairs, drawing their executive-sized salaries and not knowing whether to make dinner reservations for their next night off.

The Texas Rangers' hired hands are big league — in giant salaries, insecurity, and annual mid-summer foldups, called "July Jaundice" by the local writers.

The front office is called "Barnum and Bailey West." If you've seen a circus, you need to catch Owner Brad Corbett and Vice President Eddie Robinson in the center ring before you've said you've seen 'em all.

They had five managers last season — one for 24 hours.

They fired Billy Hunter because he had the audacity to make rules regulating the team's drinking habits on the road. Pitcher Dock Ellis said it was either him or Hunter. Bye, bye Hunter. Oh yeah, a writer had to call Hunter to tell him he had been axed.

They've gone deep into the red despite annually drawing more than a million fans with their wheeling-dealing ways.

They have landed good players like Buddy Bell and Jim Kern but are offset by blunders such as losing Oscar Gamble because they didn't understand American League rules.

Gamble was just the leading hitter on the team. They take on big salaries betting on the come for pennants which never happen.

They admit they lie. No cash in the Mike Hargrove trade to San Diego for Gamble, they said. Corbett admitted later the Padres got a bundle.

And now — so ironic that it's spooky — they get hoodwinked by the Yankees, losing the popular Gamble in a trade they were forced to make for Mickey Rivers, a man branded by the New York front office as a disciplinary problem.

Local sports writers are calling the latest episode "RangerGate" because they felt the front office lied to them again then tried to cover it up.

Even the Ranger players are distrustful.

Pitcher Doc Medich said: "Somebody messed up and now they're all trying to pass the buck. How can you have confidence in an organization when something like this happens?"

Texas said Monday it got Rivers for three minor leaguers and a player to be named later. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn nullified the trade when he found out the Rangers failed to obtain waivers on Gary Gray and Mike Hart.

The Rangers finally had to send three minor leaguers and Gamble to the Yanks. Texas gets three minor leaguers to be named later.

Robinson said it was a foulup in the American League office.

Corbett said no matter what "I'll take the heat."

Then he got on a plane — to take the heat in Florida — while assistant Bobby Bragan fielded a barrage of angry telephone calls on a radio show.

Sometimes with the Rangers you can't even tell the players WITH a program.

As weight drops to 247

Woodard's playing chances improving

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Mammoth Texas A&M fullback George Woodard, who missed the 1978 season and spring training with a broken leg, has lost 58 pounds after ballooning to 305 and could play this season, says Aggie Coach Tom Wilson.

Wilson had demanded that Woodard either reduce his weight to 260 or forget about his football career. Woodard had sometimes played at more than 275 pounds.

Woodard, one of the Aggies' top offensive weapons for three years, is still the school's alltime leading ground gainer at 2,864 yards — 14 ahead of Curtis Dickey.

"I'll save ya'll a question and get right to the subject of George Woodard," Wilson told reporters here Friday. "Yesterday he was down to 247 pounds. I don't want to get overly optimistic about George. But I am very excited about it."

Wilson added that Woodard has been given a clean bill of health, but warned, "He hasn't played in a year. The leg has not been tested. I don't want to put any undue pressure on George. He has got a way to go."

Wilson was asked how Woodard lost the weight. "He stopped eating for one thing," Wilson responded. Wilson said Woodard had not been in his plans for this season. "Would he have been in your plans at 305 pounds?" Wilson asked a reporter.

Due to hypocritical under the table payments

Track and field now a profession

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Opening track and field to some form of professionalism for the athletes would end the present system of "under-the-table" payments that now exist in the sport, say a top-flight athlete and a highly regarded coach.

The two, who asked that their names not be used, both agreed in separate interviews with The Associated Press that as the sport now stands, it is very "hypocritical."

At present, the sport is considered strictly amateur. But that obviously is a misnomer, since it is well known that an exorbitant amount of money exchanges hands between promoters and athletes, between television sponsors and promoters, between corporate investors and promoters, etc.

The athlete and the coach both agreed that so far, most of the "onus" has centered on the athletes, because they are the most prominent of the individuals. They are the ones who run, jump or throw, win the gold medals and set the records.

But the athlete and the coach also agreed that the promoters, the TV people and the corporate sponsors, the ones footing the bills for the meets, should be just as much to blame for any wrongdoings in the sport.

The athlete said that in the recent Golden Mile in Oslo, where Britisher Sebastian Coe set his world record, "I accidentally saw the books and the cheapest guy in it (the meet) got $2,000. Even the 'nonames.' The top price was $4,000."

"If we can get track and field opened up, these kinds of 'under-the-table' payments wouldn't be necessary," he said. "I think we will have open track eventually, but the IAAF (International Amateur Athletic Federation, the governing body of track and field) and the AAU (Amateur Athletic Union) will have to get together first."

The coach pointed out that the IAAF was "in control" of the Oslo meet, sponsored by Dubai.

"Dubai is the one with money to back it," he explained, "and the IAAF is going to help them spend it."

Dubai sponsored its first meet in Tokyo last year and has another meet upcoming in Zurich shortly.

The coach compared staging a meet to putting up a Christmas tree. "You want to decorate it with the nicest ornaments you have," he said, in reference to the promoters trying to grab the top athletes.

But in addition to the money given the athletes, he questioned where a lot of the other money goes.

"Who benefits?" he asked. "A lot of the money is supposed to go to charitable organizations, such as the CYO, and other groups. But does it?"

"I'd like to see some of these promoters open up their books and let them give us an accounting," said the coach.

Then, some of the mysteries and hypocrisies that have plagued the sport over the years might be solved.

Or will they?

Bicycling should grow with energy crisis

AUSTIN — With the simultaneous impact of the gasoline crunch and the emphasis on physical fitness, many people are taking a closer look at the bicycle. By 1990, bicycling may be the state's number-one outdoor activity, and more bicycle trails are planned for the future.

If you're considering a bicycle trip, the August issue of TEXAS PARKS & WILDLIFE magazine suggests heading for a state park. Many Texas cities have one or more state parks within biking distance, and the magazine article includes suggested trips, distances and directions. A list of bicycle safety tips also is included.

Also in the August issue is a rundown on the ranking of Texas bass lakes done by the Parks and Wildlife Department's Fisheries Division based on information provided by 134 of the state's bass clubs.

A P&W wildlife biologist recounts his experiences banding snow geese in the Arctic in a cooperative effort with the Canadian Wildlife Service, and the goal of the program. The department's experiment at increasing deer quality by issuing buck permits in Webb County is analyzed, and the history of the state's white-winged dove and archery hunting stamps is illustrated with color photos of the stamps.

State parks are excellent settings for outdoor education programs, and an article about one school trip to McKinney Falls State Park near Austin offers suggestions many teachers may find useful. The magazine's regular Young Naturalist feature deals with meteors and the Perseid meteor shower which can be observed each August.

TEXAS PARKS & WILDLIFE magazine is $5 for a one-year subscription and $9 for two years. To subscribe, send check or money order to 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744. Or call toll-free 1-800-252-9327 (Austin residents call 475-4891) and charge the subscription to VISA or Master Charge.

AUSTIN — Split North and South Zone mourning dove seasons and four half-days of hunting for whitewings have been set by Parks and Wildlife Commissioners at their July 24 meeting.

P&W Commissioners decided on Sept. 1 through Oct. 21, 1979, and Jan. 5-13, 1980, seasons for the North Zone; and Sept. 22 through Nov. 4, 1979, Jan. 5-20, 1980, seasons for the South Zone.

Lamesa game warden Ferguson finds hunters vary like wildlife

LAMESA — A variety of wildlife inhabits the Lamesa area and Bobby Ferguson, Texas game warden, finds that the hunters vary as much as the wildlife.

Ferguson, assigned Dawson, Borden, and Gaines counties of the Lubbock district, finds stable populations of antelope, deer, quail, dove, sandhill crane, duck, and turkey in his region. There are areas of his patrol region that do not have huntable populations of all of these species.

Ferguson, a native of Hale Center, has worked the Lamesa area for six years following his graduation from the P&W warden academy in 1974.

The warden, his wife, Janie, and son, Chris, age nine, reside at 806 N. 13th Street in Lamesa.

Ferguson also works water safety and fishing regulations at Lakes J.B. Thomas and White River. These lakes offer opportunities for both water sports and most types of fishing common on the South Plains. The lakes are well known for bass, crappie, walleye, sunfish, and catfish.

The warden asks that all game, fish and water safety violations be reported to him as soon as possible for investigation.

Ferguson may be contacted through local law enforcement agencies or call him at 806-872-3229.

JOINT VENTURE — Atlanta Braves catcher Joe Nolan (11) bumps against teammate Bob Horner, right, to catch a foul ball at Atlanta Fulton County Stadium Thursday. Fans cleared a path for the catch in the game won by the Braves, 7-2, over the San Diego Padres.

Aggie barbecue set Thursday

The Big Spring Texas A&M Club will hold its annual scholarship barbecue starting at 7:30 p.m., Thursday in the Old Settlers Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park.
 Tickets are $4 each, with children under 12 (if accompanied by parents) free.
 The Aggies are hoping for one of their largest turnouts for this event and promise to set a good table for the public, a table that will offer all the trimmings along with barbecue.
 Proceeds from the barbecue go to help underwrite the expenses of area students either in school at College Station now or who are committed to enter A&M.
 This year's winner of the A&M scholarship is Donnie Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Knight. Donnie is planning on taking a Pre-Med course in A&M, in preparing for a career in Medicine.
 Young Knight will be on hand Thursday night to be introduced to the crowd.
 The Aggies sent Jim Bob Conates to A&M on scholarship last year. They have been promoting the education of countless young people at A&M since the early 1950s, some of whom would not have been able to go to college otherwise. Kyle Pfeiffer is another Big Spring currently on A&M rolls who received scholarship help from the local Aggies.
 Four-year scholarships are invariably offered to the students by the Aggies, the only stipulation being that they remain in school and make their grades.
 Jerry Foresyth is president of the Big Spring A&M Club and can be contacted at Big Spring Savings and Loan Association for tickets. Other members of the A&M Club are selling them, too. Late purchasers can purchase them at the entrance to the pavilion on the evening of the barbecue, too.

Man is forced off road, hurt

A San Angelo man, Rick Gray, spent the night at Malone-Hogan Hospital Friday after his vehicle was reportedly forced off the road by an unknown motorist.
 Shaffer Ambulance was called to the scene at 1 p.m. Friday, shortly after the accident occurred near the Coleman Cafe, 17 miles south of Big Spring.
 Gray received some injuries to his hand when he struck the door of his vehicle as it left the road. He was taken to the emergency room of the hospital where he was treated and admitted for further observation. Gray was released Saturday morning.

"It's nice to talk to someone intelligent for a change." "That probably should bother me more than it does."

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Billy isn't going into the Army! He's going to a summer camp for a couple weeks."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, AUGUST 5, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to consider how you can put your affairs on a more secure structure. Organize your interests and activities so that all runs smoothly in your life. Be practical.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over with a trusted friend how to make the most of your special talents. This could be an important day in your life. Try to be of greater help to loved one.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Look to an influential person for the ideas you need in this time to improve your position in life. Express happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan time to study your business affairs so you can advance in the future. Try to be of greater help to loved one.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get together with practical-minded associates and plan the future more intelligently. Avoid one who is tricky.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan to be more efficient in handling your regular routines. Take those health treatments that can build up your energies.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Engage in an enjoyable time with worthwhile friends. Express talents you have and make a good impression on them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Attend to tasks you must perform early in the day so you will have time for social activities later. Take it easy tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can easily improve your relations with allies at this time. Try to be of greater help to them. Make this a worthwhile day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan for a greater income so that you can combat inflation successfully. Keep active and you soon get ahead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can improve your relations with allies at this time. Try to be of greater help to them. Make this a worthwhile day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Forget all those impractical ideas and spend more time on the practical and you make greater progress. Think constructively.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get in touch with a progressive friend who can give you good ideas for greater progress in the future. Get the rest you need.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have practical ideas and can make fine plans for carrying them through, so be sure to give as fine an education as you can afford so that your progeny will be successful. Give fine religious training.

The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Trials of youth portrayed in film

"The Wanderers" is a high-spirited invocation to the end of an age of innocence, the early '60s when life seemed simpler and sex had the appeal of forbidden things. The film captures the coming of age of city youth, chronicling the painful, frightening and comic rites of passage into adulthood. Realistic in style, shot on location in the Bronx and cast primarily with young unknowns, the film explores love, loyalty and survival among adolescents in an often hostile world, peopled with parents, rivals and terrorists.

An Orion Pictures release through Warner Bros., "The Wanderers" was directed by Philip Kaufman and produced by Martin Ransohoff. It is a Kaufman Film and a Ransohoff Production, written for the screen by Rose and Philip Kaufman, and based on the novel by Richard Price. The executive producer is Richard R. St. Johns. It opened on Friday, Aug. 3, at the Cinema in the College Park Shopping Center.

The cast is headed by Ken Wahl, John Friedrich, Karen Allen, Toni Kalem, Alan Rosenberg, Jim Youngs, Tony Ganios, Linda Manz and Erland van Lidth de Jeude.

The Price novel has been a literary success and a cult favorite since its publication five years ago. It told about the real and legendary characters from the author's Bronx boyhood in the early 1960s. Like the picture, his story unfolded in a dramatically romantic style that lifted reality into a magical world where extraordinary things occurred as a matter of course.

The focus of the film is on a group of Italian-American high school friends called the wanderers, who learn how to cope with the world, have a good time, find romance and a few laughs.

The Wanderers are surrounded by real and imagined terrors — parents, rivals, teachers. There are figures like the Baldies, led by a grotesque six-foot-six, 425-pound monster called Terror; and the Ducky Boys, who live in the darkest corner of the imagination and commit the gravest outrages.

For the film, director Kaufman and his wife Rose have taken a mixture of reality, memory legend and netherworld to fashion a screenplay that chronicles the coming of age of three high school buddies. Backgrounded with a ringing musical score of the period, the film explores what it used to mean to fall in love, to be a friend, and to move from adolescence to manhood.

In "The Wanderers," the makers go for broad comedy as much as possible despite the often grim realities of the young people's lives. By frequently emphasizing the comic excesses, the director has made a film not unlike a tall tale, creating the kind of yarn Mark Twain might have spun from a different era. The language may be rougher, and the situations are urban rather than rural, but the effect is the same.

Richie, Joey and Perry, three high school seniors, accept the atmosphere of uneasy alliances between rival clubs and try to enjoy their last year by picking up girls, playing football and cruising in their cars. Their attempts to play roles they do not yet understand, and their fumbling with the opposite sex, are at one and the same time wildly funny and wistfully sad.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

SUCCESS STORY — Actors Dennis Christopher (left) as the son; and Paul Dooley as the father, are two of the co-stars in the movie "Breaking Away." The film is the story of four high school graduates coming of age in a mid-western town, and their conflict with snobbish students at the Indiana University they choose to attend.

Critics like 'Breaking Away'

Summer movie a sleeper

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You wonder how a producer-director from England and a Yugoslav-born writer can create a movie that is as American as the Fourth of July and "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Peter Yates and Steve Tesich have managed such a feat in "Breaking Away," the 20th Century-Fox release that critics are applauding as the summer's sleeper. Charles Champlin of the Los Angeles Times called it "unassertive and largely untrumpeted hallmarks of the sleeper always as well as charming, ingratiating, funny, exciting and pleasing."

Those are words that make a film creator happy, and handsome, well-spoken Peter Yates was feeling a glow during a visit here from his Manhattan home. He was especially pleased that a modest $2.4 million movie could attract attention in a market obsessed with mutating monsters and suave vampires. The last film from Yates was the soggy epic "The Deep."

"Breaking Away" is the story of coming of age in Bloomington, Ind. Four high school graduates — played with utter conviction by Dennis Christopher, Dennis Quaid, Daniel Stern and Jackie Earl Haley — spend a restless summer trying to figure out what to do with the rest of their lives. As "cutters" or town boys, they come in conflict with snobbish students of Indiana University.

The main figure is Christopher, who becomes so enamored with Italian bicycle racing that he sings arias around the house and speaks pidgin Italian. The baffles and infuriates his father, played with comic grace by Paul Dooley.

The climax is a bike race between the cutters and collegiates that rivals the excitement of Yate's car chase in "Bullitt."

"Is the picture autobiographical?" the film maker mused. "Yes, Steve went to Indiana University. Yes, he is a keen cyclist. Yes, he sang Italian arias and learned to speak Italian. But the relationship between father and son is more autobiographical of me. I identify with the Dooley character." Yates is the father of two teen-agers, Toby and Miranda.

'Thelwell's Book of Leisure'

How to really vacation

By REBECCA TAYLOR
Reference Librarian
Howard County Library

Time is truly relative. Two weeks on vacation is not the same as two weeks on a diet. With the vacation season drawing to a close, many individuals may feel dissatisfied or disappointed with their vacation experience. The expression, often heard, "I have to go back to work to rest from my vacation," may be symptomatic of a genuine failure of the vacation to accomplish its purpose.

"Thelwell's Book of Leisure," by Norman Thelwell, is a comic yet caustic look at the effectiveness of most leisure pursuits. The theme is "enjoyment is an attitude of mind." Cartoon illustrations focus on the extreme lengths to which people will go to achieve their image of "leisure." In some cases, the drawings are so "true," one must laugh to keep from crying.

One might decide that success or failure of a vacation depends largely on chance. Stephen A. Shapiro and Alan J. Tuchman, in their book, "Time Off," come to a different conclusion; many vacations are doomed from the beginning. There is a right and wrong way to go on a vacation to achieve maximum benefits.

"Vacationing in this taut world is not a luxury; it is a necessity... The vacation period must be made as valuable and fulfilling as it can to help achieve a greater tolerance of the accelerated pace of modern life. Otherwise, tensions magnify and the stresses get out of control." Brittleness of the emotional balance can become such a dominant factor that there is danger of shattering at every step. The result may show up in physical or emotional disorders. Realization of the essential quality of leisure can alleviate the guilt feelings which can ruin many holidays. Lack of self awareness can lead one to choose a vacation entirely inappropriate to current needs.

'Cymbeline' star has many years experience

Portraying Zacheus in a Duluth, Minnesota Sunday school play to Cymbeline, King of Britain, in Shakespeare's "Cymbeline" at the Globe of the Great Southwest — such is the acting road of Tom Lent.

"Cymbeline" is the second of two plays being presented this summer in the 11th Annual Shakespeare Festival at the Globe. "Antony and Cleopatra" opened June 23rd and will continue its run, alternating nights with "Cymbeline" which premiered July 12th, until the close of the Festival on August 5th.

At the University of Minnesota, Lent directed and produced his own adaptation of "Catch 22." Following the completion of his undergraduate work, he received a Master of Fine Arts degree from the University of Southern California. While in California, Lent appeared in a production of Brecht's "Caucasian Chalk Circle" in Los Angeles and worked with John Houseman who currently appears in the television series "The Paper Chase."

"Cymbeline" will alternate nights with the Festival's other play, "Antony and Cleopatra" until the closing of the Festival, August 5th. Performances are scheduled on Wednesday thru Saturday nights at 8 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 2:30 p.m.

Ticket information, reservations and schedules may be obtained by contacting the Globe of the Great Southwest, 2308 Shakespeare Rd., Odessa, Texas, 79761 or calling the Globe at 915-332-1586.

Revisiting state hospital

By CAROL HUNTER

When the Big Spring State Hospital was built in 1939, it was a showplace, a model for Texas mental health institutions. Even though it was small, the new hospital was advanced both in physical facilities and mental health programs. The antebellum architecture was patterned after older institutions, built after the Civil War at Rusk, Terrell and Austin.

Adolph Supak, Assistant Superintendent, says that the hospital was designed to become the largest, most modern State Hospital in Texas. Plans were to construct identical units, in a row behind the Administration Building, stretching west ad infinitum.

The War ended the building project, however, and BSSH remains the smallest of the nine State Hospitals today. Mr. Supak stated that when the next building project resumed in the 1950's, architectural concepts for State Hospitals had changed from a two story unit to one story.

Working at the state hospital in the 40's and 50's was more of a way of life than just a job. Employees all lived on the grounds, for payment included room, board and laundry. Maid service was provided for the personnel living in the Administration Building where the Superintendent, three doctors, pharmacist, social worker and a few others had apartments on the second floor.

Attendants and other employees lived in the present Outpatient Clinic Building. There were relatively few employees compared to today's total. Two cottages, still in use, beside the Power Plant were provided for the grounds-keeper and farm overseer.

Such was the set up when one Howard County resident came to live on the campus in 1946. Janice Rosson, former high school counselor and now secondary coordinator for Big Spring Schools, moved with her widowed mother, Portia Boardman, to Howard County and lived at the hospital until 1953. Mrs. Boardman, secretary to three superintendents, was quartered in the Administration Building where she and Janice had an apartment because she admitted the patients who arrived at night. Her skills increased to more than secretarial, as it was necessary to know medical and psychiatric terminology when she presented each new patient to the physician's daily staff meetings.

Janice reminisced that the switchboard, pharmacy, a store for the patients, the superintendent's office with a large staff room, and the kitchen were housed downstairs in the Administration Building. Each unit had its own kitchen and dining hall.

The dining hall for the Administration building was upstairs and food was delivered to the second story by a dumb waiter. Janice had several jobs, one of which was working in this dining hall, another babysitting for the superintendent's children. Her favorite employment, however, was working the switchboard. In high school years, what other student could connect four friends simultaneously for a conference call?

The ultimate remembrance had to be a quiet Sunday morning when she looked up from her switchboard duties, and a stately man announced, "Good morning, I am Beauford Jester. I was in the area and wanted to make an unofficial visit to the hospital." When Janice recovered, she quickly summoned Dr. Bowden, in the superintendent's suite upstairs.

The governor was given a tour and stayed for lunch. Preparing that impromptu meal could have been traumatic for later superintendent's wives; however, Dr. Bowden, a true patriarch who loved to use any occasion for a family-type celebration, and Mrs. Bowden were able to serve with ease.

There were a number of employees' children on campus, and the family-type atmosphere included their mixing with the patients at work and play. There were regular Monday night movies on the tennis court and on Wednesdays, the streets were roped off for dances.

Employees and patients alike attended. The brave-hearted employees children had a secret club. It met in the floored cupola atop the Ad Building with arrival via a ladder. The children walked 1 1/2 miles, sand or snow, past the Experimental Farm, across what is now I-20, through the present grounds of the Texas-Little League Stadium to North Ward School. All of the north Ward County farm children also attended North Ward, renamed Bauer Elementary in the 1950's.

The grounds were beautifully kept. Irrigated elm trees lined Highway 87. On the site of the Tollett Chapel was a magnificent garden, planted and maintained by the patients. Among the flowers were fossils and shells which a doctor had collected from our Howard County mountains. The railroad spur, coming up to the power plant, was well-used in the early days. The cemetery is still a maintained part of the original section of state owned land comprising the grant for BSSH.

eight hours a day. They toiled either on the hospital grounds or the farm, which was state owned acreage north of the hospital, on which cotton and maze were grown, cattle and pigs were raised, some of the best in Howard County.

The U.S. Legislature, in all its wisdom, has eliminated this type of work for patients, but Janice exclaims that she never saw a patient abused and, in fact, saw many cases where work was amazingly therapeutic.

With the vast changes which she and others have seen in the mental health field, one would question the days of the locked wards, the straight jackets and bathtubs of cold water for the unmanageable.

One who was there would never doubt that overall the strides and techniques, and certainly the public's attitude toward the mental patient, have come a long way. One is quick to add, however, that things were not so bad in the post-war era. Thinking was far from modern, but warmth and family togetherness were, by necessity, more prevalent.

The drugs Thorazine, introduced in 1954, and penicillin, which eliminated the large number of tertiary syphilis patients, alleviated the overcrowded, chronic back wards of the State Hospital. Shock therapy and insulin therapy, the best they had in the 40's, are used very little today. Janice observed that the greatly reduced patient-employee ratio, and the contributions of volunteers have shown increased compassion for the mental patient and have brought about amazing changes for his benefit.

The silos, where the maze was stored and where the courageous climbed, are no longer extant at BSSH. The barn is no longer needed, for the fields are not in cultivation. The Administration Building was renovated in 1974 and renamed the Harrison Building for Dr. Preston B. Harrison the longest-reigning superintendent, 17 years. The beautiful new offices and library-staff rooms on the second floor reveal little of the different way of life a few decades ago. Except for a few employees, who have campus homes, all of the 700 plus employees make their homes in Howard County or farther.

Of the 13 superintendents, the present one is the first woman, Dr. Grace Ferguson. In the early 50's, a gallery of previous superintendents hung in the foyer of the Administration Building, Janice remembers. At this time, the volunteers have been coordinating a corridor in the building, regathering these pictures and adding more recent ones.

Along with the gallery, the hospital is seeking to preserve any history of these administrations or any other historical data pertinent to the hospital. Should any resident have a contribution, the Volunteer Office would be delighted to receive this.

New buildings and renovated buildings have changed the countenance of the hospital grounds. Volunteers have raised funds for the Chapel and Natatorium. There is now a school on campus. Caring and dedication by those who work with the mental patient are carried on just as in the early days. Big Spring State Hospital still enjoys an excellent standing in the State System.

Dedication rites today are at Trinity Baptist

Errors on the part of the Big Spring Herald resulted in misinformation in an article appearing in the church section of the Friday edition. Dedication of a new family activity center will be conducted today, 4 p.m., at Trinity Baptist Church, 810 11th Place, not Baptist Temple as was stated in the article.

The dedication speaker will be Bill Hatler, former pastor of the Baptist Temple Church. He served that church for a number of years before leaving Big Spring the past spring to become pastor

NEW LOOK — This scale model, completed by Gary and Company Architects of Big Spring, shows part of the new construction project that was recently approved by the board of directors of Citizens Federal Credit Union.

At Citizens Credit Union Project begins shortly

The board of directors of Citizens Federal Credit Union held a special board meeting Thursday evening at the credit union to consider bids for the construction of additional drive-thru windows. Bids were received from three area firms, with the lowest bid receiving the board's approval to begin construction as soon as possible.

The large construction project, which is expected to take approximately 180 days to complete, will include the addition of three drive-thru windows, area, additional parking spaces, and various other paving projects.

Bids received for the credit-union construction were submitted by R.B. Snead Construction, Inc., Odessa, $209,000.00; J.W. Little Construction Company, Big Spring, $219,120.00; and Tilley & George Construction Company, Big Spring, $227,920.00. During the board meeting following the discussion of the bids, the board unanimously approved the construction project and awarded the contract to R.B. Snead Construction, Inc., of Odessa, the lowest bid received by Gary and Company Architects of Big Spring, architects for the project.

Snead Construction is very active in the local area. It has just completed a service center for the Bell Telephone Company, and is doing construction on the First Baptist Church, Church of Christ, Dunlap's in Highland Mall, the Gary Turner home, the office of James Duncan, and recently completed the computer room at Citizens Federal Credit Union.

Construction is scheduled to get under way around the middle of August and is scheduled to be completed in 180 days. The days the drive-thru window will be closed during the construction was one of the main areas of discussion.

All firms submitting bids were informed that 25 days would be the maximum time the drive-thru window area at the credit union could be closed without that firm receiving a stiff cash penalty for each day surpassing the 25-day maximum.

Board members at the credit union said they felt that there was a definite need for the new construction project and were confident that the project would be completed with as little inconvenience to credit union members as possible.

Arrangements were also discussed concerning the use of the main building to handle drive-thru window traffic during the days the window will be closed for construction of the additional drive-thru windows.

If creditors approve Furr's sale is looming

LUBBOCK — Officials of Furr's Inc., announced here Friday they had reached an agreement to transfer control of the financially battered supermarket to Rewe Handelsgesellschaft Leibbrand OHG, a West German firm.

The announcement climaxed six weeks of negotiations. The plan, under which the European group would take control of Furr's and pay off the company's nearly 5,000 creditors, must be filed in Fort Worth's bankruptcy court no later than Aug. 21, then submitted to a vote of creditors.

If the court approves and 51 per cent of more of the creditors agrees to the settlement, Furr's could legally be turned over to the West Germans within 90 days.

Patrick J. Murphy, president and chief executive of Furr's, said the change in ownership would not affect the day-to-day operations of the 75-year-old corporation.

"The Germans have no plans to enter the management of the business," Murphy said, "although there will be some changes on the board of directors." Furr's debts reportedly amount to more than $6 million.

Three other firms, all America-based, had expressed interest in buying Furr's.

The German group is headed by W. Leibbrand, principal partner in the third-largest grocery chain in West Germany. If the takeover is approved, it will be the German's first merchandising operation in the United States.

Terms of the proposed sale were not made public.

The agreement reached

John Marshall returns to begin practice here

Dr. John Marshall, an optometrist, has joined Drs. Wayne and Diana Hamm and Allen R. Hamilton in practice at 106 Wm Third here.

Dr. Marshall is not exactly new to Big Spring. He took flight training at Webb AFB here in 1969-70 and was an instructor pilot here from 1972 to 1975.

He is married to the former Cynthia Ann Birdwell, daughter of the Rev. Harland and Mrs. Birdwell of Big Spring.

Raised in Salt Lake City, Utah, Dr. Marshall attended Westminster College in Salt Lake where he earned a BS degree in Biology.

Marshall was stationed in Taiwan, from where he flew an estimated 500 missions into combat zones during the war with North Vietnam. He earned the Air Medal.

On one occasion, while at the controls of a C-130, Marshall landed on an unlighted airstrip near Dongdong, Vietnam, near midnight to pick up two wounded helicopter pilots — groping his way with the aid of headlights of military Jeeps which lined one side of the runway. He had to back up his aircraft in order to clear the runway. The plan whisked the injured men back to Saigon for medical treatment.

DR. JOHN MARSHALL

After six years in the Air Force, Marshall returned to mufli to enroll in the optometry school at the University of Houston.

He accepted an offer to start his practice here after graduating from Houston earlier this year.

The Marshalls have two children, Kristen age 5 1/2 and Zachary age 21 months.

The family is making their home at 807 W. 14th Street. Marshall hasn't lost his enthusiasm for flying and intends to pursue it as a hobby here.

Railroad Arts, Crafts Roundup is scheduled

COLORADO CITY — The 7th annual Railroad Arts & Crafts Roundup, sponsored by the Colorado City Texas Chamber of Commerce, is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 27, from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 28 from 12 noon until 6 p.m. at the Mitchell County Fair Barn, west of the city on old Highway 80, just off IS 20. Display areas are $22.50 for an 8'x8' booth and $32.50 for an 8'x16' booth.

A play is planned in conjunction with the Roundup, produced by The Colorado City Playhouse. Also at or near the fairgrounds during sale times, there will be a target shoot, calf roping, ethnic dancers, food and art demonstrations. There will be a disco dance with Kin-dercare Child Center in charge. Mrs. Don Latimer will schedule the entertainment.

The barn has been recently remodeled and now has cement floors, additional wiring and a renovated kitchen.

The city offers camper hookups at the State Park, Bernard's Tourist Town and entrants may park free at the fairgrounds without benefit of hookups. Overnight security will be provided.

For further information, one can contact chairpersons Pam Beasley at 915-644-3311 in Westbrook or Carolyn Smith at 915-728-3323 in Colorado City. One may also call the Chamber offices at 915-728-3403.

Big Spring children enjoy learning in the Summer Fun Program

Cooperative effort makes it work

By MICKIE DICKSON
Recreational needs of children and youth are met in Big Spring by the Summer Fun Program at the YMCA, the Comanche Trail Park and at Runnels Junior High.

Frank Ibarra, coach and physical education teacher at Goliad Middle School, heads up the program at the park and at Runnels Junior high which runs from June 4 to Aug. 3. Ibarra was park supervisor at Govalle Park in Austin before moving to Big Spring a year ago with his wife, Claudia, who teaches resource English at Runnels Junior High.

Nadine Teague, associate physical director at the YMCA, heads up their program which extends from June 4-Aug. 9, in two week sessions.

The YMCA will host a weiner roast the morning of Aug. 3 at Comanche Trail Park for the Summer Recreational Program participants to end the park program for this summer.

Aug. 9 at 7 p.m., a Parent's Night will be held with all YMCA Summer Fun participants, showing a day's activity in a one-hour program plus the arts and crafts items made. The Summer Fun Staff will also provide some entertainment.

Frank Ibarra directs 120-130 children and young people each day, Monday-Friday from 9 a.m. to noon at Comanche Trail Park.

The program includes swimming, arts and crafts, and games. With the help of lifeguards Michelle Kolden, Gay Greenfield, Aides Albert DeLeon and Elizabeth Von Hassell and his wife, Claudia, the children, 6 years and up, were first tested as to their swimming abilities, then taught quick survival skills the first week.

The full program was launched the next week with kickball, soft ball, soccer and a session at Kiddie Land in the park from 9-10:30 a.m. and swimming until noon. Arts and crafts were alternated on Tuesday and Thursday.

The Arts and Crafts class made murals for July 4 and the Big Spring Rodeo. A contest was held for the July 4 murals, with Michael Lang the overall winner with his picture of Big Spring which shows the Settles Hotel, a nearby used car lot with a "Going Out of Business" sign, minute people, and cars with headlights shining, store fronts and other minute details.

Michael is 11 and lives with his grandmother, Mrs. Sally Mae Lang, 1002 N. Main, Apt. 42. Asked what he liked best about the program, Michael said, "Swimming and playing games." He attends the program through Jack and Jill School.

Junior Garcia won first place from Westside Community Center. Roddy Oaks won first place from The Playhouse and Tracie Wilkerson won first from Jack and Jill.

Eli Stovall won first place in the 6-8 year group from Jack and Jill School. Theresa Ann Ray won first place from regular YMCA membership. Children from the YMCA can choose to attend the park program if they wish.

Seven out of eight children interviewed like swimming best in the program. Heretha Hankins, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jackson, of 1500 Wood, like crafts most. She had made clay necklaces, bead necklaces, and eyes of God out of popsicle sticks and yarn.

James Westmoreland, 9, son of Charlotte Westmoreland, 1905 Wasson Rd., a regular YMCA member, liked football, softball, soccer, baseball and volley ball in addition to his favorite, swimming.

Weldon, 7, and Valerie Akin, 5, children of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Akin, 1306 Colby, from The Playhouse, liked swimming.

Jo Ann Wagner, 13, daughter of Janice Lancaster, won second in the July 4 drawing contest. Jo Ann is a Jack and Jill student who likes swimming and diving.

Renee and Robin York, 6 and 10 respectively, 4211 Hamilton, like swimming and games best. Mr. and Mrs. Ronald York are their parents. Renee and Robin made flags, necklaces and God's eyes in the arts and crafts program. Another brother, Bobby, likes baseball best.

Lee Ann Spears, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Spears, likes swimming best. Lee Ann is a Jack and Jill student.

The Lakeview YMCA on the north-side of Big Spring brings 12 children and youth, ages 9-16, to swim in the city pool every day.

In addition, 20-25 children from Westside Day Care Center in the four and five-year-old range, participate on Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 10:45. The toddlers come on Tuesday, supervised by their teachers, Nellie Robles, Susan Weaver and Alma Guevara. These youngsters play at Kiddie Land Park, swim in the Kiddie pool and make trips to Scenic Mountain and Prairie Dog Town where they feed the dogs carrots, vegetables and whatever they have.

Another group of three to five year-olds are from Jack and Jill School. About 50 children come to the program each day, supervised by teachers Susan Wood, Lynn Crawford, Carla Bates, Elizabeth Mason, Doris Briley and Mandy Hitt. About 25-30 children from Jack and Jill attend in the 6-12 year group. Susan Styles is the Jack and Jill Summer Program Director.

An average of 20 youngsters attend who are not affiliated with a school.

The YMCA program from Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m.-2 p.m., includes swim lessons, gymnastics, gym games, arts and crafts, inside and outside games, music, free swim time and We Can (educational classes) with two special events a week. Ages served are from 3 years to 15 years, with three to five year olds participating in swimming only.

One of the special events each week is a movie. Other events included having a policeman talk to the children and show them a patrol car. Another was a ride and a "lift" on the fire truck, "Big Green Gus," which has the high lift. Kelly Draper, who makes his own puppets, put on a puppet show. Other events were a tour of the YMCA, a free swim and a trip to Comanche Trail Park.

Peggy Shopel heads the aquatic program assisted by instructors Ellen Karwedsky, Morgan Wise, Mark Webb and Darleen Thomas. Most of them are Water Safety Instructors and have their life saving certificates. Swimmers include the TADPOLE: Pre-school ages 3 to 5, POLLWOG: absolute beginner who is 6, MINNOW: advanced beginner, can demonstrate some swimming and is reasonably comfortable in the water, FISH: can swim front crawl stroke with rotary breathing, and the breast stroke, SHARK, PORPOISE: can demonstrate individual medley. A swim test was given the first day of each session.

Nadine Teague and Eugene Boadle lead up the gym program assisted by gymnastic students from the advanced class. The class learns tumbling, how to work out on the beam and the parallel bars and uses the mini trampoline. Mark Webb and Nadine Teague direct the music program which includes writing music, music theory, listening to and identifying the sounds of musical instruments on recordings and writing poetry and prose. Maggie Gonzales directs the Arts and Crafts program where the students paint with water colors, draw, lace, make necklaces of clay and beads, make seed pictures and Chinese lanterns.

Eugene Boadle directs indoor and outdoor games. The indoor games include floor hockey, dodge ball and races. Outdoor games are kickball, football, soccer and frisbie among others.

The "We Can" classes consisted of things the children want to learn such as karate, judo, how to deal with handicapped children, plus some films, and discussions on dinosaurs, nutrition and reading.

At the YMCA outdoor games Tuesday directed by Eugene Boadle, 17, the following children commented: "I like swimming best, then gym," said Joann Rodriguez, 11, daughter of Connie Rodriguez. "The policemen taught us safety about guns and other things," she continued.

Liron Caplan, son of Dr. and Mrs. Brian Caplan, said he likes gym, swimming and arts and crafts, declaring that he draws all the time. When asked about his charming accent he said, "I am from South Africa." Brian also takes piano lessons from Mrs. Cheatham.

Cindy Howe, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Howe, said, "I like swimming, gym, music and arts and crafts. I like to sing and learn in music, and to draw to the sound of music." Asked what she had made in crafts she replied, "Chinese lanterns." After the interview was over she asked, "Could you mention my grandmother? She is Loretta Barnes and she lives in Sulphur, Okla. and teaches the Bible to older people."

A newcomer to Big Spring, James McMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lane McMillan, likes swimming, gym and drawing pictures. James and his family moved from Snyder two weeks ago.

Julie Hallford, 6, daughter of Sandra Hallford, 3706 Boulder, likes swimming in the minnow class and lunch.

Laura Ramirez, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ramirez, likes the free swim after 2 p.m. and jumping off the diving board.

Scott Hensley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hensley, learned that the police have bars up in the patrol car to keep the robbers from "getting" them. Scott's mother, Charlotte, works at the "Y."

The participants of the Comanche Trail Park Recreation Program were making God's eyes of crossed sticks tied together and interwoven with bright colored yarn Tuesday in the Pavilion just preceding the rain.

Joshua Free, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dusty Free, 2002 S. Monticello, was making a red and blue God's eye. Asked what he liked about the program, he replied, "I like it 'cause you can do fun things."

Tommy Chako, 8, a Jack and Jill student, was making a red, yellow and blue God's eye. He said, "This is the second time I'll be in the paper." His sister, Sue, was too shy to talk.

Terry Lee Koenning, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Neill, said he liked singing best.

Michelle New, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy New, said she liked swimming best.

Nicole Bash, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bash, 709 W. 17, likes arts and crafts best. She has made necklaces, flags, God's eyes and mobiles.

The summer program were carried out without any serious injuries for which directors, instructors, aides and parents are grateful.

Many hours were spent by the children of Big Spring in healthful and constructive ways under the direction of qualified directors, instructors and aides.

Baptist Church setting of candlelight ceremony

The Birdwell Lane Baptist Church was the setting for the candlelight wedding ceremony Friday evening uniting Angela Elizabeth Loftis and Gary Lee Cole.

The Rev. Jack Collier, pastor, performed the 7:30 p.m. rite before an archway adorned with blue carnations. Flanking either side of the arch were baskets of blue carnations and white gladiolus. Two seven-branch candelabums and palm leaves enhanced the altar scene.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Loftis, 1707 Aylford. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maxie J. Cole, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Performing the wedding selections were Mrs. Jack Collier, organist; Dianne Cole, pianist; and Mr. and Mrs. Nile Cole, vocalists.

The bride was presented down the aisle wearing a traditional-style gown of bridal satin overlaid with white organza. The bodice featured a circular neckline overlaid with Alencon lace and full Bishop sleeves. The cathedral-length veil fell from a pearl-embellished Juliet cap. The entire bridal ensemble was designed by the bride and made by her mother. A gold cross necklace belonging to the bride's mother accentuated her attire.

She carried a cascading bouquet of silk flowers including blue carnations, white roses and baby's breath. Blue streamers tied the arrangement.

Teresa Burroughs attended as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Janet Hull. Both wore identical baby blue floor-length gowns of quiana. Blue picture hats and nosegays of blue carnations sprinkled with baby's breath complimented their attire.

Serving his son as best man was the groom's father. Groomsman was SSGT. Darl D. Loftis, Abilene, brother of the bride. Ushers were Bill Loftis, brother of the bride; Earl Lane, Snyder, uncle of the groom; Scotty Riddle, Sand Springs; and D. W. Day, Forsan.

Charity Loftis, Abilene.

MRS. GARY LEE COLE

niece of the bride, served as flower girl wearing a light blue dotted Swiss dress. Ring bearer was the groom's cousin, Bryan Bird of Roscoe.

The church fellowship hall was the setting for a reception held in honor of the newlyweds immediately following the rite. Tammy Cole, sister of the groom, registered guests.

Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. D. W. Day, Forsan; Mrs. Bill Loftis, sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Bill Longcrier, aunt of the bride Selma, Ala.; and Mrs. D. D. Austin, sister of the bride, Burlington, N.J.

The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with the traditional bride and groom figurines. A candelabrum accentuated the setting.

The groom's table was draped with white linen, lace-trimmed cloth and enhanced by a blue candle and flower ring. Mrs. Garner Thixton and Mrs. Rip Lewis served a chocolate-covered horseshoe cake to those attending.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Ellen Austin, Burlington, M.J.; Mrs. Lola Longcrier, Selma, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Maxie Cole, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Corinne Nilsen, Brindisi, Italy; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Loftis, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lane, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Lane, all of Snyder; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bird, Roscoe; Mrs. Sylvius McDowell, Leesville, La.; and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gilbert, Harrah, Okla.

The bride is a 1979 graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed at the Howard County Library. The groom graduated from Big Spring High School in 1979 and works for Day and Day-Builders of Forsan.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Fort Worth, the couple will reside in Big Spring.

Some Sizzles From Small Fry

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 14-year-old girl and have put down on paper what my friends (boys, too) think are some good "Do's and Don'ts for Parents." If you think they are worth printing, a lot of teenagers will thank you.

LOYAL FAN

DEAR FAN: Your "Do's and Don'ts for Parents" are well worth the space in my column. Here they are:

Don't ever search your kid's room while he is at school, work, etc.

Don't choose their friends for them.

Don't read their diary or personal letters, etc.

Don't give your child's things to another child without checking with the owner first.

If you're divorced, don't ask your child why they love the other parent, or try to talk him out of loving the other one.

Don't ever tell your kid that if he's not satisfied with the situation at home he can pack his bags and go.

If your child is adopted, don't tell him that, if he doesn't behave, you will send him back.

Don't always make them bring a "tag-along" (younger brother or sister) wherever they go.

Don't embarrass them by putting them down in public or in front of friends.

Don't keep telling them how hard things were when you were a kid.

Don't call them names. That really hurts a kid.

Don't yell at a smaller kid, or hit him because he dropped, spilled or broke something. Nine times out of 10 it was an accident and he's already sorry for doing it.

If you are having an argument, let your kid talk, too. DO tell them you are sorry, or that you make a mistake once in a while. (Nobody's perfect. Not even parents.)

DO hug your kid and tell him in words that you love him.

DEAR ABBY: I took your advice and went to a psychiatrist. Let me tell you what happened.

The psychiatrist has more problems than I have. In three visits I knew all about his lousy marriage, his rotten kids and his childhood hangups.

I thought a psychiatrist was supposed to let the patient talk, but all mine did was talk about himself. I tried to tell him about my sleepless nights, my feelings of loneliness and frequent depressions, but he always turned the conversation back to himself.

When it comes time for me to leave, I'm so frustrated I can hardly wait to get out of his office.

I told my husband all of the above and he said maybe that was the doctor's way of making me feel that my problems weren't so heavy after all.

Is this the way psychiatrists operate? Or did I pick a lemon? How many more sessions do you think I should have to give him a fair chance to help me with my problems? He charges $40 for 50 minutes.

BEWILDERED IN BRENTWOOD

DEAR BEWILDERED: It appears that your psychiatrist needs a psychiatrist. Inform him at your next session that you have decided to see another therapist. Tell him why, and encourage him to seek help from a colleague. If you need help in selecting another therapist, consult your county medical society, your family doctor or your local mental health association. Do not continue with a therapist you're not comfortable with.

MRS. DOUGLASS CARLISLE ROBISON

Saturday afternoon rite solemnized in Abilene

The University Church of Christ, Abilene, was the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Angela Kay Alderton and Douglass Carlisle Robison.

Jodie Boren, minister of Tuscola Church of Christ, officiated at the 2:30 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Alderton Sr., Abilene. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Robison, Richardson.

The bridal chorus, directed by Kenneth Roach, Abilene, included Mrs. Anita Roach, Mrs. Glenna George, Kathy George, Mrs. Joan Boyd, Stephen Bertz and Jonathan Male, all of Abilene.

The bride chose to wear a gown of white chiffon and Venice lace designed by Milady. The moulded bodice featured a wedding band neckline with a sheer yoke and Venice lace and pearl-beaded collar. The yoke also featured a schiffli embroidered design in the center front. Double-layered chiffon sleeves drifted gracefully over the arms to form a capelet in the center back. A row of Venice lace edged the capelet. The bodice was embellished with lace and sprinkled delicately with tiny seed pearls. The empire waistline swept to form a full chapel-length chiffon train.

To complete her ensemble, the bride wore a matching silk illusion veil caught to a lace covered mantilla headpiece. The veil was sprinkled with Venice lace and drifted gracefully to walking length.

Mrs. Cindy Alderton, Lubbock, served her sister-in-law as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Jana Keele and Chris Davis, Big Spring, and Michelle Robison, Richardson, sister of the groom.

The groom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Texas Tech University where he received his B.B.A. degree in May, 1979. He will enter Texas Tech University law school in August.

Nat Hart, Big Spring, served as best man. Groomsman were Dan Robison, Richardson, brother of the groom; Ron Alderton, Lubbock, brother of the bride and Jim Bob Carpenter, Austin.

Craig Foster, Odessa, cousin of the groom, seated the guests.

A reception honoring the couple immediately followed the ceremony at the Abilene Country Club. Serving at the reception were Susie Smolko and Teri Alexander, Lubbock; Judy McMackin, Austin and Mrs. Tamara Longerot, Alvin. Mrs. Brenda Hester, Lubbock, attended the registry.

The rehearsal dinner, given by the parents of the bridegroom, was held Friday at the Westwood Club in Abilene.

The bride graduated from Big Spring High School and is attending Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

The groom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Texas Tech University where he received his B.B.A. degree in May, 1979. He will enter Texas Tech University law school in August.

Amber Jones becomes Mrs. Clifton Grigg

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Glen Grigg are on a trip to Palo Duro Canyon following their Friday evening wedding in the Trinity Baptist Church.

The bride, the former Amber Maree Jones, is the daughter of Ramona Carter and Edward Eugene Jones, both of Big Spring. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grigg, Ackerly.

Performing the 8 p.m., double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Claude Cravens. The sanctuary featured an archway entwined with greenery and accentuated with white carnations. Branched candelabums holding white tapers as well as baskets of white carnations completed the altar scene.

Wedding music was provided by Lila Adkins, organist; and Darla Swindell, vocalist.

The bride was presented down the aisle wearing a gown of white organza. The bodice featured sheer Bishop sleeves ending in wide lace cuffs. Her A-line skirt formed a chapel-length train. A fingertip-length veil of illusion trimmed with lace and attached to a crown of white lace, completed her bridal ensemble.

She carried a cascading bouquet of yellow rosebuds, blue forget-me-nots and white mums atop a white Bible.

Serving as matron of honor was the bride's sister, Noma Davis. Bridesmaids were Vickie Daughtery, Big Spring and Helen Jones, Abilene, sister-in-law of the bride.

Sam McDonald, Ackerly, attended the groom as best man. Groomsman were Robert Howell, Big Spring and Barthell Jones, brother of the bride, Abilene. Guests were seated by Chuck Stephens and Shawn Stephens, both nephews of the bride.

MRS. CLIFTON GLEN GRIGG

Eddie Stephens, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Immediately following the rite, Mr. and Mrs. Grigg were feted with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

Servers included Marie Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Don Yates and Thelma Montgomery. The reception table featured a three-tiered wedding cake topped with the traditional bride and groom figurines.

The bride is a 1975 graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed as an LVN at the Big Spring State Hospital.

The groom graduated from Sands High School, Ackerly, in 1975. He is employed by EMT-Shaffer Ambulance Service.

The couple will reside in Big Spring.

McCutcheons feted on 25th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McCutcheon will be honored today in the reception hall of St. Mary's Episcopal Church from 2:30 to 5 p.m. in recognition of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The couple's children and Mrs. McCutcheon's mother, Esther Coe, are hosting the event and invite family and friends to share in the celebration.

Mr. McCutcheon attended school in Artesia, N.M. The couple met in Carlsbad, N.M. where Mrs. McCutcheon, the former June Stansell, was attending school. She received her nurses training in Tulsa, Okla.

The couple were married Aug. 8, 1954 in Ruidoso, N.M. Moving to Artesia, N.M., McCutcheon worked for Leonard Nichols Oil Company and became a foreman for Standard Oil Company.

In 1971, the McCutcheons were transferred to the Big Spring Branch of Standard Oil. McCutcheon now owns and operates McCutcheon Oil Company.

They have four children, including Mrs. Cheryl Bagnall of Mesquite; Ray McCutcheon, Lubbock; and David and Mary McCutcheon, Big Spring.

They also have one grandchild, Chris Bagnall, Mesquite.

In addition to their home in Big Spring, Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon also own a home and ranch in the Ruidoso Valley.

MRS. JAMES OWEN MILAM

Dianna Lynn Jones weds James Milam

Dianna Lynn Jones and James Owen Milam were united in marriage the evening of July 30 at the College Park Church of God.

The Rev. Rick W. Jones, brother of the bride, read the ceremony as the couple stood before an archway entwined with white daisies and greenery and sprinkled with baby's breath. Flanking either side of the setting were two large arrangements of mixed spring flowers.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Loftis, Sand Springs. The groom is the son of James Milam Sr. and Mrs. Jean Wanderer.

Carolyn Grimsley, pianist, accompanied Sherre Jones, sister-in-law of the bride, on the musical selections for the ceremony.

The bride chose to wear a white bridal gown featuring a bodice of re-embroidered lace, embellished with seed pearls. A white chiffon over taffeta skirt fell gracefully from the princess-style waistline which featured lace-embroidered and pearl-adorned fitted sleeves to the waist. She wore a crown of embroidered lace with pearls which held her two-tiered veil.

A cascading bouquet of blue, yellow and white daisies sprinkled with baby's breath was carried by the bride as she was presented down the aisle.

Serving as matron of honor

Couple will make home in Kansas

The wedding vows between Isabelita D. Veloso and Delfin C. Panelo were solemnized July 29 at a ceremony held at Cosden Lake.

Performing the 7 p.m. rite was Steve Marshall, Bishop of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Alfredo L. Veloso, Sampaloc, Manila, Philippines and Mr. and Mrs. Juanito T. Panelo, Yuba City, Calif.

Providing the wedding selections were pianist, Margie Menges and vocalist Joy Horn.

The bride chose to wear a gown of peau de soie fashioned in Georgette style. The fitted, empire bodice featured full Bishop sleeves embellished with Chantilly lace. Chantilly lace also adorned the sheer yoke. Falling gracefully from the A-line skirt was a chapel-length train. Her tulle veil of illusion, which fell to chapel-length from a Venice lace-adorned headpiece, completed her bridal ensemble.

She carried five long-stemmed yellow roses.

Serving as bridesmaid was Gladys Pascua. Best man was James Norman Bowen. Angela McMullen and Raymond Mudlong served as flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Immediately following the ceremony, the newlyweds were feted with a reception in the Blue Room of the Dora Roberts Community Center.

The bride is a graduate of Philippine Christian University and the Mary Johnston College of Nursing with a Bachelor's degree in nursing. She was formerly employed at Malone-Hogan Hospital as a registered nurse.

The groom graduated from high school in San Fernando, La Union Philippines and has received one year of college education as a medical technologist. He is presently in the United States Army.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will make their home at Fort Rilev, Kan.

HOME CEREMONY PLANNED — Mr. and Mrs. George C. Sloan, Rt. 1 Box 274, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Martha, to Mike Pitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Pitts, 614 Bucknell. The ceremony is planned for Sept. 15 in the home of the bride-elects parents and will be performed by Phillip Burcham, minister of the Knott Church of Christ.

MRS. DELFIN PANELO

Mrs. Beckom to preside another term

The Big Spring Newcomer's Hand Craft Club met at the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Building Wednesday. The members present unanimously voted to have the officers reelected.

Mrs. Mildred Beckom will preside for another term with her co-workers Mrs. Wilma Grice, vice president, Mrs. Suncha Christensen, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Lou Hill, chairman of the telephone committee and Mrs. Macy Schwartz, chairwoman of the project committee.

Next meeting will be held at the Reddy Room of the Texas Electric Service Building, Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. Beckom and Mrs. Christensen will act as co-hostesses.

Decoupage is the project selected for this meeting. Members are requested to bring a wooden plaque and the picture to be decoupage. For better results, the plaque should be well sanded before applying the background color.

The second meeting of the month will be Aug. 22. Members will be informed by phone as to place and project.

After the business affairs were discussed, the members worked on the project of the day — Inking on Glass. Flowers, wind mills, pastoral scenes and trees were some of the designs used.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Mildred Beckom.

Gloria Guevara marries Marshall Echevarria Jr.

The Sacred Heart Catholic Church was the setting for the wedding ceremony uniting Gloria Guevara and Marshall Echevarria Jr.

Father James Delaney performed the Saturday morning ceremony before an altar featuring an archway decorated with light blue carnations and white gladiolus. Flanking either side of the scene were two arrangements of light blue carnations and white gladiolus.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Guevara, 1319 Mesquite. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Echevarria Sr., Amarillo.

Eva Rodriguez, organist, provided wedding music as the bride was presented down the aisle wearing a formal-length gown of white quiana, fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline. Venice lace embellished the bodice which featured an empire waistline, highlighted with matching lace. The full Bishop sleeves were designed with point D'Espirt cuffs and insets edged with Venice lace. The A-line skirt flowed to the chapel-length train. She wore a headpiece adorned with Venice lace and seed pearls which held her two-tiered, scalloped veil of illusion edged with lace motifs.

A cascading bouquet of light blue and white carnations accented her bridal attire.

Attending the bride were Elva Garcia, maid of honor, Canyon; and Mrs. Tito Trevino, matron of honor.

Bridesmaids included Mrs. Abel Echevarria, Hereford; Mrs. Allen West, sister of the groom, Canyon; Alma Guevara, Stanton; Agnes Aragon, Canyon; Jean Langkiet, Diana Guevara and Diana Ovalle.

They wore gowns of blue quiana fashioned with A-line skirts edged with ruffles from front to back. Each carried a light blue carnation tied with white and light blue streamers.

Mary Ann Guevara, sister of the bride and Christina Del Bosque, served as cushion maids.

MRS. MARSHALL ECHEVARRIA JR.

Attending the groom as best man was Eddie Echevarria, Hereford.

Groomsmen included Abel Echevarria, Hereford; Allen West, Canyon; Rey Villa, Stanton; Ernest Echevarria and Roy Echevarria, both brothers of the groom, Amarillo; Juan Guevara, brother of the bride; and Bob Paredez.

Guests were seated by Ricky Trevino and Ronnie Echevarria, Hereford.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Echevarria were honored with a reception and dinner at the church youth center. Guests were registered by Dubelsa Allamirao. The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and West Texas State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in social work. She is employed by the Texas Department of Human Resources in Hereford.

The groom graduated from Littlefield High School in Littlefield. He is employed as safety and security coordinator with Owens-Corning Fiberglass in Amarillo.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to San Antonio, Corpus Christi and Padre Island, Mr. and Mrs. Echevarria will reside in Canyon.

TWEEN 12 and 20

18-year-old should set own curfew if . . .

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm an 18-year-old girl who is a college freshman but I live at home. I'm also engaged to be married in two years.

My problem is that my parents say I can only date my fiancé on Friday and Saturday nights and that I must be home at midnight — no exceptions. If I'm late coming home, I'm grounded.

I'm a good student and a very level-headed and trustworthy daughter.

What do you think about my situation? — Dolly, San Mateo, Calif.

Dolly: I know many adults will argue with me, but I think that you should be able to set your own curfew until such time that your grades are affected or you totally disrupt your family's lifestyle.

You are old enough to make this decision.

Teens: Summer is here and you have just landed the job you wanted.

And naturally you'd like to put your best foot forward right from the start. If you're a little apprehensive about making a good first impression, you might profit from the following tips.

— Don't charge in as if you have your eye on the boss's job (even if you really do). Give yourself time to learn the job.

— Ask questions. Most people will appreciate your interest. Don't, however, be inquisitive about personal matters — whether someone is married, or if the mailgirl or boy is really a fox. You'll give the impression that you'd rather gossip than work.

— Dress appropriately. Watch that your wardrobe is in keeping with the appropriate style.

Garden City ranch is evening ceremony site

Rebecca Reynolds became the bride of Rex Cotten in a Saturday-afternoon, candlelight ceremony performed at the Reynolds Ranch in Garden City.

The Rev. Tim Winn officiated the 12:30 p.m. rite as the couple stood before a fireplace of Austin Stone, banked by Woodwardian Fern dressed with candelabras and mixed fuchsia colored flowers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Reynolds, Garden City. The groom is the son of Mrs. Lloyd Cotten, Lamesa.

The bride chose to wear a designer gown of imported silk. The front V-neckline, accented by inverted pleats, extended vertically from the shoulders, repeating across the back. Her ensemble featured three-quarter-length, push-up sleeves and a cummerbund fastened with tiny self-covered buttons. A tulip hemline finished the skirt.

She carried a pair of Madonna lilies along with a Bible given to her by her maternal grandmother.

Attending as matron of honor was the bride's cousin, Mrs. Michael Hoch of Garden City. Best man was David Bessire, O'Donnell.

Kristi Reynolds, Marfa, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She carried a basket of white wicker holding pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath, tied in fuchsia velvet ribbon.

Ring bearer was Rachel Reynolds, Marfa, niece of the bride. She carried a pillow covered in material matching the bride's dress, trimmed in lace from two generations and buttons of the bride's maternal great-grandmother.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the couple's honor at the ranch. The table was accented with an arrangement of mixed flowers in the bride's chosen colors. Mrs. Ritchie Reynolds, sister-in-law of the bride, served the three-tiered, traditional cake adorned with fresh flowers. Also serving was Mrs. Jerry Cotten, sister-in-law of the groom. Crystal appointments were used.

The bride graduated from Texas Tech University with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in interior design. She is employed by Frank Welch Associates, Architects and Planners and she is an associate member of American Society of Interior Designers and a member of the Texas State Architects Committee on Interior Architecture.

The groom is a University of Texas at Austin graduate with a Bachelor of Business Administration in Accounting degree. He is employed by the First National Bank of Abilene as vice president and investment officer.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Pinehurst, N.C., the newlyweds will make their home in Abilene.

Wedding vows spoken in Presbyterian rite

Mary Elizabeth Bexten became the bride of Dalon Keith Burchell July 29 at the Northwood Presbyterian Church, San Antonio. The Rev. Keith Huggins performed the 8 p.m. ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wendell Bexten, San Antonio; and Mr. and Mrs. Landon Dale Burchell, No. 3 Glenwick Cove, Big Spring.

Wedding music was provided by organist Henry Washington and vocalist Ron Dixon.

The bride chose to wear a gown of candlelight satin embellished with lace. Seeded bridal pearls trimmed the empire bodice. A fingertip-length veil of French illusion, which fell from her lace and pearl-adorned cap, completed her bridal ensemble.

Serving her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Patrick Stephen Niedorf, San Antonio. Bridesmaid was Vickie Burchell, sister of the groom.

Serving as best man was Rusty Word of Austin. Groomsman was Bennett Robb. Guests were seated by Pat Niedorf, Bob Shaffer, Mark Mayad and Jimmy Stewart.

Immediately following the ceremony, the newlyweds were feted with a reception in the Hacienda Room at Los Patios in San Antonio.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin with a Bachelor of Science degree in advertising. She is employed as a business-copywriter at Atkins and Associates Advertising Agency in San Antonio.

The groom graduated from Southwest Texas State
