'The schedule is indefinite'

Cabot firm will close local plant

The Cabot Corporation of Big Spring will close, announced Michael Atchete, plant manager, Tuesday afternoon.

"We have made the announcement at this time to allow employees to find other employment or consider their retirement," he said. "The schedule is indefinite. We don't know how long it will be until the plant closes," he added.

The manager said that one of the four carbon black-producing units at the plant which was closed last month will remain closed, and that a three-unit operation will continue through November.

"At that time, we will begin to phase out those three. We will carry out inventory and start salvaging materials," said Atchete.

He was given the news of the plant's closure at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday. The decision was made by Corporation President Bob Charpie in Boston, Mass., and officials were sent to Big Spring to relay the message.

Although 17 Cabot employees have been laid off within the last two weeks, no more layoffs are expected until the final closure, said Atchete. A total of 94 employees remain on the company payroll.

Cabot has produced carbon black in Big Spring since 1950. At its highest point, the company's annual payroll totalled nearly $2 million.

Expanding technology is one of the major reasons for the closure of the plant here, said Atchete. "Our Gulf Coast plants have expanded over the past five years, and they are lower-cost producers. We are using 1960-technology equipment here that produces a lower yield, and a lower profit margin," explained the plant manager.

Cabot is also the victim of the fuel shortage of recent months, said Atchete. Among the company's major customers are the tire companies, which are directly influenced by the gas crunch.

"With people driving less, auto production and auto sales are down between 25 and 26 percent. That means that tire production is also down," he explained. "The American auto companies are getting a lot of competition from the foreign auto makers, and those cars come into this country with tires already on them," he added.

Mayor calls for community-wide effort to attract new industry

The closure of Cabot Corporation will have a great impact on the community, requiring a concerted cooperative effort to find new industry, said Mayor Wade Choate at a press conference Tuesday afternoon.

Also present at the conference were Councilman John Massey, City Manager Don Davis, Industrial Committee Chairman Jack Redding and Industrial Prospector Clyde McMahon.

"We can't exaggerate the seriousness of this closure to the community. With a payroll of $2 million and a work force of over 100 people, the closure will equal about a third of the impact we felt when Webb (AFB) shut down," said the mayor.

Having given these grim tidings, Choate called for a community-wide effort in attracting industry to the city. "The community needs to work shoulder-to-shoulder to attract industrial prospects. This has to be a team effort," he said.

Councilman Massey echoed Choate's plea, saying that the city council would work "as a unified group in a cooperative effort."

Mentioned specifically by the mayor was the Vought Corporation, a subsidiary of LTV Corporation of Dallas, which is being courted by Big Spring's Industrial Team.

"This is a fine company with a potential work force of between 400 and 800 employees. It will take some give and take on our part to get Vought to move here," he said. "If we are successful, maybe we can keep some of the people (from Cabot Corporation) in Big Spring," he added.

10-percent across-the-board increase in taxes approved

COAHOMA — The net result in the adjustment in the tax rate and the assessment ratio will be a 10 percent across-the-board increase in taxes for property owners in the Coahoma Independent School District.

It was first reported that changes in the state law governing taxes would force an increase of 29 percent in the Coahoma rate.

A large group of interested taxpayers showed up at the Tuesday night meeting to learn of the ultimate decision.

Harold Aberegg, school board president, lauded the spirit of cooperation and sympathy expressed by the gathering for the problems the school board has in living with the new regulations and the rising costs felt by the school district.

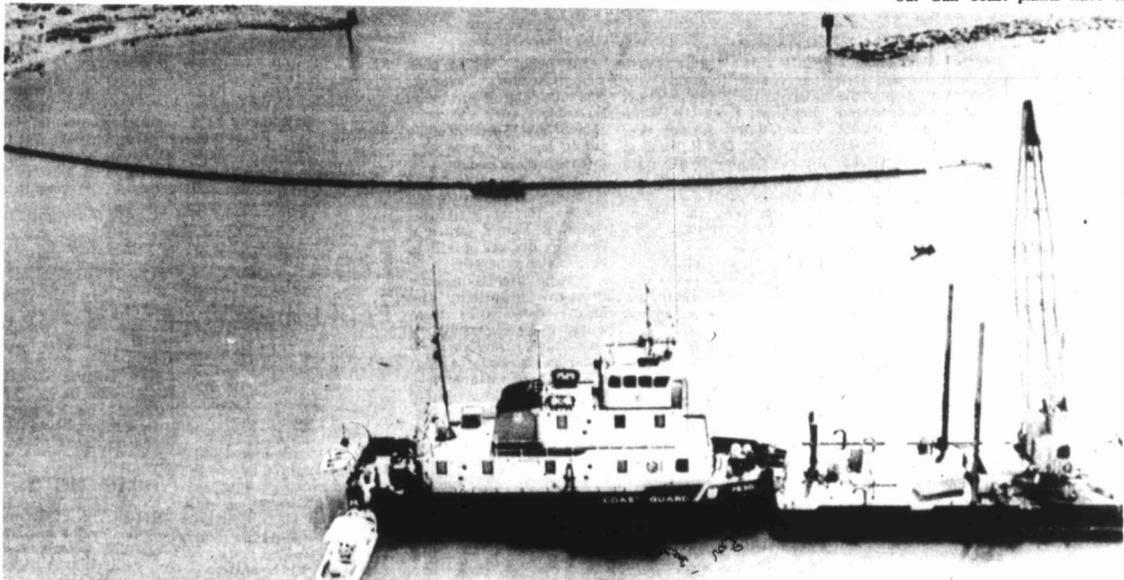

"There is no way we can say enough about how well the people conducted themselves during the meeting," Aberegg said. "We appreciate the presence of everyone who was able to attend and are grateful for the interest they showed."

The new tax rate will be $1.46 per $100 evaluation, based on 75 percent assessment. The old rate was $1.65 based on 60 percent assessment.

The vote to change the tax rate and the assessment percentage was unanimous. Other members of the board present were Don Myers, board vice-president; Clovis Phillips Jr., secretary; Donnie Reid, Stanley Phillips, Kirby Brown and Wayne Davis.

"I think the harmony within the school district was ever better than it is now," Aberegg said. "Speaking for the school board, we intend to keep the patrons of the schools informed of everything we do."

One-day service is not promised

The Herald doesn't promise one-day service on its 'people ads' but many who buy ad space get that kind of results.

A landlord called recently to place the following ad in the paper:

"Redecorated two bedrooms, carport, near Industrial Park. Plus one bedroom house in rear."

The subscriber called the next day to have the ad stopped. He said he had rented the place not long after the newspaper hit the streets.

For quick results, call 263-7331.

Sophisticated equipment used to scour tar-stained beaches

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) — Vacationers surfed, swam and basked in the warm South Padre Island sunshine apparently undisturbed by a Coast Guard counter-attack against the lead edge of an invading Mexican oil spill.

Coast Guardsmen employed a sophisticated array of equipment Tuesday to scour South Texas beaches soiled by tarry globs of crude that apparently came from a blown-out Mexican well spewing approximately 20,000 barrels of oil a day into the Bay of Campeche.

Stiff winds that propelled the massive Mexican oil slick on its northern course diminished Tuesday, stalling the advance of the runaway crude that government scientist said possibly could damage hundreds of miles of sensitive coastline from Texas to Florida.

Environmental Protection Agency spokesman Roger Meacham said it is a "distinct possibility" that the Mexican oil could reach the entire Gulf coastline.

However, Meacham added that there is "no way in the world anybody could say that for sure.... It would be like predicting the weather three months from now. There are too many unknowns."

After touring a section of the stricken area Tuesday, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said he assumes Gov. Bill Clements will seriously consider declaring it a disaster area.

"Chances are very good that long-term ecological damage can be avoided. But we are going to see some very dirty beaches. It will look terrible, but they can be cleaned up without lasting damage... but it will take a lot of effort and a lot of money," said Hobby.

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration spokesman Carl Posey said the white sands of Padre Island had been only "lightly oiled" by tar balls that floated in on the surf. And that the heaviest concentrations of the thick globs of crude were found near the Port Mansfield cut.

Neither the oil or the cleanup operations appeared to worry vacationers who packed the island's resort hotels.

Tourist swam, surfed and sunned themselves less than 50 feet from where a beach cleanup crew had turned its attention to freeing a large vacuum truck that had bogged down in the soft sand.

The morning tide left a dotted line of oily residue on a park beach at the northern edge of the island. But some visitors there contended it was not as bad as they had seen it in the past.

"We don't have a serious problem here," said Ralph Thompson, the executive vice president of the island's tourist bureau.

"When we have a major problem here I'll be the first to tell you. We don't want people coming down here and being disappointed," he said.

Volunteers planned to check early today on an overdue burse of 87 Ridley turtles. The eggs, buried 18 inches below the Padre Island sand, were expected to hatch several days ago.

Carl Jorgensen, a retired mailman who is watching the isolated strip of beach where the eggs are buried, said he doubts the oil spill has anything to do with the delay in the hatching of the endangered turtles. He said a higher-than-usual tide caused by a recent tropical storm may be to blame.

But he said oil on beaches could be a big problem when the baby turtles follow their instinct and scamper toward the water.

U.S. Congressional delegation arrives in Vietnam for talks

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Nine U.S. congressmen investigating the plight of Indochinese refugees in Southeast Asia flew to Hanoi today after the Vietnamese government lifted a ban on the visit.

The Vietnamese on Monday withdrew their invitation to the group because one of its members, Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., accused the Hanoi regime of human rights violations on a colossal scale. Then the Vietnamese Embassy in Bangkok announced on Tuesday that the entire group including Drinan would be welcome after all.

A Vietnamese spokesman said the ban was lifted after a "proposal" from Secretary of State Cyrus Vance. Details of Vance's proposal were not available.

Drinan, a Roman Catholic priest who was one of the leading early opponents of U.S. participation in the Vietnam War, said last weekend that "Vietnam is engaged in one of the most fundamental violations of human rights that we have seen in this century."

He did not soften his criticism after Hanoi accused him of slander and withdrew the invitation.

"The whole world knows there are 400,000 Vietnamese people who are in detention camps, who are refugees, who are boat people. The conscience of the world has been shocked," he said on Tuesday.

The congressional group, which is headed by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., went to Vietnam after visits to refugee camps and meetings with officials in Hong Kong, Thailand, Indonesia and Malaysia.

They took off at noon after an early-morning trip to the refugee camp on Bidong Island, off the northeast coast of Malaysia, where about 37,000 Vietnamese are crammed into an area of 1.2 square miles.

The four countries they have visited are giving refuge they hope is temporary to an estimated 400,000 Vietnamese, ethnic Chinese, Cambodians and Laotians who have fled from communist rule in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos. The four governments that are their unwilling hosts say they cannot keep them, either because their economies cannot absorb them or because they would disturb ethnic balances in their populations. They also say they can take no more because their meager and inadequate facilities to care for them are overtaxed.

Vietnam at an international conference on refugees in Geneva last month said it would do all it could to halt the exodus. This greatly pleased the other Southeast Asian governments whose concern for their own situations outweighs any concern they might have for other Asians subjected to the repression and persecution of the communist Indochinese governments. But some Westerners are beginning to have guilty feelings about their governments' acquiescence in a Vietnamese ban on emigration.

Action/reaction: Clock watcher

Q. Admittedly, I'm a clock watcher. I like to have some free time so I don't like to work overtime, something my boss asks me to do on occasion. Can he legally do that?

A. He can. There is no limit on the number of hours an employer can require an employee to work, as long as he is willing to pay time and a half for every hour over 40 in a week's time. So says the Department of Labor, Wage and Hour.

New medicine-energy doctors

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — American medical schools will soon turn out a new breed of doctors — energy specialists — to cope with oil shortages and growing use of nuclear power, the head of the American Medical Association predicts.

Dr. Hoyt Gardner said Tuesday the new branch of medicine should be flourishing in 10 years.

"We will have the circumstance of long-time nuclear plants (operating continuously for a lengthy period)," he said. "No one can say what the long-time hazards or benefits are."

Energy doctors also will deal with possible health hazards associated with manufacturing of equipment for solar energy collectors, Gardner said.

Oil shortages and resulting added inflation, he said, will affect push up medical cost like any other service.

But he compared the energy crisis to the United States space program, which led to aerospace medicine.

Aerospace techniques brought advanced technology to local hospitals in the forms of coronary care monitoring units and other sophisticated equipment, he said.

Despite his forecast of the growth in energy medicine, Gardner said such techniques will take time to perfect.

He dismissed as "at least premature" reports in London newspapers that the cancer deaths of John Wayne and other actors may be linked to atomic bomb fallout on a 1954 film location in Utah.

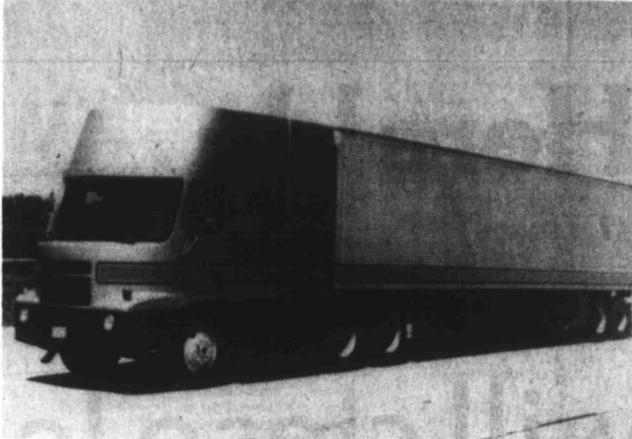

"It's so early to run around and make these allegations," he said. "To say that the exposure that Mr. Wayne and others had caused cancer is just not certifiable. It's easy to make accusations but it takes a lot of time."

The English newspapers reported Wayne and others associated with the film "The Conqueror" might have been exposed to high concentrations of fallout from a May 19, 1953, Nevada nuclear test.

The head of the 300,000-member association defended advanced medical technology against criticism it sometimes costs too much and is more sophisticated than most patients need.

"Everybody says that something has to be done about medical costs but everybody who's sick says they want everything possible done (to cure them)," he added.

"I don't understand how anyone can argue about cost effectiveness when you got people walking around alive and vigorous who would have been dead 10 years ago because no one would have known their problem," Gardner said.

Watergate aftermath

Was the operation a success?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "cancer on the presidency" that led to Richard M. Nixon's resignation five years ago still lingers, in the opinion of the four men who fate charged with removing it.

Leon Jaworski, the special prosecutor who persuaded a grand jury not to indict Nixon, says the aftermath of Watergate has lingered much longer than he expected, and he blames the ex-president for it.

"I'm not saying it's the sole reason," Jaworski said. "But I think Nixon's own conduct has kept it alive, the fact that he's emerged publicly at times and has not shown any particular repentance, no particular remorse. I think this has kept people agitated."

Nixon announced on Aug. 8, 1974, that he would resign the following day. For the anniversary of the first presidential resignation of an American president, four leading figures in the Watergate drama were interviewed: Jaworski, who went to the Supreme Court and tried loose the White House tapes; former Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., head of the Senate Watergate Committee; Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., who presided over the House Judiciary Committee that returned articles of impeachment, and John Sirica, the U.S. district judge who refused to let Watergate pass into history as a simple burglary.

All agreed that Watergate proved the country's institutions could stand a profound shock but that it also left painful scars.

"I think there is yet the after effect of Watergate," Rodino said. "There is yet lurking somewhere a question, suspicions, lack of faith, lack of confidence, lack of credibility in governing officials generally."

The public opinion polls support Rodino's conclusion. The latest Harris survey on the subject, early this year, showed only 15 percent of the public has any great confidence in the presidency.

Congress was little better with 18 percent, and Rodino blames former President Gerald R. Ford's pardon of Nixon for the lack of faith in government generally.

"People, after having gone through the ordeal and having shown they were willing to be supportive of responsibility and decency and those who would say that this is a government of laws and not of men, found instead the president of the United States, Ford, was issuing the pardon to a man who hadn't been found guilty of this terrible conduct," Rodino said.

Ervin, now retired from Congress, agreed that the Watergate cloud would have dissipated more if President Ford had not pardoned Nixon.

"I think the people felt like that was a very unwise and a premature act," Ervin said, "that he ought to have waited until a grand jury had indicted President Nixon and he had been tried and convicted before he granted a pardon."

"I think that made the American people doubt whether President Ford had sufficient wisdom to exercise the awesome powers that belong to the presidency," Ervin said.

Airline makes emergency landing in El Paso Airport

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A Continental Airlines jetliner made an emergency landing Tuesday night after the wheels on the left side would not come down, an airline spokesman said.

"The right side was working perfectly, the nose gear was working perfectly, but on one part of the left side the wheels didn't come down," said Continental spokesman Jack Gregory.

None of the 34 passengers aboard Flight 253 was hurt, Gregory said.

The flight originated in Houston and was bound for Tucson, Ariz., with stops in Midland-Odessa and El Paso, he said.

"He had a malfunction in his landing gear," Gregory said. "He had to go around a couple of times to see if he could correct it, and so he ended up making an emergency landing at the El Paso International Airport."

Gregory said the landing was "lopsided," but he gave the pilot credit for his skill.

"His airmanship was excellent because he brought that thing all the way down and the wing didn't touch until he almost stopped and it came to rest on the flaps," Gregory said.

The damage to the plane was not immediately determined.

"The plane has some damage, but we won't know what extent or what caused it until we get it into a hangar," Gregory said.

Two accused burglars moved to county jail

Two men arrested in connection with burglaries last week were transferred Tuesday to county jail Tuesday. One has been released on bond.

Released is Darrel Wayne Martin, 1905 Alabama. He was charged Aug. 1, the same day of his arrest, with burglary. Bond was set at $15,000 by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Terry Payne, Gail Route, was charged Tuesday with burglary. He was arrested Aug. 1 and also transferred Tuesday. He is charged with the burglary of a building owned by Edward E. Moren on Jan. 27.

The two arrests, along with the arrests of four juveniles aged 15 and 16, are thought by local police to clear up at least five burglaries. The burglaries are believed to have occurred as late as July 1978 up to as late as last week.

Fast-moving variety show draws applause

A crowd estimated at 1,500 roundly applauded a modern, fast-moving variety show at Fiesta Night in the amphitheater in Comanche Trail Park Tuesday night.

Gus Marques got the warmest reception for his impersonations and comedy skits and had the audience "eating out of his hand" in aping the mannerisms of Elvis Presley.

The crowd also showed a lot of enthusiasm for Luis Martinez III's rendition of a disco dance. The youngster is only six years of age.

Another member of the Fiesta cast, Linda Cavazos, thrilled the crowd with her singing.

Emcee of the program was Lydia Molina, who spoke in both English and Spanish. Lydia doubled as director of the program, sang several numbers and kept the show moving at a fast pace. The cast also benefited from a combo's background music.

A part of the continuing Starlight Specials summer programs, the Fiesta Show had the largest audience of the season. It was sponsored by the Cultural Affairs committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Two programs remain on the Starlight Specials schedule this summer. One is a country and western gospel sing program, the other a back-to-school rally.

Odessa man abducted; no motive discovered

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — A 21-year-old Odessa man was abducted from his trailer house late Tuesday when he came home after picking up his wife from work, she told Odessa police.

Capt. Larry Lindley of the Ector County sheriff's department said the wife of Michael Todd Franks, 21, said Franks picked her up about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday from her job as a clerk. When they arrived home, all the lights in their trailer home were out and someone grabbed him as they walked in the front door, she said.

She fled next door to call police, and the assailant forced her husband into Franks' white-over-grey pickup truck and drove off, she said.

About four hours later, two men in a pickup truck stopped to get gasoline at a service station in Abilene, and one of them asked the attendant to call the police and tell them he had been kidnapped. Then they drove off. Officers think the man may have been Franks.

The couple's small house was left sleeping in the child when Franks went to get his wife, she said. The child was unharmed and apparently slept through the incident, Lindley said. The officer said a rear door appeared to have been forced open in the trailer home.

Lindley said no money or furniture appeared missing, and it was unclear what the motive for the abduction might be.

Pardon petition requested

CHICAGO (AP) — One hundred years after the birth of labor organizer and song writer Joe Hill, the AFL-CIO Executive Council has petitioned the governor of Utah to grant Hill a pardon.

Hill was convicted of murder and executed by a Utah firing squad in 1915, but a number of historians contend he was a victim of injustice stemming from his labor activities.

The labor council said Tuesday it was joining with the Illinois Labor History Society and other groups in asking Utah Gov. Scott Matheson "to remove the stain of injustice that surrounds the memory of Joe Hill."

Crowd control needed?

BARNEGAT, N.J. (AP) — Fearing "the worst," Barnegat police have won emergency approval from the township committee to purchase more than $2,400 worth of crowd control equipment for a Ku Klux Klan rally scheduled for Saturday.

The committee authorized the funds Monday at the urging of Police Commissioner Thomas Barnhart, who said Tuesday "there's much worry and tension in the town." The Klan rally is to be held at a private home in this shore community of 1,000 residents. Officials also expect counter-demonstrations by the International Committee Against Racism and the Progressive Labor Party.

Breaking up hard to do

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Breaking up is hard to do, whether you're married or not, says a University of Colorado researcher who studied the effects of separation on men and women who were living together without being married.

Kitty Mika, who wrote a doctoral dissertation on cohabitation, said that while such couples often choose to live together because they don't feel ready for marriage, they often find breaking up is just as traumatic as divorce. Based on her study of 50 young adults in the Boulder area, Ms. Mika said, "You can get pretty attached to people, even when you don't expect to."

College Continuing Education Seminar schedule is changed

$30 million waterflood operations announced

Full-scale waterflood operations will be in effect in all of Amoco Production Company's major West Texas producing oil fields when a new $30 million, four-rig drilling program is completed in the Midland Farms Grayburg Unit in Andrews County, the company said in Houston today.

John W. Phenice, Amoco Production regional vice president, said that during the next 12 months the company will drill 143 injection wells, nine production wells, and convert eight production wells to injectors on 10,000 of the 16,000-acres in the unit.

Amoco Production holds 75 percent working interest in the unit and is the operator.

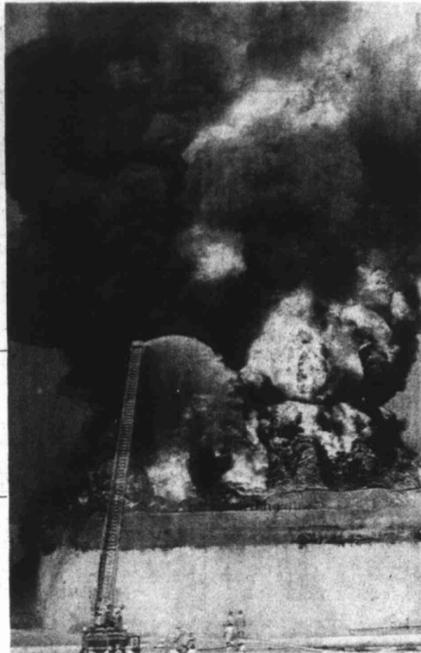

Results from a 1971 pilot waterflood program conducted in the unit indicate sufficient secondary oil production rates and reserves will be generated to economically justify the large expenditure, Phenice said.

Waterflooding is one secondary recovery method developed to supplement natural reservoir energy that forces oil to the bores of producing wells during the initial or primary recovery phase. Water injected into the reservoir, displaces the oil, and sweeps it toward the producing wells.

The primary recovery phase traditionally only recovers about 20 percent of the original oil in the reservoir. Following secondary recovery efforts in West Texas field, Amoco has increased that recovery to between 36 and 45 percent.

Amoco Production has been active in West Texas secondary recovery efforts for over 15 years, and today is recognized as the leading major West Texas waterflood. It ranks second in total statewide daily oil production.

Amoco Production is Standard's U.S. exploration and production subsidiary.

REFINERY FIRE — A lightning bolt struck and ignited this 80,000 barrel gasoline storage tank in Texas City Tuesday morning. The tank at Texas City Refining Inc., began burning about 9 a.m. No injuries were reported and refinery production was not affected as firefighters managed to control the fire in the tank in the east end of the refinery. The tank held about 3.6 million gallons of gasoline worth about $2.9 million.

Government to lure small planes away

WASHINGTON (AP) — To make the skies over 56 metropolitan airports safer, the government is going to lure away thousands of small planes by spending $100 million to improve facilities at nearby satellite fields.

The Federal Aviation Administration, announcing the four-year program Tuesday, said it will upgrade 86 satellite airports with electronic landing aids, automated weather-reporting equipment and improved runways, taxiways and aircraft parking aprons.

"The growth in commercial air travel and general aviation has been enormous and we've got to do something to reduce saturation at the hubs," FAA Administrator Langhorne M. Bond told reporters.

World has better act while it can

Shortages of all types of resources are going to become the rule rather than the exception. You can count on it.

The plain truth is that our planet is reaching the limits of what it can produce to support mankind.

In fact, such support has failed entirely in various parts of the world — notably Africa, South America and Southern Asia, where millions upon millions never know what it is to go to bed with full stomachs and other millions have only enough to barely get by.

A LEADING U.S. food and population authority, Lester Brown, president and senior researcher at the non-profit Worldwatch Institute of Washington, stated recently that it is unlikely that the planet can sustain a population of 12 billion. That many people have already been predicted for the approaching century.

"Population growth does not occur in a vacuum," says Brown. He added that current projections of population growth are based on the 'implicit assumption' that basic commodities such as food, oil and other natural resources are going to be available in the future as they have been in the past.

This is the rub, Brown says, adding that the per capita production from exploration of these natural biological systems — fisheries, forests, grasslands and cropland — "may have peaked and are now declining."

The same appears to be true of oil, the major component of boosting world population. "If I'm at all close to the mark," said Brown, "we hit the peak of oil production in 1973."

In other words, per capita world production of these key commodities necessary for sustaining life peaked as world population moved from three to four billion and has been declining as population surged past the four billion mark.

Worse still, human numbers are increasing every 24 hours at a rate comparable to the population of a city the size of Austin.

Brown noted that oil production in several major producing areas had already peaked and begun to turn downward. He cited Venezuela, Libya, the U.S., Canada, Algeria, Iraq and Kuwait.

Similar peaks in production, he said, can be noted for wood, fish, beef, mutton, wool and cereals, suggesting earth's current population is stretching to the biological limit the capacity of its natural resources.

Brown says he thinks government officials need a new approach to economy policy as it relates to the population-resources question.

"TRADITIONALLY," HE SAID, "fiscal and monetary policies could be used to control inflation but these old remedies are no longer adequate, in part because inflation is now being fueled by mounting population pressures. Fiscal policies can be used to eliminate excessive public expenditures, but it cannot restore a forest or halt the deterioration of cropland due to excessive food demand. Monetary policy can be used to slow the rate of economic growth but it cannot save an ocean fishery if the level of demand exceeds the fishery's sustainable yield.

"Governments that do not have a policy to stabilize population size are going to find it necessary to formulate one. Indeed the pressure of resources may have reached a point where long-term national efforts to cope with inflation will not succeed without a concerted global effort to slam on the demographic brakes. On balance, world population should be stabilized at around the 7 billion mark even though that would be excessive for some of the key resources.

The world had better take heed. Otherwise, all efforts to put a muzzle on the monster inflation while providing sufficient food and fiber are doomed for failure.

Mr. Soft Heart

Around the rim

Robbi Crow

"Crow's Used Car, Pickup and Motorcycle Lot — If you don't want that hunk of junk sitting in your yard, we sure do!"

At least that's the way I've felt ever since I married the world's biggest soft heart — for junk vehicles that is.

Why couldn't he have had a thing for stray dogs and cats? Instead, he has to bring home every stray junk jalopy he passes within miled. In fact, I think some of them are beginning to follow him home.

SHAMBLED CHEVROLETS, dejected Dodges, and faulty Fords must be spreading the word that our address is an automobile hospital and office of Dr. Dewayne Crow, A.M. (auto mechanic).

Got carburetoritis, see Dr. Crow! Got a corroded distributor cap, see Dr. Crow! Looking for an institution in which to admit your unwanted four wheelers, look no further, see Dr. Crow!

We've got junk cars that haven't ran in years; unwanted motorcycles that bit the dust back in the Stone Age; and junk pickups that went their last mile long before Henry Ford ever thought about inventing the Model-T.

We could literally open up a used car lot around our house. Our showroom merchandise ranges from a beautifully customized, weather-rusted 1963 Mercury (that I wouldn't take my dog riding around in, even if it did run); and a 1969 Ford pickup, professionally painted in the eye-catching colors of dirty white, purple primer and carbon black.

They say the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. Not mine. I've got to go through filthy carburetors, unfixable transmissions and greasy spark plugs just to get his attention.

I don't know how many times I've heard "This is the last one I'm going to buy. It just costs $250. I can fix it up and sell it for $1,500."

This is true, but in the meantime Mr. and Mrs. Crow adopt yet another homeless vehicle, incomplete without motor, headlights, steering wheel and hub caps.

My husband the moonlight mechanic has stayed out as late as 4 a.m. tinkering with spark plugs, recharging batteries and bleeding brakes. He loves every minute of it.

In fact, he's asked often why he didn't go into the mechanic business.

His reply? "It's more fun when you do it because you want to, not because you have to. It's just a hobby."

Maybe if he had to hunt down miracle grease removers in the supermarket to get the grease blobs off the carpet and furniture, or if he had to clean the black ring around the bathtub after he finishes bathing, he wouldn't think it was so much fun.

WHENEVER I get bored with housecleaning (usually five minutes after I begin) I go outside to 'help' him. My mechanically-inclined mind would astound you. Actually, I can't tell the difference between a wrench and a screw driver.

Needless to say I usually end up back in the house, cleaning. I've gotten to where I can tell the difference between a mop and broom pretty well.

There is a good side, though, to having a greasy mechanic in the family. If something goes wrong with our car (or my mom and dad's, or my brother's, or my uncles or my . . . ) he can usually fix it. And believe me, buying parts and fixing it yourself is a lot cheaper than paying for the parts as well as the professional labor.

So, I guess I won't gripe too much, even though my backyard does look like General Motors, Inc.

But please, if any of you happen to see a suspicious man outside your house looking over your junk car, pickup or motorcycle, tell him IT'S NOT FOR SALE!!

Farewell to Chrysler

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Concerning the pitch by Chrysler for $1 billion of federal money in the form of advances against tax credit, a few observations.

1) The answer by Congress should be: No. That answer issues from a principled commitment to the proposition that enterprises that fail to earn their way competitively should suffer the economic consequences.

2) In dealing with Chrysler's petition, conservatives have a much easier time of it than liberals, although a number of liberals go schizo on the subject. You see, Chrysler employs, in the U.S. alone, about 125,000 people. Advocates of aid to Chrysler will point out, with unassailable cogency, that it is a lot cheaper to lend Chrysler a billion dollars, even if you run the risk of never getting it back, than to accept the social and economic cost of dislocating 125,000 people. For one thing, you will, until they are relocated, lose the tax revenue of that many people.

FOR ANOTHER, you will burden state and welfare agencies with whatever the unemployment compensation and related costs involve. It is unlikely that less than $800 per employee would be spent, in tax losses and welfare payments, if Chrysler goes bankrupt. The trouble with this argument, however, is that if one were to apply it impartially, there would be lots of people busily engaged in manufacturing horse-drawn carriages.

3) The love of people runs into the hatred of business. Several years ago, Professor John Kenneth Galbraith came down a hotel elevator having argued before a congressional committee against lending money to the Lockheed Corporation. In that elevator was none other than Barry Goldwater. It was as if the North Pole and the South Pole ran into each other crossing the street. Sen. Goldwater turned to Professor Galbraith and congratulated him on testifying against Lockheed. It was an interesting ideological convergence. In 1949, both Vito Marcantonio and Robert Taft voted against NATO — Marcantonio because he was pro-Communist, Taft because he was isolationist.

GOLDWATER BELIEVES that the market, not the legislature, should decide whether a corporation stays in business. When Galbraith prays (which is infrequently), it is that every corporation in America will go bankrupt, so that the legislature can nationalize the stamp collectors. The vote to bail out Lockheed was one of the closest in recent congressional history. The measure carried in the Senate 49 to 48, in the House 192 to 189. The Senate and the House were solidly in control of the Democrats.

4) Having said this, one wonders wistfully whether America will ever obtain sufficient political maturity to abolish the corporation tax. Yes — abolish it. It exists primarily for the administrative convenience of the Internal Revenue Service, and as an aphrodisiac for populists. Last year, U.S. corporations paid $60 billion in taxes, one-third of what was paid in personal income taxes. The ratio has not changed over the years.

What would happen if you did away with the corporate tax? Learned papers have been written on the subject.

WAKELBY THE WINDMILL AND THE SOUTH BY LAWRENCE THORNTON

Arsenic poisoning leaves effects

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you help me with some information about arsenic poisoning? My husband all but died of it, and the doctor said he must have swallowed enough to kill a horse. Now he is in constant pain and gets dizzy. His eyes are so bad he can hardly read, and he has spells where his whole body is numb for up to five minutes at a time. If I knew more I think I could be of more help to him. — Mrs. M.F.

Arsenic poisoning is chiefly a rural problem, occurring in areas where sprays containing arsenic compounds are used. Your husband seems to have had serious chronic exposure to these symptoms. I trust he is getting the appropriate medical help. The chief medicine is called BAL (dimercaprol). This is the standard antidote, and very effective. Yet, total recovery from arsenic poisoning can take months, especially if there are serious nerve involvements, which seems to be the case with your husband.

The amount of arsenic exposure required to make a person sick varies among individuals. Some orchard workers, for example, may be exposed to relatively high levels without effect. Another person exposed to far lower levels might become very sick from it.

The symptoms are such as you describe them — muscle ache, general weakness, anemia, burning of hands and feet, and general numbness throughout the body. The compounds are also absorbed by the kidneys and intestines as well as by the nerves, so you should watch for signs of these complications. Except for this and being sure he is getting his medicine properly your chief role now is supportive — to make recovery from his unpleasant experience as comfortable as possible. In some, the effects may linger indefinitely.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What causes fatty tumors and can they be dissolved without resorting to surgery? I have read of people who have taken vitamin C and A, also lecithin and rutin for them. I have too many of them for surgery. — R.S.

The cause of lipomas (fatty tumors) is not known, but vitamins or any of the other substances you mention will not get rid of them. At present, the only way to remove them is with surgery. That, as you suspect, is impractical if there are many of them. Lipomas are usually harmless, and may run in families. See Mrs. B's letter below.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a lump on my right shoulder which my doctor says is a lipoma. Can a lipoma ever become malignant? Mine is quite painful at times because it is at a place where the bra rubs it. Could or should it be removed? — Mrs. B.

There is no good evidence that lipomas ever become malignant. One might become infected and be painful enough for removal, and it is frequently done for those in problem areas as is yours. A malignancy has been known to arise near a lipoma, but this does not mean the lipoma caused it. The trunk, breasts, back of the neck, and the forearms are other common lipoma areas, although they may occur elsewhere.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I was interested in a statement I read that emphysema can be inherited and that not all emphysema patients are those who smoked heavily. Can you elaborate? — Mrs. T.C.

I believe I did mention in a recent column that a certain type of emphysema may be inherited and the person afflicted have no history of smoking. It may occur in some people who are born missing a particular enzyme in their blood — "alpha-1-antitrypsin." This apparently makes them more susceptible to the lung problems. Little is known about its relationship to emphysema. Studies have shown that if both parents lack the substance the chances are greater that their offspring will also. It is a rare condition. Most people with emphysema do not have the deficiency.

However, it is suspected if a person with emphysema reports no history of smoking or other lung pollution.

Dear Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I had an emotional breakdown several years ago. I am much better now, but can't say I really have very much joy or happiness in my life. Do you think God can help me? — Mrs. D.P.M.

DEAR MRS. D.P.M.: God wants to help you, and can help you. One of the most wonderful truths of scripture is the fact that God is concerned about our personal lives. This is because He loves us.

How do you open your life to God? First, understand who He is and what He has done for you. He created you, and He also has made it possible for you to know Him in a personal way. The Bible tells us that we have all wandered away from God, yet God wants to bring us back to Himself. To make this possible He sent His Son into the world to make it possible for us to be forgiven and restored. The first step in opening your life to God is very simple: invite Jesus Christ to come into your life. By a step of faith and trust, you can become a child of God. The Bible says: "To all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God" (John 1:12, New International Version).

I believe it will be a definite change in your attitude if you really come to Christ. You will know that God loves you, and that nothing can take Him away from you. Learn to read the Bible for yourself, and realize that its promises are meant for you. Read, for example, the little book of First John in the New Testament. It tells about God's love and shows us why we can have hope and security for the future because of Christ.

Then God may help you also through other Christians. If you come to Christ you will also want to become active in a church where the Bible is taught. (By becoming active I don't mean that you will merely attend services once a week, but that you will take advantage of classes, Bible studies and other activities which will help you spiritually.) As you become involved, you will meet other Christians who will accept you and love you for Christ's sake. There is great healing in love, and God can use others to show you His love.

Jack Anderson,

Plot uncovered

WASHINGTON — It's not often that a shaggy dog story turns up in a dead-serious, top-secret government operation. But it did come across a tip in the otherwise grim reports on foreign intelligence operations.

It's a tale worthy of Ian Fleming, a fantastic plot by Nationalist China's secret service to assassinate the late Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai with a detonating dog.

The scheme is reminiscent of our own CIA's cockamamie plan to cause Fidel Castro's beard to fall out with poisoned foot powder, with the difference that the explosive-dog caper was taken seriously. It was actually approved at the highest levels in Taiwan.

THE PLOT WAS unwittingly instigated by President Nixon's surprise initiative toward Red China in mid-1971. This unexpected opening to Peking "overturned the premises and priorities with which the Taiwanese Government, in directing its intelligence activities . . . had theretofore operated," explains a secret Senate report.

Prior to the U.S. initiative, Chiang Kai-shek's intelligence agents had concentrated on conventional espionage against Red China and the Taiwanese independence movement. But with the threat of United States and United Nations recognition of Peking, the Nationalist agents began a crash program to discredit the communist regime and persuade the world that opposition to it was worldwide.

The most drastic of these measures was the plan to assassinate Chou, who had scheduled a trip to Paris to drum up European support for Red China's admission to the United Nations. It was approved by the Nationalist leadership despite opposition from the military, who feared the assassination would incite a Red Chinese attack on Taiwan.

The Chinese planned to use members of a neo-fascist group in Milan to carry out the actual attack. The group was already in the pay of the Nationalists' secret police.

"The plan called for a trained dog, having been provided with an article bearing Chou's scent, such as a hotel bed sheet, to run up to Chou at some point during his Paris visit," the report states. "At that time a remote control bomb carried by the dog would be detonated."

Although an intelligence source acknowledged that the scheme sounded "funny," he assured our associate Dale Van Atta that it would have been "very effective." At any rate, the caper progressed to the point that a Nationalist emissary had arrived in Switzerland with the money to pay for the operation.

But events in Red China aborted the bizarre assassination attempt. The then-Defense Minister Lin Piao was accused of trying to assassinate Mao Tse-tung and was killed in a plane "accident." Chou canceled his Paris trip to look after his own interests in Peking.

ON OCT. 25, 1971, the U.N. General Assembly admitted Red China and expelled Taiwan. The assassination plan against Chou was dropped, and Taiwan's secret agents turned their efforts to equally deadly — if less imaginative — undercover crimes in the United States. We'll report on this tomorrow.

FROM THE OMBUDSMAN: For 32 years, George Kukuchka has been supplying fuel oil and coal to his neighbors in Tunkhannock, Pa., a community of 12,000. Now he is being squeezed out of business by the big oil companies, whose greed and callousness have been gouging unconscionable profits out of American consumers.

Kukuchka, his son and one employee ran the modest dealership, serving 500 families in the Tunkhannock area, with a total business of 450,000 gallons of heating oil per year. Then, in 1977, Cities Service Oil Co., his supplier for 20 years, notified Kukuchka it was pulling out of the area and turning its customers over to a Boston broker, George E. Warren, Inc.

Last March, the Boston company informed Kukuchka it was getting out of the supply business; the Tunkhannock Fuel Co. was being left high and dry.

KUKUCHKA'S COMPETITORS are still getting their quotas from the major oil companies with whom they're affiliated, but he hasn't been able to find a supplier. Obviously, it's a matter of no concern to the big boys. If Kukuchka goes broke, his business will be picked up by the major suppliers' own dealers.

Kukuchka managed to get 16,000 gallons from Mobil in July under a state emergency allocation, but will get only half that amount this month. He appealed to his congressman, Rep. Joe McDade, R-Pa., who found that because the fuel oil industry was decontrolled two years ago there's nothing he can do.

As bankruptcy looms, the 56-year-old Kukuchka is close to despair. "I'm just hoping there'll be a miracle," he told us.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Partisan politics traditionally stops at the water's edge. But for Rep. Harold Sawyer, it stops at the water closet. The Michigan Republican has hung the government-issue color portrait of President Carter in his office bathroom.

Marx might have do it differently

If he had known he would wind up providing evidence for his enemies, Karl Marx might have given up writing early in his revolutionary career.

A first edition of his "Communist Manifesto," the call to arms of the worldwide proletarian uprising, recently fetched $65,000 at a Paris auction. Only a dozen copies are known to exist of the work co-authored with Friedrich Engels in 1848.

The record price only goes to prove the truth of a basic law of economics capitalists have known about all along — supply and demand.

Billy still outspoken

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Carter, rehabilitated but still irrepressible, says there's nothing politically wrong with his older brother — certainly nothing that Sen. Edward Kennedy could fix.

In an interview with NBC's "Tomorrow" show broadcast early today, Billy said the Massachusetts Democrat, viewed by many as a possible presidential contender, "might make a good president but he couldn't teach driver education in Georgia."

Carter, appearing healthier and thinner after treatment at an alcoholic rehabilitation center in Long Beach, Calif., also denied that he had changed his outspoken ways.

And when asked what he would do if Jimmy tried to order him to lower his profile, Billy replied: "I'd say, kiss my ass."

Wearing a light green suit and burgundy cowboy boots, the younger Carter said he "hadn't changed at all. I'm just feeling better and am not drinking."

Italian financier missing

NEW YORK (AP) — His lawyer says he was kidnapped, but police say he's a missing person.

In any case, authorities still do not know the whereabouts of Italian financier Michele Sindona, who was free on $3 million bail awaiting trial on fraud charges when he disappeared last week.

Sindona's lawyer, Marvin Frankel, said he had no developments to report Tuesday. He had said on Monday that Sindona's secretary had received a phone call saying Sindona was being held prisoner. His suite in the Hotel Pierre at 7:15 p.m. on Thursday. He is to be tried on 99 counts of fraud in the 1974 collapse of the Franklin National Bank.

Security guard charged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Last fall, Rolling Stones lead singer Mick Jagger told a court hearing that $13,000 in cash and jewels had been stolen from his mansion and that James Harrington, who worked as a security guard during the Stones' 1978 U.S. tour, had a key to the residence.

Harrington, 27, was arrested in New York on Sept. 15 and extradited to California. After pleading guilty on July 11, Harrington was placed on probation Tuesday and ordered to make restitution.

Jagger had listed a guitar-shaped diamond stick pin, a heart-shaped gold locket and two watches among the missing goods.

Wallenda pleads innocent

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Tightrope walker Steve Wallenda has pleaded innocent to a charge of reckless endangerment for blocking traffic while trying to cross Puget Sound on the suspension cables of the Tacoma Narrows Bridge.

The 30-year-old performer remained in jail Tuesday on $500 bond Tuesday after trial was set for Aug. 15. Wallenda, grand-nephew of the late high-wire artist Karl Wallenda, was jailed Monday night after an aborted attempt to span the sound.

Farm Cure for cotton root rot simple

Root rot costs American cotton growers millions of dollars a year. In Texas alone, the yearly toll is $15 million.

But scientists have found a simple cure for root rot — common table salt.

Mixed with the soil, salt creates an environment in which the root rot fungus can't survive — because root rot thrives in alkaline, calcareous soils of the Southwestern United States and northern Mexico. Present in 80 percent of the counties in Texas, it is most severe in the Blacklands, Coastal Bend and Lower Rio Grande Valley.

But there's a catch to the table salt solution — getting the salt to the farm. It takes about a ton of salt per acre to control the root rot fungus. So if a cotton farmer grows, say, 500 acres, that's 500 tons of salt.

"It's expensive, but salt may be a permanent solution to root rot," says Dr. Stuart D. Lyda, professor of plant pathology at Texas A&M University in College Station. "It changes the character of the soil and creates an environment in which the fungus can't survive."

Salt is one cure. But scientists like Dr. Lyda are looking for another, perhaps more practical cure — anhydrous ammonia.

Actually, anhydrous ammonia is a fertilizer. Put in the soil about 18 inches deep, it kills the root rot fungus in three seconds flat. But anhydrous ammonia is not a permanent cure. It must be used each year to kill the Phymatotrichum fungus that causes root rot in cotton.

At the present time, a combination of the two known treatments is most desirable, says Dr. Lyda.

"Sodium chloride (common table salt) won't kill the seed-like sclerotia already in the soil. It does stop the formation of new sclerotia. So the sclerotia seeds already in the soil are going to need to germinate and be expended before we have control of the disease."

Anhydrous ammonia, on the other hand, kills the sclerotia already in the soil.

"The ammonia will kill them the first year and the sodium chloride will prevent new ones from being formed," says Dr. Lyda. "So a combination of the two treatments is your best bet."

Which of the two treatments is preferred?

"I would have to say that anhydrous ammonia is the most acceptable method of treatment," Dr. Lyda explained. "There is still some reluctance to applying sodium salts to the soil. However, anhydrous is not a permanent control because the nitrogen eventually will be utilized by the cotton plant and will disappear in time. So we are anticipating that the anhydrous treatment will be a regular practice."

Dr. Lyda and his fellow scientists are looking for more economical solutions to the root rot problem. Their research is sponsored in part by cotton producers through Cotton Incorporated, a non-profit organization.

"Without Cotton Incorporated funds, I don't think we would have been nearly to the point that we are today," said the Texas A&M scientist.

He says there is still much work to be done.

"At the present time we're looking at some experimental fungicides. We anticipate that someday we will have materials that we could actually spray on the plants and they would move to the root and diffuse out and give it the protection through a systemic action. We haven't given up on alternative methods."

Coast Guard testimony allowed despite Chagra defense efforts

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Between Christmas and New Year's Eve 1977, the Coast Guard seized three small freighters — linked by witnesses to Las Vegas gambler Jimmy Chagra — containing 77.9 tons of marijuana, Coast Guard officers and drug agents have testified.

Chagra, 34, is on trial in federal court on a four-count indictment accusing him of cocaine and marijuana smuggling and "continuing criminal enterprise."

The "continuing criminal enterprise" law — which federal prosecutors say is known as the "kingpin statute" — carries a possible life sentence.

Attorneys for Chagra attempted unsuccessfully Tuesday to suppress Coast Guard testimony about seizure of the Miss Connie, the Eco Pesca IV and the Dona Petra on the ground the Coast Guard had no warrants to search the ships.

They also told U.S. District Judge William Sessions of El Paso they will need an interpreter for a defense witness but refused to tell reporters who the witness will be.

Sessions took the case after the original judge, John H. Wood Jr., was assassinated May 29 outside his San Antonio apartment by an unknown rifleman.

Previous witnesses said Chagra "freelanced" the Miss Connie and Eco Pesca IV after their American contacts failed to keep a rendezvous on the high seas to unload their cargo. Henry Wallace, an alleged accomplice of Chagra, said he arranged for the Dona Petra to sail for Florida from Colombia with 30 tons of marijuana.

Lt. Cmdr. James Kenney, then the executive officer of the cutter Steadfast, said a boarding party found bales of marijuana in the hold of the Miss Connie while seeking its permanent identification plate.

Lt. j.g. Richard Kelly, also from the Steadfast, said he led a boarding party onto the Eco Pesca IV and found its holds "filled to the top" with bales that proved to be marijuana.

Both boardings took place on Dec. 26, 1977, near an island called Orange Key, about 70 miles south of Florida, the officers said.

Information from the master of a smaller craft, the Iris Marie, that it had taken on marijuana from a freighter in the area of Orange Key led to the boardings, Kenney said.

Maurice Hill of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration said the Miss Connie's cargo of marijuana weighed in at 26.5 tons and the Eco Pesca IV held 26.4 tons of the drug.

Lt. Richard Goodchild, then commander of the cutter Cape Shoalwater, said he boarded the Dona Petra shortly after midnight on Dec. 30, 1977, and found 25 tons of marijuana in the ship's engine room and holds.

The ship was 25 to 30 miles south of normal shipping channels, and "this threw some suspicion on the vessel," Goodchild said.

DEA agents said all the marijuana except samples kept for evidence was burned in the Miami-Dade County incinerators.

At the $300 per pound wholesale value of marijuana given by witnesses in the trial, that means $46.8 million worth of the drug went up in smoke as a result of the seizure of the three ships.

Info on House bill on school board agenda

An item regarding information about House Bill 1737 has been added to the agenda of the regular meeting of the Big Spring Independent Board of Trustees. Board members will meet in the board room at the high school Thursday at 5:15 p.m.

The bill involves a change in the law requiring tuberculosis tests yearly for all school personnel. Big Spring school trustees will consider a proposal to require new teachers to take the test but current teachers will take it only if they have contact with a person with the disease.

Production company hurts worse when actor tumbles

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When a big-name star takes a tumble, his production company can end up hurting. Though there are still a few holdouts, the era of the daredevil actor is over. James Garner does handle many of the chase scenes in "The Rockford Files." And last year, Robert Conrad, 44, went eight rounds with an 18-year-old Golden Gloves champion for "Duke," a miniseries in which Conrad portrayed an aging fighter. But the days when Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and Errol Flynn risked life and limb to perpetuate their swash-buckling images have vanished in the face of the prohibitive losses faced by production companies forced to halt shooting because of a disabled star. "When this sort of thing happens the whole company goes down," says Brett Garwood, spokesman for Aaron Spelling Productions, which makes such action TV series as "Charlie's Angels" and "Starsky and Hutch." Insurance companies do a multi-million dollar business providing policies to protect against a star's absence, whether through accident or illness, industry officials say. "Many of them (actors) say they do their own stunts, but in reality the stunts they do are very simple or they don't do any stunts," says one insurance company official who declined to be identified. Yet even activities not considered stunts can lead to accidents. Such was the case with Erik Estrada, who was critically injured during Monday's filming of the NBC series, "CHiPs." The 30-year-old actor, who plays officer Frank "Ponch" Poncherello of the California Highway Patrol, was riding a motorcycle on a studio lot at speeds described by MGM spokeswoman Gail Cottman as relatively slow. "He just slipped on an oil slick in an alley," she said. Estrada's motorcycle hit a car carrying a camera crew to film the scene, and the popular teen idol broke his sternum, several ribs, his right wrist and suffered two slightly collapsed lungs. Doctors said Tuesday he was "out of danger," but it wasn't known how long Estrada would be away from the "CHiPs" set. Long absences of key stars can be costly. Al Newman, vice president of MGM, which produces the TV series, said filming would resume today without Estrada. The accident is to be incorporated into a segment of the "CHiPs" series, he said. William Vanden Bösche, director of insurance for the entertainment conglomerate MCA, which owns Universal Studios and MCA Records, estimates that when a star is absent and the company is forced to cancel a day's shooting, costs run between $25,000 and $30,000. Most of the expense is paid for the idled cast and crew. When only contract personnel are getting paid, costs mount at the rate of $10,000 to $15,000 daily, he said.

The church has asked to play and sing religious music from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Other items on the agenda will be monthly bills; light pole on Ramsey St.; personnel; and fire department.

Estrada off critical list

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — While fans flooded him with phone calls and flowers, "CHiPs" star Erik Estrada was in stable condition as he recuperated from injuries suffered during filming of the popular NBC-TV program. The handsome teen idol was awake an alert Tuesday after being removed from the critical list, said UCLA Medical Center administrator Bernard Strohm.

"We had over 600 calls this morning," Strohm said, adding "mostly they were younger, female voices." "He has a broken sternum," Strohm said "Both lungs are slightly collapsed; several ribs are broken; his right wrist is broken and he has a minor cut on his chin." Strohm said Estrada "is breathing on his own." The 30-year-old New York native, who portrays patrolman Frank "Ponch" Poncherello in the series, was injured when he was tossed from his motorcycle during filming Monday. "CHiPs" has consistently been NBC's most popular show since its debut two years ago. The show boosted Estrada to teen-age idol status. Strohm said Estrada was receiving blood transfusions and medication for pain and remained under observation for secondary blood loss. At one time, blood had accumulated in his chest.

National Girls Softball Tourney begins tomorrow

The National United Girls Softball Association Tournament will have its opening ceremonies tonight at 8:30 at the Roy Anderson Complex.

There will be ten teams on hand in the two divisions represented nationally. Division III will consist of females aged 13-16, while Division IV will feature girls from age 17-19.

Teams represented in Division III will be the state champion from Virginia; Hobbs, the New Mexico state champion; West Texas champion Midland; East Texas champion Abilene; and the host Big Spring All-Stars. The Big Spring All-Stars are managed by Mrs. Wesley W. Fortenberry, and coached by George Ryan and Ronnie Dodson.

Division IV will also feature the state champion from Virginia; New Mexico state champion Lovington; West Texas champion Odessa; East Texas champion Dennison; and wild card Midland.

Most of the teams will arrive tonight, and will be housed on the campus of Howard College.

Tonight's ceremonies will feature such speakers as A.A. Rucker, a member of Governor Bill Clements staff, State Representative Mike Ezzell, and mayor pro tem Ralph McLaughlin, among others.

This year's tournament is being dedicated to Mr. A.C. Jones, who has faithfully helped the progress of girls softball. Mr. Jones is in the intensive care ward of a Houston hospital with a brain tumor.

Following a drawing tonight to seed the teams, action will begin tomorrow morning at 9:00 a.m. Other games being played tomorrow will occur at 11:00 a.m., 6:00 p.m., and 8:00 p.m.

The semifinals are slated for Friday morning night, with the finals scheduled for Saturday morning. This is a double elimination affair.

Following the tournament, a banquet and awards presentation will be held at 6:00 p.m. on Saturday at the Old Settlers Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park.

All tournament players for Rockwell included catcher Charlie Vernon, outfielder Craig Bailey, and first baseman Ben Sparks. Others playing for Rockwell included Tommy McMurtrey, Junior Barber, Joe Blasingame, Tooter Huddins, Tom Vines, David Scott and Paul Spence. The coach for the team was Billy Scott.

Like death warmed over

Rangers take their lumps

DETROIT (AP) — For Detroit outfielder Steve Kemp, it was a birthday; for the Tigers' Jerry Morales, it was a rebirth; but for Texas Rangers' Manager Pat Corrales, it was more like death warmed over.

Kemp celebrated his 25th birthday Tuesday night by clouting a two-run homer, his 19th of the season, to lift the Tigers to a 3-1 victory over the Rangers in the first game of a two-night doubleheader.

The Tigers completed the sweep as Morales, who was hitting only .223 going into the twinbill, belted a pair of two-run shots as the Tigers won the second game, 8-2.

The double defeat left Corrales shaking his head in the steamy, humid locker room.

"It's been going tough," the Texas manager said.

"We've just got to turn it around tomorrow."

"We're tired. We've got eight games in five days. I think everyone is dragging right now."

The Tigers also have a tough schedule this week — seven games in four days. But nobody was complaining in the Detroit dressing room.

The fans chanted until Kemp came out for a bow following the opener, an honor that always had been reserved for Mark "The Bird" Fidrych in the Motor City.

"This is one of the highest points of my season — next to the All-Star game," Kemp said between games. "The people are just really taking to me. They have been all season, even when I go oh-for-four."

Morales, the former National Leaguer whom the Tigers had high hopes for after obtaining him in an off-season trade from St. Louis, has hit the ball hard all season, with little to show for it.

Still, Manager Sparky Anderson stuck with him and his patience is beginning to pay off.

"Nothing's changed in my hitting," the sure-handed Puerto Rican said. "I've been hitting the ball good, but sometimes you have to have luck, too."

"Sparky's a pretty good guy; we get along. I don't think I have to show him anything."

Anderson said he was impressed with Morales after watching him put together five productive seasons with the Chicago Cubs and San Diego Padres.

"Morales is starting to play now," Anderson said. "We had a nice talk. I told him to bear with me and he'd play more. I've seen him play some pretty good baseball and I knew I had to stick with him."

Connors eyeing crown

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jimmy Connors, buoyed with renewed enthusiasm by the birth of his first child, feels he's ready to climb out of a rut that has cost him the world's No. 1 tennis ranking.

Connors, playing in his first tournament since the arrival of his son, Brett, last week, opened defense of his U.S. Clay Court championship Tuesday night with a 6-4, 7-5 victory over Mark Edmondson of Australia.

"I have a much clearer mind than in the last couple of months," Connors said afterwards. "This is my first child, and if I wasn't thinking about that I wouldn't be much of a father."

"I've got to support three mouths now, so I'd better win," he joked.

Connors, who has won the Clay Court championship every even-numbered year since 1974, dropped to second in the world standings behind Bjorn Borg, who passed up this tournament this year.

Connors, top-seeded here, said his son has provided "a new incentive for me. He gives me something to play for again."

"It got to where I thought I was too good. Maybe I was too good. I thought all I had to do was walk on the court and I would win. Now, I've gone back to the routine that got me where I was in the first place, the No. 1 player in the world."

"I'm not out here just to horse around. If I'm gonna be in it, I'm gonna be in it to be the best."

Connors' victory put him into a second-round match today against Pavel Slozil of Czechoslovakia, a 6-2, 6-0 winner against Argentina's Fernando Dalla-Fontana Tuesday.

Connors trailed Edmondson 4-3 in the first set and 5-4 in the second set before rallying to his victory.

"I was pleased with the way I played," Edmondson said. "The last time I played Jimmy I only won four games. He was too good then and he got past me tonight. I was serving well, but he returns so well."

Chris Evert-Lloyd, winner of four straight Clay Court championships from 1972 through 1975, continued her dominance Tuesday with victories over Paula Smith and Wendy White.

Tyler man is links leader

MANSFIELD, Texas (AP) — Tom Hathaway of Tyler recorded six birdies in route to a two-under-par 69 and claimed the first-round lead Tuesday in the 53rd Annual Texas State Junior Golf Championship.

Scott Verplank of Dallas was the only other of the 190 junior golfers to better par on the 6,436-yard Walnut Creek Country Club course. Verplank birdied three par-5 holes for a one-under-par 70.

The 72-hole tournament continues through Friday.

Watson among missing Zoeller heads field

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Eight golfers who have won more than $100,000 this season on the pro tour head the field of 15 contestants for this year's Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open.

Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller is the top money-winner among the players in the $300,000 tournament, which gets under way Thursday.

Zoeller, who also won the Andy Williams-San Diego

Open in January, ranks seventh on the PGA money list with $185,967. The top money-winner, Tom Watson, is not competing at the 6,534-yard, par-71 Wethersfield Country Club course.

The other golfers who have topped the $100,000 mark on the PGA circuit this year who are competing at the GHO are Hubert Green, Wayne Levi, Mark Hayes, Ray Floyd, Calvin Peete, Grier Jones and Dr. Gil Morgan.

Green and Larry Nelson are the other two-time winners on the PGA tour this year in the tournament, which carries a record $54,000 first prize.

Green, who lost a playoff to Don Bies for the 1975 GHO title, has recorded victories at the Hawaiian Open and the New Orleans Open. Nelson, who was the co-leader in the first round of last year's GHO, won the Jackie Gleason Invitational Classic and then the Western Open five weeks ago.

Defending champion Rod Funseth heads a list of 10 past winners at the tournament. The California rancher posted his first PGA triumph in five years with a four-stroke victory last year.

Other former winners of the tournament, which began 28 years ago as the Insurance City Open, who are entered are: Bill Kratzert, 1977; Rik Massengale, 1976; Bies; Dave Stockton, 1974; George Archer, 1971; Bob Murphy, 1970; Charles Sifford, 1967; Art Wall, 1966; and Gene Littler, 1959.

(AP LASERPHOTO) — Houston Rockets Rudy Tomjanovich wears a protective mask during an NBA game in January, 1979, resulting from injuries sustained on December 9, 1977 when he was struck by Los Angeles Lakers Kermit Washington. Tomjanovich as well as the Houston Rockets are suing the Los Angeles Lakers, and both suits are being heard concurrently by U.S. District Judge John V. Singleton in Houston.

Elbow in face touched off fight, Lakers say

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys for the Los Angeles Lakers, defendants in a multimillion-dollar damage suit, are attempting to prove that the punch suffered by Houston Rocket star Rudy Tomjanovich came after another Rocket player touched off the dispute.

A federal court jury viewed a film of the Laker-Rocket game of Dec. 9, 1977 in which Tomjanovich was hit in the face by the Lakers' Kermit Washington.

But defense attorney Robert Dunn told the jury that before Tomjanovich was hit, Rocket center Kelvin Kunnert had given Washington an elbow in the face.

A fight erupted, with the film showing Kunnert hit by Washington. Tomjanovich is viewed trotting toward the scuffle and receiving a swinging right fist flush in the face.

Kunnert, now a teammate of Washington on the San Diego Clippers, said, "I never threw an elbow. Washington was holding onto my trunks during a fast break and I was just trying to knock his hands away."

Dunn insisted Kunnert look at the film closely and Kunnert answered, "That wasn't an elbow."

The film was shown in both black-and-white and in color, in normal and slow motion.

Earlier, Robert Reid, a Houston forward, viewed the film and said it appeared to him that Kunnert had swung an elbow at Washington.

A Houston surgeon testified the face of Tomjanovich had to be rebuilt like "a jigsaw puzzle ... like putting a cracked eggshell back together with scotch tape."

Dr. Daniel C. Walker, an oral and face surgeon, said he had "never seen such damage made by a bare human fist. I have seen people with less severe injuries and not make it."

The Rockets are seeking $1.4 million from the Lakers for the loss of Tomjanovich during most of the 1977-1978 season.

Tomjanovich is asking an unspecified amount, but more than $1 million, for the injuries he suffered.

Dr. Walker also testified that Tomjanovich will be troubled throughout his life with pressure on his sinuses, possibly loss of his teeth at an early age, and a susceptibility to meningitis.

Playboy Bunnies in game

MIDLAND — The Playboy Bunnies from the Playboy Club of Dallas will be in Midland Sunday, Aug. 19, for a charity softball game with the disc jockeys from KCRS radio. The game will precede the regular Texas League game between the Midland Cubs and the Amarillo Gold Sox. The softball game will begin at 6 p.m. with the Cubs at 7 p.m.

Proceeds from the ticket sale will go to benefit the Midland Cerebral Palsy Center. The Parents' Auxiliary for the Center is handling the advance ticket sale. Tickets may be purchased at the Cerebral Palsy Center on Ventura, at Rogers Ford, at James Braddock in Santa Fe Square in Odessa or at the Cubs ticket office in the Vaughn Building. Tickets are $2.00 each.

"The idea started out as a promotion for the Cubs. I thought that the girls would definitely help attendance at Cubs Stadium," said Cubs GM Bill Rigney. "The involvement with the CP Center is excellent in that disadvantaged youngsters in this area will benefit from the Bunnies appearance. I think that the public will enjoy the show that they put on. Obviously, the game is for fun and should prove to be quite an attraction in this area."

Cold statistics don't tell story of Mays

By The Associated Press
Have you ever watched a bird in flight, moving gracefully, effortlessly through the skies? Stop for a moment the next time you see one. Study it and then perhaps you will be able to understand what it was like to watch a young Willie Mays play center field at the Polo Grounds. They hung a plaque in the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., the other day that offers the raw statistics — 660 home runs, a .302 lifetime batting average, more than 3,000 hits. But those are cold numbers, figures that can never capture the verve and excitement that was Willie Mays.

Watching a youthful Mays play baseball in general and center field in particular, you got the distinct feeling that this game and this position were invented for him. He had a style, a manner that was unforgettable.

Hit a routine fly ball and Mays would drift back slowly and catch it comfortably with a basket technique that delighted the fans. Hit a long drive and Mays would dash after it, often running it down with the speed of a frisky colt, as his hat flew off during the pursuit.

The Polo Grounds, located in the upper reaches of Manhattan, was an oddly constructed oval-shaped stadium with short distances in left and right field and acres of landscape in center. It was perfect for Willie Mays and Willie Mays was perfect for it.

He was purely and simply an artist in the outfield, a Picasso equipped with a glove instead of a brush.

Too often, the game of baseball is obscured by offensive accomplishments. How many home runs can Dave Kingman or Mike Schmidt hit and who can hit them farther? Never mind the other parts of the game that make baseball so fascinating. Concentrate on the power. Use your clout.

Sorry, but that's not the way it ought to be. There is more to this game than runs and hits. There are, remember, errors, as well.

Midland pro is troubled

JERICH, N.Y. (AP) — Judy Rankin opened the 1979 Ladies Professional Golf Association tour with 25 victories to her credit over an 11-year span. Her career earnings were a hefty $652,618.

With the current schedule past the halfway mark, the 34-year-old veteran finds herself without a victory, despite the fact that she ranks ninth in total earnings with $72,287 after 17 stops on the circuit.

"I have been a three-round player all season," smiled the 5-foot-3, 110-pound blonde from Midland, Texas, following a practice session Tuesday at the Meadow Brook Country Club, where she is the defender in a $100,000 Long Island LPGA event, which starts Thursday over the par-73, 6,460-yard layout.

"Thus far I haven't been able to put it together," she said. "In Detroit earlier this year I had a 72, 71, 65 and then a 77. And, really, I didn't play that badly."

Rankin, who in 1976 became the first woman ever to win more than $100,000 in a year, tied for eighth last week in the European LPGA championship, which was won by Nancy Lopez, the leading money winner this year with $156,200.

"It was all my fault," Rankin remarked candidly. "It was not bad luck or anything like that. There are no excuses."

"Actually, I had been playing quite well before going over there (England). In Montreal (the previous week), I had tied for fifth after coming from nowhere.

Sampson For Atlanta Braves

to help his sub

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler starting-offensive tackle Greg Sampson, out for the season following brain surgery last week, says he'll be available to help out Mo Towns, his replacement.

"I hope I'll be able to help the Oilers off the field this season," Sampson said Tuesday in a statement released by the Oilers. "Perhaps I can give some tips on guys I've faced. Yes, if Mo Towns asks me for some help I'll be glad to give him some tips."

Sampson, who had a blood clot removed from his brain last week, said he has plans to play again next year.

"I've been given encouraging words from my physician and the neurosurgeon," Sampson said. "I'm very encouraged by what they've told me. They said I have a very good chance of playing in 1980 and I'm looking forward to it."

Sampson complained of headaches when he first reported to the Oiler training camp at Angelo State University in San Angelo. Doctors discovered the blood clot last Friday afternoon and the former Stanford star underwent surgery that night.

The Oilers also likely will be without starting guard George Reinhart Sunday when they host the New York Jets in the Astrodome. Reinhart, a three-year starter, is still recovering from a knee injury that forced him out of six games last season.

Phillips said defensive end Andy Dorris also would miss the Jets game because of a bruised thigh.

Athlete says he won't try to burn Bengals

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Running back Johnny Hector says he won't ask the NCAA to look into an alleged threat to send his brother back to prison unless he signed to play football for Louisiana State University.

"As far as I'm concerned the issue is over," said Hector, who signed with Texas A&M after his brother told him of the incident.

"I feel there have been other cases like this in the past that haven't been brought up and I'm sure there'll be some in the future. As far as my family and myself are concerned... it's dropped," the hotly recruited running back from New Iberia said Tuesday.

Hector disclosed last month that an anonymous caller had told his brother his parole would be revoked if Johnny chose a school other than Louisiana State, where he had signed a Southeastern Conference letter of intent.

William Hector was paroled last February after serving one year of a 3-year prison sentence for negligent homicide.

Doctors discovered Tuesday that Dorsett apparently fractured a toe in a freak accident prior to the Cowboys' first exhibition game. Laidlaw suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in his left leg during practice Tuesday.

Dorsett dropped a mirror — a gift from a group of fans — on his foot prior to the Cowboys' appearance against Oakland in Canton, Ohio July 28. The fracture was discovered only after Dorsett complained of pain during a workout Tuesday.

Coach Tom Landry said both players could be sidelined for up to three weeks.

The Cowboys are continuing preparations for a nationally televised exhibition game Sunday against Seattle. The team will break training camp and return to Dallas on Aug. 17.

"I'm more or less a first-ball hitter. If I see a fast ball coming, I'm going to swing at it," Office said.

It was a fast ball and Office swung. His hit in the 11th inning was his first in six at-bats and drove home the winning run Tuesday night as the Atlanta Braves edged Cincinnati 9-2.

In other National League contests Tuesday, the Chicago Cubs clobbered Pittsburgh 15-2, St. Louis swept a pair from the New York Mets 9-2 and 2-1, Los Angeles clipped Houston 10-8, San Francisco nipped San Diego 3-2 and Philadelphia slipped by Montreal 4-2.

The setback dropped the second-place Reds five games behind Houston in the National League West.

Cards 9-2, Mets 2-1
Garry Templeton scored the first run in the fourth inning and homered in the sixth to lead St. Louis to its victory in the nightcap and a sweep of their two-night double-header with New York. Home runs by George Hendrick and Tony Scott paced the Cards to their first-game victory.

Lou Brock played only the nightcap and singled, moving to within eight hits of the 3,000-hit plateau.

Phillies 4, Expos 2
Home runs by Manny Trillo and Garry Maddox backed the six-hit pitching of Larry Christenson as Philadelphia toppled Montreal.

On the light side

Here Jason here Jason

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jason the boa constrictor has not been seen since the night Lawrence and Alice Olivieri took him for a ride to the Mission district July 28.

As the reptile waited for his owners in the back seat, the Olivieri's car was stolen from the city streets.

Olivieri advised the culprit via radio and television to "use caution, as there is a scared, live, 4½-foot boa constrictor" somewhere about, and two days later, the vehicle was found abandoned in a prosperous residential neighborhood. The Olivieris beat the bushes, but did not find their snake.

"He liked going out," said Mrs. Olivieri, adding that Jason is harmless. "He used to lie across the dashboard."

She said she holds little hope for finding Jason, and authorities have dropped the search.

"We don't go chasing after snakes," said officer Henry Friedlander of the police chief's office.

Join the crowd

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Lee S. Dreyfus has joined the rest of the sweltering crowd in enduring hot-weather days at the State Capitol.

William Kraus, communications coordinator for the governor, said Dreyfus directed that an air conditioner used to cool his private office be turned off. Most of the Capitol, including the remainder of the governor's office suite, has no air conditioning.

"He felt guilty" when he strolled into the cool office, Kraus said. Air conditioning at the governor's mansion is still operating he added.

Sailing snowmobiles

KAMLOOPS, British Columbia (AP) — Tired of waiting for winter to arrive, and bored with the weeks of sunny, cloudless days, a group here has decided to hold a snowmobile contest Aug. 19.

The object of the competition is to see how far the machines and their riders can go across the North Thompson River without using a bridge.

First prize for the longest distance covered before submerging is $500.

"We haven't decided a second and third prize, but if there are enough entries, we'll consider it," promoter Ross McIlvenna said Tuesday.

Riders must wear lifejackets and helmets, but are not allowed to add flotation devices to their machines.

McIlvenna said a barge will pull the snowmobiles from the water.

Reanimation expert predicts life span prolonged to 150

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet authority on reanimation — the science of bringing the dying back to life — says the normal life span of humans should be about 150 years, and medical life-saving techniques are bringing that goal nearer.

Dr. Vladimir Negovsky, who for 40 years has been reversing the process of death, said in an interview that most people die before they should because of human "mechanical breakdowns" that can be repaired.

Death, he says, "is not a moment but a process, a natural process."

He and his staff at the Laboratory of Re-animatology have been pioneers in the search for ways to prolong the period of "clinical death," when a patient whose heart has stopped can be revived.

During this period they use such measures as artificial respiration, heart massage, electric shock, drugs and treatment against hypothermia (subnormal body temperature) and hypoxia (oxygen starvation) to reverse the death process.

Negovsky said he has learned to prolong this critical period from an average of five or six minutes to 10 or 15 minutes. He said he expects to lengthen this to two or three hours by lowering body temperatures.

Negovsky, one of the world's leading authorities in the field, has persuaded the Soviet medical establishment to set up some 200 reanimation wards around the country, to equip its large cities with emergency-care "reanimobiles" and to train doctors everywhere in his techniques. He said because of this, thousands of people are alive today who would not have survived accidents or hospital complications.

Soviet scientists "recognize that a new medical specialty has been created," he wrote last year in the journal Problems of Philosophy.

"It has been established through numerous investigations that the organism's vital functions do not fade out simultaneously: the first to cease is the functioning of the cerebral cortex, then the functions of the stem portions fade out, then respiration, cardiac activity, and other vital functions."

Where There's Smoke, There's Ire

DEAR ABBY: You were asked what you would do if you were on an airplane and were forced to sit in the smoking section because there were no more seats in no-smoking. You said, "I'd speak to the flight attendant."
Well, thanks a lot! I'm a flight attendant and, if the flight is full, the most I can do is try to get someone in the no-smoking section to voluntarily give up his seat to sit with the smokers. You can imagine how many people go for a deal like that.
Tell your readers that the best way to circumvent that problem is to reserve seats well in advance. When flying standby, take the same attitude you would have at the gaming tables: you pay your money and you take your chances.
IN THE MIDDLE IN TEXAS

DEAR IN: You are not only in the middle, you are in error. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Here's a hot flash to ALLERGIC TO SMOKE, and to all others annoyed by smokers on airplanes. All domestic airlines are now required by law to provide a no smoking seat for every passenger who wants one, even if the entire plane has to be given over to non-smokers.
In other words, if only one person in the whole plane load is a non-smoker, that person's comfort and well-being must be considered above the whims of those who willfully pollute the air with the stench and irritants of tobacco smoke.
Since you are more widely read than government regulations, you can render another great public service by disseminating this information:
Fines up to $1,000 can be levied by Civil Aeronauts Board on the basis of a single, legitimate, well-documented complaint.
Readers with such complaints should write to:
CIVIL AERONAUTS BOARD
BUREAU OF CONSUMER PROTECTION
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20428

SMOKEY JOE

DEAR ABBY: With so many irate readers voicing their "right" to breathe air unpolluted by the stench and irritants of tobacco smoke while traveling by plane, may I have equal time?

I must travel over 100,000 miles a year on business, and I think I'm entitled to be protected against screaming infants, pesky toddlers and talkative seat partners who interfere with my concentration when I'm trying to read or get some deadline paperwork done.

I also deserve protection from fellow travelers who drink too much and become boisterous and downright disgusting. And, when flying coach, I pray that I won't be seated three across with a fat person who invariably crowds me, breathes heavily and perspires a lot.

Wouldn't life be beautiful if we could all insulate ourselves from those things that bug us? But since we can't how about a little patience, flexibility and tolerance?

Smith-Alexander vows exchanged

Sandra Gail Smith and Walter Eugene Alexander Jr. were united in holy matrimony in a double-ring ceremony Aug. 2 in the Wesley United Methodist Church.

The Rev. W.O. Rucker, pastor, officiated the 7 p.m. rite as the couple stood before an altar flanked on either side by arrangements of white gladiolus.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith, 1906 Hale. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alexander, 2002 Merrily Dr.

The bride chose to wear a princess-style gown of white satin fashioned with a three-quarter-length lace capelette. Complimenting her attire was a lace-trimmed picture hat accented with satin streamers.

Serving her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Don Brewer. She wore yellow princess-style gown designed with a voile overskirt. Both the bride's and her matron of honors gowns were made by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Ellie Pearce.

Immediately following the rite, the newlyweds were feted with a reception in the parlor of the church.

The bride, who will be a senior at Big Spring High School, is employed, at Long John Silver's. The groom attended Big Spring High School and employed by Howard College.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Abilene, the couple will be at home in Big Spring.

Miss Hatfield feted at shower

A bridal shower honoring Starla Hatfield, bride-elect of Mark Kaczyk, was held in the home of Mrs. Betty Brown, Vincent, Saturday at 3 p.m.

Mrs. Sybil Duncan and Mrs. Mildred Kaczyk, mothers of the bride-elect and bridegroom to be, and the honoree, were presented pink carnation corsages.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen and lace cloth, centered with a basket of silk flowers of the bride's colors, pink, yellow, blue and green with baby's breath.

The hostess gift was a set of club aluminum cookware. Other hostesses were Mrs. Barbara Morgan and Mrs. Brenda Conner.

Out of town guests were the bride-elect's grandmothers, Mrs. Lema Hatfield, Snyder and Mrs. Grace Skipworth, Robert Lee; and aunts, Mrs. Melba Moeller, San Angelo and Mrs. Juanita Conner, Stamford.

Military offers gals great opportunity

By Robert Wallace, Ed., D.

Nancy, 18, who lives in Worland, Wyo., has just graduated from high school and is thinking about joining the military. She would like to have the views of our teen guest writers.

Janet Buckner, 19, from Ogden, Utah, and Nick Swan, 18, who lives in San Raphael, Calif., will do the honors.

Dr. Wallace: I graduated from high school in June and have been seriously thinking about joining the military. My friends have been telling me not to and so have my parents.

Would you please give me your thoughts and, if it is not too much trouble, could you have the guest writers give me theirs? — Nancy, Worland, Wyo.

Nancy: I think the military offers a marvelous opportunity for young women to gain on-the-job training in a preferred field. Travel, education, and the chance to "show what you've got" are exciting incentives. Call or visit all the military recruiting offices before you make a decision.

Hi Nancy: I had an aunt who was a Wave during the Korean War. She was a hospital corpswoman and after she was discharged (I think she was in the Navy four years), she became a registered nurse. All of her expenses were paid by the government.

I personally would not want to join the military because I'm "chicken," but my aunt loved it.

P.S. She met her husband, a sailor, while she was a Wave. — Janet, Ogden, Utah

Hello Janet: I think it would be a great experience for you to join the military. I am totally against an involuntary draft but I totally support our military.

I come from a military family. My dad is a Navy captain stationed at Alameda, Calif., and I've had the opportunity to meet many female military personnel. I have yet to meet one who didn't enjoy what she was doing.

I think this is mainly because it is something these young women chose, not something that was forced on them. — Nick, San Rafael, Calif.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 14 and I took my boyfriend home to meet my mother who liked him.

The next day my boyfriend and I had a fight and I ran away from home. Now my mother blames it all on Randy, who now is not allowed to see me.

When I try to explain it wasn't Randy's fault, my mother just won't listen. What should I do? — Karen, Zanabesville, Ohio.

Karen: Give Mother some time to change her mind about Randy. Running away showed very little trust and maturity.

Start doing things that are trustworthy and show maturity and the time Mother needs might be shortened.

Forest fires blaze out of control

Nature needs to do her thing

By The Associated Press

Wary but dogged firefighters are looking to the skies for a break from strong winds and high temperatures as fires burn out of control in five dry Western states, roaring across thousands of acres of timber and range land.

"There's no force on Earth powerful enough to cope with what we've seen," said Gordon Stevens, fire boss on one of the biggest blazes, the Mortar Creek fire in Idaho. "Nature will just have to do her thing first."

Smoke from that blaze, which Stevens said "will rank with the greatest fires in recent memory," darkened the sky more than 100 miles away at Yellowstone Park on Tuesday, and state officials said the huge firefighting effort was taxing Idaho's diesel fuel supply.

From a bustling headquarters in Boise, Idaho, fire bosses were calling reserves from as far away as New England to battle 15 fires out of control in Idaho, Oregon, Montana and Wyoming.

At least 135,000 acres of forest and rangeland have been destroyed, and National Weather Service forecasts for the next few days held little hope for rains to help douse the flames.

The Interagency Fire Center, a federal agency that coordinates and supplies firefighting manpower and equipment around the country, has mobilized a force of 4,500 — including 2,500 Forest Service firefighters, hundreds of Indians from reservations across the West and the Idaho National Guard.

"Some of them have been out there since July 26th. They can't go on much longer and we've got to pull them out," fire information officer Barry Wirth said Tuesday.

Despite the effort, the fires, sometimes whipped by 30-to-35-mph winds, raged on.

The Mortar Creek fire along the Middle Fork of Idaho's Salmon River covered at least 50,000 acres by midday Tuesday. The fire was burning along a 62-mile perimeter and crews had cut fire lines through only four miles of the roadless wilderness, Stevens said.

In eastern Idaho, the month-old Gallagher Peak fire reached 57,000 acres, although its advance was stopped on the northern end.

In Oregon, reinforcements were called Tuesday night to help extinguish a 920-acre blaze in remote terrain of the Umatilla National Forest. Officials hoped to have 500 firefighters on the lines today and contain the blaze Thursday morning.

In Montana, a crew of more than 300 began to gain control over a 2,500-acre blaze west of Anaconda on Tuesday, and officials said there was some hope of putting it out soon — despite dry weather, rough terrain, and high altitude.

Another fire had consumed 1,250 acres in the Lincoln-Sagegoat Wilderness area in west-central Montana by early today. But heavy equipment has been unable to reach the fire because of rugged terrain.

In addition, officials at the fire center reported that blazes in Utah and California were controlled on Tuesday.

More gasoline stations open, AAA reports

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Automobile Association reports more service stations plan to be open Sunday than at any time since it began weekly fuel reports in early May.

The Texas Division of AAA said Tuesday its survey of 415 stations also showed better gas availability on weekday and Saturday nights.

Gasoline prices rose an average of less than one cent a gallon the second consecutive week, but full-service premium recorded a new high of 94.2 cents, compared with 93.9 a week earlier.

However, the price of diesel fuel dropped from 92.9 to 92.1 cents a gallon.

Other full-service averages were (last week's price in parentheses): regular, 89.2 (88.4) and unleaded, 92.6 (92.2).

Self-service averages were: regular, 86.8 (85.9), unleaded, 90.6 (89.8), and premium, 92.3 (91.7).

The AAA said of stations surveyed this week, 35 percent plan to be open Sunday, up from 33 and 30 percent the last two weeks.

It said 26 percent of the stations, compared with last week's 24, are now open after 8 p.m. weekdays, and 43 percent, compared with 39 percent, plan to be open after 6 p.m. Saturday.

Of stations in small towns, often on interstate highways, the AAA found about one-fourth are open weekday nights, one-half will be open Saturday night and about one-third will be open Sunday.

Testimony in Davis trial may begin Monday

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The presiding judge in the second murder-for-hire trial of Cullen Davis has predicted that testimony against the Fort Worth industrialist will begin Monday.

State District Judge Gordon Gray said testimony will start Thursday if defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes finishes questioning prospective jurors Wednesday. But Haynes said he probably would take two more days to complete defense queries.

Haynes, who questioned 11 prospective jurors Tuesday, faces at least 12 more before a jury can be seated. After a panel of 32 potential jurors is qualified, prosecutors and defense attorneys will strike 10 each. The remaining 12 will hear the case.

Davis is accused of plotting the contract murder of State District Judge Joe Eidson, who was presiding over the millionaire's stormy divorce from Priscilla Davis. The judge — who participated in a bizarre series of events leading to Davis' arrest — escaped harm. Davis later was granted a divorce by another judge.

Davis' initial murder solicitation trial in Houston ended earlier this year with a hung jury.

Haynes has made Davis an active participant during defense questioning of jurors, frequently beckoning his well-known client to his feet and asking prospective veniremen to study his appearance.

During questioning, Haynes has repeatedly asked jurors if Davis' appearance "strikes discord in your mind, in your heart."

One prospective juror Wednesday answered, "I may be a little envious." "Maybe you should clean your glasses," Haynes joked.

Army airborne training no longer just for men

ALBUQUERQUE — U.S. Army airborne training is no longer just for men, according to Lt. Col. Thomas Schatzman, commander of Army recruiting activities in New Mexico and West Texas. Hundreds of Army women have taken the airborne training course and are now airborne qualified soldiers.

The Army has opened almost all training and career areas to women, Schatzman continued. The only ones closed to them are combat specialties. Airborne training is one of many non-traditional areas where women soldiers are pioneering.

Though airborne divisions are usually considered combat units, women have taken an active role in military police, mechanics, communications, nursing, maintenance and other support skills. All parachute riggers must be airborne qualified.

Airborne training is strictly voluntary. Every trainee attends the three-week course because he or she has requested it. The first week involves physical training and conditioning as well as ground school courses. The second week continues the physical conditioning and includes practice jumps from 34 and 250 foot jump towers. During the third week, airborne trainees must complete five jumps from an airplane in order to graduate.
