Poison is stolen

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Authorities warned residents Saturday to be on the lookout for a small canister of a rare and extremely deadly rat poison taken by burglars who looted an exterminating company.

Health officials said there is no known antidote for the poison, called Compound 1080, which ranks among the 10 most toxic substances in the world. A dose the size of a matchhead can kill a medium-size man.

Civil defense authorities feared the poison could get into the city's water supply by accident.

The canister, which has a yellow label marked with a skull and crossbones, is about the size of a half pint paint can. It contains a half ounce of the bluish gray powder.

The poison was in the safe of the Fort Worth Exterminating Co. when it was carted away Thursday night by burglars, police said. By Friday night, police had recovered the safe and seven canisters that contained the deadly compound, but one was still missing. Police said they believed the safe contained only the canisters and some company papers, and no money.

Police Capt. Garland Geesland said Saturday officers staked out a house near where the poison was recovered. Two of the canisters were found in the safe and five were found in a trash bag on a curb near the home.

Inside the house, police said, were at least three van-loads of rifles, television and stereo sets — all believed stolen — and narcotics.

Dr. Jack S. Wiseman, former chief of the State Health Department's pesticide lab in San Benito, said Compound 1080, containing sodium fluoroacetate, ranks among the 10 most toxic poisons.

Wiseman said he was surprised to learn that anybody had Compound 1080 because there has been "sort of a gentleman's agreement" for years that the substance would not be used.

"I don't think it is manufactured in any quantity any more," he said.

Compound 1080 is used exclusively as a rat poison and then only "in extreme situations" and by licensed applicators, he said.

Big Spring-born girl gets role in Eastwood movie

Bonita Faulkner, who was born in Big Spring, has a role in an upcoming Clint Eastwood movie which will be filmed around Dallas and San Antonio.

The movie is a sequel to "Outlaw Josey Wells," which experienced a successful run in movie houses a little over five years ago and which is just now showing up on television screens.

Bonita, 17, is a senior in Plano High School. Born in Big Spring, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Faulkner. Kirk, who grew up here and himself is the son of B.T. Faulkner, recently brought his family here in order that he could attend the L.L. (Red) Lewis retirement dinner at Howard College. Kirk was a member of one of Red's track and field teams at Howard College. He is a brother to Ben Faulkner of Big Spring.

Bonita's picture was spotted in a newspaper by a movie scout, which appeared while she was performing in the Shakespearean Festival in Dallas. In the Eastwood movie, she assumes the role of an Indian girl who suffers injustices at the hands of whites.

Bonita has been in the Shakespearean Festival the past two summers. She will attempt to improve her skills in the acting profession while attending Texas A&M University on a scholarship.

Bonita's younger sister, Theresa, 16, is in a special class at Plano High studying draftsmanship, with an eye toward becoming an architect.

The only girl among 20 students chosen for the course, Theresa boasts the top grades in the course. She, too, will likely attend Texas A&M.

Their father works for the City of Dallas, supervising a construction crew that upgrades public buildings and parks in the north section of Dallas.

MURDER SUSPECT — Donald Edward Smith Jr., 18, of Tampa, Fla., right, is guarded by Texas Ranger Bob Favor, after being charged with two counts of capital murder in connection with the Aug. 2 shotgun slayings of two Brady women. Smith is accused of killing Molly Jo Farr, 55, and her daughter, Tandy Bennett, while they slept in the Farr ranch home approximately six miles north of Brady in the early morning hours of Aug. 2.

House rents in a hurry

Rental property is not always easy to find in Big Spring. One of the reasons is the response rental ads invariably get if they appear in The Herald.

The following ad was placed in a recent edition of the Herald: "Furnished, two-room house; kitchen-living room combination. Bills paid. Air conditioned. Couple. No pets."

It was withdrawn after one day because a potential renter liked what he saw and moved in.

For invariably good results with "people ads," dial the Herald at 263-7331.

Andra Hohertz is entered in Miss Texas Pageant

Andra Hohertz, the reigning 1978-79 Miss Howard College, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daryle A. Hohertz, 7 Highland Heather, is competing Monday in the Miss Texas Pageant, El Paso.

The pageant will be televised at 8 p.m. over KOSA, channel 7, from El Paso.

Andra, 19, is well-qualified to represent Big Spring, having been a 'Charlie's Angel' or Presidential Classic, of Howard College last year, a cheerleader, Demolay Sweetheart, Chamber of Commerce Student Representative, junior class president in high school and vice president of Circle K Service Club among many other achievements.

Andra was chosen Miss Diamond-back Queen in 1977 and went to Girls State in 1978. She was invited back to Girls State this year to serve as a counselor, an honor she accepted.

She plans to enter A. and M. University this fall as a sophomore in pursuit of a degree toward her career goal of Fashion Merchandising.

Last year in Howard College, Andra carried a full class load and worked 20 hours a week in addition to being a newspaper reporter and business

In Harte-Hanks contest

Eileen McGuire twice winner

Herald staffers came away from the Harte-Hanks Communications Writing and Editing Contest with more than their share of successes.

The newspaper claimed two first places, a second and two honorable mentions in competition that involved all newspapers in the Harte-Hanks chain. The results were made known at a Harte-Hanks Editorial Conference held last Sunday through Wednesday at the Holiday Inn in San Angelo.

Reporter-columnist Eileen McGuire captured two first places and prize money totaling $200. Eileen finished first in Business, Economic and Consumer Writing with her story on 'Home mortgage rate war' waged and in Editorial Columns and Page One Columns.

Ed Klein, manager editor of the Times Herald-Record, Middletown, N.Y., judged the Business, Economic and Consumer Writing and said of Ms. McGuire's story:

"Ms. McGuire's coverage of the battle over mortgage rate ceilings in Texas was distinguished by its thoroughness, clarity and organization. This was a highly-charged issue of vital importance to Texans and Ms. McGuire didn't miss an angle in her deftly-balanced and cogent reports."

Desmond Stone, editor of the editorial page of the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, judged the Editorial Columns and Page One Columns, a category in which Ms. McGuire also won.

He wrote: "Eileen McGuire shows a nice sense of craftsmanship. Her columns are well paced, solidly based, often mixing personal experience with observed facts. Style is easy and conversational. The strong show of indignation at the conclusion of 'Crime of Violence,' (a rim) is effective."

Don Woods of Big Spring captured second place behind Lowell and April Blackfort of the Chula Vista (Cal.) Star-News in the Travel, Leisure and Entertainment Writing contest and was rewarded with a $25 check.

Of Woods' article, which appeared in Leisure magazine, a Herald TV supplement, judge Doug Ray of Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill., wrote:

"A great subject for a local story; and the writer allowed the subject to tell it; most of the Walter Mittys of the world find new material in this one."

Woods' article was entitled "Adventure, excitement intrigue young doctor."

James Werrell, dean of reporters on the Big Spring staff, gained an Honorable Mention in the News Feature category of the contest with his article 'Cowboy hexing practiced.'

Of Werrell's article, judge John Bromley, manager editor of the Idaho Free Press in Nampa, Idaho, wrote:

"This was a particularly interesting story and I say that in the context of having read and handled so many rodeo stories I don't care if I ever see another one. There was actually some stuff in his story I hadn't read before. That's good reporting!"

The Herald staff also won an Honorable Mention in the Community Service category with its article on the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Carla Walker Harrold, who recently won first place in a West Texas Press Association Contest with an article on dope addiction, wrote the winning story on the rehab center.

Of Mrs. Harrold's article, judge Don Fradenburgh, executive sports editor of the Rochester Democrat-Chronicle, was moved to remark:

"The Herald and Carla Walker (Harrold) produced some fine articles and pictures about the center. No question community interest had to be aroused. Carla Walker filled her stories with quotes and her stories were easy to read."

Earlier this year, Danny Valdes of the Big Spring Herald staff was awarded a first prize and a check for $100 for his colored photograph about Monarch Butterflies.

The picture recently appeared on the back cover of the Harte-Hanks Newspapers publication, "The America We Report . . . Prize Pictures of 1978."

Donations to The Bible Fund have topped the $7,000 mark but still have a long way to go. The objective is $12,000.

The Howard County Ministerial Alliance, which sponsors the drive, has hopes of supporting Bible chairs at Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan High Schools. It likely won't be able to if the objective is not reached.

Infant Stimulation program

'High risk' children getting help in Big Spring

By EILEEN McGUIRE
Lucas Robles, 16-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raul Robles, 1311 Mulberry, has cerebral palsy. It's easier for him to not even attempt to use the left side of his body, but Kathleen Morton, physical therapist, insists that he straighten out his left leg and arm in order to prevent deformities.

Two-year-old Russell Rawlings, son of Paul and Caren Rawlings, 1505 Tucson, is another victim of cerebral palsy. He's just now learning how to sit up.

Ginger Hare, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hare, Snyder Highway, has a congenital heart defect. Occupational Therapist Debbie Durling is working with Ginger to help her develop hand function and fine motor skills.

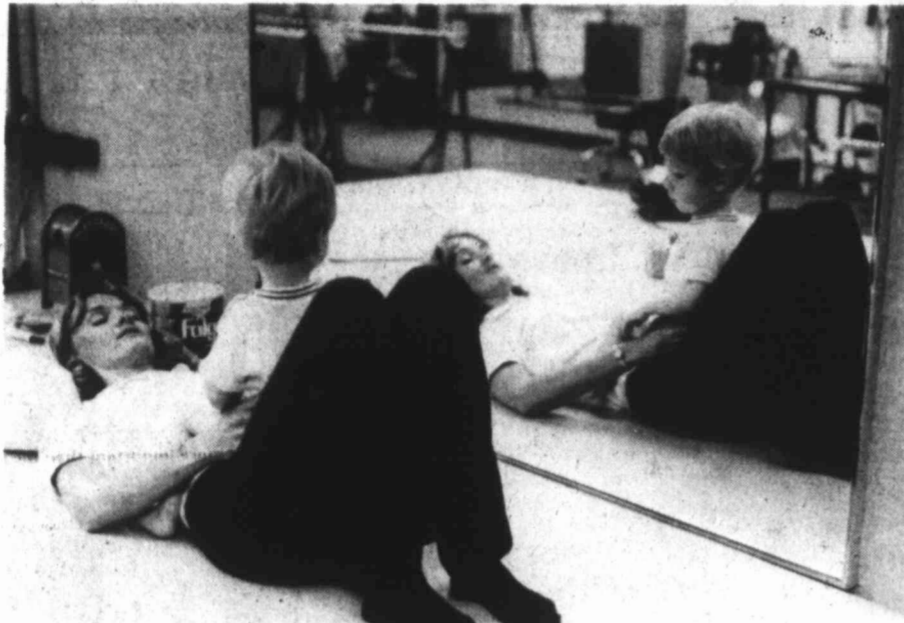

All three of the children and their parents are participating in a new program at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. The program, Infant Stimulation, is designed for children from birth through three years.

"For years, it was felt that young children couldn't benefit from early therapy," said Rehab Center Project Director Carla Warrington. "Now, with Sesame Street and different things, we're perceiving that children can pick things up."

Carla attended a program concerned with Infant Stimulation in Corpus Christi in July. She said that the program now exists in all of the major cities.

Effective June 1, the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center received a grant from the Developmental Disabilities Division of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to bring the program to this area.

The purpose of the grant is to find and serve 20 children, from birth to age 3, who are considered "high risk" children in the areas of mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy or infantile autism.

The term "high risk" implies that the child demonstrates behavioral or developmental characteristics that make one of the mentioned disorders a possibility. The children may demonstrate a lag in one or more of the areas of self-care, receptive language, expressive language, learning or mobility.

Any child that shows signs of developmental delay may fall into the "high risk" category, Carla said. A "high risk" infant may be the child of an older mother or a mother in her teens, or the child of a mother who was exposed to Rubella during her pregnancy.

The child might not have a disease-related difficulty, but might be what Carla called a "failure to thrive" child. Family problems, for example, might result in the delay of a young child's development.

Under the new Infant Stimulation Program, the Rehab Center may aid any young child in an area extending from Sterling City to Stanton to Lamesa to Lorraine and Colorado City who shows developmental problems or is suspected of having problems due to heredity or environmental factors.

Prospective participants in the program will normally be referred to the Dora Roberts Center by a physician, though procedures may vary. The child will be evaluated at the Rehab Center by a volunteer registered nurse.

"Then we'll go into the home to set up a relationship with the parents and get information that will help us to devise a program with the parents for the child, Carla stated.

She said that knowing the home environment was important in setting up a program that would enable the parents to help their children.

"We want to make the parents know that we're a resource. We also tell them that we don't have all the answers.

"There is a lot of frustration in being the parent of a child with developmental delays. But they can do something. They have so much control over how much our services help."

The evaluation will determine in what areas the child needs help — occupational (self-help skills),

CLAP, PLEASE — Little Russell Rawling's endeavors to sit up and to pick up objects earn him many smiles and sometimes applause from his therapist, Kathleen Morton (above). physical (motor and ability) speech (language development), or a combination of more than one area.

In the home, questions will be asked and observations made regarding the child's play and interaction with family members. If siblings, for example, are interested in the child, the siblings will be made part of the program. If brothers and sisters are not responsive, then the Rehab Center knows to avoid setting up a program that would depend on their involvement.

Following the evaluation and home visit, therapists can work with the parents in setting up an individual program plan (IPP). The program will be set up for three months and will be based on the primary need of the child, Carla said.

The focus of the IPP, she said, is to focus on each child's strengths while developing the skills he lacks.

Sometimes a child will have multiple problems that parents may not be aware of. The Infant Stimulation Program will reveal hidden problems.

"If you work with the most severe problem," Carla said, "the other's come up."

In addition to family members and therapists, the Infant Stimulation program involves a third party — a "home trainer" who acts as a vital link between the parents and the therapist.

Each family will be assigned a volunteer home trainer who will go into the home to help once a week. She will know the child's IPP and will be carrying out instructions from the therapist, who will see the child monthly at the Rehab Center.

"The home trainer will work with the parents," said Carla. "Her job is to be supportive of the parents — to be a resource for them. She will make observations that the therapist has asked her to make and she will report to the therapist."

"The therapist may give her suggestions to take back to the parents on the next visit. The home trainer will be prepared to show the mother how to care for her child who may have special needs."

"She will do general infant stimulation activities with the child and may be able to teach mothering techniques and parenting skills."

Once a month, the child will come to the Rehab Center for "On-Hands" Therapy with the therapist. A playroom is being equipped at the center for therapeutic play designed to teach the child new skills.

"Sometimes, a child won't improve," said Carla. "If that's the case, then we look for secondary goals, something he can do. If a child can't speak and there is no possibility that he will speak, we look for alternatives."

The children are re-evaluated every three months.

"If a child achieves his goals ahead of time, we evaluate him sooner than three months. If the goals were unrealistic to begin with, we can back up."

Carla said that the IPP attempts to set goals that the child can achieve and the home-trainer is instructed on what can be expected from the child.

"She'll never over-step the child's limits."

In addition to the monthly On-Hands Therapy, the Rehab Center is hoping to get enough volunteers to have a "Mother's Day Out" once a month.

"So often, the mother of a handicapped child never gets out," said Carla. "She has total responsibility for the child. This would give her a chance and to take some time out for herself."

The Infant Stimulation Program may also include parents' meetings at the Rehab Center. The meetings would give the parents a chance to establish relationships with each other and to share their concerns and discoveries about their special children.

When a child leaves the Infant Stimulation Program, Carla said there will generally be a follow-up down on the child.

"One possibility is trying the child in a day care center; and see how he does," she said, noting that the law requires day care centers to allow up to a certain percentage of handicapped children in their programs.

"There's always a possibility that the child won't need us at all beyond the Infant Stimulation Program."

The Infant Stimulation program now includes six children. The first home visits were recently conducted and children have already received therapy at the center.

The grant provides for 14 more children. Parents pay only the cost of a doctor's examination for their children in order to obtain referrals to the program. The rest is free.

The importance of the program was aptly summed up by Carla when she said, "We hope it will change their lives."

School may add grade

Due to parental interest, Jack and Jill School, 18th and Nolan, may be extending its elementary curriculum to include a second grade.

According to Miss Arah Phillips, principal, the parents of five children who have attended the Jack and Jill Day Care, Kindergarten and First Grade programs have expressed a desire for their children to continue through the second grade at the school.

"We have the facilities available for a second grade. We're all set to go if we get enough students," she said.

Eight more students are needed by the first day of classes, Aug. 27, to make the second grade feasible.

According to Miss Phillips, Jack and Jill uses the same curriculum as Big Spring public schools and is approved by the Texas Education Agency.

Classes are taught by degreed teachers. Mrs. Charlene McKinnon is assistant principal.

Facilities include refrigerated air, central heat, a spacious gymnasium and an astro-turf fenced playground. Breakfast, lunch and snacks are served in the cafeteria and bus service is available.

Jack and Jill is open 6:45 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday with classes conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Interested parents may inquire at the school or by calling 267-8411.

The 1978 Chevrolet pick-up, driven by Nairn collided on the eastbound lane of Interstate 20 near the Midway Baptist Church.

Both men were treated for injuries and released.

A 20-year-old man was arrested Saturday morning on suspicion of public intoxication and burglary of an auto.

"Actually, the kind of relationship that the volunteer could have with the parents would be good if the volunteer wants the relationship."

Area volunteers needed to make program work

In order to make the new Infant Stimulation Program work for area children, the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center needs the help of area communities.

The biggest need, according to Program Director Carla Warrington, is for volunteers. A second need is for toys.

Two kinds of volunteers are needed. One kind, the home trainer, will be assigned to a family with a child in the Infant Stimulation Program. The home trainer will act as a liaison between the child's family and the child's therapist.

Once a week, the home trainer will go into the family home to work with the child. She will take suggestions from the therapist to the family and may be asked by the therapist to make certain observations, ask questions and perform at-home therapy with the child.

What she observes will be taken back to the therapist who may make further suggestions for the next visit.

The most important role that the home trainer will play, according to Carla, is one of support and encouragement for the child's family.

A background in teaching would be particularly useful for this kind of volunteer, but is not necessary. The Rehab Center will train the volunteer.

"They should be warned that dependency may result," said Carla. "The focus of the program is to get the parents involved and they may come to depend on the volunteer for her support."

In a Friday story entitled $500,000 negligence suit filed here against the city," the Herald mistakenly reported that police told Mrs. Cecil Epley that her husband "had fallen in the booking room and struck his head against the booking desk." According to Mrs. Epley, this account was related to her by friends who had spoken with police that day.
Her husband also underwent surgery Aug. 8, 1977, rather than the same date in 1978, according to Mrs. Epley. The wife also said records would show that the accident happened at Sixth and Abrams Street, not 12th and Abrams Street.
Mr. Epley was picked up and carried out of the jail by herself and relatives at 10 p.m., the day of the wreck, according to his wife. He was taken first to Hall and Bennett, then removed by ambulance to Midland Memorial Hospital.

People just not 'buying' Anthony dollar

Next will likely come the $3 bill or the 7½-cent piece. Maybe the Treasury Department should have a prayer session with the White House Chaplain, after its experiment with first the $2 bill and then the Susan B. Anthony dollar.

The Treasury Department issued some brave statements about how the public was willing, almost eager, to accept the $2 bill, but you see very few of them around.

The Anthony dollar, because it is about the size of the quarter, will likely be even less popular. Business establishments don't like to handle them because their clerks, who operate under a great deal of pressure most of the time, shudder at the thought of distinguishing between them as a 25-cent piece.

IF YOU ARE SO rash as to offer one in payment, you run the risk of being held up to public opprobrium. It is a statement of fact that a few merchants around the country have posted signs saying they will not accept the Anthony dollar.

Don't blame the business people. They have a right to feel concern about their clerks handing out dollars when they should be dispensing quarters. Then, too, there is the fact that most cash registers only have so many compartments. There just isn't any place to put the things, unless you put the nickels in with the dimes.

Finally, there is the unfamiliarity factor. People aren't used to the Anthony dollar. Furthermore, they have no desire to become familiar with it. Most of those who have accepted it are coin collectors who immediately take the coins out of circulation.

WHATEVER THEIR political stripe, Americans are by reputation conservative when it comes to money, and this strange new money apparently has fallen victim to that conservatism.

Is there a solution? It's an accepted fact that the Treasury Department can't recall the Anthony dollar and the government has invested far too much money in them to write the whole thing off as a failed experiment.

The Anthony dollar, it appears, will be round for a long time — not in circulation, mind you, but stashed away in old chests or stuffed into socks.

If nothing else, its fate should remind us that, just occasionally, it is best to leave well enough alone.

Just wait

Some Carter pals are convinced Ted Kennedy doesn't intend to run for president next year. These are mostly members of the White House Santa Claus Believers Club.

If you think the Carter people are worried about Kennedy now, just wait till he opens a campaign headquarters in Atlanta.

Teddy has made it clear he is supporting the president... encouraging him to waffle, vacillate and appoint all his top officials from Georgia.

FORMER CHIEF PRESSMAN of the Herald, "Red" McMahan, said historians and sociologists will look on this American era as a time of greatly changing wife styles.

Dauntless Debbie Burton, ad-visor, said:

The trouble with language purists is that they want to ruin perfectly good rules of conduct. Who ever heard of putting your better foot forward?

Beautiful Bertina DeLeon, Herald word chaser, insists there's a new specialist in medicine — the doctor who will give a second opinion guaranteed to rub out the first one.

Between soft porno and the hardcore type, isn't there some middle ground for people who aren't sure what the community standards are?

Did you know that one of every two Americans wears glasses? Just goes to show you how important ears are.

TODAY, THE NAME of Harold Canning, is missing from the Herald's masthead. Mr. Canning retired Friday as the Herald's general manager after 31½ years. We will miss him.

I think it was Harold who said: "It won't be long before Congress passes a law against burning the midnight oil."

When Lindsay Nelson won the first National Sportscaster of the Year award, he said: "Most of us are small town guys who moved to the big city. We'd enjoy going back."

Ex Alpine cowboy, Jay Sanders, now herding words for the Herald, heard on the highest authority that an Arab sheik got up oily and said to his gusher, "Kiss me, you fuel."

FORMER HERALD SPORTS EDITOR Danny Reagan, now an award winning sports information director at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, visiting this week in Big Spring, tells about the Dallas gas station operator who said to a driver, "Are you odd or even?"

"I'm straight," replied the driver.

My ice eatin' aunt, Fannie Everett, said the gasoline shortage has caused such a drop in attendance at the nation's amusement parks, I understand the "Six Flags Over Texas" are flying at half staff.

Is it caliente enough for you?

GOOD WITH THE FIGURES, Theronne Baker, who started playing more tennis after giving up her position as Herald publisher's secretary Wednesday, said there is a simple explanation for why President Carter replaced his energy chief with a former Coca Cola executive.

"Jimmy thinks things go better with Coke," said Theronne, who is married to Roy, a local oilman.

A former reporter recently vacationing in Big Spring spent a lot of time lambasting the Herald's editorial staff.

This paste-pot man has spent 35 years in the "news game." The reporters and photographers I presently work with make up for inexperience with hard work and harmony.

I don't guess we are all bad considering the awards captured this past week at the Harte-Hanks Communications Inc., Editorial Conference at San Angelo.

What did I win? Please don't ask! But keep those cards and letters coming, sports fans.

FAST FINGERS, Sandra Green, Herald word creator, who celebrates her birthday Wednesday, asked if we had heard about the budding author who prayed, "Oh, Thou, Who has also written a book...."

Gave up smoking

Art Buchwald

(Art Buchwald is being reevaluated by the White House to see if he is worthy of staying in Washington. While waiting for a decision, he left behind some of his favorite columns. — Editor)

Many people have given up smoking since all the bad publicity, and in the majority of cases I admire them for it. But occasionally there is an exception.

I'M THINKING now of my friend, De Vries, as an example. De Vries was a "two-pack-a-day" man, and he was very upset about it. He finally decided to quit, and at lunch one day he said he wanted me to be the first to know. "I can do without," De Vries said. "All it takes is willpower."

I wished him well.

A week later I saw him and asked him how it was going. "I haven't had a cigarette in seven days," he said proudly.

"Bless you," I said. "Your wife must be very proud of you."

"I wouldn't know," De Vries said. "Why not?"

"I moved out of the house three days ago. And I want to tell you something. I don't miss it at all. What a rat race! She was screaming all the time; the kids were driving me nuts; no one would listen to anything I had to say. Maybe I shouldn't have slugged her, but..."

"You slugged her?" I said.

"Well, it was just a tap. Believe me, it's been building up for a long time. I mean — I'm amazed I didn't do it before."

I WAS VERY disturbed by the news, but I went about my business. I didn't see De Vries again for ten days. Then I ran into him on the street.

"Hey," he said. "You know, I haven't had a cigarette in 17 days. I don't even miss it."

"That's great," I replied. "How are things going at the office?"

"What office?" he asked.

"Where you work?"

"Heck, I quit four days ago. I was sick and tired of putting up with all the stuff they were handing out. They blamed me for losing the Waring account."

"But you had the Waring account..."

"I did until Waring started giving me all the flack about not returning his calls. I told him I had other accounts besides this, and I'd get to his calls when I was good and ready. Boy, did he scream to the old man about that. So I told the old man he had to choose between me or Waring."

"That's terrible..."

"Who cares? Ever since I gave up smoking, my tennis game is great, and I've been out on the court every day."

I guess I didn't see De Vries for a month. Then he turned up at the house one day. "Well," he said, "I haven't had a cigarette in 47 days. I'm adding years on to my life."

"Swell. What can I do for you?"

"That's a patronizing thing to say. You act as if I were going to hit you up for a loan. Well, I was, but forget it. You're like everyone else, mean and rotten and spiteful and a bore. I have a good mind to punch you in the nose."

"De Vries, I don't know how to say this to you, but as a friend, I think I should go back to smoking. There are some people who should give it up and some people who shouldn't. It's nothing to be ashamed of. Besides, you've proved you can give it up, that's the main thing."

My little sermon worked. De Vries is now back with his family, he has a new job where he's doing quite well, we're friends again, and the last time I saw him he said to me, happily, "I don't know how to thank you. Did you know that I'm back to two packs of cigarettes a day?"

"Now, don't be alarmed! There are many myths concerning wolves."

Mumps not only cause for gland swelling

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My problem begins with a slight ache on each side of my neck, just under the jaw line. The next day my neck starts swelling and I can feel the enlarged glands (about the size of a quarter). My mouth gets dry. It lasts for about three weeks. This has happened three times in the last six years. I was checked for mumps the first time, which came out negative.

I might run a temperature for a day but am never ill enough to stay in bed. I am 59. Have you a solution or some help for this? — Mrs. E.D.

There are many causes for salivary gland swelling other than mumps. Your test was negative for that, and mumps does not repeat. Your mouth dryness is likely due to a lack of saliva flow from the glands.

I mentioned other infections. Staph and other virus infection can produce swelling, or a stone may block a duct temporarily, causing pain. A common offender is medicine, particularly those with iodine. Certain cough medicines contain iodine, a fact often overlooked. Some of the blood pressure medicines and heavy metal poisoning must be suspected.

Swelling accompanied by fever could indicate lupus, which would produce other symptoms, such as skin inflammation. A swelling can be part of a general arthritis picture or indicate a lymph gland tumor. Your letter tells too little, but the possibilities I mention should be investigated.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please list each and every vitamin there is and what each is good for. Also, the vitamins that can harm you. — R.W.

That's a monumental order and I couldn't begin to fill it here. I'm sure your library has several books that answer your broad question. My newest booklet, "Vitamins: What You Need to Know," answers most of the questions my readers ask on the subject. It has just been received from the printers. For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 43 years old and soon will have a complete hysterectomy because of fibroids, which have become troublesome. Because I had a mastectomy six years ago I will not be able to supplement my system with hormones. This troubles me as I picture myself suddenly thrust into menopause with no hormones to help me through. — Mrs. B.J.M.

First of all, be sure you have medical terminology correct. A total hysterectomy for fibroids would not include removal of your ovaries, and your menopause would not be affected by it.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Will you please explain what you and other doctors mean when they mention "fiber"? — B.W.

Fiber is the undigestible portion of plant food, the part that travels through the digestive tract largely unchanged. Much of it is cellulose, which makes up the walls of cells in plants. Its value lies in its ability to stimulate proper bowel lining activity (peristalsis), which also assists in efficient movement of food through the gut.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you write something about pitted nails? What causes them and what is the treatment? Also what type doctor treats them? About six months ago I noticed that mine (on all fingers) were pitted. I have used Tinactin. Is this good? — N.S.

Pitted nails usually are due to a skin problem, as psoriasis, and may occur with alopecia areata — the loss of hair in defined scalp areas. Of course, it is always possible your nails have been damaged by exposure to chemicals.

Tinactin (brand of tolnafate) is an effective anti-fungal application. It will not correct a non-fungus problem. If you have a fungus infection, the anti-fungal medicine should improve things in time. A dermatologist can advise you.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Have you heard of giving estrogen to a man for emphysema? — W.N.

Estrogen is not used for emphysema. However, estrogen may be prescribed to a man who has emphysema for some other reason — prostate cancer, for example.

If afflicted with problem fingernails or toenails, learn about the practical, medically correct form of treatment. Write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Solving Your Nail Problems," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a mole on my bottom and it has been there for 10 years. It is about the size of a pea and it is not sore. Do you think I should have it cut off? — R.M.

If it does not alter size or color and does not cause discomfort, you can forget about it.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his invaluable booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Where do all the earthquakes, tornadoes and other disasters come from? Does God cause them, or does the devil? — A.W.S.

DEAR A.W.S.: I am sure we have all wondered, although the Bible says little directly about this. But two truths should be kept in mind.

The first is that God created everything, and is ultimately in control of this world. Nothing happens without His knowledge or even His permission. He is also the One who gives good things to the earth, including rain and fruit. "He waters the mountains from his upper chambers; the earth is satisfied by the fruit of his work. He makes grass grow for the cattle, and plants for man to cultivate — bringing forth food from the earth" (Psalms 104:13-14, New International Version).

The other is that we live in a world that has been gravely affected by sin. The Bible does not say much about this, but it does teach that even the creation has been changed because of man's rebellion against God. The Bible says: "For the creation was subjected to frustration, not by its own choice, but by the will of the one who subjected it, in hope that the creation itself will be liberated from its bondage to decay and brought into the glorious freedom of the children of God. We know that the whole creation has been groaning" (Romans 8:20-22, NIV).

There is, I believe, a mystery here that our limited minds cannot fully grasp. On one hand, we know that God is in control, and in times of great difficulty we can trust Him to see us through. On the other, we live in a fallen world, and even the destructiveness of natural forces is a witness to the terrible effects of sin.

The wonderful thing is that the Christian knows he is always safe in God's hands, no matter what comes his way. "For I am convinced that neither death nor life...nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 8:38-39, NIV).

Plea worked

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Stupidity is usually the last thing a politician will confess to; it's not the kind of character trait that fits gracefully into a campaign slogan.

But Rep. George Hansen, the right-wing Idaho Republican, had an excellent reason for making such an admission in open court back in 1975: He wanted to stay out of jail.

So his attorney told the judge that Hansen "was stupid, but he wasn't evil" when he violated the Election Campaign Disclosure Act. The humiliating plea worked: Hansen, who had pleaded guilty to two misdemeanor counts after originally being charged with multiple felonies, got his two-month jail sentence suspended and was let off with a $2,000 fine.

UNLIKE HIS House colleague, Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., who was recently censured after conviction on corruption charges, Hansen was not even reprimanded. In an unrelated incident, however, he was warned by the House to cease soliciting campaign funds from private groups to pay off his personal debts. After the admonition, his wife Connie began raising money to ease the family's financial burdens.

Hansen, like Diggs, was re-elected despite his illicit money handling. But two recent, relatively piddling brushes with the law may sit less well with Hansen's conservative constituents in Idaho, since they indicate that this staunch advocate of law and order feels he is above the law, himself.

Although Hansen was in Congress when the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit was enacted, he has been stopped twice since May for speeding; both times he tried to claim "congressional immunity."

The first time, Hansen was clocked at 81 m.p.h. He was able, nevertheless, to talk the state trooper out of a ticket, on grounds that he had several meetings to attend and was running late. The second time, he was stopped for doing 79 m.p.h. Again Hansen tried the congressional-privilege routine, but the trooper gave him a ticket anyway.

Of less concern to Hansen's constituents, according to our sources in Idaho, are the congressman's sometimes embarrassing antics on the international scene. A steadfast admirer of Anastasio Somoza, the ousted dictator of Nicaragua, Hansen visited Managua last January, when the State Department was making an overdue reassessment of its pro-Somoza policy.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: I find it very hard to write this letter but it's the easiest way I know.

For the past two years I have operated Faulkner Talent World. I have come to know and love so many of my students that it's hard to let go. I have been offered the opportunity to expand my love of life to a bigger town. After much consideration I feel it is best that I take the advance.

I will not hold my fall classes here in September and I hope this reaches all my students in the spirit it was meant to. I will miss so many of you and I hope you will keep up the hard work. Find someone that can advance you to where you know you should be.

My many thanks go to so many of you. You have helped me make Faulkner Talent World a good thing. Thank you for your help, support and love. To those of you that have been at my side from the beginning I will miss you terribly. You are the greatest!

To B.T., thank you for making me believe in myself and making me realize the capability of myself. I could go on and on thanking all of you but I hope in your hearts you know how I feel. Best of luck always. You always have a friend in me.

School bus routes are announced for year

Bus routes for the 1979-80 school year have been announced by the Big Spring School District.

The accompanying regular bus route schedule lists 30 trips by 17 school buses: four long one-trip routes and 13 two-trip routes. This is the same number of routes that were in operation last year.

In this schedule, all bus stops may not be given, especially on rural bus routes; but almost all are essentially the same as they were at the end of school last year, with stops at the same locations. Pickup times listed are approximate and are about the same as last year. Four routes have new drivers, and two routes have new bus numbers for some of the stops on the route:

Bus 81 will pick up all Lakeview area students in Grades 1-5 at the same six stops as last year, and transport them to Moss School.

Bus 52 will pick up all Park Hill area bus students in Grades 1-5 at the same five stops as last year, and transport them to Marcy School.

All nine rural buses will again pick up kindergarten students and will drop them at Washington School for transfer to a kindergarten bus. A detailed kindergarten bus schedule is listed following the schedule for the 17 regular buses.

In addition to the buses in these lists, two buses will serve Special Education students and two buses will carry Head Start children on essentially the same routes and schedules as last year.

Regular school bus service will begin Monday morning, Aug. 27.

Tried to have his divorce judge murdered?

Davis arrested one year ago Monday

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — It was a typical Texas summer morning. Hot, cloudless and quiet.

The day was Aug. 20, 1978, and the breakfast crowd at Coco's Restaurant was unaware of the drama unfolding on a parking lot outside.

A burly, dark-haired man sat in his Ford, smoking, sweating and waiting. Shortly before 9 a.m., a Cadillac wheeled onto an adjacent lot and stopped beside an unmarked van.

The driver emerged, circled the van, rapped on a door and peered through a back window. Blackout curtains blocked his view. He saw nothing.

Inside the van, an FBI agent withdrew his .38 from his holster and whispered: "This is it!"

At almost the same instant, David McCrory, in the Ford, removed a .38 from his waistband, cocked it and cursed silently.

At that moment, both FBI agent and FBI informant were prepared to kill Cullen Davis.

Within seconds, however, Davis climbed back in his Cadillac and pulled alongside McCrory.

"Just paranoid," he said. "Goddamn," signed McCrory, replacing his pistol.

"Come on," demanded

Davis, gesturing him to his car.

For the next few minutes, the two men, one a millionaire industrialist, the other an informant, discussed the murder of Davis' divorce judge.

"I got Judge Edison dead for you," said McCrory, 41.

"Good," replied Davis, 45. "I'll get the rest of them dead for you. You want a bunch of people dead. Right?"

"All right."

As Davis left that morning, McCrory spoke into a concealed microphone, "I have got the money. He has got the gun."

In the van, FBI agent Joe Gray lowered his videotape camera and his colleagues replaced the blackout curtains. A second set of officers arrested Davis within minutes.

Five months later, prosecutor Jack Strickland stood before a Houston jury while Joe Gray played a composite sound and film version of the Aug. 20 rendezvous.

"Folks," he said in his closing argument. "You all are witnesses. Not just as jurors, but witnesses... it is as if you had been transported back from this courtroom... to August in Fort Worth in the heat of the summer of 1978.

"It's like you are in the back seat of that car, ladies and gentlemen. It's like you were looking through a one-way mirror. You are there. You can hear them. You can see them..."

The jurors listened also to defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes. He told them Davis was "conned" by McCrory, duped by his ex-wife, Priscilla, and framed on a murder-solicitation charge.

After six days of deliberations, the jury reported itself hopelessly deadlocked. Eight favored conviction; four acquittal. And now, seven months after the mistrial, the cast has reassembled here for a summer rerun.

And again, it is the sound and visual tapes that represent the heart of the state's case.

Chapel, land up for sale

The General Services Administration has announced that it is soliciting sealed applications for the chapel building and underlying 1.33 acres of land at the former Webb AFB in Big Spring. Applications to purchase the property will be considered only from applicants who will maintain and use the property as a shrine, memorial, or denominational house of worship.

Ann Doughty, Regional Administrator of General Services Administration in Fort Worth, said that both the invitation for Application, which gives instructions for submitting the application, and the application may be obtained from GSA's Business Service Center, Room 1A03, 819 Taylor Street, Fort Worth, 76102, or by calling (817) 334-3281.

Applications will be received until 12:30 p.m., local time at place of bid opening, Sept. 27, at the above address.

Space for more booths at fair

A 25 x 120 foot addition to the east side of the Dora Roberts Fairbarn will enable the Howard County Fair Committee to make room for booths in the Sept. 17-22 show this year.

The committee had a waiting list for booth space last year. The 8 x 10 indoor booths rent for $75 each while the outdoor booths vary in price. Contracts for such can be negotiated with the booth chairman.

If across-the-counter sales take place, a $150 booth fee is exacted by the Fair Committee.

The booths are about 35 per cent sold for this year's show and officials are confident all will be taken.

The program for the fair is being printed now. The Shrine Circus annually kicks off Fair Week with two performances on Monday. A carnival will be in operation throughout the week.

The Barrow Show is scheduled for Tuesday, the Old Fiddlers Contest for Wednesday.

Thursday will be Senior Citizens Day, during which time a dog show and rabbit show are scheduled. There will also be a 4-H Club sponsored omelette sale that day.

An ABC Motorcycle Rodeo is scheduled for Friday, along with a goat show. A domino tournament will be started that day and continued Saturday.

A horse show and steer show are planned for Saturday, final day of the fair.

Art and food shows are being planned in conjunction with this year's fair. J. Arnold Marshall, former Big Spring mayor, is president of the fair association this year. Booth chairman is Delbert Donelson while Jimmy Bailey is serving as vice president and chairman in charge of publicity.

Fort Sill wins award

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fort Sill, Okla., has won the 1978 Secretary of Defense Environmental Quality Award.

A selection committee also recommended that the Pacific Missile Test Center and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., and the Marine Corps Air Station at Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, be recognized for "exemplary environmental programs."

AIR TRAVEL — This week is the 50th anniversary of the around-the-world flight of the Graf Zeppelin, a rigid airship resembling a blimp. The airship, 700 feet long and 100 feet in diameter, traveled at speeds of 80-90 miles per hour and housed many luxury suites for its passengers. The Graf Zeppelin marked the beginning of the transition from water to air travel. Bill Birrell, KHEM Radio Employee, displays a scrapbook containing newspaper clippings from the flight, which he meticulously saved while a boy.

Navy awards big contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has awarded a $107.2 million contract to National Steel and Shipbuilding Co. of San Diego to design and construct a new type of cable repair ship.

The 14,225-ton ship will be used to "sustain the operation of present fixed undersea surveillance and communications systems and for the deployment of future systems," the Navy said. The ship will be 511 feet long and will carry a crew of 111 of ficers and sailors.

Woman sues parents for abandoning her at birth

DETROIT (AP) — A 27-year-old handicapped Michigan woman, suing her parents for abandoning her at birth, says when she first met her father 10 years ago, he handed her $20 and said, "Goaway. Leave us alone."

"I said, 'Look. This is my life and you're handing me $20. I want you. I want you to acknowledge who I am. I'm a normal, healthy human being,'" said Karen Multack Boldt.

Mrs. Boldt filed a $33 million lawsuit in U.S. District Court Thursday, charging that her parents, Hyman and Lorayne Multack of East Chicago, Ind., sent her to a home for the retarded and told relatives she was dead.

The suit contends that since she is of normal intelligence, her commitment to the home amounted to illegal imprisonment. Her parents were not immediately available for comment.

"You're dead," Mrs. Boldt quoted her mother as saying during their first meeting at the Dixon State Home in Dixon, Ill., when she was 14. "Your father and I are the only two people in the family who know you are alive. You're dead."

Mrs. Boldt now lives in New Haven, Mich., with her 4-year-old son Michael, who shows no sign of the spina bifida that keeps his mother on crutches. Doctors say the condition leaves the spinal cord exposed without a bone covering. If untreated, it can result in death.

According to Mrs. Boldt, her mother told her she was two weeks old before a doctor handed Mrs. Multack the baby, wrapped in a blanket.

"When she uncovered me, she flipped," according to Mrs. Boldt. "She took the blanket off and looked at me and didn't know what 'it' was. She never considered taking me home."

Also named as defendants in the suit are the Dixon

Home; Dr. Allen Schultz, the physician who delivered her; Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago, where she was born; and the state of Illinois.

During her seven years in the Dixon Home, she charged, she was beaten and sexually abused by retarded women patients. The suit also charges that she was never trained to speak or care for herself and was not tested to determine her intelligence.

She was released from the Dixon home and placed in a foster home after a nurse noticed she had taught herself basic speech and could feed herself, said her attorney Thomas J. Budzynski.

Mrs. Boldt eventually entered schools for children of normal intelligence and graduated from high school. She worked as a teacher's aide at the Glenn Peters School for the Mentally Retarded in New Haven until her son was born.

Now divorced, she and her son live on Social Security payments.

Unemployment in Texas climbs to 4.8 percent

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Unemployment in Texas rose from 4.2 percent in May to 4.8 percent in June, with much of the increased joblessness due to students seeking summer work, the Texas Employment Commission said Saturday.

The commission said June marked the third consecutive month that unemployment has risen in Texas. June's unemployment rate was lower, however, than the June 1978 level of 5.2 percent, the commission said.

While 45,100 more Texans were on file with the commission as job-seekers in June than in May, the number of Texans holding jobs was up 152,100 from May.

VIEW FROM THE MOUNTAIN

Cosden does it again

By CAROL HUNTER
Everyone in Howard County is aware of the tremendous contributions which The Cosden Refinery has made to our area. The employment of personnel is only one, but is perhaps the most important, for these people thus employed turn around and bring to our community participation and leadership, which has been immeasurable over the years. Much could be written about different aspects of Cosden, and will be in this 50th year, but an interesting program is in swing this summer which proves once again that as Cosden benefits itself, it also benefits our community.

Several years ago, the engineering department conceived the idea of bringing young, prospective, soon to be graduated engineers to Big Spring for summer work. Goals were for the participants to obtain practical experience in a refinery, eventually interest them in working for Cosden, and show them benefits of our area. The program has grown, and now also includes the student's coming during Christmas vacation.

Recruitment starts early in the school year with Cosden engineers such as Bobby Fuller, Neal Abernathy and others going on campuses, talking with interested young people and then, selecting them. This summer Cosden has employed 12 students in the Summer Engineering Program. Four, who will be graduated as mechanical engineers within the year, have worked in the project area. Four will soon have degrees in chemical engineering and were assigned to the process area for the summer. Four more are not ready for graduation and they worked in the pilot plant, a testing facility. They will probably return other summers and Christmases.

The sponsors of this program, and it is a joint effort of many in the engineering department, have not stopped at the hiring of these students. They have tried to sell them to the company and on our community, in a day when many young engineers would, at first glance, prefer the excitement of a city and a larger company. The group as a whole has been royally entertained and encouraged to take part in the community. Each has had an opportunity to join one of the Cosden slow pitch softball teams. The team on which they played won first place. This involvement occupied a lot of nights, but there were dinners, lake parties, trips to Midland to see the Summer Mummies and the Midland Cubs.

The 11 young men and one young lady are enthusiastic about Cosden and Big Spring. What did they find, coming here from larger cities, college towns? Greg Noske, a senior mechanical engineering student at Oklahoma State University, worked in Iran last summer, and surely, prefers Big Spring to that assignment, although he was quick to add it was a once in a lifetime experience. He was away from the political situation, and things were just beginning to "shake up" when he left. A college athlete, Greg not only enjoyed the Cosden softball team, but arrives, with several others, at the YMCA to play basketball and racketball at 6:30 a.m. He has high praise for our Y. The diversity of his major could lead him to other fields, if he wants, but he does like petroleum, and has been gratified with the practical experience and the responsibility given him in this summer job.

Steve Weber, a senior chemical engineer at the University of Texas and a native of Austin, was not accustomed to a small town. He thought it would be boring in Big Spring, but a wise move to acquire this experience. He has been amazed, for his activities have kept him busy and the area has proven to be a friendly place in his estimation. He states that Cosden is a good place to work because of a closeness not found in large companies. Steve said that he had learned as much this summer as in the last three years of theory and text books.

Leonard Liboon is only six hours away from graduation at U.T., and could have finished late Christmas, he chose this practical application first. He has been delighted with his responsibilities and projects, which he says will be invaluable in his last courses at school. Even though he is from Killeen, Big Spring is even a smaller town. He likes us, however and has no complaints about shopping or entertainment. The State Park intrigued him, especially the prairie dogs. He considers Cosden very competitive with larger companies.

Ernie Morgan, a Forsan High grad, has a longer association with Cosden, dating back to his writing a senior paper about the plastic industry. Jeff Morris, a Cosden research engineer, took him all around and the end result was a summer job. Ernie has worked two summers and the last school year, while attending Howard College. He represents the younger group working in the pilot plant. Ernie and Steve Wolf are both local students, thus, living at home without the problems others had finding an apartment. He has not been as much a part of the group because of his age, but also because he is taking night courses this summer. The practical experience has intensified his interest in engineering, and he looks forward to entering Texas Tech this fall to pursue that interest.

Kathy Charles is accustomed to her one in 12 ratio, as there are only four girls out of 600, majoring in chemical engineering at Texas A and M. She has had a great time in Big Spring this summer, feeling a part of the group, enjoying the softball games and taking a government course at Howard College. Many people whom she has met locally do not know her occupation and are surprised to learn about it after knowing her. Being a girl in the field does give her an edge for employment, but her interest goes back to high school days in San Antonio, where she took every science course she could. She likes Cosden and a small town, having had experience as a roustabout in the oilfields outside Andrews last summer.

Only 30-40 per cent of the college graduates in engineering fields are able to have a chance for practical experience. Kathy described being able to walk through the catcracker while it was down a few weeks ago, as a rare opportunity. The students enjoyed water skiing, and not one mentioned that the lakes might be nicer around Austin. There were no complaints about one night spots, except that there were few singles. Everyone comes with a date. They commented that it was hard to meet people their age, but thought if they were here on a permanent basis, it would be easier.

Work is slated on interstate

AUSTIN — Bids will be received this month by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation for safety improvements on a section of IS 20 in Howard County.

Abilene District Engineer Roger Welsch said the work will consist of closing openings in medians between culverts. Some culverts will be extended to allow flattening of sideslopes. This will provide safety vehicle recovery areas. Also, some exit and entrance ramps will be rebuilt and guardrails modified to provide additional safety margins.

The work will extend from the Martin County line to US Highway 87 north of Big Spring. Joe Smoot of Big Spring will be the department's engineer in charge of the work.

CHIEF OF STAFF — Kit Dobbelle, during a recent interview, couldn't explain why First Lady Rosalynn Carter needs a $56,000-a-year chief of staff, no matter how many times the question was asked. Mrs. Dobbelle, 34, a native of Hamden, Conn., and current chief of protocol, was hired last week to the newly created position.

Rosalynn's chief paid $56,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — No matter how many times the question was asked, Kit Dobbelle couldn't explain why first lady Rosalynn Carter needed a $56,000-a-year chief of staff.

"We didn't discuss the details of why it was necessary," said Mrs. Dobbelle, the current chief of protocol at the State Department who was hired last week to the newly created position. Mrs. Dobbelle, 34, a native of Hamden, Conn., said she was offered the job by Mrs. Carter. But she repeatedly insisted she did not know why the first lady needed someone of the same rank and pay as President Carter's chief of staff Hamilton Jordan, to manage the first lady's 19-member staff.

"It wasn't a question I thought to ask," Mrs. Dobbelle said in an interview at the end of the week. "I was offered the job, and I took it." White House figures show Carter has 350 staff members, 50 of whom make $40,000 or more. Carter's nine senior staff personnel, including Jordan, national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and press secretary Jody Powell, each make $56,000.

Mrs. Carter's press secretary, Mary Hoyt, who has also served as the first lady's staff coordinator, makes $45,000. In addition to Mrs. Hoyt and four press assistants, Mrs. Carter's staff include a social secretary and two assistants, five schedulers, three project coordinators and three personal assistants.

While Mrs. Carter is widely considered an effective campaigner, her staff has been criticized for being inexperienced and disorganized.

Mrs. Dobbelle is married to Yield signs due by Aug. 27

The Texas Highway Department reminds motorists that signs granting the right-of-way to vehicles entering and exiting highway ramps are being constructed on frontage roads this week.

The yield signs will begin to make their appearance on Monday and all will be posted by Aug. 27.

Previously, motorists traveling the frontage roads had the right-of-way. Motorists are urged to be cautious during the adjustment period.

Number of killings in city may reach 600 by end of year

Houston residents seek bloodbath explanations

HOUSTON (AP) — Death stalks the bars and bedrooms of Houston daily, just as it does in every major city, but last weekend the specter showed its malevolent face here as never before.

From early Friday until late Sunday, 17 murder victims were killed or their bodies were discovered, sending the number of murders in 1979 to 383, 44 percent ahead of last year's record pace.

Some of the 66 homicide detectives now investigating the avalanche of cases say it wouldn't surprise them if the number of killings in the city reached 600 by the end of the year. There were 351 in 1978.

The bloodbath has city residents seeking explanations. Their leaders offer a myriad of sociological reasons, but few solutions.

Most agree that Houston's phenomenal growth, which has overtaxed its relatively small police force of 3,000 officers, is a major contributing factor.

But there is disagreement whether a police department even twice as large could do anything about the murder rate.

"The police department cannot control the murder rate, and I doubt if the entire Fifth Cavalry could have an impact on the homicide rate," said Police Chief Harry Caldwell, who holds an advanced degree in sociology.

Caldwell said he believes the increase in violent crime is the "tragic aftermath of throwing together a tremendous number of people in a small area."

The influx of people creates a community of strangers who don't know each other, help each other or care about each other, Caldwell said, and this creates instability.

When frustrations of unemployment, discrimination, lack of education and poor medical care are added, the police chief said, a climate for crime is created.

Combine with this the "broad proliferation" of handguns in Houston, where "almost everybody has a pistol and carries it with them at all times," he said, and homicide is the result.

Caldwell said homicide is a "personal sort of offense which cannot be prevented unless a policeman is stationed in everybody's front room."

But a University of Houston professor who has studied the city's crime rate and its causes said the popular belief that most murders are crimes of passion is not necessarily true.

More police, stiffer penalties and tougher courts would make a difference in the homicide rate, said Dale Cloninger, associate professor of public affairs.

"Studies here and in other cities have shown that homicide is not necessarily a purely emotional crime as has been thought," Cloninger said.

Cloninger said it is true that friends or relatives are more likely to kill each other than strangers. But he said he believes fewer people would put themselves in a position where they might murder someone else if the risks of arrest and punishment were greater.

"In comparing homicide rates from year to year, we found that almost every year where homicide arrests increased, the homicide rate went down," Cloninger said. "When arrests decreased, the rate increased."

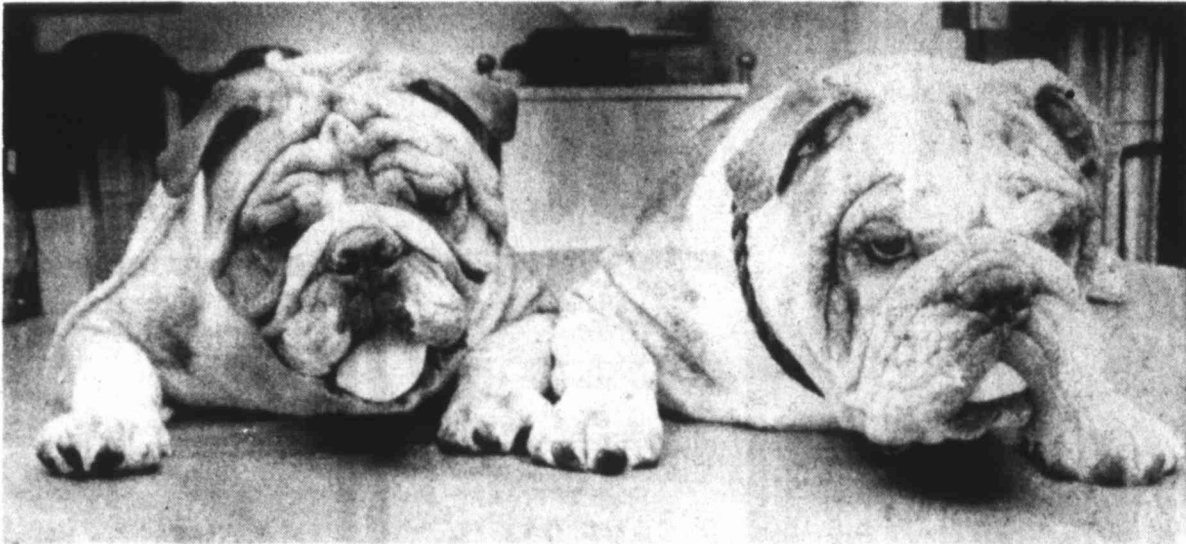

"I think this is more than a coincidence," he said. "If the risk of getting caught is high and the penalties are very stiff, people would not allow pure passion to take over and commit the crime."

"Or, they would not put themselves in a position where they might kill someone else," he continued. "Man is rational and makes decisions according to benefits to himself, risks to himself and costs to himself. Increased risks and increased costs would make people who might consider committing homicide think twice about it."

Capital punishment has not been a deterrent, Cloninger said, because there have been no executions. Houston juries have been crowding Death Row with convicted murderers, but none has been executed.

"Down at the police department, they believe to a man that there is nothing they can do to prevent homicides, and when they take that attitude, they're right," he said. "A larger police force with a bigger budget won't solve the problem, but it will make a difference."

Clements vows to stay out of tug-and-war

DALLAS (AP) — Gov. William P. Clements, whose election last year broke a century of Democratic monopoly on Texas' top political job, says he'll stay out of next year's presidential tug-and-war.

With two Texans in the race — former Texas Gov. John Connally and former national GOP chairman George Bush — "there is no place in this for me as a favorite son," Clements said in interviews with editors and reporters of the Dallas Times Herald.

Connally — who served Texas as a Democratic governor for six years and became a Republican in 1973, will win the Texas Republican presidential primary over Ronald Reagan because he "projects leadership," Clements said.

The Texas governor again insisted his neutrality in the race, however. His son, Gil, has contributed financially to Connally's campaign, but Clements said he was unaware of it.

Clements said he thinks U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., will choose not to challenge President Carter for the 1980 Democratic nomination because of fears he, like his two brothers, would be assassinated.

"I think he is scared. He feels he'll be shot. I have to agree with him," Clements said.

"We have a sufficient number of nuts in this country that somebody probably will shoot him."

The longtime drilling contractor, who gave up management of his own international firm after he was elected, said he feels Carter will emerge as a surprisingly hard-to-beat Democratic nominee, despite popularity polls touching a near-record low.

"He will be terribly hard to unseat," Clements said.

The Texas governor said that realization, as well as the assassination threat, will prompt Kennedy to stay out of the race.

"Mr. Kennedy is not going to undertake that kind of choice. I don't think he's going to run," Clements said.

He said Carter's only likely Democratic rival will be California Gov. Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown.

"I cannot believe the American public will accept him as a candidate," said Clements. He called Brown a vulnerable candidate because of "a somewhat unstable and flaky" image.

STAUBACH TO PERRY — Houston Oilers strong safety Verno Perry (32) heads up field with a off target Roger Staubach pass in the first quarter of the National Football League exhibition game in Texas Stadium Saturday night. Drew Pearson of the Cowboys heads after Perry.

Dallas Cowboys hang on to tip Houston

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Reserve fullback Alois Blackwell, fighting for a spot on the Dallas roster, scored two second-half touchdowns and the struggling Cowboys overcame the Houston Oilers 16-13 Saturday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

Houston built a 13-0 lead midway through the third quarter before Roger Staubach got Dallas' high-powered offense into gear into this game billed as the "pro championship of Texas."

Dallas, which had only three first downs in the first half, drove 77 yards behind Staubach to Butch Johnson passes before Blackwell scored on a one-yard plunge.

After Rafael Septien kicked a 37-yard field goal to narrow the Dallas deficit to 13-10, Staubach moved the Cowboys 41 yards in seven plays for the go-ahead touchdown.

Blackwell, a second year back from the University of Houston, barreled his way four yards for a touchdown, but the extra point went awry because of a poor center snap.

Toni Fritsch kicked field goals of 42 and 22 yards for a 6-0 Oiler halftime lead. Wide receiver Ken Burrough caught an 15-yard touchdown pass from backup quarterback Gifford Nielsen to put Houston on top 13-0 in the third quarter before the Cowboys warmed up.

A final Houston rally died at the Oiler 45-yard line when defensive end Harvey Martin sacked Nielsen and tackle Randy White recovered Nielsen's fumble on the play.

Houston's all-pro running back Earl Campbell rushed 12 times for 76 yards but did not play after a final appearance early in the third quarter.

Campbell had a 38-yard run to set up the Oilers' second field goal.

Staubach completed 15 of 28 passes for 177 yards, but also served up two interceptions.

The Oilers sacked Staubach four times, but the Cowboy returned the favor on Nielsen, trapping him four times.

The Cowboys extended their preseason record over the Oilers in this game for the "Governor's Cup" to 9-4.

Both teams substituted freely, although Staubach went all the way.

Nielsen was playing for Dan Pastorini, who missed the game with shoulder injury.

Dallas is now 2-2 in the preseason, while Houston is 1-2.

David Graham is leader by stroke

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Australian David Graham, the recently-crowned PGA champion, mastered very difficult playing conditions with a two-under-par 69 and regained the lead Saturday in the third round of the $400,000 Westchester Classic.

Graham, who led the first round before dropping two shots back over the next 18 holes, established a one-stroke advantage over rookie Scott Simpson with a 54-hole total of 207, six shots under par.

Simpson, 23, had a hard-won 70 in the cool, windy, occasionally rainy weather that cut deeply into the anticipated gallery and produced some of the highest scores ever on the 6,603-yard Westchester Country Club course.

Simpson had a 208 total going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $72,000 first prize.

It was another two strokes back to Jack Renner, Lon Hinkle, Bob Murphy and Tom Kite, tied at 210.

Renner shot a 70, Hinkle a 72 and Murphy closed up with a 69.

Kite, the second-round leader, bogeyed four of five holes in one stretch on the back nine and scored his only birdie of the day on the 18th, finishing off a disappointing 74 that left him three shots off the pace.

Renner, also within striking distance, said he had no thought of winning the tournament, however.

"Realistically, I have no expectation whatsoever of winning the golf tournament," said Renner, who lost to Jerry McGee in a stretch-run struggle for the Hartford Open title. "I'm still in a daze from that," Renner said.

Howard Twitty, with a 71, and George Burns, 72, were at 211.

Leading money-winner Tom Watson shot a 70 that put him at 214, seven strokes back. Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller was 70-216 and 67-year-old Sam Snead went to a 77 that left him at 223.

Cards lose to Chiefs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Steady Jan Stenerud booted two field goals and Horace Belton made a finger-tip catch of a 25-yard touchdown pass from rookie Steve Fuller to lift the Kansas City Chiefs to a 20-3 National Football League exhibition victory Saturday night over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Stenerud, a 13-year veteran who ranks sixth on the NFL's all-time scoring list, hit a 51-yard field goal in the second quarter and added a 36-yarder in the third, his third successful kick in four attempts during preseason.

The Chiefs held a 13-3 lead midway through the fourth period when Fuller, a first-round draft choice from Clemson, threw a touchdown pass as he was being hit by defensive end Bob Rozier.

Cleveland decided by Detroit, 21 to 10

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Detroit quarterback Gary Danielson and wide receiver Luther Blue connected on first-half touchdown passes of 33 and 39 yards as the Lions defeated the Cleveland Browns 21-10 in a National Football League exhibition game Saturday night.

Danielson completed seven of 10 attempts for 155 yards.

Danielson led the Lions to touchdowns in each of the first three periods. The Browns put together their lone touchdown drive in the final period, going 58 yards in eight plays, culminating in a 9-yard scoring toss from reserve quarterback Mark

Miller to Pat Moriarty.

The victory, before 55,623 fans at the Silverdome, pushed the Lions' preseason record to 2-1 while the Browns slipped to 1-2.

Saturday baseball

Phils 1, Astros 0

HOUSTON (AP) — Greg Gross tripled home Del Unser with two out in the eighth inning and Larry Christenson, Tug McGraw and Ron Reed combined in a 10-hit shutout as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Houston Astros and J.R. Richard 1-0 Saturday night.

Richard, 12-12, had given up only three hits until Gross, a former Astro, connected to drive in Unser, who batted for Christenson and walked.

Christenson, 4-8, worked seven innings, allowed eight hits and struck out three as the Phillies handed Houston its third consecutive loss, trimming the Astros' lead in the National League West to 2½ games over Cincinnati. The lead is Houston's smallest since June 19.

The Astros had three excellent scoring opportunities but Philadelphia double plays killed the threats.

In the Astros' ninth, singles by Jose Cruz and Enos Cabell put runners at first and third with none out. Reed replaced McGraw and started a double play on Jeff Leonard's comebacker as Cruz held third. Pinch-hitter Dennis Walling flied out to end the game.

Reds 4, Mets 3

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dave Concepcion's one-out double in the bottom of the ninth inning scored Junior Kennedy from first base with the winning run and gave the Cincinnati Reds a 4-3 victory over the New York Mets Saturday night.

Although John Stearns' two-run homer in the top of the ninth following a two-out walk to Sergio Ferrer tied the score, Mike LaCoss, 13-5, pitched his fifth complete game of the season, allowing only five hits.

Neil Allen, 4-6, the Mets' third pitcher, walked Kennedy with one out in the ninth and Concepcion followed with his game-winning hit.

Cincinnati took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Johnny Bench reached base on an infield hit, went to third on a single by Hector Cruz and scored on Paul Blair's forceout as the Mets barely missed an inning-ending double play.

Bench hit his 232rd career homer and 13th of the season leading off the fourth inning, leaving him one behind Frank Robinson's club record.

Cards 5, Giants 4

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pinch-hitter Dane Iorg singled home two runs with the bases loaded and one out in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-4 triumph over the San Francisco Giants Saturday night.

Vida Blue, 10-10, who had blanked the Cards since the first inning, yielded a leadoff infield hit to George Hendrick in the ninth. Tony Scott hit into a forceout but Ken Reitz singled and Ken Oberfell walked preceding Iorg's hit, which fell in front of charging left fielder Larry Herndon.

Roy Thomas, 2-2, who pitched two scoreless innings, was the winner in relief of Pete Vuckovich.

Darrell Evans drove in three San Francisco runs with a single and a two-run homer. Evans' homer, his 16th, came with two out in the sixth and gave the Giants a 4-3 lead.

The triumph extended San Francisco's losing streak to four games and dropped the Giants into fourth place in the National League West, one-half game behind the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Dodgers win, 5-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dusty Baker drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and his 16th home run of the season to lead the streaking Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday night.

The loss was the first-place Pirates' second in a row after a six-game winning streak and cut their margin over Montreal in the National League East to two games. The Expos nipped Atlanta 2-1. The Dodgers have won five games in a row and 21 of 29 since the All-Star break.

Baker's sacrifice fly off loser Don Robinson, 6-6, scored Steve Garvey to break a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning. Garvey had doubled and reached third on an infield out.

In the sixth, Garvey singled and was forced by Ron Cey. But Baker then hammered a pitch over the 400-foot mark in dead center field. Gary Thomasson homered in the ninth for the Dodgers' final run.

Rangers 7, Brewers 3

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Al Oliver hit two run-scoring doubles, the second capping a four-run second inning, leading the Texas Rangers to a 7-3 victory over Milwaukee Saturday night that ended the Brewers' six-game winning streak and the Rangers' six-game losing streak.

Ferguson Jenkins, 13-9, and Jim Kern combined on an 11-hitter, with Kern recording his 20th save.

Oliver gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead with a double in the first inning that scored Mickey Rivers, who had singled. The Brewers tied it in the bottom of the first on a walk to Don Money and singles by Cecil Cooper and Gorman Thomas.

The Rangers took the lead for good in the second inning by scoring four times. Richie Zisk led off with a single off loser Jim Slaton, 12-7, and Willie Montanez, Jim Sundberg and Nelson Norman all followed with singles to make it 2-1.

Boston wins, 8-2

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Rice and Bob Watson belted two-run homers and veteran Ted Sizemore had three consecutive key hits in his American League debut Saturday, powering the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox in a game called after 5½ innings because of rain.

Backed by an 11-hit attack, right-hander Steve Renko, 9-7, posted his first victory since tossing a one-hitter against Oakland July 13. Renko allowed four hits, including Mike Squires' first major league homer and Lamar Johnson's 10th of the year.

With their fifth victory in six games and seven in the last nine, the Red Sox moved 30 games over .500 — 75-45 — for the second time this season.

The Red Sox, handcuffed by left-hander Ross Baumgarten Friday night, bounced back with their big guns against southpaw Steve Trout, 7-6, who lasted only three innings.

Sizemore, acquired from the Chicago Cubs Friday night, made his debut at second base for the Red Sox. He had a double and two singles, scoring one run and driving in two. Rice also had two singles, and hit his 33rd homer, a tremendous shot high over the screen in left at Fenway Park, in the third.

Orioles 9, Royals 2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gary Roenicke hit his seventh home run of the season against Kansas City Saturday night as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Royals 9-2 and remained four games ahead of Boston in the American League East.

It was Roenicke's 19th home run of the season and his seventh in eight hits against the Royals this season.

Roenicke, who also had a single, homered off loser Larry Gura, 8-9, in the third inning. The Orioles, who had managed only 19 hits in their previous five games, banded out 14 against Gura and reliever Marty Pattin.

Ken Singleton, coming out of a 2-for-27 slump, led the attack with three hits while Roenicke, Eddie Murray, Doug DeCinces and Lee May each had two and Mark Belanger contributed a RBI triple.

Scott McGregor, 8-4, with relief help from Dave Ford, got the victory.

The crowd of 37,645 boosted Baltimore's home attendance to a club record 1,226,484. The previous one-season high was 1,203,366 in 1966, the first year the Orioles won the American League pennant.

Expos 2, Braves 1

MONTREAL (AP) — Dave Cash delivered a run-scoring pinch single in the ninth inning, and Steve Rogers fired a five-hitter to lift the Montreal Expos to a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday.

Ellis Valentine led off the ninth inning with a double off the left center field wall against reliever Joey McLaughlin, 4-2, and advanced to third on a sacrifice bunt by Larry Parrish.

Cash, who is hitting .308 as a pinch hitter this season, was sent to the plate to bat for Duffy Dyer and promptly drilled his game-winning hit just inside the right field foul line.

Rogers, 11-7, who walked five and struck out six batters, completed his 11th game of the season, as the Expos defeated Atlanta for the seventh time in eight meetings this year.

The Braves took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on Bob Horner's RBI single. The Expos tied it in the fourth Rusty Staub's home run.

CONTEH KNOCKED DOWN — John Conteh of Great Britain lies on canvas after being knocked down by Matthew Saad Muhammad (Matthew Franklin), in the 14th round of the WBC world light-heavyweight fight in Atlantic City Saturday. Muhammad retained his championship with a unanimous decision.

Matthew Muhammad is winner by decision

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A courageous Matthew Saad Muhammad, bleeding profusely over his left eye from a cut sustained in the fifth round, rebounded gamely to pound out a unanimous decision Saturday over John Conteh and retained his World Boxing Council light heavyweight championship.

Muhammad received a wicked cut above the eye and another one on the side of his nose from a butt that was ruled accidental by referee Carlos Pabilla of the Philippines. The butt reopened a wound Muhammad received when he defeated Marvin Johnson for the title April 22 in a brutal eight-round match.

Muhammad, the former Matthew Franklin, was behind on the scorecard of judges Charles Spina of New Jersey, Harry Gibbs of London and referee Padilla entering the 14th round. With his corner urging him to go for a knockout, Muhammad landed a vicious left-right combination that dazed Conteh before a left uppercut sent Conteh reeling to the canvas. The Englishman got up at the count of eight but was defensively back as Muhammad bore back in.

With 12 seconds to go in the round, Muhammad connected with two left hands to Conteh's nose that sent the former champion onto his back.

Conteh got back up and was allowed to continue after Padilla checked his condition.

Conteh, who fought virtually one-handed to protect a right hand that has been broken twice and bruised last winter in a car accident, piled up early points with a precise left jab and his ability to duck Muhammad's wild rights.

Muhammad began to hit his stride in the fourth round, taking his time and scoring with effective combinations. But as the fighters battled in close toward the end of the fifth round, Conteh, who had a history of butting, smacked Muhammad on the left eye. The 24-year-old Muhammad fought gamely the remainder of the 15-round fight, while his corner tried in vain to stop the bleeding.

Padilla scored the fight 146-142 for Muhammad, Gibbs had it 144-143 and Spina gave Muhammad the decision 146-141 on the New Jersey 10-point system.

Muhammad, now 24-3-2, earned $150,000 for the nationally televised fight in the show theater of the Resorts International Hotel. The 28-year-old Conteh, 33-3-1, picked up $50,000. Muhammad weighed 172½ and Conteh 175.

Conteh held the WBC crown from 1974 to 1977 but was stripped of his title when he refused to fight Argentine Miguel Cuello in a dispute over purses. He failed in his attempt last year to win the title back when he lost a controversial split decision to Mate Parlov.

The fight, which produced a live gate of $90,000 in the 1,700-seat theater, was the first title bout in Atlantic City since 1963, when Tony Giardello defeated Dick Tiger for the middleweight crown.

Chargers' line swings issue in 10-3 contest

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Dan Fouts threw a 14-yard pass to Greg McCrary for the game's only touchdown and the San Diego Chargers downed the New York Giants 7-3 in a National Football League preseason contest Saturday night.

The Chargers' defensive line, led by John Lee, Wilbur Young, Gary "Big Hands" Johnson, Fred Dean and Leroy Jones, dominated the game — recording nine sacks for 62 yards in losses and sending Giant quarterbacks Joe Pisarcik and Randy Dean to the sidelines with injuries.

Pisarcik was knocked out early in the game, decked as he completed a 27-yard pass play with Ken Johnson for the Giants' longest gain of the game. He suffered a bruised arm on the play, which moved the ball into position for Joe Danelo's 28-yard field goal that gave New York the early lead.

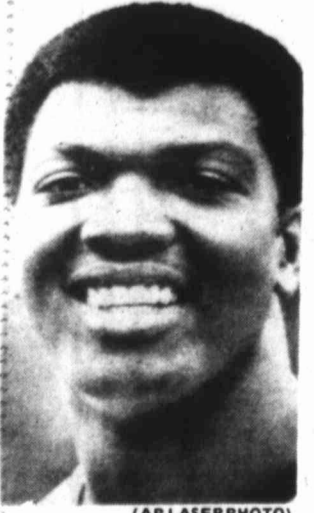

Dean replaced Pisarcik and was intercepted by Willie Buchanan at the Giants' 34 with 8:18 left in the first half. Fouts then hit Mike Thomas for 11 yards and McCrary for 11 more, moving the ball to the Giants' 14.

Then, on second down, he found McCrary alone at the 3-yard line and the tight end went into the end zone for the deciding touchdown.

Punishment unlikely

Blue Jay hits blue note

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Toronto relief pitcher Tom Buskey believes the Blue Jays need a new manager, and expects to be punished for saying so. But team President Peter Bavasi says he doesn't plan any disciplinary action.

"I made that statement, it was my opinion," said Buskey, who was quoted as saying that Roy Hartsfield should be replaced as the Blue Jays' Manager. "I caught hell for it from management, but that was expected."

"I think there'll be some form of retaliation," added the 32-year-old right-hander, who has been the Blue Jays' most effective relief pitcher this season. "I'll be called on the carpet, I've been there before. I just want to be totally honest. I have to say it for myself and my family."

While obviously not overjoyed with the remarks made by Buskey Friday night, Bavasi emphasized that no punishment would be forthcoming.

"Another superstar popping off," was Bavasi's first reaction when asked about Buskey's comments. "I can assure you he won't be called on the carpet. There will be no retaliation. The fellow's just uttering his opinions."

Hartsfield, the only manager the three-year-old Blue Jays have had, would not comment publicly on Buskey's charges. His team has the second-worst record in the major leagues this year.

But Bavasi said, "Roy's doing a good job. He's only as good as the players we're providing for him. He can't hit and pitch for them. He has the toughest job in our organization. He's certainly weathered the storm very well."

"I think all of our players are entitled to their opinions but I don't think any of our players have any say as to who's our manager," continued Bavasi. "There's freedom of speech in both the United States and Canada and I'm glad to see our players taking full advantage of this.

"Buskey's done a good job for us this year, but I don't think we're going to put much stock in the opinion of a reclamation project."

Buskey spent most of the 1978 season in the minor leagues, but he's 5-5 with a 2.28 earned run average in 28 appearances this year. The 32-year-old right-hander has been credited with five of the Blue Jays' eight saves.

"I know my ability," he said. "I can do better."

Buskey implied that other players on the team felt the same way he did but "they don't want to be quoted, their jobs might be on the line."

The pitcher also called for a change in front office policy, saying: "They're going with just young kids. I think the team needs a blend of youth and experience."

Said Bavasi: "The players are not going to make those decisions for us. I don't think that's the way it is in baseball."

In AAU Swim Meet

Mary Meagher top qualifier

FOT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Mary Meagher of Louisville, Ky., who set two world records Thursday, was the top qualifier in the 100-meter butterfly Saturday at the National AAU

Swimming Championships. Meagher, 14, who broke her world record in the 200 butterfly in the preliminaries and in the final, was timed in 1 minute, 0.91 seconds in the 100 butterfly prelims, 1½ seconds off the world record held by Andrea Pollack of East Germany. Joan Pennington of Madison, Tenn., the defending champion, barely made the final, getting the eighth and last qualifying spot.

Bob Jackson of San Jose, Calif., the defending national 100 backstroke champion and winner at the Pan American Games in San Juan, Puerto Rico last month, had the best qualifying time in the event Saturday. Clay Britt of Rockville, Md. was second, behind Jackson's time of 57.31 seconds.

Cynthia Woodhead of Riverside, Calif., going for her third individual title of the meet, was the third fastest qualifier in her world record specialty, the 200 freestyle. But she was only .01 of a second behind the fastest qualifying time of 2:02.52 by both Marybeth Linzmeier of Mission Viejo, Calif. and Stephanie Elkins of Jacksonville, Md.

Rose Magers training with volleyball stars

COLORADO SPRINGS — Rose Magers of Big Spring is training with the U.S.A. Junior Women's Volleyball Team at the U.S. Olympic Training Center here.

Magers, one of the 15 members of the volleyball team, is training for various competitions under the direction of Steve Sneed, international coach. In all, more than 15,000 athletes have been selected by the National Sports Governing Bodies to use the training centers here and at Squaw Valley, Calif. Both centers are sponsored nationally by Burger King restaurants.

Magers, a two-time High School All-State, received the Most Valuable Player Award twice at Big Spring High School. She now attends the University of Houston.

The Olympic training centers have been in operation two years. However, it wasn't until Burger King recently pledged $1 million annually during the next two years that the U.S. Olympic Committee could begin refurbishing the existing facilities and installing a number of new programs. The Burger King commitment marks the first major breakthrough in corporate funding for the training centers.

"The training centers should finally enable our athletes to reach their potential in international competition," said Bob Mathias, two-time decathlon gold medalist and now director of the Colorado Springs facility. "The Russians and East Germans have been providing similar training facilities for their athletes for years."

Says Magers: "There has been a tremendous need for training centers for amateur athletes. The centers will give us an equal chance when competing against foreign athletes."

For the first time, Magers as well as other athletes and coaches now have centralized facilities at which to polish their skills and physical condition. They will also benefit from the new, sophisticated sports medicine programs available at the centers.

Garcia and Hernandez lead in Partnership

It took a 71 or better to make the championship flight in the 1979 Big Spring Municipal Partnership Golf Tournament Saturday, and ten twosomes made the cutoff.

The 36-hole event, which ends today, is being played at Comanche Trail Golf Course.

The tandem of Garcia and Hernandez leads the way with a 67, two strokes better than four other twosomes, who are tied for the runnerup spot.

Coming in with 69s were L. Gross and G. Gross, Jimmy Welch and Jackie Touchstone, Roach and Newsom and Rains and Weaver.

The combination of Booth and White settled for a 70 to remain in contention.

Scoring 71s were Schaffer and Stewart, Cox and Stewart, Waters and Wyatt and Barrow and Sharpnack.

It took a team shooting in the 72-75 range to rate the First Flight.

Qualifiers in that division were S. Subia and J. Subia, 72; Chavarria and Rodriguez, 72; Hamilton and Phillips, 74; Maynard and Wolff, 74; Rogers and Mont-

Redskins in front

ATLANTA (AP) — Joe Theismann fired two touchdown passes and set up a field goal with a 19-yard run as the Washington Redskins downed the Atlanta Falcons 16-6 in a National Football League preseason game Saturday night.

Theismann hurled a 30-yard scoring pass to Ricky Thompson early in the second quarter for the first Washington touchdown in three preseason games and connected with Danny Buggs on a 59-yard scoring play in the third quarter as the Redskins lifted their record

Connors tries Mike Cahill

STOWE, Vt. (AP) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors breezed to a 6-3, 6-0 victory over fourth-ranked John Kriek and unseeded Mike Cahill upended No. 2 seed Tim Gullikson 6-4, 6-3 in the semifinals of a Grand Prix tennis tournament Saturday.

Connors, the tournament's defending champion, will meet Cahill Sunday for the championship. The two never have faced each other in competition. The $75,000 tournament is sponsored by English Leather.

BEATS TOSS — Seattle's Julio Cruz, 6, beats the ball to second base and Detroit's Mark Wagner, 5, as he gets a stolen base Friday in their game in Seattle. Cruz later scored in the first inning.

In Tomjanovich case

Jury very generous

HOUSTON (AP)—Maybe, just maybe, said Houston Rocket star center Moses Malone, professional players will now think twice before fighting on the courts of the National Basketball Association.

The verdict reached Friday by a federal court jury in Houston, awarding $3.3 million to Rocket forward Rudy Tomjanovich for injuries suffered when hit in the face by former Los Angeles Laker Kermit Washington, brought the comment from Malone, who recently was named the most valuable player in the NBA for the 1978-1979 season.

He said, "It will make a lot of ballplayers, and especially owners, wonder what will happen to them if something like this ever happens again. Owners are going to realize that it shouldn't happen again...that violence. This may put a stop to it."

The jury of five men and one woman listened to two weeks of testimony in the celebrated case, deliberated five hours, and returned an award some $600,000 above what attorney's for Tomjanovich had asked.

The Rockets organization still has a $1.4 million suit against the Lakers' organization for loss of Tomjanovich's services. The jury will hear testimony on it later.

Joseph Jamail of Houston, a widely-known injury suit lawyer who has won in recent years millions of dollars in settlements, told The Associated Press, "for a jury to go above the amount requested is not common. When it does happen it means the jury is completely turned off by what occurred. They believe it was an act with malice and with disregard for a person's safety; it was a brutal act, an act outside the human element."

Film clips of the blow that landed flush on the face of Tomjanovich, in black-and-white and in color, in normal and in slow motion, were shown over and over to the jurors. Each time it was the same — Washington swinging a right and Tomjanovich hitting the floor of the Los Angeles Forum, covering his face with both hands, staggering to his feet and then being led to the dressing room.

Ray Patterson, Rocket general manager, said the verdict "is a landmark decision. It will do a great deal to make a club responsible for its players. It has justified our concept that the club was responsible and had to pay. It has placed the liability on them and that's what we have claimed all along."

Rocket guard Mike Newlin, who was a witness during the trial, said the jurors "apparently decided that individual acts of violence are not part of the game of professional basketball. The verdict demonstrates that the responsibility for unnecessary violence isn't taken lightly. As long as justice is done — good."

The story began on the night of Dec. 9, 1977, early in the third quarter of a Rocket-Laker game.

Testimony by a score of witnesses, including Washington and Tomjanovich, gave this sequel of events.

The Rockets were on a fast break. Kevin Kunnert, then the Rocket center and now a teammate of Washington with the San Diego Clippers, made a run upcourt. Washington grabbed his pants to slow his progress.

Here there was some difference in testimony. Kunnert said he slapped Washington's hand away from his shorts.

Washington said Kunnert gave him an elbow in the head and then took a hefty swing.

It led to an exchange of blows between the two. Laker center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar stepped in, obviously to break up the fight. He grabbed Kunnert. Washington swung at least twice more, hitting Kunnert on the side of the head.

Enter from upcourt, Tomjanovich.

Washington said "I saw a blur coming directly at me. I swung. It was a reaction."

Tomjanovich went down. He suffered a fractured skull, fractured jaw, broken nose, numerous facial injuries, and leakage of spinal fluid.

He was not to return to the lineup until the next season.

Throughout the trial, defense attorney Robert Dunn of Houston attempted to prove that Washington had acted in self-defense and that fighting was a part of professional basketball.

Tomjanovich's attorney argued that the blow landed by Washington was done with malice and that the Laker forward had a history of violence on the court, including a total of nine fights in some four years, including several with his own teammates during practice.

Former NBA great Jerry West, coach of the Lakers at the time of the incident, said he deplored violence and that fighting had no place in professional basketball.

Cowboy reign is in peril

DALLAS (AP) — Be there inflation or recession, some things remain constant: The Dallas Cowboys usually ride their National Conference Eastern Division gravy train into the playoffs.

But there are some injury bugs in the gravy this year.

Can the Cowboys win without the heart of their Doomsday Defense, Charlie Waters, the heady strong safety who is down and out for the regular season with damaged knee ligaments?

Will star running back Tony Dorsett's broken toe keep him from his 1,000 yards a year pace?

How fast will punter and backup quarterback Danny White's broken thumb mend?

If that's not enough suspense for you, how about the retirements of crack defenders tackle Jethro Pugh and end Ed (Too Tall) Jones? Will the left side of the Cowboy flex collapse?

Eat your heart out daytime soap operas. There may be some REAL drama in the NFC East this year.

"The Cowboys have lost players in the past and still won," says new New York Giant Coach Ray Perkins.

Perkins has done his homework.

In the 1970s there have been five Super Bowl trips worth two National Football League championship rings. The Cowboys have been in the playoffs 12 times in the last 13 years.

Last year the big question was finding a replacement for disgruntled placekicker Efen Herrera. Rafael Septien rubbed out the question and replaced it with a period. So, Dallas made it to the Super Bowl and lost to Pittsburgh in a thriller.

"The Cowboys can be beaten," says Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil, but adds "when they play to the level of their coaching staff and ability, they'll win—that's all there is to it."

However, the Cowboys have proved most human in losing two out of their three exhibition games.

Landry has long past the point where he gets panicky over exhibition results. His teams traditionally start slow, then pound down the homestretch of the NFC East to win going away.

But this year he sees a new threat emerging, the Eagles, who made the playoffs last year as a wild card team.

"The Eagles are well coached and in the right frame of mind," says Landry. "Whether they're Super Bowl material I don't know. But they surely have enough going for them to win the division or the playoffs."

Of course the Cowboys return the No. 1 quarterback in the NFL, Roger Staubach, plus a deep backfield with the likes of Preston Pearson, Robert Newhouse and sixth-round draft surprise Ron Springs of Ohio State. Their offensive line has another year's experience and there are four gifted receivers, Tony Hill, Drew Pearson, Butch Johnson and tight end Billy Joe DuPree.

Larry Cole has moved to defensive end in Jones' old spot and third-year veteran Dave Stalls is battling second-year vet Larry Bethea for Pugh's post. Five-year vet Randy Hughes has moved into Waters' spot.

Vermeil has some running back problems at Philadelphia with the loss of Mike Hogan, charged with violation of cocaine possession laws. Cleveland Franklin is vying for Hogan's position.

Some major acquisitions by the Eagles include former Atlanta defensive end Claude Humphrey, quarterback Sonny Wade and placekicker Tony Franklin, a rookie who sent vet Nick Mike-Mayer packing, and rookie linebacker Jerry Robinson.

Vermeil still says the Eagles are "three or four years" away from the Super Bowl.

St. Louis, shocked by the death of tight end J.V. Cain in training camp, has two excellent rookie running backs in Otis Anderson and Theodis Brown. Noseguard Charlie Davis returns after missing the 1978 season with injuries.

Coach Bud Wilkinson says "I think we've strengthened our team through the draft."

The Giants had their share of tragedy in the off-season when defensive end Troy Archer was killed in an automobile accident.

Quarterback is a big problem for Perkins, who must choose between rookie Phil Simms of Morehead State and Joe Pisarcik.

Pete Rose unhappy

Woman takes bat home

HOUSTON (AP) — It was a frustrating night for Pete Rose even though Philadelphia beat Houston to move within 8½ games of the leader of their division, the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Lefthander Randy Lerch scattered seven hits to dominate the Astros batters and take a 5-2 win Friday, raising his season record to 7-11.

Rose, who needed two hits to raise his number of career hits to 3,311 and tie Eddie Collins as the sixth most prolific batter in baseball history, went 0-4 and lost his favorite bat to what he said was a selfish fan.

The bat flew out of Rose's hands in the seventh inning while he was swinging at a third strike and into the seats behind the Astros dugout. No one was injured, but the woman almost hit by the errant lumber decided to keep it.

She rejected attempts by Astros officials to trade first an autographed ball and later an unused bat for Rose's pride and joy. Whenever officials or police moved toward the woman, they were roundly booed by the more than 30,000 Astros fans.

When she left shortly before the end of the game, officials and police trailed after her, but it was unknown whether they retrieved the bat.

In the locker room after the game, Rose hadn't gotten his bat back and was perturbed by the turn of events. He was even more indignant, however, at suggestions that he may have let the bat go on purpose.

"The bat just slipped out of my hands," he said. "I've batted 11,000 times and its the first time that ever happened."

"I broke Honus Wagner's alltime singles record with that bat last week and I was going to send it to the Hall of Fame," he continued. "Now all of the fans who might have seen it will suffer because one selfish fan wouldn't give it back."

Despite Rose's slow night at the plate, the Phillies capitalized on early wildness by loser Frank LaCorte, 1-1, to get all the runs they needed to win in the first inning.

LaCorte walked Bake McBride and Rose to open the game, and both scored when a Mike Schmidt blooped down the right field line became a triple as outfielder Jeff Leonard ran all the way to the foul line, then watched the ball bounce over his head. Schmidt later scored on a sacrifice fly by Greg Luzinski.

The Phils picked up their next run in the second inning as Manny Trillo doubled, moved to third on a bunt by Lerch and scored on a single from McBride.

Their last run came in the eighth as Larry Bowa reached first with a bunt single, stole second, moved to third on a fielder's choice and scored on an Astros double play attempt that was only half successful.

Houston's only tallies came on an RBI grounder by Terry Puhl in the first inning and Enos Cabell's fourth-inning homerun, his first of the season in the Astrodome.

The loss decreased to 3½ games Houston's lead over second-place Cincinnati in the National League West.

Season tickets on sale here

Tampa Bay Buccaneers hang on to tip Saints

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Quarterback Mike Rae and tailback Ricky Bell combined on a 14-yard touchdown pass in the third period to snap a 7-7 tie and lead the Tampa Bay Buccaneers to a 14-7 National Football League preseason victory over the New Orleans Saints at Tampa Stadium Saturday night.

Bell's TD, culminating a 12-play, 74-yard drive, gave the Bucs their first preseason victory and put their mark at 1-2 while the Saints dropped to 0-3.

Starting quarterback Doug Williams drew first blood for Tampa, capping a seven-play, 88-yard drive with a 62-yard touchdown pass play to wide receiver Larry Mucker in the opening period. Neil O'Donoghue kicked the extra point to make it 7-0.

PASS INTERFERENCE — Donald Dykes of the New York Jets manages to bat a pass out of the arms of Larry Douglas of the Pittsburgh Steelers, right, on the four yard line of the Jets in the fourth quarter of Friday night's 27-14 Steelers win at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J. The play set up another Steelers touchdown when Dykes was called for interference on the play.

Meyer is high on newcomers

DALLAS, Texas (AP) — help us. You can't coach Never has so much been said about a football program that has produced so little.

"People keep saying we could be 5-0 to start the season but I look at our schedule and it scares me to death," says Ron Meyer, the head coach of Southern Methodist University's football team. "It could happen but I'm not going to put my big foot in my bigger mouth and say it will."

"Right now I can't say what's in the picture for us but I don't want to put any limitations on it, either."

Meyer has yet to have a winning season at SMU. His excuse has been a good one—he's never had a Southwest Conference running back.

Now, he has young talent on the hoof with the likes of Eric Dickerson, Craig James, and Charles Wagener, who have the speed to turn slivers of daylight into touchdowns.

Meyer won't have an excuse if he doesn't win this season and he knows it.

"It's time to win," says Meyer. "That's our theme now. We won't settle for anything less. We will play everybody to the hilt."

Forecasters look at SMU's young team and say there's no way it can depend on youngsters winning a SWC title.

Yet, freshmen have proved they can help any collegiate team at skill positions such as running back and receiver.

"I'm not putting any pressure on Eric or Craig when I say I think they can help us the first year," says Meyer. "I know they can

Three local bowling leagues to organize

Three local bowling leagues will hold organizational meetings the coming week.

The Fun Foursome Mixed Couples League will meet in the conference room at the Bowlarama Tuesday evening to plan its winter activity. All former members of the league are being urged to attend.

The league is made up of 4-member teams. Bowling takes place at 8:30 p.m., each Tuesday night. Newcomers are urged to sign up.

The league will start bowling either Aug. 28 or Sept. 4. Those who can't attend the meeting but who would like to take part in league activities can contact Ed Booth at 263-2408.

The Newcomers Ladies League and the Industrial League will organize Wednesday. The newcomers meet at 7 p.m., at the Bowlarama, the Industrial League at 8:30 p.m., at the same place.

Those who would like to compete in the Newcomers League can contact Louise Booth at 263-2408.

The Industrial League is a men's circuit. Each team is made up of five members, but can have seven on its roster. The league bowls each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Competition will start Aug. 29 or Sept. 5.

Anyone interested in bowling in this league can contact Ed Booth at 263-2408.

Sign-ups begin Monday for PeeWee footballers

Registration will get under way Monday in the Student Union Building at Howard College for boys who plan to play PeeWee League football this fall.

Sign-up honors both Monday and Tuesday will be from 4 until 7 p.m. The program is for boys in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

The boys must be accompanied by parents or guardians and must have their birth certificates with them. All games will be played at Blankenship Field this year.

The season likely will begin about Sept. 15. This will be the eighth year for the program.

Last year's league had six teams in it. The league plays its games Saturday afternoons.

Officials are working to complete the list of sponsors. It's estimated it will take about $300 to field a team this fall. The families of players buy their own equipment when financially able. Some players who can't afford the gear can get help from the league.

Vivian Vance, Lucy's faithful neighbor, dies

BELVEDERE, Calif. (AP) — Actress Vivian Vance, who played the faithful neighbor Ethel Mertz on the long-running "I Love Lucy" television series, is dead of cancer at age 66.

Miss Vance died Friday after being ill "quite a while," said Howard McClay of Lucille Ball Productions in Los Angeles.

Ethel Mertz was almost like family to millions of Americans in the 1950s as she and her husband Fred, played by William Frawley, shared adventures with Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz on the hit series: The show ran seven years, and Miss Vance won an Emmy as best supporting actress in a series. Reruns are still seen in millions of homes.

Miss Ball, who had visited Miss Vance at her home in this wealthy San Francisco Bay community, said, "I have lost one of the best friends I have ever had. I shall miss her terribly."

Arnaz said, "It's bad enough to lose one of the great artists we had the honor and pleasure to work with, but it's even harder to reconcile the loss of one of your best friends."

Fred and Ethel were always bickering on the show, and Frawley, who died in 1966, later revealed they weren't close friends off-screen. "We weren't the happiest pair in the world," he said.

Told Miss Vance was going back to the stage after the breakup of "I Love Lucy" in 1960, Frawley said "That's okay with me... She could go to Budapest and I wouldn't care."

Miss Vance was born in Cherryvale, Kan., on July 26, 1913, but considered Albuquerque, N.M., her hometown. She got her start there in theater work.

After "I Love Lucy" went off the air, Lucille Ball returned to the airways in "Here's Lucy" and Miss Vance appeared occasionally. That show ran from 1962-1974. Miss Vance last appeared with Miss Ball in a 1977 television special.

She was never a regular in a television series after "I Love Lucy." She told one interviewer, "Why honey, what series would I do? I did the best one they ever had in 'I Love Lucy.' Why settle for second best?"

Among her credits were the Broadway shows "Music in the Air," "Anything Goes," "Red, Hot & Blue," "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," "Let's Face It" and "Voice of the Turtle." She also appeared in the films "Secret Fury" and "Blue Veil."

Miss Vance is survived by her husband, publisher John Dodds. She has a sister in the San Francisco Bay area and a brother and two sisters in Albuquerque.

No formal funeral services were planned, said McClay. He said a private memorial service probably would be held.

Books to help ease 'first day of school jitters'

CATHY McCracken
Children's Librarian
Howard County Library

"School days, school days, Dear old Golden Rule days... Can you believe it? Only seven more days until the school bells start ringing and all of the children will go rushing through the immortal halls of education. For those of us who have kids, it is time to start our own bells ringing early in the morning, after three months of blissful sleeping in. It is also the time for us to start going 20 m.p.h. in the school zones again. If any of you are like me, remembering to slow down is as hard as changing over to the new year on checks!

There are not too many kids who are in love with the idea of going back to school. If yours is one of those reluctant students who is already complaining of stomachaches, headaches, earaches, typhoid fever, (they come up with some pretty good excuses!), bring him to the Howard County Library and check out some books on the subject of school. Maybe reading about other people's adventures and misadventures in school life will put Aug. 27 in a different light, especially if this is the first time ever for them to go to school.

To help ease the "first day of school jitters" for your youngest child, try "Country School" by Jerrold Beim. This story follows Tony, a boy who had dreamed of going to the country school near his home, but must go to a big, brand new school after the old one closes down. After reading this book, those halls won't seem so cavernous, the bells won't be so scary, the other kids won't be so big, and your child will probably feel safer after he realizes everyone else gets scared too!

A comical look at two different kinds of teachers is found in Harry Allard's "Miss Nelson is Missing." Miss Nelson, the nice, easygoing teacher whom all of the children take advantage of, is absent one day, and Miss Viola Swamp comes in as a substitute. Miss Swamp is mean, homework crazy, and makes all of the children toe the line. The results are hilarious and not until the end of the story do you find out who Miss Swamp really is!

One of my favorite stories about school is "Where Does the Teacher Live?" by Paula Feder. Most small children think that teachers live in schools, bankers live in banks, and librarians live in libraries. You would be surprised at the number of kids who ask me what I'm doing in the grocery store! "Where Does the Teacher Live?" takes you as far as the children's mothers' will allow them to go, as they try to track down where Mrs. Greengrass lives. Their answers as to where she might live are hysterical and true to life. There is a surprise ending in this one too, and both you and your youngster will enjoy following Alba, Nancy, and Willie watch where Mrs. Greengrass goes each day after school.

If you want to help your little one get used to the idea that those "Lazy, Crazy, Hazy, Days of Summer" are over, come to the Howard County Library and check out one of these titles or the many other available, before Aug. 27.

'Godspell' will return to Casa Manana Monday

A musical entertainment of irresistible charm, "Godspell" opens Monday, for a two week run at Casa Manana, starring Don Grady and Tip Kelley. The seventh show of the summer season features 11 other talented performers.

Since the show first opened as an instantaneous hit in 1971 with a film version in 1973, numerous church groups have staged the show. "Godspell" has also enjoyed popularity abroad. One London production ran nearly three years.

This popular production is billed as "A Musical Based upon the Gospel According to Saint Matthew." The creators, author John-Michael Tebelak and composer-lyricist Stephen Schwartz, have made a musical using a circus, a clown show, a magic show and a game show based on Gospel teachings.

Young performers, dressed in bright clown costumes, sing, mime, romp and play their way through the words of Jesus. A happy, smiling Jesus tells his followers about love and morals in the manner of a teacher, and the others respond.

Farm Cotton harvest moving in Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Texas AP — The cotton harvest is moving ahead in Texas this week, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, with 218,000 bales harvested in the Rio Grande Valley.

The Coastal Bend's cotton crop is about 30 percent harvested, and irrigation wells are going at peak capacity in the South Plains to keep up with the cotton crop that is growing well in spite of its late start.

Aslo in the Valley, soybeans are having some army worm and looper problems and irrigation schedules are continuing on citrus and sugar cane. Treatments also are under way to control citrus mealy bugs and rust mites. Land preparation is moving ahead for vegetables, with some tomatoes planted and up. Irrigated sorghum and corn also are progressing well in the South Plains. Cabbage and cucumber harvests are moving ahead rapidly and some potatoes are being sent to market.

The Coastal Bend's first rice cutting is at the halfway point, the corn harvest is in full swing and most sorghum has been harvested. In upper coastal areas, the first cutting of rice continues as weather permits, along with harvests of sorghum, corn, cotton and hay crops. Some soybean losses are reported from heavy rains.

Throughout the state, producers continue to be hampered by generally tight diesel and gasoline supplies. Supplies of LP and natural gas continue to be generally adequate.

Drying ranges and pastures concern livestock owners, but most cattle remain in good condition. Markets are down on many classes, with prices on fat cattle weak and below the "break-even" point.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions:

PANHANDLE: Moisture is short to adequate. Corn and sorghum are growing well. Cotton continues to average or better, and cattle are in good shape. Fat cattle prices are below break-even point.

SOUTH PLAINS: Ranges and cattle look excellent, and sorghum and corn crops are growing well. Cotton is late, but progressing. The cabbage and cucumber harvest is under way, and some potatoes are moving to markets. Irrigation is heavy.

ROLLING PLAINS: Some hail and wind damage reported in Kent County, along with showers in Baylor, otherwise the district remains dry. Cotton is fruiting well, but sorghum needs rain. Season's first boll weevils seen in Dickens County, but grasshoppers are easing in Motley. Depressed prices have limited livestock marketing. Fuel supplies are mostly adequate.

NORTH CENTRAL: Some insects are reported in cotton, which also needs rain. Sorghum midge is increasing, but an early crop is maturing and looking good, with some being harvested. Leaf spot is seen in peanuts. Hay harvesting is active with a second cutting about complete. Diesel and gasoline supplies are tight.

NORTHEAST: Excellent hay yields reported on third cuttings but army worms are increasing. Sorghum is heading, peanuts progressing and soybeans making good crop. Vegetables yielding good harvest, and fall gardens being prepared. The peach harvest is complete. Ranges, cattle in good condition, although the market is down somewhat.

FAR WESTS: The fourth cutting of alfalfa is under way in El Paso County's irrigated area, along with the harvest of onions and melons. The peach crop looks good, and vegetable production remains good with some squash bugs invading home gardens.

WEST CENTRAL: Vegetable harvests are virtually finished and fall gardens are being planted. Pecans look good. Pastures are fair and most livestock excellent. Fuel supplies remain tight to adequate.

CENTRAL: Cotton is opening in Bell and Hill counties. Hill reports heavy insect infestations. Sorghum harvest is under way in Blacklands, with about 60 percent of the crop mature. Midge is a problem in some fields. Hay harvesting continues with good yields and quality reported. Pecans look good.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: Rains delayed hay and sorghum harvest. Cotton harvest and the first cutting of rice are under way as weather permits. Corn harvest also is progressing. Excellent hay yields are reported. Some soybeans lost due to heavy rains. Gasoline, diesel in tight-to-adequate supply, south central; Cotton is being sprayed for boll worms as bolls begin to open. Sorghum is being harvested and corn is ready to harvest. Excellent hay yields reported.

Radiology School supplies X-Ray technicians to area hospitals

Pyramid teaching reinforces learning

By MICKIE DICKSON
 "Education began in the Garden of Eden," says Lila Brewster, retired teacher, in her lecture to beginning students of the School of Radiologic Technology in Malone-Hogan Hospital, Inc.

"Adam and Eve enjoyed innocence and innocence meant not knowing," she continued, "from the Latin nocere, to know, and the negative prefix, in. They did not know that they were separate beings."

"Adam named the things in the garden. That is the first step. What difference did that make?"

"What does a word do? What is language?"

A word defines or limits, separates from, creates. For example, "tree" separates that particular plant from all others. It limits it.

The word creates an image in the mind which makes it possible to create the image in the mind of another so that it can be passed on from generation to generation. Each man does not have to depend completely upon himself, but can acquire the images of another so that he doesn't have to start over.

The word gives power, therefore, the more words one knows the greater power he has.

Words relate a person or thing to another. In the example of trees the words leaves, branches, shade, bloom, fruit, fire and on and on come to mind.

"Now why is this important to you as embryonic teachers?" Mrs. Brewster asks the students:

First, be sure of your language — that it is accurate, creative and precise. Be sure that you know, for your language will give you away if you don't. William James said, "Open your mouth and I will know who you are and what you are." Handle the language with care for words are power. They dare, repel, inform, lure or destroy.

The word is power and separates man from all creation, giving him power that no other created being has. The more words one knows the greater degree of power he has. Man can create with words whatever images he wishes to in the mind of another.

"Now let us return to the garden of Eden," continued Mrs. Brewster. "The devil, satan, entered and said to Eve, 'Did God really say you were not to eat from any of the trees in the garden?'"

The woman answered, "We may eat the fruit of the trees in the garden, but of the fruit of the tree in the middle of the garden, you must not eat it nor touch it under pain of death."

Then the devil said, "No! you will not die. God knows that on the day you eat it your eyes will be opened and you will be like God, knowing good and evil."

The woman saw that the fruit was good to eat and pleasing to the eye, and that it was desirable for the knowledge it could give, so she took some of the fruit and ate it. She gave some also to her husband, and he ate it. Then the eyes of both of them were opened, and they realized —

"Now let's analyze what happened. How did satan get Eve's attention? To what did he make his appeal?"

"Remember, no one has ever had it quite so good! Eve was satisfied, content, lazy, happy, but most of all, she didn't care. Like many students. But Satan was a clever teacher. He made her realize there was something she didn't have!" Here, then, is the second rule of teaching. Appeal to that quality in man, the desire for something he does not have.

Then satan held out the rewards. "You will be like God. Attention and awareness are not enough. There must be a reward for the effort. A desirable reward that is possible."

What are the rewards of what you will be teaching?

Satan had brought Eve, the learner, into the awareness of the problem and showed her how to solve it. He forced her to make a decision — should she take the fruit or refuse it? A teacher brings the student into the awareness of the possible, then he stands back and allows the student to decide and discover. All learning is discovery.

What do you suppose went on in Eve's mind? Wonder, willingness to dare, hope, desire, reflection and curiosity. All of these the teacher creates in the minds of his students. Satan stimulated and activated the highest powers that man has which are reflection, imagination, association and decision making. He offered the opportunity for Eve to be more than she was, in this case "like God," to see more (your eyes will be opened).

Eve took of the fruit and shared it with Adam. The very basis of being more than you are is the desire to share it.

This unique introduction to learning is presented to approximately four students carefully chosen by a nine member advisory board to study under the direction of Dr. Buerk Williams and a faculty of around 60 volunteer teachers for two years in the School of Radiologic Technology at Malone-Hogan Hospital, Inc.

The school is celebrating its fifth year of operation since it was chartered Mar. 26, 1974 when the Malone-Hogan Clinic Board voted to sponsor and underwrite a school for X-ray technicians because they were hard to find in this area. The school is accredited and the Malone-Hogan Hospital provides the practical experience needed by the students.

Prior to this step, Buerk Williams, M.D., radiologist, sought to develop the school in cooperation with Howard College. When this failed, he stepped up efforts to organize the school within the hospital, envisioning that one day the school would be incorporated into a college program in the area.

Job opportunities for graduates within the area, he found, amounted to 23 including, besides the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Big Spring, San Angelo, Lubbock and other parts of the Permian Basin. All graduates have found immediate employment in the area.

Some of these are Joe Rocka, employed by Saint Mary's Hospital in Lubbock. Susie Hull is with West Texas Hospital and Dale Griffith with the University Hospital both in Lubbock. Eddie Decker works in Austin. Mike Hutte is with Shannon Hospital, San Angelo, Susan Weaver is at Midland Memorial Hospital and Rosemary Hansen is working in New Iberia, La.

Educational environment has been primarily concerned with strong, psychological commitment, highly motivated leadership energetic and enthusiastic, well qualified volunteer faculty which teaches by self example, relates well to people and are innovative yet practical.

Experience on the job is the patient work load within Malone-Hogan Hospital and Clinic.

The curriculum and method of teaching was set up by two retired school teachers, Mrs. Brewster and Mrs. Preston Harrison, widow of the late superintendent of Big Spring State Hospital. These two talented ladies devised a system of learning that pyramids learning and teaching. The student learns the first year, then reinforces his learning by teaching first year students in their second year of school. Students say that the professionals who lecture in the school are reinforced by the student teachers who apply the learned principles to the work load. An award is named in their honor, and given yearly to the outstanding student teacher in the second year class.

Graduate Janie McLaughlin, Big Spring, who is in charge of the new ultrasound unit, was the 1978 outstanding student teacher.

Equipment with which the radiology students train fit them for any radiology department in the area, since it is probably the most sophisticated there is in the area. Nuclear medicine, which uses isotopes to detect disease, xeromammography, special procedures that allows miligrams and arteriograms is some of the advanced equipment in use.

Orientation week, August 20-24, introduces new students to Jo Ann Permenter, Garden City; Debra Wiggins, Irma Ross, Maria Cayuoti and Lupe Rodriguez to the program.

These students will serve a probationary period the first 16 weeks, then each will receive his radiology arm patch if he satisfies all the requirements of the school, and becomes a full-fledged student.

The requirements for new students is that they be over 18 years of age 40 or under. That they have completed high school or hold its equivalent GED. Be in good mental and physical health and show evidence of good moral character. That they have satisfactory achievement on pre-nursing examination and be a citizen of the United States or show declaration of intent. Students must carry, too, — an acceptable hospitalization policy.

Tuition for the school is $300 for the two years. Uniforms required are around $75 to $100 and textbooks cost about $200 over the two years.

The course is 24 months long, 40 hours a week with two days off each week, ten days legitimate sick leave and two weeks vacation each year.

The new graduates for 1979 are Carlos Gonzalez who will remain with Malone-Hogan Hospital in Special Procedures in the X-ray department; Maria Luisa de la Pena, Charlotte Meeks and Valerie Richardson who will remain in nuclear medicine as a technician at Malone-Hogan after graduation Aug. 25.

The school operates three semesters a year of 16 weeks each. Graduates of the Radiology School have consistently scored high in area competitions. Often they have outscored schools sponsored or implemented with college faculty. The school has supplied needed technicians for the hospital and the area. A survey sent to employers of graduates of the Big Spring school received very complimentary responses. All have said, "Please send us more," stated Buerk Williams, M.D. The school is well known within a 200 mile radius of Big Spring and the hospital receives about two phone calls a month wanting to know when the next graduation is.

Buerk Williams, M.D., director of the school, sought to develop it in cooperation with Howard College before its inception in 1974. Having failed this, he organized the school within the hospital.

Dr. Williams now says, "The program is a wonderful balance between the academic and practical experience requirements," and points out the differences between college and hospital based school.

He says that the colleges can draw upon many different departments and resources for education that aren't attainable in a hospital. Upon graduation from college a student receives an associate degree while the student from a hospital based program receives a diploma.

The advantage the hospital based program has over the college based program is that there is better coordination between the academic realm of things and the practical training because they are both conducted under one roof. Another advantage is that there is uniformly greater dedication on the part of the department employees to teach. There is also a greater accountability in regards to student performance which engenders greater student responsibility depending on their performance.

"The ultimate outcome of these factors results in a competent graduate technologist with superior patient service," says Dr. Williams.

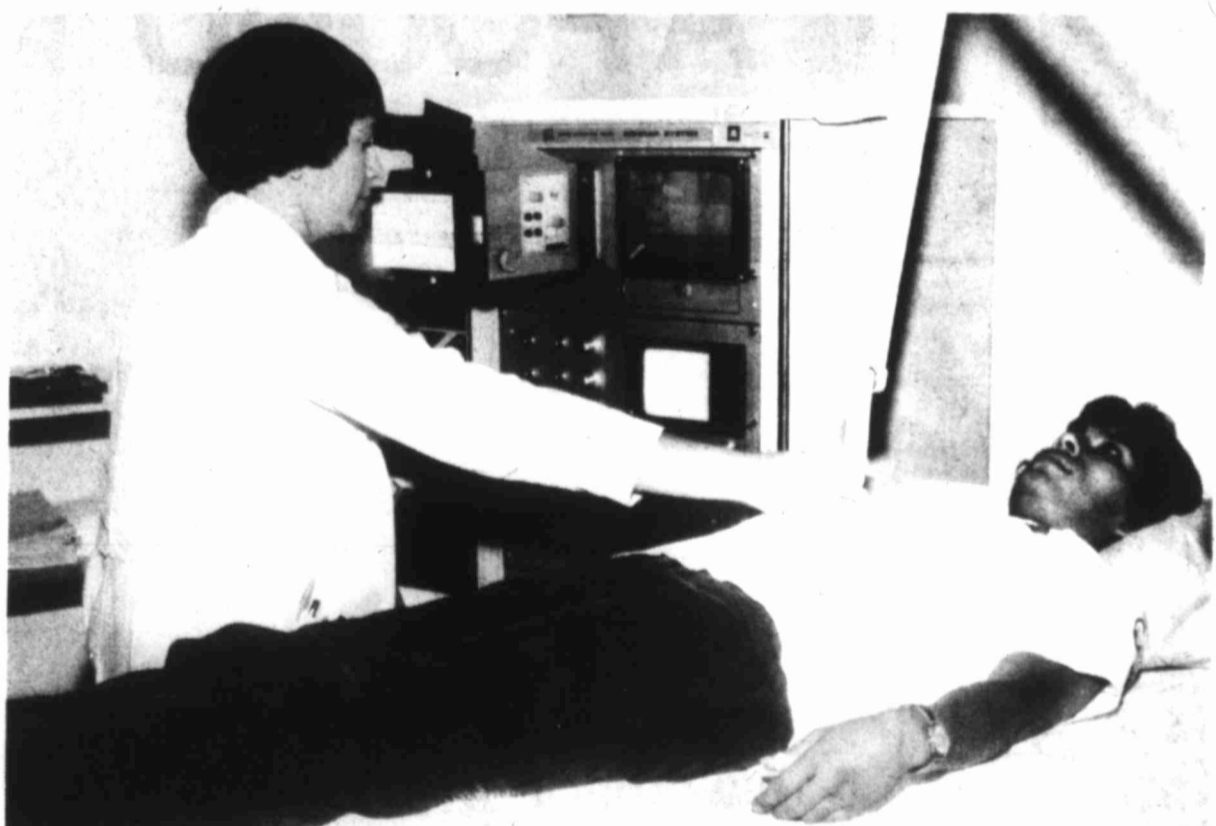

The Radiology School has received tremendous assistance from the Malone-Hogan Foundation of which Dr. P.W. Malone is the executive director. Due to Dr. Malone's and the foundations far-sightedness, the school has been enabled to achieve advantages that would otherwise have been impossible. The foundation has furnished many reference textbooks, teaching aids and financial assistance for students to attend two state meetings a year.

The school also has been helped by CETA, the Comprehensive Employment Training Act, with money and grants to students who needed help.

The outstanding guest faculty of physicians, nurses and administrators of the area hospitals, business men, teachers and retired teachers, all of whom serve on a strictly voluntary basis, has enriched the academic climate of the school immensely. Paul Osmos, chairman of the science department of Howard College, is one of the faculty as well as a member of the advisory board. Osmos teaches several subjects in anatomy and physiology.

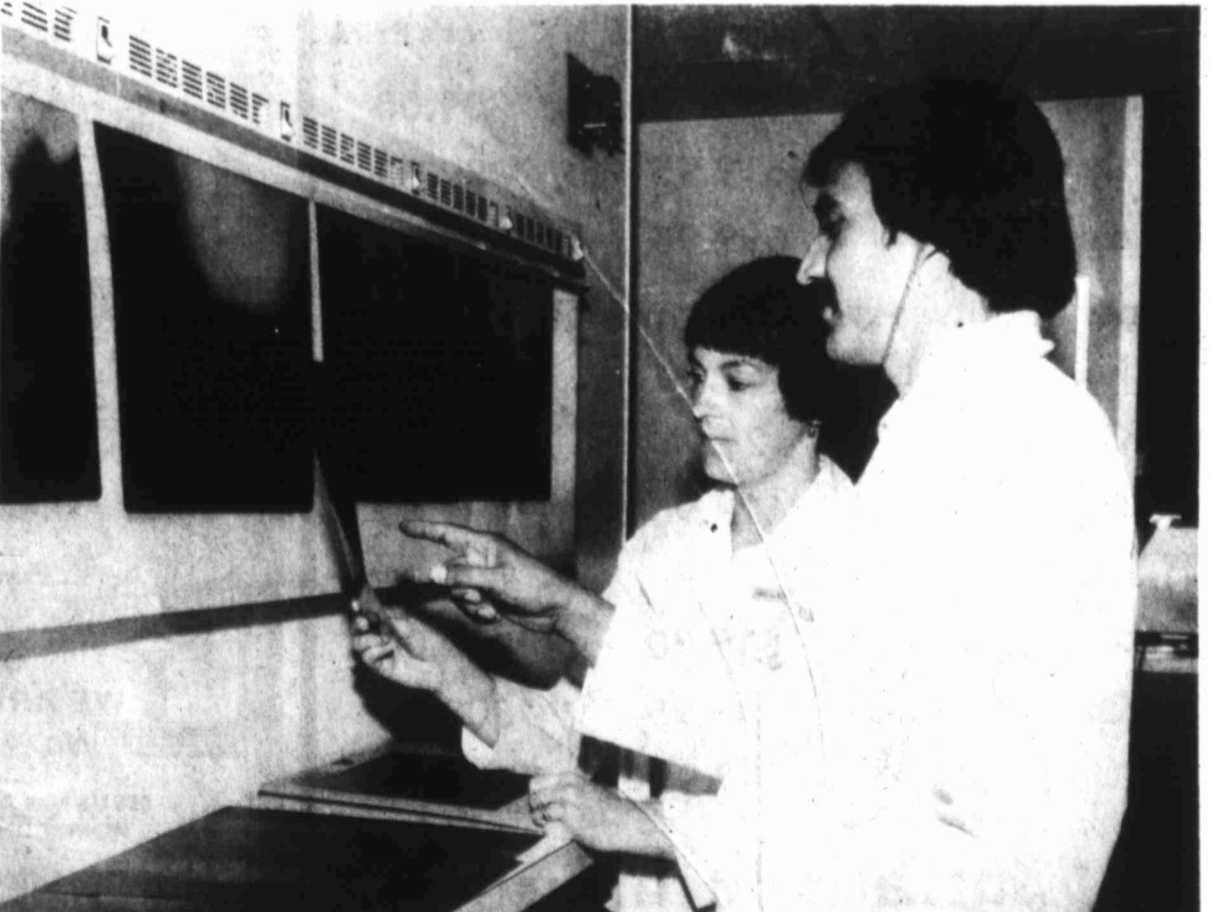

The Advisory Board which has the difficult task of choosing the four or five new students from among an average of 15 applicants is composed of Robert Goodwin of Texas Electric Service Company; Hal Boyd, personnel director of MH Hospital and Howard Mott, personnel director of MH iClinic; Paul Osmos, Howard College; Mrs. Jan Connelly, director of nursing service; P.T. Chako, chief technologist; Sam Subia, coordinator of the Radiology School; Buerk Williams, M.D., director; Dr. John L. Rhodes, radiologist and Janie McLaughlin, X-ray technician.

TwENTY 12 and 20 Guys afraid of the 'perfect girl'

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 17 and will be a senior come September. At school I have been a class officer, and I'm involved in many clubs, plus I am a songleader. I'm friendly and I'm pretty, but my quest is, "Why don't guys show any interest in me?"

My parents tell me that the boys are afraid of me. All I know is that I'm tired of staying home on Friday nights.— Pam, Livermore, Calif.

Pam: I think your parents are right. Most boys don't think they can date the "perfect" (charm, looks, brains, personality) girl, therefore, they don't ask.

So, the time has come to be a little aggressive. Start initiating conversations with boys and don't be afraid to invite them over for a "study date." All the boys need to know is that you are interested in him. He will take it from there.

Dr. Wallace: I've come to realize that I am slowly but surely losing what was my best friend. We used to be very close, but it's plain to see that it's not the same. In fact, we both were talking behind each other's back.

I wrote her a long letter stating what was on my mind.

After reading it, she said she would give our relationship more effort, but nothing positive happened.

Lately she has started smoking and is into liking guys. I don't want to lose this friend and I'll accept any advice.— Debbie, Klamath Falls, Ore.

Debbie: Set up a dinner, movie get together with this friend and bare your soul to her about your friendship. But do remember that when girls are interested in boys, that most other things are secondary. Honestly, I don't think that things will ever be "just the way they were."

When you accept this, your relationship with this friend should improve.
