Burned his eyes, damaged car, stopped watch

Baffling UFO encounter

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Val Johnson's strange encounter on a dark, lonely road last month has thrust him into the glaring light of nationwide attention and put an emotional strain on his family.

The Marshall County deputy sheriff is scheduled to appear Tuesday on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" program to talk about a baffling UFO experience that he says burned his eyes, damaged his car and stopped his watch.

And Johnson's home in Oslo, Minn., has been flooded with telephone calls from people around the country telling him of similar experiences.

"It's a tremendous strain on the family," said the 35-year-old father of three young children. "My wife's run ragged with phone calls. I hope this drops in a barrel and rests quietly so we can go back to being a little town deputy sheriff."

Johnson said he was on patrol near Stephen, Minn., about 2 a.m. on Aug. 27 when he saw a beam of light just above the road. The beam sped towards him, his squad car was engulfed in light and he heard glass breaking. Johnson said he was unconscious for 39 minutes, and when he came to, he realized his watch and the car's electric clock had stopped for 14 minutes.

The windshield was shattered, a headlight and red light atop the car damaged and a thin radio aerial bent back. Deputies responding to Johnson's radio call for help found the squad car sideways on the road. Johnson suffered burns to his eyes which a physician called "welders' burns," caused by extremely bright light.

Because of the damage and the injury, this incident differed from most UFO reports, says Allan Hendry of the Center for UFO Studies in Evanston, Ill.

Tests will be run on the squad car, Hendry said Sunday, and infrared pictures will be taken of the ground around the site of the incident "to see if the intensity of the light affected plants."

Hendry is also intrigued by a similar UFO report that came from Vermillion, S.D., two days after Johnson's close encounter was reported.

Hendry said Russ Johnson (no relation to Val Johnson) of Vermillion said he was driving alone west of town about 2 a.m. when he, too, saw a light just above the road.

Russ Johnson, 33, told police the object suddenly accelerated toward him and engulfed his car in bright light, Hendry said. He kept his eyes closed as the light approached, but opened them in time to see the light speed away, then suddenly vanish.

HONORED FOR MAKING EXHIBITION POSSIBLE — Howard C. Duff of Edmonds, Wash., who owns the largest collection of Harvey Wallace Caylor art in existence, was honored at a reception in the Heritage Museum here Saturday night. The paintings were on display at the museum Saturday and Sunday. Janell Davis, president of the museum, presents a plaque of appreciation to Duff in the above picture. Museum curator Gerri Atwell said that an estimated 400 people viewed the art display Sunday.

Social Security--13

Rules on outside earnings explained

By WILLIAM STEIF

Can you make some money after retirement and still get Social Security? If so, how much?

Investment income — such as dividends, interest, real estate rentals, any return on capital — is considered unearned income. Therefore, it is exempt from the earnings limits on Social Security beneficiaries.

The same is true of pensions from private retirement plans, although you could argue that they are earned. The point is that Social Security beneficiaries are limited only in present earnings, not past ones. What is being partly replaced by Social Security retirement benefits is the income you would have if you continued to work.

Social Security always has had a retirement test, designed to limit the money a person can earn after he retires. The idea is that it would be very costly to pay Social Security benefits while a person was earning substantial amounts of money.

The retirement test has been liberalized somewhat by Congress.

In the 1950s, a provision was added to the law permitting anyone 75 or older to earn as much as he wanted and still retain his Social Security benefits. Later, the age at which unlimited earnings were permitted was lowered to 72.

And the 1977 amendments to the law reduced the age to up starting in 1982.

Those amendments also raised the limits on the amount Social Security retirees can earn between ages 65 and 72 (or 70 in 1982).

In 1978, you could earn $4,000 without losing any benefits; in 1979, $4,500; in 1980, $5,000; in 1981, $5,500, and in 1982, $6,000. Thereafter the amount increases by the percentages that wages rise annually.

Once retirees exceed their earnings limit, however, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 earned over the limit.

One of the trickiest parts of the earnings limit is the so-called "monthly test" that applies in the year of retirement. For a full explanation of this test, consult my book "What You've Got Coming in Social Security and Medicare."

The test means that in the year you retire, your earnings limit is calculated on a monthly basis. You can earn no more than 1-twelfth of the annual limit each month to retain your full Social Security benefit. If you retired in June 1979, for example, you could earn only $375 a month ($4,500 divided by 12).

Fair begins next Monday

The seventh annual Howard County Fair will get under way just one week from today and will continue through Saturday night, Sept. 22.

The Shrine Circus will pay its annual visit here and will set up for two shows Monday.

All but seven of the 64 Fair booths have been rented, according to Ruth Mitchell, Fair secretary.

The Strate Midway Shows will provide a little carnival atmosphere for Fair week. The kids attending the fair likely will spend a great deal of time in the Pete-A-Zoo area, which has been moved slightly to the south in the Fair compound this year.

Jerry E. Pies of Bradenton, Fla., will show the world's smallest horse throughout Fair Week here. The horse, Thimble, stands only 22 inches high and weighs but 55 pounds.

Increase in certain water services to be discussed

An increase in certain water services will be discussed at the Tuesday meeting of the City Council, 9 a.m. in the city council room at City Hall, 4th and Nolan.

City staff will return findings and recommendations of proposed increases studied at the request of the city council.

The recommendations proposed to establish a policy of discontinuing service to any customer that is more than 30 days delinquent on payment of a water bill.

The fee for turning off the water of delinquent customers is recommended to be raised from the current $3 fee to $5. Restoring service is also recommended for a hike from $3 to $5.

An increase from $3 to $5 is recommended for discontinuance of service at the customer's request. A $5 fee has also been recommended for the transfer of service from one address to another.

Also discussed will be changing the policy of penalties on late payment of water bills. City Staff recommends changing the penalty from $1 to a flat rate of 10 percent of the total bill in order to deter late payment.

Another consideration going before the council is the establishment of a deposit requirement for all customer-requested water meter tests and the conditions for returning the deposit. A proposed amendment to Article 1 of Chapter 29 of the Code of Ordinances would require that a deposit of $20 be paid for a customer-requested water meter test. The deposit would be refunded to the customer if the meter reads more than two percent in error.

The city will also discuss closure of the Big Spring De-Tox Unit. The agenda includes: —Consideration of claim for damages regarding Sylvia Del Bosque. —Consideration of second and final reading of an ordinance revising prescribed rates for taxicabs. —Consideration of second and final reading of an ordinance revising the fee for issuance of taxicab driver license. —Consideration of first reading of an ordinance amending Section 29-31 of Article 2 of Chapter 29 of the Code of Ordinances increasing the fee charged customers of the City's waterworks requesting that their water be turned off. —Consideration of first reading of an ordinance amending Article 2 of (See Water page 2A, col. 6)

John Massey quits job with Howard College

Howard College officials confirmed the fact that John Massey, instructor in Law Enforcement at the school, had submitted his resignation shortly before noon today.

In the terse announcement directed to College President Charles Hays, Massey requested that the resignation become effective Friday, Sept. 14. He disclosed he was going into "private business" but did not elaborate. He could not be reached by telephone.

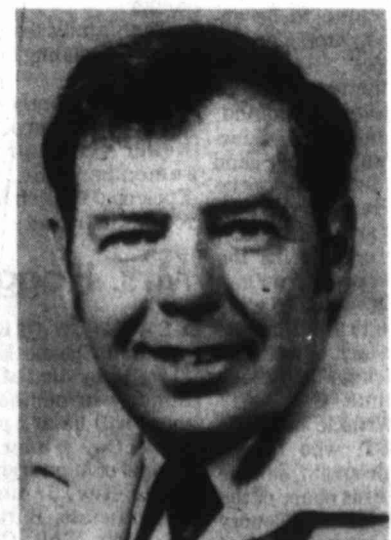

Massey is serving his first term as a Big Spring city councilman. There has been no indication he will leave the council but stories are circulating that Massey will move to Greenville.

Massey, who defeated Polly Mays in a spirited runoff in an election earlier this year, has kept a low profile in recent months. He hammered away at what he said was the city's poor financial condition in campaigning for the city office.

City Manager Don Davis said he had not been notified of Massey's future plans.

Should Massey decide to also resign his councilman's post, his successor would be picked by other members of the council. That individual would serve until the next election. In cases where more than one councilman quits, the state law dictates that a special election will be held.

Jury selection under way for Colorado City trial

COLORADO CITY — Jury selection began at 9 a.m. today for the involuntary manslaughter trial of William Clarence Dixon in 32nd District Court.

Dixon faces three counts of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the Dec. 8, 1978 McCauley school bus - truck accident that claimed the lives of five students and injured 20 other persons. Dixon was the driver of a Cardinal Survey Co. oilfield truck that collided with the school bus.

Colorado City District Attorney Frank Ginzel and Assistant D.A. Rusty Carroll are representing the state in the trial which has been postponed four times since May because of crowded court dockets and prior commitments by defense attorney Malcolm Schulz.

The trial was originally scheduled to begin in Roby last May, but was moved to Colorado City on a change of venue.

All but one of the sixteen lawsuits filed as a result of the December wreck have been settled. An attorney for the survey company has said that the remaining suit will probably not go to court until Dixon's trial is complete.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Crowded bus

Q. While I was driving to work Friday, I passed a city school bus that was so full of kids that some of them had to stand in the aisle. One was leaning against the emergency door. Isn't there some sort of law against this?

A. The law allows one student standing for each seat on a bus, according to Big Spring School District Assistant Manager Don Green. "We are allowed to have standees on the bus but we don't want any," said Green. If there are standees on the bus more than 10 days out of the year the district loses five percent of its state transportation funds.

EMBRACE — Lolita Lebron is embraced by friends and supporters today in Alderson, W. Va., upon her release from Federal Reformatory for women. Lebron had been jailed since the mid-fifties for her participation in an armed assault on the U.S. Congress.

'Long Live Puerto Rico'

ALDERSON, W. Va. (AP) — Lolita Lebron was released today from a federal prison where she served 25 years for a Puerto Rican nationalist shooting attack on the U.S. House of Representatives.

Ms. Lebron was granted clemency last week by President Carter along with two others involved in the 1954 attack and one man jailed after a 1950 assassination attempt on then-President Truman.

Vowing a greater commitment than ever to the cause of freedom for Puerto Rico from U.S. ties, the 59-year-old Ms. Lebron was greeted by a group of sympathizers who chanted "Lolita, Lolita, Lolita" and waved nationalist flags and banners.

With tears in her eyes, Ms. Lebron responded with a cry of "Long Live Puerto Rico."

Ms. Lebron, Irving Flores Rodriguez and Rafael Concel Miranda were convicted of spraying gunfire from the House visitors gallery, wounding five congressmen.

Flores and Miranda were due for release from other prisons today.

Also due for release was Oscar Collazo, imprisoned for the attempt on the life of Truman.

A spokesman for the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party, Luis Canals, said Ms. Lebron was going to Chicago to be reunited with her two comrades in the 1954 attack.

Ms. Lebron and her companions will attend rallies in Chicago and New York before returning to Puerto Rico next week, Canals said.

Speaking in Spanish and English to the crowd that awaited her, Ms. Lebron said she did not regret her time in prison.

"I have a great satisfaction. We have succeeded in our struggle for victory. We are stronger than ever, more committed than ever," she said.

'Cripple' story denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — An aide to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is denying published reports that the Massachusetts Democrat considers President Carter a "political cripple" who cannot win reelection.

"The story is inaccurate," said Kennedy's press secretary, Tom Southwick. "The reporter did not speak to the senator."

The story, published in Sunday's edition of the Atlanta Journal and Constitution, quoted unidentified political sources as saying Kennedy feels Carter could drag other Democrats down to defeat.

"I don't know who the sources were, but they're not the senator and they're not people who are close to the senator," Southwick said.

Arson confession

CHICAGO (AP) — A murderer and arsonist says he set the 1958 fire at Our Lady of the Angels school on Chicago's West Side that claimed 95 lives and left scores of children injured, WGN-TV reports.

The unidentified man said in a taped interview that he set the fire in the basement of the 49-year-old school and "had no intention of hurting anyone."

It was not known if the man, who is reportedly now on parole, had been a student at the school.

The three-story building caught fire about 2:30 p.m. on Dec. 1, 1958, while most of the grade school's 1,300 students were still in class on the second floor.

The blaze, which killed 92 students and three Catholic nuns, has never formally been ruled an arson case, and authorities said as recently as last year that it may have started accidentally.

The 32-year-old man made the admission during a televised interview with WGN-TV producer Alex Burkholder, Battalion Chief George Schuller of the Chicago Fire Department, and former Chicago Daily News reporter John Kuenster.

Police and fire officials and a spokesman for the Cook County state's attorney's office refused immediate comment.

'All in the Family' and 'Taxi'

'Lou Grant' shares top Emmys

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carroll O'Connor won a fourth Emmy for his portrayal of cantankerous Archie Bunker on "All in the Family," while guest stars from "Taxi" and "The Incredible Hulk" claimed other top acting honors in the Television Academy's annual awards.

President Carter, in a live broadcast from the White House Sunday night, paid tribute to three slain TV newsmen during the show that lasted slightly more than 2½ hours, the shortest in years.

$2,841,372 county budget proposed

County commissioners proposed the 1979-1980 budget this morning of $2,841,372.30. Total receipts are estimated at $2,935,724.24 leaving a $94,352.30 cash balance at the end of the fiscal year.

The county court expenses will total $3,450. Salary for county judge comes to $16,962 with a $175 monthly car allowance. Included in the benefits to the county judge's office are $1,560 for social security tax, $1,760 for retirement and $915 for group medical insurance. Part of the benefits go to the court coordinator.

The four County commissioners will be budgeted $776 a month each for their services plus a $175 a month auto allowance.

Overall salaries total $1,187,084 for county employees. Benefits total $199,984. Salaries are the highest cost in county expenditures for the coming fiscal year.

The current ad valorem tax levy is expected to contribute the highest amount of revenue to the county this year at $1,362,224.52. The federal government will contribute the second highest amount to revenues with $165,112.

Some at the meeting wondered at the absence of the budget for the adult probation office. According to County Auditor Jackie Olson the office is funded entirely by state funds except for office machine maintenance, equipment and basic telephone charge (as long distance). County contribution to the office is $3,770.

A budget was submitted from the office but not until Tuesday or Wednesday, said Mrs. Olson, too late to be included in the copies distributed.

One request was made for higher salary for an employee by District Clerk Peggy Crittenden. She requested that her chief deputy and her deputy both be paid the same — $9,408 a year. The proposed amount for the deputy is $8,424. Salary for the district clerk is $16,590.

Benefits for Ms. Crittenden's office come to $2,110 for social security tax, $2,410 for retirement and $1,400 for group medical insurance. Total amount for her office is a proposed $47,942.

Proposed budget for the district attorney's office is $42,924. Salary for recently employed special investigator Buster McCarty is $5,000 for the fiscal year. The office's secretary will be making a proposed $8,604. District Attorney Rick Hamby's salary comes from a different fund.

He called this year's budget, "one of the nicest I've ever had. They gave me everything I asked for."

Total proposed budget for the 118th District Court is $54,838. Justice of the Peace Bob West's office was budgeted $30,559 for the upcoming year. Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin's office was budgeted $30,664. Benefits to his office are slightly higher than West's office.

Justice of the Peace Lulu Adams office is budgeted $16,309. Her salary is $6,066. Budget for the county attorney's office is a proposed $36,426.

A total of $237,527 is budgeted for the Sheriff's Office. The amount represents an approximately $29,000 increase over last year.

Credit risk records important

'Charge-it' society tips

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer How good a credit risk are you?

The answer to that question is becoming more and more important in today's "charge-it" society, and it can depend largely on the kind of record you have built with one of the more than 2,000 credit bureaus across the country.

Credit bureaus collect information about the borrowing and bill-paying habits of millions of consumers. The bureaus themselves do not rate your credit-worthiness; they simply forward the information to the people who do.

Here are some questions and answers about credit bureaus:

Q. What type of information is involved?
A. A credit bureau file contains your name, address, Social Security number and birth date. It also may include: your employer, position and income; your former address; your former employer; your spouse's name, Social Security number, employer and income; an indication of whether you own or rent your home; and your record of repaying previous debts. Each inquiry the bureau gets about you will be recorded. If you have been refused credit, the refusal will be noted.

Q. Where do they get the information?
A. Indirectly, you provide it. Banks, retailers and other credit-granters regularly report to credit bureaus. When you fill in an application for a loan or a credit card, the information is sent to a credit bureau.

O'Connor's award was for best actor in a comedy series. Ruth Gordon won as best actress in a comedy series for a guest role on "Taxi."

Ron Leibman, whose show "Kaz" was canceled by CBS, was named best lead actor in a drama series. "This is very surprising," Leibman quipped. "Here it is Sunday night, and 'Kaz' is not preempted."

Mariette Hartley won as best actress in a drama series for a guest appearance as the ill-fated bride of Bill Bixby on CBS's "The Incredible Hulk."

ABC's "Friendly Fire" was named the best drama special, but stars, Carol Burnett and Ned Beatty, lost the acting honors for the category to Bette Davis for CBS's "Strangers: The Story of a Mother and Daughter" and Peter Strauss for "The Jericho Mile."

"Friendly Fire" told the story of an Midwest farm family's anguish over the death of their son by American fire in Vietnam. In accepting his Emmy, executive producer Martin Starger dedicated the award "to the memory of Michael Mullin and his family of LaPorte, Iowa."

CBS's "Lou Grant," which led the nominations with 14, picked up only one additional Emmy — for writing.

SIMULATED DRILL — Local residents can take comfort in the fact that Texas State Guard representatives who spent much of Sunday in Big Spring were going through a simulated drill rather than responding to the "real thing." The guardsmen were practicing what to do in event Big Spring is ever hit by a natural disaster of great consequence. In the top photo, from the left, are W.D. High tides reported Tropical storm is revitalized

MIAMI (AP) — A revitalized Tropical Storm Frederic edged off the south coast of western Cuba today, poised for a possible move into the Gulf of Mexico.

Higher-than-normal tides and gusts of near 50 mph were forecast for the Lower Florida Keys.

Hurricane Gloria, meanwhile, whirled out of harm's way in the central Atlantic Ocean.

Frederic, a former hurricane born again from the tropical depression it had become, was at latitude 22.5 north, longitude 80.0 west, about 175 miles southwest of Key West, at 6:30 a.m. EDT.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Miami said it was drifting slowly to the north-northwest, a motion that would likely put it into the extreme southeast Gulf later in the day. Once in the Gulf, the storm was expected to strengthen, forecasters said.

Some low-lying roads in the Lower Keys were expected to become awash with windpushed high tides by mid-day. Winds of 25 to 30 mph, with gusts to near 50 mph, were forecast.

The hurricane center upgraded Frederic, which once was a minimal hurricane but later faltered, from tropical-depression status at noon Sunday when highest sustained winds surpassed the 39 mph level.

Small-craft operators from Boca Raton, on Florida's southeast coast, to the Dry Tortugas, west of Key West, were advised to stay in port.

At 6 a.m., Gloria still posed no threat to any land. It was centered about 1,000 miles west-southwest of the westernmost Azores. It was moving northwest at 10 mph, and was expected to keep that course and speed for the next 24 hours.

Highest winds were barely hurricane strength at 75 mph. It was not expected to intensify.

Leader of Iranian revolution dies

By The Associated Press

Ayatollah Mahmoud Taleghani, a former rival of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, and reported for the first time to be president of the nation's ruling revolutionary council, died early today of a heart attack, news reports said.

Japan's Kyodo news service, reporting from Tehran, said the council announced the death, and for the first time acknowledged Taleghani, who was 69, was its chairman. Membership on the powerful body had been kept secret for the most part.

Since Taleghani, one of the leaders of the Iranian revolution, had emphasized a Moslem clergyman "should not be in a position of power," he was believed to have no connection with the council, Kyodo said.

Quoting a government announcement, Kyodo said Iran would observe three days of mourning beginning today. Citizens in Tehran were gathering at a mosque in Tehran University's compound, where Taleghani's body rested, Kyodo said.

The ayatollah never fully recovered from torture inflicted on him during 10 years of imprisonment for his opposition to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

After his release from jail and while Khomeini was in exile in Iraq and France, Taleghani used his position as Tehran's leading Moslem to organize the mass protests that fueled the February revolution.

He was known for his progressive views and his ability to communicate with the leftist factions who formed an important part of the anti-shah movement. Soon after the fall of the monarchy, moderate and leftist foes of Khomeini's stern Islamic policies and his revolutionary tribunals that were sending scores before firing squads began rallying around Taleghani.

Khomeini perceived Taleghani's growing popularity as a threat to his control over the country, and on April 12 revolutionary guardsmen loyal to Khomeini kidnapped two of Taleghani's sons and a daughter-in-law.

Taleghani went into seclusion the next day to protest the kidnapping. As demonstrations in support of him broke out in Tehran and spread to other cities, two leading guerrilla groups of the revolution, the Marxist-leaning Mojahedeen and the leftist Fedayeen, placed their forces at his disposal.

The pro-Taleghani demonstrations continued for four days, and pro-Khomeini demonstrators also took to the streets, raising the prospect of bloodshed. Taleghani surfaced on April 17, urged his followers to stop demonstrating and met with Khomeini at his headquarters in the holy city of Qom, 100 miles south of Tehran.

In a radio and TV address two days later, Taleghani called for political unity, said he supported Khomeini, praised Khomeini's revolutionary committees for keeping order and blamed the kidnappings of his family on "irresponsible elements."

His two sons and daughter-in-law were freed soon afterward and little was heard from the ayatollah after that.

In the first month after the revolutionary victory, Khomeini turned to Taleghani to negotiate an end to the first Kurdish uprising encountered by the new regime.

Taleghani traveled to Sanandaj, the Kurdish capital, after Kurdish guerrillas took it over in March and worked out a tenuous cease-fire that called for the release of 150 Kurds held captive in the city's besieged army garrison. But at a rally in Sanandaj's main square, a crowd of 20,000 Kurds drowned out his appeals not to hate Khomeini's soldiers with screams of "We don't want the army" and "death" to the army chief.

The Sanandaj uprising ended with vague promises from Khomeini's representatives for Kurdish home rule in their mountainous western region, and the revolt has been exploding and simmering ever since.

Witness begins eighth day on stand McCrory more credible

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Prosecutor Jack Strickland says he is pleased with the way his star witness has so far held up under intense cross-examination by flamboyant defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes.

McCrorry opens his eighth day on the stand today in the seventh week of the murder-for-hire trial of Fort Worth any-on-one with him."

The 41-year-old karate buff is the state's key witness in the case against the industrialist. McCrorry claims Davis ordered him to hire the murder of District Judge Joe Eidsen, the jurist presiding over Davis' divorce trial.

"I think David is certainly more relaxed on the stand," said prosecutor Jack Strickland. "David's recollection of those events is much, much clearer."

McCrorry also testified in the state's first attempt to convict Davis on the charges, but his statements did not hold up under Haynes' lengthy and detailed cross-examination. A mistrial was declared when jurors deadlocked 8-4 for conviction.

McCrorry himself labels his Houston testimony "a fiasco."

"Thankfully, this is a different ball game than in Houston," he said.

"He was scared as hell, even in Houston," Strickland said, adding that McCrorry is more "poised" now.

But there are times when McCrorry and Haynes lock horns, displaying their mutual dislike in open court.

"It's distressing to me when he's doing that because he's playing Haynes' game," Strickland said. "In Haynes' game, a large part of Haynes' role is that of a provocateur ... that of a bully. To make a witness blurt out things that are wrong or prejudicial."

Haynes successfully has baited McCrorry several times, but Strickland concedes jurors might respond to the exchanges by thinking McCrorry just won't be bullied.

"As long as a pattern is not established. Jurors don't expect to see witnesses and lawyers playing games."

While Haynes' continues to pick apart McCrorry's story, the witness grudgingly admits he has great respect, if not affection, for the attorney.

"He's the best," McCrorry said. "If I ever needed an attorney, he would be the only man in the world I would want to defend me ..."

The feeling, however, is not mutual.

Once when McCrorry almost gave hearsay testimony, he stopped himself and apologized.

"Your honor, would you please instruct the witness not to apologize to me," Haynes said. "I don't want any one-on-one with him."

McCrorry says he has had a year to think things over, and is more than prepared for Haynes' grueling attacks.

"I am now on trial," he said. "Richard Haynes tries every witness and will do anything to keep the court from trying Cullen Davis on the offense for which he is charged."

Strickland agreed.

"The key to Haynes' success in a defense is to so thoroughly trash up the lawsuit that no one can remember what the issue or even who the defendant is," he said.

"They're trying to hang the jury. All Richard has to do is convince one juror. And with the shotgun approach ... who knows?"

Weather Showers forecast in far South Texas

By The Associated Press

A mass of cool, dry air pushing southward left most of Texas with fair skies after some early morning haze that cut visibility to near one mile in Southeast Texas.

Scattered showers were reported over a wide section of West Texas bounded by Abilene, San Angelo, Kerrville and Austin. Some heavy downpour was noted from San Antonio to Laredo. Other scattered rainfall dotted portions of Southeast Texas.

Afternoon temperatures in the mid-80s and low 90s warmed most of the state.

Winds were light from the east, shifting to southerly over the Panhandle and north-easterly over South Texas.

The forecast called for mostly sunny skies with a few showers dotting southern portions of the state.

Caprock Coop barbecue attracts big turnout

STANTON — As always, members of the Caprock Electric Cooperative responded en masse to invitations to attend the annual membership barbecue.

The turnout for the Saturday night event, which was held on Buffalo Field, was estimated at 2,000.

The meeting serves a dual purpose. It enables the membership to meet and renew friendships with many people for about the only time during the year. It also gives officers an opportunity to stage an election of directors.

Directors named were: Carlos J. Dusek, District 4; A.D. Reed, District 5; and Russell E. Jones, District 9. All will serve three-year terms.

Those attending also heard a talk by Dr. W.C. Newberry, who is billed as the "Sage of the Southwest."

Newberry, who resides in Martindale, set about to share his hobby, which he described as "observing people in their natural behavioral patterns."

A Walt Disney movie shown in the school auditorium lure some of the children away from the main gathering.

Carter can take little comfort in events

The present occupant of the White House, Jimmy Carter, seemingly is a very decent man trying to do a decent job. The odds are lengthening, however, that he may terminate his lease at 1600 Pennsylvania after the 1980 elections.

No matter what kind of image he casts as a peace maker in the Middle East, domestic problems appear to be doing him in. Most of those woes have been brought on by the energy crisis. No matter what caused the crisis, Mr. Carter gets the broadsides.

He drew small comfort from the Andrew Young situation. Israel took such a hostile stance in the PLO situation, Carter and the government have had to oppose recognition of that organization.

THE ARAB COUNTRIES, which control much of the world's oil reserves, think Carter should be calling the tune to which Israel is dancing. Regrettably, it doesn't work that way.

The logical thing to do would be for Carter and the United States to step back and let Israel and the PLO work out their own differences. "Blessed are the peacemakers," the good book says. That may be true, but Carter, when he assumes the role of the arbiter, can expect brickbats rather than bouquets.

If the United Nations had any muscle, it might force the two antagonists to sit down to the peace table together and work out something. Regrettably, the UN people talk a good game but their resolutions are not worth the paper they're written on.

Not bad enough, Carter has a problem with Mexico, too. When we opened negotiations with Mexico for some of its oil, we didn't bargain having it brought to us via the Gulf of Mexico. That great oil spill in Campeche Bay has been attacking the Texas beaches.

The very mention of possible repayment by Mexico to offset the damage the oil spill has raised the hackles of the Mexico government.

The Mexicans may be over-reacting or they may have been lulled into complacency by some of the things Gov. Bill Clements of Texas has said.

Clements ridicules the idea that Texas should sue Mexico over the problem. After all, America has expended untold millions of dollars and sent a tremendous amount of technological aid to help Mexico not only develop its oil industry but contain the runaway well, as well.

The whole world looks to the United States for aid and comfort yet when we try to get someone to share the expense they react very coldly.

In the end, because Mexico has not shown the proper spirit of cooperation, it will be the image of the U.S. administration which will suffer and it's getting too close to election time for Carter or anyone else to take many sledgehammer blows.

Only so-so

People Magazine. We all know it. It is the publication that changes weekly at our local newsstands.

When you get right down to it, it is not very good. I don't think even the editors of People know what it is supposed to accomplish, except, of course, make money.

IF YOU WOULD like to start your own publication to compete with People, or for that matter, buy out the magazine, it would not take that much skill to publish it.

First of all, you need a cover story. That is easy. Take a famous person who has been overexposed the past few months and do a story. Farrah Fawcett has been so overexposed, she would be a great subject. Ted Kennedy is always a hot topic, even on non-election years. Most politicians are not. Henry Kissinger always is. There is nothing interesting about Jimmy Carter, however, his family opens themselves up to the media even though they are about as interesting as their famous relative.

Television personalities love to give interviews, and as boring as most of them are, for some reason they sell magazines. So anyone who has been overexposed recently is a good cover subject.

YOU WILL NEED about 15 stories. One or two on the famous are fine and fill in the rest with subjects nobody cares about.

As for writing the stories, it is simple. Say nothing of substance and make the copy as short as possible. Make sure you write good cutlines under the photographs. That is the only thing most of the readers look at anyway.

Make sure you have loads of pictures, most of which can be accumulated from the wire services. But, they must be mediocre. Use one large picture to show what the man does, to prove you have a good reason to run the story in the first place. Then make sure you have smaller pictures of him, a) cooking an omelet with his wife b) playing football with his son c) and making sure there are pictures of every one of his former mistresses.

Slap the layout together, but a price on it and then prove to the reader it is better than any of the other picture publications. That is not hard to do.

People magazine began springing up when publishers thought we became photographically starved after the death of the old Life and Look magazines.

Let's face it, we did become starved, but for great pictures. I cannot remember one great picture People magazine has produced.

So if you would like to produce a low quality, fast money making magazine, just look at this weekly pictorial magazine and follow the example. It is easy, and quick to make your salary go higher.

H-Day talk

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Encountered, in the classified section of a serious journal of opinion, "MISCELLANEOUS: Nuclear War Survival Book — Straightforward, detailed information plus essential instructions will protect your family during nuclear holocaust! You can't afford to wait. Money-back guarantee (price, address of publisher)." The advertisement might be expected to appear in a column of miscellany that also offers charts to hidden treasures, maps to the fountain of eternal youth, pills immunizing you against cancer. But, of course, the fact of it is that nuclear war is thinkable, which is what the entire SALT exercise is about, notwithstanding that the majority of the American people treat it as a game of chess, though lacking in the excitement of a match between Spassky and Fischer.

SIMULTANEOUSLY, ONE notes the publication of a book called "The Soviet Strategy for Nuclear War" by Joseph Douglass Jr. and Amoretta Hoebler, published by the Hoover Institute. In a review of it by a nuclear physicist, S.T. Cohen, who served as a member of the negotiating team for the SALT I treaty, we are advised that the book collects statements by diverse Soviet officials from which one decodes something that might go under the name of "Soviet doctrine in respect of a general nuclear war against the United States, and the benefits of a pre-emptive first strike therein."

The authors point out that it is the complacent doctrine of the U.S. administration, which is in fact a reflection of a genteel ethos to which we are heir, that there isn't going to be a nuclear war, because the Soviet Union wouldn't risk it. President Carter is quoted as having said offhandedly on one occasion that in the last analysis we require the survival of only a single Poseidon nuclear missile submarine to serve as a deterrent against preliminary Russian aggression.

That isn't so, these earnest students of Soviet strategy insist. Quotations from authorized Soviet sources (there are no unauthorized Soviet sources, except in Samizdat) are abundantly given. Consider this one: "The Soviet government...and (its) armed forces must be ready primarily for a world war...the Armed Forces of the Soviet Union and the other socialist countries must be prepared above all to wage war under conditions of the mass use of nuclear weapons by both belligerent parties...the preparation and waging of just such a war must be regarded as the main task of the theory of military strategy and strategic leadership."

OR THIS ONE: "Mass nuclear missile strikes at the armed forces of the opponent and his key economic and political objectives can determine the victory of one side and the defeat of the other...Therefore, a correct estimate of the elements of the supremacy over the opponent and the ability to use them before the opponent does are the key to victory in such a war."

And my morbid favorite, "There is a profound error and harm in the disorienting claim of the bourgeois ideologists that there will be no victory in a thermonuclear war."

Inevitably one's mind turns again to the debate over SALT II. An absecent perspective: Why the basic incongruity? What is that basic incongruity? It is that the United States, in effect, is satisfied to say over and over and over again that our redundant nuclear capability renders irrelevant the adamant insistence of the Soviet Union on supremacy.

What enzyme test can tell

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been told that my enzyme count is higher than it should be. It was 212 at the last check, a year ago. I went through several tests, including a biopsy. Could you please explain how this enzyme condition affects health and exactly what enzymes are? I have not been able to receive a satisfactory answer from my doctor. I neither smoke nor drink. —S.C.K.

Enzymes are chemicals inside all cells. They speed up the chemical reactions that occur in the cells.

Now, when a cell or a group of cells is injured, enzymes escape into the bloodstream where they can be detected by special tests. There are many kinds of enzymes and different ones occur in different kinds of body tissue. Determining just which enzymes are in the blood tells what body tissue has been damaged.

Since you had a liver biopsy, I presume it was taken from your liver tissue. Heart muscle cell enzymes are different and if they are found it would mean heart damage (such as an infarction). Kidney cell enzymes are different from either of these kinds.

The enzymes do not harm the blood by their presence. They only signal that somewhere in the body cells have been damaged.

The fact that you still have an abnormal blood enzyme test does not mean that the liver cells are seriously injured or that your health is in danger. Sometimes it takes years before the blood tests return to normal after such damage.

I think you can understand why your doctor could not, in the middle of his examination, have a satisfactory ready-made answer to your questions about a subject as complex as enzymes.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My daughter, in her late 20s, never had children (hasn't married). She is intelligent, pretty, but goes into a severe state of depression a couple of days before her period.

She's always had very irregular, very frequent menstruation. The family doesn't quite know how to handle her depressed moods and wonders if it could be a psychological problem. Please do not use my initials. —A Reader.

A severe depression is never a normal sign. Everyone has ups and downs, but what you describe implies that your daughter needs help from a person trained in counseling. Your family physician can help you find the right person in your area. He might also get her on the track of finding the cause for her menstrual difficulties.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I would like your opinion on the new method of increasing the bustline. It provides the body with a concentrated high protein source that is supposed to enlarge the fat cells in the breast, and thus make the breast size expand. I believe it is some sort of powder that programs the body to gain only in the breasts. It also includes a booklet of exercises that will uplift the breasts. I want to know if you think it will work and if this program is safe. —Miss A.R.M.

I know you are writing in all sincerity, so I will answer in the same vein. No, I don't think it will work. I think you would be taken advantage of. P.T. Barnum was right. I'd hate to list the fancy mail order promises I've fallen for myself. Your body was "programmed" genetically to be what it is by a higher power than protein powder. Appropriate exercises might help some.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Why are some people bothered by sinus trouble after diving or swimming and others are not? I am troubled with a severe sinus headache if I so much as jump into the water off a raft. —M.B.S.

Some people are very sensitive to the pressure changes that occur in the sinuses when swimming under water. Sudden change in pressure produces pain.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Donohue's booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it OK to refrigerate baby's milk, then reuse it? Does it lose nutritionally? —Mrs. T.N.

No nutritional loss. Refrigerate it promptly and use at the next feeding. Follow the usual rules about keeping the nipple clean.

Shingles can be a painful disease! For a copy of the booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have always been healthy and strong, but a year after I retired I was hurt in an accident and now I can't do very much. I find this frustrating and depressing. Why did God allow this to happen to me? —B.I.

DEAR B.I.: It is natural to ask why God allows things to happen to us, particularly when they make real changes in our lives. We may not always be able to give a complete answer to questions like these, although some day in heaven we will understand, and that is a wonderful thought. But God is in control and loves us. Even something which may seem to be harmful in itself can be turned into a blessing by God.

What might be some of the ways God could use this in your life? For one thing, He could use this to teach you in deeper ways your need of depending on Him. You have been healthy and strong all your life. You may not have realized just how dependent on God you really were each day. Now you are seeing that life is often delicate, and you need to trust Him every day for life itself. Yes, He wants you to trust Him more, and not trust your own strength.

Then it may be that God has some special ministry or service for you to accomplish at this stage in your life. No, you can no longer do many of the things you once did. But think of the opposite side of the coin—now you are free to do many of the things you never had time for before! I wonder, for example, if the Bible has ever meant much to you. If not, realize that it is God's Word, and God is perhaps giving you time now to study it. Or think about the opportunities you now have for prayer. The Bible says, "The prayer of a righteous man is powerful and effective" (James 5:16, New International Version). Some of God's greatest servants have been older people who have developed a ministry of prayer. Only eternity will show the full effect of such work.

God is not finished with you. Ask Him to show you what new work He has for you, and be thankful for the opportunity to serve Christ.

Cover-up

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Has there been another cover-up to protect White House aides so soon after Watergate? Few Americans want to believe it. Newsmen tend to be skeptical. President Carter insists it is "inconceivable." Yet the accusation cannot be dismissed cavalierly.

It was made by a grand jury foreman, Ralph E. Ulmer, who for 10 months has been investigating charges that fugitive financier Robert Vesco tried to pull strings inside the White House to fix his legal problems.

Sources close to the investigation describe Ulmer as a conscientious foreman who is deeply concerned about the integrity of the grand jury. As each witness testified, Ulmer kept meticulous notes, which he constantly consulted. Our sources understand that he often stayed up as late as 3 a.m. reviewing his notes.

ULMER TRIED to resign, charging the administration with "duplicitous" and "manipulation." He wrote that the "cover-up activities are being orchestrated within the Department of Justice under the concept that the administration must be protected at all costs."

Ulmer is prohibited by law from revealing anything that happened behind the closed doors of the grand jury. His letter of resignation, therefore, was worded carefully.

He charged vaguely, for example, that "a witness was encouraged to be less than candid with the FBI." Our sources believe Ulmer was referring to an attempt by Charles Kirbo, the president's personal attorney, to tamper with a key witness. White House aide Richard Harden arranged through his sister-in-law for Kirbo to meet the witness, Cynthia Herring.

The meeting took place in an atmosphere of high intrigue and deep secrecy. FBI sources say that the sister-in-law offered her apartment in Albany, Ga., for the rendezvous and that Kirbo kept a private plane standing by to whisk him from Atlanta to Albany.

But Mrs. Herring, on the advice of her attorney, showed up for the meeting wired with a recording device. She immediately turned the tape over to the FBI, which submitted it to the grand jury.

Kirbo is heard on the tape reassuring Mrs. Herring that she could trust him. "I'm just an ordinary South Georgia cracker you're talking to," he drawled. Later he advised her: "I think it's a mistake to be too open with the FBI..."

According to FBI sources, Kirbo did not ask the witness to cover up any specific facts that merely counseled against being "too open." The president's lawyer assured the grand jury, our sources say, that he had no intention of obstructing justice.

Ulmer also complained that "information was withheld from the grand jury." Our sources confirm that the Justice Department appeared to be holding back evidence from the grand jury. To prevent a possible whitewash, I asked for the opportunity to testify.

I spent three hours presenting to the grand jury the results of my own three-month investigation of the Vesco scandal. I laid out evidence that obviously surprised the jurors, though they had been taking testimony for several months. My sources say the grand jury, thereafter, demanded the full facts.

INSIDE THE Justice Department, these jurors gained a reputation as an "aggressive" if not a runaway grand jury. Our sources say the top brass tried to bring the grand jury under tighter rein. They kept shifting prosecutors and introducing other procedural disruptions. This may have led to Ulmer's added complaint that "delays in the grand jury process were arranged."

There is no reason to believe that explicit cover-up orders have been issued to protect White House aides. But government officials are, in one respect, like rare tropical birds. They have learned to communicate with one another through near-inaudible sounds, poses and gestures.

If there was to be a cover-up, they would not blatantly set it up. The arrangement would be carried off through a process of almost imperceptible movements, coincidences, raised eyebrows and knowing smiles. There is no going to be an incriminating document or tape recording left around — certainly not after Watergate.

This subtle process may have occurred, indeed, right under my nose. After my own investigation of the Vesco affair, then-Attorney General Griffin Bell asked me to share my findings with him. I spent more than two hours reviewing the evidence I had uncovered with the attorney general.

Four other Justice Department officials were pre sent, including Benjamin Civiletti, who succeeded Bell as attorney general. Throughout the review, Bell asked most of the questions. Occasionally he made defensive remarks about the White House aides. He made it perfectly clear that he didn't believe they were guilty of wrongdoing. This must have made an impression on his subordinates, who, thereafter, didn't really have to be told what results the boss wanted.

Playing Straight With Gay Spouses

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to DESPERATE WIFE, who came home early and found her husband in bed with his best friend (another male), was not very well thought out. You said, "Bisexuality is a fact of life that can occur in any family. Give him up graciously, he has already consciously or unconsciously made a choice."

Abby, if he had been a wonderful husband for 18 years, and a great father, as she stated, she should have been encouraged to try to save her marriage rather than demolish it.

Granted she is in shock, and granted there has been deception on his part, but she isn't the only woman in the world who's married to a gay man. If she lives in a big city, there is a mental health clinic and a gay community service agency which can put her and her husband in touch with a support group for gay married men and their wives. Counselors will help them deal with the realities of their marriage and show them how to build a new relationship based on honest and open communication. Or they may conclude that it's best to separate. But at least they should consider the alternatives instead of scrapping the marriage.

I am sorry that you viewed the situation as hopeless. It isn't.

GAILY MARRIED IN S.F.

DEAR GAILY MARRIED: Although my answer was (I thought) very well thought out, a surprising number of readers wrote to say that they are happily married to bisexual mates, and my advice was way out in left field. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I'm sorry DESPERATE WIFE didn't ask ME for advice instead of you. I have been happily married to a bisexual man for 33 years and have no regrets. We raised four wonderful children who knew nothing of their father's proclivity until they were grown and able to understand it. None of them love him any less for it, and all are heterosexual, I might add.

I knew my husband was gay when I married him, but I never felt threatened by it. He was 38 and I was 34. We are both in the theater. I could bet my life he has never had an affair since our marriage.

If I had caught my husband in the arms of another man at any point in our marriage I would no more have considered divorcing him than I would had I caught him with a woman. He's a fine, beautiful man who by nature is able to relate sexually to both sexes, which is not as rare as most people think.

NAMELESS, PLEASE, IN N.Y.C.

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to DESPERATE WIFE, who had been happily married for 18 years to a bisexual man, was simplistic.

Human beings are capable of more flexibility than you give them credit for. You didn't present any options. One was to get help in adjusting to the idea that her husband is bisexual. She said they loved each other, had terrific sex, and great children. None of that has changed, nor has HE changed. Only what she KNOWS has changed.

My husband is gay, but we have come to realize that what we have together and what we give each other and our children is more important than what happens when we are apart.

We can allow each other to live full and complete lives whatever that may mean. You should have told that wife that leaving a loving husband isn't the only solution.

FOUND ANOTHER WAY IN MASS.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago I was introduced to a man whose first name is Bruce. It was easy for me to remember because that's my first name, too.

Since meeting him I've run into him several times, and each time he has forgotten my name. I find this a little weird. If there is a hidden psychological explanation for his not remembering my name, what is it?

BRUCE

DEAR BRUCE: I suspect he doesn't want to be identified with you.

NINETY AND STILL WORKING—Grace Pierce, 90, displays an item recently at the Art Mart in Clayton, Mo., where she works as head saleswoman. Mrs. Pierce, who celebrated her 20th year with the store this spring, says, "I'm planning to be here until I'm a hundred."

Men are likely victims of breast cancer, too

EL PASO, Texas (AP)—After a lonely three-year crusade to warn men about the dangers of breast cancer, M. Lawrence Keats has nothing to show for his efforts except a deep chest scar and $52 from donors sympathetic to his campaign.

His message: women aren't the only victims of breast cancer.

Keats, a survivor of a radical mastectomy, wants men to examine their breasts for any sign of cancer.

"In 1971 I felt a lump in my chest and dismissed it thinking it was nothing."

"I thought it could be cancer—but men don't get breast cancer," says Keats, a crusader in his attempts to call attention to the illness.

The sunnanned 62-year-old Keats started a foundation here to gain more national recognition.

Keats says the American Cancer Society will not use information in pamphlets because of low incidence of male breast cancer.

"I appealed to the American Cancer Society and got nothing," Keats says. "During the first couple of years after the operation, most people I talked with expressed surprise and told me they had never heard of male breast cancer," Keats says.

Noting the interest, the former Detroit optometrist made his first speech on the affliction.

"My first talk was a disaster because I could not answer any questions afterward. That is when I first decided I had to accumulate as much information as possible," he says.

Keats planned the organization three years ago. The Lawrence Keats Male Breast Cancer Foundation was approved last year by the Internal Revenue Service.

Keats paid $500 in lawyer fees to start the foundation and hoped other financing would come from payments for speeches and royalties from a book on cancer he was writing.

After many speeches, he has received $52 from two donations.

"In dozens of talks before civic and service groups from El Paso to California to the Midwest no one else has come up with a nickel."

"I wrote the book but the publishers say it doesn't have a broad enough background and it will not sell," Keats adds.

Dr. Russell R. Deter, the El Paso surgeon who performed Keats' mastectomy, says, "Keats' pitch is to get everybody telling men to examine themselves—and it's a good idea."

Deter performed three similar operations. He says the cancer had spread in the other patients and Keats is the only survivor.

Part of Keats' dream for more recognition of the disease came true. Male breast cancer still does not appear in the cancer society brochures. But Houston's M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute makes a tape available. The tape on male breast cancer, however, is reachable on a hotline number available primarily to physicians.

The tape quotes Dr. Charles K. Tashima, an associate professor of medicine at the hospital.

Tashima says:

—Men fail to notice lumps as soon as women.

—About 1 percent of all breast cancers occur in men.

—About half of the male patients make it through the crucial five-year "vival point" following a radical mastectomy. The rate ranges from 56 to 85 percent in women, according to cancer society figures.

—In some countries such as Japan and Finland where the breast cancer rate is low among women, it is equally low among men.

—Men between the ages of 52 and 64 most frequently develop the disease — a median age that is "a few years older than in females."

Keats was 55 when he discovered his lump.

Keats, lean and healthy-looking, says he has been attempting to form a national organization of male breast cancer survivors.

"Eight survivors have contacted me," he says. "None has helped the cause, he adds, and because medical records are confidential he cannot obtain the names of other victims or obtain other statistics.

As he stood next to a swimming pool, tanned and bare chested, Keats seemed unconscious of the deep scar that runs across his chest — the only evidence of his battle with cancer. But the ordeal left him with a message. "Every once in a while a man should run his hands across his chest and under no circumstances should he consider ignoring a lump."

Unify the family, make the sibs battle a paper war

Getting your kids to sign on the dotted line may be a way to handle sibling rivalry. That's the opinion of Carole and Andrew Calladine in an article in the Aug. 28 Family Circle on how to solve some of the problems of raising siblings.

According to the Calladines, authors of Raising Siblings, A Sane and Sensible Approach To Raising Brothers and Sisters Without Raising the Roof, "one of the best ways to learn sibling consideration and to de-emphasize competitive rivalry is the use of family contracts."

The following procedure, the authors feel works especially well when children are given a single gift, such as a television, meant to be shared.

Set up a meeting to develop a gift usage contract. Announce a time and date when everyone involved in the problem should be prepared to participate.

Involve only concerned parties. A parent or non-involved older sibling can act as a mediator, but the decisions should be made only by those concerned.

Make sure everyone participates. Don't allow one child to dominate the meeting and if that does happen, the mediator should intervene.

Define the goal or goals. Set up a meeting and determine if everyone is ready to cooperate. As in the case of the shared TV, if all the children involved aren't ready to work together, postpone the meeting and any decisions until everyone is working together. Be clear about the purpose of the contract. It should be limited to one specific request, as in a case where a decision was to be made regarding the use of a television.

Finalize the bargain. When a decision has been reached, go around the room and make sure everyone understands and concurs with the rules that have been set up.

Put it in writing. A contract should be written up, dated, signed by all involved and then posted in the house. The contract should provide for a renewal period, which allows for any changes that may occur in a house such as a conflict of time with other activities.

It takes two to go steady

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I've been going steady with a guy for quite some time. He says that he loves me one day, then I don't hear a word from him for the next three days.

He says he doesn't want to be "married" and check in every time he does something. He also said that he wants to spend time with his friends but he is with them more than he is with me. Help! — Mary, Goshen, Ind.

Mary: I think you are going steady but your boyfriend isn't. So — you are the one putting pressure on yourself.

Tell him that you still want to see him but the going steady bit is over. The next move is up to him!

Dr. Wallace: I'm 18 and pregnant. The "father" is 28 but my parents know nothing about him. In fact, they don't know I am dating him.

I want to keep the baby and marry this guy because I love him very much. He once told me that if I became pregnant he would not "shine me on." I think this means he would marry me. He travels a lot so I don't see him too often. Please help. — Victoria, Fullerton, Calif.

Victoria: Get with this guy immediately and see if he is honorable and will marry you because he loves you.

If he stalls for any reason don't make plans to get married.

Regardless of your decision, share your condition with your mother. She will be your best friend after she gets over the initial "shock."

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 13-year-old girl who is 5-foot-4 and weighs 150 pounds. My father calls my legs tree trunks because they are so fat. My mother says that he is kidding but I think not.

I would also like to lose a lot of weight so the boys will like me. Can you help? — Ange, Windsor, Ontario, Canada

Ange: There are many things to consider when planning to go on a weight-losing program and it appears that you belong on one.

Have daddy take you to your family doctor and have him prescribe the best program for you.

But to get you started, eat three meals a day, no snacks, eliminating every food that contains white flour, white sugar and animal fat.

Names in the news

Dalai Lama worshippers

WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Worshippers came from as far away as Virginia and Wisconsin to attend a service under a blue sky in the New Jersey countryside. The Sunday sermon was delivered by the Tibetan Buddhist Dalai Lama, who prayed and chanted with about 600 followers outside the Lamaist Buddhist Monastery of America. "I am glad to be here in one of the oldest Buddhist centers in the United States," said the soft-spoken Himalayan exile, on a 49-day tour of the country. He spent most of the weekend at the wooded retreat. The Dalai Lama, 44, who was formally enthroned as a religious leader at the age of 4, is considered to be the 14th incarnation of Chenrezi, the patron deity of Tibet. He fled his country in 1959, when the occupying Communist Chinese suppressed an uprising there. For 20 years, the Dalai Lama has lived with a community of followers in Dharmasala, India.

Wonder breaks barrier

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Soul singer Stevie Wonder broke the musical sound barrier with a performance at the Grand Ole Opry, the 54-year-old Country Music show. Wonder sang the Charlie Rich country classic, "Behind Closed Doors," receiving warm applause from an estimated 4,400 persons in the audience and encored by repeating a verse. He was in Nashville for a meeting of the Black Music Association, a trade organization. He is the second soul singer to perform on the Opry this year. James Brown performed in March.

Little Richard preaching

PLEASANTVILLE, N.J. (AP) — He used to earn $10,000 an hour singing rock 'n' roll. Today Richard Wayne Tenniman — Little Richard — earns whatever the collection plate provides as he preaches and sings gospel music throughout the nation. The former teen idol of the '50s and '60s was still a master showman for an audience of 600 at the Mount Pleasant United Methodist Church here Saturday night and again Sunday as he told of converting from a drug-addicted homosexual to a messenger of God.

Ms. Presley likes privacy

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Priscilla Presley is embarking on a new career, but she says her first priority will be her daughter, the only child of the late Elvis Presley. "I want to keep a low profile because I like my privacy," Ms. Presley said Sunday as she arrived at a hair designers meeting in her role as unofficial representative for Wella Corp., a cosmetics firm that boosted the careers of Farrah Fawcett and Jaclyn Smith. Ms. Presley, 34, divorced from Presley in 1973, said her three-year contract with the firm requires her to pose in magazine advertisements, appear in commercials and on television talk shows.

Amarillo Oil Company names

Ingle production superintendent AMARILLO — Amarillo Oil Company has named Ray L. Ingle, production superintendent. He also will serve in the same capacity for Pioneer Production Corp. Both companies are wholly owned subsidiaries of Pioneer Corp. Ingle joined Amarillo Oil Company as a petroleum engineer in August of 1977 after spending seven years in various production, reservoir and drilling engineering positions with Union Oil Company of California. He holds a bachelor's degree in petroleum engineering from the University of Oklahoma. In his duties, Ingle will supervise production operations in New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Pickle hails passage of SS bill in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has lifted one roadblock to the establishment of a national park for the San Antonio missions, two Texas congressmen have learned. The Interior Department told Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and Rep. Abraham "Chick" Kazen on Tuesday that a San Antonio Mission Advisory Council will be appointed.

The two Texas Democrats sponsored a bill establishing the national park last year, but after it passed President Carter blocked the appointment of the advisory council. The president cited possible violation of the principle of separation of church and state, because some of the churches in the park still are used. Although appointment of the seven-member advisory council does not insure the park's establishment, it is a first step in that direction.

Jim Hightower, former editor of the Texas Observer, brings his new campaign for a spot on the Texas Railroad Commission to Washington for a fund-raiser Sept. 18. He is promising music, beer and "genuine Texas tamales" among the attractions. Willy Velasquez, head of the Southwest Voter Registration Project in San Antonio, picked up one of the top honors at the National Council of La Raza's convention this week in Washington.

He received one of two "La Raza" awards. The voter registration project is an affiliate of the national council. Raul Yzaguirre, the council's president, said the efforts of the projects to register Mexican-American voters in the Southwest soon will be duplicated by a similar organization in the Midwest.

Yzaguirre, a native of San Juan, Texas, told convention delegates that "malignant neglect" of the nation's Hispanic minority can no longer be tolerated as the government's basic policy. "What gives us hope for the '80s is not so much that we are more numerous, or more aware, or any smarter than we were before. What makes us optimistic is that we have begun to lay in place the local and national institutions — the organizational infrastructure, if you will — to solve problems," he said. Rep. Jim Collins, R-Texas, has introduced a bill that would prohibit the Internal Revenue Service or Treasury Department from taxing fringe benefits without congressional action. "The purpose of the bill is to inform the IRS that they cannot put these taxes on an employee's fringe benefits," Collins, of Dallas, said. "It will save American taxpayers billions of dollars in additional taxes. It will also help business and labor in negotiating future contracts by requiring the IRS to define exactly what taxable income is."

A bill strongly backed by Rep. J.J. "Jake" Pickle, D-Texas, revamping the Social Security disability programs, passed the House on Thursday by a 235-162 margin. Pickle, of Austin, is chairman of the Social Security Subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The bill would reduce certain benefits and increase incentives for the disabled to return to work. Pickle hailed the passage of the bill, which goes next to the Senate where its chance for success is rated high, as a sign that Congress is willing to make needed reforms. "We are trying our best to find ways to possibly roll back the tax of 1981," he said. "This is a relatively small bill, but the House is saying that a person should not receive more money on disability benefits than received before becoming disabled."

A sure sign of fall is renewal of the football rivalry between the Dallas Cowboys and the Washington Redskins. A Washington Post poll of 20 Redskins rated Dallas and nobody else as the "one team you love to beat." Tom Landry as the coach they most love to beat and Dallas as the National Football League "flop team of 1979."

To the 'Skins credit, however, the poll picked the Cowboys to win their division if Washington weren't counted. The 20 Washington players also picked the Cowboys to make it to the Super Bowl, not counting Washington, and named Gil Brandt as the best personnel man in the league. The poll listed three Cowboys as the most overrated players in the league: in order, Tony Dorsett, Thomas Henderson and Charlie Waters. And the three "biggest NFL hot dogs" were Henderson, Tony Hill and Drew Pearson. Robert Newhouse of Dallas was tabbed second behind Wilbert Montgomery of Philadelphia as the most underrated players in NFL. Dallas has the best cheerleaders in the league and Washington the worst, the poll concluded, and Dallas is second behind Los Angeles as the "best NFL city for girl-watching."

Landry finished second to Miami's Don Shula as the "NFL coach you'd love to play for." Bum Phillips of the Houston Oilers finished third in that category. Houston also dropped up in the poll with Curly Culp, rated as the third hardest hitter in the league. And Earl Campbell was the winner in the "one player to start an NFL franchise" category.

Rafael (Tony) Rodriguez, no address listed, is in custody of the Howard County Sheriff's Office in lieu of $15,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Rodriguez was charged in Heflin's office with burglary. Rodriguez was arrested Wednesday and transferred to county jail Friday. Those connections are slim and circumstantial but are "far too significant to be overlooked," according to Ellis County sheriff's investigator Ron Roark.

Roark said he has contacted Indiana officials and "definitely" wants Leslie's widow Patricia questioned about Miss Haley's death. Indiana police say three of Leslie's victims were young women; that he moved to the Dallas area shortly before Miss Haley's death; that he was an independent trucker who specialized in "short hauls" of less than 400 miles and that he was known to have been in Georgia around the time Miss Haley's purse was discovered.

Murder case reopened after letters studied

WAXAHACHIE, Texas (AP) — Four letters written by a Detroit, Michigan, man before he shot himself last May have convinced Ellis County investigators to reopen their investigation into a four-year-old murder case. A 20-year-old Oklahoma City woman, Lesa Rhea Haley, was hitchhiking from Corpus Christi to her home when she was murdered in 1976.

Her body was discovered beside Interstate 35 a few miles north of Waxahachie in August 1976. Medical authorities said she had been beaten and stabbed. Her purse was found in a Georgia lake more than a year later, but the killing remains unsolved. Robert Leslie, 36, committed suicide May 31 in Detroit, and Ellis County authorities say he left behind four letters detailing sex-crimes he allegedly committed.

Those connections are slim and circumstantial but are "far too significant to be overlooked," according to Ellis County sheriff's investigator Ron Roark.

Roark said he has contacted Indiana officials and "definitely" wants Leslie's widow Patricia questioned about Miss Haley's death.

Crews cleaning up after tank cars derailment

JOAQUIN, Texas (AP) — Work crews kept a cautious eye on three still-burning tank cars today as they began cleaning up the wreckage from a derailment, explosion and fire on a freight train loaded with flammable and corrosive chemicals. Dallas has the best cheerleaders in the league and Washington the worst, the poll concluded, and Dallas is second behind Los Angeles as the "best NFL city for girl-watching." Landry finished second to Miami's Don Shula as the "NFL coach you'd love to play for." Bum Phillips of the Houston Oilers finished third in that category. Houston also dropped up in the poll with Curly Culp, rated as the third hardest hitter in the league. And Earl Campbell was the winner in the "one player to start an NFL franchise" category.

shooting as much as 500 feet into the air igniting trees and grass along the tracks, Ross said. Five people, including one trainman, suffered minor burns and injuries, he said. The danger of more explosions in nearby cars filled with flammable and toxic materials caused officials to evacuate residents as far as three miles from the accident, and just before sundown Saturday two more cars exploded "with big flames erupting 'way up into the sky, billows of it, making a loud ruck like jets coming over," Ross said. "It was half a mile from it and I heard it real loud," he said. "It (the noise) lasted about 45 minutes." "Some residents are moving back in now," Ross said, "but it's at their own risk. We're not telling them to, but we're letting them back to within a half-mile, unless they live downwind."

Parting: Such sweet sorrow

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — He was a good pet. Friendly. Affectionate. But there were drawbacks, too, and when it came time to sell it, Colorado State University geology student John Sarles had no regrets. For one thing, Sarles' 6 1/2-foot-long Burmese Python ate $3 worth of rats per week. Sarles said as pythons grow, they begin craving rabbits, which are more expensive. "In his native tropical Burma, he would probably grow to 30 feet and eat pigs or other animals," said Sarles, who had begun to fear for his cat's safety. In captivity, the snake will grow to be 15 feet long — too big for a student apartment, he said.

'Fuzz Box' mighty tiny in Florida's Panhandle

CARRABELLE, Fla. (AP) — If you're looking for Carrabelle's police station, it's next door to the Suwannee Super Market, across the street from a service station — right behind the chinaberry tree. For the past 20 years, the Carrabelle Police Department has operated from a 3-foot-square telephone booth. There's even a white dome on top of it with the word "POLICE" in bold tan letters. "We're right proud of our little station," says John Berda, who runs the drug store in this fishing village of 1,044 people in Florida's Panhandle, about 50 miles southwest of Tallahassee. "I think it's the smallest police station in the world." And it may well be. The three-man police department stores its files and a breathalyzer machine for testing drunken drivers in a room at City Hall that it shares with the public health nurse. Prisoners are hauled off to the Franklin County jail at Apalachicola. "You couldn't very well lock someone up in it (the phone booth) if he misbehaved, but luckily we don't have too much misbehaving," Berda said. Nevertheless, the tiny station hasn't been spared its own problems. A few years ago, vandals ripped out the booth's wall phone. So the St. Joe Telephone Co. installed a black desk model. Some folks say they'd like to see the town repaint the booth and fix a broken window pane so it could become a tourist attraction. But even with its chipped red and black paint, it lures picture-takers from around the country. Its rundown condition caught the eye of a persistent souvenir hunter a few years back. "A guy from Tennessee went over to the gas station one night and asked for help loading up the phone booth. He wanted to take it back to Tennessee as an antique," said Police Chief Marvin Braswell. "I came down and run him off. I told him he was going to be in a lot of trouble if he didn't get out of here."

BLOUNT BLASTS BURROUGH — Houston Oilers' wide receiver Ken Burroughs can't hold on to the ball as he is defended by the Steelers' Mel Blount in action in Pittsburgh Sunday. The pass was from Oilers' quarterback Gifford Nielsen. Pittsburgh buried the Oilers 38-7.

Pokes unbeaten, untested, unhappy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are unbeaten, perhaps untested and definitely frustrated heading into the third week of the National Football League season.

"We're 2-0 but we've been playing like we're 0-2. The real test will come when we play a contender," said defensive end Harvey Martin, whose endzone tackle of San Francisco quarterback Steve DeBerg gave the Cowboys two late insurance points in Sunday's 21-13 victory over the 49ers.

The National Football Conference champions, who slipped past the St. Louis Cardinals in their season opener, trailed the 49ers 10-6 late in the third period. San Francisco's O.J. Simpson returned to action with a promising performance that included a go-ahead, one-yard touchdown run just before halftime.

"I felt pretty good. In fact, I wish we had run the ball more," said Simpson, held out of the early exhibition games because of a sore knee. His rushed for 43 yards on 14 carries in his 1979 debut, delayed until Sunday because of the death of a daughter in late August.

"He will have a good season," predicted 49ers Coach Bill Walsh. "We didn't have enough running offense for him, for this game. I'm not giving away any secrets when I say that you can expect us to have a lot more for him next week."

Roger Staubach's first two 1979 touchdown passes, 22 yards to Drew Pearson in the third period and 13 yards to Billy Joe DuPree in the final quarter, sent the 49ers to their second straight defeat.

"We're doing some good things but not doing them consistently," said Staubach, who had hoped the Dallas offense would have a lot more success running, especially since Tony Dorsett was back in the lineup.

"The combination of their defense and the penalties really hurt. We'd make a big play and it would be called back. We had a lot of first-and-20s," added the quarterback who completed 20 passes for 259 yards.

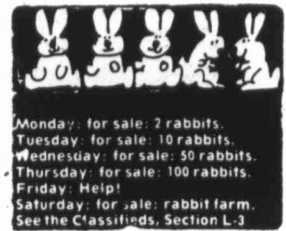

The penalties against the Cowboys kept piling up until they totaled 125 yards.

"I'll be seeing yellow flags in my sleep," said Coach Tom Landry. "If we didn't have those penalties, it wouldn't have been a game. It would have been a rout."

Dorsett, recovered from a broken toe, carried the ball 19 times for 54 yards but said, "I told myself before the game I would be all right.

But I was rusty. In the second half, I began to feel more comfortable."

Two big defensive plays, an interception by linebacker D.D. Lewis that set up Staubach's second touchdown pass and the tackle by Martin for the safety, were necessary to make the Cowboys feel comfortable late in the going against the 49ers.

Steelers smash Oilers, Pastorini jammed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — After the Pittsburgh Steelers held him to his least productive day in the National Football League, Earl Campbell left the shower room in song.

"The sun's gonna come up tomorrow," the Houston fullback intoned, borrowing a lyric from soul singer Lou Rawls, after the Oilers were crushed 38-7 Sunday by Pittsburgh.

Campbell's musical message aside, Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini left here with his jammed throwing arm in a sling and wide receiver Billy Johnson was on crutches with a knee injury.

"We just couldn't get nothing going," said Campbell, limited to 38 yards rushing on 16 carries.

"They did everything today that got them to the Super Bowl," Houston Coach "Bum" Phillips said with a blank expression.

"We were ready to play Friday. The coaches had to tone us down," said Steeler defensive tackle Steve Furness.

Last Jan. 7, Pittsburgh beat the wild-card Oilers 34-5 in the American Football Conference championship. It was an unusually lopsided game for the two rivals from the AFC Central, and it was played in unusual weather — freezing rain.

The weather was perfect Sunday, but the Steeler domination was the same as the Oilers managed just 124 net offensive yards — only 21 in the first half.

"Defensively, we have played some great games over the years. This is one of the better ones," said linebacker Jack Lambert.

"It was just a devastating effort, the kind of effort that can take the life out of a football team," said Joe

Trojans depleted

By The Associated Press.

Southern California's top-ranked Trojans won the first battle. Now it remains to be seen if they can go on and win the war.

Pyrrhus doesn't play for these men of Troy and it was not immediately known how many injured warriors will be hale and hearty for next week's Oregon State game or whether Saturday night's 21-7 season opening triumph over Texas Tech was a pyrrhic victory.

The Trojans lost All-America tailback Charles White (shoulder injury), mammoth tackle Anthony Munoz (knee), center Chris Foote (leg) and rover Ronnie Lott (shoulder).

"We lost White and Munoz in the first half and I was starting to say, 'Oh, my God,' but my team kept playing," said Coach John Robinson.

Among the players were fullback Marcus Allen, who rushed for 105 yards and scored on a 1-yard run, and quarterback Paul McDonald, who passed for two second-half touchdowns.

"I don't know whether White will play next week," Robinson said. The Pac-10's career rushing king was hurt after gaining 39 yards on 10 carries.

Second-ranked Alabama, college football's defending national champion, got rolling after a sluggish start and whipped Georgia Tech 30-6. E.J. Junior returned an interception 59 yards for the first score while Major Ogilvie, Steve Whitman and Steadman Shealy produced touchdown runs and the defense had a shutout until only 12 seconds remained.

Was Bear Bryant disappointed?

"Yes. We didn't score every time we got the ball and we didn't stop them every time they got it."

Oklahoma, Texas and Penn State, the 3-4-5 teams in The Associated Press ratings, were idle, but sixth-ranked Purdue smashed Wisconsin 41-20 as Mark Herrmann completed 20 of 26 passes for 291 yards and four touchdowns, two each to Raymond Smith and Dave Young.

Seventh-ranked Michigan breezed past Northwestern 49-7 as quarterback B.J. Dickey, tailback Butch Woolfolk and wide receiver Anthony Carter each scored twice.

Pastorini left the field on a stretcher in the third quarter. He jammed his right arm when he brought down 250-pound end John Banaszak after his pass interception.

Pastorini was sacked five times and intercepted three times. He completed four of 16 passes for 16 yards.

Johnson, who led Oiler receivers with two catches for 32 yards, hurt his knee on a fourth-quarter punt return.

It was uncertain how long Pastorini and Johnson would be sidelined. X-rays taken of Pastorini's arm were

A defense isn't the only thing that can take the life out of a defense. A more potent offense can, too — like New England's, for instance.

A week ago it looked weak against the Steelers, Steve Grogan's passing game was clearly off. But against the Jets he was magnificent, completing five touchdown passes covering 49, 44 and 28 yards to Harold Jackson and 37 and 50 yards to Stanley Morzan.

Bills 51, Bengals 24

Buffalo, which displayed its defensive prowess in a narrow 9-7 loss to Miami last Sunday, showed what it is capable of doing with the ball.

More specifically, Roland Hooks showed what he can do with the ball. The one-time reserve running back behind O.J. Simpson, now residing in Terry Miller's shadow, touched it seven times.

Chargers 30, Raiders 10

San Diego waited a full year to get even for what has become known as the "immaculate deception," Ken Stabler's intentional fumble that was kicked and dribbled into the end zone by Pete Banaszak and Dave Casper for a last-second winning touchdown.

The Chargers got even when Dan Fouts passed for three touchdowns and linebacker Woodrow Lowe ran in a Stabler interception for another.

Bucs 29, Colts 26

Greg Landry of Baltimore was cocking his arm to throw on the third play of overtime when Randy Crowder of Tampa Bay got to him. The resulting fumble was recovered by the Bucs' Bill Kollar — and Neil O'Donoghue immediately kicked a 31-yard field goal that beat the Colts.

Bears 26, Vikings 7

Walter Payton amassed 182 yards — 141 of them in the second period — in Chicago's trouncing reserve quarterback Vince Evans combined with James Scott on a 56-yard scoring pass play. Tommy Kramer, who threw for four TDs last week for Minnesota, ran 2 yards for the Vikes' lone score this week.

Packers 28, Saints 19

Steve Atkins ran 3 yards for Green Bay's winning TD, then sprinted 60 yards to set up a 3-yard scoring run by Eric Torkelson that locked up the Packers' victory over New Orleans.

Redskins 27, Lions 24

Washington's Mark Moseley, given a second chance by the Lions, beat them with a 41-yard field goal eight seconds from the final gun for having too many men on the field. Joe Theismann threw two TD passes for the Redskins.

Eagles seek second win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles seek to start the season with two consecutive victories for the first time in 18 years tonight when they meet the Atlanta Falcons in the National Football League's weekly televised game.

The last time the Eagles went 2-0 at the start of the season was 1961, when under Coach Nick Skorich they beat Cleveland and Washington. In fact they took the first eight games that season.

The Eagles opened last Sunday with a 23-17 triumph over the New York Giants.

Also, this will be the first Monday night national TV exposure for the Eagles since 1976, when they lost in overtime to Washington 20-17.

Eagles Coach Dick Vermeil is anxious to overcome that 18-year drought, and also to show football fans everywhere how much the Eagles have progressed since he took over three years ago.

"I think the whole National Football League is more closely competitive," said Vermeil. "And getting a good start is important. You look at Buffalo against Miami. Look at the Chicago Bears and Green Bay. I just think it's getting so that everybody's got a good football team."

UP FOR GRABS — Thomas Henderson, Dallas Cowboy linebacker bats the ball away from San Francisco Forty Niner Freddie Solomon during closing minutes of play in Sunday's game. Dallas defeated Forty Niners 21-13.

'Kids' win U.S. Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — "Superbrat" has become tennis' "Superboy" and "Alice in Wonderland" suddenly has blossomed into "Wonder Woman."

Those upstart kids are taking over the place. Move over, Bjorn Borg. Make room for John McEnroe, the brash and brassy kid from Douglaston, down the pike a piece. OK, Chris Evert-Lloyd and Martina Navratilova, you've had your fun. Now pony-tailed schoolgirl Tracy Austin is moving in — ready or not.

At 20, McEnroe is the youngest U.S. men's champion since Pancho Gonzales took the title at Forest Hills almost on his 20th birthday.

At 16, Tracy, in her pink lace dress, is the youngest ladies' champion ever — about six months younger than Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly, who carved out a string of three straight triumphs starting in 1951, only to die of cancer a few years afterward.

In the booming sport of tennis, it's the game of youth. McEnroe particularly is a phenomenon of the age. When has the game seen a youngster with such raw talent, natural instinct and repertoire of shots?

It was the prissy British press that labeled him "Superbrat" because of his youthful intensity and arrogance when he won his way into the Wimbledon semifinals at the age of 18.

"I admit I get very intense on the court," McEnroe says. "It's because I want to win so much. If there's a bad call, I get mad. I don't like people taking anything away from me."

In sweeping into the U.S. Open crown, beating fellow New Yorker Vitas Gerulaitis in the final, McEnroe kept a stopper on his hair-trigger temper.

Perhaps not in our lifetime has the game produced a player with such versatility coupled with such mental toughness. He moves effortlessly on the court — flowing like a river — pulling off his combination of spins, lobs and delicate drop shots as easily as he puts away those thundering overheads.

He doesn't wear the traditional wrist band. "It's not comfortable," he says. He is so intense that he can't keep still. He is always tugging at his shirt or stopping to tie his shoestrings. Yet when he gets ready to serve, he bounces the ball twice and stands frozen for seconds before unleashing his wide-sweeping twist. Concentration oozes from every pore.

Intense on the court — at times volatile — he becomes a shy, puckish kid once he has removed the red band from his curly hair and changed into his blue jeans.

With a wry sense of humor, he has kept newsmen in stitches with his quips in postmatch interviews.

On court, McEnroe is a shotmaking symphony, beautiful to watch. Little Tracy is a cold machine, disciplined, deadly, unflappable.

Welcome to tennis' throne room, kids. Long may you reign.

CUP FOR THE CHAMP — Tracy Austin holds up the first prize cup in the 1979 U.S. Open at Flushing, N.Y. Austin beat the defending champ Chris Evert-Lloyd 6-4, 6-3 for the impressive win.

Wagner, Barber make up

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Safety Mike Wagner of the Pittsburgh Steelers and tight end Mike Barber of the Houston Oilers exchanged goodwill gestures in pregame warmups.

And they left the field with no hard feelings after Pittsburgh beat Houston 38-7 Sunday, eight months after they were involved in a heated playoff incident.

"None at all," said Wagner, who intercepted two passes.

Last Jan. 7 in the American Football Conference title game, Barber sustained a strained knee when hit by Wagner after an incompleting pass.

Afterward, Barber angrily said, "I'm gonna get him." Wagner claimed he acted in self-defense.

The incident was revived in news stories before this week's game. And during pregame warmups, Wagner spotted Barber on the field.

"I thought, 'What the heck,' and I went over and talked to him," said Wagner.

"I told him I was sorry that he got hurt. He said not to worry about it and that the situation had gotten out of hand.

"I said, 'Good luck. Have a good season.' And he said the same thing to me."

Barber and Wagner had no major collisions during the game. One close play, Wagner was called for pass interference on Barber.

"He said, 'Nice play,' and I don't think he was being cynical," said Wagner. "He knew it was a bad call, I think."

Graham thrives on pressure

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — On the 17th hole, Lou Graham set up for a tough chip shot when a fan on the hill shouted: "Don't let the pressure get you."

The fan obviously didn't know who he was addressing. The 41-year-old Graham has been playing golf under pressure for a long time, winning more than $1 million in prize money on the PGA tour since 1964. "That made me more determined," Graham said. "I didn't look up. I just stepped back, looked at my ball and hit right up to the hole."

Then, with a 2-stroke lead, the pressure became more intense. As Graham got set for his short putt on the 17th green Sunday, he heard a tremendous roar from a huge gallery on the 18th. Ben Crenshaw had finished with a birdie and Graham's lead was just at a stroke.

"Nobody had to tell me," Graham said. "I knew what had happened. I didn't even turn around to look at the leader board."

Graham played the final hole cautiously, getting down in par by two-putting from 12 feet and winning the $250,000 Pleasant Valley Classic with a 72-hole score of 275.

Tech is tough!

By The Associated Press
Texas Tech was the surprise team in the Southwest Conference last fall and dressing room testimony Saturday night indicated the Red Raiders may be the team to watch again this year.

The Red Raiders fell 21-7 to top-ranked Southern California but not until some severe bruises were inflicted on the Trojans in a game much closer than the score indicated.

"We had to play hard to beat one of the best teams in the country," said Southern Cal Coach John Robinson. "Watch out for Texas Tech. They are a good football team."

Southern Cal had four limppos including All-America tailback Charles White, who suffered a bruised shoulder.

"I thought we had a chance to win it right down to the last," said Rex Dockery, who was SWC Coach of the Year in 1978 in his rookie year at Texas Tech. "I think we are a lot better football team than we were last year at this time."

Dockery added, "We are much better defensively than I had hoped."

Then he smiled: "I think maybe Senor Sack has something to do with that."

Dockery was referring to 300-pound Gabriel Rivera, a massive freshman from San Antonio who runs an incredible 4.9 in the 40. The young noseguard made five unnecessary tackles against the Trojans, including one where he chased down Southern Cal quarterback Paul McDonald on a sideline to sideline run.

"We're still not going to start him until he gets into shape but ain't he something?" said Dockery. "I told you he would be a player. I don't know if I want him to lose weight now or not."

Southern Methodist unwrapped two heralded freshmen running backs, Eric Dickerson and Craig James, in a 35-17 SWC victory over Rice and the crowd of 60,217 in Texas Stadium wasn't disappointed.

Dickerson scored three touchdowns and James scored one.

SMU Coach Ron Meyer called it just an average night for Dickerson.

"We were very, very ragged. Eric can play better than that. I consider this just an average Eric Dickerson game," Meyer said.

"I think I can play with this league," Dickerson said.

Baseball Roundup

Astros hang on by half game in NL West

By The Associated Press
As the sun set over National League West, the Houston Astros were back on top — thanks to a 36-year-old, part-time player in the twilight of his career.

Jesus Alou has spent this season as a coach-pinchhitter for the Astros. He has batted only 37 times, with nine hits — the latest a two-run double in the fourth-inning that carried Houston to a 4-1 triumph over the San Francisco Giants Sunday.

The Astros trailed 1-0 and had managed only four hits through seven innings. Then in the eighth, pinch-hitter Dave Bergman and Cesar Cedeno singled off San Francisco reliever Greg Minton.

Shortstop Craig Reynolds was the next scheduled batter, but when Giants Manager Dave Bristol brought in left-hander Gary Lavelle, Astros Manager Bill Virdon went looking for a little more right-handed power than Reynolds usually displays. Alou produced a two-run double that sent the Astros past the Giants and back into the West Division lead.

Dodgers 3, Reds 1

Garvey's seventh-inning homer snapped a 1-1 tie and helped Los Angeles defeat Cincinnati to leave the Reds a half-game out entering a two game series with Houston.

Dodgers right-hander Rick Sutcliffe hurled five innings in pain after being struck on the pitching arm by a line drive off the bat of Johnny Bench. Sutcliffe told Manager Tom Lasorda he felt well enough to continue after the mishap, "but if I'd have been smart, I probably would have come out of the game."

Pirates 6, Mets 5

Willie Stargell doubled home Dave Park with one out in the ninth inning, snapping a tie and carrying Pittsburgh past New York.

Expos 4, Cardinals 1

Gary Carter and Ellis Valentine had three hits apiece, pacing Montreal's eight-hit attack and boosting the Expos to their victory over St. Louis. Carter hit his 21st homer of the year, singled and doubled while Valentine had a double and two singles.

Cubs 15, Phillies 2

Barry Foote had four hits, including a grand-slam homer in Chicago's five-run fourth, and Larry Bittner also had four hits as the Cubs amassed a season-high 22 hits in their rout of Philadelphia.

Padres 4, Braves 1

Gene Tenace hit his 17th homer of the season to help Randy Jones and San Diego beat Atlanta and Phil Niekro, 17-19.

Angels 5, Brewers 2

Frank Tanana, trying to come back from tendinitis in his left shoulder, gave up five hits in 5-2-3 innings to gain his first victory since June 5 as California defeated Milwaukee.

Tanana, 6-4, struck out four and walked only one in his second start since the shoulder problem forced him out of a June 10 game against Detroit. Tanana got relief help from Dave LaRoche and John Montague, who earned his sixth save.

Royals 3, Mariners 1

Larry Gura fired a six-hitter and George Brett collected three hits to lead Kansas City over Seattle. Gura, 11-10, walked two and struck out two, losing his shutout in the sixth inning on Tom Paciorek's home run.

"My ball was sinking," said Gura. "It was moving good today. I can't afford throw high pitches in this park (the Kingdome)."

2999TH FOR YAZ — Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox swings to make his 2999th career hit, a ninth inning single Sunday against the Baltimore Orioles. Yaz' next hit will make him the first man in the American League to hit 3000 hits and 400 homers.

Rangers 6, Twins 5

Jonny Grubb hit a two-run homer and two relief pitchers preserved Steve Comer's 15th victory as Texas beat Minnesota. Grubb's shot, his 10th of the year and first since June 6, came off loser Paul Hartzell, 6-8, and capped a three-run burst by the Rangers in the fourth inning.

Tigers 3, Yankees 1

John Wockenfuss drove in three runs and Mike Chris and Aurelio Lopez combined on a four-hitter, leading Detroit over New York.

Wockenfuss hit a sacrifice fly in the first inning and doubled in the third following a one-out single by Alan Trammell and a walk to Steve Kemp. The sacrifice fly followed singles by Ron LeFlore and Trammell and a walk by Tommy John, 18-8, that loaded the bases.

Indians 14, Blue Jays 10

Bobby Bonds' grand slam home run climaxed a five-run rally that led Cleveland over Toronto. Blue Jays reliever Tom Buskey, 6-9, entered the ninth with a 10-9 lead before the Indians made their comeback capped by Bonds' 23rd homer of the year.

The blow made a winner of Sid Monge, 9-9, who hurled 11-3 innings.

A's 3-0, White Sox 0-7

Oakland defeated Chicago in the first game of their doubleheader as Brian Kingman pitched a four-hitter. Kingman improved his record to 6-5 with his first major league shutout.

Rookie right-hander Richard Dotson, pitching his second major league game, hurled a sixhitter to pace Chicago in the second game.

Orioles 16, Red Sox 4

Four teams beat the Boston Red Sox at their own game in Fenway Park.

But Sunday, the ball took a Baltimore bounce. "Our ground balls just went through," said Baltimore Orioles Manager Earl Weaver. "They hit some hard ground balls that were double plays and that turned it around."

The Orioles also hit some balls over the fence — three of them, in fact — and the result was a 16-4 rout of the Red Sox, who slipped 14 1/2 games behind in the American League East.

"I don't believe I ever sat in a ballpark and said, 'I hope we don't get any more runs,'" said Weaver. "But I did today."

Good best roper

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Gary Good, an Elida, N.M., cowboy, emerged as the world steer-roping champion and $3,570 richer Sunday at the close of the National Finals Steer-Roping Championships here.

Although Good wound up third in the two-day competition, the prize money boosted his total earnings this year to $18,337.

the best anywhere this year.

Good also was recognized for having the fastest average time in the competition's 10 go-arounds. His cumulative time was 2:08.39 for all 10 steers.

Finishing second among steer-roping money-winners was Walt Arnold of Silverton, Texas, who has piled up $13,160 this year.

Public School Week selected

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—The State Board of Education Saturday selected March 2-8 as Public School Week in the state.

The decision came after several school districts complained that such a celebration in October, as requested by the Masons, was not practical.

Texas Education Agency spokeswoman Marj Wightman said Saturday that the Masons had sponsored Public School Week in Texas for more than 30 years. This year the organization asked that the week be set in October rather than the traditional March setting.

But the board Saturday denied that request and set the week in March as requested by several districts.

Marquez hit with burglary

Richard Marquez, 705 Douglas, is in custody of the Howard County Sheriff's Office in lieu of $20,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Marquez was charged with burglary Friday and arrested and transferred the same day.

Officer Bill Price allegedly arrested Marquez inside Big John's Feed Lot Friday morning when he noticed movement inside the restaurant during routine patrol.
