Rhodesian guerrillas rebuff British-proposed constitution

LONDON (AL) — Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, staving off collapse of the Zimbabwe Rhodesia peace talks, today gave the Patriotic Front guerrillas a 48-hour deadline to change their minds and accept a British-proposed independence constitution. The guerrillas rebuffed him.

At a meeting of all sides this morning, Carrington said Britain would negotiate no more on the constitution for its breakaway former colony and that he must have the guerrillas' answer before the month-old talks could continue. A guerrilla spokesman responded to the ultimatum by maintaining that Carrington, the conference chairman, was "absurd" to demand a firm answer.

He indicated the guerrillas would continue to seek to shelve the constitutional dispute and get the discussion turned to who will control the army and administration before British-granted independence — a move Carrington has firmly rejected.

Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, co-leaders of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance, objected Monday to two points favorable to the white minority in the constitution Britain proposed for its former African colony.

One provided for all white settlers to become citizens of the new country automatically. The other guaranteed financial compensation for property seized by a new black government from white owners.

The guerrilla leaders also revived their demand, made at the start of the talks, that the constitutional negotiations be shelved while they, the British and Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa negotiate the establishment of a new transitional government to replace Muzorewa's biracial government of Zimbabwe Rhodesia until new elections were held.

A British spokesman said his government would consider carefully the Patriotic Front's proposals. But Carrington told Nkomo and Mugabe it would be "misleading to suggest there is any realistic prospect of agreement" on any constitution that differed materially from the draft Britain put forth last Wednesday.

He also rejected the guerrilla leaders' demand to change the course of the talks, saying: "We should not be prepared to open discussion on pre-independence areas until there is an agreement on the constitution."

Muzorewa, who accepted the British draft last week, sat silently through the meeting. But he said in a written statement he had done everything "and more" that Britain demanded, and he called on the British government to immediately lift the economic and diplomatic sanctions which it and other nations imposed after then-Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia independent 14 years ago in an attempt to preserve white control.

The British draft constitution removed the veto over constitutional change given the white minority in the constitution Smith, Muzorewa and other moderate black leaders agreed on early this year. It also cancelled provisions giving the whites control of the army, police, civil service and courts for five to 10 years.

Nkomo end Mugabe made two major concessions. They agreed to retention of the parliamentary system of government, with a prime minister chosen by the majority in Parliament, instead of the powerful elected president they wanted.

Vance to appear Wednesday

SALT II treaty opponents make final plea for change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of the most influential opponents of the strategic arms limitation treaty made a final plea to Congress today to make substantial changes in the pact or refuse to ratify it.

Paul Nitze, a former secretary of the Navy, and retired Army Lt. Gen. Edward L. Rowley, formerly the chief representative at the arms control talks for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee they believe the SALT II pact is fatally flawed and should be amended.

Meanwhile, a Senate Foreign Relations Committee staff report said failure of the Senate to ratify SALT II might well damage the internal unity and military strength of the NATO alliance and would be a serious setback to plans to modernize allied theater nuclear forces in Europe.

"Senior political figures in both England and Germany agreed in characterizing rejection of SALT II as a potential 'disaster,'" the report said.

It quoted senior European political figures as saying the failure of SALT would create a serious prejudice about the ability of the United States to conduct its own affairs and lead others.

And it portrayed Western European political leaders as anxious about growing Soviet military power on the continent and uncertain about the capacity of the United States to meet the Soviet challenge.

Because of that concern "the allies now regard the ratification of SALT II as a major test of U.S. reliability as leader of the West," the report said.

The study, written by John B. Ritch III and Alfred Friendly Jr., underpins the view of senior Carter administration officials who contend SALT II is seen by the allies as a necessary step toward managing the arms race, both on a worldwide basis and in Europe.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Defense Secretary Harold Brown had been expected to make a final appearance in behalf of the treaty before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee but will appear Wednesday instead.

Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the Senate Intelligence Committee, also will report then on their panel's report that ratification of SALT II would enhance the capability of the United States to monitor Soviet strategic activities limited by the pact.

By city council here

Smith backed for tax board

By JAMES WERRELL

The Big Spring City Council voted today to lend all its support to one nominee for membership on the Howard County Tax Appraisal Board.

Billy T. Smith, a local public accountant and long-time member of the board of equalization, received the unanimous nod from the council during today's regular meeting. The council had an option to nominate from one to five persons for the post.

Under the weighted voting system specified in State Bill 621, Big Spring will be allotted 821 votes. A total of 834 votes is needed to elect a nominee to the board.

All county taxing agencies will submit a list of nominees by Oct. 15, and the election will take place on Nov. 15. Votes will be tabulated, and the five winners declared on Dec. 1.

The council today also approved a plan to allow the Big Spring Little League Association to take over maintenance of the two south ballfields in Roy Anderson Memorial Park.

"We have nearly $6,000 in the bank to completely redo the fields. We hope to sell sponsor signs for the fences, operate the concessions and institute league play for 16, 17 and 18-year-olds in the future," said Dale Worthan, association president.

Worthan added that he hopes to operate the concession stands in conjunction with members of the local women's softball league.

Council members also gave H.L. Shirley permission to construct a barricade in front of his home at 911 Lancaster. A number of vehicles had gone out of control at the corner of 10th and Lancaster, and ended up on Shirley's lawn.

The barricade will be constructed of telephone poles set four feet underground and 27 inches above ground. In order to help remedy the situation, the council also approved the installation of a traffic light that will blink red facing Lancaster, and amber facing 10th.

Mayor Wade Choate was authorized to sign contracts with the Colorado River Municipal Water District and Howard College to provide raw water to the college. The water will be used for irrigation.

Cost to the college will be 55 cents per 1,000 gallons. If the cost of the water to the city is increased, the increase will be passed along to the college.

Members accepted a bid from Industrial Disposal Supply Company of Plano for 43 garbage dumpsters. The company submitted the low bid totaling $233.50.

In other business, councilmen: —Granted a request for a 6-month permit for a mobile home to Mrs. Nikita Earle.

—Agreed to examine the possibility of repaving Wasson Road in the future.

—Denied a claim for damages submitted by Mrs. Rodney Hult resulting from an accident involving broken glass in a city park.

—Voted to advertise for bids for city-owned space heaters and a 1943 Michigan Crane.

—Passed on second and final reading an ordinance requiring a deposit for all customer-requested water meter tests.

—Passed on second reading an ordinance approving the annual budget for the fiscal year 1979-80.

—Passed on second and final reading an ordinance adopting a local Fair Housing Ordinance.

—Passed on first reading an ordinance amending a portion of the local electrical code.

—Approved minutes of meetings of the Tourist Development Council, the Electrical Board, the Big Spring Traffic Commission, the Structural Standards Board and the Big Spring Airport and Industrial Park Steering Committee.

Local YMCAs look to UW for financial assistance

The success of the 1979 Howard County United Way campaign is very important to agencies like the Lakeview and Central YMCAs. Both depend heavily on support offered by the UW.

The two YMCAs together serve over 2,000 members. As a result of training offered by the Y, 80 students received First Aid and Water Safety badges this year. Over 900 persons a day avail themselves of Y facilities.

The YMCA membership drive invariably is a success because 225 adult volunteers devote a lot of energy to see that it is.

A hundred adults are served in the Y's health club. No fewer than 3,000 people are enrolled in the continuing education and self growth-improvement courses. An estimated 800 completed beginning swimming courses at the local Ys.

Youth numbering 420 participated in basketball, soccer and volleyball programs offered by the Ys. Another 640 adults took part in basketball and volleyball programs. A head count showed 575 participated in gymnastics and dancing programs.

In addition, 150 girls enrolled in the cheerleading program.

The local Ys would have to sharply cut back on their programs if the UW committee fails to meet its $145,730.32 objective. The campaign is gaining momentum.

Sums approaching $40,000 have been raised by the UW workers. Much more is needed.

Selling easy through paper

The sales people at the Herald have learned by experience that customers who purchase ad space for several days often get such swift action with their ads that they cancel them before time runs out.

One such instance occurred here recently when a woman announced plans for a carport sale. The ad ran only twice. The subscriber sold everything she planned to sell and potential customers continued to come by.

The customer called the Herald to ask that the ad be cancelled, adding she was completely pleased with the results.

No other kind of advertising gets the kind of "audience" in Big Spring a Herald want ad does. Call 263-7331 to initiate an order.

SALT II version has three parts

Paul Nitze sounds alarm --again

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a Senate hearing room today, Paul Nitze is sounding an ominous warning of impending destruction at the hands of a Soviet Union determined to conquer the United States. It is essentially the same message he has been delivering behind the scenes for 30 years, often with an effectiveness that set the course of U.S. defense policy. In its current version, the message has three parts: the Soviet Union is putting the United States in imminent peril; arms control agreements like SALT II only help them do it; a massive defense spending program by the United States is imperative. With the glare of publicity surrounding the SALT II debate throwing more light than ever on Nitze's positions, controversy is surrounding him as never before.

It is a controversy rooted primarily in a reading of history that has not clearly borne out his frequent warnings over the last three decades. Detractors say Nitze's views have exaggerated Soviet strength, helped fuel the arms race and sabotaged whatever chances have existed for Soviet-American accommodation. "He's a paranoid prophet," says Herbert Scoville, a vice chairman of the Arms Control Association and a supporter of SALT. Nitze and his supporters insist the United States would have been ill-advised to ignore his prior warnings. As to the sometimes-questioned accuracy of his predictions, Nitze says, "I used the best intelligence available at the time." Both sides seem to agree on one thing: Paul Nitze is an expert who wields enormous influence. Senate staff members invariably name him when asked to cite individuals who are influential with their bosses in the ratification debate. Nitze, slender and white-haired at 72, is an archetypal member of the Eastern foreign policy establishment. He is wealthy, and he comes from Harvard and Wall Street. He was brought into government in 1940 by James Forrestal, and he has been in and out of it ever since, serving in both the State Department and the Pentagon. He is at once a patrician conversationalist and a man who can reel off highly technical equations to express the destructive power of Soviet missile forces. Nitze severed his ties to government for the last time in 1974 because he disagreed with the way the Nixon administration was negotiating SALT II. A short time later, he helped form the Present Danger and has been sounding alarms ever since. These public warnings follow the pattern set by Nitze in classified documents as much as 30 years ago.

In 1950, as director of policy planning at the State Department, Nitze drafted a paper called National Security Memorandum 68, which helped set the American military strategy for the Cold War. Recently declassified, the paper characterizes the Soviets as "animated by a new, fanatic faith, antithetical to our own, which seeks to impose its absolute authority over the rest of the world."

Pollution control costly, necessary

Americans unaware of water crisis danger, officials agree

HOUSTON (AP) - A congressman, a federal official, and a New York City engineer agree that the American public is not aware of the dangers of a water crisis or of how many billions of dollars it would take to solve the problem.

Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Texas, said at the 52nd convention of the Water Pollution Control Federation Monday that the United States is facing a water crisis, "that must be solved or the energy shortage will look like a tea party."

The congressman, chairman of the House subcommittee that handles all water-related legislation, said some sections of the nation will face water shortages in the future unless Congress can come up with a plan to move the fluid from areas of abundance to sections of shortage.

He said most Americans are not aware of this problem, nor do they understand how much money is needed for solutions.

"Federal funds are becoming tighter and we must make good use of every dollar we get. Traditional approaches to water problems no longer work and we must find new answers."

Martin Lang, president of the 27,000-member federation, said the nation's quality mission "is largely in the hands of lawyers who regard engineers with wary skepticism, and who are more comfortable with injunctions, fines and other legal penalties."

"Lawyers may try to achieve water qualities with show-cause orders, but eventually the answers will be provided by engineering and scientific efforts."

Lang, a former New York City water engineer, also said, "The public has not been adequately informed about water pollution problems."

Neither the federal Environmental Protection Agency, the news media nor elected officials have been able to convey to the public the cost of water pollution control, he said.

He said the federation had always been concerned about the clean water act passed by Congress in 1972.

"It promised to provide fishable, swimmable waters virtually everywhere in one decade. It could not be done and we knew it."

Adelene Harrison, a regional director for the EPA, told the conference that the public has not been convinced of the importance of water pollution control or proper sewage treatment.

She said, "Three of every four municipal treatment plants in the southwest region do not meet minimum requirements. No longer can we be content to simply make plans and pour concrete."

Clements speaks in Waco

Texas out of oil?

WACO, Texas (AP) - Texas is running out of oil and its oil production could drop by as much as 600,000 barrels over the next three years, Gov. Bill Clements told a group of Baylor University students.

During a swing through Waco Monday, the governor said oil production already is down in Texas by 600,000 barrels and the state stands to lose that much again by 1982.

"There is no more important subject facing our nation, and there is no more complex problem than that of energy," he said, advocating the exploration of alternate means of energy, including coal, synthetic fuels and nuclear power.

Clements plugged nuclear power plants, noting that four would be operating in Texas in the 1980s.

"I wish we had four more," he said.

The deputy secretary of defense for President Nixon and President Ford told the Waco Rotary Club earlier that he is opposed to the SALT II treaty because of "technical difficulties."

He predicted the treaty would not come up for ratification until after the 1980 election.

"President Carter has gotten the treaty mixed up in the political process, and the Senate will therefore postpone any action," Clements said.

Clements later declined to answer reporters' questions on the Mexican oil spill, blaming the media for continued interest in the spill.

"I think if you all will settle down on this matter and be calm, cool and collected, Mexico will take care of her responsibilities," he said.

A Mexican well, Ixtoc I, blew out June 3 and has been spewing millions of gallons of oil into the Gulf of Mexico since that time. Great globs of the black goo landed on Texas beaches in July and August, cutting tourist trade and threatening several environmentally sensitive lagoons and bays.

The Clements-founded company, SEDCO, leased drilling equipment to Pemex, the Mexican oil monopoly, but Clements has said his company is not responsible in any way for the spill.

San Angelo jury convicts

Woolfs of capital murder

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) - Defense attorneys say they were not surprised by the conviction of Randy Lynn Woolfs on capital murder charges in the beating, stabbing and burning death of a Kerrville woman.

A state district court jury deliberated about three hours Monday before convicting Woolfs of the June 16 slaying of 43-year-old Betty Stotts, a ticket taker at a Kerrville drive-in theater.

"The real guts of the case will be whether he (Woolfs) gets life or death during the punishment phase," said defense attorney Jerry Johnson.

The punishment phase of the trial, moved to San Angelo on a change of venue, began today in the courtroom of Judge V. Murray Jordan.

Prosecutors have said they will seek the death penalty.

"Justice was served," prosecutor Ron Sutton said after the verdict was read Monday. "That's what the evidence showed and that is what the jury found."

Woolfs buried his head in his hands while the verdict was read Monday.

Defense attorney Richard Mosty had said there were "holes in the state's case," and that the defense "was not conceding anything."

However, the defense rested Monday without calling a witness and without presenting closing arguments before the jury began deliberations.

Sutton said the defense rested Monday to "push the state into arguing the case earlier than planned." But he said the defense's failure to call any witnesses did not affect the strength of the prosecution's case.

Mosty had said earlier that he believes there is a strong chance to win on appeal because of a pretrial error by the judge. He said the judge should have sequestered the jury during the trial.

Before resting, Mosty told the jury, "If anything, (Woolfs) is guilty of murder and not capital murder." Murder carries a sentence of five to 99 years, while conviction on capital murder calls for life in prison or death.

Johnson said the defense would call witnesses during the punishment phase of the trial.

Woolfs had pleaded innocent to a charge of killing Mrs. Stotts while committing robbery, burglary and arson.

The heart of the case against Woolfs was testimony from several witnesses who said Woolfs sold them tickets from the ticket booth where Mrs. Stotts was found dead.

Police said blood on a knife found in Woolfs' possession matched Mrs. Stotts' blood type.

Country hungers for strong leadership

The stampede appears to be developing for Sen. Ted Kennedy in the presidential sweepstakes. Democrats who can't stand the thought of backing a loser are fleeing the ranks of Jimmy Carter supporters.

Carter is being faulted for many things but the chief complaint seems to be that he is incapable of leading, and the country is in desperate need of leadership.

Kennedy has let it be known that his wife and mother have given him the high sign. Some sources say he already has appealed personally to Carter to get out of the race and no less a political big leaguer than House Speaker Tip O'Neill Jr., has let it be known that, if Kennedy wants to be the party standard-bearer he simply cannot be denied the nomination.

JIMMY CARTER, meanwhile, lies low, acting as if he's not really worried about the Kennedy threat. As a matter of fact, he made a remark a few months ago that Kennedy would be ill advised to challenge him. The only sign of activity among his troops was his mother's disastrous remark to the effect that "I hope to goodness nothing happens to him (Kennedy) if he does run."

There are similar strange and portentous doings in the GOP: For one thing, Lyn Nofziger, Ronald Reagan's long-time aide, has abandoned ship, convinced that his man's commitment to idealical conservation is wavering.

Almost simultaneously, John Connally finished a strong first in a delegate-section caucus in Florida's Sarasota County. (In fairness, however, it should be noted that front-runner Reagan did achieve a victory recently when it was decided that California's presidential primary would remain a winner-take-all affair).

OF COURSE, all these straws in the wind don't necessarily add up to anything substantial; but they do seem to indicate that what the pundits have been saying for weeks is true: The country, weary of drift, indecision and management-by-crisis, hungers for decisive leadership.

It just may be turning to the two men — Kennedy and Connally — who seem most conspicuously to exhibit that quality, whatever their other differences.

If indeed it does come down to them in the end, then look out: We'll have a campaign the likes of which hasn't been seen in this country in many years. Then again, who knows?

Carter may suddenly find the formula and emerge as unbeatable in 1980. Unlikely, granted — but such unpredictability is at once one of the crowning glories and one of the infuriating quirks of our imperfect system.

Seating helps

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

As I walked through the gates of Jones Stadium in Lubbock this past Saturday night the familiar sound of the Fightin' Texas Aggie Band caught my ear. A feeling of pride swelled up inside of me despite being surrounded by thousands of Texas Red Raiders — a feeling of pride that hasn't dimmed even after two years away from my alma mater.

I was anxious for the game to start. I was determined to yell for the Aggies no matter what the opposing fans were to do or say to me (I was sitting with my fiancée and his roommate, both Texas Tech architecture majors). The determination set in even more when the band began to play "The Spirit of Aggieland." I still remembered the words and with the help of fellow Aggie, Cathy Mays, we did a pretty decent job of singing along.

THE REMAINDER of the night was filled with ups and downs. At first the Aggies were playing good football. Cathy was a bit leary of yelling amid all the Tech students but when Curtis Dickey and Mike Mosley and the rest of the Aggie team started to do their thing, she and I could not help ourselves. The yells and screams came rushing out.

To our surprise, no one said anything to us, as such. To the Aggie fans seated in the grass to our right, the remarks and gestures were rude and at times childish. I just kept waiting for someone to say something to Cathy and myself.

But I was ready if they would have. I was going to yell even louder, as did the fellow Aggie to the right of us. Then came half time — my favorite part of any Aggie game because of the Aggie band. Some "loyal" Tech fans thought it cute to throw ice at the band — childish to my thinking. And another thought it cute to blow a horn at the outset of the Aggie halftime show. But, despite the childish behavior, the Aggie band is still as great as they ever were.

Soon after that, though, my feeling of joy was to dwindle. Right before my very eyes, the Aggies were turning the game around or should I say, the Red Raiders were turning the game around. The Aggies were letting their lead vanish and finally disappear. Soon the cheering from Cathy and myself began to fade with the Aggie's lead. And soon, our cheering disappeared with the Aggie lead. We were both too disappointed to say anything, or yell.

IT TOOK ME quite a while to snap out of the blue funk I was in at the end of the game. The Aggies had lost by one point! My fiancée was very decent about it. He didn't gloat but his roommate sure did. But I took it all in; I was going to be the good sport; but it sure did come hard!

A few hours later I was back to my old self again. But I never want to go through anything like that again. Next year or any year I go to watch the Aggies play, I will make sure I'm seated in the midst of Aggies. Something is lost when I can't join in the yells or the Aggie War Hymn. And if I can't sit with them I'll at least sit in neutral territory!

Defender of Banks

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The nation's banks spend millions on advertising and free toast to promote a friendly image — no mean assignment, with Pike's Peak interest rates.

Fortunately for the money men, they have a defender — and a free one at that — in the No. 2 spot at the Treasury Department. He is Deputy Secretary Robert Carswell.

Confronted with a draft report that might lead to a suspicion that the big banks were abetting the cash-only transactions of organized crime and the drug traffickers, Carswell simply deleted the references to such image-making possibilities. "This report makes the banks look like the bad guys, and I want that stuff out," he explained to associates at the Treasury.

Oddly enough, the report he wanted to censor was ordered by the deputy secretary himself. He wanted to trace the flow of greenbacks among the country's federal reserve banks, to see if there were any unusual trends discernible.

THE TREASURY SLEUTHS found that there certainly were. The Miami region's banks showed a suspicious cash surplus. Almost alone among the nation's banks, they regularly wound up with a gigantic hoard of old currency to turn in for new greenbacks from the Treasury.

The New York, Chicago and Detroit regions, by contrast, regularly required far more in new currency to do business than they had old bills to dump.

The conclusion was unmistakable, at least to the seasoned, suspicious professionals in the Treasury and the Drug Enforcement Administration: Organized crime — and particularly that part of it engaged in the drug trade — was withdrawing millions in cash from banks in the north and using it to buy narcotics smuggled in from Latin America.

The cash paid to the narcotics smugglers was then deposited in Florida banks, which accounted for the enormous amounts of used banknotes — especially 20s and 100s — that these banks were turning in to the Treasury. Since underworld payoffs are routinely made in cash, instead of easily traceable checks, organized crime was the most reasonable explanation for the Florida banks' huge cash surpluses.

Carswell, a quiet-spoken, bespectacled prototype of the Wall Street lawyer he used to be, admitted as much to our associate Dale Van Atta. Asked about the unusual flow evidenced by the study, he said, "You and I know that it may very well be because of drugs," he said, but added that such a conclusion had no place in what was intended to be merely a "statistical" review. OTHER SOURCES were less sure of Carswell's motives, pointing out that he once had represented Citibank, one of the two largest banks in New York. These sources suspect that the bankers' image could stand a little downgrading — that some banks are failing to report large cash transactions as required by relatively new regulations aimed at exposing underworld traffic.

Though the flow of cash unearthed by the Carswell-ordered study was listed in the edited report as "unexplained," the detailed information has been made available to all federal law enforcement agencies and follow-up investigations are underway.

CETA CHEAT: One of the biggest ripoffs ever legislated by Congress is the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), which was intended to provide jobs for youths, older workers, migrants and others who traditionally get the short end of the stick when jobs are passed out.

Instead, CETA, which spends billions of dollars of federal, state and local funds, has become a disgraceful, taxpayer-financed gravy train that gives jobs to relatives and friends of the bureaucrats who run the program. Meanwhile, those who were supposed to be given a chance to train for decent jobs and support themselves in the process are, for the most part, still getting cut out.

A flagrant example of CETA's nepotism is the Tribal American Consulting Corp. of Commerce, Calif., a small city near Los Angeles. Headed by one Sandy Gibbs, the corporation got a $1.5 million CETA grant to help unemployed native Americans in the community.

But according to a confidential inspector general's report, Tribal American's budget was squandered on personal extravaganzas of corporate officers with scant regard for the program's underprivileged.

Here are some of the outrageous items the investigators turned up on the corporation's profligate ways:

- + A corporation officer's $325-a-month apartment was paid out of CETA funds — plus another $25 for cable TV rental.
- + Telephone and electric bills were paid on a private home in Long Beach.
- + Officers' Master Charge and BankAmericard bills were paid for clothes and restaurant meals.
- + Air fares and car rentals were paid for corporate officers and their friends on vacation trips, including at least one to Acapulco.
- + Leases of a Fox Audi and a Porsche were paid from CETA funds.
- + A corporate officer's relative drew salary from the California program while living in Oklahoma.

Salt as hostage

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — "Hello, Mr. President, listen carefully. I'm only going to say this once. We're holding SALT II hostage up on the Hill and we're going to kill it unless you follow our instructions."

"Don't hurt it. SALT is all I've got. If anything happens to it I don't know what I'll do."

"Well, if you ever want to see it again you better meet our demands."

"What are they?"

"We want the Soviet troops out of Cuba."

"IT'S NOT IN my power to do that. Won't you take a dam or a new Air Force base instead?"

"Don't mess with us, Mr. President. We mean business. You're to go on television and tell the Soviets that unless they get the troops out by the end of the month they'll never see SALT again."

"I can talk to them, but suppose they don't buy it?"

"That's your problem, not ours. Also, we want you to increase the defense budget by five percent."

"But that will only add to the deficit and will destroy my attempts to control inflation."

"Hold it a moment. We're going to put SALT II on the phone."

"SALT—SALT, are you all right?"

"AAAgghhhhh!"

"All right, Mr. President. Are you convinced we're not kidding around?"

"What do you want?"

"WE WANT A $30 billion MX system, a $2 billion nuclear carrier, a large fleet of $100 million B-1 bombers, new $10 million tanks, and 3,000 million-dollar cruise missiles."

"I don't have the money."

"You can find it, Mr. President. What's money compared to a SALT treaty?"

"I'll see what I can do. How much time do I have?"

"Not much. And if you reveal any of this conversation to the public it's bye-bye treaty."

"Have you hurt it already?"

"You might not recognize it by the time we get finished with it. I'm having a tough time keeping my people from roughing it up right now."

"Tell them not to touch it. I'll do anything to save it. But how can I be sure you're really holding SALT as hostage?"

"We've cut off one of its codicils, and we're sending it to you in the mail."

"You didn't have to do that."

"Don't tell us what we can do or cannot do, Mr. President. Just be grateful we haven't buried it already."

"I'll get the money. When will you contact me?"

"As soon as you get the troops out of Cuba, and find the money for the new weapons, plant a classified advertisement in the Evans-Novak column. When it appears we'll contact you and let you know where you can pick up the treaty."

"Let me speak to SALT again."

"Hold on."

"SALT, this is Jimmy. I'll get you out of there if it costs me everything in the budget. Can you hang on just a little longer until I talk to the Russians again? SALT, are you there?"

"AAAgghhhhhhh!"

Don't tinker with infant's "soft spots"

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: This is about the "soft spot" on a baby's head. I am a visitor in this country. I have a girl about 10 years of age whose soft spot is still soft. She is not of strong constitution, but attends school. Can you please suggest something to do? — G.A.S.

The two "soft spots" in a baby's skull are called fontanelles. They are points where the bones of the skull eventually meet. If the skull were rigid and tightly fitted in the early months there would be no room for the brain to increase in size.

The front (anterior) fontanelle measures up to 2.5 inches lengthwise and it normally closes between the fourth and 26th months. The back (posterior) fontanelle is smaller (about an inch) and it usually closes by the second month.

Most new parents believe that the skin protects their baby's brain when the fontanelles are still unclosed. This is not true. A rather tough membrane does bridge the gap between the bones, but care still is required, and fontanelles should never be toyed with.

Yes, of course, at age 10, your daughter's fontanelles should have closed. You should have this child examined promptly if you have not. This can indicate serious medical problems. She needs skull X-rays. On the other hand, what you feel may be a defect in the bone and not a fontanelle. Check to be sure.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My question is: Is there a drug that will dissolve gallstones? If there is, name it. I had ultrasound and there's a stone in the duct. I have had trouble with it lately. — Mrs. M.T.J.

I prefer to avoid discussion of treatments not available to patients. But rules are made to be broken. Your question appears with some regularity, so I'm breaking the rule. Yes, there is a medication that dissolves gallstones. But it is not yet ready to put on the market. It is called "chenodeoxycholic acid." Success with it has been limited to specific cases of gallstones. It is not, nor will it be, the answer to all types of gallstones, and there are still questions about such things as side effects.

For the present, you should avoid foods that stimulate the gall bladder — fried foods, fatty foods, for example. Otherwise, surgery is the only presently accepted treatment. For a discussion, see "You and Your Gall Bladder." For this booklet, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a mailman and I walk all day and I jog at night. I wonder what kind of rubbing ointment I can use on my legs. After all, a mailman's legs are very essential in his job. — W.W.

I've heard of busmen's holidays, but I don't know many mailmen who jog after a day's work. I doubt you need it. Many liniments with wintergreen in them help give relief.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Which test would you recommend for minerals in the body? Hair or blood? We had our son's hair tested and the results were that he had a dangerously high amount of potassium in his system. Later a blood test showed his potassium level normal. Is it possible that the hair test was not right because maybe he had not rinsed it well enough before it was taken? We are worried. — Mrs. W.D.

Look, trust the blood test for a reliable potassium reading. Dear Dr. Donohue: I understand there is a chemical given to people to improve their sense of taste. Would you please tell me about this? — C.H.B.

You probably are referring to zinc, a mineral. Zinc has been said to improve the sense of taste for people with a proven deficiency. Most people who get sufficient meat, fish, and dairy products do not have a deficiency and should not take supplements until advised to by a physician. One of my patients was most enthusiastic about the restoration of her taste after using zinc, but she took it on her own advice, not on mine. It was not what one could call a "scientific study." Zinc levels can be measured, so there need be no guessing about the need for supplements.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Do daughters usually start menstruation about the same time as their mothers? — N.D.

Generally. How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Will you please define a sebaceous cyst, and can they be removed? Will one become malignant through constant irritation, as when I comb my hair? My age is 69, if that has any bearing on matters. — Mrs. M.A.C.

When the ducts of one of the oil (sebum) glands of the skin get plugged the oily material accumulates, forming a cyst. If a cyst becomes infected it must be drained. Surgical removal is the surest treatment, and if the entire cyst (wall and all) is removed it will not recur. No, it will not become malignant.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What treatment do doctors have for bushy kidney conditions? — R.W.

Honestly, I don't know what this is, and I wouldn't care to guess. If you get a medical name for whatever condition you have, write me again.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have become a Christian in my high school church group. My older brother, however, just laughs when he sees me reading my Bible. He says it is out of date. Is he right? — S.F.G.

DEAR S.F.G.: I am convinced that the more you read the Bible for yourself, and the more you learn to apply it to your life, the more you will see that it is the most practical, up-to-date book you can imagine. Yes, it was written a long time ago. But it tells us about truths which are true in every generation. No, you need not fear that the Bible is out of date.

Remember that the Bible tells us about God. It is, in fact, God's Word to us. But God does not change or go out of date. "I the Lord do not change" (Malachi 3:6). Nor does man change from one generation to the next. Yes, one generation may be more advanced scientifically than a previous one, but man is still a sinner in need of God. And God's way of salvation does not change. God sent His Son Jesus Christ into this world to make it possible for us to be forgiven and reconciled to God.

Let me suggest that you pray for your brother, that he also will come to Christ. He is aware that something has happened in your life, and it may be making him a bit uncomfortable because he knows that he also needs to have what you have. Ask God also to give you wisdom in dealing with him. For example, it will probably not be helpful if you argue with him when he tries to draw you into an argument. The Bible says, "A gentle answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger" (Proverbs 15:1). Show your brother that you love him, and pray that God will open his eyes to see his need of Christ. Also remember that he is watching your life to see if it really backs up what you say about Christ. So pray that God will help you be a consistent witness in all you say and do.

Mummy has coming out bash

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Pharaoh Ramses II, star of the mummy collection in Cairo's Egyptian museum, had a coming out party.

Trumpets sounded a salute for the dead on Monday as President Anwar Saad pulled a blue-and-gold velvet covering from the showcase holding the preserved body of one of Egypt's most famous kings.

The ceremony at the museum marked the first public display of the royal mummy since it was flown to France three years ago for treatment of fungus and parasites that were gradually destroying it.

For seven months, 80 scholars ranging from nuclear scientists to cosmetic experts treated it for fungus, bacteria and parasites.

Defector's mom doing badly

NEW YORK (AP) — Bolshoi Ballet ballerina Valentina Kozlova, who defected to the United States last month with her dancer husband, Leonid, says things are "going badly" for her mother in Moscow.

Mrs. Kozlova said Monday she had spoken to her mother on the telephone, and that, "She says things are going very badly for her, but she didn't tell us specifically what."

Kozlov, who appeared with his wife at a news conference, said, "They could give her problems in living. We hope that they'll stop but it'll go on for a long time." He has a mother and sister in Moscow.

Sinatra leads Italian parade

NEW YORK (AP) — Even the non-Italians were Italians at New York's annual Columbus Day parade, but there was no question about the ancestry of the grand marshal in this year's march on Fifth Avenue.

Frank Sinatra, a broad sash across his blazer, led Monday's parade of color guards, bands and banners proclaiming Italian-American pride.

But when he was besieged by fans and reporters, the singer had to retreat to the reviewing stand, where he joined Gov. Hugh Carey in watching the festivities.

Loretta Lynn hospitalized

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — County-western singer Loretta Lynn has been hospitalized for treatment of an undisclosed illness, a spokeswoman for Sunrise Hospital said.

Miss Lynn was taken to the hospital Sept. 30, spokeswoman Rena Riby said Monday. She declined to give further details. She said only Miss Lynn's manager, believed vacationing in Hawaii, was authorized to release information.

Miss Lynn, famous for setting her life and Kentucky Appalachian childhood to music, has won numerous county music awards. She is scheduled to open a two-week engagement at the Aladdin Hotel on Nov. 6, a hotel spokesman said.

Fossil hunter awaits surgery

LONDON (AP) — Fossil-hunting paleontologist Richard Leakey, suffering from kidney failure, is in London awaiting a kidney transplant operation in late December.

Leakey, whose discoveries helped establish East Africa's Rift Valley as the cradle of mankind about 2 million to 4 million years ago, said he is receiving dialysis treatment at a London hospital.

Leakey, 34, a Kenyan national, is director of the National Museums of Kenya and has a home in Kenya.

Bids are due Oct. 19 on museum addition

Bids will be taken Friday, Oct. 19, for a 9,000 square-foot addition to the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library, and Hall of Fame in Midland.

Assuming one of the bids is acceptable, construction will start before the end of the year on the museum's planned "north wing," a hexagonal-shaped building that will join the museum's existing central exhibits hall.

Announcement of the bidding decision was made by Russell J. Ramsland, museum president. Ramsland, who is also president of J.C. Barnes Oil Company, said that the cost of the expansion, including exhibits and equipment, will approach $1 million. The bids will encompass only the building proper. He said architectural estimates earlier this year placed the cost at "around $400,000 or a little over."

The museum does not now have enough funds to cover a cost in this range, he said, but its executive committee has decided to proceed "on faith we'll find them."

Heavy inflation rates on construction prompted the museum to go ahead now rather than waiting to raise the full cost of the building and its contents. The museum is prepared to "lock up the new wing while we raise the money for exhibits, if we have to," Ramsland stated.

The museum already has about $470,000 to apply toward the new wing's cost, but approximately $115,000 of this is earmarked by donors for specific exhibits.

The new wing ultimately will house displays dealing with completing and producing wells, with pipelines, with servicing and workovers, and with other subjects not covered in present displays. They will feature animation, special effects, imaginative use of color and lighting, and other professional techniques.

Ramsland pointed out that the cost of such exhibits is more than most people realize, and that the museum's reputation for quality will again rest on its ability to afford excellence.

"We need help in bringing this plan to completion, but at the same time we have an existing museum to operate. Generous giving to both our operating and building funds will get this job done in the way we think Midland wants it done," he said.

Anti-nuke protestors encouraged

SEABROOK, N.H. (AP) — Hundreds of anti-nuclear protesters, many proudly nursing wounds received in battles with police, today were withdrawing from the woods, marshes and highways ringing the Seabrook atomic power plant.

Their four-day effort to occupy the partially completed plant was lost, but the activists called it a victory. They said the tear gas, Mace, fire hoses and clubs they faced "have taught us what it's all about and will strengthen the movement."

"The only reason the civil rights and anti-war efforts were successful was because people showed they had the guts to take the worst the opposition could throw at them and hold their ground," said one protester, Daniel Upton of Hartford, Conn.

"This weekend, for the first time, the anti-nuke movement faced that same challenge, and we showed that we too have guts," he said as he held up a bandaged arm he claimed was broken by a police club.

But New Hampshire Attorney General Thomas Rath said the protesters may have harmed their cause by shifting attention from the issue of nuclear power to the tactics both sides used to make their points.

He said there also were assaults on police officers, including one incident in which a trooper was held face down in a puddle of water.

Such incidents, he said, are "the whole reason I don't think a demonstration like this accomplishes a great deal." Seabrook has been the focus of anti-nuclear protests since construction began in the mid-1970s. Previous demonstrations have been largely peaceful although some protesters have been arrested.

In mass actions involving hundreds, smaller skirmishes with a score or less, and hit-and-run raids by one or two, protesters this time repeatedly assaulted the miles of fence around the 140-acre construction site.

Hundreds of police from throughout New England, along with New Hampshire National Guardsmen, repelled the attacks, usually using minimal force and following the guideline: "Take no prisoners."

Many demonstrators expressed surprise and anger when they were not arrested but instead forced back with riot gases and fire hoses.

Rath said he thought police acted appropriately but would "look into" any formal complaints of brutality.

And one state trooper told protesters they had been lucky. "Nobody was killed," he said. "If you think this is violence, you should have seen what happened when we were fighting against the war."

The violence did not diminish the crowds.

As late as Monday morning, buses and cars filled with fresh demonstrators streamed into the coastal area. At times, northbound traffic was backed up six miles from Seabrook into Massachusetts.

Inflation affects your electric bill even more than your grocery bill.

Every time you go to the grocery store you can see what inflation's doing to your food bill. But because you don't buy electricity by the can, you probably don't realize how inflation affects the cost of electricity.

Fuel costs are up, particularly natural gas. Equipment costs are up. Power lines, transformers and poles cost us more every day. Just like milk costs you more every day.

The millions of dollars we must borrow to build plants to ensure your electricity needs in the future are costing us more.

The cost of building these plants is higher, too, because of inflation. And because of the time and money it takes to comply with an ever-increasing number of government regulations. The longer it takes to build, the more inflation takes its toll.

Inflation, overregulation and rising fuel costs are all making your electricity cost you more. But by using electricity wisely you can do your part in keeping that cost down in your home.

At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for.

Needlework Makes Point

DEAR ABBY: Apparently most needlepointers are too busy to defend themselves, so I must come to the rescue with my first letter to Dear Abby!

I'm referring to a letter criticizing women who needlepoint or knit while attending meetings, visiting with friends or whatever. You were right when you said it's "therapy for some who need to occupy their hands, and it beats smoking" (although I'm sorry to say that some needleworkers smoke).

However, I wish you had pointed out that doing something with one's hands, whether it be needlepoint, knitting, crocheting or embroidery, does not reduce one's ability to listen or converse.

At a recent gathering of the girls, someone asked me what I was knitting. "A dishrag," I replied.

"Humph," she grunted, "what a waste of time!" I just looked up and said, "When I get through I'm going to have a dishrag. What are you going to have?" (She graciously admitted that I had a point.)

I'm enclosing the dishrag as a gift for you, Abby. Please use it and see if you don't agree that needlework is not only therapeutic, but useful as well.

PAULA S. IN HOUSTON

DEAR PAULA: Thanks for the dishrag. It wiped me out!

DEAR ABBY: A reader asked if a bride walks UP the aisle or DOWN the aisle, and you said she walks DOWN the aisle to greet her groom, and they walk UP the aisle together after they're married.

Wrong! Actually the bride walks down the NAVE! The nave is the large separation in the center of the church dividing the church in half. The aisles are on the SIDES.

NITPICKER IN OCALA, FLA.

DEAR NIT: Thanks. I stand corrected. I confess to never having heard of "Nave." (Naive?)

Unhealthy relationship

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 16 years old and I am having an affair with a married man who is in his 40s.

I love him so much that it hurts when we're not together.

I know that he cares for me because he told me so. My problem is that I want to tell him how much I love him without being too pushy. I don't want to scare him away. Can you help me? — Sylvia, Hagerstown, Md.

Sylvia: I'm sure the only reason this married man wants to see you is for sexual favors. This relationship is very unhealthy and must be ended by you immediately or else you could be headed for a tragedy that your mom and dad won't be able to help you with.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 13-year-old boy who shares a room with a 9-year-old brother. I'm neat and organized but my brother likes to slop his clothes and toys on the floor and then I wind up picking them up.

You can't believe how many toys are crammed under the tables and his bed.

I've talked to my parents about getting my own bedroom (we have five in our house) but they say no. What should I do to make my brother shape up? — David, Dubuque, Iowa

David: Don't pick up after your brother. Wait until the room becomes unbearable, then invite your parents in for a little "room warming."

When they see your brother's slop, they should have mercy on you and give you a room to yourself. If not, surely they will make him tidy his mess.

If that fails, some of his better toys might wind up missing, until the room can once again be livable.

Dr. Wallace: I am a 16-year-old girl who didn't want to lose the boyfriend that I love so dearly, but I lost him. He is now dating so many different girls that I can't count them all.

I still feel that I belong to Fernando and don't think that I should date other guys. I know he will come back to me. What do you think? — Kylie, Hayward, Calif.

Kylie: I think that when Fernando decides to return to you, that he should have to wait until you return home from your date with a handsome boy.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rep. Ezell speaks to Coahoma Study Club

The 1941 Study Club of Coahoma met for the regular monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Lawrence Davis with Lola Keel as co-hostess.

Meeting was called to order by Mrs. Davis, president, and roll call was answered with the name of a congressman.

Bill Read, program chairman, presented State Representative Mike Ezzell of the 63rd District. Rep. Ezzell spoke on the free enterprise system. He stressed the fact that individuals need to become concerned about the true facts of the enterprise system and how it affects everyone.

"Our nation was founded upon the basic ideas of the enterprise system yet there is a lot of misunderstanding about it," he said. "We have the opportunity to choose how, where and why we want to work and we can go into business for ourselves if we want to. We believe in the free enterprise system but then we immediately want to become licensed or regulated by the Government."

"We need some regulations but should not turn everything over to the Government. We have gotten away from the Free Enterprise System, profit is a cornerstone of the system. Supply and demand works best when it is not regulated by the government," he concluded.

Rep. Ezzell urged members to write government officials and let them know how they feel and what they want to see accomplished in their government.

Mrs. Ovis James was received as a new member. Mrs. Wendell Shive reported on the Clean-Up Committees for the current season and urged each member to get involved in making the community a more attractive place to live and work.

Next regular meeting will be Nov. 5 in the home of Mrs. Carroll Choate and Mrs. Rod Tiller as co-hostess.

GOING NOWHERE — Dave Pear of the Oakland Raiders puts the stop to Larry Csonka of the Miami Dolphins after a one yard gain during fourth quarter action Monday night in Oakland. Raiders won 13-3.

Sparks Oakland's 13-3 victory

Rugged Raiders defense drowns Dolphins

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' defense had a right to feel overworked.

But Ted Hendricks was only kidding when he described his thoughts on the interception which played such a big part in Monday night's 13-3 victory over the Miami Dolphins.

"That's my first interception for a touchdown," said the linebacker who has intercepted 23 passes over 11 National Football League seasons.

"I don't like to see us get touchdowns on defense. It means we have to go right back onto the field again," he added. "I was thinking of stepping out of bounds at about the 5-yard line."

The tall linebacker ran 23 yards into the end zone, however, for the Raiders' second touchdown in the opening minutes of the third period. Miami, held to 35 net yards in the first half, was down 13-0 and a few offensive errors were yet to come.

Delvin Williams plunged 1 yard for a touchdown late in the third period, but the third-down play was nullified by a motion penalty, linebacker Phil Villapiano knocked down a pass and the Dolphins settled for a Uwe von Schamann field goal and their only points in the nationally televised game.

The Raiders, 27-3 winners over Denver last week, evened their season record at 3-3 and dropped the Dolphins to 4-2. Oakland is back in the AFC West race while Miami is tied with New England for the AFC East lead.

"We made little mistakes, but they took on great magnitude," said Larry Csonka, whose running accounted for many of the yards in the drive from Miami's 25-yard line to inside the Oakland 1.

"Our special teams made errors again, serious errors. We have to get untracked and do the things that win football games," said Coach Don Shula.

A week earlier, in Miami's first loss of the season, a blocked punt gave the New York Jets a touchdown. In the Monday night loss, Tony Nathan fumbled the ball away as he returned the second-half kickoff and the Raiders scored four plays later on Ken Stabler's 14-yard touchdown pass to tight end Raymond Chester.

Jim Breech missed the extra point attempt, kicking wide to the right, and the Raiders' offense gained only 56 yards over the final 26 minutes of the game. But Hendricks' interception sent them into the 13-point lead which proved more than enough.

"It was a poor decision, a poor play," said Miami Coach Don Shula, describing the pass Bob Griese aimed toward tight end Bruce Hardy on the right side. "It was just a bad pass," said Griese, who also was sacked six times on the rough night.

Reggie Kinlaw, a rookie lineman who sees spot duty for Oakland, made three sacks and aided on another. His last sack came on a fourth-and-two play at the Raiders' 12-yard line early in the final period.

"It was my decision to go giving him a six-game total of 350, more than his season total with the New York Giants last year.

But for the second straight game, no touchdowns were put on the board against the Oakland defense.

"That's quite a feat," said Coach Tom Flores. "Miami moves the ball against everybody."

Williams and Csonka gave the Dolphins 169 yards rushing.

As the World Series opens tonight

Weaver would rather use the DH look

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver is concerned about losing the use of his designated hitter as the Orioles prepared to open the 1979 World Series tonight against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"It certainly is going to make a difference," said Weaver, boss of the American League champions.

Manager Chuck Tanner of the National League champion Pirates made it clear he would rather play without the DH, an American League institution disdained by the National League.

"We haven't had to do without it since the 1971 World Series," lamented Weaver. "Lee May (the Orioles DH in the regular season), was a big part of our offense. What effect it has will depend on the other eight guys in our starting lineup," Weaver said.

Tanner, who managed in the American League and is familiar with the DH's affect on the game, estimated it was worth half-a-run a game.

"But I'd rather manage without it," said the Pirates' field boss. "It's a different ball game. Pitchers stay in longer. You don't need the long reliever. And why shouldn't a good hitting pitcher bat? Why should he be penalized?"

The DH is used every other year in the Series, and last year, when the New York Yankees beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, Reggie Jackson had nine hits in 23 at bats with two home runs and eight RBI. The Dodgers' main DH was Lee Lacy, who went 2-for-14.

May hit 19 home runs and had 69 RBI this season as the Orioles DH. Obviously, the Baltimore offense has to suffer.

Bruce Kison, Pittsburgh's starting pitcher in the first of the best-of-seven game Series, had eight hits, scored eight runs, drove in six, including four with a grand slam home run. He hit just .145.

But the only contact Orioles' starter Mike Flanagan has had with the bat is seeing it in somebody else's hands. Flanagan, however, was 23-9 with a 2.65 ERA and is the big favorite to win the Cy Young Award as the AL's outstanding pitcher. He was baseball's winningest pitcher this year.

Will the Mike and Ken show rerun tonight?

BALTIMORE (AP) — The "Mike and Ken" show debuts on national prime time television tonight, and it won't please Pittsburgh Pirates' viewers if it follows the usual script.

Mike Flanagan will be the starting pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles in the opening game of the World Series, so chances are that teammate Ken Singleton will hit a home run.

"I don't know why it happens, I'm just happy it does," Flanagan said of the baseball phenomenon.

Singleton hit a career-high 35 homers in 1979, and 15 came in support of Flanagan. Singleton hit .295 for the season but in the 40 games Flanagan started, he batted .338 and had 32 of his 111 runs batted in.

And, it's been going on ever since Flanagan made his debut with the Orioles on Sept. 5, 1974. Since then, 34 of Singleton's 95 homers have come in games started by the left-hander and 32 with Flanagan still in the game.

Phillips defends Pastorini's play

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers, supposedly in the soft part of their National Football League schedule, already have stumbled over the St. Louis Cardinals and could run into another problem Sunday against Baltimore.

"Baltimore is similar to St. Louis because they don't have a good record but they've got a good football team," Phillips said Monday after the Cardinals' 24-17 upset victory on Sunday.

"There's not a team in the National Football League that doesn't have good players," he said. "Sometimes they don't play well as a unit but if they all get their motors running together they can beat anybody in the league."

Phillips said the same thing a week ago about the Cardinals, victims of their own mistakes and pair of narrow losses to Pittsburgh and Dallas.

The Oilers coaching staff made its annual appearance before the Touchdown Club Monday and the timing could have been better than on the day after a 24-17 loss to the Cardinals.

Phillips loosened up the 500-plus gathering with a couple of one-liners before getting down to the task of explaining the unexpected loss.

"This guy is writing a book and it's called 'He Ain't No Bum,'" Phillips said. "He told me if things didn't go well we could always write a sequel, 'Yes He Is.'"

Phillips' jovial beginning didn't deter several questions about the Oilers' quarterback, Dan Pastorini, who threw three interceptions against the Cards.

"Jim Hart threw three interceptions and everybody thought he was a great quarterback," Phillips said. "I've always gone with the best and Dan is our best."

Phillips said Houston's defensive problems resulted from each player trying to take matters into his own hands.

Runnels fems sweep pair

Both the Runnels Red and White team came away as winners in Monday night action against Colorado City.

The Red team emerged with a win by scores of 10-15, 15-7. High point scorers were Andy Burns with 13 points, followed by Sheri Graham with eight, and Tami Yancey and Monette Wise with six. Drawing praise for their court coverage were Linda Eddington and Sandra Terceiro. The win left the Red team with a record of 6-3.

The White team took a 15-4, 15-3 win. Laura Baum and Natalie Ryan took high point honors with six, with Beverly Tubb adding five. Vickie Halfmann and Tina Hillier helped spark the White win with their excellent court coverage. The White team now sports a record of 8-1.

Next action for the Runnels fems will be next Monday at Sweetwater.

Steer fems visit Cooper

ABILENE — The Big Spring Steer varsity girl's volleyball team will try to remain undefeated and in a tie for first place in the first half of the District 5-AAAA race as they meet the Abilene Cooper Cougars at 7:00 p.m.

The Steer fems are presently 4-0 in loop play, and tied with the San Angelo Bobcats, who sport an identical record.

Jones heads SWC stats

DALLAS (AP) — Here's a quickie office quiz for your resident Southwest Conference football statistical expert: Who is leading the SWC in rushing, James Hadnot of Texas Tech or Curtis Dickey of Texas A&M?

The answer: None of the above. It's sophomore A.J. (Jam) Jones of the University of Texas.

Jones has averaged 138.3 yards rushing while his more illustrious counterparts have fallen slightly behind. Hadnot has averaged 125.2 yards per game and Dickey, who has been bothered by a dislocated thumb, is averaging 111 yards per contest.

Jones also is leading in tandem offense, averaging 144.7 yards per game rushing and receiving. There's another Texas Jones boy leading the receiving corps.

He is senior Johnny (Lam) Jones, the Olympian from Lampasas, who has caught an average of four passes per game.

Rice's Randy Hertel is leading in total offense with 140.2 yards per contest. The leading passer is Arkansas quarterback Kevin Scanlon, who has a 156.4 rating on 17 completions in 25 attempts. He hasn't passed for a touchdown but has only one interception.

Texas' John Goodson, the field goal kicking whiz, is the leading scorer with an average of 10.7 points per game.

In team category, Arkansas leads in total offense with an average of 392.5 yards per game.

Houston is tops in rushing at 294.5 yards per contest and Rice is No. 1 in passing with an average of 166.2 yards per game.

Texas dominates total defense, permitting an average of 165 yards per contest. The 'Horns have allowed only 74 yards per game rushing.

The Baylor Bears top the passing defense at an average of 79 yards per game.

Asked jokingly if Texas was ready to play Arkansas this weekend, Akers smiled and said, "They (football games) usually get exciting — if not before, at least by the time of the year."

Akers described the Texas-Oklahoma football game as the top game in college football, and he said it will be "intensely fought."

Oklahoma and Texas will match unbeaten and untied records at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas Saturday before a sellout crowd of 73,032 and a national television audience.

Kickoff will be at approximately 3 p.m. CDT. No. 3 Oklahoma is 4-0 and has averaged 45.5 points a game even with its regulars resting in the second half. No. 4 Texas has yielded only 18 points — and one touchdown — in three victories.

Akers said at his regular weekly news conference Monday that Oklahoma is better offensively than the OU team that defeated Texas, 31-10, last year.

He also said Texas has a better team than it did in 1978, but he added, "We have to get some things straightened out, especially on offense."

"Oklahoma has a fine football team. They have one every year — and so do we," said Akers. "I don't see much change in the circumstances ... It's the No. 1 game in the country, and it's going to be an intensely fought football game."

Akers was told Oklahoma had lost 11 players to pro football this year, and he said, "Apparently they've got high-quality replacements. It doesn't seem to have slowed them down much."

Asked if the Oklahoma defense might be weaker since Colorado had scored 24 points and Rice 21, Akers replied, "They didn't do it in the first half."

Oklahoma led Rice 42-0 at halftime and demolished the Owls 63-21 on Sept. 29. By comparison, Texas led Rice only 16-3 at halftime Saturday night and struggled to a 26-9 victory.

Akers said the Oklahoma offense, featuring 1978 Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims at running back, "hasn't been extended. I haven't put a pencil to it, but they probably have the largest offensive line in the United States — any league — they've got to average 260 pounds."

Asked how Texas might stop Sims, Akers replied, "I don't know that. I know this — you can't just concentrate on Billy Sims, because they have sufficient quality that if you concentrate on him, the others can kill you."

It was mentioned that Oklahoma usually has fumble problems early in the season, and Akers replied, "Oklahoma fumbles against everybody, then they get serious against us and don't fumble."

"I hope we do the same thing with moving around (motion penalties) — it's time to get serious."

Asked about Texas' numerous five-yard motion penalties in the Rice game and Texas' inability to score touchdowns this season, Akers said, "It's lack of execution. It's not always at the same point. It's not always the same person or the same play."

Texas had the ball 11 times on the Rice side of the 50-yard line Saturday night but scored only two touchdowns, including a final tally with 48 seconds left in the game.

"It's nothing we can't cure," Akers said, but he added that Texas might simplify its goal line offense.

Told Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer was concerned about his team's short kickoffs, Akers said, "If he's concerned about his kicking, we can share feelings with him. We have an established (place) kicker but our punting is not even average."

John Goodson has kicked nine of 12 field goals for Texas, including a 50-yarder, but has averaged only 32.5 yards on nine punts.

Akers said Goodson or senior quarterback Ted Constanzo would punt against Oklahoma.

Texas quarterback Donnie Little sat out the second half of the Rice game with his right thumb wrapped in ice, but Akers said he thought he would be ready to play against Oklahoma.

Kick team specialist Charles Vaclavik also will miss the Oklahoma game with an injured shoulder.

YOUNG IDEAS

Autry has changed with time

By DICK YOUNG

BALTIMORE — Back in the depression '30s, when Gene Autry and John Wayne were shooting every varmint on the lot of Republic Pictures, it was decided that Autry would try something daring. He would kiss the heroine, a wide-eyed young starlet named Ann Miller.

"It wound up on the cutting room floor," Gene Autry remembers. "Most of my audiences were kids, and they thought only sissies kissed." He laughed.

"So you kissed Champion, and rode off into the sunset?"

"No, I didn't even get to kiss the horse," said Gene Autry, shooting down one of moviedom's famed canards.

MOVIES HAVE CHANGED somewhat. For Gene Autry, the change came about 1960 when he made the last of about 100 feature films as The Singing Cowboy.

"They started releasing my old Westerns on television. Theaters that played my pictures went out of business. Why should a kid pay 25 cents when he can see it on television for nothing?" he says. The drastic change came just in time for him to get into baseball as owner of the new California franchise in the American League. Besides, Gene Autry was getting a little old to play cowboys, even non-kissing cowboys.

It cost Gene Autry and his partner Bob Reynolds slightly over $2 million dollars to get into the league, and that included the 28 original players plucked in the expansion draft. Within the last three years, the Angels have laid out between 14 and 15 million dollars for star talent like Carew, Rudi, Baylor, Grich and Ford — and the ill-fated Lyman Bostock.

SOME PEOPLE PLACE buying ballplayers in the same category as buying sex. It does not reflect true conquest. Autry, the charge has been made, used his great personal wealth, money accumulated from cowboy clicks recordings and radio network ownership, to buy first place in the American League West.

"You do what you have to do," answers Gene Autry. "You must compete under the system. I was against the elimination of the reserve clause, although I believed something had to be done to the pendulum which had swung too far in favor of the owners."

"TAKE George Steinbrenner," he said, taking George Steinbrenner. "He had to rebuild the Yankees. The Mets were the hot club in New York. So he spent money on free agents. He adapted. I'd have done the same thing."

He has. He saves his conscience somewhat by telling himself that his expensive acquisitions sought the benign environment of southern California, rather than his money. As if on cue, Bobby Grich came by the booth in which we were breakfasting.

"He lives in southern California," said Autry. "He wanted to play there." He turned to the grinning infielder. "Didn't you?" said Autry.

"I recruited him," said Bobby Grich. "I said, 'Please let me come home!'"

One owner in particular isn't buying. As the Angels and Twins and KC battled down the western stretch, Ewing Kauffman made a statement. "If we can't win it," said the owner of the KC Royals, "I hope the Twins do. Anybody but the Angels," Kauffman insinuated that the Twins had built their contender from the farm system, without large infusions of cash.

Autry was stung by the slap. No bad guy in a black hat ever made him angrier than Ewing Kauffman.

"Hell, I voted for Ewing Kauffman to come into the league," says Autry. "I've always helped him."

Autry has let Kauffman know how he feels. "I told him, Listen, how did you get Big John Mayberry, and Patek, and Otis and Rojas. They didn't come out of your system!"

Besides, it's no way to treat a fellow mid-American. Gene Autry grew up on horses in Oklahoma. While still in high school, he got a job at the railroad station, hustling baggage, and soon worked up to telegrapher.

"When things were slow, I kept a little old guitar around that I would strum on. One night, this farmer-looking guy, with glasses on the tip of his nose, came into the telegraph office and handed the kid several pages to send. He spotted the guitar."

"You play that?"

"Some."

"Like to hear you."

GENE AUTRY picked it up and sang a couple of western songs. "Hey, you do all right," said the farmer. "You ought to get yourself a job on the radio."

"Well I'll be darned. So that's Will Rogers," Autry remembers saying. "If he thinks I can get a job singing..."

It was 1929, and the railroads were laying off people. Gene Autry used his railroad pass to go to New York for tryouts with record companies.

"Pleasant voice, but you need experience," was what he heard. He bounced back to KVOO, Tulsa, then to New York for another records trial, then to WLS, Chicago. He was making $50 a week on radio, but also making appearances in small theaters at 50 and 100 a pop. "I was making about $12,000 a year. That was big money in depression days." Gene Autry, The Singing Cowboy, was on his way.

Now, he wants to stay in baseball, and keep beating Ewing Kauffman. Says Pat Buttram, Autry's comic sidekick in so many cowboy movies: "Gene used to ride off into the sunset. Now he owns it."

(AP LASERPHOTO) TIGHT FIT — Retired Minnesota Vikings quarterback Fran Tarkenton found he had a tight fit as he put his jersey on Sunday during ceremonies marking the retiring of his famous number "10".

AP Poll remains constant

By The Associated Press

The top five teams, led by Southern California, remained the same today in The Associated Press college football poll while Washington slipped past Houston into sixth place and Auburn cracked the Top Twenty for the first time this season, replacing Tennessee.

The Trojans of Southern Cal, 50-21 winners over Washington State, received 33 first-place votes and 1,285 of a possible 1,300 points from a nationwide panel of 65 sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama, Oklahoma and Texas held down the 2-3-4 spots, as they have since the preseason poll.

Alabama, which blanked Wichita State 38-0, received 11 first-place votes and 1,248 points. Oklahoma, which trounced Colorado 49-24, received 1,126 points while the other first-place ballot went to Texas, which defeated Rice 26-9. The Longhorns totaled 1,101 points.

Nebraska retained fifth place with 1,059 points following a 57-0 rout of New Mexico State.

However, Washington, seventh a week ago, crushed Oregon State 41-0 and edged past Houston into sixth place with 889 points. The Cougars, who squeaked past Baylor 13-10, dropped from sixth to seventh with 884 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten, just as they did last week, were Ohio State, Florida State and Notre Dame. Ohio State beat Northwestern 16-7 and earned 781 points. Florida State blanked Louisville 27-0 and received 756 points while Notre Dame held off Georgia Tech 21-13 and polled 664 points.

The Second Ten consists of Michigan, Arkansas, Louisiana State, North Carolina, Missouri, Brigham Young, North Carolina State, Auburn, Michigan State, and Purdue.

What to do when they want 50 copies of their 50th anniversary (and other useful Herald tips).

There are times when you need extra service from us. A 50th wedding anniversary. A daughter's wedding. Research through back issues.

That's great. We want the Big Spring Herald to be more than just a good newspaper. We want to be a useful part of your family.

To make sure you can handle the special occasions that arise now and then, here are a few tips you'll find helpful.

It's a good idea to clip this guide and keep it for reference. As new and different needs arise, we'll update this list for you.

How to get back copies.

Call the Circulation Department as soon as possible after the story you want appears in the paper. Back copies are saved for one year, but sometimes editions sell out and are unavailable. We'll mail them to you if you like, but postage costs are high and must be paid in advance. Picking up your copies at the Herald office, 710 Scurry, can save you a bundle. The charge for back issues is the same as current copies: 15c for daily papers and 35c for Sunday.

How to submit news information to our paper.

Information about news events or people being involved in newsworthy activities are welcome. Because of space limitations, we must adhere to guidelines that are fair to all groups and individuals.

We can't always include everything in the paper we would like to. But we would like for you to call and we will tell you if we will be able to use your news item.

Unless a story is aimed at a particular department such as Sports or the Family section, call City Desk. One of our editors will be glad to talk with you. Or write your information and mail it to the City Editor. Be sure to include your name and a telephone number where you can be reached during working hours so we can call if we have any questions.

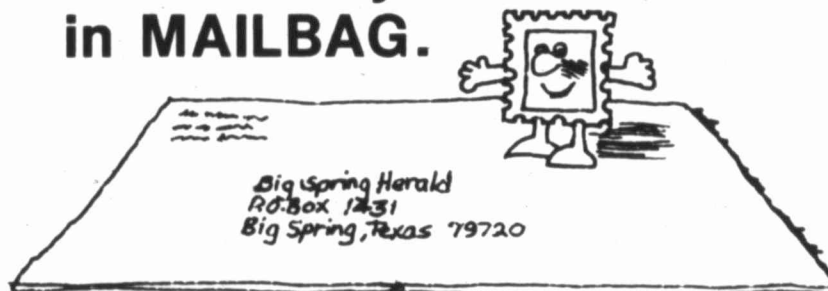

If you are giving information about an event which is upcoming, try to give us at least a week's advance notice. We welcome your opinions on any subjects. These should be addressed: Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, TX 79720.

How to tell Big Spring that you're engaged.

Besides the ring on your finger, you can inform friends and neighbors of your engagement in the Sunday Big Spring Herald. Just fill in the engagement announcement form available in the Family News department and return it no later than Thursday noon prior to the Sunday publication date. For a picture to appear with the announcement, the notice must be made a month in advance of the wedding. Be sure to use black and white glossy prints.

How to air your views in MAILBAG.

Send articles of 250 words or less to MAILBAG, c/o Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, TX 79720. Your name and address must be included with each letter. The Herald staff edits typographical and grammatical errors but will not change the intent of the letter. The newspaper reserves the right to publish any letter to MAILBAG.

How to plan advertising for your business.

Our retail advertising staff is at your service to help with your layout, copywriting and design. Our staff can help you budget your media dollars wisely and get your advertising to produce results. Call 263-7331 or stop by the Herald to discuss your advertising with the retail personnel.

Clip services are also available if you need artwork to spice up your ad, show a particular illustration of an item, or just to make your ad the one that captures the reader's eye. Stop by the retail ad department and browse through the clip files to see what advertising inspirations you can find.

How to clean out your closet.

Have a garage sale and advertise it in the Herald classifieds. Or just run an ad to sell all that unwanted merchandise. It's as convenient as your telephone. Just dial 263-7331 to place your ad . . . then wait for the calls to pour in. (Note: some classifieds must be prepaid).

How to get a death notice in the paper.

A relative or funeral home can phone or bring the information to the City Desk. Stories usually include how long the deceased lived in Big Spring, where he or she worked, survivors, clubs and honors. Recent photographs are welcome.

How to get in the Action/reaction section.

Anyone in the editorial department is prepared to accept inquiries you would like answered in the Action/Reaction section, a department created for those individuals who find they often get no results after initiating questions on their own. Questions can either be called in or written in. There often is a wait of several days, but Herald personnel do their dead-level best to get objective questions answered.

How to order home delivery.

For delivery of the Herald, just pick up the phone and dial 263-7331. Home delivery of the Herald is also available in Howard and portions of six surrounding counties.

If you have a delivery problem you may dial 263-7331 or your local distributor and your problem will be corrected as soon as possible.

If you wish to pay for a subscription or file a complaint in person, stop by the Circulation Department at 710 Scurry.

How to find out or report a sports score.

Call our Scorecard, 263-7331 from 8:30-5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday; Saturdays 1:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m.

How to use our files for research.

Come to the File Section and tell one of the employees the subject or person you wish to research. Full size newspaper files are available, dating back about eight years. Earlier Herald records are stored on microfilm, but are available for public reference.

How to submit ideas, suggestions or complaints to the Herald.

The Herald Citizen's Advisory Board has been formed to improve the content of the Herald through community interaction. The Board will act as your spokesman so to have your voice heard, contact a board member by the 2nd Tuesday of every month, or send your ideas in writing to Big Spring Herald, c/o Community Relations Director, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, TX 79720. Public meetings will be held the 3rd Tuesday of every month to discuss viewpoints on the agenda. Check the community calendar for time and place. Plan to attend!

How to arrange a tour of the Big Spring Herald.

Many schools, clubs and other organized groups would enjoy and benefit from a free tour of a daily newspaper. To arrange such a tour, simply call our Community Relations Director at least a week in advance. Phone 263-7331, extension 43.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 13, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are likely to feel imposed upon early in the day, but rise above such a mood and attend to more important matters. Seek the good company of cheerful, optimistic friends.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be sure to handle home affairs in the morning, then join congenials later in the day at favorite recreation. Express happiness.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle routine chores and shopping, and later improve your skills and talents. Discuss new ideas with friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take a good look at your surroundings and make necessary repairs to property. Strive for harmony with family members.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to study your appearance and improve where necessary. Try not to criticize others so much.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) There could be delays early in the day that are annoying, but use patience and later all will be well. Be with congenials in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find the right outlet for your talents and you can be more successful. Engage in favorite hobby later in the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be truthful in a business deal in the morning and later enjoy friends and cultural activities. Use your brains.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You now comprehend how best to gain success in new projects and can get the support you need. Improve prestige.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your intuitive faculties are not working accurately early in the day, so wait until they are. Avoid arguments with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some annoying situation can arise that should be handled and solved quickly. Relax in the evening and ease tensions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't complain about doing work you have committed yourself to and it is easily done. Be more willing to cooperate with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't go off on any fun tangents today, but be cheerful with those you come in contact with. Strive for increased happiness.

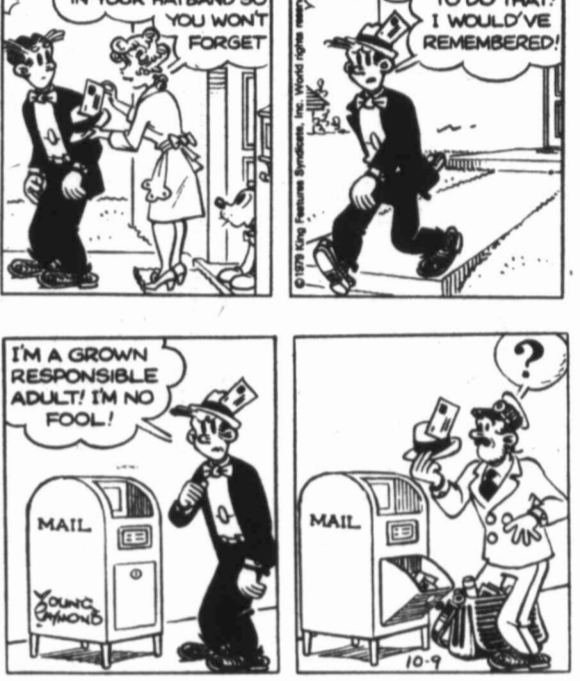

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one concerned with matters of importance and should have a fine education in order to achieve a great deal in life. Philosophical studies are important here. Give encouragement when it is needed.

The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Parents want return of three Rs in school

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Parents want their children to be able to effectively handle the three R's, the commissioner of the Texas Education Commission says.
"and I don't mean running, rassing and romance, either," commissioner Alton Bowen told the annual conference of the Texas Association of School Administrators and the Texas Association of School Boards Monday.

He said Texans have made it clear they are interested in the basics.

Bowen called for an unprecedented five-year plan to make Texas schools the best in one of the three R's — reading.

"Let us take reading as the basic. Let me make it clear that I'm suggesting that we concentrate all of our resources — both human and monetary — for the next five years on reading. Then we look at student achievement. I believe we will be pleased," he said.

He also called for tighter discipline and more emphasis on vocational-technical studies.

The commissioner called for "sound due process" followed by "punishment meted out" swiftly and justly when disciplining school children.

"We should not allow our teachers to be abused and the learning process to be disrupted by a few rowdies in the schools," said Bowen.

He questioned the need for bilingual education and predicted the new U.S. Department of Education will not help sort out federal programs.

The responsibility for "language and cultural maintenance is with the home, the family, the community and not with the school," said Bowen.

"Without proficiency in the dominant language of this country, joining the mainstream is impossible," he said.

Citing conflicting studies of bilingual education, Bowen said: "The jury is still out."

The State Board of Education should not compel bilingual education past the third grade until accurate data on its effects are available, Bowen said.

In supporting technical and vocational training, Bowen predicted 75 percent of future jobs in Texas will require technical or other vocational training. He complained that young people are not being encouraged to enroll for such training.

District will pick director

The Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District will hold an election to pick a director from Zone I of the district at the Hermleigh Community Center Oct. 15, at 8:00 p.m.

Zone I comprises that part of Scurry County lying south of U.S. Highway 180 and east of State Highway 208.

To be eligible to vote in a soil and water conservation district directors election, a person must own agricultural land within the subdivision where the election is being held. He or she must live in a county all or part of which is in that soil and water conservation district.

The voter must be 21. No voter registration certificate is required. Under community property laws of Texas, the wife of a landowner also owns land and is entitled to vote and hold office.

Soil and Water Conservation District Directors serve for a term of five years. Walter Stirl is the present director and is eligible for re-election. The term of office of a director begins the day after he or she is elected.

Critter cuisine
CUMBERLAND, Va. (AP) — Does your dog have the blats from eating the same old canned or bagged food day in or day out?

You might renew its interest with a Dog Food Cake — dog food, biscuits, milk and cheese. For your finicky feline, you might try Pussy Cat Pie or Fancy Fish Food.

Recipes for these and other dishes for such pets as turtles, skunks, guppies and ducks are contained in "Critters' Kitchen," a cookbook written by Michelle Reynolds, 13, of Cumberland County.

Michelle, who lives on a farm with her parents, dogs, cats, rabbits, chickens, geese, ducks and horses, said the idea for her book started one rainy day when she was nine years old.

"I love animals and know that eating is the most important part of the day for them," Michell says in the preface to the book. "I wouldn't want to be fed the same thing every day, would you?"

The 32 recipes in the book, released by Atheneum Publishing company, were checked by a veterinarian for wholesomeness. Michelle's mother helped her with library research on food suitable for various animals. Michelle did the hand lettering and the illustrations.

Young executive

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It's 9:30 a.m. again, and the 18 employees of Mini Merchants Inc. are checking in for work.

Robert Harcarik begins cutting small patterns from large pieces of stained glass; not many employees are strong enough to do it.

Former company President Ricky Weise handles the 18-employee payroll. "You have to be good at math to do it," he explains.

The current president, Alex Towse, expounds on her management philosophy. "You've got to respect what they do," she says of her employees. "If they make a mistake, you can't go over and yell at them."

Alex is 10. Everybody else who works for Mini Merchants is also 10, 8 or 9.

They're all fourth- and fifth-graders in Alva Alexander's class for gifted students at Cypress Elementary School. Mrs. Alexander launched the company a year ago on a whim.

Consultants from Florida Atlantic University and from a stock brokerage firm gave lessons on business. A lawyer handled the legal work and parents lent money at 5 percent.

Insulation: Easy way to save money; shopping complicated

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

A lack of insulation could be standing between you and lower fuel bills.

The Department of Energy says Americans could cut heating costs by 20 percent to 30 percent if they installed adequate insulation; in some areas, attic insulation alone can save 20 cents of every heating dollar.

Shopping for insulation is complicated, however. How much do you need? What kind should you buy? Can you do it yourself or do you need an expert?

You should start with what's becoming known as the "Fourth R." The "R" stands for resistance and it's the key to measuring how well the insulation prevents the flow of heat from one place to another. Federal regulations taking effect next month require manufacturers to label all insulation with the R-Value at any given thickness.

If you have three inches of insulation with an R-Value of 3 per inch, your total R-Value is 9.

Remember: Efficiency does not depend on thickness; two inches of one type of insulation may have a higher R-Value than three inches of another kind.

The amount of insulation you need depends largely on where you live. As a general rule, however, attic floors should have insulation with a total R-Value of between 26 and 38; exterior walls generally should have an R-Value of 11 to 13; and basement ceilings or crawlspaces should have from R-11 to R-32.

Insulation comes in a variety of materials and forms. The most common materials are mineral wool — which accounts for more than 75 percent of residential insulation, cellulose fiber and plastic.

Mineral wool insulation, including fiber glass and rock wool, is relatively inexpensive and easy to apply. It is fire resistant and moisture resistant. It can irritate the skin, however, so it is important to wear gloves and long-sleeved clothes when working with any type of mineral wool.

Cellulose, made from shredded paper, has a higher R-value than mineral wool and does not irritate the skin. It is important, however, to make sure that the cellulose has been treated with a fire-retardant to meet federal standards since improperly made cellulose insulation is a fire hazard.

Plastics, made of products like polyurethane or urea formaldehyde, offer a high R-value. They are generally resistant to fire, but if they do burn, they can give off a toxic gas. Check local fire regulations before you start work.

The forms of insulation include rolls or blankets, batts, loose fill, rigid boards and foam.

Rolls are best for walls or floors with studs that are spaced a standard 16 inches or 24 inches apart.

Batts are similar to rolls, but they are cut into four-foot or eight-foot lengths. They are semi-rigid and, like the rolls, are best used in easily accessible areas like unfinished attics and floors.

Loose fill is useful when you want to insulate an odd-shaped space or an enclosed wall cavity that can't be reached with rolls or batts. It can be poured or blown into place; you will need special equipment if you want to blow it in.

Rigid boards are plastics or fibers pressed into shape. They must be covered with half-inch gypsum board or other finishing material for fire safety. Boards can be used for basement or foundation walls and offer a high R-value for relatively little thickness.

Foam insulation is injected, wet, into walls or other closed spaces. Installation is tricky and should be done by a reputable contractor only.

R-Values can vary from manufacturer to manufacturer, but the Federal Trade Commission says there are generally accepted maximum standards. Be suspicious if you see a claim for an R-value higher than the ones listed below:

PRODUT R-VALUE PER INCH
Rock wool batts and blankets 3.1 to 3.6
Rock wool loose fill 2.7 to 3.2
Fiber glass batts and blankets 2.7 to 3.7

Fiber glass loose fill 2.1 to 2.4
Cellulose loose fill 3.1 to 3.7
Urea formaldehyde 4.1 to 4.8
Polyurethane 6.3 to 7.7

No matter what material or form you select, you should use a vapor barrier to control moisture. Otherwise, the water vapor in the warm, moist air inside the house can seep into the insulation, causing it to lose its effectiveness.
