

ANTI-CASTRO DEMONSTRATION — Demonstrators protesting the visit to the United States of Cuban President Fidel Castro wave placards and shout slogans from behind police barricades near the Cuban Mission to the United Nations in New York Thursday.

Castro emerges from security of Cuban Mission for U.N. talk

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — After spending nearly 36 hours within the iron security of the Cuban mission, Fidel Castro emerged this morning and motored to the United Nations, where the General Assembly awaited his speech.

There were no demonstrators around the mission on East 38th Street as cars departed, first a decoy motorcade and then Castro's between 10:15 and 10:25 a.m., for the seven-block ride to the U.N. site along the East River.

Castro's arrival at the U.N. headquarters on New York City's east side by driving through a secured zone of five blocks between two areas set aside by police for demonstrators.

Anti-Castroites were permitted no closer than the 47th street end of Dag Hammarskjold Plaza while supporters of the Cuban president were confined to a suite five blocks south.

The plaza itself, after Castro was inside, was eerily quiet, with the sound of police helicopters carried away in the wind. The clomp of police-horse hooves carried and the clicks of police and radios were the only other sounds.

Following his speech, reportedly on the economic rivalry between the world's rich and poor, Castro had a lunch date with U.S. Ambassador Donald McHenry and 90 other dignitaries.

During Castro's scheduled 4½ hour U.N. visit, hundreds of America, Cuban and United Nations security men will blanket the East River headquarters and the surrounding streets, where pro-and anti-Castro groups are expected to gather. U.N. grounds will be closed to the public today.

New York police boats will patrol the river to head off any incidents similar to the 1964 attack on Ernesto "Che" Guevara, Castro's industry minister. As Guevara addressed the general Assembly, anti-Castro Cubans fired a bazooka at the U.N. complex from across the water. The shell fell short and splashed harmlessly into the water. Guevara was killed in 1967 leading a revolutionary band in Bolivia.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim will provide a presidential welcome for Castro, who will be making his first address to the General Assembly in 19 years. The bearded revolutionary will be speaking to the 52-nation body as Cuban head-of-state, and he is expected to concentrate on the non-aligned summit he was the host of in Havana last month.

Castro told The Washington Post Thursday night his speech will deal with the "essential economic conflict between the developing and underdeveloped world."

"I'm going to defend human rights and the Third World and underdeveloped countries," he said in an interview.

Castro described relations among the non-aligned nations as "excellent," and said, "they're going to be even better," after his speech.

UAW will give instead of take

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto workers union resumes bargaining at Chrysler Corp. on Monday, and it could be the toughest in years. Instead of taking, the UAW will be giving.

It's been clear since the formal opening of talks in July that Chrysler, the nation's No. 3 carmaker, would get concessions because of its shaky finances, though the union has not said so flatly.

UAW President Douglas A. Fraser has said several times the union would "live up to its responsibilities."

Car dealers will sponsor breakfast

The New Car Dealers Association will be sponsoring the next Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast, Tuesday morning.

Jack Lewis Buick and Cadillac, 403 Scurry, will be providing a prize of a new car to be used for a week. There will also be one $20 drawing.

The Southwest Auxiliary Championship (SWAC) twirlers will be performing.

Represented at this breakfast will be the Community Concert, United Way, Miss Howard County pageant, and the Arts and Crafts Festival, which will be held Oct. 20-21 at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The breakfast will start 6:30 a.m. at the Howard College Student Union cafeteria. Reservations must be made by noon Monday. Tickets are $3.50.

U.S. dollar climbs to highest point against yen

The U.S. dollar climbed to its highest point of the year against the yen continued to rise sharply. Stock prices opened higher as activity on Wall Street continued to calm after a wild slide early in the week.

The dollar rose in Tokyo to 226.85 major currencies. The Japanese economy is being buffeted by a wave of inflation brought on in part by higher oil prices.

The U.S. Treasury Department on Thursday sold long term bonds with a yield of more than 10 percent for the first time ever. The bonds, which mature in 15 years and one month, brought an average yield of 10.17 percent.

The higher interest rates and stronger dollar stem directly from the Federal Reserve Board's decision last weekend to tighten credit, an action that sent the stock market into a deep decline.

Stock prices were up today after showing signs of stabilizing on Thursday, when the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped 4.70 to 844.62, bringing the week's loss to 52.99 points. Advancing issues led decliners on the New York Stock Exchange.

That does not mean a two-year wage freeze, as the company suggested in an opening bargaining proposal personally delivered by Chrysler Chairman Lee A. Iacocca. Iacocca, who is expected to get into the talks in person again, has been meeting privately with Fraser.

Fraser said in delivering the rejection that economic issues at Chrysler could not be negotiated until after agreements were reached with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. — settlements now completely in hand, except for ratification by Ford workers.

The two settlements are similar. Though GM has not given a figure, there have been published estimates that the agreement will boost GM's labor costs by 33 percent over three years, if inflation runs at 8 percent per year.

Chrysler workers average $9 an hour, compared with $9.05 at GM and $9.03 at Ford.

"Imagine," said a union official after the Ford settlement, "having to negotiate our own takeaways."

But the reverse bargaining is not new. American Motors Corp. was given an easier contract years ago when it was having trouble and now is back in rough parity with the Big Three companies.

The negotiations will be closely watched in Washington. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller has made clear that any rescue plan for Chrysler will have to involve sacrifices by everybody concerned with Chrysler — workers, banks and suppliers.

Chrysler, the world's 14th largest industrial corporation, lost a record $207.1 million in the second quarter of this year and asked the government for a $1 billion tax credit. Miller turned down the tax credit, but said the Carter administration would consider loan guarantees of $500 million to $750 million. The Senate Banking Committee is holding hearings in Washington on what kind of government assistance, if any, should be given to Chrysler.

Bird lovers shouldn't tempt humming birds

Bird lovers shouldn't be fooled by the area's Indian Summer weather, especially those who have humming bird feeders hung outside their homes. So says Bebe McCaslin.

The humming birds should be headed south, along with other winged creatures, but they will hang around the area as long as feed is provided for them, according to Mrs. McCaslin.

Those who do linger run the risk of becoming victims of bad weather. One of the little creatures was found frozen to a clothes line here last year, not far from one of the feeders which had been put there for his kind.

"They should move on south ahead of the northers," Mrs. McCaslin said, "and they will if their feeders are taken in. They are just like babies, who will eat candy as long as it is offered to them."

According to Mrs. McCaslin, the humming birds lose a food source when trumpet vines stop blooming, and most of those in this area have ceased to produce buds, readying for the winter ahead.

Water Development Board is asked to buy local bonds

The city has asked the Texas Water Development Board in Austin to buy the bonds necessary to finance improvements at the local sewage treatment plant, said City Manager Don Davis, today.

Davis traveled to Austin Thursday to speak with Charles Holcomb, the board's financial analyst, about purchasing the bonds.

"He and other boards were receptive and very cordial," said Davis.

The city will need an addition of $1,950,000 in order to undertake repairs at the Big Spring plant. It had been granted approximately $1.2 million from the Economic Development Administration, but when bids on the repairs were reviewed, the city had come up considerably short of money.

"The advantage of having the Water Development Board purchase the bonds instead of putting them on the open market is a lower interest rate. If the board buys the bonds, our interest rate would be about 5.6 percent, compared to about 7 percent on the open market," said Davis.

In addition, the bonds would be in one spot, instead of in the possession of scores of different buyers, added Davis.

The city manager was pleased with the board's initial reaction to the application. But Holcomb and other officials will still have to seek final approval for the plan from their board of directors.

County United Way drive is 25 percent complete

The 1979 Howard County United Way campaign is a little more than 25 percent toward achieving its $145,300 objective.

Workers in the campaign, who convened at noon Thursday at the Holiday Inn Restaurant, were told that $36,557.88 had been pledged or donated in the drive.

That amount, in time, will be boosted by an estimated $7,500, the figure raised in the Combined Federal Campaign. In reality, an estimated $11,000 has been raised by CFC workers but only 71 percent of the amount will wind up in the United Way coffers.

The Residential and Special divisions are the only other teams to report collections of 50 percent or more. The Residential team is 67 percent complete, with collections totaling $3,816 toward an objective of $5,700.

The Special team reports collections of $4,555 toward a goal of $9,000. Other divisions reporting, with their total collections, quotas and percentages, include:

Out of Town, $3,387, $8,800, 38 percent; Pacesetters, $17,901, $52,000, 30 percent; Loaned Executive, $1,241, $46,300, three percent; Metropolitan, $1,427, $5,800, 27 percent; Professional, $4,160, $9,200, 45 percent; Rural, $70, $1,000, seven percent.

The $5,750 reported in Thursday's edition of the Herald as having been raised in the Combined Federal Campaign was, in reality, the amount rallied by employees of the Veterans Administration Medical Center here. The VAMC constitutes a part of the CFC drive.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: 'He's human'

Q. There was a little ad on the back page of the Herald Tuesday that said "My hope is not in the Pope." Could you explain the meaning of this?

A. The ad was not placed in criticism of any individual or group, according to the person who placed it, but in opposition to all of the attention been placed on the Pope's visit to America. The inquirer said he resents the $5 million in tax money that was spent in preparation for the Pope's visit and does not feel the Pope should have been put on a pedestal. "He's a world leader, not God," the caller said. "The Pope is human; Christ is eternal. Our mediator is not the Pope; it's Christ. Ultimately, Christ is the hope of the world."

Impasse over Congressional pay raise pinching federal workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The impasse over a pay raise for congressmen already has cut sharply into the paychecks of 1.3 million federal workers and the number could nearly triple by Tuesday. If no compromise is reached by Saturday, 116,000 workers from the departments of Agriculture and Housing and Urban Development will get short pay next week. Unless the impasse is broken by Monday, the Pentagon estimates 2 million military personnel will get no paychecks at all next week. And if there is no agreement by Tuesday, some 198,000 Veterans Administration employees, due to be paid that day, could also be affected. The impasse is holding up passage of an emergency money bill needed to fund seven Cabinet-level departments and various smaller agencies. Those agencies have been getting by on money left over from the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30 but have no authority to pay for work done after that date. Negotiators for the House and Senate, unsuccessful in two attempts to break the impasse, hoped to try today to pass a short-term bill that would allow the government to meet its upcoming payroll. That stopgap bill, which would last perhaps only a week, would not contain the pay raise or any mention of language limiting federal money for abortions — the other issue in dispute. Its passage would give negotiators a few more days to work out an agreement on the overall emergency bill. Resolution of the stalemate appeared near Thursday as the negotiators reached tentative agreement on the emergency bill. But the conference ended in chaos only minutes later when the Senate side first appeared to accept — but then rejected — a House provision that would have given congressmen and senators a $3,200 a year cost-of-living boost on top of their current salaries of $57,500 a year. House negotiators then backed out of the earlier agreement on abortion language — an action that sent the conferees back to square one. The emergency bill itself actually was intended as a stopgap measure. It would have allowed the agencies to continue operating until Nov. 30 at the same spending levels used during the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30. The legislation was needed because Congress has passed only three of the 13 regular appropriations bills that provide money for those agencies in the new fiscal year. The impasse means the departments can pay their employees only for work done before Oct. 1.

House gives Carter free hand in oil pricing plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, turning back efforts to reinstate price lids on home heating oil, diesel fuel and domestic crude oil, has given president Carter a free hand in setting oil-pricing policy. In two decisive energy victories Thursday for the president, House members solidly rejected arguments by liberals that the administration's deregulation policies were lining oil industry pockets at the expense of American consumers.

The House first voted 257-135 to let stand Carter's plan for allowing the price of domestically produced crude oil to rise to world market levels by mid-1981. The president has said this is a crucial element in his drive to reduce U.S. reliance on import oil. Then, by a 243-124 margin, it turned down a proposal to reimpose price controls on heating oil and diesel fuel for the coming winter. Those ceilings were lifted in 1976 by then-President Gerald R. Ford. Carter has the power to reimpose them but has chosen not to do so. "Decontrol must be the base for a rational energy program for our country," Colo., echoing the White House position. "We must be willing to admit to ourselves that the time of cheap energy is gone."

Carter's oil-pricing plan. Elsewhere on Capitol Hill Thursday, the Senate Energy Committee, boosting another part of Carter's energy program, voted 14-1 in support of a $20 billion effort to develop synthetic fuels. The bill would create a semi-independent Energy Security Corporation. Most of the $20 billion would go for loans and loan guarantees designed to encourage industry to invest in synthetic fuels, usually defined as oil and gas extracted from coal, oil shale and tar sands.

It's time we honored ladies in white

It's only fitting that we set aside a special week for the compassionate ladies in white. Texas Nurse Week is Oct. 21-27, during which time people will be asked to consider what nurses mean to us and recognize the valuable contribution these professionals make to our community.

Nurses are essential members of professional health teams who dedicate most of their waking hours to preventing illness and restoring health.

By law a professional nurse must be licensed by the state of Texas to practice nursing and earns the right to be called a registered nurse, an RN. Licensed vocational nurses (LVNs) are also important providers of nursing services. Nurses practice in many situations: Homes, hospitals, community agencies, clinics, schools, and industry to name a few. Today, nurses are emerging into new roles in order to bring the delivery of good health care closer to the consumer.

An example of one of the new roles is the nurse practitioner. A nurse practitioner works closely with patients to assess their health by physical examination, patient education, and nursing care. A specialized nurse practitioner could be further educated to be a certified nurse midwife, a specialist in helping the elderly and many other areas underserved in today's society.

Currently, the nursing profession is encouraging the return of non-working nurses to practice through refresher courses and inservice training. Less than two-thirds of the 55,000 registered nurses in Texas are practicing.

The greatest need for nurses is in rural areas. Fortunately, the number of applicants and graduates of nursing schools has risen sharply in the last half decade. The number of males in nursing has also increased.

Nurses are acutely aware of their need for informal continued education beyond graduation in order to keep up with the modern changes in nursing. Schools of nursing, hospitals and health agencies across Texas are striving to offer continued education opportunities.

Just recently the Texas Nurses Association, the professional organization for RNs, initiated a modern recording system to document the continued education efforts of RNs. By means of this system, called CEARP (Continuing Education Approval and Recognition Program), participating RNs receive official recognition for their activities in maintaining their competency.

The special week should remind us to examine the nursing care in our community. Nursing's purpose is its ability to deliver quality nursing care for the well being of the consumer-patient.

Around the rim

James Werrell

One of the hardest things to do when writing a Rim is to predict what will get people stirred up.

I have sat down before my typewriter in the past, absolutely positive that what I am about to write will strike fire in the hearts of righteous men while the blood of my opponents runs cold. After the Rim is published, I wait patiently for the rock through my living room window that never comes.

OTHER TIMES, I have written Rims that I am sure are so innocuous that no one is likely to read them, much less be offended by them. The cards and letters pour in.

The most abusive response I ever got to one of my Rims was in regard to one in which I included my opinion of Poodles. Lovers of this runty little breed of canine wanted me spayed.

But I'm not taking any chances with this Rim! I have carefully observed what has gotten people's feathers ruffled over the months and years here, and this Rim is designed to offend as many readers as possible.

Let me tell you a fable: The late Elvin Preston once came to Big Spring to do a benefit concert to help save One Mile Lake. This was near the end of Elvin's career when he was fat and bloated.

As a matter of fact, he was so grotesque that he hadn't been getting many club dates, and he was nearly broke. But Elvin was badly in need of a beer, and since he knew he could buy beer on Sunday in Big Spring, he figured he had better try to cash a bogus check somewhere.

Up ahead of him he saw the sign for P'anned Parenthood, one of his favorite organizations, and decided to hit them up for some cash. As he pulled into the driveway, he heard a crunch near the front tire of his oversized American car.

Looking under the tire, he saw the crushed body of a Poodle puppy.

"Oh well, it just would have grown up to look like another bleached rat," he muttered in his familiar drawl.

After cashing the hot check, he drove to the nearest Seven-Eleven and picked up a half a case of cold brews. After slugging down the first one, he crushed the can in his pudgy little fist, and tossed it onto the front yard of a home where the Big Spring Beautification Committee was meeting.

"Ah, that's better," he said to himself, belching. "Now I better go put some more meat on these bones."

He pulled into the nearest burger joint, and slid out of his car. On his way inside, he stole a Big Spring Herald from the vending machine near the door.

"WHAT'S THE matter with this paper anyway? Don't they know that professional sports exist? Who gives a hoot about rinky-dink high school football anyway?" he shouted to anyone who would listen as he sprawled into a booth.

Then his gigantic stomach started to rumble, and he shouted to a pregnant waitress to bring him a piece of pie.

As she placed the pie onto the table, Elvin eyed her up and down. Then, showing the pie onto the floor, he screamed, "Boy, there's nothing I hate more than motherhood and apple pie!"

Then, wiping his blubbery lips on a handkerchief patterned after an American flag, he stormed out of the restaurant.

"I think I'll blow this two-bit town. I have to get to that Madelyn Murray O'Hair benefit anyway," he said, as he floored his car through a school zone.

Tribute to Pope

William F. Buckley, Jr.

It gradually transpired during the pope's visit that he had not come to America in order to abandon Catholic orthodoxy. This undoubtedly struck some people, including a number of Catholics, as rude. Although it must be acknowledged that not in living history was any man met more warmly than Pope John Paul II in America, nor less factionalism permitted to develop. This is a tribute to that extraordinary radiation of sheer benignity in the pope, in symbiosis with the national hunger to transcend materialism and the politics of materialism. There is no stronger message, delivered to an affluent people, than that one cannot live by bread alone. And no one has done it better than the Polish peasant-intellectual ascended to the chair of St. Peter.

BUT THE NATURE of Catholic discipline is superficially understood. It is curious that this should be so, because, for the most part unthinkingly, the American people have paid over to the Supreme Court of the United States something akin to the presumptive respect Catholics are trained to pay over to the precepts of their pope. The Supreme Court governs for the most part by the moral leverage it exercises over the American people. Evidence of this is that with a single ambiguous exception (the income tax amendment) no ruling of the Supreme Court has been overturned during this century by constitutional amendment.

The Supreme Court, in other words, has emerged as something of a republican magistrature. It is a teaching authority. When in 1972, running for the presidency in the height of the anti-busing commotion, George McGovern was asked what was his position on compulsory busing, he replied that he would have to await a final verdict by the Supreme Court. This answer was accepted as entirely logical, notwithstanding that the questioner was soliciting not the Supreme Court's opinion on busing, but George McGovern's. When the court did finally rule, its verdict was generally accepted, notwithstanding that there is always residual disagreement and talk — so far consistently vain — of a constitutional amendment.

Along comes a pope who reiterates a position on birth control, and on abortion, and on women priests which is familiar. And there are cries of pain, and protests lodged, and heads shaking at the intransigence of it all. The most widely advertised peculiarity of Catholicism is the authority invested in a single man over faith and morals. Now that authority is not an invitation to a thoughtless acquiescence. The history of the Catholic Church is one of a provocative and endless dialogue: but on the understanding that there is a final arbiter. Moreover, the pope bears a responsibility to seek and make his pronouncements popularly understandable ("ut in pluribus"). By the same token, the majority of the Supreme Court write opinions, giving their exegeses on the constitutional point.

BUT THE TYPICAL Catholic does not require that his own opinion coincide with that of the pope. There is a concept known among Catholics as "internal assent." This quality of believing in the conclusion reached by the pope may or may not obtain concerning a pope's decision in a particular question. But the obligation of the Catholic in discipline is not to advertise the failure to assent internally. That obligation is spectacularly disregarded; there are critics by the thousands of the encyclical "Humanae Vitae," as there will be of the present pope's reiteration of that encyclical's thesis.

Exercises held adominal flab

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 15 and have a stomach that makes me look like I am about three or four months pregnant. It really bugs me! I do about 50 to 100 sit-ups every night, but this doesn't seem to help. The rest of my figure is OK as far as I'm concerned. I don't know if it could be from eating all the time. Everytime I get on the scale it reads 104 and I'm sure it's not broken or off. I would really appreciate any advice to help me get rid of this embarrassing stomach. — Ms. C.B.

The usual reason for a person your age to have middle-age spread is that the abdominal muscles are weak or the lower back sways too far forward.

If you don't have any serious spinal problem, you can improve with exercises. Sit-ups are good ones. You in particular should make sure your knees are bent when doing sit-ups. If you keep your legs out straight in front of you, you might worsen the sway of the back and make your abdomen protrude further.

The "side" muscles of the abdominal wall are not strengthened by sit-ups. To exercise these muscles stand straight with your hips and knees "locked." Twist as far to the right as possible, return to the center, then twist as far to the left as possible. Repeat as many times as you can. Increase the number every third to fifth day. Another exercise is to blow all the air out of your lungs, then draw in your stomach without inhaling air. Hold that position for about five seconds. You might be able to work the twisting exercise into a disco routine.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 52 and in good health. About every three to five years I have a swollen jaw. It only lasts two or three days. Sweets and pickles really hurt when I'm like this. Am I having mumps? — Mrs. D.W.

Not mumps. That would recur like that. You probably have a partial block to one of your salivary glands. When you eat something that causes excess saliva to form — like pickles — the saliva just can't get out. The gland swells and becomes painful.

If your mouth is dry all the time, certain illnesses (arthritis, for example) can be considered. An ear-nose-throat doctor can evaluate the swelling accurately.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I was told three years ago that I had a small calcium spot on my left lung. When the doctor told me this I was really frightened and I guess I still am to a certain extent. Just hearing a comment from another physician on this will help ease my tension. I go in for X-rays every three to six months and they tell me there has been no change in the spot. — P.

I think you can stop worrying. A spot on the lung that is calcified (calcium deposited) and that has not changed in size in three years is quite unlikely to be cancerous. In fact the chances are next to impossible. It probably indicates some old infection.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband is 41, I'm 43. We've been married 26 years. Ten years ago the doctor put him on Zyluprim for a slight case of gout. He takes it twice a day. He has been in pain for the last three years and partially so for a few years before that. Is there the remotest chance that the medicine could have a bearing on this? He refuses to talk to the doctor about this. He's not on any other kind of medicine. — Mrs. J.M.

Loss of potency is not listed as a side effect of Zyluprim (allopurinol). If he won't talk to his doctor about this, why don't you?

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I truly want to be born again. How can this happen to me? I really feel a need of God in my life. — O.T.

DEAR O.T.: You have already taken the first step; you have sensed your personal need of God. Before we can be born again spiritually we must first know that we NEED to be born again.

This is true, the Bible tells us, because we are sinners. We may not necessarily be very bad people in the eyes of other people, but we have not lived up to God's standard for us — perfection. The Bible says, "For all have sinned, and fall short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23). The first step in being born again, therefore, is to admit that we are sinners and need God's forgiveness.

The second step is to realize what God has done for us to make salvation possible. How can we be saved? How can we be born again spiritually? We cannot be saved by our own good works, because no matter how good we are we will never measure up to God's standard of perfection. But God loves you and has provided the way. That way is through His Son, Jesus Christ. Christ, the Bible tells us, was without sin, yet He voluntarily took your sins and mine upon Himself when He died on the Cross. You deserved to die as punishment for your sins, but Christ died for you. "God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God" (2 Corinthians 5:21). On the Cross Christ took away your sins.

What must you do in response? You must trust Christ as your own Savior by committing your life to Him. How do you do this? By simply telling God that you are sorry for your sins and want to turn from them and invite Jesus Christ into your life as Lord and Savior. Salvation is a gift but, like any gift, it must be received or accepted. The Bible says, "To all who received Him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God" (John 1:12). When you accept Christ by faith, you are born again into the family of God.

No Red puppet

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — The major theme running through the mini-crisis over Russian troops in Cuba was that Fidel Castro is nothing more than a Kremlin puppet.

Jimmy Carter's orchestration of this old sweet song took the form of a flat assertion: "In every international dispute, on every international issue, the Cuban regime automatically follows the Soviet line."

But a secret report by the State Department's bureau of intelligence and research strikes a discordant note in the familiar puppet tune. The report, dated April 13, 1976, concludes that while Castro has aligned himself with many Soviet policies over the years, he "remains something of a maverick who still conceives of himself as a leader of the Third World."

The State Department analysts addressed themselves to Castro's adventures in Africa, dating back to his first dispatch of "technicians" to train troops of emerging nations in the mid-1960s, and continuing through his major military involvements in Angola and Ethiopia a decade later.

THE EXTENT to which the Soviet Union can direct — or restrict Cuban activities in Africa is a moot question," the report states. On the other hand, the analysts concluded, "Castro probably could not be forced to give more than token support to a Soviet policy which he believed to be contrary to Cuban interests."

The report pictures Castro as a sort of gun-toting missionary. "In opposing Western 'economic imperialism,' the remaining vestiges of European colonialism and white minority regimes of South Africa and Rhodesia, Castro brings to his mission an almost messianic zeal," the report states.

Rejecting the notion that Castro salivates every time the Russians ring a bell, the State Department analysts have this view of the Soviet-Cuban relationship: "Soviet policy probably determines the outer boundaries of Cuban options, in the sense that Cuba would not undertake an initiative directly opposed by the Soviet Union, and any large-scale Cuban military operations require Soviet logistical and financial support."

Noting that "Cuba is much less constrained than the USSR by global strategic and economic interests," the report concludes that Castro thus has greater freedom to intervene in other countries' affairs than the Kremlin does.

Interestingly, the experts found that Castro seems less concerned with the strict communist-line orthodoxy of a revolutionary regime he helps than with its 'potential or actual ability to oppose the forces of 'capitalist imperialism.'"

THE REPORT LISTS Castro's "major aspirations" in Africa, after his support of the successful rebel faction in Angola in 1975, as concentrated in southern Africa, where colonialism remains dominant. He wants the overthrow of the white minority regime in Rhodesia, removal of South African control of Namibia (Southwest Africa) and, eventually, destruction of the white-dominated regime in South Africa itself, the experts predicted.

An important reason for moderating the standard "Kremlin puppet" view of Castro, the State Department analysts felt, is the Cuban dictator's perception of himself as a leader among nations that are not aligned with either side in the East-West struggle.

Cuba, the report concludes, "values its Third World Credentials, and does not want to jeopardize them by appearing a too-obvious agent of Soviet interests."

WEAPONS WASTE: Navy officials are forbidden to hire their own lobbyists to push for particular appropriations in Congress, but when a pet project is involved the regulations are sometimes thrown out like so much bilge water.

A case in point is the development program for a controversial eight-inch naval gun designed for relatively short-range bombardment, as in amphibious assaults or other close-in operations.

The whole concept had been the target of intense sniping over the years, mainly from younger Navy officers who felt that such a weapon was an anachronism in the age of long-range missile launchers. The Marines and nostalgic old-timers among the Navy brass argued that the new gun could fill a vital function even in pushbutton warfare.

But a secret General Accounting Office report we have seen found that officials in charge of the program had fudged on its early test reports, making the weapon appear better than it actually was. "The information reported to Congress indicates that the gun exceeded its reliability objectives," the report states, "but it actually failed to meet these objectives during operational testing."

That did it. After an expenditure of $11.7 million, the Navy decided to scuttle the program.

But Warren Kitterman, technical director of the gun program at the Naval Weapons Testing Laboratory in Dahlgren, Va., refused to strike his colors. A double-dipping ex-Marine officer, Kitterman decided to take his baby's case directly to Congress.

Kitterman worked through Universal Systems Inc., a naval consulting firm that had received some $400,000 in contracts from Kitterman's office.

Navy records show Kitterman upped the budget on a Universal contract by more than $25,000 for "additional engineering time." What the money actually went for, sources told us, was the hiring of a military consultant, Sam Martin, to lobby for the eight-inch gun on Capitol Hill.

Martin admitted "talking to some friends and calling some congressional offices about the gun, but denied being hired as a lobbyist. Kitterman also denied that Martin was a lobbyist.

But when the House Armed Services Committee voted $32.5 million back into the gun program, Universal employees were heard joking that Martin's words were actually included in the committee report.

Privately-owned farms in Poland refreshing

(This is the last of a series on Gov. Bill Clements' agricultural delegation that visited five Communist countries last month.)

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

Stanislaw Kruszniewski, director of the Polish Ministry of Food Production, told the visiting Texans that three-fourths of his country's arable land consists of small farms averaging 12 acres each.

"This is the base of our problem of rural production," Kruszniewski said.

Gov. Bill Clements and his touring Texans smiled politely, but totally disagreed.

After two weeks of touring big collective and state farms in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union in September, the 37-member Texas delegation found the small, privately-owned Polish farms refreshing.

From their tour bus on a short trip outside Warsaw, they praised the healthy-looking crops and small, well cared-for plots they saw beside the highway.

Their enthusiasm drooped a bit when U.S. embassy personnel in Warsaw said the Polish system is antiquated and inefficient. But they were consoled to learn that Polish state farms are just as inefficient as the independent ones.

Gov. and Mrs. Clements had two goals for the tour: to promote Texas agricultural products and to educate state farming and ranching leaders on situations in Communist countries.

The group found more problems than possibilities for selling Texas agricultural products, but Clements maintains there is a chance for future sales of breeding cattle and food processing equipment.

The educational goal was more clearly met. The Texans not only learned a lot for themselves but also provided some valuable agricultural intelligence for the U.S. government.

On a swing through fertile Soviet land east of the Black Sea, the group's experienced farmers and ranchers found serious drought conditions. They saw stunted crops and dry pastures.

U.S. agricultural experts in the Moscow embassy eagerly quizzed the Texans. Such information can be valuable in analyzing prospects for future grain sales to the Soviets.

The Texans saw some things that impressed them about the Communist style of agriculture, and some things that depressed them.

Many of the large collective farms of the Soviet Union and Soviet Bloc countries are highly mechanized. Tractors and combines do the work that for centuries was done by hand. Farm workers the Texans talked with appeared content.

One worker on a huge cooperative in Hungary said he is glad his once-private land is part of the cooperative.

"It feels better now because I have security," he said. "To be a private farmer had risks."

The cooperative farmers receive wages, a share of profits and all the health-care and retirement benefits a socialist system can offer. The workers elect a board to run the cooperative. Most Communist governments have certain crop quotas that must be filled.

State farms are another matter. They are owned by the state and their employees receive only fixed wages.

While the system looks good on paper, in reality it breeds many problems that the Communists keep tinkering with but seldom seem to overcome.

Dr. Jarvis Wells, Texas A&M University president and a member of the Clements group, said the system leads to extremely conservative attitudes.

Miller, who had visited some Soviet farms several years ago, said cooperative directors fear doing too well

More people subpoenaed in murder probe

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A Houston man convicted in a 1968 murder-for-hire is among 35 witnesses subpoenaed by a federal grand jury investigating the May 29 assassination of a federal judge and the assault last year on a federal prosecutor.

The witness, Charles V. Harrelson, 41, of Houston, was sentenced in 1973 to 15 years in prison in the July 6, 1968 slaying in the Rio Grande Valley of Hearne grain dealer Sam Degelia Jr. The first trial ended in a hung jury.

Harrelson and the other 34 witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear Wednesday and Thursday before the federal panel investigating the assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. and the attempted assassination last Nov. 21 of Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr.

Other persons subpoenaed to testify next week include: members of the Bandidos motorcycle club; Peter Krutemewski, a friend of fugitive drug smuggler Jimmy Chagra, and Salvatore Michael Caruana, a Boston man the FBI has said in court has direct links to New England organized crime leaders.

The subpoenas do not mean Harrelson or any of the witnesses are targets of the Wood or Kerr investigations, only that investigators feel they can shed light on the cases.

Kerr, who had been heavily involved in a massive federal investigation of an international drug smuggling ring centered in El Paso, escaped serious injury when his car was riddled by bullets.

Wood, 63, was known as "Maximum John" for his stiff sentences in drug cases, including some arising from that investigation. A sniper cut down the judge with a single shot as Wood climbed into his car to leave for work.

No arrests have been made in either case.

TOUCH OF CLASS — The Moscow Pops brought a little class to one of Atlantic City's casinos this past evening. The 70 member group is in the midst of a 35-city nationwide tour which ends Nov. 18. Pictured are, Ludmila Smorgacheva and Sergei Lukin both of the Kiev Ballet. The group is being allowed to continue their tour despite recent defections by other Russian artists.

Texas one of 24 to suffer most from mortgage rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mortgage rates could skyrocket to 14 percent by early next year, but it won't matter for people in nearly half the states because home loans won't be available to them at any price, housing officials say.

Moreover, the Federal Reserve Board's fresh anti-inflation initiatives will severely depress the housing construction industry, these experts say.

Housing starts will plummet as much as 25 percent next year, warned Jay Janis, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates the nation's thrift institutions.

"While the Federal Reserve Board's tight-money approach might reduce speculation in the commodities and slow inflation in other sectors of the economy, the policy is disastrous for potential home buyers and small builders," Vondal S. Gravelle, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said Wednesday.

Many Americans will be completely shut out of the housing market beginning in January, said economists for the thrift institutions.

Twenty-four states will be hit hardest because they have laws limiting mortgage rates to about 12 percent or less, making it unprofitable for the institutions to lend because they must pay even higher interest rates to borrow.

economist for the U.S. League of Savings Associations, pinpointed Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York and Texas as very mortgage-dry "come the first of the year."

Five percent and 10 percent down payments, he said, will become virtually extinct. "Twenty percent down payments will have to become the rule."

"Moreover, banks won't let families assume mortgages if their carrying costs stretch excessively beyond 25 percent of their income," said Parliament.

Gravelle said he foresees mortgage rates reaching 13 percent very soon. "The difference between an 11 percent and 13 percent rate on a 30-year, $80,000 mortgage is $92 a month," he said.

The dramatic mortgage crunch is the direct result of the Federal Reserve Board increasing its bank lending rate from 11 percent to 12 percent and altering the way it controls the availability of money and credit.

The changes led to immediate surges in other short-term interest rates, with many large banks increasing interest charged their best customers — the "prime rate" — to an unprecedented 14.5 percent.

There is no name on this pew. But through the years some very devout people have thought of it as "theirs" and willingly — eagerly — shared it with friends and strangers. Right now it is waiting for somebody to claim it. Come a little early next Sunday and it's yours.

Next Sunday is World Communion Sunday. In every land those who believe in Jesus Christ will be joining together to partake of the Lord's Supper. It is a day for realizing our privileges and blessings, renewing our commitments and responsibilities.

Christians everywhere will come to worship their Lord... and go forth to serve Him. Have you a pew to call your own? On Sunday you can have: it's first come... first served.

Spencer Wolfe speaks to 1953 Hyperion Club

The 1953 Hyperion Club met for the regular monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Louis Stallings with Mrs. Harry Middleton and Mrs. T.L. Griffin as co-hostesses.

Meeting was called to order by Mrs. Arlis Ratliff, president, with 23 members present. Other members elected to serve as officers are Mrs. Stanley Haney, vice president; Mrs. Wesley Deats, recording secretary; Mrs. Harry Spannaus, treasurer; Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harold Davis, parliamentarian; Mrs. B.M. Estes, reporter; and Mrs. John Taylor, historian.

Mrs. Haney introduced Spencer Wolfe whose study of the honey bee has made him an authority on bees and their habitat. He explained that honey bees are among the most gifted of all insects. They are the only insects that provide any important part of our food. More than 100,000 kinds of plants would not be able to form seeds and would die off if bees did not carry pollen from one flower to another. He explained the three kinds of bees found in every hive, the home life and work of the bee in the beehive, and the removal of the honeycombs without disturbing the brood combs. The more we learn about honeybees, the more we find that their lives and habits are somewhat like our own.

Next regular meeting will be Nov. 7, in the home of Mrs. G.C. Broughton with Mrs. B.M. Estes and Mrs. Wesley Deats as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Grider wins prize

Chances were taken on a weekly gift and Grace Lee Grider was proclaimed the winner when members of the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 met Oct. 9 at 7:30 p.m.

Noble Grand Malinda Blackburn presided over the meeting which was conducted in the I.O.O.F. Hall at Ninth and San Antonio. It was reported that 25 visits to the sick were made during the past week.

It was voted to hold initiation ceremonies Oct. 16 preceded by a salad supper at 6:30 p.m.

Sheri Wilson, chairman of the United Nations Pilgrimage, requested that the lodge begin working on their Ways and Means program by gathering funds for the Pilgrimage Tour to be held in April.

Recommended to serve as lodge deputy was Margi Norwood. Recommended for district deputy president was Marion Savell.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 16 at 6:30 p.m.

Let someone else carry them off for you, and put money in your pocket!

Wants a Man To Baby Her

DEAR ABBY: I am a 31-year-old divorcee with a 10-year-old son. I desperately want another child. I have noticed that in the last few years more single women are having and keeping their babies. I know I could manage another child myself. I have been the sole support of my son, who is a happy, well-adjusted child despite having no father in his life. I have saved enough money, so another child will not be a financial burden.

My problem is my family. I'm sure they wouldn't approve of the idea, and I hate to hurt them. But I am not getting any younger, and if I don't have another child within the next couple of years it will be too late.

Also, I do not have a special man in mind to father my child, but there are several who would do me the favor. I don't want to marry again, and I have made that plain.

I'm sure my family will think I got "caught" because the idea of having a baby outside marriage would be totally unacceptable to them. I hate to embarrass them.

I just know that I desperately want another child. Please advise me.

LONGING FOR MOTHERHOOD

DEAR LONGING: A woman sufficiently mature to handle single parenthood, as you insist you are, would not seek my advice or (b) need her parents' approval. If were you, I would scrap the idea.

DEAR ABBY: I am having a friendly argument with someone and hope you can settle it. I say that, according to law, a male doctor may not give a female patient a complete physical examination unless there is a female nurse in the room. My friend says I am mistaken.

Can you help us?

FRIENDLY ARGUMENT

DEAR FRIENDLY: Whether or not a male doctor has a nurse present while examining a female patient is up to the doctor, the patient, or both. If there is a state law setting a different standard, I would be surprised.

DEAR ABBY: This letter may be of interest to those who are constantly complaining about rising food costs.

I am a clerk in a chain grocery. Yesterday I spent three hours picking up items off shelves where they didn't belong, because somebody decided they didn't want them after all and just put them down any old place.

Now just who do you think is paying me for three hours labor to do this? You — the consumer, that's who!

All right, forget the wages. Let's talk about the TV dinner someone left in the cereal aisle. When found, it was partially thawed out and not fit for resale. Or the carton of milk that was left standing out of the cooler for half a day. Or the cellophane-wrapped pork chops someone had put on top of the spices. These items are spoiled and must be thrown out.

But who pays for them? YOU DO! I would guess that about one out of every 10 shoppers has been guilty of the above, at least occasionally.

So, the next time you go marketing, please put those unwanted items back where they belong, and help keep prices down. And it might not be a bad idea for grocery store managers to post this on the cash register. It may help.

FOR LOWER PRICES

DEAR FOR: It may NOT help. But it can't hurt.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (25 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Takes two to make a nagger

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Teens: Does your boyfriend or girlfriend nag? How about your parents? How about yourself?

Well, naggers are made, not born. And it takes two to turn someone into a nag — which is something to think about next time you're being nagged.

According to Oklahoma City psychotherapist Marion Mackey, a person who nags you about something does it not once or twice but probably a dozen times. And with each succeeding request, you tune out more and more, procrastinating with a reflexive "Okay, okay...." This not only makes the problem worse, but it can make getting along with a nagger very difficult.

If you feel nagged, there are ways to help break the pattern. First, study the situation, and see what you are doing to contribute to it. Are you, perhaps without realizing it, just not getting around to doing things? If so, resolve to improve.

By itself, unfortunately, improving probably won't help a great deal. Have a talk with the nagger when neither of you is feeling angry or defensive. Explain, calmly, that you feel nagged and that you're going to do what you can to change the situation.

The next time you're asked in a nagging way to do something, try to do it immediately. Then, call attention to the fact that you've done it before proceeding to other conversation. Keep in mind that the nagging pattern takes a long time to build up and will take time to change.

A British journal recently reported that nagging is a behavior pattern we don't like in others but often find ourselves practicing in later life. If you were nagged as a child, chances are good that, unless you take steps, you yourself will become what you've always despised... a nag.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 25-cent stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

You're not alone Kitchen klutzes, unite!

Are you a klutz in the kitchen? Then you are not alone, and you can come out of the closet...er, pantry. More than 7,000 persons in the United States and Canada are now card-carrying, registered members of Kitchen Klutzes of America.

In fact, the group has grown to such proportions since being organized in January, 1978 by Joy Gallagher of Flint, Mich., that she has resigned her position as food editor of The Flint Journal to devote full time to KKA.

The idea was sparked by a letter from a minister's wife, Jessie Vandenberg of Flushing, Mich., who complained that her guardian angel took a holiday every time Mrs. Vandenberg tried to bake.

Her Santa Claus cookies, she said, came out looking like the hunchback of Notre Dame, and her son's birthday cake, complete with a large crack down the middle, was finally christened "California Orange Earthquake Cake."

Joy promptly organized KKA, made herself president "in the absence of anyone else willing to take on such an awesome responsibility," and Jessie was made secretary.

Members now range from a 7-year-old who was devastated when her last soufflé fell, to a 94-year-old who says she is determined to "make one pan of decent gravy before I die." But, she says, her gravy doesn't go to waste — she just uses it for wallpaper paste.

Each year an award is made to the "Grand Klutz of the Year." Winner for 1978 was Jessie Moore of Montrose, Mich., who fried her husband some eggs in 2-year-old bear grease that she mistook for bacon grease.

Nominations are now open for 1979's queen (or king) of the klutzes, which will be announced in the January issue of KKA's newsletter, "The Kitchen Klutz Cribshoot." The newsletter, edited and published by Joy, is available by subscription for $12 per year to members only.

Membership, however, may be obtained free by sending a long, self-addressed, stamped en-

Members have quilting day

Members of the Sew and Chatter Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Lee Porter for an all day meeting.

Activities for the day included tacking and finishing a small nine-patch quilt which will be sold upon completion. The proceeds will go for benevolent work.

A covered dish luncheon was enjoyed by the three members present. The next meeting will be Oct. 24 in the home of Mrs. Marvin Sewell.

velope with 30 cents postage to KKA, P.O. Box 5250, Flint, Mich. 48505. A sample copy of the newsletter will be included with the membership card — and what a membership card.

It includes the group's motto: "Sorry I burned the tossed salad," and the official KKA prayer: "Grant me the serenity to accept the fact that I am a Kitchen Klutz; the courage to march into any potluck with my latest disaster borne proudly on a silver platter, and the wisdom to tell anyone who makes a snide remark to get stuff a green banana up his nose."

Since each Klutz is registered, the founder requests that the name and complete address of each candidate for membership be plainly printed.

"Klutzes usually can't write very well, either," Joy says. And with more than 30 years of testing and writing about food, is Joy really a Kitchen Klutz? "You're dern tootin' I am," she says firmly. "Just the other day I put 24 little eggplants in the oven and every one exploded because I forgot to prick the skins." Is the newsletter all for fun? Not at all, Joy says. A fair share of it is devoted to practical, down-to-earth advice to novice cooks who were themselves brought up on TV dinners and take-out chicken.

Professional group appears here

Janie White and Son Light, an exciting Christian singing group from Dallas, will present a concert at 7 p.m. Saturday at First Church of Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster.

The public is invited to hear this group who has ministered in many churches and concerts throughout Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana.

This group shares God's word with both young and old alike in songs such as "Rise Again," "Home," "Born Again," "How Great Thou Art," "Amazing Grace" and many of their own original songs written by members of the group.

Allowing the Holy Spirit to have complete control of their ministry has opened many doors for this group to witness and reach out to others. They have seen many people won to the Lord, homes put back together and have personally touched the lives of many through their ministry.

Their purpose is not to travel and sing for entertainment but to lift up and glorify the name of Jesus Christ in each of their lives. God has called each one into the ministry and they feel God's will is for them to reach out and share with others their love for Jesus and their new life with the Lord.

Albums of the group are entitled "Thanks to Calvary (Something Did Happen To Daddy)," "My Tribute To

JANIE WHITE AND SON LIGHT Singing at First Church of Nazarene

God Be The Glory," and "Rise Again." They are currently being heard over many Christian radio stations throughout the United States. Their songs have been on the Top 10 on several occasions on these Christian stations. The group is available for concerts, church services, banquets, revivals and youth programs.

The young adults and young people in the group share their testimonies with the youth of many churches, schools and organizations.

Janie shares her family's testimony about how God has changed and worked in their lives. She and her daughter, Rejana, sing a song about the new daddy they now have. Janie also tells through song, "Thanks To Calvary", how she also is a new mother when all her sins were forgiven and a new life began in Christ.

Janie White has been singing Christian music for several years and was voted Female Vocalist of the Year for S.G.M.A. Before becoming a Christian, Janie was a professional singer in many of the more popular dinner clubs. She soon found out that wasn't what she wanted from life, so she gave up singing until she found the real reason to sing, Jesus Christ.

Jim White, Janie's husband, is the group's manager and sound engineer. He takes care of driving the bus, works hard and backs the group with all his heart. He's an important ingredient of their ministry. Janie and Jim's daughter, Rejana, has been singing since she was one year old. She has been singing in churches since she was three. Rejana sings with the group and does some solo songs with a voice that's unbelievable for such a young age. Rejana sings on each album.

Their teenage son, Jimmie, is the group's percussionist. He has taken lessons and played for about one year. He is also in charge of loading the bus each time with the equipment.

Lisa Gray is a fine keyboard artist, playing the arp synthesizer and piano, and was a church pianist.

Gary McMullin, an accomplished keyboard artist, plays piano, electric piano, and he also accompanies the group on the alto and tenor sax and flute as well as vocally.

Glen Hutson is probably one of the most outstanding base players in the gospel music field today. Glen is also an accomplished guitarist and has been singing and playing for the Lord for five years.

'Country talker' coming to First Methodist

Sunday, the sister congregations of First Presbyterian, First Christian and St. Mary Episcopal will meet with First United Methodist Church in Garrett Hall for a covered dish supper at 6 p.m.

The evening speaker will be Chaplain Jerry Kelly, preceded by selected music groups from the participating churches.

On Oct. 14, church lay persons will conduct various aspects of the worship service. They will share God's word and Christian witness as they lead.

In connection with lay witnessing, First United Methodist Church will be privileged to have Delbert Downing to speak for the 8:30 a.m. and 10:50 a.m. worship services.

Downing of Snyder is one of the most versatile speakers in the southwest. Downing was born on a farm and his love and respect for the land and for rural living seeps into his messages in a warm and often amusing way. He is a product of a one room school, small rural elementary schools, a small high school and Rice University.

Downing has been a chain store manager, a chamber of commerce manager, and is now a member of a livestock feed manufacturing family.

He has always found time to contribute to the community in which he lives. He is a honorary Future Homemaker, a State Farmer and has received the Silver Beaver Award from the Boy Scouts of America. He is an honorary Lion and an active Rotarian. He is a past president of the Christian Men's Fellowship of the State of Texas. He teaches a Church School Class and serves as an elder.

Downing is sometimes called a humorist, sometimes a philosopher, and refers to himself as a country talker. His confidence in America, in his fellowman and in today's youth is stimulating.

Episcopalians planning training for Hispanics

(Special to The Herald) The Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest in Austin will be headquarters for a major program for training for ministry among Mexican-Americans, to be made possible through a $750,000 grant from The Brown Foundation, Inc. of Houston.

Receipt of the grant was announced recently during the 66th General Convention of the Episcopal Church by the Most Rev. John M. Allin, Presiding Bishop, and Paul N. Howell of Houston, National Chairman of the Church's Venture in Mission program.

The Brown Foundation has long been known for its generous support of charitable works, notably in the field of higher education and specialized ministries to deprived and handicapped people.

"This substantial and generous grant is further evidence of the commitment of the Episcopal Church to strengthen its minority ministries through the Venture in Mission program," Bishop Allin said.

The Very Rev. Gordon T. Charlton, Jr., Dean of the Seminary of the Southwest, said, "I am, of course, delighted that the Brown Foundation has agreed to support this imaginative and important program."

"I see it not only benefitting the Seminary of the Southwest, but as a sign of commitment to the Hispanic Ministry of the Episcopal Church and to the vital role of the accredited seminaries in the Church's mission."

The "Training for Ministry Among Mexican-Americans" program was proposed to the national Venture in Mission program by the Episcopal Church's Seventh Province, made up of 11 Episcopal dioceses in the Southwest.

The Right Rev. A. Donald Davies, President of the Seventh Province and Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Dallas, said, "We are giving high priority to our work in ministry with Mexican-Americans. We realize that we must act at once if we are to reach this rapidly growing community."

Although still in the planning stages, it is anticipated that the new program will provide linguistic, cultural and ministerial training, as well as personnel and resources for the development of congregations.

There are now 20 million Hispanic-Americans in the United States. It is estimated that within 10 years they will comprise the largest minority group in the nation.

The Rev. Harland Birdwell, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Big Spring, is diocesan chairman for the Venture in Mission program and serves on the board of trustees at The Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest.

LULAC won't break tradition

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ruben Bonilla, president of the League of United Latin American citizens, says he does not expect his organization to break tradition and endorse a presidential candidate in 1980.

But that does not prevent the group from trying to be more visible on the political scene.

One measure might be the guest list for the national board of directors' meeting today.

Vice President Walter Mondale and Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., were scheduled for appearances at the luncheon featuring Esteban Torres, President Carter's new assistant for Hispanic affairs, as the main speaker.

Other officials scheduled for meetings with the LULAC board during the day included Patricia Harris, secretary of the department of Health, Education and Welfare; Labor Secretary Ray Marshall; former Texas congressman Bob Krueger, nominated as ambassador-at-large for Mexico.

Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's top domestic policy adviser, kicked off a steady stream of official visitors during the group's 3-day meeting by insisting Thursday that the administration is effectively meeting the needs of the Hispanic community.

"In a wide variety of areas, this has been an administration committed and dedicated to help the disadvantaged," Eizenstat said.

He said a strong affirmative action program, including the consideration of Hispanic candidates for current vacancies.

"I hope you won't be disappointed by the outcome," Eizenstat said.

Tony Bonilla of Corpus Christi, Texas, told the White House adviser that LULAC's three prime targets for Hispanic appointments are secretary of the newly created Department of Education, commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and ambassador to Mexico.

Artist hopes her mural pleases BSSH patients

"If the patients receive one moment of peace, it has been well worth all the time spent on it," commented Jannie Linny of Stanton referring to the mural she recently completed on the wall of the South Psychiatric Unit at Big Spring State Hospital. Ms. Linny is a member of the Stanton Circuit Rider volunteer group serving BSSH patients and is an accomplished artist.

Born in the Fairview community, she has lived most of her life near Stanton. Her interest in art was evident at an early age. However, she was not able to study until later.

She has studied under many prominent teachers in the Permian Basin area and has given lessons during the past years. Her favorite medium is oils, but she also works with other mediums.

Her biggest pleasure is in the joy and peace others may receive from her work. She gives art programs and exhibits her realist-style paintings, sharing her talent with as many as possible.

Her paintings, mostly nature settings portray peace, have been exhibited in Texas and New Mexico and have won several awards. Currently, her work is on exhibit at the First National Bank in Stanton.

She will also have a show at the Heritage Museum, 510 Scurry, Friday and Saturday, October 20 and 21. Everything will be for sale.

She plans to continue her work at the hospital as her time permits.

Tight victory cause for Rep. Wright to celebrate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jim Wright likes to recall the one vote that won his election by secret ballot as House majority leader in 1976.

"The vote was 148 to 147," the Fort Worth Democrat said in an interview at his Capitol office. "There are about 27 of them who have come and said how happy they were that their vote made the difference."

But he is quick to add to his story developed through innumerable appearances on the political banquet circuit, "Of course, that's a joke."

Wright's increasing clout since that tight victory will be one of the causes for the celebration Saturday night in Fort Worth at an appreciation dinner to mark 25 years in Congress.

More than 5,000 tickets have been sold at a $25 ticket price determined by the theme.

"They had one for me after about 10 years; they had one after 15 years; and they had one after 20 years," Wright explained. "And how they're having this."

The guest list promises to make the gathering at the Tarrant County Convention Center one of the more stellar Texas attractions of recent years.

Three Cabinet members, White House aide Sarah Weddington, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and a good part of the Texas congressional delegation including Sen. Lloyd Bentsen have said they planned to attend.

President Carter is sending a message on film.

Wright, speaking softly and slowly, recalled that he never planned to spend a long enough time in the House to gain a top leadership position.

"I never supposed that I would have the patience," he said.

Wright was a member of the Texas Legislature when he was 23, because mayor of Weatherford at 26 and began his House tenure at the age of 33.

legislation by consulting about a dozen committee leaders.

The majority leader traditionally moves on to become the speaker of the House, but Wright said he would not feel deprived if for some reason he did not succeed O'Neill.

"I don't have any hard and fast plans," he said. That becoming speaker is the natural apex of one's ambition in the House."

Wright said he has no regrets about spending almost his entire adult life in public office.

"I wouldn't trade careers if I had the option. There is nothing else that can excite me or fulfill me as this has done," he said. "Of course, I'd do some things differently."

Wright said he finds no tension between the demands of a national leadership position and the requirements of his Tarrant County district.

Some measurements found his vote moved from the conservative side closer to the Democratic mainstream after his election as majority leader.

Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Texas, said Wright's upward movement in the House leadership removed fears that the state's position would be devastated by the departure of Rayburn and the late President Lyndon B. Johnson.

"We appreciate very much the caliber of leadership that Kim Wright has exhibited as majority leader," Hightower said.

White reopens feud with Roloff

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White has reopened the state's long-standing feud with evangelist Lester Roloff by suing once more to impose state child care standards on Roloff's children's homes.

He filed a state district court suit requesting an injunction against unlicensed operation of the Rebekah Home for Girls, Lighthouse for Boys and Anchor Home for Boys.

Roloff closed the homes this summer rather than obey a court order that he obtain licenses for them from the Texas Department of Human Resources.

The Rebekah Home recently reopened under the auspices of Roloff's People's Baptist Church in Corpus Christi. Thursday, Roloff announced a radio campaign to raise $5 million to $10 million to rebuild his Anchor Home for Boys in Corpus Christi.

The home was formerly operated in Zapata. He said he intends to begin construction on the new boys' home within 30 days on a 550-acre tract near the People's Baptist Church.

The church, along with eight parents of former Rebekah Home residents, two girls and four staff members, filed a federal court suit last week alleging regulation of the homes by the state would be unconstitutional.

The plaintiffs said the Department of Human Resources had deprived them of their constitutional rights of religious freedom and due process of law.

White said in a statement "legislative initiatives" are under way to change the 1975 state law placing child care homes — including those operated in the name of religion — under state regulation. The efforts, he said, are pointed toward developing a more appropriate certification plan for such homes as Roloff's.

"I said he believes the courts are the appropriate forum" to resolve the constitutional issues raised in a continuing series of court battles between Roloff and the state.

The Texas Supreme Court and the U.S. Supreme Court already have ruled state regulation of the homes does not violate the constitutional right to the free exercise of religion.

The attorney general's suit seeks a new injunction prohibiting Roloff, his Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises and the People's Church from operating child care institutions without a state license.

The House was then under the rule of the late Sam Rayburn of Texas.

"He was a splendid man who was kindly," Wright said. "He had a reverence for the spoken word; he had no tolerance at all for someone who would break his word."

Wright said the House structure has changed considerably since the days when Rayburn could steer legislation by consulting about a dozen committee leaders.

The majority leader traditionally moves on to become the speaker of the House, but Wright said he would not feel deprived if for some reason he did not succeed O'Neill.

"I don't have any hard and fast plans," he said. That becoming speaker is the natural apex of one's ambition in the House."

Wright said he has no regrets about spending almost his entire adult life in public office.

"I wouldn't trade careers if I had the option. There is nothing else that can excite me or fulfill me as this has done," he said. "Of course, I'd do some things differently."

"We appreciate very much the caliber of leadership that Kim Wright has exhibited as majority leader," Hightower said.

Protesters remain hot

Cuban Mission 'frozen'

NEW YORK (AP) — Police call it the "Frozen Zone," a four-square-block security ring around the Cuban mission that chilled business and cooled neighbors. Nearby, the demonstrators protesting Fidel Castro's visit remained definitely hot.

Since the Cuban President arrived at the midtown Manhattan mission early Thursday, every woman's purse is searched, 3-inch streets to control traffic and machine gun-toting Secret Service agents scan rooftops, windows and doorways for any suspicious movement.

Security agents on the roof of a brownstone building next to the mission flash a large yellow sign at a hotel across the street. "Close the window!" it admonishes.

Residents are searched before they enter their apartment buildings. Police, who have said there are "genuine threats" against Castro's life, even escort the mailman on his rounds in the neighborhood.

"I have to get my clothes cleaned," said Olsen Entenfer, looking at 17 uniformed police officers, four Secret Service agents, a Cuban bodyguard and six wooden barricades standing between him and the Radiant Three Hour Cleaners.

"How am I going to kill Castro with dirty shirts," he said as a Secret Service man thrust his hand into the laundry bag. Satisfied after the search, an agent escorted Entenfer to the cleaners.

Throughout the day, the tight security web was tested when tempers flared among a band of about 30 anti-Castro demonstrators.

There were constant taunts of "First the pope, now the devil" and "Fidel, go to hell." Castro was secluded in the mission, reportedly reading newspapers and meeting with envoys.

Police subdued a second man late Thursday night gun. He was taken into custody.

Talmadge campaigning despite denouncement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within moments of being over-whelmingly denounced by his Senate colleagues for "reprehensible" financial conduct, Merman E. Talmadge started beating the drums for his reelection.

"I intend to serve as the senior senator from the grand state of Georgia for a number of years to come," Talmadge said Thursday, shortly after the Senate vote to denounce him.

Talmadge, serving his fourth term, is the first member of the Senate to be disciplined by his colleagues in more than 10 years.

Senate Majority Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., said as far as he is concerned, The 81-15 vote to denounce Talmadge ends the case.

"I think we should put this matter behind us," Byrd said. "The senator has accepted the Senate's decision."

As chairman of the would play a critical role in any possible further disciplinary action against Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Although such action is considered unlikely, Senate Democrats could vote to strip Talmadge of his 23 years of seniority and remove him as head of the Agriculture Committee.

In denouncing Talmadge, the Senate accepted the unanimous recommendation of the Senate Ethics Committee, which had rejected the more traditional penalty of censure.

Only two of the seven senators who have been censured in senate history have been reelected.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, one of the 15 senators who voted against the resolution of denunciation, urged the Senate to "consider more fully the career of the senator from Georgia before we take action that could bring it to an end."

However, Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., a close friend of Talmadge, said, "The people who know Herman know he is no crook. They know he is ethical."

Talmadge himself declared the senate's vote a "personal victory" and said he had been vindicated of allegations of intentional wrongdoing.
