Eddie Adams. A longtime champion among the poor in India, she was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize today.

Roman Catholic nun wins peace prize

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Mother Teresa, Calcutta's "saint of the gutters," was awarded the 1979 Nobel Peace Prize today for her work among the poor of India.

The Yugoslavia-born Roman Catholic nun is the sixth woman to win the prize and the first since Mairead Corrigan and Betty Williams of Northern Ireland won in 1976. President Carter had been among the 56 individuals and organizations nominated for this year's prize. Other nominees had reportedly included South African black leader Steven Biko, who died while in prison; Soviet dissenter Yuri Orlov; Archbishop Oscar Romero of El Salvador and Adolfo Perez Esquivel of Argentina, head of a Latin American Christian services group.

The five-member Norwegian Nobel Committee said Mother Teresa was given the prize "in recognition of her work in bringing help to suffering humanity."

The prize this year is worth $190,000.

In 1947, Mother Teresa moved into Calcutta's slums "to serve God among the poorest of the poor." The order she founded, the Missionaries of Charity, is best known for its "home for the destitute dying" which opened in Calcutta in 1952.

Mother Teresa, 69, was made an officer in the Order of the British Empire in a ceremony last year at the Australian High Commission in New Delhi for her "services to humanity."

Mother Teresa is the first citizen of India to win the peace prize since it was instituted in 1901.

She was born August 27, 1910 in Skopje, Yugoslavia, one of three children of an Albanian shopkeeper, and her original name was Agnes Gonxha Bojaxhiu.

In making the award, the committee said it had "expressed its recognition of Mother Teresa's work in bringing help to suffering humanity."

"This year the world has turned its attention to the plight of children and refugees, and these are precisely (the) categories for whom Mother Teresa has for many years worked so selflessly," the committee said.

Hundreds of beggars, lepers, the blind, the crippled, the dying, the unwanted gather daily outside of her mission for a free meal offered by Mother Teresa, who has been described as Calcutta's resident miracle worker. For decades she has given the poor of Calcutta's slums medical care, schooling, a bowl of gruel, a slice of bread, or just a clean place to die.

"The poor give us so much more than we give them," Mother Teresa said in an interview in 1977. "They're such strong people, living day to day with no food and they never curse, never complain. We don't have to give them pity or sympathy. We have so much to learn from them."

Her mission to serve the poorest of the poor has now spread across India and into some 14 other countries. But she refuses to speak of herself, saying only "it's His (God's) work, not mine."

One of her first major projects was the creation in 1947 of the home for the dying destitutes, located in South Calcutta.

Each day Mother Teresa's young sisters come to the home to try to turn desperation into cheer for the hundreds of dying poor who dot the streets of the city of a million people.

"I see God in every human being," Mother Teresa once said. "When I wash that leper's wounds I feel I am nursing the Lord himself. Is it not a beautiful experience?"

"God is our banker, he always provides," says Mother Teresa.

Gold speculators to be in dark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said today that the government's economic policies are aimed at maintaining "a sound and stable dollar," which is essential for controlling inflation.

A strong dollar, he said, "is in the interests of our own domestic economic stability, and consonant with our broader world interests and responsibilities."

The Treasury Department took another step in support of the dollar Tuesday when it announced it will keep gold speculators guessing on future public auctions of the nation's gold reserves.

It said it no longer will hold the auctions on a regularly scheduled basis, and that the amount of gold it will sell may vary from auction to auction.

Miller told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that the same policies that are important in fighting inflation, such as high interest rates, also are important in supporting the dollar on world money markets.

Local resident hit with eight counts of transporting aliens

Big Springer Thomas Kirkpatrick has been arrested in connection with what border patrol agents call "one of the largest single apprehensions of illegal aliens."

An Oct. 22 preliminary hearing has been scheduled for the local man, who is charged with eight federal felony counts of transporting illegal aliens.

Kirkpatrick, who is free on $5,000 bond, was arrested Saturday at the Sierra Blanca patrol check point about 80 miles east of El Paso.

Agents said they discovered 79 undocumented workers huddled in his canvass-covered grain hauler.

Agent Jerry Agan said authorities found five juvenile girls, 10 adult women, 13 juvenile males and 51 men concealed in the rig.

He said according to statements given to the Border Patrol, the aliens were recruited in their hometowns in the interior of Mexico and promised passage to Chicago and Oklahoma City for a fee of up to $500 per adult.

Kirkpatrick appeared Monday before U.S. Magistrate Harry Lee Hudspeth, who set bond.

If convicted, Kirkpatrick could be sentenced to a maximum of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine on each count.

Connally 'disinvited' to Manhattan luncheon

NEW YORK (AP) — Manhattan Republicans have "disinvited" GOP presidential hopeful John Connally from speaking at their annual dinner because of differences with his ideas on Mideast policy.

"We regret that we find it necessary to withdraw our invitation previously extended to you to speak at our annual dinner to be held on Feb. 9," New York County Republicans wrote to Connally's campaign headquarters in Arlington, Va., on Monday.

"We are not in accord with your views on the settlement of the Mideast problem," said county GOP chairman Vincent Albano.

Albano denounced Connally's nine-point Mideast policy plan as "ridiculous." The plan was revealed Thursday in Washington.

The proposal said Israel would relinquish all land won in the 1967 "Six-Day War" in return for "iron-clad" assurances for its safety. Connally also became the first presidential candidate of either major party to urge creation of a Palestinian state.

Albano originally invited Connally, along with other top GOP presidential hopefuls, to speak at the showcase dinner, which is regularly attended by more than 1,000 of the party faithful.

"My constituency is certainly not for the Connally position," an angry Albano said Tuesday.

However, Connally is still scheduled to be the main speaker at a far more significant New York dinner, a $1,000-a-plate Republican National Committee affair on Nov. 6.

San Salvador police, troops crack down on protestors

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Troops and police cracked down on demonstrators protesting El Salvador's new military government despite the colonels' promise to free political prisoners, redistribute the wealth and give Central America's smallest and most densely populated country moderate democracy.

Demonstrators threw up barricades, seized suburban government buildings and police stations, daubed slogans on university walls and rallied in parks and town squares.

An unconfirmed report said four persons were killed when troops routed a crowd in a San Salvador suburb with machine-gun fire. Police fired into the air to break up a demonstration in downtown San Salvador, but no casualties were reported.

Troops also evicted strikers from four factories in a San Salvador industrial park, ending a two-month-old sit-in for wage increases. The strikers set three of the factories afire, but the fires were put out, and the troops forced the strikers to hand over hostages they were holding.

Cols. Adolfo Arnoldo Majano and Jaime Abdul Gutierrez, the leaders of the military coup that ousted President Carlos Humberto Romero on Monday, suspended constitutional guarantees for 30 days and imposed a 10 p.m.-to-5 a.m. curfew and martial law. Their decree banned public gatherings of more than three persons and spoken or written criticism of the new government.

Armed soldiers were stationed at the capital's major intersections and government buildings. Patrols of soldiers armed with .50 caliber machine guns traveled through the streets. Radio stations played martial music between the junta's announcements.

The colonels also began to clean out the remnants of the old regime. They dissolved the legislature, which was dominated by Romero and his military and civilian allies, said they fired all generals in the government.

They promised to end corruption and redistribute the nation's wealth, announced a general amnesty for all political prisoners, estimated at more than 550, guaranteed freedom of action for political parties and said they would seek an end to differences with neighboring Honduras, a decade-old problem.

"The government is moderate left and seeks a return to democratic order," Majano told reporters. He said he and Gutierrez met with leading political foes of the previous military regime and an engineer, Ramon Mayorga Quiroz, had agreed to join the junta.

Two more civilians were being sought to complete the junta.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: It's poisonous

Q. I've often heard liquor referred to as 'anti-freeze.' In truth, isn't anti-freeze poisonous?

A. You better believe it. A single teaspoon will kill an average size cat. Five tablespoons will kill a 30-pound dog. The bad part is that animals seem to be attracted by the aroma of coolant puddles and spills.

Teen given maximum

NEW YORK (AP) — A teenager was given the maximum sentence of 15 years in prison for leading an assault last summer on Central Park strollers, including former Olympic ice skater Dick Button. Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Thomas B. Galligan said Tuesday Kenneth Straw, 19, must serve five years before becoming eligible for parole. Two accomplices were sentenced to nine years and must serve a minimum of three years. Assistant District Attorney Stephen Dreyfuss said Straw had an "astounding criminal record" of 19 arrests dating to 1970 when Straw was 9.

Cancer-causing agent found

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Curene 442, used in making polyurethane plastics and known to cause bladder cancer in animals, was found in the bodies of workers at Michigan plastics factories, but no serious health problems have developed so far, a preliminary study shows. Traces of the white powder showed up in the urine of about 60 workers at 15 Michigan plastic factories where the chemical was used, Dr. Daniel Williams, a state Health Department consultant, said Tuesday. "As far as we know, there aren't any acute health effects. But we won't know for sure for years," he said.

Shell Oil ends merger

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shell Oil Co. has agreed to acquire Belridge Oil Co. for $3.6 billion, a deal, which if completed would be the largest corporate merger ever. Two other oil companies say they may challenge the sale, Belridge said Tuesday. Belridge is estimated to have 376 million barrels of oil reserves, mostly in California. Much of that is "heavy oil," which is exempt from federal price controls. Mobil and Texaco now own about 35 percent of Belridge and had fought the Belridge decision to put itself up for auction. They were outbid in the auction.

Conversable TV set demonstrated at meet

A telephone you don't have to dial, a satellite communications system and a conversable television set are three innovations Bill Haehnel, Southwestern Bell science demonstrator, uses in his new program. He explains how Custom Calling Features, now available to many Southwestern Bell customers, is made possible by an Electronic Switching System (ESS).

"ESS, the most advanced method of transferring calls from one location to another, saves the Bell System about a billion dollars in reduced maintenance expenses each year and is capable of handling a tremendous volume of calls at blinding speed," said Haehnel. Southwestern Bell plans to offer exciting new services and products designed to make the home and office even more efficient, Haehnel said. "We are dedicated to answering tomorrow's communications questions today."

Haehnel begins and ends the demonstration by talking with Sparky, a glass-eyed television set. The program offers people a historical perspective and appreciation of how basic scientific research and development have improved and expanded the standard of living in America, Haehnel said. Using a variety of props and demonstrations, Haehnel offers a glimpse of the communications marvels of the future.

For example, a typical home communications service projected for the near future is a telephone that, through verbal instructions, operates a household appliance or rings a neighbor's phone. The program includes a miniature satellite communications system like the one used by the Bell System in processing 44 million long distance calls a day. Haehnel illustrates how the Bell Telephone Laboratories' invention of the transistor in 1947 revolutionized American life

Howard County employee gains CTA certificate

Dorothy W. Moore, Howard County Tax Appraisal Office employee, received her certified tax appraiser certificate Saturday. The certificate registers her as a professional tax appraiser. State Law requires seven courses in appraisal before the candidate for certification may be certified. It also required that an appraisal be done using the three approaches to valuing property: cost, market and income. The three approaches must be used for a piece of commercial and residential property. After the appraisal is completed the candidate must take a written examination and may be required to take an oral exam. The candidate must also have five years of experience and be 25 years of age. The CTA is equivalent to a CPA in accounting. Only 488

The federal panel is investigating the May 29 sniper assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., known as "Maximum John" for his stiff sentences in drug cases.

It is also investigating the attempted assassination last Nov. 21 of Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr, who had been spearheading a federal investigation into an international drug smuggling ring centered in El Paso.

A total of 36 witnesses have been subpoenaed. Among the Bandidos subpoenaed is Richard Paul Ricks of San Antonio, who took part in a police lineup viewed by Kerr last March. Federal officials have refused to reveal the results of that lineup.

Other Bandido leaders in the group of witnesses are two officers in the Austin chapter, the president of the Corpus Christi chapter and two Houston club officials.

Federal prosecutors have also subpoenaed club records.

Salvatore Michael Caruana of Boston, whom an FBI agent has testified answers directly to the head of the New England organized crime syndicate, is also scheduled to appear.

He was a friend of Lee Chagra, slain El Paso defense attorney. Chagra's brother is fugitive drug smuggler Jimmy Chagra.

A friend of Jimmy Chagra, Peter Lynn Krutshewski of Lansing, Mich., was subpoenaed, but was jailed Monday morning on charges of conspiracy to violate federal drug laws. Krutshewski, who uses the name "Peter Blake," was indicted by a federal grand jury in Boston.

It was not known Tuesday whether federal officials could make arrangements in time for Krutshewski to come to San Antonio and testify Thursday.

Jimmy Chagra testified in his drug trial this summer that Blake was a "very good friend." Chagra had also told federal officials that Peter Blake owned the plane another man testified was used to go to Mexico and set up a marijuana smuggling operation.

Weather Cool front inching south from Panhandle

A cool front inching southward from the Panhandle crept into Wichita Falls early today, bringing northerly winds 10 to 20 miles per hour.

South of the front, winds were southeasterly 5 to 10 miles per hour. The front brought some thick patches of fog to the Lone Star State, but did not trigger rain.

Patchy low clouds developed after midnight over South and Central portions of Texas and dense fog lowered visibilities to less than one mile in some sections of East Texas and the Coastal Plains.

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy through Thursday. Widely scattered showers and isolated thunderstorms north tonight. Cooler today. Warmer north Thursday. Highs today near 70 Panhandle to mid 90s Big Bend. Low tonight low 40s mountains to mid 40s Panhandle to low 60s south. Highs Thursday mid 70s Panhandle to mid 90s south.

EXTENDED FORECAST — WEST TEXAS — A chance of rain eastern portions Friday. Otherwise partly cloudy Friday through Sunday with gradually warmer afternoons.

Sun sets today at 7:13 p.m. Sun rises 10:17 at 7:51 a.m. Highest temperature this date 94 in 1917. Lowest temperature 36 in 1917. Most precipitation 1.31 in 1915.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are expected in the forecast period, today until Thursday morning, from west Texas to Minnesota, for the Pacific Northwest and the Ohio Valley.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The little girl, in her pink dress with a matching ribbon in her hair, said, "I have read stories about it, but this is the first time I have seen a real-live princess. She is pretty."

The real-life princess was Margaret, younger sister of England's Queen Elizabeth II, who was on a tour of the Johnson Space Center.

Her audience was about 50 pupils from a suburban elementary school.

Tami Love, another of the youngsters sitting on the grass watching, said, "Just say this is terrific, this is great, this is fantastic."

And one young boy said, "Is that the queen?"

A classmate answered, "That's the princess silly. Can't you tell a queen from a princess?"

Princess Margaret also met with officials of the space center and with astronauts as she asked numerous questions about the United States space program.

Her Highness is on a tour of the nation in an effort to raise $4.5 million for improvements of London's Royal Opera House, where the royal ballet also performs.

The opera house at Covent Garden is in need of at least $16.4 million worth of major repairs. Some $12 million has been contributed to restore the historic site.

Dr. Chris Kraft, director of the space center, gave the princess a tour and went into details on the solar power satellites, which, he said, may some day provide the world with 50 percent of its energy needs.

She arrived in Houston Monday afternoon from Chicago and will leave today for visits to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Cleveland.

Antioch College growing tired; will close schools

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Antioch College apparently is "tired of fighting for its branches in Texas" and will shut them down, according to a copyright story in the Corpus Christi Caller-Times.

"I got the word on Monday," said Ellis Harbin, Texas coordinator of the Antioch branches in Austin, San Antonio and Mission.

Texas Education Commissioner Alton Bowen on Oct. 1 declared the state would no longer recognize degrees awarded by Antioch branches, pending an investigation.

Texas Attorney General Mark White rescinded that order, saying there was no legal basis for Bowen's action.

On the strength of White's decision, Antioch officials resumed enrollments for the fall semester, extending their registration deadline to Oct. 12.

But Harbin said he thinks the controversy eventually led to the shutdown.

"We're all upset," Harbin told the newspaper. "When they called me and told me about it they didn't really give me a reason. But I'll guess it's because we've been in Texas 10 years now and since day one the State of Texas has opposed us being here."

"All our instructor said was Antioch was tired of fighting for its branches in Texas," said a student who asked not to be identified. The Texas branches offered liberal arts degrees and master's degrees in education, and were designed to meet higher education needs of Mexican-Americans in the state, Harbin said.

"We're not going to accept this situation," said Juan Aguilera, assistant to League of United Latin American Citizens President Ruben Bonilla. "People should start recognizing our degrees are worth something. Now it's a legal battle."

Harbin said the college would make refunds to students enrolled for the fall semester, but did not know what would happen to students who had completed parts of their degree plans.

Antioch College is based in Yellow Springs, Ohio, but operates branches throughout the United States. The Texas branches were administered by Antioch College West in San Francisco.

Lawyers ask for wrongful death suit

OCEANSIDE, Calif. (AP) — The attorney for a Lufkin, Texas, woman says he will ask the U.S. Supreme Court to let her file a $21 million wrongful death suit against the government on behalf of her son, Marine Pvt. Lynn McClure.

McClure, 20, also of Lufkin, was knocked unconscious while being forced to fight other Marines armed with pugil sticks — padded staves — in late 1975. He died three months later, in early 1976, without gaining consciousness.

Attorney J. Warren Beal said earlier this week he will file a writ of review, after being turned down by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco.

A federal judge in San Diego ruled earlier that the government is immune from damage suits on behalf of active-duty members of the armed forces.

In that ruling, U.S. District Judge William B. Enright said Congress provided immunity with the so-called Feres Doctrine in 1950. Beal, who represents Betty Calhoun of Lufkin, said her son was never validly a Marine because he was a former mental patient with a police record and unable to pass the entrance examination without help.

Meany no longer calling shots

Those who are expecting the AFL-CIO to strike out in new directions now that George Meany is stepping down likely will be disappointed.

A solid favorite to succeed Meany is 57-year-old Lane Kirkland, who learned his lessons at Meany's knee, so to speak. Kirkland is the AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer. Operating in that capacity, he has been Meany's confidante and right-hand man.

There are distinct differences in the styles of the two men. Kirkland doesn't overwhelm an audience as does Meany. Where Meany is brusque, Kirkland comes across low key. Kirkland, however, is very comfortable in the labor union's ideological framework framed by Meany over a period of 25 years.

THE AFL-CIO will in all probability continue its efforts to secure a better deal for the rank-and-file workers while at the same time foregoing radical solutions to social and economic problems.

The one major change that is likely to come about in the near future is a certain weakening of the AFL-CIO's internal policy. Whoever succeeds Meany is not likely to wield the same degree of control over the organization — particularly not with such militant union leaders as William Winpisinger of the International Association of Machinists and Jerry Wurf of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees clamoring for attention.

THIS MAY NOT be helpful, depending on how you view the labor movement — but, without Meany, it's going to be an AFL-CIO with some differences.

No matter what direction the labor union takes, it's going to be hard to get used to the idea that Meany is no longer calling the shots. Meany is now 85 years of age and, in his time, has been advisor to presidents and labor negotiators — whether they sought out his expertise or not.

Meany has invariably been described as 'crusty' and 'gruff.' Be that as it may, he's become a figure larger than life — a hero to hundreds of thousands of American working people; an occasional stubborn antagonist to big business. During his tenure, the AFL-CIO staked out its ideological identity, espousing liberal domestic programs while propounding a hard-line anti-Communist foreign policy. Meany presided over the curious evolutionary process whereby American labor became intensely supportive of the capitalistic system without being swallowed up by it.

MEANY HAS BEEN PAID well and has lived well because of his efforts but then so have a lot of other people who picked him as their leader.

Oil's GOP defection

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The politically significant aspect of Senate Finance Committee maneuvering on the "windfall" oil profits tax is not unsurprising gains by the oil industry but unexpected anti-oil votes by Republicans, setting off shock waves from corporate boardrooms to political backrooms.

The modest good news for the oilmen is that the Senate committee's tax bite is less severe than the House-passed version. The painful bad news is that this is no thanks to the committee's eight Republicans. On key issues lost by oil, the Republicans split 6-to-2 against the industry.

That 6-to-2 GOP margin meant the committee said "yes" to higher taxation on "old" oil (pre-1973 embargo) than was passed by the House; "no" to an exemption for all "stripper" (small) wells; "no" to an exemption for all independent drillers. These votes mean that unless unexpectedly changed on the Senate floor, the Senate bill is sufficiently similar to the House bill to block any compromise version that would not risk killing the point of oil decontrol: an incentive for new exploration and production.

BESIDES AN AGONIZING reappraisal of whether their Washington lobbyists are earning the big money paid them, oilmen also are pondering the value of firm ties to the Republican party. The Republican senators, supposedly devoted by party policy to the supply-side economics of rising production, have split into consumer-state and producer-state camps regardless of party label or economic ideology.

The golden cord linking oil and the GOP has been stretched thin. Republican National Chairman William Brock and Senate leader Howard Baker have expressed concern to the finance committee members. Oil state Republican senators are chagrined, with the issue reaching the weekly closed-door meeting of the Senate Republican Policy Committee. Republican fund-raisers and petroleum contributors are reassessing 1980 election finance plans.

The seeds were planted back in January when vacant GOP seats on the finance committee were filled. Three staunch allies of the oil industry were gone — Nebraska's Carl Curtis and Wyoming's Clifford Hansen, both retired; Nevada's Paul Laxalt transferred to more pleasant duties on the appropriations committee.

Replacing them was Malcolm Wallop, a Wyoming conservative, but also two liberal Republicans: Pennsylvania's John Heinz and Minnesota's David Durenberger. Although that meant for the first time in memory a majority of finance committee Republicans were from consuming states, there seemed no reason for industry concern about President Carter's windfall profits tax.

A POLITICALLY UNPOPULAR president boosting a high-tax redistribution of wealth seemed abhorrent to Republicans formally committed to business incentives through tax reduction. One of those consumer-state Republicans, Sen. William Roth of Delaware, is co-author of the Kemp-Roth tax reduction bill and the Senate's leading proponent of supply-side economics. Finally, the stolid Curtis had been succeeded as the committee's senior Republican by a forceful oil ally: Robert Dole of Kansas.

But in fact, only Dole and Wallop heeded pleas by wildcatters to encourage exploration by exempting them from the tax placed on big oil.

How fatty foods affect gall bladder

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Recently I was a patient in a hospital and was diagnosed as having "biliary dyskinesia."

My doctor was vague in explaining what I had. Hopefully, you will in the near future explain in a little detail what it is and what could be done. I was given lots of tests and X-rays. — K.H.K.

Anatomy time: subject, gall bladder. When fat-containing foods enter the duodenum (part of the intestines into which the stomach empties) the gall bladder is stimulated to squeeze its stored bile into the intestine (via a duct) so that the fat can be properly digested.

"Biliary" mean "bile." "Dyskinesia" means there is something wrong with the way the gall bladder (in this case) contracts. The bile is not pushed out in a smooth flow, but in spasms. In fact, biliary dyskinesia can be looked on as a counterpart to spastic colon. Only the spasm is in the gall bladder, not the colon.

This condition doesn't show up on X-rays. The chief symptom is pain after eating. Treatment generally consists in avoiding the foods (fried and fatty kinds) that stimulate the gall bladder more than others. Having told you all this, I'd be remiss if I didn't add that many doctors doubt the existence of biliary dyskinesia as a distinct medical problem.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been injecting insulin daily for about 15 months and my problem is sunken areas where I use the needle. I was advised that this tissue is now dead and not to inject in those areas. However, I recently read where one should inject insulin into the sunken areas to revive them. Needless to say, I am heartsick about this condition and would be grateful for your advice. — Mrs. E.M.

This is a rare and unfortunate consequence of insulin injection. The sunken areas result from a loss of fatty tissue below the skin where the insulin is injected. It is called "lipodystrophy." You should inject at other sites until the areas have a chance to heal. This may take up to 12 months. Aside from the unsightliness the problem is not serious.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you please tell me what a Baker's cyst is? My son-in-law has one on the inside of his knee. Doctors have tapped it twice but it fills up with fluid again. Is there anything to do about it? Can it be cured? — A.P.

A Baker's cyst (named for a doctor) is, simply speaking, a form of bursitis — inflammation of a bursa. Bursae (plural) are fluid-filled sacs that lie below muscle tendons where the tendons insert into the bone. The sacs help reduce friction and act as shock absorbers.

Baker's cyst is inflammation of the sac that lies under the tendon of the calf muscle, directly under the knee. This may cause an aching pain in the back of the knee.

If draining has not been effective, and if your son-in-law's pain continues, surgery may be needed to remove the cyst, wall and all. This is an effective cure.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I read your items in the paper and find them most clear and helpful. Now, how about helping us old codgers out with a problem that may not be what you'd call "medical." When we get up there in age we tend to forget, and that goes for our medicines, too. I don't mean forgetting the medicine but getting confused about taking three or four pills three or four times a day at different times of day and night. Millions of us older pill-takers would call you blessed if you could give us some way to remember. — Mrs. J.F.

I have the answer for you. There are little plastic holders with seven compartments in them. Each compartment is marked for a day of the

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My marriage is not very happy and I am tempted to have an affair. Why shouldn't I, if it will bring me happiness? — Mrs. W.K.

DEAR MRS. W.K.: There are many people today who would agree with you, but I sincerely hope you will not give in to this temptation. There are several reasons I say this.

For one thing, when you were married you took a vow — not just before other people, but before God — that you would be faithful to your husband until death. I must warn you as seriously as I know that it is a very wrong thing to break that vow, and it will inevitably bring serious consequences to you. Why is that? The reason is that God takes the marriage vow very seriously. In Old Testament times the penalty for adultery was death. One of the Ten Commandments declares, "Thou shalt not commit adultery" (Exodus 20:14). The New Testament warns us, "Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers... shall inherit the kingdom of God" (1 Corinthians 6:9-10). Even if God means little to you now, you should think twice before you knowingly disobey His clear commandment.

Also, I believe you are deceived if you think this would bring you true happiness. There would always be the fear of being discovered. Also, because there is no real commitment involved in this kind of affair, there is always the uncertainty and heartache of knowing it probably will not last and you will end up even more unhappy.

I urge you to turn to God, for that is your greatest need. God loves you — far more than any temporary lover will — and He wants you to be His child. He sent His Son, Jesus Christ, into the world to make it possible for you to be forgiven and to know the joy of His presence. Then you can work (with God's help) to repair the problems in your marriage. That is the path of true, lasting happiness — both now and eternally.

The historic Big Spring was a landmark for Howard County settlers. Inadvertently, those who called it home buried their dead there.

Forty years ago, a 15-year-old Boy Scout named Jesse Hernandez was walking back from a scout Jamboree with a friend when he came across the grave of a girl whose family was early settlers. Hernandez said the stone was dated in the late 1800's.

The family was named Hulborn. Heritage Museum curator Geri Atwell said the family owned a dugout store there around 1881 before the railroad came through. The girl had drowned in the spring.

JUSTICE OF THE Peace Bob West and I tried to find the gravestone Monday but all we got was tired feet.

We did find a draw on the Boy Scout property that contained a miniature canyon cut into the limestone 10 feet deep. The canyon's walls were carved with dozens of names. One was dated 1895 and signed with the name "Joe C."

In the area due south of the spring, now inundated with scrub cedar and mesquite, the family put the girl to rest. Hernandez said the antique wood fence that lay in pieces at the grave site was fastened with rough square nails.

THE GRAVESTONE was still standing when Hernandez found it. It looked to him like the grave was not enclosed in the fence. This led him to believe there were other gravestones guarded by the fence. He remembered thinking that the fence contained other gravestones.

He and a friend hauled off the stone and gave it to a schoolteacher, Mrs. Bumpass. The stone was around a foot square and roughly tumbled. Cut into the face of it were the words "Here lies our little girl," or something like that, said Hernandez. It was two inches thick.

MRS. BUMPASS operated a museum on the courthouse square across the street from the Crawford Hotel. The gravestone was displayed there. When the courthouse was torn down the items in the museum were stored in the building at the city park where equipment is now stored. Big Spring residents came and picked up the things they had donated and someone evidently removed the tombstone because no one knows where it is now.

Mrs. Atwell, affirmed that there were graves near the spring. "My mother remembered seeing the graves. I remember seeing them, too."

She said that another child that had been buried there had been the child of one of the families that had come through the area on a wagon train. The child had died during the journey and been buried by the trail before the train pushed on. This may have been one of the other graves Hernandez saw.

Jesse Hernandez, who found the stone originally, is now youth activity coordinator for the Big Spring State Hospital.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

"Who can count the ideas in a library? This is a poster which is mounted in the Anthony Hunt Library on Howard College campus.

We are very proud of the Hunt facilities, the large reference section, the number of book volumes, magazines, area newspapers, microfilm readers, audio-visual aids, copier, and the most recent titles in paperback and hardback books.

And we appreciate the good coverage which the BIG SPRING HERALD gives Howard College. Some of the articles have been printed about the various activities on campus. Two of these articles have been concerned with the Hunt Library. For this we are grateful.

But there is still a frustration. We have numerous popular titles that we know our area residents are wanting to read, but we can't get the word out. Countless times since the fall semester began, I have submitted to the HERALD articles containing book reviews, but only one review has made the paper. I have written long reviews, medium-sized reviews and short reviews — and about books that are mentioned to me by citizens of Howard County.

I have learned of many people who made concentrated searches for books, and when I would tell them that we had had these books on our shelves for several months, they were surprised. They had not inquired at Hunt because they simply did not realize that this is a COMMUNITY library, and they were eligible to use it. One book in particular that has been mentioned over and over is THE WIND by Dorothy Scarborough. It has been on our shelves for almost a year, and yet the scramble to secure it goes on with the residents of our town. Like I said, we haven't been successful in getting the word out on the holdings of Anthony Hunt Library.

A lot of people like book reviews — and articles of a literary nature — so much so that they are a regular feature in numbers of newspapers. And though we are appreciative of the HERALD's publicity, the literary area is one which we feel has been neglected.

"Who can count the ideas in a library?" Civilization depends for survival on the thinking citizenry, the man of knowledge and ideas, the creative persons, the informed. Who can count the steps between the indifference to books and libraries, book suppression and book burning?

Sincerely,
Mary Crawford
Librarian, THE ANTHONY HUNT LIBRARY

Dear Editor:

Now that the date is nearing and most of the Big Spring area is familiar with the SWAC (Southwest Auxiliary Championship), I would like to thank all the merchants and citizens who made this contest possible. I was delighted with the response. Thank you.

I also would like to thank the area chamber of commerce and the Development Tourist Committee for funding our statewide advertising.

SWAC's preliminaries will be held Oct. 27 on the Howard College campus with the finals conducted in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at 7 p.m.

SWAC is sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Howard College and the Big Spring bands.

The competitions will include Color Guard Units, Drill Teams, Drum Lines, Twirling Lines, Drum Majors, Rifle Solo and Ensembles, Flag Solo and Ensembles.

This is the first of this type for the southwest and we are indeed proud the event is in Big Spring.

SWAC is open to all high school units in the southwest. Our trophies are most unique and will be on exhibit at different banks every day of this week.

This is going to be the most unusual show and I urge everyone to attend. You can obtain tickets for $3 from any American Business Club or at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum that evening. Again, thank you.

Mrs. Wayne Basden
Executive Director of SWAC

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship I would like to take this personal privilege to thank you and the staff of the Big Spring Herald for the excellent promotion and coverage of the 1979 Bible Fund Campaign.

A total of $12,419.04 was given to support the Bible teaching program among high school students in Howard County. Without your cooperative and unselfish efforts the over-the-goal response may have been thwarted.

For years the Big Spring Herald has supported this community campaign with a gracious spirit. We simply cannot thank you enough for all you have done to assure the teaching of the Bible in our high schools for another year.

Gratefully and sincerely,
Kenneth G. Patrick,
D.Min., Chairman

Trying to measure up in metric world

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Traveling Metric Show rolls into Michigan this week, an effort aimed at persuading Americans to measure milk by the liter, hamburger by the kilogram and the miles to grandmother's house by the kilometer.

Americans gave the system mixed reviews at U.S. Metric Board hearings earlier this year in Dallas, Boston and San Francisco.

Indeed, Americans have steadfastly ignored the metric system despite its being the official system of weights and measures since 1893. This country — alone among the world's industrial nations — seems to prefer using quarts and pints, and more obscure measures such as bushels and pecks, all four of which can be converted to the metric liter.

The only other non-metric nations are Brunei, Burma, Liberia and North and South Yemen.

The sessions in Dearborn, Mich., on Thursday and Friday are expected to feature a lively discussion on the merits of metrics, according to Bill DeReuter of the Metric Board, with auto industry figures arguing both sides of the question.

Congress created the board in 1975 to coordinate the voluntary conversion to the metric system. While many consider this a mandate to encourage Americans to give up yards, pounds and gallons in exchange for meters, grams and liters, others — even board members — disagree.

And if it is a mandate, it is one without teeth, since conversion is voluntary.

Changeover activists include U.S. industries that want to sell their products overseas where the metric system is nearly universal.

But firm opposition also exists, from people for whom the English system is too deeply ingrained to those, like the garage mechanic with a full set of English system socket wrenches, who hope to avoid the inevitable costs of the changeover.

Nonetheless, the board predicts the metric system will be the dominant system in the United States by 1990.

In Detroit, the car companies are already converting to metrics because of their large involvement in overseas markets, and they are pushing for other industries to follow.

However, the United Auto Workers union is concerned the costs of retooling to accommodate metric measurement would be borne by car owners and mechanics, according to DeReuter.

UAW fears were realized, at least in part, by the alcohol industry.

Distilleries and vineyards, under pressure from the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, were leaders in adopting metrics, but the changeover brought price increases for wine and liquor buyers.

A federal study last year noted that "most wines and distilled spirits that were converted to metric sizes experienced unit price increases greater than those that did not convert."

DeReuter said that public forums in Dallas and Boston drew opposition to change, so the board was surprised when a majority of those speaking in San Francisco favored use of metric measurement.

The Detroit meeting will likely include discussions on the current hot topic in the world of metric measurement — gasoline pumps.

Gasoline prices of more than $1 a gallon have led to problems because most pumps can indicate prices only to 99.9 cents.

Some stations are selling by the half-gallon as an interim measure, but metric proponents are urging a conversion to pumps that measure in liters, which are slightly more than a quart.

This, they claim, would be cheaper than changing the calculator part of the pump. Some independents have already converted to liter measurements.

Some dog - some life

CHICAGO (AP) — Thumper, a 200-pound Saint Bernard, has found that a dog's life can be great.

He was chauffeured around Chicago in a limousine Tuesday and pampered in a suite at the posh Whitehall Hotel.

Accompanied by his owners, Carl and Betsy Bodie of Lockport, N.Y., and their two children, Benjamin, 4, and Nathaniel, 8, Thumper was flown to Chicago by Ken-L Ration to receive its "Dog Hero of the Year" award. Thumper rode in a special traveling cage in the baggage compartment.

He drew stares as he made the rounds with his huge head sticking out of the limousine window before being honored at an evening banquet at another swank hotel, the Ritz-Carlton.

Thumper, not quite 2 years old, beat out other courageous canines to get the 26th annual award — a gold medal, a $1,000 U.S. savings bond, a gold-plated leash and collar and a year's supply of dog food.

Last year, Thumper stayed by Benjamin's side when the youngster wandered from home and was lost 12 hours in an area dotted with farm ponds. Thumper kept Benjamin away from harm until rescuers were attracted by the dog's barking.

"We've got a two-bedroom suite at the Whitehall and Thumper sleeps on the floor in our room," said Carl Bodie, a carpet installer.

"Some of the drawers are filled with dog food. He eats about four pounds a day," said Bodie. "The kids like to play with him. He rolls over on his side and enjoys himself. He's still at the puppy stage and probably will put on another 25 pounds."

Where DO buffalo roam?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gov. George Nigh says he has some hot leads on finding a buffalo to pay off a wager with Texas Gov. William Clements.

Nigh wagered a buffalo against a longhorn steer over the annual football showdown between the Oklahoma Sooners and the Texas Longhorns last week.

The Sooners lost, 16-7, and now Nigh needs a buffalo — especially since Clements has promised to barbecue it for the Texas players.

Nigh said he expects to be able to acquire a buffalo soon, noting that he has had offers of sales and outright donations from persons in Oklahoma and other states.

"After we get one, we're considering taking it to the Red River and turning it loose," Nigh quipped. "We could say, 'Here it is. You catch it.'"

Navy warships land in Cuba

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (AP) — Three Navy warships carried Marines to a practice landing today on the beaches of the only U.S. military base on communist soil. A Soviet surveillance ship stood offshore and Cuban reservists in the area were called to duty.

Guantanamo. About 2,200 Marines were involved in the exercise, a practice reinforcement by helicopters and amphibious vehicles at Guantanamo Bay, on the eastern tip of Cuba 500 miles from Havana.

Military officials insisted the exercise was routine and, although they made extreme efforts to accommodate nearly 80 reporters and photographers covering the landing, they denied reports that the exercise was merely a media event.

The dawn show-the-flag exercise was hastily arranged by the Carter administration as a flexing of military muscle in response to the presence in Cuba of a Soviet brigade, about 500 miles west of "This is a training exercise which reinforces the Marines and Naval units (stationed at Guantanamo Bay)," Navy Capt. John Fetterman said at a briefing Tuesday night.

However, Fetterman said, "What you will see tomorrow (Wednesday) in no way approximates what would be done under hostile conditions." He said if the base was threatened, reinforcements would be flown in instead of brought in by ship.

"It is not a classic amphibious assault," said Capt.

Robert Bowen, a Pentagon spokesman.

Once ashore, the Marines were to move into defensive positions behind the 17.4-mile perimeter fence, then engage in about four weeks of training and drills before returning home.

Sources in Washington said they viewed the call-up of about 3,000 Cuban reservists and other action as "normal precautions."

There was no indication in the Washington reports that the Cubans were moving any troops close to the 45-square-mile base, but about a half-dozen tanks and an equal number of anti-aircraft guns were said to have been shifted to the vicinity of the base.

Administration sources also said a Soviet hydrographic research ship, which U.S. intelligence officials say is a cover for surveillance activities, was reported off Guantanamo.

On Tuesday, President Carter criticized Cuba as "the most highly militarized country on Earth per capita," and said it is "constantly interfering" in the affairs of other nations. He said it has more than 45,000 troops in countries where "they have absolutely no business."

He said the United States will not move to establish normal diplomatic relations with Cuba until it ends its involvement in other nations' affairs and until the regime of President Fidel Castro releases political prisoners.

False accusations, inciting to riot

Chinese dissident stands trial

PEKING (AP) — Fu Yuehua, a 34-year-old woman who organized a demonstration by poverty-stricken peasants campaigning for work and food, went on trial today on charges that she falsely accused a minor party official of rape and that she instigated public disturbances.

The trial adjourned later in the day after the discovery of new evidence in the case, according to spectators present in the courtroom. They would not say if the trial would continue Thursday or what the new evidence concerned. An investigation of the evidence had been ordered, they said.

It was the second such trial in two days. Wei Jingsheng, a 29-year-old magazine editor and advocate of democracy, was convicted Tuesday of giving military secrets to a foreigner and seeking to overthrow the government. He was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment.

Mrs. Fu was charged with libel and violating public order by organizing a mass disturbance, the official Xinhua news agency reported. She went on trial at the People's Intermediate Court before more than 500 ticket-holding spectators and representatives of the government-controlled media. She was represented by a lawyer from the Peking Lawyer's Association.

Outlining the libel charge, the indictment said Mrs. Fu, a construction worker at the time, in April 1973 accused Geng Yutian, former acting Communist Party secretary of her commune brigade, of raping her 14 months before. It said she persisted in her charge despite three official investigations that found it "groundless" and "entirely false."

Mrs. Fu also was accused of organizing a protest in Peking's main square "in violation of public order" last Jan. 8. The indictment said she "led a group to create disturbances at Tien An Men Square and West Chagnan Street and ignored advice from traffic police."

Traffic was blocked for more than an hour. The demonstrators were among thousands who came to the capital from the provinces demanding food, jobs and the redress of wrongs stemming from the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution. At least 6,000 were camped in the city during the summer, and several hundred sat in at government offices.

Mrs. Fu was arrested on April 3 and has been in jail ever since. The charges were not announced until today.

All Peking newspapers today hailed the three-judge court's conviction of Wei Jingsheng, the 29-year-old editor of the magazine Explorations. Other young critics of the regime said the sentence was unreasonable and a black mark against China's new legal codes.

Chicago schools headed for desegregation fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charges that Chicago school officials have for 40 years discriminated against minority students appear headed for one of the biggest court battles over desegregation in the nation's history.

The prospect of a federal lawsuit demanding mandatory busing of school children is seen by some lawmakers and Democratic politicians as a potential election-year problem for President Carter.

But unless the Chicago Board of Education makes a last-minute switch in its policy today, Patricia Roberts Harris, the secretary of health, education and welfare, is expected to send the case to the Justice Department with the recommendation of a lawsuit. The deadline comes a day after Carter left Chicago where he has been courting Mayor Jane Byrne in hope of getting her re-election support next year.

Chicago school officials sent a telegram to Carter Tuesday, asking him "to use the power of your office to direct HEW to grant" a 170-day delay in instituting legal proceedings. There was no immediate reaction from the White House.

Asked at a town meeting in a Chicago suburb about racial busing to achieve integration, Carter said: "My own experience and my own belief is that mandatory busing ought to be minimized." But he said the law prohibits segregation and "that's got to be honored."

Despite predictions that a desegregation suit would cause Carter problems, some observers say the case would be so complex and slow in starting that the impact would be felt until after the election.

Also, Mrs. Byrne has given no signal that she would tie her political support to the administration's handling of the desegregation case. She has, however, endorsed the school board's own, mainly voluntary busing plan.

Family the key, Ford says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former first lady Betty Ford says her family led her to face her drug and alcohol addiction and seek treatment.

"It was my family, my husband and my daughter and three sons, who were candid and courageous," she said Tuesday in a speech to the National Forum on Women and Alcohol and Alcohol-Related Problems.

"They were the ones who sought the expert and professional help for me, and they were the ones who faced me with my illness."

Mrs. Ford announced in April 1978 that she was addicted to prescription drugs and alcohol. She spent four weeks at an alcoholism treatment center at the Long Beach Naval Hospital in California.

Rosa Parks honored

ATLANTA (AP) — Rosa Parks, whose refusal to give up a seat on a city bus started a year-long bus boycott almost 25 years ago in Montgomery, Ala., has been honored at a rally in Atlanta.

About 1,000 spectators — mostly young people and downtown office workers on lunch break — attended the rally Tuesday in a park.

Mrs. Parks is now a resident of Detroit. Her refusal in 1955 to yield her seat to a white person on a Montgomery city bus led to the boycott which is remembered as the start of the civil rights movement led by the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Actress Jane Fonda, who attended the rally with her husband Tom Hayden, presented Mrs. Parks a $5,000 check. The money will be used for the Rosa Parks Scholarship and awarded to "a high school student who has shown concern about social and human issues."

Prince's mistress bore son

THE HAGUE, NETHERLANDS (AP) — A mistress of the late Prince Hendrik of the Netherlands, father of Queen Juliana, bore him an illegitimate son in 1924, according to an official Dutch history.

The Prince died in 1934. Juliana was the only child of his 33-year marriage to Queen Wilhelmina.

The previously undisclosed birth of an illegitimate half brother of the reigning monarch was documented in a book written by professor Lou de Jong and dealing mainly with Holland's role in World War II. De Jong is the former head of the Dutch State Institute for war documentation and is the country's official war historian.

De Jong wrote about a reported liaison between Hendrik and a woman identified only by the pseudonym "Elisabeth le Roi." The mother and son were given 47,000 guilders — the equivalent of about 200,000 dollars in present-day purchasing power — and shipped to South America, the book said.

One Dutch newspaper reported Tuesday that the illegitimate son had died but had a daughter who is alive and knows about her relationship with the reigning Dutch Queen.

A spokesman for the royal family declined to comment. But de Jong said at a news conference that both the Queen and Premier Andries van Agt had read the book and given approval for its publication.

'Strangers' reunited

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Mushak and Armen Manukian have been married for 50 years, but they are almost strangers.

Manukian's imprisonment in a Nazi concentration camp and subsequent emigration to the United States, leaving his wife and three children behind in Russia, separated the couple for nearly 38 years.

But Manukian, a 73-year-old retired restaurant worker, never lost faith that he would be reunited with his wife. He kept in touch with her by correspondence.

Recently his faith was rewarded. Mrs. Manukian and her 49-year-old daughter, Asya, who visited her father in 1977, flew from Moscow to Los Angeles where Manukian met them.

The Manukians and Asya will live here. Their two other children will remain in Russia, Manukian said.

MINNESOTAN-TURNED-TEXAN ARTIST ...Opal Lewis in weekend show

Austin resident enters Arts, Crafts Festival

Opal Lewis, a resident of Austin, Texas, is one of the many new entries who will be at the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival this weekend at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. This native of Minnesota is well known for her florals, landscapes, and Western art.

Lewis says that "just to paint is an emotional and creative release," and she is happy and excited when she gets the opportunity to apply her paint brush to canvas. She says she paints for the sheer joy of painting, not to interpret but to depict the ordinary in a very special way.

In a relatively short time, ten years to be exact, she has created a unique style of her own which is very professional and exudes a pleasing experience to view. Nature has been her inspiration in creating beautiful florals and landscapes, and her love of the passing Western scene has inspired her to paint Western subjects as well.

The Ru de Lamar Gallery in Austin, Texas, where her works sell very well, has encouraged Lewis to continue painting in all three categories as they are all well sought after by collectors and buyers.

Trial of Stafford coming to close

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The jury in Roger Dale Stafford's mass murder trial was to hear instructions from the judge in the case and closing arguments by attorneys today before beginning deliberations.

Stafford, 27, is charged with six counts of first-degree murder in the July 16, 1978 shooting deaths of four teen-agers and two men at a Sirlin Stockade restaurant here. The steakhouse workers were killed during a $1,300 robbery.

District Attorney Andrew Coats and defense attorney J. Malone Brewer were prepared to give closing arguments in the case.

If jurors find Stafford guilty of the steakhouse murders, Coats said he will ask them to sentence the father of three to death by injection of a lethal dose of barbiturate.

A separate penalty hearing would be held in the event of a guilty verdict. Prosecutors would have to show jurors that one of seven aggravating circumstances was present when the steakhouse murders occurred to get a death verdict.

Stafford's wife, Verna, 26, was the star prosecution witness at the trial of her husband of seven years.

She testified she watched in horror as Stafford and his late brother, Harold, gunned down the steakhouse workers in the restaurant's meat locker.

Mrs. Stafford said the bloodbath began when her husband became enraged by threats of assistant manager Louis Zacarias, 43, to see the Staffords punished for robbing his establishment.

Other prosecution witnesses also linked

Stafford to the steakhouse murders, but no one else claimed to have actually seen Stafford commit the crime.

Stafford told jurors he was "as drunk as I could be on the hood of a Chevrolet in front of my house" in Tulsa at the time of the steakhouse murders, after he "got to partying with these three black gentlemen."

"It's strange that they cannot be found" to testify for the defense, he added.

"I didn't do this horrible, vicious crime," Stafford testified. "I've never hurt anyone."

Stafford said witnesses testifying against him are "lying or mistaken."

In addition to Zacarias, the steakhouse murders claimed the lives of: Terri M. Horst, 16; David Lindsey, 17; Anthony Tew, 17; David Salsman, 15; and Isaac Freeman, 56.

Two Oklahoma County Jail inmates — one a prosecution rebuttal witness and the other a defense rebuttal witness — both linked Stafford to the steakhouse murders Tuesday.

Two other prosecution rebuttal witnesses testified that Stafford showed them a gun he owned in June or July of 1978 and a third said Stafford had talked to him about owning a pistol.

Stafford testified he didn't have a gun at the time.

The defense called only two witnesses besides Stafford before resting Tuesday morning. Neither testified about Stafford's whereabouts at the time of the steakhouse murders.

Sohio 'understands frustrations'

Anger into action -- goal of energy protest

By The Associated Press

The organizers of today's Campaign For Lower Energy Prices are trying to turn anger into action, urging Americans to let the oil industry and the government know they are fed up with rising costs.

The agenda for the day included the usual rallies, demonstrations, marches and teach-ins.

The sponsors included the Gray Panthers, Consumers Opposed to Inflation in Necessities, the Episcopal Urban Bishop's Conference, the Americans for Democratic Action and a variety of unions.

A major effort was the distribution of millions of red, white and blue postcards headed: "Big oil discredited cards." The cards urge Congress to put a lid on oil and gas prices, appoint a special prosecutor to investigate the oil industry and create a publicly owned energy corporation.

Oil company offices were targets of demonstrations even before the official day of protest. About 30 people picketed the headquarters of the Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) on Tuesday, chanting slogans like: "Sohio, stop pumping us dry."

The company, which closed off the entrances to the building and stationed guards nearby, said in a prepared statement, that it understood the frustrations that lead to demonstrations. "But fundamental answers on solving inflation are needed, not looking for scapegoats," the statement said.

In St. Louis, Don Owens, the head of research and public relations for District 9 of the International Association of Machinists, one of the sponsors of a mid-day demonstration, said: "We're holding this rally because we're sick and tired of a national energy policy that robs the workingman and gives to the multi-national oil corporations."

William Wimpisinger, president of the International Association of Machinists and the chairman of the coalition coordinating the events, described the protest as a "national grassroots organizing effort."

Wimpisinger also is heading an effort to draft Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination. He broke with President Carter last year over the issue of whether to decontrol energy prices. Congress already has approved the phasing out of controls on natural gas and is considering an end to controls on petroleum. Price controls on heating oil and diesel fuel were ended during the Ford Administration.

Carter's re-election headquarters in Concord, N.H., was the focus of a planned afternoon march. Sponsors said they would try to telephone their demands to Carter; if they get no response, they said, they will urge everyone driving by to honk horns in protest.

An Associated Press spot check indicated support for the protest seemed strongest in states where winter heating bills are expected to be a serious problem.

"Here in Connecticut, the rally will focus on low and middle-income families already affected by cash-on-demand payments for heating oil," said Lou Kiefer, labor co-chairman of the coalition sponsoring today's demonstrations.

The protest follows on the heels of announcements of price increases by Libya and Iran, two of the world's major oil exporters. Carter has blamed price increases by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries for the high rate of inflation in the United States. The oil industry says its price hikes are due to the OPEC booms.

Figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics show that from December 1978 through August 1979, the heating oil component of the Consumer Price Index went up 46 percent, the gasoline section went up 42 percent and the natural gas part went up 12 percent. In the same period, the overall index rose 9 percent.

Another aspect of energy will be in the spotlight on Thursday. Nuclear Energy Women, a group founded by women who work in the nuclear industry, has organized informal discussions and special events which, it says, are designed to educate the public about nuclear energy. NEW is sponsored by the Atomic Industrial Forum, Inc., an international association which wants to develop the peaceful use of nuclear power.

Pro-oil industry rally staged

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Oil industry advocates rallied near the core of the petroleum-rich Permian Basin, lashing out at critics and chastising the federal government for "dastardly" decisions that victimize producers.

More than 1,000 people attended a pro-industry rally Tuesday in Midland, where for more than a generation the economic life blood has been pumped by oil wells that dot the West Texas region.

"We're here to support the oil industry, but we're really here to support America and fight for the free enterprise system," said independent oilman Bob Bailey, the only producer to speak at the rally.

"In some parts of the country, particularly Washington, D.C., the oil industry is held in antipathy and distrust," said rally speaker Harrell Feldt, an attorney. "But actually, it stands for free enterprise."

Organizers called the rally to counter protests — labeled "Stop the Oil Profiteers" — by a coalition of private citizens and labor unions that scheduled the demonstrations in at least 20 U.S. cities today.

"Our government is saying leaders of the oil industry are disqualified" from helping shape a national energy policy, said Feldt. He called that decision "dastardly" and urged the noontime crowd to devote time, energy and talents to changing that policy.

Former Midland mayor Pat Baskin lashed out at basted anti-oil coalition member Jane Fonda and called the actress "an admitted enemy of the free enterprise system (and) an outspoken supporter of socialist principles."

"If the Jane Fondas of this country really want to help, let them put a part of their profits into drilling for oil and gas," said Bailey.

"After a little of that action," he said, "I'd like to see what their idea of an obscene profit is."

Bailey said he annually spends more finding oil than he gets for selling it, and without continued credit from banks he "would have been out of business long ago."

The oil industry "is the free enterprise system that made America great," he said.

The windfall profits tax is "a tax on our very existence," said Bailey, who also claimed oilmen have developed a "losers' syndrome."

"We've forgotten what it is like to win. We're more interested in not losing too badly. I think this has gone far enough. It's time to turn our team around and win," he said.

Baskin read telegrams of support from Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, and Texas Railroad Commissioner John Poerner.

Executive Director Ed Thompson of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association said there may be another rally next month.

Traditional is best bet, Gov. Clements states

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texans are going to have to forget about the "glamorous, sexy exotics" and look to traditional sources of energy for the rest of this century, says Gov. Bill Clements.

The governor spoke Tuesday to the Texas Association of Broadcasters annual meeting. He touched on a variety of topics, including energy.

"These exotics can have no impact on our energy requirements by 2000," Clements said in going to supporters of solar and geothermal energy.

He said he knew of "no experts worthy of that name" who view solar and geothermal energy as an answer in the near future. Clements said Texans also should forget about a "quick fix" to the energy crunch and realize it's a long-term problem. He said the answer lies in petroleum, coal and nuclear fuels.

"It's a disgrace that there are fewer miners in the coal mines now than there were one, two or three years ago," he said. "That doesn't make any sense."

He also scolded Americans for being "not serious about addressing this energy problem."

"If you like 16 percent interest, keep doing what you're doing. You're doing a great job," he said sarcastically.

Clements also told the broadcasters he enjoys Austin reporters and called them a "delightful bunch."

But he gave the media low marks for its coverage of the Mexican oil spill. "I think the media has done Texas a great disservice by the way you handled this particular project," he said, drawing a smattering of applause.

Asked about the upcoming presidential race, Clements said polls he has seen show Texans favor any GOP candidate over President Carter.

"There's a terribly strong negative vote out there against Carter. It's not for someone, it's against him," Clements said.

He said a current political "snapshot" shows former Gov. John Connally the favorite among Texas Republicans, but Ronald Reagan appears to be the leading contender nationwide.

Clements said Carter seems more popular than California Gov. Edmund Brown or Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., in Texas.

Trial moved from Brady

BRADY, Texas (AP) — Extensive publicity surrounding the slayings of two Brady women has convinced a state district judge to move the trial of capital-murder defendant Donald Edward Smith Jr. to Kerrville.

Judge V. Murray Jordan granted the defense motion for a change of venue Tuesday and ordered prosecutors to provide the defense with photographs, identification records, a list of police officers involved in the arrest and transcripts of grand jury testimony.

Smith is charged with the Aug. 2 slayings of Molly Farr, 55, and her daughter, Tandy Bennett, 25.

The bodies of the two women were found, along with the body of 49-year-old Robert Shirly Gandy, in a mobile home near Brady.

No one has been charged in the slaying of Gandy, but District Attorney Ron Sutton has said that Gandy probably was the primary target in the slayings.

Smith was arrested in Tampa, Fla., on Aug. 15. He was indicted on Aug. 18 on charges that alleged he killed the two women while committing burglary.

Call Girls, Johns listed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York Telephone Co. has been ordered to allow a group known as Johns and Call Girls United Against Repression to get a phone directory listing without an address.

The New York Public Service Commission on Monday extended to business and non-residential customers an earlier ruling allowing no-address listings for regular residential customers.

The group, which describes itself as opposed to laws against prostitution, had said it wanted to keep its address private because it feared harassment.

ANYTHING THAT SHOOTS — Master gunsmith, M.L. Knowlton is adept at repairing and refurbishing just about any type of rifle, shotgun or musket. Above he displays the range of his talents with an old-fashioned percussion musket (left) and a modern, high-powered rifle with a customized pistol grip.

TOOLS AND SKILLED HANDS — A lifetime of working with guns has given Knowlton an instinctive feel for what will make a rifle shoot straight and true. Although much of the work must be done by hand, Knowlton also uses a variety of power instruments, such as the lathe pictured above, at his shop on Lamesa Highway.

NEW GENERATION — There are no schools that teach the skills that Knowlton possesses, and they must be passed from generation to generation as masters did to apprentices in olden times. Here Knowlton shows his grandson Gaylon C. Knowlton, 12, the art of engraving with a high-speed drill.

NEARLY FINISHED — No detail escapes Knowlton. He mounts and makes precise adjustments on a scope that may help bag a deer for one of his customers this season.

STOCKS — Knowlton uses only the finest hardwoods to make his custom stocks. Much of the wood is imported from Africa and South America, and becomes a work of art by the time the craftsman has finished with it. The special pistol grip is Knowlton's original design.

'Blowout schools' place to get emergency skills

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A college petroleum engineering instructor recommends that workers on offshore rigs go to school to learn how to shut down wells in emergencies.

Bruce Dameron of Texas A&M University said company men, tool pushers and drillers should be taught in "blowout schools" how to respond to emergencies, "instead of on the rigs — that's not the place to learn it, really."

Dameron and general manager William Sky-Eagle Jr. of the Corpus Christi Area Oil Spill Control Association testified Tuesday before the House Committee on Environmental Affairs.

House Speaker Bill Clayton instructed the committee to investigate the blowout of IXTOC 1 well in Campeche Bay. The PEMEX well spilled oil that flowed onto Texas beaches, apparently endangering fish and wildlife and severely crippling the summer tourist industry.

Dameron said starting Jan. 1 the U.S. Geological Survey will require workers on wells in federal waters to pass a one-week school that includes simulated practice in shutting down a well that has gone out of control.

Their training certificate must be renewed each year, Dameron said.

Asked if the Mexican government requires employees of PEMEX, the national oil monopoly, to attend such schools, Dameron replied: "To my own knowledge, I don't think they do."

The committee clerk said as of mid-day Tuesday, IXTOC 1 still had not been capped. It blew out June 3.

Dameron said blowouts result from "kicks," which he defined as intrusions of fluid into the formation.

"When you take a 'kick' is not the time to be scared," said Dameron. "They ('kicks') can be controlled if they are handled in the proper manner."

Asked if he could tell the committee about the sequence of events that led to the IXTOC blowout, Dameron said, "Unfortunately, all I know is what I have read in the newspapers and through the grapevine."

He said, however, he understood excessive gas and mud had appeared in the formation and PEMEX had been informed several times that it "ought to be altering its operations because of that."

Too much gas or mud "is a direct indication that you are moving into an abnormal pressure zone," but PEMEX "never took corrective measures," Dameron said.

"How they finally lost control I'm not aware," he added.

Asked if adoption of the federal law by Texas would create a "significant burden" for the oil and gas industry, Dameron replied, "No, they're used to performing (by those standards) anyway."

NBC takes impressive run for first -- again

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC took another impressive run at first place in the networks' ratings race, but ABC scored with the first three games of baseball's World Series and finished No. 1 in the week ending Oct. 14 by a fair margin, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

The month-old season has, for ABC, been something of a struggle. Last season's runaway winner, predicted by many in the industry to repeat as No. 1 in 1979-80, listed only three shows in the first 10 for the week, all World Series games.

ABC's rating for the week was, nonetheless, 21, with NBC second at 18.8 and CBS third — for the fourth week in a row — at 17.9.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 21 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to ABC.

NBC had four shows in the week's Top 10, including "The Miracle Worker," "CHiPs," "Little House on the Prairie" and a movie, "When Hell was in Session."

"The Miracle Worker," a new television version of the stage and screen hit of two decades ago, finished fourth in the ratings, behind the second game in the baseball championships between Baltimore and Pittsburgh, CBS' "M-A-S-H," and the series' first game.

The rating for the week's most-watched show, the second game of the series Thursday night, was 28.8. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 28.8 percent saw at least a part off the sports special.

NBC, which finished dead last in the ratings in the 1978-79 season, won the competition two of the first three weeks of the current season. The network's challenge to ABC in the week of Oct. 8-14 was damaged by poor ratings for two shows from the network's news department.

"Prime Time Sunday" finished 53rd and "Henry Kissinger: An Interview with David Frost," was 57th, or last. The Kissinger program apparently was damaged in the ratings by a controversy several days before the air date over editing of the interview.

CBS' "Paris" was No. 54 for the week, with "The Lazarus Syndrome" on ABC 55th and a movie, "Lifeguard," also on CBS, 56th.

New series continued to struggle for ratings points. NBC's "The Misadventures of Sheriff Lobo" was the highest-rated of the season's new programs, No. 21.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Marilyn McCusker had to fight to get her job as a coal miner. And when she died in a mine accident two weeks ago, her husband, Allan, realized his wife's struggle was only a battle in a larger conflict.

"They say that because I'm a man, I'm not deserving of survivors' benefits," said McCusker, who's become a soldier in the war for sexual equality.

After filing a sex discrimination suit against the Rushton Mining Co., Mrs. McCusker received a job and retroactive benefits through an out-of-court settlement two years ago.

Mrs. McCusker, a 35-year-old former nurse's aide, was buried alive at Rushton Mining's portal in Osceola Mills when a rock and dirt ceiling she was helping reinforce gave way.

She was the first woman in modern times killed while working in an underground mine.

Now her husband is a 28-year-old miner's widower with one child. McCusker went on leave from work before the accident to build the couple's new home.

"When Marilyn sued, it was with the understanding that it was for full benefits. That's what this whole thing was about," McCusker said Tuesday in a telephone interview from his home in Coalport in the heart of Pennsylvania's soft coal region.

McCusker decided to fight when a Pennsylvania Mines Corp. official told him his son is eligible for about $130 a week in benefits but because McCusker is capable of returning to his job as a carpenter he's ineligible.

"I just quoted the law to him," said Ron Brooks, a claims agent for Pennsylvania Mines, parent firm of Rushton Mining.

"I'm supposed to see a lawyer on Friday," McCusker said.

He's up against an old state law that says widows, rich or poor, healthy or sick, can collect survivor benefits. But it denies benefits to men whose working wives die on the job.

"The only thing he'd be entitled to is a $1,500 burial fee," said Connie Mills, a legal assistant in the Harrisburg office that administers Pennsylvania's worker compensation laws.

"Section 307, paragraph seven of the Pennsylvania Workmen's Compensation Law. I'm not saying it's fair, but it's the law," she said. "At one time women didn't work. This law is coming down to us from those times."

McCusker could get unexpected help. Proposed amendments would substitute "surviving spouse" for "widow" in the present laws, said an aide to the Senate Labor and Industry Committee chaired by Philadelphia Democrat Herbert Arlene.

But action on the proposal is not in sight, said the aide, who asked not to be quoted by name. Arlene was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

The costs of providing expanded coverage could stand in the way, the aide said. "We once had a bill that changed just the name of the law, and it went down in committee because some people thought it would cost too much for all the printing."

Texas-OU pranksters make off with headstone

DALLAS (AP) — As if Clyde Barrow didn't have enough trouble in his lifetime, Texas-OU pranksters seem determined to make him rest uneasy in his grave some 45 years after his death.

Somebody's made off with his headstone again.

Barrow and his machine-gun-toting moll, Bonnie Parker, have been buried in Dallas since they died in a hail of police gunfire in a 1934 Arcadia, La., ambush.

Ever since, their tombstones have been a favorite target of pranksters. It is rumored the interest has been renewed during the annual Texas-OU football craziness that descends on Dallas once each fall.

This weekend, a Dallas police officer took his rookie partner by the Western Heights Cemetery just west of downtown. The young officer had never seen the landmark stone, and Officer Vance Shearer thought he ought to be sure the stone had not fallen victim to Texas or Oklahoma hijinks.

Sure enough, the stone was gone.

Investigators figure the hefty stone was spirited north across the Red River and has been secreted in some Norman, Okla., fraternity house.

"We are assuming they did it again, partly because of the time and partly because lifting something that heavy would have taken several people and an organized effort," Shearer said.

A spot checker of fraternity houses at OU turned up nothing but denials.

And Joe Johnson, director of student affairs at the University of Oklahoma said he'd never heard of a tradition to swipe the stone.

"In fact, I'm a little embarrassed to ask, but who's Clyde Barrow?" he queried.

The theft causes a recurring problem for the families of the notorious bank robbers, who became more notorious 10 or so years ago with the release of the movie, "Bonnie and Clyde."

Bonnie's stone disappeared with regularity from Crown Hill Memorial Park in Northwest Dallas until her family had it sunk in an impossible amount of concrete.

Clyde shares a stone with his older brother, Marvin, who was gunned down by police a year before his younger, more famous sibling.

The Barrows' oldest sister, Mrs. Artie Key, said she had ordered a steel rod placed between the stone and the gravesite after last year's theft, but cemetery keepers said she never paid for the work.

"They asked for a receipt, but I didn't have one," she sighed. "I guess I just trust people too much."

THEY LOST — The mood of the Orioles is reflected in these players as they watched from dugout as their club went down to defeat, 4-0, at the hands of the Pirates in 6th World Series game. McGregor hurls for Birds in 7th

BALTIMORE (AP) — Scott McGregor is not ready to guarantee a victory in the seventh game of the World Series as he did in the pennant-clincher for the Baltimore Orioles. But he is primed for the biggest test of his career.

"This is the biggest game I could possibly pitch in my life," said the 25-year-old lefthander after Pittsburgh won 4-0 Tuesday night. "It's something I've always dreamed of. Now I've got to go out and do it."

"I really didn't want to see it come to this," said McGregor, who pitched an 8-4 complete-game victory in Game 3.

"But I started thinking about it today and now I feel ready. I'll be trying to be the best of my ability to be pouring champagne on someone tomorrow."

McGregor, who missed the first month of the season with elbow tendinitis and didn't win his first game until June 11, won 13 of his last 14 decisions in the regular season.

After the Orioles blew a decision to the California Angels in the third game of the American League playoffs, McGregor stood up in the team bus after the game and guaranteed a victory the next day. He pitched an 8-0 shutout, giving Baltimore the pennant.

Asked by reporters if he would guarantee a victory over Pittsburgh, McGregor said: "No. You guys got ahead of that and ruined it. Now I've got to come up with something new. I'll have to think about it."

Although the Pirates are hitting .330 through the first six games, McGregor said: "I'm not going to tell you they're great hitters. I'm not going to build them up. I've got to get them out."

"I'm a groundball pitcher," McGregor said. "I've got to try to keep us in the game and give us a chance to win. I'll pitch to them the way Scott McGregor always pitches."

Recalling when he was hoping to recover from arm trouble last spring, McGregor said: "That was optimistic time then. Now it's down to reality. It's my turn to pitch and it's the seventh game."

Manager Earl Weaver said he didn't feel any tension, even though the Pirates had come back from a 3-1 deficit.

"The tension isn't that bad," said Weaver. "It's the desire to win that makes the whole thing exciting. I don't enjoy it when we lose, but you enjoy being in the World Series."

BREAKS OPEN THE GAME — Dave Parker lashes run producing single in 7th inning of 6th World Series game against the Orioles Tuesday night. It was the first run in the Bucs 4-0 victory. The win tied the series at three games apiece.

Pirates shut out Orioles to tie Series 3-3

BALTIMORE (AP) — John Candelaria stood in the Pittsburgh Pirates' dressing room after practice Monday and held aloft a crumpled ticket for the seventh game of the World Series.

"After tomorrow night this will be worth a lot of money," shouted Candelaria, who usually hasn't too much to say.

Candelaria went out Tuesday night and put his arm where his mouth was and made that last-chance ticket worth the asking price. He combined with reliever Kent Tekulve for their fourth tandem shutout of the season.

The National League champion Pirates scored four late-inning runs and beat the American League champion Baltimore Orioles 4-0 to tie the Series at 3-3.

Pittsburgh now is within one game of becoming the fourth team in history to come back to win baseball's showpiece from a 3-1 deficit in a best-of-seven World Series.

Jim Bibby, the starter in Game 4 who was not involved in the Pittsburgh loss, has the assignment for tonight's seventh game. He'll be opposed by Baltimore's Scott McGregor, the winner of Game 3.

The 25-year-old Candelaria went six pain-wracked innings, gave up just six hits and no runs. Tekulve followed, allowing only one hit in three innings for his second save of the series.

"He (Candelaria) pitched through pain tonight (Tuesday)," said Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner.

Tanner explained that his star lefthander went out despite an aching side. Candelaria has been bothered with a rib cage injury for more than a month.

"He's a money pitcher, one of the best in the game," gushed Tanner, who has to be living with mixed emotions. He needs one victory to gain his first Series triumph.

And win or lose, when it's over, he has to go home to New Castle, Pa., and attend the funeral of his mother, Anne, 70, who died Sunday morning.

Tanner had a pitcher warming up from the first pitch.

"We were concerned about his side all the way," Tanner explained. "If there was any indication he wasn't throwing right, I was going to get out and get him. I know it hurt him."

Candelaria, who struck out two and walked none, admitted that it hurt when he pitched.

"It hurt then and it hurts now," said the pitcher after he emerged from the shower.

The Pirates' pitcher said that he worked without a pain shot. He also said there was nothing wrong with his shoulder.

"It's my side and back," he explained.

Why did he start to leave the field after warming up in the sixth?

"I saw Chuck coming out and thought he was coming to get me," Candelaria said.

The winning runs came in the seventh inning when, with one out, Omar Moreno singled. Moreno reached second on an infield hit by Tim Foli and scored on Dave Parker's single.

Foli, who reached third on Parker's hit, then raced home on Willie Stargell's sacrifice fly. That's all the Pirates needed to hang the loss on Baltimore's Jim Palmer, who went eight innings and gave up all four Pittsburgh runs.

The Pirates wrapped it up with two more in the eighth.

Malone sees a lot of rookie center

Knicks edge Rockets 126-121

Associated Press Writer

Before playing the New York Knicks, Houston's Moses Malone was warned by his coach, Del Harris: "You'll be seeing a lot of Bill Cartwright for a long time."

He saw all he wanted to see of him Tuesday night.

New York's gifted rookie center took on last year's Most Valuable Player in the National Basketball Association as if he had been playing Malone all his life.

Cartwright scored 31 points while holding Malone to 17. And the result was a 126-121 victory for the Knicks.

"Tonight I learned how to play Moses Malone," said Cartwright. "I decided to keep Moses away from the boards and keep him from getting inside the basket area. Basically, I think I succeeded. He was taking shots he didn't want to take. If I had to play against Malone tomorrow, I'd play him the same way I played him tonight."

Cartwright, the 7-foot-1 product of the University of San Francisco who was the Knicks' No. 1 draft pick this year, is demonstrating durability as well as court savvy for a rookie. In the Knicks' other victory this season, a 125-118 overtime game against the Washington Bullets last Saturday, Cartwright played 50 minutes and was the team's high scorer with 27 points. Tuesday night, he played a game-high 43 minutes.

In other NBA action, Golden State defeated Denver 108-106, Indiana stopped New Jersey 113-100, Cleveland whipped Detroit 137-117, San Antonio edged Atlanta 118-116, Phoenix turned back Seattle 102-86, Portland trimmed San Diego 88-81 and Los Angeles beat Chicago 105-96.

Warriors 108, Nuggets 106

John Lucas and JoJo White ignited Golden State's fast break in the third period, triggering the Warriors past Denver. The two Golden State guards, who combined for 39 points, led the Warriors to a 29-point third period that wiped out a 60-54 halftime advantage for Denver.

Pacers 113, Nets 100

Indiana's Johnny Davis scored 26 points, including 12 in the third quarter when the Pacers built a 21-point lead and coasted past New Jersey.

Alex English came off the bench with 22 points and Billy Knight added 20 as the Pacers, leading from the start, had little trouble against the Nets.

Cavaliers 137, Pistons 117

Randy Smith scored 23 points as Cleveland routed Detroit for Coach Stan Albeck's first victory in three outings. The Cavaliers took a 46-26 lead into the second period and collected a club record 79 points in the first half.

Spurs 118, Hawks 116

George Gervin, the defending NBA scoring champion, collected 30 points, including the game-winning basket with four seconds left, to lead San Antonio over Atlanta. The Spurs squandered a 22-point lead amassed in the first half to fall behind the Hawks in the third quarter before rallying behind the 6-foot-7

Gervin.

Suns 102, Sonics 86

Center Alvin Adams scored 26 points and Truck Robinson added 22 as Phoenix defeated Seattle. The game was the first between the two Western Division powers since the Sonics eliminated Phoenix in the conference finals last year.

Blazers 88, Clippers 81

T.R. Dunn pumped in 18 points and harassed San Diego's high-scoring guards all night to lead Portland over the Clippers. The victory was the third in as many games for the Blazers, who grabbed the lead for good at 38-36 on Dunn's 18-footer with 4:57 left in the first half.

Lakers 105, Bulls 96

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 21 points and collected 10 rebounds to lead Los Angeles past Chicago. Jamaal Wilkes added 20 points for the Lakers and rookie Magic Johnson and his backcourt mate, Norm Nixon, had 19 points apiece for Los Angeles, which was playing its home opener.

AFTER MEDICAL EXAM — Heavyweight fighter John Tate from Knoxville, Tenn., gives the number one sign after his pre-fight medical examination Tuesday in Johannesburg, South Africa, in preparation for Saturday's fight against South African Gerrie Coetzee. The World Championship bout will be held in nearby Pretoria.

Big John unready

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys had just sacked Los Angeles Ram quarterbacking five times and big John Dutton turned to a sideline visitor and queried: "What did they get me for?"

Dutton won't find out this week.

But he will the week of the Pittsburgh game.

The 6-foot-7, 266-pound defensive end prowled the Cowboy bench Sunday night during Dallas' 30-6 rout of the Rams, visiting with assistant coaches, and talking to defensive end Larry Cole and tackle David Stalls and learning all he could about the mysterious "flex" defense.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry hinted Tuesday that it will be one more week before Dutton suits out with his familiar No. 7 and the unfamiliar uniform of the Cowboys.

Dutton, once an All-Pro and three times a Pro Bowler, was signed last week to a multiyear contract after the Cowboys gave Baltimore No. 1 and No. 2 round draft choices.

"John has been working hard, lifting and running but he still needs work," said Landry. "He has a good attitude but we aren't expecting any miracles from him."

Landry said "We have until next Monday before we have to move a player off the roster. I think John probably wouldn't be ready for St. Louis this Sunday."

Landry said Dutton "has to prove he is better than somebody we already have in there. We'll give him spot work over a period of three games or so. In this business, you don't want to step on the field unless you are prepared."

Asked if Dutton's presence inspired his defensive players, Landry smiled. "I would say it would stimulate you. He just looks good standing around."

TD questioned

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University Coach Ray Albom calls it "the alleged touchdown."

It came shortly before halftime Saturday with the Owls trailing Texas Christian 3-0.

Rice held TCU three straight downs at the Owl one yard line and apparently stopped quarterback Steve Stamp short on fourth down. Rice players leaped joyfully as the play ended but seconds later it was TCU doing the celebrating.

Instead of giving Rice the ball on downs, one official, after appearing to spot the ball short of the goal, suddenly raised his arms signaling a touchdown. Albom dashed his headset to the ground as TCU started celebrating.

"It would have given us a tremendous lift going in at halftime trailing 3-0 and having stopped them like that," Rice Coach Ray Albom lamented.

A review of the film Tuesday appeared to show Stamp hitting just short of the goal line and then bouncing into the end zone.

"We're calling it the alleged touchdown around here," Albom said.

An official on the other side of the field, ran toward the play appearing also to spot the ball. He also signaled a touchdown after the first official's call. TCU went on to win the Southwest Conference game 17-7, the Frogs' first league victory in two years.

Albom said he did not intend to call the SWC league office to complain about the call.

"Officiating didn't lose the game for us," Albom said. "Let's give TCU some credit. They came in here with a good game plan and they kicked us good."

"If I called, they'd just think I was crying because we lost. I haven't cried since I took this job and I don't need their tears or sympathy now. I'm just frustrated and upset because of the young men we had suited up."

"I don't know if it would have made any difference in the outcome or not," Albom said. "But there's no question it would have given us something to build on in the second half."

The loss left the Owls 1-5 for the season and 0-2 in SWC games.

"I didn't feel it was a touchdown then and I still don't today," Albom said. "I'd really like somebody to tell me what you tell kids at halftime after something like that."

"You preach to them about giving a great effort and bowing their necks and what it can get them. Now what do you tell them when they do that and still have this happen to them."

Petri leads Open

MARBLE FALLS, Texas (AP) — Austin's Randy Petri, the pro at Balcones Country Club in Austin, felt right at home on the course at Horseshoe Bay Country Club Tuesday.

Petri's six birdies gave him a 7-under-par 65 and a three-shot lead after the first round of the $40,000 Texas State Open.

The 1977 winner, Bobby Walzel of Missouri City, and Has Allen of Dallas were tied for second at 68.

"Obviously I played well," said Petri. "I hit the ball solid. Now I've just got to maintain this consistency the next three days."

Touring pro Ben Crenshaw, of Austin, was the heavy pretournament favorite but struggled in with a 71, six shots off the pace, after carding a double-bogey on 18.

"I never got it going," Crenshaw said. "I'm still not putting well."

Petri's 65 was just one stroke away from the course and tournament record, set by Crenshaw when he won the tournament in 1975.

The state open offers a first prize of $8,000 and is sponsored by the Texas PGA.

Coach: "We're not a very good football team" What's wrong with Penn State?

By HERSHEL NISSEN-SON

AP Sports Writer
The question Joe Paterno has heard most often this fall is, "What's wrong with Penn State?"

That's what happens when you win more than 80 percent of your games but start a season by losing two of your first three. After beating Rutgers, the Nittany Lions were trounced by Texas A&M 27-14 and manhandled by Nebraska 42-17.

"The only thing wrong is that we're not a very good football team," Paterno says. "We started the season with a completely inexperienced secondary and then we had some injuries there. We also had an inexperienced kicking game, inexperience at quarterback and only one returning wide receiver."

"The defensive down linemen and a couple of linebackers were the only thing we had going for us. Too many people had to play themselves into being players."

Since that dismal start, though, Penn State has defeated Maryland 27-7 and Army 24-3. Nothing sensational, but possibly the start of something good.

"We're getting a little better each week," Paterno says. "We're a better football team right now than at any time this year."

Paterno made a key move two weeks when he switched All-American defensive tackle Bruce Clark to nose guard alongside Matt Millen, the Lions' other star tackle. Opponents can't waste four people trying to double-team both of them.

"It gives people some blocking problems and it's made us a better team," says Paterno. The coach also sheds his customary low-key attitude where Clark is concerned.

"Clark is a super player, and you can underline that six times," he says. "He's the best football player, the most dominant player we've ever had. We've never had a player who was better than anyone else. The only one close would be Lenny Moore."

Syracuse Coach Frank Maloney, who must find a way to neutralize Clark, calls Clark and Millen "the best two defensive linemen I've ever seen on one team. It's ridiculous to let the Football Writers Association vote on the Outland Trophy this year. Just lock Clark and Millen in a room and whoever comes out will be the winner."

Then, Maloney casts a vote for Clark.

"He's the finest defensive lineman I've seen since I've been coaching."

Baylor's Grant Teaff has a word of caution for anyone who thinks Texas is a shoo-in for the Southwest Conference championship and a berth in the Cotton Bowl.

"They're still got to play Arkansas, Southern Methodist, Texas Tech, Houston, Texas Christian, Baylor and Texas A&M," he points out, adding, "I'm very high on Houston."

Yale's Carm Cozza, immediate past president of the American Football Coaches Association, says the AFCA's Ethics Committee will investigate Arizona State's firing of Frank Kush at its annual convention in January.

"First, we have to find out all the details," Cozza says. "If the incident happened a year ago, why was the suit filed now?"

Giants hold their preseason camp at Pace University in Pleasantville, N.Y., while the New York Jets have their year-round practice field and headquarters at Hofstra University in Hempstead, N.Y.

Vagas Ferguson should become Notre Dame's all-time rushing king this weekend against Southern Cal. He needs only 21 yards to break Jerome Heavens' mark of 2,682 after gaining 84 against Air Force last Saturday.

"I took him out at the half because I didn't want to run up the score," said Coach Dan Devine. "He might have gained 400 yards the way he was running."

Ferguson wasn't upset, since he now figures to break the record at home. "I'm glad to see the other guys get some playing time," he said. "The record will come."

"Our initial game plan was to defend Wilson and not pressure him. In the past, defending him seemed to bother him." That's how Utah State Coach Bruce Snyder described his defensive strategy against Brigham Young.

Snyder guessed wrong. Marc Wilson completed 19 of 35 passes for 372 yards and two touchdowns in BYU's 48-24 victory.

Prosecutor hammers credibility

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors hammered away at the credibility of murder-solicitation defendant Cullen Davis, telling the millionaire it is not only what he says on FBI tape recordings — but what he doesn't say.

Lead prosecutor Jack Strickland focused on the most devastating passages Tuesday in the Aug. 18 recording of conversations between Davis and informant David McCrory.

Davis is accused of trying to hire the murder of his divorcee and others.

He has repeatedly denied he plotted the murder of Judge Joe Edison, claiming he was duped and framed by his ex-wife, Priscilla, McCrory and karate instructor Pat Burleson.

Davis disputed the testimony of McCrory on all fronts Tuesday and said he did not, as McCrory testified, see a faked snapshot of a "slain" judge last year before surrendering $25,000 allegedly earmarked for a phantom killer.

Strickland questioned Davis about what he meant on a passage in the tape when he asked McCrory, "What are you going to do with these?"

McCrory testified the exchange referred to an FBI staged picture of the judge and the jurist's identification cards.

Davis maintained he was talking about the tapes themselves, which he said McCrory showed him.

Strickland then asked why Davis made no mention of the tapes while he was being recorded.

"If you had said, 'Okay, what are you going to do with those tapes,' the FBI tape would have reflected that, and McCrory would have been blown out of the tub, wouldn't he?" Strickland asked.

"Yes, I suppose. I'm not sure ... it could have," responded Davis.

The millionaire defendant conceded that he once acknowledged telling David McCrory: "Do the judge, and then his wife, and that would be it."

Davis told this jury he did not say "do the judge" but said instead that "he'd do the judge..."

Although the distinction is complex, and the tape inconclusive, prosecutors interpret the recorded "do the judge" remark as implicit instructions to kill Edison.

Davis contends he issued no such instructions, that the "he'd do the judge" remark was merely conversational.

Local radio newscaster wins first

A local radio newscaster won first place for best local newscast in Texas.

China Long, news director for KHEM-AM and KFNE-FM radio stations in Big Spring was presented the award by the Texas Association of Broadcasters Tuesday in Austin for the population category 25,000 to 60,000. The awards luncheon was a highlight of the annual convention of the group whose membership includes most of the television and radio stations in the state.

China Long was in Austin to accept the award.

"This was particularly exciting for me," said Mrs. Long. "because I'm a newcomer to this business." Mrs. Long worked at Webb Air Force Base for 17 years.

"When the base closed, I decided to pursue my education and a job in broadcasting, because I've always felt it is a challenging field."

After the base closure, she attended the University of Texas of the Permian Basin. She received a Bachelor of Arts degree in mass communications in December 1978. Mrs. Long worked part time at KBST radio before accepting the position of News Director for KHEM and KFNE, both owned and operated by Gary Bradbury.

Curtain Call For Courtesy

DEAR ABBY: The other evening I saw an outstanding ballet company perform. At the end, the audience responded with enthusiastic applause, but as the dancers took their first curtain call a large percentage of the audience rushed out of the theater, no doubt hurrying to get to their cars first.

These people were not only being rude to the performers but to others in the audience by obstructing their view of the stage.

As an actress, I have felt anger and resentment after having given my all in a performance only to be deprived of my few moments of glory because some people didn't want to stick around for an extra five minutes.

The curtain call is important to performers. It's the only opportunity we have to step out of our roles and express our gratitude to an audience that rewards us with their applause.

Please print this, Abby, to remind audiences that performers need those few precious moments of appreciation. Withhold my name and sign me...

ACTRESS

DEAR ACTRESS: Name withheld (but I'm saving your letter). Take another bow for a beautiful letter on behalf of all performers.

DEAR ABBY: My wife has this long time girlfriend I'll call Muriel. She's my wife's age (39), divorced, fairly attractive, but doesn't have a steady man. Muriel falls herself to be some kind of femme fatale and has given me the come-on several times, but I've never given her any encouragement.

A couple of months ago, after I had taken my wife and Muriel to a disco, my wife told me that Muriel told her that I had made a pass at her! That was a total lie, and I told my wife it was.

Last weekend we were at a party and Muriel was there. I was very cool to her, and hardly spoke, but the next evening, my wife told me Muriel had called her at work and said that I had propositioned her!

Abby, I don't know what Muriel's game is, but I am fed up with her. I have never fooled around, but if I decided to start, it wouldn't be with Muriel. I have the feeling my wife isn't convinced that I am totally innocent. How should I handle this?

NOT GUILTY

DEAR NOT: Ask your wife to invite Muriel over. In the presence of both you and your wife confront her about her accusations. If your wife is really a good friend, she will encourage Muriel to get professional help. The poor girl could be less malicious than disturbed.

DEAR ABBY: My wife's father is being transferred to a job near our home and has hinted that he would like to spend the working week living with us. (We have a guest room.)

Dad is a kind and generous man and I get along very well with him, but I value my privacy and prefer to live alone with my wife.

It would be possible for Dad to commute to his new job just as he is doing in his present one.

I feel a bit guilty not insisting that he live with us, but I have to admit that if he were to stay here from Monday through Friday of every week I wouldn't have the privacy I presently enjoy.

So what's the answer?

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANON: A couple should not open their home to ANYONE unless both parties are in complete agreement. If either one has reservations, the word from here is DON'T!

Big Spring Music Study Club meet

The Big Spring Music Study Club met Oct. 10 in the choir room of Baptist Temple Church, Mrs. Susan Dawes, president, presided.

Mrs. Carla Warrington, an instructor of American sign language, taught the group to sing "Do You Hear What I Hear," in sign language. The club is planning a Christmas concert which will use this number.

Ms. Linda Mason led the members in the hymn of the month, "Holy is God", accompanied by Marguerite Hyden.

Mrs. Mona Lou Tonn and Mrs. Doris Mason were hostesses for the meeting.

All members were urged to attend the district fall conference of the Federation of Music Clubs at the First United Methodist Church Oct. 13.

WWI veterans and auxiliary meets

Barracks 1474, Veterans of World War I, and its Auxiliary met in regular session Oct. 13, at Kentwood Older Adult Activity Center.

Ten veterans were in attendance, and 40 ladies were present.

The District 19 Veterans of WWI Convention will be held at Kentwood Center on Nov. 3. Registration will start at 10 a.m. State officers for both the mens and womens organization will be in attendance and a noon luncheon will be served.

Visitors are expected from Lubbock, Levelland, Plainview, Crosbyton, Lamesa and Colorado City. Plans were made for participation in the Nov. 11 program at the Veterans Administration Medical Center and all members are urged to attend. Plans were made for a Christmas party after the regular meeting on Dec. 8.

Separate business meetings were held. Commander C.D. Phillips presided over the Barracks, and President Virginia Bryant, presided over the Auxiliary. The Auxiliary reports included an audit of the books on Oct. 10.

One new member, Mrs. Maryatt Owens, was reinstated from another Barracks. Visitors were Mrs. Clarissa Nicholson and Mrs. Lola Cockerham. Orders were read from Department President Etoll Matthews.

CHRISTIAN DIOR SHOW — This flowing evening gown in red and white striped organza with a rounded, plunging neckline surrounded by a wide ruffle is part of the 1980 Spring-Summer ready-to-wear fashion collection by French designer Christian Dior that was presented Monday in Paris.

Allman presents penitentiary program to retired teachers

The Big Spring-Howard County Retired Teachers' Association held its dinner meeting at noon, Oct. 15, in the Cactus Room of the Student Union Building at Howard College with Marie Landers, president, presiding.

Devotional was given by Martin Landers. Dinner music was provided by Josephine Dawes who also accompanied the group in singing "America" led by Dan Conley. The speaker for the occasion, John W. Allman, superintendent of Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, located in Industrial Park, was introduced by Mrs. Linnie Keese.

Allman explained that there are six categories of Federal prisons, penitentiaries, reformatories, and correctional institutions, each housing a different category of prisoners, ranging from those extremely dangerous to themselves and society down to the minimum security type prison such as we have here in which prisoners are not predicted to be dangerous either to themselves or society. They consist of men convicted of "white collar" Federal crimes, such as embezzlement, cheating on I.R.S. reports, drugs dealing, and the like. He noted that there are probably as many millionaires in this camp as there are in the whole city of Big Spring. He said that his job is to keep the individuals confined as prescribed by law, but not to allow them to lose family and community ties, since few of them are likely to commit the same crime twice, once their terms are served and they have reentered their communities.

There are 218 inmates in the prison now. Present capacity is 250 which soon will be expanded to 500. With a $3.8 million dollar budget and 117 civilian supervisors and employees, the prison is engaged in manufacturing products used by other Federal agencies, such as electronic cables and canvas products such as mattress covers, jeep tops, and the like.

In the Food Services program there are six civilian supervisors, but 25 inmates do the actual work, thus lessening the burden on the taxpayers. Mechanical Services operate in the same manner. Inmates are required to work eight hours a day five days a week, for which they receive a small stipend. Some inmates have V.A. benefits. There is no work release program here at present because there is not enough manpower available for working outside the prison.

All types of programs are offered to inmates. Presently, some 40 individuals are enrolled in Howard College. Hopefully, by next semester, some inmates will be able to pay for their own transportation and contract with someone to transport them to U.T.P.B. for classes there.

Each weekend families come to visit inmates. They stay in local motels, make purchases from local merchants, and worship in churches all over town. Big Spring people have been sincere and active in providing good environment and good rapport with these visitors.

Allman characterized this prison as being like a decompression chamber — the last stop for inmates before their release back into society. As Administrator, Allman has the final say as to whom is accepted here. The age range now is from 17 to 73 years, and terms being served range from 30 days to 28 years. The inmate with the 28-year term lacks only a few days being ready for release.

In the opinion of Allman, all the varied services and programs provided are helpful toward rehabilitation, but in the final analysis rehabilitation can only come from inside each individual, who must desire it and work toward that end with the help of God.

The value of this kind of institution lies in its mission of helping men learn to cope with the outside world before being released back into it. Allman has had dealings with "The Birdman of Alcatraz," Patricia Hearst, and many other infamous people during his career in prison work.

Allman said that one of the most important things of all is to provide a sincere religious program for the inmates. Last Sunday found at least 50 percent of the inmates involved in church services either inside the prison or in the community. Allman wondered if the city of Big Spring had that high a percentage of people attending church services.

Allman closed by stating that in the 17 moves he has made, he thinks Big Spring is the finest town in which he has lived.

How would you end this story

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 14 with a 19-year-old boyfriend. Before you blow your mind, please listen to my story.

Last April, my parents surprised me with a boat cruise and I really was excited. Anyway, I met this guy on the cruise because he was our "busboy" at all of our meals.

The second night, he asked me to meet him on the promenade deck at 10:00 p.m. My mother came with me but soon left with my father to go dancing.

Well, I could hardly understand him because he spoke Italian and very little English (we were on an Italian liner). But after a few days we could understand each other pretty good. From then on, I was with him every second he wasn't working. We were together every morning and afternoon and went to the beaches at every port.

I thought that he was the most terrific person that I had ever met until the last when he laughed at me because I was a virgin. He said he was sorry but later that night, he asked me to make love with him. When I told him "No, thank you," he grabbed my arm and kissed me and told me that was exactly what he wanted to hear from me.

He said that where he lives in Italy, there are no decent girls and that I was the girl that he had been searching for. When he said, "Mindy, I love you," I couldn't believe it because that was exactly what I wanted him to say.

We have been writing to each other for the last five months and he still says that he loves me, but now he says that he wants to marry me and make our home in Italy.

I love him very much and told him that I must finish school first but to tell you the truth, I have thought about running away so many times. I cry at least twice a day and feel terrible except when I receive a letter from him.

The last letter I got said he would be sending me a beautiful ring.

Dr. Wallace, I really need your opinion. My parents both know exactly what's going on. — Mindy, San Antonio, Texas

Mindy: You have probably had the romance that most girls dream about. Everything seemed perfect.

Please allow me to present four endings to your story. Only you will be able to choose the right one for you:

1. You wait four years faithfully and he returns and you both are still in love, so you get married and live happily in Italy.

2. You wait faithfully for quite some time but his letters stop coming or he writes and tells you the girls in his home town weren't so bad after all.

3. You continue writing to him but you do not sit at home and cry over him. Instead, you meet other teen boys in San Antonio and have an enjoyable teen life. When you are 18, you invite him (if he is still available) to visit you.

4. You continue to write to him, but you realize that he was a wonderful, lovable Romeo and probably has said the same thing to many girls.

Men sought in smuggling hashish to U.S. on yacht

BOSTON (AP) - A dozen men are being sought in four states today on charges of smuggling 6,000 pounds of hashish into the United States on a yacht, officials said.

Three others have been arrested so far, in Michigan, Virginia and California.

They include Peter Lynn Krutschewski, who has been called to testify before a Texas grand jury investigating the murder of U.S. District Court Judge John H. Wood Jr.

Federal officials in Texas have said they believe Wood's murder is linked to illegal drug smuggling.

Krutschewski, 34, who also uses the name Peter Blake, was listed on public records as half-owner of the Blackfriar's Restaurant in Boston, where five men were gunned to death in June 1978.

He was identified as a "key person" in the alleged hashish ring.

Federal officials estimate that hashish is worth $2,500-$3,000 a pound on the wholesale market, making the drugs involved in the case worth nearly $18 million.

Robert M. Stutman, regional head of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, called it the first major success in a program of "dismantling entire (drug) organizations from top to bottom."

"This is just the first of many such cases," predicted Stutman, who announced the arrests Tuesday.

Krutschewski was arrested near his Lansing, Mich., home on his way to the airport Monday, Stutman said.

His initial bond of $500,000 bond was reduced to $100,000 in U.S. District Court in Grand Rapids Tuesday on condition that he appear Thursday before the Wood grand jury in Texas.

In addition to Krutschewski, those arrested so far were identified as Thomas Tindall of Arlington, Va., and Mark Hansen, 30, of San Francisco.

Tindall fired at the agents who arrested him Monday night at his home but was subdued without any shots being returned, Stutman said.

He was arraigned Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Va., and held on $25,000 bond pending a hearing today on an application to bring him to Massachusetts for trial.

Hansen, who was arrested Monday at his apartment, was freed Tuesday on $10,000 bond.

The men charged in the alleged hashish-smuggling conspiracy were secretly indicted by a federal grand jury in Boston Oct. 5, just before the five-year statute of limitations ran out.

They are accused of smuggling 6,000 pounds of hashish into the United States on Oct. 8, 1974, on a yacht that landed the haul in the Gloucester, Mass., area, Stutman said.

They allegedly spent several months in the spring of 1974 in Morocco arranging to get the drugs, he said.

WAVES TO CROWD - Chinese Prime Minister Hu Guofeng, right, waves to the Paris crowd Tuesday morning after attending a reception given by Paris Mayor Jacques Chirac, left. Hu Guofeng will spend a week in France, then head to West Germany, Britain and Italy on his three-week trip.

West Germany cautious, negotiating

Germany offers olive branch

BONN, West Germany (AP) — While the Soviet Union warns Western Europe against U.S. nuclear missiles on their territory, the East Germans are quietly offering the olive branch to West Germany in a major diplomatic initiative.

The Communist government in East Berlin has offered to negotiate a range of issues with Bonn, including improvements in the situation in West Berlin, reductions in transit fees for travel to the divided city, greater opportunities for travel between the two Germanys and disarmament.

Informed sources say the East Germans hope the overtures will open the way to a summit meeting between West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and East Germany's Communist Party chief, Erich Honecker. Some observers think the East German initiative is a Soviet Bloc attempt to take advantage of current strains between the United States and West Germany to try to wean West Germany away from its strong support of NATO and the United States.

East Germany's overtures contrast sharply with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev's warnings on Oct. 6 and again Tuesday that West Germany and other West European nations face grave risks if they agree to U.S. proposals to station 572 Pershing II and cruise missiles on their soil.

Schmidt has said West Germany will accept the missiles if at least one other NATO member on the Continent takes them. But Belgium and the Netherlands, the likeliest prospects, are wavering. Honecker launched the East German initiative and Brezhnev issued his first warning simultaneously, in speeches at the celebration of the 30th anniversary of the East German Republic. Honecker was overshadowed because Brezhnev at the same time announced he was withdrawing up to 20,000 troops and 1,000 tanks from East Germany and offered to negotiate a reduction in the Soviet medium-range missiles that threaten Western Europe.

The East German leader offered to enter negotiations with West Germany and said: "We see the possibility of clarifying a series of issues which could contribute to the securing of peace and disarmament. Above all, the two German states could cooperate on the question of disarmament."

In a gesture of good faith, his government released a number of prisoners. They included dissident economist Rudolf Bahro and anti-militarist Nico Huebner, who in West Germany are symbols of resistance to tyranny. The East Germans also let it be known that they would be allowed to leave the country if they wished.

SIMULATED ROCKET EXPLOSION — A giant ball of fire fills the air after a simulated explosion of a rocket hitting a group of attacking tanks during an exercise at a NATO training field in Munster, West Germany, Tuesday. The exercise was watched by defense ministers of France, Great Britain and West Germany.

Farm — Meat buyers favor national computer plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although some stubborn resistance may develop against a nationwide computer system for the wholesale meat trade, two of the government's biggest meat-buying agencies say they would go along with the plan.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Tuesday that the Agriculture and Defense departments endorse the idea.

But it should be set up by private industry, free of direct government subsidies, new laws or new regulations, Bergland told the House Small Business Committee. Advocates of the computerized system say it would make the wholesale meat business more competitive and eliminate opportunities for price manipulation by a handful of big meat packers and supermarkets.

The committee has been sharply critical of the current system by which supermarket chains, large meatpackers and others use "average prices" from only a few sales by others as a basis for buying and selling beef.

The cotton and egg industries have a computerized system now, with producers offering goods for sale and buyers bidding on them through the network. Bergland said the programs operate like the computerized market in over-the-counter common stocks.

Bergland put the beef industry on notice this summer that it had a year to change its practices or he would consider legislation to require a different approach. His warning stemmed from findings of a task force on meat pricing he appointed a year ago under pressure from the committee.

"We're waiting for someone in private industry to begin a system. As soon as they do, we're in" as a large-volume buyer for school lunches and other feeding programs, Bergland said.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown wrote him this week that the Pentagon also will participate. The two agencies alone would make such a system "commercially sound very quickly," he said.

However, "imposing mandatory price reporting ... is premature today and hopefully can be avoided through voluntary cooperation," Bergland said.

Committee members were skeptical, saying only outsiders are dissatisfied with present arrangements. "The big guys aren't going to mess around with it," commented Rep. Dan Marriott, R-Utah. "They already get the prices they want."

"Nobody likes competition," added Rep.

Berkley Bedell, D-Iowa.

"If we run up against a stone wall, we're prepared to come back with legislation," replied Bergland. He said he hoped for "tangible movement by spring," after a February seminar on electronic marketing he's sponsoring for the industry.

Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, the committee chairman, has been conducting hearings and investigations on meat pricing for two years.

Decline in grain harvest forecast for mid-80s

WASHINGTON (AP) — Short harvests in the Soviet Union and some other countries will mean a decline in world grain reserves by mid-1980 to 164.5 million metric tons, says the Agriculture Department.

That would represent an 18 percent decline from the stockpile of wheat and coarse grains on July 1, the department said Tuesday. The new estimate also is down from the 168 million metric tons the department indicated a month ago would be in reserve next summer. The world stockpile July 1 was 199.9 million metric tons, the report said.

Smaller crops this year in the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe, India and some other major production areas have reduced the supply available for 1979-80.

Meanwhile, global consumption of grain is expected to increase, the report said. That will mean larger exports by the United States where total grain output is expected to set a record this year.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn. Coarse grains include corn, barley and similar grains used mainly for livestock feed in the United States.

Total world grain output in 1979-80, including milled rice, is expected to be about 1.382 billion metric tons, down by 4.5 percent from 1.448 billion produced in 1978-79, the report said.

The report said the Soviet Union will need to import about 32 million metric tons of grain from all sources in 1978-79, unchanged from earlier estimates.

Corn harvest behind last year's 35 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — This fall's corn harvest was about 21 percent completed in the major producing states by Oct. 14, well behind the 35 percent pace of a year ago, according to the Agriculture Department.

"Frost reached deeper into the Corn Belt, but maturity (of the crop) throughout the area ranged from a low of 80 percent in Michigan to 100 percent in many other states," the department said Tuesday in a weekly review of the weather and crops situation.

By Oct. 14, it said, "most soybeans in the north central states were mature and relatively safe from severe frost damage." Nationally, about 43 percent of the soybean acreage was harvested by mid-month, slightly ahead of the year-ago pace.
