Forsan cheerleader dies

A Forsan Junior High cheerleader was killed and another Forsan student seriously injured Sunday in a one-car accident southwest of Big Spring.

Kenda Renee Soles Warneke, 12, of Elbow was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin, 12:45 p.m. She was killed when the car she was driving went off side of Howard County Road 17, hit a culvert and rolled over.

A passenger in the car, Lee Ann Smith, 12, of Elbow is in stable condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital and is expected to be moved out of the Intensive Care Unit sometime today. Lee Ann Smith, a seventh grade student at Forsan Junior High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Low.

Services for Kenda will be at 2 p.m., Tuesday in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Officiating will be Dr. Claude Craven, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, and the Rev. Bill Ballard, Central Baptist Church.

KENDRA SOLES WARNEKE

She was born Oct. 29, 1966, in Big Spring. She was a member of Trinity Baptist Church. She was a seventh grade student at Forsan Junior High and was a cheerleader, a member of the Student Council, the YMCA and was active in athletic programs at Forsan Junior High and the YMCA.

Survivors include her mother and stepfather, Pam and Melvin Warneke, Elbow; her father and stepmother, Kenneth and Patricia Soles, Big Lake; three brothers, Lance, Chad and James Warneke, all of Elbow; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McKinnon, Elbow; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Soles, Big Spring; and Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Warneke, Waco; her great-grandmothers, Mrs. C.M. Grisham, Elbow; Mrs. L.L. Soles, Colorado City; and Mrs. Connie Ketchersid, Waco; and several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Pallbearers will be Clayton McKinnon, Ray McKinnon Jr., Bob Downing, Richard Warneke, Landon Soles and Dale Soles.

Members of the YMCA swim team are considered honorary pallbearers.

Cable car tragedy closes fair

DALLAS (AP) — Stunned thousands who jammed the midway on the last day of the State Fair of Texas watched in horror Sunday as two cable cars on a midway-spanning ride collided and plunged about 100 feet, killing one man and injuring at least 15 others.

Fred Millard, 41, of Dallas, died at 8:05 p.m. in surgery at Parkland Hospital.

Officials believe Millard, his wife and three daughters were playing a bowling ball-type carnival game at the time of the 4:45 p.m. accident. It was not known how many of the injured were aboard the fallen cars, but Millard's wife and two of his daughters also were hurt.

Donna Aydelott, 19, of Wichita Falls, Texas, suffered head injuries when the sky car she was in fell onto the awning of a carnival booth.

The car that collided with hers fell all the way through an adjacent booth, smashing into the left half of a six-lane game the Millards were believed to be at.

Miss Aydelott said the wind had been blowing the car "pretty hard" and the car had struck a pole just before the accident occurred.

She said she and two other women in her car, Deborah Hammonds, 23, of Wichita Falls, and Terri Kenes, 19, of Dallas, noticed two cars in front of them stuck together. When they saw sparks coming from the cable, they started getting scared, she said.

"We just kept coming toward them. Terri stuck out her arm to stop us when we hit them," Miss Aydelott added.

"I think we would have been all right then. We just hung there, swinging. But the car behind us came up really fast and crashed us hard. That's when we fell."

Miss Hammonds suffered head and knee injuries and Miss Kenes had a serious head wound.

About 85 persons were left swaying aboard 41 stranded cars suspended in the air, some of them for more than three hours, until rescuers could walk them down with snorkels and aerial ladders.

Officers said the 15 hurt were "better than serious."

A fireman, Larry Lewis, also suffered a broken leg when he fell while trying to board a moving firetruck. The truck ran over his leg.

The "Swiss Skyride" ground to a halt when the cars fell, but it was not known if the shutdown was automatic.

About 85 people were left swaying aboard stranded cars for more than three hours while rescuers used snorkels and aerial ladders to bring them down to safety.

"The last figure I heard was that 85 people were rescued," Police Department spokesman Ed Spencer said. Fair officials had said 41 cars were stranded after the accident.

As darkness fell, workers used chain saws to cut down enough trees to allow heavy rescue equipment to make its way to the scene.

The cars plummeted from the high cables into a pair of game concession stands located scant feet apart. One car crashed through the booth of one game, and the second caught in the canvas awning of the nearby booth.

Wind gusted to 28 mph, the National Weather Service said, but no official cause for the accident was determined.

Some eyewitnesses said the cars fell after two of them collided, but the report was unconfirmed.

Curious throngs of fairgoers jammed the area immediately after the accident, impeding ambulances, paramedics and other rescue workers trying to make their way to the victims.

The fair was shut down about six hours early to make it easier to clear the area.

Air Force and Marine units manning displays at the fair helped police and other authorities with crowd control. Police arrested two persons.

The cars' plunge triggered screams as those attending the final day of the 16-day fair billed as the nation's largest realized what was happening. "I heard a great big rumbling noise," said concession operator Scott Sanderson, 21, of Muncie, Ind. "I saw people pointing in the air and I thought an air show was going on. I saw it hit that lady... I did see a girl in the cable car that fell on top of that awning. She was screaming, 'Help, help.' She had blood coming out from underneath... her ear."

INJURED IN CABLE CAR CRASH — A small girl weeps for her friend, who was injured when two cable cars fell from their cable into the midway at the Texas State Fair Sunday. Two Red Cross workers tend to the unidentified girl, one of 15 injured in the crash. There is no official word as to what caused the cars to plunge about 100 feet to the ground.

Confessed killer executed in Nevada

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Jesse Bishop, the tough-talking murderer who sneered at attempts to save him from the Nevada gas chamber, was executed early today, only the third man put to death in the United States in 12 years.

A few hours later authorities said Bishop, 46, may have been involved in as many as 18 slayings. He was executed for the 1977 slaying of a Baltimore man during a robbery at a Las Vegas casino.

"This is just one more step down the road of life," he told State Prison Director Charles Wolff Jr. in his final words.

Clark County District Judge Paul Goldman, who sentenced Bishop to die and later visited him in prison, said the inmate told him about other murders. He said he sent a policeman to interview Bishop and the officer "came back with figures about 18 other homicides... 12 in California and six in other places."

Asked about the report, Bishop's older brother said, "I can't believe it. But he told me a couple of months ago there was a lot I didn't know about."

The brother, who asked not to be identified, said he understood Bishop had mentioned "being a hit man for the mob." But the brother said "if he was doing that he would have had to be totally insane. And he didn't seem like that."

Wolff had offered Bishop a chance to appeal shortly before the inmate was taken into the gas chamber.

Moments later, he was strapped in a freshly painted death seat and green curtains went up in the gas chamber. Bishop smiled at a reporter among the 14 witnesses — 13 men and a woman — standing in an adjacent room.

"He looked each of us in the eye, I think," said Tad Dunbar of KOLQ-TV in Reno, one of those who watched the 46-year-old ex-paratrooper die for the murder of a Maryland man.

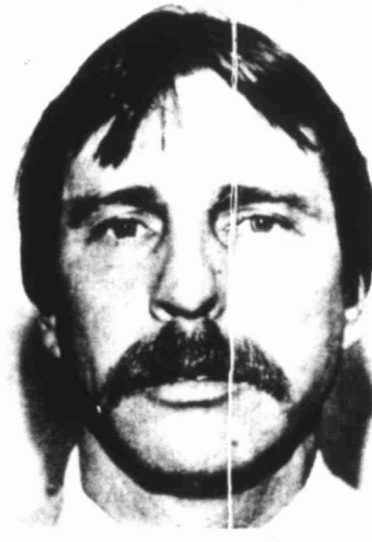

Bishop shook his head and said nothing. Cyanide pellets fell into an acid bath, unleashing deadly gas. Bishop made what appeared to be a thumbs-down sign, wrinkled his nose, seemed to search the room and breathed deeply several times.

His eyes rolled upward, his head fell on his chest and then snapped back. He took another deep breath and closed his eyes — for the last time. Bishop's face reddened, saliva ran from his mouth and his body shuddered. After a series of convulsive jerks, it was over.

One witness went down on one knee, but recovered and stood up again.

Wolff had offered Bishop, 46, a chance to appeal even up to the point at which the inmate, clad in blue denim pants, a white shirt and white socks, was brought into the chamber and strapped into a freshly painted death chair.

But the feisty prisoner said no, just as he earlier spurned offers to see a minister before going to his death.

JESSE BISHOP

Wolff sent the prison chaplain to see the convicted murderer on his last day.

Bishop had told authorities "I believe in Jesse Bishop. I don't believe in any religion. I don't believe in God."

Prison officials pronounced the execution complete at 12:21 a.m. Moments later, Gov. Bob List, who had refused clemency sought by others on Bishop's behalf, said the convict had paid his due.

"The sentence of the law has been carried out and Mister Bishop has paid his debt to society," List said in a statement from the governor's mansion. "He is now in the hands of the Supreme Authority."

Last minute appeals to two U.S. Supreme Court justices were turned down Sunday. Bishop had not authorized them.

"He was genuinely not afraid to die, and that's an awe-inspiring sight," a brother, who did not want to be identified, had said after a recent meeting.

One of the last things Bishop saw was a slip of darkened Nevada sky visible through a window in the chamber.

He had spent more than 20 years of his life in prison — mostly for robbery and drug-related arrests.

Booth space for 1980 arts, crafts festival sold out

Few things have succeeded here like the annual Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival.

Members of the sponsoring organization, the Cultural Affairs committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, announced immediately following the two-day festival Sunday that all booth space for next year's event had already been leased and all concessions rights had been sold.

Next year, at least 140 booths will be in operation whereas 130 were set up this year. The festival committee, headed by Mel Prather and Louis Tallant, have already had applications for 154 booths for the 1980 event.

Sales in the 1979 festival, although the tabulation isn't complete, will run well into six figures and could approach a half million dollars.

"I sold more of my products in two days here than I did during the entire week of the Howard County Fair," one enthusiastic booster of the festival said late Sunday.

Some of the artists and craftsmen here closed early because they had sold all their wares.

Television crews from both Midland and Odessa were on hand to film highlights of the festival.

The crowd estimate for the two-day event was 35,000 and the turnout could have exceeded that. Last year, some came to see the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum for the first time and take in the festival. This year, most returned simply to be a part of the festival.

The artists and craftsmen, for the most part, had ecstatic words of praise for the festival. More than a few conceded it is the best-run of all such events in the entire southwest.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Drunk driver

Q. What's the legal standard of drunken driving in Texas?
A. Under Texas law you are presumed drunk if your blood alcohol content is one-tenth of one percent or more. It all depends on your size, whether you've eaten, etc. But a 120 pound woman will probably reach that level after only two mixed drinks in two hours will probably do it for most folks. Traffic safety officials point out that any amount of alcohol reduces concentration and reflex time.

Calendar: Booster Club meeting

TODAY
Caprock chapter, March of Dimes, will meet at 7 p.m. in Big Spring High School.

TUESDAY
Cotton Pool Inc., 1979 contract cotton crop, Howard County Fairbarns, 8 p.m.

Big Spring Booster Club meets in High School Cafeteria, 7 p.m. Football players have been encouraged to be on hand with their parents. Films of Big Spring-Permian game will be shown.

National Diabetes Association meeting in Texas Electric Reddy Room at 7:00 p.m.

Tops on TV: Steelers-Broncos

This should be a good one! At 8 p.m. on ABC, you can watch the Pittsburgh Steelers tangle with the Denver Broncos in the Steel City. Also, for movie buffs, one of director Brian De Palma's ("Carrie") earlier features, "Sisters," airs at 9 p.m. on Channel 11. This one deals with a Siamese twin who is arrested after she is mistaken for her sister, who has become involved in murder. Margot Kidder and Charles Durning star.

OUT OF THE FIRE — Two-year-old Jamie Moksheski plays with a firehat Saturday in Liberty, outside Houston. He has been identified as the missing son of a Colorado couple. A teen-aged girl tried to sell Jamie for $100 near Anahuac, Texas.

Abducted son reunited

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Jamie Moksheski, allegedly kidnapped last month by a teen-age babysitter, is home with his parents after being rescued police and welfare workers in Texas who learned a teen-age girl offered to sell the 2-year-old boy for $100.

Jamie vanished from his southside Colorado Springs home with his 15-year-old babysitter, Letha Rose Kingsbury, on Sept. 25.

Carter in good mood

WASHINGTON (AP) — After one of his most upbeat weeks since taking office, President Carter was in such a good mood it seemed he literally couldn't sit still.

As Air Force One was about to touch down at Andrews Air Force Base on Saturday, Carter departed from his usual in-flight reticence to hold forth on his early showing in the 1980 presidential sweepstakes.

He had just appeared with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy at the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library dedication in Boston, where the president's speech drew praise for its eloquence. A week earlier, Carter supporters won a nearly 2-to-1 edge in the Florida caucuses.

Hillside strangler?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kenneth Bianchi was brought into Los Angeles under tight security for a hearing today to enter pleas to murder charges in connection with five "Hillside Strangler" slayings.

He was expected to enter guilty pleas under terms of a bargain in which he agreed to implicate his cousin in 10 of the strangulations.

Bianchi's cousin, Angelo Buono, 44, of Glendale, was arrested Friday and charged with the slayings just minutes after Bianchi entered guilty pleas to strangling two Western Washington University coeds.

Buono also was to appear in court today for arraignment on the murder charges. The complaint filed by the district attorney's office Friday alleges "special circumstances" in the killings, meaning the death penalty can be sought if he is convicted.

The surprise pleas by Bianchi in Bellingham, Wash., brought to a conclusion a complex web of plea-bargaining involving Bianchi and authorities from Whatcom and Los Angeles counties.

Two charged in Stanton

STANTON — Billy E. Smith, 24, of Houston, and Benton Ray Morgan, 21, of Houston have been charged with theft from person, a third degree felony, in connection with a beating and robbery of an Ackerly man Saturday.

According to Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders, Morgan was employed by the Farmer's Co-Op Gin in Ackerly and he and Smith, who was unemployed, were both living in the Co-Op Gin Apartments.

Saunders said that the two were apparently part of a poker game and drinking party at the gin barracks. Two other men present claimed to have been robbed of payroll checks by Smith, Morgan and four other persons, including two women.

According to Saunders, the other four persons will not be charged and no charges have been filed on the alleged theft of the payroll checks.

Smith and Morgan were arrested 3:30 a.m. Saturday in connection with a brutal beating and robbery of a third victim, Lucio Laira Romo of Ackerly.

Romo was released from a hospital in Big Spring after treatment. He was reportedly beaten with a blunt end of a hatchet. His assailants took $300 cash from him.

Smith and Morgan are being held in the Martin County jail in lieu of $5,000 each. Charges could reap them from two to ten years in the Texas Department of Corrections, Saunders said.

Police beat Burglary suspect held

Police have a man in custody who is a suspect in the midnight burglary of Ward's Western Wear, 212 Runnels.

According to Capt. Jim McCain, three jackets and pants of unknown value were stolen from the business around midnight last night and were later recovered at the Howard House Hotel, 118 E. 3rd. A suspect in the burglary was arrested at the Halfway House and charged with public intoxication. He has not yet been charged with the burglary pending further investigation.

Sometime between Saturday and 6 p.m. Sunday, a flatbed trailer valued at $450 was taken from the parking area at J&K Shoe Store, Highland Shopping Center.

Unknown damages were done to several windows and a door on a residence owned by the City of Big Spring, located next to the fire station at the 100 block of N.E. 8th. The vandalism occurred sometime since it was moved to that location, between Oct. 15 and Sunday.

Two men, Richard Puga Gutierrez, 610 N. Gregg, and Richard Joseph Nunez, 710 N. Scurry, were arrested 2:28 a.m. Sunday after police discovered two pistols in the glove compartment of the car, driven by Gutierrez. The two were stopped at N.W. 2nd and Gregg.

They have been charged with the unlawful carrying of weapons. The pair was transferred to the county jail Sunday morning where each was released on a $2,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

Shots were reportedly fired at a number of Big Spring residents Sunday night. John Curt Hodges, 1306 Nolan, reported that unknown persons fired shots at him in the vicinity of 1104 Ridgeroad, 9:30 p.m.

Ernest Clavarría, 1505 W. 2nd; Joe Carpenter, 1-20 Trailer Court No. 16; and Daniel Ruiz, 1500 W. 2nd, all claimed that unknown persons fired shots at them at the 1000 block of West 3rd.

A woman reported to police Sunday that an unknown woman had called her, 6:05 p.m., and accused her of making time with her husband. Another woman with the same first initial and last name was also called and accused by the distraught wife. A report was filed by one of the accused.

Patricia Isaacs, 1901 Scurry, reported that a man known to her struck her in the face with fists at 1513 Sycamore, 3 a.m. Sunday.

A Midland woman, Gloria Washington, reported that a known person pulled a gun on her while she was sitting in her car in the Gibson's parking lot, 7 p.m. Saturday.

Judy Gardner, 4212 Parkway, was the target of anger Saturday when a person known to her attempted to run over her with a vehicle in the front yard of 306 E. 6th, 7:45 p.m. Several people in the 300 block of E. 6th witnessed the assailant yelling that he was going to kill her.

Several gasoline thefts were reported over the weekend.

Two males reportedly drove off without paying for $2 of gas at the 7-11 Store, W. Hwy. 80 and Willia, 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

According to a clerk at Town and Country Grocery, Wasson Rd., a female gave the clerk $5 for gas and then put $8.05 worth in her tank before driving off, 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Town and Country fared better than the 7-11 at 3rd and Owens which was paid $1 for gas before a motorist filled up with $5.26 worth and drove off, 9:55 p.m. Sunday.

An $89 bicycle owned by Jacob Bustamante, 9, was reportedly stolen from the rear of the Bustamante residence, 301 N.E. 9th, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Saturday.

A family was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital by Shaffer ambulance Saturday night after a car driven by Oscar Hernandez, 1010 N. Runnels, struck a car driven by Andres Dominguez, 815 N.W. 6th, at 100 N.W. 7th, 9 p.m. Dominguez, 38, and Lucy Olivas Dominguez, 32, were treated for minor injuries and released. Two children, Janie Annette, Dominguez, 8, and Andres Dominguez Jr., 10, were not injured.

The intersection of FM 700 and Hwy. 87 was the scene of a collision involving Carrie Covington, 2106 Merryly, and Jimmy Neldon, San Antonio, 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Vehicles driven by Gordon Adams, Southland Apartments, and David Correa, 1111 N. Scurry, collided in the parking lot of Bogarts, 2:20 a.m. Sunday.

Vehicles driven by Bette Hughes, Rt. 2, Box 21A, and Henry Menchaca, 405 N. Scurry, collided at Hwy. 87 and West 2nd, 7:34 a.m. today.

Firemen extinguish trash fire

Big Spring firemen battled a blaze for nearly eight hours Saturday night and Sunday morning before bringing it under control.

Despite the many hours of firefighting and the fact that it took two units to extinguish the stubborn blaze, a dollar amount of damages does not apply. What burned was rubbish in the city dump.

Cause of the fire is undetermined although a car was seen leaving the area shortly before it began.

The fire was reported at 10:48 p.m. Saturday and units were at the scene at 10:50 p.m. The fire was extinguished by 6:30 a.m. Sunday.

PB center will offer course

The Permian Basin Graduate Center will offer a program, "Right-of-Way, Damages, Ingress and Egress," Thursday, 7-10 p.m. at the PBGC Building, 105 W. Illinois, Midland. Instructor is Windel M. Gibson, vice-president, Trust Land Manager, First National Bank, Midland.

Gibson received his Bachelor of Science and Masters in Business at Midwestern University, Wichita Falls. He received his Doctorate of Law at South Texas College of Law in Houston. He is an active member at Landman's Association, the Midland, Houston, and Texas State Bar Association, as well as the American Right-of-Way Association.

Fee for the course is $20. For more information or registration call the Graduate Center at 563-2311 or 683-2832.

Rick Hamby, district attorney, has requested a change in the status of Don Richard from special investigator to assistant district attorney. County Judge Bill C. Tate said, "Legally, he's been a special investigator all this time."

Machinery maintenance contracts considered

Howard County Commissioners were in a quagmire this morning in a special meeting of the court over which bid to accept for office machine preventive maintenance.

A bid from Marlin's Office Machines offered $2,849.41 for maintenance and a bid from Graham's Office Machines offered $2,375 for maintenance for the 61 machines. The cause for the price difference is an in office inspection by Marlin's Business Machines. The inspection will include lubrication.

Both bids met specifications, however, Marlin's bid was detailed and Graham's wasn't. Commissioners didn't know if Graham's bid would include lubrication and considered rebidding for their next meeting. The question then arose whether to allow all companies to rebid or just to accept bids from these two.

Marlin Murphy, Marlin's Business Machines owner, said he could fix or provide a loaner for the office in an hour if an emergency arose.

His bid provided for emergency repairs in four hours and normal repairs in eight hours. He offered the county a 15 percent discount.

Commissioner Paul Allen said, "We asked for a detailed bid and only received one," referring to Marlin's. Precinct 4 Commissioner David Barr replied that "both bids met specifications." Barr said he felt that commissioners should accept the lower bid.

Marlin has done the work for the last two years. County Auditor Jackie Olson said the county had never asked for the bids on the service before. Murphy said previous agreements with the county had included the preventive maintenance.

Murphy said half of the 61 machines needed to be taken to the shop for cleaning. He said he would pick up more of them for cleaning than he had in the past. This would keep him from having to come to the courthouse to repair them.

He said the tax office gives the machines especially hard use.

Larry Ray, Graham's service manager, had worked for Marlin's Business Machines until about a month ago. He had previously done courthouse repairs. He said he was the only repairman in the area trained to work on Facit machines. Of the county's 61 machines 37 are Facits.

County Engineer Bill Mim said he and his employees had done all the physical repairs on the jail they could do to meet state jail standard. The Howard County jail is up for inspection on Nov. 7. Work on the jail included emergency lights, smoke alarm, smoke ejector and fire extinguisher.

Precinct 1 Commissioner Louis Brown said a required intercom and television monitor of the jail area, would cost $26,000. Commissioners are awaiting information on a federal grant.

Mim also asked for replacement of a dump truck and two pickups. The county has two 1974 dump trucks and five 1973 pickups operating.

Brown moved to advertise for bids for opening in six weeks. The motion passed.

Not automatically replaced

Doctors must be recruited

By ROBB CROW

Two things that doctors and money have in common are that neither grow on trees and if future planning isn't organized, both could become scarce.

Most public citizens are disillusioned as to how communities acquire doctors, aside from the fact they come out of medical schools. But how are physicians who retire, move or die replaced? Unlike baby teeth which are replaced with permanent ones, a doctor's vacated position is not automatically refilled with his departure.

"Doctors must be recruited," revealed Dr. William (Bill) Ross, chairman of the Department of family practice at the Southwestern Medical School of Dallas who enlightened members of the Malone-Hogan Recruitment Team Tuesday afternoon on the various ways to lure prospective physicians to the area.

Members of the recruitment team attending included Norman Knox, hospital administrator; Sue Rossander, secretary to Knox; R.L. Heith, clinic administrator; and Howard Mott, clinic general office manager. Unable to attend was Hal Boyd.

It was suggested by Dr. Ross that the recruitment team follow up on doctor's advertisements and issue invitations to prospective physicians to visit Big Spring and its hospitals.

"Have a hospitality reception for the doctors and invite their wives," he stressed.

Dr. Ross explained that wives often have a difficult time fitting into a town and its society.

"Have something planned for her like meeting other women in the community, but make it very informal."

According to Dr. Ross, "Doctors want to know doctors, they want to know people from every spectrum, including the man at the service station to the checkout person at the grocery store."

It is the intent of the Malone-Hogan Recruitment Team, to form an advisory board comprised of local citizens to act as a welcoming corp for new Big Spring doctors.

"A new doctor is the loneliest person in town," revealed Dr. Ross. "It would be great to have some sort of organized group welcome him and his family, if only by a telephone call or a visit."

Dr. Ross advised against formal teas and dinners saying "You really can't get to know anybody at those things."

Another misconception pointed out by Dr. Ross had by most communities is that doctors automatically fit into new cities and their lifestyles much like the last piece of a puzzle fits into its proper place.

"Not so," said Dr. Ross. "Doctors and their families must go through the same type of adjustment period as any new family in the community. They are interested in the town's culture, schools and the lifestyles of the people. They want to make sure they can and will fit in."

"This is where help from local citizens comes in," revealed Heith. "We need a corp of people to welcome physicians and their families here and help them meet people, get involved and adjust to the new lifestyle."

Heith and Knox will take a recruitment trip in upcoming weeks, one to Southwestern Medical School in Dallas and another trip to Scott and White in Temple.

"We will be visiting first and second year residents and hosting hospitality receptions for prospective physicians," explained Knox. "We're looking for future physicians now as a service to the community."

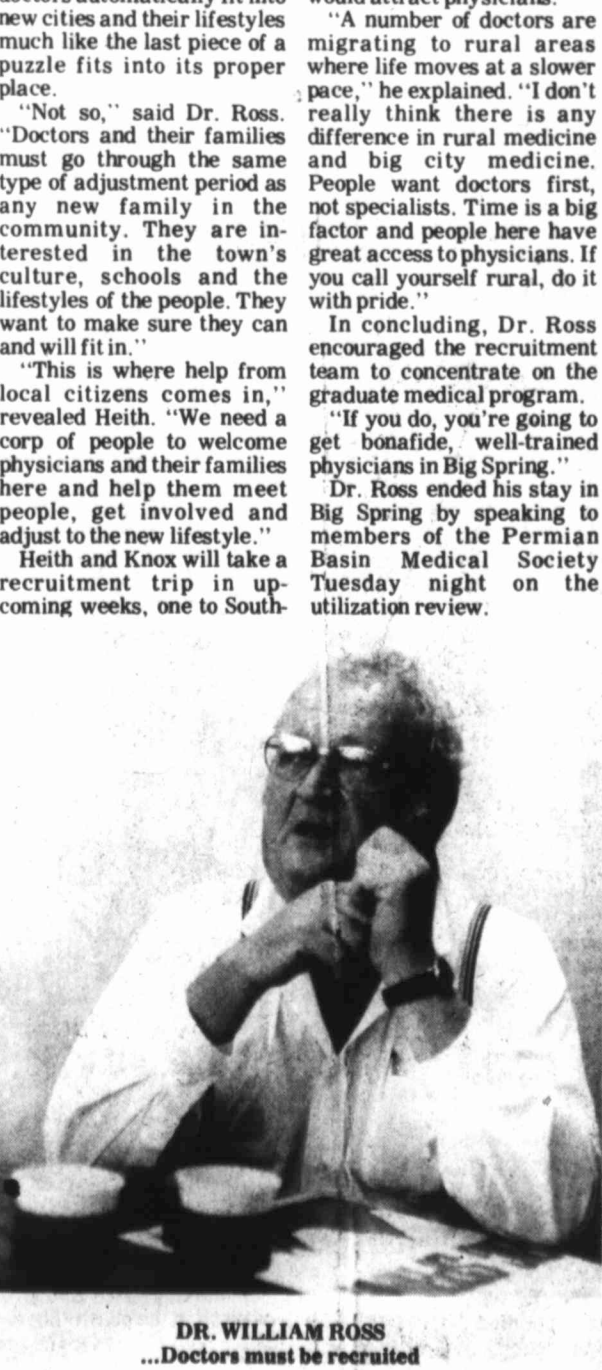

Throughout his discussion with the Malone-Hogan Recruitment Team, Dr. Ross pointed out assets of the Big Spring community that would attract physicians.

"A number of doctors are migrating to rural areas where life moves at a slower pace," he explained. "I don't really think there is any difference in rural medicine and big city medicine. People want doctors first, not specialists. Time is a big factor and people here have great access to physicians. If you call yourself rural, do it with pride."

In concluding, Dr. Ross encouraged the recruitment team to concentrate on the graduate medical program.

"If you do, you're going to get bonafide, well-trained physicians in Big Spring."

Dr. Ross ended his stay in Big Spring by speaking to members of the Permian Basin Medical Society Tuesday night on the utilization review.

Ordinance banning bees may be rescinded here

Some Big Spring citizens have signed a petition asking that a city ordinance prohibiting keeping bees within the city limits be rescinded in order to keep hives to help pollinate gardens.

The city council will hear Preach Martin's request when it meets in regular session, 9 a.m. Tuesday in the City Hall.

Other items on the agenda are:

— Presentation of a five-year service award to Luis Perez, Sanitation Department.

— Consideration of request for a permit to place a mobile home at 917 Ohio by Mrs. Willie Huey.

— Consideration of permission to accept bids and award a contract for the renovation of Building 487, Industrial Park, to facilitate its use as the Howard County Senior Citizens Center.

— Consideration of zone change request by Bill Crane for Lot 12, Block 23, in the Boydston Addition from Single Family to Heavy Commercial.

— Consideration of second and final reading of resolutions authorizing the mayor to sign contracts with CRMWD and Howard College for raw water to Howard College.

— Consideration of an emergency reading of a resolution authorizing publication of notice of intention to issue Water Works and Sewer System Certificates of Obligation.

— Consideration of emergency reading of a resolution adopting an Affirmative Action Plan for Section 103 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968.

Deaths

Eula Eubanks

Mrs. Eula Mae Eubanks, 88, of Stanton died 7:45 p.m. Saturday at Santa Monica, Calif., after a lengthy illness. Services will be 10 a.m. Saturday at the First Baptist Church of Stanton with Rev. Ed Carson, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Evergreen Cemetery under the direction of Gilbreath Funeral Home.

She was born April 1, 1891, at Leonard. She was married to Lee Henry Eubanks, May 11, 1911, in Big Spring. He died in 1935.

Survivors include a son, Arlie Eubanks, Malibu, Calif.; two daughters, Dorothy Lee Newland, Arlington, and Mildred Ballard, Santa Monica, Calif.; a brother, Ervin Masters, San Diego, Calif.; nine grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Alice Raven

Alice Raven, 72, died at 1 a.m., Monday in a local hospital.

Services will be at 3:30 p.m., Tuesday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Burial will occur in O'Donnell.

She was born Dec. 21, 1906, in Durant, Okla. She married O.L. Raven in 1945 in Big Spring. He preceded her in death in August of 1977. She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Elida, N.M.

She formerly resided in Big Spring. She moved to Portales, New Mexico, in 1950. She had been in the grocery business here for about ten years before moving to Portales.

She spent most of her spare time helping other people, members of her family said.

Survivors include three brothers, Raymond Parker, Abilene, W.T. Parker, Carlsbad, N.M., and W.W. Parker, Crescent City, Calif.; several nieces and nephews.

Sam Flowers

Services for Sam Flowers, a former Big Spring resident, were held at Earthman's Funeral Home in Bellaire at 10 a.m., today. Burial was scheduled for 2 p.m., today in a Galveston Cemetery.

Mr. Flowers, about 62, was a victim of cancer. He died in a Veterans Hospital in Houston Saturday following an illness of two years.

Survivors include his wife, Sylvia, of the home; three children, Sam C. Flowers II, Houston; Richard Flowers, Illinois; and Mrs. Vicki Duke, League City, Tex.; a brother, Bill Flowers, Denver, Colo.; and a sister, Louise Underwood, Midland.

Two brothers, Jack Flowers and Bob Flowers, preceded him in death.

Sam Flowers was captain of the Big Spring High School football team in the 1930s and later attended Rice University on a football scholarship. In the insurance profession most of his adult life, Mr. Flowers had spent much of his time in recent years helping his son operate a weekly newspaper in the Houston area.

Israel's Dayan quits as foreign minister

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government was reeling today under two surprise blows — the resignation of Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and a Supreme Court order that Jews must give up a controversial West Bank settlement.

The court order, handed down today, said the government's seizure of privately-owned Arab land for the Elon Moreh settlement near the Arab city of Nablus was illegal. It gave the settlers 30 days to get out. The Arab landowners had challenged the government's claim that the settlement was essential for Israel's security, an argument the high court had accepted in all previous cases involving Jewish enclaves in occupied territory.

Dayan had cited his opposition to the Elon Moreh settlement as one of reasons for his resignation Sunday. But his chief gripe was his lack of influence over the four-month-old negotiations with Egypt and the United States on autonomy for Palestinians on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

Begin and other leading members of his Cabinet said the resignation won't change their tough stand in the autonomy talks. But Israeli newspapers today predicted Dayan's departure would weaken a government already staggered by a domestic political crisis.

Opposition Labor Party chief Shimon Peres, reacting to the resignation, called on the government to schedule new elections, a call Begin was not likely to heed.

Even before Dayan resigned, several opposition parties raised motions of no confidence in the Begin government, primarily challenging its handling of the inflation-warped economy. Those motions came up for debate Tuesday when Parliament opens its winter session.

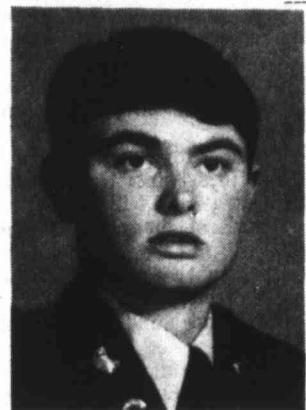

Begin was expected to survive the no-confidence votes, but a spokesman said Defense Minister Ezer Weizman had been recalled from a visit to Egypt to bolster government ranks during the voting. However, reports from Cairo said Weizman left the Egyptian capital today for two days of sightseeing in the southern city of Luxor. Weizman was one of Dayan's few allies in the Cabinet.

Dayan, who played a key role in hammering out the peace treaty with Egypt and is considered by many to be Israel's most creative negotiator, told reporters he quit because "I was relegated to doing what I didn't want to do, attending cocktail parties and ceremonies."

Although he was the chief architect of the original proposal for autonomy for the 1.2 million Palestinians on the West Bank and in Gaza, his home-rule concepts were blunted by Cabinet hardliners who demanded Israel retain firm control of the territories.

ARTISTIC VISITORS — Among notables who participated in the weekend's third annual Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival were four artists who were honored with a reception at the home of Bob and Sherry Wegner Friday night. BILLY NULL

Billy Null is honored

A Marfa youth was selected as one of the 13 New Mexico Military Institute's Best New Cadets for the month of September. Cadet Recruit William Null was selected as the Best New Cadet in B Troop.

The Best New Cadet competition is held monthly at NMMI and the cadets must meet the following criteria: a GPA of 2.75 or higher; a minimum of a "B" average in Military Science Training with demonstrated superior ability in military activities; no more than 5 demerits for the semester; be an active member of an athletic team or demonstrate above average performance in intramural sports; be well groomed; have good military bearing and be courteous. Individuals who meet these criteria are then selected by the Troop Commander as representatives from each individual troop.

Cadet Null, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon R. Null of Marfa, is now authorized to wear the distinctive shoulder loop with the various uniforms worn at the Institute.

The Null family resided in Big Spring about ten years ago and has many relatives in this area.

Oswald's mother thinks exhumation 'asinine'

DALLAS (AP) — Official and unofficial efforts to exhume the body in Lee Harvey Oswald's Fort Worth grave were at a stalemate today.

Meanwhile, Oswald's mother said in Fort Worth that such efforts are "asinine."

Oswald is the man the Warren Commission said acted alone in shooting President John Kennedy to death from a sniper's perch in Dallas' Dealey Plaza on Nov. 22, 1963.

The man buried in the grave was shot to death two days after the assassination by Dallas police character Jack Ruby, Ruby died of cancer while in jail.

Recently, a congressional investigation resulted in a pronouncement that Kennedy's assassination "probably" was the result of a conspiracy.

Skeptical British author Michael Eddowes represents the unofficial attempt to dig up the body that lies in a grave at Rose Hill Cemetery. Eddowes wrote a book in which he contends that after Oswald defected to the Soviet Union, he was murdered and replaced with a Russian spy who returned to the United States and killed Kennedy.

He filed a suit seeking exhumation, but it was denied. The case is on appeal.

Eddowes' research led Dallas County Medical Examiner Charles Petty to compare Oswald's U.S. Marine Corps medical records with the autopsy report on the assassin.

Oswald's mother, Marguerite, 72, told Columbus, Ohio, radio station WOOL Saturday the exhumation efforts are a "waste of time."

She said she has not cooperated with Eddowes' efforts, but did not say how she felt about Petty's inquiries.

Teams mobilized to care for 37 burned Marines

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Brooke Army Medical Center's famed burn treatment teams mobilized early today to care for 37 severely burned Marines airlifted here from Japan after a freak fire Friday at their base. It was the teams' most difficult task since the Vietnam War.

More 70 Marines and three Japanese were injured last Friday when winds and rain from Typhoon Tip caused gasoline to pour from a 5,000-gallon rubber fuel container. The fuel ignited and sent a river of fire through a Marine barracks area at the Mount Fuji base, 90 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Three of the Marines have died from their burns, including one who died Sunday evening en route to Brooke.

Two huge C-141 Starlifters brought 38 of the injured Marines to Kelly Air Force Base here Sunday evening. Helicopters and bus ambulances rushed the victims to Brooke, the world's only military burn unit.

One of the Marines, Pvt. Thomas J. Breunig of St. Paul, Minn., was declared dead on arrival at Kelly Sunday evening, Army officials said.

The conditions of the 37 victims at Brooke were not immediately available today, but 17 were classified as "very serious" and 21 were listed as "serious to very serious" when they left Japan.

"There are some in very critical condition," an Army official, who requested anonymity, said Sunday night.

Some of the Marines were able to walk into the hospital under their own power, but others had to be immediately airlifted by helicopter the eight miles from Kelly to Brooke.

Two Marines died in Japan and two others were "too critical" to be airlifted to Brooke. One of the dead Marines was identified as Lance Cpl. L.C. Malveaux of Beaumont, Texas, but military officials did not identify the other.

Thirty-one of the burned Marines were treated and released, as were two Japanese. A Japanese woman employee of the camp remained hospitalized. "This is the largest number of patients to be admitted at one time at Brooke since Vietnam," said Brooke spokeswoman Audrey Urbanczyk.

The victims filled the regular burn treatment ward, forcing hospital officials to press another ward into service.

Brooke, known worldwide for its burn research and treatment, takes in about 300 severely burned patients per year. Brooke's burn teams treated hundreds of cases during the Vietnam War.

HELPFUL GROUP FOR WIDOWS/WIDOWERS

Widows and widowers encounter many new problems. Many difficulties have been overcome already by others. That's why national and local groups have been formed to help the newly widowed.

THEOS, a national, non-denominational group which takes its name from its purpose: They Help Each Other Spiritually. THEOS helps the young and middle-aged, the recently bereaved who need to work through the grief process with the help from others.

Parents Without Partners is another useful group for widows and widowers, having some 500 chapters in the United States and Canada. They are concerned with interests and welfare of single parents AND their children.

American Association of Retired Persons is a very large, organized national group with many personal benefits to members over 55.

These groups should all be considered by widows-widowers as they get ready to re-enter social life. For more information, stop in or phone us about them.

Twister rips home area of Beaumont

By the Associated Press — A tornado ripped through two residential sections of Beaumont early today, damaging several homes but causing no injuries, police said.

The twister struck the northwest section during heavy rains and knocked out power in some areas. Seven homes and a mini-storage warehouse were hit. Street flooding was reported in Beaumont and nearby Orange.

Scattered showers and thundershowers — some locally heavy — drenched portions of Central Texas today as a cold front settled across the state from Texarkana to Del Rio.

Everyone has better hope plan works

Over the years, evangelist Lester Roloff has somehow gotten the ideas that the laws implemented by the State of Texas somehow don't apply to him.

The simple truth is that if Mr. Roloff doesn't want to submit to state licensing he should stay out of businesses regulated by the state. If the state granted him privileges it did not grant everyone, it would be opening Pandora's box that would make trouble for state administrators forever after.

That, of course, includes the operation of children's homes. If any field should require licensing, it's this one.

The latest chapter in what one Austin political writer correctly termed the "seemingly never ending battle" began earlier this month.

Attorney General Mark White filed for an injunction to prevent Roloff, a Baptist church and 15 other defendants from operating the Rebekah Home for Girls or any other unlicensed child care facility.

Roloff closed down two homes last summer in the much publicized confrontation. Roloff didn't comment on the latest court move, from what we read. He hadn't seen the suit.

But the issue won't have changed. It's still one of whether submitting to the licensing requirements is a violation of freedom of religion.

It isn't. People who sell hot dogs must submit to sanitary inspections. People who drive cars must prove through licensing that they have good enough eyesight and basic enough knowledge of the laws to be on the streets.

We don't want ministers or anybody else exempted in the name of religion. The rearing of children is 10 times more important. The state has the right and the responsibility to make sure the children are adequately fed and housed and properly supervised by responsible people.

Religion is no excuse for waiving responsibility. We don't know about this case, but we do know everything in the world is done under the name of religion.

Ask those people in Guyana, those who survived, that is.

Kissinger's book

William F. Buckley, Jr.

"We met for the first time at a reception given by the President for heads of delegations at the United Nations in September 1969. Gromyko walked up to me and said: 'You look just like Henry Kissinger.' And I replied: 'You look just like Richard Nixon.' This took him a few seconds to hoist aboard, especially as his entourage was reluctant to laugh until he had given the signal. By the next year he had absorbed the style. When we discussed which entrance he should use for his White House meeting with Nixon, Gromyko said it did not make any difference; the guards would salute and let him through wherever he presented himself; who would stop the president? To make sure that everyone — especially his associates — understood that it was playtime, he gave a hearty laugh reminiscent of a street corner Santa Claus."

THAT WAS, as Kissinger writes, in 1969. After that he saw a good deal of Gromyko. In the interval between 1969 and 1972, Kissinger as Soviet Foreign Minister expedited Soviet policy which included sending vast material to Southeast Asia to underwrite a war of aggression against South Vietnam and to kill 50,000 Americans. In the Middle East, the Soviets came close to triggering an explosion through the stimulation of Iraqi appetites. In South America the Soviet Union did its best to satelize Chile. In Cuba, the Soviet Union triggered a crisis over Cienfuegos. And, of course, there were the routine things.

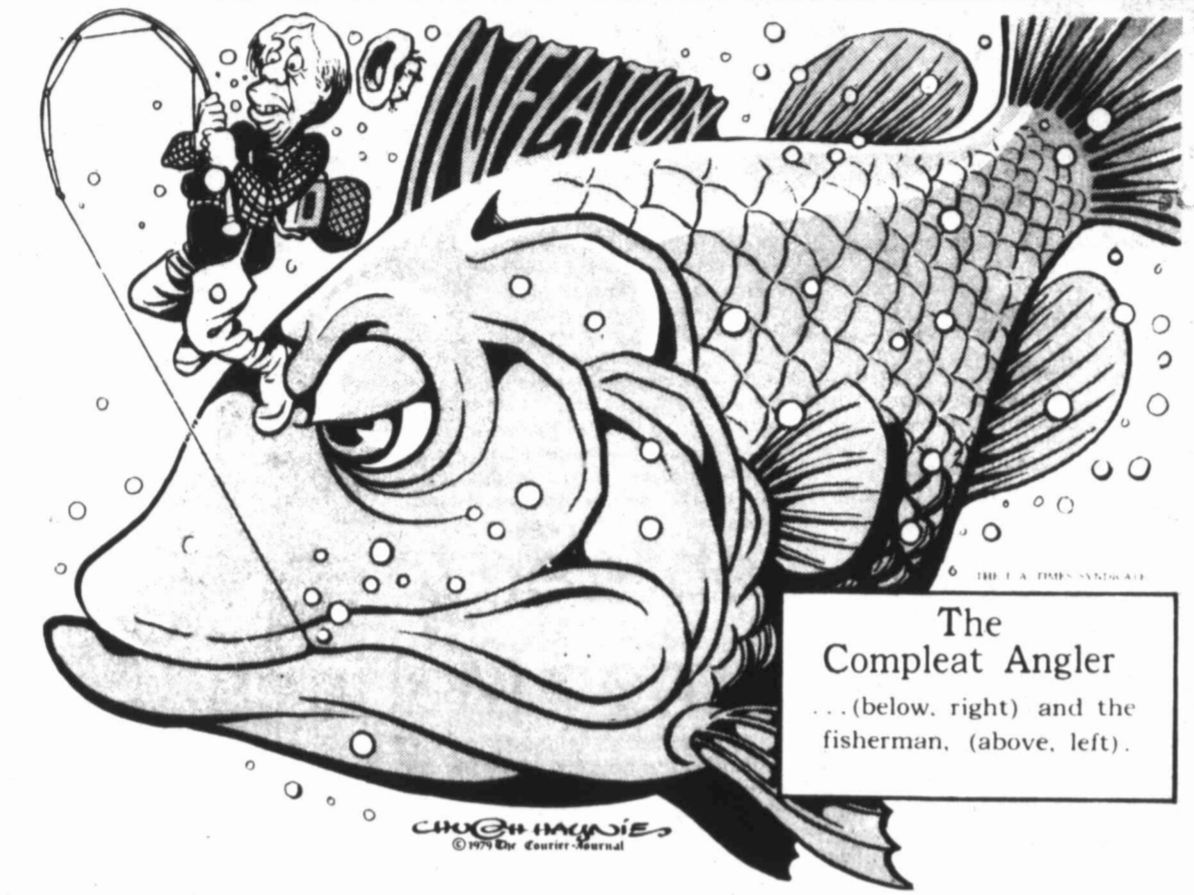

Then there was the summit in Moscow, in June of 1972. "During (that summit meeting) one of our Xerox machines broke down. Knowing the KGB's reputation for Orwellian ubiquity, I asked Gromyko during a meeting in the elegant St. Catherine's Hall in the Kremlin whether he could have some copies made for us if we held certain documents up to the chandelier. Gromyko replied without missing a beat that unfortunately the cameras were installed by the tsars; they were adequate for photographing people but not documents."

It is a quite extraordinary experience to bridge high principle and diplomatic requirements. One must assume that at Nuremberg, diplomats cracked jokes with Goering. But there wasn't anyone around like Henry Kissinger to record the event — perhaps there wasn't anyone around (Churchill was not at Nuremberg) whose capacity for irony, and even whimsy, whose phenomenal memory for piquancies, caught all those fleeting illuminations from the prisms that dance right through wars and summit meetings and diplomatic banquets and press conferences.

A GREAT DEAL happened in the years 1969 to 1976, but not the least was the emergence of the most acutely observant, agonizingly revealing social and diplomat historian of the century. There is no apparent genealogical relation between the (brilliant, to be sure) dryasdust Henry Kissinger who years ago wrote from Harvard and the various think-tanks learned books and monographs, and the author of "The White House Years."

This immense volume is at once trenchant and grand; amused and amusing; in it are the suppurations of tragedy and the erotic joys of small diplomatic triumphs. Nothing is too subtle to divine (the paradox of Chinese insularity and cosmopolitanism), or too trivial to notice (Chou En-lai took him to an opera, "the most stupefyingly boring three hours I ever spent. I forget the plot, but at the end, I think the girls falls in love with a tractor").

Although one can hardly have expected a book by Henry Kissinger denouncing the career of Henry Kissinger, his critics will be astonished at the frequency with which he reveals his own uses of guile.

Bright's disease a vague diagnosis

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My son-in-law's brother has Bright's disease. He is 19, and it was recently discovered through a routine physical exam. He understood it to be hereditary, hitting every other generation. Did he understand this correctly?

His mother was from a large family and three of her nephews also have it. It seems to be only the boys. What are the symptoms of Bright's disease? — Mrs. A.T.

"Bright's disease" has an ominous ring, doesn't it? Yet it is a very general term that means little, really. It's almost like saying "kidney disease." It's necessary to find out what kind of kidney disease one is speaking of. Your letter offers little to go on.

You mention heredity. This idea can be confusing. Medically, one thinks of heredity as the passing on of certain traits (good or bad) to offspring. Some kidney diseases are inherited. That is called "hereditary nephritis." Alport's syndrome is one form, and males are more severely affected than are females. Sometimes persons with Alport's syndrome have cataracts and are deaf. Often red blood cells are found in the urine.

Now, I'm not suggesting your son-in-law's brother has Alport's syndrome. I just use it to give you an example of a hereditary kidney problem.

There are other kidney problems that seem to run in families. That's different than saying they are "hereditary" (caused by faulty genes). Polycystic disease of the kidneys runs in families. The important point is that kidney problems cannot be diagnosed with 100 percent accuracy from a physical examination alone, although doctors may be able to feel a polycystic kidney, for example.

More detailed tests, such as X-rays or even biopsy, are needed to pinpoint kidney diseases.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you help me with my ingrown toenail? I cut it too short. It is now growing in and won't grow over the top of my toe — Mrs. A.C.

A surgeon friend of mine, who has his own problem of ingrown toenails, suggested these guides. In cutting toenails, it is important to cut them straight across. Do not try to cut down around the edges. This may be the mistake you are making. To correct the resulting problem of a nail growing into the skin at the nail bed end, soak your feet in warm, soapy water twice a day. This softens the nail. Then wedge a tiny bit of cotton under the nail at the corners. Leave the cotton in place between soaks. In time, the nail will grow properly (he assures me).

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please tell me about adhesions. I have had several operations, and after the last one I was told I was filled with adhesions. I have been having some intestinal trouble and am wondering if they have anything to do with this. — Ms. E.L.

Adhesions are nothing more than scar tissue. They form after any abdominal surgery. After all, you have been cut. If the scar forms at a point where it interferes with an organ's function, trouble can arise. For instance, in your case it is possible that scar tissue is encircling your bowel, interfering with its emptying. Botherome adhesions can be removed surgically. If they don't cause trouble they are best left alone.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My gynecologist tells me my bladder infection may be caused by sexual intercourse. Can you comment? — Mrs. S.M.

Bladder infection (cystitis) has been associated with, but not been proven to be caused by, sexual intercourse in your women. One reason for this is that the passageway from the female urinary bladder to the outside is much shorter than the male's. During the activity of intercourse bacteria may ascend the shorter passageway.

If you relate bladder infection to intercourse, there are specific antibiotics that can be used on a trial basis. They are taken in single doses after intercourse. One example of this kind of bladder infection is called "honeymoon cystitis."

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can read about the causes — and cures — for this troublesome complaint in the booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." To get a copy, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 55 cents.

What can vitamins really do for you — and what can't they do? In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donohue separates the common sense from the nonsense about this controversial health aid. For your copy of "Vitamins: Facts You Need to Know," send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My tongue is full of large cracks. What causes them and what can be done about them? I brush my tongue frequently. — Mrs. F.F.

The tongue has a number of normal furrows that run from side to side. If the mouth is too dry, as from mouth-breathing, for example, these furrows become deeper. When furrows develop from front to back of the tongue, one suspects dehydration, but if they are side to side they are most often insignificant. If the furrows are painful, if there are ulcers, or if there is a change in color of the tongue, have it examined. Your frequent brushing can be a factor. Try cutting back or using a softer brush to see if it helps.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" — it could be dangerous. Read the booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need to Know About Them." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Does the Bible say anything about how old Jesus was when He died, and what He looked like? — B.H.

DEAR B.H.: There have been many attempts by artists through the ages to draw or paint pictures of Jesus, but in reality we do not have any indication from the New Testament what He looked like. We are told that in His youth "Jesus grew in wisdom and stature" (Luke 2:52). The fact that He made His living as a carpenter (as Joseph did) means that He was accustomed to physical labor, and there are other hints in the New Testament that He was physically strong. You will remember, for example, that He drove the money-changers out of the Temple because they were profaning God's house; this probably meant He was strong and not easily intimidated.

We also do not know exactly how old Jesus was at the end of His ministry on earth, although most Bible scholars agree He was probably in His early 30s. Luke tells us that Jesus was "about thirty years old when He began His ministry" (Luke 3:23). His ministry lasted about three years.

Why does the Bible not tell us more details, especially about Jesus' appearance? One reason, I believe, is because God knew that many people might become too preoccupied with Jesus' physical appearance, and might even make idols. Also, the Gospel writers want us to concentrate on the really important things in Jesus' ministry. The important thing is not what Jesus looked like, but that He was the Son of God, sent from heaven by God to show us God's love. He did this especially by dying for us on the cross, so that we could be saved by faith in Him. "Christ was sacrificed once to take away the sins of many people; and he will appear a second time, not to bear sin, but to bring salvation to those who are waiting for him" (Hebrews 9:28).

Help Wanted-Position may be opening soon for the job of King or Queen, in a large European Country. Only those with experience need apply. A English accent a plus. Reply, Box 277, Buckingham Palace.

Rumor has it that Queen Elizabeth may abdicate in favor of her son.

Royalty in England has always been a mystery to me. It's one thing if the throne held some power, but that disappeared with the nickel cup of coffee. Granted, they keep up the pageantry, but taxes supporting the same family year after year must take its toll. At least here, we can have the occupant changed every four years.

A VERY RADICAL underground group in England has decided the American system isn't so bad after all. A confidential source has given me a questionnaire future applicants who apply for the position of King or Queen, should this group ever succeed in their venture.

Here is a sampling of questions that an applicant will have to answer.

1. When you wave to a crowd of people you

A. Wave daintily with two fingers up in the air

B. Use the same technique you would use when shoeing a fly

C. Don't wave because your arm is broken more than 180 days a year.

2. Your favorite dinner consists of

A. Pressed duck, asparagus in hollandaise sauce and rare wine served by several servants

B. Roast Beef and mashed potatoes

C. Chili and bears at Mack's Truck Stop

3. Your dream wedding has always been to

A. Walk down the aisle of Westminster Abbey in your finest wedding attire, with many attendants and a large crowd of people witnessing the ceremony.

B. Have a wedding on the beach at sunrise

C. not to marry, only live together. If you want to split up later, you can always hire Marvin Mitchelson.

4. Men, your favorite outfits are

A. Scottish kilts, English riding clothes and uniforms with ribbons and medals that signify nothing.

B. Suits and golf clothes

C. Shorts and a tee shirt, laundered or not

5. Women, your favorite outfits are

A. Dresses always down to here that are forever out of style and an equally dowdy hat to go with them

B. House dresses and pants suits

C. Shorts and a teshirt, laundered or not

6. Your favorite drinks are

A. The finest wines and liqueurs from all over the world

B. Cokes, root beer, Dr. Pepper and milk

C. A constant beer in hand when watching Wide World of Sports

7. Your favorite Sunday activity is to

A. Get in a ridiculous outfit to watch other people in ridiculous outfits march in a parade full of pagantry.

B. Get in your golf clothes or pant suit to take your two point seven children to the zoo.

C. Sit around in your shorts and tee shirt, laundered or not drinking beer and watching Wide World of Sports.

I, the undersigned realize that this position will afford my family and me millions of dollars in salary, jewels, estates, clothes too many houses and trips all over the world for waving to crowds of people with two fingers, tax free. I will try to do my duty and not fight the system by attempting to pay taxes in any way, shape or form, to the best of my knowledge.

Signed,

IF YOU answered A to most of the questions, you have lost any opportunity to get the job. You are too much like the present occupants of Buckingham Palace and the underground wants to get rid of that type. If you answered C, there might be a problem because beer is not served at the Palace. If you answered B, you might have a chance since the underground wants someone who can identify with the middle class, as opposed to the upper middle class, lower middle class, the rich or the poor.

Good Luck!

No Checks Made

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — In the nightmare that was Nazi Germany, the most unforgivable criminals of all were the men of science who put their skills and knowledge at the service of Adolf Hitler and his insane genocidal theories.

Trained to serve humanity, they should have had a better grasp of right and wrong than the homicidal, moronic thugs of the SS who did the actual butchering. Yet it was German scientists who developed the mass-murder techniques the SS used, and who performed unspeakable "experiments" on Jews, Russian prisoners-of-war and other helpless victims.

IRONICALLY, THE politics of the Cold War gave these scientists the best chance of any Nazi criminals to escape punishment for their actions. Their expertise was a salable commodity in the East-West competition that sprang up before the ashes of defeated Germany were even cool.

Suppressed government documents detail an outrageous program, code-named "Paperclip," under which hundreds of Nazis — including alleged war criminals — were welcomed into the United States with no regard for their past service to Hitler. The still-secret documents were turned up by Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., whose judiciary subcommittee is looking into "Paperclip" and related programs.

The intent of the "Paperclip" program was to recruit German scientists and technicians before the Soviets snared them. Ostensibly, strict background checks were to be run on the recruits and their families to make sure no war criminals were given sanctuary in this country.

In fact, however, the secret documents indicate — and other sources have confirmed — that in many cases no security checks at all were made. This laxity by federal authorities enabled Nazi criminals to settle in the United States, secure from prosecution for their atrocities. A few of these scientists have been accused of performing pseudo-medical experiments on Jews, inside sources told our associates Gary Cohn and Jack Mitchell.

IN SOME CASES, derogatory information on a particular scientist-recruit was simply overlooked because the government considered him too valuable to risk losing to the Russians — or to a de-Nazification court.

"Paperclip" was a calculated, cumulative effort by the U.S. government to bring some of the worst kinds of Nazis into the United States regardless of their backgrounds," a congressional investigator told us after examining the suppressed documents.

A less extreme view was given by another knowledgeable source, who said the intent of the operation was benign — to expedite the clearance of needed scientific talent — but the way it was carried out was a disaster. "It was an error of judgment," he said.

WHETHER "PAPERCLIP" was deliberately used to smuggle known Nazi criminals into this country, or was merely bungled, the fact remains that federal authorities violated immigration laws in their zeal to recruit the German scientists.

One restricted document, for example, states: "Frankly, we reached the conclusion that, as a matter of fact, they are being brought here as civilians without regard to the immigration laws."

When one government official made the reasonable suggestion that the German scientists should be permitted to come here only on regular visas, he was quickly overruled on grounds of "expedience," the documents show. Hundreds of scientists and their families, some with neither passports nor visas — and some with well-documented ties to Nazi activities — were ferried to the United States on troopships carrying American GIs home for discharge. Others were brought to Canada and Mexico and sneaked into the United States.

In one instance cited in the documents, an American escorting officer pulled a gun and threatened a government official who questioned the propriety of allowing a group of German scientists into the United States.

Once in this country, the German scientists were given lucrative jobs in American industry. Some even received security clearances to work on sensitive defense projects.

The suppressed "Paperclip" files raise disturbing questions about a report last year by the General Accounting Office, which concluded that there was no widespread conspiracy to obstruct investigation and prosecution of Naziwar criminals.

THE GAO REPORT did acknowledge that the CIA, the FBI and the Defense and State Department had indeed arranged for suspected Nazis to gain refuge here, and then used them as sources of information. But the GAO report played down this use of war-crimes suspects by U.S. agencies.

The "Paperclip" documents show that the involvement of the U.S. government in alleged Nazi criminals was far more extensive than previously believed.

Footnote: We'll have further revelations about Nazis hiding in the United States in future columns.

Woman's Forum meets

The Modern Woman's Forum met Oct. 12 in the home of Mrs. B.F. Yandell. Mrs. Bert Affleck, president, presided.

Mrs. Fred Whitaker, Federation Counselor, reported the 70th birthday celebration of the Woman's Club at Kingsville which reviewed its history with members modeling authentic period dresses of many of the years since its beginning. Community projects of each administration were reviewed in the style parade.

Mrs. W.E. Singleton presented Andrae Crouch and His Music as part of the program on poetry and music.

Mrs. Singleton said that Crouch, composer and recording artist, never had a music lesson, yet electrified audiences around the world with his singing. His music varies from a rich baritone singing a soft and mellow love song to Jesus in a church worship service to his up-tempo tunes exploding on the stage of Nashville's Grand Ole Opry.

Regardless of the beat, the message of his music never changes. "God gave me my talent and I'll only use it to glorify Him and move hearts to Jesus," says the humble black bachelor entertainer.

The young composer has an unorthodox way of writing music, not being able to read music, An-lrae says, "A lot of my melodies I hear within people's voices and store them in my mind for future use, or I'll take the colors of the rainbow and give them all a note and within that color the different shades will either be a flat or sharp." He listens to three or four hours of classical music each day, Beethoven being his favorite.

Crouch has received two Grammy awards for his albums "Take me Back" and "Live in London" in 1975 and 1978 respectively.

Some of the world's most contemporary music was composed by Andrae's unconventional method including "I've got Confidence," "Quiet Times," "All that I Have I Give to You," and "Through it All."

He composed his most popular tune to date in 1970, "My Tribute." This, however, is not his favorite for he claims he hasn't any. He says, "My songs are like my children."

Mrs. S.R. Nobles will entertain the club at their next meeting, Oct. 26.

How to Grow Garden Club has program on composting

The Big Spring Rosebud How-To-Grow Garden Club held their regular meeting on Oct. 9 at the Dora Roberts Community Center. The treasurers report was given by Sue Carter together with a report on the profit gained from the sale of the terrarium which was donated last spring by Mrs. Odell Womack.

New officers were introduced as President, Mrs. Carl (Terry) Johansen; Vice President, Mrs. Richard (Helen) Terry; Secretary, Mrs. Carroll (Leighrene) Kohl; Treasurer, Mrs. Joel (Sue) Carter; and Parliamentarian, Mrs. Guilford (Sandra) Jones. Committee Chairmen will be: Mrs. Richard Terry, Membership; Mrs. Guilford Jones and Mrs. Terry, Yearbook; Mrs. W.W. Warden, Scrapbook; Mrs. Carroll Kohl, Publicity; Financial, Project and Telephone; Mrs. Joel Carter, Flower Show; Mrs. Guilford Jones, Garden Therapy; Mrs. Odell Womack and Litter and Beautification, Mrs. Bob Price.

Mrs. Womack reported that the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs is planting 14 Golden Ash trees and numerous cuttings of Vinca around the New Canterbury Retirement Village and is asking each local club to plant a tree along the arbor at Comanche Trail Park.

On Nov. 14, the Big Spring Garden Clubs will be host to the Southern Zone Garden Clubs at the Country Club beginning at 10 a.m. This club is responsible for passing out visitors' packets.

Mrs. Womack made a motion which was seconded by Mrs. Stanley Lewis to plant some new bulbs in the raised flower bed on the East side of the Dora Roberts Community Building as a perpetual project for continuous color.

Mrs. Carter reported that the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs is again selling beautiful flower calendar date books for $2.50 each.

A decision was made to raise the local club's yearly dues from $3 to $5. The meeting place for the November meeting has been changed to the Country Club to help decorate for the Zone meeting which will be held the following day.

Mrs. Womack gave an educational program from the periodical "Texas Horticulture" on composting, stating that "it is very important to enrich the soil and keep it healthy." She explained how to make your own back-yard compost pile out of anything from grass cuttings to leaves, twigs, vegetables and fruit peelings stressing the importance of returning to the soil that which is taken out of it.

Mrs. Kohl served refreshments to the members present in addition to a new member of the club, Mrs. Kenneth (Liz) Edwards.

Fairview E.H.C. views cults

The Fairview Extension Homemakers Club met Oct. 16 in the home of Mrs. Bessie Bigony. Mrs. Inell Smauley, president, presided over the 12 members present, including one new member, Mrs. Bessie Suggs.

Roll call was answered by naming a good book read this summer.

The devotional, II Corinthians 12:9 was given by Mrs. Bigony. The thought of the day was, "No one can be rich enough to do without neighbors."

Mrs. Smauley gave the program, "Americans most dangerous cult - a world of violence, drugs and child abuse," stressing different things that have happened within the cults.

Members voted to meet at Furr's Cafeteria Nov. 20 for Thanksgiving dinner and to go to Mrs. Ina Richardson's afterwards for the business meeting.

Members were reminded to bring gifts for the Big Spring State Hospital to the next meeting, Nov. 6, to be held in the home of Mrs. Marvin (Louise) Williams.

Mrs. Rogers presents Elbow EHC program

Mrs. Dale Dittrich was hostess to the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club Oct. 18 in the home of her mother, Mrs. L.M. Duffer. Mrs. Dittrich gave the devotional from II Corinthians.

Mrs. Janet Rogers, extension agent, brought the program on brightening the bathroom. Bathrooms of today are decorated much as any other room. Efficiency and safety are the keywords to good bathroom design.

The bathroom can be made cheerful and fresh looking with lots of color and pattern. Dress it either up or down and watch for practical things for accessories. Plants make a bathroom look warm and friendly. Hang some small collectables and use suitable towels and curtains since they are always in view. Carpets, chandeliers and pictures to carry out color schemes are used today.

Mrs. Zula Rhodes was the door prize. The next meeting will be Nov. 1 in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Fowler. Mrs. Rhodes will have the program on her recent trip to England.

Tween 12 and 20 Girls -- hit the weights

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Over the years there has been a popular assumption that since men who lifted weights developed big, bulky muscles, women who lifted weights would develop the same way. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Women have 10 percent more fat than men in their total body weight, which makes it physiologically impossible to build the same muscle masses as males, says a leading teen magazine. Also, women don't produce the male sex hormone testosterone, which promotes muscle growth.

So though the myths persist, young women are learning to ignore them and are now taking to weight training in growing numbers.

Among the female athletes who use weights are tennis players Margaret Court, Martina Navratilova and Billie Jean King. "There's a feeling that women don't want muscles, that it will make them less feminine, but we're overcoming that," King says.

"Weights give you definition instead of flab. They keep my mind and body together, ease tension, help me feel better and get along with less sleep."

While lifting weights may add pounds to the frame, that doesn't mean fat. Experts stress that muscle is twice as dense as fat, so numbers can be deceptive. At Indiana University, where all 10 of the women's intercollegiate teams now use weight training, the girls of the athletes' thighs and calves were measured before and after the program began. According to Marge Abohm, a trainer at the school, "There was a gain in strength and muscle tone, but no appreciable increase in bulk. In fact, many times the thighs and calves were smaller."

Weight training for women is no longer taboo, and athletes' performances are improving because of it.

Besides, Abohm says, "a well-toned body is much more attractive than one that's skinny or fat."

So gals, if your boyfriend lifts weights, you no longer have to stay home and wait. Now you can join him.

Talk is cheaper than you think.

How to save up to 60% on Long Distance.
If you're one of those who thinks a Long Distance call is a luxury, read on. The trick to saving money while keeping in touch with family or friends is knowing when to call, and calling One-Plus.

Call between 11pm and 8am.
Before you groan about how you can't stay up late or see straight in the morning, think about it. You'll be saving up to 60%! If you're a night person, you probably don't start counting sheep until after 11 pm anyway. And if you've got friends and family to call out west, it'll be a perfectly civilized 9 or 10 pm when their phone rings. If you like to see the sun rise, and you know folks back east, it'll be an hour later on their end. Call out of state anytime before 8 am and you can talk all day if you want and still save 60%. In-state calls are also greatly reduced. Just remember to dial One-Plus.

Reach out on the weekend and save up to 60%.
Now this is a stroke of good luck: a really cheap Long Distance phone call just when you may want it most. Call any time between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday and really save. For instance, dial One-Plus and you can make a ten-minute call to Atlanta for only $1.55. That's almost worth making a new friend in Atlanta for.

Even on weeknights, save up to 35%.
Sometimes you can't wait for the weekend. Or you don't want to. But you can still save plenty Sunday through Friday from 5 pm to 11 pm. Think about what a bargain it is to call someone 1900 miles away, talk it up for ten minutes, and only run a tab of about $2.00. There's just no other way to get close to a faraway friend or relative so quickly, so cheaply.

On weekdays it's still a bargain.
Here's a surprise. From 8 am to 5 pm, a Long Distance chat still doesn't cost very much. A five minute call out of state, to anywhere in the continental U.S. is only about $2.50 when you dial One-Plus. Think of how good the sound of your voice would be to a friend (not to mention your mother!) right in the middle of the day.

Reach out and touch someone.
Southwestern Bell

Dear Abby

Some Real Old Grads

DEAR ABBY: For the 34-year-old woman who thought she was "too old" to go back to college: I never had a chance to even start college until I became a widow at 63. I started by taking one course a semester. Now I'm taking four courses! I am always the oldest person in my class, but I don't mind at all. Instead of making fun of me because I'm old enough to be my classmates' grandmother, they all treat me with respect and make me feel welcome.

I am now starting my second year in college, and hope to graduate when I reach 70.

67 IN MAINE

DEAR ABBY: Last year at the commencement exercises at Grossmont College in La Mesa, Calif., my family filled the entire first row of the auditorium. The occasion: my great-aunt Minerva's graduation from junior college!

Aunt Minerva was 72—the oldest graduate that school ever had. It was a remarkable feat, considering she had stopped her education in the eighth grade nearly 50 years earlier.

When they called Aunt Minerva's name, the entire audience stood up and applauded her.

Who says you can't go back to school at 35, or even 70? Education is a never-ending process, and if you start late—so what? Better late than never.

KEVIN TVEDT: PROUD NEPHEW

DEAR ABBY: When my grandmother got her B.S. degree two years ago she was 69. Her great-grandson (then 12) said, "Gee, that's a funny thing to get a degree in!"

MINNESOTA READER

DEAR ABBY: I became physically disabled at 45, so I looked around for something I could do at home. I enrolled in college at 46 as a music major, received an associate degree at 48, a bachelor's degree at 50 and made the National Dean's List at 50. I made a 4.0 average in my senior year, and taught myself to play electric bass and pedal steel guitar. I formed a country band and play weekly at rest homes. I write country songs as a hobby, and maybe one of these days I will actually have a song recorded.

I simply refuse to "rust out."

LARRY IN KILLEEN, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: I earned my first college credits at 64, and I'm still going strong. I take as many courses as I think I can handle. The challenge keeps me going and I love to learn. I may never graduate, but I'll continue to learn.

Sniper kills couple

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A sniper who killed a couple in a crowded shopping center parking lot escaped and left police with few clues to his identity or motive.

Jesse Eugene Taylor, 42, and Marion Mira Bresette, 31, were killed in the attack Sunday, police said. Investigators said they had lived at the same Oklahoma City address for about two months.

Sgt. Tom Mundy said detectives questioned the dead woman's three children and about six other witnesses to the shootings.

The victims had just left a supermarket and were loading grocery sacks into a car shortly before 5 p.m. when someone opened fire with a high-powered rifle from across the street.

"I just turned around and saw a man fall. He was catching bullets. I couldn't see where they were coming from," said Vince Allen, an employee of the store the victims had just left.

"The man was shot first," said Charles Hopkins, 16, another store employee. "He was yelling 'No! No! No!' He went up against the car, and he got shot again."

He said the woman began screaming, walked from behind the car and was approaching Taylor's prone body when she, too, was killed.

Investigators said Taylor was hit in the abdomen and chest. The woman was shot once in the torso, they said.

The Bresette children, who police said are 12, 10 and 9, were in the auto at the time of the shootings.

"Those kids were just hanging out the windows when it happened," Hopkins said.

The children were unharmed and no other injuries were reported.

Willig named president

AMARILLO — Bill Willig of San Angelo was elected president of the U.S. 87 Highway Improvement Association at the Annual Meeting held in Amarillo, Texas, Oct. 13. He replaces Barney Wiegand of Amarillo.

Other officers of the organization which seeks to promote improvements and encourage additional tourist traffic on U.S. 87 from Raton, N.M., to Port Lavaca, Texas, include Lloyd Wilkins of Raton for the New Mexico Region, Jim Eubanks of Amarillo for the Northern Region, Joe Pickle of Big Spring for the Central Region, and Ed Davenport of Brady for the Southern Region. Each is vice president representing his region.

Grady Elder of San Angelo was elected secretary-treasurer, and Eddie Jones of Dalhart was designated president-elect. His term will begin in the fall of 1980.

Gene Robbins, president of the Texas Good Roads Transportation Association made the keynote address at the annual meeting.

THE KOZLOVS COME TO NEW YORK — Valentina Kozlova and Leonid Kozlov, who defected from the Bolshoi ballet last month in Los Angeles, perform in their New York debut Saturday night at the Brooklyn Center for the Performing Arts. The Russian couple danced in three duets in a program shared with the Maryland Ballet.

WAITING FOR RELEASE — A gunman, identified by police as Harold Mann of St. Albans, W. Va., holds the congregation of the St. Albans Church of Christ hostage. Mann surrendered some 2½ hours later, and no one was injured. This photograph was made by Bob Gay, a staff photographer for the Charleston Daily Mail, who went into the church when Mann demanded to talk with newsmen.

Ruckus over church cops heats up

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Utah homosexuals say the Mormon Church is trying to stamp them out, using a private police force at the church-owned Brigham Young University to harass them throughout the state.

The claims are denied by both university president Dallin Oaks and the chief of the 24-officer BYU security force.

But a former Mormon minister who now serves a gay church in Salt Lake City — 27 miles from BYU's Provo campus — contends he saw men from BYU jostling down license plate numbers outside a gay bar.

And a Mormon lawyer says a client charged with forcible sexual abuse was set up for the arrest by what he called BYU's "Mormon Militia."

The university police, responsible only to church officials, last year were given investigative and arrest powers rivaling those of the State Police through a law passed by the Legislature.

The law — which took effect last May 10 — pertains to all Utah colleges and universities which have security forces.

But the BYU force is particularly visible as the largest among private schools and as the best equipped in the state, with sophisticated surveillance units and experience from assisting local authorities in drug and vice cases.

Before the law was passed, critics had complained about the situation under which BYU officers had regularly served off-campus as deputy sheriffs, under uncertain authorization.

BYU lobbyists testified at legislative hearings concerning the law that the measure was needed "to clarify" the off-campus situation.

Security Chief Robert Keshaw now says the officers stay on campus and that he has no intention of using the statewide police authority.

Furthermore, Keshaw says, BYU police don't go after homosexuals "any more than they do after any other type of criminal," adding that only 5 percent of campus arrests are sex-related.

"The charge is really preposterous," says BYU president Oaks.

He says campus police will continue to enforce all laws forbidding illicit sexual activity, whether homosexual or heterosexual.

"People should be able to walk down the street without someone seizing them and soliciting sexual relations," the Rev. Robert Waldrop, an acknowledged homosexual who serves the Metropolitan Community

Church in Salt Lake, says that if the Mormon Church wants to teach that homosexuality is a sin, "that's their business," but it should not enforce its beliefs with its own militia.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints excommunicates homosexuals. Mormon president Spencer Kimball says homosexuality is "an abomination to God" that "corrodes the mind, snuffs out self-esteem and drags one down into darkness of anguish and unhappiness."

Waldrop says that the alleged BYU pressure on homosexuals has driven many of them from campus, or at least into hiding. "A year ago, I knew about 20 gays at BYU, but this year I only know of two," he says.

The minister says that within the last year he has seen people noting license numbers outside The Sun, a Salt Lake gay bar.

Owner wasn't in struck car

An automobile accident which occurred in the alley of 2308 Marshall at 1 p.m. Saturday, was erroneously reported to The Herald in Sunday's paper.

A car belonging to Dickie Jones, 1004 Baylor, was, in fact, parked at the time it was struck by a car driven by William Edward Pollard, 1606 Osage. Mr. Jones was not in his vehicle at the time the accident occurred.

Statewide election Nov. 6 It's well kept 'secret'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — It's a well kept "secret," but there will be a statewide election Nov. 6.

Texas will decide if they want to make three more changes in the state's much-amended 1876 constitution.

Most of the votes cast that day probably will come from Houston, which also will be electing a mayor, city council and school board.

There should be a sizeable turnout in Dallas, where voters are interested in a $54 million bond issue of seven propositions.

A small turnout is expected in Austin, where county officials are trying to get approval of $5 million in bonds to provide more office space.

But elsewhere there has been little said about the election just two weeks away. Absentee voting guaranteeing loans for anyone, even farmers, who are not worse off than other small business owners.

The amendment that would provide for legislative review of rules and regulations made by state agencies passed the House and Senate in 1979 with little opposition. However, since then the Texas League of Women Voters has spoken out against it.

League President Diana Clark said Proposition No. 2 is a "dangerous violation of the constitutional separation of powers of the executive and legislative branches of government ... Such a change might allow a small group of legislators to block administrative action because of opposition to a governor or his appointees on state boards, regardless of the merits of the rule in question."

Backers of Proposition No. 2 say more and more state legislatures have decided rules of government are too important to be left entirely to bureaucrats who answer only indirectly, if at all, to the people. Thirty-four states now have some sort of legislative review of agency rules.

Under the program, the state would guarantee 90 percent of the amount due on family farm and ranch loans. The loans would be made by private lenders, but the state could help some farmers pay back their loans, charging 6 percent interest for the aid.

An applicant must have lived in Texas at least five years, must have had experience and education in the farm or ranch business, and have a total net worth of less than $100,000 in his immediate family, excluding his residence.

Jones wants to keep more family farmers in business. If family farmers are pushed off the land, he says, corporations and foreign investors can be expected to buy the land. He has stressed to city dwellers that the good life in the city is not possible without a healthy agricultural base.

"If food prices went out of sight, you'd have rioting in the streets," Jones argues.

There has been no organized statewide opposition to Proposition 3.

Those against it generally argue that the state should not be in the business of guaranteeing loans for anyone, even farmers, who are not worse off than other small business owners.

Texas soon will be two-party state?

By JACKIE CALMES
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Many new Texans, even those from more liberal Northern and Eastern States, are educated, white-collar conservatives who are likely to vote Republican, polls show.

As a result, Democrats and Republicans alike are predicting Texas soon will be a two-party state, perhaps as early as next spring's primaries.

Forty-two percent of the out-of-staters "have some Republican orientation, either weak or strong," says Houston pollster V. Lance Tarrance. His firm advised Republicans Gov. Bill Clements and U.S. Sen. John Tower in their successful 1978 campaigns.

Since only about 25 percent of Texas' six million registered voters claim to be Republicans, the newcomers add significantly to the state GOP. But the key, Tarrance says, is that only 30 percent of the newcomers identify as Democrats.

"You have a net trade-off of more Republican-identifiers coming in than Democrats. This is pretty good news for Republicans," he says.

State Democratic Party Chairman Billy Goldberg of Houston says Tarrance's 42 percent figure for the GOP is exaggerated and reveals Tarrance's Republican leanings.

Goldberg says Democratic polls show that Republican voters have remained at about 20 percent — about the same as just before Clements' election last year as Texas' first GOP governor in a century.

He says Democrats have dropped from 51 to 39 percent in the last couple years, but he blames his party's drop primarily on the influx of out-of-staters who tend to identify as independents.

Pollster John Henson of Austin, whose firm has worked for Democrats, says white-collar conservatives — "the Houston corporate type" — have dominated migration here so far. These newcomers probably will vote Republican, he says, "so a two-party system may well become more pronounced in Texas."

State Republican Chairman Chester Upham of Mineral Wells predicts a genuine two-party struggle by next spring's primaries. But he says the new Republican votes are largely homegrown.

"Mostly they're former Democrats. They're Texans who are fed up with their own party. And we're glad to take them."

In West and North Central Texas, migration has had little effect, he says. There, GOP candidates pick up votes from ticket-splitting Democrats and independents.

But Upham agrees that newcomers have significantly affected GOP ranks in fast-growing urban areas, particularly Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth and San Antonio.

Upham says even liberals among the newcomers will help the GOP by adding to the Democrats' liberal wing and thus accelerating defections by conservative Democrats.

Goldberg disagrees with Upham's prediction of a two-party bout in 1980. "I think everybody will get a better feel after the 1982 elections. There's just not enough statewide elections next year to really get a feel for just how much of a two-party state we've become."

He rejects Upham's prediction that conservatives are deserting the Democrats. "I've talked to some of the conservative leaders in our party, and they're not about to leave."

Some liberal Democrats, particularly those who stand to gain if conservatives defect, say they look forward to a stronger GOP and party competition. One is State Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin, often mentioned as a future congressional candidate.

He recently told Young Democrats at the University of Texas at Austin that migration has brought new thinking and progressive people to Texas.

"It's also brought new Republicans," he said, "and that's not all bad." Party competition would result in more debate and clearer choice of candidates and issues, Doggett said.

UT government professor David Perry, author of several books on Frostbelt-to-Sunbelt movement, agrees that migration has been an important aide to the Republican party here.

He says many of the newcomers were closet conservatives before coming here. In Texas — "an area of the country that they know in their hearts is more conservative than the one they're coming from" — they feel free to admit their conservatism and accept a GOP brand.

Likewise, pollster Henson says many newcomers "take on the conservative coloration of the region — and some even stronger than the natives."

Dr. Jared Hazleton, associate Dean of the Lyndon Baines Johnson School of Public Affairs in Austin, says newcomers haven't changed the state's political climate much yet, except for adding to Texas' urbanization.

As Texas politics and politicians move away from a long-standing rural orientation to a more urban and liberal stance, both new and old Texas conservatives will move to the go, Hazleton says.

The combination of urbanization and migration holds out significant hopes for another politically oriented group: Texas labor.

"Urbanization of Texas along with the influx of the easterners and northerners — together — certainly means and increase in union members in Texas," state AFL-CIO President Harry Hubbard says. "We see that already."

Texas has the fastest growing AFL-CIO in the country, Hubbard says. Today's membership of 276,000 is up 64,000 from five years ago, he says.

Except for the Rio Grande

Valley and West Texas, the state is increasingly receptive to unions thanks to the union-oriented backgrounds of the newcomers, Hubbard says.

Although organized labor is generally affiliated with the Democratic party, Hubbard says he would like to see well-defined party competition in Texas instead of the usual intra-party struggle between Democratic liberals and conservatives.

VAMC hosts news people at luncheon recently

A luncheon was held Wednesday at the VA Medical Center to convey appreciation to the Herald and to area radio stations and television stations in Midland and Odessa for their coverage of news events at the facility.

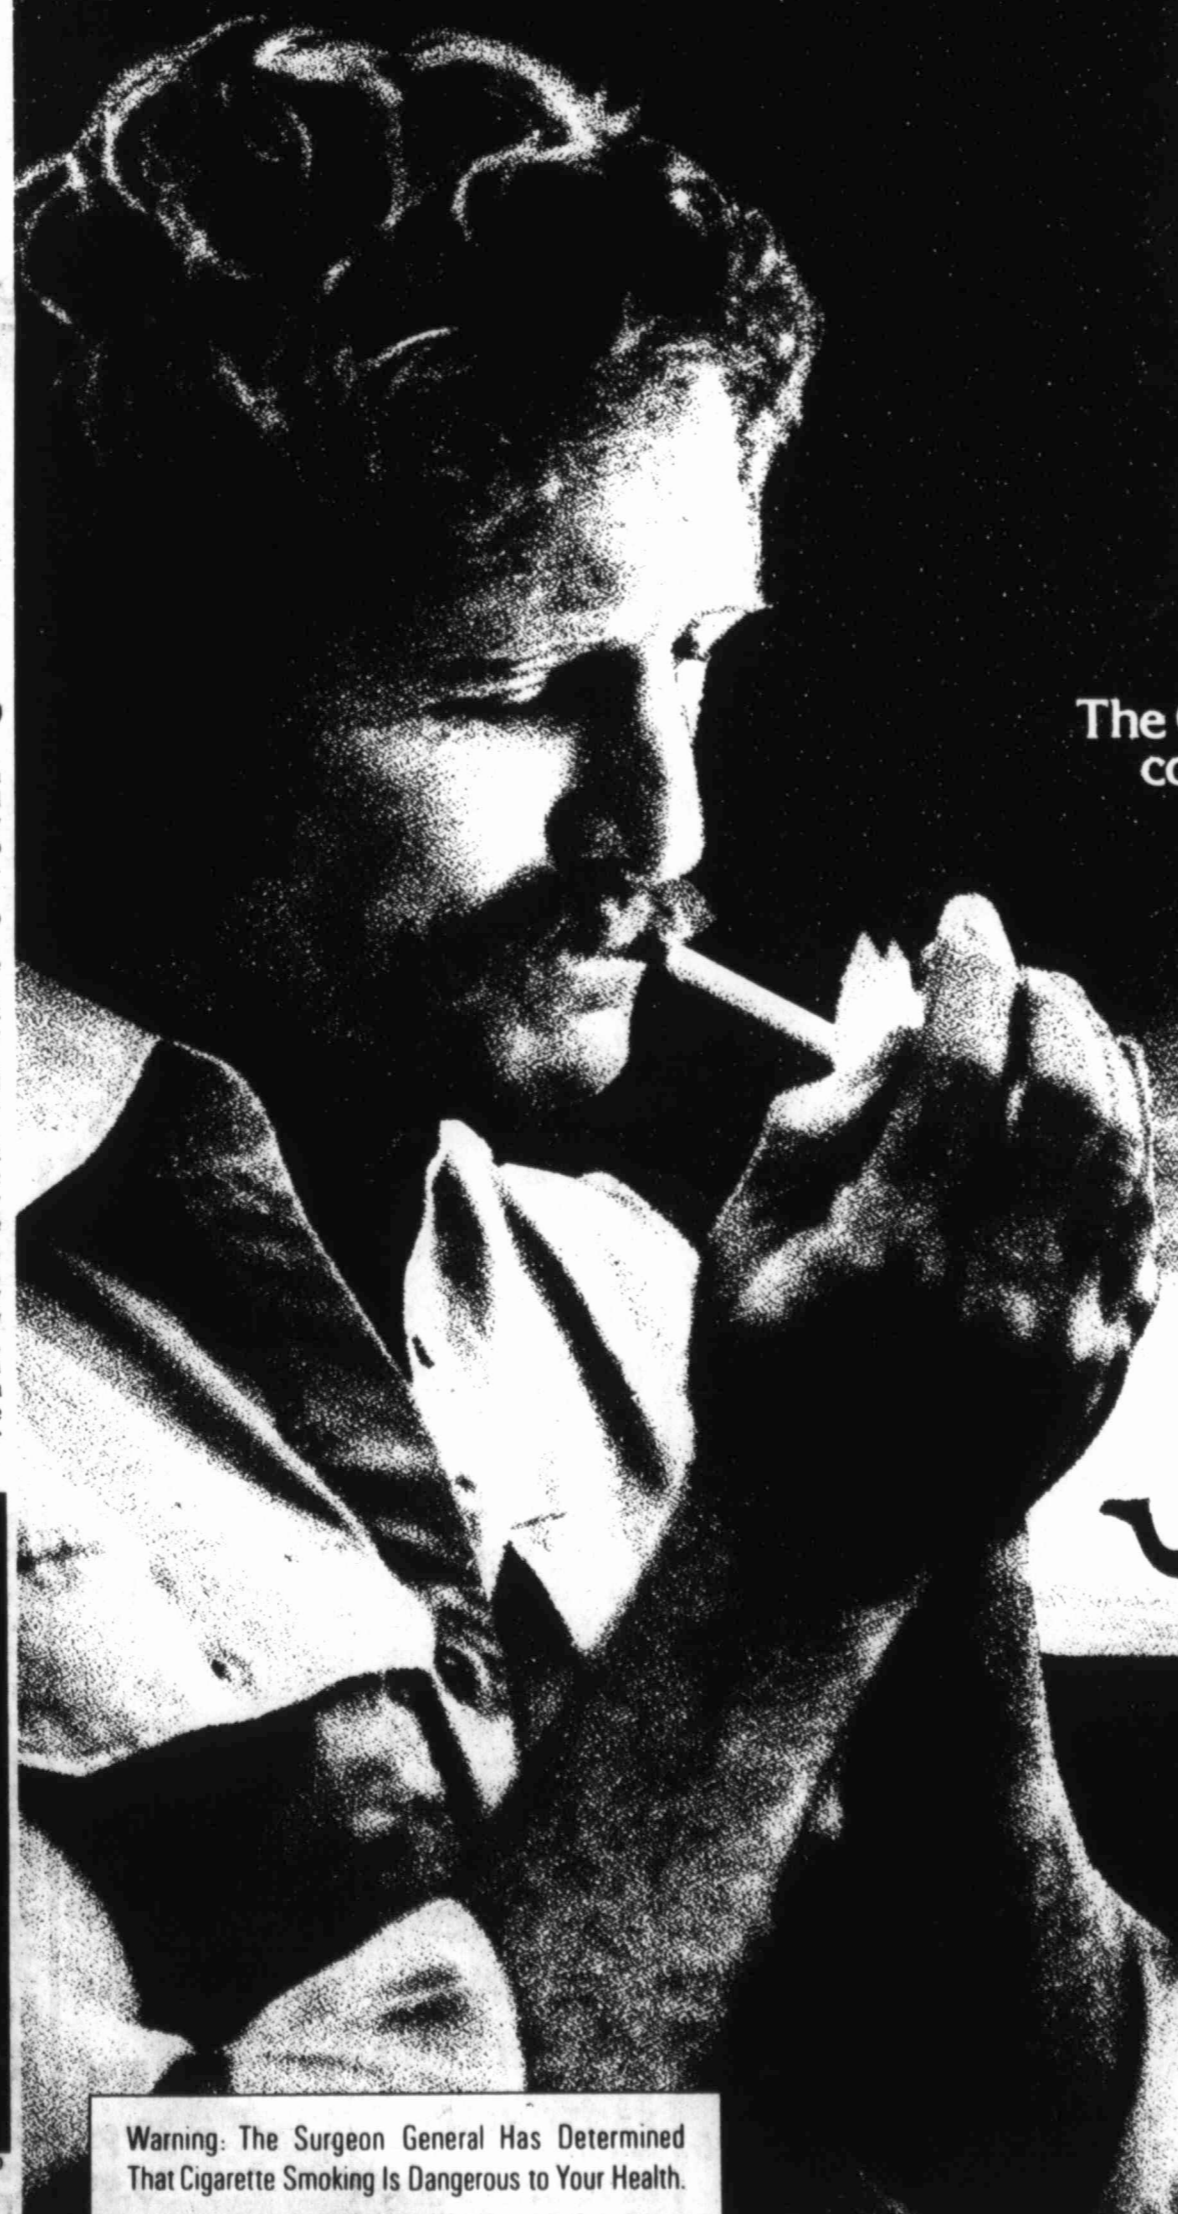

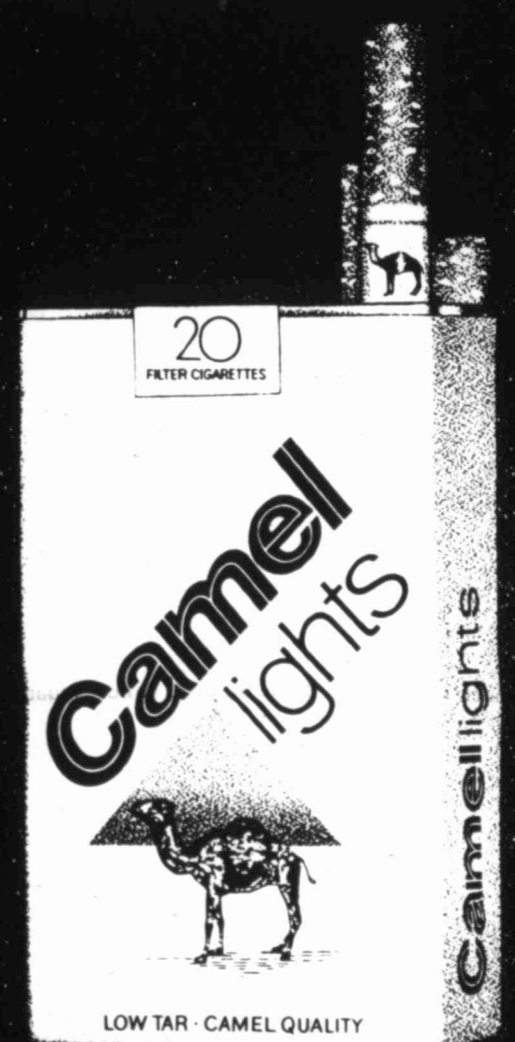

The luncheon was also for the purpose of introducing to the news media J.R. Vestal, Information Service Representative, Dallas. Vestal is responsible for news-related liaison for 15 medical centers, 44 regional offices, seven national cemeteries, two independent outpatient clinics and the Data Processing Center, Austin, located in a three-state area (Texas, Arkansas, and Mississippi.)

Attending the luncheon were Garlond E. Evers, VAMC Director; Michael Hamilton, Management Analyst; Tom Balderach, administrative assistant; chief of staff; Joe Ruclean, chief, voluntary service; John Brooks, KBST-Tequilla Duru and Chuck Barth, KMID-TV; Bob Taylor, KBYG; and Danny Valdes, Big Spring Herald.

Area libraries qualify for system membership

Scurry County Library at Snyder and Mitchell County Public Library at Colorado City were two of the 18 public libraries served by the Big Country Library System that have qualified for membership in the regional library system for the year that began Sept. 1.

A grant will be received by the system of $194,849 to carry out co-operative activities to improve library service in the 32-county region it serves.

The Big Country Library System is one of 10 regional library systems organized under provisions of the Texas Library Systems Act of 1969 by the Texas State Library.

Activities include a collection of films in super 8 mm, 16 mm and 8 mm, quarterly availability of new packet of sound filmstrip kits; professional materials and large type books; access to a collection of books-by-mail for counties without library service and an option to purchase printed or audiovisual materials.

In addition to the Colorado City and Snyder libraries, system members are Abilene Public Library, Callahan County Library at Baird, Reagan County Library at Big Lake, F.M. Buck Richards Memorial Library at Brady, Brownwood Public Library, Mrs. J.A.B. Miller Library at Coleman, Comanche Public Library, Kent County Library at Jayton, Kimble County Library at Junction, Mason County Free Library, Munday City-County Library, Coke County Library at Robert Lee, Rotan Public Library, Tom Green County Library at San Angelo, Stamford Carnegie Library and Sweetwater County-County Library.

Pervasive polls loathed, loved, mistrusted, heeded in U.S.

BY MAI COLMAN CARTER
Associated Press Writer

Only they are where. Public opinion pervade the nation, affecting its policies and its politics.

The federal government uses them in its decision-making. Political candidates use them in election campaigns. And what the "polls show" on a wide range of issues, from the arms race to abortion, becomes central to public debate.

In large part, the polls have achieved this position by compiling a solid track record. One major pollster, for example, likes to boast that his final pre-election presidential polls have been off by no more than an average of 1.3 percent in the last 20 years.

Reputable polls on local election and referenda also have been generally accurate within a few points of the actual vote.

So few can argue that polls are simply a matter of trickery by untrustworthy statisticians.

But the polls are not infallible, and results can vary widely. The figures sometimes are endowed with a precision that not even the pollsters themselves would claim, leading to mistaken conclusions.

Differences in question wording, question order and interview timing can cause one poll's results to differ from the next.

Changing a single word can turn the results upside down. Waiting a day to take the poll can have the same effect. And one of the pollsters' biggest pitfalls is to think they are asking one question while the public thinks it's answering another.

Ask about support for a Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty, for instance, and most everyone says it's a good idea. Ask whether the United States should sign the proposed treaty with the Soviet Union to limit the nation's nuclear weaponry, and support all but vanishes.

Burns W. Roper, who publishes his poll results in Roper Reports 10 times a year, concedes that polls may actually mislead.

He observes that pollsters often refer to a three- or four-point margin of sampling error, but he and others acknowledge that this may be the least of it.

"We know how to draw a sample," says Harvard professor Gary Orren, a polling consultant to the Washington Post. "What really differentiates one poll from another is the skill of the artist."

Since errors in the art cannot be measured but errors in the science can be, it is sampling error that pollsters talk about.

While polls have transformed the old-fashioned political campaign manager who trusts his gut into a director of marketing who trusts his charts, they still don't insure victory.

This was a lesson that Charles D. "Pug" Ravenel learned the hard way against Strom Thurmond in South Carolina's Senate race last year. The polls correctly identified the issues, but "it turned out that people did not want to hear about the issues," muses the loser.

Though more and more government decisions that affect our lives are grounded in polls, both the General Accounting Office and the American Statistical Association say the federal government doesn't design them well or interpret them correctly.

In a report on five federal agencies last year, the GAO said that the government drew debatable conclusions from polls.

A report of the American Statistical Association said further that polls by 15 of 26 federal agencies it examined did not meet their objectives because of poor design, faulty sampling or a combination of "serious" technical flaws.

Yet largely on the basis of polls, President Carter concluded that this nation is suffering from a "crisis of confidence," the Defense Department changed Army enlistment terms and the federal government decided to require airbags as a safety option in automobiles.

In fact, the Office of Management and Budget says the government is spending $7 million a year to mine the public's opinions.

The polling profession is the big winner in all this and collects more than an estimated half billion dollars a year from all sources.

Is it any wonder that when Gallup did a poll on polls four years ago, one out of seven adults said they had been interviewed for at least one other survey? Now, says Roper, it is one out of three.

Polls touch us in many ways:

—The Federal Trade Commission just spent $40,000 to find out what information consumers want on energy labeling for major appliances. The result: New regulations will come out this fall.

—Assistant Secretary Donna Shalala says that roughly $1 million is spent every year on polling by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

AVERTS A SAFETY — St. Louis Quarterback, Jim Hart (17) ducks under Dallas Cowboy defender Harvey Martin (79) and avoids being tackled in the end zone for a safety during the second half. Cardinal running back, Wayne Morris (24) managed to grab a piece of Martin as he went over Hart, giving Hart time to get a pass off. The Cowboys won Sunday's match-up against St. Louis 22-13 in Texas Stadium.

Pokes all alone at the top

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Despite only a mediocre day by the offense, the Dallas Cowboys put another win on the books Sunday and took over first place all by themselves in the Eastern Division of the National Football Conference.

Thomas Henderson and Randy White sacked St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart three times each in a 22-13 victory over St. Louis that raised the Cowboys' record to 7-1, a game ahead of Washington and Philadelphia.

"We had a good pass rush. That's the thing that won the game. It was not one of our best offensive days, but the defense picked us up and that was enough," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said.

Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach threw 10-yard touchdown passes to Billy Joe Dupree and Tony Hill in the second quarter for a 17-6 lead.

But just as Dallas fans settled back to enjoy a runaway victory, rookie Roy Green came up with the longest kickoff return in National Football League history, a 108-yard dash down the left sidelines that put the Cardinals back into the contest.

Rafael Septien kicked field goals of 51 and 29 yards for the Cowboys, matched by field goals of 51 and 41 yards by St. Louis' Steve Little. The 51-yard kicks were personal records for both kickers in the NFL.

Dallas' other points came on a safety in the third quarter when the ball was snapped over Little's head on a punt.

"We've got a much better record than I thought we would in the first half of the season," said Landry, noting that the Cowboys traditionally are a slow-starting team.

"I'd take 7-1 right now for the last half. We've got the toughest part of our schedule still ahead of us," Landry said.

Told of Washington's 17-7 victory over Philadelphia, Landry said, "That's good news, but it's a long way to go."

On the heels of taking over first place, the Cowboys must journey to Pittsburgh Sunday to play the defending world champions.

Cardinal Coach Bud Wilkinson said he didn't want to take anything away from the Dallas defense, but said injuries in St. Louis' offensive line hurt his team.

"When you don't get the protection, you're not effective passing," Wilkinson said.

Harvey Martin added one sack of Hartas and the Dallas defense dumped him seven times for 58 yards in losses.

"The accolades were so much on the offense last week, that the defense was really mentally prepared to play," said Dallas defensive end Larry Cole.

"It was the best pass rush we've had this year, and that was real encouraging. In the past, St. Louis has been our nemesis as far as getting to the quarterback," Cole said.

Tony Dorsett gained more than 100 yards for his fourth straight game, netting 111 on 20 carries. He went off right tackle for 41 yards on the first play of the game, setting up Septien's 51-yard field goal three plays later.

"I really thought I was gone. I saw Hill out of the corner of my eye, but decided not to try a cutback. Maybe I should have. You don't break a lot of long ones against St. Louis," said Dorsett, who was overtaken on the Cardinal 39 by safety Ken Stone.

O.J. Anderson gained 105 yards for St. Louis, becoming the third back to gain more than 100 yards twice against the Cowboys. He also took five of Hart's passes for 39 yards.

"They did everything to try to stop me," said Anderson, who gained 193 yards against Dallas earlier in the year. "There were a lot of remarks all week about me. Even Dorsett said I'd never have another 100-yard game against Dallas. Well, we lost this game, but we proved I could get me another 100."

Staubach connected on 11 of 25 passes for Dallas. Some of his misses were far off the mark.

Hayes honored at half

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Bob Hayes, on special leave from state prison, received a loud ovation from the Texas Stadium crowd during halftime activities honoring Cowboy greats Sunday.

Hayes appeared with 19 other former Dallas players during the break between halves of the Dallas-St. Louis game. The capacity audience of 65,000 enthusiastically applauded

Hayes during ceremonies highlighting the Cowboys' fifth annual reunion weekend.

Hayes pleaded guilty last April to possession and sale of narcotics and was sentenced to five years in prison. He will be eligible for parole in February and has a job waiting with a computer company if he gets the early release.

Hayes ran to the middle of the field and raised both arms to the cheers of the crowd. The two-time All-Pro wide receiver still holds the team record for his 246 yards in receptions in one game and his 141 yards in punt returns in one game and shares the Cowboy record of four TD-receptions in one game.

Oilers fall without Campbell

SEATTLE (AP) — The Houston Oilers didn't have a healthy Earl Campbell Sunday but that still didn't dull the euphoria of Seattle Seahawks' Coach Jack Patera.

"We played the Oilers, not Earl Campbell," Patera snorted.

With Campbell carrying the ball only three times for four yards because of a severe thigh bruise, the Oilers didn't have much of a ground attack at the Seattle Kingdome.

The Oilers defense didn't have much success, either, but Jim Zorn had something to do about that. Zorn may have had his finest afternoon as a passer in the National Football League.

The Seattle quarterback completed 18 of 23 passes — a club record of 78 percent — for 252 yards and three touchdowns in a 34-14 upset victory.

"We can come back and make it," Zorn replied, when asked if the Seahawks still could come back and make the playoffs.

"We knew before the season that people were going to knock each other off," added Steve Largent, who caught two of Zorn's touchdown aeriels. "Now, we're finally rolling. Let's put two of them together back to back."

In Seattle's first seven games, for a 2.5 record, Zorn was intercepted 11 times and threw five touchdown passes.

The fourth-year pro from Cal Poly-Pomona refused to accept all the credit for picking apart the team that entered the game with a 5-2 record and tied for first place with defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh in the American Football Conference Central Division.

Instead, he said the Seahawks executed their assignments against Houston and that was the difference.

"Our offensive line did a super job and our receivers took advantage of the defensive coverage," Zorn said. "Our execution was the best it's been in a long time."

"To beat a team like Houston," Patera noted, "you have to throw the ball."

Zorn's scoring passes were 55 and 45 yards to Largent, and 12 yards to Sherman Smith. Eiren Herrera kicked field goals of 48 and 30 yards, and Cornell Webster raced back a Ronnie Coleman fumble 54 yards for another Seahawks touchdown.

Without Campbell, the NFL's leading rusher, in the lineup, the Oilers managed just 83 yards on the ground. Dan Pastorini completed 20 of 38 passes for 195 yards and two touchdowns.

"It didn't bother him at all straight ahead but he couldn't cut," Houston Coach Bum Phillips said of Campbell.

"I'm just concerned with getting sound," Campbell remarked. "Today was just one of those things." "Earl is a great running back but he didn't make the difference," added Hastorini.

"Bear's boys" shoot it out

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a shootout at Shea between a couple of the Bear's boys.

There was the old-leather-tough, knowledgeable Ken Stabler of the Oakland Raiders, a 10-year pro veteran, a man who has seen the football's summit (the Super Bowl) and conquered it. Then there was the kid — Richard Todd of the New York Jets, a relative rookie, injured most of last season, a second-stringer at the start of this one, still seeking recognition.

One can visualize Bear Bryant, the legendary coach of the University of Alabama Crimson Tide, ensconced in his swank headquarters in Bryant Manor in Tuscaloosa, Ala., stealing a few minutes from his film-viewing of Saturday's tough game with Tennessee to see how a couple of his proteges were doing up North. He must have been running over with pride — especially over the maturing of the new kid on the block, Todd.

The 25-year-old Todd completed nine of 18 passes for 161 yards and hit his target for three of the touchdowns in the Jets' 28-19 victory. After a slow first half, he directed his team marvelously. The old man, Stabler, 33, was a veritable workhorse, throwing the ball 47 times. Despite three interceptions, he accounted for 360 yards and two TDs.

Stabler and Todd, almost a decade apart in age, are just two of the remarkable field generals who have rolled off the Bear's relentless assembly line.

George Blanda and Babe Parilli emerged from Bryant's flock at the University of Kentucky, the former destined to set records for longevity and place-kicking proficiency.

There has been a succession of great quarterbacks spawned in the Bear's pressure-cooker at Alabama — Joe Namath perhaps the most celebrated, followed by Stabler, Scott Hunter, Steve Sloan and Jeff Rutledge, who went on to make marks in the pro game.

Yet none of them was as impressive as were their performances in the collegiate game. None ever won the Heisman Trophy, the symbol of undergraduate football greatness.

"The Bear concentrates on team play. No one man is given priority over another. It's the unit that counts — not the individual. Naturally, players such as Namath, Stabler, Sloan and Todd suffer in the battle for national attention. But the teams keep on winning," says one Bear watcher.

No one can dispute that. There's not a coach in the country — pro or college — who has built a more impressive monument of success.

Contrary to popular belief, Bryant is no genius at recruiting. He is a building genius — that's the reason he's never gone pro. His red-shirted legions look scrubby and underfed when measured by the behemoths of Southern Cal, Oklahoma and Notre Dame.

He has no Charles Whites on his roster, no Billy Sims or Vagas Fergusons.

He just has a bunch of tough kids who win and win. At last look, they were No. 1. Can you name their quarterback?

Steelers face Broncos tonight

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers, losers a week ago to the previously winless Cincinnati Bengals, will try to rebound tonight when they meet the Denver Broncos in a nationally televised National Football League game.

"There's no reason to panic," said Steeler cornerback Mel Blount.

"We've been through down periods before and we know what it takes," running back Rocky Bleier added.

"The players realize they have all the ability in the world, but they have to concentrate on their jobs," said guard Sam Davis.

The Steelers fumbled nine times in the 34-10 loss to Cincinnati. It was the worst Steeler defeat since 1971, when they were beaten 29-3 by Houston, and Pittsburgh leads the NFL with 26 turnovers for the season.

"We may have to go back to training camp," Coach Chuck Noll said after his three-time Super Bowl champs slipped to 5-2 on the season and into a tie with Houston atop the AFC Central Division.

So when they returned to the practice field last Wednesday, the Steelers ran 350-yard laps around the field, just like they did in training camp. And they had a special one-hour drill in which they ran 27 plays — with no fumbles.

The players also got a talk from Noll.

"He says what has happened to us is insidious," said Bleier. "It creeps in during a period of time. It doesn't happen all of a sudden. We've been making mental mistakes."

"We know we're a much better team than this."

Denver, meanwhile, is also 5-2 and tied with San Diego for first place in the AFC-West. And Bronco Coach Red Miller doesn't buy the notion that he'll be catching Pittsburgh in a slump.

"Don't give me that stuff," Miller said by phone this week. "Don't set us up here. They're not going to win every game, but they're going to win a heckuva lot. And they'll be home on a Monday night."

"They'll be up for this game. They'll probably play better than they ever have. That's the way I really look at it."

Strange conquers nerves

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Curtis Strange battled two foes coming down the stretch of the $200,000 Pensacola Open — his own nerves and familiar rival Bill Kratzert.

The three-year pro steadied himself enough to keep Kratzert one shot back Sunday and win his first PGA event with a course record, 17-under-par 271.

It was Kratzert who outdueled Strange back in August coming down the stretch of the Greater Hartford Open. Kratzert made it tough on him again this time with three birdies over the final four holes on the 7,133-yard Perdido Bay Country Club course.

"This is something I've waited for a long time," Strange said. "It's kind of ironic that Bill beat me coming down the stretch at Hartford. It's only fitting that I beat him now."

Strange had a three-shot cushion after he rolled in a 6-foot eagle putt on the 15th hole, but ahead, Kratzert was making birdie putts of seven and 12 feet at the 17th and 18th holes.

Strange limped in with a bogey-5 on the 18th hole and won by a single shot.

"I actually wanted a bigger lead coming to 18," Strange said. "I kept telling myself not to make any dumb mistakes."

Kratzert said he simply got started too late to catch Strange.

"I got it going a little too late," Kratzert said. "I needed some help from Nurtis and he never helped me out."

Kratzert's 16-under par total was two shots better than third place finishers Morris Hatafsky and John Mahaffey who wound up with 14-under-par 274s. Hatafsky, whose opening round 64 put him on the spot as a co-leader, got to within one shot of Strange with a one-foot birdie putt on the 15th hole but gave it right back when he bogeyed the 16th, missing a ten-foot putt for par. He shot a 69 in the final round, while Mahaffey had his second consecutive 70.

Tour veteran Don January, Keith Ferguson, Terry Diehl and former U.S. Open champion Orville Moody finished in a tie fifth, four shots back of Strange at 13-under-par.

Moody, who hasn't won since his Open victory a decade ago, was a crowd favorite after entering the final round just a shot back of Strange. He ran into trouble on the back nine with a pair of bogeys on a clear, sunny day when birdies far outnumbered bogeys.

Rodgers is back on winning track

NEW YORK (AP) — After Bill Rodgers won the Boston Marathon for the third time in April, he went into a slump, losing six races in a row, and skeptics began to downgrade him.

The red-haired running machine reasserted himself Sunday, capturing the New York City Marathon for the fourth straight year.

"When I started to lose a few races, people thought it was all over for me," said the levelheaded Rodgers, who was beaten at distances from 10,000 meters to the 26-mile, 385-yard marathon. "But they shouldn't start knocking you down because you lose a few road races."

Ironically, the reason Rodgers was being criticized was because he was expected to win all the time. Last year, he was the king of the roads, winning 22 consecutive races.

And early this year, Rodgers again appeared unbeatable. In retaining his title at Boston, he set the American record of 2 hours, 9 minutes, 27 seconds.

But then he started losing, and the critics began running him down.

Sunday, Rodgers answered them.

After staying off the early pace, Rodgers began a relentless pursuit and finally sped past front-running Kirk Pfeffer, an unheralded 21-year-old from Boulder, Colo., just past the 22-mile mark.

"Pfeffer is a talented runner," said Rodgers, who finished in 2:11:42, "but being a little inexperienced, he got caught up in a (fast) pace."

Norway's Grete Waitz also is an inexperienced marathoner, but she had no trouble winning the woman's division and breaking the world record for the second year in a row. In finishing in 2:27:33, she clipped nearly five minutes off the mark of 2:32:30 she had established in winning the 1978 New York City Marathon.

Last year's triumph came in her first marathon.

Nobody knew anything about Waitz last year because she was a late entrant, deciding to run about two weeks before the race, and did not make the official program.

The mystery entrant this year was Pfeffer.

He didn't decide to enter until Saturday morning. Pfeffer struggled in second in 2:13:08, followed by two Englishmen, Steve Kenyon (2:13:29) and Ian Thompson (2:13:42), and Benji Durden of Atlanta (2:13:42).

Frank Shorter, the 1972 Olympic champion and the 1976 Games' runner-up who has not beaten Rodgers in three years, placed seventh in 2:18:15.

But Finland's Lasse Viren, the Olympic 5,000-meter and 10,000-meter champion in 1972 and 1976 and the fifth-place finisher in his first marathon in the '76 Games, dropped out after about 16 miles, and Tom Fleming, considered the "most feared" runner in the race, also failed to finish.

Cooper works like 'Magic'

By The Associated Press

With the "Magic" gone from the Los Angeles Lakers lineup for a while, Coach Jack McKinney can use all the sleight of hand he can get.

And he got it Sunday night from Michael Cooper.

Cooper, used in place of the injured Ervin "Magic" Johnson, proved to be an ace in the hole for the Lakers as he helped them to a 106-97 National Basketball Association victory over the Seattle SuperSonics.

"Cooper played very well and he'll get better every time," said McKinney after watching the second-year player score 19 points, grab nine rebounds and hand out two assists. "He needs experience and confidence now."

Cooper will second that motion.

"I was a little nervous at first," he said. "Coach McKinney just told me to go out and play hard and play good defense. I was just trying to do my job and enjoyed getting a chance to play."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Portland defeated Golden State 91-74, Milwaukee edged Chicago 113-111 and Kansas City trimmed Phoenix 122-85.

Along with Cooper's excellent work, the Lakers got some fine play from another replacement, Jim Chones. Chones started in place of the injured Spencer Haywood and scored 23 points.

The Lakers trailed most of the way and it was 81-75 Seattle entering the final period. But Los Angeles outscored the SuperSonics 23-10 in the first nine minutes of the fourth quarter to take command.

"We didn't block out tonight," said Seattle Coach Len Wilkens, "and their guards slipped in for a lot of rebounds. The Lakers have a much tougher rebounding club this year."

Trail Blazers 91, Warriors 74

Portland reserves, led by Jim Paxson, overwhelmed Golden State in the fourth quarter to pace the Trail Blazers' victory over the Warriors.

The Blazers took a 70-60 lead into the fourth quarter and outscored the Warriors 20-4 from the field during the first eight minutes of the period. Paxson contributed seven of the 20 points and Abdul Jeelani and Kevin Kunnert added six each.

Bucks 113, Bulls 111

Junior Bridgeman poured in 26 points and Dave Meyers added 22, leading Milwaukee past Chicago for the Bucks' fifth straight victory.

Reggie Theus scored 25 points for the Bulls, playing without star center Artis Gilmore, who is expected to be sidelined 10 weeks with a knee injury.

Kings 122, Suns 85

Otis Birdsong scored 20 points to lead eight Kansas City players in double figures as the Kings swamped Phoenix. The Kings never trailed after opening the game with an 8-1 burst against the Suns, who were playing without star forward Walter Davis.

Weekend NFL action Last of the losers wins

...and then there was none.

With the San Francisco 49ers' victory Sunday, the last of the goose-eggs under the "W" column vanished from the National Football League standings and Tampa Bay's record remained safe for one more season.

"We felt sure we were going to win this, from the kickoff to the final gun," quarterback Steve DeBerg said after guiding the 49ers 70 yards in the fourth quarter to their winning touchdown in the 20-15 victory over Atlanta. Paul Hofer scored it with 5 1/2 minutes to go, his second TD of the game.

"We've been working too hard and losing too many close ones to let this one get away," added DeBerg, who completed all six passes he threw in the winning march.

Vikings 30, Bears 27

Tommy Kramer's fourth TD pass, a 5-yarder to Ricky Young with 13 seconds to play, vaulted the Vikings past Chicago. Earlier, Kramer found Young on a 17-yarder.

Walter Payton, who rushed for 111 yards, was involved in all three Chicago TDs — a 2-yard run, a 2-yard pass from Bob Avellini and an option pass play to Brian Baschnagel covering 54 yards.

Colts 14, Bills 13

Bert Jones, in his first start since being sidelined by a shoulder injury in Baltimore's season opener, ran for one TD and passed 4 yards to Mack Alston for one in the Colts' victory over Buffalo.

Browns 28, Bengals 27

Charlie Hall of Cleveland blocked a Cincinnati extra point, the difference between victory and overtime for the Browns. Brian Sipe passed for all four Cleveland TDs, one a 50-yard play with fullback Mike Pruitt.

Chargers 40, Rams 16

Dan Fouts, passing for more than 300 yards for the third straight game, connected on TD passes of 65 yards to John Jefferson and 6 yards to Bob Klein while Hank Bauer ran in from the 1-yard line twice to lead San Diego past the Rams.

Redskins 17, Eagles 7

Washington, stung by Wilbert Montgomery's 127 yards rushing and four TDs two weeks ago, limited him to 33 yards and, for good measure, sacked Philadelphia quarterback Ron Jaworski seven times. Benny Malone and Joe Theismann ran in the touchdowns for the "Skins."

Patriots 28, Dolphins 13

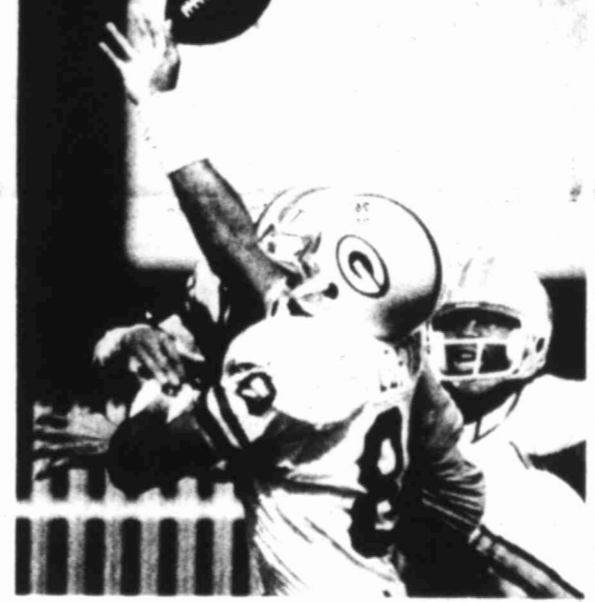

After his bombs set up 1-yard TD runs by Horace Ivory and Sam Cunningham to wipe out Miami's 13-0 lead, New England quarterback Steve Grogan passed 15 yards to Ray Jarvis for an insurance score.

Saints 17, Lions 7

Garo Yepremian padded his own field goal record with his 20th in a row, the Saints' winning points after Archie Manning threw 24 yards to Wes Chandler for a TD against the punchless Lions.

Giants 21, Chiefs 17

The Giants, who lost a game last year on what has become known as THE fumble, got a gift this time when Kansas City rookie Mike Williams coughed up the ball, linebacker Harry Carson caught it on one bounce and rumbled 22 yards for the winning TD with 1:42 to go.

PASS INTERCEPTION — Tampa Bay Buccaneer DB Jeris White (No. 45) at right, waits just before he intercepted a pass which was tipped by Buccaneer linebacker Cedric Brown. The pass from Green Bay quarterback David Whitehurst was intended for Green Bay WR James Lofton. The interception stopped the Green Bay Packers drive in the third quarter. The Bucs won 21-3.

SWC race gets wild

By The Associated Press

The Southwest Conference football race is getting just as wild as all the coaches said it would be with this Saturday's "Showdown of the Week" matching unbeaten Houston and Arkansas at Razorback Stadium in Fayetteville where many a good team has gone wrong.

Little Rock was hard enough Saturday for the No. 2-rated Texas Longhorns, who tumbled from unbeaten grace 17-14 before an aroused Arkansas team.

Arkansas and Houston both sport spotless 3-0 SWC ledgers and 6-0 overall.

Looking on with interest will be the darkhorse Baylor Bears, who are 4-1 in league play and riding the crest of a severe 55-0 pawing of Army.

SMU, bounced 37-10 by Houston Saturday, and Texas Tech, which cruised to a 30-7 victory over Rice, are both tied at 2-2.

Texas, the preseason favorite, is 1-1 followed by TCU 1-2, and Rice 0-3.

TCU knocked off Tulsa 24-17 Saturday and coupled with Baylor's runaway gives the conference a 17-8-1 record against outside competition, one of the best in years.

Other league games this weekend find TCU at Baylor, Texas A&M at Rice, and Texas at SMU.

Houston Coach Bill Yeoman was in no celebrating mood.

"I think our players were thinking about Arkansas a little too much," said Yeoman. "We have to get a lot firmer in the head."

Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz had about 20 minutes after the Texas game to enjoy the win, then said, "We are not a great football team."

Arkansas made two long drives against Texas, the No. 2 rated defensive team in the country.

"They had two drives against us and that really surprised me," said Texas safety Johnnie Johnson. "I wouldn't have believed it could happen."

Nor the oddsmakers who had Texas anywhere from a four-to-six-point favorite.

Arkansas hadn't beaten Texas since 1971. The last Razorback victory before Saturday also was in Little Rock.

The television cameras will swing into gear for the Houston-Arkansas game, giving the two schools and the SWC another big payday.

That's no mistake!

No that was not a misprint in your morning paper.

Texas A&I did indeed have 704 yards of offense Saturday in a 49-10 Lone Star Conference football romp over Sam Houston State.

The victory certainly shouldn't hurt Javalinas' No. 1 standing in the NAIA, either.

Texas A&I is now 6-0 overall and 3-0 in league play.

Like's 'bugs' in Oval Office trigger views on propriety

HOUSTON (AP) — Revelations that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower secretly recorded conversations in his Oval Office elicited opposing views on the propriety of such practices from two of the principals in the Watergate scandal.

In a copyright article published in its Sunday edition, the Houston Chronicle said newly disclosed records at the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kan., revealed that he began recording meetings in the Oval Office in October 1953 and continued at least until December 1958.

Former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, now a Houston attorney who served under Eisenhower during World War II, believes no president should secretly record his conversations.

But John Ehrlichman, former President Richard Nixon's White House adviser for domestic affairs, says there are many reasons why a president would use recordings.

Jaworski said he had never heard any rumors about recordings by Eisenhower.

"There was no suspicion that was voiced along that line, much less a charge," he said. "I would just regret that it had been done. I don't think it should be done."

Jaworski, whose Watergate probe contributed to Nixon's resignation as president in 1974, said the Eisenhower tapes did not change his attitude about Nixon.

"It was what was on the (Nixon) tape recordings, the subject matter," Jaworski said. "He dug his own grave with the tape recordings."

Ehrlichman said from his home in Santa Fe, N.M., that he also was surprised by the Eisenhower taping system, but he didn't see anything wrong with it.

"It's what he (the president) does with the tapes," he said. "I think he owes his people a certain obligation to make sure they are not published or used in a way that will breach the confidentiality of the relationship."

The Chronicle story said the taping system was a well-kept secret, but its existence was known by several top officials, including former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Transcripts of the tapes generally were prepared by the president's trusted secretary, Mrs. Ann C. Whitman, who had problems in understanding the tapes, the article said. Many of the recordings were paraphrased rather than transcribed word-for-word.

Nixon, who was forced to resign as president largely because of his own secret tapes, was criticized by Eisenhower in one of the transcribed conversations on June 29, 1954.

Eisenhower started by telling Nixon, then vice president, that he wanted to talk with him about what the president called Nixon's "castigation" of Democratic handling of foreign policy.

Dulles had been trying to obtain bipartisan support for his policies, Eisenhower said, and Nixon's speeches clearly endangered those efforts.

In his defense, Nixon said he hadn't attacked Democrats in general, only former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, but Eisenhower said, "They (the Democrats) feel that any criticism of him reflects in some degree on them."

Nixon said he would be "perfectly willing to delete such references" from future speeches."

A fragmented collection of typewritten transcripts remains as the only evidence of tape-recorded conversations in the Oval Office, said a chief archivist at the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kan.

"As far as we know, the tapes don't exist," Jim Leyerzapf, the library's supervisory archivist said Sunday.

"We have no knowledge of what happened to them. Whether they were left behind or destroyed is a matter of speculation," he said.

Leyerzapf said the library's staff discovered the transcripts in early 1976 while processing papers of the president's personal secretary, Mrs. Ann C. Whitman.

He said the 6,000 page file — called "The Ann Whitman Diary" — was opened for general research work in January 1977.

There is no mention of the tapes in any of the nearly 300,000 pages of papers that comprise the Eisenhower collection, Leyerzapf said only notations at the top of some transcripts indicate there were any tape recordings.

On one of the transcripts Mrs. Whitman noted, "Large portions of tape were completely garbled. The noise of the machine is so great that the words, while loud enough, cannot be understood."

"That's all the evidence we have of the tape system. We don't know who put it there and what its purpose was or how they did it," said Leyerzapf.

The tapes reveal the broad range of domestic and foreign problems Eisenhower confronted from Sen. Joseph McCarthy to responding to personal and political criticism.

In the transcripts, Eisenhower told an interviewer in December 1953 "that in dealing with people he would far rather trust his own instinct than documents prepared by others. Never had been disappointed in anyone that he himself had picked."

After disappointing results in the 1954 congressional elections, when most of his candidates were defeated, Eisenhower took a more sober view of his political environment.

The most annoying part of the presidency, Eisenhower said in another tape, was "accommodating yourself to values and considerations that fundamentally you can't fully accept."

The tapes also show the low regard Eisenhower had for his predecessor, Harry S. Truman.

In one transcript, Eisenhower told Joseph T. Meek, a Republican candidate in Illinois, that Truman "had no concern for the meaning of the Constitution."

When one of his top special assistants, C.D. Jackson, in August 1954, held up Truman's postwar leadership as a possible model for the president, Eisenhower responded huffily.

"One of the biggest mistakes the U.S. makes is to talk too much about its leadership — particularly in early days of Truman administration, people kept talking about world leadership — where were we leading?" Eisenhower asked.

Eisenhower's last years in the White House were increasingly dreary and discouraging, the tapes reveal. The president felt alone and isolated in the White House.

Bond has been denied Lydian Paul Hodde who was transferred to local authorities from Austin Friday.

Hodde is being detained in the Howard County jail for revocation of probation.

Clothing theft investigated

Howard County Sheriff's office is investigating a report of a clothing theft that occurred 4 p.m. Saturday.

According to reports, Mrs. George Brown, Jonesboro Road, placed a shopping bag containing $38 worth of clothing inside her door, turned around and it was gone.

American editors must help erode 'sexual fallacies'

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Two sex researchers have told editors attending the Associated Press Managing Editors convention here that they must help erode "sexual fallacies" so their readers can move toward more comfortable sexual relationships.

Dr. William Masters and his wife, Dr. Virginia Johnson Masters, said in a joint speech Friday they "are tremendously indebted to the press for presenting facts, and we are even more indebted to it for identifying sexual fallacies."

"Until we have true partnerships in the bedroom, we won't have them outside the bedroom," they said.

The two researchers addressed the newspaper executives in the final day of the four-day session.

Some 750 persons registered for the convention and attended a closing night banquet Friday where singer-guitarist Roy Clark entertained.

Editors and their spouses spent the final day in panel discussions exploring the personal lives of newspaper families and looking into the way newspapers cover sex issues.

Dr. Richard Rettig, associate professor of sociology at Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, criticized the media for printing "columns on the thrills and chills of ... perverse sex."

Rettig said "there is reason to believe that the detailed explications of crimes of passion" can influence persons who lack control to attempt the same kinds of crimes.

"Sex is a matter of fact which newspapers do not face matter-of-factly," said Harriet Fisher, a counselor with Clinical Social Work Services of Tulsa.

She said the media's "schizophrenic inconsistency on sex mirrors society" and that journalistic language about sex "is contrived and dysfunctional."

She said terms such as "live-in partners" and "sexual favors" are criticized the media for
