Blustery snowstorm claims eight lives

By The Associated Press

A blustery, snow-laden storm sent an icy prelude to winter through portions of the central and southern Plains, killing eight persons, stranding motorists, knocking out power and sending some Texas residents to shelters to keep warm.

Blizzard warnings were in effect early today across western Kansas and west-central Nebraska, and travelers advisories were posted for the Texas Panhandle, northeastern New Mexico and the mountains and foothills of Colorado, the National Weather Service said.

Two persons were killed Tuesday when a freak tornado spawned by the storm smashed a mobil home in a rural community near Ardmore, Okla.

Six other people died in traffic accidents, including a man and woman struck by a car when they stopped to help a vehicle stalled in a snow-filled ditch in the Texas Panhandle.

A Continental Trailways bus en route from Amarillo, Texas, to Denver was stranded in southeastern Colorado, and plows trying to reach it drove against 90 mph winds and snow drifts of up to 12 feet, the Colorado State Patrol said. Trailways officials in Amarillo declined to say how many people were on board the bus.

More than a dozen cars and trucks also were reported stranded in southeastern Colorado, and Kansas Highway Patrol officers rescued motorists stuck on highways in the southwestern part of that state.

Texas Department of Public Safety patrolmen said more than 400 autos and trucks were abandoned along Interstate 40 between Amarillo and Tucumcari, N.M.

"We got every road you can think of closed," said Colorado State Patrolman Perry Powell at Campo. "We got cars, trucks, buses and everything else just stranded all over the place. We are just trying to get to them and get the people in here."

Meanwhile, nearly two dozen people were injured as tornados and high winds, some up to 70 miles an hour, lashed parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri. The Oklahoma Highway Patrol identified the tornado victims as Teresa Carroll, 59, of rural Ardmore and Jimmie Lee Bob, 41, of Ardmore, who was nearly decapitated by pieces of the mobil home as he got out of his truck.

The twister, which hit without warning, destroyed two mobile homes and one house before skipping 10 miles north to Woodford, where several other buildings were damaged.

As the storm moved east, it triggered heavy rains along the Gulf Coast, causing flooding in the Texas cities of Galveston, Beaumont and Houston. Civil Defense officials in Galveston said as many as 200 people fled their homes as waters rose.

Nearly 7,000 customers in 10 farming communities in southeastern Colorado were without power when winds up to 60 mph combined with wet snow and knocked down power poles.

Despite recent purchase increases

Oil imports 'will be reduced'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is sticking by predictions it will meet its target for reduced oil imports this year despite a large increase in U.S. purchases of foreign oil in September.

Trade figures released Tuesday by the Commerce Department show the nation imported 260.9 million barrels of crude oil and petroleum products last month, an increase of 6 percent from the previous month.

After subtracting the roughly 7 million barrels of oil products the United States exported, the September figure works out to net imports averaging about 8.46 million barrels per day for the month.

The Carter administration target is 8.2 million barrels per day.

But a White House official, who asked for anonymity, pointed out that the administration target is "an average per day for the entire year." He added that the administration had set its goal knowing "imports were likely to rise in the final months (of 1979) to replenish stocks diminished during the Iran problem."

U.S. oil imports were down sharply early this year when Iranian oil production was cut during the revolution that ousted the shah.

A staff member of the Senate Energy Committee, who asked not to be identified, added that a more critical measure — a figure published weekly by the Department of Energy — shows that imports averaged 8.2 million barrels per day in the four weeks ending Oct. 19. "And that doesn't take into account exports, which will lower the daily average some," he said.

Meanwhile, the Senate voted Tuesday to reduce the president's power to unilaterally impose quotas and fees on imported oil.

The measure, approved 70-23, would let the House and Senate reject, by simple majority vote, any presidential quota proposal. However, the president could veto their resolution of disapproval, and both houses then would have to muster a two-thirds majority to make their original decision stand.

The bill now goes to the House.

President Carter announced last July that he intended to set the 8.2 million barrel per day quota, but the actual day-to-day level has not been set to allow time for Energy Department hearings on the subject.

In a major speech on energy July 15, Carter put it this way: "Beginning this month, this nation will never use more foreign oil than we did in 1977 — never. From now on, every new addition to our demand for energy will be met from our own production and our own conservation."

According to the new Commerce report, imports of crude oil and petroleum products totaled 2.28 billion barrels during the first nine months of the year, or an average of 8.35 million barrels per day.

All oil-related imports averaged 8.7 million barrels per day in 1977, according to Commerce data.

Crude oil imports that year averaged about 6.9 million barrels per day, Commerce figures show.

The Commerce report said the nation's trade deficit in September was $2.83 billion, in large part because of a record $5.8 billion bill for imported oil. The September deficit compared with a $2.4 billion deficit in August and was the largest for a single month since a $3.1 billion deficit in January.

Exports totaled $15.8 billion in September, up 0.1 percent from August. Imports rose 2.6 percent, to $18.7 billion.

Commerce indicated that exports for the year should total $175 billion as imports hit nearly $199 billion. That would leave the nation with a trade deficit of about $24 billion, compared with about $28.5 billion in 1978.

Lamesa man dies in three-car crash

A Lamesa man is dead, following a three-vehicle crash near the intersection of FM 700 and Cedar, 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Raymond Brown, 50, was pronounced dead-on-arrival at Malone-Hogan Hospital, 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, after his car collided with an oncoming car. According to police reports, Brown appeared to have suffered massive internal injuries in the wreck.

Lonnie Green, 20, 2201 Warren, has been charged with involuntary manslaughter and driving while intoxicated, in connection with the collision. His bond was set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin at $16,500 for the two charges.

Police reports state that Green was driving his Chevrolet Camaro east on FM 700 when he lost control of the car and crossed into the oncoming traffic lane. Brown was driving a Volkswagen Bug west on FM 700, and a Ford pickup driven by Marshall Miller, 1614 Bluebird, was traveling almost adjacent to him.

Green's vehicle collided head-on with both, said police.

Following the accident, Green also was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital, where he was treated and released. Miller was uninjured in the wreck. A passenger in the Green car, Loretta Young, Howard College, also was uninjured.

Investigating officers at the scene included Patrolmen J.R. Lockhart and J.G. Edwards and Sgt. John Burson.

Services are pending for Mr. Brown at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Mr. Brown was born Jan. 10, 1929, in Dale, Tex. He married Carol Coleman Aug. 22, 1965, in Nocona, Tex. He was employed by Mobil Oil for almost 28 years. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and was a veteran of the Army, having served in the Korean conflict.

Survivors include his wife, of the home; a daughter, Laura Carol Brown, Big Spring; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Brown, Fentress, Tex.; two brothers, Roy Brown, 29 Palms, Calif.; and Fred Brown, British Columbia.

He was preceded in death by a sister, Helen Doyle.

Cotton valued at $28,000 destroyed by area lightning?

The thunderstorm that hit the Big Spring area early Tuesday morning may have resulted in a substantial loss to one area cotton farmer.

Oliver Nichols Jr. lost about 50 bales of cotton from a field in the Elbow area that he suspects was struck by lightning. A passer-by noticed a blaze about a half mile into the field about 3 a.m. Tuesday. The motorist notified Nichols.

According to Nichols, he lost about $28,000 worth of cotton that was stacked on a module and ready to go to the co-op gin.

"I'm not certain, but I think maybe lightning struck it," Nichols said today, "because it was discovered right after the storm." Arson has been ruled out because the fire was in the center of the field.

Nichols estimated that the fire probably began about 2 a.m. Tuesday. Cotton was still burning late Tuesday evening.

"It usually takes 48 hours for cotton to burn," he said. "Because of the wind, the fire just engulfed this cotton." Nichols said that the destroyed bales were not a large part of his cotton crop, but the loss was substantial. He is insured against fire.

Jetliner with 88 aboard crashes

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A Western Airlines DC-10 jetliner bound from Los Angeles with 88 persons reported aboard crashed while landing in fog and smog at the Mexico City airport today, plowing into two buildings, and Red Cross officials at the scene said they had recovered 55 bodies from the wreckage.

Nineteen persons were reported to have survived. The fate of the others was not immediately known.

A Mexican aviation official said the plane touched down on a runway that was closed for repairs and that it struck a parked truck and killed its driver.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: It's allowed

Q. Is the public allowed on the floor of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum during public affairs at events which require admission through the main entrances?

A. The recent Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival should have answered your questions. People are admitted to the floor when coliseum personnel prepared for them.

Tops on TV: Halloween specials

It's All Hallows Eve, and CBS has responded accordingly. At 7 p.m., the network will present "Bugs Bunny Halloween," starring Bugs as a rabbit who matches wits with Witch Hazel in a wild competition to scare innocent trick-or-treaters. This will be followed at 7:30 p.m. by "The Pumpkin Who Couldn't Smile." This involves a couple of dolls who try to locate a pumpkin for a lonely boy with a witchy aunt. Then, at 8 p.m., CBS will present "The Two Worlds of Jennie Logan." Suitably surreal, this one deals with a woman who is transported into the past to save the life of a former inhabitant of her home.

Calendar: Spook house

WEDNESDAY
Spook House operated by Lutheran Youth at 806 Scurry St., 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Admission prices are $1 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12. The Spring City Dance Club will have Birthday Night at 7:30 p.m. at the Eagles Lodge. There will be refreshments and live music.

THURSDAY

Community pep rally in front of Steer Gym at 5 p.m. to kick off Homecoming for Big Spring High School exes. At 6 p.m. in the gym, a volleyball game between Big Spring High School and Abilene Cooper.

Inside: Snore cure

Charges dismissed

ROSEBUD, S.D. (AP) — A Rosebud Sioux Tribal Court has dismissed charges lodged against Norman Wilson on the election day last week when he ousted Ed Driving Hawk as tribal chairman by 35 votes.

Wilson, formerly a tribal housing inspector, filed a motion Monday contending the embezzlement and misconduct-in-office charges were politically motivated and there was no evidence he had broken any law.

His attorney, Keith Tidball of Pierre, said the court agreed and dismissed the charges. Driving Hawk has until today to challenge results of the election.

Robber sentenced

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge has sentenced Joseph "Pepe" Marino to 27 1/2 years in prison for his part in an armored car robbery that netted a team of thieves $2.25 million.

Judge Jack B. Weinstein imposed the sentence Tuesday on Marino, who was convicted of charges of bank robbery and taking stolen money across state lines.

According to trial testimony, Marino, the only person so far convicted in the robbery, had used his share of the money to buy a house in Florida, a $22,000 speedboat and a luxury car.

Kennedy protected

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy will be provided security after all when he visits here Friday for the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner of the state Democratic party.

The Kanawha County Commission reversed itself Tuesday and voted 2-1 to pay $1,636 in overtime for sheriff's deputies. The commission had voted 2-0 a week ago against the appropriation.

Secret Service agents, state and city police had already been assigned to help protect the Massachusetts Democrat during his visit, the Secret Service said.

Value increases

NEW YORK (AP) — A record $240,000 has been paid at auction for an envelope bearing three 1869 stamps canceled with an imprint of a "running chicken." Three years ago, the same envelope sold for $45,000.

The "running chicken" is an example of what stamp collectors call a fancy cancel. It was whittled out of cork by John W. Hills, who was a postmaster in Waterbury, Conn.

The envelope, or cover, was purchased Tuesday by William Crowe, a San Francisco stamp dealer. Sotheby Parke Bernet Stamp Auction Co. said $240,000 is the most money ever paid for a cancellation cover.

Bookstore assaulted

NEWPORT, Vt. (AP) — An adult bookstore was hit by seven .22-caliber slugs and two arrows fired from a passing car after citizens complained about the store at a City Council meeting, authorities said.

Police said no one was injured in the incident early Tuesday morning, which occurred before the Bookland Adult Bookstore opened for business.

Police beat

Local policemen have rest from criminals

Criminal activity in the city was light Tuesday. Two men tried to break into the Caldwell Electric Company, IS 20 East, around 9 p.m. Tuesday. After cutting two padlocks on the company door, the intruders were scared off by three employees returning to work.

Witnesses believe that the two men fled in a white-over-blue Chevrolet Monte Carlo. Damage to the building was estimated at $17.

Another unsuccessful burglary attempt took place at the residence of Pat Barker, 200-A Goliad, sometime Monday night. The intruders

Robert Crossley of Austin, Texas, shows his patented snore cure. The device picks up the sound of snoring. The collar then sends a mild shock into the snorer's neck.

It'll shock the snore out of you

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Retiree Robert Crossley's mailbox is occasionally filled with letters from folks looking for a cure to a problem they've slept through all their lives.

A Pittsburgh man writes: "If this doesn't help I am going to try decapitation."

From Northridge, Calif., comes the tale of woe of a man who has "been ordered to leave hotel rooms in the middle of the night."

And the broken homes were summed up in the letter from Wynnewood, Pa., that said: "Papa snores so loud that I mistake the sound for a brontosaurus with hiccups."

"It's humorous, unless you're a victim," says Crossley, a 68-year-old retired engineer who sells an electric collar guaranteed to shock snoring out of you. "It's resulted in murder, broken marriages and everything else."

Crossley decided a cure was needed about 10 years ago when his own snoring woke him up. He read about a Florida girl whose long bout with the hiccups was cured by electric shock aversion therapy.

Crossley took a tinkerer's route to a cure. He bought toy electronic components by the handful and worked for four hours a night for about 18 months.

"I'm not an electronics man," he said of his hit-and-miss research. "I was like the monkey at the typewriter."

What Crossley came up with was a collar with a microphone that picks up the snoring sound. A sound-activated switch then triggers a shock. It doesn't hurt much — it doesn't even wake the snorer — but it's enough to form a mental block against snoring, Crossley says.

The prototypes were not as sleek as the vinyl-covered model he now assembles in his mobile home and sells for $69.95. The original model — the one that broke Crossley of the snoring habit — looks like a long, menacing black-jack that cures snoring by force.

Crossley says there are over 300 patented snore cures. Some are restraining devices that attempt to make snoring a physical impossibility. There's one that's a ball you sew on the back of your pajamas to keep you from sleeping on your back.

"The nearest thing to mine was an electronic gadget with a mike that would shake the bed," he said.

Doctors have estimated that one in eight persons snore, says Crossley. Some doctors recommend earplugs or separate rooms as the best cure.

In his search for the perfect cure, Crossley did a lot of reading about snoring. When asked what causes it, he looked around the room and recalled the research.

"I don't know," he said.

The snorers apparently don't know either. All they know is — as many as 170 a year — are willing to pay the $69.95 for the shocking cure. Only about 5 per cent have asked for their money back.

From Webster City, Iowa comes the heartbreaking story of a woman whose husband's "obnoxious snoring" has kept her awake for years. Even her dog "who has been partially deaf since he was a pup, won't sleep in the same room with us anymore."

And somewhere in Brooklyn there's a night watchman whose snoring cost him his job.

"I would like to take a secret nap at times, but I snore," said the drowsy watchman.

But perhaps the most serious request came from a Leavenworth, Kan., man.

"I would very much appreciate receiving your free information on this subject. And so would my cellmates. Some of us extra-loud snorers cause a lot of problems here by keeping others up. And in prison, a person can get burned out of his cell by others who don't appreciate the snorer," he wrote.

Native of Big Spring

Grafa will oversee construction of strategic Israeli air base

Otis Grafa Jr., who grew up in Big Spring, leaves San Antonio shortly for Israel, where he will oversee construction of a strategic Israeli air base at Elat in the Negev Desert for the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

Two military bases in the Sinai Desert that Israel is relinquishing under terms of the Israeli-Egyptian Peace Treaty are being replaced. The other base will be located Be'er Sheva. Total cost of the project will be $1 billion.

Construction will include runways and parking aprons, aircraft shelters and other operational and support facilities including utilities, roads and housing.

Otis Jr., son of Otis Grafa Sr., Big Spring, and his wife, the former Leveda Shultz of Big Spring, will reside in Tel Aviv for about six months before moving into quarters not far from the construction site.

Leveda is the daughter of Mrs. Lillian Hart of San Angelo.

The two expect to remain in Israel about three years. The Israel government said it is imperative that both air bases be operational in three years.

Otis Jr. supervised construction of a $66 million job at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, and a $40 million addition to the post office and federal building at Dallas for the Corps of Engineers.

Otis Jr., graduated from Big Spring High School in 1939. He sought to enroll at Texas A&M only to be told he hadn't taken the right courses for an engineering course. He returned to school here for a post graduate course in order to qualify for entry into A&M.

WW II interrupted his schooling at College Station. He joined the Air Force and became a gunner on B-17s. He flew 35 bombing missions over Germany before the war ended.

He returned to A&M to complete his engineering course, graduating in 1947.

He returned to Big Spring to join his father in the sand and gravel business and used his expertise in planning the Monticello and Stanford Park additions. In addition, he was also assigned to design the Big Spring Rodeo Grounds. He has been working with the Corps of Engineers for about 25 years.

He and his wife are planning to visit here this weekend before taking off for Israel.

860 Texas rigs working

The number of working oil wells in the state continued to rise this week.

As of Monday, 860 rigs were making hole, compared to 849 for the previous week. This also represents a considerable rise over the total of 802 for the month before, but is still less than the 879 total for the same period in 1978.

The national total rose from 2,399 for last week to 2,443 for this week. This is higher than both the 2,329 total for last month and the 2,385 total for this time last year.

Accidental deaths soar

Adequate data not provided

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Dallas business consultant claims Lone Star Gas Co. has not provided adequate data to support its request for a $40.9 million annual rate increase.

... testimony prepared for a Texas Railroad Commission hearing, Sam Rhodes of Touche Ross & Co. said.

"The company has presented incomplete data to this commission concerning its overall earnings and investment in this proceeding."

Rhodes was hired by a group of Texas cities to investigate Lone Star's rate request.

A consultant for Lone Star testified Tuesday investors think it is riskier to invest in natural gas utilities than in other businesses.

Asked on cross-examination if investors think utilities are a greater risk, President Joseph Brennan of Associated Utility Services replied, "Investors think at this time that non-utilities are less risky — all elements of risk considered."

Brennan and others, such as Rhodes and Senior Vice President Douglas Williams of Lone Star, had previously submitted their testimony in writing to the commission.

Hearing examiner Glenn Johnson said those opposing the rate increase, including 112 customer cities, had indicated they would cross-examine Lone Star witnesses for approximately 35 hours.

This would extend the hearing, which began Tuesday, into next week.

Lone Star serves 421 cities and towns in Texas, including those that are protesting the rate increase: Abilene, Brownwood, Bryan, Dallas, Denton, Fort Worth, Gainesville, Kerrville, Palestine, Paris, San Angelo, Vernon, Waco and Wichita Falls.

The Lone Star increase would raise the average residential customer's bill by some $28 a year.

Two persons died and eleven more were injured as a massive cold front whipped through Texas bringing thick snow to the Panhandle, high winds and tornadoes to much of the state and flooding to the Gulf Coast.

The cold front also stirred up strong winds in North and West Texas as it passed through those areas.

Police said five persons were injured in Graham when the winds turned over a mobile home. Authorities reported another injury in a Graham motel, two injuries when a Sherman mobile home was tipped over and another injury in a windstorm north of Mineral Wells.

None of the injuries was serious, but Graham city officials said the pattern of damage in their town, northwest of Fort Worth, resembled the destruction usually associated with a tornado.

Weather observers also reported wind damage in or near Mineral Wells, Bangs, Sanger, Amarillo and Grapevine.

Several helicopters were damaged at Amarillo's airport, and high winds destroyed three airplanes and damaged several buildings at the Stephens County Airport in Breckenridge. Damage there was estimated at $500,000.

As the front reached the Gulf Coast, hitting Houston at the height of the rush hour, heavy rains caused street flooding in Galveston, Beaumont and Houston.

WEATHER FORECAST - Showers are expected in the forecast period, today until Thursday morning, from the central Gulf to the Great Lakes. Snow flurries are forecast from Kansas to the Dakotas changing to rain over Minnesota. Showers are forecast for the Southwest. Colder weather is forecast from the northern Plains to the Texas Panhandle but most of the nation is expected to be warm.

Kennedy supporters may be purged

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's campaign manager says he hopes the administration will fire any political appointee found to be flirting with the campaign of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

After watching two Carter administration officials defect to the Kennedy camp, Tim Kraft said he thinks loyalty should count in politics.

A White House official who asked not to be named said it would be no surprise if some others now on the administration roster switched to the camp of the president's challenger. But he said, "We have had and will have our share of support and endorsements."

Asked whether he thinks the administration should dismiss likely defectors before they publicly break with the president in favor of Kennedy, Kraft replied: "As campaign manager, I'm not an official member of the administration. But as a political person who respects loyalty, I hope to hell they do."

Kraft commented in an interview Tuesday after former Iowa Sen. Dick Clark said he is leaving the Carter administration to work for Kennedy and J. William Heckman Jr., resigned as deputy assistant attorney for legislation to join the Kennedy committee.

In related developments Tuesday, the 70,000-member National Treasury Employees Union announced its support of Kennedy and Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne made a formal announcement reaffirming her weekend endorsement of Kennedy.

There was a particular sting to the defections by Clark, who was given a $57,500-a-year job as U.S. coordinator for refugee affairs after being defeated for re-election last year, and by Heckman, a personal friend of Carter campaign lawyer Tim Smith. In accepting Clark's resignation, Carter noted that he had understood Clark would remain neutral in the 1980 campaign and devote his attention to refugee problems.

However, Clark said in an interview the refugee programs have been overhauled and "it seems as appropriate as any time to make the change."

A Clark spokesman, Bob Miller, said Clark had pledged to remain politically neutral while in the administration, but that he had not promised to remain out of the race indefinitely.

Clark's bolt to Kennedy came one day after formation of a Kennedy campaign committee and announcement that Kennedy would formally announce his candidacy Nov. 7 in Boston.

Mayor Byrne's stand ran counter to a long string of endorsements Carter has been garnering from state and local officials, but the White House and the campaign committee insist it is an isolated case and not a turning tide.

Kraft pointed out that Carter picked up backing from strong majorities of the Democratic mayors and governors at their conventions last summer and that many of them were at a Carter dinner-rally here last week.

Other than clamping down on defectors, Kraft sees no major adjustments to the Kennedy threat.

State Legislature has to approve

Cities may be asking for tax increase

HOUSTON (AP) - If the next session of the Texas Legislature approves, the state's municipalities will be asking their residents to agree to a one- or two-penny increase in the 1-cent sales tax.

The city sales tax resolution was one of nine passed by the Texas Municipal League Tuesday as it wound up its four-day, 67th annual conference here.

The general assembly rejected an attempt by the Clear Lake City Freedom Coalition to have the league approve a resolution in which it agreed to stay out of the city's fight to be disannexed from Houston.

All nine resolutions passed with little opposition. The only significant discussion came on the sales tax resolution, which proposed that the Legislature be asked to authorize any city council, with approval of local voters, to increase the present 1-cent tax.

According to the resolution, the extra money would be used to "provide property tax relief for city residents."

Lila Cockrell of San Antonio proposed an amendment allowing cities to use the money for capital improvements.

"This will be very important to the cities in the face of the possibility that the general revenue sharing may not continue in the future," she said.

The amendment easily won approval from the assembly, as did the resolution. The league representatives quickly moved through the rest of the proposals, passing each by an overwhelming majority.

Seabrook Mayor Joe M. Pirtle then asked the assembly to suspend its rules to consider a 10th resolution designed to "neutralize the Municipal League to get it out of a purely local matter between Clear Lake and Houston."

The race for mayor of Houston was injected into the discussion at this point as Mayor Jim McConn and Councilman Louis Macey, a candidate for the position, took opposing sides.

Macey told the assembly the City Council was warned when the annexation question came up that Clear Lake City might be double taxed if taken into Houston because the larger city wouldn't be able to provide all necessary services.

"The council was told by legal counsel that this would not be problem," Macey said. "It was only after the council annexed that legal counsel told us about the double taxing."

The motion to suspend the rules was soundly defeated.

Chrysler loses $460 million

DETROIT (AP) - Chrysler Corp. says it lost $460.6 million in the third quarter, the worst financial performance in U.S. history, and one analyst says the loss may help the struggling automaker obtain federal help.

The deficit is bigger than any reported by any U.S. corporation in an entire year. It means that the No. 3 automaker has lost $721.5 million so far this year - $53.8 million for the first quarter and $207.1 million for the second.

The huge deficit was expected and industry observers said Tuesday it may help boost the company's attempts to secure financial help from the federal government.

"Chrysler definitely is in need of a life jacket and they shouldn't be quarreling about what size," said car industry analyst Arvid Jouppli. "It's a devastating loss. There's no way to gild that lily."

Jouppli predicted the figures released by the automaker "will put adrenalin" in Congress.

The company has requested $750 million in loan guarantees from the federal government. In its request, Chrysler estimated 1979 losses at $1.07 billion and for 1980 at $483 million, followed by 1981-85 profits totaling $3.38 billion.

In a statement to shareholders, Chrysler Chairman Lee A. Iacocca said third-quarter losses stemmed from "the economic slowdown and deepening concern about the future of the economy. In particular, the market for profitable trucks, vans, recreational vehicles and family-size cars continued at depressed levels."

Before Chrysler's third-quarter loss, the worst financial performance in corporate history came from Singer Co., which lost $451 million in 1975. Bethlehem Steel Corp. lost $448.2 million in 1977. Both companies showed profits the next year.

Chrysler stock closed Tuesday at $7.25 a share, down 25 cents. The third-quarter figures were released after the stock market closed for the day.

Chrysler's latest quarterly loss amounts to $7.15 per share of common stock. In the comparable quarter of 1978, the company lost $158.5 million, or $2.68 a share. For the first nine months of last year, Chrysler losses were $247.8 million, $4.15 a share. Per-share losses so far this year are $11.41.

Emergency fuel aid bill rapped by Stenholm

(Special to the Herald)

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Charles Stenholm has sharply criticized the House passage of the Emergency Fuel Assistance bill "in a form that clearly hands Northeastern states 'winter on a warm plate,' while leaving Southern taxpayers holding an empty tin cup."

Stenholm said he was not opposed to an assistance program which would equitably provide home heating cost relief to low-income and elderly families. "With the upcoming deregulation of oil, such assistance becomes the responsibility of all," Stenholm said, adding that the aid program was "a cheap price to pay for reducing our dependence on foreign oil supplies."

possible to justify. And it will result in Texas and other Southern and Southwestern states paying a disproportionate share of the bill."

The Emergency Fuel Assistance bill provides $1.35 billion in supplemental appropriations to assist low-income and elderly families faced with higher home heating bills. Half of the funds distributed to the states will be based on the difference in home heating expenditures between 1978 and 1979.

The remainder of the funds will be divided among the states, based on the number of home heating days (a measure of relative differences in temperature) squared, multiplied by the number of households below 125 percent of the poverty level. It is this formula of squaring the number of heating days that Stenholm, along with other members of the Texas delegation, fought on the House floor Thursday. Stenholm noted that under such a distribution formula, if Massachusetts, for example, had twice the heating needs of Texas, Massachusetts would receive not twice the amount of funds provided for home heating cost relief in Texas, but four times that amount. "And that's just plain old discrimination based on regionalism," he charged.

Stenholm had supported the efforts of Congressman Phil Gramm of the Sixth Congressional District of Texas in an attempt to amend the bill to eliminate the squaring provision in the distribution formula. However, recognition of a motion of the chairman of the subcommittee which considered the bill blocked Gramm's opportunity to offer the amendment. "And Texas was the loser," Stenholm said.

The fuel assistance measure now goes to the Senate before coming back to the House for final approval.

A large part of saving energy—and money—is simply a matter of cutting waste. In these days of "scarce" energy and inflation it's important to all of us to conserve. You can start by maintaining your own home.

Seal cracks around doors and windows with caulking and weatherstripping to stop heat and cooling leaks.

Check to ensure that ductwork is well insulated and sealed. If this is not done right, much of the heating and cooling escapes into your attic.

Consider installing storm windows in your home. They save energy

All of us must share the blame

Texas Business Magazine says that all of us must share the blame for ravaging our energy resources.

The outrage is being committed collectively, according to the publication, much like the multiple-stabbing in 'Murder on the Orient Express.' Unlike the conscious conspiracy in that Agatha Christie mystery, however, the collusion in this case is an unwitting one.

According to the magazine, four factions of our society are contributing to the energy drain by refusing to make meaningful personal sacrifices. We are too busy blaming each other.

All four U.S. suspects — Big Oil, Uncle Sam, the Consumer, and the Environmentalist, as well as a fifth suspect, OPEC — have their finger prits all over the scene.

Some of us are more guilty than others, according to Texas Business Week.

Public Enemy No. 1 turns out to be the consumer. Our gas guzzlers, our expensive homes, our motor boats, our business offices and our sin palaces all are designed to use fuel at an alarming rate.

The American people, most of us, anyway, would shift the blame. They maintain the average person is powerless, that the political muscle is held by the federal courts and the bureaucracies — to the point that the will of the people can be easily circumvented. Liberals, on the other hand, maintain that the economic power has become so concentrated in the giant financial institutions — themselves dominated by vast bureaucracies — that Americans as consumers and voters have no real choices in either their politics or their products.

WHATEVER THE accuracy of either view, the current American situation has developed through the political process — a process more and more Americans are choosing not to participate in. In other words, they are not going to the polls.

Those who have withdrawn from the process of government have no business complaining about the direction of the government.

As consumers, the public has failed even more dramatically. Americans, especially the middle class, have simply closed their minds to the changing realities of today's world. Rather than altering their consuming habits to changing conditions, they have chosen to seek scapegoats in government, business or OPEC.

The 1973 oil crisis caused Americans to seek smaller cars and cut back on energy consumption. As soon as the crisis ended, they returned to their old habits as if nothing had happened.

Prior to the oil embargo of 1972, Americans used 6.67 million barrels of gasoline a day. By 1978, that figure had risen to 7.41-million barrels a day. The number of motor cars on the road has increased during that time from 102 million to 117 million.

As humorist Walt Kelly once said: "We have met the enemy and he is us."

Sets policy

Evans, Novak

LEXINGTON, KY. — Proof that celebrity-media politics has arrived in Kentucky came at a poignant moment in the televised debate between former fried chicken magnate John Y. Brown Jr. and ex-Gov. Louie B. Nunn when a document fluttered to the floor.

The document had been brought to the studio by Republican Nunn to dispute Democrat Brown's denials that he had lost costly legal battles as a millionaire businessman. In fact, it merely recorded a judgment against Kentucky Fried Chicken in 1976, five years after Brown sold the company. That triggered nasty charges of mutual dishonesty between the two candidates for governor, with Nunn declaring: "I have looked people in the eye for 16 years and told them the truth."

"Well," Brown retorted, "they don't want you anymore, Louie." It was during this exchange that the document was slammed on the table by Brown and then fell to the floor. Nunn gazed at it, finally deciding not to pick it up. Brown's rejoinder and the fluttering document seemed straight out of prime-time TV drama. The meaning was clear: Old-style politician Nunn had lost any chance to overtake glamor-boy Brown.

BROWN REFLECTS TWO trends: non-political celebrities starting on top in electoral politics; and voter preference for governors untarnished by statehouse intrigue (as in New York, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Texas and Alabama). What makes Brown unique is his telegraphic magic, enlarged by his flamorous new wife, Phyllis George. Nor is there doubt his ambitions transcend Frankfort.

When Brown announced his candidacy nine weeks before the May 29 Democratic primary, Kentucky's wisest politicians gave him no chance against opponents who had been building their campaigns for four years. Since his divorce a year earlier, Brown had spent little time in Kentucky. He was so unfamiliar with issues that, while campaigning, he asked what "affirmative action" meant. Besides, how would this Bible belt state react to Phyllis?

The antidote was television. TV spots filmed by Washington consultant Robert Squier sidestepped issues and concentrated on image. A widely used two-minute spot showed John Y. and Phyllis in a coal mine shaft wearing headlamps. To make clear the new Mrs. Brown was no femme fatale ("Just a down-home cheerleader from Texas," says one Democratic insider), one five-minute spot included 22 silent seconds of Phyllis signing autographs.

The result was not only Brown's primary defeat of the once-potent Democratic courthouse gangs but an immense lead over Nunn. Brown still ignored substance, disturbing Kentucky liberals. One veteran liberal Democrat summed up John Y. as "ersatz Kennedy."

It was then that Louie Nunn, a brass knuckles fighter of the Nixon school, faced an intriguing opportunity. As a serious student of government, he might win the support of liberals (who previously abhorred him) by challenging Brown on the issues.

Nunn finally decided only an assault on Brown's "life-style" could work. Lee Nunn, the candidate's brother and one of the nation's premier backroom hatchmen, tried to plant stories about Brown's alleged high-stake gambling and shady associates. But no proof was produced. Although Nunn's TV spots hammer at Brown's refusal to raise income tax returns, polls show the public doesn't mind.

Fibrocystic breasts not cancerous

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please print some information about fibrocystic disease of the breast. Is there anything to stop it or the pain? — B.T.

I selected your letter as one of many I get on the subject of fibrocystic disease of the breast. I would like to answer a few of the often asked questions about it in a general way. Fibrocystic disease of the breast is also called "chronic cystic mastitis," mastitis meaning inflammation of breast tissue. Since breasts have many different kinds of tissue, there are many types of cystic disease. The term can mean cysts of the milk-producing glands, or changes in ducts that carry milk to the nipples. Or it can mean scarring of the tissue that supports the breast. Lumps are the main symptom, and the chief concern is to make sure these lumps are not cancer. Pain, softness of the lumps and the fact that there are more than one help in ruling out cancerous conditions. Mammography is helpful, as well as the noting of changing in the breasts from one examination to another. The peak years for fibrocystic disease are the 30s and 40s, although cysts may appear earlier or later than that.

Breast pain associated with the cysts is eased by a good supporting bra worn day and night. In answer to another question, hormones do not seem to help.

Cancer is more frequent in fibrocystic breasts than in normal ones, but fibrocystic disease of itself is not cancer. Self-examination and periodic evaluation by a physician is good policy for women with fibrocystic disease of the breasts. This brief review may answer many of the letters I get on this subject.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Why do so many elderly people, like myself, have constipation problems? I've had mine since my husband, a wonderful person, up and died on me. I can't find any connection, but I have had this problem since. I have accepted his death and remain active as I can. — Mrs. T.S.

As you can guess, there are many causes of constipation — in the young and the old. But, I would say a chief cause in many older people is that they don't eat enough — or enough of bulk foods. Muscles get weak with age, and that includes those of the intestinal tract. The muscles need every bit of work out they can get. Bulk helps provide that.

It is not uncommon for mates to change eating routines upon the death of a spouse. Meal regularity is the first to go. I don't have to belabor this point. I only make it to suggest that that might be your problem. Continue to be as active as you can and try to get your three squares a day. CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. G.R. — Leaking of urine is called incontinence. I covered this in detail in a recent article. You have written several times, however. Briefly, when it occurs after muscular activity as exercise, coughing, sneezing, etc., it is called "stress" incontinence. Many women have a little of this after childbirth. It often corrects itself in time. Your symptoms sound more severe, and I suggest you consult a urologist or gynecologist to see if this really is urine being lost and if surgical correction is needed.

Dear Dr. Donohue: When I go underwater while swimming I get a cough the next day. I am fine when I swim on top of the water. Is there anything wrong with my lungs? I am 15-years-old. — Miss L.K.

I don't think there's anything wrong

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: You wrote recently that a child who grows up with either harsh discipline or no discipline will think his parents do not really love him, and it will scar him emotionally. That was true in my life, and I have a hard time believing anyone (especially God) loves me even though I am an adult. What can I do to overcome these feelings? — S.T.

DEAR S.T.: I suspect many people may have your problem. Tragically, with the climbing divorce rate in our country (along with other reasons), many children today are growing up without experiencing as much love as they should. It will have an inevitable effect on their lives, and (as in your case) may make it even harder for them to understand the love of God. What can you do about it? First, realize that your emotions and feelings do not always tell the truth. For example, sometimes you may be anxious about something, and then later you realize everything has turned out happily and there was no reason for you to be anxious. Your emotions, in other words, have deceived you. This is what has happened to you with your lungs. Water is probably getting into the back of your throat, causing you to cough. You may just have an extremely sensitive response to this reflex. Stay on top of the water.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading Dr. Donohue's booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I know a man who claims to know medicine. He says that by looking in a person's eyes he can tell just what ails him or her. And he advocates a diet without sugar — only raw honey. No ice cream, nothing that has sugar. But what I'd like to know is if he can tell just by looking in someone's eyes the state of a person's health. Is this something new or just a quick way to get gullible people to spend their money? — Mrs. E.F.

Doctors can tell a lot by looking in your eyes — like whether you're alive or dead, for example. But my advice to you is to look this guy square in the eyes and tell him to get lost.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

now. Your feelings tell you, "No one loves you; you're not worth loving." But is that true? No — feelings have gotten in the way of the truth. What is the truth? The truth is that God loves you. He loves you whether you feel it or not, and He loves you whether you feel worthy of His love or not. The important thing, which you must tell yourself over and over, is that it is the truth that counts, not your feelings.

How do I know God loves you? I know it because He sent His Son into the world to die for you so you could be saved. I believe that if you had been the only person in the world, God would still have sent Christ to die in your place. No, you were not worthy of His love, any more than I was or anyone else. But He loves you anyway. This is how God showed his love among us: He sent his one and only Son into the world that we might live through him. This is love: not that we loved God, but that he loved us and sent his Son as an atoning sacrifice for our sins" (1 John 4:9-10).

Thank God for His love for you, and ask Him to help you accept that love. As you do, you will begin to see how much He really loves you, and how much you are worth to Him.

Desperate times

Around the rim

Don Woods

It was 50 years ago last Monday that he locked the door behind him and pocketed the key. Inside there was some money left from the panic-stricken runs made on the bank that day, Oct. 29, 1929. He would have to arrange for capital to operate on the next day.

He stepped into the chilly shadows of the street. It was 6 p.m. He had been the last to leave. His footsteps fell empty on the city streets.

AS HE WALKED TO the car he thought back to the events of the past week. He and his colleagues had tried massive buying to balance out the selling. Today, he had heard, 16.4 million shares of stock were up for sale for whatever they would bring.

The footsteps continued. He wondered what the impact of that day would have on the nation's recollection of this period of history. He wondered what teenagers growing up now would tell their children.

He patted his trouser pockets for the car keys. ("Oh, no.") He felt in his coat pockets and in the pockets of his overcoat. No keys.

As he turned with a sigh, a depression sank in while he made his run to the bank. He had to dig deep into his pocket but he got the key and went back inside.

Back at his desk, he shoveled aside a mountain of ticker tape from his desk. Below it was a scribbled note from Joseph P. Kennedy, whose son was later to become president. It said, "I decided to get out. Only a fool holds out for top dollar." A lot of fools holding out their hand, for any dollar, he mused.

Meanwhile, the keys remained missing. He even looked under all the canceled stock certificates in his all but empty vaults. "I'll just kill myself if I can't find those keys," he said, eyeing the large 10th story window.

Suddenly realizing his hunger and despairing of finding his keys, he decided to spend the night in a hotel. Walking again past his now useless car, he stopped into Myrtle's Breadline and Soup Kitchen for a bite.

After finishing his meal, he walked to the cashier's counter. Then he realized he had left his billfold in his office. "What a terrible Tuesday this has been," he said, striking his forehead with the palm of his hand.

Looking around he saw his brother eating in a nearby booth and asked him if he could spare a dime. His spirits lifted by the meal, he made his way to the nearest hotel which would accept his check. "What's the matter?" he asked the room clerk, who suspiciously eyed his check. "I'm the president of a bank."

"That doesn't mean anything anymore," said the clerk, glancing up at the banker. "Besides, it's not the check. I just don't know if you want to sleep here, or just jump out the window."

"That's more bull than I can bare," he said, then turned on his heel and left for Myrtle's to find his brother.

One more time

William F. Buckley, Jr.

CHATEAU THIERRY, FRANCE — On May 27, 1918, the German army of Kaiser Wilhelm mounted an offensive 50 miles northeast of Paris designed to overwhelm the Allied forces, conquer Paris and win the war. They were stopped, but a deep salient was held, the spearpoint of which was Belleau Wood. Freshly arrived American troops were hurled against this salient, the Wood was reconquered, the Germans driven back, regrouping for the July 15 offensive that failed, giving the Allies the armistice of November 11. General Petain, who wrote the strategy of the counter-offensive, said the U.S. aid had been critical. By the side of Belleau Wood is a cemetery comprising 2800 graves of U.S. marines and infantrymen, less than half those killed in that single engagement. On the monument is written "TIME WILL NOT DIM THE GLORY OF THEIR DEEDS," which is something we might put down as "battlefield prose." Valedictorians at U.S. high schools never even heard of Belleau Wood.

WE LOST 53,000 casualties in World War I, to protect Europe from a hegemony dominated by a grandson of Queen Victoria. Fifty-three thousand dead is a lot of dead Americans, but in fact we were only warming up for the Second World War. To Rescue European Diplomacy From Itself. In that war, U.S. casualties came to 292,900. For reasons not instantly persuasive, we suddenly find that the strongest argument coming from the administration in favor of SALT II is that if we don't ratify it, Europe will refuse to deploy U.S. weapons designed to protect Europe.

It does sound preposterous put that way, so let us attempt to compress administration arguments in the most favorable light. They go as follows: if we do not sign SALT II, the Russians will MIRV-up their European-aimed SS-20 missiles from their present strength (about 2,000) to a projected 3500 by mid-1985.

Now (the Europeans are saying) we want to get on with the business of de-nuclearizing the European theatre. But that can only come after we achieve some kind of limitation on strategic weapons: and that means, SALT II. If you Americans don't get on with SALT II, how can we get on with SALT III? — so sour will East-West relations be.

WHAT THE EUROPEANS threaten is to decline to deploy the cruise missiles and ballistic nuclear missiles (about 600) which are otherwise scheduled to be put in place over the next few years. The reasoning is that to proceed with such missiles might strike the Soviets as provocative, and to provoke the Soviets is a much more dangerous thing than to enfeeble Europe. Sen. Sam Nunn, contemplating the arguments of the administration, put it every well: "Over the long term, I don't think the American people will continue to support an alliance that has to be convinced on most occasions to take steps to defend itself."

It is difficult to see how one can express the dilemma (if we agree to SALT, we perpetuate a critical Soviet advantage; if we don't we threaten the Western alliance) other than by acknowledging that if it is correct — i.e. if those are the only alternatives — then, in fact, the Soviet Union has begun to assert control over European politics. And will continue to do so, giving an extra-dimensional meaning to Lenin's fabled arrival at the Finland Station in Moscow in 1917. The finlandization of Europe is a development that has been warned against, the predicted, for 25 years. It is on the verge of happening.

Now, it might have been otherwise, and even now it could change. If Mr. Carter, a year ago, had deployed the neutron bomb; and the year before that, authorized the Defense Department to proceed with the B-1 bomber, European leaders would arrive at the next NATO conference in December with knees less wobbly. Even so, if Hitler had been stopped at the Rhineland, he would never have strutted into Paris.

Petroleum Association, sponsored the pro-oil rally.

The union-liberal coalition spent approximately 18 months, with 20 full-time field organizers and six fully-staffed regional branches, preparing their demonstrations. The pro-oil people spent two weeks.

The oil industry pays 28.7 percent of property taxes in Texas, produces 25 percent of all fuel energy produced in the United States and paid 2 billion dollars to royalty owners in 1978. The top 45 oil companies paid 71.6 percent of their gross revenue in taxes in 1978 according to Midland County Tax Assessor-Collector, Elmo Lineberger, one of the rally speakers.

Abraham Lincoln once said, "You can do nothing without public opinion on your side." We're asking everyone to do his or her part to tell our side of the oil and free enterprise story, since the national news media chooses not to.

Our thanks go out to everyone who attended and helped in the Pro-Oil Rally, especially the originator, Jerry Calhoun of the Geological Society.

Make-believe world of Hollywood arrives in Austin

'Yee-Hah!' It's Willie's movie 'Honeysuckle Rose'

By JACKIE CALMES
Harris-Weeks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Things aren't as they seem here. Austin isn't always Austin. It's Las Vegas, Miami and New England. An Austin bar serves nonalcoholic beverages. Men wear T-shirts reading "Buck Bonham" above a face that is unmistakably Willie Nelson's.

The make-believe world of Hollywood has come to Austin for favorite son Nelson's newest movie, "Honeysuckle Rose" or maybe "A Song for You."

Whatever the final title, the Warner Bros. film is about Buck Bonham, a Nelson-like country-western singer. Stars are Nelson, his band, Dyan Cannon, Slim

Pickens and Amy Irving. Featured are several hundred mostly young Austinites who answered the studio's call for barroom and concert crowds. Extras get $30 a day for up to 10 hours of more waiting than working.

"I don't care about the money. I'm just excited to hear the ol' boy belt out a few tunes," one young man says. An assistant to director Jerry Schatzberg ("Seduction of Joe Tynan") cautions the overly excited: "If you get any overwhelming urge to scream for Willie, please say Buck."

They do. "The only other thing we ask you — and we hope it won't be too hard — is to have a good time."

They do that, too. But by day's end, the heat and humidity combine with repeated waits and set changes to tire and bore the most rabid Nelson fan.

Most arrive at the set — north Austin's Silver Dollar Saloon — before the 9 a.m. shooting call. Ms. Cannon is not filming this day. Instead, less glamorous and downright scruffy band members take turns in the make-up man's chair.

Coming from the wardrobe truck and onto the set, lanky bass guitarist Dan "Bee" Spears fidgets in a studio-issue red satin Western cut shirt. At least, he consoles himself, it isn't "disco polyester."

"This is my first movie — and it may be my last," he says, gulping a beer for breakfast.

Nelson comes into the bar largely unnoticed at late morning. He wears a Western cut shirt, his long red hair tucked beneath a crisp cowboy hat.

"We dressed 'em up a bit," a wardrobe man says of Nelson and the band. "None of the guys had Western shirts — just old T-shirts."

Nelson, he says, is "real cooperative — not like some actors."

On stage now, Nelson rehearses a slow tune, repeatedly beginning "Funny how a woman..."

while the audience repeatedly claps as if recognizing "Buck's" hit. This stage is Las Vegas. The motif is western honky-tonk — plain wooden tables, cowboy posters and horns on the walls.

A man fans dry ice to create a smoky barroom haze. Extras sip from empty longneck bottles or from glasses of soda and colored water that is supposed to be beer. Other "Nevadans" drink tequila (water) or bourbon (colored water).

In contrast to Nevadans, Miamians like fancy drinks — or so says Harry, who really does tend bar at the Silver Dollar. For the afternoon's filming in Miami — over in another corner of the room — Harry and fellow bartender Jo prepare pink ladies (milk and grenadine), grasshoppers (milk and mint) and screwdrivers (orange with cherries).

Harry says people in New England, where the band will pretend to play by the end of the day, like martinis and manhattans. So the Austin New Englanders will get clear or colored water with olives or cherries.

About 60 percent of the movie is being shot in or near Austin. Other filming is set for San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Nelson's central Texas ranch and California.

Shooting will take about two months. The actors may pretend to be somewhere else, but director Schatzberg knows where he is. He paces the set in jeans, denim shirt, suede vest, cowboy hat, a belt with "Jerry" on the back and kicker boots.

"He went Texas," a prop man jokes. After a barbecue lunch, the extras return to Las Vegas for shots of audience reaction. Cameras on stage look out at the tables. The band does not play; instead, audio men play back a recording from the morning session.

The assistant director crouches beneath a camera, out of range, coaching the crowd. At the back, three girls give a standing ovation to the band-less stage.

At 4, Nelson is on stage in Miami, this time joined by Slim "Garland Ramsey" Pickens.

The set is tacky Miami. Thatch roofing tops a backdrop of blue sky, puff clouds and ocean waves. Fake six-foot palm trees flank the stage and smaller crepe-paper palm trees decorate the vinyl blue and white tables. Construction-paper palm trees adorn the walls.

Fueled by real beer imbibed during the long delays, extras now yell their single line enthusiastically and often: "Yeah, Buck!"

"Look at the stars in them girls' eyes," a crew member says to another. "On the road again..." Nelson sings, and at 5:30 he is in a rustic New England hunting lodge. The same Texans stare from the floor below; mounted moosehead; swordfish and wildcat look down from the wall.

The early American style tables hold the promised mixed drinks, but go long on necks.

By 6, it is over. A playful Nelson motions as if shouting his throat and yells. Of that day's shooting, Schatzberg says, "perhaps three minutes is usable time."

Then, in a reversal of Cinderella touch, Nelson's England reverts to Austin.

Austin lawyer chosen

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Austin lawyer Will Garwood has been chosen by Gov. Bill Clements to replace Sam D. Johnson on the Texas Supreme Court.

Garwood, 48, is the son of W. St. John Garwood — a former Supreme Court justice who lost a seat on the University of Texas Board of Regents in 1963 when senators failed to confirm his appointment.

The younger Garwood will be the first Republican to serve on the state's highest civil court in this century, according to Clements' office. His appointment also marks the first time a son of a former justice has been named to the court.

Johnson resigned to become an associate justice of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. Garwood will have to win the 1980 primary and general elections if he wants to complete Johnson's unexpired term, which runs to Jan. 1, 1985.

He faces Senate confirmation proceedings only if Clements calls a special session.

Farm — V Bar Ranch cattle sale nets $226,350

The V Bar Ranch in Stanton was the site, Friday, of one of the largest production sales of the year.

The crowd was large, and cattle sold to buyers from five different states. A total of 97 head sold for $226,350, averaging $2,333 a head.

A total of 61 bulls was sold for $181,450, averaging $3,020 a head. Griner Hereford Ranch of Columbia, Miss., paid $15,000 for one bull, the highest price of the day.

Jay Cammack Ranch of Portales, N.M. paid the next highest price for a bull at $12,000. This was followed by the Jack Ebeling Ranch of Round Mountain with a $10,200 purchase price.

The get of HH Advance A-482, a bull the sale ranch purchased for $56,000 at the Cooper-Holden Sale in 1977, went on the auction block Friday.

A total of 36 heifers was sold for $41,900, averaging $1,164 per head. The highest-priced heifer went to Loyal Valley Hereford Farm of Eastland for $2,600.

The second-highest price was paid by Cliff Lathrop Ranch of Dundee, Ill., at $2,000.

Volume buyers included: Vest Ranch, Monahans, eight head for $21,000; Ed Mosely Ranch, Fabens, seven head for $10,900; Letter B Ranch, Crane, eight head, $15,700; and Box Lake Ranch, Tatum, N.M., five head for $11,200.

Under the ownership of the late J.C. Sale, the ranch had long been known as one of the top commercial Hereford ranches in Texas. It is now owned by Mrs. Mary Sale, and managed by Bruce Brandenberger.

Friday's sale was the first production sale since the ranch's conversion to the raising of registered cattle.

Leftists attack U.S. Embassy

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Salvadoran troops backed by armored cars used tear gas to repel a mob of 300 leftists attacking the American Embassy in the second day of street violence in the capital of El Salvador.

There were reports that the embassy's Marine guard joined in the tear-gas barrages Tuesday. But embassy spokesman Vitas Dambrava denied this, saying, "Our Marines did not respond to the attack." However, reporters counted 20 helmeted men, apparently Marines, on the roof of the three-story building.

The State Department said two Marines were slightly wounded. There was no report of casualties among the mob or the troops. At least 24 persons were killed and about 100 were wounded the day before in gun battles between leftists demonstrating against the new military-civilian junta and security forces.

The embassy and its grounds occupy an entire block surrounded by a high wall and metal fences. The leftists chanted "We will take the embassy!" and distributed leaflets saying "Down with imperialism" and "We want to live in peace" as they marched on the compound. The troops and armored cars responded immediately.

Witnesses said they heard four shots fired during the 15-minute confrontation, and Dambrava said there was some gunshot damage to the embassy. Some of the leftists tried to climb the wall but were driven off, and a gasoline bomb was thrown into an embassy garden but caused no damage, officials said.

Afterward, the troops and armored cars surrounded the compound to guard against other leftists staging an anti-government march on a street nearby.

In Washington, U.S. officials said the Carter Administration was prepared to offer "significant" assistance including tear gas and other non-lethal weapons to the two-week-old junta to help it overcome extremist violence. The officials said the aid was being offered even though the junta had not asked for it.

The two colonels who head the junta ousted El Salvador's military president, Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero, in a bloodless coup on Oct. 15. Moderate political groups gave them their support after they added three civilians to the junta and promised democratic reforms, but leftists are demanding an end to all military rule and a Marxist government.

About 1,000 members of one leftist movement, the Popular Revolutionary Bloc, have been occupying two government buildings for a week, demanding price cuts on staple foods, an increase in the minimum wage, the release of political prisoners and information on others they claim disappeared while Romero was president.

They are holding three cabinet ministers and 24 other persons hostage after releasing 276 others late Monday.

IMMACULATE HEART OF MARY CATHOLIC CHURCH WALKERS — Three people who got into the spirit of things in last Saturday's Turkey Walk, staged by the local chapter of the American Heart Association on Scenic Mountain, are pictured here. They are, from the left, Father Bernard Gulley, Sister Andre and Anthony Gilles, administrator, all of whom represented the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church. The church raised $180 in the drive, which was pronounced an outstanding success.

Turkey Walk nets about $9,000

An estimated $9,000 was raised in last Saturday's Turkey Walk around Scenic Mountain, staged by the local chapter of the American Heart Association.

The event provides funds for research into the causes and effects of heart disease, heart defects and strokes, as well as other related illnesses.

Collections more than doubled those of last year, when they totaled $3,600. A total of 81 walkers, each one sponsored, took part in this year's walk, compared to only 30 in 1978.

Garland Evers, director of the VA Medical Center here, himself raised $1,035 toward the total.

General chairman of the local chapter of the AHA is Dr. David Rickey, a dentist. Chairman of the Turkey Walk was Julie Shirey. The Turkey Walk is one of two fund-raising events staged by the local group. The other activity involves collections in the residential areas.

A group who decided to support the local walk included physicians from Malone and Hogan Clinic. Organizing this group was Jan Nelson, a medical record secretary in the Clinic. Sponsoring the four physicians, Dr. Ray Owen, pediatrician, Dr. Taylor Smith, internal medicine, Dr. Merrill Cooper, dermatologist, and Dr. Brian Caplan, family practice physician, were the other clinic members of the association, Dr. Ron Coborn, an associate, Malone-Hogan Hospital, and clinic employees.

The Coronary Care group from the hospital was organized by Judy Stovall. Walkers were Marsha Pelopero, Sandra Kiser, Stovall, and Sharon Stewart. The coronary class sponsored these walkers, along with the hospital, Citizens Credit Union, and loads of families and friends. This group set a goal of $500 for themselves.

An 80-year-old man participated, as did a 3-year-old. One junior high entry walked over 21 miles; another girl walked 26. Prizes of turkeys, dinners, etc. were given. T-shirts were awarded to walkers.

Dr. Ricky credited this year's remarkable increase in participation to Heart Board members, and especially to the work of Ms. Shirey and her committee. "Julie has worked hard to get the people out for the Turkey Walk," he said. He

Competition for DPS director on

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The competition for the director's post at the Texas Department of Public Safety — a two-man race with heavy political overtones — resumed today with an interview of a former top FBI official.

James B. Adams, the man Gov. Bill Clements brought back from Washington to head his criminal justice division, was to talk with Public Safety Commission members, according to PSC member Charles Nash of Austin.

Adams and DPS Lt. Col. Leo Gossett are the top candidates to succeed Col. Wilson Speir. The 62-year-old Speir is retiring at the end of the year, and he has endorsed Gossett for the post.

Nash said Gossett and Adams will be the only two applicants who will be interviewed. Gossett was interviewed at the last PSC meeting, Nash said.

Adams came back to Texas in May to head the governor's criminal justice division. He had served as the No. 2 man for the FBI. The 52-year-old Mexia native is a Baylor graduate and a former assistant Limestone county attorney. He served in the Texas House of Representatives in 1951 before resigning to join the FBI.

Clements has carefully worded his public statements about the director's post. He has said Adams would make a good successor to Speir.

But Comptroller Bob Bullock says he has launched a campaign aimed at blocking an Adams appointment. He said selection of the Clements' aide would inject politics into the office.

"I have never known a governor to take a hand in selecting who is going to run that agency," Bullock said. "The DPS is above that... We don't have a political office there now."

The comptroller, just out of the hospital after a heart attack, confirmed he started a pro-Gossett mail and telephone campaign from his hospital bed.

Look for CROP button being worn by young

Young people from several Big Spring churches will be out tonight ringing door bells. Their purpose will not be "trick-or-treat." They will be asking for contributions to CROP, the Christian Rural Overseas Program.

This program for years has been a major means for churches the world over to get together in providing food for hungry people. CROP is an agency of Church World Service and works through local churches in every part of the globe.

Gifts to CROP buy seeds, tools, windmills, fishing nets, anything that can help people themselves to relieve starvation.

Young people from several

Big Spring churches will meet at St. Mary's Episcopal Church at 6:30 p.m. to receive street assignments. They will go from door to door asking for contributions. They will be plainly identified by the CROP badge, and they will have information on how contributions will be used.

After they have finished their door to door campaign, they will return to the First Methodist Church to turn in their money and take part in a Halloween party.

Youth from First Christian Church, St. Mary's Episcopal Church, First United Methodist Church, and First Presbyterian Church have worked to plan this event and they invite all other young people to join them in this effort.

Once a year — and only once — United Way raises money to support vital human services for people in communities all across America.

And once is enough, thanks to the outstanding efforts of the dedicated millions who work without pay for United Way each year. Because one efficiently run campaign not only minimizes fund-raising costs and volunteer time devoted to fund-raising. It also reduces considerably the number of times you're contacted each year and asked for a contribution.

United Way's continued success year after year proves a very basic point. People who really want to help don't have to be asked twice. When you ask the American people for help, they respond.

Thanks to you, it works for all of us. United Way

Two Soviet ships crash early today

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Two Soviet ships strengthened for icebreaking collided in a Danish strait today, one caught fire, and 16 sailors were reported missing.

The Danish naval command said the 9,243-ton Antarctic expedition ship Olenek and the 22,632-ton tanker General Shkodunovich collided in rough seas in the Great Belt, between Zealand and Fyn, Denmark's two biggest islands.

The strait connects the Baltic and North Seas.

The Olenek which was bound for the Antarctic, caught fire, and the captain reported 16 of his crew of 99 were missing. The condition of the ship was not known yet, and first reports did not say if all the crew abandoned ship.

The naval command said a Danish dredger picked up 46 of the Olenek's crewmen from the water and that one was seriously burned.

Vietnam refugee beaten by man he gunned down

SEGUIN, Texas (AP) — Prosecution witnesses have said a young Vietnamese refugee deliberately gunned down a Seadrift, Texas, crabber. But they acknowledged under questioning that the murder defendant fired just after being beaten by the much-larger American.

Nguyen Van Sau, a 21-year-old former South Vietnamese Marine, and his 20-year-old brother, Nguyen Van Chinh, face a maximum 99-year prison sentence if convicted of murder in the Aug. 3 shooting death of crab fisherman Billy Joe Aplin, 35.

The shooting sparked a "crab war" between the American crab fishermen and the newly-transplanted Vietnamese refugees in the tiny fishing town of 1,200 about 90 miles up the coast from Corpus Christi.

Four Vietnamese fishing boats and a refugee residence were firebombed shortly after the shooting, which stemmed from an argument over territorial crab fishing rights in the lush San Antonio Bay.

The trial was moved the 90 miles inland to Seguin because of the still-simmering tensions in Seadrift. The case is being heard by a jury of 12 whites, two of whom are retired Air Force officers who served in Vietnam.

"Billy Joe went up there and started slapping around Sau. He hit him more than once. He was swinging wildly," testified Clifford Masarik, 16, one of three Seadrift youths who witnessed the shooting.

"Somehow Sau slipped or got knocked away from the car. Sau reached and got a gun, pointed it at Billy Joe and started shooting," added Masarik, who demonstrated how Sau deliberately aimed the pistol with both hands.

Masarik, Leslie "Bubba" Mikolas and Damon Williams testified that they drove up to the docks while Aplin was yelling at Sau.

They said Aplin displayed a knife, hit Sau and chased him around a car. The two refugee brothers, they testified, drove away and returned less than 10 minutes later.

Aplin approached the car, they testified, as another Vietnamese crabber, Nguyen Van Sen, attempted to keep Sau in the car.

That is when the second beating and the shooting took place, they testified. They said they did not see a knife during the second beating and that Sau advanced as he fired from eight to 10 feet away at the fleeing Aplin.

Defense attorneys contend the slight, slender Sau, "a foreigner in a foreign land," fired in self-defense. They said he had been threatened repeatedly by Aplin and realized he couldn't defend himself against the 6-foot-1, 195-pound American.

They contend Chinh had nothing to do with shooting and was only trying to calm his brother.

Under intense defense cross-examination, the three youths said Aplin struck Sau several times, sometimes so loud they could hear the pop while sitting in a pickup truck some 60 feet away.

"Obviously, the one who started this was Billy Joe?" lead defense attorney Pat Maloney Sr. asked Williams.

"Yes, sir. He was real mad," replied Williams.

Maloney later asked Masarik, "From what you could see, Sau wasn't trying to do a blessed thing to hurt Billy Joe?"

Masarik replied, "No sir. He wasn't trying to start any trouble."

During the cross-examination, Maloney said the autopsy report showed Aplin was shot from a distance of less than two feet. He also maintained that Aplin slashed Sau with a knife, although none of the four witnesses said they saw blood on Sau.

Sen, who arrived in Seadrift only a few days before the shooting, also testified that Sau shot Aplin after the beating.

He admitted under questioning that he and the approximately 100 other Vietnamese in Seadrift fear reprisals.

"There are good Vietnamese and bad Vietnamese in Seadrift. All of us are being harassed," Sen said through an interpreter.

"Harassed by whom?" asked Maloney.

"I'm afraid I can't say the names," replied Sen, who has six children.

Leaving 'Noah's Ark' behind

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a town that ranks almost everything, Juanita Kreps has been regarded as a first-rate administrator of a second-rate department.

But Mrs. Kreps, who leaves the capital at the end of this week after 33 months as secretary of Commerce, takes exception to the characterization of her agency.

"Anyone who says that has not very good touch with reality," she said in an interview, "especially in their understanding of what is going on in the world, where commercial matters are so central."

It is a defense she has been making since she was sworn in as the first woman and first professional economist to head the $3 billion agency on Jan. 23, 1977.

Now, she says, she hopes her successor — expected to be named by President Carter this week — "will keep the momentum... make use of the excitement and enthusiasm" she senses at the agency.

Mrs. Kreps, 58, has acknowledged to friends that her resignation was due in good part to concern about her husband, Clifton Kreps Jr., who attempted suicide earlier this year.

She says she is eager to "have more time with him" at their home in Durham, N.C. After a vacation in Bermuda and holiday gatherings with their three children, she adds, she will select a job "that combines both higher education and the corporate world."

Before joining the Carter administration, Mrs. Kreps was vice president of Duke University in Durham, where she had also taught economics and written a number of books on labor and working women.

She served on numerous corporate boards of directors — among them the New York Stock Exchange, R.J. Reynolds Industries, J.C. Penney Co., Eastman Kodak Co. — often as the first woman in the post.

Close colleagues at Commerce describe her as "a Southern lady" but caution that her soft-spoken demeanor should not be misread.

"She is clearly above average among the Cabinet officials the Carter administration has had — male or female," said Jack Carlson, executive vice president of the National Association of Realtors and a former vice president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. "It's going to be a hard act to follow."

Critics don't complain about Mrs. Kreps but about a department they believe has outlasted its usefulness.

"The job of secretary of Commerce has never been that much of a heavyweight in the formation of national policy," said a Treasury official who asked for anonymity. "There's almost no excuse for a Department of Commerce — or a Department of Labor — anymore. Business and labor can take care of themselves."

He also said he thought Mrs. Kreps "has been disappointed for a long time because the position doesn't give her enough clout."

Some of the "clout" was removed late in 1977 when W. Michael Blumenthal, then treasury secretary, cut Mrs. Kreps and Labor Secretary Ray Marshall from the interagency Economic Policy Group, which advises the president on domestic priorities.

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Sylvanus F. Bowser of Fort Wayne, Ind., delivered the first American-made gasoline pump to Jake Gumper in 1885, but the American motorist soon learned to mistrust the device. The pump, which had marble valves and wooden plungers, was not known for delivering exact measure to motorists.

It was 30 years later that the first "visible-delivery gasoline station," now in the transportation collection of the Henry Ford Museum here, actually let the customer see the gallon of gas flow from the pump, assuring him he was getting his money's worth.

Bullock contends Texas cities should collect tax

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock contends that if Texas cities want to increase the city sales tax, the cities should have to collect it.

In a telegram to Texas Municipal League President Robert S. Folsom, Mayor of Dallas, Bullock said that the tail would be wagging the dog if the state had to administer increased local sales taxes equal to the state sales tax.

The Municipal League at its yearly meeting in Houston next week is expected to consider asking the Legislature to increase the city sales tax by as much as two cents, an idea recently backed by Governor Clements' Mayor's Advisory Committee. The Comptroller now takes care of the city tax — along with transit authority sales taxes — in the same collection system as the state sales tax.

"For the past five years this department has done everything possible to speed-up and upgrade every phase of administration of the city sales tax," Bullock said.

He pointed out that in his administration the Comptroller's office has increased city tax collections beyond the national average, stepped up payments from quarterly to monthly and cut the handling fee charged the cities by more than half.

"If the cities of Texas embark on a course of total local freedom in sales tax matters," Bullock said, "then I pledge the fullest cooperation of my department in an orderly transition of the collection system — from permits to court suits — from the state to city hall."

"All the cities have their own tax offices now," Bullock said. "It would be appropriate for the burden of the collection and the benefit of the income to rest in the same place."

Bullock opposes any city sales tax increase, saying that the sales tax has historically been reserved for the state and that giving the cities an additional bite of the pie will lead to similar demands from schools, counties and other government bodies.

During the past year nearly 1,000 cities shared in more than $450 million from the city sales tax.

The stars and others, including Mae Clarke, Christopher Lee, Gloria Stuart and John Agar, were honored by Universal Studios for their contributions to the horror film genre.

Freedom of info suits may be fewer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court ruling makes it easier for government agencies with highly classified documents to resist freedom of information suits seeking to make the records public.

A U.S. Court of Appeals panel decided 3-0 Monday that there are times the National Security Agency can refuse to release documents without the usual public justification for keeping them secret.

The appeals panel upheld a procedure used by U.S. District Judge Howard Corcoran, who refused to order the NSA to turn over documents to actress Jane Fonda and her husband, Thomas E. Hayden. They filed a freedom of information suit to obtain NSA records pertaining to them.

The appeals court said Corcoran acted legally when he asked the NSA — which intercepts communications — to submit to him privately its explanation for refusing to disclose the documents.

Such explanations usually are filed with the court publicly and include an itemized list of classified records.

"The facts of this case present a situation where the district court could reasonably find that public itemization and detailed justification would compromise legitimate security interests, thus making it appropriate to receive affidavits (in private) rather than in public," the court said.

Circuit Judge Malcolm Richard Wilkey, writing for the panel, added: "Harm could follow from the disclosure of any material that might help to identify the communications intercepted by NSA, such as information about the date, time, origin or manner of transmission or receipt."

In fact, he wrote, a judge can keep the documents secret without even seeing them in private, so long as he's satisfied with the agency's explanation.

The Freedom of Information Act allows members of the public to request government records from agencies, and permits them to file lawsuits if they are not satisfied with the agency's search for documents. But the law exempts secret national security documents.

In another freedom of information decision, a federal judge ruled Monday that persons seeking documents under the act cannot be charged fees by an agency if the information would benefit the public.

Senate trying to override states

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fearful that the current credit crunch will dry up the flow of money for housing, farms and businesses, the Senate is moving to override state laws that limit interest charged for loans.

Debate is continuing on a wide-ranging bill by the Banking Committee that, among other things, would wipe out state ceilings on home-mortgage rates.

Other parts of the bill would gradually repeal federal limits on the interest financial institutions may pay on savings deposits and allow all federally chartered banks, credit unions and savings and loan associations to offer interest-bearing checking accounts.

By a 73-13 vote, the Senate approved Monday an amendment by Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., that would override until July 1981 laws in 15 states and constitutional provisions in three others that limit interest on farm and business loans. Unless an affected state's legislature acted to specifically exempt it from the Cochran amendment, the new limit on farm and business loans above $25,000 by state-chartered banks would be 5 percentage points above the federal discount rate. That would translate to a 17 percent ceiling under current conditions. The state ceilings range downward from 12 percent.

"This is urgently necessary," argued Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., banking committee chairman. "There's no way a state economy can prosper if the constitution or laws mandate an interest rate below going rates."

By voice vote, the Senate also approved an amendment by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., that would raise the maximum federal insurance on savings deposits from $40,000 per account to $50,000. Another Cranston amendment would allow savings and loan associations to offer credit cards, just as banks do now.

The amendment affecting farm and business loans and the provision removing state limits on mortgage interest rates are designed to increase credit availability for homebuyers, farmers and businessmen.

In the absence of such provisions, backers of the legislation contend, such borrowers might be unable to get credit because of the Federal Reserve Board's new tight-money policies.

Federal Election Committee asked to check funding letter

HOUSTON (AP) — The head of the Texas Democratic Party has asked the Federal Election Committee to check on fundraising letters being mailed in behalf of Republican Gov. Bill Clements.

The chairman of the State Democratic Executive said he himself has received five of the letters this year from Clements or Mrs. Clements.

Goldberg told the SDEC on Monday he had submitted the matter to the FEC in that the letters are not specific on how the contributions will be used except for "support of the work of the Governor Clements Committee."

from the CARROLL RIGNER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, NOV. 1, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to look into and decide on new attitudes, points of view that could be more a part of your life in the future. Handle minor problems conscientiously.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Consider your personal wishes and how best to attain them quickly. Join with loved ones in a social gathering and have fun.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Analyze personal desires and get the information you need in order to obtain them. Look to a clever expert for advice on an important plan.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan how to gain your most intimate goals wisely. Evening is fine for enjoying the company of good friends at pleasurable amusements.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Please those who have power over your affairs, career matters and get ahead faster. Be more affectionate with kin.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find the information you need that can help you to be successful in a new project. Get out to group affairs and meet associates who can help you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you use more practical methods you can easily meet any promises you have made. Discuss future plans with mate, kin.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get matters of principle worked out with the aid of those of varied experience. Civic affairs should be handled with a new approach.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study the work ahead of you from a new angle and know how best to handle it. Come to a better understanding with partners.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take your mate, loved one, to an interesting new place that will prove fascinating to you both. Be clever at figures.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget old ideas and arguments at home and concentrate on the new and inspiring. You are fascinated by a new interest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Put away outdated methods and get into the new so that you can be more successful in the future. Be careful not to overwork.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) By using different approaches, you can easily get rid of anxieties now. Evening should be relegated to one you love. Be clever.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will use modern systems for updating old and obsolete ones and become more successful with them. Give good moral and religious teaching early in life. A music lover here, also. Good diet is an important factor in early formative years. One who likes fun, also.

Living with a 'national error'

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — For years, the men seem calm. Then something sets off the guns in their heads, the long silent guns of Vietnam, bringing back the trauma of combat and reopening the festering wounds.

Harold Mann, who was a medic in Vietnam, held 27 persons hostage at gunpoint in a tiny church in St. Albans, W. Va., nine days ago. He surrendered after making an obscene statement on the radio in which he complained of medical problems the military had ignored.

Clinical psychologists believe the Vietnam veterans who explode so violently are reacting to delayed combat stress, the haunting return of the memories and fears of combat in Vietnam.

"These people are not crazy," said Don Crawford, a Veterans Administration official. "They've been traumatized by war and need help to adjust."

Little is known about the delayed stress reaction. Researchers are just starting to study the problem, and they warn that Mann will not be the last veteran to explode.

"They have flashbacks of injury and death. In one case, a vet kept seeing decapitated bodies after 10 years of no problems," said Malcolm Farmer, head of counseling at a local VA center.

"We're going to have to live with it for years and years," said Crawford. "If we had started doing something about it 10 years ago it might have been better. Now the problems are complex beyond our understanding."

"We've made a national error that we're going to have to live with," Crawford said.

In an effort to deal with delayed stress and other chronic problems that trouble veterans, Congress this summer authorized the VA to set up Operation Outreach. Under Crawford's direction, 71 special counseling centers are being set up around the country.

The program was first proposed eight years ago.

Larry Lapelle, a VA vocational counselor in Huntington, dealt with Mann in a number of veterans programs. He also grew up with Ashby Leach, the Vietnam vet from Huntington who held 13 persons hostage at the Cleveland headquarters of the Chessie System railroad in 1976.

Both men raged at what they said was the indifference of America to the problems and anguish of Vietnam vets. Before their outbursts, they were quite different, Lapelle said.

Mann, working as an ambulance paramedic, was "very, very upset about where he was in life and what he wanted to do," Lapelle said. Leach — a former Chessie employee — "was a pretty solid citizen without any problems." Leach is now in an Ohio prison. Mann, charged with kidnapping, is at Weston State Hospital for psychiatric tests.

Lapelle said Mann's "reactions were quite normal."

"We just don't know that much about these explosions. Maybe more contact with Mann could have prevented it. But there was just no time," he said.

Charles Figley, professor of psychology at Purdue University and a pioneer in the study of delayed stress reaction, described the phenomenon as the eruption of long-smiling pressures and memories.

"Delayed stress basically is putting off dealing with an extremely difficult period in life," he said.

Combat stress is not new but Vietnam veterans faced unique conditions in combat and at home, Figley said. A nightmarish guerrilla war in a threatening, alien world and the nation's indifference when they returned clouded their minds with feelings that have never been confronted, he said.

"They're acting out of resentment, the feeling that they gave part of their lives and deserve some recognition," Figley said. "If you scratch any Vietnam veteran that hostility will come through. Unlike veterans of other wars they never received any recognition."

Studies suggest that up to 85 percent of Vietnam combat veterans are troubled by war memories and a sense of "bitterness and resentment over feelings of being used," Figley said. Within that group, as many as 2,500 veterans may be teetering on the edge of psychopathic rage, Figley estimated.

"We would predict that these people are at a highly extreme risk," he said. "And it's never going to go away."

Figley links the surfacing of stress to the veterans' age. "Many of them are in their 30s now, which is a very difficult time when most people naturally reflect on their lives and achievements," he said.

The way soldiers entered and left Vietnam alone, rather than in units where buddies could lend emotional support, also contributed to the stress, he said.

When Vietnam vets came home, often within days of leaving combat zones, "the only way they could deal with their experiences was with themselves. If they tried to talk to their wives or families, they didn't want to know," Figley said.

Kennedy's running; so what?

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was like a college reunion, convened to celebrate the obvious. But for the Class of 1980, the task is just beginning.

In a sweltering automobile showroom, where Cadillac salesmen used to show their wares, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's brother-in-law was announcing what everyone already knew. He also was announcing that Kennedy would announce the same thing in person next Wednesday at Faneuil Hall in Boston.

Yes, Kennedy is running for president in 1980. So what else is new?

"The Kennedy for President Committee is now officially under way, and we look forward to an active and successful campaign," said Stephen E. Smith.

Kennedy already had said as much, in succinct if inelegant terms. "I'm tired of screwing around with this," the senator from Massachusetts said. "I want to get going."

Presumably, so do the Kennedys, the Kennedy in-laws, and the once, present and future Kennedy campaigners and aides who came to the showroom for Monday's performance.

Incidentally, Smith said there is no symbolism in the fact that Kennedy headquarters used to be a Cadillac agency. "I think this is the only campaign that is paying under $5 a foot for rent," he said.

Announcements of candidacy are a ritual of American politics. Any suspense is coincidental. By the time the candidate declares he is running for president, he is hard at the campaign.

Announcement day is a time to repeat the slogans, rally the troops, whoop it up a bit and try to get the organization ready for business. The grind of a presidential campaign is not nearly so glamorous — and nowhere near as much fun — as shouting for a candidate who has just confirmed that he is one.

So the Kennedy partisans will have another outing in Boston Nov. 7, President Carter will declare himself to be a candidate Dec. 4, and the difficult part of the contest will be under way.

Kennedy has said he expects a long, closely fought campaign.

But so far, the speculation — published and gossiped — is centered on the possibility Kennedy will so far outdistance Carter in the presidential primary elections that the president will be forced to drop from competition.

Kennedy never has suggested he thinks he can score an early season victory over the president. He says he expects Carter will be in the race for the duration.

For that to happen, Carter is going to have to win a good number of presidential primaries and Kennedy is going to have to lose more than his family's politicians ever have before.

The Kennedys are not accustomed to losing elections. John never did, Edward never has and Robert lost only once, in the 1968 Oregon presidential primary.

Area Players of the Week

Area teams displayed a composite record of 2-4-1 over the past weekend, with some unexpected surprises, both on the positive and negative side. There were numerous players mentioned by area coaches for the weekly "Player of the Week" honors.

Cochoma remained in the District 6-AA race with a 10-8 win over Anson, and two of the big reasons were the defensive efforts of MIKE WATERS and LARRY NEWTON. Waters, a defensive end, and Newton, who plays the monster position, were the leaders of the Big Red defense that limited Anson to only 180 total yards and prevented them from scoring until less than three minutes remained in the contest.

Forsan won their first game in the District 5-A race, and the sparkplug in the 17-0 Homecoming win over Anson was 130-pound mini-mite Weldon Nichols. Nichols scored all 17 of the Buffalo points on two touchdowns, two extra point kicks and a 21-yard field goal. His touchdown receptions came on passes of six and 42-yards from quarterback Ernie Strickland. Nichols also had an excellent game defensively, accumulating numerous tackles and having a pass interception. He also punted four times for an average of 33.3.

The Sands Mustangs of Coach Dickie Lepard continued to show improvement in their 27-6 loss to Meadow, and he chose to give this week's award to the five seniors on the Mustang squad. All had good games against Meadow, and more importantly, according to Lepard, "are all giving us some good leadership. Despite our record, our kids are still getting after it." The five Sands seniors are tackle DAVID HALL, fullback DAVID LONG, halfback JESSE YBARRA, center DANNY PEUGH, and defensive back KENNETH OWENS.

Stanton jumped out to a quick 14-0 lead against O'Donnell, only to see their visitors rally for a tie. The Stanton defense gave up only one of the touchdowns, and limited O'Donnell to only 150 total yards, and much of this was due to the play of defensive end TODD DAVIS. The 215-pound senior had two key quarterback sacks, and also "played good technique and was in on quite a few other tackles," according to Stanton Coach Steve Park.

Grady suffered a 60-32 loss to the undefeated Wildman Wildcats, but the Wildcats of Coach Richard Gibson had some excellent performances, most noticeable which was displayed by 140-pound senior RONALD CHEE. Chee had another one of his "good nights, as he rushed for 117 yards on 16 carries offensively for three touchdowns, and accumulated 16 unassisted tackles defensively from his linebacker position.

Garden City didn't have much to cheer about in their loss to Borden County, but the young Bearcats did have some noticeable performances, especially the one exhibited by senior tackle LARRY HALF-MANN. The 175-pounder, one of only three seniors on the squad, did "a very good job of blocking offensively, and had four unassisted and seven assisted tackles defensively," according to Garden City Coach Jesse Smelley. Halfmann is also a captain on the team.

Big Spring also didn't have much to be happy about in a loss to the tough Midland Lee Rebels, and Steer Coach Ron Logback is hoping for an improved performance against this week's foe, the Abilene Cooper Cougars. But one player that did show marked improvement in the Lee game and earned this week's honor for his play was defensive tackle KEITH SHEEDY. Sheedy had a good game from his defensive slot, and continued to be a consistently accurate deep snapper for the Steer punter.

Hangovers concern Landry

DALLAS (AP) — It seemed kind of strange to hear Tom Landry talk about hangovers since he doesn't imbibe.

But the Dallas Cowboys coach was talking about a different kind of hangover Tuesday — the kind you get mentally and physically after you play in Pittsburgh.

Asked how his team will react after the 14-3 loss, Landry said "We will have a hangover from it. You don't ever lose that it doesn't take something out of you. When you lose to Pittsburgh, you lose a little more."

Landry added "I'll have no problem shaking it off because I'm not out there playing. Right now I feel we won't come up to a top level performance against the New York Giants Sunday. We probably should win but we're really going to have to play well."

The physical hangovers include halfback Preston Pearson, who suffered a rib cartilage separation and a strained knee; quarterback Roger Staubach, who suffered a concussion and a bruised knee; and linebacker Thomas Henderson, who has a pulled hamstring.

"We're really fortunate Pearson came out as well as he did," said Landry. "He just sort of did the splits. But Pearson will be the hardest of the players we had injured to get back."

Landry said Staubach is having some mobility problems with the bruised knee.

"I don't know how quick Roger is going to be...he may not be too mobile Sunday," said Landry.

Landry bemoaned the numerous drops by receivers against the Steelers.

Asked if he felt the Steeler secondary had intimidated the receivers, Landry said "No, they weren't intimidated. They just had a heck of a time getting away from them. They were bumping and running."

Pressed as to whether the Steelers were bumping the Cowboys beyond the legal five-yard restraining line, Landry replied "I don't want to complain. I won't say one way or the other. We'll just have to be better the next time we play." Landry said the Cowboys begin their stretch run against the Giants.

"Our season starts this week. We play six division games in our next seven. We will have a very tough time with New York. The whole season is peaks and valleys and right now New York couldn't be more enthusiastic."

He said Giant rookie quarterback Phil Simms reminded him of Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw. "I remember him well in the draft," said Landry. "We had him rated high. We might have taken him if we had been given the chance."

Steer fems blast Midland Lee Rebels

MIDLAND — The Big Spring Steers remained undefeated in the second half of the District 5-AAAA girls volleyball race and in a tie with San Angelo Central by defeating the Midland Lee Rebels here Tuesday night by scores of 15-7, 15-2.

Elise Wheat led the Big Spring charge in the serving department with nine points.

Wheat was also effective with her spiking, as was Cynthia Washington and Pam Banks. Banks and Wheat also drew the praise of Big Spring Coach Carole Bartasek for their well executed blocking.

The Steers fems totally dominated the match, and the good backcourt coverage of Dee Earhart and Pam Caudill also helped sparked the Big Spring team.

In junior varsity action, Big Spring won by scores of 15-1, 14-12. Janie Phillips and Sissy Doss were high point servers with eight each, as the entire team was praised for their well-played game.

Both the Big Spring varsity and junior varsity resume second half competition in 5-AAAA tomorrow night when they play host to the Abilene Cooper Cougars. Game time in Steer Gym is 6:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m.

There will be Community Pep Rally honoring the volleyball performers, as well as the football team, in front of the Steer Gym tomorrow afternoon at 5:00 p.m.

This is Homecoming Week, as the Steer football team will also play host to the Abilene Cooper football team on Friday night at 8:00 p.m. in Memorial Stadium. The Cooper team is currently ranked number one in the state in Class AAAA with a perfect record of 7-0.

By MICKIE DICKSON

The Big Spring Steerettes Volleyball team finished the 1960-61 season under Miss Bernice Waggoner's coaching winning the district, regional and the "unofficial" State titles in Abilene in addition to many tournament titles and winning seasons.

The 1961 and 1962 teams also won, under Mrs. Pat Drake, district, regional and "unofficial" State Titles while compiling winning seasons and tournament victories.

Finally in 1963 and 1964, much to the relief of teams in the West Texas area, Big Spring did not win the "unofficial" State Title. However, both teams competed in the state meet, losing in the finals, and both did produce winning seasons.

The Steerettes returned to true form in 1965 by taking district, regional and "unofficial" state title at Abilene.

Weather caused problems for the 1966 team with four games cancelled due to cold, icy spring weather. The team had a record of 8-2, losing the district title to Abilene Cooper.

The Steerettes finished third in district play in 1967 with a season record of 10-9.

The U.I.L. held their first State Tournament in Austin during the spring of 1967 with Abilene Cooper winning the State AAAA division that year.

For the record

In the Steer Volleyball history: 1958-1960 story Thursday, Oct. 25, the caption under the Steerettes of 1958 picture should have read Darlene (Mrs. Jessie McElreath) Williams instead of Mrs. Merel Ringener. Billy Martin

Salesman accuses Billy Martin of sucker-punching

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph Cooper, a 52-year-old marshallow salesman from Illinois, had kept quiet for a week. He said he didn't want the man, whom he later accused of sucker-punching him, to lose his job.

The man was Billy Martin, twice but no longer the manager of the New York Yankees. Cooper's reason for remaining silent ended Sunday when Yankees owner George Steinbrenner fired Martin.

And Cooper finally broke his silence Tuesday night in a telephone interview with The Associated Press from his home in Lincolnshire, Ill. "The reason I stayed silent so long was I didn't want Martin to lose his job," Cooper said. "But I couldn't stand all the lies that went around."

"I feel very badly about it," Cooper said. "It's something that happens in life that you don't like to see happen."

Cooper, a family man with two sons and a productive sales job, described the scenario leading to "The Punch" late Oct. 23. It was a punch that cost the 51-year-old Martin his job, and perhaps his career in baseball. "I was in Minneapolis on business, and I had dinner with a business associate at the L'Hotel de France," in Bloomington, Minn., Cooper said. "After dinner, my business associate asked if I would like to have a night-cap, so we went into the bar."

"The only place open was a section of the bar between Billy Martin and Howard Wong (a longtime associate of Martin). Martin was there, but he had a cowboy hat on, and I didn't really recognize him. But my business associate did recognize him."

"He said, 'Hi, Billy,' and we talked to him about his job and what the future looked like, and so forth. Then I made a statement to Billy that I thought it was a good choice picking Dick Williams (of Montreal) as manager of the year, although I thought Earl Weaver (of Baltimore) did a good job too."

"Billy said, 'They are both—holes, and you're an—hole too for saying it.'"

"Then he asked me what I did for a living, and he asked my business associate too. I told him I was in sales with marshmallows," Cooper said. "They thought it was a big joke, as everybody does. Then he introduced us to Howard Wong and asked if we wanted to meet a millionaire."

"Then Martin mentioned that he thought it was a bad choice that Williams was manager of the year, and he said he wanted to go outside and 'whip your—'"

"People were always coming up and asking him for his autograph, and we forgot about it for a while. He finally came back to me, and he said, 'Tell you what, Joe, here is $500 to your penny I can knock you on your—' It was five $100 bills. "I still didn't say too much, but he was harassing me, but time comes when pride comes into focus. I put a penny on his $500 and said, 'Let's go.'"

"Between the bar and the lobby is probably about 30 feet, and there's an archway in between. He was ahead of me, and I was behind. As we walked through the archway into the lobby, he abruptly turned and hit me in the mouth."

"I assume all of his fights have been sucker punches."

Cooper wound up with about 15 stitches in his lip and something pretty important to think about, especially for a man from Lincolnshire, a man unused to the limelight that follows men like Martin.

"It's a sad affair," he said, "and I just want it to disappear. I would have forgotten about it, and I guess he would have too. But the thing that really upset me were the lies."

Cooper said that the two primary untruths that surfaced during the incident were that he cut his lip in a fall and that he swung at Martin, "which I never did."

Flanagan wins Cy Young Award

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mike Flanagan picked up an effective changeup delivery, learned how to deal with the news media and wound up as the American League's Cy Young Award winner for the 1979 season.

The 27-year-old left-hander, who posted a 23-9 record for Baltimore's league champions, was a runaway winner in the balloting conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Flanagan received 26 of 28 first-place votes, with New York Yankees pitchers Tommy John and Ron Guidry, the 1978 winner, sharing the other two.

"I'll always look at the award as a team thing," said Flanagan, the fifth Orioles pitcher in 11 years years to win or share the prestigious award.

"Maybe I was the best pitcher," Flanagan said while noting the Orioles won 108 games in regular and postseason play, "but I was also on the best team."

Flanagan, a native of Manchester, N.H., who was Baltimore's seventh choice in the June, 1973 draft, credited teammate Scott McGregor with turning his season around by teaching him a changeup.

"It came natural from the first time he showed me how to throw it," Flanagan said. "In the first half of the season, if I didn't have a good curveball, I got beat."

Mike Flanagan

In addition to leading the major leagues in victories, he shared the league lead with five shutouts, was second with 38 starts, and third with 190 strikeouts and 2652-3 innings pitched.

As the season neared an end and Flanagan was deluged with questions about the Cy Young Award, he sought advice from teammate Jim Palmer, a Cy Young winner in 1973-75-76.

"I was afraid to talk about it because I thought I'd jinx myself," Flanagan said. "I didn't even want to say anything to Palmer, so I just hinted around about what procedure to follow. He told me not to worry."

"Jimmy leads by example. I've had good pitching coaches in George Bamberger and Ray Miller, and the experience of Palmer on the field."

Flanagan also came under the calming influence of his father, Edward Flanagan, a former right-hander in the Boston Red Sox organization.

Ernie Holmes to try boxing

HOUSTON (AP) — Ernie Holmes has always had a talent for getting attention.

The mammoth 6-3 former Pittsburgh defensive tackle once had his hair cut in the shape of an arrowhead because he didn't think he was getting his share of attention.

In March, 1973, Holmes was recognized firing at traffic along the Pennsylvania Turnpike. He was arrested and pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon. Holmes said at the time that the incident stemmed from financial and emotional stresses surrounding his divorce case.

Now Holmes wants to be noticed as the next heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

He still has the arrowhead hair style and the same aggressive attitude that made him one of the most feared defensive tackles in pro football before his retirement last year.

"They tell me I have the punch of two mules and one diesel truck in my right hand," Holmes said. "They haven't told me yet what's in my other hand."

Holmes is following the lead of another former pro football player, Ed "Too Tall" Jones, in embarking on a boxing career.

Holmes said he had tried to get a fight with Jones last June but was unsuccessful.

"I called his people and asked if I could get a fight with him," Holmes said. "They wanted to know who I was and I told them Ernie Holmes. They said 'no way.'"

Holmes said he had always wanted to try a boxing career.

"When (Muhammad) Ali put down his gloves and picked up his fork, I put down my fork and picked up the gloves," Holmes said. "Today is just the first stepping stone toward me becoming the next heavyweight champion."

Holmes put his current weight at 296 but said he'd like to fight at 270. Holmes said he was 29 years old, although a Steeler press guide put him at 31.

"I don't feel age has anything to do with it," he said. "I've known a lot of people that feel great at 29."

Holmes will be trained by Sam Solomon, who formerly worked with champions Ernie Terrell and Leon Spinks. No fights have been scheduled.

Farm Investment made in Mideast casino

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of trying to find a buyer, the Agriculture Department today expects to unload its interest in an investment company that includes among its holdings a Middle East casino where gambling and belly dancers are popular.

Officials said Tuesday that USDA's 7 percent share of Intra Investment Co. has been sold to the government of Lebanon, a deal that has been in the works off and on for more than five years.

The investment company also controls other properties, including Middle East Air Lines and a shipyard in France in addition to the Casino du Liban near Beirut, Lebanon.

Lester W. LeCompte, controller of USDA's Commodity Credit Corp., told a reporter the deal was scheduled to be closed today in New York City for $7 million.

The CCC, a wholly-owned corporation in the department, became a minority stockholder in the casino and other property 12 years ago after the collapse of the investment company's predecessor, Intra Bank.

Under terms of a credit arrangement handled by the defunct bank, CCC had financed the sale of commodities to a number of Middle East countries, Lebanon, Kuwait and Qatar, as major creditors, set up the investment company to clean up the situation.

Originally, CCC was owed about $21.8 million as a result of the collapse but was able to recover most of it when the bank's assets were liquidated.

The CCC board of directors, headed by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, approved the sale of the shares to Lebanon 18 months ago, but it has taken since then to work out the details.

Meanwhile, LeCompte said, CCC earlier this year received a dividend of about $350,000 on its share of Intra Investment Co. stocks, which now has reduced the debt further to $7,980,270.56.

Thus, he said, sale of the CCC's stock in the casino and other properties will mean a net loss of less than $1 million.

The USDA corporation announced in 1974 that it intended to sell the 730,468 shares it owned in Intra Investment Co., and Lebanon emerged as the prospective buyer.

But the deal was tabled during hostilities in Lebanon.

WITCH OF THE WEST — For the 15th year, Reva O'Neill, alias The Witch, plans to touch down at the Phillipsburg airport from where she will be paraded to the witch's gravesite, an annual mecca for 2,000 local youngsters. At the gravesite the witch will distribute apples and bright pennies.

Follow the witch: annual town mecca

PHILLIPSBURG, Kan. (AP) — As Halloween darkness shrouds this small Kansas town, an old crane roars through the streets atop a fire engine, cackling "come to me, come to the witch."

By the hundreds, wide-eyed children pour out of their houses and run to the courthouse square to see the Witch of the West. Parents follow to partake of the special home brew and participate in a festival that began as a neighborhood spoof and turned into a yearly institution for the whole town.

For the 15th year, the bright red chariot of Reva O'Neill, alias The Witch, will be escorted tonight by town leaders to the square, an annual mecca for 2,000 local youngsters.

There the Good Fairy, grocer Don Lumpkin, will be waiting in his ballet tutu, red tights and combat boots to assist the witch in doling out shiny new apples and pennies sprinkled with gold dust.

"It's quite a sight," said Mrs. O'Neill, an ash-blond grandmother who is co-owner of Phillipsburg's only disco supper club. "Kids are scared to death but entranced too. Some are bawling, some wet their pants. But all of them want to see the witch and get their penny. It's the greatest kick in the world for me."

Mrs. O'Neill conceived her Halloween role in 1965, and in the years since her costume has grown from a simple black sheet into an elaborate outfit accented by pointy-toed black boots, a high peaked hat and dozens of rings and necklaces that jingle as she cavorts through her portrayal of a good witch who is slightly bonkers.

"I asked the witch to come to Phillipsburg because these children were so sweet and innocent," she said in a recent interview. "It had become a jaded event, a knock on the door, an apathetic 'Trick or Treat,' a handful of candy and they were gone. I asked one kid to do a trick before he got his treat and he thought I was crazy. I decided to put a little pizzazz back into the occasion."

Mrs. O'Neill, who says she's a "perpetual 39 years old," foots the bill for the town party. Her husband, Don, a rancher, played the Good Fairy until 1970, when he died of cancer. That same year she, too, was stricken with the disease but recovered following surgery and with the help of her six children, now aged 18 to 27, the witch made her annual visit that October.

The first year Mrs. O'Neill played the witch, her husband pressed a shiny new penny into the fist of little Jackie Hunziker, telling her "Here, honey, make a wish and this will bring you a boyfriend." Ten years later Jackie carried that penny in her shoe when she married the O'Neills' son Tom.

"Being the Witch of the West is a lot more to me than just dressing up once a year and having a good time," says Mrs. O'Neill. "I love to have fun, I've taken belly dancing lessons, I can disco, I decorate the town at Christmastime. But being the witch gives a special meaning to my life. It's my way of saying thank you to the people of this town for being so good to me. It helps me belong."

Baby scholar

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Amber Rae Hardin never heard of the Rochester Institute of Technology. She can't even say it. But at 4 months, her college future is assured — she has a scholarship to the New York school.

Amber was born here on June 12, the same day the Rochester school was celebrating its 150th anniversary. Someone — mother Lisa doesn't know who — sent the baby's name to the institute, which was offering 150 scholarships to babies born that day.

A spokeswoman for the Rochester Institute, Carolyn Rankin, said it was first-come, first-served in the scholarship sweepstakes. In all, the school received 1,451 applications for the 150 scholarships, each valued at $1,500 and collectible in 1997, when the class of 2001 should be ready to start college.

Each winner must meet the school's admission qualifications. But on Tuesday, Amber was more interested in the little rubber pig and rattle on the tray of her swing set.

Bird-loving thief

CHICAGO (AP) — Whoever broke into James Sparks' pet shop was either a baseball fan or just very picky. The thief made off only with Coco, a talking macaw who can say, "Go, Go White Sox" and "Merry Christmas."

"I feel it was someone who wanted the bird for himself, not to sell," Sparks said Tuesday.

Sparks said the thief smashed a plate-glass window at the shop Monday night and then broke open the locked cage of the 5-year-old scarlet South American macaw.

"I've had Coco since he was a baby bird and am very fond of him," said Sparks. "He has a vocabulary of about 60 words. I just hope the thief keeps Coco warm and away from drafts."

Vegetable supplies will be up, prices will be down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vegetable growers will have larger supplies for the fresh market and for processing this fall, which will mean lower prices for some items they sell.

But that will mean "less upward pressure on retail prices" this fall, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

The total supply of fresh vegetables is up 3 percent to 4 percent from a year ago, and about 10 percent more vegetables will be processed, the department's outlook board said.

"Prices to fresh vegetable growers this year will advance seasonally this fall but will probably remain below year-earlier levels," the report said.

"Retail prices for processed vegetables this fall and winter will reflect substantial increases in processing and marketing costs but will remain near or only moderately above the prices consumers paid a year ago."

In the last three months of this year, the report said, consumers can expect larger supplies of fresh snapbeans, carrots, celery, sweet corn, eggplant, escarole-ndive, green peppers and spinach.

Among the processed vegetables, the report said plentiful supplies are expected for green lima beans, snapbeans, beets, green peas, winter spinach and tomatoes.

The report said the situation is "essentially the same for frozen vegetables" in terms of larger supplies "but retail prices will remain near last year because of increased marketing costs" such as rising costs of moving refrigerated freight.

Corn crop harvesting lags behind

WASHINGTON (AP) Harvesting of this year's corn crop, estimated at a record of 7.39 billion bushels, continues to lag behind the progress of a year ago, says the Agriculture Department.

As of Oct. 28, about 44 percent of the corn acreage was harvested, compared to 69 percent a year ago, the department said Tuesday.

But soybean harvesting advanced to 70 percent completed, only two points behind the year-ago progress of 72 percent, the department said in a weekly report.

CBS newsmagazine doing better than ever

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' "60 Minutes," which has spent a decade on the air, enjoyed its best season during the 1978-79 television year. But less than two months into the new season, the newsmagazine is doing better than ever.

"60 Minutes" won the networks' ratings race for the week ending Oct. 28, according to figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co., and the strong showing helped boost CBS into the No. 1 spot for the first time since new programming began late last month.

It was only the second No. 1 finish for "60 Minutes" in the program's history. The first came Nov. 26, 1978.

CBS, in fact, listed seven programs in the week's Top 10, and the network's rating for the week was 19.3, with ABC second at 18.4 and NBC third at 17.8.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 19.3 percent of the homes in the country with TV were tuned to CBS.

The rating for "60 Minutes" was 30.9, Nielsen says that means of all the homes across the country with television, 30.9 percent saw at least part of the Sunday evening newsmagazine.

CBS spent most of the first month of the new season in third place while a surprising start by NBC caught most of the attention. NBC's third-place finish this week was its second in a row, though the network did continue to score ratings points with its series. Both "Quincy, M.E." and "Little House on the Prairie" made the Top 20.

As "60 Minutes" gave CBS programmers reason for joy, NBC's "Prime Time Sunday" was cause for concern at that network. "Prime Time Sunday," begun in June, was 66th of 66 programs rated.

New series, meanwhile, continued to struggle in the ratings, with only three among the first 30 programs listed — ABC's "Hart to Hart" 15th, "Trapper John, M.D." on CBS No. 24, and NBC's "The Misadventures of Sheriff Lobo" 28th.

In addition to "Prime Time Sunday," the bottom five in the ratings included a CBS movie, "Mind over Murder," 62nd, followed by ABC's "Detective School."

Hispanics opposing nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hispanics, after mounting an unsuccessful fight against Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti's confirmation, are turning out in advance to oppose the possible nomination of a federal judge from California as his deputy.

Vilma Martinez of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund charged Tuesday that U.S. District Judge Charles Renfrew has demonstrated insensitivity to minorities.

"It (the Justice Department) does not need a No. 2 man who thinks the same as the No. 1 man over there that Hispanics don't have problems," she said at a Capitol Hill news conference.

"We need a different type of person there right now because of the very severe problems facing this particular community today," she said.

The opposition is based on a 1977 law review article by Renfrew about graduate school admissions that concluded only American Indians and blacks are entitled to a national affirmative action program.

Hispanics claim the Justice Department has a meager record of prosecution of civil rights violations against members of their community, particularly in cases involving alleged police brutality.

The Justice Department also includes the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

President Carter has not nominated Renfrew yet but Justice Department spokesman Bob Smith said later, "The attorney general has made his preference known to the White House."

Smith said he could not be more specific about the deputy attorney general nomination.

Ms. Martinez suggested Cruz Reynoso, a California appeals court judge, and Texas state Rep. Matt Garcia of San Antonio, Texas, as potential nominees for deputy attorney general.

"There are many others. They have qualified people to look at," she said.

Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., said the Carter Administration also demonstrated insensitivity to Hispanic problems by passing over former New Mexico Gov. Jerry Apodaca as secretary of the new Department of Education.

Carter nominated Shirley Hofstetter of California for the post Tuesday.

"The administration missed a course, an opportunity, and not only to serve the Hispanic community but to serve the oppressed," Roybal said.

The congressman said Carter has one last chance to demonstrate support for Hispanics.

Hispanics will not choose solely on "charisma or the lack thereof" in the upcoming battle between Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., for the Democratic presidential nomination, Roybal said.

"They (Hispanics) will be pro that individual who shows some sensitivity," he said.

Among the high level vacancies still available are secretary of commerce, commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and ambassador to Mexico.

A Hispanic has never served at the Cabinet level.

Ms. Martinez, a Texas native now living in San Francisco, said she was disappointed by the appointment of a non-Hispanic as education secretary.

"It was time in this nation's history to have a Hispanic at the Cabinet level," she said.

Buying power of American workers dropped

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices climbed 1.1 percent again last month, which means that despite wage increases the buying power of workers dropped seven-tenths of 1 percent, or to a one-year total loss of 4.4 percent.

worker much at all except the specific figure; the news in general already was well known, the information having been communicated by the wafers thinness of the wallet.

of bills are going for increases in the prices of gasoline (3.5 percent last month), heating oil (5.6) and shelter. But there's more to it than that.

machine inflation? The terms are apt. In the local self-service laundromat, for example, the owner is forced to raise his 50-cent charge for washing. What is the minimum hike technology permits him? Ten percent.

him to put in coin slots that accepted pennies, even if they were available. In fact, he reasons, why raise my price a nickel, just to have to raise it again in a few months?

rationalizes it by saying that a mere quarter isn't, after all, going to break anyone. Besides, inflation will catch up anyway.

coin-operated devices theorize similarly. Pennies are out; they are nuisance coins.

movies, books, ties, cosmetics rise proportionately.

The percentages seldom are limited to the range of general inflation — about 13 percent a year as measured by the consumer price index and 8.5 percent when measured by the gross national product deflator.

Instead, the increases often exceed 20 percent, and even approach 100 percent. Still, because they usually involve mere "change" or because items are purchased infrequently, the increases are tolerated.

The situation is one in which people striving to keep big expenditures within their budgets are finding an army of little ones tripping and tangling them as if they were Gulliver in Lilliput.

Inevitably, it will force some families to view an old British adage in reverse.

As the saying goes, some people are penny wise and pound foolish, losing sight of big savings while eyeing the little ones, and so to their dismay find themselves with depleted pocketbooks.

Today it could be that concern with the big bills, the pounds, causes people to overlook the pennies, and thus end up with pocketbooks just as empty.

Housing outlook negative

CHICAGO (AP) — Don't expect interest rates to fall sharply. Be prepared for a continued siege of tight money. Don't expect to get top price if you have to sell your house in a hurry.

If this sounds very negative it is because the immediate outlook for housing is too, as judged from speeches and interviews with regulators and mortgage lenders gathered at their convention here.

It might even mean the end of the old conventional mortgage, in which a borrower's interest payments remained fixed for the 20-year or 30-year life of the mortgage.

In short, there's much bad news at this year's annual convention of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, whose members collectively claim more than 50 percent of all residential mortgages outstanding.

"Housing starts are going to fall 22 percent no matter what action we take," said Jay Janis, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Said Kenneth Thygeson, the league's chief economist, "Most of us see a recession."

Joseph Benedict, league president, said it succinctly: "Inflation is our worst enemy. It is at the root of most of our problems."

"Be prepared for a relatively lengthy period of very high interest rates and very tight credit," he said. He was vague on the precise length of time because of questions about a related problem.

Should there be another increase in prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, he explained, his most optimistic forecast — of some easing of tight money by January — goes out the window. Tight money might then persist into mid-year, he said.

Most of the 7,000 delegates here seem to agree with Benedict's assessment that the Federal Reserve's anti-inflation policy has to be given a chance "even though it will adversely affect our earnings."

A recession is viewed by them as a purgatory through which they must pass if monetary conditions are to return to near normal. But near normal, too, is one of those vague phrases.

In the near future, say economists and others here, single digit mortgage rates are unlikely. If mortgage rates reach 13 percent generally, said Thygeson, "I don't see a drop below 11 percent."

'THE MAIN EVENT' — The opening act Monday night of the Miss Howard College Pageant was enough to keep the audience on the edge of their seats the rest of the evening. Taken from a scene in the motion picture 'The Main Event', all 15 contestant paraded down the auditorium aisle wearing exercise tights and black satin robes.

Despite faulty sound equipment Pageant goes off with a bang

By ROBBICROW
Family News Editor

Pretend the faulty sound system did not exist and overlook the excessive, unnecessary noise caused by a somewhat over-anxious audience and you have a near perfect 12th Annual Miss Howard College Pageant.

Jan Hoover was crowned Miss Howard College 1979 by the 1978 Miss HC, Andra Hohertz, Monday night, but not before the capacity crowd was presented a well-rehearsed, fast-moving and anything but boring beauty pageant.

All 15 beauty contestants dazzled the crowd with their opening act taken from a scene in the hit motion picture show, "The Main Event," as they paraded down the auditorium aisle wearing black exercise tights accented with black satin robes.

ment was no less than excellent. The Howard College Chorale and the HC Jazz Band aided in getting the audience in the right mood by singing and playing a number of well-known Barbara Streisand songs.

Other entertainment was provided by Miss Hohertz, who shared her exciting experiences of participating in the Miss Texas Pageant held at El Paso last August. Miss Hohertz is the only Miss Howard College to ever win an honor at a Miss Texas Miss Amity.

The cleverly organized pageant never lost its momentum as the contestants, one at a time, stepped down from the platform onto the runway to be viewed by the judges and audience as they modeled casual wear, swim wear and formal wear.

While the participants were back stage changing, the top-notch entertainment never ceased. Continuing to step up the tempo were Elroy Green and Gloria Garcia who amazed the audience with their breath-taking talent for performing the latest steps in disco.

Witty and comical David Wrinkle, who served as master of ceremonies for the pageant, played his part as a natural. Fashion moderator Cheri Sparks added an enlightening feminine touch to the Wrinkle-Sparks team.

He's Baby-Faced, She's Infantile

DEAR ABBY: I am four and a half years older than my husband. He's small in stature and has a baby face that makes him look years younger than he is. I, on the other hand, look my age, even though I work very hard at keeping my figure, selecting becoming, non-matronly clothes, and doing everything I can to look youthful.

In spite of all this, my husband hasn't aged a bit since we've been married (22 years), and many people have mistaken me for his mother. Recently, I was asked if our college-age son and my husband were both my sons!

So far, my husband hasn't overheard any of these remarks. We have good communication in other matters, but I haven't been able to bring myself to discuss this with him, or let him know how much it bothers me.

Believe me, I'm doing all I can to look youthful. Now all I need is a sharp, snappy answer ready for people who hurt me in this way. Can you help me? I've noticed that you can really turn a neat phrase, Abby. I need to be prepared the next time something like this happens.

NO SIG. PLEASE

DEAR NO SIG: I don't recommend a "sharp, snappy answer" for those who inadvertently hurt you by speaking their minds. Prepare yourself by adopting a more realistic attitude. Face it, you are married to a baby-faced man who doesn't look his age, and could conceivably be mistaken for your son. Look at it this way: You must have had something very special to have captured a "younger man," so count your blessings and develop a tougher hide. (P.S. DO discuss it with him. When sensitive matters are brought out in the open, they lose their sting.)

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Alpha Tau Rho chapter meets in Drewery home

Alpha Tau Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Oct. 22 in the home of Glynn Drewery, Coahoma.

Service Chairman Arlene White reported that she and Sheri Leopard served cake and punch at the monthly birthday party on the admission unit of Big Spring State Hospital Oct. 12. Mrs. White asked for volunteers to bake cookies for BSSH Halloween party.

Ways and Means Chairman Pat Winters went over the work schedule for the upcoming Halloween carnival. Sherry Woods distributed work schedules for the concession stand.

Recording secretary Sue Scott resigned and Mrs. Leopard was appointed by the executive board to replace her.

Mrs. Drewery gave a program on private speech and Kathy Nichols conducted pledge training.

Jan Nickols, social chairman, reported that the next social will be the Thanksgiving Dinner, Nov. 17.

Homecoming queen candidates chosen

The Spring High School students selected the nominees Monday to compete for the five finalists in this year's Homecoming Queen contest. Only senior girls are now eligible for nomination for Homecoming Queen since the beginning of the annual homecoming celebration.

Each club and organization in the high school is responsible for selecting a queen nominee. The 18 nominees and the clubs they represent are Missey Baker representing the Mad-Hatters pep club, Selena Harris representing the Bible Club, Joyce Jackman representing the Future Homemakers of America (FHA), Cindy Knight, president of the Student Council, represents that group; Angela Kohl represents the Future Teachers of America (FTA), Sandy Kuykendall represents the Speech Club, Carrie Little the Key Club, Nancy Malil the Home Economics Cooperative Education (HECE), Dena Murdock the French Club, Sandy Nelson the Office Education Association (OEA), Wendy Pagan the National Honor Society (NHS), Juanita Porras the Cosmetology Club (VICA), Melinda Porras the Spanish Club, Melinda Priddy the Fellowship of Christian Athletes F.C.A.), Sherri Rogers the Band, Shirley Shanks the Industrial Cooperative Training (VICA), Karen Smith the Meistersingers and Jane Wyrick representing the Distributive Education Club of America (DECA).

Pictures of these nominees will be featured in the Friday night Football Program.

Sheraton Dallas Hotel to host Miss Texas USA Pageant

Girls of this area between the ages of 14 and 18 are invited to enter the Miss Texas Teen USA Pageant.

The 1980 State Finals will be held at the Sheraton Dallas Hotel, April 4, 1980, Dallas. The Texas pageant is the official state preliminary for the Miss Teen USA Pageant to be held in November, 1980.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievements, civic involvement, beauty, poise, personality and patriotic speech or talent. No swimsuit competition is involved.

Each contestant accepted will be required to participate in the Volunteer Service Program of the Miss Teen USA Pageant and must maintain a "B" or better grade average in school. This Volunteer Service Program teaches teenagers to share and participate in community, school, and church activities by contributing at least 12 hours of their time to some worthwhile civic or volunteer work to benefit the community.

The winner of the Texas pageant will receive an all-expense paid trip to compete in the National Finals of the Miss Teen USA Pageant, a $500 cash scholarship, and other prizes. Among the prizes that will be awarded at the national pageant in 1980 is $15,000 in scholarships and awards, a new automobile for the reigning year, $2,000 personal appearance contract, and a $2,000 wardrobe.

Those interested in entering the Miss Texas Teen USA Pageant may write for information to Cappy M. Smith, state director, 4605 S. Hope Springs Road, Stone Mountain, Ga., 30083, or call (404) 292-1025 292-0963.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Marital arts to the rescue

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm writing in response to the boy who hated fighting but who kept getting beat up. Well, I had a similar situation a few years ago.

I am a big girl, and when kids found out that I wouldn't fight, I was constantly getting whipped. My parents and I tried to solve the problem in many different ways but nothing worked.

Finally, I enrolled in a martial arts class at the YMCA. It was a self-defense course called Aikido which teaches defense without violence or brutality. The class really helped. Not only did it teach self-defense but it also built my confidence.

Needless to say, I haven't been beaten up since. — Kristen, Ogden, Utah

Kristen: Good for you. You did the right thing!

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 14-year-old girl who is fairly attractive. Awhile back my cousin started a rumor about my sexual behavior.

Naturally, there was no truth in what she said. One guy who believes this rumor has been trying to get me to a drive-in movie with him (he's 16 and has a driver's license).

He is cute but I'm kind of scared of him. What should I do? — C.C., Seattle, Wash.

C.C.: Let this boy know that the rumors are just that—rumors. Tell him to buzz off!

time between your 18th and 19th birthdays.

You are living a beautiful lifestyle. I envy you. Keep it up even though none of this will help you grow taller.

I lift weights, jog, stay away from junk foods and eat only natural foods.

Will this help me grow taller? — Bob, Fort Smith, Ark.

IT'S OFFICIAL: JANE ENDORSES TEDDY - Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne ponders a question during a news conference Tuesday, during which she officially announced her endorsement of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as the Democratic presidential nominee in 1980. Byrne said she telephoned President Carter today to formally tell him of her decision.

Nielson Company enters pay television market

By PETER J. BOYER
LOS ANGELES (AP) - The A.C. Nielson Co., whose famous numbers figure so largely in the tube-watching options of a nation, has entered the pay-TV market. I wondered why.

The purpose of Nielson ratings, as I had understood it, was to determine how many people watched a certain show on commercial television, the numbers being used to set advertising rates.

Pay television, as I had understood it, featured uncensored and uncensored programs without commercials (with that latter aspect being pay-TV's brightest feature). Since ratings are used to set advertising rates, and since there is no advertising on the major pay-TV services, then what is the need for ratings on pay-TV?

Noticing that Nielson ratings, as I had understood it, was to determine how many people watched a certain show on commercial television, the numbers being used to set advertising rates.

Advertising agencies, he said, wanted the Nielson report to see how extensively pay-TV has diminished the clout of the biggest national advertising medium, commercial TV. The networks, he said, RE-SENTENCED — Former Houston Police Officers, left to right, Stephen W. Orlando, Terry W. Denson, and James Joseph Janish Tuesday as they arrived at the Federal Courthouse in Houston for re-sentencing in the civil rights case of Jose Campos Torres. The three former officers were resented to one year and one day in prison.

Hispanics outraged at sentences given three Houston policemen

HOUSTON (AP) — The head of the state's most powerful Hispanic organization was outraged when a federal judge sentenced three former Houston policemen to one year and one day for their conviction in the death of Jose Campos Torres.

Terry Denson, 27, Stephen Orlando, 22, and Joseph Janish, 22, faced a possible maximum term of life in prison for a violation of the young Mexican-American's civil rights that resulted in his death.

But U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling, who was ordered by the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals to resentence the officers, gave them the lightest prison term possible Tuesday.

Ruben Bonilla, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, said, "Judge Ross Sterling is a man who has neither respect of nor appreciation for the discrimination suffered by Hispanics for generations in Texas.

"We are calling for immediate and meaningful disciplinary sanctions (against Sterling) including possible censure, voluntary resignation, impeachment or forced removal," Bonilla said.

"He has shown contempt upon himself, upon law enforcement and upon Hispanic-Americans," he said.

In May 1977, the body of Torres, 23, was found floating in Buffalo Bayou, which flows through downtown Houston near police headquarters.

He had been arrested a few days earlier during a disturbance at a bar. He was in police custody when he was either pushed, jumped or fell into the bayou.

Carless E. Elliott, a rookie officer at the time, reported to his superiors that Torres had been taken to the banks of the bayou, slapped around and verbally abused by the other officers.

The three defendants had said Torres was troublesome, had screamed and kicked when arrested and warned them he had served in an Army unit specializing in martial arts.

They said Torres either jumped or fell off a 17-foot embankment into the bayou.

The three former officers were sentenced to one year in jail on a misdemeanor conviction and 10-year suspended sentences with five years probation on the felony conviction.

The appellate court ruled the suspension was illegal and ordered Sterling to resentence them.

McDonald said a stiff sentence would serve "as a deterrent to those who may commit such acts in the future."

Rebuttal witness called Davis defense shaken

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors have shaken the foundation of the Cullen Davis defense strategy with rebuttal witnesses who fired salvos aimed at tearing holes in two major defense points in the murder-solicitation retrial.

"You ain't seen nothin' yet," quipped prosecutor Jack Strickland during a recess in the three-month-old proceeding.

The state produced a doctor and his receptionist, who said Davis' ex-wife, Priscilla, was at their office during the time a defense witness testified he spotted her with FBI informant David McCrory and karate instructor Pat Burleson.

Davis is accused of plotting to hire an assassin to kill the presiding judge in his divorce trial. The judge was never harmed.

The millionaire defendant contends he was framed in a scheme orchestrated by his ex-wife, McCrory and Burleson.

Dr. Roger Blair, a neurologist, and his receptionist both testified Tuesday that Mrs. Davis was at his office between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Aug. 18, 1978.

That was two days prior to Davis' arrest and during the time in which used car salesman James Stephens said he saw the three emerge from a Holiday Inn while he was fixing a flat tire on the hotel parking lot.

The prosecutors produced the doctor's records which they said corroborated his testimony that Mrs. Davis was in his office at that time.

The defense contends that the trio duped Davis, who thought he was cooperating with federal agents when he discussed mass murder with McCrory, into making devastating tapes upon which the prosecution case hinges.

Prosecutors also called FBI Special Agent Jay Miller in an effort to weaken the defense claim that Davis thought he was cooperating with federal agents.

Miller said he was among the arresting officers when Davis stepped from a telephone booth shortly after his Aug. 20 meeting with McCrory.

Baptist churchmen 'weak,' president tells convention

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — An apathetic generation of churchmen has been "woefully weak" in bringing the gospel to a growing population in Texas, says the president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

About 6,000 persons are attending the 94th annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention. Delegates here from 4,400 churches and missions plan to study ways to work toward the Southern Baptist goal of reaching every person on earth with the gospel by the year 2,000.

However, Dr. Milton Cunningham chastised the Baptists for not keeping church growth in line with vast increases in the general population.

"Our penetration with the gospel has been woefully weak," he said in opening remarks Tuesday.

The Houston minister said American Christians have sent missionaries abroad and contributed to such missions. But he said there now are unique opportunities to administer to the needs of those from other nations coming to the United States.

The delegates, who will vote today to select a successor to Cunningham, also will consider a proposed $34 million Cooperative Program budget for Texas Baptists' share of the worldwide mission efforts of 13 million Southern Baptists.

The executive director of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, during his opening remarks Tuesday, criticized those he terms "moderate churchmen."

Dr. James H. Landes of Dallas said a moderate churchman is someone "who is not against the church, he is for it in every way that will not inconvenience him or cost him very much."

Dr. Marvin Watson, the president of Dallas Baptist College, announced that the college is bankrupt, but that vigorous fund raising plans are in the works to save the institution.

Watson's comments, which were made before the meeting of Baptist Men Monday, was distributed to the news media Tuesday.

"I have not the slightest idea how God intends to save Dallas Baptist College. But I do know it is going to cost you," Watson told the Baptist Men.

He said the beleaguered college would seek more financial aid from Texas Baptists and other sources.

Watson also announced plans to institute a dress code and to beef up the college's curriculum by doubling requirements for Bible study.

"I think this is what young people really want," he said.

The annual meeting, which began Tuesday evening, will continue through noon Thursday.
