WAVES TO CROWD — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., waves to crowd with fingers forming "V" Wednesday outside Boston's Faneuil Hall, as he arrived to formally announce that he is challenging President Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination. See story page 2A.

Iranians 'round up' Americans

Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark and a Senate aide flew to Iran today carrying a letter from President Carter to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and other Moslem leaders asking them to free 60 Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran under threat of death by pro-Khomeini demonstrators.

In London, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported without attribution that two Americans were taken from the Hilton Hotel in Tehran and put with the hostages at the embassy. BBC television also reported Americans were being rounded up around Tehran.

Carter said of Clark's mission "we hope it will (succeed), we pray it will."

The demonstrators said Tuesday they would kill the hostages if the United States attempted a rescue operation. The United States has said several times it had no such plans.

The BBC also quoted Khomeini as saying he did not fear military intervention by the United States because "America is far too impotent to do so."

"If they had been able to intervene they would have kept the shah (in power). They tried with all their might, including propaganda, to keep him here, but our nation paid no heed.

The nation wanted something, and America was unable to stand up to it.

"Our nation regards America as its No. 1 enemy because America has admitted the deposed shah — who is our greatest enemy — and taken him under its protection," the BBC quoted Khomeini as saying in a broadcast by Tehran Radio monitored in London.

The State Department said Clark, who met with Khomeini during his French exile in January, and William Miller, a senior staffer on the Senate Intelligence Committee, left Andrews Air Force base Tuesday night after meeting with Carter, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and other top administration officials.

The letter, in addition to discussing the hostages, asks the Iranian authorities for a general review of American-Iranian relations, the Department said.

Clark and Miller were traveling aboard an Air Force jet and were scheduled to arrive in Tehran at 6:30 p.m. EST after switching to a commercial jet, probably in Athens, Greece.

NBC television reported that the letter also asks assurances that the hostages be allowed to leave Iran, makes clear that the deposed shah was allowed to enter the United States strictly for medical treatment and that the United States will not give arms to Kurdish insurgents in northwestern Iran.

The Iranian demonstrators seized the hostages at the U.S. Embassy Sunday in a bid to get the United States to extradite the shah, now hospitalized in New York.

Prisoner released

DA Hamby acted improperly, Texas Court of Appeals rules

Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday ruled that the Howard County District Attorney Rick Hamby acted improperly in charging a former client with probation violations last January.

Hamby, then a defense attorney, had represented Raleigh George Spain Jr. when the man pleaded guilty to burglary in 1976 and was placed on ten years probation.

The court ruled that Hamby should not have initiated charges that Spain failed to pay attorney's fees and court costs. Spain was also charged with failing to report to his probation officer and was sentenced to eight years in prison for violation of probation.

The appeals court ordered Spain released from prison and placed him on probation.

"When a district attorney prosecutes someone whom he previously represented in the same case, the conflict of interest is obvious and the integrity of the prosecutor office suffers correspondingly," the court said.

Hamby could not be reached for comment before the Herald's press time today.

Glasscock voters reject liquor

GARDEN CITY — A proposition to repeal a law forbidding the sale of alcohol for off-premise consumption instigated a heavy turnout of voters in at least one precinct of Glasscock County Tuesday.

According to Glasscock County Clerk Mary Lou Overton, 173 votes were cast in the county Tuesday. She considered it a "pretty good turnout." There are a little over 600 registered voters in the county.

Out of the 173 votes cast, 102 of them were cast in Precinct 3. The liquor issue brought voters of that precinct to the polls, according to Ms. Overton. The proposal was defeated by 67 against, 35 for.

Proposed state amendments one and three passed by a slim margin, she said, while amendment two, which would authorize legislative review of state agencies' rules, did not pass.

DA to appear before councilmen Nov. 15

Grand jury clears local police

City officials will make no formal statement regarding the investigation of the Big Spring Police Department until District Attorney Rick Hamby appears before the city council on Nov. 15.

The regular city council meeting had been scheduled for Nov. 13, but three of the five members will be out of the city on personal business that day. In order to conduct any business, the council must have a quorum of three, and the meeting was rescheduled for Nov. 15.

A grand jury originally was convened during the first week in October to review findings of an investigation conducted by Hamby and members of the District Attorney's Office. The investigation had been requested in August by Mayor Wade Choate and the city council in order to clear up rumors regarding operations at the police department.

The grand jury was reconvened on Monday to review further information gathered by Hamby in the interim. When the grand jury adjourned, 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, no indictments were returned.

"The grand jury, after listening to a large number of witnesses over several days, obviously determined that there was insufficient evidence to return any indictments on any individuals connected with the Big Spring Police Department," said Hamby in a prepared statement, Tuesday.

A formal presentation of the jury's findings will be presented before the city council, Nov. 15, after which city officials will comment, said City Manager Don Davis, today.

Although no formal statements were made, Davis volunteered today that "there is great relief on the part of the police department, and we are now hoping that we can get back to normal."

Two amendments pass, one fails

Texans express independence

Texas voters soundly expressed their independence at the polls during Tuesday's off-year elections, hiring and firing local officials and approving or rejecting bond issues without setting any clear trends.

Voters approved two amendments to the constitution, but rejected a third. One incumbent mayor was ousted, one mayor pro-tem lost in a recall vote, and Houston's mayor was thrown into a bitter runoff.

Voters in Tarrant County showed what they thought of the treasurer's job — they eliminated it. But in Dallas County seven controversial bond proposals blasted by activists as benefitting only the wealthy sailed to approval with surprising ease.

The only issue common to all ballots in Texas were the three proposed constitutional amendments. Voters defeated the one that would have granted the Legislature the power to veto state agency rules and regulations.

Proponents of a Proposition 1, which would appoint notaries public statewide instead of county-by-county, garnered 65 percent of the vote in late returns.

Voters rejected Proposition 2, which would have granted the Legislature the veto power, by a 52 percent to 47 percent margin. Proposition 3, aimed at preserving family farms through a $10 million state bond program, seemed destined for passage with 54 percent of the vote favorable.

At 12:20 a.m. today, with 252 of 254 counties reporting, 240 complete, the results were Proposition 1 — 283,266 for, 149,654 against; Proposition 2 — 202,699 for, 221,760 against; Proposition 3 — 233,552 for, 196,928 against.

The state constitution has now been amended 232 times since it was adopted in 1876.

Incumbent Jim McConn was the frontrunner for re-election in the Houston race for mayor, but failed to receive a majority and was forced into a Nov. 20 runoff with his bitter political opponent, Councilman Louis Macey.

The Houston City Council, increased in size from eight to 14 members, gained its first Hispanic in State Rep. Ben Reyes, a Democrat. Three blacks also won council seats, as did five of seven incumbents. Another incumbent was leading, and the other was headed for a runoff.

Tarrant County voters approved by a three-to-one margin a measure that would abolish the county treasurer's office. The vote was 23,20 to 7,260. But a Tarrant County tax limitation proposal failed by a vote of 16,193 to 10,085.

In Dallas, all seven issues in a $54.6 million bond package were passed. The biggest vote against the tax-supported bonds for a variety of arts facilities, the Dallas Convention Center, roads, storm drains and downtown improvements, came in East Dallas, but voter turnout was only about 15 percent. The favorable vote came in North Dallas, where turnout was as high as 30 percent.

In Austin, a $5 million bond proposal to build an office building and garage in Travis County passed by a vote of 8,952 to 5,391.

In Brownsville, independent challenger Emile Hernandez won the race for mayor with 4,741 votes to 3,986 for incumbent Ruben Edelstein.

Voters in two Jefferson County drainage districts approved a long-range project to expedite drainage in the West Beaumont area. The vote was 3,531 to 3,181.

All but six registered voters in the tiny East Texas town of Gallatin turned out to approve its incorporation, 77-26. Proponents hope the incorporation vote will block construction of a proposed solid waste disposal site near the Cherokee County town. The proposed site would be used by Jacksonville and Rusk, also in Cherokee County.

In Wood County, voters approved a controversial countywide ambulance service by a narrow 767-716 margin.

Howard County voters nix three amendments

A faithful handful of Howard County voters turned thumbs down to three constitutional amendments on Tuesday's ballot.

Only four percent of the registered voters showed up. Registered voters total 15,479, but only 704 turned out.

Amendment 2, which would have authorized the legislature to oversee state agency law making, was rejected by the largest margin. A total of 472 were cast against the amendment with 224 supporting it.

Amendment 1, extending the terms of notaries to four years, was rejected by a vote of 249 to 449.

Amendment 3, authorizing $10 million in state money to guarantee loans for farm and ranch land purchase, was rejected by a vote of 278 to 424.

Though complete, the vote is unofficial until canvassed by Howard County commissioners.

Voting was broken down by boxes as follows:

ROSE TO BETTE — Entertainer Bette Midler poses for photographers with a rose during Tuesday night's party at New York's Roseland following the world premiere of movie, "The Rose." Election machines locked NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Somebody forgot to bring a key and election day opened here with most of the voting machines locked, prompting charges from both sides of political chicanery. Officials of both parties sought, but were denied, a court order to extend voting hours until 10 p.m. Tuesday night after voters left polling places without voting, because 167 machines were locked. A maintenance custodian apparently forgot to unlock the machines, said Electoral Board Chairman James Griffiths. However, about 5:30 a.m., maintenance men began unlocking the machines, and by 10:20 a.m., city election officials reported all were operable.

Clemency plea to Carter

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Pennsylvania man has appealed to President Carter to pardon or grant executive clemency to Private Eddie Slovik, the only American soldier executed for desertion in World War II. Robert DeFinis of suburban Lansdale had worked with Slovik's widow, Antoinette, to win veteran's pension money for her before her death several weeks ago. "November 11, 1979, marks the 35th anniversary of Pvt. Eddie D. Slovik's court-martial trial that took place in Reotgen, Germany," DeFinis said in the telegram which he sent Sunday and released Tuesday. The telegram said Slovik was denied full due process of law.

Magnet progress pleasing

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Argonne National Laboratories officials say they are pleased about the progress of a 107-ton magnet being moved through Iowa by highway on its route from Illinois to California. There was some concern about heavy snow in the mountains of Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and California, but "so far, we're moving faster than we anticipated," said Dan Giroux, an Argonne spokesman. The 214,000-pound magnet is the largest load ever moved such a distance by highway. It is known to scientists as a superconducting electromagnet, which when assembled has a magnetic field about 36,000 times that of the Earth.

Disaster areas declared?

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Bob Graham has asked President Carter to declare portions of Florida disaster areas after some 2,000 persons were forced from their homes last week when a reservoir dike collapsed. "A second priority is a review of the circumstances surrounding the dam failure; I am asking appropriate state and federal agencies to examine the failure," Graham asked in a letter Tuesday. Millions of gallons of water poured from the Florida Power & Light reservoir a week ago, forcing the evacuation of homes, trailers and fishing camps. Damages have been estimated by officials at between $4 million and $6 million.

School for deaf gets go sign

By EILEEN McGUIRE How does "Howard College's Southwest Institute for the Deaf" sound? That is the proposed name for a regional post-secondary school for the deaf that Howard College President Dr. Charles Hays has announced will be located in Big Spring. Hays made the announcement following a one-hour closed session of a called Howard College Board of Trustees meeting Tuesday. "TEA (Texas Education Agency) has accepted the feasibility study and results proving a definite need for a post-secondary education facility to be established here for the deaf," Hays announced at 1:45 p.m. The feasibility study compiled by Howard College went before TEA in Austin last week. At that time, the college had hoped to hear some positive feedback within a 30-day period. The results only came sooner than expected, but were accompanied with compliments to the college on the thoroughness of the study. Board member Jimmy Taylor congratulated the college on the comprehensive study and noted that it had received marks of excellence in Austin and Washington D.C. Despite a personal interest in locating the school here, the college had conducted an unbiased, objective study, Taylor observed. "It's a good opportunity for Howard College and this country," said board chairman Donald B. McKinney. We lost the medical school and others — this will make up for that and will generate enthusiasm." Hays told board members that City Manager Don Davis had polled city council members for an agreement on deeding Industrial Park properties to Howard College for the purpose of the school provided that the college did gain authority to establish the school here. A total of 65 acres of Industrial Park land will be given to the college for the institute's campus. The property includes the former Webb Hospital, B.O.Q. and N.C.O. Club. The college will also have use of Withycombe Hall until it can construct new classroom facilities. Hays recommended to the board that since TEA has given its approval, the college should begin the process of establishing the school for the deaf. Board member Clyde McMahon Sr. moved that the board accept Hays' recommendation. The college plans to open the school by the fall semester of 1980. The next step, according to Hays' assistant, Mary Dudley, is to find additional funding for the school.

Kennedy formally announces

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, decrying the "lack of a clear summons from the center of power," today announced that he is challenging President Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination. Kennedy, heir to a modern political legend, became the third brother to seek the White House. The family turned out in force for his speech at historic Faneuil Hall where Kennedy accused the Carter administration of failing to set national goals. Kennedy said he questioned "no man's intentions," but charged there is a conflict of direction in the administration. "Fear spreads that our leaders have resigned themselves to retreat," the Massachusetts senator said. "This country is not prepared to sound retreat. It is ready to advance. It is willing to make a stand. And so am I." Kennedy has been mentioned as a possible presidential candidate in every election since 1968. But today's announcement marked his first entry into the quadrennial race. On Thursday, California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., is to enter the race for the Democratic nomination, and on Dec. 4, President Carter is to announce his quest for reelection. Kennedy launched his first bid for the presidency — once held by his late brother John F. Kennedy — with help from his famous family. His wife Joan and their three children were seated beside him, and in the first row at Faneuil Hall were Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and Ethel Kennedy, widows of John and Robert Kennedy, along with Kennedy sisters Patricia Lawford, Eunice Shriver and Jean Smith. Also in the front row was Mayor Jane Byrne of Chicago, who was wooed by President Carter before she endorsed Kennedy. The most dramatic moment of Kennedy's announcement came during the question-and-answer period when a reporter, noting that Kennedy and his wife have been living apart, asked if she would campaign for him. Kennedy supporters in the crowd boomed when they heard the question, but Kennedy motioned for quiet and then, turning to his wife, who was seated behind him to his left, said, "Joan."

Mrs. Kennedy stepped to the microphone to cheer and applause. "I look forward to campaigning for him," she said. "And not only that I look forward very, very enthusiastically to my husband being a candidate and being the next president of the United States." Meanwhile, a statement said that Kennedy underwent a physical examination several days ago and is in excellent condition, and disclosed he had successful surgery for minor skin cancer on June 22. And in a report on taxes, Kennedy said he paid $315,508 in U.S. income taxes last year. His adjusted gross income was $702,697. In his announcement speech, Kennedy criticized the domestic policies of the Carter administration. While never mentioning President Carter by name, Kennedy's references to the Democratic incumbent were unmistakable. "I question no man's intentions," he said. "But I have a different view of the highest office in the land — a view of a forceful, effective presidency, in the thick of the action, at the center of all the great concerns our people share. "The failures are stark: —Workers are forced to take a second job to make ends meet because wages are rising only half as fast as prices. —Families go into debt and suffer real financial hardship to educate their children. —This year the poorest 10 percent of our population must pay 119 percent of their income for the necessities of life. That means they go without. —In a reference to criticism both from the Carter administration and Republican presidential candidates that he is tied to a philosophy of continued high levels of government spending to deal with social problems, Kennedy said: "We can say, and truly so, that we cannot solve any of our problems by throwing money at them. But we must develop more effective answers in areas such as education and jobs, especially for the young now entering the world of work, and measures to make our cities and towns places where people can live in dignity and safety."

Police beat Local man shot in leg

Al Lane, 202 Goliad, is in good condition today at Cowper Clinic after being shot in the leg Tuesday night. According to reports, the assault occurred in front of Lane's home, 9:20 p.m. Tuesday. The assailant reportedly fired several shots from a .38 caliber pistol, and one of them struck the victim in the right calf and lodged in his left knee. Lane has indicated to investigators that he does not wish to press charges in connection with the incident.

While Luis Rodriguez, 906 Rannels, was inside the Big Spring YMCA, burglars broke out the rear window of his Buick Century, and stole a chain-type steering wheel from inside the car. The incident occurred sometime between 7:30 and 9 p.m. Tuesday. Loss, including damage to the car, was estimated at $142. While Officer Pat Dunham was on routine patrol, early Tuesday morning, he noticed that the door to Fina's Cafe, 200 N. Gregg, was ajar. Investigating further, it was discovered that burglars had broken in through a bathroom window, stolen 12 cases of beer, and exited through the door. Cost of the beer has not been estimated. Vandalism sliced the vinyl top of a 1978 Cadillac Seville belonging to Madine Cole, 1109 Pennsylvania, sometime between 8 a.m. and 4:25 p.m. Tuesday. Damage was estimated at $200. Lasara Ontiveros, Coahoma, is in satisfactory condition at Hall-Bennett Hospital, following a two car accident at Fourth and Gregg, 4:34 p.m. Tuesday. Both the Ontiveros vehicle and another driven by Jo Ann Bryant, Sandra Gale Apartments, were east bound on Fourth when the collision occurred. A vehicle driven by Ofelia Flores, 1807 W. 3rd, collided with a cow that ran in front of the car from the Western Hills Animal Clinic near 1700 W. 3rd. The accident occurred 9:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Ship explosions rock firefighting attempts

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Intermittent explosions have spoiled firefighters' efforts to snuff out the blaze on an oil-laden tanker grounded in 40 feet of water, but officials promised a new assault today on the crippled vessel.

Oil leaking from some of its 36 storage compartments has already stained several miles of the upper Texas coast, prompting the Coast Guard to press heavy-duty containment equipment into service.

The ship was disabled in a fiery collision with a tanker six days ago near this Texas port. Thirteen sailors were killed and another 19 victims remained missing and presumed dead.

Efforts to quell the blaze aboard the tanker Burmah Agate have consisted mainly of spraying her decks with water from a distance. But Tuesday, a Dutch-based team of professional firemen got close enough to pour fire-retardant foam on the blaze. However, they were pushed back three separate times when explosions rocked the vessel.

"They continued despite the explosions, and apparently had made substantial progress in putting out the fire," said Coast Guard spokesman Richard Griggs.

"But their supply of foam ran out and they were forced to return to port to get more," he said. "About the same time, the fire refueled, becoming as bad as it ever was."

The Coast Guard prepared for the possibility that the oil spill from the tanker might reach major proportions by bringing up pollution-control equipment from Port Aransas that had been used on the crude that reached Texas beaches from the runaway Mexican well, Ixtoc 1.

Officials estimated that 15,000 to 20,000 barrels of crude oil had spilled into the waters of the Gulf of Mexico since the collision. As explosions rocked the vessel daily, the Coast Guard feared that more of the tanker's 390,000-barrel cargo might be lost into the water.

"The present condition of the tanker presents a potential for a much larger spill," Griggs said.

Lt. Gabriel Kinney said about 25 percent of the cargo already has been lost, but the continuing fire has consumed about 90,000 barrels.

He said the collision had ruptured three of the ship's 36 tanks. The oil in those tanks was burning, he said, while six other tanks were affected by water, smoke or fire.

Griggs said the ship owners have accepted responsibility for the spill and are taking care of firefighting and clean-up operations. He said the Coast Guard was monitoring the efforts to make sure all precautions were being taken to ensure the safety of the coast.

Griggs said an "intermittent stream" of oil as wide as two miles in some places extended from the tanker about 20 miles down the coast Tuesday, but remained six to seven miles offshore.

Winds from the north had held the escaping oil off the beaches until Monday, when they shifted in the opposite direction and blew large patches of gooey oil emulsion and light oil sheen onto several areas along a 120-mile stretch of coast south from Galveston.

Private contractors had 70 men cleaning up the mess Monday and Tuesday. Meanwhile, the winds shifted back to a northerly direction, holding the oil at sea once again.

Oil protection booms were placed across the openings of several environmentally sensitive areas on the east end of Galveston Island, and 2,000-foot booms were staged at San Luis Pass on the western tip of the island and the Colorado River area further south.

Griggs said a 12,000-foot boom was being brought in from Port Aransas for use as conditions might dictate.

'Nobody loves me,' man shouts as car hits him

DALLAS (AP) — Horrified witnesses told police the young man shouted pitifully "Nobody loves me" and then walked into the middle of a busy intersection, lay down on the street, and awaited the oncoming traffic.

Just before a car struck him, witnesses said the 6-foot-tall man with an athletic build raised his head to the level of the bumper of an oncoming station wagon. Police said the victim, identified as Bill Haynes, 34, was dragged 25 feet after the impact.

Haynes was pronounced dead at 9:30 p.m. Monday. Police said he was a salesman whose identification card showed his Dallas address as 2022 Lonesome Circle.

Officers said they consider the death a suicide, although a formal ruling has not yet been made by the medical examiner pending a toxicology report.

"He was a very lonely man, a man who needed much guidance," said Helene Frye, 55, who said she had known Haynes four years. "He was a brilliant man, even though he didn't have much formal education."

The victim's brother, Thomas Haynes, 32, of Phoenix, Ariz., said, "It just doesn't sound like him at all. I grew up with him. He always had a good personality. He was a super salesman with a knack for talking to people."

Thomas Haynes said his brother was one of eight children born in Logan County, W. Va., to a coal miner. He said his brother had plenty of friends in school, served in the Navy, and more recently traveled around the country taking one sales job after another.

Haynes was married and the father of two children, his brother said. Police investigator Gerald R. Robinson said officers had not talked to the victim's widow.

"As far as we're concerned, it is a suicide," Robinson said. "He lay down in the middle of the roadway and was struck by a car. Witnesses told me to get out of the road, but he shouted back, 'Nobody loves me.'"

"I'll say one thing — the guy had guts," Robinson said.

About 15 witnesses saw the death, according to police. They said Haynes had spent the night drinking and going from bar to bar. Bystanders told police for a while he played like a bullfighter with passing cars on busy Cedar Springs, darting into their paths and waving an Army camouflage jacket like a matador's cape.

Weather Nation's midsection has frigid temps

By The Associated Press

The nation's midsection experienced frigid temperatures today, with readings in the upper 20s recorded as far south as central Missouri.

Temperatures dropped into the teens in the western sections of the northern Great Plains, and there were snow showers in Montana and thundershowers in the Southwest.

A strong storm system off the northern California coast continued to spread clouds and widely scattered showers in California and the southwest. Travel advisories for snow continued in the northern California mountains and the Sierra Nevadas north of Lake Tahoe.

There were scattered showers in the mid-Atlantic coast states and along the southern coastal region and the southern tip of Florida.

The National Weather Service predicted that snow showers would continue in Montana. Thundershowers were expected to cover California with rain moving through the southwest to western Texas. Except for rain expected in New York and New England, the eastern half of the nation was expecting sunshine. Temperatures in the gulf coast states will be in the 60s with only southern Florida reaching the 80s. The Southwest will be in the 70s with California in the 60s.

Early morning temperatures around the nation ranged from 16 in Williston and Bismarck, N.D., to 75 in Key West, Fla.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for Thursday predicts rain or showers for California and the Southwest, much of the Midwest and along the St. Lawrence Seaway. Showers are predicted for southern Florida and snow is predicted over Minnesota and North Dakota.

Key to riddle will come out of Texas

If America is to avail itself of a coal-conversion process and thus lessen the energy crisis that has shaken and all but impoverished the nation, the key to the riddle will come out of Texas.

According to the Popular Mechanics Magazine, the United States had left untouched for more than three decades a blueprint for the process. Four years ago, however, with the shock of the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74 still fresh, a team from Texas A&M University began searching for and collecting Germany documents captured in Germany in 1945 — documents describing in precise detail the establishment and successful operation of Germany's coal-liquefaction plants, which lay untouched, untranslated in depositories in this country and in Great Britain since the great war.

IN TOTAL, 500,000 PAGES dealing primarily with coal conversion techniques were brought back to Texas for translation, summation and indexing. Still more are to be retrieved. Furthermore, no more than ten per cent of the pages have thus far been studied.

The magazine says that the significance of that unused treasure can hardly be over-emphasized. Germany lacks natural petroleum resources but did know how to obtain petroleum from its abundant coal. Without synfuel (synthetic fuel), the report says, Germany would have been brought to its knees long before 1945 and there are some scholars who believe that, lacking such a capacity, which gave his army and air force gasoline made from coal, Adolph Hitler never could have started World War II.

POPULAR MECHANICS quotes Dr. Kurt J. Irgolic, associate director at Texas A&M's Center and Mineral Resources:

"There has never been a similar opportunity in modern history to investigate the industrial synthetic-fuel records of any country, much less those of a country with such advanced scientific and industrial expertise. Much of the knowledge contained in these records is available at a time when we so urgently need it."

The Nazis created one of the most monstrous and depraved governments in the history of the world, a regime that was morally bankrupt from the time it invented excuses to march into the Sudanland. What irony it would be if that same conspiracy left as a legacy the greatest industrial achievement of the 20th Century.

50-50 proposition

Around the rim

Robbi Crow

They probably won't admit it, but the statistics prove it.

The days of male chauvinism and machoism are on their way out. In fact, they've probably been gone for quite a while now, but some men have refused to face the fact that they alone cannot support their family.

You know the old saying "it takes two to Tango"? Well nowadays it takes two to bring home the groceries. By then, who can afford to go Tangoing?

I'VE NEVER FULLY supported nor agreed with all the changes the ERA represents. I guess, to a certain extent, you could call me old-fashioned, because I believe a woman's place is in the home doing all the womanly and motherly things they're supposed to do like cooking, cleaning and taking care of kids.

I believe it's the woman's responsibility to make her family's home a home... IF...

Now that's a pretty big IF. In fact, the only women it applies to are those who are financially comfortable, very comfortable, rich or filthy rich. I, unfortunately, fall into none of those categories.

Because of the speed-of-light rate that inflation seems to be rising, cornbread and pinto beans have almost become a delicacy around my house. It's because of inflation that the once common homemaker is fast becoming a vanishing breed.

I SAID IT before, and I'll say it again. Some women say they work because they want to; that it gives them a sense of importance and independence. Unless these women fall into one of the categories I mentioned above (comfortable, very comfortable, rich or filthy rich), what they're really trying to say is that they like to eat every now and then, too. They just worded it a little differently.

Excuse me while I pat myself on the back, but I think wives and mothers who work full-time jobs and yet still manage, with a little struggle, to put a hot meal on the table for their families every evening and keep a halfway organized house, should be commended.

Since the male has been pushed out of his position as sole bread and butter winner because of the high cost of living, the once unheard of idea of sharing household responsibilities is coming out of the woodwork and its practices are being put in motion.

BECAUSE OF THE ERA's fight for equality and the fact that one salary per family isn't going to feed the kids, pay the bills and provide a few of life's enjoyments, men are beginning to realize that marriage, in today's society, is a sharing of the same responsibilities, not the "you take responsibilities 1 through 5 and I'll take 6 through 10" like in earlier days.

There is no room now for the male (if he wants to make the most out of his marriage and life) who feels his masculinity or manhood is threatened by performing the duties of a housewife. This person is liable to find himself rethinking his philosophy minus a wife. Besides, years ago, it wasn't acceptable for a woman to hold down a job. Times have changed.

According to several homemaking teachers at Big Spring High School, the number of males enrolled in the department is steadily increasing.

IN SOME CLASSES, the boy-girl ratio is 50-50. Maybe this generation of males realizes equality and responsibility sharing applies in the home as well as on the job.

If you happen to be a part of the small minority to whom the aforementioned IF applies, congratulations and more power to you. However, in situations such as yours, I really don't feel the husband should share in the household duties since you don't help bring home the Sizzlean or whatever.

I also stated earlier that I felt a woman's place is in the home rearing kids and cleaning house.

But I have to be honest, I enjoy working, too, and that's just as well, because I have a feeling I'm going to be doing it for a long, long time.

Big John's Dixie ambush

Evans, Novak

COLUMBIA, S.C. — John B. Connally's southern ambush of Ronald Reagan's presidential bandwagon is being planned not for the highly publicized-March 11 Florida primary but three days earlier in a South Carolina election that has been overlooked nationally.

Working quietly, Connally is planning a media extravaganza costing nearly $400,000 (out of the $600,000 spending limit for the primary election). The goal: to exploit a potentially grievous Reagan blunder in permitting South Carolina's Republican delegates to be picked by primary instead of convention.

For Connally, what happens in this state's first Republican presidential primary could prove to be his making — or breaking. If front-runner Reagan heads south after winning opening rounds in the Iowa caucuses and the New Hampshire and Massachusetts primary elections, Connally must hurt him in Dixie. If he fails to do that, Connally will be finished and Reagan all but nominated.

TACKLING REAGAN in Florida never did look all that promising. Nor do primary elections, also March 11, in Alabama and Georgia offer anything like the same impact as South Carolina on March 8. This home state of Sen. Strom Thurmond has the Deep South's strongest Republican party.

Thus, when the South Carolina party decided in August to hold a presidential primary and tacked on a $1,500 entrance fee to keep out adventurers, Connally was handed a perfect setting to ambush Reagan.

With no competing Democratic primary and no party registration so that every voter can vote, the turnout could be as high as 100,000 (compared to 15,000 in the 1974 Republican governor's primary). Connally could draw well from conservative Democrats — better than Reagan. Yet, ironically, Reagan helped set the primary stage himself.

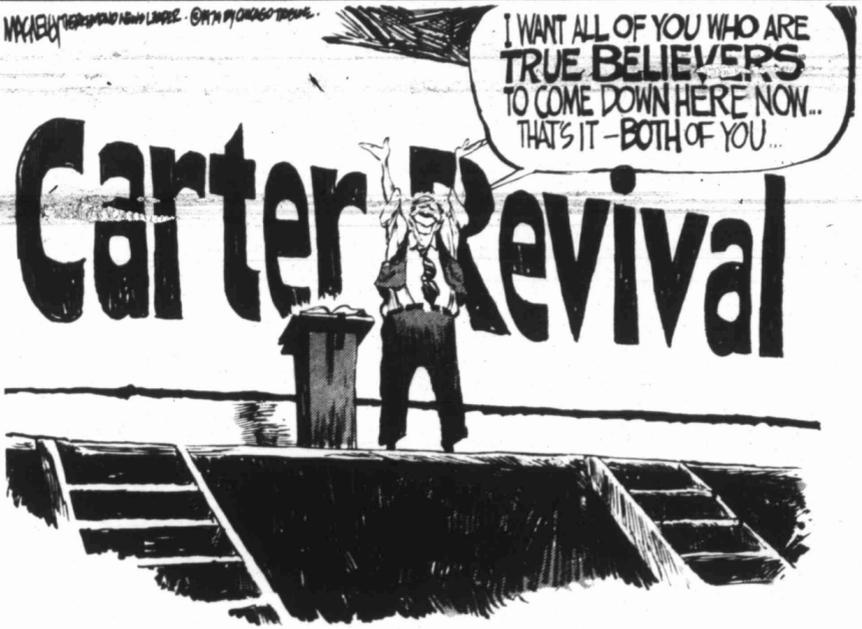

Reagan's reasoning was based on fear of the immense party influence of Thurmond and former Gov. James B. Edwards. Reagan operatives worried that in precinct and district caucuses followed by a party convention, Thurmond and Edwards might swing delegates to Connally. Their party power would then undercut Reagan's dedicated precinct workers.

With both Thurmond and Edwards refusing to make early endorsements of Reagan, the simple way to short-circuit their influence would be a primary election. That exactly coincided with the hopes of South Carolina party officials. They figured that the expected stream of Democrats into the Republican primary could generate major political dividends.

REAGAN'S OPERATIVES failed to foresee that Connally would seize on the new winner-take-all primary. Reagan was wound up risking a dramatic statewide loss to Connally with major national overtones merely to protect himself against a no-win, no-loss verdict, the worst conceivable result for him of a state convention.

Edwards, the most emotionally pro-Reagan southern Republican in the 1976 Ford-Reagan shoot-out, is shifting toward Connally. Although he resists Connally's request for a public endorsement and told us "I haven't made up my mind yet," intimates are betting he will end up campaigning for Connally.

Thurmond has also stayed out. But Thurmond's young, attractive wife is known to favor Connally over Reagan. Moreover, Thurmond told one political ally here before Sen. Edward Kennedy entered the Democratic race that "if Teddy gets the Democratic nomination, Connally has to be our man."

How to tell 'chronic bronchitis'

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My mother has been bothered with a bad cough for years. Lately, it has been so persistent that she is not getting rest at nights, and the days are not much better. We're told she has chronic bronchitis and there's nothing to be done. She is 75 years old. Surely, something can be done. Her heart is not very strong. — Mrs. A.D.

Chronic bronchitis has a fairly clear definition. It is excess mucus production causing cough and expectoration three months of the year for more than two consecutive years.

The mucus-producing glands in the airways (bronchi) are enlarged and increase in number. Smaller branches of the bronchial "tree" are inflamed, as though continuously irritated.

Most people who have this are heavy cigarette smokers, although chronic fume exposure and repeated infections contribute. Chronic bronchitis may also run in families.

Your mother fits the definition. Certainly, if she smokes she should stop, and you should be sure she isn't being exposed at home to other lung irritants — aerosol sprays, etc.

There are drugs to open up the air passages, theophylline being one. Her doctor can advise about that and suggest lung drainage procedures.

A word about coughing itself is in order.

A cough is a reflex action triggered by an irritation of the airways. But the cause doesn't always originate in the lungs proper. A disorder of the nose, the diaphragm, the throat, even the stomach, can set off a bout of coughing. Enlargement of the heart of a large vessel leaving the heart may cause irritation sufficient to cause chronic coughing.

These possibilities have to be investigated to arrive at a cause of long-standing coughing, like your mother's.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I want to know something about "sub-acute thyroiditis." What are the after-effects? Do they occur immediately or afterwards? What does "sub-acute" mean? — C.L.C.

Sub-acute thyroiditis is presumed to be caused by a viral infection. The symptoms are weakness, fatigue, and pain over the lower neck (often mistaken for a prolonged sore throat). These symptoms may last for weeks, and this is why it is referred to as "sub-acute" rather than either "acute" or "chronic."

These terms can be confusing to readers. When an illness is referred to as "acute," it means that it is of short duration, and tending to be severe during that time. "Chronic" refers to a condition that persists over a long time. "Sub-acute" falls somewhere in the middle — a here-today-gone-next-week condition (as an infection) but one that lasts longer than most others.

If sub-acute thyroiditis is not treated (it frequently isn't because it may not be diagnosed) the symptoms may persist even for months. Healing eventually occurs on its own, and gland function is not permanently affected.

For mild cases the treatment is with that medical miracle drug — aspirin. For severe cases, steroid drugs may have to be used.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I live in a building with a sauna in it. I take one, sometimes two, a day when I feel sluggish or in ill humor. I've been doing this for three years. I'm 49, a male. Is there any way the long saunas (45 minutes including cold shower afterward) could hurt me? Some of my friends say it might. — D.K.

It might if it is causing dehydration. Since you have been doing this for three years without difficulties you should encounter no problems. Dehydration is the loss of body fluids. Symptoms of it include dry-skin, cracked lips and mental confusion. Heart patients and hypertensives have to be wary of saunas.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 14 and for about a year I have had severe pain and cramping and vomiting along with diarrhea during my menstrual period. I can't do anything normal, but sleep for a couple of days. What should I do? Is this normal? — D.L.S.

That amount of pain and vomiting and diarrhea definitely is not normal. See a gynecologist.

Your thyroid plays a critical health role — in everything from eyesight to fertility. The booklet "Your Thyroid: How It Works for You" explains this important, and misunderstood, gland.

To get a copy, enclose 50 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Jesus said in John 12:47, "I did not come to judge the world, but to save it." Doesn't that mean that everyone will eventually be saved? — N.D.

DEAR N.D.: That is not what Jesus was teaching in this verse, nor is it taught in any other passages of the Bible. In fact, the very next verse (John 12:48) speaks of God who will judge "the one who rejects me and does not accept my words; that very word which I spoke will condemn him at the last day." Jesus' words point the way to salvation, but to those who refuse to hear and accept His words there is only one outcome — condemnation.

These (and many other) passages which speak of the reality of judgment) are very solemn words. We tend to neglect them or twist them to mean something other than what they really say. But the truth is clear; someday every individual will stand before God, and apart from Christ there is no hope of salvation. It is interesting that Jesus Himself spoke more about judgment and hell than any other person in the Bible. In the Sermon on the Mount He declared, "Not everyone who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven. I will tell them plainly, 'I never knew you. Away from me, you evildoers!'" (Matthew 7:21, 23). Elsewhere the Bible says God "has set a day when he will judge the world with justice by the man he has appointed. He has given proof of this to all men by raising him from the dead" (Acts 17:31).

But there is another side to this fact of judgment: the wonderful truth that God does not want us to be separated from Him throughout all eternity and has made it possible for us to be saved. The Bible tells us, "He is patient with you, not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone to come to repentance" (2 Peter 3:9). How can you know that you are going to heaven? If you give your life to Jesus (Christ, trusting Him for your salvation, you have the promise of God that He will save you. "And everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved" (Acts 2:21).

WASHINGTON — The oil industry is trying to mesmerize consumers into believing that the profits they're plundering are good for America. Their propaganda line sounds like the proverbial Little Jack Horner, who stuck in a thumb and pulled out a plum and said "what a good boy am I."

The third-quarter profit statements of the big oil companies showed Exxon raking in $1.1 billion more than for the same three months the year before; Texaco's profits rocketed upward 211 percent.

BIG OIL'S SLICK PUBLIC relations machines went into high gear. They couldn't blame their windfall profits on the Arabs, or claim that the government was responsible. Their flim-flam consisted of adopting a poor-little-rich-boy role.

Charles DiBona, president of the American Petroleum Institute, rushed out a release defending the astronomical profit increase as justified by "a very depressed level" in 1978.

Other oil executives contended that the profits came from investment developments abroad and repeated the treadbare argument that the huge windfall was needed to develop and drill for new petroleum resources in this country.

A careful look at the figures establishes that the oil tycoons are dipping into their customary bag of public relations tricks to justify unconscionable profiteering.

They claim the increased profits result from their international operations and not from squeezing the American consumers. Government auditors, however, have found that nearly half the boost in heating oil and gasoline prices foisted on users in this country can be attributed to increases at the producer-refinery level.

THE REFINERY PROFITS that are accumulated overseas, according to an expert analysis, are partly squeezed out of the American consumers. American-owned refineries in Venezuela and the Caribbean, for example, are shipping their products into this country, with consumers paying the piper.

The oil companies' claim that this year's profits look huge only because of their low profits last year also amounts to bosh. In 1978, most of the U.S. petroleum corporations operated in the black. Some experienced profit increases as high as 134 percent. Overall, they harvested a field of greenbacks worth $13.3 billion.

Their contention that the profits are needed for reinvestment in exploration and research falls flat when the cash flow is considered. An analysis of the industry's own statistics by the consumer advocate group, Energy Action, reveals that last year, only 62 percent of their billions was ploughed back for such purposes. Most of the remainder was used to buy up non-oil related enterprises such as hotels, ranches and diverse industries.

TRUTH-IN-GOVERNMENT: Were Diogenes to reappear with his lantern searching for an honest man, he'd find truth is in short supply in Washington, particularly at the Pentagon where Harold Brown reigns as secretary of defense. We've obtained secret documents demonstrating that Brown flat-out lied to a congressional committee about his covert role in punishing a troublesome Air Force whistleblower.

Brown's duplicity began a decade ago when he was Air Force secretary in the closing days of the Johnson administration. Ernest Fitzgerald, who understood he was serving the public first, had embarrassed the military higher-ups by publicly disclosing a scandalous $2 billion cost overrun on an Air Force contract for the controversial C-5A transport plane.

At Capitol Hill hearings on the rip-off, Brown assured skeptical members of Congress that no punitive action would be taken against the intrepid Fitzgerald for trying to protect the taxpayers.

More recently, Brown vehemently denied our charges that new evidence indicated he and his inner circle engaged in a conspiracy to cover up the outrageous rip-off.

A SECRET MEMO dictated by Brown at the time of the C-5A investigation contradicts his disclaimers. The record shows that, in 1968, Brown quietly met with Robert Seamans, who had been designated to be his successor in the new administration.

The confidential memo reveals that he told Seamans that many of Fitzgerald's "practices were unacceptable. These include speaking to the press against Air Force decisions, discussing internal Air Force matters with congressional committee staffs, and providing them with documents without going through legislative liaison channels."

Then, Brown added, "has greatly lessened, if not eliminated his value as an employee of the Air Force." Brown informed Seamans that the Air Force brass hats had "made it clear to Fitzgerald that we considered his usefulness to the Air Force to be negligible if not negative." Brown urged that "in the interest of discipline," the incoming Air Force chief "take a similar position in subsequent months."

AS A DIRECT RESULT of his hatchet job, Brown boasted, Seamans "recognizes that Fitzgerald is of no use to the Air Force and, though his rights must be protected, he is to be discouraged from remaining."

Later that year, Fitzgerald was booted out of his job on the palpably spurious claim by the Nixon administration that his Pentagon position had been wiped out under a reorganization. The federal courts subsequently ordered his reinstatement.

Footnote: A spokesman for Brown didn't return our calls at press time.

Iranian oil company denies delivery shutdown

NEW YORK (AP) — Spot market oil prices jumped sharply when it was reported deliveries at Iran's main Persian Gulf port had been halted, but the Iranian oil company today denied there had been any shutdown.

An official at the Tehran office of the National Iranian Oil Co. said in a telephone interview: "Both the refinery in Abadan and the oil-loading terminal at Kharg Island are functioning. There is no strike; everything is normal."

"Iran appears to be shut off," one oil company executive, who asked not to be quoted by name, said Tuesday.

Administration and congressional sources said Tuesday the Central Intelligence Agency had determined U.S. tankers have been barred. A State Department official said the Kharg Island port has been closed to all customers by what may be a strike.

But a White House aide said the reports had been received but "not confirmed." Reports of a shutdown also were received in Japan, said officials there.

Iran's Oil Minister Ali Akbar Mo'Infar said Monday that shipments to the United States would be shut off if that nation's ruler, the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, ordered the action.

Khomeini has been orchestrating an anti-America campaign in recent days, and some of his followers have been holding about 60 Americans in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Sunday. They have demanded the return of the deposed Shah of Iran, who is hospitalized in New York City with cancer.

Iran provides some 700,000 barrels of oil daily to the U.S. — 3.5 percent to 5 percent of U.S. consumption.

Oil experts said a general shutdown would be more damaging than a strike. In July, only 387,500 barrels a day were imported directly from Iran. Another 200,000 to 300,000 barrels of Iranian crude was getting through each day from other countries.

A shutdown might not have much effect on the world market, but "if it continues for an extended period of time, the end result would be the same" as during a strike by Iranian oil workers last winter when Shah Mohammad Rez Pahlavi was ousted, said analyst Gary Ross of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation.

Suspension of Iranian production from late December 1978 to early March eliminated nearly 5 million 42-gallon barrels daily from world oil markets, tightening supplies, creating shortages and ultimately encouraging price increases.

Some wholesale prices went "out of sight" on the spot market Tuesday due to the Iranian reports, said Vincent Sgro, editor of the Oil Buyers Guide, a newspaper that covers oil markets.

Success of peace envoy questionable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two special government envoys were flying to Iran today in an effort to gain freedom for some 60 Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Sunday.

State Department spokesman Jack Tuohy said former Attorney General Ramsey Clark and William Miller, a senior staff member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, left Washington Tuesday night carrying a message from President Carter to Iranian authorities regarding the hostage situation.

Carter, asked by reporters this morning whether he thought the effort would succeed, replied: "We hope it will. We pray it will."

The president commented after a White House departure ceremony for his wife Rosalynn, who will tour Cambodian refugee camps in Thailand.

In addition to seeking release of the hostages, Tuohy said Clark and Miller planned to discuss U.S.-Iranian relations "more generally" with Iranian officials. He said they hope to meet with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, P31 leader of the Iranian revolution.

Clark had met with Khomeini last January, while the Moslem religious leader was still in exile in France. He and Miller met with Carter, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and other top administration officials before beginning their trip Tuesday night.

American discussions with Iranian officials "aimed at securing their intervention with the students holding the hostages in the U.S. embassy — have been at a standstill for nearly 120 days, both here and in Tehran."

Meanwhile, officials here were keeping a close eye on a move by the Palestine Liberation Organization to intercede with the Khomeini regime.

With the fall of Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan's government, the United States had only low-level officials left in Iran to deal with directly.

But reports reached the State Department late Tuesday that a new civil government may be formed shortly, possibly under Bazargan.

"This could start things moving again," said a department official, who asked not to be identified.

The announcement by the PLO, meanwhile, that its delegation is going to Tehran "to secure the lives" of the Americans held prisoner clearly intrigued U.S. officials.

To a man, the officials insisted the administration did not initiate any overture to the PLO, or have anything to do with the development, which was seen here as holding out some hope of breaking the deadlock.

Hasan Abdel Rahman, deputy PLO observer at the United Nations in New York, told reporters the delegation would fly to Tehran from Beirut, Lebanon.

'Jaws' most-watched movie ever brought to TV

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' attempt to make it two in a row as prime-time television's No. 1 network was sidetracked by ABC, or, more properly, "Jaws," figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. for the week ending Nov. 4 show.

CBS listed five of the week's 10 highest-rated programs, but more people tuned in for "Jaws" than for any other previous motion picture brought to television except "Gone With the Wind," which aired for the first time in November 1976.

About 80 million people saw all or part of "Jaws," ABC's research department estimated, or an average of 29.8 million households per minute. "Gone With the Wind" was seen in an average of 33.9 million homes a minute.

ABC's rating for the week was 21.3, with CBS second at 18.8 and NBC third at 16.5. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 21.3 percent of the homes in the country with television were watching ABC.

It was NBC's third straight week in last place after a strong September and early October.

The rating for the three-hour "Jaws" broadcast, meanwhile, was 39. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 39 percent saw at least part of the movie. Of sets in use 8:30-11:15 p.m. Sunday, 57 percent were tuned to "Jaws," Nielsen figures show.

CBS' best for the week was "60 Minutes," in third place, while NBC's top-rated show was "Little House on the Prairie," tied for sixth. "Little House" was NBC's only show in the week's Top 20.

November is the month for the networks' fall ratings sweeps, by which national spot advertising rates are set, and viewers can anticipate more blockbusters like "Jaws" in the next several weeks.

"Freedom Road," the controversial two-part historical drama starring former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, was also something of a disappointment for NBC, finishing 33rd and 55th in the ratings. At least one NBC affiliate, in Boston, canceled "Freedom Road," fearing it might stir racial tensions in the already troubled city.

Here are the week's Top 10 programs:

Movie—"Jaws," with a rating of 39 representing 29.8 million homes, and "Three's Company," 28.6 or 21.8 million, both ABC; "60 Minutes," 28.3 or 21.6 million, "M-A-S-H," 27.4 or 20.9 million, and "Dallas," 25.9 or 19.8 million, all CBS; "Mork and Mindy," ABC, and "Little House on the Prairie," NBC, both 24.8 or 18.9 million; "Taxi," 24.6 or 18.8 million, ABC, and "WKRP in Cincinnati," 24.3 or 18.5 million and "Dukes of Hazzard," 23.6 or 18 million, both CBS.

Farm Hunter influences deer meat quality

COLLEGE STATION — Deer hunting provides both outdoor recreation and table fare — venison — for Texas sportsmen each year.

Some 11 million pounds of boneless deer meat are harvested annually in Texas, points out Dr. Milo Shult, wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"The hunter is the key person responsible for the quality and edibility of the venison he brings home," Shult emphasizes. "The entire process of handling the carcass from field to table can add or detract from the desirability of the final product. The hunter plays an important role in determining whether a deer steak is tender and tasty or tough and bad-flavored."

head to insure clean, rapid kill. This prevents post-shot stress and also reduces tissue damage considerably.

3. Field dress the animal as soon as possible. If contents of the intestine or paunch have been spilled, rinse the carcass with water. A publication, L-634 entitled "Field Dressing Big Game," is available from any county Extension office and provides more information.

4. If weather permits, leave the skin on the carcass to help conserve moisture. However, in hot weather, skin and cover the carcass with a fly proof bag if a cooler is not accessible. Also, a male in the rut may have a strong urine odor on the hind legs and probably should be skinned prior to storage.

5. If the family prefers a somewhat more intense flavor similar to aged beef, hang the carcass in a locker for about a week before final processing. Use a clean locker to avoid contamination of odors from poorly handled carcasses.

Based on studies regarding the effects of handling on deer meat quality, Shult gives these recommendations:

1. Whenever a choice is available, select a female animal for less flavor intensity (gaminess). This does not mean that male animals provide undesirable meat, but rather that most consumers may prefer the less intense flavor of the female.
2. Whenever possible, place the shot in the neck or

4-H's earn scholarships to continue higher education

COLLEGE STATION — With ever-increasing educational costs, some Texas 4-H members have found a way to lessen this often heavy family financial burden.

That way is through scholarships awarded by the Texas 4-H Foundation.

According to H.T. Davison, executive director of the Foundation, 4-H youth in Texas will receive more than $319,000 in award scholarships this year. These are distributed to members who achieve recognition in nine program areas. Davison is also a 4-H and Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, the parent organization of 4-H.

ciation, C.J. Davidson Memorial Scholarship Fund, Texas Farm Bureau, Raymond Dickson Foundation, Morrison Milling Co., Cloth World, American Sportsman Club, and Game Conservation International.

Scholarship programs are only a part of the overall mission of the Texas 4-H Foundation, according to the 4-H official. The organization also assists with funding and support of many leadership and skills development programs for 4-H members and adult volunteers. In addition the Foundation operates the Texas 4-H Center near Brownwood, which serves as a camping and training center for the 180,000-member program.

"The Texas 4-H Foundation, a non-profit organization, is the private sector support component of the statewide 4-H program," explains Davison. "Directors of this foundation arrange and award scholarships to some 67 4-H members each year. These scholarships vary in value from $200 to $6,000."

Scholarship sponsors include the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, Texas Grain and Feed Asso-

"Although this seems to be a sizable investment," says Davison, "it is only a part of the total private sector support for 4-H in Texas. Numerous scholarships are funded and awarded from other sources at the local county level throughout the state."

More information regarding scholarships and other aspects of the 4-H program are available from every county Extension office, adds Davison.

Won't Take Noah For an Answer

DEAR ABBY: As a pro who gets paid for writing scripts, articles, etc., I must be nuts writing to you. However, I can't resist pointing out your misuse of the expression, "lucked out." You wrote (in praise of Gamblers Anonymous): "Many compulsive gamblers have LUCKED OUT by joining this wonderful group of people."
According to the Dictionary of American Slang (Wentworth & Flexner) "lucked out" means "to be out of luck" or "to have met with ill fortune or disaster."
You probably won't pay attention to this anyway.
MARINA DEL REY MORT

DEAR MORT: According to Webster's New World Dictionary of the American Language, "lucked out" means "to be lucky" or "to have things turn out favorably."
So, regardless of whether one buys my authority or yours, it would appear that I "lucked out" either way.

DEAR ABBY: Last night I watched a baby die. The child was 11 months old and strangled on a piece of apple. The baby's mother was away and the child was being kept by a girl down the street.
By the time the baby-sitter arrived at our house, the child was probably dead. There were 10 people at the house where I was, and only one knew what to do. The rest of us watched helplessly and horror-stricken the hopeless efforts to revive the dying child.
The baby's mother, who will never live down the fact that she was not there; the 14-year-old babysitter, who will never forget the fact that she could not help; and the 10 of us who will never forget the tragic consequences of that night cannot be helped by the fact that this is such a common occurrence.
The child was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital despite a two-hour effort by the paramedics when they arrived.
Abby, if only one person will take the time to learn CPR—cardiopulmonary resuscitation—and what to do in a case like this, then my letter will not be in vain.
But in any case, should there be a next time for me, I will know!

I, too, have a 13-year-old daughter who desperately wants her ears punctured. Since my wife, who has two artificially added holes in HER head, supports the idea, I am constantly getting it from both sides.
Some of us obstinate old dads feel strongly that defacement of the body or any of its appendages in pursuit of fadish fashion is unnecessary, unnatural and unwholesome, though it may not be unholy.

Fluoride tablets reduce tooth decay

Reductions in tooth decay persist at least one and a half years after children stop taking fluoride tablets on school days, according to Dr. William S. Driscoll of the National Institute of Dental Research.
As reported in the May, 1979 NIDR Research News, Dr. Driscoll found that at the completion of a six-year school program, children had from 30 to 35 percent fewer decayed tooth surfaces than did classmates who did not take the fluoride tablets. The children's teeth also were examined one and a half years after the program stopped. Tooth decay rates remained significantly lower in the Port Acres man convicted of capital murder

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors seeking the death penalty for convicted killer Ovide Joe Dugas, 33, hope to call Dugas' ex-wife to the stand today during the punishment phase of the trial.

Jurors deliberated an hour and 17 minutes Tuesday before finding the Port Acres defendant guilty of capital murder in the death of a 3-year-old boy slain execution-style along with his parents and grandparents last year.

The bodies of the five victims were piled in a common grave near Winnie in Southeast Texas after they were each shot in the back of the head during the July 4 weekend.

The trial was moved here on a change of venue from Beaumont.

Dugas' ex-wife, Mary, is the daughter of the grandparents slain in the massacre, and prosecutors said after Tuesday's session she could tell about the violent nature of the defendant.

But Jefferson County District Attorney James McGrath said the judge may not allow him to call the former Mary Dugas to the stand. Dugas' accomplice in the 1978 slayings, Linda May Burnett, 31, a housewife with three children, was tried earlier this year and sentenced in March to death by lethal injection for her part in the killings.

Dugas and Mrs. Burnett were tried specifically for murdering the little boy, but they are also accused of killing the child's parents, Elmer and Martha Phillips of Woodward, Okla., and his grandparents, Bishop and Ester Phillips of Winnie.

Dugas' brother Richard testified in the trial that his brother blamed his wife's parents for his marital problems. Richard Dugas said his brother bragged about the killings, saying he and Mrs. Burnett kidnapped the family, marched them to pre-dug gravesites and shot them.

In his final arguments McGrath branded Dugas a "butcher and an undertaker." His voice cracking with emotion, McGrath stood right next to Dugas and said "He gave them no chance. When you look at all of this, it took planning, premeditation, deliberated premeditation, to carry out this diabolical thing this man did."

Defense lawyer Bruce Smith spoke only briefly, urging jurors to weigh the evidence without being influenced by their emotions.

The final state witness was Dr. Stanley LeBer, the pathologist who performed autopsies on the victims.

He testified that each died of gunshot, fired from about 10 inches into each of the victims' heads.

"It was my conclusion that the infant died as the result of two gunshot wounds to the head," LeBer said. He said he performed the autopsies July 10, 1978, after the bodies had been exhumed from the grave, about 10 miles from the Phillips' home.

First Lady leaves for Thailand

WASHINGTON (AP) — First lady Rosalynn Carter left for Thailand today, sent by her husband "to observe at first hand the consequences of the horrible tragedy occurring there."

The president's wife will visit camps holding refugees fleeing from Cambodia.

"I want to go to see what our whole country can do to help," Mrs. Carter said before leaving Washington just after dawn.

"It's important we maintain our commitment to all the starving people there, regardless of their affiliation" with the deposed Pol Pot government or the Vietnamese-backed regime, the president said at a departure ceremony on the White House south lawn.

He said he was asking his wife to assess the bureaucratic obstacles to sending food and medical supplies into Cambodia.

Mrs. Carter was being accompanied by Dr. Julius Richmond, the U.S. surgeon general, and Jean Young, wife of former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young.

The delegation is expected to return to the United States on Saturday.

Carter said his wife was carrying a personal message to the Thai government and royal family expressing his appreciation for Thailand's help to hundreds of thousands of refugees despite its own limited economic resources.

The president said the warring factions in Cambodia have presented "unwarranted obstacles" to the delivery of food to the starving population.

He said the tragedy of Cambodia, with half of its population since 1971 dead, is of "unbelievable proportions."

The United States has pledged $69 million in aid — more than one-half of the original estimate of needed assistance — and Carter said "we are ready to do more."

By The Associated Press

Cleveland Mayor Dennis Kucinich is out after two years of battling the city's bankers and his own party establishment. But Democrats retained control of other big-city governments and withstood spirited statehouse challenges in Mississippi and Kentucky.

NEW MAYOR OF CLEVELAND — George V. Voinovich shouts to his supporters during his victory speech Tuesday night in Cleveland's mayoral race.

Kucinich, who had survived last year's recall vote and two defaults on the city's debts, lost decisively to George V. Voinovich, Ohio's Republican lieutenant governor.

Even in defeat, Kucinich was still fighting. "We sacrificed the mayor's office because we refused to bow and serve to the money power of this community," he said in a defiant concession speech late Tuesday.

The final tally gave Voinovich 94,407 to 73,505 for Kucinich, who told his subdued supporters, "We stood up for the people against the corporations that are attacking the consumers every day."

Political novice John Y. Brown was elected governor of Kentucky, while political veteran William Winter captured the Mississippi statehouse.

Democrat Kevin White won an unprecedented fourth straight four-year term in Boston. And in Philadelphia, former Democratic U.S. Rep. William J. Green will succeed flamboyant, law-and-order Mayor Frank Rizzo.

In Minneapolis, Donald Fraser scored a comeback for the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party with his election as mayor of the city he served as congressman for 16 years.

San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein, appointed after Mayor George Moscone was slain last year, apparently faced a Dec. 11 runoff with second-finisher Quentin Kopp, a city supervisor. With 99.7 percent of the vote counted in the 10-person race, Ms. Feinstein held a narrow lead with 80,914 votes to 77,643 for Kopp.

Mississippi, contributing $150,000 to millionaire automobile salesman Gil Carmichael. Presidential candidates Ronald Reagan and John Connally also campaigned for the Mississippi ticket.

With over two-thirds of the vote counted, Winter had 274,956 to Carmichael's 184,244.

Former Republican Gov. Louis Nunn put up a stiff fight in Kentucky, but lost decisively to Brown after a bitter campaign. With virtually all the precincts counted, Brown had 553,077 votes; Nunn, 379,932.

Nunn, announcing his retirement from politics late Tuesday, told supporters, "The voters have done my family and me a personal favor. What they have done for themselves has yet to be determined."

Brown, who made a fortune in the fast-food business, is married to former Miss America and TV personality Phyllis George.

Noting Nunn's campaign attacks on his jet-set lifestyle, Brown told supporters, "There was a lot in this campaign that was an embarrassment to this state (but) truth always wins out. It's obvious that the mud didn't stick."

Green, 41, represented Philadelphia for six terms in the U.S. House and had lost to Rizzo in 1971.

Marston, one of best known Republican candidates in Philadelphia in recent years, won national attention when he resisted unsuccessfully the Carter administration's moves to replace him as the city's U.S. attorney while he was investigating several Democratic congressmen.

In racially-troubled Boston, White noted that he had won in every neighborhood and said "this is the first time in 12 years that this city has not been divided."

Green echoed those comments, saying, "We set out to end the bitterness, the divisiveness in this city. It ends tonight. Philadelphia is whole again."

Bitter opponents forced into runoff

HOUSTON (AP) — Two bitter political opponents, incumbent Jim McConn and City Councilman Louis Macey, were forced into a Nov. 20 runoff Tuesday for mayor of Houston and they wasted no time in setting the scene for a fiery campaign.

McConn, seeking a second two-year term in this nonpartisan election, led the ticket from the first results to the last, but failed to get the necessary majority.

Macey and Leonel Castillo, recently resigned commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, siphoned off enough of McConn's strength in both the white-collar and Hispanic sections to insure a second go-round.

With 354 of the city's 389 precincts reporting, the count was McConn, 72,823, or 42 percent; Macey 53,025, 30.5 percent; and Castillo 40,300 or 23 percent.

The other six candidates were never a factor and none could get more than 1.5 percent of the vote.

Shortly after the runoff became obvious, McConn and Macey were interviewed together via telephone hookup. This was the exchange between the two:

McConn: "We intend to answer all the smears put on us by Macey. If it takes getting down into the dirt, we will do that. We have some things to make him run for cover."

Macey: "You are talking in generalities. Get specific. You have a lot of questions to answer."

McConn: "Get ready, baby."

Castillo was asked what his stand would be in the runoff and he answered, "After listening to that shameful exchange between those two candidates, I couldn't ask anyone to support either of them."

The most talked about issues of the campaign were the pothole-scarred streets of this booming city, an alarming increase in crime, and an unreliable mass transit system.

Then, in the final days of the campaign, Macey and Castillo asked McConn to give all the details of a $6,000 loan he received in January to pay a gambling debt in Las Vegas.

McConn had said earlier the loan was arranged by Jack Key, then the city purchasing agent. Later Key was indicted by a federal grand jury on extortion charges. The mayor said there was no connection between the two events.

The election did bring a new era to the City Council.

State Rep. Ben Reyes won a council seat and will be the first Hispanic to serve on the city governing body in Houston history.

Three blacks won council posts. The present council has one black.

The racial breakdown in Houston shows 60.7 percent Anglo, 23.8 percent black and 15.5 percent Hispanic.

About 27 percent of the city's 666,000 registered voters marked ballots on a partly cloudy and cool day.

In years past, the City Council has had eight members, all elected on a citywide basis.

The U.S. Justice Department, however, found Houston in violation of the federal Voting Rights Act because recent annexations of predominantly white areas had diluted minority voting strength.

The department accepted a new plan whereby the council would be increased to 14, with five elected at large and nine from specific districts.

Seven of the eight incumbent council members sought reelection. Five won and two were forced into runoffs, including the veteran Frank Mann.

He will face Eleanor Tinsley, former Houston school board president, as the two finished almost in dead heat in the three-way race.

Mann was the target of the Houston Gay Political Caucus, which collected several thousands of dollars in an effort to defeat him.

Mann had called the gay organization a group of "oddwads and queers."

A mayoral monopoly

WARM RIVER, Idaho (AP) — Warm River is assured of a "Mrs. Lewies" being mayor again for another four years. In fact, Warm River has never had a mayor who wasn't Mrs. Lewies.

The tiny resort town near Yellowstone National Park overwhelmingly elected Lillian Lewies to another term by a 3-0 vote Tuesday.

Mrs. Fred Lewies was elected mayor in 1947 when Warm River was incorporated so slot machines could be legal at the town's principal business — the Warm River Resort.

Mrs. Lewies died in 1961 and her daughter-in-law succeeded her as mayor. Lillian Lewies has been mayor ever since. Her husband, Harry, operates the resort and serves on the City Council.

Welcome home, Rufus

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Rufus the wandering steer will have a new home at the Oregon State Fairgrounds in Salem.

Fair spokesman Don Edwards announced Tuesday the fair will adopt Rufus as its mascot. He said fair officials don't want to see the freedom-loving animal end up in someone's beef locker.

Rufus gained fame when he made a break for freedom shortly before this year's fair in August. He swam the Willamette River and disappeared into the farmlands of Polk County, west of Salem.

But his captors found him Oct. 11 happily munching in a cornfield.

Rufus will be welcomed to his new quarters Friday with a fairgrounds reception. Owner Scott Bernard of Carlton sold Rufus to the fair for $750. The money comes from the fair publicity budget.

Prosecutors try to link doctor with death plot

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors hope to link Pasadena physician Archie Burkhalter to a man he allegedly hired in a murder plot with the same evidence used to convict the other defendant.

State District Judge Darrell Hester called the material offered as evidence "damning" Tuesday and postponed a ruling on its use until today.

Burkhalter is accused of hiring S.J. Wilburn and Scott David Minnick for $15,000 and a car to kill John Hensley, a witness against the doctor in a kidnapping case.

Hensley survived a Feb. 15 rifle blast to the face, but lost his sight. Hensley is married to Burkhalter's ex-wife, the victim in the alleged kidnapping.

The kidnapping case has been postponed until the current attempted capital murder trial is over.

Wilburn was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment in the Hensley shooting. At his trial, Cameron County prosecutors produced letters from Wilburn to his girl friend along with a diary he purportedly kept about plans to kill Hensley.

With the jury out of the courtroom, Hester told Assistant District Attorney Joe K. Hendley the material would likely be admitted. But the judge cautioned Hendley he would grant a mistrial or order an instructed verdict of not guilty if the prosecution failed to establish a conspiracy existed between Wilburn, Burkhalter and Minnick.

Minnick, Wilburn's nephew, is being tried with Burkhalter.

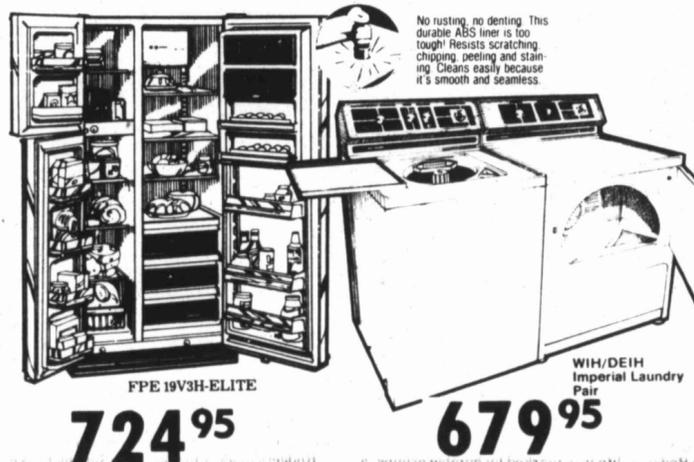

Both Wilburn and Minnick were patients of Burkhalter, the doctor's nurse and receptionist have testified.

In late 1978, Wilburn was on parole from a heroin prison term. His parole officer, Ray Parra, testified Burkhalter wrote him and asked that Wilburn be excused from the requirement to be employed while on parole due to medical problems. Parra said the doctor suggested Wilburn be allowed to relax and travel.

Early, average, late

Freezing temperatures coming -- yeah, but when?

COLLEGE STATION — Freezing temperatures are on the way. The big question, of course, is when will they reach particular areas of the state.

Freezing temperatures can be a boon to certain operations, such as cotton harvesting, but they can also inflict heavy damage to citrus and vegetable crops and put livestock under stress. Cotton farmers in the plains are now awaiting freezing weather to prepare the crop for harvesting while citrus and vegetable growers in the Rio Grande Valley hope that they can avoid freezing temperatures completely during the winter. Cattlemen must prepare for feeding their livestock as freezing weather approaches.

Many homeowners are concerned about protecting tender vegetation from cold weather. And, of course, all types of motor vehicles and equipment must be winterized.

So, some knowledge of when to expect freezing temperatures can be helpful to many people. Agricultural meteorologists with the Environmental Studies Service Center at Texas A&M University have compiled probability levels for freezing temperatures for various regions of the state, based on historical data.

CHANCE FOR FREEZE ON OR BEFORE DATE SHOWN

AREA	Early (1 in 10 years)	Average (5 in 10 years)	Late (9 in 10 years)
Panhandle	Oct. 11	Oct. 25	Nov. 5

South Plains	Oct. 14	Oct. 30	Nov. 16
Rolling Plains	Oct. 20	Nov. 4	Nov. 19
North Central	Oct. 25	Nov. 10	Nov. 25
Northeast	Oct. 25	Nov. 10	Nov. 24
Far West	Oct. 26	Nov. 8	Nov. 23
West Central	Oct. 26	Nov. 10	Nov. 23
Central	Oct. 26	Nov. 15	Dec. 3
East	Oct. 25	Nov. 10	Nov. 25
South Central	Nov. 2	Nov. 23	Dec. 12
Southeast, Upper Coast	Nov. 6	Nov. 30	Dec. 25
South	Nov. 25	Dec. 25	Jan. 2
Southwest	Nov. 5	Nov. 28	Dec. 22
Coastal Bend	Nov. 12	Dec. 8	Dec. 30

Based on these data, chances of an "early" freeze are already past for much of Texas, note the meteorologists. So, freezing temperatures will likely occur by "average" dates, or they may even be "late" this year, since unseasonably warm weather has prevailed so far this fall. The next two weeks should tell the story, since the data show that the first autumn freeze across the northern half of Texas should occur by Nov. 15 five out of 10 years.

With the National Weather Service predicting near normal temperatures through mid-November, "average" freeze dates will likely be the rule this fall.

Slick, high-adventure

Another competitor in prime-time television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Yet another competitor for your evening attentions has entered the prime-time television fray, something called The Golden Circle.

The Golden Circle, a production group formed by Metromedia Producers Corp., plans to use a package of slick, high-adventure original programs to lure viewers from the three major networks and its chief non-network competitor, Operation Prime Time.

In fact, Operation Prime Time, in its success, inspired the creation of Golden Circle. OPT was the first major effort by local stations to underwrite the production of expensive, attractive shows meant to compete with ABC, CBS and NBC and to move independents out of the rerun syndrome.

Operation Prime Time has worked, with OPT shows such as "The Bastard" outrating network shows in many cities, often on network-affiliated stations. And ratings, of course, mean advertising dollars.

Thus, Golden Circle.

"Operation Prime Time started it," says Len Ringquist, president of Metromedia Producers. "We watched them very carefully, and decided we could do it better."

First, Ringquist says, Golden Circle needed stories, stories about heroes "that were larger than life, big, bold and brassy, with plenty of action and a long shelf life." (That, by the way, is the formula proven effective by Operation Prime Time.)

So, they bought Brian

Garfield's "Wild Times," whose chief character, Hugh Cardiff, is described as "a sharpshooter, fugitive from the law, sailor before the mast, Indian fighter, actor, buffalo hunter, pioneer moviemaker, and lover of many women."

Sam Elliot, who was grimy and tough in NBC's "The Sacketts" last year, will play the versatile Mr. Cardiff.

Golden Circle has 51 stations lined up for the four-hour inaugural show, scheduled for January, and plans to bring another 25-50 stations aboard soon. More than half of the stations, says Ringquist, will be network affiliates.

But there is enticement for network affiliates to go with Golden Circle or Operation Prime Time, money.

Sweethearts, beau named at Runnels Thursday

By BRONWYN ALLEN

A highlight of last week for Runnels Junior High School was a pep rally Thursday at which the school's sweethearts and beaus were presented to the student body.

Band Sweetheart was Melinda Corwin and the Band Beau was Chris Williams. Choir Sweetheart was Monette Wise. Pete Crabtree was Choir Favorite. Monette Wise was also the Football Sweetheart. Pep Club Sweetheart was Mary Davis. Each of the sweethearts and beaus was crowned and the girls were presented with long stemmed roses.

Eight Runnels band students entered the South Western Auxiliary Championship (SWAC) Contest held Oct. 27.

Drum majors were Jerry Smiley, Chris Williams, Melinda Corwin and Kyle Schaffner. Baton twirlers were Diane Booth and Allison White. Wendy Myers and Lisa McWilliams entered with flag routines.

Runnels has a new teacher this year, Deborah Hurrington, 23. She attended North Texas State University where she received a B.S. in education.

She teaches P.E. at Bauer before coming to Runnels to teach one period of P.E. and coach basketball. She will also be the assistant coach of track later in the year.

Miss Hurrington is from Big Spring and this is her first year teaching. She is also the sponsor of the Pep Club.

Achievement jests have been returned and were to be distributed sometime this week. Each student will receive his own copy of the scores, with a school copy going into the student's file.

The counselor, Roger K. Tucker, will be glad to explain the test scores to any parent who is interested. Parents who are interested are asked to come by Runnels any time between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

A volleyball tournament was held in Snyder Oct. 27. The White team won a third place trophy and the Red team won a consolation trophy. In Oct. 29 volleyball games, the White team won against Colorado City with scores of 15-3, 15-10. The Red team won against Colorado City with scores of 15-3, 13-15, 15-13.

The October XLR8 computer room winners were Debra Rubio in English and Wayne Howell in Math. They will each receive a prize.

The winners of the Oct. 29 Calendar clue were Jan McPherson, Lisa Ausmus, and Wendy Myers. The answer was "ghost."

The week of Oct. 29 was "Flower Making Week" at Runnels. Each advisory class made flowers out of kleenex to be put on the skirt of this year's float. The flowers totaled around 7,000. Several students rode on or beside the float in Friday afternoon's parade. Each student dressed up in a costume representing various countries. The sweethearts and beaus also rode.

In the Nov. 1 football game the White team played Sweetwater, with Runnels losing 0-13.

Jimmie Rodgers: The legend becomes a book

Jimmie Rodgers, internationally acclaimed folk hero, "father of country music," and the first performer elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame, is now the subject of Nolan Porterfield's definitive new biography, JIMMIE RODGERS: THE LIFE AND TIMES OF AMERICA'S BLUE YODELER, just published by the University of Illinois Press.

Jimmie Rodgers' life was marked by humble origins, a meteoric rise to success and fame, and an early tragic death at 35. In his brief lifetime he won the devotion of people in towns all over the South, people who'd travel miles to see him, pay a hard day's wages for one of his records, name their children after him.

It seems incredible that while dying of tuberculosis and in the middle of the Great Depression, Jimmie Rodgers could work so hard and reach such stardom. In the general view, as Porterfield writes: "He certainly wasn't much of a musician — couldn't read a note, keep time, play the 'right' chords, or write lyrics that fit. All he could do was reach the hearts of millions of people around the world. They listened, and understood."

Rodgers made a movie, "The Singing Brakeman," used early radio in a way that influenced country programming for decades, and entertained live across the land with one-night stands, tent shows, and major appearances. But it was his recording career (only six years long!) that took his songs to so many millions of listeners. Today, almost 50 years after his death, Jimmie Rodgers' music is still popular — not only in the United States but in Australia, England, Japan, and Africa as well.

And now biographer Nolan Porterfield has made some significant and exciting new discoveries about Jimmie Rodgers' life story. A cousin of the singer led Porterfield to a shed where was stored a chest filled with Rodgers' letters, which bring to light for the first time his early travels around the country, beginning with a medicine show at age 12. Porterfield's research and investigations also enabled him to locate Jimmie Rodgers' first wife, now a wealthy and prominent matron who had buried her connection with Rodgers along with her past. They were married when each was nineteen and divorced soon after. The daughter born of that marriage became the center of a bitter court battle, and later, at age 19, committed suicide.

This new book is the most complete and accurate account of Rodgers' life and career yet published. It also presents some valuable insights into early country music and a colorful picture of life in the South and Southwest in the 1920s and '30s. The biography is well illustrated and contains a full description of recording sessions, complete discography, details of the show business figures who worked with Rodgers, and a listing of his itinerary of personal appearances.

Jimmie Rodgers appeared in Big Spring the week of March 25, 1929.

Names in the news

Christina not divorcing

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Christina Onassis and her husband, Sergei Kauzov, are not getting a divorce despite news reports to the contrary, says the shipping heiress' attorney.

Stelios Papadimitriou said Mrs. Kauzov authorized the denial Tuesday. "No divorce proceedings have been started anywhere in the world, no arrangements for divorce have been made, and neither are they contemplated," the statement said.

Blumenthal 'outstanding'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal's "insights into Washington" made him an "outstanding addition" to the board of the directors of the Pillsbury Co., board chairman William Spoor said.

Blumenthal, who resigned earlier this year along with several other ranking Carter administration appointees, was elected to the board Tuesday.

Vitamin C a cure-all?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Double Nobel Prize-winner Dr. Linus Pauling believes the vitamin C he takes every day — the equivalent of 220 six-ounce glasses of orange juice — will cure whatever ails him.

The winner of the Nobel Prize in chemistry in 1954 and the Nobel Peace Prize in 1962 spoke here Monday night at an event honoring University of Texas chemist Dr. Robert J. Williams.

Pauling, 78, said vitamin C "penetrates the body's 'immunity system' — leaving the body's natural defense in high gear.

His own massive vitamin C intake — 10 grams in crystalline form — is far greater than the federal government's recommended daily intake of 45 milligrams.

Truman heir authors book

NEW YORK — (AP) — "Murder at the White House" may not be the catchiest of book titles but the author of this Arbor House work lends credibility to the plot — Margaret Truman.

The daughter of the late President Harry Truman has the book about half finished. Arbor House hopes to have the novel in the stores by mid-July. The plot deals with a secretary of state who is killed in the White House, and everybody from the president on down is a suspect.

Authorities seize albums

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Federal authorities say they are seizing record albums from a Union County record distributor today in connection with a suit filed earlier this week by rock star Bruce Springsteen.

Springsteen and CBS Records filed a $500,000 federal civil suit Monday against a man identified as Brian Rogers of Union, charging he distributed illegally recorded LPs and tapes to a series of bootleg record shops in New Jersey. Rogers could not be reached for comment Tuesday night.

Relief ace Sutter wins NL Cy Young Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago Cubs reliever Bruce Sutter, who tied the National League record for saves with 37 last season, today was named winner of the NL Cy Young Award for 1979.

Sutter, who came within one save of the major league record set by John Hiller of the Detroit Tigers in 1973, narrowly defeated 21-game winner Joe Niekro of the Houston Astros in voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The forkingballing right-hander earned 10 of the 24 first-place ballots to become the second NL reliever and the third in baseball history to win the prize. Mike Marshall won it for the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1974 and Sparky Lyle of the New York Yankees took the American League honor in 1977.

Sutter received six second-place votes and four third-place votes for a total of 72 points, with five points awarded for first-place mention, three points for second and one for third.

Niekro was second with 66 points. Strikeout champion J.R. Richard of the Houston Astros was third with 41 points, followed by Tom Seaver of the Cincinnati Reds (20 points), Pittsburgh Pirates reliever Kent Tekulve (14 points) and Phil Niekro of the Atlanta Braves, who was sixth with three points.

Sutter appeared in 62 games for Chicago, compiling a 6-6 record and a 2.23 earned run average in 101 innings. He struck out 110 batters and walked only 32 in becoming the second member of the Cubs to win the Cy Young Award. Ferguson Jenkins won it for Chicago in 1971.

Joe Niekro earned nine first-place votes and Richard garnered four, with Tekulve collecting the other.

Joe Niekro, along with brother Phil, led the NL in victories. He had a 21-11 record in 38 starts with 11 complete games and a 3.00 ERA.

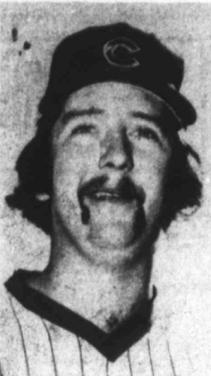

Richard led the NL in strikeouts with 313 while building an 18-13 record and finishing with an ERA of 2.71.

In 1977, Sutter amassed 31 saves to tie the club record set by Ted Abernathy in 1965 and his 1.35 ERA led NL hurlers who pitched 100 innings or more. He added 27 saves in 1978.

Steer fems remain in 5-AAAA race

The Big Spring Steers girls volleyball team remained in the thick of the District 5-AAAA second half race by taking a 15-5, 15-7 win over the Odessa High Broncos in Steer Gym Tuesday night.

The win was the sixth without a loss in second half play, and keeps the Steer fems tied with San Angelo Central for the lead. Central defeated Odessa Permian last night by scores of 15-2, 15-8.

San Angelo won the first half title outright, while the Steers lost twice. If the Steer can win the second half by defeating San Angelo tomorrow on Central's home court, it would give the Big Spring team the second half title outright. A San Angelo Central victory tomorrow night would give the Bobcat fems the District 5-AAAA title outright, and propel them into the state playoffs.

Hawks fall short in season opener

ALTUS, OKLA. — Western Oklahoma State College held off a last second shot by the Howard College Hawks to escape with a 75-72 win in the season opener for both schools here Tuesday night.

Trailing 73-72, Howard College held the ball for the final shot of the game in hopes of squeezing out a one-point win. But the Hawks missed the shot with one second remaining, and Western Oklahoma then made two free throws at the buzzer for the final margin.

Western Oklahoma started four players over 6'6" in the contest, and the Hawks quickly took advantage of this by utilizing a full-court press to take a 10-point lead midway through the first half. But the host team rallied to trail by only 40-39 at the intermission.

Howard College remained slightly ahead in the nip and tuck contest, holding a three point lead with five minutes remaining. Hawk Coach Harold Wilder then ordered a four-corner offense, forcing Western Oklahoma to foul the Howard College team. But the Hawks were extremely cold from the charity line, sinking only two of nine free throws in the last half. This allowed Western Oklahoma to take the lead going into the final minute.

Wilder felt that the key to the game was his team's atrocious free throw shooting. "We only made eight of 23 for the game, and two of nine in the second half," said Wilder, "and most of them were in one-and-one situations."

Sophomore Mike Wallace had 21 points to lead the Hawks, with Rocky Kaws contributing 14 points and Jeff Faubion 10. Randy Plummer scored 26 from his guard position to lead the Western Oklahoma charge.

The Hawks next action will be in their home opener next Monday when they face Cisco Junior College. Cisco JC is coached by Tommy Collins, who was the Big Spring High School basketball-baseball boss last season.

The Hawk Queens of Coach Don Stevens open play tomorrow at home against McMurry at 6:00 p.m. in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

HOWARD COLLEGE Wallace 9 3-21; Rawls 7-6-14; Faubion 4-2-10; Akins 4-0-9; Robinson 0-2-2; Ward 3-0-6; Jones 1-0-2; Gaston 2-0-4; Hall 1-1-5; TOTALS 32-8-77.

Sands fems defeat Wilson

WILSON — The Sands Mustangs girls basketball team got off to a successful start last night in taking a 47-33 win over Wilson here.

The Mustangs were led in scoring by Penny Grantham, who tallied 14 points. Wilson was led in scoring by Debra Hagens with 16.

The Sands junior varsity also was victorious, taking a 28-22 win over the Wilson jvs. Carla Parker was high point scorer for the winners with eight, while Wilson's Tonda Klaus had six.

UT tackle McMichael named SWC Defender of the Week

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — To help morale — as well as to reward excellence — Texas coaches occasionally pick someone other than tackle Steve "Bam Bam" McMichael as the team's top defensive player.

McMichael, however, would be a good choice virtually every game.

Saturday, in a typical double-digit performance, McMichael made 18 tackles as the Texas defense held Texas Tech to two field goals in a 14-6 victory.

Possibly the key play in the game came when McMichael, 6-foot-2 and 255 pounds, stripped the ball from James Hadnot at the Tech 47-yardline. Texas recovered the fumble and drove for its clinching touchdown.

For his performance, McMichael was selected as the outstanding defensive player-of-the-week in Southwest Conference football by the Associated Press.

"He had a great game," said Coach Fred Akers, "but he does week after week."

Akers and defensive line coach Mike Parker have promoted McMichael, a senior three-year starter, for the Outland Award, which is presented each year to the top interior collegiate lineman.

"I can't imagine anybody being higher on the list for the Outland Award than Steve," Akers said recently.

"I think he's the strongest candidate (for the Outland) in the country," said Parker. "He's very, very quick. And he has that great strength and is extremely aggressive."

As a 235-pound sophomore, McMichael tied for fifth on the Longhorn squad in tackles with 78, trailing only Outland winner Brad Shearer, also a tackle, and three linebackers.

Last year, after a weight lifting program had raised his weight 15 pounds and his bench-press strength from 275 pounds to 430 pounds, McMichael led the team in tackles with 142 and made one All-American team.

Pro scouts frighten Yeoman

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston Football Coach Bill Yeoman isn't particularly fond of what pro scouts whisper in his ear about the University of Texas defense.

But it's really no secret.

"We've had a lot of people tell us in the pro ranks that their secondary is probably the best in the country," Yeoman said Tuesday. "And after looking at their game film, I'm not going to take exception with that at all."

Yeoman praised Texas' secondary, headed by safety Johnnie Johnson, as he ended his weeklong ban on discussions of the Longhorns and Saturday's long-awaited Southwest Conference showdown in the Astrodome.

Yeoman figures the Cougar defense will also hold up its end of the fight in a game that could move the Cougars closer to their third Cotton Bowl trip in four years.

"I think our defense is going to be okay too," Yeoman said. "Our own secondary is much improved this year. Elvis Bradley is having another good year. He's playing like he did his freshman year."

Yeoman doesn't know who the Longhorns will use at quarterback but it doesn't really matter.

"We can't go planning to play against just one of them," Yeoman said. "We'll just go play. You can't adjust to playing one guy."

Texas Coach Fred Akers benched starter Donnie Little last week against Texas Tech and went with Herkie Walls and Rick McIvor to register a 14-6 victory.

Little will be returned to the starting assignment Saturday but Yeoman says each quarterback presents a particular problem.

McIvor, called "The Rifleman" because of his strong arm, is the better passer but Little and Walls, Yeoman said "can scorch the earth. That's the fastest collection of humans you'll ever see."

"Little is going to be an outstanding quarterback when he gets a little more experience."

The Cougars had trouble getting untracked last week before beating Texas Christian 21-10 to run their record to 8-0 for the season and 5-0 in Southwest Conference games. Texas is 6-1 for the season and 3-1 in SWC games.

A victory over Texas this week and Texas Tech next week would clinch at least a tie for the SWC title for Houston and a possible third trip to the Cotton Bowl in four years.

Houston officials announced Tuesday that the game was a complete sellout for the first time in UH history with a total of 55,155 tickets distributed including 5,000 standing room only.

Area Players of the Week

Area teams compiled a record of 3-4 last Friday night, with the Sands Mustangs earning their first win and the Coahoma Bulldogs remaining in the thick of the 6-AA title chase with their win. There were numerous outstanding efforts, in both victory and defeat, and this week's Player of the Week Award's are divided between the backs and linemen.

The Sands Mustangs won their first game of the year, and one of the main reasons was the play of senior JESSE YBARRA. The 140-pounder rambled through the Dawson team for 212 yards and all four of the Mustangs touchdowns in the 32-0 win. He scored 26 points in the win, and also helped in the shut-out by playing in the defensive secondary.

The Coahoma Bulldogs appear to be peaking at the right time, as they manhandled Ballinger in a 21-3 win. Two Bulldogs leading the charge were seniors JAY HALL and GARY GEE. Hall was the leading tackler on the Bulldog defense with 14 stops, while Gee had an outstanding game both ways. He rushed for 227 yards in his first start at the tailback position (after switching from QB) on 27 carries, with one touchdown. Gee also had a pass interception from his safety position on defense.

Big Spring suffered a 46-32 loss to unbeaten Cotton Center, but once again the play of 140-pound senior RONALD CHEE highlighted the Wildcats play. Chee accumulated 121 yards rushing on 17 carries for three touchdowns offensively from his quarterback position, and was credited with 16 tackles from his linebacker post defensively.

The Stanton Buffaloes got back on the winning track, and two of the big reasons for the lopsided win over Anton were the play of DERRICK LOONEY and KEITH HULL. Both are two-way starters. Looney rushed for 77 yards from both the fullback and quarterback positions, and intercepted three Anton passes defensively. Looney now has eight interceptions for the season. Hull, meanwhile, played excellent games from both his offensive tackle slot and linebacker post defensively. He was credited with nine unassisted tackles in his three quarters of defensive play.

Garden City continues to show improvement, but can't pick up that first win. The Bearkats lost a decision to highly ranked Jayton last week, but one sparkplug on the team is ROSENDO YBARRA. The 125-pound linebacker "did the best job for us defensively," according to Garden City Coach Jesse Smelley, with seven unassisted tackles and five assists. He also rushed twice for eight yards on offense.

Big Spring suffered a lopsided defeat to the number one ranked team in the state in Class AAAA, Abilene Cooper, and Steer mentor Ron Logback doesn't wish to single out any player this week, as he feels that there was not an outstanding performance worthy of the weekly award.

Cowboys facing tough part of schedule

DALLAS (AP) — Now comes the hard part for the Dallas Cowboys—three games in a 10-day span.

They play the Philadelphia Eagles Monday night, travel to Washington the next Sunday and host the Houston Oilers Thanksgiving Day.

"That's quite a challenge because every game is a must game for the teams we play," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry Tuesday at his weekly press luncheon.

Landry said he is thankful for a two-game lead over Philadelphia and Washington in the National Conference Eastern Division but said that can also work as a detriment.

"Down deep anytime you have a pad you don't work quite as hard," said Landry. "That is human nature."

Landry said during summer camp that the last half of the season is the season for the Cowboys.

Landry added "I've said before that the second half of the season will be tough. We'll have to battle every Sunday. Every game is a must game."

Dallas must play at Philadelphia and Washington and also hosts the New York Giants.

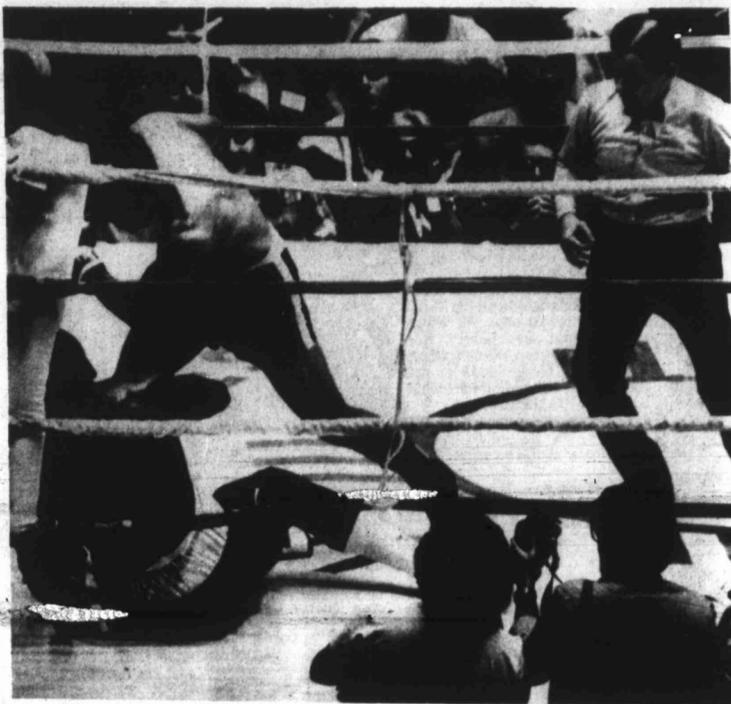

Landry said it was doubtful that halfback Preston Pearson would be available against the Eagles. Pearson missed Sunday's 16-14 victory over the New York Giants with knee and rib injuries and rookie Ron Springs stepped in to catch three passes—Pearson's specialty.

"Preston is the most questionable injury we have," said Landry. "(Linebacker) Thomas Henderson should be back."

Landry said "The Eagles have sort of been in a valley which happens to all teams over the 16 game schedule but they played very well last week. If we are not at the top of our game we're not going to win."

Dallas was an early 10-point favorite over the Eagles, who have lost nine straight games to the Cowboys and have yet to win a game in Texas Stadium.

He said the come-from-behind victory over the Giants Sunday was "very positive for our team. You know you are never out of a game no matter how poorly you play after you do something like that."

LATE PUNCH???? — Ed "Too Tall" Jones gets a working over in his own corner while on the seat of his pants by Jesus "Yaqui" Meneses Saturday in Las Cruces. Referee Buddy Basilio of Las Vegas, Nev., uslered Meneses away before he could do any further damage. Basilio ruled it a knockdown, although most observers felt that it was an obvious cheap shot.

SMU roundball coach sees US Olympic win

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist basketball coach Sonny Allen, buoyed by a spirited display from his own team, predicted that the United States will beat Russia in the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

The Russian national team wore the Mustangs down 97-84 Tuesday night, but had to overcome a 12-point lead to do it.

"I believe we'll beat them in Moscow because I just feel the U.S. players are better," said Allen.

"Of course, the home court is worth 10 points and the home country is worth 15 but I just think our best kids can handle them."

Allen said, "They are not a great ball-handling team and if they have a weakness it is against the press."

SMU gave Russia trouble with a press and a tight zone defense but veteran Sergio Belov scored 22 points from outside and 7-foot-4 center Vladimir Tkachenko worked for 16 points inside.

"I think Tkachenko is bigger than the Washington monument, but we didn't embarrass ourselves out there," said Allen.

Brad Branson scored 16 points in the first half, but fouled out early in the second half to dim the Mustang's chances. Guard Billy Allen also scored 16 for SMU.

1979 'Huskies compared to 70-71 title teams

By The Associated Press
Nebraska has not had a national champion since Bob Devaney's teams in consecutive titles in 1970-71. From his current vantage point as Nebraska's athletic director, Devaney can cast a discerning eye on the 1979 Cornhuskers, ranked second nationally with an 8-0 record.

He likes what he sees.
"To this point, they're every bit as good," Devaney says, comparing the present Cornhuskers to his powerhouses. "The season's not over yet and I wouldn't say they look any better than those '70-'71 clubs, but they look just as good."

For those with short memories, the 1970 Cornhuskers were 11-0-1 and captured the national championship by defeating Louisiana State 17-12 in the Orange Bowl after Texas and Ohio State were knocked off earlier in the day in the Cotton and Rose Bowls, respectively.

A year later there was no doubt about it. Nebraska posted a 13-0 mark and swamped Alabama 38-6 in the Orange Bowl.

"Johnny Rodgers (the 1972 Heisman Trophy winner) probably had an edge on Kenny Brown at wingback, but Brown's not too far behind," says Devaney. "At quarterback, Jerry Tagge had a little edge on Tim Hager as a runner, but Hager is as good a passer."

Philly rallies in final seconds to nip Bucks

By The Associated Press
Milwaukee led Philadelphia by four points with 16 seconds to play, but Brian Winters wasn't fooled.

"That means nothing in this league," said the Bucks' allstar guard. "Twenty points can sometimes mean nothing."

The 76ers wiped out Milwaukee's margin on baskets by Julius Erving and Doug Collins, then went on the beat the Bucks 118-117 in overtime Tuesday night in a matchup of National Basketball Association division leaders.

"You know there is always a chance," said Collins. "In pro ball the clock stops after each basket and you get the ball at halfcourt on a timeout. You can never give up."

Erving scored Philadelphia's final seven points in overtime, enough to offset a pair of desperation three-point field goals by Winters. Erving finished with a game-high 34 points for Philadelphia, which leads the Atlantic Division with a 10-2 record. Milwaukee remains atop the Midwest at 10-3.

Sonics 114, Bulls 97
Seattle got eight straight points — four each by Lonnie Shelton and Jack Sikma — to take a 63-51 lead in the third period en route to its fifth consecutive victory. Dennis Johnson led the Sonics with 30 points, Sikma finished with 14 points and 16 rebounds and Shelton had 12 points and 14 rebounds.

Chicago has lost seven in a row and eight of 10 games since center Artis Gilmore got hurt.

Cavaliers 134, Pacers 117
Kenny Carr, a reserve forward acquired recently from Los Angeles, scored 19 of his 21 points in the fourth quarter to lead the Cavaliers to their third consecutive victory. Center James Edwards of Indiana led all scorers with 33 points.

Suns 120, Jazz 107
Walter Davis and Paul Westphal combined for 25 points in the fourth quarter for Phoenix, which played without flu-stricken center Alvan Adams. The Jazz led 100-98 before Davis scored seven points in a nine-point Phoenix run that put the game away.

Westphal finished with 31 points, Len "Truck" Robinson had 22 and Davis 21 while Adrian Dantley and Pete Maravich each scored 29 for Utah, whose 2-10 record is the worst in the NBA.

Hawks 98, Knicks 96
Steve Hawes came off the bench to score 11 of his 15 points in a span of 5:34 in the second half to help Atlanta trim New York for its fourth consecutive victory and seventh in the last eight outings. John Drew shot 10-for-14 for 23 points and Dan Roundfield contributed 18 points, 13 rebounds and six assists.

Lakers 128, Clippers 112
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 28 points and 14 rebounds as the Lakers won their seventh home game in eight starts. Los Angeles, which shot 58 percent from the field, opened a 16-point lead in the third quarter and coasted home.

Spurs 108, Nets 95
San Antonio pulled away from New Jersey with a 39-point fourth quarter in which reserve forward Kevin Restani scored eight points. George Gervin topped the Spurs with 24 points, seven of them in the final period.

MOTEL SERVES AS COLLEGE — Magdalen College, an ultraconservative Roman Catholic school located in a former motel, thrives in New Hampshire while other small liberal arts colleges have been closing under financial strain. Magdalen prides itself for operating in the black without a cent in federal aid or endowment. At left is partially erected chapel.

Betting early as good a way to go broke in politics as in sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Betting on exhibition games is a good way to go broke before the regular season begins. That's as good a rule in politics as it is in sports.

For example, consider the case of Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., who thought he was going to win a Republican presidential straw vote in Portland, Maine, the other day.

It turned out to be a bad bet. So, instead of concluding his first outing as a declared presidential candidate by celebrating a victory, he wound up trying to explain away a defeat.

Baker figured that the support of Sen. William S. Cohen of Maine made him a cinch to lead the field of candidates when Maine Republicans held their pre-season vote on Saturday.

He figured wrong. George Bush, the former CIA director, won the thing. The proceeds of victory were entirely psychological. The straw vote awarded no delegates and committed no Republican to do anything.

Maine is hardly a pivotal state in the campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, but the whole business would have attracted little attention if Baker hadn't made so much of it.

After formally announcing his presidential candidacy on Thursday, Baker cut on a campaign swing that wound up in Portland. A planeload of national political reporters accompanied him — providing an extra-large audience for the surprise Bush victory.

Bush, who didn't expect to win the straw vote, spoke to the Republican forum, and then left town. Baker stayed around to watch the outcome, and then had to try to explain it.

He was still explaining on Monday, saying that while disappointed that he trailed Bush, he was encouraged that he got more votes than Ronald Reagan and John B. Connally put together.

At one point, Baker said that while Bush won, "I don't think I lost." At another, he said "we got about the votes my team estimated we'd get," but Bush got more than expected.

Bush got 466 votes. Baker got 446. That's hardly a mandate from Maine Republicans, but because Baker's people made a big deal of the straw vote, it becomes a significant plus for Bush. There's another straw ballot coming up in Florida on Nov. 17, and Connally campaigners claim to be doing well there. But the Connally folks know how to hedge the bet.

Since numbers can be risky, Connally's backers claim they've already upset Ronald Reagan in Florida, no matter what comes next.

"The delegate strength already pledged to John Connally in Florida represents a major upset victory regardless of what happens at the Nov. 17 convention," said Ader Crenshaw, state campaign chairman for the former secretary of the treasury.

That's a novel way of keeping score, but it avoids the trap that snared Baker.

You may disagree but it's all true

NEW YORK (AP) — You may disagree with the following ideas, proposals and findings, but they represent the thinking of some of the most influential individuals and institutions in the nation.

—From a conservative economist:

Interest rates are "too low," according to Milton Friedman, the Nobel laureate economist. And he means what he says, even though almost all rates are into historically high territory.

Friedman explained his position a couple of weeks ago to an alumni group at Stanford University.

There is still a gap between the rates of inflation and interest, he explained. In many instances inflation rates are higher.

When that gap is taken into account, Friedman said, people who borrow now are "being paid 2 percent for the privilege." Such a statement would assume, for example, an 11 percent loan and 13 percent inflation.

Consumer borrowing rates in most areas of the country are now higher than 11 percent, except in states with low usury ceilings, but the thrust of Friedman's argument, that it pays to borrow, may be correct.

Not only do borrowers repay in cheaper dollars, but they earn tax deductions too. Therefore, according to his thesis, interest rates are still too low.

—From Citizen's Choice, a self-described "national grassroots organization," closely allied with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce:

"Skyrocketing taxes, deficit spending and a deteriorating relationship between the taxpayer and the Internal Revenue Service demand that immediate measures be taken now."

Therefore, a commission to investigate the relationship between the IRS and individuals will conduct nationwide hearings, during which questions such as these will be put to the public:

"Should the advice which IRS employees give to taxpayers be guaranteed, so that if a taxpayer follows it he will not be penalized later by another agent's ruling?"

"Should the IRS eliminate the bounty paid to taxpayers who turn in the name of fellow citizens for a special IRS audit?"

"Should the IRS be required to reimburse taxpayers for the money they spend to defend themselves during IRS audits when the taxpayer is sustained?"

Citizen's Choice calls its effort "a massive undertaking of vital importance to the future of taxpayer-government relations."

Local therapist to speak at confab

A local woman will share the spotlight when the American Speech and Hearing Association meets for its national convention in Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 16.

One of the convention speakers will be Marianne Murphy, a speech pathologist at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Her college thesis, "Voice Onset and Termination Time in Stuttering and Non-Stuttering Children," has been selected by the association to be read by her at the convention.

Following the three-day convention, Nov. 16-19, a portion of her thesis will be sent to the "Journal of Fluency Disorders" for publication.

Marianne, who is acquiring clinical experience working with children and adults with communication disorders at the Rehab Center, is currently working on research for a second publication for the "Journal of Fluency Disorders." She is sharing the project with Texas Christian University professor Dr. John Baumgartner.

Marianne is a relative newcomer to Big Spring, replacing Marcia Wilkerson at the Rehab Center in late July. The daughter of Bill and Patty Murphy, she was raised in Paris and graduated from high school there in 1974.

She received her B.S. degree from TCU at Ft. Worth in May, 1978. As the most outstanding student in her field, she earned the title of Senior Scholar and graduated Magna Cum Laude.

She received her Masters Degree in Speech Pathology from TCU before coming to Big Spring.

Her professional affiliations include the West Texas Speech and Hearing

MARIANNE MURPHY

Association, Texas Speech and Hearing Association, American Speech and Hearing Association, and the Pediatric Interest Group.

Since arriving in Big Spring, she has joined the First United Methodist Church where she serves as secretary-treasurer of her Sunday school class and co-sponsors the junior and senior high youth groups. Her musical talent has been put to work in the church choir.

She is also serving this area as a volunteer for the March of Dimes.

Marianne has a special interest in stuttering and neurologically impaired language disorders in children.

Marianne came to Big Spring because the Rehab Center offered her the kind of work and experience in a clinical setting that she was looking for. And Big Spring, a small city with a dry climate, was the kind of home she was looking for. Now, three months after her arrival, she says of Big Spring, "I love it."

She leaves Nov. 16 for the convention and will return after its conclusion Nov. 19.

Davis' fate in jury's hand for second time in a year

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The state's murder-for-hire case against millionaire Cullen Davis is in the hands of a jury today for the second time in a year after 12 weeks of testimony and two days of fiery final arguments.

The panel, reduced to 11 members because one juror broke her leg and had to drop out, got the case Tuesday night but decided to sleep on it and not start deliberations until today.

They must decide if Davis is innocent or guilty of either of two charges: solicitation of capital murder or conspiracy to commit capital murder.

Both charges carry penalties of five to 99 years or life in prison.

A Houston jury deadlocked 8-4 for conviction last January in Davis' first murder-conspiracy trial.

More than 130 persons crammed into the courtroom and halls Tuesday to hear summations from defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes and prosecutor Jack Strickland. Haynes painted a scathing portrait of juror prosecution witness David McCrory.

"The man is a salesman. He sold the FBI," Haynes spat, referring to McCrory as "scurrilous... a man totally lacking in character... a manipulator who lied to his son and to his mother."

"Did he sell Cullen Davis?" Haynes asked. In the summer of 1978, McCrory turned informant on his one-time pool-shooting pal, telling FBI agents Davis had ordered him to hire the murders of 15 persons, including Judge Joe Eidsen.

FBI agents faked "proof" of Eidsen's death, wired McCrory with hidden taping equipment and recorded two crucial meetings between the informant and Davis.

Moments before his Aug. 20 arrest, Davis gave McCrory $25,000. McCrory said the money was to pay a "hit man" but Davis said McCrory won the cash gambling and he had been keeping it for him.

Strickland dismissed Haynes' contentions, conceding that McCrory's going to the FBI was out-of-character, but insisting it was legitimate in light of the circumstances.

"Do you really believe the FBI, the Texas Rangers and the U.S. Attorney's office were McCrory's puppets?" he asked. "Do you believe (prosecutor John) Bankston and I are puppets, with David McCrory off somewhere pulling the strings?"

"It is possible to develop as much prejudice against a man or a woman because of great wealth as for any other reason," he said.

"Of course his wealth is a factor," Strickland countered. "If he weren't a wealthy man, where would he get $25,000? Poor people don't have $25,000 to kill a judge."

Strickland termed the defense theory "complicated... bizarre... confusing... tortured" and dubbed Haynes "the master of illusion."

Princess Running Water: new presidential hopeful?

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Jimmy Carter, Edward Kennedy and Princess Running Water share a common quest. All are running as Democrats in New Hampshire's presidential primary.

In New Hampshire, which hosts the earliest presidential primary in the nation on Feb. 26, growing numbers of people seem to believe their grammar school civics lesson that anyone can become president.

The lengthy list ranges from political giants like

Sen. Kennedy, who is arriving today, to the oddly ambitious Princess, who arrived last week.

"In our files, we've got more than 150 requests for petitions to get on the ballot, and at least two or three people a day come in to apply," says Secretary of State William Gardner.

The Princess, who says she's a full-blooded Cherokee, is back for her fourth try. Bedecked in three wigs of different colors, a battered animal skin coat and a combat helmet, the Tennessee matron proudly announced: "The silly season is here, and so is the princess. This time I'll win."

Another regular, Chief Burning Wood, hasn't returned yet from his Louisville, Ky., home, but he's expected.

In 1968, the Chief, also known as Austin Burton, came in first on the GOP vice presidential ballot, beating four Republican governors — Ronald Reagan of California, George Romney of Michigan, John Volpe of Massachusetts and Claude Kirk of Florida.

Last month, he mailed in his filing fee. "Enclosed is 500 dollars in wampum," read the note attached to a four-foot-long rattlesnake skin.

"It's like a class reunion," Gardner says. "Every four years, many of the same faces gather in New Hampshire and race around for a few days collecting signatures for their nominating petitions, then leave."

"For a lot of them it's like a vacation. Some people go to the mountains, and others run for president."

But not all of the hopefuls are in it for laughs. Democrat Richard Kay has been in the state several times seeking support.

On rare occasions when the Lions Club or League of Women Voters agrees to squeeze the Cleveland director George Bush, several people usually agree to sign his petition. "It's slow," Kay says, "but if I hang around long enough, I'll get my signatures."

Gardner says anyone who is 35 years old and a U.S. citizen should be allowed to try his or her luck — even someone named Love 22.

Love 22 showed up recently in an Uncle Sam outfit and is funding his campaign by selling $22 bills with his picture printed on them.

The tolerant Gardner gave him the petitions and made him well — which is more than he did with the gorilla.

IN THE ARMS OF THE LAW — New York City emergency squad police keep a tight grip on handcuffed Lonnie Burton Tuesday as they ease him to the street from the boom of a crane in midtown New York City. Police said Burton, and a second man, both distraught, climbed to the top of the crane and refused to descend. It took police about an hour and a half to get the two down. Both were booked on charges of disorderly conduct and criminal trespass.

Military has 30 days to meet demands

El Salvador leftists agree to truce

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftists agreed to a 30-day truce with El Salvador's new military-dominated government and ended their occupation of two government buildings, freeing 30 hostages they had held for two weeks. Then they joined a victory march through downtown San Salvador.

Juan Chacon, 22-year-old leader of the Popular Revolutionary Bloc that took over the Labor and Economics Ministries Oct. 24, said the government asked for a "reasonable time" to meet the Bloc's demands. He said his organization, a coalition of workers, peasants and students, agreed to 30 days. Arnoldo Anoso Majano, one of the two colonels who overthrew President Carlos Humberto Romero in a military coup Oct. 15, said: "We have broken with the past. We are trying to change the structures and the concepts that were so mistaken."

Chacon said the Revolutionary Bloc would "continue the struggle" to force the junta to double the minimum wage to $6 daily, freeze food prices and report on the fate of 550 persons who disappeared while Romero was president.

The hostages who were freed included three Cabinet ministers.

"We were treated as well as possible considering the circumstances," one of the captives said.

About 200 leftists, most of them teen-agers, poured out of the two buildings Tuesday to join thousands of supporters in a victory dance for 20 blocks to the university.

The marchers chanted: "Socialism is coming. No one can stop it," and "Prolonged war."

Chacon told a rally at the campus: "It cost a lot of bloodshed and more than 100 dead, but this is the first Salvadoran government that recognizes we are right."

About 1,000 leftists occupied the two ministries and took about 300 hostages, but last week they freed all but 30 of the captives and about 800 of the leftists left the buildings.

Human rights groups estimate at least 80 persons have been killed in clashes with the army since the coup.

The Communist Party denounced negotiations with the new government. It charged the junta's conciliatory policy was provoking the extreme right and that El Salvador's land-owning oligarchy is conspiring with reactionary army officers for a counter-coup.

San Salvador's archbishop, Oscar Arnulfo Romero, also has warned of another coup if the junta doesn't purge the military.

The archbishop supports the junta and was an outspoken critic of previous military regimes.

Braniff may be fined for non-compliance

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration says Braniff Airways should be fined $1.5 million for flying passenger jets that are not airworthy and that it may ground the planes if Braniff does not improve its performance.

The FAA said Tuesday in recommending the fine that it would consider grounding the fleet if the alleged violations continue during a special one-year surveillance period.

The violations in question appear to reflect a basic pattern of continuing disregard of federal aviation regulations on the part of Braniff management by using improper and unapproved maintenance procedures, by operating aircraft that had not received required inspection, and by failing to keep adequate records of repairs performed. FAA Southwest Regional Director C.R. Melugin Jr. said Tuesday.

The FAA cited 10 major violations and several minor ones.

Braniff denied the allegations in a statement. "This notification...appears to be a new FAA practice," it said. "We understand, however, we will now have the opportunity for our technicians to meet with the FAA and we are confident that we can satisfy any questions they might have about any alleged discrepancies." Melugin said several FAA violations involved the operation of Boeing 747 and 727 and Douglas DC-8 aircraft that "did not meet applicable airworthiness requirements for scheduled airline operations."

However, Melugin said he still flies on Braniff planes "once or twice a week. They're not going to fall out of the sky."
